Gulf Shores accepts recycling grant

By CRYSTAL COLE
crystal@gulfcoastmedia.com

Gulf Shores City Council has authorized the execution of a grant which will help bolster its thriving recycling program.

The city has been awarded a grant through the ADEM Recycling Grant Program in the amount of $178,604 to purchase equipment to enhance the city's ongoing recycling efforts.

Environmental/ Grants Coordinator Dan Bond said the city has really embraced the concept of cleaning up the beaches and recycling material throughout the city.

"We hope that makes us more sustainable moving forward, and we're really proud of it," Bond said. "This grant, there's no city match requirement. We're very excited about this."

In 2014 the city of Gulf Shores initiated a pilot beach recycling program to collect recyclable materials from the high-density beachfront area. This program captured more than 10 tons of recyclable material and kept it out of area landfills.

The pilot program also showed that up to 80 percent of the material collected at the beachfront was recyclable. The success of the pilot program led to the expansion in 2015 of the city's recycling efforts including the establishment of a City Recycling Center, new enforcement protocols and a beach enforcement officer program.

New fire station

In response to increasing residential growth north of the Intracoastal Waterway, the City of Gulf Shores recently approved buying an additional fire station to meet demand.

With an increase in residents, the Gulf Shores Fire Department has also seen an increase in call volume north

Shrimp Festival loses a day, still strong

Despite the threat of severe weather from one of the strongest hurricanes to hit the United States, Shrimp Fest went on without (much of) a hitch.

The 47th Annual National Shrimp Festival was scheduled to open Thursday morning, but because of the threat of heavy winds and rain from Hurricane Michael, organizers decided to push back the start of the festival to Friday.

"We were very fortunate in that the Alabama Gulf Coast received minimal damage from Michael," Shrimp Festival Chairman Spencer Cade said. "Our thoughts and prayers go out to those families who are in the process of rebuilding their homes, businesses and lives in the aftermath of Michael."

While the storm did not target the Gulf Shores area, Cade said the storm made putting on the festival a logistical nightmare. He said the winds that buffeted the coast in the early half of last week were the primary factors that delayed the start of the festival.

"We tried to get some tents set up Monday, but we quickly

Orange Beach continues road improvements

By CRYSTAL COLE
crystal@gulfcoastmedia.com

As the City of Orange Beach prepares for utility movement on Canal Road ahead of the widening project, it is also undertaking some resurfacing work.

Before the end of the year, 18 city streets will be repaved as the Orange Beach City Council voted on Tuesday, Sept. 18th, to approve a low bid of $380,000 to Roads Inc. of NWF.

With the original bid for coming in under budget at $380,000, three more streets were added for $22,768 in a change order approved by the City Council on Tuesday, Oct. 2nd.

Ken Grimes, Orange Beach City Administrator, said most roads come up for resurfacing every seven years or less depending on the wear and breakdown of the asphalt.

As of Friday morning, Garrett Lane was paved, and Cotton Bayou Drive was expected to be completed soon. Milling was underway on West Oak Ridge Drive.

Orange Beach Public Works crews were expected to installed dirt on the low shoulders on Garrett Lane and begin hydro-seeding the shoulders on Friday with a mix of winter rye and brown top millet, according to Public Works Director Tim Tucker.

Tucker said this week would focus on the West Oak Ridge area.

"There should only be minimal delays during the process," Tucker said. "Any closures will only be for a very short period of time, example if the crews are in front of a driveway or street entrance. Thanks in of the Holmes bridge. It presented a solution to the City Council to decrease response times by purchasing Huggers Landing/Oyster Bay Fire Station 2.

Fire Chief Hartly Brokenshaw said the appraisal done on the property was completed two years ago, which benefits the city for the purchase price.

"They're a volunteer department, so they're going to use that money to pay off fire trucks they have and probably getting some more radios and things like that," Brokenshaw said. "That will help us in the future, too, because we still work with them up there."

In January of 2017 an agreement was put in place between Gulf Shores Department of Fire and Emergency Services and Oyster Bay Fire Department. The agreement allowed Gulf Shores to house fulltime personnel and apparatus at Oyster Bay's fire station located on Oak Road West across from the Sportsplex.

At the time of the agreement Oyster Bay was not interested in selling the station. Since that time area that was covered by Oyster Bay has been brought into the city limits of Gulf Shores. With these annexations into the city Oyster Bay does not see a need for this station anymore and wants to sell.

The purchase price of $190,000 will be made in installments to Oyster Bay. If the city annexes all of the response area of Huggers Landing/Oyster Bay Volunteer Fire Department the outstanding amount would be due in full.

City Administrator Steve Griffin said Oyster Bay has been a great partner with the city's fire and rescue department.

"We've been joint staffing that facility the last few years," Griffin said. "As more and more calls for us north of the Intracoastal canal, it makes sense for us to purchase that facility and have them use the money to do what they need to do at Huggers Landing."

Last month, the city announced it had been awarded a $640,770 SAFER grant to help bring on six additional fire fighters to help staff a fire engine at the north facility.

In Praise of Football

I grew up playing football. From Glenn Bass's backyard to the Friday-night lights of Barbe High, I loved everything about the sport: the teamwork, the strategizing, the competition, and, yes, both the physicality and the fame. In ways I couldn't articulate, the pain of physical exhaustion and injury in service of a collective effort against a common enemy for the glory of my community simply made sense; it had meaning. I moved on from the glories of the gridiron to ministry, serving for ten years in Oxford, Mississippi, home of Ole Miss and the Rebels. There, honestly, the luster of the sport faded for me. The increasingly ridiculous investments of time, energy, and money seemed out of keeping with the fact that it was, to me, "just twenty-two twenty-year-olds running around in the grass chasing a ball." The temple of the stadium, the theologians in the broadcast booths, the clergy on the sidelines, the ritual on the field, the congregation in the stands: it all just felt too religious for this Baptist minister. Lately, however, my mind has been changing because of a simple but persistent question: why do so many people find football so compelling? Could it be that, rather than exposing our foolish banality, love of sport reveals something in us that is deeply true and profoundly real: the hero's story which every person is hard-wired to live. The one who voluntarily expends himself alongside a band of brothers for something transcendent against brutal opposition with the actual possibility of losing is the person who has found "the meaning of life." Football is a low-resolution, supremely accessible dramatic replaying of the hero's journey. In pixilation and primary colors, it is a derivation of the greatest hero enactment in the cosmos, the True Story on which all other true stories are based. We watch sports for the same reason that we look at art and read novels. And to say that its risks are lower-resolution than, say, a surgeon's risk at the operating table, is not to say that the risks aren't real and important. This includes the possibility of getting hurt, even hurt badly. While no one wishes for the injury of a player, what are the dangers to a society that ceases to celebrate regularly and passionately life's essential meaning? If the sport keeps us from living our own hero's story, then we need to get some perspective. But as long as it embodies the heroism for which each of us was created, I say let's keep playing.

The Shorty Price story

STEVE FLOWERS
Inside the Statehouse

Since this is Alabama vs. Tennessee week and we have a Governor's Race in three weeks, allow me to share the Story of Shorty Price.

Alabama has had its share of what I call "run for the fun of it" candidates. The most colorful of all these perennial "also ran" candidates was Ralph "Shorty" Price. He ran for Governor every time. His slogan was "Smoke Tampa Nugget cigars, drink Budweiser beer and vote for Shorty Price."

In one of Shorty's campaigns for governor his campaign speech contained this line, "If elected governor I will reduce the governor's tenure from four to two years. If you can't steal enough to last you the rest of your life in two years, you ain't got enough sense to have the office in the first place." He would use recycled campaign signs to save money but he rarely garnered two percent of the votes in any campaign.

Shorty loved Alabama football. Following the Crimson Tide was Shorty's prime passion in life. You could spot Shorty, even though he was only 5 ft tall, at every Crimson tide football game always sporting a black suit, a black hat with a round top, his Alabama tie and flag.

I do not know if Shorty actually had a seat because he would parade around Denny Stadium or Legion Field posing as Alabama's head cheerleader. In fact he would intersperse himself among the real Alabama cheerleaders and help them with their cheers. There was no question that Shorty was totally inebriated in fact, I never saw Shorty when he was not drunk.

Shorty worshiped Paul "Bear" Bryant. Indeed Bryant, Wallace and Shorty were of the same era. Like Bryant, Shorty hated Tennessee.

Speaking of the Tennessee rivalry, I will share with you a personal Shorty story. I had become acquainted with Shorty early on in life. Therefore, on a clear, beautiful, third Saturday, fall afternoon in October Alabama was playing Tennessee in Legion Field. As always, Shorty was prancing up and down the field. I was a freshman at the University on that fall Saturday. Shorty even in his drunken daze recognized me. I had a beautiful date that I was trying to impress and meeting Shorty did not impress her. Shorty pranced up the isle and proceeded to sit by me. His daily black suit had not been changed in probably over a year. He reeked of alcohol and body odor and my date had to hold her nose.

After about 20 minutes of offending my date, Shorty then proceeded to try to impress the crowd by doing somersaults off the six-foot walls of Legion field. He did at least three, mashing his head straight down on the pavement on each dive, I though Shorty had killed himself with his somersaults. His face and his head were bleeding profusely and he was developing a black eye. Fortunately, Shorty left my domain and proceeded to dance with Alabama cheerleaders that day as bloody as he may have been.

Shorty was beloved by the fans and I guess that is why the police in Birmingham and Tuscaloosa seem to ignore Shorty's antics. However, that was not the case in a classic Alabama game four years later. By this time I was a senior at the University and we were facing Notre Dame in an epic championship battle in the old New Orleans Sugar Bowl on New Year's Eve. It was for the 1973 national championship. Bear Bryant and Ara Parseghian were pitted against each other. We were ranked No. 1 and 2.

One of the largest television audiences in history was focused on the 7:30 p.m. kickoff. It was electrifying. Those of us in the stands were awaiting the entrance of the football team, as were the ABC cameras. Somehow or other, Shorty had journeyed to New Orleans, had gotten on the field and was posed to lead the Alabama team out on the field.

As was customary, Shorty was drunk as Cooter Brown. He started off by beating an Irish puppet with a club and the next thing I knew two burly New Orleans policemen, two of the biggest I had ever seen, picked up Shorty by his arms and escorted him off the field. They did not know who Shorty was and did not appreciate him. Sadly, Shorty, one of Alabama's greatest fans, missed one of Alabama's classic games sitting in a New Orleans jail.

I have always believed that Shorty's removal from the field was a bad omen for us that night. We lost 24-23 and Notre Dame won the National Championship.

See you next week.

The mightiest muscle

By MICHAEL J. BROOKS

A friend expressed disapproval of a project lately and I began to question him to better understand his thoughts. But he cut me off with, "I'm not going to argue about it." I wasn't planning on arguing either, but because I was puzzled I wanted to hear more of his logic.

At least I wasn't as aggressive as the irrepressible Ann Coulter. On a talk show once her nemesis said, "There's no use to argue with me. I'm correct." To which Ms. Coulter responded, "I'm not arguing. I'm attacking!"

King Solomon counseled centuries ago that "a soft answer turns away wrath" (Proverbs 15:1). I've found this good advice over the years. My natural inclination is to respond in kind when someone uses harsh words or actions, including harsh driving! But the situation can be defused when calmer spirits prevail. The apostle Peter exhorted us not to return evil for evil, thus perpetuating evil. He exhorted that we return good for evil and stop the cycle of evil in its tracks (1 Peter 3:9). The same is true for our words.

However, there is a time to speak unvarnished truth. For example, the experience of our first lady Betty Ford as she struggled with alcohol and prescription drugs popularized the intervention. This method is commonly followed today when friends or family are trapped in addictive behavior. The intervention is done with concern but without hesitancy. I've known parents who had to practice tough love with additive children to shock them out of bad life choices.

Pastors sometimes feel compelled to speak unvarnished truth. My generation remembers the segregated South. As a boy I saw the "white" and "colored" restrooms and water coolers. As a man I saw hard racial attitudes among believers in Christ. A racist man once observed he understood I couldn't preach on brotherly love without someone seeing racial overtones. I preached on brotherly love then, and still do. The 60s "Jesus movement" song said it well, "They'll know we are Christians by our love."

But I also remember going to the pulpit a few times with anger instead of compassion. I'm not sure how effective it was for me to raise my voice and scold the congregation when only one or two people had angered me. I always regretted this afterwards. The apostle Paul insisted we're to "speak the truth in love" (Ephesians 4:15).

Sometimes Christians must, as we say, "agree to disagree." I might say to a brother or sister, "I don't think your opinion is correct, but I hear you. I value you as a co-worker in Christ."

The tongue has been called the body's mightiest muscle. We need God's wisdom to exercise it properly.

• King James VI of Scotland also was, after the crowns of England and Scotland were united in 1603, King James I of England. He reportedly never bathed, claiming that baths were an unhealthy practice, and he would wear the same clothes for months on end.

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

LOOKS WRONG, BUT IT'S RIGHT

Let's say you're in four hearts and West leads a club. You win with the ace and play the A-K of trumps, hoping for a 2-2 split. When East turns up with three trumps, you shift your attention to spades by playing the A-J and another spade. Unfortunately, East ruffs the third spade and returns the queen of diamonds, and down you go.

You could certainly claim to have been very unlucky, since you would have made the contract had the trumps divided 2-2, or if West had the three trumps, or if East had the ace of diamonds, or if East had three or more spades.

Even so, the fact remains that the contract can be made with more careful play. After East follows low on the first trump lead from dummy at trick two, the correct line of play — by far — is to finesse the ten! In the actual deal, the ten wins, and you finish with 11 tricks. But that in itself doesn't prove that the ten is the right play.

Finessing the ten is best because it has the great virtue of practically guaranteeing the contract, and not because you luckily find East with the Q-J-x. Indeed, you don't really mind losing a trump trick to West, because you're certain to score at least 10 tricks — five hearts, four spades and a club — if you do.

The primary concern is that East might have three trumps and later gain the lead to return a diamond through your king. The first-round trump finesse guards against this possibility. It is true that the deep finesse will sometimes cost a trick unnecessarily, but that is a tiny premium to pay for ensuring the contract.

Salty Worm Brackish Classic and Delta Bash is back

Submitted

Fall is already a fantastic time of year to fish Mobile Bay and area rivers for bass and inland species, but throw in a tournament that supports pancreatic cancer research, and anglers come out in droves.

That's been vital to the success of the USA Mitchell Cancer Institute's annual Salty Worm Brackish Classic and Delta Bash, and this year looks to be bigger and better. The event will be held on Oct. 20, with weigh-in at the Bluegill Restaurant on the Causeway from 1 to 4 p.m.

The event was created in support of a research endowment honoring brothers Peter and Tommy Gaillard, who were both diagnosed with pancreatic cancer and passed away in 2011. The impact on the Gaillardswas devastating, but they reacted by creating the Gaillard Pancreatic Cancer Research Endowment to support the Mitchell Cancer Institute's advanced research into early detection and treatment of the disease.

The Gaillard brothers were avid fishermen and conservationists, and their efforts led to the creation of Gaillard Island in Mobile Bay, now home to more than a dozen species of birds and one of the largest colonies of brown pelicans in the United States.

And their unique interests were a perfect catalyst for the creation of the Salty Worm Brackish Classic, which attracts anglers who wet their hooks in fall seeking largemouth bass, those seeking inland fish such as speckled trout and redfish, and some who go after both.

"Fall fishing is going crazy at that time," said journalist and fishing expert Jeff Dute. "You can sit in one spot and catch a speckled trout, a red fish, a flounder and a largemouth bass, and you don't have to leave anchor.

The students were allowed to explore four different fire trucks. Fire Chief Webb Bush talked to the children about the importance of never playing with fire and having a smoke detector in their homes. He also encouraged the children to have an escape plan in case of an emergency. The firefighters demonstrated how to stop, drop, and roll.

Hurricane relief fund will aid Alabama farmers

By MARLEE MOORE

To help the state's farmers recover from Hurricane Michael's devastating effects, the Alabama Farmers Federation has established a relief fund to directly benefit producers.

"Farmers in south Alabama have received an outpouring of support from neighbors and people across the country," said Federation President Jimmy Parnell. "Many have asked where they can donate to help farmers who've lost their crops and barns, so we have created a special fund within the Alabama Farmers Agriculture Foundation to accept these gifts."

Donations are tax deductible and may be made at AlabamaFarmersFoundation.org or send checks payable to Alabama Farmers Agriculture Foundation to P.O. Box 11000, Montgomery, AL 36191.

Alfa Insurance agents and claims adjusters are on the scene helping customers hit by the Category 4 hurricane.

All funds collected by the Foundation through Nov. 30 will be targeted toward farmer losses not covered by a farmowner policy, crop insurance or disaster relief programs.

For more information, contact the Foundation at 334-612-5525 or abutts@alfafarmers.org.

"That's a really good time to fish."

The reason for such abundant fishing is the migration of white shrimp from the estuaries above the Causeway into the bay, he said. They've been growing in the areas north of the bay since June and migrating south with every full moon since, but it's when the waters cool down that they move en masse, according to Dute.

"The tournament takes advantage of that time of year, when the water is alive with shrimp and fish of all stripes," Dute said.

The "feeding frenzy" lasts through December and early January, depending on the water temperatures moving into winter, he said.

And the various species of fish that come in to feed on the shrimp, which can grow upwards of 8 inches, are what anglers harvest during the Salty Worm.

Fishing for the Oct. 20 tournament starts at 6 a.m., with the weigh-in beginning at 1 p.m. at the Bluegill. The winners will be announced at 4:30 p.m. It's a rare contest that pits freshwater and saltwater anglers against each other on the same day and in the same waters.

"Fishermen have always stepped up to help out benefits of every type," Dute said. "A lot of people may not even know the history behind it, but they know it's a great tournament, they can get out with their family on a weekend, and it has a great party with it."

In addition to the great fishing, the highly anticipated Delta Bash will feature live music, a seafood buffet, silent auction, and a kids zone from 1 to 5 p.m.

"It started as a fishing tournament with a party, and now it's a party with a fishing tournament," Dute said.

For tournament registration, or for more information, visit usahealthsystem.com/saltyworm. Tickets are available on Eventbrite.

Small business is determined to make a big impact for Mobile Bay area

Submitted

Major, national brands have long understood the value of giving to charitable causes. It not only gives employees a sense of purpose, but in many cases lends the company a PR boost (just take a look at Domino's pothole repair project as an example).

But there are plenty of small businesses out there that are doing good for their local community for no other fringe benefit: simply to help their neighbors. One of them is right here in the Mobile Bay area.

Stone Interiors, located in Loxley, has donated many hours of employee time and donations to local organizations that have a positive impact on the community, including a Women Build project for Habitat for Humanity, Christ the King Parish's Thanksgiving Food Drive, American Cancer Society's Relay for Life, Eastern Shore Repertory Theatre, and USA Children and Women's Hospital Holiday Tree Trail. While this family-run business of less than 50 employees is busy installing up to 3,000 countertops per year, their lean team makes time for community outreach year-round.

Co-owner Angela Weil has always understood the value of contributing to the community, even while balancing the demands of the business. "The culture of the company is deeply rooted in cultivating relationships and integrity. We believe in investing in people, whether the goal is empowerment through education, collaborative problem solving, or coming together collectively to take part in a charitable cause. We have forged several close relationships with local non-profits because we believe in what they are doing for our community and employees."

Stone interiors also has deep roots with Catholic Charities, who have helped Stone Interiors secure some of their most valuable long-term employees. Each year, the company continues to work with this organization to sponsor a family in need. Angela is passionate about Stone Interiors' participation as a company: "It's wonderful to see this relationship come full circle: to be on the giving and receiving end."

And of course, the company goes out of their way to offer new opportunities for their own staff. Stone Interiors sponsors three employees annually to be a part of Impact 100, a group of local women who have donated over $2 million to local charities in Baldwin County. They also offer an internal "Stone Interiors Scholarship" opportunity, awarding one winner an all-expenses-paid trip to an out of state tradeshow with the owners.

Angela points out, "Many of these projects are employee-initiated and led because they buy in to the concept of empowering and supporting others. It's not a strategy or a PR angle, it's just who we are as individuals and as a company."

Stone Interiors has been in business since 1995. While the Weils have kept the business in the family, it has grown every year since. Dustin and Angela credit the company's success to their team of dedicated employees, who genuinely enjoy what they do and support each other when things get hectic.

Ancient civilizations revealed and re-created in PBS' 'Native America'

By George Dickie

History books tell us that the first peoples arrived in the Americas more than 10,000 years ago during the last Ice Age. A new documentary series premiering this week on PBS explores just who they were.

"Native America," a four-part series airing Tuesdays beginning Oct. 23 (check local listings), delves into the civilizations that existed in North and South America long before the Europeans arrived, ones that had massive cities connected by social networks and sophisticated systems of science, art, architecture and writing.

Narrated by Robbie Robertson, former guitarist of The Band, the four hourlong episodes look at Great Nations and the cities, sacred stories and history that until recently had been undiscovered, going to locations including New Mexico, Peru, upstate New York, Brazil, the Grand Canyon, Mexico and the banks of the Mississippi to reveal cultures that existed long before ours.

"I think the most surprising thing viewers will find," says series producer Julianna Brannum, "is the scale in sophistication of the cities that were created. The alignments, all the thought and the planning and the labor that went into these is just mind-blowing, and some of these cities make the pyramids of Egypt look like child's play. It's just massive, beautiful, sophisticated architecture."

That's apparent in the opening minutes of Tuesday's premiere, which visits Chaco Canyon in northwest New Mexico, a major center of culture for Ancient Pueblo Peoples about 1,000 years ago and one of North America's largest cities. Built in alignment with the sun and stars, its semi-circular main building was a place where thousands came to learn about Earth's natural forces and was a thriving center of science and spirituality.

Today, its ruins are a national historical park and a place where Hopi still come to perform ancient rituals.

"Chaco Canyon ... has extraordinary ruins there," executive producer Gary Glassman says. "And, of course, we bring some of that to life through 3D animation, but what really brings it to life is the Hopi people who go there and share some of the ceremonies that would have been done there. They do a ceremony in a kiva (a room for religious rituals), a thousand-year-old kiva. But they do ceremonies in their own kivas in their own villages today."

Treehouse Masters

The season finale, "Climb-In Drive-In," takes Pete and his team to western Washington to build a rare first for them: a climb-in movie theater treehouse, The structure is to include a giant screen and arch-supported platform front and center, and the crew also improvises four luxury seating posts at various heights.

The Good Place

Chidi (William Jackson Harper) would appear to have a clear advantage as he and his friends Eleanor, Tahani and Jason (Kristen Bell, Jameela Jamil, Manny Jacinto) explore the three main branches of ethical thought in the new episode "Jeremy Bearimy." Then again, it's always best to assume nothing when it comes to this cunning sitcom. Ted Danson and D'Arcy Carden also star.

Get a Room With Carson & Thom

"Queer Eye for the Straight Guy" has found Emmy-winning new life via a Netflix reboot with a new cast, but don't dismiss the old guard: Two cast members from the show's original 2003-07 edition, fashion expert Carson Kressley and interior designer Thom Filicia, team up for this new venture.

New degree at Auburn combines wildlife, business and hospitality

High Log Creek in the Alabama Black Belt offers the traditional quail hunts with horses and a mule-drawn wagon.

Pay attention, high schoolers and parents. Students who love the outdoors and plan to continue their education after graduation will have a new option for a college degree rooted in the outdoors at Auburn University in 2019.

The undergraduate degree will be in Wildlife Enterprise Management with training in wildlife sciences, business and hospitality. Auburn professors Steve Ditchkoff and Mark Smith collaborated on developing the major in an effort to fill a need in the outdoors community that doesn't require a wildlife biologist degree.

Heather Crozier, director of development at the Auburn School of Forestry and Wildlife Sciences unveiled the program to outdoor writers recently at the Southeastern Outdoor Press Association Conference in Florence, S.C.

Outdoor recreation generates about a $14 billion impact on the Alabama economy and about $887 billion nationwide. Outdoors-related businesses and companies support 135,000 jobs in Alabama.

"Our faculty did some surveys, and they found that in a 250-mile radius of Auburn that there are 1,000 businesses that are wildlife enterprise-related," Crozier said. "This major will give us a unique skillset for that industry. The students will also get a minor in business so they will understand basic business principals."

Crozier said the new degree program will utilize the facilities connected to Auburn. The Deer Lab is a 400-plus-acre facility near Auburn at Camp Hill where researchers study the genetics and physiology of white-tailed deer. The Solon Dixon Forestry Education Center near Andalusia gives students hands-on instruction in forestry, wildlife and natural resources management. The Kreher Preserve and Nature Center on the outskirts of Auburn provides an outdoors venue for a variety of nature programs.

Crozier said only one other college, Kansas State, offers a similar degree with about 100 students in that program annually.

"When our students graduate with a Wildlife Enterprise Management degree, we hope they will apply the principles of wildlife enterprise, understand and apply the ecological principles in conservation biology and eco-tourism and be a well-rounded student in hospitality and understand customer service in food and beverage production and lodging," Crozier said. "They will have the skillset to be able to run a business as well as be able to effectively market and advertise the wildlife- and outdoor-based enterprise."

This curriculum will have a wildlife core with about 60 percent of the courses in wildlife sciences and about 40 percent in business and hospitality.

"Most of our students who go to work for fish and wildlife departments are wildlife sciences majors and end up being wildlife biologists," Crozier said. "The students in the new program will not be wildlife biologists."

Crozier said the graduates in the new degree can pursue jobs at hunting lodges, shooting facilities, fishing resorts as well as guide services and outdoor sport/adventure promotions.

"Dr. Ditchkoff and Dr. Smith were talking with people in the industry, and they kept hearing, 'We need students who understand business, who understand customer expectations and who know about wildlife,'" she said. "What they learned was several of the outfitters they talked to were going to colleges and universities and recruiting wildlife students and teaching them about hospitality and business. Or, they were recruiting hospitality and business students and teaching them about wildlife. The industry said it would really be nice if you could develop this specific product. We feel like there is a market for it. They started exploring and realized how many outdoor-enterprise businesses there were in that 250-mile radius of Auburn. They realized, hey, there really is a niche for this type of degree.

"With Kansas State being the only other place that offered a similar program, we just felt like we could fill that need."

Pam Swanner of Alabama Black Belt Adventures agrees wholeheartedly.

"The Black Belt region has a rich history in the traditions of hunting and fishing," Swanner said. "It's a natural fit that Auburn would create a unique degree program to provide a skilled workforce trained in land management, business and hospitality. At Auburn's back door are more than 50 outfitters that can provide opportunities for student internships.

"Alabama Black Belt Adventures is partnering with AU's School of Forestry and Wildlife Sciences to assist in organizing internship placement in the Black Belt region. We're also introducing the faculty to the industry's many product companies and other organizations that have an interest in supporting such a worthwhile program with scholarship funds to ensure a prosperous future for our industry."

Crozier said if you venture outside that 250-mile radius, the possibilities become considerably greater. She said 40 students currently enrolled at Auburn are waiting to pursue the new degree, and she expects the program will eventually graduate between 100 and 150 annually.

"Just think about international," she said. "It's amazing how many opportunities are out there. We expect these students to not only go to work for hunting lodges, fishing lodges and shooting facilities, but also do safaris in Africa, outdoor adventures anywhere in the world or become representatives for outdoors companies. This is an extremely broad major that does not limit our students to a specific area.

"We're expecting the demand for this major to blossom and really increase."

Crozier said an internship is not a part of the curriculum, but it is highly suggested so that the students who go into this major will get some industry experience.

"Dr. Ditchkoff and Dr. Smith are putting together a list of industry contacts who are looking for interns," she said. "It will be up to the student to go find their internship. If we have a company or business that wants to interview students, we will provide a place to do that and line the students up to interview.

Crozier said the faculty plans to reach out to the outdoors industry to identify what might be a current need or emerging need that could become an area of focus or to adjust the curriculum.

"Being a brand new program, we do have some needs. We need to be able to create partnerships with industry so that our students have places and opportunities to intern," she said. "We're looking for corporate sponsorships. Academic scholarships attract your best and brightest students. We need mentors, speakers for classes, places to take students for field tours, travel stipends for our students and faculty."

Prospective students and parents can visit sfws.auburn.edu for more information or call recruiter Wendy Franklin in the Student Services office at 334-844-1001.

Eagles secure playoff spot in first season of AISA

Snook Christian 45, Abbeville Christian 42

By JOHN UNDERWOOD

SUMMERDALE — The Snook Christian Academy Eagles survived an offensive juggernaut to secure a spot in the AISA Class A playoffs with a 45-42 victory over Abbeville Christian Academy Friday night at Summerdale Middle School.

"This is a huge win for us," said Snook Head Coach Keith Smith, who led his team to the playoffs in just its second year of existence. "I am super proud of these kids. We've battled through a lot of injuries this season and a lot of these kids never left the field tonight, playing every down on both sides of the ball. That's hard to do. We don't have a lot of quantity, but I'll put the quality of our players up against anybody."

The two teams combined for 874 yards of offense, scoring a total of 87 points, 28 in the first quarter alone.

Quarterback Camaje Casey led the way for the Eagles, rushing for 162 yards on 14 carries and three touchdowns, while completing 4-of-8 passes for 137 yards and two scores. Garrett Phillips and La'Darious Roper caught a touchdown pass each with Phillips adding a rushing touchdown, finishing with 94 yards on nine carries.

But in a game with so much offense, one yard made the difference between the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat for the Eagles.

After the Generals knotted the score at 42 a piece with 10:12 to go in the fourth quarter, the Eagles marched 52 yards in seven plays, including a 15-yard run by Casey and a 33-yard pass play from Casey to Roper.

"We had the ball, first-and-goal at the 5 and I thought we could just punch it in from there," Smith said. "But Abbeville did a good job stopping the run (allowing just one yard in three plays). I thought about going for it, running a toss sweep and taking our chances. We had a kick blocked last week and that was in the back of my mind also. But we've got a good kicker and I had faith that he would come through for us."

His faith was justified as Gavin Tooley's

Snook Christian Academy named its first-ever Homecoming King, senior football player Xavier Golden, during halftime festivities Friday night at Summerdale Middle School. Sandra Lopez followed her sister, last year's Homecoming Queen Lexie Lopez, to take home the 2018 Homecoming crown. The King's court included three representatives from the senior class, while the Queen's Court consisted of a representative from each class, sixth grade through junior, with five senior representatives.

20-yard fieldgoal split the uprights, giving the Eagles a 45-42 lead with 6:38 to play.

Abbeville would take over on their own 45-yard line and go 43 yards in 11 plays, but the drive would stall at the Snook 12. With a third-and-seven, the Eagles were able to flush the General quarterback out of the pocket and force an incompletion.

Pirates, Lions battle in 96th meeting for the Blue and Gold crown

Fairhope 24, Foley 7

By PATRICK HERRING
GCM Sports

FOLEY — The Blue and Gold Trophy was on the line Friday night when Foley hosted Fairhope for the 96th meeting between the two programs, a rivalry that dates back to 1931. When these two teams play, throw their records and rankings out the window because there will be a dog fight regardless. Fairhope escaped with a 24-7 win to keep their postseason hopes alive.

While no coach will admit to earning moral victories, the Lions definitely showed more fight in this game than any of their other six games, including a victory at Alma Bryant. Foley was more productive on both sides of the ball in keeping this a one possession game for about three quarters worth of play time.

For the Pirates, the game plan seemed simple, give senior running back Damell Bell the ball and allow him to punish the Lions. The "Bell" tolled three times on the night to score all of Fairhope's non-kicking points with three rushing touchdowns to go along with 147 yards on 26 carries. The coaches appeared content to ride the hot hand as the senior back wasn't given a break on offense until he fumbled late in the first half (although he recovered). Bell's fellow backs only accounted for three attempts.

Lions quarterback Clint White had one of his best outings of the season for Foley as the coaches opened the playbook and allowed him to showcase his ability as a runner. While he isn't a track star by any means, he showed a slipperiness and knack for fighting to get extra yardage. White rushed for 83 yards on the night, including a 5-yard sneak for the lone Foley touchdown.

Bell got the scoring started for Fairhope with back-to-back touchdown runs of 18 and 6 yards on the Pirates' first two possessions.

White marched the Lions right back to answer with his scoring run to cut the lead to 14-7. The score would stay there until early in the fourth quarter when Sam Rayborn knocked through a 48-yard field goal, which landed on the crossbar and fell through, to give the Pirates a two-score lead at 17-7.

With around four minutes left in the game, Bell drove the nail in the Lions' coffin with his final touchdown of the night from five yards out to push the final score to 24-7.

Foley drops to 1-6 on the year and as a team they have only scored 37 points on the season. They'll visit a 3-4 Mary G. Montgomery team next week that gives up just under 21 points per game. Perhaps the coaches and players can carry over some of the grit from this game to the rest of their schedule.

The Pirates have an open week before visiting winless Alma Bryant in what could be considered a tune-up game before they play 5-2 McGill Toolen Catholic in a game that could have major playoff implications.

Passarelli helps Toros take region shut out over Tigers

Spanish Fort 10, Baldwin County 0

By MICHAEL HANICH
GCM Sports

BAY MINETTE — It was another solid defensive performance from Spanish Fort as they shut out the Baldwin County High Tigers 10-0 in Bay Minette. The Toros needed their defense to pick up the extra pressure with former starting quarterback Jackson Burkhalter out for the season with a torn ACL suffered during last week's 22-0 victory over the St. Paul's Saints.

Spanish Fort sophomore Nick Passarelli got the start and senior running back Mike Franklin carried for 22 rushing attempts. The Toros offensive line was tasked to take the pressure off the new starting quarterback against this aggressive Tigers defense. Baldwin County's defense had seven total tackles for loss. The Tigers' Jeffery Johnson accounted for 12 and a half total tackles and three and a half tackles for loss. The Tigers' other defensive end Albany Casey also found success in stopping the run on the ends with two tackles for loss.

The Toros' offense found weaknesses in the Tigers' defense. Early in the second quarter, Passarelli found receiver Kris Abrams-Draine in the corner of the end zone for a 22-yard score. Two drives later, Toros kicker Matt Quinn nailed a 37-yard field goal. Passarelli finished the game with nine completions (out of 16 attempts) for 72 yards and a touchdown.

After the game, Spanish Fort head coach Ben Blackmon mentioned Passarelli and his performance.

"I think he played well. I know there's going to be growing pains. He'll continue to build confidence. I'm really pleased with him, he didn't turn it over and give them short field. That's what we asked him to do."

Baldwin County's offense was put into multiple bad situations thanks to the tremendous punting from Ryan Duff. Overall, the Tigers offense could not get a consistent drive going even with their talented freshman dual-threat quarterback Anthony Mix.

One of Toros defensive coordinator Tony Stonicher's philosophy is using the defensive line to contain the outside. Throughout the game, the Toros defense rarely allowed positive yards from the outside unless if it was a screen. This left the interior defense to do work in and cause some disruptions in the running and passing game.

The passing defense of the Toros was led by cornerback Desmond "DJ" James who had three tackles, five pass deflections and two interceptions. Duff, who also plays outside linebacker accounted for three and a half tackles, two tackles for loss, one sack and one pass deflection.

Toros defensive linemen Carlos Johnson, Jr. and Montaj Cook each blocked a field goal against the Tigers. SF middle linebacker Brayden Moore also had an interception.

For the Tigers, quarterback Mix threw for 87 yards and 11 completions (out of 29 attempts with three interceptions) and rushed for 117 yards on 20 rushes.

Region play continues this Friday for both teams. The Baldwin County High School Tigers (3-4) will travel to face the Robertsdale Golden Bears (2-6). The Spanish Fort Toros, who are on a 6-game win streak, will host the Blount Leopards (5-2).

and a penalty against the Eagles resulted in the ball being placed half the distance to the goal, one yard short of a first down, giving the Eagles back the ball with a minute and a half to play.

Discovery of an Ancient Canoe Canal in Gulf Shores

Local lore and circumstantial evidence have long identified a large, long, ditch-like feature across the Fort Morgan Peninsula as an ancient canal. An on-going volunteer effort, organized by citizens of Gulf Shores, has now confirmed that folk identification. Archival, geo-archaeological, and radiocarbon evidence points to a Middle Woodland date for construction of the canal, early in the seventh century AD. The canal once ran for a mile between Oyster Bay and Little Lagoon, connecting Mobile Bay to the Gulf of Mexico. This may be the northernmost ancient canoe canal yet identified in the Southeast. The City of Gulf Shores plans to highlight a preserved section of canal in a heritage trail.

realized the winds were too strong to get them up," Cade said. "Some tents were threatening to take to the air like a parasail. We have hundreds of tents we utilize during the event, and if you can't get them up in time, it creates a domino effect on the rest of the festival."

Safety was another critical concern.

"The festival is an important cog in the economy of our area, and the vendors that take part in it," Cade said. "But the safety of workers and volunteers facing the unpredictable path of a hurricane trumps the economic card. Because of that, we decided the prudent thing to do would be to push the start back to Friday."

Although officials moved the first day of the festival, it did not deter from turnout and enthusiasm of attendees for the remaining three days. Several people took to the event's Facebook page to thank those in charge for a good time.

"Many thanks to Lee, Ron, Spencer, Suzetta and all the amazing volunteers and chamber staff who worked extra hard to make the Gulf Shores shrimp festival happen this year even with the hurricane coming so close to it," said Laura Burkey Kellersberger. "We appreciate everything you do to make the show possible for us. Sincerely, thank you!"

Feeding the Gulf Coast poised to provide for those affected by Hurricane Michael

SUBMITTED

As we begin to see the effects of Hurricane Michael, Feeding the Gulf Coast is collaborating with Feeding America, Feeding Florida, Bay County Emergency Management, Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster (VOAD) and other disaster responders to prepare to distribute food and water in areas affected by the hurricane.

"Our emergency management access permits are current, and we are working around the clock with local government officials to access areas where our help is needed the most," said Cathy Pope, President and CEO of Feeding the Gulf Coast. "In advance of Hurricane Michael, Feeding the Gulf Coast staged water and MREs (Meals Ready to Eat) throughout its service area to be utilized by evacuation shelters. Additionally, as soon as it is safe to access affected areas, we will be delivering additional support in the form of water and food."

Feeding the Gulf Coast serves seven counties along the panhandle of Florida, from Escambia County in the west to Bay, Holmes and Washington counties in the east. A natural disaster of this caliber has the potential to wipe out food stores in communities for days at a time, or longer. We are deeply concerned for our communities affected by Hurricane Michael and will work to ensure food relief is provided where it is needed most.

If you are able to assist, Feeding the Gulf Coast will need your help as we emerge from Hurricane Michael. We are asking for volunteers and monetary donations to tackle any upcoming needs. To find out how you can help those affected by Hurricane Michael, please visit www.feedingthegulfcoast.org. For those seeking food assistance, please call (888) 704-FOOD (3663).

Donnie Barrett takes a spoonful of elderberry syrup. The traditional concoction boosts immunity and is believed to offer extra protection during flu season.

Dark, thick elderberry syrup is a traditional remedy.

Flu season is coming, prepare with elderberry

By ALLISON MARLOW
allisonm@gulfcoastmedia.com

As far as Donnie Barrett is concerned, nature's best remedy is being mowed over in Baldwin County's roadside ditches.

The now retired director of the Fairhope Museum of History says the rumors, the legends in fact, are true. Did you have a great uncle who said he drank a tablespoon of elderberry syrup every day and was never sick? He was not kidding.

When last year's flu season hit, it hit hard sending thousands of people in America and around the world to emergency rooms. Soon, authorities revealed that the flu shot was rendered practically ineffective since the strain of flu traveling through the population was not the strain the shot was designed to fight.

Doctors, Barrett said, and even the U.S. government sent sufferers in search of elderberry syrup.

"Yes, it's really that good," Barrett said.

Let's be clear. Elderberry is not a magic cure all. It will not cure you of the flu or anything else.

Rather, the berry is chock full of flavonoids, natural compounds with antioxidant qualities that can protect cells against damage or infections. What it does is help to stop disease from spreading and make those who catch the flu suffer a little less for a shorter amount of time.

Also packed into that tiny purple berry: vitamins A, B, C and amino acids all which help to boost the immune system.

Retailers also took note of the failing vaccine and the renewed public interest in natural remedies. Earlier this year online prices of elderberry syrup soared.

If you look closely as you buzz down Baldwin County's country roads, you might just find all the elderberries you need, for free.

The bush grows in ditches and often is mistaken for a weed. Those who toss a handful of fresh berries into their mouth may quickly toss it to the side. The fruit does not contain much natural sugar and is unpleasant for many. Too many of those raw berries can also make you sick.

The delicate white flowers that appear on the bush in the spring were once used to keep sickness and even starvation at bay. Barrett said during the depression families deep fried the flowers for food, a treat he has tried and calls delicious.

When you do find bunches of elderberry plants in bloom, the heavy berries drip off the branch like bunches of grapes. But finding them can be the hard part.

"Alabama Power has cut down some of the finest patches of elderberry you have ever seen," Barrett laments. "They don't know they're there. They just cut along the edge of the road.

"Other people don't know they're there so they don't pick them. Instead they go pay tons of money for something they can take from the side of the road," Barrett said. "We've become nature insensitive."

But it's not too late to return to our roots.

Barrett said once you locate elderberries, crafting the syrup is relatively simple, though time consuming. You will need several bushels of purple and blue elderberries to make a small amount of syrup. Green berries are not ripe and should be picked out of the bunch and tossed.

Wash, wring out the water and strain the berries to get the seeds out. Then place in a pot over low heat. Elderberry scorches easily so Barrett said he brings his to a boil and immediately removes the pot from the heat and lets it return to room temperature. Then, he returns it to the low heat, brings it to a boil again and starts the process over. Generally it takes two to three days to boil the berries into the syrupy goodness.

How low should the temperature be? So low that Barrett has been known to warm his elderberries by leaving the pot on the hood of his car on a sultry and steamy day rather than on a hot stove.

When the concoction is boiled down it will be so thick that it will almost refuse to poor. Barrett adds vodka to the mix to preserve it and make it shelf stable. It must contain at least 6 percent alcohol to keep bacteria from growing, a miniscule amount compared to the nearly 18 percent alcohol included in over the counter medications.

Once mixed, any bubbles that form on the surface of your syrup indicate that bacteria have begun to grow.

Don't like the taste of a tablespoon of elderberry syrup every morning? You can also make pie, ice cream, jelly and even wine.

Barrett said people ask him about the seemingly magical fruit all year long.

"It's good and it's good for you," he said as he gulped down a spoonful of the purple goodness.

Look for the white elderberry flower in the spring and harvest dark purple berries in the fall.

Out & About in Baldwin County

Removal of the Baldwin County Seat

Last week re-enactors marked the 117th anniversary of the night the county seat was moved from Daphne to Bay Minette. Even though the switch was mandated by the state legislature legend says the records were stolen in the dead of night.

The removal was dramatic but it was legal and done in the daylight.

Leaders in Bay Minette circulated a petition in early 1901 requesting that the legislature move the Baldwin County Seat to Bay Minette from Daphne. Although a counter-petition circulated in Daphne, the legislature named Bay Minette the county's new center of government in February, 1901.

Once the new courthouse was completed in October of 1901 leaders in Daphne refused to turn over government items. On Oct. 10, 1901, a group of men left Irwin's Livery Stable in Bay Minette in horse drawn wagons and camped in Daphne overnight. The next morning they began disassembling the courthouse and county jail and took every desk, chair, bench, lamp book and paper with them back to Bay Minette.

During the evening the Daphne High School ROTC presented the flags. Musical selections were performed by the Baldwin County Youth Orchestra and Claudia Campbell. Mayor Robert Wills and Jeb Ball told the story of the night the county seat was moved.

Flu vaccine reduces risk of flu hospitalization among pregnant women

Courtesy of CENTERS FOR DISEASE CONTROL

Over the course of six flu seasons, getting a flu shot reduced a pregnant woman's risk of being hospitalized from flu by an average of 40 percent.

The findings come from a multi-country, CDC-coauthored study published today in Clinical Infectious Diseases. This is the first study to show vaccination protected pregnant women against flu-associated hospitalization. Previous studies have shown that a flu shot can reduce a pregnant woman's risk of flu illness.

CDC recommends pregnant women get a flu shot because they are at high risk of developing serious flu illness, including illness resulting in hospitalization.

"Expecting mothers face a number of threats to their health and the health of their baby during pregnancy, and getting the flu is one of them," explains Allison Naleway, PhD, a study co-author from the Kaiser Permanente Center for Health Research. "This study's findings underscore the fact that there is a simple, yet impactful way to reduce the possibility of complications from flu during pregnancy: get a flu shot."

Flu study analyzed data from more than 2 million pregnant women.

For this study, CDC partnered with a number of other public health agencies and health care systems in Australia, Canada, Israel, and the United States through the Pregnancy Influenza Vaccine Effectiveness Network (PREVENT), which consists of health care systems with integrated laboratory, medical, and vaccination records. Sites retrospectively examined medical records of more than two million women who were pregnant from 2010 through 2016 to identify those who were hospitalized with laboratory-confirmed flu.

Key findings include:

- More than 80 percent of pregnancies overlapped with flu season, underscoring the likelihood that pregnant women will be exposed to flu at some point during their pregnancy.
- Flu vaccine was equally protective for pregnant women with underlying medical problems such as asthma and diabetes, which also increase the risk of serious medical complications including a worsening of those chronic conditions.
- Flu vaccine was equally protective for women during all three trimesters.

Flu during pregnancy

Flu illness can range from mild to severe, but it presents a heightened risk for pregnant women who undergo changes to their immune system, heart, and lungs. These changes make them more prone to severe illness from flu throughout their pregnancy and for two weeks after pregnancy.

These findings underscore the importance of ongoing efforts by CDC and other public health agencies and partners to promote influenza vaccination during pregnancy. During recent seasons in the United States, only about half of pregnant women report getting a flu shot (pregnant women should not get the nasal spray vaccine.)

"Our study found that flu vaccination worked equally well for women in any trimester and even reduced the risk of being sick with influenza during delivery," adds Mark Thompson, Ph.D., a study coauthor and epidemiologist with CDC's Influenza Division.

Benefits of flu vaccine for pregnant women and their babies

Other studies have shown that in addition to helping to protect the pregnant woman, a flu vaccine given during pregnancy helps protect the baby from flu infection for several months after birth, before he or she is old enough to be vaccinated themselves. Flu shots have been given to millions of pregnant women over many years with a good safety record. CDC and ACIP recommend that pregnant women get vaccinated during any trimester of their pregnancy. Assessing breast cancer risk: Should you be tested for the BRCA genes?

Courtesy of UAB MEDICINE NEWS

Genes are sequences of DNA responsible for us inheriting certain characteristics from our parents, from hair and eye color to the likelihood that a certain disease will present itself later in life. BRCA is an abbreviation for the breast cancer gene, and there are two different BRCA genes that affect a person's chances of developing breast cancer.

It might seem beneficial for everyone to undergo BRCA gene testing to assess their breast cancer risk. However, Catherine Parker, MD, a breast surgical oncologist at the UAB Multidisciplinary Breast Clinic, says this preventive measure is not recommended for everyone, adding that there are additional ways to reduce your breast cancer risk.

What are the BRCA Genes?

The two genes known to be associated with breast cancer are known as BRCA1 and BRCA2. These genes do not cause breast cancer; instead, they help prevent it by repairing damaged DNA and keeping tumors from growing uncontrollably. The problem is that when the BRCA genes are mutated, they cannot repair DNA breaks to prevent breast cancer. An estimated one in 400 people have a mutated BRCA1 or BRCA2 gene.

What Does a BRCA Gene Test Involve?

Researchers developed a test to determine whether a BRCA gene mutation exists in the body, thereby helping patients make proactive and preventive decisions about their health. In addition to breast cancer, a BRCA gene mutation also may reveal an increased risk of ovarian cancer.

"The BRCA1 and BRCA2 gene test is most often a blood test," Dr. Parker says, "but another method of testing utilizes a saliva sample."

A genetic counselor can recommend the most appropriate type of genetic test for your particular situation. It may take a few weeks for the results to become available.

Who Should Be Tested?

Dr. Parker says it is important that patients first meet with a genetic counselor to determine if they meet the criteria for genetic testing under the current guidelines. "Then, if testing is recommended and performed, the genetic counselors provide patients with a detailed explanation of results and implications for patients and family members," she says.

This testing process often begins when a family member is diagnosed with breast cancer or ovarian cancer, because abnormal genes linked to these diseases can be inherited. It is natural and quite common for family members to want to plan ahead for their own health upon learning of a cancer diagnosis in a loved one.

"Traditionally, the best person in a family to undergo genetic testing is the youngest living member with a diagnosis of cancer," Dr. Parker says.

In situations where there are no living relatives with cancer, or if those individuals are not able to be tested, a genetic counselor can help family members decide who is the best person to undergo testing. Most doctors do not recommend testing family members under the age of 18, since effective therapies to treat breast cancer in children have yet to be developed. Also, such testing raises questions about whether children have the capacity to make decisions about their long-term cancer risks.

BRCA Gene Testing and Insurance

Understandably, many people are concerned about whether their health insurance will cover BRCA gene testing. Under the Affordable Care Act, BRCA1 and BRCA2 mutation testing is covered for some women who have not already been diagnosed with a cancer-related mutation and who meet specific testing recommendations. Meanwhile, Medicare may cover testing for women who have existing symptoms of gene mutation-related breast or ovarian cancer. However, it is important to check with your own insurance carrier prior to undergoing genetic testing to determine your financial responsibility in advance.

BRCA testing is not always covered by insurance plan, but the out-of-pocket cost for this testing has decreased in recent years to as low as $200-$300 per test for some patients. Although cost should not be the sole determining factor for getting tested, the BRCA gene test is becoming a more viable option for patients who do not have comprehensive health care coverage.

What Happens If You Test Positive?

There are three ways in which gene testing results are reported: negative for mutation, positive for mutation, and a finding of a "variant of unknown significance", which indicates inconclusive or undetermined risk. Individuals who test positive for a BRCA gene mutation may experience feelings of anxiety, depression, and hopelessness, as well as strained family relationships. However, a positive result also can help patients plan for the future and take steps toward preventive treatment. This is why it's so important to work with a trusted genetic counselor who can help you work through a range of emotions and support you and your family through the process.

"If a patient tests positive for BRCA1 or BRCA2 mutation, then it is important to meet with a genetic counselor to understand the implications of these results and to be referred to discuss options to reduce the risk of developing breast and ovarian cancer," Dr. Parker says. "The two main surgical options for risk reduction include prophylactic bilateral mastectomy and prophylactic bilateral salpingo-oophorectomy in women at high risk due to positive BRCA1 or BRCA2 mutations."

BRCA Gene Testing Considerations

There are many factors to consider regarding testing, as well as some common myths that should be dispelled. For instance, not all family members should be tested for BRCA gene mutations, and the best person to be tested isn't always the most recently diagnosed patient.

"At UAB, we rely on our genetic counselors to evaluate and determine which patients qualify for genetic testing, since not all patients meet the criteria, and it is important that the correct family member be tested, which may not be the patient," Dr. Parker says.

Also, it is possible for a person to develop breast cancer despite receiving a negative BRCA test result, as these gene mutations are just one of many causes of the disease.

"While genetic testing is highlighted and important, only 5-10 percent of breast cancers are due to these gene mutations," Dr. Parker says. "Therefore, we stress that women with average risk should begin getting annual screening mammograms at 40 years of age and have self-breast health awareness."

If breast cancer exists in your family and you are concerned about your likelihood of developing it, there are preventive actions you can take to reduce your risk. Preventing cancer begins with healthy habits, such as not smoking, limiting your alcohol intake, and maintaining a healthy weight. Avoiding environmental pollution as much as possible, exercising regularly, and eating a Mediterranean-style diet rich in fruits and vegetables also can help prevent breast cancer.

STATE OF ALABAMA
PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS the Alabama Legislature at its 2018 Regular Session enacted Act Nos. 2017-188 (HB98), 2018-132 (SB194), 2018-276 (SB15), and 2018-389 (SB181) proposing certain amendments to the Constitution of Alabama of 1901;

WHEREAS, in conformity with Section 284 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, as amended, the Legislature has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the state upon such proposed amendments; and

WHEREAS notice of this election, together with the proposed amendments, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor, which shall be published once a week for at least four successive weeks immediately preceding the day appointed for the election;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Kay Ivey, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct, and proclaim that on Tuesday, November 6, 2018, an election will be held in the State of Alabama in the manner and form provided by law upon the following proposed amendments to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama:

AMENDMENT PROPOSED BY ACT NO. 2017-188 (HB98)

(a) This state acknowledges, declares, and affirms that it is the public policy of this state to recognize and support the sanctity of unborn life and the rights of unborn children, including the right to life.

(b) This state further acknowledges, declares, and affirms that it is the public policy of this state to ensure the protection of the rights of the unborn child in all manners and measures lawful and appropriate.

(c) Nothing in this constitution secures or protects a right to abortion or requires the funding of an abortion.

AMENDMENT PROPOSED BY ACT NO. 2018-132 (SB194)

"Section 264.

"The state university shall be under the management and control of a board of trustees, which shall consist of two members from each congressional district in the state as constituted on January 1, 2018, an additional member from the congressional district which includes the site of the first campus of the university, ~~the superintendent of education~~, and the governor, who shall be ex officio president of the board. The members of the board of trustees as now constituted shall hold office until their respective terms expire under existing law, and until their successors shall be elected and confirmed as hereinafter required. The additional trustees provided for by this amendment shall be elected by the existing members of the board, and confirmed by the senate in the manner provided below, for initial terms of not more than six years established by the board so that one term shall expire each three years in each congressional district. Successors to the terms of the existing and additional trustees shall hold office for a term of six years, and shall not serve more than three consecutive full six-year terms on the board; ~~provided however that a trustee shall retire from the board and vacate office at the annual meeting of the board following that trustee's seventieth birthday.~~ Election of additional and successor trustees or of trustees to fill any vacancy created by the expiration of a term or by the death or resignation of any member or from any other cause shall be by the remaining members of the board by secret ballot; provided, that any trustee so elected shall hold office from the date of election until confirmation or rejection by the senate, and, if confirmed, until the expiration of the term for which elected, and until a successor is elected. At every meeting of the legislature the superintendent of education shall certify to the senate the names of all who shall have been so elected since the last session of the legislature, and the senate shall confirm or reject them, as it shall determine is for the best interest of the university. If it rejects the names of any members, it shall thereupon elect trustees in the stead of those rejected. No trustee shall receive any pay or emolument other than his actual expenses incurred in the discharge of his duties as such. Upon the vacation of office by a trustee, the board, if it desires, may bestow upon a trustee the honorary title of trustee emeritus, but such status shall confer no responsibilities, duties, rights, or privileges as such."

AMENDMENT PROPOSED BY ACT NO. 2018-276 (SB15)

Part 1. Section 46 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, and Amendment 97 to the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, both now appearing as Section 46 of the Official Recompilation of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, are repealed.

Part 2. Section 46 is added to the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, to read as follows:

Section 46.

(a) Senators and representatives shall be elected by the qualified electors on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November unless the Legislature shall change the time of holding elections and in every fourth year thereafter. The terms of office of the senators and representatives shall commence on the day after the general election at which they are elected, and expire on the day after the general election held in the fourth year after their election, except as otherwise provided in this Constitution. At the general election in the year nineteen hundred and two all the representatives, together with the senators for the even numbered districts and for the thirty-fifth district, shall be elected. The terms of those senators who represent the odd numbered districts under the law in force prior to the ratification of this Constitution, are hereby extended until the day after the general election in the year nineteen hundred and six; and until the expiration of his or her term as hereinbefore extended, each such senator shall represent the district established by this Constitution, bearing the number corresponding with that for which he or she was elected. In the year nineteen hundred and six, and in every fourth year thereafter, all the senators and representatives shall be elected.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (c), when a vacancy occurs in either house of the Legislature, the Governor shall issue a writ of election to fill the vacancy for the remainder of the term. However, if the Secretary of State determines that a legally qualified candidate for election to the vacancy is unopposed when the last date for filing certificates of nomination has passed, the election shall not be held. The Secretary of State shall issue a certificate of election to the candidate, the same as if an election had been held, and the certificate shall be accepted by the house in which the vacancy occurred as evidence of the unopposed candidate's right to fill the position created by the vacancy. In the event an election is held, all the costs and expenses incurred thereby shall be paid out of any funds in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

(c) When a vacancy occurs in either house of the Legislature on or after October 1 of the third year of a quadrennium, the seat shall remain vacant until a successor is elected at the next succeeding general election.

AMENDMENT PROPOSED BY ACT NO. 2018-389 (SB181)

Every person shall be at liberty to worship God according to the dictates of his or her own conscience. No person shall be compelled to attend, or, against his or her consent, to contribute to the erection or support of any place of religious worship, or to pay tithes, taxes, or other rates for the support of any minister of the gospel. Property belonging to the state may be used to display the Ten Commandments, and the right of a public school and public body to display the Ten Commandments on property owned or administrated by a public school or public body in this state is not restrained or abridged. The civil and political rights, privileges, and capacities of no person shall be diminished or enlarged on account of his or her religious belief. No public funds may be expended in defense of the constitutionality of this amendment.

The Ten Commandments shall be displayed in a manner that complies with constitutional requirements, including, but not limited to, being intermingled with historical or educational items, or both, in a larger display within or on property owned or administrated by a public school or public body.

FURTHER, I proclaim and direct that notice of this election to be held on Tuesday, November 6, 2018, upon the above proposed amendments to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama, shall be given by publishing the same in a newspaper published within each county authorized to publish legal advertisements.

The Orange Beach Police Department's 2018 Citizens' Police Academy is currently underway until Oct. 23.

The academy is designed to provide the Orange Beach community with an overview of the department's operations and the increased level of understanding and cooperation between the community and officers.

To help educate the public, the police department is sharing some of the frequently asked questions from the 2018 academy. The FAQs are as follows:

Municipal Court

- Question: How do you suspend an out-of-state license?

Answer: If a person fails to appear for a traffic citation, the city can issue a UTC-6B, which is a suspension notice sent to Alabama Law Enforcement Agency for failure to appear and can only be cleared once the case is adjudicated. From Montgomery, they disseminate the information to the proper state the defendant is licensed in. If a person fails to pay on a court-ordered fine we send in a UTC-25, which is a suspension notice for failure to pay, and can only be cleared once the fine is paid in full.

Marine Division

- Question: How many law enforcement agencies work on the water in Orange Beach?

Answer: There are a total of five law enforcement agencies that work the area around Orange Beach. Basically it's the same as the streets of Orange Beach. All federal, state and county law enforcement agencies can perform their duties in and around Orange Beach.

These are the primary agencies that one may see on the waterways surrounding Orange Beach:

U.S. Coast Guard - Generally they are more concerned with commercial boats. This agency does very little actual enforcement.

U.S. Customs Air/ Marine Branch - This federal agency only monitors illegal materials/ people crossing into the U.S. Border.

Alabama Marine Resources Division - This state agency enforces a game and fish laws on state waters. They perform the same tasks as Alabama Fish and Game Officers, except they perform those tasks on salt water.

ALEA Marine Patrol - These are the Troopers of Alabama state waters. They primarily enforce laws dealing with public safety. They also work all water-related accidents.

Orange Beach Police Department Marine Unit - We perform the same duties as the ALEA Marine Patrol.

-Question: What are the majority of the tickets written to boaters in Orange Beach?

Answer: I am unaware of any tickets written by the US Coast Guard in Orange Beach. U.S. Customs does not write "tickets." Alabama Marine Resources only writes conservation tickets, and I'm sure their most popular ticket involves illegally possessing fish. By far, the majority of OBPD Marine Unit tickets are "Failure to Obey Restrictive Signs or Buoys." This state law includes all no wake, no motor and restricted access areas. Careless operation would probably come in second. We also write several tickets for improper/no navigational lights, expired/improper registration and failure to obtain Alabama vessel endorsement on the Alabama driver's license. I would guess that ALEA's tickets are the same ratio.

Traffic

- Question: Can officers write tickets on the scene of a traffic accident?

Answer: Yes, starting May 3, 2016, a law was put in place to allow officers to write tickets for at-fault vehicles. In a short version, the text reads:

"This bill would … authorize a law enforcement officer to issue a traffic citation subsequent to an accident to a driver involved in a traffic accident if, based on the personal investigation of the officer, there are reasonable grounds to believe that the person committed a traffic offense for which a citation may be written."

This allows for officers to take the totality of the circumstances and apply everything in determining what is right and proceeding forward with issuing a citation.

K-9

- Question: Where do the K-9 dogs that work for Orange Beach come from?

Answer: Two of our dogs came from inside the United States, and our two new canines came from Europe

- Question: How do the dogs react to your family members?

Answer: K-9's quickly react to family members fairly easy because at home they understand down time along with rest and feeding times. The K-9 understands balance among the family members.
