ELECTRICAL SAFETY

Don't always believe what you hear

MYTH

VS

FACT

Electricity always takes the path of least resistance

Although the path of least resistance is the easiest to take, an electrical current can take any conductive path.

Voltage has to be high to kill

Although the voltage plays a role in how strong the current flows, exposure to the current itself is what's deadly. Even lower voltages can kill.

Heavily insulated tools will always protect against shock and electrocution

Don't let a tool give you a false sense of security; take all precautions even if a tool is marketed as safe or insulated.

The goal of the Montgomery County Emergency Management Agency is to educate the Citizens of Montgomery County about their ongoing role in preparing for emergencies through education, community outreach and training. Through creating an increased emphasis on disaster preparedness, the Montgomery County Emergency Management Agency looks forward to reinforcing interdepartmental communications and cooperation throughout our County, while creating a community culture of preparedness and fostering partnerships with local public and private groups and businesses. It is the goal that Montgomery County Emergency Management Agency will work with the community, neighbor helping neighbor when a disaster strikes.
