VEEDERSBURG — Charlice “CeCe” Rice was not only the people’s choice, but the judges’ choice Saturday when she was named the 2023 Miss Fountain County.

The 19-year-old daughter of Charlie and Summer Rice of rural Wingate earned both the crown and sash as well as the newly implemented People’s Choice award.

Rice was happy to earn the People’s Choice award and was shocked to hear her name called as the new titleholder.

“I know I was thinking ‘I can’t believe I just won,’” she said. “I was really surprised

Lawrence Alan 'Duke' Newlin

Nov. 11, 1960-July 14, 2023

Lawrence Alan "Duke" Newlin, 62, Danville, Indiana, passed away Friday, July 14, 2023, at his residence.

He was born Nov. 11, 1960, at Crawfordsville.

Duke worked in construction most of his life. He most recently retired from Wurster Construction after more than 20 years. In his spare time he could be found at sporting events as his kids grew up. He also spent a lot of time doing woodworking.

He is survived by his loving wife, Tamela "Tammy" Hendricks Newlin. They were married on Oct. 5, 1996, at Danville, Indiana, and spent over 26 years together.

He will be lovingly remembered by sons, Kyle (Melissa) Newlin, Robert (Megan) Carter, Charles Newlin and Cody (Stefany) Newlin; and daughter Lacie Newlin. Duke's greatest joy was being a Papaw! He will be greatly missed and remembered by his grandkids, Kannon, Gavin, Autumn, Mia, Sapphire, Carlee, Georgia, Lilly, Logan, Lauryn and Layton. Also surviving are brothers, Mike Newlin, Jack (Debbie) Newlin, John (Joanna) Newlin, Dean (Joan) Wilson and Jeff (Denise) Wilson and sisters, Susan Davis, Debbie Otenburg, Cheryl (Wes) Baker, Trudy (Ron) Earley and Rita (Elvie) Donell. He will be fondly remembered by mother-in-law Billie Boller Hendricks and brother-in-law Tim (Marian) Hendricks, plus many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded by father Lawrence Newlin; mother Delores Pickett Wilson; step-father Floyd Wilson; brother Floyd Wilson; sister-in-law Jeanette Newlin; father-in-law Steve Hendricks; and granddaughter Khloe Newlin.

The family held a time of private visitation and plan to have a public celebration of life at a later date. The family entrusted Bousley Funeral Home, Coatesville, with the final arrangements.

2 officials are out at Indiana addiction center after 3 deaths

MISHAWAKA, Ind. (AP) — Two leaders are out at an Indiana addiction treatment center after three recent deaths and calls by police to yank its license.

The executive director and director of nursing are no longer working at Praxis Landmark Recovery, a drug and alcohol rehabilitation site for men near South Bend, the company told WNDU-TV.

Other senior managers "will supervise the facility around the clock," Landmark Recovery said in a statement released Friday. "This ensures our patients stay safe during this time."

Three men have died since July 4 and another man was revived with multiple doses of Narcan, authorities said.

Landmark Recovery said it will not accept new patients until "we confirm that all staff meet our high standards."

The St. Joseph County Police Department has asked state regulators to investigate the 160-bed facility and revoke its license.

There have been more than 200 calls to police and fire departments in 2023, said Troy Warner, a spokesperson for county police.

Those incidents include nine overdoses, two rapes, a sexual assault and a stabbing, he said.

Landmark Recovery, a Tennessee-based company that has locations in 10 states, said a national accrediting agency, the Joint Commission, visited the facility.

Post 72 sees season end at Regional

Codey Emerson
codey@jrpress.com

LINDEN — American Legion Byron Cox Post 72 left with a sour taste in their mouths Saturday as they went 0-2 on the day and saw it's 2023 summer season end much shorter than anticipated. After winning game one of the Regional Friday night, Post 72 took on Terre Haute Wayne Newton Post 346 in the winner's bracket game and it proved to be a pitchers duel throughout. Post 72 entered the seventh inning needing just three outs to not only advance to the championship game, but to also punch their ticket to the State Tournament. A solo home run by Terre Haute forced extra innings and Post 346 scored two more runs in the eighth to walk it off for a 4-3 win.

The loss pushed Post 72 to an elimination game against Madison Post 9, the team they beat 4-1 on Friday. Madison offense proved to be too much for Post 72 as they fell 12-10 and were eliminated from the Regional as they ended their season with a record of 20-11.

In game one against Terre Haute, Frankfort's Jose Lopez got the nod and pitched well enough to earn the win, but Post 72's offense just couldn't get the timely hits they needed. They ended the game with seven hits but left plenty of runners on base. Terre Haute's Bryson Carpenter was the one with the 7th inning equalizer as he sent the ball over the left field fence. In the top of the eighth Post 72 scored on a double from Quentcy Perry. An AJ Hall walk had the bases loaded with just one out but Brookes Walters struck out and Bryce Dowell grounded out to end the inning. Terre Haute began the bottom of the eighth with three straight singles and Ben Kearns had the game winning, walk off hit.

"Any play in that first game that late was going to be a game-changer and it was a tough hard fought game," Post 72 coach Kyle Proctor said. "Against Madison we came out a little flat because of how exhausted we were from playing just 30 minutes before and it's hard to have to get up for another game in that short amount of time."

Three North Montgomery players even had a football scrimmage that morning before playing what was ultimately two games. Against Madison things looked bleak for Post 72 as they found themselves down 10-4 after compiling what was ultimately six errors in the loss. Post 72 wasn't going to go down without one last fight as they scored six runs of their own in the fifth inning to even things up at 10-10. Madison responded then with two in the bottom of the inning to hold on for the 12-10 victory.

"When you look back on the season and we played 31 games in a month and half," Proctor said. We wound up winning two-thirds of those, so that in itself is something that our kids should be proud of. We had a lot of obstacles to overcome between having kids hurt, and what not. It was a hard summer, but one that we fought until the very end."

Post 72 will now wait until the next summer to see what the roster may shape out to look like. There's not much debate that they've built themselves over the last 3-4 years as one of the better Legion teams in the state. Proctor and his staff will once again be on the hunt for the next crop of players to shape out the 2024 squad.

Phoenix to host 2024 WNBA All-Star Game

The 2024 WNBA All-Star Game is headed to Phoenix, setting up as a home game for Brittney Griner and Diana Taurasi and a sendoff to the U.S. Olympic women's basketball team.

WNBA Commissioner Cathy Engelbert announced Saturday that the event would be hosted by the Phoenix Mercury.

"Since I've been in the league, they've done so much," Engelbert said. "They are so great to work with under the new ownership with Mat Ishbia."

Ishbia, who took ownership of the Mercury and the Suns in February, was thrilled to have a chance to host the game that's being played this weekend in Las Vegas. The All-Star skills competition and 3-point contest that was held on Friday saw a record performance from Sabrina Ionescu, who hit 25 of 27 3-pointers, including 20 straight at one point.

C'ville school board meets

School board members for Crawfordsville Community Schools met Thursday for their regular monthly meeting. It was the first meeting for the corporation's new leadership team of Dr. Rex Ryker, superintendent, and Dr. Brent Bokhart, assistant superintendent.

The board approved a new substance abuse screening test policy for licensed child care facility employees and approved the continuation of the school resource officer agreement with the City of Crawfordsville.

The board agreed to conduct its regular business meetings at 5:30 p.m. the second Thursday of each month, with the exception of August when it will meet on the third Thursday due to Crawfordsville. Dinner will be provided. Reservations are requested. The reservation link can be found online at <https://bit.ly/SugarMt-gly31>.

The project is funded through an Indiana Department of Environmental Management section 319 grant received by the Montgomery County SWCD and its partners. The $131,000 grant will lay the foundation for future, voluntary, on-the-ground conservation implementation efforts.

"The Upper Sugar Creek Project is structured to allow community input on what they want to see happen in terms of regional planning to improve water quality within the Upper Sugar Creek Drainage," said Sara Peel, project coordinator.

The project is currently in its initial stages of gathering data and information, developing the project steering committee, and coordinating the gathering of public opinion. If you are interested in participating in this project, contact the Montgomery County Conservation Director, Kristen Latzke at klatzke@montgomerycoswcd.com or by phone at 765-362-0405, ext. 3.

because we had a great group of people this year."

Rice, a 10-year 4-H member, competed with seven other young women in this year's queen program.

"We had a lot of 10-year 4-H members, which is ideal in my opinion," Rice said.

She was motivated to enter the program to continue mentoring younger girls.

"I really want them to look up to me and want them to do this in the future," she said.

As a 10-year beef and swine member, Rice has competed a lot in the show ring. She defines herself as "the best byproduct of her community" and views her new title as a way to give back through service.

Rice added that many of her extended family members have competed in the past in the queen program and have been named to the court. However, none were crowned queen. She is extremely proud to "get the crown for everybody."

She credited her "Rice

work ethic" for all her success.

She is a 2022 graduate of Attica High School, and is currently attending St. Elizabeth School of Nursing, where she will be a sophomore in the fall.

Rounding out this year's court are first runner-up and photogenic award winner Audrey Galloway; second runner-up and Miss Congeniality Tatum Nunnally; and third runner-up Haley Harmeson.

The Fountain County 4-H Fair continues through Thursday.

DIVERSIONS

Woman hopes for a connection with DIL

DEAR ABBY: Twelve years ago, my son "Will" married "Mara." They dated in high school, wound up at the same college and eloped during their freshman year (way too young). In spite of their somewhat rocky relationship over the years, Mara and I always got along well. She became the daughter I never had, and she referred to me as "my other mom" when introducing me to her friends.

Through her, I also became close friends with her mother, "Ivy," a relationship that continues to this day. When the marriage was ending, I grieved not only for the marriage but also for what I thought would be the end of my relationship with both Mara and Ivy. It didn't happen. Mara and I are still in contact. We email, text and call each other often.

Happily, Will is fine with us being in touch and with my friendship with Ivy. He and Mara had what must be the most amicable divorce in history. The two of them (and their new spouses) are all great friends and see each other regularly.

Will married "Carrie" three years ago, and Carrie is perfect for him. I love her for the way she loves him and how great they are together. But I'm sad to say that Carrie and I aren't close the way Mara and I were (and still are), and I'm not sure what to do about it.

Carrie has had a busy life between going to college and a full-time job, and we don't get to see each other much. She doesn't like to talk on the phone, and I don't like Facebook, so we're not in contact except for a few random texts and emails here and there. I'd really like to be closer to Carrie, but I'm not sure how to get there. Any suggestions? — TORN BETWEEN TWO DAUGHTERS

DEAR TORN: Your relationship with Mara developed over a long period of time. Carrie hasn't had the time to devote to a relationship with you because of her schooling and her job. As much as you might wish it, it isn't possible to "clone" relationships. The one you have with Mara and Ivy is deep-rooted.

If Carrie is finished with school now, her schedule may open up enough so the two of you can manage some one-on-one time if you take the initiative and invite her. A weekend "girls" lunch, spa afternoon or shopping together may be the way to approach it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about saying grace. I'm not religious, but I do consider myself respectful of others' religious practices. There is one issue, however, that I'd like some guidance on. When visiting someone's house and they ask me, the newcomer, to say grace, what do I do? I don't mind partaking in the custom; I understand it and I am not offended. But saying grace is beyond what I'm comfortable with. What's the way out of this situation without being disrespectful or compromising a strong view of my own? — WONDERING IN THE MIDWEST

DEAR WONDERING: In the moment, you could always offer a friendly, complimentary deferral such as, "Oh, I'm sure you'll do a much better job at it than I could!" If it happens again, talk privately with your hosts and explain you are not formally religious and not in the habit of saying grace before meals, which is why you would prefer not to be asked.

Most of the time at the bridge table, there are sufficient clues to tell you which opponent has the key missing card on which your fortress is precariously balanced. Occasionally, though, you must just guess. Then adopt your method of choice: eeny-meeny or a coin toss or a ouija board.

What would you do in this deal from an online duplicate? There are lots of matchpoints at stake. If you go down one in four spades, you get a 13.3% score, but making the contract is worth 60%.

West leads the diamond king (from ace-king or king-queen) and shifts to the heart five. East takes this trick and the next heart. When he leads a third heart, you must decide who holds the spade queen. If it is East, ruff with the spade jack. If it is West, ruff with the spade ace and run the jack through him. What is your guess?

North should have bid differently. First, he might have opened one spade, especially if he would be allowed by system constraints to rebid either two no-trump or three clubs after a two-diamond response. Second, though he did have the maximum pass he wished to convey with the three-heart cue-bid, this permitted West immediately to lead through the heart king. If North had simply jumped to four spades, East would have been on lead. When he was, he inevitably led his singleton. Then, with spades 2-2, each declarer cruised home.

At the table, the winning play for South was to ruff with the spade jack. Did you get it right? I didn't.

Lift any barriers holding you back and prepare to forge ahead enthusiastically. Act, live up to your promises and influence those searching for a better lifestyle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Let your actions send an encouraging message to others to pitch in and help. Get involved in an event that makes you feel hopeful about the future.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Reevaluate along the way, and you'll make better decisions. Concentrate on what's necessary instead of taking on too much and falling short of your goal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Mingle with people who share your interests. The information you pick up will help you restructure how you want to move forward.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): How you navigate your way through conversations and responsibilities will encourage others to offer suggestions and hands-on help.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Think before taking on too much, or overstepping your boundaries will result in backlash. Live up to your promises, and you'll reach your expectations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take control before situations get blown out of proportion. Exaggeration will lead to confusion and disappointment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You're in a favorable position. Embrace opportunities that come your way. Set up an interview or start something new, and you'll head down a unique path.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Share the information you verify to avoid repercussions. Don't force your will onto others or succumb to temptation or indulgent behavior.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't take the bait if someone tries to coerce you into an argument. Stick to the facts and use restraint to avoid being put in an uncomfortable position.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Make domestic changes that lower your overhead and encourage you to initiate a strict budget.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Talks will lead to trouble, and false information will cause emotional setbacks and disrupt your plans.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A creative venue will spark your interest and encourage you to take the plunge and start a new adventure.

Take a moment to relax

What is the most relaxing thing for you to do?

If you were to pick out something that you find soothing when you are all by yourself, what would it be?

Most folks are constantly on the go, by choice or situations beyond their control. Most of us also have moments of relaxation and things we enjoy doing in a quiet moment, whether gazing into a campfire on a starry night or sitting by the creek, watching the water endlessly trickle downstream.

While we all relish those rare moments, we're not so fond of the times when our plans get upset and those muscles in our jaws tense as stress rises. We can't help it; hard things do pop up when we don't like it at all.

What we decide to do with it is another story. Yes, I said decide; if you are like me, it's much easier to just do what comes naturally, not decide to choose kindness when ill will come entirely naturally. And you know, those times when I do nothing but try not to be mean, I later find that my feelings seeped right out of my pores, leaving a messy residue on others even when I did not mean to.

Now there are those of you who have significant trauma in your lives; those times call for countless choices to surrender what has happened, and perhaps most effective and difficult of all, telling God we accept it all. Ouch. It does not feel good, but in the end it brings us to tranquility, much deeper than the most relaxing era we talked about a minute ago. We may not be sitting by the creek, watching the water trickle over those stones, but in our hearts we are at rest far more than that favorite spot could ever do.

It may take time to let go without hanging on to maneuver or resist our situation, or so it has been for me. It felt like hundreds of memories were there to haunt me, a million dreams shattered, and future years of joy to be spent with my beloved Daniel crashed in shambles by my feet when he was called home to heaven.

How could six little children make it without the daddy they adore completely? How would I be both a mother and father to them all? And how can it be right that children who have just gone through adoption lose their second father? The questions were real, they would never go away or be answered with a simple statement and nothing in the world would bring him back. Panic was real.

You know, friend, your situation at hand is just as real as mine has been to me; we can't just shake it or lightly say, "It could be worse." It's there, and it's real to our hearts.

So what do we do?

As God is given a piece at a time as they are given to Him, He is standing with His promise of being a Husband to the widow, allowing my heart to be filled with the fullness of his love.

Not only that, it becomes evident that He's also the One who promised to be a Father to the fatherless. I no longer feel the pressure of being a father and mother both (though I won't deny the fact that many responsibilities have been added to my plate of duties). Recently as the children and I sat around a campfire Austin built for us, we missed Daddy. His space was empty, but happiness and contentment radiated from six little faces; life was good. God was caring for us, and we were so happy for Daniel that his deepest wish had been granted — to be with Jesus!

The Father loves you who have been walking through the deep valleys; He invites you to moment by little moment roll those burdens onto Him and He will bring relief in spite of the pain that lingers or situations that may not change overnight.

Tonight as I think of food, I wonder what the food in heaven will taste like. Since I'll have to wait to find out, we'll go for a recipe used on this side of eternity. This is one we used a lot when I was a young girl. You'll find it to be a refreshing summer dessert. If you're like me, you'll want to thoroughly chill it before serving. Enjoy!

Come sale away

I've never been fond of boats or horses. The reason I'm not a boat fan is because I'm a 38-year-old man who can't swim. And I don't want to get into the horse thing right now. I'm still working through that with my counselor. Let's just say it happened back in 2009 on a rainy spring day in Arizona and I don't want to talk about it. The horse's name was Azul. I almost died. That's all you're getting out of me.

At some point during summertime childhood swimming lessons, I failed miserably and didn't receive my certificate to move to the next swim class. As a result, I dropped out. For a pasty redhead, I already didn't like being outside in the first place. Now I can barely doggie paddle my way out of a kiddie pool.

If I were to win a sailboat or modest yacht (hypothetically), I'd certainly sell it as quickly as possible. I'd put that sail up for sale. The difference between the words sail, sale, sell and cell are salient. And, before you can accuse me of being a sellout, let me assure you — like the theoretical starter yacht — this argument will hold water.

First, let's tackle the difference between sail and sale. Sail can be used as both a noun and a verb. As a noun, sail refers to a piece of fabric attached to a boat to help steer it using wind. As a verb, sail refers to a trip taken on a sailboat. Most of what I know about sailboats I learned from The Beach Boys' version of "Sloop John B."

A sale is a noun that refers to the act of selling, specifically when a good or service is traded for some kind of currency

GRAMMAR GUY

CURTIS HONEYCUTT

For example: Mattress stores all think it's a great idea to have big sales over Labor Day weekend. It's as if the store owners all got together and decided to celebrate hard work by giving people a great excuse to do the exact opposite.

Sale is different from sell. Sell is a verb; it is the act of working towards the goal of making the sale. You can sell a boat. Once you sell the boat, you have made a sale.

A cell is a noun. It can refer to a few different things. A cell is a small room in which a prisoner is locked. A cell is also a small group acting within a larger organization. A cell is a basic structural unit of all organisms. A cell is a battery. "Cell" is short for "cellular," so some people refer to their cellular or mobile phones as their "cell" or, more commonly, "cell phone."

I hope my clarification of sail, sale, sell and cell went swimmingly — which is more than I can say about my own swimming skills. I do plan to take one-on-one adult swimming lessons at some point; it's not exactly "cool" to show up to a friend's hot tub cocktail party wearing a lifejacket over one's swim shirt.

After a half century, an amicable divorce

CARMEL — For the past half-century, the state’s two Big 10 universities shared the Indianapolis market with a Frankenstein approach that yielded “IUPUI.” Last month, Indiana and Purdue universities participated in a cordial divorce, with the two universities going their separate ways, albeit while preparing to live across the street from each other (better for the kids).

Former Purdue President Mitch Daniels credits IU President Pamela Whitten for creating this new paradigm. “I had thought for a very long time, even before I got to Purdue, there might be some better configuration of the campus downtown than what we had,” Daniels explained from his office at the Liberty Fund in Carmel. “It served us well, but it was a treaty at the inception.”

That occurred in 1969 when, at the behest of new Indianapolis Mayor Richard Lugar, a new urban university was forged, albeit with the two universities protecting turf and legacy. Daniels joined the Lugar administration in 1971. “I was close enough to hear the stories. The original idea that Mayor Lugar had was an urban university of Indianapolis,” Daniels explained. “Purdue and IU were not interested in that new rival. So out of that, and I always described it as a treaty, they gave birth to IUPUI.

“But I had thought for a long time, and I was hardly the only one, there might be a better way forward. There is also a lot of interest in the central Indiana community to a genuine, R-1 tech presence, which IUPUI did not represent. There was some good quality faculty and some research was happening there, but not the kind the city needed. The Battelle Study found us to be the biggest city in the nation that didn’t have a genuine R1 university.”

That Battelle report released in 2015 observed: “For continued success, Indianapolis needs to take more strategic advantage of the strong concentration of talent in its urban core, leading to a nationally competitive range of opportunities for regional growth and innovation in life sciences, information technology, agricultural innovation, advanced manufacturing, and other ‘advanced industries.’”

BioCrossroads CEO David L. Johnson added, “Our ability to compete on a global level requires two factors — talent and innovation. Talent begets innovation, but it also needs a physical hub to thrive — and we really don’t have that place here yet.”

Daniels took the helm at Purdue in 2013 after two terms as Indiana governor. “I had tried the idea on the IU administration more than once and there was just not interest,” Daniels said. “But when Pam Whitten was chosen, we spoke right away and I congratulated her. We got together very shortly after she had been named and after the pleasantries, the first thing I asked her was, ‘Would you be willing to consider doing something different in Indianapolis where we have this thing called IUPUI?’ And Pam said, as many had before her, ‘Yeah, what the heck is that?’”

“It was always confusing to people,” Daniels said of the joint campus that prompted the early derisive phonic “Ooey-Pooey.” “I give her full credit. She was open to the idea and then her board was open to the idea and off we went.”

So this was two years in the making? “Yes,” Daniels responded. “Tons of back and forth, trying to make certain what we came up with was beneficial to both schools and to the community. At Purdue, we opted ... this is not a regional campus. It will be fully a part of Purdue University. The faculty here will be fully part of the engineering, computer science, perhaps other faculties up there. Their work will be integrated. I’m very hopeful it will give us a new option for students. We’ve been turning away some tremendously qualified applicants at Purdue, principally from other states, even after 30% growth.

“I think IU will have a clearer definition around health care and so forth, as is their focus,” Daniels said. “I’m sure they’ll do some imaginative things, too, that were just unlikely to happen under the old structure.” Gov. Eric Holcomb told me in June that Whitten and the IU Board of Trustees decision to rethink the Indy campus was nothing short of “courageous.”

When this amicable divorce was signed in June, both current university presidents were ecstatic. “IU’s goal is nothing short of building one of the nation’s pre-eminent urban research universities, one defined by students transformed, discoveries made and communities strengthened,” Whitten said. Purdue President Mung Chiang added, “Today’s announcement launches transformative growth for our state’s land grant university. New opportunities for Purdue University in Indianapolis are limitless.”

Daniels called it a “great brain gain of possibility” in a state that has been battling “brain drain” for years as a significant percentage of IU and Purdue graduates got their diplomas and headed for the coasts.

“Imagine some outstanding electrical engineer from Oregon who comes down and works in one of the IT startup companies here, or works for Salesforce or Lilly’s IT department to capture that talent in the future,” Daniels explained.

PUBLIC NOTICES

LEGAL NOTICE OF PLANNED IMPROVEMENT DES. # 1800075

The Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT), with funding from the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) is developing plans for a proposed transportation project, involving the structure which carries State Road (SR) 32 over Mill Creek (Des. No. 1800075), located 3.7 miles west of SR 47, west of Crawfordsville, Montgomery County, Indiana.

The need for the project is due to the overall deterioration of the existing structure (Bridge No. 032-54-03644/NBI No. 010460). The purpose of this project is to address the deteriorated condition of the bridge, which carries SR 32 over Mill Creek, and increase the superstructure condition rating to at least an 8 out of 9 on the National Bridge Inventory (NBI) and the service life to 75 years.

The project proposes to replace the existing bridge superstructure with a three-sided flat top structure. The project limits are approximately 565 feet along SR 32.

The project will require 1.53 acre of permanent right-of-way and 0.94 acre of temporary right-of-way. No residential, commercial, or industrial relocations are anticipated.

The maintenance of traffic (MOT) plan will require a full closure of SR 32 at this location during construction. The detour will utilize US 136, SR 25, and US 231. The detour is approximately 15 miles long and is expected to be in place during the 10-month construction season. Access will be maintained to all local properties during construction. The proposed start of construction is 2025.

The cost associated with this project is approximately $3,369,074.70 (2020-2025 dollars) which includes preliminary engineering, right-of-way, and construction with both federal and state funds anticipated to be used. The FHWA and INDOT had agreed that this project fell within the guidelines of a Categorical Exclusion (CE) Level 3 environmental document. Preliminary design plans along with the environmental documentation are available for review at the following locations:

1. On-line via agency/project sponsor’s website, project webpage.
