

Harless updates commissioners on COVID testing

Gonzales County Emergency Management Coordinator Jimmy Harless presents the 2021 activity report from the Office of Emergency Management & Permits.

By LIZ ADAMS Gonzales Inquirer

Gonzales County Emergency Management Coordinator Jimmy Harless spoke to commissioners during open comments regarding a request for assistance from Gonzales Memorial hospital. He said the emergency room had been overwhelmed with patients who came in to test for COVID-19 of patients.

"We put in a request to the state and received a Texas military team out of the Houston region that came in. We tested in the Thrive Healthplex parking lot Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of last week and we moved that same team from that location to the Waelder Gymnasium parking lot last weekend, Saturday and Sunday. We have another Texas military team out of San Antonio coming in. Saturday and Sunday we'll be back out at the Thrive Healthplex parking lot with the same setup there. We'll be going to Nixon the following Monday," said Harless.

At these testing sites, 1266 tests were administered. Of those, 379 were positive, while 887 were negative. That positivity rate of 29.93% is similar to the statewide rate.

"That's pretty high," Harless explained, though he expressed hope that the virus has reached its peak and told the court he would be working to encourage Gonzales County residents to avoid going to the emergency room for testing alone.

The commissioners approved the minutes of the previous meeting, held Jan. 10. The tax assessor-collector's report and the auditor's monthly reports

Tourism board discusses plans for hiring new tourism director

Members of the Gonzales Convention & Visitor Bureau discussed rescheduling the previously approved Texas Travel & Tourism Industry Lunch & Learn to March 3. Barbara Cozier suggested considering holding the event until a new tourism director was brought on board and others said they would be unable to attend on that date. The decision was made to wait to reset the date for the event.

Discussion was held regarding plans for hiring a new director of tourism, what type of position it would be. Members considered the job description and City Manager Tim Patek suggested two separate positions for a tourism director and a Main Street coordinator. Dawn O'Donnell expressed

Beware phony websites when requesting free COVID tests

BBB Scam Alert

U.S. households can now request free at-home COVID-19 test kits through a new Biden administration program. But when the government rolls out new initiatives, such as the stimulus checks, scammers typically find ways to take advantage. This time, watch out for lookalike websites when requesting your tests. These scam sites may ask for payment or personal information, such as your Social Security number.

How this scam works

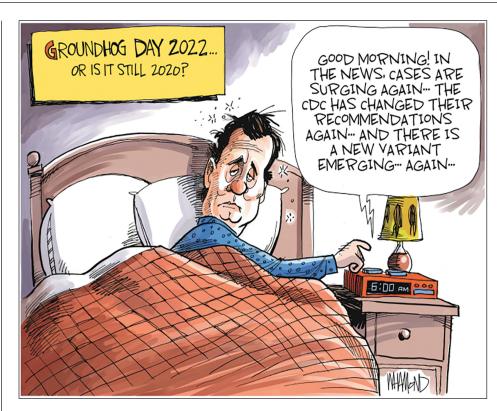

You hear about the free COVID-19 tests and do a search for it online. Or you see a post or ad on social media or receive an unsolicited email or text. These communications urge you to request your free tests immediately by clicking on a link.

You follow the link to a website that looks official at first glance. It may have the United States Postal Service (USPS) logo, just like the real website. It also has a form to request your tests. But when you start filling out the form, you notice something unusual. This fake version may ask you for personal information, such as your Social Security number or Medicare ID. It could also request your credit card details, under the guise of needing to pay for shipping (note: the real page does not ask for payment or your SSN). Before you know it, you have given up your information to a scammer.

How to avoid fake website scams:

• Look closely at the domain name. One way that fake websites trick people is by using a domain name that is extremely close to a real business's or organization's domain name. For example, the real COVID-19 test request website is special.usps.com/testkits. Scammers may swap two letters or make a slight misspelling. If you find a spelling error in the domain name, you're not on the official site, and it's best to close the tab.

• Watch out for tricky subdomains. Sometimes attackers hope you will confuse a subdomain with the real domain name. For example, a scammer might use the subdomain name usps. faketestkit.com hoping you won't notice that "faketestkit.com" is not the correct domain name to get your free test kit, which is usps.com. • The real website asks only for your name and address. You do not need to pay for the tests using the government program – even for shipping. And you will not be asked for insurance details. your Social Security number or any other sensitive information.

Old-time radio 'goofs'

Time delay--a feature that allows deletion of serious blunders--has not always been a "backstop" when there's tongue entanglement on radio broadcasts.

A classic, of course, was the announcer who said he "got his tang toungled up."

Perhaps the first nationally-recognized blunder occurred in June, 1921, when Harry Von Zell needed to make just one statement to introduce the new US President for his inaugural address: "Ladies and gentlemen, President Herbert Hoover." What he said, however, was definitely mangled: "Hoobert Heever."...

Groucho Marx, radio and TV personality who appeared in several thighslapping movies with his brothers, had a keen mind and an ever-present cigar. He was a comic weekly on his radio show, "You Bet Your Life."

One night a contestant who was basically out of it after she'd stated her name listened intently when Groucho asked the ever-so-simple question: "What does one add to water to produce soap suds?"

Pausing, she answered, "Lye?" Ever the quick thinker, Groucho answered, "That's a lie, but we'll take it anyway."...

Many of the best "foul-ups" have been in local situations, dying when radio signals and word of mouth ended near county lines. This day, I will share some accounts I've come across, starting with yours truly.

I recall ending a New Year's Eve sports broadcast on KBWD in Brownwood.

I wished listeners a "Happy Newbury."... *****

My friend Gilbert Stogsdill remains amused by a radio station story involving his late brother, Jim Stogsdill, 13 years his senior. They were living in Guymon, OK, where their father was on a church staff.

Jim had a radio "gig" at KGYN, providing him "walking around money" during his college days at nearby Panhandle A&M College.

Each afternoon, he made on-the-air phone calls to local residents, ending each session up with small gifts to the lucky listeners....

One day, he reached a youngster who provided limited conversation. Jim asked if the kid's mother could come to the phone. Jim complimented the young man, admitting to the mother that he didn't even know her son's name. "It's Gooey," she responded. Jim figured she hadn't had much schoolin' herself. Taken aback, he said he'd never heard the name before.

"We hadn't either," she remarked. "But I read it in a book before he was born, and my husband and I both liked it." The rejoinder came when Jim asked about the spelling. "Just like it sounds," she responded, "G-U-Y." (Maybe she thought herself to be a resident of "Gooeymon," OK.)....

Here's another foul-up with a hospital setting. I can't verify it, so there'll be attribution to exactly no one. Having given birth to a daughter, the mother said she'd call her new baby "Fee-molly."

Taken aback, her nurse said she'd never heard the name before. "I hadn't, either," the new mom confessed, "but I saw it on the hospital registration form." (The word she had seen was "female.")...

No radio personality provided more good cheer than the late Joy Culwell, albeit pretty much limited to the confines of Colorado City and Mitchell County. She had a daily chit-chat on Radio Station KVMC, rarely failing to joke about her size, which was, well, ample and then some.

A woman with many stories, she recounted an unlikely experience in an Abilene department store. "I got stuck in the revolving door," she laughed. Emergency personal urged her to "turn sideways." Joy responded that she "didn't have a sideways.".... On another program, she bragged about being hugged by three Texas governors, but "not all at the same time."

In Snyder, a student of Western Texas College was a parttime announcer at Radio Station KSNY. President of WTC at the time, I watched as a tornado bore down on Snyder. It made a welcome turn, but the announcer's warning is memorable. "A tornado is approaching Snyder. Details in a moment, but first a word from Piggly-Wiggly."...

Q. The freeze last year in February damaged my lemon and lime trees in containers but they resprouted. Now this freeze has also damaged them. I didn't expect that it would get so cold based on the mild predictions. Nearly all the leaves were frozen off again. Do you think they are done for this time, or is there a chance they will recover again?

A. There is a chance that they will recover again but if another freeze is forecast cover them. You have been lucky so far.

O We started feeding the birds recently based on your recommendation on how to attract the insect eating birds with suet. Remind us how to discourage the squirrels; they eat more than their share.

A. Use pepper flavored suet and seed. The birds are not discouraged by the hot pepper but the squirrels do not like it. You can also use safflower seed instead of sunflower seed or use an Absolute Brand Feeder that has weight sensitive perches that can be set to close when heavy feeders such as squirrels (or even white winged doves) attempt to consume the seed.

Q. My children and I like the idea that we heard in one of your presentations about doing plantings so we have 12 months of color. Where can we find a list of some of the plants to consider? It is especially hard to have blooms now in the winter!

A. Here are a few of the early bloomers to consider. Start with cemetery iris, daffodils (Quail, Trevithian, and Campernelle), and paperwhites for early bloomers that are also not eaten by deer. Snapdragons, pansies, stocks, alyssum, cyclamen, and primula are also showy winter bloomers. For articles offering plants for 12 months of color, visit plantanswers.com.

lemon, lime trees when frost threatens

Q. Tell us again when we should treat our peach trees for scale insects.

A. Apply dormant or horticultural oil to stems and trunks showing the scale at the beginning of a period when the temperature is going to stay above 45 degrees. The treatment is organic but kills flowers such as pansies and other plants that may be growing under the trees.

Q. What is the most potent insecticide to control fire ants? Can it be used in the vegetable garden?

A. Acephate is an effective insecticide for controlling fire ants but is not used in the vegetable garden. Look for a product with Spinosad as its active ingredient, they are usually labeled to allow use in the vegetable garden.

FEBRUARY GARDENING CALENDAR

If you have the patience wait until next month to cut down the frozen stems of esperanza, lantana, salvia, and other plants. The remnant stems provide cover and habitat for the ground feeding birds. It is neater to clean up the brown stems but there is no advantage to the plants.

The first of February is a good time to plant potatoes. Dig a trench one foot wide and equally deep. Place a piece of potato with at least one eye every 24 inches in the trench. Stack the soil up on one or both sides of the trench so it can gradually be refilled as the potato stems grow in the trench. If extra soil is available, the trench can not only be filled but soil can be mounded over the potato plants above the trench. Discontinue the trench filling and mounding when you run out of soil. The potato plant will continue to grow upward. The first harvest can occur when the potato plant blooms. Eventually harvest all the plants when the tops brown. The potatoes can stay in place in the trench for several weeks after the tops decline but if the soil is moist there is a potential for the fruit to rot. In some situations, the fruit can be stored for months but it works best here in Central Texas if the potatoes are used for the table shortly after harvest as new potatoes.

There is still time to plant onions, broccoli and cabbage transplants. Plant lettuce, carrots, beets, English peas, and turnips by seed. Late in the month you could try seeding green beans and cucumbers.

In the flower garden the snapdragons and stocks have started their recovery from the damage from the January freeze and should be back in bloom by the end of the month. Pansies will be looking good as well. If you have naturalized larkspurs in the garden designate a few rows for them and remove the rest or they will grow over the top of the other cool weather annuals. As dominating as they are they are still desirable to have some blooming to provide nectar for the hummingbirds, bees, and butterflies.

Sometime this month the live oaks will do a quick leaf drop and recovery. The live oak leaves are excellent for paths and mulch.

The winter weeds are growing strong. Keep the rescue grass and annual bluegrass mowed so you can enjoy it as "the sustainable winter lawn". Next month and April they will try to set their seed. Bedstraw is especially interesting. It is easy to control in the lawn with the herbicide "Weed Free Zone" or you can rake up large patches to form small clumps that work well as fuel for the compost pile.

February is a good time to prune your fruit trees. For text and diagrams visit plant answers, com.

Shade trees planted in February have an opportunity to grow roots before they must face the challenge of a Texas summer. Consider live oak, cedar elm, Mexican sycamore, Texas red oak, anaqua, Mexican white oak, bur oak, or chinkapin oak. If your neighborhood is experiencing oak wilt pressures, consider the non-oak species.

LAURIE E. WIEMERS

Laurie Elizabeth Wiemers, age 59, of Manhattan, died January 11, 2022 in Manhattan. She was born on May 17, 1962 in San Angelo, Texas, the daughter of Stanley and Beverly (Mason) Parker. She graduated from Gonzales High School (Gonzales TX) with the class of 1980.

Laurie was blessed with two sons: Jeremy Baker and Hunter Wiemers. In addition to her sons, she is survived by her father, Stanley Parker; sisters, Bren Stout and Marsha Decker, and her brother Larry Parker. Also surviving Laurie are her nieces: Shanan Allemang, Robyn Opheim, Mandi Stout and Kelleye Decker, and nephews: John Michael Parker & Louis Decker and 8 grand-nephews & 1 grand-niece.

She was preceded in death by her mother, Beverly Parker, and her youngest sister, Christina Parker, and all of her grandparents.

Laurie moved to Kansas from Houston TX in1988, but she remained a Texas girl at heart, cheering for the UT Longhorns whenever one of their games was televised. She loved animals and had her own horse as a teenager. There was always a dog included in Laurie's family, and her last fur-baby, Angel, went to Heaven just a few months ago.

Laurie really enjoyed music & going to concerts. In her younger years, Journey & Fleetwood Mac were among her favorites. In the last few years, country music was often playing on her radio, and she & her sister Bren, made sure to attend Country Stampede to see Blake Shelton when he was there.

Laurie was a loyal friend and co-worker, often putting her friends & her family before herself. It was extremely rare to see Laurie without her sweet smile. She enjoyed her jobs and always attended her Bible study group. She attended Rock Hills Church in Manhattan. Laurie worked in retail jobs, at the KSU Alumni Association and most recently in the office at Copeland Insurance in Manhattan.

Funeral services for Laurie were held at 11:00 a.m. Saturday at the Yorgensen-Meloan-Londeen Funeral Home in Manhattan, with Pastor Susan Evans officiating.

Employing a 'Margaritaville mentality'

Aloha castaways. May the sound of the waves soothe your soul, the brilliance of the sun warm your spirit, and the sand tickle your feet as it oozes up between your toes. Yep, sounds good to me too, but in reality it's winter in Texas, now thirty six degrees, a twenty mph wind blowing and under our first winter storm warning of 2022.

Proper perspective helps a lot, and as I see it, it should just make us appreciate the fact that we don't live farther north. After moving from Honolulu to the northern suburbs of Chicago in my youth, and spending over twelve years surviving the frozen tundra, I'm real happy to be living in Texas. I believe this also depends on where you were born and grew up. I've known countless people raised in colder climates and they seem to really love it. Born in Florida, I jumped at the first chance of escape, and tired of hearing about it, made my own "climate change" and never looked back.

After getting through last years frozen fiasco and really hating cold weather, I took matters into my own hands and purchased a snow suit. I just read an article on how vulnerable the Texas electrical grid is, and how close we came to a catastrophic failure that could've taken weeks, or even months to repair, so I believe this was definitely a worthwhile purchase. Got mine from Amazon for about $100, may be worth thinking about because if the shift hits the plan, I'd rather look like a snowman than be one...just sayin!

Still in pursuit of my tropical themed home makeover, I've decided to redo my studio in the same way. Originally done in black, I found it a little depressing after the other parts of the house were nearing completion. Bright- airy colors, large beach art and palm trees iust makes me feel good, something I've desperately needed after loosing Eloise. A strong faith in God, and a change of scenery can be very therapeutic, and is sometimes exactly what's needed to help us get through the toughest times of life. It seems to be working and is highly recommended if your struggling in this area.

Recently surfing while the internet I ran across a promotional video for the Margaritaville resort, owned by Jimmy Buffet and named after his most popular song. In the lobby there's a ten foot blue flip-flop next to a large pop top from the line in the song "I blew out my flipflop, stepped on a pop top, cut my heel, had to cruise on back home." Yep, been there, done that. What excited me the most was when I paused the video on a shot of the lobby, went to wash some dishes, turned back around and didn't remember taking that photo of my house, guess I'm on track to my first one and a half star personal resort!

It seems old Jimmy's done real well for himself according to an article in the current AARP magazine. Born in Mississippi and raised in Alabama, he relocated to key west in 1971. Inspired by the lifestyle he wrote and recorded Margaritaville. When it became a hit he was able to buy his own boat and is quoted as saying that if he'd been a one hit wonder he'd been happy just sailing his boat around the islands. Over the year he's amassed a fortune through entertainment, the Margaritaville resorts, restaurants and merchandising, and now, very large retirement communities. Life in the sun playing pickleball, bocce, golf (693 holes), or taking in a water zumba class, sounds like a great way to spend your golden years. I think we could all benefit from a little more Margaritaville mentality. So, until next time, enjoy all that your able to, making time to play and have some fun! Love you guys, Eric.

Nature says that Mustangs can outrun Cougars, but don't tell that to the Cougars of San Antonio Cole, who came into Mustang Gym on Friday night and ran away with a pair of blowout victories.

COLE 55, LADY MUSTANGS 31

The District 26-3A leading Cole Cougar ladies team showed why they're the class of the district as they outscored the Lady Mustangs in every quarter, en route to a 24-point victory. Cole opened the game with an 8-0 run, before Nixon-Smiley answered with a 5-0 run of their own to close the gap. The Lady Cougars went on a 6-2 run to close the quarter, however, and led 14-7 at the end of one period. The second quarter was nearly a carbon copy of the first, as Cole opened the quarter with a run, the Lady Mustangs answered with a run of their own, only to have Cole respond with another run to stretch their lead. At the intermission, Cole held a 33-14 advantage. Nixon-Smiley played a tighter game in the second, but were still outscored 7-4 in the third quarter and 15-13 in the fourth, as Cole cruised to the victory. It was a tough night shooting for the Lady Mustangs, particularly from the 3-point line and the free throw line, as they were 2-of-15 from beyond the arc and 3-of-13 from the charity stripe. The Mustangs (17-6 overall) jumped out to an early 34-25 lead in the first half and never looked back.

Nixon-Smiley was led by their two big men, Braxton Regalado, who scored 18 points, and Carl White Jr., who added 16 points.

Other key contributors were Bradyn Martinez with eight points, Kade Dixon with six, Dustin Mejia and Jeremiah Munoz each with five, and Ruben Bomer with two.

The Mustangs will travel to Luling on Friday, Jan. 28, for another huge district contest. They will then play at Great Hearts Monte Vista on Tuesday, Feb. 1.

Pleasanton boys fly past Gonzales, 63-51

FROM STAFF REPORTS

It has been more than three years since Gonzales last beat No. 22 Pleasanton in boys basketball and will remain so after the Eagles downed the Apaches, 63-51, at home on Friday, Jan. 21, in district play.

The loss dropped Gonzales to 14-5 and 1-2 in district play.

Gonzales actually held the lead after the first quarter at 15-14, but Pleasanton outscored the Apaches, 22-12, in the second period to take a 36-27 lead at the half. In the third period, Gonzales held the Eagles to just six points and narrowed the lead to 42-37. The Apaches fought hard in the final stanza, but Pleasanton outscored Gonzales, 21-14, allowing them to claim a 12-point victory.

Angel Martinez led all Apaches with 13 points and added five rebounds. Jeremiah Hastings scored 12 points and had eight rebounds while Alex Escobedo scored 10 points and had five rebounds.

The Apaches had a bye on Tuesday, Jan. 25, but were set to play at Cuero on Friday, Jan. 28, and will return home against La Vernia on Tuesday, Feb. 1.

Lady Mustangs shot about 31 percent from the field.

Mady Velasquez led the way in the scoring column with 11 points. Velasquez also led the team in rebounds with 6. Other scorers included Greenlee Houseton with 7, Kendall Amaya with 5, Natalee Mendez with 4, and Abby Fox and Criselle Stansel with 2 points each.

Nixon-Smiley is now 15-14 overall and 4-3 in District 26-3A play, alone in third place. The Lady Mustangs were off on Tuesday but return to the hardwood tomorrow night (Friday) when they travel to Luling, to take on the winless Lady Eagles.

COLE 61, MUSTANGS 40

The top-five ranked Cole Cougars scored early, often and practically every possible way a team could as they coasted to a 21-point victory.

The Cougars accounted for nearly half of their points from beyond the arc, as they hit 10 threepointers, including nine in the first half, as they raced out to a big lead early. Cole's size, speed and athletic ability played a huge factor in the game as they controlled the pace and rebounding in the game.

Midway through the first quarter, Nixon-Smiley found itself down 14-2, thanks to an 11-0 run by Cole. The Mustangs settled in after that, but found themselves down 18-5 at the end of the first. The second quarter was also dominated by Cole, as they outscored the Mustangs, 18-9, to take a 36-14 lead to the locker room.

Coming out of the break, Nixon-Smiley appeared to have made some adjustments, but they could not account for the speed or athleticism of the Cougars, who turned several errant passes into steals going the other way. Cole won the third quarter by a score of 15-8 and went to the fourth quarter with a 29-point lead, 51-22.

The lead stretched to 31 points with about 3 minutes remaining. That's when Cole substituted out it's entire lineup. The Mustangs were able to have some success against the Cougars' bench and closed out the contest with a 12-2 run to make the final score 61-40.

Dustin Mejia put forth a Herculean effort in the loss, leading the way for the Mustangs with 15 points, including a pair of threepointers. Others contributing scoring were Braxton Regalado with 8, Brayden Martinez with 6, Carl White and Ruben Bomer with 4 points each, Luke Moses with 2 and David Abundis with 1.

The Mustangs are 16-6 on the season, but currently sit in fourth place in District 26-3A with a record of 3-4. They were in action on Tuesday night against Great Hearts Northern Oaks at Mustang Gym.

Lady Apaches stay competitive in loss to Pleasanton

FROM STAFF REPORTS

The Gonzales Lady Apaches were very competitive against the Pleasanton Lady Eagles, but unfortunately came up on the short end of a 48-41 score in district play on Friday, Jan. 21.

The Lady Apaches had the lead at the end of the first period, 10-9. Pleasanton outscored Gonzales, 11-8, in the second period to take a two-point lead into the locker room at 20-18.

In the third period, the Lady Eagles muscled their way to a 10-point lead at 40-30. The Lady Apaches fought their way back to tie Pleasanton at 41-41, but the Lady Eagles scored the final seven points of the game for the win.

Field-goal shooting percentage was to blame for the Lady Apaches' woes as they only hit 17.2 percebnt of their shots, including 7-of-42 from two-point range. By contrast, Pleasanton hit 27 percent of their shots, including 14-of-43 from two-point range. Gonzales did hit one more threepointer than Pleasanton and four more free throws. Had the Lady Apaches been able to hit just four more of their two-point shots, they would have won.

Gonzales did manage 21 offensive rebounds and 51 for the game, while Pleasanton pulled down 55 rebounds. The Lady Apaches had a 16-7 advantage in steals and even committed three fewer turnovers.

Audrey Martinez led Gonzales with 12 points, including a perfect 5-of-5 from the free throw line, and had six rebounds and three assists before fouling out. Delaini Seger-Gordon had 10 points and five rebounds to also score in double figures.

Niyahna Lowery had five points and seven rebounds, while Bella Aguero had five points, five rebounds and five steals for a "triple nickel." Kilee Schwausch had three points, eight rebounds and three steals before fouling out, while Madison York had three points, six rebounds, three steals and three assists. Kelly Breitschopf had three points and three rebounds.

The Lady Apaches were off Tuesday, Jan. 25, and will return to action Friday, Jan. 28, at home against Cuero. They play at La Vernia on Tuesday, Feb. 1.

Maria Vasquez uses some deft footwork to get past a Smithville defender while, across the field, Marisol Hernandez watches the play unfold during Gonzales' 2-2 tie last week. The Lady Apaches were at it again Tuesday night and tied La Vernia, 2-2, to run their record to 2-1-4 overall. LOUIS DECKER

Apaches drop 2 at Canyon Lake Tourney

BY LOUIS DECKER The Inquirer

The Apache Soccer team found themselves up against formidable opponents and formidable weather over the weekend, as they lost a pair of matches in the Canyon Lake Tournament.

Gonzales was scheduled to play four games over the weekend, but Thursday's contests against La Vernia and Pleasanton were cancelled. Instead, the Tribe played on Friday afternoon against Lampasas and came up on the short end of a 3-2 game. Tristan Gomez and Alan Orduna scored the goals for Gonzales.

It was a quick turnaround for the Apaches, as they dropped a 1-0 decision to San Antonio Christian, Saturday morning. "It was a well-played game," said Coach Billy Holifield, "but we gave up a goal in the middle of the second half."

The Apache varsity and JV teams begin district play Tuesday night on the road in Port Lavaca, against the Calhoun Sandcrabs.

Legendary hockey coach Herb Brooks told the 1980 Olympic team, "Great moments are born from great opportunity." The JV Apaches took advantage of an opportunity to face a varsity squad Tuesday night, as they defeated Great Hearts Monte Vista, a private school out of San Antonio.

Youahi Huerta scored the lone goal of the night in a 1-0 victory for the Tribe. "The kids played well and controlled the tempo of the game throughout the evening," said Coach Billy Holifield.

The JV and Varsity boys teams return to action on Tuesday night as they travel to Port Lavaca to kick off district play against Calhoun.

No action to take after closed session, though members were updated on business regarding Holiday Inn Express and Sleep Inn & Suites, job fair and airport plans and the Main Street performance agreement. Demolition and fence bids were considered for 2521 Harwood Rd.

concern that the tasks would require adequate staffing for success. A steering committee with representation from the Gonzales Convention & Visitor Bureau, the Gonzales Chamber of Commerce, and Gonzales City Council was recommended, though emphasis was placed on the need to work quickly in order to provide a recommendation to city council at its next meeting.

Barbara Crozier volunteered to serve on the steering committee and said that Ronda Miller was interested in volunteering, as well. Brad Cox said the chamber was preparing to install five new board members, but that he or another representative from the chamber would be willing to be part of the committee. Holly Danz also said she would participate. It was also suggested that a city staff member should be considered. Patek and O'Donnell agreed to serve on the committee.

Arena Operations Manager Amanda Garza provided an update regarding past and upcoming events at J.B. Wells Park.

Cox reported that the chamber had begun taking applications for a student worker position and gave a brief report on the chamber's move to its new location. He suggested that there may be some interest in having a mural painted there.

"Now that we have a giant building with a huge blank canvas on it, the chamber can lead the way as far as propagating mural activity in our community," said Cox.

Barbara Crozier gave an update on upcoming events including a "Toast to Texas" for Texas Independence Day on March 2 and a Young Texians group visit to San Antonio on March 6. A wreath ceremony at the Memorial Museum was also mentioned. A garden tour has been planned for the weekend of Mother's Day. The funds raised through that event are to be used for the renovation of the butterfly garden. The Master Gardeners plant sale has been scheduled for April 9. in it. A talent show, a costumed dance, a chicken fried steak dinner and a trip to Sea World each week have also become favorite camp traditions. The camp even has a pet tortoise and a large fish tank.

Loretta Shirley has served as the executive director of Texas Elks Children's Services since Aug. 2018. This summer, she and Assistant Director Janet Person (known by her camp nickname, Whoopsie) have made plans to spend seven weeks with campers and one additional week of intensive training with 20 camp counselors who will be there to support the campers each week. Preparations have been set for 40 new campers to arrive each Sunday according to their age group and stay until Friday. More than 250 campers have attended in years past.

"They do all the things that kids at other summer camps do, no matter what their special needs are. We improvise and adapt so they can participate in everything," said Shirley.

Children in foster care and kids with autism can meet the requirements to attend the camp, along with children who have cerebral palsy or Downs Syndrome. The camp's motto is "Having a difference doesn't make a difference."

The 20,000 square foot building that now houses the dorm style rooms, nurse's station, full commercial kitchen, dining room, laundry facilities and offices used for the camp was originally constructed in 1946 as a children's hospital for polio patients. It was built next door to the Warm Springs rehabilitation center for adults with polio. Photos of the young patients line the shelves of glass cabinets stored in the former children's hospital. After the threat of polio was virtually eliminated due to the development of a successful vaccine in the 1950s, the hospital adapted and continued to offer medical care to children. The hospital closed in the '80s and the facility was repurposed as a summer camp for children with special needs.

The Elks camp is funded by Elks Lodges throughout the state and donations made to the Texas Elks Endowment. A kitchen staff prepares meals for the campers and the rest of the staff throughout the summer. A nurse is onsite 24 hours a day during the camp and counselors are paid staff who also sleep onsite. Counselor recruitment begins at this time each year. Crisis prevention and intervention training, CPR and first aid training are provided. American Camp Association Accreditation was renewed in Oct. 2021.

Altogether, the camp encompasses ten acres. There is space for a paintball target shooting range and a wide pavilion next to a playground. A weekly trek is made to Palmetto State Park for nature adventures. No electronic devices are allowed. Even the staff members ditch cell phones in favor of walkie talkies for the week.

"There's just something magical about Elks Camp and I don't know who gets more out of it, the campers of the staff. We look forward to it. It's a lot of work, but it's so rewarding," said Person.

This year will be Person's 12th summer with the camp.

Each Friday, a graduation ceremony is held in the assembly hall when parents return to pick up their children. Each camper receives an award from his or her counselor.

"We want them to be more independent when they leave here. We want them to learn that they can be like all the other kids. Parents say they see more confidence in their kids after they come home from camp," Shirley said.

For many of the younger children, summer camp is their first time sleeping away from home. Although it takes courage at first, Person said the children are often sad to leave at the end of the week. Shirley explained that the campers often make good friends and memories at the Elks Camp.

"We are honored to have them here," said Shirley.

the Inquirer that Kacir could still file to run for mayor of Gonzales and run for both positions simultaneously, but state law says she "cannot hold both offices simultaneously," said Sam Taylor, Assistant Secretary of State for Communications.

"If she were to win the County Judge position to take office in January 2023 after winning a new term for Mayor in May 2022, she would have to choose one or the other at that time," Taylor said.

Section 141.033 of the Texas Election Code states a candidate "may not file applications for a place on the ballot for two or more offices that: (1) are not permitted by law to be held by the same person; AND (2) are to be voted on at one or more elections held on the same day."

"The two elections in question are not being held on the same day, so it wouldn't violate this section because it doesn't meet both conditions set forth in 141.033(a)," Taylor said.

Also Sec. 52.034 of the Texas Election Code states a candidate's name "may not appear more than once on the ballot except for two or more offices that are permitted by law to be held by the same person."

"Since she would not be on the same ballot, her candidacy for both offices (voted on in different elections on different ballots) doesn't violate this section," Taylor added.

Kacir has not indicated she will run for mayor again after filing to run against incumbent County Judge Patrick Davis.

Gonzales ISD

The positions available on the ballot for Gonzales ISD are for District 1, currently held by Gloria Torres, and District 2, currently held by Justin Schwausch. So far, no one has filed to run for either position, said Lucy Pena, administrative assistant to GISD Superintendent John Schumacher.

There are three positions available on the Nixon City Council, including mayor, currently held by Dorothy Riojas, as well as the council spots occupied by Maggie Gaytan and Mark Soto. So far, no one has filed for election at this time, said City Secretary Deborah Bustamente.

Nixon-Smiley ISD

No one has filed yet for the Nixon-Smiley ISD Board of Trustees, though the three incumbents have picked up candidate packets, said Cindy Lott, NSCISD business manager. They include Vice President and Place 5 trustee Lester Warzecha, Place 1 Trustee Mark Mendez and Place 7 Trustee Jimmy Newman.

City of Smiley

No one has filed for a place on the City of Smiley ballot so far, though three individuals have picked up packets, City Secretary Rebecca Mejia said. Positions that will be available include mayor, currently held by Michael K. Mills, and two places on the council currently held by Wayne Dauer
