Fairhope council seeks legal options on Oct. 2 referendum

Injunction could be sought to delay change of government vote

By CLIFF MCCOLLUM
cliff@gulfcoastmedia.com

After recent action taken by the Fairhope City Council in a special called meeting, the timing of the upcoming Oct. 2 vote to possibly change the city's form of government could possibly be postponed.

The council voted unanimously to look at its legal options that would likely lead to the filing of an injunction in circuit court that could delay the Oct. 2 referendum, a move the council members said was necessary in order to get clarification on what exactly Fairhope residents might be voting on in the election.

What was at issue is whether the upcoming election also mandates a move from at-large representation for the city's council members of if districts would have to be created, and, if districts are to be created, what the process for creating those districts would be.

The city council voted in August to ask for an attorney general's opinion regarding that question, and a prelimi-

Last week, the City of Spanish Fort held the grand opening and dedication for its new Integrity Park, and celebrated the event by having the first youth football games being played on the fields there.

This first phase of development provides three fields to host football and youth soccer starting in Spring 2019 and the park boasts to be the first complex in the area to be lit with LED lighting.

Also included in the first phase construction is a new concession stand and restroom area.

Mayor Mike McMillan said he was proud that the city was able to build a park like this for its residents.

"Quality of life is certainly important to us and our residents, so having a brand new

Daphne residents fight rezoning in Olde Towne Daphne

By CLIFF MCCOLLUM

It was standing room only at the Sept. 17 Daphne City Council meeting, as residents from across the city turned out in opposition to a proposed development near Olde Towne Daphne.

The development in question, a collection of townhouses called Jacob's Well, has been met with heavy criticism for months from neighboring property members and other residents from throughout the city who question how the potential development could add additional traffic to Daphne's Main Street area.

"What are we trying to do? Squeeze Birmingham into Daphne?" resident Dorothy Williams said. "Progress is necessary for a community to thrive and grow, but at what cost? Why do we have to take on so many projects and put them on small properties just to make money? We love our community and we want it to stay that way."

Many residents cited Daphne's requirements for the allowance of planned unit developments, like the proposed Jacob's Well, and that any development seeking to become a PUD had to be "superior to existing zoning."

"This is not superior," resident Bill Robinson said. "What has been presented to this council and this mayor is inaccurate. And this is not a backyard op-

Spanish Fort council discusses budget increases for fire department

By CLIFF MCCOLLUM
cliff@gulfcoastmedia.com

During the Sept. 17 Spanish Fort City Council work session, council members discussed the passage of the upcoming fiscal year budget, but had questions about the allotted increase for the city's volunteer fire/rescue department.

Several council members raised questions about the proposed budget increase for the department.

"I have a problem with that budget number going up 25 percent at one time," Councilman J.R. Smith said. "Looking at the balance sheet from the fire department, it looks like they purchased two new vehicles last year and were $100,000 in the hole on that. With the discussions we've been having about them becoming a part of the city, I have a problem with that increase."

Mayor Mike McMillan said the increase would allow three additional full-time firefighters that would cost the city an additional $125,000 with insurance and cost of living adjustments included.

"The thought process with this is to take it to a 24 hour, seven day a week man power station," McMillan said.

Spanish Fort Fire/Rescue Department Chief Roger Few told the council that optimum staffing for a fire truck is three or four people, but that the city could get by with two if the staffing additions were approved.

"With two, they could at least get the first truck in route and start the action while everyone else is assembling" Few said.

Spanish Fort city leaders had commissioned a study from the University of South Alabama to determine the best option for the fire department's future, including the city absorbing the volunteer department into a full city department. SFFR leaders have not yet seen the results of that study.

"I do think we need to have more people on staff, but if we're working at building a new station and budgeting 25 percent more than last year, I think it's time to stop feeding the horse over the fence and all come on the same side of the fence together," Smith said.

Councilman Curt Smith said he felt the budget increase was just a side effect of the city's continued growth.

"The reality is this is going to get bigger and bigger even we're just donating to a volunteer fire department," Curt Smith said. "We have to expect this to grow as the city is growing. This is not a one-time this year. This is a reality that every year will increase, and this is probably going to be the baseline."

McMillan said the city has been talking to the legislature questioning some of the service area allotted to the department in Loxley and other parts of the county.

"I think it's wrong for the city to foot the bill in those areas, but at our table, we have got to be responsible for our citizens within the city," McMillan said.

position — this is a citywide opposition."

Craig Dyas, the developer and owner of the property, said public reaction and opposition to the project had been listened to and had "pushed this property into a pretty cool development."

"We believe we've done everything we've been asked to do by the neighbors," Dyas said. "There has been some chatter about us creating an island or park space between the two components that once we do it the developer will tear it out, but that is not the case."

The proposed change had also received an unfavorable recommendation from the Daphne Planning Commission.

Mayor Dane Haygood said he also had questions about the proposed development, asking whether the proposed PUD documents stated whether the Jacob's Well portion of development would never be allowed to connect to the Daphne Townhouse portion of the property.

"I feel like there is more to this than I can even understand," Haygood said. "It's obvious the community is not in favor of this. I had hoped there was a way they were working together, but the applicant and the community haven't worked out their concerns. I think we need to work within the current zoning and move on."

Since the proposed ordinance change was introduced during the Sept. 17 meeting, it will not be voted on by the council until the Oct. 1 meeting.

1986 Governor's race

Since this is a gubernatorial election year, allow me to share an epic Governor's Race with you.

The 1986 Governor's race will be remembered as one of Alabama's most amazing political stories. In 1978 Fob James sent the Three B's, Brewer, Beasley and Baxley packing. Brewer and Beasley had been permanently exiled to Buck's Pocket, the mythical destination for defeated Alabama gubernatorial candidates. However, Bill Baxley resurrected his political career by bouncing back to be elected lieutenant governor in 1982, while George Wallace was winning his fifth and final term as governor. Another player arrived on the state political scene. Charlie Graddick was elected as a fiery tough lock 'em up and throw away the key attorney general. Graddick had previously been a tough prosecuting district attorney in Mobile.

STEVE FLOWERS
Inside the Statehouse

When Wallace bowed out from seeking reelection in 1986, it appeared the race was between Bill Baxley, the lieutenant governor, and Charlie Graddick, the attorney general. It also appeared there was a clear ideological divide. The moderates and liberals in Alabama were for Baxley and the archconservatives were for Graddick. Baxley had the solid support of black voters, labor, and progressives. Graddick had the hard-core conservatives, including most of the Republican voters in Alabama.

The Republicans had gone to a primary by 1986 but very few Alabamians, even Republicans, participated. It was still assumed that the Democratic Primary was tantamount to election. The Democratic Primary would draw 800,000 Alabama voters while the GOP Primary might draw 40,000, so most Republican leaning voters felt that in order for their vote to count they had to vote in the Democratic Primary.

Baxley and Graddick went after each other with a vengeance in the primary. The race was close. Graddick came out on top by an eyelash. He encouraged Republicans to come vote for him in the Democratic Primary. They did and that is why he won. This was not something that had not been happening for decades. Brewer would have never led Wallace in 1970 without Republicans. Fob would have never won the Democratic Primary and thus become governor in 1978 without Republican voters. Basically, Alabama had been a no party state. We still have no party registration law. So how do you police people weaving in and out of primaries without a mechanism in place for saying you are a Democrat, Republican, or Independent?

After Graddick defeated Baxley by less than 25,000 votes in the runoff primary, the Democratic Party did the unthinkable. They convened the hierarchy of the party, who clearly favored Baxley, and declared Baxley the Democratic nominee because they guessed Graddick had won the primary with Republican crossover voters. They paraded experts in front of their committee to testify that Baxley should have won if just Democrats had voted. They boldly and brazenly chose Baxley as the nominee in spite of the fact that Graddick had clearly gotten the most votes.

This move went against the grain of the vast majority of Alabama voters. They felt that Graddick, even if they had not voted for him, got the most votes and should be the nominee. The Democratic Party leadership sloughed it off. They assumed that the Democratic nominee would win regardless. After all, there had not been a Republican Governor of Alabama in 100 years. In addition, the Republicans had chosen an unknown former Cullman County Probate Judge named Guy Hunt. Hunt had no money and no name identification.

The Democratic leaders guessed wrong. The backlash was enormous. The bold handpicking of a nominee who had not received the most votes was a wrong that needed to be righted. Baxley did not help his case any by ignoring Hunt and dismissing him as a simpleton. He mocked Hunt saying he was unqualified because he only had a high school education. Baxley, as politically astute as he was, should have realized that he was insulting the majority of Alabama voters who themselves only possessed high school educations. This created a backlash of its own.

When the votes were counted in the November general election, Guy Hunt was elected Governor of Alabama. This 1986 result gave new meaning and proof to the old George Wallace theory that more Alabama voters vote against someone than for someone. Alabama had its first Republican governor in 100 years. The 1986 Governor's race will go down in history as a red-letter year in Governor's races. It was truly historic and memorable.

See you next week.

Pier lights

Fairhope is a delightful town, filled with delightful people. There is not a more charming place to be than strolling on the pier at dusk, when the sun has started to edge down below the horizon, and the night breeze has started to sweep the humidity and heat of the day away.

This is the time of night my mother and I like to stroll on the pier. Stroll is a slight exaggeration as my mother is legally blind and her steps are much slower nowadays. She suffers from liver disease and the doctor has prescribed the perfect remedy: walking. My mother loves the pier and has many lovely memories of Fairhope and Point Clear. As a child, her family would summer across the bay. We grew up hearing about jubilees and the old boardwalk that was sandwiched between the water and her parents' old cottage. What better place for her to take her prescribed walk than on Fairhope Pier?

However, she is not able to do that anymore. For the last few weeks, when I've taken her for her nightly

Vote NO on a new form of city government

On Tuesday, October 2, 2018, Fairhope citizens will go to the polls to vote on whether or not to change the form of our city government. Apparently, no one knows exactly just what we are being asked to vote for. Proponents of the change assert that the new form of government (which in part creates a city manager position) will bring peace and harmony to city hall. Mayor Wilson has in the recent past expressed her need for a city manager to run the city as she is too busy to handle the day-to-day operations of Fairhope. Mayor Wilson came into office two years ago with no evident knowledge nor experience in how to run a non-profit government operation. To date she has shown little apparent interest in learning about her job as manager of the city, but plows ahead with little consideration for long established rules and procedures. Among her first actions upon taking the reins of the city was to fire (with no reasons given) every one of the department heads, thus throwing away all of the corporate knowledge and experience in our city's operations. She then proceeded to alienate the entire population of city employees by spying on and investigating them (looking for what?). She capped this off by forbidding any city employee from talking with any member of the City Council, except in the presence of the Mayor. Is there any wonder that there is chaos in city hall, chaos that has Mayor Wilson looking for a way to dump her city management responsibilities on someone else's shoulders? The ongoing battle between the Mayor's office and the City Council has nothing to do with the form of the city government, but has everything to do with the fact that the current government lacks adult leadership on both the City Council and in the Mayor's office. Neither City Council Chairman Burrell nor Mayor Wilson has done themselves any favors by taking every business disagreement as a personal affront. Does the City of Fairhope need a new form of government (at what dollar cost?) to bring peace to city hall? The answer is a resounding NO! You must be very careful about what you vote for without having clear knowledge of the unintended consequences. The citizens and voters of Fairhope would be better advised to pray to God that Mayor Wilson and City Council President Burrell will in the future assume the roles of adults while working within the form of city government that we have.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Little Lagoon problems continue

Prior to the late 1990's the little lagoon pass wall extended well out into the gulf. Dredging was rarely needed. Inside the lagoon many fish species were often caught that today are rarely caught. Water flow exchange was very good due in large part to the funnel effect of the longer wall. As time went by the southern end of the wall began to suffer breaks from years of storms. Much of the southern end of the wall was removed resulting in erosion problems on the west side right up to the beach boulevard. The wall was again put in place, but never to the prior length. The result of this was sand filling the pass and the need for a dredge to remain at the pass. Along with this came the added problem of a sandbar blocking the water flow into the pass from outside of the wall and a costly court order to dredge maintaining a average depth inside the pass. I'm told this dredge work is costing the Alabama tax payer around one million dollars a year. The court order does nothing to address the sand blocking water flow into the pass.

Later ADOT commissioned Parsons Brinkerhoff (PB) to develop a plan to better control the depth of the pass without needing to dredge. Once the work was finished ADOT wanted the city of Gulf Shores to take ownership/control of the pass, and that resulted in nothing being done. However, the pass construction plan was good and included the new bridge we now have. The PB plan estimated a 3-4' depth and the natural water exchange keeping it open. This was much like things were before the wall was removed. Since the PB plan was not used the issue of why it was not used is mute. The new 'improved' pass created a pass almost twice the width and thus has continued the need for dredging to maintain 2' average depth per court order.

When hurricane IVAN reopened a cut at the west end of the lagoon, a developer wanted to establish a Marina and offered to construct a real Pass. The federal government approved the use of its land for the project. This project was fought by some preservation, conservation, and some other groups, forcing the developer to back out. There is much to discuss on this topic. Including to simply close the existing pass and make that area a larger public beach access point. The state could then construct the pass at the IVAN cut and no bridge would be needed as no public road goes to that point or beyond. This seems to me to be the most cost effective solution. It would also have the added benefit that any beach impact would be on undeveloped federal property. This would save future tax dollars. I discussed this with a lead engineer with ADOT and he favored creating this pass, but stated to me that the same groups have threatened more major costly lawsuits.

A side effect of all that has gone on with the lagoon pass issues is a drastic change in the fishery. The points to discuss include water quality, which is more than just a fecal count study. The factors that have contributed to the fishery decline. The unintentional or maybe

Opening lead — six of hearts.

THE AVOIDANCE PRINCIPLE

In many hands, declarer cannot afford to have a particular defender gain the lead and therefore does everything possible not to lose a trick to him.

Take this case where South was in three notrump, got a heart lead and correctly played the queen from dummy. The purpose of the queen play was twofold: If West had the ace, the queen would win, and the K-8 would constitute a stopper if West later gained the lead; if East had the ace, he would win the trick, but then South could duck the heart return, holding up the king until the third round. This would serve to neutralize West's remaining hearts if he started with five of them.

When the queen held, South cashed the A-K-Q of spades, hoping the opposing spades were divided 3-3 or that West had four of them. In either case, South would then be sure of the contract. But East showed up with four spades, and declarer went down one after East won the fourth spade and returned the heart jack through South's king.

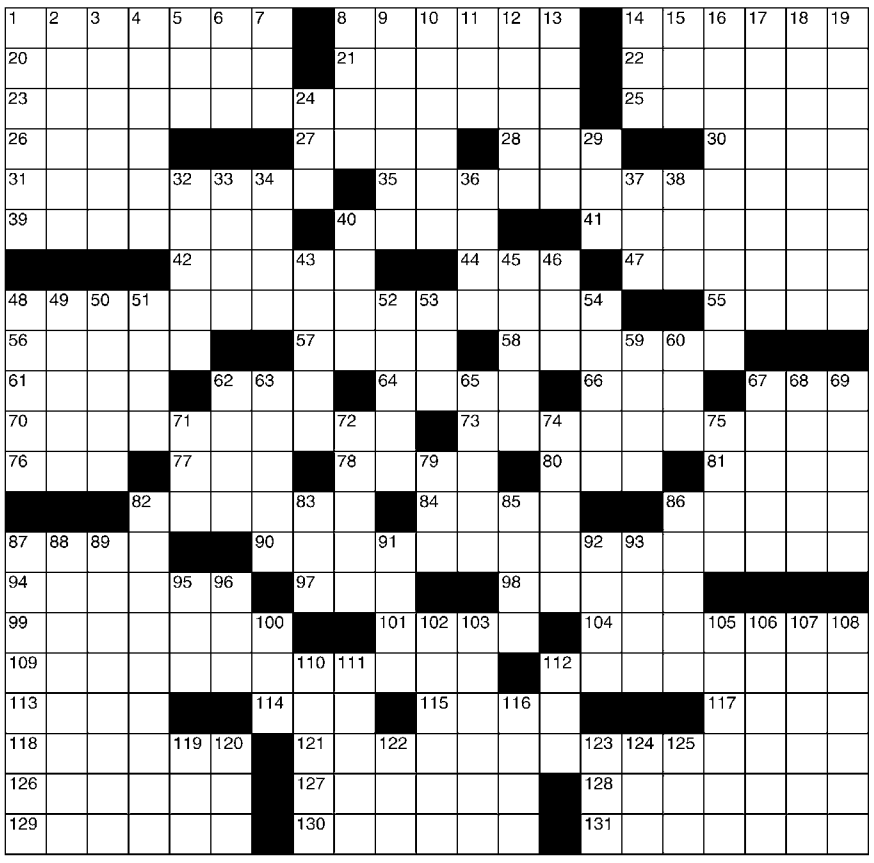

Actually, the problem of avoiding the dangerous opponent, East, could have been solved in an entirely different way. After winning the first heart with the queen, all South had to do was to lead a low spade from dummy and finesse the eight.

This would have lost to the ten, but West would then have been stymied. Nothing he could do would stop declarer from scoring nine tricks consisting of four spades, a heart, a diamond and three clubs.

Finessing the spade eight after East played low was sure to bring the contract home if the spades were divided 3-3 or 4-2, and therefore offered a much greater chance of succeeding than simply cashing the A-K-Q in hopes of a 3-3 split.

Scrumptious sweet potato dishes surprise judges at county fair

allisonm@gulfcoastmedia.com

The festive table, decorated with cotton, blue tinted Ball Jars and orange and red hued maple leaves is lined with the usual suspects: sweet potato cupcakes, sweet potato casserole and sweet potato pie.

The Baldwin County Extension hosts an annual sweet potato recipe contest for middle and high school aged students each year. There is often a lot of the same, delicious sweet potato hued foods crafted from recipes passed down through generations.

Nestled at the end of this year's table, however, was a surprise that no one on the judging panel initially wanted to love: sweet potato tacos. "Huh?" was admittedly the first reaction. But after one bite the judges were hooked and you will be too. The tacos nabbed first place in the senior division and were created by Mackenzie Holcomb of Foley High School.

Another surprise treat, sweet potato waldorf salad, an unusual entry that delighted even the most cynical members of the panel. The salad, designed by Carrie Salter of Robertsdale High School, placed a close second in the senior divison.

Alexis Gildersleeve, of the South Baldwin Center for Technology, took home third place in the senior division with her Sweet Potato

Sweet Potato Tacos

MacKenzie Holcombe

1 package of tortillas
6 tsp. sugar
4 tsp. cinnamon
1 ¾ stick of butter
15 oz. can of sweet potato casserole
½ cup sweetened condensed milk
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 tsp cornstarch
2/4 cup of brown sugar
¼ tsp cayenne pepper
Small marshmallows

DIRECTIONS

Preheat oven to 350 degrees

Cut the tortillas with a circular cookie cutter. In a large mixing bowl combine 1 stick of melted butter, sugar and cinnamon. Dip the tortilla cut outs in the cinnamon and sugar until lightly covered. Then using a cupcake pan flipped upside down, fold the tortillas in half between the cupcake slots. Place in oven for 6 minutes or until a lightly golden color.

In a medium saucepan put one can of sweet potato casserole. Add ¾ cup of butter, half a cup of sweetened condensed milk, 1 tsp of vanilla extract, 1 tsp cornstarch, ¾ cup brown sugar and ¼ tsp cayenne pepper. Stir thoroughly until smooth on medium heat for ten minutes. Let the sweet potato filling cool for about 10 to 15 minutes until it thickens. Spoon sweet potato mix into taco shells. Sprinkled with marshmallows and place on cookie sheet. Place in over for three minutes or until marshmallows soften.

BEYOND THE GARDEN GATE

Weeks Bay Plant Sale coming in October

DOOLEY BERRY
Beyond the Garden Gate

There is an incredible opportunity coming up in mid-October for all Baldwin County gardeners. If you have been puzzling over what to add to your fall garden for beauty, drama and simple caretaking, take advantage of the 26th annual Weeks Bay Native Plant Sale, Thursday through Sunday, Oct. 11 - 14 from 9 a.m. til 4 p.m. each day.

This eagerly awaited event features not only a dazzling mix of shrubs, perennials, butterfly plants, trees, hummingbird attractors, wetland plants and dune plants, but knowledgeable master gardeners are available to offer assistance with your selections, as well. It makes little sense to wander alone in a big box store and wonder about which plant would work best in your garden when you can browse among a selection of beautiful plants known to thrive in coastal Alabama and have experts at your beck and call.

You will surely enjoy browsing through plants in the gorgeous, natural setting of Safe Harbor at Weeks Bay, which is across Highway 98 from Weeks Bay Reserve.

The happy and plant-savvy volunteers who will be there want to make it as easy as possible for you to purchase plants that will thrive in your home's landscape and bring you joy for years to come. They will even help carry your plant choices back to your vehicle or store them in a safe spot until you're ready to leave. How's that for service!

Just what are native plants and why should I include them in my garden, you may be wondering. Native plants can help turn a typical suburban yard into a native haven that will attract birds, butterflies and other beneficial pollinators. Native plants can provide for you an ecologically sound rain garden that is better adapted to handle our often abundant rain water runoff.

Do you have a shady area where nothing seems to grow? Native plants offer a wide variety of multi-hued greens and leaf sizes that would contribute to a beautiful woodland setting. Native plants not only add beauty, but they also allow us to make a positive impact on soil, water and air quality.

When considering native plant gardening selections, you may want to think in terms of "outdoor rooms", just as your house has. Outdoor "rooms" may serve different purposes, such as a wildlife attraction area, a fall vegetable garden, or simply a place for reflection focusing on a mixture of calm and intrigue. Various plants at the native plant sale can actually be purchased to enhance each area's purpose and at a reasonable price, as well. Consider new varieties of varying colors of native azaleas, oak leaf hydrangeas and mountain laurel fashioned into a calming woodland area in your yard. Or you might decide to purchase dwarf yaupons instead of common boxwoods as a pretty border.

With a little research and assistance from those master gardeners, you can learn to choose plants for particular spots you are thinking of while avoiding anything that may be considered invasive.

Generally speaking, plants native to our area will grow better, need less intensive care and support more wildlife.

As gardeners, we realize that things change. Plants die, ground shifts, fences decay, plants become more overcrowded, or things simply don't work out as planned. We are now moving into one of a Baldwin County gardener's favorite seasons-the autumn of the year. All of these things can point the way to new opportunities, giving way to new native plantings that will add a freshness to this beautiful time.

If you have been to the Weeks Bay Native Plant Sale before, you already know the pleasurable experience awaiting you. If you've never been, take a short drive down on a lovely October day and see which native plants call to you.

walk along the pier, we've had to turn around when we reach the second gate by the marina. This is because the two lights beyond this gate are out, and my mother can't see to walk, so I gently steer her around and we reluctantly retrace our steps. It would not be an overstatement to say that this is my mother's time of day. She likes to greet the fishermen and ask them about their catches. She likes to hear the soothing sounds of the boats as they bump against the marina.

Unfortunately, when I've contacted the city, I've met with bureaucratic handoffs, as I am sent from voicemail to voicemail. When I have spoken to someone, my requests to fix the lights are met with abruptness and indifference. I estimate that I've contacted the city at least five times in an effort to address this issue. My plea is for someone in the city to see this letter and fix the lights. I would love to make it all the way down to the end of the pier with my mother. It would make her happy to be able to sit on the bench at the end of the pier and soak in the gentle night breezes and indulge in pleasant conversation.

even intentional consequences of all this.

Regardless, the taxpayers of Alabama should not have had some 13 million of their tax dollars for a new bridge and a wider pass spent on a project that still requires almost constant dredge work and the resulting spending each year of more tax dollars which are needed else where. The engineering skills to fix a pass long term are there and there is no excuse for not doing the job completely and correctly. At the very least a more narrow pass should be constructed at the west end location. No bridge would be needed. The design work is mostly done in the original Parson Brinkerhoff plan and modifications should be reasonably simple to use this plan on a new west end pass.

I would hope ADOT, ADCNR, interested groups, and citizens could all work together and restore the Little Lagoon Fishery. The lagoon and the people of Alabama all deserve better treatment.

Thank you for your time,

Bill Dunbar

Brandon Micheal Hall stars in "God Friended Me," premiering Sunday on CBS.

Good deeds result after 'God Friended Me' in new CBS series

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Of all the friend requests you might not expect on social media, one from the deity has to rank high.

Nevertheless, it's received by an atheistic podcast host — played by Brandon Micheal Hall, of the unusual middle-name spelling and last season's "The Mayor" — in "God Friended Me," a CBS series premiering Sunday, Sept. 30 (though the opening episode has been available on various digital platforms since the end of August). Hall's character Miles unites with a journalist (Violett Beane, "The Flash") to determine whether the heavenly account is for real, doing good deeds for others along the way.

It can't be a coincidence "God Friended Me" inherits the time slot "Touched by an Angel" long had, though the new show also has an edge, defined in part (at least in the early going) by Miles' conflict with his minister father ("Scandal" Emmy winner Joe Morton). Also suggesting its approach, the series was created by "Gotham" and "Hawaii Five-0" alumni Steven Lilien and Bryan Wynbrandt.

"A few years ago," Wynbrandt recalls, "I was driving over to Steven's house, and I got a push notification on my phone for a friend suggestion from an old friend. And a thought occurred to me in that moment: 'What if someone claiming to be God sent me a friend request on Facebook?' As a nonbeliever, it sort of struck me as, 'Wow, that would be an interesting conflict.' And I called Steven, and he said to me, 'That's a really cool idea. What if they sent friend suggestions every week (of people) that these people could help?' So that was the genesis of 'God Friended Me.' "

Hall's mother is a minister, so he has the background to state, "Church is the ultimate theater. You have a stage. You have the text. You have the actors. And you have the message that's coming through. So, for me, that was my entrance into what I'm doing now ... watching my mother and using that as a gateway into making her laugh, because I used to take the church and make it funny for her, to make it a little bit more enlightening for her.

"For this role, because I had such a deep connection to what I thought church and God was to me, this script did exactly what Bryan and Steven set out to do," adds Hall, "which was to raise a conversation about what is religion and spirituality, and what that means to having an individual find their own path to God. For me, it has been enlightening, and it's a continuing process. And it's made me continue to question my relationship and to gain a closer relationship with my spiritual groundedness."

Although it's been two bitter years since they lost control of their Empire to Eddie Barker (guest star Forest Whitaker), Cookie and Lucious (Taraji P. Henson, Terrence Howard) still haven't finished picking up the pieces as this musical drama opens its fifth season with "Steal From the Thief."

A Million Little Things

It's easy to describe this new drama as a "Big Chill" for today — and also reasonably accurate. Boston friends are drawn back together by the death of a mutual peer (Ron Livingston, seen in frequent flashbacks), prompting the survivors to take stock of their current lives and decide whether changes are necessary. The ensemble cast also includes James Roday, Christina Ochoa, David Giuntoli ("Grimm"), Romany Malco and Stephanie Szostak ("Satisfaction").

7 p.m. on 3 ABC
Grey's Anatomy

New love may be in the cards for Dr. Meredith Grey (Ellen Pompeo) as this medical drama opens Season 15 with a double-barreled premiere called "With a Wonder and a Wild Desire; Broken Together." She'll also experience some new family drama, as formerly recurring cast member Jeff Perry ("Scandal") resurfaces as Meredith's dad, Thatcher.

8:01 p.m. on 5 CBS
Mom

In the season premiere, "Pre-Washed Lettuce and a Mime," finds Christy (Anna Faris) daunted by her first day of law school, while mom Bonnie (AllisonJanney) is bothered by a bad dream.

Anna Faris

Last Man Standing

Another lesson in never saying "never," the Tim Allen sitcom switches networks for its revival, with much of the original cast intact. Consider the continuing misadventures of Outdoor Man staple Mike Baxter and his family a testament to the staying power of Allen, who was quite vocally displeased with the cancellation.

7:30 p.m. on 10 FOX 25 FOX
The Cool Kids

Members of a retirement community are anything but sedentary in this new comedy, and it's no surprise given the spirited actors who play the twilight-years friends. David Alan Grier, "Carol Burnett Show" alum Vicki Lawrence, Martin Mull and "Will & Grace" Emmy winner Leslie Jordan have the leading roles as the senior citizens willing to do whatever it takes to ensure themselves all the fun they still can have at their ages and in their surroundings.

Surf fishing provides Isbell with new vocation

By DAVID RAINER
Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources

The pre-dawn light was sufficient for safe passage from the parking lot over a boardwalk to a beautiful stretch of beach on the Fort Morgan peninsula.

The early arrival guaranteed our party, led by guide Matt Isbell, would get to pick the spot where our surf-fishing adventure would have the best chance of success.

Isbell, better known as the Bama Beach Bum to all his YouTube followers, has developed a niche among fishing guides on the Alabama Gulf Coast. He has tried fishing from boats and piers, but he prefers the sandy beaches and surf where whiting and pompano roam.

The Wetumpka native moved to Gulf Shores for an insurance job, but his surf-fishing success led to a full-time guide business in March of this year.

"I started uploading YouTube videos in October last year and started guiding in December," Isbell said. "I didn't really plan on guiding. I started hosting online content just because I loved it, and I wanted to kind of see where it went.

"I had multiple people continually asking me to take them fishing. I did that initially. Then it got to be more and more to the point it was taking away from my regular job."

Isbell decided to see if anyone would pay for his services. He learned there is a growing market for his kind of fishing.

"It kind of snowballed from there and really started picking up," he said.

Isbell soon found out his guide business appeals to a wide variety of customers.

"Most of my clients are out-of-towners, a lot from the Midwest but from all over the country," he said. "I've had a group from Guam that wanted to fish. They saw me on YouTube. Right now, I'm the only one uploading surf-fishing content to the internet, so that's how some people find me.

"I get people of all ages and sizes, ethnicities, all the above."

Isbell's surf fishing started in earnest six years ago when he moved to the Alabama Gulf Coast.

"When I first started surf fishing, I was just trying to figure out what to do," he said. "Like a lot of people in Alabama, I grew up bass and crappie fishing. When I came down here, I just tried to figure out the fishing. I fished a lot of different ways – from boats, piers, canals, wherever I could access the water.

"Then I started surf fishing and I fell in love with it. I just enjoyed being on the beach and being able to bring home dinner."

Isbell has refined his surf-fishing techniques in the last six years. Although he has learned to judge the surf and which areas produce fish, it's really not a technique that infrequent visitors should tackle. He said learning to read the beach takes time, that most people find it difficult to pick up on the nuances that might lead to better fishing unless a lot of time is spent on the beach.

"The biggest thing I tell people to do is to stagger your baits," he said. "Make sure you cover a lot of water and try to locate the zone those fish are running in. Especially when you're surf fishing, these fish are not hanging in one area like they do on a reef or pier or jetty. The fish in the surf are always moving, looking for food. But they are going to hang in a particular depth. That's why you stagger your baits to try to find out what depth those fish are favoring. But it can change daily or week to week. You always have to recalibrate to find the fish.

"If you know how to look for cuts, holes and bars in the surf, that can help, but most people have a hard time with it. But anybody can get out there and put baits in different spots and figure it out using that system."

Isbell said a dedicated surf angler will need a variety of tackle to target the species that happen to inhabit the surf at any given time because different fish come to the beaches at different times.

"What we're targeting is going to determine what tackle we use," he said. "But the most popular way is what we are doing, using pompano rigs with bits of shrimp and Fish Bites. We'll use sand fleas (mole crabs) when they present themselves, and we can scoop them up (look for a sand flea rake at the local tackle shop). We had some really good colonies of sand fleas show up this year. It's a great bait and it's free."

On our trip, Isbell used 10-foot surf rods with 4000- and 5000-series spinning reels spooled with 20-pound-test braided line. Of the five rigs we used during our outing, we had a drop-hook rig with the 2- to 3-ounce weight tied to the bottom on three rods, while the other two were rigged with cut bait hooked below the weight (Carolina rig) to try to catch a redfish or bluefish. He uses 1/0 to 2/0 circle hooks most of the time.

"You don't have to use 10-foot rods, but you can still fish on rough days," he said. "You can keep a 3- or 4-ounce lead out. I make my own pompano rigs. You can buy them with two or three drops. I prefer one-drop rigs. It's more discreet and easier to manage."

The early bird gets the best spot to catch a variety of fish species along Alabama's beaches.

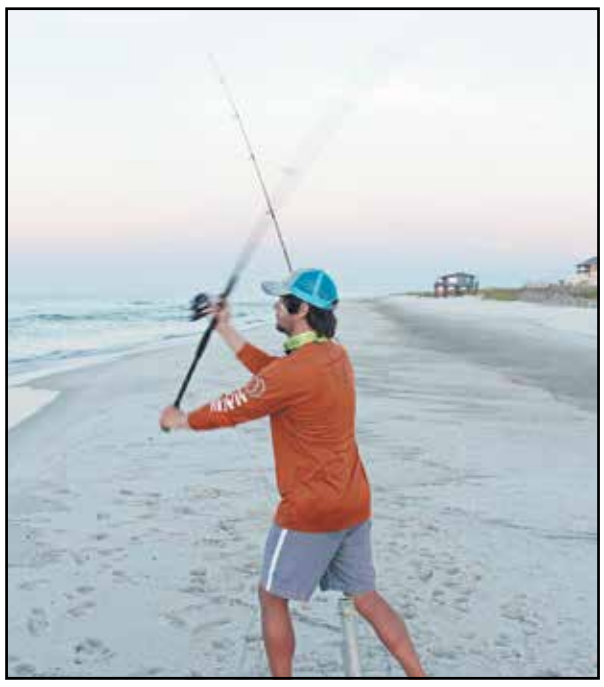

Isbell said probably his hardest job is teaching clients what to look for to indicate a bite. A rhythmic motion of the rod tip indicates wave action. A steady pull or erratic action means some species of fish is taking the bait.

Although our party, which included Jay Hirschberg and Wayne Carman, was fishing on a neap tide, we managed to reel in bluefish, whiting (sometimes called southern or Gulf kingfish), a rodeo-worthy ladyfish and the ubiquitous hardhead catfish to the beach. Isbell said the heat has caused the pompano to vacate the surf until the weather and water cools.

Cooler weather will also bring another desirable species close to the beach.

"We get a good run of bull redfish in the fall," Isbell said. "We will use a lot of cut bait. I'm transitioning now to using cut bait on Carolina rigs. If I'm fishing for bull reds, I'll move up to a 4/0 hook. They will hit pompano rigs, and that's definitely worth doing because the pompano fishing is only going to improve as the weather cools.

"You can catch whiting all year, but it does get better in the winter.

Matt Isbell casts a piece of shrimp laces with a hunk of Fish Bites into the surf on the Fort Morgan peninsula.

That is the main species we target when it gets cold. Whiting get bigger (pushing 2 pounds) and more plentiful in the winter months. Sometimes in the winter, we'll get a run of what we call 'big uglies,' the big black drum. Those are a lot of fun to catch, too."

For those who specifically target pompano in the surf, Isbell said the best fishing occurs in the spring.

"March, April and May — those are the three months to catch pompano," he said. "That's go time for pompano. You can still catch them in June and July, but it's definitely better in the spring."

Isbell said certain conditions provide an opportunity to catch speckled trout in the surf as well.

"We catch trout mainly in the summer months," he said. "It's usually after a big rain and fresh water moves the fish out to the beaches, looking for that higher salinity."

Go to www.staybummy.com for information on booking trips with Isbell as well as links to his Facebook and YouTube pages. Because his guide service is shore-based, anglers who fish with Isbell are required to have a valid Alabama saltwater fishing license in their possession. Daphne kicker added to AHSAA Record Books

MILESTONES

Diego Guajardo of Daphne High kicked four field goals, including a 53-yarder, to lead the Trojans to a 40-6 win over B.C. Rain. His other kicks covered 25, 30 and 43 yards. The four field goals ties 13 other four field-goal games in the AHSAA Record Book for second-most field goals in a game.

The record (five) is shared by five kickers, including Spain Park's Crosby Gray, who was the last to kick four or more in a single game when he booted five in a 15-14 win over Thompson for all his team's points in 2015. The 53-yarder by Guajardo ties him five others for the ninth longest distance all time.

Pirates pound Warriors to improve to 3-1 in 7A Region 1 league play

Fairhope 45, Davidson 17

By TONY WHITEHEAD
tony@gulfcoastmedia.com

MOBILE — Fairhope quarterback Devin Mitchell tossed to Jackson Turner for a 46-yard touchdown pass, to Ramone Bradley for a 55-yard airborne score and ran in a 41-yard keeper at Ladd-Peebles Stadium Friday night.

The Pirates' kicker Sam Rayborn also added 30-yard field goal in the second quarter and went 6-for-6 on extra points. He also denied the Warriors a kickoff runback with seven touchbacks. By halftime, Fairhope pulled away for a 31-10 lead on a touchdown pass from Riley Leonard to Bradley.

In the second half, Leonard and Bradley connected again to set up a first-and-goal at the Davidson seven. From there, the Pirate's front opened a gap for running back Damell Bell and a (seven-yard) rushing touchdown and a 38-10 lead. Bell later capped another scoring drive in the fourth quarter with a 2-yard run after a swing pass from Leonard to Michael Colclasure who took the Pirates from midfield to the Warriors' doorstep.

The Warriors' were led by Johnathan Whitfield with a 30-yard TD run in the third quarter, a 65-yard run by Kolby Blunt and a 41-yard field goal by Joe Montano in the first half.

"I thought the key was our offense, we just had a lot of big plays," said Pirates coach Tim Carter. "Davidson is really strong at key places like running back and defensively they definitely presented some challenges for us."

Mitchell sat out the second half with a sore hamstring, but was not injured, Carter said. He added that Leonard is up to stepping in anytime.

"Devin will be OK, but Riley is an outstanding backup. He's waiting his turn. Nothing changes for us when he comes in. He's going to be a name to look for the next three years."

Fairhope improved to 3-2 overall and 3-1 in 7A Region 1. Last year, the Pirates defeated Davidson 31-17 at W.C. Majors Field in Fairhope. Next week (Sept. 28): Fairhope will host neighboring Jubilee Cup rival Daphne in a non-region game.

Lions suffer fourth shutout of the year

Baker 17, Foley 0

By PATRICK HERRING

Foley High School welcomed the Baker Hornets of Mobile for their homecoming contest Friday night. The Hornets left Ivan Jones Stadium with their first victory of the season, a 17-0 romp that looked worse than the scoreboard shows. The Lions have now been shut out in four out five games in 2018, including twice at home.

Fans are witnessing a historically bad season for Tad Niblett's Foley squad. Their 30 points scored through the first five weeks are the least by the school since current principal Russ Moore's squad only mustered 16 points in the first five contests of the 1999 season. That team finished 1-9, and the prospects for this one don't look much brighter.

Baker went three-and-out on their first possession and were forced to kick the ball away. The Lions muffed that punt return, giving the Hornets the ball at the Foley 16. But Cole Parker intercepted a Nic Sumerlin pass to avoid a quick score by the visitors.

Later, Sumerlin found Anthony Phillips wide open for a 37-yard score to put the Hornets up 7-0. With 4:27 left in the half, Baker tacked on a 24-yard field goal to push the score to 10-0.

In the second half the Hornets did get another score in the form of an 8-yard scamper on an end around by receiver D'Marquez Williams.

The LIons managed 93 yards of total offense. The defense gave up 291 yards. Foley is off this week before traveling to defending region champion McGill-Toolen next week. Baker takes a road trip to non-region Jackson High (Ala.) Friday.

T.R. Miller beats Bayside Academy 21-14 at Freedom Field in Daphne

tony@gulfcoastmedia.com

DAPHNE — Leading 14-13, Bayside fought to hold off the T.R. Miller Tigers in the final minutes but came up short in their 3A Region 1 battle at Freedom Field in Daphne. Miller capped their final 66-yard drive with a 7-yard touchdown pass from Joseph to Maison Harrell on third-and-goal for a 19-14 lead. The Tigers converted the two-point conversion on a reverse-sweep pass from Kevon Samuel to Darius Webb.

The No. 8 Tigers (4-0, 3-0 Region 1) led 13-7 at the half on a 1-yard touchdown run by Samuel and a pair of field goals, from (40 and 46 yards) Matthew Morgan, Bayside Academy took the lead in the third quarter when Matthew Kalifeh scored on a one-yard run. Nathan Cook's 5-yard touchdown run put the Admirals on the board earlier in the second quarter.

Coming into the game with five starters out (two for the season) Bayside Academy head coach Phil Lazenby said the effort was there, but any mistake against a team like Miller can coast a win.

"We played hard, no problem there," he said. "Proud of the effort, but too many mistakes. But we can do better and will get better, we have lost some big players, but we will find a way."

Up Next: Bayside (2-3, 0-3) travels to Cottage Hill Christian (Class 2A). Miller travels to 4A Hillcrest-Evergreen.

Leopards take big region win over Tigers

By MICHAEL HANICH
GCM Sports

BAY MINETTE — It was a tough defensive slugfest for both the Blount Leopards and the Baldwin County High Tigers. The first quarter ended with a 0-0 score as each tried to outmaneuver each other with their diverse running game. In the end, it was Blount that took home the win with a 27-7 score. But it was closer than it looked.

Blount's Jarris Williams accounted for 108 yards and two touchdowns on 20 carries and Edgerian Houston accounted for eight carries for 117 yards and a touchdown run of 71-yards. Quarterback LaMarcus Brown was efficient in the air and on the ground with 11 completions (out of 16 attempts) for 121 yards and a touchdown and had 67 rushing yards. The offensive line for the Leopards was the deciding factor against the Tigers defense as they only allowed one sack and one tackle for loss and pushed for more yards after first contact.

The defense for the Leopard was tough on this Tigers offense as BCHS quarterback Deimir Sewel only accounted for one rushing yard on 12 carries and passed for 102 yards on eight completions (out of 20 attempts). Wide receiver Martavious Cook had six receptions for 91 yards.

This Friday, the Blount Leopards (3-2) will travel to face the Bryant Hurricanes (0-4) and the Baldwin County High School Tigers (2-3) are on bye week.

Labor Day saw the renewal of the Phin-Man Triathlon, a youth triathlon organized by the Gulf Shores Swim Team as a fundraising event. Nicholas Hamby and Jack Biggs were the race winners at the Phin-Man Triathlon held on Sept. 3 at the Gulf Shores Recreation Center. This is the 11th year of this fun community event.

Nick Hamby, age 13, from Foley, won the 10-14-year-old race in a new course record time of 16:06.

He broke the old record by five seconds that he had set in May of this year. Asher Bograd, age 10, from Pensacola, finished two minutes behind the winner. Third place went to 14-year-old Caleb Colvin of Gulf Shores. Marin Bograd and Emma Lloyd completed the top five trophy winning finishers.

Jack Biggs, age 9, from Robertsdale, won the 6-9-year-old race in a time of 12:04. He was followed across the finish line by Benton Brereton, age 8, of Gulf Shores, and Serah Smith, age 9, also from Gulf Shores. Callie Hopkins and Lily Harris completed the top five in this race.

The Phin-Man consisted of two separate races for different age groups. The younger age group, 6 to 9 years old, had to swim 50 yards, bike 1.8 miles and then run 0.45 miles. There were 13 entrants in this race. The older children swam 100 yards, rode their bikes 2.7 miles and then ran 0.83 miles. This race saw 24 entrants competing for trophies and medals. Racers came from Perdido Key, Daphne, Fairhope, Foley, Robertsdale and Orange Beach to take part in this Gulf Shores event. All race finishers received a t-shirt for their efforts.

For the 10th year in a row specially-designed trophies and medals were furnished by the event sponsors: Tacky Jack's Restaurant in Gulf Shores, Ginny Lane at The Wharf and Bellator Real Estate.

Following this event, several GSST members and coaches won again on Saturday, Sept. 8, at the Tri-It-On triathlon organized by Team Magic. Competitors had to swim 300 meters in the Gulf of Mexico, cycle for 12.4 miles on the beach road and then run two miles to complete this race. Nick Hamby won his age group, Male 13-15. Emma Lloyd was second in her age group, Female 0-12. Cooper Hopkins placed third in his age group, Male 0-12. In the female relay division, a team consisting of Gulf Shores swim coaches: Brook Hopkins, Kelsey Neel and Victoria Hamby won their division and posted the fastest relay time at the event. There were over 350 racers and teams who finished this race.

Practice has begun for the fall season for Gulf Shores Swim Team. All youth swimmers in the Pleasure Island area may contact Coach Brook Hopkins, Aquatics Director for the City of Gulf Shores, 251-968-1427, to get information about current practice times.

nary opinion from the attorney general received Sept. 18 said that voting for the change in government would also mandate the city move to the district form of representation. Under the district form, the mayor and one council member would be elected at-large, while the three other council seats would be elected from to-be-established districts.

That attorney general's preliminary opinion seemed at odds with the original petition submitted by Fresh Start Fairhope and signed by over 800 citizens, which called for at-large representation to continue for the city's council seats.

Councilman Jay Robinson said because of the lack of clarity and information about what exactly the citizens of Fairhope would be voting on in the Oct. 2 election, the council felt it had to take action by seeking an injunction.

"We are asking the court to, No. 1, make sure the petition as written can move forward because of the ruling we now believe is correct that it has to be districts, because that wasn't proposed in the petition," Robinson said. "And, No. 2, make sure there is time."

Robinson said he felt there could be voters who have already submitted absentee ballots that supported at-large representation that could have submitted a vote against their wishes for how the city should be run.

"In my opinion, if one ballot is cast based on that wrong information, that's unfair," Robinson said. "We didn't know what was going on because the law was unclear, and there was uncertainty in the election process."

Robinson denied that the council's actions to seek legal injunction were a sort of opposition to the proposed change in government.

"Any idea that any decision made is to upset, delay or kill any side to this is misguided," Robinson said. "We can't kill it. We can't delay it. All we can do is present the courts the facts and we want to make sure this election is done correctly and fairly. it's that simple."

Council President Jack Burrell said he didn't feel like residents wanted to vote for something without being aware of what it was they were voting for or against.

"If you go and vote for it now, I do not know if it's going to be at large," Burrell said. "I don't know if it's going to be for districts. This is why we're voting to go to the courts, to try to get some clarity and understanding."

Citizen reaction during meeting

During the special called meeting, residents appeared split on whether the council should try to take action through the court system.

Former Fairhope City Council President and Fresh Start Fairhope member Bob Gentle accused the council of "playing gotcha politics two weeks out" from the vote.

"We're a little late in the game to be asking questions," Gentle said. "It's bothersome to me. 800-plus people want to know what's going on, and I think that you owe them that."

Gentle questioned why the council had not approached Fresh Start Fairhope with the questions it had, with Burrell replying that the council had tried not to get involved with the now hot-button political issue.

"The council has been silent because we haven't tried to sway this in any way," Burrell said. "That was my intent, at least. I tried to stay out of everyone's way and not push it one way or the other."

Resident John Manelos, who said he supports the change in government, said he had studied the law governing the potential change for weeks and said he also felt there was a lack of clarity on what exactly residents would be voting on.

"The Fresh Start Fairhope movement created a petition that uses the old law," Manelos said. "We appear to have combined the old law with the new law that says we're not going to address the district thing. That's where the confusion is. It does need a court opinion or a ruling by the attorney general on this. I urge you to learn what the confusion is before you form an opinion that these folks are biased against it."

Fresh Start Fairhope spokesman Chuck Zunk also questioned the timing of the council's actions and pushed for the city to move forward with the vote.

"If the attorney general says you have to have the election, why aren't you going to do what the attorney general says and publish the fact that if you vote for the referendum then there will be district representation?" Zunk asked. "You've known the exact ballot language and date for over 10 weeks and yet you waited until now, two weeks before the election, to seek legal advice, which we assume is going to circuit court to try to stop the election. I think you're totally disrespecting those people who have the right to have an election Oct. 2. We've followed the law. We want to know why you're trying to get around it."

Zunk said Fresh Start Fairhope has tried to get out as much information as possible to the voters, including using emails, a website, social media and an upcoming mailer.

"You've chosen to stand mute," Zunk said to the council. "You've chosen not to organize any kind of session where people can come and learn about this. Don't use your inaction as an excuse to claim there is a lack of transparency and information to have an election Oct. 2."

Robinson responded.

"I don't believe it was a lack of transparency on the part of Fresh Start Fairhope," Robinson said. "You gave your your interpretation. I think the issue here is that there was a misinterpretation of information. There are already ballots that have been cast by absentee vote that think they are voting for one thing and they're actually voting for another. If there is one person robbed of their vote, I think that's a mistake."

Robinson added that he felt Fresh Start Fairhope's push to move forward with the vote on Oct. 2 was not the best cause of action.

"What is a delay in the vote if it means everyone has the right information?" Robinson said. "I get wanting to go on Oct. 2 because you think that's the best chance to get it passed, but that's not part of my decision and it shouldn't be. My job is to make sure that the 7,000 that voted in the last election have all the information they need, not just to favor one side or the other."

Burrell agreed.

"We're not voting to stop the election," Burrell said. "We're voting to stay the election. We simply want the facts. We didn't hold debates because we wanted to stay out of the process of the petition. Why would we have debates over this if people don't have the right information. You don't go debating when you don't have the facts."

The council voted unanimously to seek legal options for a possible court filing.

Post-meeting reaction

In an email to Fresh Start Fairhope supporters following the meeting, Zunk said the group was preparing to move forward with their actions as if the vote would still take place on Oct. 2.

Zunk said the legal option being pursued by the city had raised even more questions.

"The next step is up to the City, to complete its legal research and prepare a brief and plea to the Circuit Court for an order to stay the October 2nd Referendum," Zunk wrote. "Fresh Start Fairhope will then have the option to submit its own arguments to the Court opposing the City's request. The outcome of this legal process is unpredictable. For example, will the Court even hear the case? If so, when? What remedy if any will the Court provide? If a stay is granted, how long will it be in place? If there is a stay, under what circumstances can the stay be removed? And so forth and so on."

In an interview with WABF Radio on Sept. 24, Councilman Robinson reiterated the council did not want to call off the vote.

"I don't want to call it off," Robinson said. "I want the public to have the right to vote on this issue, but I want them to have the information they need when they go to vote."

Robinson said because of the ambiguities in the new law, Fairhope would likely be a test case for how the law might work.

"Fairhope is the guinea pig in this scenario," Robinson said. "There is a lot of unknowns and a lot of uncertainty, and I think that adds to the confusion as to what exactly everyone is voting on."

Illegal immigrant charged in death of Fairhope woman sentenced to five years

United States Attorney Richard W. Moore of the Southern District of Alabama announces that Jose Luis Alonso DeLeon was sentenced today by United States District Judge William Steele. DeLeon pled guilty without benefit of a plea agreement to an indictment charging him with possession of a firearm by an illegal alien, a violation of 18 USC Section 922(g), which carried a maximum penalty of up to ten years imprisonment and three years of supervised release; and illegal reentry of a removed alien, which carried a maximum penalty of up to two years imprisonment and one year of supervised release. DeLeon was sentenced to the maximum two years in prison for illegal reentry and five years in prison for possession of a firearm by an illegal alien, both sentences to be served concurrently. Following his sentence, the judge ordered that DeLeon be delivered to immigration authorities for deportation proceedings.

The United States argued at the sentencing hearing that the Guidelines, which recommended a sentence of 15-21 months, did not adequately account for several significant facts which should be considered by the Court in determining an appropriate sentence. Instead, the United States recommended that the defendant be sentenced to five years in prison.

First, the United States argued that the Court should consider that in addition to the defendant's criminal history calculation, it should also consider that DeLeon, a citizen of Mexico, was found in the United States on March 25, 2014 and was ordered removed. He departed on March 27, 2014 from the Laredo, Texas Port of Entry. He had also been encountered previously in the United States by the Border Patrol on May 5, 1999, February 28, 2000, March 19, 2000; March 24, 2014, March 25, 2014 and April 24, 2014.

After the April 24, 2014 encounter he was charged with violating Title 8, U.S.C. 1325, entry without inspection. He pled guilty and served 30 days imprisonment. Despite these continued contacts, DeLeon kept returning to Baldwin County in flagrant disregard of the laws of the United States.

Most significantly, the United States argued that the Guidelines did not consider the devastating consequences of DeLeon's presence in the United States. The defendant had admitted as part of his guilty plea that the United States could prove that on March 25, 2018, Police Officers of the Fairhope, Alabama, Police Department encountered Jose Luis Alonso DeLeon at the laundromat located at 139 Baldwin Square Shopping Center in Fairhope. Officers were in the area looking for a maroon truck that had just struck and killed a bicyclist moments before.

DeLeon was still sitting behind the steering wheel in the maroon truck. Officers observed a Glock model 26 9mm pistol on the floorboard of the truck. The Glock had one round in the chamber and had been reported stolen.

Judge Steele noted that both illegal reentry and possession of a firearm by a prohibited person were serious crimes, and both were crimes frequently prosecuted in federal court. Before imposing sentence, the judge pointed out that what made this case different from others was that the defendant came to the attention of law enforcement officers as a result of their investigation into three serious felonies under Alabama law: manslaughter, leaving the scene of an accident, and receiving stolen property.

Although the federal charges arose on the same date as DeLeon's pending charges with District Attorney Bob Wilters in Baldwin County, they are separate from the Alabama state charges of manslaughter, leaving the scene of an accident, and receiving stolen property. DeLeon is charged in state court with causing the death of Amy Hawkins who was riding her bicycle in the northbound lane of County Road 13 in Fairhope, Alabama on March 25, 2018.

The United States Attorney, Richard W. Moore, said, "Federal law in this case is inadequate to fully address the defendant's criminal conduct and we will support fully our law enforcement partner Baldwin County District Attorney Bob Wilters in his state court prosecution on manslaughter charges. As our prosecutor Assistant U.S. Attorney Maria Murphy argued to Judge Steele, the federal sentencing guidelines do not adequately capture the totality of the defendant's criminal activity while he was in the United States illegally. Judge Steele today recognized the inadequacy of the federal sentencing guidelines (15-21 months) and gave the defendant a much higher sentence (60 months) to more properly address the defendant's criminal conduct. No one, however, can believe that even this enhanced sentence can begin to assuage the grief of losing a wife and mother under these tragic circumstances. I am under no such illusion.

This case dramatically demonstrates the folly of having an open border with Mexico. There are real consequences to not enforcing border security. Amy Hawkins and her family paid the price of our failed immigration policies of the past. We have to do better for the American people."

Attorney General Jeff Sessions has previously stated that: "The American people made clear their desire to secure our borders and prioritize the public safety and national security of our homeland. .....They want us to seize this opportunity that we have right now....The United States will not stand by as our immigration laws are ignored and our nation's safety is jeopardized."

This case was investigated by the Department of Homeland Security, Homeland Security Investigations; the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco Firearms and Explosives; the Fairhope Police Department; and ALEA. This case was prosecuted by AUSA Maria E. Murphy.

Fairhope World Affairs Roundtable celebrating 10 years

Submitted

The tenth year of World Affairs Roundtable fall series begins on Oct. 3. The roundtable is a program that promotes "thoughtful, respectful, open and facilitated discussions on contemporary topics." The fall series will have facilitators leading discussions about NASA and Global Space Relationships and The Future of US Global Trade. Free, and open to the public, the programs are held at the Fairhope public library in the Giddens Conference Center. All sessions are posted on the library website.

In 2008, two local residents, Dick Westmoreland, a retired engineer and international business executive and Dr. Glen Stephenson, a retired professor of geography started the roundtable discussions on the premise that many gulf coast residents wanted to have a better understanding of our interconnected world. They also knew that this area is home to numerous individuals with global experience and education whose insights could be shared in roundtable discussions. Since 2008, the World Affairs Roundtable has sponsored 39 discussions about contemporary global issues.

The fall series will lead off on Oct. 3 and 17 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., with a discussion of NASA and Global Space Relationships.

Kristen Sarowski is a NASA Solar System Ambassador. The Solar System Ambassadors Program is a public outreach program of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. More than 700 volunteers in all 50 states as well as Washington DC, Puerto Rico, the US Virgin Islands, and Guam share information about exploration missions and recent discoveries to their local communities. The discussions will cover the history of NASA — from competition (e.g. Sputnik, Space race, etc.) to cooperation (Space Shuttle, cooperative missions with other countries, the International Space Station) and the future in global space exploration. Ms. Sarowski is a scientist with Parsons Corporation in Mobile, Alabama.

The second discussion in the fall series will focus on the Future of US Global Trade: Extend Growth or Increase Restrictions? This program will be presented on Oct. 24 and 31 by Dr. Sevints Nuriyeva, Associate Professor of Global Business and Management at the University of Mobile. The first session will address the basics of global trade (imports/exports, foreign direct investment, free trade, trade agreements and the role of the World Trade organization). The second session will focus on U.S. global trade trends, problems, and opportunities including the impact of global trade on the Gulf Coast area.

The World Affairs Roundtable draws its facilitators from subject matter experts who reside in Fairhope and the nearby neighboring gulf coast communities. We are always looking for facilitators to present discussions on current global topics. If interested, please contact the steering committee at worldaffairsroundtable@gmail.com.

Swimming advisory issued for Fairhope Public Beach

On Sept. 21, the Alabama Department of Public Health issued a swimming advisory for the Fairhope Public Beach.

The Alabama Department of Public Health (ADPH) advises the public that two recent successive tests of swimming water quality at this location were poor. Swimming in this area may lead to an increased risk of illness. Monitoring will continue and the advisory will be lifted once bacteria values fall below the Environmental Protection Agency's threshold of 104 enterococcus organisms per 100 milliliters for marine water.

The ADPH and the Alabama Department of Environmental Management (ADEM) operate the bacteriological water quality monitoring and notification program under a grant from the EPA's BEACH Act Program. This program involves the routine collection of water samples from twenty-five (25) high-use coastal recreational sites.

These samples are analyzed for enterococci bacteria. High counts indicate that the possibility that other disease causing germs could be present in the water. Based on EPA's "Criteria for Bathing (full body contact) Recreational Waters", samples are checked for enterococcus bacteria. These indicator bacteria are inhabitants of the intestines of humans and other warm-blooded animals. Bacterial concentrations in recreational waters can increase during and immediately following rainstorms due to overflowing sewage collection and treatment facilities, storm water run-off, malfunctioning septic systems and agricultural run-off. No known sewage spills have occurred.

When monitoring results exceed the EPA standard, the affected site is immediately retested. If the results of the second test identify enterococci levels persisting above the EPA standard, a public advisory is issued by the health department through the cooperative efforts of the news media. This advisory states there may be an increased of illness associated with swimming at the affected site.

For more information about the advisory status, visit ADEM's Web Site at [www.adem.state.al.us]www.adem.state.al.us. Click on monitoring at the top and then click on Coastal Alabama Beach Monitoring.

Nominate your physician for the "Country Doctor of the Year Award"

Submitted

The search is on once again for the national Country Doctor of the Year. Staff Care, the nation's leading physician staffing firm and a company of AMN Healthcare, is looking for a great country doctor, the kind who still makes house calls and accepts the occasional apple pie or roast turkey for a fee.

Now in its 26th year, the Country Doctor of the Year Award honors the spirit, skill and dedication of America's rural medical practitioners.

As part of the award, Staff Care will provide the Country Doctor of the Year with a temporary physician for two weeks at no charge, a service valued at $10,000. According to Staff Care President Jeff Decker, rural doctors often cannot find physicians to cover their practices and so have difficulty taking vacations.

"We hope the award winner enjoys some well-deserved rest" Decker said, "but our real intent is to honor an outstanding country doctor and to shine a light on the great work that rural physicians continue to do even as their numbers dwindle." Past recipients of the award have been featured in numerous national media outlets, including USA Today, People, Parade and The Today Show.

Nominations for the Country Doctor of the Year Award will be accepted for physicians who practice in rural communities and who are engaged in such primary care areas as general practice, family practice, internal medicine, and pediatrics. Anyone can nominate a physician, including friends, patients, co-workers or family members, and all stories or anecdotes about the physician's practice are welcomed.

Nomination forms can be completed electronically at https://amnhealthcare.co1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_ePcHfiUusrkRdSR. For more information visit the Country Doctor of the Year Award website at http://www.staffcare.com/about-us/country-doctor-award/ or you may call Staff Care for a nomination form at 800-685-2272. Completed nominations must be received no later than Nov. 15.

Local surgeon pioneers and develops pain block technique to relieve pain in total knee arthroplasty

The Eastern Shore's own Dr. Daniel Matthews of Fairhope, has been performing Total Knee Replacements since 1995 and late in 2016 he developed and pioneered an innovative technique for a surgeon placed single shot nerve block and direct placement of a pain pump catheter along the nerve in the knee to relieve pain after Total Knee Replacement (TKA). These pioneering techniques have significantly reduced the need for Opioid pain medications and propelled him to become the first Orthopaedic Surgeon in Baldwin County and the Greater Mobile area to perform 23 hour "Outpatient Total Joint Replacement" surgery.

middle of an Opioid overuse/abuse epidemic." says Dr. Dan.

Performing more than 3,100 joint replacements over his 23 year career, Dr. Dan began performing this new technique in 2016 and has used his pain block technique in more than 300 patients.

"Total Knee Replacement has traditionally been a very painful procedure requiring significant pain medications and often requiring 3-5 days in the hospital. Using the surgeon placed pain block and catheter placement we developed, has allowed us to reduce the need for Opioids, perform these surgeries as 23 hour "outpatient procedure" and with some patients we have been able to perform this surgery without the use of any opioids"

Dr. Dan developed his technique working for many hours in the Operating Room and the cadaver lab and has presented his technique to hundreds of surgeons around the United States, lecturing and teaching at medical schools and meetings from New York to California.

After lecturing recently at the 2018 California Orthopaedic Society's Annual Meeting Dr. Dan commented how he loves traveling and teaching other surgeons about his new technique, but what he enjoys most is seeing the results with his patients here at home.

"Routinely I share with my patients as we prepare for an upcoming surgery, My goal is to perform a pain free Total Knee Replacement without Narcotics…we are NOT there yet but we are getting really close."

Dr. Matthews is the Founder of Alabama Orthopaedic Sports Medicine, (AOSM) in Daphne and has been on the medical staff at Thomas Hospital since 1998. He performs most his surgeries at Thomas Hospital in Fairhope.

You can learn more about his technique and results at www.aosmsportsmendicne.com or follow his practice on Facebook at WEAREAOSM.

Study shows that drug slows brain shrinkage in multiple sclerosis

UAB was part of a national, multisite study that showed a drug for multiple sclerosis was effective in slowing down brain atrophy, or shrinkage

Submitted

Results from a clinical trial of more than 250 participants with progressive multiple sclerosis revealed that ibudilast was better than a placebo in slowing down brain shrinkage.

The study also showed that the main side effects of ibudilast were gastrointestinal and headaches. The study was supported by the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke, part of the National Institutes of Health, and was published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Robert J. Fox, M.D., a neurologist at Cleveland Clinic in Ohio, led a team of researchers across 28 clinical sites, including a team from the University of Alabama at Birmingham, in a brain imaging study to investigate whether ibudilast was better than placebo in reducing the progression of brain atrophy, or shrinkage, in patients with progressive multiple sclerosis.

"This is a landmark study in patients with progressive forms of MS, which have been difficult to treat to date," said Khurram Bashir, M.D., director of the Division of Neuroimmunology and Multiple Sclerosis in the UAB Department of Neurology in the School of Medicine. "This study provides hope for a potentially effective therapy and will serve as a pivotal study where a novel outcome measure to study disease progression was used for the first time. This combined MRI outcome measure will likely become the standard for future research in progressive multiple sclerosis."
