ROBERTSDALE — Kyle Irwin had grand plans to finish out his 2018 season and be home in time for the birth of his daughter.

He had to alter them in a big way. “When I first found out Randa was pregnant, I developed my plans to have the (National) Finals made by August and be home when the baby comes in mid-September,” said Irwin, a four-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier from Robertsdale, now living in Westville, Florida, with his wife and their two children, Tripp and Ellie.

“I flew home Sept. 30, right after I got done with my run in Stephenville (Texas). I got home at 11-something (p.m.), and we left for the hospital at 4 the next morning and had the baby by 7 (a.m.). I had a serious case of whiplash that weekend. I’d come from California to Texas to Florida, then, boom, here’s your new baby.”

It was a mad dash on the final weekend of the regular Baldwin County, can you spare $320,000?

Elberta mayor asks commission for help with road paving

By CLIFF MCCOLLUM
cliff@gulfcoastmedia.com

Elberta Mayor Jim Hamby visited the Nov. 27 Baldwin County Commission work session asking once again for monetary assistance from the county for paving County Road 83.

Hamby said the road had been problematic and needed repairs even when the town of Elberta took it over from the county in 2000, when current Baldwin County Commissioner Skip Gruber was then mayor of Elberta.

“We’re battling to clean up something here that we inherited,” Hamby said. “We ask for any help you can give us on that.”

Hamby said the town had already been proactive on trying to find ways to help funded the needed road projects, including receiving a grant/loan package from the federal government and a six-fugue grant from the Alabama Department of Transportation.

Earlier this year, the town received a grant of $50,000 and loan of $579,000 from the USDA’s Office of Rural Development, which will be used to BAY MINETTE — Beginning Jan. 7, the City of Bay Minette will see a change in the frequency of its residential garbage service. The Public Works Department will switch to once a week pick-up for household garbage.

Mayor Bob Wills said the decision was made after reviewing information from other Baldwin County municipalities which found that most only offer once-a-week service. The change will also free up the department to tackle other projects, he said.

“By going to the new schedule, our Public Works Department employees can be utilized throughout town to accomplish other goals including maintenance of ditches, patching potholes, performing other street work and better maintaining our ters, training, and research that we’re going to do in the hospitality force,” said Valentine. His initiative requires a large team-effort between the Chamber, Small Business Development Center, Alabama Technology Network, Baldwin County Economic Development Alliance, Alabama Industry Develop Training, SAWDC, and all other Chambers in Baldwin County. Valentine and his team decided early on that one of the most efficient ways to accomplish their five-year goal was to begin by collecting data from local businesses to determine what sort of training and programs needed to be implemented. Through that data, industry clusters were created, with more on the way in the future. The original ten were Lodging, Banking/ Insurance, Healthcare, Manufacturing, Retail, Professional Services, Development/Real Estate, Attractions, Maritime, and Restaurants. “We invited four of the industry clusters to come together, sat them at their own table with a facilitator, and we put them through a SWAT analysis,” Valentine said. “We asked what’s going well and what’s not, and then created an action plan to make good things better and make bad things not so bad. That gave us extremely valuable information, and I know we’ll continue to do work sessions and bring in other platforms.” The information gathered from these work sessions will determine what type of trainings

the Chamber will offer, what types of program seminars will be available, and what partners the Chamber needs to connect with. “One of the first things we did as far as training went was to develop a customer service training, called Gateway to Great Customer Service,” said Valentine. “We started off with a focus group and we invited several of our investors to have some of their supervisors and managers to come and experience the hour long class. We got some great feedback, and then sat down and redeveloped what we were doing.” Currently the class is two-hours long, beginning with 30 minutes dedicated to Gulf Shores and Orange Beach tourism, teaching employees, especially those who have relocated to the area, all the activities and attractions found on the beach. The rest of the class consists of insight to employees on great customer service. The Chamber has starting doing onsite visits to give classes.

“We also want to do some research in the hospitality industry,” Valentine said. “A couple of things we did to start this research was to learn where we were currently, so we sent out a flash survey to businesses to gauge where they were with their employees mid-season, where they were lacking, and what was needed. What came back across the board was they all said they were going to need more employees in 2019.”

The Chamber recently sent out a comprehensive wage survey to local businesses in the hospitality industry to gauge fair wages for employees. The Want for Peace

Peace. What a wonderful word! It describes a state of affairs in which there is no turmoil: not personally or relationally; not with the past, present, or future; not with God. Most people, if they are honest, have only ever had a fleeting glimpse of that kind of peace. That, indeed, is “the problem of peace.” On the one hand, we want peace very, very badly. On the other, we can’t ever seem to find it, and, when we do, we tend to instantly wreck it. Human history is one long tale of horrific, violent, brutal conflict going all the way back to the beginning. When God made Adam and Eve, He created them with a desire for the world to be as it should be, a desire that God intended to fulfill in fellowship with himself. But Adam and Eve turned on God and, in so doing, they turned on each other, turned on nature, and nature turned on them. And we’ve been at war ever since. Yet, the hunger for peace remains. We want things to be as they should be, but we don’t know what that looks like. So we guess. We try various approaches, hoping something clicks. Our erroneous pursuit of peace falls into two categories: control and escape. Control works like this: “If I exert enough effort, I can force myself, others, my circumstances, and even God to do what I want. If I can get everything in my life just like I like it, then I’ll be at peace.” Escape works like this: “If I could just get away from the inner impulses, other people, and circumstances that won’t do what I want, then I’d be at peace.” Control + escape=peace. We mix and match control and escape hoping to get just the right formula for peace. But it doesn’t work. In fact, it’s utterly destructive. And, then, into the middle of this mess comes the audacious claim of Christmas: Peace on Earth. It turns out that peace is not the product of control or escape. It is not the absence of conflict but the presence of Someone who neither wants to control us nor reject us when we don’t measure up. Unbelievably, He just wants to love us. From him and only him comes the gift of a “peace that passes understanding that will guard your hearts and minds.” (Phil. 4:7). I hope you find this kind of peace this Christmas.

One family asked Wilson to create a touching scene of the balloon floating away to commemorate the recent loss of a child to miscarriage. "This is why I do this," Wilson said. "I feel God

Rachel Brosnahan stars in “The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel,” which begins streaming its second season Wednesday on Amazon.

A powerful enemy looms for Midge in Season 2 of ‘The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel’

By George Dickie

It’s one thing to tell jokes and get laughs. It’s quite another to make them at the expense of a very powerful person who can crush your career, as neophyte stand-up comic Midge Maisel finds out at the outset of Season 2 of “The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel” this week.

Dropping Wednesday, Dec. 5, on Amazon, the new season finds ‘50s Upper West Side housewife-turned-funnywoman Midge (Golden Globe and Emmy winner Rachel Brosnahan) coming to the gradual realization that she’s ticked off the wrong person, Sophie Lennon (Jane Lynch, who earned an Emmy nod for the role), following her public takedown of the comedy icon at the end of Season 1. This is a development not lost on her worried manager/sidekick Susie (Emmy winner Alex Borstein).

As the grind of doing stand-up wears on Midge, the pressure to tell her parents Abe and Rose (Tony Shalhoub, Marin Hinkle) about her new life in the wake of her separation from husband Joel (Michael Zegen) mounts and her decisions have a ripple effect on all concerned.

“You’ll see some of the ramifications of those choices that are made,” Borstein offers. “The show really is this woman Midge Maisel knocking down dominoes constantly and you watch it spread like wildfire and you see the ramifications and that’s one of them. That’s one domino she knocked down that we have to then deal with. And how can we deal with it?”

“Susie, I think is terribly concerned because she knows what it means,” adds Brosnahan of the potential war brewing with Sophie. “Midge, being so new to this world and that particular brand of enemy, doesn’t yet know by the time we leave her in Season 1 what that could mean. And certainly she will learn more about that in Season 2.”

With a resume that includes a lot of drama (“Manhattan,” “House of Cards,” “The Blacklist”) but little comedy, Brosnahan found herself wading into unfamiliar waters to play Midge. She says the experience of doing a comedic role has been “simultaneously horrifying and extremely rewarding — both equally, at the same time” but adds, “It’s a dream I didn’t know I had, to work on a show like this, to play a character like this.

“In so many ways, not just to be able to stretch in this brand new direction and stretch some comedic muscles that I wasn’t sure I had,” she adds with a laugh, “but also to play such a fully three-dimensional, complicated woman, which shouldn’t be something that is novel but is in a lot of ways.”

And she gets to walk in the shoes of a stand-up comic, which is something she says she avoided when preparing for the role.

“I just was so afraid that if I tried and likely, inevitably fell flat on my face, I’d be so traumatized that I wouldn’t be able to go down this journey with this character who’s falling in love with stand-up,” Brosnahan explains. “And fortunately the writing is so brilliant that I didn’t think it was a necessary part of preparation.

“Midge is a woman ... who doesn’t start out a stand-up. She’s not a stand-up,” she continues. “She’s just a whip-smart, hilarious housewife and so we’ve had this really lovely parallel journey. We’ve gotten to learn together.”

Looking for a new career in 2019? Steps to becoming a PGA club pro

By PHILLIP ELLIS
Golf Today News

The golf industry is an exciting career with several good options. If you’re a skilled enough player you might become a member of the PGA Tour. Members compete weekly in events all over the world. Another choice is to become a greens superintendent. You’d work at a golf course and be in charge of the grounds and its maintenance. A third option is to become a member of the Professional Golfers Association of America and become a club professional. Club pro’s supervise play, teach, play in tournaments, and you might eventually become a director of golf or general manager at a golf facility. If the last option is your goal than the question is, how to get started? Let’s begin with the basics. The PGA, is made up of more than 27,000 men and women golf professionals serving in various jobs.

Founded in 1916, and currently based in Palm Beach Gardens, Florida, their headquarters will move to a new facility in Ponte Verdra Beach in 2020. It’s the largest working sports organization in the world. Their goal is to enhance the enjoyment and involvement of the game, while providing services and support to golf professionals, consumers, and the golf industry. Each year the association puts on major events including the PGA Championship,

Senior PGA Championship, and the Ryder Cup. They also host more than 30 tournaments for its member and apprentices, including the PGA Cup, PGA Professional National Championship, PGA Assistant Professional Championship, and the KPMG Womens’ PGA Championship. Prospective PGA members have two paths, either apply to a PGA Golf Management University Program or become a PGA apprentice. The simplest and most popular way to start your new career is to become a registered assistant at a PGA recognized facility. You can train while you earn a 3-year foundation degree in professional golf studies. An apprenticeship offers multi levels of training which include: education courses, simulation testing, seminars, written exams, and finally they must pass PAT or player’s eligibility test. These tasks may be accomplished in various manners such as an accelerated PGA golf management program, accredited PGA golf management Universities, and self study. If you’re seriously considering becoming a golf professional visit PGA.com for more details or stop by a course and speak with a PGA member. Help us stay in touch with the vibrant Coastal golf community. If you have an upcoming charity golf event, interesting golf story or are a new golf professional in the area, I’d like to hear from you. Contact Phillip Ellis at Golftodaynews@yahoo.com.

2018 College Football Playoffs set

For the fifth time in a row, the Alabama’s No. 1 Crimson Tide (13-0) has been selected for the College Football Playoffs. The Crimson Tide is the only team in the short history of the CFB playoff to appear in all five playoffs. The Tide is the undisputed number one team after their undefeated season, a balance of explosive offense and stout defense winning the SEC Championship 35-26 over the previous No. 4 Georgia Bulldogs.

The No. 2 Clemson Tigers (13-0) are in after their undefeated season and their 42-10 rout of the Pittsburgh Panthers (7-6). The Tigers haven’t been as dominating as the Crimson Tide has all season but they have a more potent defense by being ranked first in defensive efficiency (92.3) and tied for second in the nation in scoring defense (13.7 points allowed per game). This will be the fourth time Clemson will appear in the College Football Playoffs, which is the second most in playoff history.

At No. 3, the Notre Dame Fighting Irish (12-0) are appearing in their first-ever College Football Playoff. The Fighting Irish have a great set of wins through their undefeated schedule by beating four ranked teams. Those ranked teams include the No. 14 Michigan Wolverines (by seven) in the season opener, No. 7 Stanford (by 21) in late September, No. 24 Virginia Tech (by 22) in the following week, and No. 12 Syracuse (by 33) in mid-November at a neutral site.

The No. 4 Oklahoma Sooners (12-1) grabbed the final playoff spot in a close decision between the No. 5 Georgia Bulldogs (11-2). The Bulldogs had a case for being selected over a Sooners team despite losing in a conference championship game. The Bulldogs were thought of as one of the best four teams, they were third in ESPN’s Football Power Index and they gave the Alabama Crimson Tide a huge scare in the SEC Championship game.

The Sooners were chosen in by the CFB playoff committee with their Big 12 title, an offensive efficiency ranked first in the nation (with Alabama) with a 96.6 rating and their quarterback in Kyler Murray who might be the front-runner for the Heisman Trophy award.

The Crimson Tide will face the No. 4 Oklahoma Sooners in the Capital One Orange Bowl in Miami, Florida, on Dec. 29. This matchup will be a heavy offensive matchup between two teams that are both ranked first in the nation in offensive efficiency. They are also the top two scoring offenses. The Sooners are ranked first (49.5 points per game) and the Crimson Tide is ranked second (47.9 points per game).

Alabama is led by their explosive first-year quarterback in Tua Tagovailoa who has put up high numbers all season. The Sooners are led by their high-velocity dualthreat first-year quarterback in Kyler Murray who broken multiple records of last year’s Heisman Trophy winner Baker. Both Tagovailoa and Murray are the front-runners to win this year’s Heisman Trophy award.

The No. 2 Clemson Tigers will face the No. 3 Notre Dame Fighting Irish in the Goodyear Cotton Bowl Classic in Arlington, Texas on Dec. 29. This game will feature a more balanced structure of offense and defense between the Tigers and the Fighting Irish.

One important attribute of the game will be the composure factor between Tigers freshman quarterback Trevor Lawrence facing a highly talented group of Notre Dame defensive backs that ranks third in the nation in average yards per completion allowed (5.4). Another factor is Fighting Irish sophomore quarterback Ian Book against a Clemson defensive line that has four first-round NFL Draft worthy players.

Sports Academy to train strength and conditioning professionals for certification exam

USSA.edu

DAPHNE — The United States Sports Academy is taking strides to provide a training program to prepare strength and conditioning professionals for the preeminent certification exam in their field.

The Academy is working to develop a National Strength and Conditioning Association approved preparation program to help strength and conditioning professionals as they take their Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist exam. The CSCS exam is the preeminent certification of its kind, but the average pass rate for it is 40 percent, with international candidates passing at significantly lower rates.

“We have learned that there is a need for a free-standing training program to prepare strength and conditioning professionals for NSCA’s CSCS exam,” Academy vice president of academic affairs Dr. Tomi Wahlstrom said. “We decided to address this issue and develop an NSCA approved preparation program that we call Sports Strength and Conditioning Certification program. The curriculum is just about ready and we are finalizing our memorandum of understanding with NSCA.”

The Academy’s SSCC program will be made up of 10 modules of instruction that are expected to significantly increase student passing rates for the exam, with a goal of 80 percent passing after completion of the program.

“The best part of this program is that even those students who do not have a bachelor’s degree can take these courses,” Wahlstrom said. “While they would not qualify to take the CSCS exam, they would still earn our SSCC credential.”

The Academy plans

tures, quizzes, guided discussions, practice exams, reviews and practical, hands-on experience. The program will culminate with the student’s ability to pass the Academy’s SSCC Certification Exam. Continuing education units will also be available for those who need annual recertification credentials so they can stay at the forefront of their field.

“This is an extremely exciting initiative to be involved with and has significant potential to make a meaningful impact at the international, national and regional level for strength and conditioning education — one of the fastest growing disciplines in the life sciences,” Wallace said. “We will be working very closely with the NSCA in all aspects of this and other programs as we move forward.”

The United States Sports Academy is an independent, non-profit, accredited, special mission sports university created to serve the nation and world with programs in instruction, research and service. The role of the Academy is to prepare men and women for careers in the profession of sports. The Academy is based in Daphne. For more information, call 251-626-3303 or visit USSA.edu.

2018 State Football Championships start today

MONTGOMERY — All pairings are set for the AHSAA’s seven clas-sification championship games and Unified Game as the 23rd annual Super 7 State Football Cham-pionships get underway Dec. 5 at Auburn Uni-versity’s Jordan-Hare Stadium.

The Alabama Unified Game, which kicks off at 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, is partnership between the AHSAA and Special Olympics Alabama. Vestavia Hills and Bald-win County will be play-ing in the game or the second straight year.

The Class 7A state championship game will kick off the Super 7 finals at 7 p.m., Wednesday night with Thompson (11-1) facing Central-Phenix City (13-0).

Thursday’s finals in-clude Class 3A Piedmont (12-2) vs. Flomaton (11-3) at 11 a.m., followed by the Class 1A champion-ship game featuring Lin-den (13-0) versus Mars Hill Bible (13-1) at 3 p.m. Vigor (13-1) and Central-Clay-County (11-3) play in the 5A finals at 7 p.m.

Friday’s schedule includes the Class 4A finals at 11 a.m., with de-fending state champion UMS-Wright (13-0) meet-ing Deshler (9-5) at 11 a.m., followed by the 2A finals pitting Fyffe (14-0) versus Luverne (13-1) at 3 p.m., and concluding with defending Class 6A state champion Pinson Valley (12-1) facing Sara-land (13-1) at 7 p.m.

Mars Hill Bible, coached by Darrell Hig-gins, is making its first appearance in the Super 7 Championships, which began at Legion Field in 1996 as the Super 6. The games moved from Birmingham to a rota-tion between the Bry-ant-Denny Stadium in Tuscaloosa and Jordan-Hare Stadium at Auburn in 2009. The 23rd Super 7 Championships marks the 10th year of that memorable rotation. The AHSAA state football playoffs, now in its 53rd year, began in 1966.

Higgins’ Panthers began varsity play in 2016 finishing 0-10. Now in their third season, the only loss was a one-point setback to Class 4A Brooks in the regular season. Other schools making first appear-ances in the Super 7 are Class 3A Flomaton, Class 5A Central-Clay County and both Class 7A finalists – Thompson and Central-Phenix City.

While Central of Clay County is making its first appearance, the two schools that merged in 2012 to form Clay Coun-ty’s only current high school, Lineville and Clay County (Ashland), squared off in the first Super 6 Class 2A cham-pionship game at Legion

Field in 1996 with Clay County winning 42-0. Clay County’s win was part of a state-record 55-game winning streak.

The two schools met 102 times in the series judged one of the na-tion’s Top 10 rivalries by USA Today in the 1990s. Lineville held a 55-43-4 edge in the series with only 108 points separat-ing the two schools in the 102 games played. Danny Horn was coach at Clay County from 1989-2008 compiling a 225-40 record in that 20-year span with six state titles in 1994, 1995, 1996, 2000, 2002 and 2005. He moved to Benjamin Rus-sell from 2009-2017 and returned as head coach for Central-Clay County this season. His overall coaching record is 298-86 in 30 seasons.

Deshler, coached by Bo Culver, is mak-ing its ninth Super 7 championship-game ap-pearance since 1998, and UMS-Wright, coached by the AHSAA’s newest 300-game winner Terry Curtis (302-85), is making its eighth appearance in the Super 7 Champion-ships. Fyffe, coached by Paul Benefield (281-53), is making its fourth Super 7 appearance in the last five years, and Piedmont, coached by Steve Smith (232-72), is making its fourth Super 7 appearance since 2009. The Bulldogs won state titles in 2009, 2015 and 2016 in its previous ap-pearances.

Raycom Network is producing all seven AHSAA championship games with station infor-mation available at Path-ToThePlayoffs.com.

Graham Dunn will handle play-by-play and Mike Peacock will serve as color analyst for Wednesday night’s 7A game and all three Thursday games. Chris Blackshear and Gary Harris will handle the broadcast duties for Friday’s three games. Sideline reporter for all games will be Christina Chambers of WBRC TV Fox 6. Executive pro-ducer is Rich Michael-son.

The NFHS Network will also live-stream the Raycom production over its subscriber-based NFHS Network platform. The Unified Game is being produced by the Opelika High School NFHS Network School Broadcast Program. Stu-dents A.J. Fields, Amy Lowery and Jerry Ballas will be the photogra-phemers and Tracy Tidwell is the producer. Becky Brown is executive pro-ducer.

The AHSAA Radio Network will also broad-cast all championship games over its statewide network of radio and internet affiliates. Pro-ducers Randy Lee and Brett Pritchard will use a variety of some of the state high school radio announcers from around the state in the radio booth all week.

Instant Replay will be used in all seven state finals for the first time in AHSAA Super 7 state history.

Christmas in Bay Minette

Be sure and stop by beautiful Blackburn Park in Bay Minette for those picture-perfect moments this Christmas. The scene this year includes a new feature: Santa Mail! Children can drop their letters to Santa Claus in the mail slot. Blackburn Park is at the corner of Hoyle Avenue and First Street in downtown Bay Minette. The city wishes to thank the very talented Alaina McDonald for this creating and painting the Santa mailbox and the BCHS Baseball program for donating greenery. This is just one of the many quaint scenes created in downtown Bay Minette for the holiday season.

Rite Aid Foundation donates $5,000 to the Baldwin County Child Advocacy Center

Submitted

SUMMERDALE — In celebration of #GivingTuesday, a global day of giving fueled by the power of social media, the Baldwin County Child Advocacy Center (aka CARE House) has received a $5,000 grant as part of the KidCents Thanks For Giving Holiday program. The grant will be used to help the Baldwin County CAC provide life-changing counseling services to child victims of sexual abuse and physical abuse. Our counseling program is a vital component of the range of protective, investigative, and healing services which are provided through the Baldwin County CAC. “We are proud to be a part of the KidCents Thanks For Giving Holiday program,” said Niki Whitaker, Executive Director. “This #GivingTuesday, and every day, The Rite Aid Foundation’s support helps us to continue improving the lives of children in our community.” The Rite Aid Foundation is awarding a total of $2.2 million through its KidCents Thanks For Giving Holiday program. This special program has been created to help the more than 440 KidCents charities across the country advance their efforts to improve the health, safety and wellbeing of children. “#GivingTuesday is a global celebration of giving, and on this day, we wanted to recognize our KidCents charities for all they do to make a positive impact in the communities we serve,” said Tracy Henderson, director of The Rite Aid Foundation and charitable giving initiatives. “Through the KidCents Thanks For Giving Holiday program, we want to recognize and support organizations that are focused on giving all year round. We thank all our KidCents charity partners for helping to give kids better lives and brighter futures.” Through KidCents, members of Rite Aid’s loyalty program, wellness+ rewards, can round up their in-store or online purchases to the nearest dollar and give their change to one of more than 440 nonprofit organizations focused on improving the health and wellbeing of children. For more information, visit www.kidcents.com. Since its inception in 2001, The Rite Aid Foundation has awarded more than $36 million to nonprofit organizations. Additionally, Rite Aid, through the efforts of its customers, supplier partners and associates, has also raised more than $87 million for Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals across the country since 1994. Rite Aid Corporation (NYSE: RAD) is one of the nation’s leading drugstore chains with fiscal 2018 annual revenues of $21.5 billion. Information about Rite Aid, including corporate background and press releases, is available through the company’s website at www.riteaid.com. The mission of the Baldwin County Child Advocacy Center is to provide resources and services to child victims of sexual abuse and severe physical abuse, their supportive family members, and the community at large through a Multidisciplinary Team approach. The Baldwin County CAC has been providing vital services such as forensic interviews, counseling, family and court advocate programs, medical exams, multidisciplinary team case management, and abuse prevention education for almost 30 years. Check out our website at www.BaldwinCountyCAC.org or call 251-989-2555 for more information about the BCCAC’s history, mission, or services or how you can help make a difference in a child’s life on Giving Tuesday.

season. Several cowboys were on the bubble to qualify for the NFR, and Irwin was one of them. He heads into ProRodeo’s 10-day championship No. 14 in the steer wrestling world standings, having finished the 2018 campaign with $75,333 in earnings. But he was helped out by his baby girl. There were a lot of what-ifs that went into every scenario, because Ellie was due two weeks before she arrived. She showed, too, weighing 10 pounds at birth. “I don’t know who waited, but they waited as long as she could,” he said. “She’s everything we hoped and dreamed for. She’s healthy, she’s happy. “Tripp is adjusting to it. He’s still the king of the castle, but he’s started showing some affection for his sister.” Tripp is 22 months old, so the Irwins have to kids under age 2. Maybe a life spent wrestling steers is the perfect training for being a dad. But Irwin has been one of the best for several years. He’s been a regular at ProRodeo’s grand finale for all but one year since 2014 – he spent the 2016 season focused down another path. Once he returned his focus, he’s made sure to play on the sport’s grandest stage, set for Dec. 6-15 in Las Vegas. Even though he trails the world standings leader, Curtis Cassidy, by more than $30,000, Irwin can make up ground quickly in the Nevada desert. Go-round winners earn more than $26,000 per round for 10 December nights, so the money can add up in a hurry. In rodeo, dollars equal points, and the contestants in each event with the most money won at the conclusion of the season are crowned world champions. Irwin knows how special that moment is. A year ago, he was riding right beside Tyler Pearson when Pearson won the Montana Silversmiths gold buckle. Their celebrational hug after the final night of the season was proof of their relationship. But they share even more with Scooter, a 13-year-old sorrel gelding the two co-own and compete on throughout the year. Scooter has been named the AQHA/PRCA Steer Wrestling Horse of the Year each of the past two seasons. “Tyler and I have been so blessed just to own him, and we’re thankful for Jason Reese for selling him to us,” Irwin said. “I think horses get better every day. Even when I didn’t win, (Tyler) Waguespack and (Ty) Erickson were winning on him, and that pays me.” Both Pearson and Irwin earn a percentage of what others make when they ride Scooter. That’s why owning the animal is such a valuable resource. “He helped with this new pressure I was in this season, being on the bubble and wanting to be home when my baby was born,” he said. “Worst-case scenario was me not making it to the finals, you’ve still got three guys that made the NFR and are going to ride him. Those are more chances at making money. You’re not guaranteed a check, but Scooter was so crucial. He gave me confidence. “I’m in a situation where I’m better financially than I have been. He’s been an asset to my career and where I am now. He has changed a lot of the way I do things.” Much of that was proven through the season. Irwin didn’t have many big wins, but he found a lot of positives along the way. As a detailed person, he has notes from his previous seasons that reveal his earnings through each month of the season. Every step along the way, he realized he was ahead of where he’d ever been before. He’s found great benefit in his team of sponsors – CINCH, RCI Oilfield Services, 12 Gauge Ranch, Zesterra, Seminole Feed, Resistol, Foy Reynolds Cattle Co., Anipro Xtraformance Feed, Classic Equine and Coats Saddlery – that help him get up and down the road. They all are a major part of the team returning to Las Vegas. “Even though I finished the lowest I’ve ever finished as far as going into the finals, I think the consistency has guided me,” Irwin said. “With the positive attitude I kept all year long kept pushing me and driving me to have a good year. This is a business, and I need to have a good-running business.” There’s still business ahead. The NFR boasts of a $10 million purse, and he wants to get as much of that money as he can. Even though he’s behind 13 other bulldoggers, he knows there are 10 opportunities to cash in. “You can’t give up,” he said. “My cousin, Quinn Campbell, has always told me, ‘We’re riding animals chasing animals, so things are going to happen. Just enjoy what you do.’ I’ve had two good NFRs and one that was just OK. I’m in the green as far as a business perspective, but anything can happen. You’ve got to stay alert and stay aggressive, and it’s not over until Round 10.” He knows his hands are full. There are 14 other steer wrestlers who have their eyes set on the same prize, that elusive world championship.

TINSLEY

Mrs. Kay Frances Chamberlin Tinsley, age 76, a native of Waynesboro, Pennsylvania and a resident of Daphne, Alabama, passed away on Wednesday, Nov. 28, 2018 at her residence. Kay grew up as an “army brat” spending much of her childhood in Germany, with short stints in Kansas, Soso, Mississippi and Birmingham, Alabama.

She was a 1960 graduate of Ensley High School in Birmingham. After graduating, she went to work as an administrative assistant at the Birmingham Police Department, where she met the love of her life and husband of 57 years, John E. Tinsley. Through her adult years, she lived in Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee. After retirement, she fulfilled a longtime dream of living in a log cabin in the Smoky Mountains. In 2012, she relocated to Fairhope, Alabama, where she was an active member of the Newcomers of the Eastern Shore, the Fairhope Garden Club, the Down and Dirty Garden Club, Chapters Book Club and the Stone Creek Book Club. Kay was an avid reader and crafter and loved spending time in the Smoky Mountains. She always had a smile on her face and a unique talent for making people feel warmly welcomed and cared for. She was preceded in death by a son, John Scott Tinsley. Survivors include her husband, John E.

Tinsley; two daughters, Lisa (Tom) O’Hara and Donna (Will) Hornsby, all of Daphne, Alabama; one son, Chris (Kristin) Tinsley of Tullahoma, Tennessee; one sister, Sarah (Jim) Seay of Orlando, Florida; one brother, Wilbur J. (Tammy) Chamberlin Jr of Ovett, Mississippi; seven grandchildren, Tommy O’Hara, John Brian O’Hara, McKenna Hornsby, Drew Tinsley, Everett Tinsley, Finnigan Tinsley and Kendall Tinsley; other relatives and friends. Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated on Saturday, Dec. 1, 2018 at 10:30 a.m. at Christ the King Catholic Church. The family received friends from 9:30 a.m. until time of the mass. Interment services were private. In lieu of flowers, her family request memorial donations be made to the Alzheimer’s Association, alz.org, or

The older I get, the faster Christmas comes. If I'm not careful, it can turn into an annual race to see if I can get my gift and grocery shopping done before the Dec. 24 deadline.

I have learned to let go, though. To lower my own expectations and encourage my children to lower theirs. After all, creating the perfect Christmas is tricky.

I relish, for instance, the ritual of mailing almost a hundred Christmas cards every year. But one year I mailed seven, photo not included. And some years, the cards I receive sit in a pile instead of hanging on my front door — a tradition my mother held that I have carried on to keep her close.

During our years in Vermont, we held a Christmas Eve open house every year. Dozens of friends came by after attending the Christmas Eve service. But after a recent move, we switched to a family talent show, where the Captain and I once gave an impromptu performance of "I've Got You Babe." And, to the amazement of all, it was my idea. (I need all the fun points I can get.)

I don't always get everything on the kids' lists. In fact, I had to whisper in Silas' ear one Christmas morning before the present rush that there was not one bucket of military men available in the whole county. A few years back, I couldn't find the right size boots for Mary and I forgot to get an extra-large bag of Craisins for Emma's stocking.

One year I had a toothache that sent me to the dentist the day before Christmas Eve. And I have two December babies — it is always tricky to throw a December due date into the Christmas mix.

And the year my mother died, that Christmas feeling seemed to elude me; each time Faith Hill's "Where Are You, Christmas?" came on the radio, I had to make a quick exit. Some years are like that.

But if it weren't for the above reasons, it would be something else. Truth is, I have yet to find the perfect Christmas.

But I have found the little things can also sabotage the perfect Christmas, if I let them. We moms can really get irritated over not having the perfect table, immaculate house, or just the right gift. We can always find something.

Christmas is first, of course, a celebration centered on the birth of the Savior followed by the traditions that steep us in the season. At the Sims' house that means ham on Christmas Eve and my grandfather's bean soup on Christmas day; pajama clad kids for 24 hours; daughter Bethany singing O Holy Night on Christmas Eve; no present rush until at least 6 a.m.

Merry Christmas to you and your family.

For to us a child is born, to us a son is given, and the government will be upon his shoulders.
And he will be called Wonderful Counselor,
Mighty God, Everlasting
Father, Prince of Peace.
Isaiah 9:6a

Down the home stretch

Some of the greatest sporting events in history have come down to the wire. Those bottom of the ninth, fourth and inches, double overtime plays are what stand out in our memories as the greatest successes or the worst defeats in sports history.

Similarly, we here in Washington are entering our own home stretch of the 115th Congress. It has been a long year filled with many victories for the people of Alabama, but there is still work to be done.

Next year, the game will change completely. With Democrats taking control of the House, things will be different.

Where bipartisan progress can be made, we must take advantage of it. Instead of being the “resistance,” we should be the loyal opposition. Loyal to the country but opposing policies and ideas that do not match up with our conservative values and beliefs.

I promise you two things that won’t change no matter who is in charge of the House: I will put Alabama’s priorities first, and I will support President Trump and his pro-America agenda.

For now, the next two weeks will be like the bottom of the ninth in Washington. We still need to pass a Farm Bill that works for our Alabama farmers and foresters, ensure the national flood insurance program continues, pass a funding bill for the remaining portions of the federal government, and protect our Southern border.

As I have said before, our farmers are our future. Without the tireless efforts of farmers all across the nation, life as we know it would not exist. I am hopeful we can pass a strong Farm Bill by the end of the year to provide greater protections for Alabama farmers and ensure benefits for rural America.

The flood insurance program is very important for those of us in coastal Alabama, and I want to see the program reformed and strengthened in a way that protects our coastal communities. We cannot let the program expire, so I will be pushing hard to get the program reauthorized.

Similarly, we must work to fund the remainder of the federal government. We currently have around three-quarters of the government funded for next year, including the critical funding needed to rebuild our military. This was the first time in a decade that we have been able to reach this point on time and in a bipartisan way.

Now, we must address funding for agencies like the Department of Justice, Department of Agriculture, and the Department of Homeland Security. I want to see a funding bill that reflects the need to rein in wasteful spending while also supporting programs and projects important to Alabama.

It is imperative that any funding bill also help secure our southern border. It is clear that our immigration system is broken, and we must fix it. First, however, we must build President Donald Trump’s border wall and stem the flow of illegal immigration.

I have a solution to provide funding for the wall: the 50 Votes for the Wall Act. By using the budget reconciliation process, we can avoid Democrat obstruction in the Senate and secure the funds necessary to complete this task. I hope my colleagues will make the right decision for the country and bring my bill up for a vote.

These next two weeks will be the last play of a tough-fought game. As we near the goal line, I am committed to trying to get a few more wins for Alabama and America before the next Congress starts.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The bridge to somewhere

The so-called Bridge to Nowhere is certainly going somewhere. And that somewhere will be know as Waterway Blvd. As I interpret ALDOT’s Connection Projects, the main advantage receivers will be the Waterway Village location within Gulf Shores. In other words, the Beach Express shall be not only an entrance and exit (via the Intracoastal Waterway Bridge) for Gulf Shores, but also the Waterway Village and several Boat Storage areas will prevail. And Orange Beach traffic will be tremendously increased along Canal Road. Why use the Homes Bridge when the Somewhere Bridge is available?

Therefore, we voting residents of Orange Beach should be very pleased and proud of Mayor Kennon’s effort to have a Intracoastal cross over known as Wolf Bay Bridge. Based on Tony’s leadership, the Orange Beach council has taken the necessary steps to have a Wolf Bay Bridge that will be at no cost to the OB residents, nor to any other Alabama tax payers. Hence, one has to ask “Why have State monies spent for a Bridge to Somewhere that is an advantage only to parts of Pleasure Island”? We Orange Beach residents will have even more bumper to bumper danger.

The Wolf Bay Bridge is very necessary and the Orange Beach council is to be cheered for also having an outstanding Police Department and Fire Department personnel. And also, locally available Ambulances.

On getting along with others

By MICHAEL J. BROOKS

My denomination invited me to write a series of three commentaries for Sunday School teachers to be used next year, and I was happy to complete the assignment a bit early and hit “send” last week. The editor said 90,000+ leaders will use this material. He said the Bible teachers range from college professors to truck drivers, and I was to write for the truckers! As I tell classroom students, the communicator’s task is to take the complex and make it understandable, so I tried to do so.

Writing for truck drivers reminded me of an unpleasant episode many moons ago in the 90s. An editor asked me to write a lesson on stealing in a series on the Ten Commandments. As part of my assignment I gave some possible examples of stealing, including pilfering on the job, slacking in our work and cheating on taxes. I also related a recent news account of a state official convicted of bribery. According to the story, this Department of Transportation employee alerted truckers when weigh stations were opened or closed. The implication was that drivers could overload their trucks when stations were closed. I suggested this might cause damage to the highways that are built and maintained by taxes, thus stealing from taxpayers.

Soon I got a call from a lady in Missouri. She asked if I were the writer of the lesson. I admitted so. Then she began to berate me for defaming her truck driver husband! At first I offered some defense. I told her my example was an actual news story published in our state. I also told her I wasn’t criticizing all truck drivers, of course, since the report didn’t reveal how many drivers were in this group. I told her I was truly sorry she was offended, and I was sure her husband was a man of integrity. But she wouldn’t be deterred. She was still seething when she ended the call.

This experience is as an example of someone whose mind was set in concrete and for whom an apology wasn’t effective. Very few of the interpersonal conflicts I’ve seen over the years are like this. I can remember only a handful of people as determined as she was not to be appeased. Most of the time people respond reasonably when we sincerely seek resolution.

A friend suggested to me that an apology needs only two sentences: “I’m sorry. It should not have happened.” Period. We inflame the situation when we add to this with “but you provoked me,” or “it wasn’t my fault.”

Getting along with others isn’t a goal we magically achieve one day. It’s a life-long learning process, and a Christian imperative.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was Kurt Vonnegut, one of the most influential writers of the 20th century, who made the following sage observation: “There is no reason why good cannot triumph as often as evil. The triumph of anything is a matter of organization. If there are such things as angels, I hope they are organized along the lines of the Mafia.”

• If you received all of the gifts in the song “The Twelve Days of Christmas,” you’d have 364 presents.

• The period between Thanksgiving and Christmas is an apt time to consider the word “crapulous,” which means “sick from excessive eating or drinking.”

• Ireland’s Porterhouse Brewing Company has what might seem to be an unlikely hit on its hands: the Oyster Stout. During the brewing process, raw oysters are shucked directly into the conditioning tank. This unlikely combination is popular, though, selling out quickly whenever it’s available.

• Those who study such things say that while shaving, a person removes about as much skin as hair.

• As the holidays approach and you’re out shopping for gifts, you might want to keep this in mind: According to survey results, siblings are the worst holiday gift-givers, getting the lowest marks from 21 percent of respondents. However, they weren’t far behind in-laws, who were rated the worst by 20 percent.

• Unless you’re from Central Florida, you’ve probably never heard of the small town of Ocoee. So you might be surprised to learn that during World War II, Ocoee earned the distinction of sending more men, per capita, to serve in the military than any other town in the United States.

THROUGH ROSE COLORED GLASSES

There are players who look at every hand they’re dealt through rose-colored glasses. Optimism has its place in bridge, of course, and it pays dividends many times over when there is a sound basis for it, but an ace is an ace and a deuce is a deuce, regardless of who views them.

The inveterate overbidder lives in a world all his own, imagining that the hand he is looking at has greater value than it actually has, or assuming that his partner will produce untold treasures suppressed during the bidding.

The South who bid this hand to a slam was a full-fledged member of the Optimists Club. It cannot be denied that he had an excellent hand, but it’s plain to see that he regarded his three losing spades as a matter of no concern, carrying that conviction even to the point of a redouble.

One thing that can be said for the perennial overbidder is that he usually plays his cards very well. He has had so much experience trying to fulfill overly optimistic contracts that he has learned how to get the most out of every hand. Today’s South proved to be no exception.

He won the opening spade lead in dummy and led a low heart to his jack, getting the bad news when West showed out. Undaunted, South then cashed the A-K-Q of clubs, discarding a spade from dummy.

Next came four rounds of diamonds, on which declarer disposed of his two losing spades. Nine tricks had now been played, and both East and South had four trumps left with the 10-5 of hearts still in dummy. A spade was then led from the table. East trumped with the seven, whereupon South undertrumped with the three!

East was forced to return a trump, and, whichever one he led, declarer was sure to make the last three tricks and the contract.

It just goes to show that you can’t beat scientific bidding.

Sonora Masonic Lodge builds and donates trophy case to Summerdale School

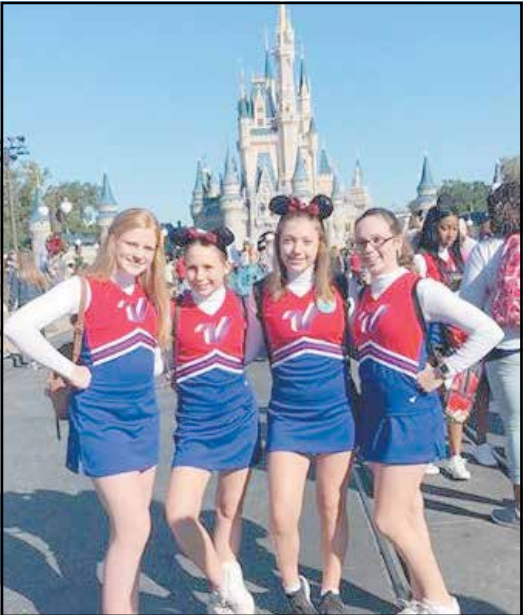

SUMMERDALE — Randy Smith, Worshipful Master of Sonora Masonic Lodge No. 635 of Free and Accepted Masons of Alabama (F. & A. M.) in Summerdale recently crafted a hand-made wooden trophy case for the school. The case was placed near the inside entrance of the school's gymnasium and will house many of the trophies and memorabilia acquired over the years by the sports teams. The lodge donated funds to the Summerdale School's Booster Club in order for the club to pay for the supplies needed to build the case. The case was donated to the school by the lodge members during the school's annual fall festival held in October. "We are very grateful to Sonora Lodge for their donation and support on this project," said Booster Club President Blake Garrison. This community service project is made possible by funding from the Alabama Grand Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons Community Service Program.

complete road resurfacing on a sizable portion of the road. The town was awarded an additional $322,000 by the office in Nov. 2017 for storm drainage improvements in the same area. Hamby asked the commission for a possible lump sum of $320,000, which he said would go a long way to helping the town complete the project. "That would help us do 9,000 lineal feet of the road, which would include the milling, patching, repaving and striping," Hamby said. Hamby said if the commission were to help with the project, he promised the town would not be back in the future asking for more money. "This is the only project we have that qualifies for county help," Hamby said. "Once we do this project, it'll be at least 15 years before it needs to be done again. This is kind of a one-trick pony for Elberta." Several of the commissioners were receptive to Hamby's message. "Towns are very limited in funds, and I think that with the county roads that run through their municipalities, we should lend some aide even if they've accepted maintenance of those roads," Commissioner Billie Jo Underwood said. "I don't know the amount or how we would do that, but I would be supportive of lending some kind of assistance." Commissioner Joe Davis commended Hamby and the town for trying to find alternate ways to pay for the project, and said he was open to the idea of looking at ways to help.

"I like to look under rocks to try to find other resources, and I want to commend you for trying to find ways to do this," Davis said. "I'm not concerned about the precedent setting." Commission Chairman Skip Gruber, who is a former mayor of Elberta, had reservations about the county giving money for the project. "That is a lot of money," Gruber said. "This commission has to decide where that money could come from. Everything you take from the county to put in the municipalities takes away from other roads this county does have jurisdiction over. It's not that I'm not trying to help, but we have to look out for county citizens just like municipalities do theirs." The commissioners could make the appropriation at an upcoming meeting in the form of a budget amendment.
