County restoring services, planning recovery

By GUY BUSBY
guy@gulfcoastmedia.com

ROBERTSDALE — Limited county services will resume Monday as Baldwin officials begin to work on reopening offices as well as planning an economic recovery from the COVID-19 outbreak.

The Baldwin County Commission voted Tuesday, April 28, to begin a phased reopening of offices closed since March. Commission Chairwoman Billie Jo Underwood said the reopening will be in phases.

“What we really wanted to do is get some county services back and available that are not available by phone, email or online,” Underwood said.

On Monday, Baldwin County Probate and Revenue Department offices will reopen on an appointment basis to allow residents to register vehicles and conduct other business. Anyone wanting to make an appointment can call 251-943-5061 to arrange a meeting.

Lobbies will still be closed, and residents will be required to practice social distancing while using the offices.

The commission met Tuesday morning before Gov. Kay Ivey issued her “Safer at Home,” order that would allow Alabama beaches to reopen and some small businesses to resume operations.

came as some local businesses are running short of time.

aren’t coming forward saying we’re going to close tomorrow, but they have all said we’re hanging in there, but we can’t do it much longer. That’s the overall message we’re getting,” Williams said. “They were, for the most part, telling us that if we can just begin to resume and get some normalcy, we will be OK, but then, of course, there’s the big, ‘what if.’ What if we get shut down again?”

Orange Beach Mayor Tony Kennon said local officials are ready for crowds to hit the beaches. He said police will be out enforcing rules on social distancing.

“We’re going to be out in force and treat it as though it’s a spring break,” Kennon said. “We’re going to make sure there’s no large groups, no large gatherings. We’re going to follow the governor’s guidelines and we’ve been talking to the governor’s office about what we’ve been doing already on the beaches and they feel like that will suffice.”

Kennon said most visitors who have come to areas such as Robinson Island have followed restrictions.

“We expect everybody to abide by those rules and, so far, with our experience on the islands over the last month everybody for the most part has,” Kennon said. “All of our visitors have been very respectful of the rules and tried to abide by them.”

The commission also voted to establish the Baldwin County Recovery Working Group to help officials, business leaders and nonprofits deal with the economic effects of the outbreak and closings.

“This is a different type of situation,” Underwood said. “I don’t think anybody has been in this arena before. We don’t know what our citizens are going to need. We know that this was a health crisis that created an economic crisis. It has put fear in a lot of minds.”

The group will include county and city officials as well as representatives from chambers of commerce and other business groups and community organizations. Underwood said the group will work to develop plans for recovery.

“We don’t exactly know the blueprint for this recovery, but we know that there has been a mental health crisis during this. We know there has been an economic crisis during this. There has also been a health care crisis during this for those who were actually affected by the virus personally. So, what we are trying to do is organize a recovery plan so that we will have something available for our citizens so that they can reach out with questions,” Underwood said. “I don’t know that we’ll have all the answers, but what we will do is try to steer them in the right direction to where they can receive help.”

Williams, who will be a chamber representative on the group, said the small businesses hardest hit by the downturn are the backbone of Baldwin County’s economy.

“To have a thriving retail and small business community, we must have healthy individuals who can work there and manage and the owners of the small businesses, so critical to our economy,” Williams said. “We will be making sure our small business community, which is the heartbeat of our economy and also the nonprofits which is are the soul of our community.”

Baldwin County has 173 confirmed cases of COVID-19 as of Wednesday morning. Zach Hood, Baldwin County Emergency Management Agency Director, said the cooperation of business owners and residents who have complied with restrictions and social distancing guidelines have helped keep local cases down.

“Our case numbers look very good considering the circumstances and I certainly want to say that the reasons our case numbers look like they do is because you have followed the directions given from the medical officials and as we continue to do that, I have no doubt that we will have a positive outcome for us in the future,” Hood said.

He said local first responders and government agencies have also worked together to provide the equipment needed to deal with the outbreak.

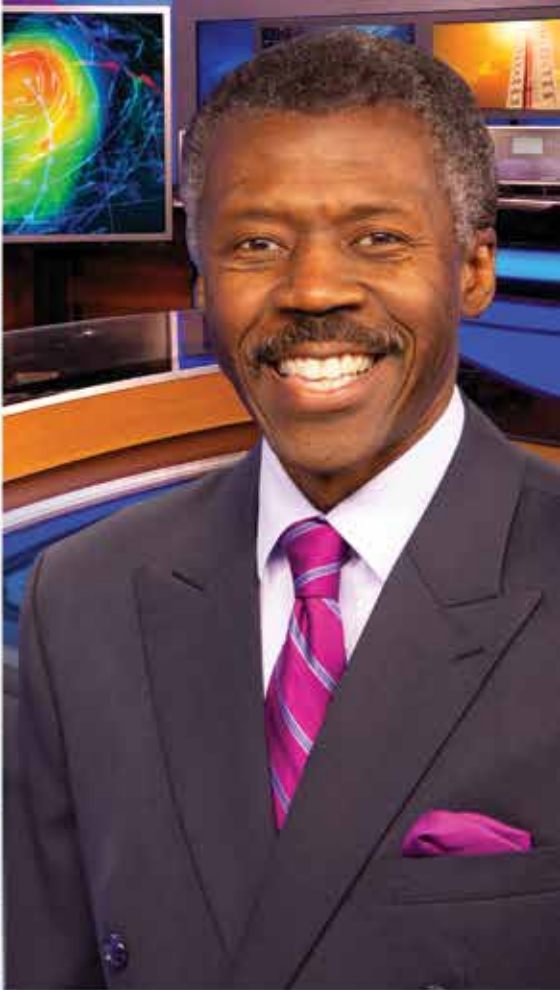

“Those needs were in the form of face shields, masks, gowns and gloves. We have continued through the last 46 days to provide these items and I will say that most areas within the county have a resupply of PPE, so the PPE crisis has certainly gotten better for all of us,” Hood said. “The fact that our medical providers have what they need to take care of the sick is certainly critical and we will continue to do everything we can to make sure those needs are met working with public health.”

How quickly things change. Just a couple months ago it was near-record heat. Lately, it’s typical spring with calm stretches broken by the threat of severe thunderstorms. Based on steering winds around the world, and the portion of those winds that impacts the Gulf Coast, Baldwin County can quickly lock into a pattern for a few weeks. It could be dry and cold, warm and wet, cold and stormy or any other combination you can think of. It’s true too in hurricane season where we lock into either a zone of safety or the path of tempests. These regional type patterns are halfway between weather and climate. Unfortunately, they are not easy to predict, and when we get into one, there can be brief breaks from it. Even in a pattern like the one recently, the timing of severe weather threats is like following a series of leaves floating in a narrow stream. It may look like they are all going to pass the same point at specific intervals but something can always get in the way. Or a new leaf can fall into the stream!

Grow more, give more: a program for rookies and experts

Submitted

Gardeners quickly learn that success is often cyclical — determined by rain, drought, bounty and disease. However, novice gardeners, and those just curious about gardening, have a lot to learn, and we can all help to bridge that knowledge gap.

A group of Alabama

Extension horticulture agents and Extension Master Gardener volunteers are promoting community-based gardening in 2020.

How It Will Work

Beginning in May, Extension agents will distribute teaching videos and kit plans for growing vegetables at home. For example, to grow tomatoes in a 5-gallon bucket, Extension will suggest supplies needed, where to place it, when to plant it and how to maintain it. The same will be true for other crops such as beans, greens, cucumbers and peppers. Plans for large containers, raised beds and in-ground rows will also be addressed.

Information will be delivered via a variety of platforms.

- Brief on-line tutorials via videos on the Alabama Extension website

- Resources and information on the Extension website
- One-on-one assistance through the Master Gardener Helpline at (877)252-4769
- Social media posts

Plans are still being finalized on the Give More aspect of the program, but people who grow more than they can use are encouraged to share with neighbors or donate to a local food assistance effort.

So let's get growing! Whether a backyard garden is a new interest, or you have experience, we have answers for your garden.

relation to the number of members who join or renew their membership in the organization. The more members, the more grant money. Based on the concept of collective giving, each member's $1,000 donation is pooled to make these high-impact grants, and every dollar of the membership contribution goes directly to the nonprofits.

The membership drive was interrupted by the governor's stay-at-home orders which gave the women of Baldwin County the opportunity to step up and demonstrate their resilience and commitment to improving life in the county for all residents. Since forming in 2008, this all-volunteer philanthropic organization has distributed $3.6 million in grants to local nonprofits.

"I am so proud and extremely touched by the continued passion for giving and the serving hearts of our members. Even in such challenging and uncertain times as these, the women of Impact 100 Baldwin County remained committed and still prevailed," said Suzanne Thornburg, President of Impact 100 Baldwin County. "We are changing lives and making a positive impact in our communities, for our nonprofits and those they serve."

Grants are awarded in five areas: arts, culture & recreation; education; environment & preservation; family; and health & wellness. Nonprofits can apply in any of these categories. Impact 100 members volunteer to serve in groups that evaluate the grant applications and select finalists, with the entire membership voting to select the five $90,000 grant recipients.

Nonprofits have until May 5 to submit their Letter of Intent with June 2 the deadline for submitting their Grant Application. The actual grants will be awarded at the Impact 100 Baldwin County Grant Awards in the Fall.

Impact 100 Baldwin County's mission is to improve the lives of residents by awarding high-impact grants to local nonprofits that fund innovative, meaningful projects that allow agencies to better serve their clients and to improve the Baldwin County community.

Kim Hillman. “We’re doing it as much like summer camp as we can, but there’s a lot more kids you’re working with during an actual summer camp and a lot more togetherness, so it’s totally different doing this program and keeping the kids social distancing. It’s challenging to engage them and get them to have some fun while keeping them further apart.” Daycare activities include indoor and outdoor games. While the playground is closed, staff have been improvising by creating obstacle courses that the kids can enjoy one at a time, and “bring your bike to school” days. Along with playtime, the staff are offering educational assistance and homework assistance for the school-age children. On top of the daycare, the Y has been working with Feeding the Gulf Coast by providing a drive thru pickup service at four local YMCA locations, where families with children can pick up breakfast and lunch for the kids. This ensures children who relied on school for meals are still getting the nutrition they need. More partners are Dickerson Literacy Initiatives, which gave the local Y’s 250 new books to add to the children’s libraries, Ascend, and OWA, which sent 100 bags full of stuffed plastic eggs over Easter. “That’s all examples of the community coming together to do whatever we can for the children, especially to make sure they’re eating every day,” said Hillman. The YMCA first responders’ kids daycare provides breakfast, lunch, and snacks for the kids, and charges only $15 a day, nearly half of the normal price. The new social distancing guidelines have reduced the staff, with almost 400 YMCA workers being out of work over five locations. With only a handful of employees each location can hold approximately 30 children. “It’s worked out, and it’s definitely something that we as a staff are really enjoying,” Hillman said. “Through the pandemic we haven’t had the gym, fitness facility, or pools open, but the Y is a cornerstone for the community and is meant to strengthen the community in any way possible, so we’re enjoying doing what is essential during this time. That’s rewarding to us.” For more information on everything the Y offers, check out their website at www.ymca.net.

Food pantries continue to serve those in need

By JOHN UNDERWOOD
john@gulfcoastmedia.com

FOLEY — While state leaders slowly loosen restrictions on some non-essential businesses this week, food pantries continue to serve those in need across Baldwin County.

“Over the last month, 30 percent of the families who have come in asking for help are families that have never been to Prodissee Pantry before,” said Deann Servos, executive director for the Spanish Fort-based organization. “It is truly an unprecedented thing we are seeing.”

Prodissee Pantry continues to distribute food from 9 a.m. to noon every Tuesday. In its first four weeks of distribution, the organization distributed nearly 4,100 food units, that’s over 80 tons of groceries, Servos said.

“We are continuing to receive transfer trucks full of food to distribute,” she said. “Right now, we are transitioning more toward fresh produce and frozen foods, because we’ve found that it is easier to access than canned food items.”

In addition to their normal supplier, Feeding the Gulf Coast, Servos said they are looking for alternative sources such as local farmers.

“We don’t want anyone to throw away or plow under food that could be used to feed those who would otherwise go hungry,” Servos said. “We are asking that before they do that, farmers can bring the food to us. They can donate it or, if we can use it, we will offer to buy it from them.”

Prodissee is continuing to ask the public for monetary donations, which can be done online at prodisseepantry.org/donate, by mail at P.O. Box 7403, Spanish Fort, AL 36577, or call 251-626-1720 for more information on how you can donate.

“Our community has responded with donations that have allowed us to continue to distribute food to those in need in Baldwin County,” Servos said, “and I want to thank the community for their continued support at this time.”

Volunteers are also busy at the Christian Service Center in Gulf Shores, handing out food from the center’s pantry and offering rental assistance to residents on Pleasure Island.

“We’re staying busy,” said CSC President Linda Chappelle. “We’re doing what we can to keep the food pantry stocked and meet everyone’s needs while maintaining social distancing.”

Publicity Chairman Robbie Kepec said while donations have increased, the demand they are seeing has been up to quadruple the normal rate.

“Normally we’re seeing five or so clients at the food pantry,” she said, “now we’re seeing 20. We’re still able to purchase food from ‘Feeding the Gulf Coast’ and we are having to dig into our reserves to make purchases, but we can still go for a while on what we have.”

Chappelle and Kepec said they are continuing to conduct screenings over the phone and those who need assistance are encouraged to call before they come so that the food pantry can be alerted they are coming.

The office, located at 317 Dolphin Ave. in Gulf Shores, remains open from 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday to accept food and monetary donations. Monetary donations can also be mailed to P.O. Box 882, Gulf Shores, AL 36547. Call 251-968-5256 for more information or to schedule an appointment.

“We are 100 percent volunteer,” Kepec said, “so all of the money we receive goes to purchase food and to help with rent.”

Phyllis Beam, executive director, Catholic Social Services, says they are continuing to utilize the George P. Thames Adult Activity Center on East Chicago Street in Robertsdale to serve families from Robertsdale Elementary School through the CSS Project Reach backpack program.

“In the last month we have helped over 200 families,” Beam said. “We just took everything we had and packed it up to send over to the senior center for distribution, two van loads full.”

Any families from RES needing food are asked to call Amy or Mary at the center, 251-947-8973. The service will be available Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Please call at least 24 hours in advance to allow for food to be prepared from items available on hand.

Beam said the CSS offices remain closed, but they will work with the adult activity center to provide a box for them and leave it outside for them to come and pick it up. You can also call CSS at 251-947-2293.

The address to mail donations is P.O. Box 870, Robertsdale, AL 36567.

Things are also moving steadily at Ecumenical Ministries locations in Foley and Fairhope, said Executive Director Sally Deane.

“We’re not seeing a huge increase in people seeking donations, probably because Prodissee Pantry is seeing so many with their Tuesday food distributions,” she said. “My concern is that once things recover, there will be people who don’t recover as fast as others and that’s when we will see a surge in requests.”

There has been an outpouring of support from the community that has allowed Ecumenical Ministries to keep both pantries stocked, Deane said.

“There has just been an overflowing of support,” she said. Deane said the organization continues to operate like they always have, except that they are continuing to practice no contact rules.

“There is a number that you can call when you pull up to tell us what you need and we can supply it all without contact,” she said.

Ecumenical Ministries continues to accept donations of food and monetary donations at both of their food pantry locations, 564 Fairhope Ave. in Fairhope and 102 W. Spruce Ave. in Foley.

For more information in Fairhope, call 251-928-3430 or in Foley, call 251-943-3445.

Fourth Annual Spotlight talent showcase goes digital

Encouraging children to pursue the performing arts and support school arts programs in Mobile and Baldwin County

MOBILE — The Fourth Annual Gulf Coast Spotlight Talent Showcase, hosted by Distinguished Young Women and sponsored by Beard Equipment Co., The Poarch Creek Indians, and New Horizons Credit Union, was originally scheduled to take place on March 15 at Saraland High School.

Due to the COVID-19 health crisis, the in-person competition was moved to a digital format, giving students the opportunity to submit videos for a chance to earn funds for the arts programs at their schools.

The program was launched in 2017 as an effort to shine a light on talented young performers in Mobile and Baldwin counties, encourage and reward their pursuits and give funds to local schools to support arts programs, thereby reaching more children in the Gulf Coast region.

Local students in grades one through 12 competed in four divisions. The prizes for the winners in each division included a $500 gift made in their name to an arts program at their school. Recognition was also given to the top vocal, instrumental and dance acts in three divisions.

IRS warns of coronavirus related scams

Submitted

Taxpayers should be on the lookout for IRS impersonation calls, texts and email phishing attempts about the coronavirus or COVID-19 Economic Impact Payments. These scams can lead to tax-related fraud and identity theft.

Here's what taxpayers should know:

- The IRS will not call, email or text you to verify or request your financial, banking or personal information.

- Watch out for websites and social media attempts to request money or personal information. The official website is IRS.gov.
- Don't open surprise emails that look like they're coming from the IRS or click on attachments or links.
- Taxpayers should not provide personal or financial information or engage with potential scammers online or over the phone.
- Forward suspicious emails to phishing@ irs.gov, then delete.

- Go to IRS.gov for the most up-to-date information.

Here's what people should know about the Economic Impact Payments:

- The IRS will automatically deposit Economic Impact Payments into the bank account taxpayers provided on their 2019 or 2018 tax return for a direct deposit of their tax refund.
- Those without a direct deposit account on file may be able to provide their banking information online through a new secure tool, Get My Payment..

- Anyone who is eligible for an Economic Impact Payment and doesn't provide direct deposit information will receive a payment mailed to the last address the IRS has on file.
- The IRS does not charge a fee to issue the payment.

Scammers may:

- Ask an individual to sign over their Economic Impact Payment check to them.
- Ask for verification of personal or banking information.
- Suggest that they can get someone tax refund or Economic Impact Payment faster by working on their behalf.
- Issue a bogus check, often in an odd amount, then tell a person to call a number or verify information online in order to cash it.

Official IRS information about the COVID-19 pandemic and Economic Impact Payments can be found on the Coronavirus Tax Relief page on IRS.gov. The IRS encourages people to share this information with family and friends. Many people who normally don't normally file a tax return may not realize they're eligible for an Economic Impact Payment.

Gulf Shores and Orange Beach Tourism announces 2020 STS Marketing College Scholarships

Each year, GSOBT awards full scholarships to three marketing professionals in the local tourism industry

Gulf Shores and Orange Beach Tourism (GSOBT) is pleased to offer full scholarships for three local tourism marketing professionals to attend Southeast Tourism Society's Marketing College. The 2020 scholarship recipients are Crystal Hinds of Brett/Robinson Vacation Rentals, Derek Rowan of Hangout Hospitality Group and Sherry Snider of Perdido Beach Resort.

The scholarships cover each year of the three-year program. STS Marketing College is designed to deepen professionals' knowledge of all facets of destination marketing and promote a working knowledge of current trends, data and implementation strategies. STS Marketing College students attend classes taught by industry experts for one week each summer at the University of North Georgia in Dahlonega. After completion of the program, students earn the Travel Marketing Professional (TMP) certification.

"I am so humbled to be chosen for the STS Marketing College Scholarship, and I am proud to represent Hangout Hospitality," Rowan said. "I will take full advantage of this opportunity to learn more and hone my marketing skills in the hospitality and tourism industry. I am passionate about advancing Gulf Shores and Orange Beach as a destination, and I am so grateful to be able to serve this community alongside so many incredible people."

Gulf Shores and Orange Beach will be well represented at this year's Marketing College as well. The CVB will send three of their own employees - Jack Gravolet and Faith Henley for the first time and Lauren Traywick for year two. They will be joined by second-year students Kristin McIntosh of Meyer Vacation Rentals, Sharon Wiese of Coastal Alabama Business Chamber and Jenna Romano of LuLu's who were awarded scholarships last year. Sheena Mizell of The Wharf in Orange Beach, also awarded a scholarship, will attend for her third and final year.

"Being chosen for this opportunity was the epitome of my career in the hospitality industry," Snider said. "It just goes to prove that if you let fear of the unknown or rejection stop you from taking a step out into the unknown you never know what you could have achieved."

Just last month, the Southeastern Tourism Society held a Marketing College Graduation ceremony during their annual conference in Little Rock, Arkansas. Four local professionals were recognized for completing the program — scholarship

Former Baldwin preps look to elevate the Jaguars’ passing game

The loss of spring training in the sport of football is significant to all teams and leagues. For the South Alabama Jaguars, they could have used the time to get more experience and create some much-needed chemistry after a disastrous 2-10 season in 2019. Head coach Steve Campbell is desperate for his team to become more consistent going into his third season with the Jags. Last season, the Jaguars were ranked 121st in the nation in points per game (18.4) while averaging 158.8 passing yards per game (119th in the nation) and 171.4 rushing yards per game (54th in the nation). This was due to the imbalance of the quarterback switch late in the season. One player that wants to create a bigger impact and have the Jaguars win more games is former Spanish Fort Toro and Jaguars’ redshirt junior wide receiver Jalen Wayne. Last season, he caught five receptions for 62 yards and two touchdowns. He missed the first four games of the 2019 college football season as he was recovering from a broken foot injury. He will be one of four impact wide receivers from last season that was able to get open consistently due to the scheme packages. The main issue was the lack of a progressive passing game from a limited RPO (run-pass-option) quarterback for most of the season. Wayne will look for a more consistent passing with a more efficient quarterback in Desmond Trotter or a junior college transfer potentially starting the season. The Jaguars look to their experienced offensive line for support of rebuilding a low productive offense from 2019. South will return four of their starting offensive linemen from last season including former Fairhope Pirate and Jaguars’ starting left guard in redshirt junior Hadon Merchant. For the past seasons, Merchant has been the starting left guard playing with the explosive ability to create consistent knockdowns. Merchant has helped the Jaguars create a productive running game in the last two seasons for running back Tra Minter. Merchant now looks to make the Jaguars’ offense less one-dimensional by establishing a passing game that will not only complement the running game but create a more dynamic offense with more efficient RPO schemes. The RPO did not work earlier in the 2019 season because of how inefficient the passing was for the Jags.

MICHAEL HANICH

Fox named United States Sports Academy’s 2020 Sport Artist of the Year

USSA.edu

DAPHNE — Because of his meticulous attention to detail and uncanny ability to capture the iconic expressions of his larger-than-life subjects, nationally renowned painter Brian Fox has been named the United States Sports Academy’s 2020 Sport Artist of the Year, Painter. A resident of Somersett, Massachusetts, Fox specializes in painting the world’s greatest legends in sports and music. Fox has painted some of the biggest icons of our time, including the late Jackie Robinson, Rolling Stones guitarist Keith Richards, Olympic swimmer Michael Phelps, actor Johnny Depp, boxer Muhammad Ali, baseball Hall of Fame shortstop Derek Jeter and soccer superstar Pele. The Sport Artist of the Year award presentation is part of the institution’s annual Academy’s Awards of Sport event and reception on Thursday, Nov. 12 on the Academy campus in Daphne. The event, which is free and open to the public, is part of the Academy’s 36th Annual Awards of Sport program, a celebration of sport and art and a “Tribute to the Artist and the Athlete.” The Academy’s Awards of Sport honor those who have made significant contributions to sport in categories as diverse as the artist and the athlete. The Academy’s American Sport Art Museum and Archives annually recognizes these men and women through its Sport Artist of the Year, medallion series, honorary doctorates, athletes of the year and Alumni of the Year awards. “Being recognized by a prestigious organization such as the United States Sports Academy is an incredible honor,” Fox said. “I am as humbled as I am grateful.” “Having been selected for this honor is truly one of the highlights of my career, especially given that I’m in the company of such talented artists as Stephen Holland and LeRoy Neiman — previous recipients — who have positively influenced my life’s work.” Fox has exhibited his works in New York City, Boston, Los Angeles, and Lexington. His art is featured in numerous galleries around the country. Over the course of a 20-year career, Fox has also been able to forge relationships with celebrities, athletes and corporations, and charitable organizations. Because of those relationships, Fox’s work can be found in many corporate and private collections, including those owned by singer Steven Tyler, NFL quarterback Tom Brady and supermodel Gisele Bündchen, actor Mark Wahlberg, NASCAR’s Dale Earnhardt Jr. and many others. In addition to being honored as the official artist for the 2009 NHL Winter Classic, Fox has been selected as the official commemorative artist for Major League Baseball’s 2007- 2009 All-Star Games, as well as the official artist for the 2007 World Series held in Boston. One highlight of Fox’s career happened when, in anticipation for the 2010 Olympics and 30th Anniversary of the “Miracle on Ice,” the artist collaborated with Olympic hero Jim Craig to create a collection of original artwork commemorating the United States hockey team’s historic victory over the Soviet Union in 1980. The first release in the series was a portrait of Craig draped in the American flag. Fox was also commissioned by a private collector to produce a one-of-a-kind collectors portrait commemorating the 30-year anniversary of “Miracle on Ice.” The portrait was signed by all members of the 1980 U.S. Hockey Team, including Craig. Fox’s work has been selected in the Society of Illustrators in New York and Los Angeles. The artist has also produced a series of original paintings exclusively for Walt Disney Parks and Cruise lines. Fox’s artwork exhibits and sells throughout the United States.

Let’s try not to screw this up

This week Governor Kay Ivey gave us the opportunity to peak our heads outside the door, feel the sun on our faces and begin to walk, slowly, towards normal life.

If we screw this up, we will backslide and have to return to shuttered stores and homebound lives. The virus will spread again and our sacrifices of the last month will be a waste.

The virus did not magically disappear from our atmosphere on April 30. It is still raging across the planet, infecting and killing. In fact, at press time, more than 50,000 Americans have succumbed to COVID-19, more than died in the Vietnam War. We crossed the benchmark after less than three months.

Every day doctors learn more about it. The virus is attacking young and old. It doesn’t just target the lungs, but also the heart and other organs. There still is no cure and no vaccine.

However, we also can’t hide forever. Our economy crumbles more each day. Our families are running out of food, money and sanity.

The only way to live with the virus among us is to move forward slowly, with caution and purpose. Gov. Ivey is doing just that. By allowing retailers to open with limited crowds and continuing to outlaw large gatherings and intimate services such as hair and nail salons, she is allowing us to move towards that new normal and learn what that should look like.

It means being aware of your surroundings.

It means washing your hands every single chance you get.

It means wearing a mask at all times, not just for your own protection but for those around you.

So far, we have been diligent enough to soften that curve and slow the spread of the disease throughout Baldwin County.

A sudden return to pre-virus “normal” could make that progress, that careful planning, all for nothing.

The virus spreads quickly and silently. We don’t have enough testing yet to trace where it is and where it is going. Before our state can open fully we must have the ability to test everyone, frequently, regardless of symptoms.

And to reach that benchmark we all must continue to be patient, diligent and protect the community we love.

We hope our local government leaders are responsible in enforcing social distancing in public places like the beach.

We hope our business leaders are responsible in keeping sick or worried employees out of the workplace and taking extra precautions to clean facilities.

We hope our community members are cooperative when they are asked to wait outside of stores and practicing diligent social distancing, six feet away from those around them.

If we fail to continue social distancing as much as possible; if we fail to heed the warnings by our health professionals such irresponsible actions could imperil our economy not for a matter of weeks, but for months. Our failure to be patient could kill hundreds in our community.

Please, move forward with caution. Listen to our medical professionals. Understand that we are not in the clear yet. It will take all of us behaving responsibly to reach that goal.

Alabama leaders under 45 who affect the political arena

Last week I discussed Alabama’s outstanding leaders in the political arena. This week allow me to share with you some of the state’s leaders under 45 who are shaping and molding our state from outside the actual pit of the political arena.

STEVE FLOWERS
Inside the Statehouse

The most prominent political power in the under 45 category, who is not in an elected position, is Katie Boyd Britt who heads the Business Council of Alabama. Katie was born to be an Alabama leader 37 years ago in Enterprise. She was a high school leader and was Governor of Girls State. Then she went on to the University of Alabama and excelled academically and was President of the Student Government Association. After college at Alabama, she continued on and graduated from law school at the university.

She practiced law a couple of years, then went to work for our Senior Senator, Richard Shelby. She was his Chief of Staff before becoming Chairman of the Business Council of Alabama. Katie is married to a popular young leader in the state, Wesley Britt, who played football at Alabama and went on to play pro-ball for the New England Patriots. They have two beautiful children.

Katie has a younger sorority sister, who is also a Wiregrass girl — Mary Margaret Carroll from Ozark. She was also an SGA president at the University of Alabama and is one of Alabama’s brightest young lobbyists.

Clay Ryan heads Governmental Affairs for the University of Alabama System. He is smart and savvy. He worked on Supreme Court races when Karl Rove was brought in by the Business community during the Tort Reform wars. He was directing governmental affairs for a prominent Birmingham law firm when he moved to the University of Alabama System. The 42 year old leads the governmental directions of the state’s largest employer.

Alabama Power will remain the most powerful governmental entity in the state for the next generation with the likes of Houston Smith (40) and R.B. Walker (33) who are prolific Governmental Affairs Specialists.

Houston is the son of a prominent Power Company couple. Both his mother and dad were top officers in the company. Houston is steeped in knowledge of utilities and Alabama government. R.B. grew up in Montgomery and was President of the Student Government Association at the University of Alabama. He understands politics.

Speaking of utility companies, Power South has a superstar lobbyist arising in 35 year old Montgomery native Taylor Williams.

Governor Kay Ivey has some young super stars on her staff. She has a husband and wife team that are outstanding in Bill and Liz Filmore. Liz has been with Kay Ivey going back to her campaign for Lt. Governor. She commands the Governor’s respect because of her unwavering loyalty and keen political senses.

Her husband, Bill Filmore, is the Governor’s Legislative Director. He has the respect of both parties and leaders of both Chambers. He is very knowledgeable and a straight shooter. Bill comes from a political family. His daddy is a Wiregrass judge and Bill was SGA President at Troy University.

Leah Garner, who is the Governor’s Communications Director is very bright and sees the big picture of Alabama politics. Gina Maiola does an outstanding job as the Governor’s Press Secretary. She is an extremely talented wordsmith. She shoots straight with the press and they appreciate her honesty and accessibility.

Speaking of the media, you have some outstanding under 45 superstars covering the political world in Alabama. Sean Ross (26) joined Yellowhammer News in 2018 and quickly became editor. He is doing a super job of putting this online media news network on top. He understands Alabama politics amazingly for his age. He is a graduate of the University of Alabama and was involved in student politics.

Jeff Poor has taken over talk radio in Huntsville. He is very knowledgeable and conservative in an erudite way. Talk radio is very popular in that part of the state. He brings a less strident and quality voice to that medium, especially in that market.

Young Jack Royer, at the ripe age of 24, has become the television anchor rock star in the state. He anchors the CBS 42 nightly news with Sherri Jackson. The Birmingham media market dominates the state. Jack who only graduated from the University of Alabama 2 years ago, was born to be a television reporter and anchor. His dad, Mike Royer, was a renowned and very highly respected TV anchor in Birmingham for decades.

See you next week.

Steve Flowers is Alabama’s leading political columnist. His weekly column appears in over 60 Alabama newspapers. He served 16 years in the state legislature. Steve may be reached at www.steveflowers.us.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

One of many American heroes

Our United States are in unprecedented times with so much bad news coming every day. We try to search for some “positives” in order to help battle against this dreaded COVID-19 pandemic.

About a month ago we learned that our niece Amy McDonald who is a Paramedic out of Fairhope, Alabama a small town on Mobile Bay had volunteered along with other first responders from around the country, to travel to New York City to help support the FDNY.

They traveled in an ambulance convoy to NYC where their assignments took them to Queens, Brooklyn, Manhattan, Staten Island, and the Bronx. They used Facebook to communicate and keep the FDNY emergency channel clear.

While she was responding to calls in Staten Island, a Facebook message came in from a retired EMT from NYC now living in Israel. The man asked if someone could check in with his mother to see if she was ok. Amy’s response, “I would be honored to check on your parents.”

With the help of her team, Amy was happy to let the worried son know that his Mom was just fine. Amy spent two weeks up in New York before returning to Fairhope a few weeks ago. Upon her arrival home, Amy was quarantined and is now just returning to work assisting those in Alabama.

I know that there are so many “AMERICAN HEROES” today in the fight against this dreaded virus. The sacrifices that these people are making is truly inspiring and helps put a “smile” on one’s face during times that bring so much sadness.

Amy McDonald, we are all so proud of you . . . you are an American Hero!

Respectfully, Kurt Harz, Lisle, IL.

WEEK OF MAY 4, 2020

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) The Lamb is usually excited about taking on a new challenge. But if that's a touch of doubt you're feeling, maybe it's you telling yourself to go slow on this until you learn more about it.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Accepting new commitments when you haven't yet finished the batch on hand could be a bit rash. Better to ease up on the new ones until you get further along with your current lot.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Try to be more open-minded in working toward a resolution of that standoff between yourself and a colleague or family member. A little flexibility now could work to your advantage later.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Some people might be anxious about your plans. So you need to take time to explain what you expect to do and how you expect do it. And don't forget to ask for suggestions.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Dealing with an unfamiliar problem can be difficult. The wisest course you can take is to ask for advice from those who have been where you are and have come through it. Good luck.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Tackle a frustrating job problem by considering possibilities you might have ignored before. This reassures colleagues you're serious about finding a solution, even if it's not totally yours.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your balanced approach to life proves to be helpful this week when someone you care for needs your spiritual comfort, while someone else benefits from your tough-love practicality.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Once again, you're likely to be asked to keep a secret for someone. But do you really want to do so? Be honest with yourself and with your needs before you make any such commitment.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Taking a more direct approach from the more diplomatic one you've used before could make a difference in finally resolving a too-long-held disagreement. Try it.

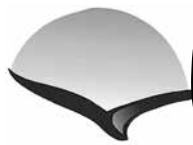

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Being asked for advice is flattering to the Sea Goat, who has a habit of saying the right thing. This time, expect someone to be especially impressed and to act on that sentiment.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) With a number of pressures easing, your project could be making a lot more progress than you expected by this time. That's great news. But don't let yourself be distracted; stay with it.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) An interesting challenge looms that could be exactly what you've been looking for. Discuss this with colleagues who could have much to contribute and who might want to join with you.

7 p.m. on FOX-10 FOX-25 9-1-1

In a new episode called "Powerless," the hijacking of a tree-trimmer truck results in a citywide power outage, but the 118 team also is caught up in the attempted rescue of a little girl in a runaway hot-air balloon. Elsewhere, Athena's (Angela Bassett) investigation into the serial-rapist case puts her life in grave danger. Tracie Thoms, John Harlan Kim, Bryan Safi and Scottie Thompson guest star.

8 p.m. on CBS-5 All Rise

Making a virtue of necessity, this new episode explores how the shelter-in-place rules relating to the COVID-19 crisis affect the criminal justice system. As the episode opens, Judge Benner (Marg Helgenberger) authorizes a "virtual" bench trial presided over by Judge Lola Carmichael (Simone Missick). The other characters including the defendant, lawyers and prosecutors argue their case via such video chat apps as FaceTime, WebEx and Zoom, while also trying to navigate their personal lives in quarantine. Jessica Camacho, Ruthie Ann Miles and Wilson Bethel also star.

8 p.m. on PBS-42 American Experience

"George W. Bush" looks at an American president who came into office under fiercely contentious circumstances and took office less than 10 months before the terrorist attacks of 9/11 ushered in a new era of fear and anxiety. Concluding Tuesday, this new profile includes interviews with journalists, historians and such members of "W's" inner circle as chiefs of staff Andrew Card and Joshua Bolten, senior advisor Karl Rove, speechwriter David Frum and press secretary Ari Fleischer.

8 p.m. on AMC Creepshow

Originally created for Shudder, a horror/thriller streaming service, this television spinoff of the Stephen King movie series begins a six-week run each Monday on AMC, with two chilling tales in each episode. First up in tonight's premiere, "Gray Matter" stars Adrienne Barbeau and Giancarlo Esposito in a story about a platoon of American soldiers who find an unlikely way out of a Nazi trap. Then, "The House of the Head" revolves around a girl (Calley Fleming) who finds a strange toy head in her dollhouse.

The Queen at War

Princess Elizabeth of England was only 13 when World War II broke out, but this new documentary — airing some 75 years after that conflict ended — examines how the Second World War set the future queen on her path to becoming a truly legendary monarch. She and her sister Margaret became symbols of hope to their nation as its citizens were assailed by the violent terrors of the Blitz, the trauma of relocating over a million children, and other physical and psychological assaults from that horrific war.

7:30 p.m. on ABC-3
Bless This Mess

A violent storm strike in Bucksnot just makes several of the locals even more aware of their already fraught personal situations in the Season 2 finale, "Tornado Season: Part Two." Things between Beau and Mike (David Koechner, Dax Shepard) remain tense over which egg business will land a contract with Dolores' (guest star Celia Watson) restaurant, and a mix-up in pregnancy tests has Rio (Lake Bell), Kay (Lennon Parham) and Jacob's (JT Neal) girlfriend all wondering whether the stork is on the way.

Movie: Natalie Wood: What Remains Behind

Actress Natasha Gregson Wagner is both a producer and a key on-camera presence in this poignant remembrance of her mother, Natalie Wood, as told by some of the people who knew her best. The documentary incorporates previously unseen home movies, photographs, diaries, letters and artifacts, along with intimate interviews with friends, family, co-stars and colleagues of the actress, who died in 1981 at the age of 43. Pivotal to the program is a candid conversation with Robert Wagner, who married Wood twice.

9 p.m. on ID
Reasonable Doubt

Season 3 wraps up with "It Wasn't Me," which chronicles the case of small-time drug dealer Roosevelt Myles, convicted of murdering a teenage boy on the West Side of Chicago in 1982. Years later, Myles' sister and fiancée reach out to retired detective Chris Anderson and defense attorney Fatima Silva to investigate whether Myles is serving time for a crime he never committed.

How to make delicious meals from the basics on 'Quarantine Cooking Show'

At a time when supplies of some foods are limited and supermarket shelves are bare, being resourceful with what's in the pantry becomes paramount. And with that, Mary Beth Albright can help. In her "Quarantine Cooking Show," which streams in The Washington Post website's food section, the Post's food editor and one-time "Food Network Star" contestant offers tips and recipes using common nonperishable items that many people already have in-house. In quick three- to five-minute videos, she shows how to make such comestibles as roasted canned tomatoes, coconut rice, salami chips and salmon cakes. In all cases, these are simple, inexpensive meals that anyone can make, and Albright argues it's not unlike how people ate when eating food made outside the home was a rarity.

"I think honestly that ... this is the way that humanity has cooked for most of our existence," she says. "It's like, what do we have around, and how are we going to make something that's going to be nourishing and delicious out of it? I think in a way it's like, 'Oh, OK, here's the next wave of cooking' things that are going to happen. In a way, it's going back to the way things have always been. (It's) efficient and scrappy."

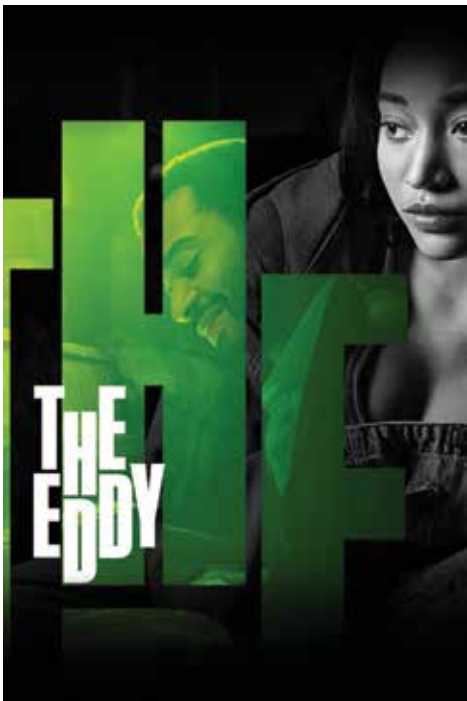

Albright is somewhat of an authority in the areas of quarantining and food, given her background in emergency preparedness, law, public health and the Surgeon General's Office (she worked for the legendary Dr. C. Everett Koop), and her passion for food issues and cooking. In this challenging time, she wanted to produce something that would enhance people's well-being, show them how to mitigate risk and give them information on how to take care of themselves through food. Which is why one of her early "Quarantine" episodes walks through the 10 foods to stock up on in case you're locked down. "It's really stuff that one might have on hand or might be able to find," she says. "Like, I'm not going to do anything with like ... a steak because I don't know if people can find that right now. "I don't start off with something that I necessarily have in the house — and I have a lot of stuff in the house when (I) make food videos. That just happens," she says with a laugh. "But I do try to go for the things that I think will be on shelves. You can buy 10 cans of canned salmon right now and just keep them around and make these salmon cakes."

“America in Color”
From the creative forces behind “See No Evil” and “Britain in Color” comes this 12-episode documentary series that showcases key moments in U.S. history from the 1920s to the 1960s using high definition-enhanced footage. Eric Meyers, Liev Schriber and Stephen Mangan serve as narrators.

“Mr Selfridge”
Jeremy Piven (“Entourage”) has the title role in Season 1 of this British drama that tells the real-life story of Harry Selfridge, the American founder of the iconic London department store Selfridge’s in the early 1900s. The impressive cast also includes Amanda Abbington, Ron Cook, Tom Goodman-Hill, Katherine Kelly and Amy Beth Hayes.

“The Mind of a Chef”
Anthony Bourdain narrated and executive produced this 2012-17 PBS series that follows chefs in their daily lives and examines their beliefs and philosophies on cooking and the culinary arts. Season 1, which streams here, features New York-based chef David Chang (“Ugly Delicious”).

“Movie: Paranormal Activity 3”
Reaffirming the suspense franchise as more than a one-trick pony, this third round delves even farther into the past than the preceding prequel, with the younger incarnations of the sisters (played as adults by returnees Katie Featherston and Sprague Grayden) experiencing their initial hauntings while a video camera records clues. The style will seem familiar to those who saw “Catfish”: This was handled by the same filmmakers, Henry Joost and Ariel Schulman.

BEST NATALIE WOOD MOVIES

"Miracle on 34th Street" (1947) A very young Wood is part of this holiday staple as a Macy's executive's (Maureen O'Hara) skeptical daughter, who doesn't believe in Santa Claus ... until she meets the real deal (Oscar winner Edmund Gwenn).

"Rebel Without a Cause" (1955) Wood started to come of age as a friend of a deeply troubled town newcomer (James Dean) in this Nicholas Ray-directed drama classic.

"The Searchers" (1956) Regarded by many as the greatest Western ever made, John Ford's saga features Wood as the Comanche-abducted niece of the Civil War veteran (John Wayne) who pursues her.

"Marjorie Morningstar" (1958) One of Wood's more underrated movies foreshadowed some of her later ones, adapting Herman Wouk's novel about a would-be actress whose love for an aspiring writer (Gene Kelly) is opposed by her parents.

"Splendor in the Grass" (1961) Speaking to a generation, and still doing so today, Wood's performance for director Elia Kazan as a 1920s Kansas teen facing social pressures – and not doing particularly well in handling that – remains a milestone among the credits of both Wood and her leading man, Warren Beatty. (This leads off a night of Wood's films Monday, May 4, on Turner Classic Movies.)

"West Side Story" (1961) A new version is slated for release at Christmas, but director Robert Wise's Oscar-winning musical is destined to remain forever beloved for elements including Wood's portrayal of lovestruck heroine Maria.

"Gypsy" (1962) Wood does dynamic work as a burlesque performer striving to live out the dreams of her pushy mom (Rosalind Rissell), the ultimate "stage mother."

"Love With the Proper Stranger" (1963) Forming a dynamic duo with Steve McQueen, Wood is affecting as a saleswoman dealing with an expected pregnancy and the musician who's the father.

"Inside Daisy Clover" (1965): In her first teaming with Robert Redford – who credits her with having been a major proponent of his screen career – Wood plays an unlikely movie star who has a hard time dealing with the trappings of the Hollywood of the 1930s.

"Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice" (1969) Nodding to social developments of the time, Wood rolled the dice with her image by playing part of a two-couple foursome experimenting with freedom in commitment and sexuality.

"Brainstorm" (1983) Completed after her death, Wood's final film is an intriguing science-fiction tale casting her as one of several researchers involved in developing a device that can read people's minds.
