ONE YEAR LATER

Hurricane Sally battered and beat Alabama's island communities but couldn't slow them down

STAFF REPORT

Hurricane Sally slowly slurred across the U.S. Gulf Coast last year leaving an estimated $7.3 billion in damage in its wake.

In Alabama, the storm roared ashore overnight and into the early morning hours of Sept. 16. When the sun rose, it illuminated widespread and heartbreaking damage.

Neighbors, friends and strangers worked together to clear roads, remove trees and debris and begin to put the pieces of life back together.

"The community of Orange Beach responded to Sally in a way that was second to none," said Orange Beach Mayor Tony Kennon. "Sally was so unique in that nobody left so the next morning after Sally had passed everybody was still here. It was a different experience from anything we have ever had and everybody pulled together, helped their neighbors, helped the city, helped our contractors. It was a total team effort. I think the results speak for themselves."

Those results are that 70 percent of the hundreds of damaged city buildings in Orange Beach have been repaired, 420,000 cubic yards of debris was removed from the city and 600 vessels were removed or salvaged.

Phillip West, Orange Beach Coastal Resources Manager, said the city "removed about 423,000 cubic yards of debris, which is about 75,000 cubic yards short of what we removed after Hurricane Ivan. However, our marine debris (not including vessels) from Sally totaled about 35,000 cubic yards (via contractor — we still pick up Sally debris on a daily basis), which is about three times what we recovered after Ivan from the waterways."

"So, although they have not reclassified Sally as a Category 3 storm, it certainly did Category 3 level damage," West said.

Even though many marinas, docks and piers are still awaiting materials for repair work to be completed, Kennon said much of the island is humming at a normal summer's pace. As the hurricane season begins to turn into its most active time of the year, the islanders, he said, are ready.

"I learned we are in a really tough community and there is nothing that intimidates us," Kennon said

Total debris collected - 420,000 cubic yards of debris removed; over 600 vessels were physically displaced in the storm and required removal and/or salvage

Number of structures affected / Number of structures left to repair

1. The City of Orange Beach Building Department issued 823 roofing permits between Sept. 16, 2020 (Sally) and April 10, 2021 (hailstorm) and issued a total of 2,424 permits total during this time.
2. The city had a total of 66 potentially substantially damaged structures.
3. Building Official Adam Roberson estimates that 80% of all structures in Orange Beach had some type of non-major damage from Sally. Of that 80%, Roberson estimates that 70% have been repaired.
4. Most of the damaged structures were on the beachfront.
5. 90% of marine accessory structures on open water were completely demolished.

The estimated dollar amount of damage citywide - As of Aug. 11, the City of Orange Beach has spent $16,913,847.58 in expenses related to Hurricane Sally. Repair work is expected to continue with most costs to be incurred. As far as reimbursement, the city has only received $5,010,925 from FEMA.

Anthony Jones ... Well Worth A Visit!

Voted The Best Salon in Baldwin County

It was a beautiful summer morning when we left Fairhope, low humidity and not a cloud in the sky. We were on our way down to Orange Beach to check out a business that many of our friends have told us about, this Englishman who had opened a Hair Salon on the beach with his daughter Emma. My hair is very important to me and getting a good haircut is a must, and that is what Anthony Jones is known for and excellent hair color to boot.

We have both been very dissatisfied with the last few attempts on designing our hair to suit our lifestyles; most of the so called stylists did not take into consideration our age or understand that we both want to look great without a lot of fuss and bother.

The traffic was a bit heavy due to the summer visitors, but we arrived on time to this charming yellow and white beach house on the beach road with a fabulous view of the Gulf of Mexico. We were greeted warmly by Anthony and Emma and they ask us if we would like a cold drink or a glass of wine before he started making us beautiful.

Pam, my friend, went first since I was a little chicken after the last experiences. Anthony directed her to a styling chair and went on to explain the ten most important rules in designing a custom hairstyle to suit her. He first looked at her face shape and explained that there are five face shapes out there and told her her face shape was oval. The next was bone structure and head shape, after that was the type of her hair, the texture of her hair, then what sort of condition her hair was in, followed by the way the hair grows out of the head, plus cow licks, then her likes and dislikes and fashion. Wow! What a lot of things to get right.

So then Emma started with a relaxing shampoo and deep conditioning, then for the next 30 minutes Anthony's hands were a sea of motion, lastly a quick blow dry with hardly any fuss and presto she was finished! She was so happy and she could not believe the difference in her hair.

Now it was my turn, my hair especially in the summer gets very frizzy and dry; I have tried everything out there for my hair with no success! Anthony explained that commercial hair products are made different to professional hair products. Commercial shampoos are made of mild detergent and the conditioners are based on petroleum oil. Where professional hair products are pure and natural and give back to the hair, he also went on to say that we should all wash our hair every day and condition our hair the same.

Anthony explained that at all times our hair has to have at least 8% moisture in it the same as our skin, we should treat our hair the same way as we treat our skin, by moisturizing it every day which made a lot of sense to me, since the last stylist told me not to wash my hair every day because in her mind it would dry it out. Anthony explained to me that yes using some drug store products would dry your hair out if washed daily. After we went through the ten rules, he took me to the shampoo area and treated me to the best shampoo and conditioning my hair had ever had.

While shampooing, Emma explained to me what I should do in the morning in the shower, again stressing no over-the-counter hair products, that's why my hair is dry and frizzy. After shampooing and before conditioning, towel blot the hair because the hair is porous like a sponge, putting any conditioner on one's hair when it is full of water will not go into the hair itself, so blot it first then apply the product and leave it in while you are washing yourself. Then before you leave the shower, rinse and count up to 10 slowly and stop, just rinse the excess and no more.

After she explained to me the hows & whys, I understood. They are like hair doctors, if we listen and do what they says it works! Anthony has his own line of products and everything he used on me was his and believe me the stuff works. The cut he gave me was wonderful; I walked out a new woman and so did Pam, no more frizzes! Oh, by the way he used a great product before he dried my hair called "POTION." It is a gel with a lot of healing features with body, fabulous! I bought a bottle. Best money we ever spent and yes, we are definitely going back. He is a true professional.

Well worth a visit!

Hurricane Sally

It is hard to believe that it has almost been a year since Hurricane Sally hit us. So many homes, piers, and businesses are still trying to recover, us being one. My city, my county, and my state have been great at helping with the recovery.

Long

I have lived through many hurricanes, but I must admit Sally wins the prize. Maybe it was because of all the boats breaking loose and crashing into the deck, shed and our yard. None of us were thinking Sally was going to be bad. It was supposed to go into the coast of Mississippi, but several things changed. Its speed slowed down, shifted direction to the east, and brought 29 plus inches of rain to us causing a high storm surge. Because it stayed over us longer, recovery has been much slower than all the hurricanes I have experienced, starting with Baker in 1950.

I am enclosing some before and after photos. They really tell my story.

Local historian Margaret Childress Long moved to Orange Beach from Evergreen when she was just two months shy of her second birthday. Although she did spend 12 years in Creola she has always called Orange Beach home. Margaret and her husband Buddy live in the same house where Margaret's parents lived for more than 50 years. Her dad paid $12,500 to Dr. Amos Garret of Robertsdale, her mom's first cousin, in 1949 for the 300 ft. waterfront parcel. A teacher at Fairhope Middle and High Schools and Elberta Middle School, Margaret served the island as school board representative for six years. A fisherman, hunter and farmer, her father also owned a farm in Summerdale. Sons Wesley and Brooks have turned the farm into the popular Alligator Alley tourist attraction.

Margaret has co-authored two books, "The Best Place to Be – The Story of Orange Beach, Alabama" and "Orange Beach Alabama – A Pictorial History"

The winner of the 'Greatest Show in Sportfishing' has the greatest tale

58 boats compete for $1.39 million in prize money

BY MELANIE LECROY

This year's 2021 Blue Marlin Grand Champions faced serious adversity at the start of the tournament but in true underdog fashion, came back to clinch the top prize.

Shortly after the tournament's shotgun start, the 58 competing boats raced to their favorite fishing spot in search of a prize-winning blue marlin. But not Chris Haley, owner of Skin Deep Sportfishing. He was about 10 miles offshore when the boat felt like it ran over a log.

"My son Patrick jumped in. We slung a blade and pulled the strut loose from the bottom of the boat. We got hauled out at Saunders and we are dead in the water," Haley said Friday afternoon.

The boat repairs would take time the team did not have so Haley started calling around. He was able to find a charter available, Joe Jernigan's boat Feeling Nauti.

"It's great to have friends in the business. We called seven or eight people. Joe is nice enough to let us use his boat and we are going to go make a run at it. We are going to put all of our own tackle on here and go get fuel and head offshore," Haley said shortly after boarding Feeling Nauti.

After fueling up and loading in all the gear, Skin Deep Sportfishing was off on Feeling Nauti before dark Friday night. The team wasted no time in landing a massive blue marlin before lunch Saturday. They were the first of four blue marlins to weigh in on the first night topping the scales at 575.2 pounds.

Throughout the tournament, Blue Marlin Grand Championship Master of Ceremonies Jim Cox gave live updates on Facebook. There were many blue and white marlin released throughout the tournament getting teams points but the crowds came to see the blue marlins weigh in.

On the first night of weigh-ins, Hall Pass had a 534.4-pound blue marlin. Lisa Jo brought in a 115-inch blue marlin weighing in at 516.4 pounds and last year's champion Pearl weighed in a 575.2-pound blue marlin.

On the final night of the tournament Rascal weighed in a 463-pound blue marlin and Sea Wolf's weighed in at 482.8 pounds.

In the end, the team that almost did not make it out and the first to weigh in took the top prize. Team Skin Deep

Creating a GREAT DAY

The world is a more colorful place with Renee Vandevere's brightly hued animals

BY ALLISON MARLOW

Renee Vandevere enjoyed drawing. She could create adorable characters with ease. But her doodles were just a hobby.

Then, she walked into a custom painted playroom and the owner told her how much the picture-perfect scene on the walls cost. That was the day Vandevere put her natural talent to work.

Her colorful children's murals quickly became popular among homeowners and businesses in Dallas where she lived at the time. Vandevere expanded her offerings and soon moved into a faux finishing and mural business. When she grew tired of climbing ladders and painting 10 feet off the ground, she opened Paint Like Picasso, a traveling art studio that brought the class to groups and corporate retreats. Vandevere used art to focus on team building and other corporate events.

Five years ago, Vandevere and her husband Gary moved to Gulf Shores, a place that she frequently visited as a child. The pair opened

Vandevere

Mr. Sandless, a floor refinishing business, and Vandevere continued to paint, now, inspired by the open air and animals of the Gulf Coast.

The result is an ocean full of colorful scenes, brightly hued fish, turtles and birds, all perched on Vandevere's canvas.

"I love color," Vandevere said. "A lot of people are afraid of using it, but it is definitely my happy place."

Picasso not only provided the name for her business but the inspiration for her creations. The Spanish painter's unbridled use of color through his various works created a world of wonder for the painter.

"I love how bold and colorful he is," she said.

Several of Vandevere's works are on display and available for sale at the Coastal Arts Center of Orange Beach. Some of her most popular pieces are scenes painted on reclaimed wood which feature a white-washed or sanded background. The animals are crafted from watercolor crayons and acrylic, which gives the piece an antique feeling as if the artwork is as old and beautifully worn as the sea itself.

Vandevere also paints animals that are a little less mysterious. Her popular pet portraits, which start at $150, capture the smiles, warm eyes and cuddly faces that owners love every day.

Over the years Vandevere said she has experimented with a variety of style, palettes, and mediums, everything but a pottery wheel she said with a laugh.

Regardless of what she is crafting, she aims to create fun and love and encourages others to do the same. She ends every conversation with a simple phrase, "Create a great day."

Indeed.

SURPRISE!

This Southern two-toed sloth was born at the Alabama Gulf Coast Zoo on Mother's Day. He and his family are on exhibit to the public at the zoo's new South American Adventure Exhibit.

It's a sloth!

BY ALLISON MARLOW

Sylvia is a typical American mom. She keeps her baby close but is thankful when a helper comes to take him for a checkup so she can munch on lunch in peace.

And she doesn't appreciate it when the tot settles onto her head for a nap, digging his long, curved nails into her hair.

Ahh, motherhood. The joy and the exhaustion feels the same in any language, human or sloth.

Sylvia and her bundle of joy, both Southern two-toed sloths, are now on display as part of the new South American Adventure exhibit at the Jordan Danflous, a guest engagement keeper at the Alabama Gulf Coast Zoo, keeps an eye and a hand on the zoo's newest addition, a three-month old Southern two-toed sloth, as he explores the new South American Adventure exhibit.

Want to meet the baby sloth?

WHERE: Alabama Gulf Coast Zoo's new South American Adventure Exhibit

WHEN: Alabama Gulf Coast Zoo, 20499 Oak Road East, Gulf Shores

Alabama Gulf Coast Zoo.

The tiny sloth arrived on Mother's Day. The staff suspected Sylvia was pregnant but wasn't certain. That morning as staff members made their rounds the black walkie talkies they carry began to hum with the sounds of confusion, then excitement.

"I think everyone here that day sprinted to the sloth exhibit," said Hannah Fries, guest engagement keeper. "We didn't even notice the baby at first. He was on her belly and just looked like more fur."

Fries said the staff doesn't know yet if Sylvia's boy is in fact, a boy or a girl. That distinction is not as obvious as it is in other creatures, she said, and usually requires a blood test to determine.

As for names, the zoo has asked for the public's assistance. Dozens of suggestions were submitted, and the staff narrowed the field to five: Chewie, Eco, Flash, Gus and Shaka. Visitors can vote for a name online with a $1 donation. The funds collected will be used to purchase more vegetation for the sloth exhibit.

When the tiny sloth, who weighed less than a pound at birth, and his parents Sylvia and Herbert, greet the crowd today they will be in the zoo's new South American Adventure exhibit. A set of ropes gives the animals room to roam where the public can see them but walkways within the exhibit maintain a sense of closeness for the zoo's sloth encounter program.

Outer ropes on the exhibit will provide a perch for colorful macaws.

On the ground below tortoises will roam. The set up gives visitors an opportunity to see the animals in a more natural setting, said Zoo Executive Director Joel Hamilton.

Fries said the well socialized sloths are an easy animal for people to view up close because they don't move quickly. Even the newest sloth seemed comfy snuggled against her while cameras clicked and whirred.

More importantly, she said, encounters with sloths or any animal at the zoo is an opportunity to help visitors understand why they should care about the environment.

Hamilton said every encounter at the zoo, whether through keeper talks, presentations or the chance to hold a sloth is meant to help visitors make a connection.

"We utilize these encounters to reach people and hopefully help them make a connection and look at the impact they make on the world and help change the world," he said.

Five-Olive Salad with fresh herbs

Buffett

One night some friends brought even more friends to my house for dinner, so I needed an extra dish to stretch the menu. Inspired by the classic olive salad from the famous Central Grocery to New Orleans, I hurriedly threw this recipe together with olives I had in my refrigerator and herbs from my garden. I put it out on the table with a loaf of crusty artisan bread and my guests raved about it, so I decided I should write it down and share it here. Instead of loaves and fishes, it was loaves and olives that managed to help feed a much larger crowd than I had anticipated! It's ok to play with this recipe and get creative. You can't mess it up.

Makes 4 cups

Ingredients

- 5 (10 – 12-ounce) jars of a variety of pitted olives
- 1 (3.5-ounce) jar capers
- 6 garlic cloves, sliced
- Whole sprigs of fresh herbs (I use oregano, basil, tarragon, and sage)
- 1 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 cup lemon olive oil, or 1 cup extra-virgin olive oil plus the rind of 1 lemon sliced into slivers
- Crackers or bread, for serving

Directions:

1. Drain the olives and capers and chop the olives into large pieces, leaving some of them whole.
2. Transfer the olives and capers to a large bowl. Add the garlic, herbs, olive oil and lemon olive oil (or olive oil and slivered lemon rind, if using) and stir gently to combine.
3. Transfer to a glass jar or serving bowl and serve with crackers or bread.
