Elberta police chief still hospitalized

Residents gather for vigil after DeVane's horseback riding accident in Colorado

By CLIFF MCCOLLUM
cliff@gulfcoastmedia.com

Elberta Police Chief Stan DeVane remains hospitalized in Colorado following a horseback riding accident, but members of the Elberta community came together last week to lift up DeVane in thoughts and prayers.

Residents, local law enforcement members and town of-officials gathered in Elberta's public park Wednesday night for a candlelight prayer vigil with over 100 attendees. Prayers were said, thoughts were shared and residents took time to sign a card police department officials will send to DeVane's hospital.

DeVane was injured while horseback riding out west when his horse bucked him and he fell. DeVane broke seven ribs and some of his teeth.

Following the accident, DeVane also developed a bacterial infection in his blood and is suffering from pneumonia.

DeVane remains in the hospital in Denver being treated for the ailments but friends back in Elberta say they know he is going to be able to make it through this.

"Anyone who knows Chief DeVane knows he is a strong person, so we want him to get better and get back to us as soon as he is able," Acting Elberta Mayor Michael Hudson said. "We want

Foley model city for low-impact developments

By JESSICA VAUGHN
jessica@gulfcoastmedia.com

FOLEY — The Mobile Bay National Estuary Program has teamed with leaders across Alabama to develop a new program that will seek to bring low impact developments to cities and towns throughout the state. Along with multiple leaders throughout the state, the program has created a presentation that will be shown to various city councils during the upcoming months, and Foley was the first city to view the film during the July 17 council meeting.

With the film, the Mobile Bay National Estuary Program hopes to spread the importance of low impact developments, as well as describing how they work and what they are. Foley was a huge player in the development of the presentation, which Leslie Gahagan, Foley's environmental manager, believes is an important factor in the city being chosen as a model city.

"Foley is really standing out statewide as a leader in low impact development, even though our ordinance isn't even there yet," said Gahagan.

According to the presentation, entitled "Low Impact Development: Stormwater Doesn't Have to be a Headache," using low impact development methods is one way to respect the connect. As stated

Been to The Park at OWA yet?

OWA filled with thrills, memories

By JESSICA VAUGHN
jessica@gulfcoastmedia.com

FOLEY — On July 21 at 10 a.m., The Park at OWA opened its gates to the public, and the crowds went rushing in. According to an official release from OWA, "After nine months of hard work and anticipation, the 14-acre amusement park welcomed large crowds to its opening day. Festivities for opening weekend include nightly firework shows, a multitude of entertainers and live music throughout The Park at OWA."

The Park at OWA features 21 rides, ranging from thrill rides to ones that can be enjoyed by all ages. For thrill seekers, there's the Rollin' Thunder coaster which takes guests on a fast-paced ride of their lives, or guests can face the heights of Freedom Flyers, which at its highest point is 100 feet. For those who are seeking a ride a little tamer, The Park at OWA also offers a wide variety of rides from Leap Frog, the Wave Rider, and the Flying Carousel.

National Guard of Foley schedules September training day

By JESSICA VAUGHN
jessica@gulfcoastmedia.com

FOLEY — Ever want to watch as the Alabama National Guard performs a training exercise? Come September, that may very well be possible, as the National Guard here in the Foley area has requested to use the Foley airport to perform helicopter training exercises.

During the July 17 council meeting, Sgt.

1st Class Holzer and Staff Sgt. Chapman put their request to the council.

"We're still kind of new to this area, and what we're trying to do is we have training requirements that we have to meet throughout the year," Holzer said. Part of their training exercises includes the use of aviation helicopters, and they hope to use the facilities here in Foley rather than driving to Fort Rucker or Eglin Air Force Base.

"Our first step is the training we have planned in September," Holzer continued. "It's simply landing helicopters in an area, practicing getting on and off them. They're basically going to take the guys up in helicopters and circle around, and they'll come in and land and practice getting off and on."

The original plan was to use the north part of the airport, but as of now they haven't completed working with the aviation site to

DAR holds Flag Day luncheon

SUBMITTED

The Zachariah Godbold Chapter, Bay Minette, of The National Society Daughters of the American Revolution hosted the annual Baldwin County Chapters' Flag Day Luncheon at the Lake Forest Yacht Club on June 14.

Luncheon guests included the State Regent of The Alabama Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Nancy Sturkie Folk, additional honored State Society Officers, and members and spouses of the Bon Secour, Ecor Rouge, Fort Bowyer and Fort Mims Chapters.

Luncheon attendees welcomed Karen White, an actress from Theatre 98, who portrayed and shared an historical narrative of Betsy Ross.

The Alabama Bicentennial Commission and Alabama Historical Commission provided materials reminding luncheon attendees of both Commissions' past and upcoming events commemorating Alabama history and celebrating Alabama's Bicentennial.

The Betsy Ross House of Philadelphia provided guidance and literature in support of White's presentation.

Among those attending the luncheon were, from left, Lucille Few Wilson, Zachariah Godbold Chapter regent; Karen White, "Betsy Ross," Nancy Sturkie Folk, ASDAR State regent; Clariyce Boyd Lilly, ASDAR state registrar; Susan Richardson Tomlinson, ASDAR Southern District director; Claudia Slaughter Campbell, Fort Mims Chapter regent; and Louise Reid, Fort Bowyer Chapter regent.

The Park at OWA will now be open seven days a week, throughout the year. Park hours are 10 a.m. to midnight, until further notice.

"As many of you have witnessed, our tribe has a history of developing high-quality, major commercial projects in a short time frame," said Tim Martin, president/CEO of CIEDA and one of the spearheads for the creation of OWA. "Since taking over this site in April of 2015, the Poarch Band of Creek Indians has aggressively pushed forward the development of a public/private partnership with the City of Foley and the state of Alabama, to create a world destination resort in Foley, Alabama: OWA."

Before greenlighting the construction of OWA, CIEDA was challenged by tribal leaders to perform economic studies to make sure that OWA would be a successful endeavor.

"We did no less than eight commissioned studies on different things for this park," Martin said. "Each of those studies came back and said it was economically viable to do this."

Inside The Park, guests will not only find the 21 rides, but also shopping, souvenirs, midway games, and two in-park dining options, along with various food carts set up throughout the location.

Come September, OWA will be opening what is known as the Downtown District. Located outside The Park, guests will be able to enjoy a day filled with shopping at the many tenants coming soon and dining by the 14-acre lake in one of the many restaurant options that will be found in the area, including the second-largest U.S. location of Wahlburgers. The lake itself will feature an amphitheater on an island located in the middle, as well as a boathouse. For those who would like to stay a while, the 150-room Marriott TownePlace Suites at OWA is already open for business. Admission into the Downtown District is free, and the only admission cost found on the OWA property will be to get inside The Park.

These are just phase 1 and 2 plans for OWA. The following years will show the Downtown District growing, with even more shops and dining options coming, along with a RV park, a resort level condominium, four more hotels and an outdoor waterpark.

"OWA is all about families and good times," said Stephanie Bryan, tribal chair and CEO of the Poarch Band of Creek Indians. "The tribe, our big extended family, we value time spent together. And from the very beginning, we believed that we could create something really special here for families, whether they're on vacation or they're here to play soccer or lacrosse. And today, here we are, ready to start having fun and making memories."

work out the details of flight plans. Before continuing with the area inspection, they first wanted to bring their request up for approval.

"I know some of the concerns were times and noise in the area," said Holzer. "I think what we had originally planned was 10 o'clock a.m. at the earliest that the aviation birds would actually be landing, and I don't think we'd be past 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon."

They are also looking to make the training public, and onlookers are not only welcome, but encouraged.

"Another side of it is that we're trying to recruit for the area," Holzer said. "We're trying to reach out in the community, and we belong to the public. We're here for you guys, and so people can come out and see, 'so this is what they're doing,' and it might bring some attention to us ... I know they use the Gulf Shores airport a lot, you see them flying over here all the time. We're just trying to use Foley instead of going somewhere else."

During the training, there will not be any type of blank ammunition or any combat training taking place, merely helicopter take-offs, landings, and moving on and off a moving chopper.

The National Guard are requesting a minimum of two helicopters to be used for the training, two UH-60s, otherwise known as Blackhawk Helicopters. However, there may be up to four helicopters to be used for the training, which would limit the number of trips taken to get everyone participating. Holzer also stated that they may be able to get a CH-47 helicopter as well.

They hope to get as many involved in the training as possible.

"Currently on our books right now we have about 100," said Holzer. "When we started up over here, we had a handful of guys, there were only around 13 of us here, and that's how much we've already built up in the area. So normally on a training site like this we might actually have 60 to 65 boots on the ground."

The National Guard here in Foley will be performing the training exercises on Saturday, Sept. 9, and they encourage anyone interested in watching the training in progress to come out.

Anyone interested in learning more about the National Guard or signing up themselves may check out their website at www.NationalGuard.com.

Padgett graduates from the U.S. Space Academy

HUNTSVILLE — Max Padgett, the son of Jason and Jennifer Padgett of Stockton, recently attended Space Academy at the U.S. Space and Rocket Center, NASA Marshall Space Flight Center's Official Visitor Center.

The weeklong educational program promotes science, technology, engineering and math (STEM), while training students and adults with hands-on activities and missions based on teamwork, leadership and problem solving.

Padgett was part of the Space Academy program, which is designed for trainees who have an interest in space exploration. Padgett spent the week training with a team that flew a simulated space mission to Mars. The crew participated in experiments and successfully completed an extra-vehicular activity, or spacewalk, and returned to Earth in time to graduate with honors.

Space Camp operates year-round in Huntsville and uses astronaut training techniques to engage trainees in real-world applications of STEM subjects. Trainees sleep in quarters designed to resemble the International Space Station and train in NASA-inspired simulators.

More than 750,000 trainees have graduated from Space Camp since its inception in Huntsville, Alabama in 1982, including STS-131 astronaut Dottie Metcalf-Lindenburger, European Space Agency astronaut, Samantha Cristoforetti and NASA Expedition 48 astronaut Dr. Kate Rubins. Last year, children and teachers from all 50 states and 69 international locations attended Space Camp.

Florida Georgia Line bring The Smooth Tour to The Wharf

By JESSICA VAUGHN
jessica@gulfcoastmedia.com

ORANGE BEACH – Florida Georgia Line, comprised of country music duo Tyler Hubbard and Brian Kelley, brought big beats to The Wharf not once, but twice, on Friday, June 14 and again on Saturday, June 15.

Known for their fusion of country, rock, hip-hop, and pop, Florida Georgia Line did not disappoint as they partied along with a packed amphitheater. Filled with energy, the duo played some of their most famous hits along with lesser known tracks, all while interacting with the audience and inviting them to join in on the fun.

The pair started out by getting the audience moving the track “Anything Goes”. The duo continued by playing hits “Round Here”, “May We All”, “Sippin’ on Fire”, “God, Your Mama, and Me”, and “Smooth”, the song for which their current tour is named.

To bring to life the band’s 2016 album “Dig Your Roots”, a backdrop of trees and a makeshift forest were constructed to accompany the country superstars as they performed the titular single. Displaying another touching moment, the duo asked for the audience goers to light up their cell phones and hold them high as they sang “Get Your Shine On”, a request that was readily met by the attendees. The band even performed unknown songs that they described as never being released, songs that they had written for fun and which they performed together before shows to prepare themselves for concerts.

“Thank you for spending your hard-earned money to be out here with us tonight,” Hubbard told the audience. “It means the world to us.”

Joining Florida Georgia Line on their tour were: country singer Morgan Wallen, who opened the show with excitement and energy as he sang “The Way I Talk” and “Boots on the Ground”; Chris Lane, performing his hit songs “Fix” and “For Her”, along with a melody of hit pop songs from over the last few decades; and rapper Nelly, who performed before the headliners and engaged the audience with his hits throughout the years, such as “Party People”, “Ride With Me”, “Country Grammar”, “Air Force One”, and “Shake Ya Tailfeather”. He also engaged with the audience, bringing fans on-stage to sing along with his hits.

Throughout the night, Florida Georgia Line performed alongside their opening acts, and even joined Morgan Wallen to film a music video with the audience.

The encore brought together Florida Georgia Line and Nelly. First, Nelly performed his hit from 2002 “Hot in Here”, followed by the rapper joining Florida Georgia Line to close the show with “Cruise”, the duo’s hit which is currently the best-selling country digital song.

The band also had something else to celebrate, as their song “God, Your Mama, and Me” recently became the duo’s 13th career No. 1 song on the charts. They have also been featured on electropop group The Chainsmokers’ debut studio album on the track “Last Day Alive”.

To see who will be coming to the beach soon and rock out at The Wharf, check their website at AlWharf.com.

Arcole Brandon of Fairhope, a graduate of Fairhope High School and sophomore at Auburn University studying physical therapy.

Grady Gunn of Summerdale, a graduate of Foley High and freshman at Auburn University studying agriscience education.

They are among 100 students from across the state who will reap the rewards of an Alabama Farmers Federation membership when they pay their tuition fees this fall.

In its fourth year, the Alfa Foundation has again distributed $100,000 in scholarships to 100 college students studying at Alabama technical schools, colleges or universities. The scholarship may be used for tuition, fees, books or supplies.

“Alfa is proud to support students who are working hard to educate themselves and develop workforce skills,” said Alfa Insurance and Federation President Jimmy Parnell. “These students are the future of our state and nation, and I hope the scholarship will relieve some of the stress of paying for school.”

The students represent 45 counties and 22 schools.

The Alfa Foundation Scholarship program is administered by Scholarship America, which bases its selection on academics, participation in school and community activities, honors, work experience and future goals.

Baldwin County's Cassebaum attends Ag Voices of the Future program

Kelsey Cassebaum of Lillian was one of eight college students from five states selected for the inaugural Ag Voices of the Future in Washington, D.C. There she met with members of Alabama's congressional delegation during the program. Cassebaum, right, was greeted by U.S. Sen. Richard Shelby, R-Ala., at his office in Washington, D.C.

Kelsey Cassebaum of Lillian was one of eight college students from five states selected for the inaugural Ag Voices of the Future program hosted in Washington, D.C. July 10-13.

The program, sponsored by Valent U.S.A. and the American Soybean Association (ASA), helped young people improve their understanding of major policy issues impacting soybean farmers, the importance of advocacy and careers that shape agricultural policy. The class was in conjunction with the ASA board meeting and Soy Issues Forum.

"I was honored to be selected to participate in the program," said Cassebaum, who is interning at the Alabama Farmers Federation this summer. "In addition to meeting several members of Alabama's congressional delegation, I enjoyed learning more about how agriculture policy is made. It's important for me and other young people to become advocates for agriculture."

Cassebaum is a senior studying agricultural economics major at Auburn University and is Auburn Young Farmers chairman. She is the daughter of Todd and Hope Cassebaum. Their family has a diversified farm in Baldwin County where they grow row crops, fruits and vegetables, cattle and hay. While working at the Federation, the 22-year-old has focused on checkoff programs for the Alabama Soybean Producers and Wheat & Feed Grain Producers.

"More and more, regulations that impact the ag industry are being directed by legislative and regulatory leadership many generations removed from the farm," said Jeffrey Smith, Valent's industry affairs manager. "We believe the best way to ensure sound regulation is to encourage more young leaders with a practical understanding of ag production to consider careers based in Washington, D.C. Valent appreciates the opportunity to partner with ASA to identify, develop and direct these future leaders to have a positive impact on the issues facing soybean farmers and the crop protection industry."

The nearly four-day program was packed with activities and valuable networking opportunities including testimonies from ASA and Valent's Washington representatives and a Senate Ag Committee staff member. The group also attended an ASA policy issues briefing, visited Capitol Hill with farmer-leaders, toured the U.S. Department of Agriculture, heard from an Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) representative and a visited CropLife America's office.

"It's important that young people have an understanding of the important policy issues that directly impact the productivity and economic well-being of our farms and the soybean industry," said ASA President Ron Moore, a farmer from Roseville, Illinois. "ASA appreciates Valent's support of this valuable program that helps to cultivate future voices for agriculture in Washington."

Good Intention – Bad Ending

My father is a wonderful and godly man. The home in which I was reared was a place of laughter, love, and security. But, like every earthly father, Dad had certain idiosyncrasies. One was a love for personal home improvement without any real interest in the requisite skills. One day, Dad decided that my younger brother's upstairs room needed a reliable means of escape if the house ever caught fire (we had been in the house for a decade and Adam was a month away from leaving for college—why the prospect of a fiery end suddenly became a concern of Dad's remains a mystery). Dad procured a length of anchor line (the slickest rope known to man—I think it was on sale) and a large screw eye. He picked a spot below Adam's window, screwed the eye through the carpet and into the floor, tied several knots in the rope, tied the rope to the eye and—voila! A fire-escape! Next, came the test run. Under protest, Adam squeezed himself part way out of the two-foot square window. Dad handed him the rope—the end of the rope—and shoved him the rest of the way out. As they say, the problem wasn't so much the fall as the sudden stop at the end. Turns out that being handed twenty feet of rope as you launch from a window, eighteen feet above the ground isn't all that helpful, as Adam indicated when he croaked up to my father after he had regained his consciousness and his breath: "I think I'd rather burn to death."

B.B. King entitled a blues number that captured my brother's sentiments exactly: "I Got Some Help I Don't Need." It is too often the case that well-meaning people feel moved by some perceived deficiency in the life of another. Motivated by just enough guilt to take action but hardly enough real compassion to actually change things for the better, they do something at minimal cost them that is typically very costly to the people they were trying to "help." Rather, let us be filled with the power and formed by the example of Christ who rescued us completely by loving us to the uttermost (John 13:1).

The Last Move

Downsizing as defined by the Admiral: taking all the stuff you have accumulated over ten years that fills a 3,000-square-foot house on five acres and moving it to a 2,000-square-foot house on one-half acre. Two laws of physics come into play here. One, matter expands to the space allowed it, and over a decade, there is a lot of matter expanded into that space, and two, solids and liquids resist compression. What we had there, doesn't fit here.

Much to her credit, the Admiral did get rid of a lot of stuff. We all did. I issued an edict, to be mostly ignored by all the females in the household, that if you haven't touched it in five years, you don't need it. As packing progressed, the commandment was refined to three years, then one year. We all got rid of a lot of stuff, but not enough.

The big move is done. We are in the new house where we can't find anything, and if we do find it, we have no idea where to put it. Again, matter expands to the space allowed it. I see more truckloads of donations, or we are going to have moving boxes for décor, defining walkways throughout the house. I am tempted to go with the Princesses' moving practice, dump the stuff in your room, and close the door. It seems to work for them, but then what do they care? They are going to be gone to school in a few weeks.

This move has taken ten years off my life. I think I will write a congressperson or two, and propose a government moving program for the aged. When you get to be 65, the government does the moving for you. They could supply the truck and boxes and require welfare recipients to do the labor of packing and hauling. The program would provide honest employment to those wanting it, and weed out those who don't, or won't work. It would also save me a lot of wear and tear, not to mention expense.

We hired a moving service to do the heavy stuff and most of the boxes, but that did not preclude moving cars, boats, tools, trailers, and the like. There are just some things you can't trust to movers, especially cars, boats, tools, and trailers. At least I know where it is, and I didn't break it.

DAVID ATWOOD
Points of the Compass

Yeah, the movers broke a lot of stuff.

We moved for a solid week, and now are unpacking for...ever. I don't remember a time in my life where I have been this tired.

Of course, I have never been this old. I mean it when I say this has taken ten years off my life. Both the Admiral and I are so tired, we are sick. It must be age related. The Princesses act like this is a normal, everyday thing, but then they didn't, and don't have much responsibility for the process. That falls to the adults, and it is a heavy burden.

All the fretting, frowning, sleepless nights, and tears will soon fade from memory, and in a few years, I will forget what the big deal was. Being in a new home is a delight and worth all the pain. The pool is wonderful and I can't wait to be able to sit out by it and enjoy the smell of the roses and gardenias planted about. When the breeze blows from the west, the musk of the fruit trees wafts over you. Yeah, maybe in 2020 when all the unpacking is done, if I survive.

It is the last move, one way or the other. It will either kill me, or I will outlive it, but whatever, it is the last move I am making until they haul me off to a hole in the ground. Then, it will be someone else doing the heavy lifting, and I won't have to pack.

The 'Canary' in the BCA coal mine

During my tenure in the legislature in the 1980's and 1990's, political party affiliation was not as pronounced as it is today.

We were identified within the Montgomery/Capitol arena as either a conservative pro-business legislator or a liberal pro-union/pro-trial lawyer legislator.

Similar to when someone new arrives in Alabama and they are asked to choose sides in college football, you have to make your allegiance with either Alabama or Auburn. We had to make the same choice as legislators. I chose early to be on the side of business. I even took a leading role and was the sponsor of most of the Tort Reform legislation. Therefore, most observers rated me an arch pro-business conservative.

The tort problem was so bad in Alabama that we were considered the black eye of the nation. Time Magazine called us "Tort Hell." With the help of the National Business Community, along with Alabama business leaders and legislators, the Business Council of Alabama was formed. The BCA grew to become the most powerful organization in Alabama.

When Bob Riley became governor in 2002, he orchestrated a game plan to take control of the BCA. He succeeded and put his boy, Billy Canary, a Washington political insider in control. Canary was a political hack that would carry out dirty tricks and chicanery for George Bush and Karl Rowe.

Bob Riley and Mike Hubbard controlled the BCA through Billy Canary. Riley still continues to pull the strings and make money.

However, everything points to Canary's days at the BCA coming to an end. There have been rumors of his demise for over a year. It appears that it may occur any day. For those of us who fought the battles for business in Alabama and saw the birth and creation of the BCA, that day is long overdue.

Under Canary's and Riley's reign BCA has abandoned its mission of supporting business and the general well-being of the state and now, in the opinion of many, does more harm than good.

No one familiar with the workings of the legislature will deny that Canary has become largely ineffective in representing the interests of business in the legislative process. For the past few years he has failed to pass an infrastructure bill largely supported by business across the state. This past session Canary failed in his efforts to stop legislation that would require insurance coverage for some Autism related issues.

On the Autism measure, Canary could get only one vote for his position on the Senate floor. Most GOP legislators vote against pro-business legislation because of Canary.

Billy Canary's leadership goes past simply failure and begins to enter the realm of causing real harm to the state and the businesses he represents. Canary once boasted of his position on convicted Speaker Mike Hubbard's "kitchen cabinet." However, in the Hubbard trial Canary was less than convincing on the stand as his memory fades on issues discussed with Hubbard. Some of those issues were part and parcel of the 12 felony convictions that removed Hubbard from office. Most folks expected Canary would be indicted with Hubbard.

Now, BCA and Canary face possible involvement in the North Birmingham corruption investigation that has already resulted in one House member's confession to crime.

Some observers believe the scandal surrounding an anonymous ethics complaint that scuttled Dr. Craig Pouncey's bid to be the State Superintendent of Education may lead back to Canary.

The Board of the BCA and everyone concerned with the future of Alabama should be asking why in the world Canary has taken a once proud and effective organization into such controversial issues that have so little to do with core business interests. The answer is simple – Billy Canary has numerous conflicts of interest.

During his tenure as President of the BCA Canary has continued to maintain outside consulting contracts that pose clear conflicts with his role at BCA. However, this should come as no surprise since Billy Canary's home is New York.

Any organization that does not adapt ultimately cannot survive. BCA is at a critical crossroads in its existence. If the leadership of the organization does not replace Canary and move quickly to realign BCA with the interests of its members, its days as a vital voice for Alabama Business may be over.

See you next week.

Inside the Statehouse

Isn't it wonderful?

Isn't it wonderful that sometimes God puts a person in our path who makes us forget ourselves and our troubles and enjoy a good laugh?

When the weather gets as hot and muggy as it has been recently and the temperature inside of my car feels hot as a 450-degree oven, I remember all the way back to 1987 when someone gave me an unexpected and much needed laugh. It came to mind again Thursday as I ran a few errands, popping in and out of my car several times. The door handle was almost hot enough to blister my hand at the touch.

One day everything seemed to have gone

NINA KEENAM

wrong at work and I was more than ready to leave at 5 p.m. When I stepped out on the crushed shell parking lot and opened my car door, heat wrapped around me like a blanket. To make things worse, my air conditioner was on the blink and I had not had time to get it repaired. All I could do was roll down my windows for a little relief.

My hope of a leisurely drive down busy U.S. Highway 98 from Foley to home in Lillian was dashed. I found myself in a long string of stranded traffic. No cooling breeze wafted through my open windows. "Keep cool," I told myself as my line of traffic edged along. Then cars began to move in the opposite lane slowly. Very slowly, but they were moving. I noticed a big grin on the first driver's face. People in the car following were laughing. It was so with every vehicle I met. I was flabbergasted. It was the end of a workday when some people are filled with frustrations. Roadwork slowed their progress, but those people were laughing. "Why? What in the world?" I asked myself.

My lane began to creep. As my car edged forward, I saw one of the flagmen, rather a flag woman, signaling us on. Now I knew the reason for those smiling faces I met. With each flip of her bright orange flag, the woman did a little dance. As if by magic, my annoyance over the day's petty happenings and inconvenience of the roadwork faded. I laughed aloud. I felt a bit relaxed. I could not wait to get home to tell my husband about the highway flag woman who transformed wrinkled brows to laughter lines. I wondered if she knew what a therapist she was.

After I wrote a column about that experience, the flag woman wrote to me. I treasure her note and have it somewhere in my files. And, yes, she knew and was glad her actions relieved tensions that hot, uncomfortable day. We all get wound up in ourselves and forget that the rest of the world lives with frustrations, too.

Every time I am reminded of the flag woman's little dance on the highway under the hot sun, it makes me smile and lifts my spirits.

A Lifeline for the Lifeline

A lot of songs, movies, and television shows have been about the trucking industry. That is because, as Merle Haggard sang in his hit song "Movin' On," "the white line is the lifeline to the nation." Our economy would crumble if truck and taxi companies were not moving goods and people over our roads. A lot of people may not know that the Alabama Public Service Commission (PSC) helps those companies that help Alabama's economy and people.

One way the PSC supports the safety of those travelling on Alabama roads is by keeping records that show that intrastate carriers maintain proper insurance. Transportation companies that operate only in Alabama must prove to the PSC that they have enough insurance. Making sure that these companies are sufficiently insured gives everyone peace of mind.

Household goods movers also have to file tariffs with the PSC. The PSC then makes sure that the companies are following those rates by conducting audits. If an audit reveals that a company has charged a customer too much money, the PSC will order them to refund it. Not only does the PSC regulate trucking companies, we also supervise taxis and companies who drive patients to a non-emergency medical appointment. The PSC doesn't regulate all taxi companies, just the ones that move people from one city to another. For example, if a taxi company drives people only in the city of Montgomery, the PSC does not oversee it. If, however, a taxi company drives people from Montgomery to Birmingham, the PSC would oversee it. The medical transport companies we oversee take people to their doctors. Many may not be aware of this service but it is a wonderful asset for those who do not have the ability to drive themselves and don't have friends or family members who can drive them to their doctors' offices. Thankfully, there are companies who are there to help them make their appointments.

CHIP BEECKER

Sometimes a transportation company will challenge another company's right to operate in a certain area. When that happens, our legal division conducts a hearing that is a lot like a trial. An Administrative Law Judge or hearing officer will preside over the hearing, witnesses will testify under oath, and evidence is presented. Staff who work on transportation issues usually attend these hearings. After the hearing, the judge or officer will decide whether to recommend that the company be allowed to operate. I, and my fellow commissioners, will then vote on whether to accept that recommendation.

I recognize that "the white line is the lifeline to the nation" and more importantly, to our great state of Alabama. I am proud of what the PSC does for the transportation industry in Alabama and to serve with those who also recognize the importance of the transportation industry within our state. Because I recognize how important the transportation sector is to Alabama, I will continue to work on behalf of those who move goods and people across our roads.

Blake returns to GSHS as head coach

GCM SPORTS

GULF SHORES— Matt Blake is packing his extra sunscreen, again. He was approved to take over as head coach of the Gulf Shores Dolphins this season by the Baldwin County School board. Blake replaces Rick Cauley who resigned in June. Blake has been an assistant at Spanish Fort since 2014.

No stranger to the Baldwin south shores, Blake was at GSHS from 2011-2014 until going to SFHS with former Dolphins head coach Ben Blackmon. A Montgomery-area native and University of Alabama alumnus, he won a state championship ring as an assistant at Robert E. Lee and another from Spanish Fort's undefeated Class 6A title run in 2015.

The Dolphins travel to Birmingham to open the season at 7A Mountain Brook on Aug. 25th. Blake's home-opener debut is Sept. 1st against 6A, Region 1 rival Baldwin County at Mickey Miller Blackwell Stadium.

A continuing look at SEC football 2017

The SEC is one of the best football conferences in the nation. Each of the teams in the SEC has been a threat sometime within the past couple of years. South Carolina, Arkansas, Vanderbilt, and Texas A&M may not appear poised to win it all, but each of these can be a big time threat in the SEC race.

SOUTH CAROLINA

Year one of life without Steve Spurrier is still going surprisingly well for the South Carolina Gamecocks. The first year of Will Muschamp as the head coach went well as the Gamecocks accounted for a 6-7 record. Although the Gamecocks were 3-5 in the SEC, they still competitive especially after freshman quarterback Jake Bentley took over as the starter for the remaining seven games of 2016. Now with a full offseason to prepare for year two of coach Muschamp's Gamecocks, they should be well in contention for a completely open SEC East.

MICHAEL HANICH
Sports Analysis

The offense returns 10 starters from last season including Bentley, who passed for 1,420 yards and nine touchdowns in those seven starts. The defense is in serious need of talent and leadership. That leadership and high-playing ability comes in Skai Moore, who was the team's leading tackler in 2013, 2014, and 2015 season. He missed the 2016 season due to a season ending neck injury. The Gamecocks will need to improve their 116th scoring offense from last season but with multiple starters returning, South Carolina has a chance to win the East.

ARKANSAS

MONTGOMERY – The North girls and boys posted hard-fought victories Wednesday night over the South in the North-South All-Star basketball all-star competition with a crowd of more than 2,500 in attendance at Auburn University-Montgomery's Basketball Complex.

North's girls won 76-67 to improve to 18-3 in the series that got underway in 1997, and the North boys captured a 75-64 win and now holds a 48-27 edge in a series that got its start 64 years ago in 1953.

Earlier in the day the North also swept the first-ever all-star cross country competition and the North won 16-47 – running at AUM's on-campus 3.1-mile course. Cross Country was added to the North-South all-star competition this year. The All-Star contests are part of the AHSAA's annual Summer Conference, now in its 21st year. The week-long convention is managed by the Alabama High School Athletic Directors & Coaches Association (AHSADCA).

The all-star action concludes Thursday with the North-South volleyball match at AUM at 4 p.m. The 58th AHSAA North-South Football All-Star Game will be the final all-star event Thursday night at Cramton Bowl at 7 p.m.

NORTH GIRLS 76, SOUTH GIRLS 67:

Homewood's Ajah Wayne scored 22 points, grabbed eight rebounds and had three steals to earn MVP honors for her team and led the North to its 18th victory in the 21-year series. She had 16 points in the first half – virtually unstoppable when going inside and dead-on at the foul line as well.

LeFlore's Daisha Bradford had 15 points, four steals and five rebounds to capture MVP honors for the South.

Hazel Green's Brooke Hampel added 12 points, Allie Cruce of Lauderdale County had 11, Karleigh Sledge of Deshler chipped in nine and Athens' Alexis Woods had eight to round out the North offensive leaders for North coaches Mike Chase of Spain Park and Lisa Bates of Sand Rock.

Samson guard LaTascya Duff added 11 points and five rebounds for the South. Teammates Brianna Harris of Blount and Lakhylian Rankins of Faith Academy chipped in nine points each. The South was coached by Geneva's Rich Bixby and R.C. Hatch's Willie Morgan.

The North dominated inside out-rebounding the South 53-36.

NORTH BOYS 74, SOUTH BOYS 64:

Huffman guard Travarus Carroll had a game-high 27 points to help the North boys win for the 48th time in the 75-game series. No bucket was bigger than his startling round-house dunk with 57 seconds left in the third quarter that put the North ahead 48-40.

The South rallied midway through the fourth period to tie the game at 53-53 but Carroll sank a 3-pointer just under the four-minute mark to push the North ahead by four 62-58.

Carroll, the North MVP, finished 8-of-11 from the field, including 3-of-3 from the 3-point arc, and was 8-of-10 at the foul line. He also had five rebounds. Trey Jemison, a 6-foot-11 center from Homewood, added 13 points, 11 rebounds and two blocked shots for the North, coached by Paul Bryant's Shon Peck-Love and Muscle Shoals' Neal Barker. Parker's 6-9 center Xavier Williams also had nine points and six rebounds.

The South, coached by Tony Hayes of Monroe County and Douglas Moore of Bullock County, were led by Anquavious "Quay" Pollard's 23 points and eight rebounds. The 6-6 forward from Lanett was 5-of-12 on 3-pointers and a perfect 4-of-4 at the foul line. He also had three steals. Lanett teammate Emanuel Littles added 11 points and five rebounds.

Athletes of the month announced

Kevin Durant, Katie Ledecky are Sports Academy Athletes for June

USSA.edu

DAAPHNE – Golden State Warriors basketball star Kevin Durant and American swimmer Katie Ledecky have been named the United States Sports Academy's Male and Female Athletes of the Month for June.

Durant was named the MVP of the NBA Finals series after scoring a team-high 39 points in the Warriors' 129-120 series-clinching win against Cleveland on 12 June 2017. Durant scored at least 30 points in each of the series' five games, averaging 35.2 points, 8.4 rebounds, 5.4 assists and 1.6 blocks per game. He also shot 55.5 percent from the field and made 47.4 percent of his three-pointers.

Ledecky won three national titles at the Phillips 66 National Championships in Indianapolis, Ind., on 27 June 2017. Ledecky won the 800 meter freestyle race in 8:11.50, the fastest time in the world in the event this year. She also won the 200 meter race with a time of 1:54.84, the fastest time in the world this year, and won the 400 with a time of 3:58.44, the third-fastest time ever.

The second place finisher on the men's side was Spanish tennis star Rafael Nadal and third place went to Canadian hockey player Sidney Crosby.

Nadal won his 10th French Open title by defeating Switzerland's Stan Wawrinka 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 in straight sets in the championship round on 11 June 2017 in Paris. Nadal has now won 15 Grand Slam titles, which puts him in second place all time behind Roger Federer's 18.

Crosby, the Pittsburgh captain, won the Conn Smythe Trophy as the NHL's most valuable player of the playoffs as the Penguins defeated the Nashville Predators 2-0 on 11 June 2017 to win the Stanley Cup for the second consecutive season. It was Crosby's second consecutive Conn Smythe Trophy. Crosby, a native of Canada, registered 19 assists and 27 total points in 24 postseason games for the Penguins.

The second place finisher on the women's side was American basketball player Diana Taurasi and third place went to American softball player Shay Knighten.

Taurasi, of the Phoenix Mercury, broke the WNBA all-time scoring record when she recorded 19 points against the Los Angeles Sparks on 18 June 2017. Taurasi's 7,494 career points surpassed Tina Thompson's 7,488. Taurasi reached the mark in just 13 seasons, while Thompson's record had been set in 17.

Knighten, a University of Oklahoma softball player, was named the Most Outstanding Player of the Women's College World Series after hitting .350 with seven hits, four runs, two doubles, one home run and eight RBIs for the Sooners, who defeated the University of Florida in a best-of-three series to win the championship. Knighten's three-run double put the Sooners up for good in the final game of the series, which Oklahoma won 5-4 on 6 June 2017.

Each month, the public is invited to participate in the Academy's worldwide Athlete of the Month program by nominating athletes and then voting online during the first week of every month. The online votes are used to guide the Academy selection committee in choosing the male and female monthly winners, who then become eligible for selection to the prestigious Athlete of the Year ballot. A worldwide public vote on the annual ballot is used to guide the committee in making the final selection.

The Athlete of the Year Award is part of the United States Sports Academy's Awards of Sport program, which each year serves as "A Tribute to the Artist and the Athlete." The Academy presents the awards to pay tribute to those who have made significant contributions to sport, in categories as diverse as the artist and the athlete in several different arenas of sport.

The awards honor exemplary achievement in coaching, all-around athletic performance, courage, humanitarian activity, fitness, and media, among others. The Academy's American Sport Art Museum and Archives (ASAMA) annually recognizes these men and

field and strive for long runs but couldn't execute some smaller objectives like red zones, pass protection, or short-yard runs. The offense is looking for poise all throughout the field. Quarterback Austin Allen is back in his senior season as last year he passed for 3,430 yards and 25 touchdowns. Pre-season All-American Center Frank Ragnow will be influential once again in the running and passing game. The defense last season for Arkansas was ranked 85th in points allowed per game (31.1). They have to replace all but one player (linebacker) in their front seven in a defense that is returning four defensive backs. Last season, the Razorbacks gave up the most rushing touchdowns (39) in the nation.

VANDERBILT

Success has been rare for a football program that has only been to a bowl game eight times. Within the past six years, the Vanderbilt Commodores have been to four bowl games and hope for another trip in the 2017-2018 College Football season. Among the eight offensive starters returning from last year's team, Ralph Webb will be looking to make a big difference on the field once again. Webb rushed for 1,283 yards and 13 touchdowns and was the bright spot of the offense. There needs to be more production on offense, including quarterback Kyle Shurmur who only threw nine touchdowns last season.

Vanderbilt does have a promising defense for 2017 but they will need to replace their best playmaking and an All-American last season in Zac Cunnningham (125 total tackles and 16.5 tackles for loss). Oren Burks can potentially be the leader of a defense that was ranked 35th in points allowed per game (23). The Commodores will need more outside pass rushers from the defensive line to help the defense be more efficient when they play a tougher schedule.

TEXAS A&M

This season will be highly uncertain for the Texas A&M Aggies and the future of Head Coach Kevin Sumlin. In five years Sumlin has brought a high amount of success to the program including an 11-2 winning record in 2012. Sumlin is on the hot seat because of his record against SEC conference foes of .500 percent or less starting in 2013 (lowest was in 2014 with .375). This year, the Aggies will have to replace multiple star players that have made an impact including the first pick in the 2017 NFL Draft in DE Myles Garrett. The offense has to replace a quarterback, both starting tackles, multiple receivers and a tight end. The offense does return a 1,000 yard rusher in Trayveon Williams and receiver Christian Kirk, who had 928 receiving yards and nine touchdowns.

While the defense has potential in their players, they will need better productivity from their new starters at the defensive ends and a defensive backfield that was ranked 91st in passing yards allowed per game (250). This is also a critical season for defensive coordinator John Chavis, who is in his third season with Texas A&M.

2017 'Making a Difference' award recipients honored

MONTGOMERY – Seven individuals who have made an impact as exemplary role models have been selected as the 2017 Making a Difference Award recipients by the Alabama High School Athletic Association (AHSAA) and the Alabama High School Athletic Directors & Coaches Association (AHSADCA).

One recipient from each of the AHSAA's seven classifications was chosen from nominations submitted by AHSAA member schools and other support organizations.

This year's recipients are Alan Beckett, Winterboro High School (1A); Lamar Brooks, G.W. Long High School (2A); Bobby Tittle, Ohatchee High School (3A); Charles McCaleb, Bibb County High School (4A); Richard Dutton, Lawrence County High School (5A); Janiece Calhoun, Chelsea High School (6A); and Alvin Rauls, Buckhorn High School (7A).

The were recognized at the Championship Coaches Banquet at the Renaissance Montgomery Convention Center July 21. The event closed out the 2017 AHSAA Summer Conference and All-Star Sports Week for member schools.

The Making a Difference Award was established in 2011 by the AHSAA and AHSADCA to recognize individuals who go beyond their normal duties as a coach, teacher or administrator to make a positive impact in their schools and communities. This year's recipients include one principal, two head football coaches, head softball coach, two athletic administrators and an associate superintendent of education for the Dale County school system. "The recipients in this 2017 Making a Difference class are excellent examples of men and women who take their positions as role models for their students, faculty and community very seriously. They are each outstanding choices for what this award stands for. Each have had a major positive impact in their communities and schools and across the state," said AHSAA Executive Director Steve Savarese. "This award is the most important honor a professional educator in our state can receive. Characteristics considered for this prestigious award include the recipient's character, integrity and service, all of which have enabled these individuals to have a life-changing impact on the community or school where they serve."

Savarese said this special award exemplifies what makes education-based sports so important.

"This is one way we can honor them for the examples they set and the life lessons they teach on a daily basis," he said.

United States Sports Academy was pioneer in sports for women in Saudi Arabia

USSA.edu

DAPHNE, Ala. -- The recent announcement that female students in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia will soon be allowed to play sports at school for the first time harkens back to more than 30 years ago when the United States Sports Academy became one of the first institutions to provide sports programs for women and children in that country.

According to an announcement from the Ministry of Education, female students in Saudi Arabia will soon be allowed to play sports at school for the first time after the ministry overturned a longstanding ban of the practice. The ministry said Saudi girls would be allowed to start taking physical education classes in the upcoming school year. The announcement said girls sports offerings would be introduced gradually and "in accordance with the rules of sharia," or Islamic law.

However, the Academy was a pioneer in providing opportunities for women and girls in sport in Saudi Arabia through an offshoot of a massive project with the country's military beginning in the early 1980s.

From 1981 to 1989, the Academy was contracted by the Royal Saudi Air Force (RSAF) to undertake a comprehensive physical fitness, sport and recreation program involving thousands of military personnel at five bases across the country. At its peak, the program involved some 200 full time coaches and 300 support staff and 20 different sports and activities. The program included annual physical fitness testing for the RSAF personnel, the development and training of competitive sports teams and general recreational activities. These, and other services, were conducted over several years for thousands of service members in the kingdom.

Because the Academy already had staff in place for this military program, its leaders offered base commanders at the five locations the services of the spouses of its personnel to provide physical fitness, sport and recreation programs for the dependent women and children of the military personnel.

"We went to the base commanders and the Air Force commanders and offered to do the programming at no cost, which we were pleased they accepted," said Dr. T.J. Rosandich, current President and CEO of the Academy, who worked for the Academy in Saudi Arabia at the time as a senior executive on the project.

"As a result of this arrangement, the Academy was among the first institutions ever to offer sports programs for women and children in Saudi Arabia. "We offered a wide range of physical fitness, sports and recreation programs, including swimming and drown-proofing, recreational sport activities and classes on topics as varied as nutrition and smoking cessation."

The program ultimately involved several hundred Saudi women and children.

Through the 1980s and 1990s, the Academy had numerous additional successful projects with Saudi Arabia, including developing a master plan for sports facility development for the Ministry of Defense and Aviation; recruiting and providing national coaches for various sports through the General Presidency of Youth Welfare; arranging a training camp in the United States for Saudi Olympic teams in preparation for the 1984 Olympic Games; and conducting numerous sports clinics and seminars.

Founded 45 years ago, the Academy has contributed to the global quality of life by delivering sport education and service programs in 65 countries around the world. These have varied in scope from the full-charge conduct of a country's entire national sport effort to individual coaching clinics, seminars and symposia. For more about Academy's international efforts, go to USSA.edu/international-sport-education/.

Women in Saudi Arabia have long been strictly monitored for their style of dress and activities in public. Saudi women must cover their hair and bodies in public and are not allowed to drive or travel abroad without permission from a male guardian. The strict rules have also largely kept women from widespread participation in sports. Schools in Saudi Arabia remain segregated by gender.

Saudi Arabia first allowed girls to participate in sports four years ago, but the offer was only extended to those attending private schools.

Just four women competed for Saudi Arabia in the 2016 Olympic Games in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. In 2012, the kingdom sent just two women to compete in the Olympic Games in London after the International Olympic Committee suggested it might bar the country from participating if it did not do so.

The education ministry has said allowing girls to participate in physical education and sports at school is part of the Saudi Vision 2030 plan, which aims to "diversify the Saudi economy" and expand opportunities for exercise for all citizens.

The United States Sports Academy is an independent, non-profit, accredited, special mission sports university created to serve the nation and world with programs in instruction, research and service. The role of the Academy is to prepare men and women for careers in the profession of sports.

The Academy is based in Daphne, Ala. For more information, call (251) 626-3303 or visit USSA.edu.

DAVIS

Helen Ann Dorman Davis, 100, passed away, surrounded by family, on July 18, 2017.

Helen was born on Oct. 29, 1916 in Middlesex, New York. She was the second daughter of Frank and Ada Dorman, behind her sister, Ruth Dorman Spitz. They had a younger brother, Rodney.

Helen grew up in the Middlesex area, where she continued to live the rest of her life. She attended Middlesex High School and graduated at age 14. She completed a post-graduate course at age 15.

Helen married Francis "Happy" Davis in 1934. They were blessed with four sons, Ron Davis, Floyd "Skip" Davis, Gene Davis and Ray Davis. Helen and Happy raised their boys together, until Happy's death in 1968.

Having become a widow at a relatively young age, Helen became the true matriarch of her ever-growing family and extended family. Always self-sufficient, she worked at Agway until her retirement at the age of 65.

Helen had a gifted mind, blessed with a tremendous aptitude for numbers and loved reading, which she passed on to all her sons. She also developed an interest in baseball later in life. The Texas Rangers were her favorite team and she was an avid fan.

Helen's devotion to God, family and her church was unwavering. She served as church treasurer, clerk and was on the executive board, as well as teaching Sunday school.

Up until the time that her progeny totaled well above dozens of great-grandchildren, she annually sent birthday cards and Christmas gifts to all of her grandchildren, remembering all of their birthdays, attending all their weddings and keeping up with each and everyone. (Before Facebook, email and any form of social media!)

For several years, Helen spent her winters in Alabama where two of her sons and their wives and several grandchildren lived. She enjoyed getting away from the snow and cold winters, but mostly looked forward to being around her family, which eventually included great-grandchildren.

Helen drove her own car until the age of 94 and lived independently until 95. She was treasurer of her assisted living HOA, until she believed it time to relinquish her volunteer role when she couldn't get the checkbook to balance. She was 94.

Her fierce independence, strong will, quiet strength and sharp mind were only a small example of Helen's many admirable, remarkable qualities. She worshiped the Lord, cherished her family and church in the same manner her entire life — with complete belief, support and love. She was truly an inspiration to all of her family and a role model for many generations of Davises and friends. Helen was respected and loved by many and will be missed dearly.

Those left to cherish her memories include all four sons and their wives, Ron (Carol) Davis, Skip (Pat) Davis, Gene (Sharon) Davis and Ray (Linda) Davis; 10 grandchildren; 18 great-grandchildren; four great-great-grandchildren; and a host of nieces, nephews, extended family and loving friends.

Helen was predeceased by her parents; husband, Happy Davis; her sister, Ruth; her brother, Rodney;

and one great-grandchild, Stephen Wells Paine.

Helen's three out-of-state sons want to express their gratitude to their brother, Ron, and his family for their dedicated care of their mother.

Friends called Saturday, July 22, from 1 to 2 p.m. at the Middlesex Baptist Church, Middlesex, New York.

A funeral service followed at 2 p.m. at the church.

Burial was in Overackers Cemetery. Charitable contributions may be made to Middlesex Baptist Church, P.O. Box 57, Middlesex, NY 14507, or LeTourneau Christian Camp, 4950 County Rd. #11, Rushville, NY 14544.

Funeral arrangements were by the Kenneth J. Perkins Funeral Home in Gorham, NY.

Please visit www.kennethperkinsfuneralhome.com to send a message of condolence to the Davis family.

Eastern indigo release adds 26 to Conecuh Forest

By DAVID RAINER

Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources

Jim Godwin crouched next to a patch of white sand in the Conecuh National Forest recently and gently released a dark, 6-foot-long serpent. The threatened eastern indigo snake didn't hesitate to slither quickly into the intended target, a gopher tortoise burrow.

The head of the eastern indigo snake, with its tongue testing the muggy July air, made a brief appearance at the burrow's entrance, but there was too much hubbub going on in the longleaf pine forest for it to pose for photos. No encore. Elvis has left the building.

The hubbub was created by efforts to reestablish a viable population of the snakes that once were abundant before the longleaf pines became a prime species for lumber production. More than two dozen people, including wildlife and forestry professionals as well as interested citizens and their children, joined the project leaders to release the snakes.

Godwin, of Auburn University's Alabama Natural Heritage Program, has spearheaded the project for the past 11 years, and last week's release of 26 eastern indigo snakes increased the number of released snakes significantly.

Through a grant from the Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources' Wildlife and Freshwater Fisheries (WFF) Division, the program had previously released 107 eastern indigos into the wild, according to WFF Grant Coordinator Traci Wood.

"This project is an example of great accomplishments for the eastern indigo snakes and all the partners involved," Wood said. "It's a great effort toward the recovery plan to enhance and maintain a population in the historical range of the eastern indigo. This species was extirpated from the state and hadn't been seen since the 1950s. It is considered an apex predator. It plays an important role in the ecosystem, specifically the longleaf pine ecosystem. I think this is an exceptional example of the reintroduction of an imperiled species.

"This project is not only about the propagation and release of these snakes in the forest; we are also monitoring these snakes. PIT (passive integrated transponder) tags were inserted into the snakes. We will have technicians walking areas where snakes were released to look at survival, abundance and demographics."

Eastern indigo snakes are the longest reptiles native to the U.S. at more than 8 feet long. They prey on a variety of small mammals, amphibians, lizards and numerous species of venomous snakes. The venomous copperhead snake is a common meal for the indigo. Godwin said indigos will range far and wide during the warmer months and then seek refuge in the gopher tortoise burrows during the winter.

The eastern indigo project released 26 snakes with the help of a group of wildlife officials and interested members of the public. Several of those in attendance were willing to carefully handle the threatened species, including youngsters Joel Hernandez, left, and Isaac Elmore, who were coached by Michelle Hoffman of the Central Florida Zoo's Orianne Center for Indigo Conservation.

Wood said the WFF's State Wildlife Action Plan identifies 366 species that are in the category of greatest conservation need.

"Alabama is one of the most diverse states in the nation, specifically Conecuh National Forest, in terms of amphibians and reptiles," she said. "This area is the most biologically rich public land in the country."

Wood said the long-term goal for the eastern indigo project is to release 300 snakes into the wild.

"It's a long-term effort our agency is committed to with all our partners," she said. "I want

Meet the Kilborn Clinic's first patient

Carola Toy settled into a brand new recliner to receive her chemotherapy treatment Wednesday morning at USA Mitchell Cancer Institute Kilborn Clinic in Fairhope.

"The nurses here are beyond the best," said Toy, of Gulf Shores. "Dr. (Dan) Cameron makes you feel comfortable and puts you at ease. He has fought really hard for me. That's what you want in a doctor."

Toy, 72, was the first patient called from the waiting room on July 5, opening day of the new cancer treatment clinic in Fairhope. She receives chemotherapy treatments every three weeks for lung cancer, which was diagnosed more than four years ago during a pace-maker procedure.

"I've lost my hair five times," said Toy. "The last scan was clear everywhere except for one of my lymph nodes."

The new Kilborn Clinic is located next to the Baldwin County Satellite Courthouse on Fairhope Avenue and replaces MCI's previous location at Thomas Hospital. The 14,000-square-foot cancer treatment center houses exam rooms and an infusion suite with plans to add radiation treatment and surgical oncology by 2018.

The clinic is named for south Alabama attorney Vince Kilborn of Fairhope, who lost his father to pancreatic cancer in 1971. It is one of three Mitchell Cancer Institute locations, along with a research and treatment facility in Mobile and a clinic at Monroe County Hospital in Monroeville.

MCI named Melanoma Center of Excellence

USA Mitchell Cancer Institute has been named a Melanoma Center of Excellence for its expertise and treatment offerings for the most serious form of skin cancer. The designation was made by the nonprofit Melanoma Hope Network based in St. Louis, Mo.

"This recognition sets us apart from our competition and lets the community know that MCI is the place to go for the most advanced melanoma care," said MCI Director Dr. Michael A. Finan. "No one in the region has invested as heavily in melanoma research and treatment as we have."

While it accounts for only 1 percent of all skin cancers, melanoma is more dangerous because it is more likely to spread to other parts of the body if not detected early.

MCI takes a team approach to melanoma treatment, led by surgical oncologists Dr. Marcus Tan and Dr. Spencer Liles. MCI offers clinical trials targeting melanoma and hosts an annual event, the Hope Cup golf tournament, which supports the MCI Melanoma and Skin Cancer Endowment.

"This designation recognizes and acknowledges the team we have in place at MCI and the University of South Alabama consisting of surgical oncologists, medical oncologists, radiation oncologists as well as basic science researchers -- all focused on better understanding this disease," Liles said. "As a group, we are committed to not only treating melanoma, but also learning how the cancer develops in order to discover breakthroughs in prevention and early detection." Skin cancer research conducted at MCI includes recent studies on tanning practices, the effects of sunless tanning chemicals on cells, the origins of skin cancer and skin cancer prevention with the use of silver nanoparticles.

Nationally, melanoma is on the rise, according to JAMA Dermatology. Americans face a 1-in-54 lifetime risk of developing invasive melanoma, compared with a 1-in-58 lifetime risk in 2009.

MCI is the only academic cancer research and treatment institute on the upper Gulf Coast corridor, with treatment centers in Mobile, Fairhope and Monroeville. Follow updates for MCI at usamci.com, on Facebook and Twitter.

RELEASE

to thank Jim Godwin with Auburn University, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Zoo Atlanta and OCIC (Central Florida Zoo's Orianne Center for Indigo Conservation) for all their work and dedication. And I want to thank the U.S. Forest Service for their exceptional management to give us this opportunity to release these snakes in quality habitat."

Tim Mersmann, Conecuh District Ranger, said he hopes the release of eastern indigo snakes becomes an annual event.

"We are all about restoring longleaf pine forest ecosystems on the Conecuh," Mersmann said. "It's really what drives us. This open, fire-maintained forest is what we're about. This type of forest ecosystem used to be the most common condition along the coastal plain and the Gulf Coast and Atlantic Coast. Now it's fairly rare. Many of the species associated with it are rare as well."

"We're about restoring this condition as part of our natural heritage. And restoring the ecosystem means restoring the parts and pieces. One of the most exciting and striking pieces, no pun intended, is the eastern indigo. These snakes are very docile, but they are really a top predator in this type of ecosystem. So, to get them back after decades of being missing from this ecosystem is really exciting."

Mersmann said that herpetologists have studied the 84,000-acre Conecuh National Forest and determined it has more species of amphibians and reptiles than any public land unit in the country.

"We're really proud of that," he said. "It's a great haven for reptiles and amphibians, a great home for a snake-eating snake like the indigo. They've got a real smorgasbord to choose from. And it's heaven for herpetologists as well."

"Beyond the herpetologists, this is part of our natural heritage. It's part of the legacy we want to leave for the future. That is why we really enjoy having kids out here for the indigo snake release. That's been part of the tradition."

Godwin said last week's release was the fifth major release in the project's 11-year history.

"When we set out looking for a place to begin this project, Conecuh stood out as the only place in Alabama where we could successfully accomplish this task of reintroducing a population of indigo snakes back into Alabama," Godwin said. "It had to do with this relatively intact landscape and good ecosystem management, and, as best as we know, the perpetuity of that management."

"This area is incredible for reptile and amphibian diversity. Another species in Conecuh that is rare is the gopher frog. One of the top breeding sites for gopher frogs is right here in Conecuh."

Godwin said during the early days of the indigo project the snakes to be released were propagated from indigos that had been captured in the wild in Georgia. The indigos in last week's release were bred in captivity at the Orianne Center at the Central Florida Zoo. Zoo Atlanta, the Georgia Department of Natural Resources and the U.S. Army's Fort Stewart also provided indigos in the past.

"Rearing an indigo in captivity costs a lot," Godwin said. "When you multiply that by 50 or 60, it's a huge task. We're very grateful the zoos have been able to step up. The Birmingham Zoo now also has an interest. As this project has moved along, it has continued to expand. We also welcome new partners to help support this."

Godwin said monitoring the success of the reintroduction of the indigo population is a difficult proposition, but new technology promises to make it easier. During last week's release, the youngsters in the group were given priority to release the snakes, hopefully fostering their interest in the species.

Godwin said eastern indigos are next to impossible to find in the wild.

"If you don't have a radio transmitter in an indigo snake, you don't know where it's going or what it's doing," he said.

Godwin did say one eastern indigo snake was spotted in Conecuh National Forest this year.

"This is a federally threatened species, and the person who saw it

Jim Godwin of Auburn University places an eastern indigo snake near the entrance of a gopher tortoise burrow in Conecuh National Forest recently.

knew it was protected," he said. "I wish we could have collected some information, but he did the right thing by leaving the snake alone. We know indigo snakes are surviving out here. We hope in the future, the children will grow up with an appreciation and a real care and concern for these snakes."

in the film: “Low impact development involves planning and engineering designs that mimic natural processes to manage storm water runoff and protect water bowling.”

Research shows that natural areas produce only 10 percent of rainwater that converts to runoff into streams and rivers, and much is infiltrated into the ground. With areas with non-porous surfaces, roofs, parking lots, roads and manicured lawns, storm water runoff is increased by up to 500 percent. This causes increased flooding as well as head cuts and significant stream bank erosion that threatens buildings, roads, and sanitation systems. Because of the suspended sediments, downstream rivers, lakes and bays can become polluted.

By implementing low impact development methods into cities and towns, such as bioretention ponds, constructed storm water wetlands, bioswales, permeable pavement, rain gardens and restored stream reach, developments will be both sufficient players in preventing big problems downstream, as well as being more physically attractive.

Foley’s very own councilman Ralph Hellmich participated in the making of the presentation, in which he had this to say about implementing low impact developments into the community: “From a city perspective, it makes good business sense. We have found over the years that traditional practices cost municipalities more money and they cause problems with flooding.”

Also in the presentation was Mayor Bill Ham Jr. of Auburn.

“The big picture is what happens downstream,” said Ham. “So going forward, particularly in a community that is growing fast and has lots of development, it’s absolutely a necessity. Lots of projects create lots of storm water potential and issues. I think it’s so important for mayors across Alabama and across the country to understand the expenditure of the tax dollars does have incredible payback from the community.”

Neighborhoods that have assigned low impact development practices are more desirable and demand a higher asking price, according to research done for the presentation. Since you can incorporate greenspace and natural looking areas that are popular with the city planning commissions, low impact developments are a natural choice to eliminate runoff and bring beauty to the city. Another factor that has become desirable to cities is the cost savings that are associated with low impact developments. While heavy equipment and maintenance are required to upkeep traditional methods, low impact developments are maintained by landscape crews.

“We just wanted to present this first,” Gahagan said. “Foley’s actually the first city getting to view this, Auburn is going to be showing it soon, as well as cities all up and down the state, because this has been a huge request state-wide to come up with ideas. We’re going to be used more as a model to see how it works once the development starts using this.”

“We wanted higher standards, and we’re pushing it through,” Hellmich agreed.

Business community seeks to add to Highway 59 improvements

By JOHN UNDERWOOD
john@gulfcoastmedia.com

ROBERTSDALE — With the city of Robertsdale working on upgrades to Honeybee Park, to be completed by the 2021, the local business community is looking for ways to spruce up, particularly along the Alabama 59 corridor.

“We’re excited about the improvements and just want to know as business owners what we can do to help it along,” said Kay Arnette.

Along with Mayor Charles Murphy and other council representatives, Arnette, an ambassador with the Central Baldwin Chamber of Commerce, recently attended a meeting in Abbeville where ways of beautification and revitalization were discussed. Arnette addressed the city council at its meeting Monday, July 17, along with Chamber Board President Jonathan Kitchens.

“We got an opportunity to look at what Abbeville has done,” Arnette said, “and we’re looking for some simple things that businesses can do to make improvements.”

Items discussed including everything from applying paint to building surfaces to planting shrubs or trees.

“We don’t want to make it sound like we’re pushing business owners into doing something they don’t want to do,” Arnette said. “As someone who is invested in the local business community, but does not have a business on Highway 59, I want those business owners to know that we are there to help in any way possible to make this city look the best it can be.

“In a lot of cases I think business owners aren’t aware of what’s being done and need some direction as to what they can do to help.”

The city hosted a series of meetings in September and October 2016 to solicit public input for long-range plans to make improvements to Honeybee Park in preparation for the city’s centennial in 2021.

Plans call for the addition of parking, restructuring of sidewalks and landscaping of the park, along with the addition of central features, such as a pavilion and playground area.

One of the main features will be a 500-seat amphitheater which will be placed in the current location of the city’s utilities barn with plans to move the barn to property the city owns north of the Robertsdale Police Station on East Chicago Street.

Murphy said unlike Abbeville where all the improvements were done on city streets and largely by one private property owner, improvements along Alabama 59 would need the approval of the Alabama Department of Transportation.

There are, however, things that private business owners can do to make improvements on their property.

“We definitely support the idea, but we need the support of local business owners,” said Mayor Pro Tem Joe Kitchens, who himself owns a business along Alabama 59. “My suggestion would be to reach out to the other business owners and let’s work together to get this done.”

In other business July 17, the council approved a pair of ordinances, rezoning property along U.S. 90 and Alabama 59.

First, the council approved a request from Hazel Carlee to rezone property in Carlee’s Mobile Home Park from R-1/B-2 to RMH to allow the sale of the property.

The council also approved the rezoning of property in the Greer’s Shopping Center from B-1 to B-2.

The council also voted to adopt a resolution at the request of Retirement Systems of Alabama to grant a one-time lump sum payment with an estimated cost of $13,892.

The council also tabled a donation request from the Robertsdale High School Golden Bear Marching Band.

Town hopes agreements will improve communications, internet service

By JOHN UNDERWOOD
john@gulfcoastmedia.com

SILVERHILL — The town of Silverhill is looking to make improvements to communications and technology systems with the approval of a pair of measures during its council meeting Monday, July 17.

The council voted to enter into an agreement with Summerdale and Elberta to share the cost of a contract with Southern Software Inc. for the purchase of a computer-aided dispatch (CAD) system.

The contract is part of a grant that was received through the town of Summerdale. That town's council voted to approve the contract at its June meeting.

The system includes a mapping display component, including project management and software support. Under the terms of the agreement all three municipalities will have full access to the CAD System and will equally share the annual support cost.

By purchasing and implementing the CAD System, according to the resolution passed at the July 17 meeting, "a municipality would have the capability to connect to and communicate with surrounding municipalities in an emergency situation with greater accuracy than with the current system.

It will cost about $19,000 to purchase the software, said Silverhill Police Chief Kevin Brock. After that there would be a total maintenance cost of about $10,000 per year, or about $3,400 for each municipality.

In other business, the council voted to approve a contract with Point Broadband to use the town's water tower to install equipment for internet services.

Mayor Pro Tem Jared Lyles, who presided over the meeting in the absence of Mayor Tim Wilson, said the town had addressed concerns over whether or not the placement of antennas would interfere with the placement of a T-Mobil antenna on the facility and concerns over payment to the town.

Point Broadband representative Sherry Sullivan was present at the July 17 meeting to address any concerns.

In April, officials with Point Broadband and ITC Holdings told Gulf Coast Media that the company is expecting to access about 25 towers in Baldwin County over the next four weeks.

Contracts have already been signed with other municipalities, as well as the Baldwin County Commission, North Baldwin Utilities and Belforest. Both Loxley and Summerdale approved 10-year contracts with the company in May.

"There have been some delays, but we are working to get everything up and running as soon as possible," Sullivan said.

Sullivan addressed the Robertsdale City Council in June and it was stated then that officials were looking over the contract with Point Broadband, but she told Silverhill Council members Monday that they were unable to reach an agreement with Robertsdale.

The council also voted July 17 to approve a proclamation declaring the town of Silverhill as a Purple Heart Town.

Ed Evans with the Order of the Purple Heart Chapter 2208, along with other members of the organization and several local veterans to celebrate the proclamation.

Council members discussed the placement of signs around town declaring Silverhill as a Purple Heart Town.

Also addressing the council was Frankie Kucera with the Gear Jammers Car Club, who organized the placement of a Veterans Memorial at Paul Anderson

Park across from town hall.

More than 100 residents attended a Memorial Day Service, which was moved from the park to Little Hall because of weather concerns, Kucera said. Plans are to have a Veterans Day service at the park and to revive the Memorial Day Weekend Car Show, with proceeds going to build monuments to individual veterans.

"We appreciate everything the town did to help make the memorial a reality," Kucera said, "and we want to do what we can to honor all veterans."

The council also voted July 17 to purchase potted plants for the annual Arbor Day give-away and voted to authorize the purchase of equipment for the town's fire department.
