Fundraising event to raise awareness of blood cancers

By JOHN UNDERWOOD
john@gulfcoastmedia.com

SILVERHILL — What started out as a small blood drive in Silverhill has evolved into a major fundraising event with sponsors, more than 30 vendors and support from a major media group.

“The response from the community has been overwhelming,” said Emily Sanders Williams.

It all started when Williams, a graduate of Robertsdale High School, and her mom, Lauren Sanders, who works at Robertsdale Elementary School, wanted to organize a blood drive.

“So many people need it, and we simply don’t have enough events around here to provide people with opportunities to give blood,” Williams said.

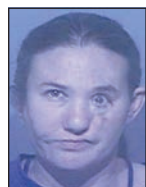

So she called LifeSouth to organize a blood drive, to be held Saturday, July 22, at the Little Bohemian Hall in Silverhill.

But she wanted to do more. She wanted to do something to raise awareness for leukemia and other blood cancer diseases.

“I have not been personally touched by leukemia,” she said. But she has been personally touched by cancer, which claimed the lives of both her grandmother and her aunt over the past year. “I just want people to be more aware of this disease that affects so

Child porn production case heading to grand jury soon

Bay Minette resident Jennifer Lynne Weekley’s production of child pornography case will be heading to a Baldwin County grand jury, after Weekley waived her right to a preliminary hearing July 13.

Baldwin County Assistant District Attorney Matt Simpson said the DA’s office would soon present the case to the grand jury for a possible indictment.

“At this point, we will continue preparing this case and do everything we can to get this to a Baldwin County grand jury as soon as possible,” Simpson said.

Weekley is charged with three counts: sexual abuse of a child under 12, permitting or allowing a child to engage in production of obscene matter and production of obscene matter.

Library hosts adoption days for cats, kittens

By JESSICA VAUGHN
jessica@gulfcoastmedia.com

MAGNOLIA SPRINGS — Looking to adopt a cat or kitten? If you’re looking for a new pet and would like to meet some potential companions, the Magnolia Springs Public Library is the perfect Thursday stop where you can be introduced to some furry friends looking for a loving home.

Every Thursday throughout the year, from noon to 5, the Magnolia Springs Public Library welcomes visiting felines sponsored by the Stray Love Foundation. Cats and kittens are brought in from their foster homes, and the felines are free to explore among the books and are eager to meet visitors to the library.

During what is known as Adoption Thursday by the Stray Love Foundation, and dubbed Cat-erday by the library, families can come in to check out a book and to play with the cats. When a feline clicks with a family, then the library offers the adoption forms to be filled out to get the process rolling and to place the kitty into their new forever home.

6 face assault, robbery, kidnapping charges in incident

RPD RELEASE

ROBERTSDALE — Six individuals, including one juvenile, have been arrested in connection with an assault, robbery and kidnapping reported on Independence Day in Robertsdale.

During the investigation, two search warrants were served on two different residences, one at the County Road 54 residence and the other at a Baldwin Farms Apartments residence in Robertsdale.

“During the investigation, most of the property that was stolen from the victim was located, which includes the victim’s wallet and pistol,” according to the report. “We contacted the U.S. Marshals Service for assistance with apprehending some of the individuals in which three individuals were arrested with their assistance. Again, this was not a random act of violence.”

Of the six arrested, one was a 16-year-old male whose name is not being released due to his age.

The others are all listed on the Baldwin County Corrections Center website as being in jail, charged with assault, first degree; robbery, first degree; and kidnapping, first degree. They are:

- Austin Scott Jackson, 20, of Summerdale, $60,000 bond.

many lives.”

According to the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society (LLS.org), blood cancers such as leukemia, lymphoma and myeloma will account for more than 10 percent (estimated at over 170,000 of nearly 1.7 million) of the total new cases of cancer diagnosed in the United States this year.

Approximately every 3 minutes one person in the United States is diagnosed with a blood cancer and there are currently nearly 1.3 million people in the U.S. that are either living with or are in remission from leukemia, lymphoma or myeloma.

So Williams and Sanders reached out to the community and the result is The Giving Market, “a place where small businesses come together to give back to the community.”

In addition to the blood drive, which will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., the event will include 30 vendors, entertainment provided by a local D.J., food provided by The Good Guys, and Mrs. K’s Sno-Ball Shoppe.

There will also be a crafting area for children, including a space where children can create their own painted rocks, which will then be placed around the area.

Queens from Loxley’s Little Miss Strawberry pageant; Silverhill’s Little Miss Heritage pageant and Robertsdale’s Little Miss Honeybee pageant will also be on hand to greet guests.

The event has also partnered with the Cumulus Media Group, which includes more than 450 radio stations nationwide, including local FM stations WABD 97.5; WBLX 92.9; WDLT 104.1, and WGOK gospel 900 AM.

“They’re helping us get the word out,” Williams said, “and will be broadcasting live on the day of the event.”

In addition, the event will serve as a fundraiser for 4-year-old Kallie, and young Keaton, who are both battling with the disease.

“Keaton’s family live in Gainesville (Florida) so won’t be able to attend,” Williams said, “and while Kallie won’t be able to come, there will be some members of her support group in attendance.”

A Facebook group has been set up for the event. You can also get more information by emailing Williams at emily-sanders7203@yahoo.com.

Annual food, wine showcase set for July 20

Event will be held in Robertsdale at coliseum

By JOHN UNDERWOOD
john@gulfcoastmedia.com

ROBERTSDALE — The Central Baldwin Chamber of Commerce will hold its 14th Annual “Flavors of the South,” wine and food tasting event July 20, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the Baldwin County Coliseum in Robertsdale.

The event is a premier showcase for local wine, beverage and restaurants, their chefs and culinary personalities. This is an opportunity to get involved with a large community event that allows for consumer exposure with attendance of more than 400 people.

“We are expecting about 30 vendors (food and wine) at this event,” said Chamber Executive Director Gail Quesada, “and we are looking forward to showing people what this area has to offer.”

Individual tickets will still be available for sale at the door, $25 for adults, $10 for children ages 5 to 12.

Presenting sponsor for this year’s event are Central Baldwin Immediate Care and The Wound Care & Hyperbaric Medicine Center at South Baldwin Regional Medical Center.

Naman’s Catering was one of the vendors at the Central Baldwin Chamber of Commerce’s 2016 Flavors of the South.

Diamond sponsor: Piggly Wiggly Cost Plus.

Gold sponsors: Budweiser-Busch Distributing Co., Coca-Cola Bottling Co. Inc., Robertsdale Dental Care, Thomas Hospital and Power Productions.

Silver sponsor: Riviera Utilities, Advantage Business Solutions and Campbell Hardware & Sporting Goods.

Bronze sponsors: Citizens’ Bank and Habitat for Humanity.

The event will also feature a silent auction. Silent auction items are donated from area businesses to assist the chamber in bringing in operating funds.

New this year will be a Small Business Expo, which will feature 10 slots available for area small businesses. In the past, Quesada said, the Chamber has hosted a Small Business After Hours in June, but by combining the two events, she hopes to make the showcase for small businesses bigger and better each year.

“This is a way for us to showcase those businesses that may not have the space or be able to host a Business After Hours,” she said. “We want all businesses to know that the Chamber is here to work for them to provide opportunities for their business.”

Also new this year, the Chamber will kick off its 15 Guns in 15 Days Raffle at Flavors of the South.

Tickets are $50 each and are good for 15 chances to win. Tickets will also be available for purchase after Thursday at the Chamber or at Campbell’s Hardware & Sporting Goods in Robertsdale. Drawings begin Oct. 2.

“We’ve had success in the past raffling off a single gun,” Quesada said, “so we’re hoping that after the success of this raffle, we will be able to continue to expand in the future.”

Total retail value of the guns is $8,500 and includes three handguns, six shotguns and six rifles.

For more information about this and other Chamber events, visit centralbaldwin.com or call 251-947-2626.

CASE

June 21, Simpson laid out the charges against Weekley and some of the information that led to her arrest.

“What we have in this case is Ms. Weekley has communicated with an individual in Florida via text message conversations,” Simpson said. “We have those text message conversations. In those conversations, she discusses with this person in Florida as to the acts that she would perform with her children who were a girl at the age of 6 or 7 at the time and a boy the age of 3 or 4 at the time.”

Simpson said multiple acts were included in the productions Weekley allegedly created.

“These are acts that she would perform on the children, the children would perform on her and the children would perform amongst themselves that she would encourage,” Simpson said. “She would photograph these at the request of this individual in Florida and send these images to this individual in Florida.”

Simpson said authorities have confiscated the individual from Florida’s cellphone and discussed with him what was sent on the phones.

“We have sent all of the phones we have collected, including Ms. Weekley’s phone, to the FBI in Quantico where they are examining those phones,” Simpson said.

Simpson said they have also interviewed Weekley’s daughter, who disclosed some of the actions performed.

“They had a game that they would call ‘Huckle Buckle,’ where she would disclose photographs and engage in activities like penetration that Ms. Weekley would perform on the child that were consistent with the images described on the text conservation and sent to the individual in Florida,” Simpson said.

The felonies Weekley is currently facing include two that could carry sentences of 20 years to life in prison.

“We have found homes for quite a few,” said Alida Given, Library Board Member. “Kids make a point of coming to play with them. It makes for unforgettable fun times.”

Once guests enter the library, they are greeted by the furry visitors, who have free roam of the library while they are there. This way, families can interact with the cats just as they would at home, by playing with them, holding them, and having the felines accompany them as they browse through the books or take a moment to read.

“There is not a time we don’t thank Stray Love for assisting so many pets,” Given said.

While the Magnolia Springs Library tries to host the cats every Thursday that they are open, it’s always a good idea to call ahead to make sure in case a foster family is unable to make it that day, or if they are running late. The library can be reached at 251-965-2305, or you can check their website at MagnoliaSpringsLibrary.org.

The Stray Love Foundation is a non-profit organization that rescues animals and does what they can to place them in loving homes. The organization is foster based, and they are always looking for volunteers and fosters who are willing to open their home to an animal in need.

If you’re looking for a new cat or dog, they have many waiting for adoption. For more information on the Stray Love Foundation, to search through their adoption list, or to become a foster, visit their website at StrayLoveFoundation.org or give them a call at 251-540-2236.

RHS cheerleading squads to host fundraising camp Aug. 1-3

By JOHN UNDERWOOD
john@gulfcoastmedia.com

Excitement is already building for the start of the 2017 high school football season.

STEWART

The sights and sounds are all too familiar, and many residents can't wait for it to start.

Along with the players on the field and the marching bands showcasing their halftime show, one of the most important elements of the game is the cheerleaders, leading chants on the sidelines and leading the crowds to urge their team to victory.

Every year for the past several years before the first home game young residents from age 5 get the opportunity to join the cheerleaders on the field during pre-game festivities at J.D. Sellars Stadium, first participating in a camp at Robertsdale Elementary School.

This year, the tradition will continue Aug. 1-3 with a new coach, Amy Stewart, following the retirement of Tracy Robbins at the end of the last school year.

"I'm excited about the program," said Stewart, a Mississippi native and graduate of Mississippi State who has spent the last three years in the RHS "IT Academy" teaching information technology and business applications. She also serves as the faculty adviser for Inside Bear Nation.

"We have a very good group of girls here," she said, "and if they stay positive and stay focused, they will represent the school well in the community and in competition."

Cost for campers is $35 each and includes instruction by RHS cheerleaders. The camp will be from 9 a.m. to noon each day and is open to campers from 5 years old up to sixth grade.

Instruction includes jumping, tumbling, cheers and chants, as well as a dance that campers will perform during the pre-game festivities at the Golden Bear varsity football team's first home game, which is Aug. 25 versus longtime rival Foley. Participants will take the field at about 6:30, and game time is set for 7 p.m. For younger campers, there will be arts and crafts activities.

Stewart and JV coach Stephanie Kroll recently hosted a free city camp with more than 70 campers signed up at the PZK Hall in Robertsdale. In the past, as many as 100 girls have participated in the camp.

Proceeds from the August camp will help pay expenses for various competitions. Additional fundraisers throughout the year help pay for day-to-day expenses for the cheerleading squads, Robbins said.

Forms for the camp are available in the front offices at Robertsdale Elementary School and Robertsdale High School.

For more information, ask for Stewart at Robertsdale High School, 251-947-4154 or email awstewart@bcbe.org.

Local librarian a winner in Capstone's 'The Power of Librarians' contest

By JESSICA VAUGHN
jessica@gulfcoastmedia.com

FOLEY — "Is it not every girl's secret dream to be a calendar girl?" said Sue Norman, the library media specialist at Foley Middle School. "Especially one that promotes the power of librarians."

Her dream has come true, as she is one of the 13 extraordinary librarians to win Capstone's "The Power of Librarians" national photo contest.

Capstone describes the contest as "celebrating the importance of librarians," as Capstone invites communities to nominate a school or public library media specialist who "makes meaningful connections with students, describe why they should be featured in the calendar, and share a photo which captures the spirit of the librarian's talent or ability."

Out of hundreds of nominations, Sue Norman won a spot in next year's calendar.

"I owe it all to my fellow teachers and my principal at Foley Middle School, Danny McDuffie, who nominated me for this honor, and the Capstone Publishing Company for recognizing the role of librarians in schools," Norman said.

Norman stated that Capstone Publishing is the company that is used in many Baldwin County schools for the acquisition of multiuser audio e-books for their students. While she believes that the printed word is still alive and well in FMS, she also understands the importance of online media.

"At FMS, our 700 students finished this school year having completed 17,400 books," Norman said. "The bulk of these books were read online at My Capstone Library. E-books have allowed us to provide an enhanced reading experience for our students. Also, there's no more waiting for a popular book to be returned by another student. Hundreds of students are able to access the same title at the same time using their Chromebooks."

Foley Middle School challenges the whole student body to read the same book during their "One Book, One School, One Day" event, which they usually tie into a nationwide event, such as Veterans Day or National Toilet Day, which Norman said students love.

"Every year we strive to create a community of readers at our school, and the library is the go-to place to get hooked up with the newest book in town," said Norman.

Capstone states that a common theme about all of the winning librarians is how each makes his or her library the go-to place and the heart of the school for all students.

"From championing reading to securing funding through grants to creating innovative makerspace areas, each of these superhero librarians are doing exceptional work for students," said Matt Keller, Capstone chief marketing officer. "Their passion for their profession is inspiring, and we're thrilled to feature them in our calendar."

Sue Norman is also thrilled to receive such an honor from the school, the students and Capstone. You can find her winning photo in Capstone's 2018 calendar, which will be available starting in August at select Capstone events.

"We will bring value to your business that leads to success for you and the Baldwin County Community."

Responding to the Trinity

In preparing lectures on the Trinity recently, I have been reminded that this doctrine has fallen on hard times in the evangelical church not because of outright rejection but widespread neglect. One of the first (and one of the severest) theological controversies in church history concerned the Trinity. While the ultimate solution to the problem was a century or so in the making, it was masterful: The Father, Son, and Spirit are co-equal, co-eternal; three persons, one essence. While there have been moments within the church and movements against the church that attempted to deny the Trinity, the classic formulation of three-in-one has been a stone cold non-negotiable of orthodoxy.

The success of the trinitarian formulation is, however, the best explanation for its neglect in the church. It is assumed to be true with little thought as to how that truth manifests itself in the life of faith. All the obscure talk of "persons," "essence," and "perichoresis," make little sense to most Christians. With this in mind, let me offer what I believe is the basic significance of the Trinity.

First, the Trinity means that our God is deeply, fundamentally relational. It is the fullest expression of the Scriptural claim that "God is love." The word "agape" essentially had to be invented to describe this deep relationality that exists in God, a relationality that He freely and graciously shares with all creation. In all the places where trinitarian concepts appear in Scripture, it is with reference to God's engagement with the world in creation, redemption, and the life of the church. Because of the Trinity, we are the people of God, the body of Christ, the Temple of the Holy Spirit.

Second, the Trinity means our God is deeply, fundamentally mysterious. He holy and wholly Other. His existence is beyond our comprehension, and He cannot be contained by our constructs. All analogies ultimately melt before the magnitude of His ineffable existence. How exactly is He three and one? Only He knows. Trinity means that, while God freely chose to create, He absolutely did not have to. He was utterly and completely satisfied in Himself. His love was fully in action and perfect within Himself. The fact that He chose to make us and redeem us is all of grace.

The only proper response to the relational yet mysterious Father-Son-Spirit is worship. In response to His Greatness, His Forgiveness, and His Call, we, like the prophet Isaiah, simply bow and surrender.

T.J. Yeldon visits Daphne youth center

By ALLISON MARLOW

What do you do when you successfully raise your son to be drafted in the NFL? You keep working.

Kim Yeldon, of Daphne, joined her son T.J. Yeldon, Alabama football alum and Jacksonville Jaguars player, at the Ruff Wilson Youth Center in Daphne last week to greet children and pass out 150 bookbags full of school supplies.

Kim stuffed every single one.

"I love having him home. But he aggravates me," she said with a smile. "T.J. is still T.J. He didn't change."

The event was a family affair as several family members and close friends came to cheer on Yeldon and the kids at the center where he spent many of his after-school and summer hours as a youth. Yeldon passed out autographs, brought the kids lunch and snow cones and passed out the bookbags.

"It's always good to come here and be with them and give them someone to look up to," he said of the visit.

Many of the children already knew Yeldon as a neighbor or family friend. Others were a little star struck.

"This is cool," said Morris Davis, 7. "He's the best football player in the world."

Yeldon, who graduated from Daphne

High School in 2012, was in town to help host a football camp last week with fellow Alabama and NFL players said he hopes to make the summer camp an annual event.

The running back said he remembers meeting his first professional football player as a child – Kenny King, who played for Alabama and the Arizona Cardinals.

"He was big," Yeldon said. "But when you are a little kid everyone looks big."

Yeldon said he enjoys the trips home, away from the bright lights and attention of the field.

"It's good to get away and be around love and family," he said.

His advice for young players?

"It's not about your size. It's about your heart," he said. "Keep working hard. You are going to be put down a lot of times. Keep fighting through. Keep working."

Lloyd Wyatt Arp earns Eagle Scout award

Lloyd Wyatt Arp, son of Randy and Beth Arp of Foley, has received his Eagle Scout Award.

Arp is a member of Boy Scout Troop 70, of Elberta, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Earl Buchaan.

Arp began his scouting career as a Tiger Cub with Cub Scout Pack 497 in Magnolia Springs, where he achieved The Arrow of Light award.

Through the years he has attended many scout camps and was a staff member at Mobile Area Council's Camp Maubila for two summers. In 2013 he attended the National Jamboree in West Virginia, and in 2015 he attended the National Order of the Arrow Conference gathering at Michigan State University.

For his Eagle Project, Arp built and installed eight permanent benches in front of the outside stage at the Baldwin County Heritage Museum in Elberta. Arp was inspired to give back to the museum after serving there as a junior curator.

Presently, Arp is a seasonal tour guide at Fort Morgan and an active member of Foley United Methodist Church. He is a graduate of Pensacola Catholic High School, in Florida, and will attend Birmingham Southern College in the fall.

Foley bicentennial bricks still available

Foley's bicentennial celebration may be over but you can still be part of history.

Commemorative bricks, placed along the pathways in Foley Centennial Plaza are still available for purchase.

The brick walkways and clock tower were erected to celebrate the 2015 bicentennial. There are approximately 600 personalized bricks, including over 50 that were added this summer.

Many of the bricks commemorate graduation and marriage dates, some honor parents and grandparents and there are lots of bricks to celebrate the births of Foley's youngest residents.

A 4" x 8" brick costs $50 and includes three lines of engraving. An 8"x8" brick costs $125 and includes six lines of engraving. Each line, on either size brick, has space for up to 15 letters, symbols or spaces.

Order your brick at the Foley Visitor Center at 104 N. McKenzie St.

Volunteers needed at Graham Creek

Graham Creek Nature Preserve in Foley needs volunteers to help remove invasive species growing in the park.

Volunteers are needed on Monday, July 24, and Friday, July 28, from 8 to 11 a.m.

Meet your neighbors, help your community, and have fun while volunteering to improve the nature trails by removing invasive plant species with the City of Foley's Environmental Department. These plants can be pulled by hand, which will help avoid the use of herbicides.

We will be focused on removing Chinese tallow trees, Chinese privet, and Japanese climbing fern along two of the nature trails.

Tools, gloves, training for plant field identification, and lunch will be provided. Please meet at the Graham Creek Interpretive Center, bring water, and dress appropriately for the weather.

The park is located at 23030 Wolf Bay Drive in Foley.

For more information or questions, contact Jackie McGonigal at jmcgonigal@cityoffoley.org or call 923-4267.

Filter your own fresh air

By DOOLEY BERRY

The days of July are long and hot and the peppery nights don't offer much relief from the heat. Now is a good time to head inside and show all of your houseplants some love. While you have been fighting the heat, houseplants have been possibly neglected by a lack of watering. All the while, they have been silently hard at work filtering all manner of toxins out of the air for your household.

The NASA Clean Air Study of 1989, originally done to research ways to clean the air in space stations, suggests that certain, common, indoor plants provide a natural way of removing toxic agents from air. NASA found that most of the effective air-cleaning plants originate in tropical or sub-tropical environments and, because of their ability to flourish in reduced sunlight, they photosynthesize well in household light.

Indoor air pollution comes from many sources, including paints, carpentry materials and plastics that can pose serious health threats over time. Ammonia is found in window cleaners, floor waxes and fertilizers. Benzene is found in plastics, rubber, nylon, synthetic fibers, drugs and pesticides. Xylene can contaminate printers, rubber, tobacco smoke, leather and paint while carbon monoxide is found in cooking stoves, water heaters, clothes dryers, fireplaces, power generators and cigarette smoke. Another contaminant, formaldehyde, is found in paper bags, waxed paper and plywood paneling. It is wise to remember that air pollution can be several times higher indoors than outdoors. Most scientists agree that indoor air pollution is a realistic threat to human health. We all tend to think that the air quality inside our homes is pretty good, but toxic compounds from wallpaper, paint, cleaning products, furniture, pollen, mold and bacteria make a not-so-clean contribution to inside air in our air-conditioned, poorly ventilated homes.

As they do in so many other circumstances, potted houseplants come to our rescue. In our frantically busy lifestyles, humans have a psychological need to be surrounded by greenery and items from nature. Indoor houseplants frequently fill home and office spaces as a way to reduce all of the physical and mental stimulation caused by the world's noise, rapid movement and visual complexity. Plants seem to have an inert nature to them that relaxes and calms down fast-paced lifestyles. In addition to these gifts, indoor plants improve human health mainly by purifying the air of the many types of pollutants found in all homes. Welcoming potted houseplants into our homes can greatly help purify the air and reduce harmful particulates in the air, as they absorb carbon dioxide to photosynthesize fresh oxygen.

Here are eight easily found and hearty houseplants that promote air quality.

- Bamboo palm - These cute little miniature bamboo trees are touted as adding good luck to their owners. That is a guarantee as the bamboo palm is a formaldehyde-filtering superstar that grows quickly from small palms to 12 foot high trees.
- Peace lily - Often given as housewarming gifts with good reason. The white flowering plant with glossy green leaves packs a major air-cleaning punch to whatever indoor setting it graces as it banishes several indoor pollutants, gases and solvents like benzene, ammonia and formaldehyde.
- Dracaena or ponytail plant - This interesting plant comes in varying shapes and sizes with its characteristic topknot of long, thin leaves lined with red, tan or creamy white. This common house and office plant is a wonderful filter for xylene, formaldehyde and benzene.
- Aloe vera - Not only is this gift-giving plant wonderful to have on hand in burn or wound healing emergencies, but each swollen leaf contains a mixture of amino acids, vitamins and enzymes with anti-bacterial, anti-inflammatory and soothing benefits. All the while, this beneficial plant filters formaldehyde from polluted indoor air.
- Garden mum - The colorfully common garden chrysanthemum is available in almost every pastel shade under the rainbow. In addition to being readily available and inexpensive, potted mums are air purifying superheroes. They remove multiple toxins from indoor airspace, including formaldehyde, ammonia, benzene and xylene.

- Weeping fig - This lovely plant does so much for the infrequent watering and indirect sunlight it requires. During the colder months, it can be brought indoors where it will decrease pollutants like benzene and formaldehyde. In the warmer months, it will thrive in semi-shade and can grow to heights of ten feet.
 - Mother-in-law tongue - This practically indestructible, hearty plant does much for very little upkeep-infrequent watering and little sun. It will quietly sit in its pot and filter benzene, xylene and formaldehyde from the air.
 - Spider plants - Thin, leafy spider plant is an ideal novice houseplant because it is tough to kill and can live through almost any neglect. The only thing this hearty plant requires to flourish is bright, indirect sunlight to keep multiplying its baby shoots as it absorbs harmful xylene and formaldehyde from the air.
- All of these air purifying plants are easily available at local or online nurseries. Improve your home's air quality and grow your own fresh air by choosing your desired plants, taking care of them and allowing them to take care of you.

You always know fun things to do!

Opinion

Rebuilding, Reforming, and Repairing Our Military

There is no greater responsibility of the federal government than to provide for the safety and security of the American people. I have found myself making this point over and over again throughout my short time in Congress.

With the wide range of issues under debate here in Washington, some of my colleagues seem to forget that our most basic responsibility as outlined in the Constitution is to “provide for the common defense” of the American people.

That is exactly what we did last week when the House passed the National Defense Authorization Act

BRADLEY BYRNE

Notes from your Congressman

(NDAA) by a strong bipartisan vote of 344 to 81. As you may remember, this is the bill that authorizes funding and sets policy for the entire United States military. Needless to say, it is a critically important piece of legislation that Congress must pass each year.

As a member of the House Armed Services Committee and Vice Chairman of the Seapower Subcommittee, I was able to play a key role in the bill as it moved through our Committee and then to the House floor for a vote.

The bill is especially important this year given

President Trump’s pledge to grow our military. Our bill increases total military spending by 10% over last year’s levels, which will help reverse the severe readiness crisis that has been plaguing the military.

Consider these numbers: thirty years ago, the Fiscal Year 1988 NDAA represented 27.3% of total federal outlays and 5.2% of projected GDP. This year’s bill authorizes funding for the military at $688.3 billion, which is 16.8% of total federal outlays and 3.4% of projected GDP.

We are spending less proportionally today on our military despite the fact that we face a wider range of threats across the globe. That should be troubling to every American.

Thirty years ago our nation’s military faced only one serious threat: the Soviet Union. There was no ISIS or al Qaeda or other radical Islamic terrorist organization threatening the United States. Iran was not an existential threat to the American people. North Korea wasn’t developing nuclear weapons and ballistic missiles. China was not on the radar as it relates to military power. We weren’t worried about cyberattacks or cyber espionage.

The threat environment today is incredibly complex, and we must ensure that our military funding is in line with the realities of the threats we face. This year’s NDAA is a big step in that direction.

The bill increases the size of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Army Guard and Reserve, Naval and Air Reserve, and Air Guard. It also provides for the procurement of critical military aircraft, ships, and equipment while also setting money aside for maintenance and repairs to current military resources.

Important to our area, the bill authorizes the construction of three more Littoral Combat Ships (LCS), which are built in part by Austal USA in Mobile. It is critical that the bill support three ships because that is the number necessary to keep the shipyard operating at full speed and keep the cost of the ships down.

Given the nuclear and ballistic missile threat posed by North Korea, the bill boosts our nation’s missile defense programs. A number of important cyber security provisions and reforms related to the space domain are also included in the bill.

In an effort to support our servicemembers and their families, the bill authorizes a 2.4% pay raise for our troops. It also includes significant provisions related to military health care, housing, and benefit programs.

All told, this bill will help ensure the safety and security of the American people through rebuilding, repairing, and reforming our nation’s military.

Caretaker or ideologue for U.S. Senate?

As the horse race for our open U.S. Senate seat heads down the stretch, let’s look at the lay of the land.

All indications are that Roy Moore and Luther Strange are headed for a one-two finish on August 15 and ultimately a runoff on September 26. The winner of that match will be our junior U. S. Senator for the next three years of the Jeff Sessions’ seat term. The short window for the campaign helps Moore and Strange. They both have name identification and have run several successful campaigns for significant statewide offices. Roy Moore has worked the rural areas of the state quietly without much money. Luther Strange has bought heavy TV time in the Birmingham media market hoping to turnout upscale suburban Republicans. A combination of polls as we head around the curve and into the last leg of the race has Moore at 30, Strange at 28 and Brooks at 18. The caveat to remember is that turnout is critical. Moore’s 30 percent will show up. Therefore, his final vote tally on August 15 could be higher than 30. A poll is a picture of the entire electorate. The poll that actually counts is the poll on August 15 and it is comprised of those that showed up to cast their ballot. Congressman Mo Brooks has the best chance to upset one of the two frontrunners. He represents the vote rich Tennessee Valley in Congress. He is the only viable candidate from that neck of the woods. He is a member of the Right Wing Freedom

Caucus in Congress. If that ultra conservative group has a grassroots fundraising organization and they raise Mo some money, he could surprise and overcome Luther. There are two descriptions I like to use when assessing a U.S. Senator and the script they seek as your senator. Senator Richard Shelby is the ultimate caretaker. He has proven to be the greatest U.S. Senator in Alabama history. Over the past 30 years, he has brought home the bacon. He has also voted conservatively. In fact, if you compare the voting records of Shelby and Sessions they would be identical. However, Jeff Sessions would be categorized as an ideologue. He was an ultra-conservative during his tenure in the Senate and was considered one of the upper bodies’ most arch right wing reactionaries. Therefore, would Roy Moore or Mo Brooks or Luther Strange be considered a caretaker or an ideologue? Mo Brooks has already proven to be an ideologue as a Congressman.

There is no question but that Roy Moore would be the ultimate ideologue. He would arrive in Washington and by national standards would be the caricature that the Democratic Party would use as the poster boy that depicts how far right the Republican Party is today. It would be Moore’s mission to be perceived as the most ideologically religious zealot on the scene. Alabama would be known for having the most religious right wing senator in the nation. The national Democrats would use Roy Moore’s picture in every ad in every California race the same way Obama was used in Alabama. Luther Strange would be in the mold of Senator Richard Shelby as a caretaker. Shelby would be better served to have a conservative caretaker in Washington than a reactionary right wing ideologue. However, Alabamians may prefer having a missionary in Washington rather than a visionary – at least those who show up to vote on August 15. See you next week.

Alabama than Roy Moore or Mo Brooks. He would be more of the type Senator that we have in Richard Shelby. We have had some greats like Shelby, Lister Hill, John Sparkman, and John Bankhead. Alabama would be better served to have a conservative caretaker in Washington than a reactionary right wing ideologue. However, Alabamians may prefer having a missionary in Washington rather than a visionary – at least those who show up to vote on August 15. See you next week.

Fairhope resident questions contradictory claims from mayor

The mayor has now given two contradictory statements about this. When first asked about it, she told Gulf Coast Media that she had virtually nothing to do with the contract - even though the original invoice shows her having a secret meeting with Elias in her home in December, as well as personally ordering up the examinations on Sullivan’s and Fidler’s phones and computers, and following up with Elias to get the results. Now, she by contrast says that this was all part of protecting “the security of Fairhope” and implementing procedures that will be followed for all departing employees. One if not both of these explanations is a lie. Certainly the first one appears to be - the mayor’s words are contradicted by the invoices. And the second statement also appears highly suspect - not only does it contradict the first, but were it to be believed, are we to believe that the mayor personally is having every departing employees’ phones and computers examined “to protect the security of Fairhope”? And as an aside: what were Sullivan and Fidler allegedly doing, that the mayor contends was ‘threatening the security of Fairhope’ and ‘doing things that would prevent her from doing her job’ (the mayor’s original statement in the days after Sullivan’s and Fidler’s terminations)? Claiming all this is for “security” reasons is the basest of fear mongering. If there are truly concerns over the security of Fairhope, they are matters for the Chief of Police - yet, here, the mayor acted without the Chief’s knowledge and had the work billed to a Police Department contract without the Chief’s knowledge. Excluding the Chief and Police Department from security issues is not the way an elected official is supposed to look after our citizens’ best interests. And the attacks on the media and council president Burrell for the revelations of this potential wrong-doing, are the flimsiest of attempts of deflections from the real issue:

the question of whether or not the mayor acted improperly in all of this. It would be so much better if the mayor would tell us the truth, instead of these conflicting “explanations” that demonstrate not only her untruthfulness, but give further rise to the belief that she’s attempting to cover up something she did that she doesn’t want the public to know about. One hopes the city council is going to step up to its responsibility to get the truth of all this - to either find a reasonable explanation behind it, if one exists; or to expose wrongdoing if it exists and hold the responsible parties to account.

Fairhope citizen encouraged by civil meeting

Dear Editor, At last week’s City Council meeting, I felt encouraged when I heard from the Mayor about the improvements that are being implemented in each of the city’s departments and the gratitude she personally expressed to each of them. It was extremely encouraging to hear that there are so many positive things going on in our city in spite of the contention we have read and heard about. I add my gratitude to all our City Administration, the Mayor, the Council and all the City Departments Heads and their Employees. I also congratulate the Mayor and the Council for having the Department Heads present their ideas of their individual department’s needs with regards to the budget. I also want to say how grateful I am to Sherry-Lea and to Sarah for going after the grant funds that will help pay for some of the City’s infrastructure needs. Thanks to all!

JUST A PILE OF OLD ROCKS

Many people wonder about the wonderful monument of red rocks on County Road 32 in the Summerdale area. So we set out to discover what they are all about.

Man has been piling rocks about as long as there were men on earth, and each man-made formation has a story. Earliest formations were probably to mark an area for future use, like signposts. Many early cultures erected steles to commemorate an event, and many to mark a person's life. Eventually, like Ogham standing stones in Ireland, they were carved with writings and later were even shaped into obelisks. Some early cultures used rocks placed in perfect formations like Stonehenge for religious purposes or as dolmans to mark graves, but the earliest ones found were simply stacked in ways that created a permanent structure. Here in Baldwin County, we call them rock piles!

A couple of years ago, high in the Rocky Mountains, I pulled over to the side of the road, jumped out and went to a pile of rocks by the side of the road. There I picked up a large one and leveled it good in the dirt. Then my husband added one on top of that base. In turn, each of my three grandsons added a rock to the pile. Then I explained the custom.

I am trying to remember just when I started doing this – it seems like I have always done it. On every trip I make, at the furthest or highest point from my home, I build an Ebenezer. Then we sing, “Here I raise mine Ebenezer, Hither by Thy help I’m come. And I pray by Thy good mercy safely to arrive at home.” We show our thankfulness for a safe journey thus far and ask for traveling mercies for our travels home.

Thinking of the Ebenezers I have made, I treasure the memories of each place. We built one at Machu Picchu, at Mount Sanai, at Vesuvius, and one at Alabama’s own Mount Cheaha. We built one at the westernmost point of Hawaii on the isle of Kauai at the end of the Hanakape’ai hiking trail on the NaPali Coast (Glad I did that when I was younger.)

The Biblical reference is in I Samuel, where a stone was raised in Israel to commemorate victory over the Philistines, but virtually every culture has similar monuments. Some even take on personalities and other meanings.

In Vancouver, the official symbol of the Olympics was the Inuksuk, a traditional rock structure of the Inuit and other Native American tribes from Alaska to Greenland. Earliest were single upright stones used as markers, as a means of communicating some message to those who passed that way. The name can be translated as “that which acts in the capacity of a human,” and the later ones do seem to take on the image of humans. On our last trip to Alaska, our grandson Luke, built one on the Yukon River, our furthest point north.

Here at home, everyone loves seeing the rock sculpture on County Road 32 in Summerdale. The farmer used local red ironstone to create a sculpture as wonderful as any we have seen in our travels. The owner of the land, Wayne Teem, lives across the road. He says that he leases the land to a cattle farmer. The rancher asked permission to dig a pond on the acreage and while doing so, the magnificent iron rocks were uncovered. He had them piled up in a formation visible from the highway. Mr. Teem said that the cattle rancher talked about naming his spread Red Rock Ranch, the Triple R. The ranch is now expanded all the way through to County Road 28, where a similar rock structure can be seen.

I guess it is the permanence of rocks that makes them beg to be used to leave a sign of man’s existence. The Jewish custom of leaving a small rock on a headstone is a beautiful way to show respect for the lasting memory of the deceased. The dramatic conclusion of Schindler’s List demonstrates the honor paid to a person when the stone is placed at the gravesite. Scholars of the Jewish faith write that the custom signifies a more permanent tribute than flowers at a gravesite. It may be a tradition springing from the early days when graves were marked with piles of stones. Regardless of its origin, the custom is powerful today.

Every time I visit my great-grandfather’s grave in Rock Cemetery in Robertsdale, there is at least one small stone on the headstone of Carl Alex Brill. I don’t know who else puts them there, but I always add one of my own. We are connected by the bones of the earth.

I just read a teacher’s blog which extols the value of building rock sculptures. It is not as easy as it looks. It takes understanding of physics and balance, usually by trial and error – which builds patience and persistence. Maybe we each need to pile some rocks.

Sports Academy faculty train Fairhope football players on concussion awareness

Free online course on sport-related concussions also offered

USSA.edu

DAPHNE – United States Sports Academy faculty recently provided concussion prevention education to football players at Fairhope High School through a program designed to address the growing issue of sport-related concussion among young athletes.

Over the past year, the Academy has worked with the University of South Alabama (USA) Department of Neurology and the Mobile County Public School System (MCPSS) under the Concussion Awareness Program (CAP), funded in part by a grant from the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) to USA. Under the program directed by USA, the University and the Academy developed procedures for use by the school system to better protect student athletes from the negative health consequences of concussions. Students, coaches and others involved in contact sports programs are provided training on concussion awareness and prevention. Protocols are also put in place to make sure that student athletes who receive concussions are not allowed to return to play until medical professionals approve.

Dr. Vincent K. Ramsey, Academy chair of sports exercise science, said a letter of cooperation was recently signed to expand the CAP partnership to all Baldwin County Public School System (BCPSS) high schools. He and Dr. Brandon Spradley, Academy director of sports management, recently provided concussion awareness instruction to Fairhope High School football players under the educational aspect of CAP. This part of the program provides student athletes, coaches, trainers and parents with an online tutorial application to evaluate and build upon their knowledge of concussion. Student athletes are required to complete the tutorial as part of the program.

The second element of the program relates to ensuring that athletes with concussions are given proper medical treatment and not allowed to resume competing until medically cleared. This is achieved by medical intervention and by standardized neurocognitive testing, a component achieved by each player taking two tests before the start of the season – an online neurological assessment and a balance test – which establish the athlete's normal neurological function. After suffering a concussion or suspected concussion, the tests are taken again. Under the protocol, players suspected to have suffered concussions can not resume competition unless released by medical professionals.

"Last year with the NCAA grant, we went to every Mobile County high school and tested every football player through the Concussion Awareness Program," Ramsey said. "Athletes take a questionnaire, then watch a video with information about concussions and how they would report, then they would take the quiz again. The results showed a significant positive influence of the program.

"The results show a statistically significant improvement in the athletes' levels of knowledge of concussions, as well as their perception of what a concussion is and what they should do to report it and recover."

"Concussion education is very much needed, especially at the youth and high school levels," Spradley said. "Much of what we hear about concussions come from sports media covering the NFL and other professional sports. Sometimes young athletes are forgotten about and neglected.

"Our hope is that this program will educate thousands of young athletes about the signs and symptoms of concussion," Spradley said. "Our goal is for young athletes to have the right attitude and mindset towards concussion and improve their behavior and willingness to report concussion symptoms."

USA is currently seeking a $1.6 million grant from the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) to build on the progress already made by CAP by expanding the program to a wider geographical area, as well as serve younger athletes. The Academy would provide the educational component of the concussion prevention program as a sub recipient of the grant.

Dr. Anthony Martino, chairman of the Department of Neurosurgery in the USA College of Medicine, has practiced neurosurgery for 25 years and has championed head injury prevention programs. He is CAP's principal investigator, along with co-principal investigators Dr. Ashley Marass, an assistant professor in USA's College of Nursing, and Ramsey. Spradley, as well as USA Professor Dr. Benjamin Hill and Mary Wilstrup, USA pediatric clinical nurse, are also involved in CAP.

Concussion has become a major issue of concern in contact sports in recent years, especially in relation to the discovery of Chronic Traumatic Encephalopathy, or CTE, among professional football players and other athletes. Caused by repeated blows to the head and recurring concussions, the disease has been blamed for cognitive and intellectual impairment, mood disorders, depression, drug abuse, and suicide attempts among elite athletes.

In addition to its involvement in CAP, the Academy offers a free online course on sport-related concussions which provides an in-depth review of the risks, prevention, recognition, treatment and management of sport-related concussions. The course also discusses the importance of awareness and education strategies for coaches, athletes, parents, administrators, and health care professionals. The course is available by going to USSA.edu/free courses.

Tigers pitch in for Habitat for Humanity

Tina COVINGTON

Members of the BCHS Tiger offensive and defensive line put in a little muscle to a special project going on in Bay Minette. The football players joined other volunteers in laying a yard full of sod at the Habitat for Humanity home currently under construction on Townsend Avenue.

The home is expected to be completed by the end of the month for new homeowner, Kassie Betts and her children. Hundreds of volunteers have spent the past few months working on the Habitat home and the Betts family has been working right alongside them. Habitat homeowners pay a 30-year interest-free mortgage, making it affordable and manageable.

They are also expected to invest 400 hours of "sweat equity" in the program by assisting with other builds, their own build, and attending financial education classes, monthly budgeting meetings and homeowner preparation classes.

Prior to construction, Kassie had already completed hundreds of hours of service on other projects and had attended Dave Ramsey's Financial Peace University.

She accomplished all this while working two jobs to support her family. Since its inception, Habitat for Humanity has completed more than 100 homes in Baldwin County and repaired numerous homes for veterans and other residents.

For more information about how to help on this or other Habitat projects, visit the organization's website at www.baldwinhabitat.org.

The Betts family pitched in on the recent workday as construction nears completion on their new home. The family is expected to move in later this month.

NORTH-SOUTH ALL-STAR GAME

58th annual football game set to kick off tomorrow at Cramton Bowl with Daphne and Fairhope players on South roster

AHSAA.com

MONTGOMERY – Several roster changes have been made as North-South teams prepare to kickoff in the 58th North-South All-Star Football Game to be played at Cramton Bowl. The game will kick off at 7 p.m., July 20, as the 2017 All-Star Sports Week competition concludes for the 21th annual AHSAA All-Star Week and Summer Conference hosted by the Alabama High School Athletic Directors & Coaches Association.

A total of 20 players have been replaced on the South squad and 18 on the North squad from the original rosters announced earlier this spring. Both squads will check in Sunday at Auburn-Montgomery University. Andre Robinson of Birmingham's Parker High School is the North head coach while Scott Horne of Skipperville's G.W. Long High School will be coaching the South team. All-Star competition is being held in seven different sports at various locations across the city of Montgomery. Baseball, basketball, softball and soccer squads report Monday with North-South competition set for all but basketball on Tuesday. Cross country and volleyball squads check in Tuesday. The Baseball all-stars will play a doubleheader beginning at 4 p.m., girls' and boys' soccer all-star teams will play at 5 and 7 p.m., at Emory Folmar Soccer Complex and the fast-pitch all-star doubleheader will be at Lagoon Park starting at 5 p.m. Cross country is being added for the first time with the girls' race at 7:30 a.m., Wednesday at the cross country course on the AUM campus. The boys' race will follow at 8 a.m. The girls' and boys' basketball competition will be Wednesday night at Auburn University-Montgomery's Basketball

Complex with the girls' game at 6 p.m. and the boys game at 8 p.m. The North-South volleyball competition will be Thursday at 4 p.m. at AUM's Complex. The basketball competition, originally scheduled for Alabama State University's Dunn-Oliver Arena, was moved earlier this week due to some facility issues. The AHSAA Summer Conference gets underway Monday at the Montgomery Renaissance Hotel and Convention Center with sessions for bowling and golf. More than 4,000 coaches, administrators, contest officials, all-star players and others are expected to attend the conference, which will provide extensive professional development for AHSAA member schools. The Summer Conference will conclude Friday, July 21, with two mandatory sessions for member schools as well as the 10th annual AHSAA

Sportsmanship Luncheon honoring 107 schools that were fine and ejection free in 2016-17 and the 21st annual Coaches Awards Banquet Friday night. The Officials Awards Luncheon will be held Saturday at 11:30 a.m. Robinson's North football coaching staff includes Michael Robinson of Hokes Bluff, Bill Smith of Munford, Mark Heaton of Russellville, Richard Dutton of Lawrence County, Kelvis White of James Clemens and Scott Sharp of Madison County. Cedric Brown of Southside-Selma is the administrative coach. Horne's South staff lists Jason Massey of Leroy, Wesley Sims of J.U. Blacksher, Lee Carter of Jeff Davis, Pat Thompson of Sweet Water, Tim Perry of Wetumpka and James Lucas of LaFayette. Michael Summers of Alabama Christian is the administrative coach. Horne has a 74-20 career record in eight years as G.W. Long's head coach. His teams have compiled a 55-7 slate averaging 11 wins per season over the last five years. Long has reached the 2A semifinals each of the last two years going 12-1 each year and currently owns a 25-game region winning streak. Robinson, now in his second tenure as Parker's head coach, is 64-55 overall in 15 years. He coached the Thundering Herd from 1997-2003 before becoming a college assistant coach, then returned to the high school ranks in 2013 at Birmingham Carver, moved back to Parker in 2014 and has guided the Herd to a 22-11 slate the last three years. The South holds a 30-25-2 edge in the North-South series which began in 1948. The North won 14-0 last year in a game called due to inclement weather in the second quarter. The AHSADCA operates under the auspices of the Alabama High School Athletic Association. Membership includes coaches of all AHSAA sports as well as administrators of member schools. NFHS NETWORK: All all-star competition will be live-streamed over the NFHS TV Network. Links and instructions on how to subscribe can be found at www.ahsaa.com. The All-Star Football Game will also be broadcast live by the AHSAA Radio Network. The week's festivities can also be found on the new AHSAA Mobile App, which can be downloaded free at Apple and Google stores online or by going to the following link: <https://admin.mycaboodlevents.com/event/detail/79/ahsaa-2017-ahsaa-summer-conference>

A look at FSU, Southern Miss and Troy football

As the 2017-18 College Football season gets closer to starting, there are many teams that are on track to surpassing their respective previous seasons. Some of the regional teams in the Gulf Coast have high potential for a big season and their fan bases are eager to see the continuing progress of their teams as they get ready for kickoff in late August.

The Troy Trojans accounted for their first 10-win season last year at 10-3 including a victory against the Ohio Bobcats in the Dollar General Bowl in Mobile. Now in his third season with the Trojans, head coach Neal Brown is looking to outperform their first 10-win season since transitioning to Division I with their first Sun Belt Conference title since 2010.

Last season, the Trojans were 37th in the nation in points per game (33.7) with a power run game by Jordan Chunn and a more explosive passing game led by former Gulf Shores quarterback Brandon Silvers. Silvers and Chunn are a part of an offense this season that returns nine starters from last season.

The defense will have to replace star players like Sun Belt defensive player of the year in Rashad Dillard. They do have four returning defensive backs on a defense that was ranked 17th in points allowed per game (22.1). The last game on Troy's schedule against Arkansas State could settle the Sun Belt Conference title.

Since Jimbo Fisher took over the position of head coach of the Florida State Seminoles, they have been in the conversation for ACC conference titles as well as National Championships. This season should be no different especially with the reigning national champions in the Clemson Tigers expected to be in a rebuilding season.

Last season, the Seminoles were experiencing a quarterback change, which was not as bad as people thought and a new defensive outlook, in which they underperformed in multiple areas. In their 10-3 record, the Seminoles lost to highly efficient and explosive offenses like Louisville Cardinals, North Carolina Tarheels and Clemson Tigers. The defense was ranked 44th in points allowed per game (25) and 57th in passing yards allowed per game (221.1). Former freshman standout and 2014 All-American Derwin James had a season ending knee injury in September last season. He will be back with a highly talented defensive backfield unit including Tarvarus McFadden, who had eight interceptions. The defense is expected to be one of the best in the nation with the offense looking to sophomore Deondre Francois for leadership.

After winning the C-USA conference championship in 2011, the Southern Miss Golden Eagles took a big hit when head coach Larry Fedora left to take the same position at North Carolina. The following three seasons, the Golden Eagles accounted for a disastrous 4-32 record that resulted in the departure of two head coaches during that time. Now back on the winning side, the Golden Eagles are ready to get back into the divisional title race. The season will be difficult at first for Southern Miss as they have to replace five key offensive starting positions including three offensive linemen and quarterback.

Despite Southern Miss being ranked 62nd in rushing yards per game (174.5), Ito Smith rushed for 1,459 yards and 17 touchdowns. The Golden Eagles might have to switch to a run first offensive philosophy to not lean on the new quarterback so much. The defense has to replace seven starters on a defense that was ranked 10th in passing yards per game (174.9) last season.

Movie: Story of a Girl

Kyra Sedgwick realizes a long-time passion project as she makes her directorial debut with this new TV adaptation of a best-selling novel by Sara Zarr. Ryann Shane stars as Deanna, who is still trying to escape the scandal of a sexy video she made with an older teenager three years ago, when she was just 13. Kevin and Sosie Bacon, Sedgwick's husband and daughter, also appear.

The title town is the base for a psychic (Francois Arnaud) whose otherworldly dealings prompt him to seek help from other locals, some human and others not. Additional stars of the "Pilot" include Dylan Bruce, Arielle Kebbel and Jason Lewis ("Sex and the City").

9:01 p.m. on ABC
Somewhere Between

A San Francisco television producer, played by Paula Patton, knows the "when" and "where" but not the "who" and "how" of her daughter's (Aria Birch) imminent murder in this new suspense series based on a Korean show. The premiere, "For One to Live," also stars Devon Sawa as a troubled detective trying to help the woman circumvent the tragedy. JR Bourne ("Teen Wolf") also is featured.

World of Dance

The American Ballet Theatre's Misty Copeland makes her last of two guest-judge appearances in this new episode, as she joins Jennifer Lopez, Derek Hough and Ne-Yo on the panel for the second installment of the "Cut" round. It's a particularly brutal set of eliminations, since by the end, less than half of the competitors will remain — and then, the top two acts in each vision will be the last to stay.

WINTERS

Rev. DuWayne Vernon Winters, 78, of Burlington, Iowa, died at 12:47 a.m. Saturday, July 8, 2017, at his home.

Born Nov. 13, 1938, in Rockford, Illinois, he was the son of Lloyd Vernon and Lavana Pearl Sandell Winters. On April 4, 1964, he married Eunice Rae Scholz in Hastings, Minnesota.

DuWayne started as a tool and die maker at Rockford Crescent Manufacturing in Rockford, Illinois.

In 1977 he became pastor of the First Covenant Church of Bessemer, Pennsylvania and in 1984 he became pastor at Silverhill Covenant Church in Silverhill, Alabama. After leaving the Silverhill church in 1990, he was a prison chaplain for the Alabama Department of Corrections. Following the move to Burlington, he became a member of the First Congregational Church.

He graduated from Harlem High School in Loves Park, Illinois in 1957, Rockford University, Rockford, Illinois in 1961 and North Park Theological Seminary in Chicago, Illinois in 1979.

DuWayne enjoyed road trips, visiting friends and family across the country and spending time on the beach. He was a voracious reader and a car enthusiast.

With Trust and Obey as a foundational life principal, he loved the Lord, served him faithfully and followed wherever God led.

Survivors include his wife, Eunice of Burlington, Iowa; three daughters, Cynthea (James) Traverso of North Caldwell, New Jersey, Tracey (Bill) Beck of Newark, Delaware, Vanessa (Rev. Michael) Rice of Kingsburg, California; one son, Nathanael Winters of Burlington, Iowa; 13 grandchildren, Mark, Jamie and Luke Traverso, Anya, Josiah, Mariah, and Micah Beck, Elijah, Samuel and Naomi Rice, and Owen, Gwen and Lucy Winters; one brother, David (Kathy) Winters Ph.D. of Ypsilanti, Michigan; and several nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents; one sister, Ruthann; and two grandchildren, Ashre and Sameah Rice.

The memorial service for Rev. Winters will be 4 p.m., Sunday, July 23, 2017 at Greenwood Community Covenant Church in Summerdale, Alabama, with Rev. R.H. Simmons officiating.

A time of food and fellowship will be held at Greenwood Community Covenant Church following the service.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made at www.paulcarlson.org/donate, or checks can be mailed to Paul Carlson Partnership, 8303 W. Higgins Road, Chicago IL 60631. Please mention the gift is in memory of Rev. DuWayne Winters.

A photo tribute can be viewed and condolences can be sent to the family by visiting DuWayne's obituary at www.pruhthielencares.com.

FORTE

James Franklin Forte, age 79, a resident of Fairhope, Alabama, passed away peacefully at home on Monday, July 10, 2017.

He is survived by his wife, Georgia Forte of Fairhope; son, Gary Forte (Jean) of Selma, Alabama; daughter, Karen Forte Cox (Charles) of Mobile, Alabama; granddaughter, Mallory Floyd; brothers, Jerry Forte (Cheri) and Rusty Dimmett; sister, Patsy Schunk (Fred); and many other loving relatives and friends.

Frank was born on Jan. 8, 1938 in Buena Vista, Alabama to Cora Bell and Bernard Elmore Forte. He graduated from Beatrice High School in 1955, and then served in the Alabama Army National Guard.

He later moved to Selma, Alabama where he founded Forte Dental Lab. He worked there for many years, and later retired to Fairhope in 2014.

Frank was known for his sense of humor and love of travelling, especially to his wife's native country of Greece.

He was a train enthusiast, and was involved with the Heart of Dixie Railroad Museum in Calera, Alabama. He loved fishing, boating on the Alabama River, relaxing at Gulf Shores and dinners out with family and friends.

He will be greatly missed by all of us.

Dr. Bob Shipp has been a judge at the Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo at Dauphin Island since 1982 and has seen countless red snapper and king mackerel come across the scales. Shipp also heads research trips into the Gulf of Mexico to study the red snapper population.

Shipp prepares to judge his 35th ADSFR

By DAVID RAINER

Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources

With a new pacemaker in place, Dr. Bob Shipp is preparing to oversee the thousands upon thousands of fish from the Gulf of Mexico and Alabama's coastal waters that will be tossed onto the counter at the weigh station during the Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo (ADSFR), scheduled July 21-23 at Dauphin Island.

Shipp, professor emeritus of the University of South Alabama's Marine Sciences Department, will serve as head judge at the weigh station during the 84th rodeo, which happens to be his 35th behind the rodeo scales.

Shipp started as an assistant judge to the late Roy Martin in 1982 and became the head judge when Martin retired in the late '90s.

During Shipp's time as head judge, the ADSFR was recognized in 2011 by the Guinness Book of World Records as the largest and oldest fishing tournament in the world.

"It's become probably the biggest single event in Lower Alabama during the summer," Shipp said. "It's the focal point of all the activities with thousands and thousands of people who come to Dauphin Island and coastal Alabama. Plus, you've got people from Tennessee and Georgia and other states who come down just for the rodeo."

"What I think is really interesting is that it has become as much a spectator event for non-fishermen as it is for fishermen themselves. It used to be that fishermen were pretty much it. But now with all the display tanks and Most Unusual category, it's just a great venue for tourists."

Shipp said the other big change he's experienced during his rodeo time is how marine science has flourished at the rodeo in the last 10 to 15 years.

"Way back when, there were a couple of us down there for the science," he said. "Now we have scientists from all over the country and Europe, too, to collect specimens. I would have to count how many masters' theses and Ph.D. dissertations have come from the rodeo. And the Jaycees (Mobile chapter that hosts the rodeo) have been so supportive."

One species that has been studied extensively at the ADSFR is Alabama's favorite reef fish, the red snapper, which has been the center of controversy for numerous years because of season restrictions instituted in federal waters.

"We've been able to gather a tremendous amount of information on red snapper in terms of growth and age structure at the rodeo," Shipp said. "That information is going to be used, eventually, to change the management regime for snapper. That also includes grouper and the other snapper species like vermilion, gray and lane snapper."

"We've gotten a tremendous amount of data that has pointed out the importance of artificial structures off of Alabama. We've got more than 15,000 artificial reefs that have totally changed the ecosystem and built up the reef fish fishery. That's due in part because of the rodeo support and the information gathered at the rodeo."

As part of his continued work at South Alabama, Shipp makes several research trips annually into the Gulf to gather red snapper specimens. The research, funded by the Alabama Marine Resources Division, gathers catch data and video footage during the trips. One species that scientists won't be able to process for this year's rodeo is triggerfish, which is closed for all of 2017. Shipp, however, has seen plenty of triggerfish on his research trips.

"We've been out several times and the videos show huge, huge triggerfish," he said. "They're also very curious. They come right up to the camera."

Shipp said during the trips, the bottom-reading electronics will reveal new spots to probe to determine if the structure is natural or man-made and to see what kind of marine life is present.

"When we put the camera down, it's amazing," he said. "We have never had a single one of those spots that wasn't just loaded with snapper."

Thanks to a change in the federal red snapper season, which runs each Friday, Saturday and Sunday through and including Labor Day, there will be tons of big red snapper brought to the rodeo weigh station. Don't forget to report your catch on Snapper Check.

The rodeo kicked off on Saturday, the 15th, with the Roy Martin Young Anglers Tournament, which sees about 2,000 youngsters head out to catch any number of fish species. The Roy Martin event is open to all young anglers age 15 and under. And the kids competed in several species not available during the ADSFR, including sea robins, croakers, hardhead catfish, spadefish, oysterfish, pinfish and whiting.

For the big rodeo, those anglers who wish to participate in the jackpot events will have to make captain's meetings at one of two venues, Orange Beach and Dauphin Island. The meetings for the Raymarine Big Game Jackpot, the Jesco King Mackerel Jackpot and the ADSFR Catch & Release Shark Category will be held at J&M Tackle in Orange Beach and the rodeo site at Dauphin Island. The Catch & Release Shark meeting is set for Thursday, July 20 at 5 p.m. at J&M Tackle in Orange Beach and the ADSFR site on Dauphin Island for a mandatory sign-out. The King Mackerel Jackpot sign-out will be Thursday at 6 p.m. at J&M and Dauphin Island, while the Big Game Jackpot will hold its meeting also at 6 p.m. at the two locations. If the participant or representative is unable to attend the captain's meeting, a boat representative has until 5 a.m. Friday, July 21 to complete the mandatory sign-out at the ADSFR site for the Big Game Jackpot, King Mackerel Jackpot, ADSFR Catch and Release Shark Category and optional cash prize divisions.

Anglers in the big rodeo will compete in 30 categories, 15 inshore and 15 offshore. There is also a Speckled Trout Jackpot. The speckled trout anglers will fish in two divisions — motorized and non-motorized.

The Live Weigh-In competition for speckled trout and redfish will return at the Dauphin Island site. The Live Weigh-In has been a popular addition to the rodeo and numerous trout and redfish have successfully been measured and released to the wild.

The rodeo will continue the special prize category started last year for lionfish. Rodeo anglers are urged to bring as many of the invasive species to the weigh dock as possible. Lionfish, which threatens the Gulf Coast ecosystem because it has almost no natural predators, is the rodeo's exclusive spearfishing category, and the winner will be decided by the number of fish brought to the weigh station.

Rodeo tickets are available at the usual outlets as well as online at www.adsfr.com.

After the rodeo is finished, Shipp will return to another familiar role — Alabama representative on the Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council. Shipp was appointed to a third term on the Council. Shipp knows the Council's top agenda item is obviously red snapper.

"I think there is going to be a lot of effort to turn red snapper management over to the states," he said. "I know most of the legislative people along the five Gulf states are tired of trying to fight these silly regulations that we have in place now."

"If the Council can't come up with something better than they have now, I think states will eventually take it over. I think there's also a lot of disagreement about the state of amberjack and triggerfish, but those are not nearly as serious as the snapper situation."

Shipp said it's hard to resolve what the NOAA Fisheries computer models indicate and what anglers and even the research trips show about the red snapper population.

"Because of the artificial reef efforts, not just Alabama but the other states as well, we have created a tremendous amount of snapper habitat that did not exist before," he said. "The population has expanded increasingly rapidly. The problem is the way the feds view the population. They need a ratio of ages. They want so many 4-5-6-year-olds. With the population expanding as rapidly as it is, all these young fish are entering the population and it screws up the model."

"This goal of rebuilding the snapper stock by 2032 was put in place in the 1990s. Here they are looking 30-35 years in advance with no way to address the changes in habitat. Our hurricane people, with all the data they have, can't even predict four days out. So how can you predict 30 years out for a fishery. It's insane."

Shipp said another reason will likely factor into the transition to state-managed reef fisheries.

"Each state has different habitat," he said. "Alabama has artificial reefs. Alabama and Texas have oil rigs. Florida has a lot of natural bottom. Everything is different, so it makes much more sense for the states to manage it."

Baldwin County skin cancer rates higher than state and national averages

By ALLISON MARLOW

Casey Daniel says young women tend to believe that cancer is a disease of the elderly. They are not at risk.

She is proof that they are wrong.

Daniel, an assistant professor of oncologic sciences at the University of South Alabama's Mitchell Cancer Institute, suffered from skin cancer at age 16. Since then, she has recovered and become an expert in cancer studies.

She tries every day to remind them that cancer, especially skin cancer, can come at any age. In fact, for women in their 20s it is the second most common cancer among that age group.

And for the rest of the population, it is just as widespread. Skin cancer is the most common cancer in the United States. The number of cases doubled between 1982 and 2011, and there were 5 million new cases in 2016 alone.

To put that number into perspective, there were more cases of skin cancer in the U.S. than breast, prostate, colon and lung cancer combined. It's so many that one in five Americans will develop the disease.

Melanoma is the most widely discussed type of skin cancer because it is also the most deadly and most aggressive. Baldwin County currently has the third highest number of residents diagnosed with melanoma in Alabama.

Baldwin's occurrence rate is 10 points higher than both the state and national average. Daniel said that is partly due to the high number of retirees in the region, as the risk of skin cancer increases with age, and the fact that as a coastal community there is lots of opportunity for sun exposure.

"It hits close to home," she said. "It's something that we need to focus on as a community."

Daniel said while genetics and environmental factors contribute to skin cancer, our lifestyle choices also contribute to the disease, specifically how much we expose ourselves to UVA and UVB rays.

UVA rays of the sun can pass through glass and water penetrating deeper into skin, causing aging and wrinkles. Researchers believe 85 percent of skin cancer is caused by UVA rays. Indoor tanning beds also primarily use UVA rays but at a strength that is 12 times greater than those emitted by the sun.

Daniel said visiting a tanning bed more than once a month increases your risk of skin cancer by 55 percent.

In fact, experts consider tanning beds so dangerous that the U.S. Surgeon General ordered a call to action in 2014 that required a black box label be placed on every device. The World Health Organization has also labeled tanning beds as carcinogenic to humans.

UVB rays, also emitted from the sun, bounce off reflective surfaces and cause sunburns and eye problems.

Daniel said the only way to protect yourself from the harm these rays cause is to cover your skin. Tales that a protective base tan will protect your skin from burning are false.

"There is no such thing as a base tan," she said. "You can burn no matter your skin tone - fair, red, dark, super dark, it doesn't matter."

Prevention, she said, is your main weapon.

Hat - With a three-inch brim that covers your head and shoulders

Sunglasses - Use only those labeled to block 99 to 100 percent of UV rays.

Clothing - The tighter the weave of the fabric is the better. Dark clothing reflects the sun's rays too.

Protect against incidental exposure - Driving or riding in a car, the glass does

Cancer survivor welcomes visitors to new clinic with cookies

Three months after she finished cancer treatment for lymphoma, Fairhope resident Carolyn Carey began volunteering at USA Mitchell Cancer Institute.

"They saved my life," said Carey. "I do it to give back."

On July 5, the opening day of the USA Mitchell Cancer Institute Kilborn Clinic, Carey was distributing cups of coffee and her homemade butter cookies to patients in the Infusion Suite. She stopped to visit briefly at each recliner.

"I love the patient contact," said Carey, who visits the clinic each Wednesday. "It means a lot to me when I can talk to somebody and it makes a difference to them."

Carey is one of four volunteers who are currently donating their time to provide snacks, pillows, blankets and words of encouragement to MCI patients as they receive chemotherapy treatments in Fairhope.

The new Kilborn Clinic opened July 5 next to the Baldwin County Satellite Courthouse and replaces MCI's former location at Thomas Hospital in Fairhope. It is named for south Alabama attorney Vince Kilborn, who lost his father to pancreatic cancer.

The Kilborn Clinic is one of three MCI locations in south Alabama along with a research and treatment facility in Mobile and a treatment center at Monroe County Hospital in Monroeville.

New Birth Center welcomes first baby

The first baby born at Thomas Hospital's new Birth Center is here!

Joanna Tate gave birth to 8 lb., 2 oz. baby boy, Julian Ambrose, on Thursday, July 13, at 3:43 p.m. Tate was initially admitted to the Thomas Hospital's birth center unit that was built in 1999 and later transferred by stretcher to the new unit before giving birth.

Dr. Fred Diegmann, OBGYN, a longtime Thomas Hospital physician who has delivered more than 9,500 babies, delivered Julian Ambrose.

modate for this growth, the new birth center increased from 18,000 sq. ft. to more than 29,000 sq. ft.

The center has seven rooms for labor, delivery and recovery, 15 postpartum rooms, two operating

Thanks to the generosity of donors to the Thomas Hospital Foundation, $6 million was raised locally to fund this project.

not protect you from the sun, gardening, sitting outside at a restaurant, swimming, outdoor sporting events, shopping at outdoor malls – “A lot of times we don’t think about it because we are not actively sunbathing or trying to be out in the sun,” Daniel said. Anytime you are outside you need sunscreen.

Sunscreen – Use SPF 30 or higher and make sure it says it blocks UVA and UV rays or a broad spectrum. Reapply every two hours. Also, sunscreens can go bad. If there is not an expiration date on the label, only use the bottle for one year.

Daniel said there is no such thing as waterproof sunscreen and that the FDA has banned companies from saying that on their labels. Also, don’t be fooled by advertising.

“I get frustrated with cosmetics companies taking advantage of consumers,” she said. “I see ads for SPF 3,000 and it’s expensive. It’s a gimmick.”

A sunscreen with SPF 30 blocks roughly 97 percent of the sun’s rays. An SPF of 50 only blocks 1 percent more.

Daniel said the SPF is not the issue, it’s the application. “The SPF is good but people don’t apply enough or often enough,” she said.

Spray sunscreens present the same problem. Users are only misting themselves, not rubbing the coverage into their skins.

“Make sure whatever you are using you cover all your skin and get it rubbed in,” she said, adding that sunscreen should be reapplied, at a minimum, every two hours.

 CITY OF DAPHNE, ALABAMA
 ORDINANCE NO. 2017-_____

Ordinance to Pre-Zone Property Located
 Southeast of Corte Road and County Road 13
 Fred L. Corte

WHEREAS, Fred L. Corte as the owner of certain real property located within the unincorporated area of Baldwin County, Alabama, has requested that said property that is currently under County zoning as RA, Rural Agricultural, Baldwin County District 15, in the extraterritorial planning jurisdiction of the City of Daphne, to be pre-zoned as PUD, Planned Unit Development, prior to annexing into the City of Daphne; and

WHEREAS, said real property is Southeast of Corte Road and County Road 13, and more particularly described as follows:

Legal Description is on file in the City Clerk's Office.

WHEREAS, at the regular Planning Commission meeting on June 22, 2017, the Commission considered said request and set forth a unanimous favorable recommendation; and,

WHEREAS, due notice of said proposed pre-zoning has been provided to the public as required by law through publication and open display at the Daphne Public Library and City Hall, a public hearing was held before the City Council on August 7, 2017; and,

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Daphne after due consideration and upon consideration of the notes of the Planning Commission, deemed that said application for pre-zoning of the above described real property is proper and in the best interest of the health, safety and welfare of the citizens of the City of Daphne, Alabama; and

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF DAPHNE, ALABAMA, AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I: ZONING

That above described real property is hereby pre-zoned to PUD, Planned Unit Development, City of Daphne. Upon annexation of the property prior to the expiration of the pre-zoning as set forth in Section IV, the property shall be assigned the zoning district in accordance with the pre-zoning and the zoning ordinance and zoning map be amended to reflect the said zoning. Should annexation not occur prior to the expiration of this pre-zoning as set forth in Section IV, this pre-zoning shall have no effect and the designation of a zoning district for the property shall be set forth in the annexation ordinance.

Until such time as the property is annexed to the City of Daphne, the property shall remain in the unincorporated area of Baldwin County and zoned in accordance with the Baldwin County Commission's zoning plan. The County's zoning for the property at the time the request for pre-zoning was submitted was RA, Rural Agricultural, Baldwin County District 15, in the extraterritorial planning jurisdiction of the City of Daphne.

BLACKSTONE LAKES PUD STANDARDS on file in the Daphne City Clerk's Office.

SECTION II: REPEALER.

All other City Ordinances or parts thereof in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance, in so far as they conflict, are hereby repealed.

SECTION III: SEVERABILITY.

The provisions of this Ordinance are severable. If any provision, section, paragraph, sentence, or part thereof shall be held unconstitutional or invalid, such decision shall not affect or impair the remainder of said Ordinance, it being the legislative intent to ordain and enact each provision, section, paragraph, sentence, and part thereof separately and independently of each other.

SECTION IV: EFFECTIVE AND EXPIRATION DATE.

This Ordinance, and in particular the pre-zoning shall take effect after the date of its approval by the City Council of the City of Daphne and publication as required by law. Pursuant to Code of Alabama (1975) Section 11-52-85, the zoning of the property, shall become effective upon the date the territory is annexed into the corporate limits. If any portion of the territory is not annexed into the corporate limits within 180 days of the initiation of annexation proceedings as provided by law then this pre-zoning shall be null and void. Should the pre-zoning become null and void, the applicant may reapply for pre-zoning at any time as long as an annexation petition is pending.

Calling all food trucks, restaurants and chefs

SUBMITTED

FOLEY — The 6th Annual Festival of Flavor, sponsored by Riviera Utilities, will take place Saturday, Oct. 7, in the streets of Old Towne Foley. Presented by the South Baldwin Chamber of Commerce, the Festival of Flavor showcases the many flavors of local and regional foods, wine and craft beer and is focused on locally grown and produced products. In addition to food, there is fun for all ages including: a Game Day area for SEC fans, a giant sand box, yard Jenga, retail vendors and more!

The staff has already been hard at work planning the annual event and is currently seeking food trucks, restaurants and chefs to participate and compete in this sensational event! Each food truck will be in prime location to the Game Day area which will include large outdoor seating and projector game day screen. Restaurants and chefs will fill the streets to offer up scrumptious samples to festival goers and compete for their bragging rights and cash as the People's Choice Champion or a golden ticket into the World Food Championships.

If you would like more information regarding Festival of Flavor, including entry fees and deadlines please contact Rachel Spear at rachel@southbaldwinchamber.com.

Pensacola Businessman Quint Studer speaks at Hotel Magnolia

Quint Studer, a businessman and philanthropist based out of Pensacola, Florida, spoke at a luncheon held at Hotel Magnolia in Foley on Friday, June 9. Studer spoke before many of the county's elected officials and business leaders, as he discussed building communities' downtown areas, focusing on both local and outside businesses, and the importance of cooperation and teamwork between all towns and cities in a community. Studer is a leader in his community, the co-owner of the minor league baseball team the Pensacola Blue Wahoos, and the founder of the Studer Group. He has dedicated more than 30 years to guiding organizations and businesses to achieving a level of high performance, and was met with applause at the end of his seminar for his teachings and insight. Fun with Robertsdale seniors

SUBMITTED

The Robertsdale Senior Citizens went on a day outing to Barbers Marina with lunch following at Pirates Cove. The seniors enjoyed the drive, seeing things one would not normally see like "Bahahenge," dinosaurs along the way and beautiful fountains at the marina. Cool breezes made lunch at Pirates Cove Restaurant very relaxing.

Celebrating summer

SUBMITTED

Students at Loxley Elementary School celebrated the end of the school year in style. The last day of school for students in Baldwin County was Thursday, June 25. First-grade students participated in a '50s sock hop. Fifth-grade students enjoyed a walking field trip to Burris Farm Market after they reached their Accelerated Reader goals.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

The Town of Summerdale will hold a public hearing on Monday, August 14, 2017 at 6:00 p.m. at Town Hall to discuss the Town's submission of an application for the Fiscal Year 2017 Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. The Town is interested in obtaining all citizens' input on community development needs within the Town. Activities that are eligible for funding include the improvement of public works, public facilities, housing rehabilitation, and others allowed by law. At least 51% of the funds must be used to benefit low and moderate income persons. The Town is proposing to apply for $350,000 in funding to resurface streets and improve drainage facilities in older neighborhoods. For more information, or if you require special accommodations at the hearing, contact Tiffany Lynn, Town Clerk, at (251) 989-6202.
