What do you do when you hit rock-bottom, and the bottom falls out?

For years, Nijah has struggled to earn money to care for her five children and her impaired husband. Like many of her impoverished neighbors, her home had no furniture or refrigerator. Day after grueling day, she traveled to other cities to earn enough income to keep her family alive. When COVID-19 swept through her village, those work opportunities vanished. With no income, she had no way to feed her family. Overwhelmed and alone, Nijah was out of options.

But despair is no match for compassion. Just as she was giving up hope, food packages funded by Global Hunger Relief and generous Southern Baptists like you, made their way to her village and into her home.

Surprised by these strangers' generosity, she soon learned that these gifts were an outpouring of the love found in Jesus Christ—a love that knew her desperation and the depths of her pain.

This was a love that knew no bounds.

On Global Hunger Sunday, give hope to the hopeless and strength to the weary around the world.

This year, in particular, there are thousands of families like Nijah's worldwide who are running out of options and time. When you give to Global Hunger Relief, you are sending much more than food. You are sending hope, encouragement and the truth that no one is beyond the life-saving, perfect provision of our Heavenly Father.
