COVID cases rise to 881

Compiled By STEVE SWOGETINSKY
The Kemper Messenger

The number of cases of COVID-19 in Kemper County has increased by 20 this past week, according to statistics provided by the Mississippi Department of Health website.

Kemper County has 881 reported cases as of Monday, an increase of 20. The county has 22 reported deaths.

The rate of the number of new cases has gone down across the state in recent weeks. According to health department numbers, there were 5,011 new cases in Mississippi in the past week. That is 2,902 fewer new cases when compared to the previous week. There have been 287,969 cases reported in Mississippi since March 2020, and 6,464 reported deaths, an increase of 122 since last week.

First Confirmed UK case in Mississippi

The Mississippi State Department of Health (MSDH) confirms the first case of a COVID-19 variant strain in a Mississippi resident Monday.

A case of the B.1.1.7 UK variant strain of COVID-19 was confirmed during routine testing. No international travel or spread to contacts is known to have occurred, but additional investigation is ongoing.

The B.1.1.7 variant strain has been identified in 40 U.S. states and is known to spread more easily and quickly than other strains. While suspected, currently there is no direct evidence that this strain causes a more severe infection or a higher risk of death.

MSDH continues to expand surveillance for variant strains in Mississippi, and it is likely that additional cases will be identified. Current available vaccines are expected to be effective against variant strains, but further research continues.

Mississippians are strongly encouraged to wear a mask, social distance, avoid large gatherings, and wash hands frequently. Vaccination is also encouraged for those who are eligible. Current eligibility includes Mississippi residents or those who work in Mississippi ages 65 and older, or those 16-64 with certain underlying conditions, healthcare personnel, and residents of long term care facilities.

For eligibility criteria, visit the MSDH website at HealthyMS.com/covid19. To schedule an appointment at an MSDH drive-through clinic, visit covidvaccine.ums.edu or call the COVID-19 hotline at 1-877-978-6453.

Vaccinations are in high demand, and appointments may not be available in all areas. Appointments for second doses should be available.

Free COVID-19 vaccinations for Mississippians when available can be obtained at drive-through sites around the state and from some local healthcare providers.

KEMPER COUNTY TEAMS CAPTURE REGION CHAMPIONSHIPS

By STEVE SWOGETINSKY
The Kemper Messenger

Both Kemper County High School basketball teams captured their respective Region 5-3A basketball championship this past Friday night on their own court in DeKalb.

The Kemper County boys defeated Morton 43-40 while the Lady Wildcats knocked off Forest 64-54.

Both Kemper County teams will host West Marion Friday in the Class 3A state tournament.

The tournament was to have started Monday. With a winter storm moving across Mississippi that brought snow, ice and temperatures in the teens and lower, the Mississippi High School Activities Association has moved the first round to Thursday (girls) and Friday (boys). Because the same schools were playing in both tournament, they allowed them to play a double-header.

The Kemper County boys opened the tournament with a 56-48 victory over Southeast Lauderdale. Jamar Grace led with 19 points while Quavion McClendon added 11 points.

That put the Wildcats in the region championship game against Morton. The Wildcats took a 23-13 halftime lead and rolled on to the championship. James Granger led with 16 points while McClendon scored 11.

Kemper County bundles up for winter storm

By STEVE SWOGETINSKY
The Kemper Messenger

Nearly 1,500 homes were without power Monday night in Kemper County during the winter storm that blanketed the area with ice and snow.

The temperature reached 15 degrees during the night and the wind chill was in the single digits. Another cold night was expected Tuesday night.

East Mississippi Power Association crews and other emergency services were out throughout the night.

"For the most part, people adhered to our advisory to stay at home and off the roads," Sheriff James Moore said. "There were a few accidents, mostly people sliding off the roads. But we aren't aware of any injuries."

Sheriff Moore said his department checked on some elderly residents throughout the night but no one was moved to another location.

Sheriff Moore said the food distribution program his department recently started will not be operating this week.

"We will be back open next Wednesday," Moore said. "We gave out around 1,400 boxes of food last week. Just come by the sheriff's department. We start at 11 a.m. and stay open until we run out of food."

Kemper County board of supervisors president Pat Granger said county crews were out, putting salt on bridges and clearing roads.

"We appreciate our county employees for the work they do," Granger said. "We cleared the ice and tried to make it safe for our residents."

Granger said the courthouse would be closed Tuesday and Wednesday.

Seed order forms for food plots available

By JAMES L. CUMMINS
Special to The Messenger

Whether you are a photographer, a hunter or just like viewing wildlife on a sunny afternoon, anyone who has spent time overlooking a food plot will have a deep appreciation for wildlife plantings.

Food plots are very attractive to wildlife enthusiasts because they can supplement daily nutritional needs at a low cost. These plots can be designed to serve as a source of food and cover. Well-managed food plots have the potential to not only increase the wildlife population and their quality of health, but can also increase our opportunities for wildlife viewing.

To aid landowners who would like to plant wildlife food plots, Wildlife Mississippi is continuing its popular Wildlife Habitat Seed Program. Through this program, Wildlife Mississippi will make seed available at a minimal cost.

The Wildlife Habitat Seed Program is designed to provide an incentive for landowners to establish and maintain food plots that will yield a variety of benefits to the landowner as well as to the species of wildlife he or she is managing.

Corn, soybean, and grain sorghum will be available through Wildlife Mississippi's Spring 2021 Wildlife Habitat Seed Program. All seed is treated and has good germination rates. Wildlife Mississippi will also be taking pre-orders for winter wheat, which will be distributed in the month of September.

If planted properly, the various types of seed will be utilized by a variety of species of wildlife. White-tailed deer, turkeys, bobwhite quail, mourning doves, waterfowl, and many species of songbirds will benefit from the plantings of the seed that is offered.

The guidelines regarding this program are simple and easy to follow. Anyone interested in obtaining seed should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Wildlife Mississippi with a request for an order form and planting recommendations for the seed.

Wildlife Mississippi will be taking orders until March 5. This will allow Wildlife Mis-issippi to place the orders in a timely manner to ensure that they will be filled in time for the planting season.

Shipping and handling charges incurred by Wildlife Mississippi are included in the price of the seed. The costs will be $25.00 per 50 lb. bag of glyphosate resistant corn, $12 per 50 lb. bag of sorghum, $14 per 50 lb. bag of glyphosate resistant soybeans, and $9 (pre-order) per 50 lb. bag of winter wheat. Pick up locations will be Amory, Flowood, Greenville, and Hattiesburg.

For an order form and planting recommendations for this beneficial program, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Wildlife Mississippi, PO Box 10, Stoneville, MS 38776. If you wish to place your order online, please visit our website at www.wildlife-miss.org.

James L. Cummins is executive director of Wildlife Mississippi, a non-profit, conservation organization founded to conserve, restore, and enhance fish, wildlife, and plant resources throughout Mississippi.

EMCC Lions take 87-70 road win over Meridian

From school reports

MERIDIAN — The Lions of East Mississippi Community College led from start to finish and had five players score in double figures to claim an impressive 87-70 road win over Meridian Community College during Saturday's MACCC basketball action.

Playing without two of their leading scorers — Jakorie Smith and Arecko Gipson Jr. — due to injury, the Lions used the three-point shot to jump out to an early 23-7 advantage.

The Eagles were also hot from beyond the three-point line in the opening half with Leondre Townsen's back-to-back treys leading an 8-0 run for MCC to cut the deficit to eight points (23-15) midway through the half.

The rest of the first half featured additional scoring runs by both teams. After the visitors scored 10 unanswered points, Meridian countered with consecutive 3-pointers by Horatio Parker to make it a 12-point game at 33-21. Eight straight points by the Lions, including a pair of Hunter McCutcheon treys, increased the margin to 20 points (41-21) with five minutes left in the half.

The Eagles' Jermiyah Brown then caught fire from the outside with a trio of 3-pointers that fueled a 17-2 MCC run that cut the deficit to just five points (43-38) by halftime.

After the second stanza started in similar fashion with Justin Brown's 3-pointer cutting EMCC's lead to just two points, the Lions answered with an 8-1 run to go back up by nine points (51-42). Later in the half, another McCutcheon trey and an inside basket by D'Antonio Deloach bumped EMCC's lead back up to double digits.

Justin Brown's trey made it an eight-point contest (65-57) near the midway mark of the second half, but that's as close as the home-standing Eagles would get for the remainder of the game. Six straight points by the Lions around the four-minute mark increased the advantage to 23 points (85-62) on their way to the 17-point road triumph.

Coach Billy Begley's EMCC Lions improved to 5-3 overall on the season. They were paced by their Louisville, Kentucky connection of Blake Butler and McCutcheon with 19 and 17 points, respectively. Freshman Nick Walker followed with 13 points and nine rebounds, while Meridian native Traemond Pittman and Danny Washington added 10 points apiece. Fellow Meridian product Makeem Roberts contributed eight points, nine rebounds and five assists for the winners.

Falling to 4-3 overall and having their three-game winning streak snapped, the Meridian Eagles were led by Jermiyah Brown and Zebadi-ah Kirkwood with 11 points each.

East Mississippi's scheduled Monday basketball games versus Northwest Mississippi (men at Senatobia and women in Scooba) have been postponed due to Monday's weather. The games will be rescheduled at a later date.

GETTING THE MESSAGE/Rev. Chris Shelton

Acts 3: 17-26

In this passage, Peter applies his sermon (verses 11-16) to the crowd of people who are gathered and astonished at a crippled man being instantly healed. Peter has already explained that the man was healed through faith in Jesus of Nazareth. He has also declared that Jesus is the promised Christ of the prophets, and that they are culpable in his death. Very weighty statements.

Now he explains what they must do; repent. Peter then gives reasons to repent, teaching us the nature of repentance. The first incentive is the offer of forgiveness of sins. Peter says, "Brother, I know you acted in ignorance, as did your rulers." Peter is not excusing their guilt in putting Jesus to death, but he is saying it is forgivable, and their other sins as well.

He continues; "Repent therefore, and turn again, that your sins may be blotted out." Obviously, repentance involves knowing (and admitting) the guilt of your sins and turning to Christ. To have your sins "blotted out" means completely absolved, wiped off the record. God remembers them no more. This is how great the grace of God is. Christ has fully paid for sin, all your offenses against God's law.

The converse of this helps us understand the magnitude of it. To not have your sins blotted out means you are accountable for all of them before God, who hates sin. The grace of God shown to us in the person and work of Christ is amazing, but it also manifests to us the plight of the sinner without it. You are estranged from God and held accountable for your sins. You are justly condemned.

The second reason Peter gives to repent is that "times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord." The turning to Christ for forgiveness restores your relationship with the Lord. As much as we may like sin, it is discomforting to the soul. We fear death for a good reason; it is a terrible thing. Christ takes away the sting of death, which is sin. Death cannot harm one connected to Christ.

The sinful nature is such it must die, and a new nature disposed toward God's glory replaces it, and in it we may enjoy fellowship with God. The struggle against sin remains. But a repentant soul no longer aims to justify his sinful nature, rather to die to it. That is the nature of true repentance. The incentive is it brings joy in knowing the blessedness of God. Christ replaces sin as the object of life.

Peter gives a third incentive in verses 21-22. Turning to Christ will make you a member of his kingdom when he comes again to restore all things. Therefore, turning to Christ is a blessing for you whether it is in the present or the future. Peter wrote in his first epistle that believers in Christ have an "incorruptible inheritance." And though they have trials now, they also have expectant joy in Christ.

In verses 22-24, Peter appeals to the prophets in the Old Testament who "all" wrote about the coming Messiah. Jesus is the one they wrote of. He quotes Moses in Deuteronomy 18: "The Lord God will raise up a prophet like me from your brothers. And it shall be that every soul who does not listen to that prophet shall be destroyed from the people." Moses was pointing to Jesus of Nazareth.

Moses was a type of Christ. He was appointed by the Lord to be a mediator for the people, to deliver them from bondage. Yet he wrote of a greater prophet to come. He wrote of Christ. Christ brings light in the darkness, life in a world filled with death. There is no way to life apart from listening to him, apart from having him. But if you have him, you have everything.

Peter also mentions Samuel as a prophet who proclaimed the coming of Christ. Samuel was the one who anointed David as king of God's people. David would later conquer the enemies of God's people. He too was a type of Christ. His name means "beloved." Christ is the greater king David pointed to. Christ is the beloved of God, the only begotten Son of God. To love him is the way of life.

Peter is holding out life and death to us. God is saying turn to Christ and live. All the Scriptures have this one redemptive message. Look to the promised one of God (Christ), who destroys the works of the devil, and restores life with God for those under the power of sin and death.

You must ask yourself if you have repented; if you have turned to Christ; if you reckon yourself dead to sin and alive in Christ. If Christ is of greater worth to you than this present world, and if you are looking forward to his day, when he restores all to the glory of God. If you will embrace him and live.

DIY herb gardens are easier than people may imagine

What's the easiest DIY veg and herb garden for newbies? In the past year as I walk my neighborhood I've seen so many new gardeners giving it a go, often right out front as a proclamation: "We're here, and we're trying."

Luckily, a lot of the timid newbies were mostly successful, which is great; it's no fun learning to expect and power through the pitfalls of growing stuff, dealing with bugs, blights, inclement weather, and animals. But we stick with it, try figuring out what went awry, then with a sigh rework dirt and replant.

To me, a busy/lazy older guy with an aversion to excess effort, it's a no-brainer to just plant stuff in regular flower beds in front of shrubs, and in big containers, using veggies and herbs like ornamental flowers. Or step it up and make small but efficient raised beds, with or without rigid sides. One neighbor simply covered rectangles of lawn with cardboard and leaves, and planted right through that. And it worked.

Beds and containers are easier and more productive in small spaces than long, skinny rows; I plant two or more compatible crops atop double-wide beds, mulch with leaves or bark, and when something is harvested I dig in the old mulch and cover with fresh mulch, then plant when I get around to it. You can even have multi-level raised beds, or put pots in the middles.

Occasionally for a new area I rent or borrow a big tiller for half a day, which is far less expensive than owning, with no worries about storage or keeping it in running condition. Had I a bigger garden I would probably get a little lightweight cultivator tiller, but because my beds are so compact area I can work them a bit at a time fairly easily, using time-tested tools - a shovel or spade, turning fork, hand trowel, and rake - for which I am the only moving part.

A lot of folks enclose raised beds, but all you really need to do is slope and firm or even plant flowers around the sides. To keep things neat and less muddy between beds use mulch, old carpet samples or a wide board.

Rather than fill beds with store-bought soil, I recommend digging your native dirt a few inches deep then add stuff to it, like crumbled crackers in a bowl of chili. It's cheaper and works better than all one or the other.

Last month I added a fence because a soft-hearted neighbor puts out cat food for raccoons and 'possums, which later use my garden for after dinner mints; roaming cats also treat my fresh soil as their litter box. Yuck. I also drape insect netting over my cabbage, kale, broccoli, and cauliflower to foil caterpillar-causing moths; in the summer I cover my squash as well, raising it only to hand pollinate and harvest as needed.

Nothing sweeter than having little flowers around the edges, partly for looks and partly to attract more pollinators. My favorites include compact zinnias, but I also tuck lantana, blue salvias, and other long-flowering bee- and butterfly-friendly somethings here and there as well.

So it's a regular year-round thing, growing stuff every which way whenever the mood strikes and the weather is right, digging in old mulch then planting whatever is suitable for the season, adding fresh mulch, watering as needed, harvesting, and repeating whenever I get around to it.

Meanwhile, to keep things cheery, I'm painting pots and raised beds, and adding a simple scarecrow and birdhouse. If nothing grows, I'll still have something to smile about.
