CATCH of the DAY

Isaac Gomez of Las Cruces shows off a fish he caught during the St. Genevieve Knights of Columbus Third Annual Fun Fishing Day at Young Park. Gomez was one of several area youths, aged 5-14, who participated. In addition to members of the Knights of Columbus, the Jan. 18 event was attended by officials from the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish.

County supports 'Hearts 4 Paws' pet food drive

Pet food donations to assist seniors in keeping their pets healthy and fed will be accepted at the Doña Ana County Government Center, 845 N. Motel Blvd., throughout the month of February.

The effort is in support of Hearts 4 Paws, a pet food drive that collaborates with Meals on Wheels to deliver nutrition for both senior citizens and their pets.

Hearts 4 Paws donations can be made year-round at the Eastside Community Center, 310 N. Tornillo Street, for senior citizens who own pets. No proof of income or residency is required for seniors to receive free pet food every second and fourth Wednesday of the month, while supplies last.

The donation box at the Doña Ana County Government Center is located right inside the main entrance. The public is encouraged to stop by and help the cause, and county employees are invited to participate as well. According to program organizers, storage bags such as Ziploc® or similar quart- and gallon-sized bags are needed, along with dry or canned dog and cat food.

Donations are also accepted at the City of Las Cruces Regional Aquatic Center, 1401 E. Hadley Ave., Thomas Branigan Memorial Library, 200 E. Picacho Ave. and the Eastside Community Center.

Fire Chief: Move over for first responders

In the first month of 2020, two Lubbock first responders were struck and killed while working a crash scene. Another firefighter was critically injured.

The news has prompted reminders from fire chiefs and law enforcement nationwide for motorists to be cautious and move over when fire crews, EMTs and law enforcement are present at the scene of a crash or other incident.

"Nationally, the threat to first responders by vehicles who fail to move over remains high," said Doña Ana County Fire Chief Nick Hempel. "And that same threat can be seen locally; drivers are distracted and sometimes they're just not aware that it's the law that they must change lanes if it's safe to do so."

In New Mexico, the so-called move over law requires motorists to approach with caution and yield to emergency vehicles, including highway maintenance vehicles displaying flashing lights. Drivers must change lanes if they can do so safely, or reduce their speed and proceed with caution if they are not able to change lanes.

The penalty for failing to yield to an emergency vehicle is $162.

Iconic Williams Hall undergoes demolition

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Even as the first ever-exhibit is going up next door at New Mexico State University's new art museum, Devasthali Hall, the old art building next door is coming down.

Demolition work continues on D.W. Williams Hall, the 80-year-old building that housed the NMSU Department of Art and the University Art Gallery, 1390 E. University Ave., near the intersection of University and Solano Drive.

The new art building, just west of the old one, is a two-story "state-of-the-art, visual arts facility for students and the community," to quote NMSU.

about 14 months, said Museum Director Marisa Sage.

Staff began moving into the new building last August, and the museum's first exhibition, "Labor: Motherhood & Art in 2020," is being installed and will open at the end of February.

The new 10,000-square-foot art building was approved by voters as part of a 2016 general obligation bond and is now home to NMSU's 4,000-piece art collection, including its world-class, 1,700-piece collection of retablos that date to the 1890s.

Williams Hall was a gymnasium before it became an art building and museum. The NMSU Aggies played there from 1938 until the Pan American Center opened in 1968. Nearly one-third of Williams Hall's square footage was taken up by concrete bleachers that have remained in place since it was built.

Cake destroyers

The 2020 Las Cruces Bridal & Special Events Showcase featured a cake dive for the first time. The cake – valued at more than $4,000 by Let Them Eat Cake owner Stephanie Baumann – was reduced from grandeur to crumbs in a matter of seconds Sunday, Jan. 26, when 11 contestants tore into it in search of a pair of diamond earrings valued at $1,070, donated by Austin Fine Jewelry. Soon after the onslaught began, Alyssa Gonzales, 32, of Las Cruces, held up the box with the earrings inside and was declared the winner. Later in the afternoon, Matt Avilucea and Tanell DeGroat got married as winners of the Fifth Annual Tie the Knot wedding competition, sponsored by Magic 104.9 FM. The Bridal Showcase event was held at the Las Cruces Convention Center.

Working together a worthy goal

At the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce's annual Las Cruces Day in Santa Fe last week, several entities presented their wants and needs to state legislators and administrators.

RICHARD COLTHARP

From the Publisher

More than 125 Las Cruces also made the trip, learning more about the community in the bargain.

Tracey Bryan of the Bridge of Southern

New Mexico summed it up well: "We're all here, as one community, trying to improve the overall quality of life in Las Cruces and Doña Ana County."

Those entities included the City of Las Cruces, Doña Ana County, the Mesilla Valley Economic Development Alliance, Spaceport America, the Greater Las Cruces Chamber, the Las Cruces Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, New Mexico State University, Doña Ana Community College, the Bridge of Southern New Mexico and Las Cruces Public Schools.

Sometimes the interests of those entities don't always coincide. Sometimes they even contradict.

This time of year, however, they get together – literally on the same pages – as the Doña Ana County Legislative Coalition (DACLC). They find common ground and work together to promote the issues and needs of our region.

When I say on the same pages, I mean in a nice booklet which details key legislative priorities for each entity.

During the even-year, 30-day sessions, the legislature's primary focus is on the budget. But there are plenty of opportunities for additional bills, and the important laying of groundwork of topics and issues for future sessions.

Most of the DACLC's priorities for this year are related to infrastructure. The priorities include the following.

CITY OF LAS CRUCES

- Supporting the elimination of taxes on Social Security benefits

- Skate parks, East Mesa Recreational Complex road, East Mesa roads and drainage, septic-system replacement at Hacienda Acres phase III

- Transit facility construction, mental health facility

- Taxi lane design and construction at Las Cruces International Airport

DOÑA ANA COUNTY

- Hatch flood control dam

- East Mesa flood control channel (Dragonfly Channel)

- South Central Wastewater Treatment Plant

- Industrial road overpass at the Union Pacific Railroad in Santa Teresa

MESILLA VALLEY ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ALLIANCE

- Job Training Incentive Program (JTIP) budget stabilization

- Expansion of Local Economic Development Act (LEDA) funding

SPACEPORT AMERICA

- Information technology upgrades and facility

- Visitor access control and welcome center

- Spaceway Taxiway Phase One

- Payload processing, vehicle assembly and preparation facilities

NMSU

- Agriculture modernization and educational facilities, phase 2

- Milton Hall Data Center infrastructure upgrades

- Creative Campus Media Building for Doña Ana Community College

THE BRIDGE

- Dual-credit funding for higher education institutions

LAS CRUCES PUBLIC SCHOOLS

- Fully funded student transportation

- Funding for Technology for Education Act and restore funding for Educational Technology Fund

- Funding high-quality pre-K programs

Lt. Gov. Howie Morales addressed the attendees at breakfast Monday, Jan. 27, and his words echoed the weekend's theme.

"We're all in this together," Morales said. "We won't always agree, but we must work together."

A legislative session, as it gets going, has a way of bringing out disagreements both wild and mild.

And partisan politics, espe-

Pack the Pan Am; Rope the 'Lopes

Last year, when the NMSU basketball Aggies hosted rival Grand Canyon University, former Oñate Knight Johnny McCants swished a 70-footer to win the game at the buzzer.

I don't predict the same thing will happen this year, but I do predict an energy-filled arena when the Aggies host the GCU Antelopes at 7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 1, in the annual Pack the Pan Am game.

It's a white-out game, meaning wear white, or be one of the first 1,000 fans and get a free white T-shirt.

The Aggies had won nine in a row and were undefeated in the WAC heading into their game Thursday, Jan. 30.

Several members from NMSU's 1976-77 Missouri Valley Conference championship squad will be there as a banner is raised to the rafters in that team's honor.

And be sure to get there on time so you can hear Las Cruces' own Janice Jones perform her stellar rendition of the National Anthem.

cially in today's world, has a way of getting in the way of progress and compromise.

But we can hope the logic of moving New Mexico forward, in a fiscally responsible way, can be a path all want to discover.

Carol's story

Carol's story is just another glamorous tale of a city girl who married a romantic Nebraska Sandhills rancher years ago and became a 'vocational COW assistant' for life.

"So what exactly do you want me to do?" she asked.

"Take the pickup (she didn't learn to drive until she was 29) then go out there to the Big Pasture (the dreaded Big Pasture, where one grass-covered hill looks like the next one to her). Start way back there at the gate in

BAXTER BLACK
On the Edge of Common Sense

the Middle Pasture where we have the heifers now and honk. They'll come follow you and we'll just run'em up through the Big Pasture and put'em where they used to be. (she lost him right after

'you take the pickup').

"Don't get too close to that gate if it's surrounded by water because even in 4-wheel drive you could bury this thing up to the hubcaps (she made a mental note to check behind the seat for a life jacket).

"On second thought, go through the Middle Pasture past the old school-house to the windmill with the green gate panels. Then bring the heifers out that gate with the staple in it into the Big Pasture (Oh, no. The Staple Gate! Wonder Woman herself couldn't open that gate with her Golden lasso and a come-a-long). Then you'll have a straight shot to the last gate, where Gene bucked off the roan colt (in 2012), which leads to where the heifers used to be.

"I'm gonna take the four-wheeler and go through the other gate where the heifers were 'cause it's closer to the mineral feeder, and I can check that windmill while I'm there and fill the feeder. See ya in a bit."

A bit passes.
"Where were you?" he asked, "I moved the heifers by myself and fixed another windmill. When you didn't show up, I started lookin'. What are you doin' back here anyway? You could have come out the other gate. You were closer to it, ya know."

She took a deep breath and replied bravely, "I got the heifers through the Staple Gate, but it took so long to close it, I turned the wrong way. I followed the road to the windmill we'd checked and realized I'd gone too far (not to mention the heifers disappeared). So I remembered what you'd told me, "If you ever get lost in the Big Pasture get up high, then you can see fence. Go to the fence and follow it to a gate." (Which is as useless a piece of information to someone like her, as finding your way home by looking for moss growing on the north side of trees when you're lost in the woods).

"So I climbed this hill and dropped into a bull hole (buffalo waller for you okies). The truck made 'that noise' ('that noise' that causes anyone who doesn't like hiking to break out in a cold sweat) and stopped. I managed to back the truck out and come back the way I came until I found the Staple Gate where I've been waiting for you to find me."

"Hmm," he says and loads the four-wheeler in the pickup and they start back to the house. He drives. As they bounce along the sandy track, he puts his hand on her knee and she rests her hand on his shoulder. The truck is still making 'that noise' but it doesn't bother them. They're pardners. Together they can handle anything.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bloomberg for Prez

Ken Kawata, Las Cruces

To the editor:

I praise Mayor Ken Mi-yagishima's enthusiastic support for Mike Bloomberg for U.S. president. During Bloomberg's successful multiple-term administration, I lived in New York City. His priority was long-term well-being of the city and its residents, not his own interest and ego. Once he believed in a policy or idea, he forcefully pursued it regardless of the opposition. Tough he may be, but he is personable. Once I was at work when a man approached me. "Hi, Mike Bloomberg," said the friendly man, and we shook hands.

It doesn't matter if Mike is blond, red, blue, billionaire, independent, Libertarian, Unitarian, Yankee fan or what. If he runs for president, my wife and I will vote for him in a heartbeat. Go for it, Mike!

Hold them responsible

To the editor:

Several years ago, the city, with our tax money, resurfaced University Ave. from the I-25 overpass to behind A Mountain.

Three weeks ago, the heavy dirt and rock haulers started driving back and forth all day long from the I-25 overpass to behind A Mountain, destroying the smooth University Avenue while creating cracks and holes. I think that the company that owns these haulers should pay to resurface our street again.

I don't, and neither should you, have to spend our tax money on resurfacing the street. We didn't destroy it. They did, and they should be responsible for repairing the damage that they have caused.

My dubious claim: fastest man in the county

In the spring of 2009, I was the fastest runner in all of Doña Ana County.

It's a boast I can make now after having won the gold medal in the 100-meter dash at the Senior Olympics. I think it's safe to say that the 100-meter race is the universal standard for who is fastest, and I still have my medal to prove that in 2009, I was that guy.

I should probably mention at some point in this story that I won my gold medal by finishing second in a two-man race, but that detail can wait.

The View
From Here

I always knew that I was pretty fast. I went out for the track team late during my sophomore year, after failing to make the baseball team. And so, they stuck me in the 3,200 meters, where I was constantly getting lapped in meets. But I used to race against the sprinters in practice, and I held my own with most of them.

For some reason, in the winter of 2009, I got it into my head that I was still probably pretty fast. But I knew I wasn't in shape. So I went to my backyard and put two ropes 60 yards apart to mark my course, then started running sprints every morning.

I did that pretty regularly every morning until one day when my hamstring popped. It wasn't bad. It eventually healed itself. But when it happened, I went down in a heap as if I'd been shot.

The hamstring was fine by the day of the race, but my training had been set back.

I arrived at the Mayfield High School track early on the big day and immediately sized up the competition. As I looked around, I figured there was only one guy who I couldn't beat. Just by the way he was stretching and warming up, I could tell he was a track guy. He was also competing in the jumping and throwing events.

I figured for sure that he would be entered in the 100 meters, but I was encouraged by the fact that there were three runners listed for the race. And as I looked around, I liked my chances against whoever the third would be.

When they called the participants for the race, just as I expected, the guy I knew I couldn't beat stepped to the starting line. I was next. Then they called for the third guy, and, happily for me, nobody showed up.

It was going to be a two-man race, though the term "race" may be a bit generous. As soon as the starting gun went off, he was gone. I still don't know how I fell so far behind so quickly. It seemed like I got off to a good start, but when I looked up, he was halfway down the track.

Luckily for me, he was in the next age class up. So, we were both gold medal winners. In fact, mine was more impressive because it was in a younger age group.

I finished with a hand-held time of 15 seconds, only 5.42 seconds off the world record time of Usain Bolt.

I bring all this up now because of the recent announcement that the state Senior Olympics will be in Las Cruces the next three years.

And, I've noticed lately that despite being a few years older now than I was in 2009, I'm still feeling pretty fast.

Maybe that other guy isn't here anymore. Maybe, just maybe, I can once again be the fastest man in Doña Ana County, or even the whole darned state.

From field to desk, Duran's done it all

By CASSIE MCCLURE
and SUZANNE MICHAELS

For the Bulletin

Before he was technical gas-service supervisor and the interim gas-system operation supervisor for Las Cruces Utilities, Pete Duran was simply persistent.

"It was 19 years ago when I applied for three jobs with the City of Las Cruces," he said, "Backhoe operator, welder then corrosion technician in gas."

At the third interview, there was recognition from the other side of the desk.

"The supervisor remembered me from the previous interview and realized that they wouldn't get away from me trying to get hired," he said, adding that he landed the corrosion-technician position.

"I had a background as a plumber with gas, but beyond that, I had no idea,"

Duran said. "[The city] sent me to school. I received all of my training with Las Cruces Utilities."

For many positions, the city offers training that not only brings associates up to speed on regulations, but also offers continuous education and certifications to ensure that deliverables like gas are installed safely throughout the community.

Duran said he enjoyed working outdoors, but after 15 years of steady service in the field he applied for and was named to the supervisor position. He oversees five gas crews, three corrosion technicians and three leak surveyors.

"It's different in that I'm now working on budgets, planning projects, working with upper administration and making sure my crew has what they need," he said.

"I told my wife that I sure miss being outdoors with the crews, but I still make it a point to get outside — going out to work sites to check that everything is done properly and up to our standards," he said.

What has been the most rewarding? He thought about it for a minute and said, "I never thought I'd see myself on this side of the desk."

Las Cruces Utilities job postings can be found at www.las-cruces.org/2001/Work-For-Us by clicking on the Current Employment Opportunities with Las Cruces Utilities link.

Las Cruces Utilities can be reached at 575-528-3500 from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Las Cruces Utilities provides services to approximately 100,000 Las Cruces residents and businesses.

FEBRUARY

Genomics and Its Applications

Presented by Peter Houde, Michelle Graham,
Richard Selinfreund, and Brook Milligan

The development of methods to rapidly and inexpensively sequence genes, and more recently to edit genomes, have profoundly impacted our understanding of human evolution, animal and plant relationships, and the causes of many diseases. Four experts in biology, medicine and forensics will describe how genomics is applied in their disciplines, the new insights generated by genomic data, and the potential utility of genome editing.

Tuesday, February 4: "Frontiers in the Genomics of Humanity: Who are we and where did we come from?" We will discuss how genomic DNA sequence data are helping to resolve long-standing questions about the peopling of the world, technological and cultural revolutions, as well as how and why the peoples of the world are adapted to the environments in which they live. Peter Houde

Thursday, February 6: "Do Not Assume: The Reality and Misconceptions about Forensic DNA Testing." In this presentation, we will explore the fundamentals of DNA itself, what the forensic testing process really looks like from start to finish, what happens after testing is completed, and some of the advancements in forensic DNA testing. Michelle Graham

Tuesday, February 11: "Walking in the Land of the Giants." Personalized medicine began with a seemingly simple experiment that gave us the first clue in developing a molecular screening method to treat breast cancer. This is the story of that discovery and how it is being used today from the perspective of one young scientist watching it unfold in the land of the giants. Richard Selinfreund

Wednesday, February 12: "Whither Gene Editing: Breakthrough or just another tool?" Gene editing has been described as one of the most important breakthroughs in the history of biology. Whether the promise of the technology will be achieved is unclear, but in this presentation we will discuss what gene editing is, what promises are touted, and what additional applications are possible. Brook Milligan

Sons of the American Revolution reinstall officers

BULLETIN REPORT

The Sons of the American Revolution (SAR) Gadsden Chapter of Las Cruces installed chapter officers for the 2020 year during a January meeting at Hacienda de Mesilla.

Three 2019 chapter officers were reinstated for another year of service: President Don Williams, Secretary William Baker and Treasurer Robert Francis. Past President Dave Curtiss was installed as the chapter's new chaplain.

George Richards was inducted as a member of the SAR Gadsden Chapter, and Donna Curtiss was awarded the Lydia Darragh Medal for her advice and administrative assistance to the chapter.

SAR was chartered by an Act of Congress in 1906 "to perpetuate the memory of the men who, by their services and sacrifices during the American Revolution, achieved the independence of the American people" and "to foster true patriotism."

It is the largest male-lineage organization in the United States, according to www.sar.org, and consists of 50 societies with more than 500 local chapters, several international societies, and more than 37,000 members.

For more information, contact Williams at 575-644-4215 or CobraCaptain@earthlink.net. Find SAR Gadsden Chapter on Facebook.

Maintenance of Customer Owned Gas Piping

Notice: In accordance with Congressional Mandate (Docket PS-135, Amendment 192-3), the City of Las Cruces Gas Section hereby notifies you that the portion of gas piping (yard line) between the gas meter and the house/building is not maintained by the Gas Utility Company. Please see drawing.

Please keep in mind that:

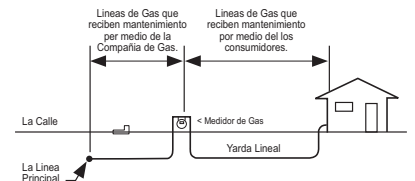

- Buried steel gas piping that is not maintained may be subject to the potential hazards of corrosion and subsequent gas leakage.
- Buried gas piping should be:
 - Periodically inspected for leaks.
 - Periodically inspected for corrosion if the piping is metallic.
 - Repaired if unsafe condition is found.
- Before excavating near buried gas piping, the piping should be located, marked, and excavated by hand.
- Licensed gas fitters/plumbers and contractors can assist in performing the required inspections described in (2) above, making leak repairs, and locating the buried gas piping prior to the start of any planned excavation.

STATEMENT

Therefore,
if you have gas piping as described, it is your responsibility to safely maintain it.

Mantenimiento para clientes que son dueños de las tuberías de Gas

Aviso: De acuerdo con el mandato del congreso (Archivo PS - 135, Enmienda 192-3), el Departamento de Gas de La Ciudad de Las Cruces por medio de esta notificación le hace saber a usted que su porción de tubería de gas (yarda lineal) que se encuentra entre el medidor de gas y la casa/edificio no recibe mantenimiento por la compañía de Gas. Por favor vea el dibujo.

Por favor tenga en mente que:

- Tubería de acero enterrada que no se le da mantenimiento está sujeto a peligros potenciales de corrosión y subsecuentemente a fugas de gas.
- La tubería de gas enterrada debe de ser:
 - Inspeccionada periódicamente para detectar fugas de gas.
 - Inspeccionada periódicamente para detectar corrosión si la tubería es metálica.
 - Reparada si se encuentra alguna condición peligrosa.
- Antes de excavar cerca de la tubería de gas enterrada, la tubería debe de ser localizada, marcada, y la excavación debe de ser hecha manualmente.
- Montadores de gas, plomeros, y contratistas con licencia pueden asistir haciendo las inspecciones requeridas como se describe en el número (2) arriba, haciendo las reparaciones de las fugas, y localizando la tubería de gas enterradas antes de empezar cualquier plan de excavación.

Declaración:
Por lo tanto,
si usted tiene tubería de gas como se
describe, es
su responsabilidad de mantenerla
segura.

Events scheduled for Black History Month

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

NMSU's Black Student Association in association with NMSU's LGBT+ Programs and ASNMSU will present a live performance by Lady Dane Figueroa Edidi at 7 p.m.

Lady Dane Figueroa Edidi

Monday, Feb. 10, 7 p.m. at Corbett Center auditorium. There is no charge to attend.

"We are excited that this particular event will crossover with Black History Month programming," said NMSU LGBT+ Programs Director Zoey Sophia Pook, Ph.D.

Edidi is an advocate, educator and trans performance artist, according to the website. For more information, email lgbt@nmsu.edu or visit www.ladydanef.com.

Doña Ana Community College (DACC) library will host six programs

during Black History Month.

All events will take place in DACC's East Mesa campus, DAAR building, room 203-F. All events are free of charge.

• 2-4 p.m. Monday, Feb. 3: Film screening: "Color Adjustment: A History of African American Portrayal on Television," an 86-minute documentary that aired during season five of PBS' "Point of View" program in May 1992 and traces 40 years of race relations through the lens of primetime entertainment. From www.pbs.org/pov/watch/coloradjustment/: "From 'Amos 'n' Andy' to Nat King Cole, from 'Roots' to 'The Cosby Show,' blacks have played many roles on primetime television. Weaving clips from classic TV shows with commentary from TV producers, black actors and scholars, Director and Co-producer Marlon Riggs blends humor, insight, and thoughtful analysis to explore the evolution of black/white relations as reflected by America's addiction [to television]." Riggs (1957-94) was a filmmaker, educator poet and gay rights activist.

Black History Month

African-American writer and historian Dr. Carter G. Woodson (Dec. 19, 1875-April 3, 1950) was the second black person to earn a Ph.D. at Harvard University, and he founded the Association for the Study of Negro Life, "which initiated the first variation of Black History Month, titled Negro History Week, in 1926 during the second week of February," according to www.kent.edu.

That week includes the birthdays of both President Abraham Lincoln (Feb. 12, 1809-April 15, 1865) and abolitionist, author and social reformer Frederick Douglass (Feb. 1818- Feb. 20, 1895).

"The response was overwhelming: Black history clubs sprang up; teachers demanded materials to instruct their pupils and progressive whites, not simply white scholars and philanthropists, stepped forward to endorse the effort," according to www.africanamericanhistorymonth.gov.

In February of 1970, Kent State University held the first observance of Black History Month. Then-U.S. President Gerald Ford recognized the celebration of Black History Month in 1976, the nation's bicentennial.

"Black History Month acknowledges the rich contributions that African Americans have made to our country's history," the NAACP said on its website (www.naacp.org).

Founded in 1909, the NAACP is the nation's oldest and largest non-partisan civil rights organization. The organization has 250,000 adult and youth members.

Hygiene drive

Students at the New America School of Las Cruces completed their eighth annual hygiene drive recently, collecting 400 pounds of hygiene products. They donated these items, which included soap, shampoo, toothbrushes, laundry detergent and cleaning products, to the Mesilla Valley Community of Hope. New America School is located in Downtown Las Cruces, serving about 250 students. Established in 2012, the school's mission is to "empower new immigrants, English-language learners and the academically underserved with the educational tools and support they need to maximize their potential, succeed and live the American Dream."

NMSU leads statewide SMART grid project

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

If a hostile foreign power – or a domestic terrorist – decided to attack the United States, it could potentially knock out the county's electric grids by striking just a handful of key sites. A team led by New Mexico State University is working to develop a SMART grid and other technology to keep electricity flowing in the U.S. no matter what happens.

With a $20 million grant from the National Science Foundation's (NSF) Established Program to Stimulate Competitive Research (EPSCoR), NMSU is collaborating with other New Mexico colleges and universities, national laboratories, power companies, rural electric cooperatives and other institutions on the NM SMART (Sustainable, Modular, Adaptive, Resilient and Transactive) Grid Center, "a project that is pursuing research and workforce training for next-generation electric power production and delivery," according to the New Mexico EPSCoR website.

A year into the project, "I think we're doing quite well," said NMSU Arts and Sciences Dean Enrico Pontelli. "It's an exciting adventure." Pontelli is EPSCoR NM's lead for the SMART grid project. He initiated SMART grid research at NMSU in 2014 with a $5 million award from the NSF's Center for Research Excellence in Science and Technology, according to an NMSU news release.

As part of the NM SMART

Grid Center project, NMSU has test sites in Las Cruces and other parts of the state where it works with El Paso Electric and other partners to develop electric grids that can function independently, continuing to provide electricity to homes, hospitals and other critical infrastructure even if the Western Interconnection energy grid that powers most of New Mexico and the rest of the western U.S. is somehow knocked offline.

The technology involves the use of solar panels and solar batteries, Pontelli said, and even electric cars, whose batteries could be used as power sources during a blackout.

The overarching goal, Pontelli said, is to figure out

The cover of the NM SMART Grid Center Annual Report Year 1, covering the project's work Sept. 15, 2018, when it began, to Aug. 31, 2019. Led by NMSU, the project is now in the second year of its five-year plan.

“how to build a micro-grid that can be isolated, and how to operate it.”

New Mexico is the perfect place for the research, he said in an NMSU news release, “because we have access to any kind of energy source you can think of, [including oil, gas, wind and sun].” The state also offers “very diverse land configuration,” he said, and “different types and sizes of communities.”

Developing more secure encryption protocols for data transmission – adding background noise so data can’t be distinguished, for example – is another focus of the project, he said. That will help protect not only individuals but institutions that are being subjected to 1,000 or more cyberattacks in a single day. It could even reduce energy costs. The project is also looking at issues like exposed transmission lines and weather impacts.

New technology developed through the SMART grid program will also “make our life more comfortable, convenient and easier,” the dean said, from operating kitchen appliances, thermostats and home security systems to beefing up the security of personal information.

Pontelli said the SMART grid project provides “a great learning opportunity” for NMSU students, and it has even led to the development of a bachelor’s degree program in cyber security, which the university launched in 2018.

NMSU engineering student Ada Ramoko was selected to present her research (“Protective Relaying and Fault Detection for Resilient Electric Grids with Distributed Energy Resources”) when NSF hosted a national EPS-CoR conference in South Carolina last October. And, NMSU has about $500,000 in EPSCoR equipment available to researchers.

While other centers around the country are working on single tracks of SMART-grid technology, NMSU is leading a project that is unique because of its “holistic approach,” Pontelli said. The NM SMART Grid Center has “a much broader view,” he said, including an integration component. “It’s a model for the entire nation,” Pontelli said.

Biceps Tendinitis

One of the things that happens in our office is something I call “the rule of 3’s. When we have a new client come in with a particular type of problem, we can be sure that two more will quickly follow! It’s really quite odd, because even when someone comes in with a very obscure problem, it won’t be long before two more come in with the same problem. It almost never fails.

Then there are things that we see all the time. Shoulder pain and low back pain are two things that we see on a daily basis. Today, I’d like to write about one common cause of shoulder pain: biceps tendonitis.

The biceps tendon connects the biceps muscle (that’s your ‘Popeye’ muscle) to a bone in your shoulder on top, and to a bone in your elbow. The tendon is a tough connective tissue, like a really strong cable. When the muscle contracts, it pulls on the tendon, which pulls on the bone to which it’s connected, and the arm moves. If the tendon gets irritated and inflamed, we call it biceps tendinitis.

Some of the causes of biceps tendinitis include:

- a fall that injures the shoulder
- excessive weight lifting
- overuse from recreational and sports-related activities
- repetitive activities at home and work

If you have biceps tendinitis, you might experience:

1. Pain at the front of the shoulder joint that extends down the front of the arm
2. Weakness in the shoulder when trying to lift a weight while bending the elbow

3. Decreased range of motion of the shoulder joint
4. A visible change in the shape and appearance of the front of the arm (this could reflect one consequence of chronic biceps tendonitis - a biceps tendon rupture)

Prevention might be as simple as reducing the intensity or number of repetitions that you are doing. Maybe it’s pulling weeds in the garden, or spending all day Saturday cleaning those high closet shelves. If you are doing these kinds of activities, plan to take a break periodically to give your muscles and tendons a break.

What if it doesn’t get better? It’s not a good idea to just live with it. Continuing to use a weakened, inflamed tendon could result in tendon rupture. Medical treatment may involve the use of over-the-counter anti-inflammatory medication. A physician may recommend prescription pain killers or injections. In extreme cases, surgery may be required. Before it goes that far, physical therapy is almost always part of the treatment plan.

A physical therapist will evaluate your problem and develop a customized treatment plan to get you back to full function. Your physical therapist will teach you to avoid motions and positions that cause pain, while using treatment techniques to reduce and eliminate the pain. Once the pain subsides, therapeutic exercises and activities begin to restore full function.

If you’re experiencing symptoms that might indicate the you have biceps tendonitis, we’re happy to do a no-obligation, no-cost consultation. Give our office a call at 575-525-2450.

New Mexico tourism tops $7 billion

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The New Mexico Department of Tourism has issued its Economic Impact of Tourism in New Mexico report for the last quarter of 2019, showing strong growth in tourism across multiple sectors:

- More than 37.5 million visitors came to New Mexico in 2018, an increase of almost four percent compared to 2017.
- Visitors spent $7.1 billion in New Mexico, an increase of seven percent compared to 2017 and a 29 percent increase since 2011. Visitors spent $5.8 billion in New Mexico in 2013, $6.1 billion in 2014, $6.3 billion in 2015, $6.4 billion in 2016 and $6.6 billion in 2017.

- In the period 2013-18 in New Mexico, visitor spending grew 22.4 percent, visits to the state were up 14.2 percent and tourism employment increased 10.2 percent.

- Visitor spending sustained nearly 95,000 jobs in New Mexico – about 8.5 percent of all jobs in the state – and accounted for 4.8 percent of total state wages in 2018. Tourism impacted New Mexico employment in virtually every sector of the economy, including agriculture, mining, construction and utilities, manufacturing, education and health care, as well as recreation and entertainment, lodging and food and beverage.

- Visitors generated $1.5 billion in federal, state and local taxes. Each household in New Mexico would need to be taxed an additional $900 annually to replace the state and local taxes generated by visitors.

- The $693 million in state and local taxes generated by tourism would cover the starting salaries of more than 20,000 classroom teachers in New Mexico.

February 7 "Rescue Me"

Denis Leary co-created, wrote and starred in this gritty, humorous 2004-11 FX drama about a group of New York firefighters coping with their jobs and their personal lives in the wake of 9/11. Daniel Sunjata, Steven Pasquale, Callie Thorne and John Scurti are also in the solid cast.

"Damages"

Seven-time Oscar nominee Glenn Close headed the cast of this gripping 2007-12 FX drama about a high-stakes New York litigator who takes a recent law school grad (played by Rose Byrne) as her protegee. Ted Danson, Chris Messina, Michael Nouri, Tate Donovan and Zachary Booth are also in the cast.

"Guy's Grocery Games"

Season 14 of Guy Fieri's unscripted Food Network series that shows contestants creating dishes from ingredients found in his "Flavortown Market" contains a five-part celebrity chef tournament, competitions featuring young chefs and superfans and a challenge of making tacos without traditional taco ingredients.

"Murder in the Heartland"

The second season of this ID true crime series focuses on murder cases in Missouri, where a man was found beaten to death in his own driveway; Idaho, where a man disappeared leaving behind a charred truck; and Illinois, where a woman was brutally slain at the business she owned.

tonight's picks

Capt. Glenn Shephard

7 p.m. on BRAVO Below Deck Sailing Yacht

A 180-foot sailing yacht called the Parsifal III is the setting for this new spinoff of "Below Deck," which once again features an elite crew catering to the whims of a well-heeled clientele as they cruise through crystal-clear waters near Corfu, Greece. There's an added degree of difficulty involved this time around, though: Capt. Glenn Shephard and his crew are working at the whim of the winds, in below-deck spaces considerably less spacious than those on motor yacht counterparts.

8 p.m. on FOOD Chopped Sweets

Scott Conant, a familiar face on the "Chopped" judges panel, is host for this new spinoff competition, in which four chefs compete in a series of challenges featuring a different, often confounding, sweet-themed ingredient that must be incorporated into the desserts they create. In the premiere, "Boozy Baskets," a special beer and a frozen treat are featured in the first round, while a potent pop and a festive frosting meet in the second basket. A rotating panel of judges picks the winners each week.

11 p.m. on HBO McMillion$

Mark Wahlberg is among the executive producers of this six-part docuseries, which chronicles the bizarre yet true story of a 1990s fraud case in which $24 million was stolen from the McDonald's Monopoly game, which awarded prizes to the company's fast-food customers. Unfortunately, customers and most McDonald's executives were unaware that the biggest winning tickets were being stolen and sold to winners via a complex web of friends and family members who became co-conspirators. An anonymous 2001 tip to the FBI triggered a far-reaching investigation.

7 p.m. on KRWG NOVA

Renowned paleontologist Kirk Johnson is host for the new two-hour presentation "Polar Extremes," which examines historical warming and cooling patterns in the Arctic and Antarctic over the past 650 million years in an effort to find clues to what the immediate future holds in terms of its climate. At past stages in the Earth's life, dinosaurs roamed a once-temperate South Pole and alligators made a home in a subtropical Arctic forest. How dire will things get as polar ice continues to melt?

7 p.m. on KDBC Survivor at 40: Greatest Moments and Players

CBS is making a Very Big Deal about how the new Season 40, which launches next Wednesday, coincides roughly with the 20th anniversary of the "Survivor" premiere in 2000. Fan favorites from previous "Survivor" editions make up the roster of Season 40 contestants, and they'll be playing for what is said to be the biggest jackpot in reality TV show history: $2 million. First, though, this retrospective special features interviews with some of those unforgettable past "Survivor" players, as well as a sneak peek at the new season.

8:01 p.m. on KFOX LEGO Masters

Best known to legions of fans for voicing Batman in the animated LEGO blockbusters, Will Arnett hosts this new competition series, in which he and some expert judges watch as pairs of LEGO enthusiasts face off in a series of brick-building challenges. In each episode, the competitors who most impress the judges progress to the next round and so on until the finale, where the top teams vie for a large cash prize, the ultimate LEGO trophy and the grand title of LEGO Masters.

11 p.m. on FREEFRM Good Trouble

Briarpatch

Pop culture journalist Andy Greenwald created this stylish new blend of crime drama and pulp fiction, an anthology series that will feature one 10-episode close-ended story each season. Adapted from a novel by Ross Thomas, this freshman outing stars Rosario Dawson as tough private eye Allegra Dill, who returns to her hometown on the Texas-Mexico border to investigate her sister's murder.

8:30 p.m. on KTSM
Indebted

This new sitcom from Dan Levy ("The Goldbergs") charts a major upheaval in the lives of young parents Dave and Rebecca (Adam Pally, Abby Elliott) when his mother and father (comedy veterans Fran Drescher and Steven Weber) show up unannounced. They're broke, leaving Dave with no choice but to take in these "boomerang parents" who gave him everything when he was younger. Unfortunately, they're not too keen on personal boundaries. Jessy Hodges also stars.

What's New NOW On

February 2

“Movie: 10 Minutes Gone”

Michael Chiklis (“The Shield”) stars as an amnesiac bank robber in search of someone who can tell him what went wrong during the 10 minutes he can’t remember from a heist that resulted in his brother’s death. Bruce Willis, Meadow Williams and Kyle Schmid also star in this 2019 actioner from director Bruce A. Miller (“House of the Rising Sun”).

“Movie: Midnight Sun”

Adapted from a 2006 Japanese film of the same title, Scott Speer’s 2018 romantic drama stars Bella Thorne as Katie Price, a teenager who suffers from a rare condition that prevents her from going out into the sunlight. Her days are spent housebound, with only her father (Rob Riggle) and best friend (Quinn Shephard) for occasional company. A sensitive hunk (Patrick Schwarzenegger) falls for her after they meet on a series of nighttime dates, but he doesn’t know that Katie faces a grim future.

“Movie: Danny Collins”

Writer-producer Dan Fogelman (“Galavant”) made his feature directorial debut with this 2015 comedy-drama inspired by the story of folk singer Steve Tilston. Al Pacino anchors a splendid cast in the title role of an aging rock star who’s reluctant to moderate his lifestyle, until his manager (Christopher Plummer) discovers a previously undelivered letter to Danny from John Lennon. Annette Bening, Jennifer Garner and Bobby Cannavale also star.

“Movie: The Skeleton Twins”

“Saturday Night Live” alums Bill Hader and Kristen Wiig star as estranged twins who, having coincidentally cheated death on the same day, reunite with the possibility of mending their relationship in this 2014 comedy movie from director Craig Johnson (“Wilson”). The solid cast also includes Luke Wilson, Joanna Gleason, Ty Burrell and Boyd Holbrook.

Coming Soon

“The Offenders” (date TBA)
Amazon and the BBC are teaming up for this British comedy about seven strangers forced together to complete a community service sentence. Stephen Merchant (“The Office”) and Elgin James (“Mayans M.C.”) are the creators. (ORIGINAL)

“Underground Railroad” (date TBA)

Oscar-winner Barry Jenkins (“Moonlight”) directs this limited series based on a Colson Whitehead award-winning novel by the same name. Stars include Thuso Mbedu (“Is’Thunzi”), Chase W. Dillon (“First Wives Club”) and Aaron Pierre (“Krypton,” “Brittania”). (ORIGINAL)

“On the Spectrum” (date TBA)

From Jason Katims comes this half-hour comedic drama series about a group of 20-somethings on the autism spectrum who all want the basics of life, including falling in love, having friends and holding down a job. (ORIGINAL)

SUN WEST MORTGAGE COMPANY, INC. D/B/A SUN WEST MORTGAGE USA, INC.,

Plaintiff,
v.

MICHAEL YBARRA, THE UNKNOWN SPOUSE OF MICHAEL YBARRA, Defendants.

NOTICE OF SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the undersigned Special Master will, on February 11, 2020 at 11:00 AM, outside the main entrance of the 3rd Judicial District Courthouse, 201 W. Picacho, Las Cruces, State of New Mexico, sell and convey to the highest bidder for cash all the right, title, and interest of the above-named defendants in and to the following described real estate located in said County and State:

Lot numbered 7 in Block numbered 2 of Amended Ridgecrest Addition, Las Cruces Dona Ana County, New Mexico, as the same is shown and designated on the plat of said Amended Ridgecrest Addition, filed in the office of the County Clerk of Dona Ana County, New Mexico on December 30, 1964 in Plat Book 9, folio 53-54.

The address of the real property is 2602 Claude Dove Dr, Las Cruces, NM 88011. Plaintiff does not represent or warrant that the stated street address is the street address of the described property; if the street address does not match the legal description, then the property being sold herein is the property more particularly described above, not the property located at the street address; any prospective purchaser at the sale is given notice that it should verify the location and address of the property being sold. Said sale will be made pursuant to the judgment entered on November 15, 2019 in the above entitled and numbered cause, which was a suit to foreclose a mortgage held by the above Plaintiff and wherein Plaintiff was adjudged to have a lien against the above-described real estate in the sum of $149,361.37 plus interest from July 27, 2019 to the date of sale at the rate of 4.250% per annum, the costs of sale, including the Special Master's fee, publication costs, and Plaintiff's costs expended for taxes, insurance, and keeping the property in good repair. Plaintiff has the right to bid at such sale and submit its bid verbally or in writing. The Plaintiff may apply all or any part of its judgment to the purchase price in lieu of cash.

At the date and time stated above, the Special Master may postpone the sale to such later date and time as the Special Master may specify.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that this sale may be subject to a bankruptcy filing, a pay off, a reinstatement or any other condition that would cause the cancellation of this sale. Further, if any of these conditions exist, at the time of sale, this sale will be null and void, the successful bidder's funds shall be returned, and the Special Master and the mortgagee giving this notice shall not be liable to the successful bidder for any damages.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the real property and improvements concerned with herein will be sold subject to any and all patent reservations, easements, all recorded and unrecorded liens not foreclosed herein, and all recorded and unrecorded special assessments and taxes that may be due, Plaintiff and its attorneys disclaim all responsibility for, and the purchaser at the sale takes the property subject to, the valuation of the property by the County Assessor as real or personal property, affixture of any mobile or manufactured home to the land, deactivation of title to a mobile or manufactured home on the property, if any, environmental contamination on the property, if any, and zoning violations concerning the property, if any.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the purchaser at such sale shall take title to the above-described real property subject to rights of redemption.

Las Cruces Bulletin

The onset of the new Roaring ‘20s is ArtForms Artists Association of Las Cruces’ 22nd annual For the Love of Art Month. You will love it, too!

For a sample of what’s available to see during For the Love of Art Month, get ArtForms’ 2020 For the Love of Art Month event guide, which includes maps, directions, dates and times. Or visit www.artform-snm.org.

The Las Cruces Bulletin will be highlighting artists, artwork and exhibitions related to For the Love of Art Month throughout February.

• The Downtown Art Ramble will be Friday, Feb. 7. Sponsored by the Downtown Las Cruces Partnership, the ramble is a self-guided tour of the galleries and other businesses and restaurants in downtown Las Cruces. And, it now includes the Mesquite Historic District, as well. Refreshments and live entertainment will be found all along the way. For more information, visit <https://downtown-lascruces.org/art-ramble/>.

• The New Mexico Watercolor Society Southern Chapter February 2020 meeting will be followed by a presentation by artist Jacques Barriac entitled “Chinese Painting and Mounting on Rice Paper.” The presentation is 2-4 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 9, at Good Samaritan Society Village (social center), 3011 Buena Vida Circle. The event is free and open to the public. Using modern materials, Barriac, a watercolor artist from El Paso, will demonstrate how to mount a very thin Chinese painting on a rigid backing. He will also review various aspects of Chinese watercolor paintings, including traditional and Western Chinese painting techniques, brushes and the great many papers that can be used. Visit nmwatercolorssociety.org.

• Agave Artists cooperative gallery celebrates the works of five new artists, as well as its six-month anniversary, during a reception, 4-7 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 8, at the gallery, 2250 Calle de San Albino in Mesilla. The new artists are Lucie Raine, photography; Betty Krebs, pastels; Ken Krebs and Sonya Fe, oils; and Gael Guyotte, jewelry and small sculpture. Also as part of For the Love of Art Month, Agave Artists will host a plein air painting session, 1-3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 22, featuring member artists Leslie Toombs, Paul Vakselis and Ana Maria Uranga in Josefina’s Garden at the gallery’s side yard, accessible through the cafe patio or at the gallery. Bring your art supplies or just yourself. Ask questions and enjoy some refreshments. Children are welcome. Contact Wendy Weir at 575-339-9870 and agaveartists@gmail.com.

• Impressions Studio, 4116 Calle Belleza (Sonoma Ranch area): Marj Leininger, “Gypsy Sage Artist,” and Kim Miller, “Forever Flowers Yard Art,” are sharing resources, creativity and encouragement during For Love of Art Month. They work in a range of media, including watercolor on yupo, acrylic, colored pencil and draped figures to reclaimed-glass-designing-yard-art such as totems, flowers, birdbaths/feeders and solar cholla cactus. Their work can be seen at Impressions Studio 10 a.m.-4 p.m. each Saturday, and noon-4 p.m. each Sunday in February. Look for the blue flag. Call 575-520-9245.

• Tombaugh Gallery The gourd artists are back, this time showing off their spirit animals. Each of the four featured Southwest artists has a unique style, but each gourd will embody the essence of an animal – turtles, giraffes, dragonflies, bears, cats, dogs and horses are all represented. The work encompasses everything from carving to painting, pyrography to embellishing with clay. Featured artists are Sylvia Henrickson, Steph Ross, Brenda Blackwelder and Terry McCatherin. An artist reception will be held 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 2, at the gallery, 2020 S. Solano Drive. The show continues through February. Regular gallery hours are 10 a.m.-2 p.m., Wednesday-Saturday. Call 575-522-7281.

• Mesquite Art Gallery in Las Cruces features the work of The Southwestern Calligraphy Guild in February. The guild studies calligraphy, as well as related paper arts, including bookbind-

• Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Gallery, 2470-A Calle de Guadalupe, across from the historic Fountain Theatre in Mesilla, features two local artists in February: Ray Baird and Kurt Van Wagner, and introduces the gallery's newest members, Linda Hagen and Brent Flenniken. Baird's work as an oil painter can be described as impressionism, and he uses translucent, complementary colors that represent his feelings, rather than a true representational image. Van Wagner has emerged as an accomplished self-taught, digital artist. He transforms his personal photographs into collectable works of art. The gallery will celebrate For The Love of Art Month 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 15. Refreshment will be served. Gallery hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. daily. Call 575-522-2933 and visit www.mesillavalleyfinearts.com.

• Trails End Gallery, 1732 N. Mesquite St., will feature the work of artists Robert Highsmith, Gary Biel, Patricia Black, John Glass, John Schooley, Virginia Romero, Penny Simpson, C.C. Cunningham, Nancy Frost Begin, Susi and Richard Bergquist, Linda Hagen, Jeri Desrochers, Linda Gendall, Rhoda Winters and Jerry Hernandez. Call 575-650-1556.

• New Mexico Farm & Ranch Heritage Museum's Arts Corridor features "Local Color: Landscape and Architecture," with the works of members of the Mesilla Valley Weavers Guild, continuing through Sunday, April 5. The guild includes weavers, spinners, knitters, basket makers and others interested in the textile arts. Members draw inspiration from the southwest landscape and the environment in which they live. The museum is located at 4100 Dripping Springs Road. Call 575-522-4100.

• In Effect Gallery presents its fifth annual Erotica art show and sale, 6-10:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 14. Additional showings will be 1-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 15-16. The show will include guest artist John G Hynes from New York, and other artists. Local Taos Pueblo artist Dennis Lujan owns In Effect Gallery and has been producing art shows since about 1990. "Erotica' has truly evolved over the years," Lujan said. The show will feature the works of 25-30 artists from the area and across the country and will include more than 120 pieces in many media and styles. In Effect Gallery is located in Lujan's home, 3390 Apple Cross Place. Contact Lujan at 575-640-8485 or dennis_lujan@yahoo.com.

• Branigan Cultural Center, 501 N. Main St., will present a discussion by artist Victoria Chick concerning her work during an opening reception at 5:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 7, for her solo exhibition, "New Eyes on New Mexico." Branigan Cultural Center is open 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Tuesday-Friday and 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Saturday. Call 575-541-2154. Visit www.branigan.org.

'The Killing Game' will slay you

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Is it a government conspiracy? The result of squalor and unhealthy living? God's revenge on the weak and unworthy? Is it a social commentary on the times we live in?

Playwright Eugene Ionesco raises many powerful questions in "The Killing Game," which continues for two more weekends at Black Box Theatre.

The characters in this play take themselves very seriously – they are, after all, dropping dead all over the place. But director Marissa Bond and her talented cast and crew, including and especially costumer (Robert "Bobcat" Young, who is also in the cast and is the play's assistant director) and set designer (Joshua Taulbee, another cast member), lighting designer (theatre co-owner Peter Herman) and sound designer (Rafael Medina, who also has a direct link to the show) individually and collectively recognize that they are producing absurdist theatre.

Everything that is said and done, each pistol and necktie, every light change and sound cue, means something, even though the collective whole may mean nothing at all.

It is literally deadly serious and at the same time completely ridiculous. For example, is it a health professional who sets the terrified characters' minds at ease, or a government or religious leader? No. It's someone quoting statistics.

Watching this wonderful play is like looking at a beautiful piece of abstract art. You turn your head: This is so beautiful, but did they hang it the right way? Is this funny or is it terrifying? Should I laugh or gasp?

Answer those questions for yourself when you see this play – and you should go see it. Pay attention to the hangman and the old couple, the anarchist and the prisoners, to the black-and-white costumes and set pieces, and to the red eyes and the purple on the floor and the back wall and the subtle strains of "What a Wonderful World." Mostly, just sit back and enjoy some quality theatre.

In addition to Young and Taulbee, the cast includes Teddy Aspen-Sanchez, Karen Buerdsell, Vanessa Dabovich, Gina DeMondo, Avra Elliot, Cassandra Galban, Erica Krauel, Taylor Landfair, Ed Montes, Joseluis Solorzano and Nancy Sorrells. Kudos to all of them. Each cast member gets to shine his or her individual light at one point during the performance. But it is the collective work of this truly ensemble cast and their insightful director that brings the magic to this production.

"The Killing Game" continues with these performances: 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, Feb. 7-8; 2:30 p.m. Sundays, Feb. 2 and 9; and 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 6. Tickets are $15 regular admission, $12 for students and seniors over age 65 and $10 for all seats for the Thursday night, Feb. 6 performance. Black Box Theatre is located at 430 N. Main St. downtown.

Beginnings

Gallery closes as owners move on to next adventure

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

A.me Alamag was always an artist.

“My mom started painting when I was in the womb, so I was working in the womb,” A.me said. “She [mom] gave me free reign in my room to draw on the floors and the closets, and she always encouraged me even when I didn’t think I was an artist because at school everyone was always drawing reality and I had no desire to draw from reality. I just drew from my head.”

The little girl would even draw on her sheets, then wake up with body prints of characters from sleeping on the ink. Her life partner Mitch was also creating since he was young, always building things and making things.

Together, Mitch and A.me created the concept for and built the Rokoko Gallery in Las Cruces 10 years ago. Now they are moving out and into the next phase of their lives. There will be a closing sale at the gallery from noon to 5 p.m. on Feb. 8 and Feb. 15. The gallery is located at 1785 Avenida de Mercado.

They will be selling most everything, including chairs, tables and umbrellas, A.me said.

A.me said they are really sad to be selling the gallery, but not too sad because it is time for change.

For A.me, leaving the gallery is like leaving her art in other’s hands.

“I feel like it’s not mine to begin with, and to let it go gives it life,” she said. “I look at my work like I am co-creator with the person who walks away with it. We are partners and you are the other part of it.”

A.me said she is like a nomad walking through the material world and and she didn’t need material things while “Mitch needed home and needed life and he had much more needs.”

Together, these opposite people have grown to know they work well together. And have lived off being artists for 35 years, through tough times and better ones.

“Now I’ve learned to appreciate stability,” she said. “I would come up with something and be done with it. So, he made me stand still a little longer, taught me there is merit in selling the work.”

Elva K. Österreich may be reached at elva@lascrucesbulletin.com.

A.me Alamag and her partner Mitch have been running the Rokoko Gallery in Las Cruces for 10 years and are moving out to find their next adventure.

Oscar Shorts this year take a dark, powerful turn

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

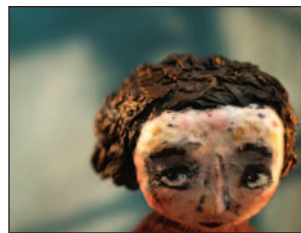

This year's Oscar short-film nominees present a strange and moving palate for the viewer. Don't expect to come out of the theater untouched by one or more of these offerings.

These 10 short films get to the gist of what life is about. Almost all are specifically about family connections.

Animation

"Daughter" ("Dcera")

In a man's hospital room, his daughter flashes back to a moment when she tried to share an experience with an injured bird with her father. This film sucks the watcher in with its stop-motion darkness as we look at the faces and startling eyes, carried away in the starkness of a child's imagination and the revelation of her view of her relationship with her father.

"Hair Love"

This is another film exploring a father/daughter relationship as a little girl turns to her father to fix her hair for a special day in both of their lives. The machinations of this child to get things right are delightful, and this short doesn't need the twist at the end.

"Kitbull"

"Kitbull" is the only film in either category that is about animals, as a stray kitten and a pit bull forge a bond and find connection. This charming piece is well conceived and put together. The art of animation plays second fiddle to the story and doesn't impose itself like it does in some of the other pieces.

"Mémorable"

A painter, Louis, experiences some strange, mutating events as furniture, objects and people lose their realism in his world. The animation in this film is beautiful, an integral and fascinating part of the story as the things and people around him change and his wife tries to grapple with what is happening to her husband.

Beginning Jan. 31, screens for a week at the Fountain Theater, 2469 Calle de Guadalupe in Mesilla. Visit www.mesillavelleyfilm.org for full schedule. The Live Action shorts also will screen Feb. 3 at Allen Theater's Telshor 12.

"Sister"

In "Sister," a man thinks back to his childhood memories of growing up with an annoying little sister in China in the 1990s and wonders what his life would be like if things had gone differently.

Live Action

"A Sister"

A night. A car. Alie is in trouble, and she must make the most important call of her life. This is one of those films that starts from one point of view and flips abruptly to another, opening a whole new perspective, and then slides into a different point entirely and works well.

"Brotherhood"

Three brothers in Tunisia, reunited after one left to join ISIS and returned with a 14-year-old wife, face their different relationships with their father and share moments of joy with each other. The father is a down-to-earth shepherd, and the most striking part of this disturbing piece is the way he relates to his sheep and his children.

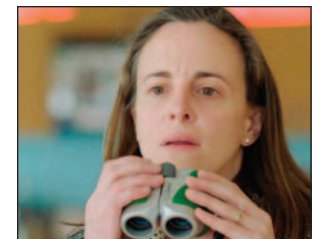

"Nefta Football Club"

Two young brothers come across a donkey in the desert. Strangely, the animal is wearing headphones over its ears. Set in Morocco, this is the second film (the first one being "Brotherhood") where lack of communication between family members plays a huge part in the way the film ends. This film has moments of humor that could be very funny if only the viewer didn't have worry about the characters while the funny parts are happening.

"Saria"

"Saria" is the tale of two inseparable orphaned sisters, Saria and Ximena, as they fight against daily abuse and unimaginable hardship at Virgen de la Asuncion Safe Home in Guatemala. The story follows the real events leading up to the tragic fire in 2017 that claimed the lives of 41 orphaned girls. Saria and Ximena face horrendous events around them as they maintain the nature, hopes and dreams experienced by every teen-aged girl.

"The Neighbors' Window"

Alli is the mother of three small children. She is frustrated with the daily grind and a little tired of her husband. Then a young couple move into an apartment across the street, where they never draw the blinds, and Alli's frustration and fascination grows as she watches them love life, have sex and throw fabulous parties all the time. This film shot the biggest arrow through my heart.

'The Last Five Years' to open Feb. 7

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

One of Las Cruces' newest theatre production companies, Blank Conversations, will open its latest production, the musical "The Last Five Years," in February for six weekend performances, said company founder Gus Sanchez, a freshman theatre major at New Mexico State University.

Performances will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Feb. 7-8 and Saturday, Feb. 15, and 1 p.m. Sundays, Feb. 9 and 16, at The Range, 3217 El Camino Real Road. There also will be a performance at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 14 at Isabel M. Crouch Readers Theater on the NMSU campus.

Tickets are $15 and can be purchased at blank-conversations.org/store. Tickets can also be purchased at the door prior to each performance.

The musical was written by Jason Robert

Brown and was inspired by his failed marriage. It opened at Chicago's Northlight Theatre in 2001 and went to Off-Broadway in March of 2002. A film adaptation was made in 2014, starring Jeremy Jordan and Anna Kendrick.

This one-act musical takes place in New York, and tells the story of Jamie, an up and coming author, and Cathy, an aspiring actress, as they reflect on their five-year relationship, telling the story from opposite sides. Cathy tells her story from the end to the beginning, while Jamie tells his story from the beginning to the end.

The cast includes Gus Sanchez, Peyton Womble

and Ben Muckenthaler. The show is directed by veteran Las Cruces actor and NMSU Theatre Department graduate Matthew Esqueda, who is making his directorial debut. The stage manager is Kaylin Berglund.

This production is funded entirely by members of the Las Cruces community, after a Kickstarter campaign that took place last summer "This campaign helped to fund the entirety of the show's costs and helped establish Blank Conversations as a prominent theatre group in Las Cruces," Sanchez said.

Boba Cabaret hosts 'Search for a Star 2020'

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Boba Café and Cabaret, 1900 S. Espina St., will host the "Search for a Star 2020" competition during four performances, Jan. 31-Feb. 8.

Performances will be Friday-Saturday, Jan. 31-Feb. 1 and Feb. 7-8. There will be dinner shows at 6 p.m. and cocktail shows at 8:30 p.m. each of the four nights.

Tickets are $12.50 for the cocktail show and $25 for the dinner show.

After successfully auditioning, contestants vying for a $500 cash prize will be Chris Flores, Piper Gandy, Chris Mack, Luis Melendez, Marissa Orozco, Samuel Orozco, Timothy Parra, Matthew Power, Sarah Q., Zeta Shearill, Dzaki Sukarno and Ximena Solis-Rios.

Gail Zimmer is producing the show for Boba. Her daughter is performer Taylor Rey, a former Miss New Mexico and 2018 Miss America semi-finalist. Rey has completed an internship with Ars Nova Theater in New York City, where she now lives, taking acting classes and auditioning for parts.

"I am creating an environment/event to give back the same experience to the next generation of young talent" that Rey had, Zimmer said, adding that Rey's first performance on the stage at Boba Cabaret was at age 12.

Growing up in Las Cruces, Rey was a student at Michelle's Dance Academy and a member of the Doña Ana Youth Choir. She learned to play the viola in the sixth grade and performed in her favorite musical, "Little Shop of Horrors," at Rio Grande Theatre at age 15. She starred in productions at Las Cruces High School and Oklahoma City University (she's in OCU's Hall of Queens) and in Scaffolding Theatre Company's productions of "Nine" and "Chicago," "Dames at Sea" and "White Christmas" for Las Cruces Community Theatre and

Sanctuary – a place of refuge or safety

I've had several discussions lately about exactly what happens at a sanctuary for horses. What makes it different from a "rescue" and why do horses need "sanctuary"?

My personal perspective comes from decades of saving horses and keeping most of them until the ends of their lives. That is pretty much what being in sanctuary would mean to a horse. He would have a safe, healthy home for the rest of his life. Horses are entirely dependent upon people for their every need, so to be safe and cherished seems like it would be every horse's wish.

Sanctuaries can be rescues, but not every rescue is a sanctuary. To be able to take in more horses, rescues need to adopt out horses that heal or become trained. Certainly, many rescues keep horses that would not fare well elsewhere, but one average-sized equine will cost $1,200 per year just for hay that is fed. Add hoof care, veterinary care, supplementation, the cost of water and electricity to run the facility, gasoline to get supplies – well, it all adds up quickly. It is not for the faint of heart.

The horse who has known hardship will require compassion and time to recover. Sometimes, they do not stretch beyond the trauma they have experienced, and the best we can offer is a quiet life with their needs being met until life ends. As advocates of all equines, we at Dharmahorse hope for the best, comfort a horse (or pony, donkey, mule) and accept the limitations they might have as we work to improve their circumstances. With this focus, getting our horses' lives as close to a natural one is our priority.

We see our program for horses as one that creates as natural an environment as possible, where the horses interact with each other, move about freely, graze upon grass hays in feeding stations and can choose their shelter according to wind and weather. If you take authority over an animal, you take responsibility for its well-being. My favorite quote is: "Love is the active promotion of the well being of the love object" – E. Fromm. We love horses.

So, a horse sanctuary is a place where each horse is honored for his/her individual personality with a conscious awareness of the reasons for any quirks or fears. It is a place where equine nature is understood and supported, knowing that horses are herd animals and that they are gregarious and need other equines for interaction.

Every horse owner can make their horse's environment a sanctuary. It is a loving concept that can mean the difference between a mediocre existence of service and an enriched life well-lived. A horse who is cherished will look forward to human contact. This horse will give more than is asked of him. There will be light in his eyes, and he will be curious, engaged and content.

They say that we can judge a person by the way he treats animals. With horses, we must ask ourselves if they are here to prop up our egos or if they are deserving of the same considerations we want for ourselves. When we open our hearts to accept the nature of horses and see through their eyes, we gain empathy for them both as a species and each as an individual. That is when their lives can flourish as we begin to add the simple things that support them and remove the things that torment them.

Horses bring out the best in people, given a chance, and when a human opens up to the pure honesty and persuasiveness of equine nature, we are changed by our association with horses.

If we have their best interests at heart, we are changed for the better.

New company, 30 jobs in the pipeline for Las Cruces

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Director of Operations Mike Watters was in Las Cruces Tuesday morning, Jan. 21, to announce that his company, Big Tuna USA, has signed a lease on a vacant 15,000-square-foot property on 7.5 acres at 1846 W. Amador Ave. and will open a manufacturing center there, creating 30 new jobs in Las Cruces during the next three years.

“We see a very bright future with this company,” Watters said during a news conference at Las Cruces City Hall. “We intend to use as many local resources as we can,” he said, adding that Big Tuna expects to expand its site to 40 acres by 2023.

“Big Tuna USA holds the exclusive rights to manufacture and distribute a high-density pipe product patented by Australian-based Long Pipes Ltd.,” the New Mexico Economic Development Department (NMEDD) said in a news release. “The product has a significantly larger internal diameter and a higher pressure rating than current market solutions. The initial target market for the piping is the oil and gas industry for process water-management systems,” the news release said.

Watters said Big Tuna looked at potential sites in other parts of New Mexico as well as in Colorado and west Texas before choosing Las Cruces.

Watters said Las Cruces’ workforce and business climate were among the reasons it was selected, along with city and state incentives. The company will invest $7.5 million of private money into the Las Cruces site, while the state has pledged $200,000 in economic assistance from its Local Economic Development Act (LEDA) closing fund and the City of Las Cruces has pledged $75,000 in municipal LEDA dollars, the NMEDD news release said.

Christine Logan of NMEDD’s Community, Business & Rural Development Team, based in Las Cruces, welcomed Big Tuna at the news conference. “We’re all here for you in the long term,” Logan told Watters.

Mesilla Valley Economic Development Alliance (MVEDA) President and CEO Davin Lopez said bringing Big Tuna to Las Cruces was a collaboration among MVEDA, which recruited Big Tuna to Las Cruces, the city and the state. “It really does take a community to put jobs in place,” Lopez said at the news conference, as he thanked Big Tuna for Big Tuna USA Director of Operations Mike Watters announces the company’s plan to open a manufacturing center in Las Cruces during a Jan. 21 news conference Las Cruces City Hall.

“putting their confidence in the community here. One of the things that makes Las Cruces different is we’re here for you long term,” Lopez said. “Big Tuna expects to spend four months on construction and redevelopment at the Las Cruces site with a goal of producing 50 miles of pipe in 2020 and doubling that in 2021 and 2022,” NMEDD said. “The jobs will pay an average of $15.70 an hour.

“The company plans to initially target water-management systems in the United States and then progressively step into other pipeline markets, including low-pressure natural gas, non-potable water, and agricultural and municipal water-distribution services.”

Watters said Big Tuna has small offices in Denver and Houston, and will establish a website and corporate office in 2020.

Emphasize critical thinking over job skills

High salaries and the chance to work with new technologies have attracted young people to jobs in the tech sector. Seeking to serve these students has led to a shift in the emphasis in higher education toward STEM majors and away from liberal arts. Parents worried about their children paying student loans are happier, as well.

Nationally, the trend is declining enrolment in liberal-arts colleges. Fewer than one in five degrees is now awarded in the humanities.

Here in New Mexico, the formula used by

CHRIS ERICKSON
State of the Economy

Santa Fe to allocate funds among state universities gives a premium for engineering and science degrees awarded.

The idea is to incentivize New Mexico universities to funnel students into STEM.

Of course, the reason for the push for STEM is high salaries. And certainly, new STEM grads typically earn more than other grads.

But the real question is, does a STEM degree guarantee higher income over a career? We have little evidence on this issue.

On the one hand, it is clear that new STEM grads, with current information about new technologies, do earn more.

But do the same people earn more 20 years after graduation when their skills are not so fresh?

The evidence we have is very limited. One study, looking at the long-term earnings of French high-skilled workers who started their career during the 1990s tech boom found that tech workers ended up earning seven percent less than other workers.

Of course, the choice of a career is difficult, as one has to predict what the demand will be, not just at graduation but over years and decades.

STEM jobs, which pay well today, may not pay well in the future.

Economic theory says that the return to a particular major on average should be the same after adjusting for the abilities of the student. STEM majors are generally more difficult. For students to be successful, they need ability and preparation. So of course, these students on average go on to good jobs.

The students likely to succeed in STEM are the same students who do well in humanities majors.

One can be an engineer and have a high starting salary, or one can be a history major, then go to law school.

The engineer makes a good income right off the bat, while the history major's career is delayed by long years of law school, followed by the high salary of an attorney.

Of course, we are talking about averages here. Motivation and hard work can do a lot to overcome preparation and ability. Many students you would predict to struggle in STEM, do quite well. Same applies to students who go on to be lawyers.

In any case, the reason that a college degree is so valuable is not for the salary earned on graduation—although a good starting salary is nice—but rather the ability to think critically, as critical thinking is a valuable skill in any career.

Christopher A. Erickson, Ph.D., is a professor of economics at NMSU. He attended a liberal-arts school as an undergraduate and majored in history. The views expressed may not be shared by the regents and administration of NMSU. Chris can be reached at cherrick@nmsu.edu.

Kansas City or San Francisco: Las Cruces doesn't agree

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The chancellor and the former chancellor of New Mexico State University agree, and so does a New Mexico cabinet secretary, the mayor of Las Cruces and the president pro-tem of the New Mexico State Senate. But the county clerk, the county manager, the sheriff, the fire chief and the interim superintendent of schools have a different opinion.

The vital question is: Who will win Super Bowl LIV? It will be played Sunday, Feb. 2, in Miami between the AFC Champion Kansas City Chiefs and the NFC Champion San Francisco 49ers.

Here are the opinions of some local leaders (and me).

- Richard Parra, owner of the Hood and former owner of Spirit Winds: SF 34, KC 24; favorite team: New England Patriots.

- Mayor Ken Miya-

- gishima: KC 21, SF 17; favorite team: Oakland Raiders.

- Nicole Martinez, executive director of Mesilla Valley Community of Hope: SF 30, KC 13; favorite team: 49ers.

- City Councilor Yvonne Flores, either SF 13, KC 3 or SF 7 KC 6; favorite team: 49ers.

- City Councilor Johana Bencomo: KC 28, SF 24; favorite team: "To be honest, football is not my favorite sport, but I am competitive," Bencomo said. "I'll say the Denver Broncos given my Colorado roots."

- City Councilor Gabe Vasquez, SF 35, KC 28; favorite team: 49ers. "Six Super Bowls, here we go," Vasquez said.

- Las Cruces Fire Chief Eric Enriquez: SF 45, KC 38; favorite team: Pittsburgh Steelers.

- Henry Brutus, executive director of La Casa, Inc. domestic violence shelter: SF 35, KC 34; favorite team: Miami Dolphins.

- City Communications Director Udell Vigil: SF 31, KC 28; favorite team: Arizona Cardinals.

- Andy Hume, Las Cruces International Airport administrator: KC 31, SF 24; favorite team: Buffalo Bills.

- Mary Kay Papen, president pro-tem of the state Senate, KC 38, SF 27; favorite team: Dallas Cowboys.

- Doña Ana County Commissioner Manuel Sanchez: SF 31, KC 27; favorite team: Raiders.

- County Commissioner Shannon Reynolds: KC 41, SF 28; favorite team: New Orleans Saints.

- Greg Smith, executive director of the Doña Ana Arts Council: SF 21, KC 14; favorite team: 49ers.

- Doña Ana County Clerk Amanda Lopez Askin: SF 37, KC 31. "The only football I watch is Aggie Football, and I'm more likely to be watching the Puppy Bowl than anything else," Lopez Askin said. "Having said that, I'll always root for the underdog. From what I research, there doesn't seem to be a clear underdog, so, because my friend, Roberto, loves the 49ers, I'll pick them. Seems like as good a reason as any!"

- New Mexico Department of Workforce Solutions Secretary (and former Doña Ana County commissioner and state representative) Bill McCamley: KC 34, SF 27.

- NMSU Chancellor

Dan Arvizu: KC 31, SF 27; favorite team: Cowboys, a team he has "followed since the 1960s," Arvizu said. "I think it'll be a good game," he added, predicting a KC air attack win over SF's ground game.

- Former New Mexico Governor and NMSU Chancellor Garrey Caruthers: KC 31, SF 27; favorite team: Denver Broncos.

- Doña Ana Community College President Monica Torres: KC 35, SF 28; favors small-market teams, including KC.

- Karen Trujillo, interim superintendent of Las Cruces Public Schools: SF 27, KC 24; favorite team: Dallas. "Don't count KC out," Trujillo said. "They have proven they can come from behind. However, the 49ers are hard to stop. I think it will be a competitive, close game, but I think the 49ers will come out on top."

- Doña Ana County

Manager Fernando Macias: SF 37, KC 31; favorite team: Cowboys, "despite this last season, which he regarded as 'quite depressing.'"

- Doña Ana County Sheriff Kim Stewart doesn't follow the NFL but supports several of her deputies who are die-hard 49ers fans.

- County Media and Public Communications Manager Kelly Jameson: SF 21, KC 17; favorite team: Cowboys.

- Mike Cook, Las Cruces Bulletin reporter: KC 41, SF 31. Favorite team: I have followed the Los Angeles Rams, Green Bay Packers and Kansas City Chiefs for more than 50 years. I remember when KC won Super Bowl IV in January 1970 – Coach Hank Stram, quarterback Lyn Dawson, kicker Jan Stenerud, wide receiver Otis Taylor, punter Jerrel Wilson and many other great players. I love the Chiefs with all my heart.

Local quarter horse breeders earn top award

BULLETIN REPORT

Danly and Martha Sayles, owners of Sayles Quarter Horses in Mesquite, New Mexico, were recognized in December 2019 as American Quarter Horse Association Legacy Breeders, the Sayles said in a news release.

"This award honors AQHA breeders who have registered foals for 50 consecutive years," according to the news release. "Only six breeders from around the world qualified for and were recognized as Legacy Breeders in 2019.

"Danly and Martha Sayles (married in August 1960) have bred and raised several world champion quarter horses. Their bloodlines are well known performers sought by Palomino Horse Breeders of America (PHBA) exhibitors, as well. Horses bred and raised by the Sayles have qualified in many events for both the quarter horse and palomino world finals.

"Both of the Sayles have been internationally recognized horse show judges. They have judged horses all over the United States and in Canada, Mexico, Italy, Germany, England, Netherlands, Denmark, Sweden and Norway. Though now retired, between them they held judges' cards for nine different horse breed and color breed associations. Both have also judged world shows.

Danly and Martha Sayles moved to Doña Ana County nearly 50 years ago to start a registered quarter horse farm. The Sayles family has been involved in 4-H and the Doña Ana County Cooperative Extension Service at New Mexico State University for many years.

Golf: frustration is guaranteed

Golf can be a frustrating endeavor. I sympathize with all of you who tell me that you often come back from a round of golf feeling beat down and frustrated. I feel your pain. So I began to think more about the problem.

CHARLIE BLANCHARD
Golf Doctor

ways expect more. They expect to perform at their best every time, and when they don't, they're frustrated. It's a matter of unfulfilled needs, because you think privately you let yourself down.

Probably not politicians. It's disappointment that often turns temporarily into anger.

The way I see it, feeling frustrated has mostly to do with our expectations. If we're expecting a good round of golf -- or a good shot, or a good outcome -- and it doesn't happen, we become upset, either inside or outwardly. We feel we should have done better. It is probably the same for public speakers, politicians running for office, concert pianists and CEO's, when they realize, deep-down, that they should have done better. Well, maybe not politicians. Achievers al-

I used to tell our Performance Golf School students that they shouldn't "try harder" after they cause sense frustration. I cautioned them to not over-try during a competitive round. For a Cleveland Browns lineman, yes, try harder. For a golfer, just focus more. I favor high effort and discipline when it comes to practice and gym workouts, informing yourself about course management, knowing the rules of golf and managing your time. Trying harder off the golf course can have its rewards. Thomas Jefferson is reputed to have stated, "I'm a great believer in luck, and I find the harder I work the more I have it."

Both Lee Trevino and Gary Player shortened that thought to: "The more I practice, the luckier I get."

Golf is close to a mirror of life, especially with emotions. We expect one thing, and when we fall into a different situation, either from injury or layoff or being out of shape or lack of practice or whatever, we lose the ability to perform as we once did. Our confidence is eroded, and we feel it's not fun anymore.

Disappointment starts to take over, and soon our composure and self-assurance totally disappear. Insecurity often rears its ugly head. Occasionally paranoia takes over, as in the case where we start blaming bad bounces, bad course conditions, bad breaks, slow pace, old golf clubs, stupid rules, inept teachers and bad luck. The new expectation soon becomes the feeling that we will be done in by forces that are out to get us no matter what we do.

Folks who often demonstrate irrational beliefs (like "I have to win, always"), self-defeating behavior, failure to learn from simple mistakes, reluctance to change problem behaviors, along with frequent temper outbursts, quite often suffer from "low frustration tolerance."

An example of the opposite reaction was the late Ben Hogan, who said he felt professional golf tournaments and championship golf to be "the struggle," a term he used to describe the hard work, discipline and perseverance required to become great. He was willing to tolerate the trials, tribulations, debilitating injuries and disappointments to succeed at a difficult and demanding sport. In fact, he welcomed them. It's not that much different today on tour.

The best advice I can offer folks who have major golf frustration is a reminder to check your attitude. As I have said frequently, attitude is everything. We believe things ought to be one way, and when they aren't, we get angry. Why does a 15-handicap golfer have an attitude that he should be hitting mostly perfect shots every time? There is some delusional element there.

A change in attitude is needed before an elevation in skill and a reduction in frustration can occur. Attitude is partly an understanding of the reality of the game, and staying positive is critical to enjoying it. If you are a serious golfer - I mean an obsessed golfer - be careful about attaching your identity to your golf game. The game itself can be frustrating AND humiliating.

"The distinguished Legacy Award was accepted at a dinner in Amarillo, Texas by the Sayles' two daughters: Rebekah Bachman of Amarillo, who is assistant dean of Agriculture at West Texas A&M University, and Sarah Sayles, PhD, of Las Cruces.

"My folks registered their first horse together in 1969, the year I was born," said daughter Sarah Sayles. "Over the years, they built their business on bloodlines that have been very competitive. I know they are proud of their foundational quarter horses who can win a halter class in the morning and go on to win the reining, roping, and ranch horse in the afternoon."

Las Cruces resident gets peace of mind with Electronic Caregiver® technology

By Alexia Severson

Electronic Caregiver

In summer 2018, Las Cruces resident Jo Ellyn Walker took responsibility for her health and safety when she decided to subscribe to mobile security and care support services provided by Electronic Caregiver®, a locally based company using cutting-edge technology to help older adults and those living with chronic illnesses nationwide.

“There are times when my legs just won’t work and down I’ll go,” said Walker, 72, who has experienced several falls and an out-of-the-blue seizure, which she believes was related to certain medications she was taking at the time.

“I’ve got fibromyalgia – it’s gotten rather limiting,” Walker said. “It’s what’s made it so difficult to pick myself up when I fall.”

Fortunately, with the help of Electronic Caregiver’s technology, Walker has been able to get assistance in emergency situations.

“I fell in my room one night,” Walker said. “I couldn’t yell loud enough to wake up my husband. He had taken his extra-strong sleeping pill, so I had to call [using Electronic Caregiver’s system] and thank God the front door was unlocked.”

“At least their knocking and constantly ringing the bell finally did wake [my husband up], but they were here before he even woke up.”

Walker said she was amazed at how fast first responders showed up at the scene.

“Other than it being reasonably priced and easy to use, [Electronic Caregiver’s system is] extremely responsive,” she said. “It wasn’t even 5 minutes, I’m sure, before all of those people were here in the house.”

“I would have been probably injured worse had I not had it,” she said.

Walker uses the Electronic Caregiver® Premier Series 1, the top tier of three Premier options, which includes two submersible fitness-style wrist pendants that work in coordination with a handheld mobile device. The Premier utilizes both GPS and Cellular Based Location Services (CBS) to track the user’s current location should an immediate need arise. Users can press the Medical Concern Button on the pendant or the handheld mobile device to connect with emergency response services.

“It’s as fast, if not faster than dialing 911 on the phone,” Walker said. “They know immediately who it is and where you are.”

The Premier Series 1 also gives clients the option to receive medication reminders and personalized health messages, contact a physician at any time and give designated caregivers access to Electronic Caregiver’s Family Caregiver App.

In addition to the Premier, Walker purchased the company’s automatic fall detector, a small, white pendant attached to a breakaway necklace-style lanyard worn around the neck.

Walker said she likes that the Premier system is small and portable.

“I can put that unit in my purse and take it with me in case we have an accident or something,” she said. “And you think, ‘Oh gosh, she lives in the negative world,’ but you’ve got to be realistic about your own capabilities.”

Walker said she also likes using the Premier’s pocketMD feature, a 24/7 Physician-on-Demand service that takes the hassle out of getting an appointment and visiting the doctor.

“All I have to do is press a little square button [on the mini controller] and it calls the doctor,” she said.

Once connected to a licensed physician, they can help assess and respond to common ailments and in many cases, send a prescription directly to a client’s local pharmacy.

While Walker still has regular appointments with her doctor, the Premier system and automatic fall detector have made Walker feel “much safer” for a reasonable monthly fee.

“It’s a small price to pay for peace of mind,” she said. For information about
