COVID-19 testing continues throughout County

The New Mexico Department of Health, DOH is now offering free COVID-19 testing to essential workers, regardless of symptoms, by appointment. Please call the appropriate office to schedule an appointment.

"As we continue to abide by the Public Health Emergency Order, it is reassuring to see active testing throughout the county and the state," Doña Ana County Dist. 5 Commissioner Manuel Sanchez said. "To continue supporting state-wide efforts to flatten the curve and save more lives, we encourage everyone to stay home and continue to practice social distancing."

The DOH provided COVID-19 tests to 85 residents in the Village of Hatch, at the Hatch Public Health Office, recently. No appointment was needed for those tests and New Mexico DOH local staff reached out throughout the community in advance, to ensure residents were aware of the test's availability.

The DOH frequently updates the number of cases, tests performed, hospitalization, deaths and recoveries at <https://cvprovider.nmhealth.org/public-dashboard.html>. For symptom-related questions, please call the Coronavirus Hotline at 1.800.600.3453. For non-health related COVID-19 questions, please call 1.833.551.0518.

Below is a schedule of the NM DOH testing sites in the Doña Ana County, by appointment:

Las Cruces donate 2,500 pounds of beef to local food bank

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

New Mexico Hay & Livestock Company, LLC, owned by Jeff and Roberta Flores of Las Cruces, has donated 2,500 pounds of ground beef to Casa de Peregrinos (CdP) emergency food program, CdP Executive Director Lorenzo Alba has announced.

Alba said Jeff Flores had been in contact with him about CdP's needs, and one of them was lack of protein items, including beef.

The Flores family donation is critical because, since the COVID-19 public-health crisis began, the amount of food CdP has gotten through its food-rescue program has dropped significantly, Alba said.

Food rescue is a program through which agencies like CdP pick up food from grocery stores, restaurants and regional farmers, he said.

"Just in the month of March, our poundage dropped by nearly 60 percent" from a year ago, Alba said. "That is a lot of food that would normally go to families that same day we pick it up."

New Mexico Hay & Livestock Company is located in Las Cruces and specializes in raising corriente cattle, Jeff Flores said. The ranching side of the operation is made up of several components, including stock contracting cattle for team roping events, a cow/calf operation and a feedlot used for backgrounding yearlings prior to marketing.

Beyond ranching, Jeff and Roberta Flores are owners of MECA

Therapies, LLC. MECA Therapies specializes in providing early intervention, pediatric outpatient, home visiting and ABA services to families and their children in Doña Ana, Chaves, Lea, Quay, Curry and Roosevelt counties.

"Jeff and Roberta shared that it was always their intent to focus on rural farming and ranching communities throughout New Mexico," Alba said. "Twenty years later, their vision continues, and they are grateful to have staff that impact families in such a positive way."

"The COVID-19 health and financial crisis has impacted every New Mexican and every business segment in our state," Jeff Flores said. "It would be easy to buckle down and just take care of yourself. But our faith, family values and our agriculture way of life don't allow us to think that way. It is exactly during times like this that we must think beyond ourselves."

Though their efforts, Jeff and Roberta Flores are encouraging others to assist CdP and similar organizations across the region and state, Alba said.

CdP's doors have remained open during the COVID-19 crisis, and the program will continue to serve the communities in Doña Ana County, Alba said.

"We understand these are trying times for our communities, state and country," he said. "We will continue to do our best to serve the community at full capacity with an adjusted operational system."

CdP's extended hours are 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-5 p.m. on Mondays and Fridays and 9-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m. on Wednesdays. CdP is located at 999 W. Amador Ave., inside the Mesilla Valley Community of Hope compound.

For information and to donate to CdP, call 575-654-4170 or email lo.alba.jr@gmail.com. Visit www.casadeperegrinos.org.

May Day presents a perfect celebration for social distancing

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Friday, May 1, is May Day, an ancient celebration tailor-made for social distancing, because one of the traditions is to fill a small basket with flowers and treats, put it on someone's doorstep, ring the doorbell and run away. It's sort of like Halloween in reverse.

Some people still make Maypoles (not to be confused with maples, which are trees; May Day might have been created to honor the sacredness of trees), and that also works during a time of small gatherings (with appropriate social distancing).

Different colored strips of cloth, ropes, plastic or whatever you have on hand can be attached to a clothesline or some other fairly tall pole-like structure. Try to find a mask of the same color!

A group of friends and I did this some years ago, using ribbon. We each took hold of different-colored ribbon and danced around the pole. I don't remember how long we danced or who gave the signal to stop, but I do remember that it was fun to celebrate a millennia-old rite welcoming the warm weather.

According to legend, maypoles may represent the world axis. The whole Maypole tradition is apparently Germanic, with deep roots in America. Many of us trace our lineage back to the Anglo Saxons, a German tribe that arrived in England in the fifth century. May Day is like a hybrid of Halloween from Ireland and Dia de los Muertos from Mexico.

If you don't want to make a Maypole, try asking your friends and neighbors — via email, text, on social media or across the back fence — who they plan to vote for in June or November. As long as you do it this month, that too is a May poll. It might not lead to dancing, but it could result in an argument or a yelling match, which are also longstanding American traditions.

You could also gather children or grandchildren — or adults who don't embarrass easily — for a May Day parade around the back yard.

There is even a May Day Eve, honoring Saint Walpurgis, on the night of April 30 and the following May 1. It commemorates Saint Walpurga, an Anglo-Saxon missionary canonized May 1, 870. She helped her brothers, Willibald and Winibald, and St. Boniface convert pagan Germans to Christianity.

Mayday is, of course, also a well-known distress signal. It originated at Croydon Airport in London in 1921 and comes, apparently from the French word m'aider, which means "help me."

So, if you're struggling to make a May Day basket or pole, just give a "mayday" shout and then start looking online for advice — the newest and most American tradition of all.

Las Cruces Peace Corps volunteer evacuated from Dominican Republic amid COVID-19

By SANDY MONTOYA
For the Las Cruces Bulletin

“It wasn’t supposed to end this way,” said Jessica Woodard, my daughter, who was in her second year as a Peace Corps volunteer (PCV) in the Dominican Republic, just six weeks away from finishing service.

Thanks to the worldwide COVID-19 pandemic, Jessica received urgent March 14 message that she and 148 other PCVs had only 16 hours to pack and be in the capitol of Santo Domingo to return to their “homes of record” in the United States.

In an unprecedented move, more than 7,300 PCVs were evacuated from their posts in 61 countries. After leaving most everything behind, the PCVs were returned to the U.S., jobless, ineligible for unemployment, without cars and forced to self-quarantine for 14 days. Some PCVs had to self-quarantine alone in Airbnbs or motels to avoid possibly carrying the virus to high-risk family members.

“The hardest part was not being able to say goodbye,” Jessica said, “knowing how devastating this virus will be if it spreads through my community and feeling like I was abandoning them during their time of need. I hope Peace Corps can reopen all their posts once we’ve recovered from this pandemic. The work we are doing around the world is so valuable and the connections we make last for a lifetime.”

Jessica, a graduate of Las Cruces High School, New Mexico State University (bachelor’s in linguistics and German) and the University of New Mexico (master’s in German studies), completed 10 weeks of intensive training and was assigned to serve as a Spanish literacy promoter in the Dominican Republic. She was inspired to serve in the DR, because she sponsored a boy named Miguel through Compassion International and learned of the country’s literacy issues through her correspondence with him. During her tenure in the DR, she was able to visit Miguel and his mother twice.

The first year of her service, Jessica observed classes and evaluated third-grade literacy levels. She formed tutoring groups for 21 students who scored lowest on the evaluation. After eight months, she reevaluated those students and found all had improved.

In her second year, she began establishing an accessible school library. The school already had a library space, but it was closed most days and used primarily for meetings. After soliciting and receiving a donation of books from the Rotary Club and Darian Books, she developed a cataloging system for the library.

Because there was no designated librarian, she knew each individual teacher should be trained to use the library. Jessica facilitated workshops with the first- through sixth-grade teachers, and together they created a vision for the library and scheduled weekly visits for their respective students. The library proved popular with students and teachers alike, and Jessica initiated several projects to build excitement and participation, including a world map mural, a Family of the Week program to encourage family involvement, an environmental club and reading competitions.

“When the order to leave came, we were in the middle of a reading competition between the fifth- and sixth-grade classes,” Jessica said. “The students were extremely motivated, and the teachers were visiting the library every week, eager to see whose class would earn the most points. Now the remainder of the school year has been canceled, and my students who have worked so hard will not be able to finish their competition.”

Now that she is back in Las Cruces, like other resilient PCVs across the country who are finding ways to help their communities during this pandemic, Jessica is volunteering at Casa de Peregrinos food program and at East Mesa Baptist Church’s food pantry while she waits for the job markets to open up again, so that she can seek a position where she can use her cross-cultural, multi-lingual experience.

Quarantining makes herding cats look easy

Two parents.
Five children aged 4-17.
One household.
Two laptops, two tablets and two smartphones.
One world-wide pandemic.

How do you streamline that chaos? Well, maybe you don't.

I've been loosely following the exploits of my friends Brandi Misquez and Matthew Arguello and their children. It's impressive the way they have divvied up the household chores, the home-schooling time and their own work, as well as living their lives in a confined space without going insane or anyone's head going missing.

I told Brandi they almost seem like the model family for handling quarantine in the Time of Coronavirus.

She laughed and said, "That's both heartwarming and discouraging at the same time. I mean if we're the 'model family,' the rest of the world's in trouble."

Matthew's day job is cutting hair at R&R Barber Shop, a position placed in the "unessential" category when the state's secretary of health announced New Mexico's public health order March 23. He has cut my hair many times, going back to his days at City Barber Shop.

Brandi's day job is executive assistant to the president at the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce. She has been working full-time from home.

To suddenly be confined in one place is a giant change for this super-active family on the go. Brandi's job involves regularly working events, which have been canceled. And the whole family was active almost every day with their sons' baseball activities.

"I knew the kids were going to get bored pretty quickly, so we went into preparation mode pretty quick," Brandi said.

"Life as they know it has been totally shifting," Brandi said of Moriah, 17, Destiny, 11, Cipriano, 9, Josiah, 7, and Emma, 4.

One of the first things was the establishment of an in-house store ("so they don't eat us out of house and home," Brandi said.)

Snacks, beverages, video-game time, silly toys and non-school activities all come at a price through the store.

The kids can do chores or activities to earn cash in the form of Monopoly money. Thirty minutes of exercise or 30 minutes of reading — either for themselves or reading to four-year-old Emma — earn money. However, 29 minutes won't earn a dime. You have to do the full time.

The goodies are also priced so that one activity won't earn it.

This has taught the kids budgeting and math.

Nine-year-old Cipriano has calculated exactly what he has to do to earn his favorite break of playing a video game, eating chips and having a Gatorade.

"We do NOT rely on the honor system," Brandi said. "They have to report and check in directly with myself or vice-principal Arguello. We're also paying for kindness; we want them to remember kindness is rewarded. And they're learning the value of a dollar."

Matt and Brandi have been together as a couple for six years, but have known each other since middle school. How have the close quarters and the co-principalship affected their relationship?

"As far as he and I go, we found we actually enjoy each other more than we thought we did," Brandi said. There is a big social aspect to both of our jobs, and that's hard to be without."

Their sole non-family social activity now is across-the-fence talks with a neighbor who's a teacher.

"We've brought back shop class and home ec," Brandi said.

The kids learned how to change oil and brakes on the family's four-wheelers, and with the exception of the four-year-old, all the kids have made dinner, exhibiting lots of creativity.

Mornings start with breakfast, school for a couple of hours, and there are frequently calls with teachers. After 2 p.m., no more schoolwork.

"They need to unwind, too," Brandi said. And at least one has to get prepped for dinner.

The hardest thing to find has been alone time for the adults, but all seven members of the Arguello-Misquez family have definitely had an intensive, unplanned, educational course in family dynamics.

Looks to me like everyone has a good chance at earning an A.

Budget special session must wait for COVID-19 to flatten

By DOREEN GALLEGOS
State Representative, District 52

In recent weeks, some have called for a special session of the Legislature to address the urgent challenges facing New Mexico.

I share their sense of urgency. New Mexico — along with the rest of the world — is facing a public-health emergency unlike anything we have ever seen. The COVID-19 pandemic has wrought extraordinary economic damage and that reality - along with the recent drop in oil prices — will require us to consider major questions about our state's future.

Unfortunately, however, it isn't yet safe to hold a special session of the Legislature.

As public-health experts have told us time and again, defeating this virus means adopting a four-fold strategy: slowing the spread through physical distancing, testing everyone we can, isolating positive cases and giving our healthcare system time to build capacity over the longer term.

Right now, we are in the middle of that crucial work. State health officials have indicated we haven't hit our surge yet, much less our peak. Gathering 112 legislators in one place — plus staff, press, and members of the public — runs counter to every element of our strategy, and it would have serious public health consequences.

It would also undo the extraordinary work that our healthcare workers, childcare professionals and other essential personnel are doing every day.

In addition, we don't yet have all the information we need to make smart, forward-thinking decisions for New Mexico.

Here's what we do know: businesses and workers across our state are hurting — and it's heartbreaking. We also know that the last federal stimulus package provided far too little support to businesses and workers in New Mexico. And we know that another federal package is coming - and we are working hard to ensure that Congress and the President address New Mexico's true needs.

But we don't yet know what that package will look like. We also don't yet know which kinds of targeted economic relief initiatives would have the support of the Legislature.

When we have more clarity about exactly what New Mexico's businesses and workers need — and what the federal government and our own Legislature will be willing to do to meet them — then we will be ready to meet. And if our public health experts tell us it's safe, that's exactly what we will do.

We look forward to that moment. All of us — Republicans and Democrats — ran for office because we care about our state and want to serve. And right now, serving means working through our public-health strategy, keeping our communities safe, listening closely to their needs and preparing as thoughtfully as we can for a rebuilt — and more resilient — New Mexico economy.

Small businesses are the cornerstone of that economy. Now is the time to start planning, so when the time is safe, we can hit the ground running moving with great velocity and aggressively reopen businesses. If we do the work in front of us in the right order — defeating the virus first, then rebuilding our economy in a smart and inclusive way — then small businesses will be able to reopen with confidence and seize the opportunities in front of them, and our state will be stronger for it.

Rep. Doreen Gallegos serves as House Majority Whip.

"We can dance all night if we want to,

We'll eat and we'll drink and be merry,
I've whiskey enough for us all...
So whattya say, are ya willin'
To come to a cowboy ball?"

The pilgrim was mullin' it over,
"Ya say they'll be whiskey and dance?"

And maybe a kiss in the moonlight?"

The stranger said, "Yeah, there's a chance."

"So what should I wear?" asked the pilgrim,

New Mexico Water & Electric

The use of solar energy to either offset standard utility costs or to move entirely away from the established power grid continues to be an ever-improving option for many home and business owners in Southern New Mexico.

While the basics of most solar energy systems are somewhat easy to comprehend, assuring the installation of an appropriate array designed to meet specific customer needs can be difficult and costly, especially with a growing number of variously qualified service providers now vying to install systems before the 2022 sunset of a 26-percent federal tax rebate offer.

Southern New Mexico-based owners and licensed contractors with New Mexico Water & Electric are not only fully qualified and experienced with the installation of all types of solar energy systems, they are fully versed in both the benefits and often misleading information relating to the current federal rebate program and other available support for consumers.

With the federal tax rebate program set to end in less than two years, solar energy service firms from outside the community and state are now flocking to Southern New Mexico to provide solar energy options, which ostensibly will allow local home and business owners to take advantage of the available cost returns. Officials with New Mexico Water & Electric want all of those considering this opportunity to understand that the federal program does not apply to everyone. The current rebate offer applies only to "taxable income," which means many retired citizens and those living on fixed income will not qualify.

New Mexico Water & Electric also wants local consumers to recognize that without the installation of considerable back-up components most residential/small commercial solar energy systems will still be reliant upon connections to the local power grid, and therefore could be wholly ineffective if and when the power grid fails or is otherwise taken off-line.

In addition to this concern, New Mexico Water & Electric reminds potential customers how the installation of most residential systems will involve considerable roof-work and the drilling of possibly hundreds of holes into the roofing surface. This factor makes it critical to assure the installation process is not only professionally executed, but also raises questions about how non-local firms might respond, or not respond when eventual roofing repairs or replacement becomes necessary.

Average costs associated with the installation of residential solar energy systems presently hover at or above $20,000+, leading many consumers to consider package deals and enticing financing options being forwarded by the increasing number of service providers. Assuring the viability of such deals and options, as well as securing connections for follow-up repairs, maintenance assistance and other services are therefore vital, for customers to both justify and feel good about such an investment.

Having hands-on experience with the installation of all available types of solar arrays and integrated components, throughout Southern New Mexico, NMWE's contractors are eager to help area residents secure the most effective solution for every possible need or concern.

Whether you may be looking to supplement power for your home or business, or if you're looking to install a system to be completely independent of the power grid, New Mexico Water & Electric is fully qualified and prepared to help you realize your goals. In addition to quality installation and service capabilities, NMWE's staff stand ready to assist New Mexico residents in making the best decisions possible for their energy future.

Aside from solar energy concerns, New Mexico Water & Electric's licensed contractors are further prepared to assist customers with the development of water wells, water purification systems, as well as with all other types of electrical services.

CAVEAT EMPTOR

New Mexico Water & Electric (NM License No. 394531) is based in Hillsboro, New Mexico, with offices located at 10849 Highway 152. Further information about how they might help you achieve your solar energy goals, is available by phoning (575) 895-3306, or by connecting online through the firm's website at www.nmweinc.com.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bravo

To the editor:
Bravo to the staff that publishes our Las Cruces Bulletin. The April 17 edition was filled with great articles.

The NMSU students are making COVID Boxes to keep the virus contained with the patient. Then making the boxes, PPE and 3D printers for face shields. Using their talents and education to help us all — BRAVO to you. The article on the falling oil prices by Mr. Flynn, a real step by step of the whole picture. Finally, real investigative journalism. Refreshingly just the news — BRAVO. The editorial opinion of Richard Cotharp, Jenga, — very inventive. Well done and Amen brother. The April 10th article by Ira Clevenger on the Electoral College is also well thought out and factually correct. We have to ensure all voices are heard, not just the heavily populated areas of our country. This is essential in our representative government.

Thank you Las Cruces Bulletin. You are making some of this quarantine more endurable.

Ferrary applause

To the editor:
State Rep. Joanne Ferrary, D-District 37, has been a progressive voice and agent for change since and before her election in 2016. Joanne has worked tirelessly to advance the cause of animal welfare for our community. In particular, Joanne was instrumental in the recent and hard-won passage of Senate Bill 57, the pet-label fee which will provide needed funding for low cost spay-neuter surgeries across the state. This is truly significant, because it will mean lowering intake rates at animal shelters and reducing euthanasia numbers by the thousands. We are grateful to Joanne, fighting for years as a legislator for the successful passage of this bill.

As a pet guardian and resolute advocate for animals, Joanne “walks the walk,” promoting best practices in sheltering standards and programming through coalition building. Joanne is well-acquainted with national organizations in the forefront shaping positive direction in communities for live outcomes for animals such as the No Kill Advocacy Center, Best Friends Animal Society, and Alley Cat Allies. Joanne has steadily advocated and lobbied for this programming in Las Cruces, visible over time in the reduction of stray-feral cat populations through the community cat-colony manager program and others, showing increased lifesaving and increased numbers of vacinated, altered and micro-chipped pets.

During this COVID-19 pandemic, Joanne has been on alert to the needs of pets, ensuring veterinary clinics are open for emergency services and essential vaccinations. During this hard time, Joanne has been here to serve and represent us and our animals, which is something she’s been doing very well all along.

Re-elect Papen

To the editor:

I strongly support Sen. Mary Kay Papen's re-election in N.M. District 38. Her ongoing accomplishments enhance our quality of life. My experience with Sen. Papen covers many projects. I respect and admire her as a genuine force of nature!

She and I worked to acquire the Walnut Street armory for La Casa.

People came together to make it the state's largest free-standing women's shelter. This dynamic non-profit enables communities and individuals throughout Southern New Mexico to overcome domestic violence.

Sen. Papen is assisting with our city's revitalization. When the arts community committed to the Rio Grande Theatre, she secured funding for its successful renovation. As executive director of Las Cruces Downtown, I worked with business leaders to reopen Main Street; Sen. Papen guided us toward state funding for this significant local project.

St. Genevieve's Church and the Amador Hotel anchored the multicultural heritage of downtown. Like the church, the hotel might have been lost, but the Doña Ana County Historical Society stepped up. A foundation began preservation of the Amador. As president of the foundation's board, I appealed to Mary Kay for help. Again, she has been invaluable and we have dedicated the hotel's lobby to her. Once the city completes structural renovations, the public will be able to enjoy this remarkable building.

When Mesilla Valley Hospice had financial difficulties several years ago, the MVH board contacted Sen. Papen. By securing reduced interest on a loan from the N.M. Finance Authority, she helped hospice, an essential non-profit, keep afloat to continue serving our community.

Mary Kay Papen's

devotion to the many needs in our area is outstanding. My personal interactions with her are testament to her willingness to listen to her constituents, accept difficult tasks and use her outstanding knowledge of New Mexico's legislative system to benefit all of us.

Double-dealing

To the editor:

Is America's model of double-dealing in politics, great or what. Billions of dollars are spent by corporate and wealthy private donors to elect or reelect politicians while a concerned public takes time consuming actions, ask for contributions, demonstrations and Congress spending millions of tax dollars trying to impeach them for obvious reasons. Where else does nation have a president and a Senate who spend their time devising devious means to stop people from voting.

There was a saying that in America, candidates run for offices and then get elected, while in Latin America they get regime changes. At least, and like most European countries, Latin America encourages people to vote regardless of foreign interventions and the regime changes that follows. So where does the Trump Administration, his personal DOJ, the Senate and the SCOTUS fit in the equation? Worse yet, why do they try to keep people from voting? Isn't it bad enough that almost half of the registered voters in the country do not even bother to vote in the primary elections, much less in the General one?

The old saying in Latin America during the elections is called "el Voto o La Bota!" (the Vote or the Boot). To put it bluntly, doesn't the high percentage of American nonvot-ers realize they are not the only ones getting the boot, but so is our democracy and everything that comes with it?

Are we becoming a banana republic when it comes to voting?

Las Cruces is learning to recycle smarter, cleaner

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Las Cruces' and Doña Ana County's award-winning recycling program has some important upgrades in the works.

Recognized as the best recycling program in the United States National Recycling Coalition in 2017, the South Central Solid Waste Authority (SCSWA) is planning to spend about $2.5 million as an initial investment in a gas collection system to improve air quality and another $4.5 million on a plastic liner for a 14-acre addition to the Corralitos Landfill to protect local groundwater.

And that's on top of the recycle right campaign called "No What to Throw New Mexico" that SCSWA launched in March.

The improvements come as the recycling industry worldwide struggles to find profitability since China's decision in 2018 to stop buying more than half the world's sorted recyclables.

"China was the world's trash bin," SCSWA Director Patrick Peck told the Las Cruces City Council earlier this year. Since no other nation has stepped in to fill that void, SCSWA and other organizations like it are rethinking how and what is recycled, Peck said. Everyone in the city and county served by SCSWA must be part of that conversation, he said.

"I've never seen anything like this in 25 years in the recycling market,"

South Central Solid Waste Authority Director Patrick Peck

he said at the city council meeting. "If recycling is going to survive ... we have to figure out a way to build equity within our program." Recycling makes good economic sense because it "keeps stuff out of the landfill."

Many European countries are moving toward a zero-waste concept because they don't have the space for ever-expanding landfills, said Suanne Michaels, who does public outreach for SCSWA. "it's a whole different mind-set," she said.

"We have to go to a European model," Peck said, including exploring the generation of electricity from disintegrating waste and waste incineration. Recycling locally, nationally and globally has been a passive system, he said, but must "be more active and more engaged."

A good example of the need for change is food waste, which accounts for more than 40 percent of the waste stream, Peck said. A composting operation could be part of the answer to that problem, he said, just as recycled vehicle tires could be turned into crumb rubber and used for local street repair.

"We have to develop some kind of sorting infrastructure in Las Cruces," said Peck, who is past president of the New Mexico Recycling Coalition.

"China made it so simple," creating a culture of "wish recycling," Peck said. "We have to stamp that out."

"Keep it local" is another important consideration, Michaels said, because the cost of transporting recyclables

What's That Smell?

Do you know how to identify a natural gas leak? You might smell sulfur or rotten eggs, you may notice dirt or debris shooting up out of a hole in the ground, dead or dying vegetation in an otherwise green area, and a loud hissing or roaring sound near pipeline markers. These and many more are all telltale signs of a natural gas or pipeline leak. Use all your senses, even common sense and report any possible leaks to Zia Natural Gas Company. City Council Funded Assistance Program

NEW FUNDING ALLOWS LAS CRUCES UTILITIES TO EXTEND HELP TO SMALL BUSINESSES

Las Cruces City Council approved a $1.1 million economic relief measure due to the Coronavirus pandemic. A portion of the relief funding is going to Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) to financially assist customers who have or are on the verge of falling behind on their utility payments.

What's new with the extra financial aid?

This additional injection of funding allows LCU for the first time to help business customers, not only residents. This will alleviate some of their stress and make sure they can get help paying their City utility bill.

If you're a residential customer or a business owner who is looking for help with a utility bill, a simple phone call starts the process.

“eats up all the profits. Everybody’s trying to work together to bring in local recycling processes,” she said. “We’ve got to be able to do this better.”

Creating a “circular economy” where nearly everything that is consumed is recycled is “always an education process,” Michaels said. For example, she said, people putting used diapers in their blue recycling bins is “one of the biggest contaminants in single stream.” Some people also think things like broken or damaged windowpanes are recyclable. They aren’t, and neither are greasy pizza boxes or other used food containers that still have food residue in them.

The focus for recycling should be “clean and dry,” Peck and Michaels said.

SCSWA sends about 200 tons of recycling each week to Friedman Recycling, which has processing plants in Phoenix, Tucson, El Paso and Albuquerque. “Las Cruces has a very high-quality (waste) stream,” Peck said. “Friedman likes our stream.”

SCSWA was created jointly by the City of Las Cruces and Doña Ana County in 1994 to manage garbage collection and recycling.

Solid-waste collection centers reopened to curb dumping

By CASSIE MCCLURE AND SUZANNE MICHAELS

A quick drive up toward the county's solid-waste collection center at Hill, north of Las Cruces, shows the frustration that some county residents may have when encountering a "closed" sign.

Off the road, in a ravine, is a tossed couch. On the other side, obvious yard waste with tire tracks from the truck whose driver left it. With the increase in quarantine spring cleaning comes the side effect of more illegal dumping in the desert, but planning trips and knowing the procedures can help preserve the desert environment.

"We're committed to the health of each other during this pandemic, but we're asking that residents stay committed to not dumping their trash illegally," said Patrick Peck, director of South Central Solid Waste Authority (SCSWA), which manages the county's eight collection centers.

After a short closure during the beginning of the COVID-19 crisis, all collection centers are now open normal hours (visit www.scswa.net to find locations and hours). For now, punch cards are not required to drop-off trash. Recycling drop-off is always free.

Use of the sites is available only to residents of New Mexico. Social-distancing protocols should be followed at all times, with no more than five people in a given area or 10 total individuals per site, including staff, while maintaining six-foot distance between one other.

The Foothills Landfill (555 S. Sonoma Ranch Blvd.) is closed to the public, so the best option for disposal of green waste is to schedule pickup by Las Cruces Utilities (LCU at 575-528-3500), which is offering curbside pickup through May 8.

Use clear plastic bags to contain grass clippings and weeds alongside neatly stacked branches or other yard waste materials, which will be recycled into composted mulch and given back to the community at no charge.

Reach SCSWA at 575-528-3800 from 8 a.m. – 5 p.m. Monday through

Primary voting includes in-person, absentee ballot options

The New Mexico Supreme Court ruled unanimously in April that the June 2 primary election must include in-person voting. Chief Justice Judy Nakamura said there is no provision in state law allowing for an all-mail election.

The court ordered Secretary of State Maggie Toulouse Oliver and the state's 33 county clerks' offices, including the office of Doña Ana County Clerk Amanda Lopez Askin, to mail absentee-ballot requests to all registered voters.

HERE ARE IMPORTANT DATES FOR THE PRIMARY ELECTION:

- TUESDAY, MAY 5: Absentee voting begins; voter registration closes online and by mail on this date. However, a qualified elector may register to vote or update an existing certification of registration in person at the county clerk's office, or designated alternative voting locations, immediately prior to voting and continuing through May 30.
- TUESDAY, MAY 5: Early Voting begins at the Doña Ana County Government Center, 845 N. Motel Blvd.
- SATURDAY, MAY 16: Early Voting begins at these alternate voting locations: Anthony City Hall, 820 Highway 478 in Anthony; Dolores C. Wright Educational Center, 400 E. Lisa Drive in Chaparral; Doña Ana Community College, Sunland Park, 3365 McNutt Road in Sunland Park; Hatch High School, 170 E. Herrera Road in Hatch; and these four locations in Las Cruces: Doña Ana County Government Center, 845 N. Motel Blvd.; Las Cruces City Hall, 700 N. Main St.; Corbett Center, 1600 International Mall on the NMSU campus; and Sonoma Elementary School, 4201 Northrise Drive. Same-day voter registration is also available at these locations during early voting.
- THURSDAY, MAY 28: Last day to apply for an absentee ballot. Voters can drop off their completed ballots in sealed envelopes at any polling location throughout Doña Ana County. Immediate family members or caregivers can drop them off a voter's sealed absentee ballot at the county clerk's office at the county government building.
- TUESDAY, JUNE 2: Primary Election Day. Completed absentee ballots must be turned in by 7 p.m. on election day.

Voters can reply to the mailing they will receive from the county clerk's office to apply for an absentee ballot, or visit www.portal.sos.state.nm.us/OVR/WebPages/AbsenteeApplication.aspx.

For more information, visit www.sos.state.nm.us/2020/03/16/faq-absentee-voting-for-the-2020-primary-election and www.donaanacounty.org/elections.

Voting by absentee ballot and online voter registration are ways to practice social distancing during the stay-at-home order.

"No one should have to choose between their health and wellness and exercising their right to vote," Lopez Askin said. "If there was any time in history that we should look at all options for our voters, it would be now."

More than 50 candidates from Doña Ana County running for local, statewide offices

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

A total of 51 people from Doña Ana County filed in March to run for office in the Tuesday, June 2, Primary Election to either represent some portion of Doña Ana County in the New Mexico Legislature or to hold a county office, and only one has been disqualified.

Among local candidates, 42 listed Las Cruces as their home, along with three from Anthony, three from La Mesa, two from Chaparral and one from Sunland Park, all in Doña Ana County. Also running for legislative seats that include parts of Doña Ana County are eight candidates, including two from Silver City and one each from Deming, Lordsburg, Alamogordo, Cloudcroft and Elephant Butte.

Statewide, 692 candidates filed to run for federal, district and county offices. 17 were disqualified and 16 withdrew.

The disqualifications had a major impact on one local race. In Doña Ana County, Incumbent District Attorney Mark D'Antonio, a Democrat, did not file to run for a third consecutive four-year term, and no Republican filed to run for the office. Two other Democrats did file: Gerald M. Byers and Davis R. Ruark. Ruark received a March 17 letter from Doña Ana County Clerk Amanda Lopez Askin informing him that he did not have a sufficient number of valid signatures on his nominating petitions to qualify for the primary election ballot. Without a Republican running, that means Byers is the presumed new Third Judicial District attorney come next January.

Local and regional candidates include one for U.S. Senate, two for U.S. representative (one is the incumbent), 35 for 14 seats in the legislature and 18 for county offices.

Eighteen people filed for six state Senate seats that represent parts of Doña Ana County, including primary challengers to three incumbents. Another 17 are running for eight state House of Representatives seats that cover the county, including two former state representatives trying to get their seats back and one incumbent county commissioner. There are no uncontested legislative races.

There are 17 candidates for county offices (not counting district attorney), including the incumbents and two challengers in the races for both county clerk and treasurer (sheriff, assessor and probate judge are not on the 2020 ballot); and 11, including one Libertarian, running for three seats on the Doña Ana County Commission. Incumbents are running in two commission races, while the other seat is open.

The only incumbent not running for re-election to the county commission is Isabella Solis. Elected to the commission as a Democrat in 2016, she changed party affiliation to Republican after her unsuccessful run for mayor of Las Cruces last November, and, instead of filing for re-election to the commission — she has served only a single four-year term and could have run for re-election — Solis chose to file for the District 37 state House of Representatives seat that is held by Democrat Joanne Ferrary.

Here are the local and regional candidates on the primary ballot:

Races for federal office

- President: There are no candidates from New Mexico. A total of six Democrats, nine Libertarians and one Republican (incumbent Donald Trump) could be on the primary ballot. Former Vice President Joe Biden of Delaware is the Democrats' presumed nominee.

- U.S. Senate: Gavin S. Clarkson of Las Cruces is a candidate in the Republican Primary for the seat being vacated by Tom Udall, a Democrat, who is retiring after two six-year terms. Two other Republicans, Elisa Maria Martinez and Mark V. Ronchetti, both of Albuquerque, also qualified for the ballot. The only Democrat running for the seat is U.S. Rep. Ben Ray Lujan of Santa Fe, who represents New Mexico's Third Congressional District. Bob Walsh of Santa Fe is running as a Libertarian.

- U.S. Representative, District 2: Incumbent Xochitl Torres Small of Las Cruces is seeking her second two-year term and is the only Democrat on the ballot. Republicans are Chris Mathys of Las Cruces, Yvette Harrell (the 2018 Republican candidate for the seat) of Alamogordo and Claire Chase of Roswell.

Statewide races

There are no candidates from Doña Ana County among the four candidates for the two positions on the New Mexico Supreme Court or the five candidates for two positions on the state Court of Appeals that are on the ballot.

Races for governor, attorney general, land commissioner, state treasurer and state auditor are not on the 2020 ballot. Additionally, there are no races this year for state Public Regulation Commission or state Public Education Commission that include Doña Ana County.

New Mexico Legislature

(Candidates are from Las Cruces unless otherwise stated.)

- State Senate, District 31: Democrats are incumbent Joseph Cervantes, seeking his third consecutive four-year term, Melissa Ontiveros and Arturo E. Terrazas of Sunland Park; and Republican John Thomas Roberts of Anthony.

- State Senate, District 34 (The district includes a single Doña Ana County precinct.): Incumbent Republican Ron Griggs of Alamogordo is seeking his third term. He is opposed by Democrat Darren M. Kugler of Cloudcroft.

- State Senate, District 35 (The seat includes portions of Luna, Sierra, Hidalgo and Doña Ana counties.): Democrats are incumbent John Arthur Smith of Deming, seeking his ninth term, and Neomi O. Martinez-Parra of Lordsburg. Crystal R. Diamond of Elephant Butte is running as a Republican.

- State Senate, District 36: Incumbent Democrat Jeff Steinborn is seeking his second term and is opposed by Republican Roger Martin Baker II.

- State Senate, District 37: Incumbent Democrat Bill Soules is seeking his third term and is opposed by Republican David W. Gallus.

- State Senate, District 38: Incumbent Mary Kay Papen, who is president pro-tem of the state Senate, is seeking her sixth term. She has two opponents in the Democratic primary: Carrie Hamblen and Tracy L. Perry. Charles Wendler is running unopposed in the Republican primary.

- State Representative, District 33: Incumbent Micaela Lara Cadena is seeking her second two-year term and is the only Democrat running. The Republican on the ballot is Beth E. Miller.

- State Representative, District 34: Two years ago, state Rep. Ray Lara defeated then-incumbent Bill Gomez in the Democratic primary to win the seat. This year, Gomez is challenging Lara in the Primary. The winner will face Republican Dawn E. Ladd. All three candidates live in La Mesa.

- State Representative, District 35: Incumbent Democrat Angelica Rubio is seeking her third term and is unopposed in the Democratic primary. The Republican is Richelle A. Ponder.

- State Representative, District 36: Incumbent Democrat Nathan Small is seeking his third term. His Republican opponent is Brandi L. Polanco.

- State Representative, District 37: Incumbent Democrat Joanne Ferrary is seeking her third term. Her opponent is Doña Ana County Commissioner Isabella Solis, a Republican.

- State Representative, District 39 (the district includes parts of Grant, Sierra and Doña Ana counties.): Incumbent Rudy Martinez is seeking his third consecutive term (he also held the seat for four earlier terms, 2007-14). His opponent is Republican Luis M. Terrazas. Both are from Silver City.

- State Representative, District 52: Incumbent Democrat Doreen Gallegos, the House majority whip, is seeking her fourth term. She has no Primary opponent. The Republican running is John Foreman.

- State Representative, District 52: This race is a rematch between incumbent Democrat Willie Madrid and Republican Rickie

Little, both of Chaparral. Little defeated Madrid in 2016 and Madrid defeated Little in 2018.

Doña Ana County races

(Candidates are from Las Cruces unless otherwise stated.)

- Third Judicial District (Doña Ana County) district attorney: Incumbent Democrat Mark D'Antonio is not running for a third consecutive four-year term. The only candidate who qualified for the ballot is Democrat Gerald M. Byers.

- County clerk: Incumbent Democrat Amanda Lopez Askin is running for her first full four-year term. She was appointed in September 2018 when Scott Kraehling resigned. Andrew J. Ostic is also running in the Democratic Primary. The winner will face Republican Cheryl De Young in November.

- County treasurer: Incumbent Eric L. Rodriguez is running for a second term. His opponent in the Democratic Primary is Gina Ortega, who lost to Rodriguez in the primary four years ago and also has run twice for mayor. The winner will face Republican Bernadette A. Dorazio.

- County commission, District 2: Incumbent

Ramon S. Gonzalez of Anthony is seeking a second four-year term. His opponent in the Democratic primary is Anthony Mayor Diane Murillo-Trujillo. There is no Republican running.

- County commission, District 4: Incumbent Isabella Solis, a Republican, is giving up the seat to run for state representative. Candidates in the Democratic Primary are former county Magistrate Judge Susie Chaparro, Debra Ann Hathaway and Sam Bradley. Buck Bonner is running as a Libertarian. Republicans are Stacie Michelle Durham of Organ, Richard J. Reynaud and Jesus O. Oropeza.

- County commission, District 5: Incumbent Democrat Manuel A. Sanchez was appointed to the seat in March 2019 to replace former Commissioner Karen Trujillo, who she was appointed secretary of the New Mexico Public Education Department. (Trujillo has since become superintendent of Las Cruces Public Schools.) Robert Bruce Flora is running as a Republican.

There are no Third Judicial District judge or county magistrate judge races on this year's ballot.

Government professor says COVID-19 likely won't reduce Primary turnout

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Q&A with NMSU Government Professor Christa Slaton, regarding the June 2 Primary.

Bulletin: What impact do you think the state

Supreme Court's ruling against an all-mail ballot for the Primary will have on voter turnout?

Slaton: I don't believe the ruling will have any measurable impact on voter turnout in Las Cruces, Doña Ana County or statewide. If we examine a recent similar example, Wisconsin — even in the midst of the pandemic and only two days after the predicted peak and largest number of deaths for the state — voter turnout was higher than expected: 34 percent of the voting-eligible population. This was lower than the 2016 Primary (47 percent), which was a dramatic outlier for Wisconsin. With the exception of the 2016 outlier, the 2020 Primary turnout was the highest Primary turnout in 40 years.

Again, citing Wisconsin, I do not think New Mexico, will have a lower-than-average turnout for the Primary because of COVID-19 for several reasons: (1) The Democrats have become very energized during President Trump's administration and President Trump's supporters have demonstrated that they are equally motivated. (2) Scientific predictions indicate the peak of the pandemic should have passed by June 2, and the country should be in the containment phase by that time. (3) New Mexico will have had many weeks for contingency planning and voter education, which Wisconsin did not have.

Secretary of State Maggie Toulosé Oliver has been proactive in voter outreach and education. She has an extensive campaign to encourage absentee voting, which has included personal emails to registered voters that include links to request an absentee ballot. There has been extensive national discussion about concerns over voter suppression, which has aroused many groups who want to broaden voter participation.

I would expect to see voter turnout to be within the normal range in New Mexico, which was 22.6 percent in 2016, 16.6 percent in 2012 and 19.3 percent in 2008.

I think we will see a larger-than-usual absentee balloting during this time frame. As the governor eases stay-home restrictions, I suspect we will see some in-person voting prior to June 2. Voters are now aware that emergencies can happen, and they are likely to be more inclined to vote earlier than usual. (Slaton said she plans to vote by absentee ballot.)

Bulletin: Do you think having so many people home between now and the Primary will increase voter awareness about candidates and issues in Primary races that are going on for local voters?

Slaton: No, I think it will make it more challenging for voters to become informed about candidates and issues. Face-to-face interaction, open debate forums, door-to-door campaigning, meetings in private homes, speaking to civic groups and holding local fundraisers are important ways to gain the visibility and personal connection that is important in local campaigns. All of these ways of campaigning are diminished, if not prohibited during the health crisis.

Bulletin: In contested Primaries for local offices, does the impact of COVID favor incumbents or challengers?

Slaton: It is likely to favor incumbents unless the incumbent has acted in such a fashion as to raise the ire of large segments of the population and that anger has remained consistent over a long period of time. Some incumbents are facing challenges from candidates who have a long track-record of community activism and network building. In those races, the incumbents will not necessarily have the election advantage — particularly if the incumbent has not remained actively engaged with her/his constituents.

Bulletin: How can candidates effectively campaign without public events? What are you seeing them doing to reach out to voters?

Slaton: It will be very difficult for candidates to actively campaign without public events, particularly candidates for local and state office. We can see at the national level how challenging it is for Joe Biden. A (recent) poll indicated that only 26 percent of the public has confidence he could handle the coronavirus effectively and 29 percent think he cannot. The rest indicate that they do not know enough to say. Yet, much larger percentages of those polled identified several others in the poll with higher effectiveness rates, including Trump.

What I have seen in New Mexico thus far: incumbents mailing letters to voters to inform them of their accomplishments, billboards and some campaign literature (not much).

As I examine campaign strategies for state and local offices across the country, I see a lot of innovation and novel ways for candidates to demonstrate their commitment to their communities. Many are not actively campaigning for office, but they are spending their time volunteering in their communities — finding PPE for health and safety workers, helping provide hot meals for children or food boxes for families, making deliveries of grocery or pharmaceutical items to the elderly, using their professional skills to provide needed services (counseling, tax preparation), creating Facebook pages to provide tips on how to stay healthy — physically and mentally — during the pandemic, starting go-fund-me fundraising events online to contribute resources to an organization or project to help those negatively impacted by the self-sheltering and asking donors to give to foodbanks, not to their campaigns. One example is Sen. Martha McSally (R-AZ) who is leading a “15 Days of Giving” initiative, with the purpose of raising money for the Arizona Salvation Army. This is a time in which candidates can demonstrate to their communities what they do, not just what they say.

In line with more traditional ways of campaigning, candidates are turning to [platforms like] Zoom to visually connect with supporters and voters. These events are being used for campaign organizing/strategizing with volunteers, connecting with potential donors and holding virtual town hall meetings. Others are establishing phone banks, sending text messages, and creating digital advertising.

Bulletin: What impact, if any, do you think Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham’s leadership during COVID-19 will have on the Primary?

Slaton: It is likely to have an impact in congressional elections. To some, the governor has been an astute, proactive governor, whose leadership had helped minimize the spread of the virus and death toll in New Mexico. To others, she has been an authoritarian leader who has over-reacted and caused great economic suffering to many, particularly small businesses. This sentiment is likely to be largely based on partisan lines and likely to be a motivating factor in getting citizens out to vote.

Bulletin: What’s the best way for voters to learn about candidates in the Primary and about which legislative and county commission districts they live in?

Slaton: There are several ways. The Secretary of State has an excellent website with key information, including how to do absentee balloting: www.sos.state.nm.us/voting-and-elections. The Doña Ana County Clerks’ Office has a wealth of information for local voters, including where to find polling locations: www.donaanacounty.org/elections. The League of Women Voters New Mexico is a nonpartisan group that provides voter guides and other voting information: www.lwvnm.org/information. Finally, Websites for all the political parties can provide additional information

Bulletin: Anything else you want to add?

Slaton: There is an interesting book, “Election Day: A Documentary History,” by Robert J. Dinkin, that is a compilation of accounts of activities that occurred on Election Day from the Colonial Period through 2001, including Internet voting. Chapter 38 is titled “Voting Amidst the Influenza Epidemic – San Francisco and Fresno, California, 1918.” The selections come from the San Francisco Chronicle and the Fresno Republican that wrote accounts of the General Election in their cities. Some facts from the newspaper articles: 58 percent of the registered voters voted in the election; the low turnout was due to the flu; the registrar had to make 150 changes in inspectors in the last three days before the election and substitute about half of the 4,400 election officers at the last moment, because of the flu and the absence of so many men who were fighting in WWI or were government workers (which made them ineligible). In Fresno, the voting booths were placed outside rather than indoors so as not to spread the flu. A storm in the city the night before election day destroyed several of the voting booths that were set up outside.

Thank you, Las Cruces

By now it should be no surprise. We watched and reported as you raised millions of dollars to fight breast cancer through the Tough Enough to Wear Pink campaign, named the most successful of its kind in the nation.

We watched and reported as you were named the most giving and charitable market in America.

We watched and reported as you responded with action and compassion during the migrant crisis of 2019.

And now we watch and report as Las Cruces reacts and responds to something none of us has any experience with.

As soon as it was announced schools would be closing two extra weeks at spring break to fight the spread of the COVID-19 virus, our citizens and businesses sprung into action to ensure those children had free or at-cost meals if needed.

Local funds and programs were established almost immediately to help those who lost work when businesses were forced to close.

In the meantime, even though a community as friendly as ours doesn't enjoy it, we've done a good job keeping our distance from each other. New Mexico's rates of infection are lower and less deadly than almost any state in the country. It's nice to be rated highly in something good for a change.

Unfortunately, the numbers will likely continue to rise before they drop. Our thoughts and prayers will be with those families affected.

Still, our community will carry on. We will carry on through the crisis, as businesses and individuals work to help us through.

And we will carry on after the crisis, working to re-build what has been lost. And a lot has been lost.

Thanks to you, the Las Cruces Bulletin has been part of this community for 50 years, and even though there has been lots to be proud of in that half-century, this could prove to be this great city's finest moment.

Hang in there, and keep washing those hands.

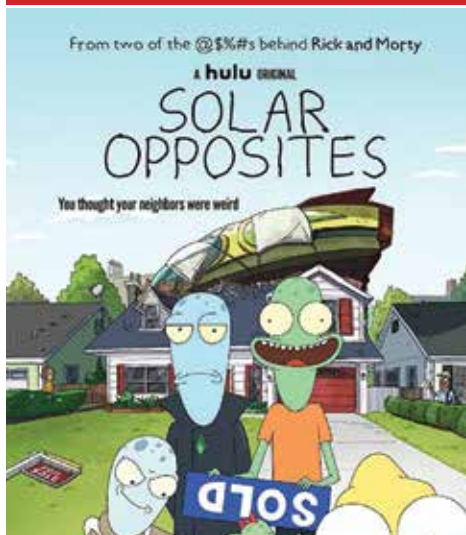

Look for the Las Cruces Bulletin every Friday at newsstands and in your driveway. Check us out 24/7 at www.lascrucesbulletin.com.

"Solar Opposites"

A family of aliens moves to the Midwest, where they bicker and debate whether life is better there or on their home planet, in this animated comedy from co-creators Justin Roiland and Mike McMahan ("Rick and Morty"). (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: Victoria Gotti: My Father's Daughter"

Victoria Gotti is the executive producer, co-writer and narrator of this 2019 docudrama, which purports to give viewers a sense of what it was like to have grown up as the daughter of mob boss John Gotti. Actress Chelsea Frei stars as Victoria, portrayed as a sensitive young woman who grew up constantly worrying about the safety of her father. More drama ensues in the form of her younger brother's death and a turbulent romance with a man Victoria would marry over her father's objections.

"Movie: Who Let the Dogs Out"

From director Brent Hodge ("I Am Chris Farley," the forthcoming "Pharma Bro") comes this 2019 documentary that tells story behind the 1998 song "Who Let the Dogs Out," which became a hit and won a Grammy Award for the Bahamian group Baha Men.

"Movie: Bridget Jones's Baby"

The third and most recent installment of the adventures of author Helen Fielding's title British singleton finds Bridget (Renee Zellweger) approaching her mid-40s and now pregnant ... either by her ex Mark Darcy (Colin Firth) or a one-night stand (Patrick Dempsey).

tonight's picks

Sophie Cookson

6 p.m. on LIFE
Movie: Deadly Mile High Club

An emotionally unstable (to put it mildly) female flight instructor becomes so obsessed with a handsome male student that she embarks on an insane campaign to use her piloting skills to destroy the important people in his life and seduce him into loving her in this 2020 thriller. Allison McAtee, Marc Herrmann and Anna Marie Dobbins star.

8 p.m. on COOK
Fire Masters

In this smokin' hot Season 2 finale, "All Up in Your Grill," three chefs heat up the Fire Masters Arena with their signature dishes. Then, there's a bacon-and-egg battle in the Crossfire Round, followed by a truly epic showdown between two BBQ heavyweights as they take on a Texas tailgate theme. Dylan Benoit is the host.

8 p.m. on APL
Saved By The Barn

An overjoyed Chris experiences his first rescue and saves two goats called Hugo and Emmy, who are in need serious medical attention, in the new episode "House Fire Rescue." Elsewhere, Joey the calf returns to recover after a series of surgeries, and Lola the kid goat is surprised with a prosthetic from her new humans.

9 p.m. on HBO
Movie: The Art of Racing in the Rain

Simon Curtis (TV's beloved TV dramedy "Cranford") directed this sentimental 2019 adaptation of a novel by Garth Stein, wherein an elderly Golden Retriever in his final moments narrates (voice of Kevin Costner) the story of his life with his master, race-car driver Denny Swift (Milo Ventimiglia, "This Is Us"). Amanda Seyfried, Gary Cole, Kathy Baker and Martin Donovan also star.

9 p.m. on OVATION
Movie: The Usual Suspects

An outstanding ensemble cast — including Oscar-winning best supporting actor Kevin Spacey — brings to life this 1995 suspense drama about five criminals wrongfully implicated by the police in a crime. In Christopher McQuarrie's nuanced screenplay, sinister ulterior forces and plenty of plot twists create an intense pace. Gabriel Byrne, Stephen Baldwin, Kevin Pollak and Benicio Del Toro also star for director Bryan Singer.

10 p.m. on SHOW
Movie: Red Joan

Probably better known for his prolific theatrical career, Trevor Nunn directed this 2018 British spy drama, adapted from a novel by Jennie Rooney that was inspired by the life of Melita Norwood, who supplied the Soviet Union with nuclear secrets while working as a secretary at a British research association. Judi Dench and Sophie Cookson share the role of the principal character, here named Joan Elizabeth Stanley. Tom Hughes, Stephen Campbell Moore and Ben Miles also star.

tonight's picks

Evan Rachel Wood

7 p.m. on BRAVO
Married to Medicine Los Angeles

Dr. Kendra Segura, an OB-GYN and friend of series regular Dr. Britten Cole, and Lia Dias — a friend of Dr. Imani Walker — join the circle of principal characters as this unscripted series returns for Season 2. Elsewhere, Dr. Britten struggles to find "romance time" with her husband while her kids are acting out following her recent cross-country move, while Shanique ponders a move into the luxury real-estate field.

8:30 p.m. on KFOX
Family Guy

After serving as the Griffin family's punching bag for far too long, Meg (voice of Mila Kunis) takes advantage of an erroneous news report that she was involved in a fatal car accident to vanish and start a new life for herself in the new episode "Better Off Meg." Afterwards, Peter and the rest of the family get a taste of what life without Meg really would be like.

8:45 p.m. on HBO
Atlanta's Missing and Murdered: The Lost Children

This five-part docuseries draws to a close with a finale that opens in the mid-1980s, as Lynn Whatley — Wayne Williams' appeals attorney — receives from an anonymous informant some shocking but compelling new evidence connecting members of the Ku Klux Klan to the murders. As a judge considers whether to grant Williams' petition for a retrial, an undercover informant and several investigators offer testimony. Some 40 years after the murders first began, family members of the victims gather to grieve and pledge to find out what really happened to the slain children.

9 p.m. on KRWG
Baptiste on Masterpiece

In Episode 4, after Kim Vogel (Talisa Garcia) is murdered, Julien (Tchéky Karyo) sets off to find the stolen money. Meanwhile, Genevieve (Jessica Raine), a British detective, persuades Edward (Tom Hollander) to meet Constantin (Alec Secareanu), who is acting as a spokesman for the gangsters. Edward gives Julien the slip after the money is discovered and returns to the UK. On a more personal note, Martha (Barbara Sarafian) confesses to Julien that he is Niels' (Boris Van Severen) biological father.

10 p.m. on HBO
Westworld

Last season, many critics and viewers alike detected a sophomore slump in this high-concept sci-fi thriller, as each episode often seemed more confounding than the one before. Happily, Season 3 has marked a welcome course correction, as the story follows the AI character Dolores (Evan Rachel Wood) away from the titular park and into the wider world. There, a construction worker named Caleb (new series regular Aaron Paul) is teaching her that humans are less two-dimensional than she thought. The season ends tonight in a finale called "Crisis Theory."

10 p.m. on SHOW
Billions

Julianna Margulies and Corey Stoll join the cast as this critically acclaimed drama starts Season 5. Margulies guest stars as Ivy League sociology professor and best-selling author Catherine Brant, while Stoll plays Mike Prince, a social-impact pioneer who poses a big threat to Bobby "Axe" Axelrod's (Damian Lewis) power. Elsewhere, Axe and Chuck Rhoades (Paul Giamatti) reignite their vicious rivalry, and Chuck feuds with a formidable district attorney.

6 p.m. on LIFE

Movie: Psycho Escort

A widow with a young son, Diane isn't ready to re-enter the dating scene, but she's tired of attending work events by herself. Her sister suggests she use a reputable rent-a-date service to engage someone to pose as her boyfriend, and the guy the agency pairs her with seems to fit the bill. Miles is so charming and natural, Diane can't help but feel attracted — not realizing he actually is a dangerous pathological liar. Victoria Barabas, Nick Ballard, Kate Fairway and Jacob Sandler star in this 2020 thriller.

tonight's picks

George W. Bush

7 p.m. on AMC Creepshow

Originally created for Shudder, a horror/thriller streaming service, this television spinoff of the Stephen King movie series begins a six-week run each Monday on AMC, with two chilling tales in each episode. First up in tonight's premiere, "Gray Matter" stars Adrienne Barbeau and Giancarlo Esposito in a story about a platoon of American soldiers who find an unlikely way out of a Nazi trap. Then, "The House of the Head" revolves around a girl (Calley Fleming) who finds a strange toy head in her dollhouse.

8 p.m. on KRWG American Experience

"George W. Bush" looks at an American president who came into office under fiercely contentious circumstances and took office less than 10 months before the terrorist attacks of 9/11 ushered in a new era of fear and anxiety. Concluding Tuesday, this new profile includes interviews with journalists, historians and such members of "W's" inner circle as chiefs of staff Andrew Card and Joshua Bolten, senior advisor Karl Rove, speechwriter

David Frum and press secretary Ari Fleischer.

8 p.m. on BRAVO Camp Getaway

Set at an idyllic adult campground in the Berkshire Mountains of Kent, Conn. — where "glamping" is the order of the day — this new unscripted series follows the Camp Runaway staff and counselors who work tirelessly to deliver on the facility's pledge. And what is that? To give its grown-up clientele plenty of adventure, relaxation and bottomless mimosas. This being a Bravo reality show, of course, there's also time for heavy flirting between counselors and campers.

tonight's picks

Queen Elizabeth II

7 p.m. on KRWG
The Queen at War

Princess Elizabeth of England was only 13 when World War II broke out, but this new documentary — airing some 75 years after that conflict ended — examines how the Second World War set the future queen on her path to becoming a truly legendary monarch. She and her sister Margaret became symbols of hope to their nation as its citizens were assailed by the violent terrors of the Blitz, the trauma of relocating over a million children, and other physical and psychological assaults from that horrific war.

7:30 p.m. on KVIA
Bless This Mess

A violent storm strike in Bucksport just makes several of the locals even more aware of their already fraught personal situations in the Season 2 finale, "Tornado Season: Part Two." Things between Beau and Mike (David Koechner, Dax Shepard) remain tense over which egg business will land a contract with Dolores' (guest star Celia Watson) restaurant, and a mix-up in pregnancy tests has Rio (Lake Bell), Kay (Lennon Parham) and Jacob's (JT Neal) girlfriend all wondering whether the stork is on the way.

8 p.m. on TRU TV
Tirdy Works

This new half-hour "unscripted sitcom" looks at parenthood, entrepreneurship and life in general through the eyes of businesswoman Mary Winchenbach and her family in Somerset, Maine. This small, rural town with four paved roads is home to Mary's titular business, which transforms moose poop into ... well, organic arts and crafts. The pot-smoking part-time comic and mother of three has become quite a mover and shaker in her town, which also is populated by an expansive cast of colorful characters among Mary's neighbors and family members.

8 p.m. on ID
Reasonable Doubt

Season 3 wraps up with "It Wasn't Me," which chronicles the case of small-time drug dealer Roosevelt Myles, convicted of murdering a teenage boy on the West Side of Chicago in 1982. Years later, Myles' sister and fiancée reach out to retired detective Chris Anderson and defense attorney Fatima Silva to investigate whether Myles is serving time for a crime he never committed.

10 p.m. on HBO
Movie: Natalie Wood: What Remains Behind

Actress Natasha Gregson Wagner is both a producer and a key on-camera presence in this poignant remembrance of her mother, Natalie Wood, as told by some of the people who knew her best. The documentary incorporates previously unseen home movies, photographs, diaries, letters and artifacts, along with intimate interviews with friends, family, co-stars and colleagues of the actress, who died in 1981 at the age of 43. Pivotal to the program is a candid conversation with Robert Wagner, who married Wood twice.

“The Eddy”

This eight-episode drama series stars Andre Holland as the owner of a struggling Paris nightclub whose life is further complicated by his business partner's dubious dealings and the arrival of his troubled teenage daughter. Amandla Stenberg, Tahar Rahim, Joanna Kulig, Melissa George and Tchéky Karyo also star. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: The Wrong Missy”

A man meets the woman of his dreams and invites her to his company's corporate retreat — only to discover the text went to the wrong woman — in this comedy movie from director Tyler Spindel (“Father of the Year”). David Spade, Sarah Chalke, Lauren Lapkus, Nick Swardson and Molly Sims head the solid cast. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: A Secret Love”

First-time filmmaker Chris Bolan helmed this documentary that tells the story of the 65-year journey of two women, Pat Henschel and professional baseball player Terry Donahue, who were confronted with considerable prejudice after falling in love in 1947. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Dangerous Lies”

A caregiver finds herself caught in a web of deception and murder when the elderly man she was caring for bequeaths her his substantial estate in this thriller movie from director Michael Scott (“My Mom's Letter From Heaven”). Jamie Chung, Cam Gigandet, Sasha Alexander, Elliott Gould and Jessie T. Usher head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

Ruthless

Originally created for BET's streaming service BET Plus, this spinoff of Tyler Perry's political drama "The Oval" sounds so over the top, it might make "Dynasty" look straitlaced. Melissa L. Williams heads the large cast as Ruth Truesdale, a fanatical woman who kidnaps her own young daughter, Callie (London Rose Sellers), to join her in an insane, sex-crazed cult known as the Rakudishis. Matt Cedeno, Lenny Thomas, Yvonne Senat Jones and David Alan Madrick co-star in the new "guilty pleasure" on which Perry is writer, director and executive producer.

8 p.m. on IFC
Brockmire

Limon, an Alexa-like digital assistant, begins a sinister plot to take over the game of baseball as part of its pursuit to rule the world through artificial intelligence as this dark comedy wraps its fourth and final season with "The Long Offseason." Jim and Julia (Hank Azaria, Amanda Peet) are left with a difficult decision: whether to embrace this emerging society under machine overlords, or stick with the current dystopian reality, which teeters on the brink of collapse.

Eating History

Season 1 concludes with "Flavor Explosion," which finds Josh and Old Smokey sampling one of the most notorious military rations ever made. Later, they taste an out-of-this-world powdered candy that was very popular in the 1970s, and drop by a beer club where they evaluate a vintage brew that changes colors.

While Jason (Davidorean) is escorting Mandy (Jessica Paré) to pay their last respects to the family of a fallen informant, Ray (Neil Brown Jr.) leads Bravo Team on a critical mission after they receive time-sensitive information on the whereabouts of a terrorist leader in the new episode "No Choice in Duty." During their search, Davis (Toni Trucks) reveals that the terrorist in question is related to a target from Jason's past. Meanwhile, Sonny (AJ Buckley) joins the team in Afghanistan. Adelaide Kane guest stars.

Christina Anstead

7:31 p.m. on HGTV
Flip or Flop

In the new episode "Risky Business/Alarming Flip," Tarek and Christina return to the same street in Cypress, Calif., where they previously did a different flip. When they can't agree on a design for the kitchen, they decide to settle matters with a quick game of hoops. Later, as costs mount and the open house looms, they must hustle to make a profit out of the flip.

8 p.m. on ID
Predator at Large

After a pregnant mother and her infant son never return from what seemed to be a routine walk to their corner grocery, the news sends ripples of fear through the close-knit community of Deerfield Beach, Fla., in the new episode "We're Talking About a Serial Killer." Later, after the woman's lifeless body is found, the locals are convinced they have a killer living among them.

9:38 p.m. on STARZ
Movie: Pain and Glory

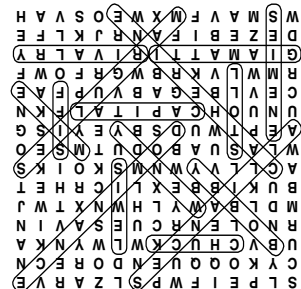

For writer-director Pedro Almodovar's acclaimed 2019 Spanish drama, Antonio Banderas was named best actor at the 2019 Cannes Film Festival, and he also earned an Oscar nomination for his multifaceted performance as a film director in decline. Banderas' character, Salvador Mallo, visits a long-estranged former actor colleague (Asier Etzeandia) on the occasion of the re-release of an early Mallo masterpiece on which they had collaborated. Leonardo Sbaraglia, Nora Navas, Cecilia Roth, Penélope Cruz and Julieta Serrano co-star.

What's Available NOW On

"America in Color"

From the creative forces behind "See No Evil" and "Britain in Color" comes this 12-episode documentary series that showcases key moments in U.S. history from the 1920s to the 1960s using high definition-enhanced footage. Eric Meyers, Liev Schreiber and Stephen Mangan serve as narrators.

"Mr Selfridge"

Jeremy Piven ("Entourage") has the title role in Season 1 of this British drama that tells the real-life story of Harry Selfridge, the American founder of the iconic London department store Selfridge's in the early 1900s. The impressive cast also includes Amanda Abbington, Ron Cook, Tom Goodman-Hill, Katherine Kelly and Amy Beth Hayes.

"The Mind of a Chef"

Anthony Bourdain narrated and executive produced this 2012-17 PBS series that follows chefs in their daily lives and examines their beliefs and philosophies on cooking and the culinary arts. Season 1, which streams here, features New York-based chef David Chang ("Ugly Delicious").

"Movie: Paranormal Activity 3"

Reaffirming the suspense franchise as more than a one-trick pony, this third round delves even farther into the past than the preceding prequel, with the younger incarnations of the sisters (played as adults by returnees Katie Featherston and Sprague Grayden) experiencing their initial hauntings while a video camera records clues. The style will seem familiar to those who saw "Catfish": This was handled by the same filmmakers, Henry Joost and Ariel Schulman.

Family Trust, PO Box 9023 San Diego, CA 91269 filed with the STATE ENGINEER Application No. LRG-08732-POD5, OSE File No. LRG-08732, for Permit to Change Location of Well within the Lower Rio Grande Underground Water Basin of the State of New Mexico by discontinuing the use of well LRG-08732, located within the NE $\frac{1}{4}$ SW $\frac{1}{4}$ of projected Section 15, Township 22 South, Range 1 East (NMPM), and more specifically located where Latitude and Longitude intersect at 32°23' 48.84" N, 106° 50'09.97" W (WGS84), on land owned by the applicants, and by utilizing existing well LRG-08732-POD5, located within the SE $\frac{1}{4}$ SW $\frac{1}{4}$ NW $\frac{1}{4}$ of projected Section 15, Township 22 South, Range 1 East (NMPM), and more specifically located where Latitude and Longitude intersect at 32°23' 49.05" N, 106° 50' 1.23" W (WGS84), on land owned by the applicants, to supplement existing wells LRG-08732S, LRG-08732-S-2, and LRG-08732-S-3 as described in OSE File No. LRG-08732, for the continued diversion of 88.8 acre-feet per annum for all domestic, sanitary, commercial, and irrigation purposes related to a mobile home park within the Evergreen Mobile Home Park, owned by the applicant, located within the NW $\frac{1}{4}$ of projected Section 15, Township 22 South, Range 1 East, as described by Subfile No. LRN-28-004-9001 of the Lower Rio Grande Hydrographic Survey.

The applicant has requested emergency authorization to utilize the proposed well under NMSA, 1978, Section 72-12-23.

Old well LRG-08732 will be retained and used for monitoring purposes by the New Mexico Environment Department. Well LRG-08732-POD5 is located north of Dona Ana, NM and is approximately 1,417 feet south of the intersection of Alviljar Rd. and Dona Ana Rd at 6345 Dona Ana Rd.

Dona Ana is the County affected by the diversion and in which the water has been or will be put to beneficial use. This notice is ordered to be published in the Las Cruces Bulletin.

To view the application and supporting documentation contact the State Engineer District Office to arrange a date and time for an appointment located at 1680 Hickory Loop, Suite J, Las Cruces, NM 88005. Any person, firm or corporation or other entity having standing to file objections or protests shall do so in writing (objection must be legible, signed, and include the writer's complete name, phone number, email address, and mailing address). The objection to the approval of the application must be based on: (1) Impairment; if impairment, you must specifically identify your water rights; and/or (2) Public Welfare/Conservation of Water; if public welfare or conservation of water within the state of New Mexico, you must show how you will be substantially and specifically affected. The written protest must be filed, in triplicate, with the State Engineer, 1680 Hickory Loop, Suite J, Las Cruces, NM 88005 on or before June 26, 2020. Facsimiles (faxes) will be accepted as a valid protest if the hard copy is hand-delivered or mailed and postmarked within 24-hours of the facsimile. Mailing postmark will be used to validate the 24-hour period. Protests can be faxed to the Office of the State Engineer, at 575-524-6160. If no valid protest or objection is filed, the State Engineer will evaluate the application in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 72 NMSA 1978.

City museums offer online programs during stay-at-home time

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Reporter's note: City of Las Cruces Deputy Director Rebecca Slaughter and Museum Administrator Jennifer Robles assisted with this story.

The governor's stay-at-home order doesn't mean you — or your kids or grandkids — have to be bored. The Las Cruces Museum System (LCMS) has a lot going on online, including #LasCruces-Cares.

Exhibit proposals sought

LCMS seeks proposals for exhibits with themes of cultural and historical significance relating to the borderlands region, along with submissions from artists (solo and group) from formal and informal scholars and organizations. Proposals will be accepted until 5 p.m. Friday, May 8. To apply, complete the form at www.surveymonkey.com/r/LCMS2021. Applications must include a brief (no more than four paragraphs) narrative and should include an artist statement or group mission, eight-10 jpg images of proposed work or work of similar style and quality and linear and/or square footage needs. Exhibits will run for six- to 12-week periods.

Make art at home

Through its Artventurous At Home program, LCMS provides creative arts and crafts challenges that kids can do at home. Visit "Museum at Home - Activities for Kids!" on Facebook. It also links through the Las Cruces Museums Facebook page @LCMuseums.

Here, for example, is the program's second arts and crafts challenge for April: Make a piece of art from scrap paper. For this challenge, use at least one paper product; the rest of the items can be anything found at home. When you are finished, take a picture and post it in the comments to show our community your creation(s), making sure to include a description of your art as well as the materials you used.

There are other links on the museum's Facebook page with science, art and learning that children can do at home.

Join the foundation

The Foundation for Las Cruces Museums supports the Museum of Art, Branigan Cultural Center, Museum of Nature and Science and the Railroad Museum. The cost is $40 for an individual, $60 for a family and $25 for a full-time student or senior age 65 and older. You can be a supporter for $100-$249, a patron for $250-$499 or a benefactor for a donation of $500 or more. Visit www.foundationlcm.com/membership/ or email info@foundationlcm.com for more.

Take the survey

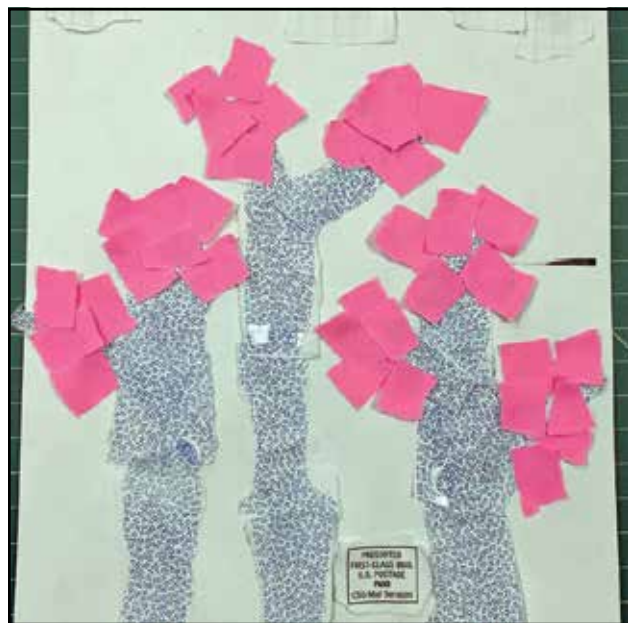

LCMS is conducting a community survey. The city is creating a strategic plan for the museum system, and community input is vital to the development of museum goals, priorities and strategies. You can play an integral role in the plan's development by participating in the online survey at www.surveymonkey.com/r/LCMSCommunitySurvey2020 or www.surveymonkey.com/r/LCMSCommunitySurvey2020.

Follow the creation of new exhibits

City of Las Cruces Quality of Life Department Deputy Director Rebecca

Slaughter and other museum staff are continuing to design future museum exhibits from home during the stay-at-home order. "I can design and plan out the exhibits right from the computer," Slaughter said on the museum's Facebook page. "I can see what works and what doesn't before I set foot in the workshop and begin making anything." Slaughter said she does a "Takeover Tuesday" on the Facebook page every week to give virtual visitors a behind-the-scenes look at what museum staff are up to.

For example, LCMS staff (following public health orders, of course) are using "a little plywood, rope and a lot of imagination" to bring a luchador wrestling ring to Branigan Cultural Center for an in-the-near-future exhibit.

"Where the Woods Once Grew" was made from used printer paper, old flyers, used envelopes and graph paper. It's an example of work that can be created through the Las Cruces Museums System's online arts and crafts programs.

Healthcare heroes deserve support during COVID-19

By JOHN HARRIS

As we continue to fight COVID-19, it has been so encouraging to see the outpouring of support from Las Cruces and Doña Ana County for Memorial Medical Center. We have always striven to be a place where you choose to come for healthcare, and we take our responsibility as a community leader very seriously.

As our neighbors have come together to do everything possible to slow the spread of this vicious virus amid unprecedented challenges, we have never been more proud to be a part of this community.

It is more important than ever that we all continue to take the important steps necessary to keep our community as safe and healthy as possible, including staying home as much as we can, practicing social distancing and following sound medical guidance.

Today, I would ask one more thing of our community, including myself: thank a healthcare hero.

Some moments ask more from us as a society, as a community and as individuals. Moments like those need heroes.

From grocery-store employees and delivery workers to educators teaching remotely and those keeping our infrastructure and essential services running, this moment in history has no shortage of heroes. And that includes our heroes on the frontlines of this crisis — our healthcare workers.

Our healthcare workers are not only a cornerstone of our hospital's mission of "Making Communities Healthier," but they also are integral members of our community. They are moms and dads, brothers and sisters, friends and neighbors. And today — especially today — they are heroes, fighting on the frontlines to provide compassionate and quality care when it's needed most.

At Memorial Medical Center, we honor all our providers and employees working hard to ensure a safe place of care and a healthier community for all of us.

I hope you will join me and add your voice to the chorus of appreciation for our community's healthcare heroes by posting your own message of thanks on your favorite social media, with the hashtag #ThankAHealth-CareHero. Let's show our hometown heroes how much we appreciate their incredible and inspiring efforts to keep us safe.

And thank you, again, for supporting Memorial Medical Center and trusting us with your care as we help guide our community through the COVID-19 situation as safely as possible.

We will get through this together.

John Harris is chief executive officer of Memorial Medical Center.

Editor's note: Normally, this would have run in the Opinion section, but those pages were full, and we had space here. And so, here it is. Make your social media posts artful, please, to honor its placement.

PUBLIC NOTICE – MEMBER SOUGHT FOR THE LAS CRUCES UTILITIES BOARD

Qualified applicants are being sought to fill a vacancy on the Board of Commissioners for the City of Las Cruces (City) Utilities. The Utilities Board provides strategic policy direction on City-owned natural gas, water, wastewater, and solid waste utility systems.

To qualify for appointment as a member of the board, an applicant must be:

- A registered voter, and
- A Las Cruces utilities customer for at least a year prior to appointment.

The applicant cannot be:

- An elected official,
- Appointed to public office,
- A current City employee, or
- A contractor, consultant, or have a contractual relationship with the City for the benefit of the Las Cruces Utilities.

Applicants must also have technical expertise in one or more of the following fields: banking and finance, business, economics, engineering, and/or related utility management.

The objectives and authority of the Board include but are not limited to:

- Greater public access and participation in utility issues,
- Ensuring more independent oversight and accountability for utility policy decisions,
- Allowing for more time to focus on utility matters,
- Less political influence in business-decision making,
- Developing long-range and strategic policy recommendations to the City Council for the Utilities Department,
- Reviewing and providing direction in the City's new utility rate setting process and submitting rate adjustment recommendations to the City Council, and
- Set water and wastewater impact fees in compliance with the City Development Impact Fee Ordinance.

Applications can be picked up at the City Clerk's office inside City Hall at 700 N. Main St., or accessed online at the City's website: <https://onboard.las-cruces.org/apply/>. For more information, contact the City Clerk's Office at (575) 541-2115. The TTY number is (575) 541-2182.

Farm and Ranch Heritage Museum: online, onsite and interactive

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The majority of the New Mexico Farm and Ranch Heritage Museum's staff is working from home during the COVID-19 pandemic, said museum Communications Manager Craig Massey. "We are staying in contact through Zoom meetings, email and calls," he said.

Massey said about a half-dozen livestock and maintenance staff are on site at the museum, "taking care of the animals and providing security for the 47-acre property," which is temporarily closed to the public.

The museum's exhibits designer, Rafael Torres (a former designer for the Las Cruces Bulletin) has created an animated virtual tour of what the museum's upcoming exhibit, "Monumental Territory: The Artwork of Kayla Blundell," will look like. You can find it on Facebook at New Mexico Farm & Ranch Heritage Museum.

Another exhibit that is being planned to open this summer is "Riding Herd with Billy the Kid." Work on that exhibit continues, Massey said.

"Our focus is to remain engaged and connected to the public," he said.

"We've increased our postings on social media – Facebook, Instagram and Twitter. Our educators are providing posts that showcase the 'Cattle Breed of the Week,' as well as crop and food staples. Our education coordinator, LuAnn Kilday, has recorded a wool spinning video and a weaving video (how-tos). We will be doing more of these."

"Another thing we're doing on Facebook is posting the 'Faces of Farm & Ranch,'" Massey said. "We post these when we receive them. The idea is to show that we all have farming or ranching in our backgrounds. At some point, all of us had ancestors who grew their own food. So, we're inviting the public to email to us one to three photos and four or five sentences, telling us about their ancestors and what food they grew and where in New Mexico."

Check it out: Branigan Library still booking it online

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Thomas Branigan Memorial Library building may be closed under the state's public health order, but library services are still going strong.

Here's information you will find online at <http://library.las-cruces.org>

- Reference FAQ: Library staff has created this from the most frequently asked questions received by the library reference desk as of April 15.

- Digital resources, including E-books, E-audiobooks, streaming music and digital magazines: More options have been added, including TumbleBooks, which library staff said has "a ton of new content to explore, including educational and fun kid and teen digital books, graphic novels and audiobooks."

- Reference and research databases: These include homework help, test prep and more.

- Patrons can also check out the website and follow the library on its Facebook page (BraniganLibrary), Twitter (@BraniganTweets) and Instagram (braniganlibrarylc) for updates and information that will include interesting links, reading suggestions and information.

- Library cards. If you need a library card to access the library's digital services from home, call 575-528-4000 or e-mail library administration (library.admin@las-cruces.org).

org) and staff can set you up with a free library card from home.

Links to the online catalog and databases are on the library's home page: www.library.las-cruces.org

Library staff are available by phone from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday, at 575-528-4000 to answer questions, set up new library cards, provide help with databases, etc.

"Library staff are always looking for creative ways to expand services, even when we can't be open to the public," said Library Administrator Margaret M. Neill. "Staff are buying more e-books and e-audiobooks. The children's staff are posting regular story-time and craft videos to our Facebook page and the library will be hosting virtual book clubs and author talks on our social media pages, both Facebook and Installation of "Mothers' Days, Labor: Motherhood & Art in 2020" exhibit at the University Art Museum at New Mexico State University. A performance project in conjunction with the University Art Museum's "Labor: Motherhood & Art in 2020" exhibition, began at 1 p.m. Saturday, April 25, at www.nmsu.zoom.us/meeting/register/uJAsce2gqzMt3a4oGESku4TeinVtW8iigQ. The performance is a digital reading of Lenka Clayton's Artist Book, "Mothers' Days," a 388-page book, published by An Artist Residency in Motherhood especially for the NMSU Art Museum's exhibit. It will include volunteer readers. The book is available free at www.lenkaclayton.com/shop/mothers-days-15th-july-2019.

LEFT: "Shelter In Place" by Joey Fauerso. Join the University Art Museum for its ongoing collaborative photography project by artist Joey Fauerso, titled "Shelter in Place." The museum is inviting visitors to participate in the project via a community-sourced collection of pillow forts and shelters built by confined families all over the world, said museum Director Marisa Sage. "Your 'shelter' will join a collection of images that will be displayed digitally and ultimately in print form. Your shelter can be any size, made from any material, and can be inside or outside," Sage said. Send pictures, along with the names of your shelter builders, where you live and a title or material list, to misage@nmsu.edu, through May 11. "As we receive submissions, they will be posted on the UAM instagram account (@nmsuartmuseum)," Sage said. "The final piece will be a printed poster which archives the work." Check out shelters that have been created so far at www.instagram.com/nmsuartmuseum. For shelter-building tips and guidelines, visit www.uam.nmsu.edu/shelter-in-place/.

Tova Gennrich, left, the Las Cruces Bulletin's new administrative assistant, accepts delivery of a cinnamon horchata meal-replacement shake from Elissa Ramirez, founder and owner of Las Cruces Nutrition. The family-operated business provides drive-thru and curbside service at 600 S. Solano Drive, and also provides free delivery. Hours are 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 5-8 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. The menu includes meal replacements, herbal teas, mega teas for healthy energy, on-the-go protein snacks, immunity support, active fiber, probiotics, collagen and more. Ramirez said Las Cruces Nutrition has made it a priority to stay open and make good nutrition available to the community during the pandemic. "Our products don't cure, prevent or treat," Ramirez said. "They simply help you get healthy from the inside out. That's what's really important right now." Call 575-343-0366.

Corner Bakery Café re-emerges after brief closure

By JESS WILLIAMS
Las Cruces Bulletin

After shutting its doors about a month ago, Corner Bakery Café has reopened at 2305 E, Lohman Ave., accepting online orders and orders by phone for curbside pickup, as well as orders via third-party deliveries.

The new menu features both breakfast and lunch options, as well as a full kids' menu.

Menu items range from sandwiches and wraps to salads and panini, hand-crafted pastas and soups to chile and salads, along with bakery treats and a full drink menu.

Patrons who sign up on the café's website get a free sweet treat for doing so, and a rewards program is in place for returning customers.

The café's website also features a nutrition calculator, an interactive nutrition menu and an allergen menu.

Like rolling seas, life is a series of crests and troughs

When you're near the ocean, the smell of salt air, the sound of the water washing on the shore and the feel of sand between your toes contribute to a total experience of calm exhilaration. Your breathing improves and you step more lively than usual. You hear the waves crashing a bit farther offshore, and perhaps you think about this: For the crest of every wave, a trough will follow. The bigger the wave, the deeper the trough. It's the rhythm of the ocean in the symphony of the tides, neap and spring, low and high.

GABRIEL ROCHELLE

Tales from the Cassock

Two major religions of the world have just been through the major festivals in the tidal course of their liturgical years. Judaism and Christianity have just hit their high tides, when the crest of the wave is very tall. But a trough will follow, and it can be very deep, indeed.

For those who make careful and meticulous preparations for these holidays, Passover and Pascha, there can be a letdown after the high times of festivity. When the last of the roast is eaten or the final hymns are but an echo in your ear and all the candy is gone, a deafening silence can follow in the wake of the holiday.

These lows can be exacerbated by the absence of family and friends who normally fill festive times with their presence. Perhaps this year it's not quite as difficult, because of the novelty of life in self-quarantine in the midst of the Coronavirus pandemic. Perhaps it's even more difficult, because the joy of the holiday celebration was not shared with family and friends whose presence contributes to the high spirits, so there was already a depression or at least a diminution to the festivities.

In either case, you woke up in the following days and nothing much had changed. Yes, there had been a bit of a bump up, a trill in the heart, a lightness of spirit, a spring to your step, but then it all came crashing down again. After the tall wave, the deep trough. Life did not greatly improve, nor did the circumstances in which you find yourself. You were still this side of the resurrection life. You were still enslaved in the current version of Egypt.

This year, things may even have become a bit worse in the bargain. The virus contributes to the trough. You may be suffering economic deprivations you've never had before. Isolation from others may be starting to wear you out, particularly if you are an introvert. Introverts who seem to get along rather well with minimal human contact are beginning to feel the pinch of loneliness. Lack of normal activity may have led you to fill in the gaps with overeating. All the quirks of others in your household have worn more than thin, and they've become a source of irritation. You must be very careful not to lash out in anger.

The conclusion to holiday seasons is a spiritual problem, but our unique circumstances this year make for greater difficulty. The problems won't be solved by ignoring them. Begin by admitting they exist. That's an important first step. Don't shove feelings under the rug. Look them in the face and say, "I'll address this problem straight on." Admit that you are not strong enough to overcome these spiritual problems alone. Talk them over with friends or family. Ask for forgiveness when it is needed. Show an extra measure of love. Recognize that others are sharing your trough. Go to the springs from which you draw sustenance. Sink into the depths of your spiritual tradition, and find peace.

A Sabbath of connection online is still holy connection

Our cars mostly sit idle in the garage.

We venture out mainly for medicine and groceries. I have visited my congregational building every few days when I need something from the office.

My office lap computer sits at home, always ready to be pressed into service.

I lead classes on Zoom and services on the Temple Facebook page from my dining room table or from our den. Our Religious School meets for a Zoom assembly once a week.

In Judaism, a home is called a Mikdash M'at, a small sanctuary. That term describes the many home ceremonies for the Sabbath, for festivals and for daily life that can be observed at home, individually or with others.

RABBI KAROL

Seeking Harmony

This year, in our stay-at-home time, one of the greatest challenges throughout the Jewish world was organizing a Passover Seder, the meal that is usually held around a table (or tables) with family and friends, reading from the Passover Haggadah, the book that guides participants through the prayers and rituals that recall the deliverance of the Israelites from slavery in Egypt. "Haggadah" means "telling."

Perhaps we will need a supplement for future Passover celebrations, remembering how we used technology in 2020 to be together on this Festival of Freedom.

The Seder is held on the first two nights of Passover. Congregations may choose to host a Seder on one of those nights for those who want to take part with the community.

Temple Beth-El Sisterhood has customarily hosted a second night

Seder every year. This year, that plan could not materialize. By the time I watched the Internet buzz with articles about "how to enliven your online Seder," I had already realized what I needed to do to approximate our in-person Seder on the Zoom platform on April 9.

Having already become somewhat adept at Zoom, I asked congregants to pre-register. Several friends from our previous congregations asked to join us. Everyone received a special Haggadah I had prepared for this year's experience.

Before that night, I took part in three other Seder experiences. I joined Rabbi Scott Rosenberg and Ben Zeidman of El Paso to record a Seder that was posted to YouTube, which people could use at home to direct them through the Passover rituals.

My wife, Rhonda, and I joined in two family Zoom Seders on the first night

Some SS recipients will receive impact payments directly

BULLETIN REPORT

The Social Security Administration has announced that Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients will receive automatic Economic Impact Payments directly from the Treasury Department, beginning early this month.

SSI recipients with no qualifying children do not need to take any action in order to receive their $1,200 economic-impact payment. The payments will be automatic.

SSI recipients who have qualifying children under age 17, however, should not wait for their automatic $1,200 individual payment. They should now go to www.irs.gov/coronavirus/non-filers-enter-payment-info-here and visit the Non-Filers: Enter Your Payment Info section to provide their information.

Taking proactive steps to enter information on the IRS website about them and their qualifying children, will enhance processing of $500 per dependent child in addition to the $1,200 individual payment. SSI beneficiaries in this group who do not provide their information to the IRS soon will experience delays receiving the $500 per qualifying child.

“This is great news for

SSI recipients, and I want to remind recipients with qualifying children to go to IRS.gov soon so that you will receive the full amount of the Economic Impact Payments you and your family are eligible for,” said Andrew Saul, commissioner of Social Security. “I also want to thank the dedicated employees of the Treasury Department, the Social Security Administration and the Internal Revenue Service for making this happen and working non-stop on this issue.”

Social Security retirement, survivors, and disability insurance beneficiaries who don't normally file taxes will also qualify for automatic payments of $1,200. The payments were anticipated to start arriving near the end of April.

The Treasury Department, not the Social Security Administration, will make the automatic payments to beneficiaries. Recipients will generally receive the automatic payments by direct deposit, Direct Express debit card or by paper check, just as they would normally receive their SSI or Social Security benefits.

Economic-impact payments will not count as income for SSI recipients, and the payments are excluded from resources for 12 months.

of Passover, April 8. One was with our son, Adam, and daughter-in-law, Juli, and our grandchildren (and Juli's family). The other was with our niece, Samantha, and her husband, Rob (including other family members).

Ironically, this year's challenges maximized the number of loved ones with whom we could celebrate the holiday.

When April 9 arrived, I noticed that people were still registering that afternoon. Our Temple Seder began at 5:30 p.m. I had assigned reading parts to particular registrants. We could hear them all and see them all clearly. It was special to see everyone's faces all together on our computer screens. We were a community!

The Zoom Seders demonstrated for us that, even when we are somewhat confined to our homes, we are not captive at all. We have ways of reaching out, connecting, and tasting the freedom that the Israelites gained so long ago. Even now, may we find ways to maintain ties that can bind our hearts together.

Always charitable, golf reaches out to its own

No other sport has given more to charity than has golf. From its inception to date, the PGA Tour has eclipsed $3 billion in charitable contributions.

Like many industries, golf is going through difficult times because of the coronavirus pandemic. As has happened so often before in times of crisis, many individuals and businesses step up to support the relief efforts.

The PGA of America has announced the Golf Emergency Relief Fund to help not only its 28,000 members but other industry workers, as well, including touring professionals on certain satellite tours, course superintendents, caddies, USGA employees and PGA section employees. The “safety net” has been cast across virtually the entire industry, with an estimated 1 million workers eligible for economic relief, said Seth Waugh, PGA’s CEO.

The PGA of America has committed $5 million to the fund, with third-party matches adding another $2.5 million. Waugh anticipates at least $10 million, and maybe as much as $20 million to be available for distribution.

Companies, facilities and individuals have made their contributions felt. I mentioned last week that

CHARLIE BLANCHARD
Golf Doctor

Augusta National Golf Club has committed a $2 million donation to its local community to fight the pandemic. Other wealthy private clubs, like Wilshire and Riviera in Los Angeles have launched initiatives on GoFundMe to support their caddies.

Perhaps the most impressive caddy support has come from Bandon Dunes resort along the Oregon Coast, with five spectacular 18-hole courses and more than 400 caddies. A local nonprofit organization, the Greater Bandon Association, set up a GoFundMe page for the caddies. In 24 hours after the Bandon Relief Fund went public, more than $100,000 had been committed.

The U.S. Golf Association (USGA) has launched an effort to provide $5 million in relief to assist its 59 Allied Golf Association sections. ClubHELP.org, endorsed by Hall of Fame golfers Ernie Els and Jack Nicklaus, is connecting golf and member clubs with local hospitals to activate a network that provides critical resources, like PPE’s and meals, for frontline hospital workers.

Several golf apparel companies have shifted their manufacturing to making PPE masks. Suzy Whaley, PGA President, said: “Eventually, golf will return, but first we need to reach out and help people in our industry.”

We have our own charitable story to tell here in New Mexico. Brad Lardon, PGA professional and director of golf at Las Campanas Country Club in Santa Fe, felt strongly that he should do something to help out other PGA professionals who are struggling without incomes.

“That’s when our club’s board of directors got together and let the employees know that they will pay all the employees, even if the club remains closed for the year,” Lardon said in an interview with globalgolfpost.com. “I was thinking about how lucky we are. If this thing drags on into most of the summer, there are going to be a ton of out-of-work folks who won’t be getting a paycheck.”

His first idea was to offer golf lessons by video chat for a modest fee and contribute the proceeds to other pros. Anyone who is interested can send a video of their golf swing, get on a Zoom call and discuss any aspect of their game with Lardon. His distinguished teaching career includes being named Sun Country PGA Section Teacher of the Year in 2017. His professional playing career includes competing in three PGA Championships (2007, ’11 and ’16), two U.S. Opens (2002 and ’04) and the 2019 U.S. Senior Open.

I was at the Warren Course at Notre Dame last summer for the Senior Open, and I watched Lardon. He can play!

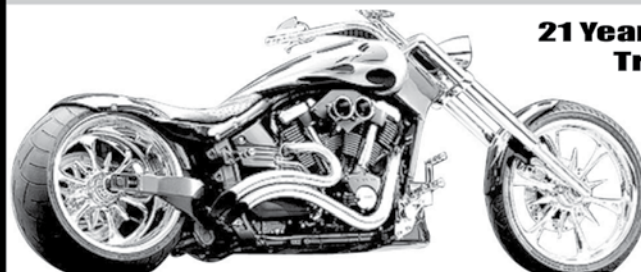

When it comes to goals for the project, Lardon says, “If I could get $10,000 for my (Sun Country) section, that would be great, but if 15 guys can do it, now you’re talking about $150,000.” Through Lardon’s efforts, TaylorMade has offered its newest SIM driver (signed by a PGA star) to be raffled off to one of the fund’s donors. Email Brad Lardon at Lardon4golf@gmail.com.

City of Las Cruces[®] MUSEUMS

Model train craft

Do you miss playing with the model trains at the Railroad Museum? You can make your own, using materials you have at home.

Supplies:

Cardboard tube (toilet paper, paper towel) (1)

Hot glue gun (used with adult supervision) or tape

Colored paper, construction paper, or wrapping paper

Thin cardboard, such as from a cereal box, and a small box, or you can make the train cab by cutting the part of the cereal box and making a smaller box. (1)

Scissors

Cotton ball

Directions:

Using colored paper or wrapping paper:

Wrap the cardboard tube and small box. (2)

Trace a circle around the end of the tube and cut it out approximately ½" larger than the tracing and snip from the outer edge to the tracing. This will allow the circle to fold neatly over the end of the tube. (3)

Use the round piece of colored paper to cover the hole in one end of the tube.

Glue the box to the back of the tube, keeping the bottoms of both pieces level.

Cut out 4 wheels from cardboard, approximately 2" in diameter. Decorate them, and glue to the sides of the train. (4&5)

Cut a rectangle of paper approximately 2 ½ x 4" for the smokestack. Roll it into a cone shape.

Trim the edges to make them even. Glue this to the front of the train. Make sure it is taller than the cab, so the smoke won't get in the engineer's eyes! (6&7)

Stretch out a cotton ball and attach it to the top of the smokestack to look like steam. (8)
