County Flood Commission adds 7 new flood warning system weather stations

The Doña Ana County Flood Commission recently installed seven new stations bringing the total number staff operates to 29, expanding the County's Flood Warning System by 24 percent.

The new automated weather and rainfall stations were installed at the Butterfield Trail Ranch, Chaparral Fire Station, Rincon Fire Station, Radium Springs, Lower Bilbo, West Mesa Cothorn and the Williams Family Ranch, near Chamberino. All 29 stations collect a variety of data and continuously report rainfall depth, air temperature, relative humidity, barometric pressure, wind speed and direction, over a radio network, via repeaters at Caballo Peak, A mountain and in Chaparral, to a central base station at the Government Center.

Altogether, the Doña Ana County Flood Warning System is a network of 68 automated weather monitoring stations, rain gauges, pressure transducers and stream gauges that provide weather alerts and enable warning notifications throughout the state's southwest region. The system is a collaborative project between the Doña Ana County Flood Commission, City of Las Cruces, Elephant Butte Irrigation District, EBID, New Mexico State University, NMSU the National Weather Service, the Las Cruces and Santa Teresa Airports, along with other organizations.

Installing the new stations is part of the ALERT2 Flood Warning System defined in the Flood Warning System Master Plan, which was implemented in 2013. A disaster-mitigation grant from the Department of Homeland Security and Emergency Management, DHSEM funded the $60,000 investment.

"As we continue to equip our Flood Warning System with more monitoring stations, we will be more effectively able to prepare for and respond to seasonal weather events that cause damage to County infrastructure and pose threats to residents' well-being," said Michael Garza, Flood Engineer with the Doña Ana County Flood Commission. "If we expect a large storm to occur in a particular area, we have the ability to warn residents who may be impacted by flash flooding or hazardous driving conditions so they can prepare, adjust or even evacuate."

One of the seven new flood warning system weather stations is installed at the Rincon Fire Station, by Doña Ana County Flood Commission's staff.

The Flood Commission team includes two staff members devoted to the operation and maintenance of the Flood Warning System. They diligently monitor equipment readings to ensure the stations transmit accurate information and look for oddities or deficiencies to determine if the equipment is functioning properly or needs maintenance, Garza said.

"Our long-term plan is to continue increasing the efficiency of the system by adding more stations, continuously improving functional capabilities and ultimately, making people aware of the information we collect," Garza said. "We would like to add stream gauges inside major waterways to measure depth and velocity of flow, while also setting triggers for automatic emergency notification when flow characteristics reach potentially dangerous levels."

These notifications would enable Flood Commission staff to warn of hazardous areas such as low water-crossings or areas known to have a high-risk of flooding. "Most importantly, they can help us keep residents informed and safe, countywide. Our Flood Warning System is well on its way to helping us reach that goal," Garza said.

Weather and rainfall data collected by the flood warning system is available at www.weather.donaanacounty.org. Operators, researchers and residents can access real-time weather and rainfall data from across Southern New Mexico in a variety of formats, including graphical overlays which provide data points and can be useful when looking at forecast elements, such as rain amount and comparing it to a particular terrain.

IN MEMORY OF ANNA MAE (ASHTON) EVANS

Anna Mae Evans, age 80, of Las Cruces, N.M. died May 12, 2020, in Las Cruces, N.M. Anna Mae was born February 12, 1940 in Titusville, PA, to Elmer and Arlene (Gardner) Ashton.

She grew up in Tampa, FL, and graduated from Chamberlain Senior High School, class of 1958. She went to college and met the love of her life, D. Kent Evans, her freshman year at the University of Miami, Coral Gables, FL. They both graduated with their BAs in June 1962 and married on June 23, 1962 in Tampa, at her childhood home. They had a wonderful 50 years together, and they began their life together in Cocoa Beach, FL, for the first 12 years. Then moved to Las Cruces, N.M., for the remainder of her life.

Anna Mae loved her family and supported her husband in all the community organizations that kept them both active in the community they loved. Anna Mae cherished the friendships she made throughout her life. She always felt the most important job was her family. She made sure that everyone was taken care of. She always made the holidays, family vacations and any celebration special, with her cooking, fun traditions and the smile and laugh we will never forget. The most important is she helped raise all her grandchildren. She was a major part of their lives and helped to make them become the great people they are today.

She is survived by her three children, D.K. Evans and wife Patty, Darlene K (Evans) Stalder (Michael), Derek K Evans and wife Lisa. Her seven grandchildren, Dylun, Dayvina, Derika, Brandon, Bronti, Crystal and Derek Jr. Her six great grandchildren, Kambree, Kyla, Dylun Jr., Alex, Zell, Donny. She is also survived by her sister, Sue Mullis husband William of Florida and her brother, Elmer Ashton and wife Linda of Tennessee. Also survived by many nieces and nephews.

When someone you love becomes a memory, the memory becomes a treasure. A celebration of life will be announced on a later date.

New Mexico Water & Electric

The use of solar energy to either offset standard utility costs or to move entirely away from the established power grid continues to be an ever-improving option for many home and business owners in Southern New Mexico.

While the basics of most solar energy systems are somewhat easy to comprehend, assuring the installation of an appropriate array designed to meet specific customer needs can be difficult and costly, especially with a growing number of variously qualified service providers now vying to install systems before the 2022 sunset of a 26-percent federal tax rebate offer.

Southern New Mexico-based owners and licensed contractors with New Mexico Water & Electric are not only fully qualified and experienced with the installation of all types of solar energy systems, they are fully versed in both the benefits and often misleading information relating to the current federal rebate program and other available support for consumers.

With the federal tax rebate program set to end in less than two years, solar energy service firms from outside the community and state are now flocking to Southern New Mexico to provide solar energy options, which ostensibly will allow local home and business owners to take advantage of the available cost returns. Officials with New Mexico Water & Electric want all of those considering this opportunity to understand that the federal program does not apply to everyone. The current rebate offer applies only to "taxable income," which means many retired citizens and those living on fixed income will not qualify.

New Mexico Water & Electric also wants local consumers to recognize that without the installation of considerable back-up components most residential/small commercial solar energy systems will still be reliant upon connections to the local power grid, and therefore could be wholly ineffective if and when the power grid fails or is otherwise taken off-line.

In addition to this concern, New Mexico Water & Electric reminds potential customers how the installation of most residential systems will involve considerable roof-work and the drilling of possibly hundreds of holes into the roofing surface. This factor makes it critical to assure the installation process is not only professionally executed, but also raises questions about how non-local firms might respond, or not respond when eventual roofing repairs or replacement becomes necessary.

Average costs associated with the installation of residential solar energy systems presently hover at or above $20,000+, leading many consumers to consider package deals and enticing financing options being forwarded by the increasing number of service providers. Assuring the viability of such deals and options, as well as securing connections for followup repairs, maintenance assistance and other services are therefore vital, for customers to both justify and feel good about such an investment.

Having hands-on experience with the installation of all available types of solar arrays and integrated components, throughout Southern New Mexico, NMWE's contractors are eager to help area residents secure the most effective solution for every possible need or concern.

Whether you may be looking to supplement power for your home or business, or if you're looking to install a system to be completely independent of the power grid, New Mexico Water & Electric is fully qualified and prepared to help you realize your goals. In addition to quality installation and service capabilities, NMWE's staff stand ready to assist New Mexico residents in making the best decisions possible for their energy future.

Aside from solar energy concerns, New Mexico Water & Electric's licensed contractors are further prepared to assist customers with the development of water wells, water purification systems, as well as with all other types of electrical services.

CAVEAT EMPTOR

New Mexico Water & Electric (NM License No. 394531) is based in Hillsboro, New Mexico, with offices located at 10849 Highway 152. Further information about how they might help you achieve your solar energy goals, is available by phoning (575) 895-3306, or by connecting online through the firm's website at www.nmweinc.com.

League issues 2020 Guide

The League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico (LWVSNM) announced today that an updated, comprehensive directory of elected officials from Doña Ana County is now available for the public. The 2020 Who's Who of Elected Officials can be downloaded from the LWVSNM website (www.lwvsnm.org/whos-who/) or picked up at Thomas Branigan Memorial Library, Las Cruces City Hall and the Doña Ana County Government Center, said League Co-President Kathy Brook.

"For more than 30 years, the League has produced Who's Who to promote communications with the elected public officials who serve us," Brook said. "During that period, it has expanded considerably to include officials in Anthony, Hatch, Mesilla, Sunland Park and soil and water conversation districts, as well as Las Cruces and Doña Ana County."

Brook said the directory includes phone numbers, email addresses, as well as website addresses for elected officials. In addition to county positions, such as county commissioners, clerk, sheriff, treasurer and assessor, the directory includes federal officials such as the president and vice president, congresspersons and the U.S. senators. State positions from the Executive Branch include the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, and members of the governor's cabinet, among others.

"The League is a non-partisan organization that does not support or oppose any candidate. Once candidates are elected, it's important to get this information into the hands of all residents," said Eileen VanWie, LWVSNM Co-President. "This directory is a way to keep communication transparent for the electorate."

The 18-page directory also has contact information for the Las Cruces City Council, the three school boards in the county, state and local judges, several state commissions, plus the managers for the local governments.

More information about the Who's Who Directory, or to obtain a copy, contact Brook at kathybrook@comcast.net or VanWie at lwvsnm.pres.e@gmail.com.

Finding connections in silence and gratitude

It doesn't have 57,000 names like the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C.

But there are 33 names that are on both walls.

It should mean something to you even if you don't know any of the names on it. But if you know at least one name, it means everything.

I'm talking about the memorial wall at Las Cruces' beautiful Veterans Memorial Park. The wall lists the names of all the area military members who gave their lives in service since World War I.

When Las Cruces SFC Antonio Rey Rodriguez was killed in Afghanistan Feb. 8 of this year, his marked the 204th name to go on the wall. The wall also lists the branches of service of each hero.

Each year, on Memorial Day, the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Mesilla Valley Chapter, in conjunction with the Veterans

Park Memorial Wall Committee, conducts a solemn service honoring the soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen whose names appear on the wall.

The ceremony will go on this year, but with a very limited group in attendance due to the public-health ordinances.

You won't be able to attend in person, but thanks to the Military

Order of the Purple Heart, you can review the names, and honor their sacrifice, in this week's Bulletin, on page 25.

Most years on Memorial Day weekend, I visit a local cemetery, browsing the graves. Typically, after some looking you'll find a military marker of a person who died young during a time of war. You can't know for certain if the deceased died in combat, but if not, you know that a fellow soldier or sailor likely did. I like to take a moment of silence and gratitude at the gravesite.

RICHARD COLTHARP
From the Publisher

This year, I perused the list of names from the wall.

A name jumped out to me pretty quickly: Mike C. Beckett of the Army Air Corps, who died during World War II. I talked with my friend Pat Beckett, and sure enough, the deceased was Pat's uncle. Pat was only 3 or 4 at the time, but one of his earliest memories is of his grandmother, Antonia, spreading out all over the floor the letters Mike had written from overseas. Mike had gone through school in Las Cruces, was engaged to be married and 22 years old when he was declared dead Dec. 27, 1943. He had been missing since November, after being shot down in a B-17 over Germany. A newspaper clipping of the day said Mike was the 35th man from Doña Ana County to die in the war to that point.

Pat said, upon Mike's death, everyone in the family enlisted to go fight, including Herman, Pat's father and Mike's older brother.

"Mike joined the National Guard before the war broke out, and he was part of the 200th Artillery Regiment that wound up going to Bataan," Pat said. "But he was such a good shot the Army Air Corps picked him up as a gunner."

Such is the randomness of war: Your assignment takes you away from one of the cruelest situations in World War II, and death finds you regardless.

Years later, Pat's wife, Becky, lost a first cousin – also named Mike – in the Vietnam War. Not long after, they had a son they named Mike, in honor of their fallen relatives. You may know the younger Mike Beckett; he and his wife, Veronica, run the COAS Bookstore, founded by Pat.

Look over the names yourself, and you'll likely find a connection as well.

Whether you do, or whether you don't, take a pause at one or two of the names, and take a moment of silence and gratitude.

We can never repay the service they gave.

Team Roping Handicap

The sport (passion, or affliction) of team roping experienced a terrific boom in popularity years ago with the creation of an association called United States Team Roping Championships (USTRC). It established a classification system based on the roper's skill. It is comparable to the handicapping system used in golf. The result is that ropers are able to compete with others of 'equal ability' therefore increasing their chances of winning. As a roper improves, his USTRC number increases.

Classifications begin at #1 which is defined as True Beginner. These ropers have trouble controlling the rope and their horse at the same time. Inexperienced riders with little or no roping experience. And it runs

BAXTER BLACK
On the Edge of Common Sense

up to #9 which is defined as National Finals Rodeo quality ropers.

I joined USTRC and applied for a number. After reading the classification description, I realized they didn't go far enough. There are some handicaps, quirks and flaws that deserve special numbers. I suggested these additions:

#3/8 – One who can rope the dummy standing on a barrel, behind his back, between his legs,

from the front seat and blind-folded, but couldn't rope a live elk in an eight foot stock tank if his life depended on it.

#.0025 – Ropers who have been at it several years yet seem to have no aptitude for the sport. Still don't grasp basic concepts like nodding for the steer.

#.5 – Those cowboys condemned to always ride green, spooky, maladjusted "in train-

Only feds can bust their budgets in a crisis

One of the big differences between state and federal governments is that states are required to balance their budgets every year, but congresspersons still bellyache about the “fiscal irresponsibility” of the states.

The federal debt was just under $23 trillion before the Covid-19 pandemic. The last time Congress passed a balanced federal budget was in 1996.

Since then, they’ve completely given up on the traditional budget process. They now fund the government with a series of continuing resolutions, simply repeating what has been done in the past, without any concern as to whether spending aligns with revenue.

States don’t have that option. Nor do they have the option of seeking protection under the nation’s bankruptcy laws, despite suggestions to the contrary by an ill-informed Sen. Mitch McConnell.

States have to make whatever spending cuts or tax increases are necessary to balance the budget every year. In 2017, then-Gov. Susana Martinez had to call a special session to make the cuts needed to make up for an unexpected drop in revenue.

The situation in 2017 seemed like a crisis at the time, and it did result in deep cuts, especially to higher education. But it was caused by politics: a governor and Legislature of differing parties who wouldn’t work together.

The crisis this time is real. And the hole is much deeper. It is estimated that revenue for this fiscal year could fall $2 billion short of expectations.

The other big difference this year is the 2018 court ruling ordering the state to spend more on education. Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham had no reason to be concerned about that ruling when she took office and decided to abandon an appeal that had been filed by Gov. Martinez. But how will the state comply with it now?

It’s clear that the spending increases passed in the last session are not sustainable and must be reconsidered in a special session. But rescinding those hikes won’t be enough to compensate for both the economic shutdown caused by the pandemic and the drop in oil prices caused by a breakdown in international negotiations. The price for oil has bounced back from the day when it was trading for less than zero, but is still about half of what the state had based its budget estimates on.

And it’s not just the state. Municipal governments that rely heavily on gross receipts taxes will continue to see a huge drop in revenue until people feel safe to come out and freely interact once again.

They are the ones who pay for not just emergency services like police, fire and EMTs, but also basic services like trash collection and water delivery.

Las Cruces has enough money in reserves to get by for a while. But a lot of smaller towns were already struggling with a loss in revenue caused by online shopping and will now have to start making cuts to critical services if they don’t get some help.

Congress has passed nearly $3 trillion in relief packages for business and industry. That money has helped stabilize the economy and temporarily saved millions of jobs.

But it makes no sense to throw a lifeline to the private sector while allowing the public sector to drown. And if you think things are bad now, imagine if those basic services are interrupted.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Community thanks

To the editor:

As we begin to get back to “normal” life again, I have been reaching out to individuals and organizations that have gone above and beyond to support our local healthcare heroes. Many of them deserve additional thanks publicly as they have done some truly extraordinary things.

Virgin Galactic quickly

researched and funded testing devices so we can more rapidly diagnose patients locally. This allowed us to better protect our staff and patients. They also provided PPE and fed our staff on numerous occasions, as did many local restaurants and businesses. We are grateful.

Individuals and sewing groups made cloth masks and gowns to help protect our staff and patients.

HARRIS

Our elected officials have gone above and beyond to do what’s best for our community. They’ve listened to input to make difficult recommendations and decisions to protect our families. And the level of COVID-19 in our area has remained very low compared to other areas.

Sen. John Arthur Smith has been a strong voice for fiscal responsibility in New Mexico’s budgeting, but he has been sensitive to infrastructure, social and healthcare needs in southern New Mexico.

Sen. Mary Kay Papen has been a tireless supporter of behavioral-health services, helping New Mexicans in need and mental health providers. She has advocated for accountability of managed-care organizations to make sure that the right services are directed to patients and that providers are paid in a timely manner within a fair regulatory environment.

Most importantly, I want to thank law enforcement and first responders who join us on the frontlines of this pandemic each day.

We’re all ready to get back to business. We are in the business of taking care of those in the community who need healthcare. We at MMC take great pride in the safe, high-quality we provide. Our focus was on safety and quality before COVID-19. Our focus remains.

*John Harris, CEO
Memorial Medical Center

Hospital Week

To the editor:

Hospital Week had deeper meaning this year as the MountainView Regional Medical Center team celebrated our work to provide, safe, high-quality care for patients.

The COVID-19 pandemic has made it crystal clear just how much communities rely on their local hospitals and also how much we rely on you. During the past few weeks, we’ve felt an outpouring of support, and we are grateful to everyone who has delivered a meal, sewn a facemask, left a card, a sign or a chalk drawing, or who has just reached out to one of our caregivers and support team to say, “thank you.”

This pandemic is unlike anything any of us has ever experienced, and it has created anxiety for many, especially when it comes to seeking healthcare services. We are taking extraordinary measures to keep our hospital, urgent cares and clinics clean and safe.

We are screening everyone who comes into the hospital, providing facemasks and other personal protective equipment to staff and patients and rearranging to enable social distancing. Patients with COVID-19 are being caring for in an area that is separate and isolated from the rest of the hospital. Of course, our cleaning staff is disinfecting frequently touched surfaces.

We also want you to know that if you have sudden symptoms that may indicate an emergency health concern, you should seek immediate medical attention. Getting fast treatment could be the difference between life and death. Call 911, come to the hospital and get the help you need.

Many of our doctors offer telehealth visits for those who prefer not to come into the office, but if an in-person visit is required, we are keeping our offices safe – so you can visit your doctor, if needed.

Looking back at Hospital Week, I am so proud of our team and the community. Standing together, we have seen how powerful our human connection really is.

Vote Hamblen

To the editor:

While I respect Senator Mary Kay Papen's service as a legislator, I intend to vote for Carrie Hamblen in the Democratic Primary.

For nearly three decades,

Carrie has been an effective advocate for issues important to Democratic voters: helping establish early domestic-partner benefit policies at New Mexico State University and the City of Las Cruces, serving as CEO of the Las Cruces Green

Chamber of Commerce, and playing a leadership role in the establishment of the Organ Mountains/Desert Peaks National Monument.

She is well-known to small business owners and nonprofits throughout the region as someone who will show up and be counted on their behalf. She will safeguard women's reproductive health, reduce state's dependence on oil and gas, and protect our air, land and water throughout the state.

I'm excited by the leadership shown by Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham, and I want a senator who will work cooperatively with her to address climate change, fund early childhood education and deepen our appreciation for the working people of our state. Carrie Hamblen has what it takes to be that kind of senator, and she deserves our vote in the Democratic Primary.

Let children learn

To the editor:

Teaching has always been about power and control. Going forward, the power-and-control teachers maintain a set lesson plan format, which denies many students the freedom to learn in the way they learn best, which is through their phone or device while sitting at their desk.

Schools are using tech as a supplement to the lesson plan, not a stand-alone resource. Students, who are already way past most teachers' comprehension as to the benefits of it, can self-educate with it. Kids totally understand game theory, maybe not technically, but rapid learning coupled with rewards along the way is how their minds are wired. Why would we ever want to impede this? Because the teacher can't keep up.

ing" horses. Although they might be fairly good ropers, it never shows between the pitching, squeals and cheers from the crowd.

#2 ¾ - Consistently poor ropers but so creative at inventing excuses that they deserve some credit. "Did you see how close that was? I had 'em both, I saw. Then the loop must have snagged on a gum wrapper and it broke my concentration just as my horse switched leads, and in this humidity...blah...blah...blah..."

#1/4 - Left-handers who rope right-handed. Easily spotted by the slight hesitations, looks of confusion and facial tics.

#1/8 - Left-handers who rope left-handed. Heelers who spend their life trying to get in position.

#4F - Usually mature ropers who suffer rotor cuff injuries, bursitis, tennis elbow, carpal tunnel syndrome or other maladies that result in unusual roping styles. Such as one swing, wince and toss it like they're trying to get a booger off their finger.

10+ - Poorly dressed cowboys, ridin' scruffy horses needin' a mane roachin' and tail pullin', carrying a rope that looks like it spent the winter holdin' down tarps, bummin' Copenhagen and wanting to sleep in yer trailer, who can use a rope better than most of us can write our name.

Local 4-H students staying busy while staying at home

By TERESA DEAN

Keeping young people engaged during these times is challenging. With the increase in screen time due to online school, the last thing they want to do is 4-H online too. Participation has decreased a bit, but we created a Quarantine Challenge to encourage members to continue to stay engaged and share with others what they are doing with their 4-H projects.

4-H member Andie Grooms expanding her baking skills while making homemade cinnamon pretzels.

A few things our kids have been working on:

- Sewing face masks. We collaborated with JoAnn's Fabric to gather supplies and serve as a pick-up and drop off location for 4-H members. More than 750 face masks were made and delivered back to JoAnn's, where they were sanitized and dispersed where needed.
- MountainView Regional Medical Center sought assistance with cutting mask liners that serve as a barrier in the masks. Thousands were cut and delivered.
- Virtual Talent Show: Our annual 4-H talent show was scheduled to happen in April. Instead 4-H member Tanner Dean giving his goat a haircut to cool him off for the summer.

Local 4-H member Andie Grooms practicing archery.

- of canceling the event, it was held virtually and give the kids an opportunity to be creative in how they perform their acts.
- Photo Contest: A weekly photo contest with a different theme is announced each week. It has gotten kids outside, where they use their

- creativity to capture the theme. Winners are posted to the Doña Ana County 4-H Facebook page.
- Presentations Competition. Youth participate in various contests that then qualify them to advance to district contest or state 4-H conference. Members record their presentations, teaching others something pertaining to their 4-H project, which will then be judged based on their age division and category of their presentation (agriculture, family and consumer science or general).
- Livestock Projects: Livestock projects have always given 4-H members

4-H member Joah Owens helping cut mask liners, which were delivered to MountainView Regional Medical Center.

- a great deal of responsibility. Having a project to care for an animal can help alleviate isolation and can provide a sense of purpose.
- Clubs continue to have 4-H meetings through Zoom, allowing members to network with each other.

City wants historic location pics; May is Historic Preservation Month

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The City of Las Cruces wants photos of your favorite historic locations in the city.

In a news release, City Preservation Specialist Troy Ainsworth invited people to submit photos of these locations on the city's Facebook page: @CityofLasCruces. Visit the city's historic preservation website (www.las-cruces.org/1738/Preserving-Our-History) for more information.

May is national Historic Preservation Month, "whereby towns and cities nationwide promote their uniqueness and the richness of their respective heritage," the city said in a May 18 news release.

"For Las Cruces, Historic Preservation Month 2020 offers a distinctive moment to acknowledge a rich past and a bright future, particularly for the steps it has taken over the past year to promote its history and buildings," the news release said.

In 2019, the city created a staff position for a preservation planner, adopted a historic preservation ordinance and has appointed seven residents to serve on the city's Historic Preservation Commission. In recent years, community-driven organizations such as Las Esperanzas, the Amador Hotel Foundation and the Doña Ana County Historical Society have promoted the community's history that includes the historical architectural struc-

Preservation Month began as National Preservation Week, May 6-12, 1973. The National Trust for Historic Places (NTHP) expanded it to the entire month of May in 2005. Visit www.savingplaces.org/. The Las Cruces City Council proclaimed May as Historic Preservation Month at its May 18 regular meeting.

Construction is underway for a new, 14-acre cell at Corralitos Regional Landfill. Installation of the high-density polyethylene liner is complete, topped with two feet of sand. The $4.5 million cell is the landfill's fourth. The third cell was completed in 2013. Each day, approximately 250,000 residents and businesses in Las Cruces and Doña Ana County produce more than 500 tons of solid waste. Approximately 5 percent is diverted as recyclable material, but the rest is buried. Corralitos Regional Landfill is on a 600-acre parcel located along I-10, 15 miles west of Las Cruces. It is owned and operated by the South Central Solid Waste Authority, which can be reached at (575) 528-3800 or visit www.SCSWA.net.

Cruces Contigo: “With you” in English; together in any language

Local nonprofit pairs partners to check up on each other during pandemic

By KARI BACHMAN
For The Bulletin

The National Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) states that a key to coping with stress caused by the pandemic is to connect with others. While it's critical that we abide by COVID-19 physical distancing guidelines, they go against our human need for connection and can lead to unnecessary health complications.

For example, people may hesitate to seek medical help for fear of contracting the virus. As well, their usual support systems may be stretched thin.

Loneliness and isolation are not just unpleasant. They are correlated with negative health outcomes as well as high health care utilization because lonely people often seek companionship through medical visits.

To address these challenges, Doña Ana Communities United (DACU) has initiated Cruces Contigo. DACU pairs up interested Las Cruces from all walks of life. Each pair agrees to check in on each other a few times per week. The intent is to provide a link to the outside world, one which can help ensure that people are not experiencing medical or other crises. Check-ins usually occur by phone or text, though some happen via email or in person from a safe distance. The pair decides if they would like to conduct quick check-ins or have more extended conversations.

Cruces Contigo is available free of charge to all residents of Las Cruces, particularly those with health or economic challenges. While DACU initiated the program with members of the Mesilla Valley Timebank in late March, you do not need to be a timebank member to participate.

Already, one Contigo participant was rescued from a life-threatening medication imbalance when his Contigo partner noticed his text messages weren't making sense. In another case, a Contigo participant is helping her partner learn to use his new cell phone so he can connect with family mem-

If you would like to make a new friend as you help someone else stay connected, please contact Adalis Gonzalez at 915-314-0746 or DACUAdalis@gmail.com.

You can also join the timebank, through which county residents share their skills with one another without exchanging money. To become a member, make plans to attend DACU's June videoconference orientation. For more information, visit the DACU website at www.da-cu.org.

The timebank is one of three current DACU initiatives. The other two are social equity mapping and the Just Community radio show on Las Cruces radio station KTAL-LP 101.5, 8-9 a.m. every Thursday. “The show features voices that are less often heard in our community,” DACU said on its website.

The nonprofit DACU, 151 S. Walnut St., unit B-13, was founded in 2013 to create “welcoming spaces for all people, especially those whose voices and stories go unheard,” according to its mission statement. “We build genuine relationships, carry out uplifting projects and engage with local government.”

Contact Bachman at 575-496-4330 and dacu-kari@gmail.com. Visit www.da-cu.org.

NOTICE OF SALE

FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION ("FANNIE MAE"), Plaintiff, v.

BARRY WALTON AKA BARRY E. WALTON, KAREN WALTON AKA KAREN P. WALTON, VICTORIA AVELLANE-

DA, PORTFOLIO RECOVERY ASSOCIATES, LLC, Defendants.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the undersigned Special Master will on June 23, 2020 at 9:00 am, outside the main entrance of the 3rd Judicial District Courthouse, 201 W. Picacho, Las Cruces, NM, sell and convey to the highest bidder for cash all the right, title, and interest of the above-named defendants in and to the following described real estate located in said County and State:

Lot 58 in Block 2 of Northrise Estates Unit 4, located in the City of Las Cruces, Dona Ana County, New Mexico, as the same is shown and designated on the plat thereof filed for record in the office of the County Clerk of Dona Ana County, New Mexico on January 16, 2003 and recorded in Book 20 at Pages 224-225, Plat Records.

The address of the real property is 2564 Millennium St., Las Cruces, NM 88011. Plaintiff does not represent or warrant that the stated street address is the street address of the described property; if the street address does not match the legal description, then the property being sold herein is the property more particularly described above, not the property located at the street address; any prospective purchaser at the sale is given notice that it should verify the location and address of the property being sold. Said sale will be made pursuant to the judgment entered on September 27, 2019 in the above entitled and numbered cause, which was a suit to foreclose a mortgage held by the above Plaintiff and wherein Plaintiff was adjudged to have a lien against the above-described real estate in the sum of $273,699.02 plus interest from July 8, 2019 to the date of sale at the rate of 3.75000% per annum, the costs of sale, including the Special Master's fee, publication costs, and Plaintiff's costs expended for taxes, insurance, and keeping the property in good repair. Plaintiff has the right to bid at such sale and submit its bid verbally or in writing. The Plaintiff may apply all or any part of its judgment to the purchase price in lieu of cash.

At the date and time stated above, the Special Master may postpone the sale to such later date and time as the Special Master may specify.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that this sale may be subject to a bankruptcy filing, a payoff, a reinstatement or any other condition that would cause the cancellation of this sale. Further, if any of these conditions exist, at the time of sale, this sale will be null and void, the successful bidder's funds shall be returned, and the Special Master and the mortgagee giving this notice shall not be liable to the successful bidder for any damages.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the real property and improvements concerned with herein will be sold subject to any and all patent reservations, easements, all recorded and unrecorded liens not foreclosed herein, and all recorded and unrecorded special assessments and taxes that may be due. Plaintiff and its attorneys disclaim all responsibility for, and the purchaser at the sale takes the property subject to, the valuation of the property by the County Assessor as real or personal property, affixture of any mobile or manufactured home to the land, deactivation of title to a mobile or manufactured home on the property, if any, environmental contamination on the property, if any, and zoning violations concerning the property, if any. NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the purchaser at such sale shall take title to the above-described real property subject to rights of redemption.

What's Available NOW On

“Movie: The Tracker”

From Italy and director Giorgio Serafini (“Johnny’s Gone,” “Hitting the Wall”) comes this 2019 actioner about a mysterious stranger who travels to a remote village where his wife and daughter were kidnapped 15 years earlier. Dolph Lundgren (“Black Water”), Cosimo Fusco (“Friends”), Marta Gastini (“Compulsion”), Anna Falchi (“Paparazzi”) and Bruno Bilotta (“The Tourist”) head the cast.

“Movie: I Still Believe”

This faith-based 2020 drama movie stars KJ Apa (“Riverdale”) in the true story of singer-songwriter

Jeremy Camp and his first wife (played by Britt Robertson). He knew of her bout with ovarian cancer before they wed, then they learned of the progression of her illness following their honeymoon, while his career was on the rise.

“Movie: Disappearance at Clifton Hill”

From Canada and filmmaker Albert Shin (“In Her Place”) comes this 2019 mystery about a young woman (Tuppence Middleton, “Sense8”) who returns to her Niagara Falls, Ont., hometown to run the family motel and becomes obsessed with memories of a kidnapping she believes she witnessed as a child.

hulu

“Ramy”

Season 2 of this comedy series finds Ramy (Golden Globe winner Ramy Youssef) delving deeper into his journey as a young New Jersey Muslim caught between his religion and his secular generation, finding a new Muslim community and embracing a deeper commitment to his faith. Mahershala Ali, Mohammed Amer, Hiam Abbass, Amr Waked and May Calamawy are also among cast returnees. (ORIGINAL)

Norma McCorvey

6 p.m. on TBS
Movie: San Andreas

This hit 2015 disaster movie depicts the havoc that ensues following tremors along the title fault line in California. The special-effects wizards are as much stars of the film as Dwayne Johnson, playing a rescue helicopter pilot who saves his estranged wife (Carla Gugino), then heads off with her to rescue their daughter (Alexandra Daddario). The fine supporting cast includes Paul Giamatti, Archie Panjabi (“The Good Wife”) and Ioan Gruffudd (“Forever”).

10 p.m. on FX
AKA Jane Roe

FX Networks’ first documentary feature, this new film from producer-director Nick Sweeney profiles Norma McCorvey, the defendant in the historic Roe v. Wade Supreme Court case in 1973. That ruling found that state laws banning abortion were unconstitutional. The documentary chronicles how in the years after that, McCorvey dramatically changed her views on abortion, particularly after undergoing a religious conversion in 1995.

Samara Weaving

8:05 a.m. on SHOW
Movie: The Help

Surely one of the box-office "sleepers" of 2011, given its sustained success, this engrossing adaptation of Kathryn Stockett's best seller finds a would-be author (Emma Stone) interviewing Southern housekeepers about their experiences. Viola Davis and Oscar winner Octavia Spencer are superb as two of the most prominent interviewees. The excellent cast also includes Bryce Dallas Howard, Jessica Chastain, Sissy Spacek, Cicely Tyson, Aunjanue Ellis and Mary Steenburgen.

6 p.m. on APL
Saved By The Barn

In the new episode "Baby Fever," Dan McKernan and his team at the Barn Sanctuary partner with Michigan Humane Society to find forever homes for four calves who have spent their life before now in shameful neglect. They also welcome a squirming litter of lively piglets. Meanwhile, Chris is tasked to build a safe but spacious playground for the energetic goats.

7 p.m. on TRAV
Paranormal 911

A new episode called "Scarred, War House Haunting and Winged Demon" opens as EMT Rob Thompson pulls a man who is near death from a flaming wreck. Another segment follows police officer Vicki Schramm as she responds to a call that an armed man is breaking into an abandoned home. Finally, paramedic Jackie Williams assists a man who appears to be suffering a serious psychotic breakdown.

7 p.m. on OWN
Fear Not With Iyanla Vanzant

Life coach Iyanla Vanzant welcomes experts and notable guests to sit down with her and discuss suggestions on how to live one's life without letting fear diminish joy and fulfillment. The show also features advice for viewers at home regarding how they can incorporate some of these life-changing principles into their own lives.

8 p.m. on OWN
Girlfriends Check In

This new weekly celebration of sisterhood continues its six-week run as a new group of professional women and their friends, plus some special guests, get together for an informal hour of chat and good times as they exchange ideas and insights into both challenges and triumphs they and other women like them face in today's challenging world.

9 p.m. on HBO
Movie: Ready or Not

Wedding nights can often be fraught with tension, but newlywed Grace Le Domas (Samara Weaving) gets a truly nasty jolt when she discovers she must spend hers trying to stay alive in Matt Bettinelli-Olpin and Tyler Gillett's delightfully twisted 2019 comedy horror film. Specifically, Samara must hide while the rest of her new family tries to hunt her down and kill her. Mark O'Brien, Adam Brody, Henry Czerny, Andie MacDowell, Melanie Scrofano and Kristian Bruun also star.

Nathan Lane

6 p.m. on DSC
Naked and Afraid XL

Contestants on this harrowing reality competition series never have had an easy time of it, but the 12 new survivalists introduced in tonight's season premiere will confront unprecedented challenges during their 40 days on the scorching savannah of South Africa. Only the strong will make it to the end of their time in this brutal region, known as the Valley of the Banished, and with resources scarcer than ever, anyone not pulling his weight will be cast out for the good of the group.

6 p.m. on TNT
Snowpiercer
In "Prepare to Brace," Layton (Daveed Diggs) uses his new authority as train detective to investigate the murder while also gathering some vital intel on the side for the brewing revolution. Elsewhere, Melanie (Jennifer Connelly) is challenged by a critical shortage of resources, which could lead to potentially drastic consequences for everyone aboard the train.

7 p.m. on KRWG
National Memorial Day Concert
This popular annual event had to be canceled this year due to the coronavirus pandemic, but the celebration will continue in a "virtual" context, with longtime friends and hosts Joe Mantegna and Gary Sinise reuniting (while maintaining appropriate social distance) in Sinise's California office.

7 p.m. on COOK
Carnival Eats
Host Noah Cappe hits the Wisconsin State Fair, where a local brewery serves up the ultimate in deep-fried combos of beer, bratwurst and cheese curds in the new episode "You've Got Ale." Dessert options include a crazily inverted new form of milk and cookies. Elsewhere, at the Southern California Fair, a killer combination of grilled hot dogs and onion rings gets Noah's attention on a day that is rounded out with a sweet treat featuring cold-brew coffee.

8 p.m. on TLC
sMothered
Two new mother-and-daughter pairings are introduced as this hit reality series opens Season 2 with a premiere called "What Mom Wants, Mom Gets." Helicopter mom Sunhe tries to reconnect with daughter Angelica by crashing her date with Jason. Elsewhere, Cristina and Kathy come up with a scheme designed to convince Carlo that they should all move in together.

10 p.m. on HBO
I Know This Much Is True
Sheffer (Rosie O'Donnell) rehearses Dominick (Mark Ruffalo) for a critical hearing with Hatch's review board that could decide Thomas' fate in the new "Episode 3." Later, a chance encounter with an old classmate plucks the scab off some painful childhood memories. Dominick reflects on his years with Thomas in college, where Dominick met Dessa (Kathryn Hahn) and Thomas' illness first began to manifest. Meanwhile, Joy (Imogen Poots) tries to solve the problems in her relationship with Dominick.

11 p.m. on SHOW
Penny Dreadful:
City of Angels
In the new episode "Children of the Royal Sun," Sister Molly (Kerry Bishé) is shocked to discover Josefina (Jessica Garza) is Tiago's (Daniel Zovatto) sister after Josefina confides in her. Meanwhile, Tiago and Lewis' (Nathan Lane) investigation leads them to the Vega House. Townsend (Michael Gladis) gets an unwelcome lecture about his personal life. Later, Tiago confronts Mateo (Johnathan Nieves).

11:30 p.m. on HBO
Run
This beguiling character-driven dramedy from Vicky Jones — a frequent collaborator of Emmy-winning writer Phoebe Waller-Bridge ("Fleabag") — reaches the end of its first season with a finale called "Trick," in which Ruby and Billy ponder their future together as the end of their journey together approaches. Elsewhere, Babe and Laurel are forced together as they follow a new lead.

6 p.m. on LIFE
Movie: I Was Lorena Bobbitt

Lorena Bobbitt is both an executive producer and narrator of this new docudrama, which chronicles her marriage to John Bobbitt (played by Luke Humphrey) and the events leading up to the day when she finally turns the tables on her abusive spouse. Actress Dani Montalvo plays Lorena's on-screen incarnation; Niamh Wilson, Richard Clarkin, Jorja Cadence, Michael Brown and Landon Norris also are feaured in this 2020 production directed by Danishka Esterhazy.

7 p.m. on FOOD

With Martha Stewart

In a new episode called "Suddenly Stormy," the four remaining campers awaken early for a breakfast-themed Counselor's Challenge. The campers are tasked with making an elevated breakfast treat that incorporates such foraged ingredients as lavender, rosemary, lemon and honey. Carla Hall and Dan Langan join Martha Stewart as judges; Jesse Palmer is the host.

7 p.m. on HISTORY
Grant

Pulitzer Prize-winning biographer Ron Chernow and actor Leonardo DiCaprio are among the executive producers of this new three-night miniseries, which attempts to blow away some of the myths and falsehoods surrounding the life and career of U.S. president Ulysses S. Grant. Interweaving dramatic scenes with expert commentary and archival imagery, the production views the former Civil War general as an underappreciated figure who worked to heal his country in the tense period following the War Between the States.

tonight's picks

Sophia Vergara

6 p.m. on DSC
Deadliest Catch

In the new episode "The Russian Front," Junior makes the risky decision to venture into Russian waters in his quest for golden crab, while co-captains Jake and Johnathan try to broker an alliance with longtime rival Keith Colburn. Short on his quota and running out of options, Wild Bill resigns himself to seeking work in Russia. Josh Harris goes all-in with his gut instincts to save his season.

6 p.m. on TRAV
Ghost Adventures

In a new episode with the hair-raising title "Screams of the Dead," Zak Bagans, Nick Groff and Aaron Goodwin head to South Carolina to explore a 130-year-old jail that once housed a prisoner many criminologists consider to have been the first female serial killer in America. The episode later finds the team investigating bloodcurdling screams of ghostly activity in Arizona.

7 p.m. on KTSM
America's Got Talent

Former "Modern Family" actress Sofia Vergara joins the judging panel along with the returning Heidi Klum, Simon Cowell and Howie Mandel, as this hit reality competition series opens Season 15, hosted by Terry Crews ("Brooklyn Nine-Nine"). The series was able to film some audition rounds earlier this spring before the coronavirus pandemic sent several states into lockdown, but the show also is considering acts from performers who submitted audition recordings while quarantined at home.

7 p.m. on ID
Brittany Murphy:
An ID Mystery

Fans were devastated when vivacious young actress Brittany Murphy died at age 32, her cause of death ruled as natural causes. In the aftermath, her husband, Simon Monjack, and mother, Sharon Murphy, set off on a bizarre media blitz that seemed to spark more questions than answers, especially after Monjack died within months under similar circumstances. In his last interview, Brittany's father, the late Angelo Bertolotti, made still more bizarre allegations against other family members and questioned the coroner's verdict.

8 p.m. on TRU TV
Tirdy Works

Desperately needing a financial infusion for her Tirdy Works business venture, Mary manages to come up with a product that could earn her a hallowed spot in the multimillion-dollar cannabis industry in the new episode "Greener Pastures." Meanwhile, in the nearby community of Pittsfield, Mary also comes up with a strategy to save a historic community theater that is on the verge of going under.

9:01 p.m. on KTSM
World of Dance

Jennifer Lopez, Derek Hough and NE-YO, all dazzling dancers in their own right, return as the judging panel as this hit reality competition series opens Season 4. "On our show we always say dance is the universal language," says Lopez, also an executive producer. "It brings us all together, which I think is something we all need during these challenging times." Scott Evans also returns as host.

Ghost Hunters

In the Season 2 finale "Ghost Hunters Return to Waverly Hills," Grant Wilson jumps at the chance to take his team of paranormal investigators to one of his favorite haunts, Waverly Hills Sanatorium in Louisville, Ky. In the ghostbusting community, the long-abandoned facility is widely regarded as one of the most haunted places on Earth. What makes the invitation even more provocative is that it comes as a call for help from the new owners.

7 p.m. on LIFE
Married at First Sight

After 10 seasons of chronicling this social experiment among couples in the United States, this series shifts to an international focus featuring 12 new couples from the other side of the world in a Down Under edition of this reality show franchise. Set against beautiful new locales, "Australia: Season 7, Episode 1" opens by introducing the 20 hopeful singles who have decided to take this ultimate leap of faith, counseled by relationship experts John Aiken, Mel Schilling and Dr. Trisha Stratford.

Marvel's Agents of

Coulson (Clark Gregg) and his agents are hurled backwards through time and stranded in 1931 as this series launches its seventh and final season with "The New Deal." The all-new Zephyr is set to time-jump at any moment, so the team has to hurry and find out exactly what happened. If they fail, it'll mean disaster for the past, present and future of Earth. So, no pressure. Ming-Na Wen, Chloe Bennet, Elizabeth Henstridge, Iain De Caestecker and Jeff Ward also star.

11 p.m. on FX
What We Do in the Shadows

In the new episode "Collaboration," Nandor's (Kayvan Novak) old familiar from the 1970s unexpectedly returns to Staten Island, so a miffed Guillermo (Harvey Guillen) moves out to begin service to a new master, one he hopes will be more appreciative. Elsewhere, Nadja and Laszlo (Natasha Demetriou, Matt Berry) decide to revive their old musical act. Mark Proksch also stars.

Restaurant: Impossible

The new episode "Revisited: Helping One of Our Own" finds host Robert Irvine back in Escondido, Calif., a year after he visited that community with his team to help Kaitlyn, the owner of Rose's Cafe. In the months since then, however, Kaitlyn suffered another catastrophe in the form of a near-fatal car accident. Now Robert has returned to pull together a major event he hopes will help Kaitlyn with her mounting medical bills.

8 p.m. on KFOX
Labor of Love

In the new episode "Crazy, Stupid, Bear," a camping trip in the woods puts the men's protective instincts to the test. Later, one of the men stirs up tension in the house when he violates the bro-code during one-on-one time with Kristy and reveals insider info on some of the other contestants. Ultimately, Kristy picks two men for her first set of dates. Kristin Davis is the host.

8:30 p.m. on KDBC
Broke

Jackie (Pauley Perrette) is taken aback when her ex-husband, Barry (guest star Kyle Bornheimer), unexpectedly shows up for a visit, but she quickly pulls herself together, realizing this development could give her an opportunity to gain full custody of Sammy (Antonio Corbo) in the new episode "Barry's Back." Elsewhere, Javier (Jaime Camil) struggles to find a truly meaningful birthday gift for his father. Natasha Leggero and Izzy Diaz co-star.

“Movie: The Vast of Night”

Andrew Patterson made an impressive feature film directorial debut with this eerie 2019 sci-fi drama about two 1950s New Mexico teens who investigate the source of a strange audio frequency coming through the radio, a story framed as an episode of a “Twilight Zone”-esque anthology TV series. Sierra McCormick (“Supernatural”), Jake Horowitz (“A Midsummer Night’s Dream”), Gail Cronauer (“Odd Man Out”) and Cheyenne Barton (“Transient”) star.

“Movie: The Goldfinch”

A wealthy family in New York’s Upper East Side takes in a boy whose mother was killed in a bombing at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in this 2019 drama movie from director John Crowley (“Closed Circuit”). Ansel Elgort, Nicole Kidman, Jeffrey Wright, Luke Wilson and Sarah Paulson head a talented cast.

“Jimmy O. Yang: Good Deal”

The comic, writer and actor known for his portrayal of Jian-Yang on “Silicon Valley” shares hilarious interactions with immigrant parents, gives his thoughts on Matt Damon and opines on whether ghosts will haunt one-bedroom apartments in this Nov. 2019 performance at the Neptune Theater in Seattle. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Trial by Fire”

Edward Zwick (“Traffic,” “Shakespeare in Love”) directed this 2018 biographical drama that tells the true, tragic story of Cameron Todd Willingham (Jack O’Connell, “Unbroken”), who was put to death for killing his three children after evidence and testimony that would have exonerated him were suppressed. Laura Dern, Emily Meade (“The Deuce”) and Chris Coy (“The Front Runner”) also star.

Ditch clean-up continues as irrigation season nears

By KAREN RAY
For The Bulletin

Irrigation season in the Mesilla and south valley is underway, and the Elephant Butte Irrigation District (EBID) is pushing hard to finish canal cleaning, removing trash and debris to allow water to be safely delivered to farm fields and orchards without hazard to the public.

Canals are often used as a dumping ground and it is an ongoing task to keep them free of obstructing trash, according to EBID Manager Gary Esslinger, whose employees are running backhoes to haul large trash out of the delivery. Others are mowing and burning weeds, brush and other plant debris that accumulates.

EBID coordinates with the public works staff of the City of Las Cruces and Codes Enforcement along with the Las Cruces Police Department as they work to maintain these ditches and canals, especially around culverts that cross city streets, for which the city retains responsibility.

Keeping the ditches clean is magnified by the COVID-19 pandemic.

EBID Systems Director James Narvaez said people are a factor, as well. "In the midst of this whole COVID-19 and the tightening down of people not able to go to certain locations, people don't have a place to stay anymore. We're seeing a lot more of them living alongside the canal banks and inside the culverts under the city streets. There has definitely been a big uptick in that this year, but we're trying to stay on top of it. We do our best because they are part of the community too and we try to give them a heads-up."

Water deliveries will begin around May 18. Farmers can call the Water Records Department Monday through Friday 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 575-524-8003 or by email at waterrecords@ebid-nm.org.

The district is well-stocked with inventory of hand sanitizer, masks and everything necessary to provide a safe environment.

Neighborhood gallery blossoms in Picacho Hills

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

After Paul Maxwell and other Picacho Hills artists had to cancel the Art in the Garden event this year, Maxwell started thinking about other ways to share his work.

He had a big spring planned with the Art in the Garden event and two other shows planned in Las Cruces to show his artwork. Then he remembered Florence, Italy, and the amazing street-chalk artists recreating the work of the masters on the ground.

“I got the idea maybe I could do some sidewalk art, and I walked out, and of course I don’t have any sidewalks,” he said. “I came up with the idea that I could get some plywood, and I had some house paint samples.”

Maxwell had participated in a Las Cruces downtown mural project in December 2019, and he had paint leftover. The first two panes he painted were copies of some of his own original acrylic works. He works in his front yard under a giant desert willow tree, where he can wave at neighbors cruising by.

There are some challenges in painting art in house paint outdoors, he admitted. It is hot and windy sometimes and house paint dries quickly.

“I try to get it done fast,” Maxwell said. “These colors don’t come out of a jar. I have a basic blue, red, a couple of greens, white and some tans. I mix like I do my acrylic. I use big brushes and move quickly. As an artist, it’s a big challenge, but I have fun doing it at the end of the day.”

While the paintings are not for sale, he intends to eventually have a charity auction of some kind to raise money for the local food bank.

Other paintings that are part of “Our Neighborhood Gallery,” (6648 Vista Hermosa) include Van Gogh and Monet replications. One of Van Gogh’s paintings, part of the Saintes-Maries series, has been one of Maxwell’s favorites for a long time, since he saw the original at a San Francisco art museum. He takes suggestions at pmaxwell@bnsi.org.

“People ask me all the time, ‘Have you always been an artist?’ and the answer is yes,” Maxwell said. “As a kid, I used to pick up pencils. As I grew up, I would do stuff in school, and I was doing portraits and oils in my teen years and my early 20s, but I was also going to college. I knew I had to make a living, and I also wanted to be financially successful, and I knew art is not paying bills.”

Maxwell ended up with a doctorate in engineering and science. He taught for a while, was a consultant in Washington, D.C. for several years, served as a diplomat, was vice-president of research at the University of Texas-

El Paso and ran his own nonprofit in Santa Teresa, the Bi-National Sustainability Lab.

“I took kind of a crooked road down the path of creativity,” he said. “But science and engineering are creative arts, as well, only they don’t like to be called art. They like to think it’s all logical and analytical, but the reality is most scientists I have worked with over the years are very creative.”

In 2012, Maxwell was ready for a life change, and since art was something he wanted to explore, it became an opportunity to move in that direction. Now living in Picacho Hills, he has been taking classes, art training and creating art ever since.

Mesilla Valley
Military Order of the Purple Heart,
Chapter 2004

Each year, at the Veterans Memorial Park in Las Cruces, the Military Order of The Purple Heart, Mesilla Valley Chapter, in conjunction with the Veterans Memorial Park Wall Committee, conducts a solemn service honoring Southern New Mexico's fallen military members listed on the memorial wall. This year, the service goes on the evening of Monday, May 25, at 8 p.m., albeit without public attendance, and a 204th name is added, SFC Antonio Rey Rodriguez. Help us remember them all.

*To Fallen soldiers let us sing
Where no rockets fly nor bullets wing
Our broken brothers let us wing
To the mansions of the Lord*

*No more weeping
No more fight
No friends bleeding through the night
Just divine embrace Eternal light*

In the mansions of the Lord

*Where no mothers cry
And no children weep
We shall stand and guard
Though the angels sleep
Oh the ages let us keep
The mansions of the Lord*

Photographer Mel Stone: the art of getting the shot; gallery to re-open Saturdays

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Photographer Mel Stone was born in farmhouse outside Solway, Minnesota. He came to Las Cruces in 2010 and opened Mesquite Art Gallery in a remodeled 1898 adobe on Mesquite Street in the Mesquite Historic District.

Stone has a BA in chemistry from St. Olaf College, an MA in economics and mathematics from the University of North Dakota and a Ph.D. in economics from rado Bolder.

“I taught at the university level for a few years, then got bit by the TV news bug,” Stone said.

For about 30 years, he was “a one-man band TV news guy (photographer, reporter, writer and editor), which was pretty serious work,” Stone said. “My first, serious still photography was chasing butterflies around northern prairies.”

Stone bought his first digital camera and high-quality inkjet printer in 2005 and now carries a Fujifilm X-2 in a holster with a 50-200 mm lens and an X-t3 with 18-55 mm lens on a strap around his neck.

Now 77, Stone sells his work at the Las Cruces Farmers and Crafts Market and his gallery at 340 N. Mesquite St., which also features the works of other artists.

Six of his photographs are featured in the book “Seeing In Sixes, 2019, published by Lenswork.

Stone re-opened his gallery on Saturday, May 16. Current hours are 11 a.m.-5 p.m. on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Saturday hours likely will change, he said, when the downtown Las Cruces Farmers and Crafts Market re-opens. Text Stone at 575-640-3502 to make sure the gallery is open before you visit.

NM SENATE 38

Paid for by the Committee to Elect Carrie Hamblen | (575) 496-5242

On a snowy, icy Saturday, I headed out on Dripping Springs Road to one of my favorite spots and took a photograph of the snow-capped Organs. I shot and processed the file in color, then decided to look at a black and white conversion.

PHOTOGRAPHS BY MEL STONE

Quite a few years after shooting 'Organ Sunset,' I revisited my favorite dead tree... a few more branches gone, but still photogenic. When I showed up, there was another photographer on the scene, but when the sun set, he left; I didn't. Then, the mountains and sky turned purple. Needless to say, I got the shot, he didn't.

When I moved to Las Cruces (spring of 2010), each evening, if conditions looked favorable (a few clouds over the mountains and quite clear for the setting sun in the west), I'd drive over to Mesilla where this beautiful, dead tree stood on the edge of a field. After I got this shot I didn't go back for quite some time. Without clouds, the sky just goes on forever... the clouds add some dimension.

Film Las Cruces names '20 contest winners

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Film Las Cruces (FLC) has named the winners of its April "At Home! Movie Contest.

The winners by category are: Best of Under 18 category and Best of Show (audience vote), "Wired: A Quarantine Story," by Jair Garcia; Best Short Film, "Ring Ring," by David Salcido; Best Family Film, "Les Misérables," by Lori Cleveland and family; Best Public Service Announcement, "Stay Connected," by Ariana Mosley and Desiree Ramos; and Best of Under 18 (runner-up), "The Light" by Kendra van Doorn.

"As someone whose interest in film was sparked by our fantastic media programs and educators at the Las Cruces Public Schools, it is incredible to see the work of our next generation of filmmakers and content creators," said FLC Film Liaison Jon Foley. "We had one [submission] from an 11-year-old that was very similar to the type of Lego stop-motion I used to do at his age. His use of green screen, voiceover and sound effects shows tremendous talent. The family films brought so much joy to us as well. I nearly spat out my coffee in laughter during 'Les Misérables' when they made a joke about playing ultimate frisbee on Zoom."

"Wired: A Quarantine Story' is about a teenager struggling during times of quarantine to find himself back to the real world after being wired to his phone for so long," said filmmaker Jair Garcia, a 15-year-old freshman at Oñate High School. "I always take my filming really personal and take real-life situations and exaggerate on them to make a film. I'd begun to use my phone a little bit too much and I realized after praying a couple of times for an idea for my film, that I still have a family in front of me to help me cope with these times. So,

I implied that idea into my film and after 40 minutes of writing I had a script.

"I was stoked when I heard my film had won best of show. It would be awesome to pursue filmmaking is the future. I could take the two things I love, cinema and music, and implement them into my films, like one of my favorite directors, Damien Chazelle."

"I'd like to thank the whole community for voting for my film," Jair added. "Oñate, thank you for posting me on your pages. All my friends and family, and Ms. P.W. for making this possible and for helping me along the way."

Foley said FLC received 611 votes in the contest. For more information, visit www.filmlascruces.com.

Payroll-protection loans are popular, tricky to navigate

By JESS WILLIAMS
Las Cruces Bulletin

Banks in Las Cruces are busy processing loans for businesses that are taking advantage of the Payroll Protection Program (PPP) authorized by the COVID-19 relief package from the federal government

Jed Fanning, president of Citizen's Bank of Las Cruces, told Bulletin Publisher Richard Coltharp that his bank alone has staff working in shifts that begin at 4 a.m. to process all the applications they're receiving each week. He estimated Citizen's Bank has processed more than 800 loan applications through the program.

The Bulletin reached out to a local expert about the program, Christine Wright at Beasley Mitchell and Company, whose clients have been asking for information about the program and whether participating would work for them.

Bulletin: Are a lot of Las Cruces businesses taking advantage of the payroll-protection pro-

Wright: I recently saw statistics from the Small Business Administration indicating more than 5,300 loans were approved as of mid-April, so it's clear that New Mexico businesses are benefitting from this program. My firm has helped hundreds of clients understand and apply for PPP loans, and from my conversations with local bankers I know they're busy processing a large number of loans. Based on this, I know that many Las Cruces have already utilized this program, and I'm still helping clients with their applications.

Bulletin: Is the program a loan or a grant?

Wright: The PPP is a loan available to business owners and non-profit organizations, and this loan is forgivable if borrowers use the money to keep paying their employees and comply with other program requirements. Any amount not forgiven will be a short-term, low-interest loan.

Bulletin: How many payroll cycles is it designed to cover?

Wright: The loan amount is based on 2.5 months of an employer's average [payroll], but after a business receives the loan, they have only eight weeks (or roughly two months) to spend “Since COVID-19 hit and the stay-at-home or-

Life Options & Advocacy: a voice for the elderly

By JESS WILLIAMS
Las Cruces Bulletin

During the time of COVID-19, many elderly people are isolated and alone. At least one local company works each day to alleviate the loneliness.

Life Options & Advocacy, LLC, (LO&A) has been owned and operated by Kat Mosier since 2006 as a home-based business. Mosier, along with Susan Shoberg and Mary Butkewich work closely with clients.

“We call ourselves healthcare advocates for the elderly,” Mosier said.

In many cases, LO&A holds an individual’s healthcare power of attorney. In other cases, they act as the “delegated agent” of the person holding power of attorney.

And in still other cases, they act as the elderly person’s contracted advocate, working alongside them to research and decide upon issues that arise relative to the patient’s care and quality of living.

“The vast majority of our clients reside in assisted living, all of which have been on lockdown since March,” Mosier said. “Our company policy has always been that we visit our clients who live in a facility a minimum of once a week to make sure all is well, and they have no issues. We confer with staff if the client would rather not have a visit or if there are questions. With the lockdown, we’ve tried to supplement with phone calls to either the facility

Mosier said clients who live independently in a facility “are a little easier to see, and we have continued to do medical appointments as needed while using precautions such as masks and gloves.”

By whichever method they can, she said, LO&A staff communicates with each client on a regular basis and continues to assist with whatever they need.

“We collaborate with the client and the family. Our goal is to make sure everyone is safe and comfortable with whatever is going on at the time,” Mosier said, adding “we’re available 24/7/365 days a year.”

LOANS

the money. Fortunately, business owners are able to use up to 25 percent of their loan proceeds on certain non-payroll costs, such as rent or mortgage interest and utilities.

Bulletin: What are the main hesitations of business owners in terms of enrolling?

Wright: In my experience, virtually all business owners want to know whether they should apply for the program. Most business owners know the basics, but they want more information to help them be confident in their decision-making. This is a new program, and business owners want to understand how it benefits them, what the rules are to receive loan forgiveness and get answers to their specific questions. That’s where my firm has been able to help. By March 30, we had created a video that explained how the program works, and we reached out to all of our clients to let them know how we could help them navigate through the PPP process.

Bulletin: What advice do you give clients who want to enroll but are unsure?

Wright: I help them understand the program, address their specific concerns and challenges and help them consider what other options are available. For example, a business who is shut down will struggle to meet the requirement to use 75 percent of their loan proceeds on payroll costs, in this case, it would be appropriate to consider various other SBA programs. For clients who are able to maintain their payroll without PPP, the employer retention tax credit is a great option but isn’t available to PPP recipients.

Bulletin: What am I not asking that’s important?

Wright: We should stress the importance of planning how business owners will use their PPP money. In order to obtain loan forgiveness, they should make sure the money will be spent in the required time period on allowable expenses and have the necessary documentation they’ll need in order to obtain loan forgiveness. My firm has developed a “PPP Loan Tracker,” which we use to help our clients plan their PPP expenditures, and we start this process as soon as the client’s loan has been approved.

It’s also important to focus on the intent of the Payroll Protection Program, which is to help businesses continue to pay employees and other expenses. I’ve experienced first-hand how the PPP program has enabled our local businesses to stay afloat. In many cases the businesses could not have survived without this help.

Unprecedented recession makes forecasting difficult

One thing taught to every young economist is that forecasting outside the sample is dangerous and that such forecasts are often little better than guesses. The problem with COVID-19 is that it is outside the sample. We have no historical precedent for the current situation, so we're flying blind as we seek to develop policies.

CHRIS ERICKSON
State of the Economy

Our lack of understanding of COVID-19 is reflected in the wide variety of predictions. Various economists have predicted recessions that are “V”, a “U” or even a “W”, by which is meant a sharp decline followed by a quick recovery, a prolonged recession, and a double dip recession timed to each wave of the disease. As it turns out, ac-ording to a recent survey of economists, the current consensus is a “swoosh”, so called because the hypothesized recovery is shaped like the Nike trademark — sharp decline followed by slow steady recovery.

The reason for this wide variety of forecasts is that the current recession is simply without precedent in the historical record: 36 million new jobless claims since the lockdown; the largest one-month increase in unemployment, resulting in the largest one-month unemployment rate on record.

Early on in the crisis, many economists used the analogy of a natural disaster, recoveries from which are generally rapid. But this analogy doesn't work very well for COVID-19. Natural disasters affect relatively small areas. In the United States and most other developed countries, tried-and-true aid programs are available to help with recovery. Supply chains remain unaffected for the most part.

COVID-19 is very different. The impact is global. Massive government programs have been implemented, but there remains considerable uncertainty about their effectiveness. And COVID-19 has massively disrupted supply chains, meaning recovery will likely be substantially delayed.

Some economists look back 100 years to the Spanish flu, the last major pandemic prior to COVID-19. But the economy back then was fundamentally different than today. In 1920, manufacturing, mining and agriculture enjoyed a much larger share of employment.

The best single (although far from perfect) predictor of the economy six months from now is the stock market, and the stock market has seen a strong rebound. After falling 35 percent, the market has regained 30 percent, indicating a strong recovery later this year. The problem is that the Fed has engaged in an unprecedented intervention into the market.

There just is not a good model to use when trying to understand the current circumstances. This makes predicting the recovery very difficult. Uncertainty — like unemployment — is at record levels.

Sharp decline seen in numbers of cats and dogs coming to shelter

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

It seems that more cats and dogs are staying home during COVID-19 too.

Animal Service Center of the Mesilla Valley (ASCMV) Executive Director Clint Thacker said the usual monthly average of about 550 animals coming into the center this time of year has dropped to 180-200 since the onset of the public health emergency.

"This is due to the city and the county animal control bringing in sick, injured and aggressive animals only," Thacker said. "Another big help has been our foster program. During quarantine, people have come willing to foster animals that would otherwise be here at the center. Many of these fostering families have already adopted the animal they've been fostering."

Thacker said he is hopeful these trends will continue even after the COVID-19 pandemic is passed.

"We would like to see [animal control officers] continue to use similar efforts of only bringing animals in that really need the sheltering, the medical care and the safe housing. I feel a shelter is not a place for a healthy animal to be," he said. "It's a place an animal needs to be cared for, including euthanasia."

Part of that effort, Thacker said, requires animal control officers "to be very proactive and educate the animal owners when a dog is loose. Officers will also have to loosen their enforcement reasoning."

"Apparently, what we have seen happening here, during the COVID-19 pandemic, has also been happening across our country," said Greg Smith, who served on the ASCMV board for almost the entire eight years he was on the Las Cruces City Council. "People discouraged from being in close contact with other people are turning to pets. So, animal surrenders seem to be down, animal abuse seems to be down and animal adoptions seem to be up. Whatever the reason, this is a serious net gain for our community. We know that people with pets tend to live longer, have fewer health issues and be happier. Given the special places our dogs and cats have had in our lives in our household, I can certainly attest to the warm spot our pets can hold in our hearts."

The public health emergency also presents a good opportunity to remind people of to be responsible pet owners.

"Provide them with food and water," Thacker said. "Love them and

One-day stats at the Animal Service Center

HERE ARE THE CENTER'S PRELIMINARY ACTIVITY NUMBERS FOR MAY 12, 2020:

- 19 animals impounded: 12 unrestrained cats, five unrestrained dogs, two owner-relinquished dogs
- Two dogs reclaimed
- Two dogs adopted/foster-to-adopt
- One animal pulled by a rescue group: an elderly dog went to From the Heart Animal Rescue; these rescues took place May 13: ACTION Programs for Animals took four kittens; the Cat's Meow took one; All Herding Breed Dog Rescue of Illinois took one dog
- One cat was euthanized for general medical issues and there was one owner-requested euthanasia
- No animal surgeries were performed
- 163 animals housed on-site: 129 dogs, 32 cats, two rabbits treat them as such."

He said ASCMV would also "love more foster families. The program is simple. Just come in and select a pet, fill out paperwork and you're done," Thacker said.

The center also welcomes donations. "The best way to know your donations are doing good is to go to our Amazon wish list (see below) and watch our Facebook page (www.facebook.com/ASCMV). We are always asking for immediate donations.

Our animals are fed a strict diet. If we get a food donation, we usually give it to someone to help keep their pet in their home."

Thacker said ASCMV's volunteer program is temporarily on hold for in-center duties like dog walking and pictures.

"But there are always means of volunteering while not in the center," he said. Working at home, people could "make goodies for the dogs, disposable toys for the cats, enrichment toys, etc."

"We were trying to achieve "no kill" status, and Clint Thacker has been a huge part of increasing our successes toward that goal," Smith said. "We were very fortunate

Blood, plasma donations sought across nation

BULLETIN REPORT

Donated blood has always been a mainstay of modern medical care, but donated plasma is equally critical during the time of COVID-19.

The oldest and largest national independent nonprofit transfusion medicine organization, Vitalant, has launched a campaign to help COVID-19 and other patients through life-saving convalescent plasma and other blood donations, according to a news release.

“Donations are both safe and essential,” said Dr. Ralph Vassallo, chief medical and scientific officer for Vitalant, whose local collection point is United Blood Services at 1200 Commerce Dr., in Las Cruces.

Under the banner of “Because of You, Life Doesn’t Stop” Vitalant’s network of donation centers, in concert with its hospital partners, operating under U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) investigational protocols, are collecting and transfusing plasma from eligible donors convalescing from COVID-19.

Recovered COVID-19 patients have immune-boosting antibodies to the virus in their plasma, which can be given to patients fighting COVID-19.

“Convalescent plasma from recovered COVID-19 patients is needed now, because it contains protective antibodies that may fight the virus and hopefully improve the outcome of COVID infection,” Vassallo said. “The need for these and all other types of blood donations has never been more immediate or more desperate. We believe that once Americans are fully aware of this crisis and the opportunity to save lives, they will respond as they always have in difficult times.”

In response to the global pandemic, Vitalant aims to raise awareness of the immediate need for plasma and the significant need for blood donations by highlighting these key factors:

- Convalescent plasma therapy is the only currently available investigational antibody-based

treatment for COVID-19

- As shelter-in-place requirements are relaxed across the country, the weekly demand for blood components has increased by 25 percent compared to early April
- The need for blood is significantly increasing now that elective surgeries are being rescheduled
- Amid the COVID-19 pandemic, the need for blood has continued for childbirth, cancer treatments, essential medical procedures and everyday emergencies
- Resurgent use of blood requires an immediate increase in donations to maintain the U.S. blood supply

- Every blood donation can save up to three lives.

The U.S. Surgeon General and Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) have designated blood donation as an essential function, encouraging healthy and eligible donors to continue to donate even amid COVID-19 response measures. Vitalant continues to intensify precautionary measures to ensure the safety of donors, patients and staff, according to the news release.

To schedule an appointment to donate blood and/or plasma, call United Blood Services at 575-527-1322, call Vitalant at 877-258-4825 or visit vitalant.org.

NMSU opens golf course with modifications for safety

NMSU FACEBOOK

According to the NMSU Golf Course Facebook page (www.facebook.com/NMSUGOLF), the course is available for play with some restrictions.

Practice Facilities and Aggie Range Club:

Club house practice greens are open for customers with tee-times. Customers wanting to practice can utilize the driving range practice green with social distancing requirements/restrictions in place.

Hours of operation. The driving range and practice greens will be open 3-7 p.m., with a range attendant on site to monitor social distancing and sanitizing touch points. We are bleaching range balls before they are put into the range machine and sanitizing each bucket after individual use. Due to social distancing requirements, there will be limited access to the practice facilities. Please respect the range attendant, and please follow posted guidelines while utilizing the practice facility.

Aggie Range Club. Members can start utilizing the practice facilities at the driving range (Aggie Land short game practice area is closed). Enjoy free golf the last two hours of the day (since May 16). We will not be charging anyone for the month of May, because we were closed eight days in March. If you wish to cancel your membership, you need to do so before June 1.

Retail and protective masks. The pro shop is now open at 25 percent capacity. You will need to wear a protective mask while inside the clubhouse and pro shop areas. Staff will continue to wear masks in the pro shop and while checking in at the starter's podium. You are not required to wear a mask while playing golf.

Pro shop. We are fully stocked and will be running some great specials for the next couple of months.

Food and beverage. The on course halfway house is open for to-go ordering for food and nonalcoholic beverages. We feel this is the best way to provide this service to our customers with a health-and-safety-first mindset for our customers and staff. We will continue to evaluate hours of operation to best serve our customers. We are working on getting our kitchen open for to-go ordering before and after your round of golf, and we will be creating specials, packaging food and golf.

Tee-Times and the Parking Lot. We have expanded our tee-time availability, and starting now offer sundown pricing 3-5 p.m. The weekday rate is $13 to walk and $20 to ride. Weekend pricing will be $16 to walk and $23 to ride. We have expanded our tee-time availability while still adhering to the requirement of no more than 144 players on the course at one-time. This will help with booking your tee-times.

Reminder: Please show up no more than 15 minutes before your tee-time and please promptly exit the facility when you finish your round. Customers cannot congregate in the parking lot.

Lessons from business also apply to good golf

In years past, I've written columns where I presented strategies about how you can apply the lessons you learn from playing golf to enhance success in leadership and business. Today we'll be looking at how we can utilize some of the behaviors, attitudes and thinking which have made you successful in business to improve your golf game.

Through the years, when I have coached CEOs, managers and professionals (as their personal executive coach) to help them perform better on the job, the first place I started was finding out what the client wanted to happen. This prevents the individual getting stuck in complaints about wanting other people to change.

These complaints sound like this: "Well, I work for a jerk, and he just needs to respect my work and my effort more and get off my back." In the office, as in the marriage union, you can't really change the other person. You have to work with what is there.

Nor can you change the golf course. It's interesting that two of the original rules of golf, settled on hundreds of years ago by the Scots, were: Play the course as you find it; and play the ball as it lies.

Now, that's a challenging business premise, isn't it? Since you can't change your boss (or your coworkers), you must change yourself for things to improve. This is what coaching helps you do. You ask yourself "How do

I get better?" Don't look at the golf course. Don't count on your opponents to collapse during a match. Don't think a new driver is the answer. Don't complain about bad luck.

The answer is to improve yourself. Get coaching. Take lessons, Read the literature. Practice regularly. Raise the bar on your own performance. Isn't that how you've made it so far in business?

Bill has been one of my clients, and a serious golfer. One day I asked Bill, a senior executive in investment banking, about how his skill and behavior at work have helped him play better golf. Without hesitating Bill replied, "What comes to mind first is that to do well in this arena (investments) you have to work hard with a lot of effort, and do a lot of careful planning, sizing up the probabilities in your decisions, before making a move."

Bill's golf game does reflect some of that idea because he takes most factors into account before deciding on any given golf shot. Paying close attention quickly to many, many details pays off in both business and golf. Listening to Bill also reminded me that our work in just about any field — sales, teaching, medicine, building, you name it — demands that we clearly see and process both the big picture and the finer picture in what we do.

Golfers competing in the U.S. Open know that they can't win the tournament with one spectacular shot, but they can certainly lose it with one very bad play and a big number caused by failing to pay attention to details.

When experts on achievement and success are asked to assess personal traits and define the qualities of highly successful persons, regardless of what fields they are in, the experts all agree on one thing — attitude. So much in sport and life depends on having the right frame of mind. Attitude is everything.

It was Henry Ford who said, “Whether you believe you can do it or you can’t do it, either way you’re right.” It’s not very likely you will advance very far in your profession or play winning golf with a negative attitude. However, you can train yourself, with the help of a good coach, to adopt a consistently positive mental attitude.

Doubt and fear, anger and frustration, worry and tension are all negative thoughts, feelings and attitudes; they are counter-productive to the kind of performance you would like to experience. Solid belief in your potential, trust in your choices and confidence in the heat of battle are part of a mentality that promotes improvement, mastery and success. In work and in golf.

The Home Office Era

As millions transition into working from home to help thwart the spread of the coronavirus, maintaining both comfort and productivity has no doubt been an issue for many. While in-office workstations are often designed around ergonomic considerations and long-term trial and error, ensuring optimal comfort and health, home workspaces can often fall short in this regard. Home workspace safety and comfort, however, should remain top of mind.

Self-Care & Injury Prevention

While it sometimes feels we’re all sacrificing right now to survive the COVID-19 outbreak, that doesn’t mean we ignore self-care. This includes focusing on the hours you spend every day working from home, ensuring your workspace – whether at your kitchen table or at a desk in the corner of a spare bedroom – isn’t putting you at risk of pain or injury.

According to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), injuries resulting from work-related musculoskeletal disorders (WMSD) due to poor workplace ergonomics account for 34 percent of all workday injuries and illnesses.

Neck strains, pain in the shoulders or lower back, tendinitis, bursitis, carpal tunnel syndrome, and so on – injuries and ailments often associated with poor workplace ergonomics – can and should be prevented in the workplace, even when that workplace is in your home.

Boost Productivity

Sitting in fixed or constrained positions most of the day, often repeating movements with the arms, hands and wrists, can take a toll on your body, leaving you more vulnerable to injury to the muscles, tendons and nerves. In contrast, a comfortable workspace is great for productivity and morale. OSHA estimates that the implementation of proper office ergonomics can increase productivity by an average of 11 percent.

So, whether your work-from-home stint ends in weeks or months, it’s important to consider workspace improvements with an eye toward longevity. This includes abiding by the following guidelines for creating a safe and comfortable workstation:

- Set your desk, chair, keyboard and mouse in position so your hands, wrists and forearms rest in straight lines and run parallel to the floor. Use a wrist rest for your keyboard and mouse, if needed. Allow your upper-arms to hang normally from the side of your body, elbows bent at around 90 degrees.
- Place your monitor at a height that keeps your head level (or bent forward slightly) and in line with the rest of your body. The top of your monitor should sit slightly below eye level and about an arm’s length away.
- Ensure your chair offers proper lumbar support, allowing for a slight inner curve of the lower spine.
- Keep your knees at about the same (or slightly lower) height as your hips, and make sure your feet can sit flatly on the floor. If they don’t fully reach the floor, bring in a footrest to support your feet.

Take frequent breaks from sitting. Take time to stand up and stretch for a minute or two every half-hour or so. And, if you can, take a walk over breaks or during lunch.

If stiffness, soreness, numbness and pain persist, or you have a question about setting up a proper workspace in your home, contact your physical therapist to discuss options for an initial assessment.

Blind Contour Drawing

Want to try a weird and wacky experiment? Try drawing without looking at the paper! This practice is called blind contour drawing and is used by artists to improve observation. It is also a great practice in meditation.

Here's how to do it:

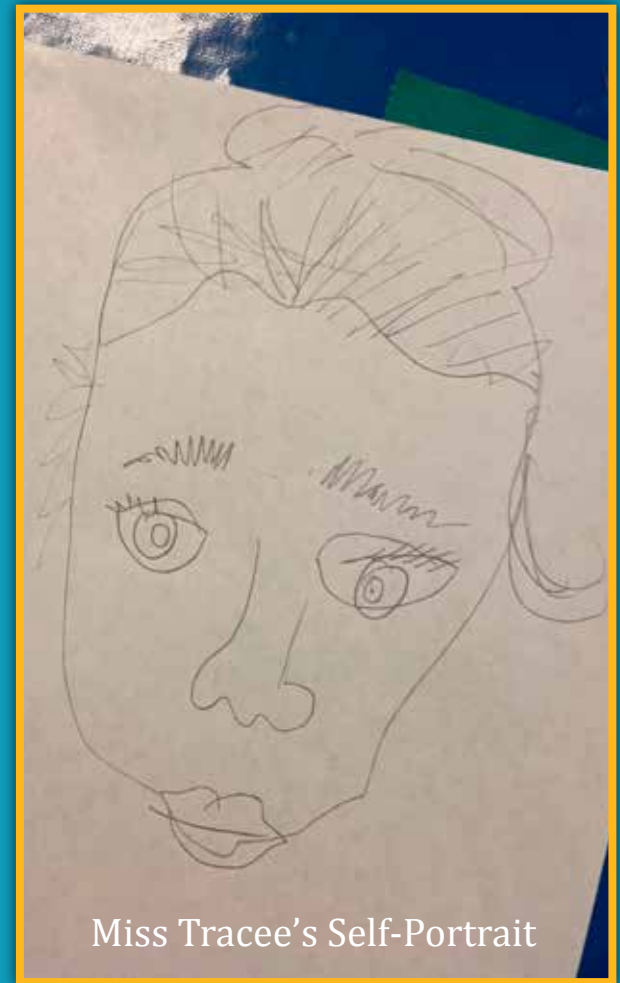

- Decide how long you want to draw (Try to do it for 5 minutes—set the timer on a phone!)
- Get a piece of paper and a pencil (or pen or marker)
- Choose an object or person you want to draw
- Set the tip of your pencil on the paper—choose wisely! You don't want to lift your pencil up until you are done.
- Focus on one small area of the object that you want to begin with and start drawing.
- Try to draw the outline or contour of the object or person
- Don't look at your page until the 5 minutes is up!

What you get may look strange but it also might reveal something new!

Want an added challenge? Try doing a blind contour drawing of yourself while looking in the mirror! Miss Tracee will be demonstrating this on the Thomas Branigan Memorial Library's Facebook page on Friday, May 22—so tune in!

Our Freading database of eBooks has many books on learning how to draw so be sure to go to the Library's Digital Resources page to find out how:
