New bus service will provide pick-up option

By JESS WILLIAMS
Las Cruces Bulletin

Beginning next month, the South Central Regional Transit District (SCRTD) will begin a pilot project marrying fixed-route service to pick-up services.

The pilot will focus on an area within Thorpe Road to the north, Elks Drive to the east, Picacho Avenue to the south and Elks Drive to the east.

SCRTD Executive Director David Armijo said the new service is designed to be a convenient customized service connecting residents in these neighborhoods to medical appointments, work, school or other travel needs with just one call to 575-323-1620. Dispatchers will direct passengers to a safe, nearby pick-up point, where a small bus will arrive for the pickup or return trip.

COURTESY PHOTO

Hours of operation for the project are Monday through Friday 8:30 am to 5:30 p.m.

Armijo said service for the first 90 days will be free, and then fares will be $2 or $1 for youth, elderly, disabled or Medicare card holders. Transfer to other bus routes is free.

Armijo said the two 14-passenger flex buses will use the same safety and sanitation protocols as the main bus fleet, in an effort to protect passengers and drivers from COVID-19. The buses, he said, are equipped with bike racks, Wi-Fi and air conditioning.

Funding for the project came from the New Mexico Department of Transportation, with matching funds from Dona Ana County.

Deer, bobcats, javelina, oh my!

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

Wild critters — particularly bobcats — have been making frequent appearances in recent weeks to neighborhood yards in Las Cruces, with the greatest frequency reported on the east side.

Las Cruces district Game and Fish Department Sergeant Chris Ortega said an increase in wildlife in the backyards of the city is not unusual for this time of year.

“There are a lot of bobcats that come to the golf course areas,” he said. “People are watering, drawing in the prey base. The deer are coming in. The Talavera area and Los Alturas are where we’re getting [sightings].”

If you see a bobcat, Ortega said the thing to do is make noise, but avoid direct eye contact and back away from the animal. If you have pets, take them and their food and water in at night. The big cats come to town following prey who are coming in for the moisture. But the predators like the moisture, too, and will lie on cool concrete and sometimes even pool covers.

“They are sometimes habituated to people and not usually sick,” Ortega said. “We don’t do a whole lot with them. If we remove a predator that is not causing hate and discontent, the chance of another one coming in and being dangerous is pretty high.”

Las Cruces has a lot of urban sprawl, so it is creeping into the territory of the animals, he said. Also, rainfall is below average, and the hot, dry conditions encourage creatures to look to lush places for both nourishment and cooling off.

Ortega said his department is also getting calls from people picking up birds they think are hurt. Most of the time, they are not hurt, but fledglings learning to fly. The parents will watch and feed their young at that stage.

“The best thing to do is leave it alone,” he said. “We don’t want to try to rehab when there is nothing wrong with the birds. COVID is making it more difficult to transport those critters. If we can, we put them back in the nest.”

Another animal commonly sighted in urban sprawl of Las Cruces is the javelina, or wild pigs that often sport menacing tusks.

“We have javelina where we never had them before,” he said, adding that if javelina are cornered, they can be dangerous. As with bobcats, Ortega said

“making a lot of noise” is the best way to scare them off.

“Their sense of smell and hearing is excellent, but they can’t see worth a darn, so they will take off,” he said. “Any animal can be dangerous. If they have young or you corner them, they will protect themselves.”

Fathers: Some personal perspectives

Here at the Las Cruces Bulletin, as many workplaces do, we view our colleagues as family. We've got a pretty small staff, but three of us have worked here 10 years or more and four others have worked here between five and 10 years.

Since last Father's Day, three of us — Claire Frohs, Elva Österreich and myself — have lost our fathers.

On the weekend of Father's Day, perhaps it's fitting to hear some of us talk about our fathers.

Jess Williams, editor:

He stood 6'6" and weighed in above 250. He was 28-years ex-military, having served in the Navy in WWII and in the Army in Korea, where he took a bullet through the leg. After the military, he taught school and was a cop. He had a soft spot for animals, but he hunted, too. He was a walking contradiction, but he loved his kids, and he passed his name on to me, just as his father had done for him.

RICHARD COLTHARP
From the Publisher

Claire Frohs, marketing consultant:

Ted R. Frohs passed in June 2019 after living 89 full years. He served in the Navy, loved to hunt, fish and golf. He had a love for animals, particularly Boston terriers. He could build anything from cars to homes and was an entrepreneur at the age of 50, building a business that afforded him the ability to help others in his industry get their businesses off the ground. He was a complicated yet generous man and is missed by his kids, grandkids and great grandkids.

Tova Gennrich, administrative assistant:

My dad (Benji, as I call him) was just 22 when he became a father. I have always admired his patience, generosity, faithfulness, dedication and, above all, his love for me, my two sisters and my mom. Just when I didn't think he could get any better, he became a grandfather of 13 and absolutely rocks it out. He will forever be my hero, my safety net, my strength and forever my Daddy.

Elva Österreich, Bulletin writer, Desert Exposure editor:

Musician, artist, teacher, bartender — Norbert Österreich passed away in February 2020, he would have been 80 in May. Norbert surrounded me with music and gifted me with Stravinsky's "Peter and the Wolf." He introduced me to a flying dutchman, moonlit sonatas and sent Beethoven's Fifth Symphony into my ears. This father had bitterness, cynicism, anger and a beautiful smile; he had charm, insight, wisdom and a collection of four daughters, wise women each. He defined dignity in the end, kindness winning out.

Richard Coltharp, publisher:

Even though it costs me almost as much to change the oil in my vehicles myself as it does to take it to a shop, I still do it. It's a habit I've had since I was 16, when my dad, Lynn Coltharp, taught me how. He said, "If you want transportation without maintenance, you can ride the bus." That is just one of thousands of his sage comments that have risen to my conscious mind since my father passed away six weeks ago. He wasn't an overly talkative man, but he had a keen mind and a sharp wit, and he made his words count.

To all the fathers out there, Happy Father's Day. To the sons and daughters of fathers who have passed, join us in remembering them. That's what this special day is for.

Tolerance

When our opinions get as immovable as a granite outhouse, God has a way of shaking the foundation.

I was searching for an artist who could lend just the right feeling to a book I was putting together. I found such a person. He lived in a remote mountain town and had no phone. With the help of the local postmistress and several letters, he agreed to illustrate my book.

Besides his unique artistic style, he was a good cowboy.

BAXTER BLACK
On the Edge of Common Sense

Over the months of correspondence and our occasional visits on his local pay phone, I developed a genuine liking and respect for him.

We agreed to meet at the Cowboy Poetry Gathering in Elko, Nevada.

I arrived Thursday night and began to test the limits of my envelope! I had the makin's of a personal best brewing when I spied an old friend, a big man whose effort had done much to promote cowboy poetry. I shook his hand warmly. It was then I noticed he was wearing a short ponytail. I was overcome! I dressed him down for his uncowboy fashion statement and finished by removing the decorative ribbon binding his furry polyp!

Just then I felt a tap on the shoulder. I turned and a young man reached to shake my hand. He was decked out in his buckaroo finest. He introduced himself and remarked that he enjoyed my work. He explained that he was an actor.

As he talked, I focused on his earring. Earring! I became incensed! I lectured him on manly pride and ended up trying to bite off his earlobe!

Our community must find its own solutions

In October, a representative for Public Safety Strategies Group, a private firm based out of Maryland that had been hired by the city to conduct regular police audits, presented an update to the city council. It did not go well.

The presenter started by explaining that he was a last-minute fill-in for the person who was supposed to make the presentation. He could not answer questions as simple as, "Have complaints against officers increased or decreased in the past year?"

The city council decided to outsource oversight of the police department to private firms following growing complaints in 2007 and 2008 about police shootings and excessive use of force, along with growing demands to create a citizen's review board to take an independent look at those complaints.

LCPD leaders argued that people who have never had law enforcement training or experience were not qualified to pass judgment on police conduct. Better to leave that to the pros, they said.

Now, following widespread protests here and throughout the nation and the arrest of an LCPD officer on charges related to a man's death, the council appears ready to exert more oversight of its police department.

At a virtual work session Monday that started more than an hour late and was woefully lacking in public input, council members heard a report on "8 Can't Wait" — eight proposed police reforms being pushed nationwide that advocates claim would reduce police violence by 72 percent.

WALT RUBEL

The View
From Here

The reforms would ban chokeholds and neck restraint, require de-escalation training, require warning before shots are fired, require that all alternatives be exhausted before shooting, require officers to intervene if they witness other officers using excessive force, ban shooting at moving vehicles, require a use-of-force continuum and require comprehensive reporting of incidents involving force.

Las Cruces Police Lt. Shane Briscoe said the department already does many of those things. But the use-of-force continuum is impractical, because it assumes all situations and officers are the same, he said. For example, a smaller or older officer may not have the same options as a larger, stronger officer.

And officers have the right to shoot at a moving vehicle if they are about to be run over, he added.

There is a ban on chokeholds now, but it was not put in place until after the death of Antonio Valenzuela, allegedly as the result of a police officer's chokehold.

Monday's work session, called by Mayor Ken Miyagishima, was a shaky but necessary first discussion. No action could be taken, which is good, because they weren't ready to act. More discussion is needed, with public comment not limited to the mayor's dry recitation of emails. And Chief Patrick Gallagher, who was unable to attend Monday's meeting, needs to take part.

We didn't solve our problems by outsourcing oversight, and we won't solve them by blindly accepting a pre-packaged remedy pushed by a national advocacy group. Racism and police violence are a national problem, but each community is responsible for finding its own solutions.

The contract with Public Safety Strategies Group expired at the end of the year. That would make this a good time to bring back the idea of a citizen's review board.

Miyagishima said he opposed the citizen's review board when it came up years ago, and still believes outside audits work better.

"The police department likes it because they get to police themselves," he said.

That's the exact reason why I'm suspicious of it.

Respect the license

To the editor:

As a native of New Mexico and a licensed professional, I take great pride in the accomplishments and achievements of our great state. Alternative health modalities are becoming more common in our society, including acupuncture, reflexology, massage therapy, holistic medicine and chiropractic.

I began my practice as a reflexologist and orthobionomist before New Mexico began licensing massage therapists in 1992. Back then, 95 percent of my clients, both male and female, wanted to become educated on what to expect from a session. Why? Because before licensing, there were several grey areas as to exactly what a session entailed and what boundaries were in place to protect clients and practitioners. Once licensing went into effect, those grey areas became fewer and fewer. Education became more uniform and stress diminished, as there was now a regulating standard.

The need to step up our educational efforts is apparent once again because of recent quotes in the media by an elected official who used the terms “massage parlor” and “masseuse” to describe the work that I and other professionals are doing. Those terms have, unfortunately, become synonymous with prostitution and have been archived in favor of “licensed massage therapist,” or LMT. The offices we work in are wide and varied, and include dentistry, physical therapy, hospitals, chiropractic offices, newborns, geriatrics and sports, to name a few.

Make no mistake, we are professionals who value our training, our mandatory continuing education and our licenses. The work we do helps to decrease depression, enhance immune response and fight disease, among many other positive results. Our state regulating board has done wonders to create a safe and completely nonsexual environment for both clients and practitioners.

As Emma Goldman said, “the most violent element in society is ignorance.” Please help us make the truth widely known.

Hispanic Chamber stands united with Las Cruces

By CURTIS ROSEMOND

Las Cruces Hispanic Chamber of Commerce

The Las Cruces Hispanic Chamber of Commerce stands in solidarity with Black Americans and people of all ethnicities, cultures, religions, genders and orientations to oppose all forms of racism, persecution and discrimination. We come together with all you and sincerely mourn the tragic murder of George Floyd.

Today, we unite as business leaders and citizens in a call for justice. We stand with the peaceful protesters who use their First Amendment constitutional right to assemble peaceably. Protestors have marched through the cities in our great nation to mourn the death of a fellow human being and to call for justice and much needed reform.

We have already experienced tragedy due to racism close to home when our neighbors in El Paso were senselessly murdered because the perpetrator was targeting Hispanics. We stood in solidarity with our sister city and we stand in solidarity with our community, America and all people in the world.

We must unite in eliminating this affliction of racial injustice from our hearts, our communities, our government and our social and civic institutions. Let this tragedy not be in vain, let us unite in our healing as a community and as a nation. Let us stand firm in our call for justice and an end to racism.

We call on everyone to come together now as a community of families, neighbors, friends, business leaders and decision makers to put an end to racism, persecution and discrimination by demanding reforms and new policies of equality in education, job creation and economic development. We firmly believe this will make us a stronger community that will persevere in the midst of this tragic event and for future generations.

We must begin to rebuild and not destroy our nation; we must vanquish racial inequality and discrimination of any form. We cannot allow our great country to be divided by injustice. We must condemn all forms of racial discrimination. We must stand against the systemic racism that has plagued our country for far too long.

One thing the Las Cruces Hispanic Chamber of Commerce strives for is diversity in business and workforce. We join you in prayers for justice and peace.

Black Lives Matter. This shouldn't be a divisive statement. It is a call for justice; a call for peace. Once we are able to sincerely listen and understand the truths about racism then we can begin to heal. George Floyd mattered! #BLACKLIVESMATTER

Water infrastructure

To the editor:

I am inspired by a recent article written by two people who live, eat and breathe western water issues. Christine Arbogast, president of the National Water Resource Association (NWRA), and Patrick O'Toole, president of the Family Farm Alliance (FFA), remind us that the coronavirus crisis points out the vital importance of the systems that sustain us.

We're at a critical juncture in the need for implementation of water infrastructure improvements. Elephant Butte Irrigation District heartily seconds the views of NWRA and FFA that water infrastructure and irrigated agriculture are among the "engines which drive our economy, our health and our safety. Water infrastructure is critical to every individual and every economic sector."

Aging systems across the west face a crisis that has been a long time coming. The Elephant Butte Irrigation District (EBID) is among industry leaders who emphasize the need to invest in infrastructure improvements. Our district is more than 100 years old. The failure to invest in water storage and delivery systems for agricultural production, municipal and industrial uses will lead us to a painful and dangerous crisis.

Arbogast and O'Toole say, "Years of recurring drought conditions in Western states, and the economic and human impacts of drought, require us to look ahead. But, as we have seen in the health crisis of the spring of 2020, anticipation on paper isn't enough. We must prepare, and we must invest."

Irrigated agriculture is a huge economic driver in the West. We cannot afford to allow the water infrastructure supporting this industry to collapse. Work on infrastructure needs would provide an immediate, lasting stimulus to our strained economy. The federal and state governments need to partner with us in this. The time is now. Let's do it.

TOLERANCE

In retrospect it occurred to me that I might have overreacted. Fortunately these good fellows merely escaped my grasp rather than permanently disfigure me.

The next day I was walking through the crowd when I heard a voice call my name. I turned. A hand pressed into mine and the voice said, "Hi, I'm yer new artist!"

He had blond hair braided into a pigtail that reached his waist. Eight, count'em eight! Earrings decorated his left ear!

I was dumbfounded! He continued, "I'd like you to meet my wife." I looked to his side where an attractive woman stood wearing a bowler hat and a gold ring in her nose!

Looking back, I suspect God set me up. He said to Himself, this boy needs a lesson in tolerance. He was right. I was due. I've learned that a closed mind is like lookin' at the world with one eye closed. I guess we could use a dose of kindness and understanding in our nation's capitol, Washington, (sorry George), D.C.

munity. They are raising their voices in response to the brutal treatment of Mr. Floyd, in spite of the health risks with the pandemic. Speaking out is only the first step.

Our work to inform voters and hold government accountable on the local and state level is where real potential for change lies. Changes to systems of criminal justice, education, employment and health care are long overdue.

Criminal justice should be reviewed from a variety of perspectives, such as selection and ongoing training of officers, decisions by prosecutors and judges and the operation of prisons.

Police officers take an oath to protect and serve the people, nevertheless people are continuing to die, and our nation's unrest must become everyone's concern.

Members of the League have reached out to the local NAACP, as we want to listen and learn from the black community about how we may better stand with you for equity.

Our organizations already agree on the importance of voting, and we will work together to encourage all citizens to research candidates running for office in November and to vote for those who share the values that promote justice in our democracy.

Smelly water? Flush those pipes

By CASSIE MCCLURE AND SUZANNE MICHAELS

Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) delivers approximately seven billion gallons of safe, fresh and clean water to residential and business customers each year.

Occasionally, a customer calls in about a bad smell that seems to be coming from a water faucet, especially in an infrequently used bathroom.

“Although we will dispatch a technician to go check it out, most times that odor is found to be coming from a dry drain, or the smell is originating in a water heater that needs maintenance, replacement of the anode or an increase in water heater temperature,” said Adrienne L. Widmer, LCU’s deputy director.

A rotten-egg odor indicates bacteria growing in a water heater or the sacrificial anode in the water heater reacting with hard water. Bacteria is not a health threat, but the microbes must be eliminated to stop the odor problem. That requires draining the water heater and increasing the temperature. If it’s the anode, a licensed plumber should be contracted to have the anode replaced.

“If you haven’t used a sink or tub for some time, the drain may become dry, allowing sewer odors to come into your home.

By using water regularly in all sinks, basins and/or tubs within your home, odors can be eliminated,” Widmer said.

After extended non-use — such as a vacation — flushing all cold-water faucets for a few minutes upon return is recommended, ensuring that stagnant water is replaced with fresh water in the pipes, which can reduce odors and discolored water. In homes with filters or softener systems that remove chlorine, water may stagnate more quickly. It is important to use the correct filter size and type recommended for the system and to follow the manufacturer’s recommendations for Bad smells can come from water heaters with temperature controls that are turned too low, or require maintenance or attention to an anode, or from dry drains in infrequently used sinks or tubs.

maintenance.

If smelly water persists, Widmer said customers can contact LCU at 575-526-0500, and a technician will be dispatched.

LCU can be reached at 575-528-3500 from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. LCU provides services to approximately 100,000 Las Cruces residents and businesses.

Branigan Library receives bequest, NEA grant

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Thomas Branigan Memorial Library (TBML) has received a $200,000 bequest and a $15,000 grant.

The bequest comes from the estate of Las Cruces resident James Leroy Mealy, who died in early 2019, according to city documents. His estate included the bequest to the library, the city said, and “a future amount is pending final liquidation of estate assets.”

There are no restrictions on how the funding is to be spent. The city council authorized acceptance of the bequest as part of its June 15 meeting agenda.

The National Endowment for the Arts grant is to help the library host the NEA Big Read in Las Cruces between September 2020 and June 2021. The Big Read “broadens understanding of our world, our communities and ourselves through the joy of sharing a good book,” the city said.

The Las Cruces Big Read will focus on “When the Emperor Was Divine,” by Julie Otsuka, “a fictional account based on the true history of Japanese internment camps in the United States during World War II,” the city said.

TBML “will partner with various groups, such as the New Mexico Japanese American Citizens League, to help provide historical context and cultural understanding and to guide conversations surrounding issues in the book that are still relevant today,” the news release said.

Since 2006, the National Endowment for the Arts has funded more than 1,600 NEA Big Read programs, providing more than $22 million to organizations nationwide.

The first library in Las Cruces was a collection of 500 books that the Women’s Improvement Association (WIA) kept at various member’s homes and then in a small office they had on Water Street, according to www.las-cruces.org/1617/Thomas-Branigan-Memorial-Library. In 1927, 33 years after the WIA was founded, when the WIA Club House was built, the books were moved there. Members took turns acting as librarians.

One of the WIA members was Alice Branigan, who, along with her husband, Capt. Thomas Branigan, was active in the community. When Alice died in 1932, she left her estate to various civic organizations, and bequeathed (for those days) a considerable sum of money to the town of Las Cruces for a public library to be named in honor of her late husband.

TBML opened to the public in November 1935. Children’s Story Time began at the library in 1937. The new library opened at its present six-acre site at 200 E. Picacho Ave. in 1979.

Lou Sisbarro and Marci Dickerson present keys to a 2010 Chrysler Town and County van to Cherie Sisneros, who will use the van to move her family to Salt Lake City so that her infant daughter can undergo a liver transplant, perhaps as soon as August.

Community pulls together to get little girl a liver transplant

By JESS WILLIAMS
Las Cruces Bulletin

When Las Cruces businesswoman Marci Dickerson started the nonprofit Revolution 120 (R-120), she and other organizers of the charitable venture had in mind a vehicle for assisting Las Cruces residents in their times of greatest need. Of all the work the charity has done since its inception, Dickerson said what happened last week exemplifies its purpose.

Three weeks ago, R-120 received a letter from Las Cruces resident Cherie Sisneros, whose infant daughter is on the recipient list for a new liver, but the hospital that is going to perform the transplant is in Salt Lake City, and Sisneros said her greatest need is a reliable vehicle to transport her and her family to new living quarters near the hospital, so that her child can be there when an organ is located.

The transplant team told Sisneros, a single mother of four, that she should plan to be ready for the operation to occur as early as August of this year, which makes getting settled in Salt Lake City reasonably urgent.

Dickerson said donors came through with about $11,000 in a reasonably short time period, but that wasn't enough to buy a reliable vehicle.

Enter Sisbarro Buick-GMC of Las Cruces. The dealership took $5,000 of the donated funds and gifted a gently used 2010 Chrysler Town and Country minivan, which was delivered June 11 to Cherie Sisneros.

"You should have seen her face," Dickerson said. "I think everyone there was in tears."

As a result of the donation, Sisneros now has the means to take 2-year-old Kezia to Primary Children's Hospital in Salt Lake City for the transplant.

Dickerson said donated funds also will go to six months of living expenses when the Sisneros family arrives in Salt Lake City.

She said additional large donations to the cause include one year of full automobile insurance from Burke Insurance Group of Las Cruces, $1,500 from The Toy Box Early Learning and Childcare Centers, $1,000 each from Campos School Portraits and the Binns Family Foundation, and new car seats for the children from the J.R. Stewart Foundation.

Dickerson said there will be a car show Saturday, June 20, at The Game 2, 4131 Northrise Dr., beginning at 11 a.m., with all proceeds benefitting the Sisneros family.

"We want to do everything we can for that little girl and her family as they navigate this move and the procedure to save her life," Dickerson said. "We invite the community to come to the car show to meet the family and make additional donations if they are so inclined."

"Movie: A Beautiful Day in the Neighborhood"

Tom Hanks earned an Academy Award nomination as best supporting actor for his portrayal of beloved children's TV host Fred Rogers in Marielle Heller's poignant 2019 biographical drama inspired by an Esquire magazine article. Matthew Rhys stars as a cynical magazine journalist with profound daddy issues, who accepts an assignment to profile Rogers with the intent of exposing the latter as a fraud whose avuncular persona is just a gimmick.

"Brockmire"

All four seasons of this very funny IFC comedy about a famed baseball play-by-play man (Hank Azaria) who attempts to pick himself back up after a very embarrassing public meltdown comes to the streaming service.

"Movie: Clemency"

The psychological toll of her job brings itself to bear on a prison warden (Alfre Woodard) who must face personal demons as she prepares to execute another inmate in this 2019 drama that won the U.S. Dramatic Grand Jury Prize that year at Sundance.

Richard Schiff, Danielle Brooks, Aldis Hodge and Wendell Pierce are also in the solid cast for director Chinonye Chukwu ("AlaskaLand").

"Movie: Once Were Brothers: Robbie Robertson and The Band"

This documentary from Daniel Roher ("Ghosts of Our Forests") is a revealing, cautionary and at times humorous tale of the creation of The Band, one of the more influential groups of its time. It's also a chronicle of the early life of its driving creative force and lead guitarist, Robertson. (ORIGINAL)

Holland Taylor

8 p.m. on KRWG Great Performances
Emmy-winning actress Holland Taylor both wrote and stars in "Ann," a funny, insightful and ultimately poignant stage portrait of Ann Richards, the feisty governor of Texas from 1991-95. Noted for her merciless wit — she once cracked that political rival George W. Bush "was born with a silver foot in his mouth" — Richards also was a formidable firebrand among power players in the Democratic Party.

8 p.m. on MAX Trackers
Lucas (Ed Stoppard) keeps hassling Inkunzi (Sisanda Henna) for some answers while he chases down his carjackers to retrieve a bag of stolen cash in the new "Episode 3." Later, Mila's (Rolanda Marais) research puts her on the trail of Lucas. After comparing notes with Ehrlichman, Lemmer (James Gracie) tries to catch up with Inkunzi to track down the slippery Flea (Trix Vivier), who's also being pursued by the PBI.

Tori Anderson

6 p.m. on EPIX
Movie: Gemini Man

Academy Award winner Ang Lee ("Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon") helmed this 2019 action thriller, which finally reached the screen after 20 years in pre-production development hell. Will Smith heads the cast as Henry Brogan, a former Marine sniper who is forced to go on the run from the government, only to find himself pursued by a younger clone of himself (also played by Smith via motion-capture and CGI technology). Mary Elizabeth Winstead, Clive

Owen and Benedict Wong also star.

7 p.m. on HALL
Movie: Love Under the Olive Tree

Nicole Cabella (Tori Anderson) yearns to expand her family's Northern California olive oil business, until her childhood crush, Jake Brandini (Benjamin Hollingsworth) — who also happens to be the heir apparent to a neighboring ranch — quite by accident discovers that his family owns the land Nicole wants to incorporate. Long-standing bad blood between the two families further complicates things, until a judge proposes awarding the property to whichever of the pair wins an upcoming olive oil competition. Gardiner Millar co-stars in this 2019 romance.

8 p.m. on TRAV
Movie: Terror in the Woods

The new episode "It Was Just Like a Nightmare and We're Not Gonna Make It Out" delivers more first-person accounts of wilderness outings cut short by an unwanted brush with the spirit realm. The past comes back to haunt a group of Civil War re-enactors in the Virginia woods, while in another segment, two brothers encounter an aggressive Bigfoot while exploring an abandoned building in the Iowa wilderness.

8 p.m. on OWN
Movie: Girlfriends Check In

The Season 1 finale of this informal chat fest finds actress Tisha Campbell ("Last Man Standing") sitting down with gal pals Kym Whitley, Holly Robinson Peete and A.J. Johnson ("House Party") to dish on a variety of subjects including raising a family, learning to love yourself, dating and, of course, the mysteries of men. It adds up to a funny girls' night in.

9 p.m. on HBO
Movie: Ford v Ferrari

James Mangold's 2019 sports drama emerged as one of that year's winners from every perspective, earning big bucks at the global box office, cheers from critics and multiple accolades, including an Oscar nomination as best picture and wins in two editing categories. Matt Damon and Christian Bale head the cast as, respectively, automotive designer Carroll Shelby and British driver Ken Miles, leaders of an American team determined to build a new racing car that can break the Ferrari winning streak at Le Mans. Jon Bernthal also stars.

7 p.m. on KRWG
Lucy Worsley's Royal Myths & Secrets

Historian Lucy Worsley travels across Great Britain and Europe to visit great palaces, gardens, battlefields and other locations where royal history was made over the ages in this three-part, three-hour weekly miniseries. In the course of her travels, Worsley explores how royal history typically is a combination of facts, embellishment, manipulation and mythology. The premiere, "Elizabeth I: The Warrior Queen," examines this facet of the British queen's image, facilitated by myths and secrets about her victory over the Spanish Armada. This reputation shaped British national identity for centuries.

The 2020 ESPYS

Given ongoing health concerns over the coronavirus pandemic, the live events for this year's sports awards have been canceled, but that's not the only thing that will look different at this year's ESPYS. Inspired by extraordinary acts of heroism and humanitarian aid happening around the globe, this year's ceremony will shift its customary focus from the year's outstanding athletic achievements to highlight stories of service, perseverance and courage in the sports world. The program also will incorporate the 2020 Sport Humanitarian Awards, usually presented separately.

Actor and former "Saturday Night Live" cast member Jason Sudeikis hosts this new seven-part comedy competition, in which 32 comics compete head-to-head but virtually in a single-elimination, bracket-style tournament. Each episode features multiple match-ups, with Sudeikis acting as both master of ceremonies and color commentator. Viewers decide which comics advance via phone and online voting. Featured comics include Jeff Ross, Margaret Cho, Judah Friedlander, Gilbert Gottfried, Fortune Feimster, Natasha Leggero, and Triumph the Insult Comic Dog, among others.

7 p.m. on KVIA2 Whose Line Is It Anyway?
 In a new episode, host Aisha Tyler welcomes a returning guest, comic Jonathan Mangum, who joins cast regulars Ryan Stiles, Wayne Brady and Colin Mochrie in a series of improv games incorporating ideas provided by their live audience in the studio. After each round, Tyler doles out points to the players whose work she enjoyed the most, then declares a winner at the end of the episode, although the games themselves really are the whole point.

8 p.m. on KVIA2 Penn & Teller: Fool Us

The guest illusionists may be new, but The CW clearly doesn't believe in tampering with success as this hit reality competition series returns for Season 7. The basic premise is the same: Rising stars in the magic world perform one of their best tricks for veteran magicians Penn Jillette and Teller, who then try to crack the secret behind the illusion after just one viewing.

8 p.m. on BRAVO Camp Getaway

In the season finale "We Came, We Camped, We Co-

9 p.m. on KRWG Independent Lens

Filmmaker Stacey Tenenbaum's refreshing new documentary "Pipe Dreams" challenges some off-the-mark preconceptions about an age-old instrument — while also taking viewers inside the high-stakes world of competitive organ music. The film charts the journeys of four prodigiously talented organ players during the run-up to the Canadian International Organ Competition, regarded by many as the Olympics for organ music.

tonight's picks

Toni Morrison

6 p.m. on TRAV
Ghost Adventures

A new episode called "Voices of the Dead" finds Zak Bagans, Nick Groff and Aaron Goodwin trying to help a colleague of sorts — another paranormal investigator — and his family find closure after they suffer a traumatic loss. After they do what they can, the guys then head to the Great Lakes to investigate reports of demonic activity at a historic hotel.

7 p.m. on KRWG
American Masters

Timothy Greenfield-Sanders' new "Toni Morrison" offers an "intimate meditation" on the life, works and recurring themes of this masterful storyteller and Nobel Prize winner. Morrison's personal story opens in the steel town of Lorain, Ohio, where she grew up, and leads her to '70s book tours with Muhammad Ali and political front lines with Angela Davis. The film also features interviews with Davis, poet Sonia Sanchez, writers Fran Lebowitz, Walter Mosley and Hilton Als, and Oprah Winfrey, who turned Morrison's novel "Beloved" into a feature film.

7 p.m. on KVIA2
DC's Stargirl

Pat (Luke Wilson) puts Courtney (Brec Bassinger) in a difficult dilemma when he confronts her about potential drawbacks to her recruitment drive for the JSA in the new episode "The Justice Society." Elsewhere, while Courtney, Yolanda, Beth and Rick (Yvette Monreal, Anjelika Washington, Cameron Gellman) get ready for their first important mission, Barbara (Amy Smart) turns up to support Mike's (Trae Romano) science fair. Hunter Sansone and Neil Jackson also star.

7 p.m. on OWN
Greenleaf

The Greenleaf family struggles to maintain a united front in the face of losing their church as this drama opens its fifth and final season with "The First Day." Calvary is scheduled to be demolished in just under a week, so Lady Mae and Bishop (Lynn Whitfield, Keith David) could really use a sign from God. Heartsick Charity (Deborah Joy Winans), meanwhile, is left to cope with the fallout of her actions, alone and shunned by her family. Merle Dandridge and Beau Bridges also star.

8 p.m. on TRU TV
Tirdy Works

Emma Willman assumes the informal role of coach as she tries to help Mary prepare her comedy routine for a big benefit event in Pittsfield in the new episode "The Final Countdown." Elsewhere, Dale takes Mary into his confidence about a secret passion and asks for a chance to perform in the show.

9 p.m. on KRWG
Frontline

Although many viewers may be suffering from scandal fatigue these days, the new documentary "Opioids, Inc." may still shake some of them up with its account of how a drug company flooded the market with powerful opioids by bribing doctors and committing extensive insurance fraud. Produced in association with the London-based business and economic publication Financial Times, the film reveals how a company called Insys Therapeutics reaped a monetary windfall from a fentanyl-based painkiller that was 50 times stronger than heroin.

Parks & Recreation Department Announces

Celebrating Our Heroes!

VIRTUAL ELECTRIC LIGHT PARADE

The annual Fourth of July “Electric Light Parade” is going virtual and lights are optional for this parade.

Celebrate our heroes who have kept the community going through this pandemic. Submit a tribute to your hero and be entered to win a prize!

HERE IS HOW IT WORKS: Create a Virtual Electric Light Parade entry by decorating a yard or vehicle, dressing in patriotic style, showing a pet’s patriotic spirit, or designing a patriotic face covering aligned with the theme.

TAKE A PHOTO OF THE TRIBUTE AND SUBMIT IT BY EMAIL to enter the virtual parade competition. This is not a photo contest; entries will be judged on representation of theme, creativity, and quality of workmanship. Remember, lights are optional and are not a part of the judging criteria.

ALL ENTRIES WILL BE SHOWCASED IN A VIRTUAL PARADE EVENT on CLC-TV and social media. First, Second and Third place winners in multiple categories. All winners will be announced on the Fourth of July during the virtual parade. Deadline to submit entries is 11:59 p.m., Monday June 29.

For complete information about the Virtual Electric Light Parade, go to las-cruces.org/FourthofJuly or contact the Parks and Recreation Department at 575/541-2550 or email clcengage@las-cruces.org.

City council move to approve energy conservation contract, tables new TIDD

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

At its Monday, June 15, regular meeting, the Las Cruces City Council voted unanimously to table a resolution creating the city's second tax increment development district (TIDD) to "promote development at the area formerly known as the 'Old Las Cruces Country Club. A vote will be taken at a future meeting.

TIDDs establish a base-line property and gross receipts tax (GRT) base, and as development occurs increasing the property and GRT amounts in the district, the increment is reinvested into the district. Establishing a TIDD does not increase taxes.

Mayor Ken Miyagishima said the council might want to consider expanding the proposed TIDD's boundaries.

He also read messages of opposition from the County Club Neighborhood Association, state Sen. Jeff Steinborn, D-Doña Ana, and the Belton Bridge Center, 1214 E. Madrid Ave.

Also at the meeting, the council unanimously approved a contract with Johnson Controls, Inc., an energy service company, for an energy-performance contract to implement energy conservation measures at city facilities and properties. The contract is for an amount approaching $9.33 million for renovations including lighting at 110 city buildings and parks; consolidating 35 city facilities into a single energy management system; and replacing and upgrading heating, ventilation and air conditioning units on city properties.

City Facilities Management Administrator Eric Martin said the city can expect savings of $476,000 per year.

Julie Ford Oliver seeks, then paints, beauty

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Looking across the desert near her home in east Las Cruces, artist Julie Ford Oliver was fascinated by a bird landing on a nearby table and by the subtle differences in the shades of green in trees and plants that lay beyond.

"I concentrate on beauty," said Oliver, who moved to Las Cruces with her husband in 2000 after more than a decade living in El Paso. "The Southwest has captured my heart."

A native of Manchester, England, Oliver moved to the United States many years ago. Her mother was a registered nurse, and her father was in management. She got a scholarship in high school to go to art school, and "never looked back. I've never stopped painting," she said.

A long and successful career as a professional illustrator gave Oliver "a great drawing foundation," she said.

The success and accolades have continued since she began painting full time. Oliver has been featured in "Who's Who in American Art," "Daily Paintwork," "Artist Magazine" and other national and regional publications. Her work hangs in museums, galleries and private collections across the country and around the world.

Her exhibitions include a one-woman show at the Americana Museum in El Paso and shows at Chamizal National Memorial in El Paso, the Women's Museum in Dallas and the U.S. Department of the Interior Museum in Washington, D.C.

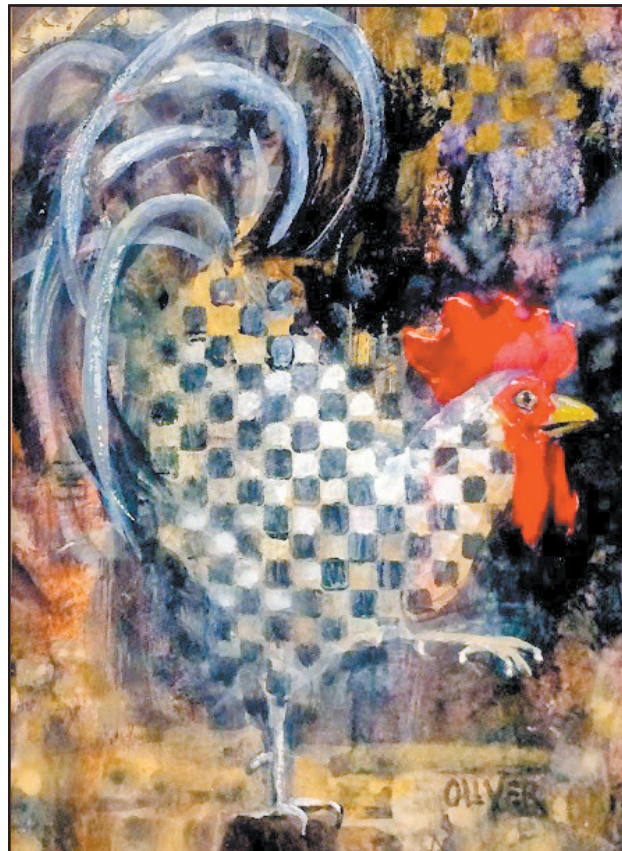

In Las Cruces, Oliver has a studio in her home and another in downtown Las Cruces, near M Phillips Fine Arts Gallery, 221 N. Main St., where her work is regularly exhibited. She also teaches art at the gallery and conducts regular workshops for the Doña Ana Arts Council, although that's all on hold during the pandemic.

Oliver said she is "academic in the way I teach," focusing on the basic principals of art. But, as an artist herself, she has "a problem with tight realism. If you're going to try to paint exactly what you see, why not take a photograph instead?" she said.

She describes her work as "a contemporary impressionistic style."

"Art is so subjective," she said. "You can never please anyone and everyone. You've got to please yourself — like coffee — it's exactly the same with art."

Some years ago, Oliver said she made up her mind to "only paint beauty, only have beauty in my heart."

Students invited to step into the 'Dawn of Discovery'

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Las Cruces Space Festival has posted a virtual gallery, "Dawn of Discovery," to showcase the artists who were chosen as part of the live event that was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The gallery, a multimedia exhibit featuring international and local artists portraying the beauty of the universe and the excitement of space exploration, can be found at www.lcspacefestival.com/gallery/.

Karen Conley of the Doña Ana Arts Council (DAAC) curated the show before the Space Festival was canceled.

"I love curating," she said. "We were so excited and happy about the amount of work and the quality of work that was submitted for this show, which was supposed to happen this spring. We decided we needed to go ahead and build an online platform as a gesture of good will for the artists — to do something for them to get their work out there."

Conley and Alice Caruth, a festival organizer, said they also wanted to show that the festival is still part of Las Cruces. The online gallery features more than 70 images of artwork created by 43 artists and will be available until Aug. 1.

"We want to be visible in the community," Conley said. "We felt like it would be a good venue.

Last year almost 3,000 people came through that art show [on display at the Mesilla Valley Mall]."

She said they don't know yet if the festival will be able to happen in the fall or will have to wait until next year, but events are still being planned and sponsored.

DAAC is inviting children to visit the virtual gallery and choose their favorite piece(s) of art

Arts Council offers modified children's summer programming

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Doña Ana Arts Council (DAAC) usually offers three summer camps in visual and performing arts for K-12 students each year but is making modifications in this year's scheduling because of state public health orders regarding student-teacher ratios and social distancing.

"We have regretfully cancelled Missoula Children's Theatre (MCT) and Opera Storytellers Camp," DAAC Communication

Director Kathleen Albers said. "We will still offer a modified version of Career Art Path in July, as well as suggest free online art activities for students and their families."

Career Art Path

DAAC will offer two one-week sessions of the Career Art Path (CAP) visual art camp presented via Zoom. Las Cruces

Public Schools art teacher Hiba Mohammed and LCPS and New Mexico State University educator Christa Fredrickson will be CAP co-directors, Albers said.

"They will present art content integrated with art careers and introduce students to local art professionals working in our community," she said. "The topics will include but not be limited to outdoor painting, theatre set design, figure drawing, costume design, wearable art, cosplay, performing arts, art history and a review of the current online art show, Dawn of Discovery."

The two online sessions will be 9:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Monday-Friday, July 6-10 and 13-17. Each session can accommodate up to 40 students. The cost is $40 per session.

Prior to the camp, students will receive art supplies and other materials to be used during the week. A virtual gallery show of the students' work will be displayed on the DAAC website and social media outlets at the end of each session.

Register for one or both sessions at the DAAC website Kids' Corner tab or www.daarts.org/sign-up-for-career-art-path. For more information, contact Karen Conley at 575-523-6403 or email manager@daarts.org.

Playdate

MCT is offering a free online program called Playdate. It is an interactive set of daily activities based on a one-week International Tour Program. Students learn lines, build props, sing songs, create costumes and perform with their families.

With simple steps and MCT's professional guidance, they have video tutorials and all the materials needed, including downloadable music. MCT asks for a $5-$10 donation. Visit www.mctinc.org/childrens-theatre-in-missoula-2/mcts-playdate/ for more information.

DAAC's Arts and Cultural Center, 1740 Calle de Mercado, is open 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday. Call 575-523-6403 or visit www.daarts.org.

there.

"They can send us an email telling us what they liked about a piece," Conley said. "Then we are going to share the comments with the artist, and we are going to connect them with the artist through Zoom or email."

The "Dawn of Discovery Student Challenge," is for students in grades 3-12. Participants may submit responses and art until July 1. All responses must be sent to manager@daarts.org. Additional information may be found in the Kid's Corner tab at www.daarts.org.

DAAC will also accept space-themed artwork from students to be displayed on the Las Cruces Space Festival website, as well as the DAAC website.

The artists in the gallery are welcome to sell their art, Conley said. She said the sale is still between the potential artist and the buyer, with a recommended donation to United Way of 20 percent of the sales.

A $38 Million class action settlement has been reached on behalf of beneficiaries of deceased pediatric cancer patients who received treatment for Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia (also known as "ALL") at the University of New Mexico Health Sciences Center or Hospital between January 1, 1977 and March 31, 1997

Para una notificación en Español, llamar o visitar nuestro website.

Notice of a class action settlement authorized by State of New Mexico, County of Bernalillo, Second Judicial District Court

This notice is authorized by the Court to inform you about an agreement to settle a class action lawsuit that may affect you. The lawsuit alleges that the University of New Mexico failed to administer proper treatment protocols to pediatric Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia patients treated at the University of New Mexico Health Sciences Center or Hospital ("UNM") between January 1, 1977, and March 31, 1997. The settlement covers pediatric cancer patients who died as recently as December 1, 2019.

The Defendant UNM says that it has done nothing wrong. The Court has not decided who is right because the parties agreed to a settlement. The Court has given preliminary approval to this settlement. The Court will have a hearing to decide whether to finally approve the settlement on July 28, 2020 at 9:00 a.m.

Who is included in the settlement? You may be a Class Member if you are a family member or beneficiary of a deceased pediatric cancer patient diagnosed with ALL who was treated at UNM between January 1, 1977 and March 31, 1997 and who died on or before December 1, 2019. This lawsuit is principally about whether pediatric cancer patients who were treated for ALL at the UNM between January 1, 1977, and March 31, 1997, were given proper care.

What does the settlement provide? The University of New Mexico has agreed to create a fund of $38,050,000.00 to be divided among all Class members. The Settlement Agreement, available at the website below, describes all the details of the proposed settlement.

Your share of the fund will depend on the number of valid claims that are submitted by eligible Decedent Class Members, whether a deceased pediatric cancer patient has more than one statutory beneficiary entitled to compensation, the total amount of claims administration expenses, taxes, service awards to the named Plaintiffs in the case, and attorneys' fees and expenses.

Make Music Day streaming online June 21

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Make Music Day-Las Cruces (MMD-LC) “is a free, ongoing virtual musical experience on (Sunday), June 21, with music on social-media platforms such as Facebook, YouTube, Instagram and Twitch,” said MMD-LC co-producer David Senk, who added that outdoor events held that day will follow state public health guidelines.

Make Music Day-Las Cruces will begin about 10 a.m. and continue until about 10 p.m., Senk said, and will celebrate both the summer solstice and Father’s Day. Visit at www.makemusicday.org/lascruces and on the MMD-LC Facebook page @Make Music Day Las Cruces for live streaming and online trainings.

The MMD-LC lineup so far includes “amateurs, hobbyists, classic, rock, ska, jazz, folk, native, electronic, latin rhythms, sound art, performance art — very eclectic,” Senk said.

Local musicians scheduled to perform include Shirley Shrimp, Sister Black Lagoon, boB Hull (of Las Cruces Ukles), Singing Out Las Cruces choir, Zuill Bailey, Chris Bereos Haigis, Stoney Blue Fish (rock and indie-rock band writing original music), Randy Granger, Matt Herskowitz (from his studio in Canada), Daniel Sanchez, Morgan Bros, Abby Nayra, Dzaki (an NMSU student singer-songwriter and aspiring musician), Irene Brink, Luis Guerro and

The Casual Fridays.

Performers can continue to register for MMD-LC until June 21 at the event website.

“In fact, if you post throughout the day #makemusicday #lascruces, we will do our best to repost on our Facebook page,” Senk said. “This is an immersive experience for all to take part. All skill levels are welcome and encouraged.”

“We are all very honored and excited to present this 40-year-old tradition that started in France as Fete de la Musique to the Las Cruces community,” said

Senk. “It is now held on the same day in more than 1,000 cities in 120 countries. We hope that this can bring visibility to the deep culture roots and rich heritage that Las Cruces offers. We strive to bring focus to the history, talent and diversity of interest in music and art in our region.”

Senk is a member of MMD-LC Chapter, along with Logan Sage, who is MMD-LC co-producer and owner of The Range events center; Liz Vega of Visit Las Cruces; Rene Romo from the office of U.S. Sen. Tom Udall, D-N.M.; Las Cruces artist Lisa Carlson; boB Hull; and Neeshia Macanowicz of Shirley Shrimp.

Senk said MMD-LC is part of the Make Music Alliance, based in Brooklyn, New York.

“It is our first year, and we were impacted by COVID-19, so we are working hard to make adjustments and get the entire community involved on very short notice. MMD-LC is an informal organization at this point. We are a group of independent and affiliated local artists, musicians, promoters, producers and arts presenters,” said Senk, who founded Creative Networks, LLC, which he called “a community-focused tech startup.”

One of MMD-LC’s goals in its first year “is to help the city open safely, yet offer an opportunity for businesses to show how they are adapting by engaging with the community using technology and social media to promote and support local musicians,” Senk said.

Local MMD-LC presenters include Dry Point Distillery, Downtown Blues Cafe, New Mexico Vintage Wines and Market, Organ Mountain Outfitters and COAS Bookstore. Presenting sponsors include Udall’s office, Visit Las Cruces, the Doña Ana Arts Council, Creative Networks, The Range, Neighbors Magazine, El Paso Pro Musica and others, Senk said.

Dear graduates: 10 important things I have learned

I have given much thought to what I can say to you seniors that will impress or enlighten you, especially since some of you may have decided that you have gained all the knowledge you need.

It is true in any great civilization that one generation passes on knowledge to the next. That makes it unnecessary to keep reinventing the wheel. One can learn from another's experience and mistakes and not repeat them if we pay attention and take seriously what we have been told.

Patterned after a late-night talk show, I have come up with 10 suggestions for living a full and meaningful life, ranking them in reverse order from 10 to 1. They are based upon what I have discovered to be most important in my own experience.

Number 10 — Choose your heroes carefully.

RUTH MOORER
Not for Sissies

Who will you model your life after? Is it some famous singer, actor, sports figure or millionaire? What about people who are giving of themselves to help and bless others? The fact is that what you think about persistently, you will likely become. What you give your attention to determines how your life will be.

Number 9 — Things will not bring you happiness. Getting stuff (whatever it is: houses, land, cars, jewels, etc.) in the long run cannot fill your deepest need. People are more important than material possessions.

Number 8 — Realize your power to make a difference in the world.

In the United States, we try to emphasize the importance of every vote in every election. Consider for a moment the power of ONE as illustrated by a seed and a match. In the right place and at the right time, one seed or one match or one vote can start something very big. Consider what one woman named Rosa Parks started by refusing to give up her seat on a bus in Montgomery, Alabama. This act initiated the civil rights movement, which has had a profound effect upon how we treat our Black brothers and sisters.

Number 7 — Whatever is worthwhile, apply yourself to it. Your studies, your job, your relationships with others. Be careful in the small things, and you will realize rewards in bigger things.

Number 6 — Respect

yourself and every other human being. Remember that the One who created you dwells within you, for you are a Temple of God. Therefore, treat your body, your mind and your soul as sacred. Don't allow anyone to treat you as a thing, less than holy.

Number 5 — Live as though you have only one day to live. Some day, all of us will die. I am aware that you cannot imagine you will ever die. The point is: live your life in the NOW, enjoying and appreciating each day. My mother, who lived to be 96, worn a button which said "Enjoy life now; this is not a dress rehearsal."

Number 4 — Keep learning and growing. We have been put on this earth for a purpose: to learn some things which we could not learn any other way. I believe that we are here basically to learn how to love others.

As long as you are here, there is something more to learn.

Number 3 — Recognize the law of the boomerang. When you throw a boomerang in a certain way, it will come back to you. Show consideration and kindness, it will be shown to you. Criticize and pass judgment on others, pass on something which is untrue or unkind, and guess what? You eventually will get it back. Forgive, and you will be forgiven.

Number 2 — Love and serve others. Jesus said, "He who would save his life must lose it." What he meant is that as one gives himself unselfishly to help others and at a cost to himself, will discover the richness, meaning and purpose of life. Have you noticed that when you do something for someone else, you feel better?

Number 1 — Commit

your life to the One who created you. Attached to you and me are invisible labels saying, "Only works well when operated according to the Manufacturer's instructions." We do not work right unless we follow God's law of love, loving Him and loving our neighbors. The first commandment is for us to love God with all our heart, our soul, mind and strength. When we do that, we are on a sure foundation for life.

There you have the essence of what I have learned in life. If you only remember one thing I have tried to say today, you will have something of value to hang onto. God bless you all.

Ruth Justice Moorer, a resident of Las Cruces since 1996, is a former public-school science teacher and United Methodist pastor.

BULLETIN REPORT

Students from Oñate High School aren't letting social distancing keep them from making new friends in the community. It all started after sophomore student council president Annalise thought about who were impacted the most during the COVID-19 pandemic.

"I saw a story about a nursing home in Pennsylvania," Annalise said. "I thought the people right now who need the contact would be the residents of a local assisted living facility."

Following Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham's stay-at-home directive, school buildings shut-down throughout the district in mid-March. With the community's most vulnerable population at risk, many nursing homes closed their doors to all visitors.

"Haciendas at Grace Village was excited to hear from Annalise," said Janet Acosta, administrator at Haciendas at Grace Village. "We specialize in all stages of dementia and we are constantly coming up with activity ideas to keep our residents engaged, while at the same time keeping them safe, calm and in a peaceful atmosphere to prevent them from feeling overwhelmed."

Twenty-four OHS student council members wrote letters, and Student Council Advisor Naomi Chavez Lopez photographed and emailed the letters to staff at Grace Village, to be printed for the residents.

"Letters were part of their generation," Acosta said. "It brings such joy and happiness; their smiles are priceless! The anticipation, and the surprise of a handwritten letter arriving, and the excitement of what could be inside, are all part of what they can relate to." Acosta added, "Just like letters of the past that kept people connected through war, across oceans, over years, they can continue to engage multiple generations even in this tech savvy age."

Students from Oñate are currently awaiting letters from their new pen pals. Staff from Grace Village hope to coordinate a meet-and-greet with the Oñate student council members once it is deemed safe.

Book by local author N. Dresser celebrates 10th anniversary with unanticipated COVID audience

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

“On its 10th publication anniversary, ‘Saying Goodbye to Someone You Love: Your Emotional Journey Through End of Life and Grief’ serves an unanticipated audience: the grieving families of the over 100,000 COVID-19 victims,” said Las Cruces author and folklorist Norine Dresser.

Dresser wrote the book with bereavement specialist Fredda Wasserman, and it was selected as a best self-help book by Library Journal in 2010.

“While talking about death used to be taboo, now it is the lead story in the media as we are bombarded with the latest statistics about hospitalizations and deaths,” she said.

“My attitude toward death was jolted when, as a folklorist and university professor, I attended a traditional Mexican

DRESSER

Day of the Dead celebration,” Dresser said in the book’s preface. “The ceremony [involved] a procession several blocks long of costumed skeletons, ghouls and ghosts of famous people. The parade ended ... a giant altar that held miniature coffins, skeletons and spun-sugar candied skulls with names of people in colorful icing. What really stood out was a life-size cardboard coffin on the floor with a drawstring at the end. Tentatively, children approached and pulled on the string, which caused the upper half of the coffin to open – and up popped a skeleton. Screaming, the children ran away, gathered their courage and returned to pull the string again.

“How healthy, I thought, to play with the artifacts of death.

“[When] my husband of more than 50 years became terminally ill, caring for him in hospice while he slowly deteriorated over the course of a year challenged my ideas. Nonetheless, living so close to death reinforced the beliefs I had developed since attending that first Day of the Dead celebration.”

Dresser moved to Las Cruces in 2012. She has written a number of other books, including “Come as You Aren’t! Feeling at Home with Multicultural Celebrations” (2006), “Multicultural Manners: Essential Rules of Etiquette for the 21st Century/More Real-Life Dilemmas with Special Emphasis on Post 9/11 Conflicts” and “American Vampires: Fans, Victims, Practitioners” (1989).

You can buy her books at independent bookstores and online. Visit www.norinedresser.org/.

Sharing a vigil

By NORINE DRESSER

I feel so helpless during this COVID-19 outbreak. I am horrified by the accelerating numbers of infections and deaths. Besides trying to keep myself healthy and avoid spreading the virus, what can I do to help?

Physical limitations prevent me from volunteering, for example, at food banks. I have donated money to hard-hit communities, like the nearby Navajo Nation and to local charities.

But writing a check is not enough.

My solution arrived in the form of a recent email from Rabbi Regina Sandler-Phillips. Over 10 years ago, I interviewed her for a book I co-authored called “Saying Goodbye to Someone You Love: Your Emotional Journey Through End of Life and Grief.” (New York: Demos, 2010.)

She expanded my knowledge about the Jewish tradition of preparing bodies for burial. Now she is involved with an interfaith organization that spiritually stays with the rapidly accumulating bodies in New York, and elsewhere in the world, until they are finally laid to rest.

Sandler-Phillips participates in an interfaith organization called, Sharing a Vigil for the COVID-19 Dead. Volunteers take shifts to focus on the dead while saying prayers, reciting poems, reading literature, playing music or even remaining silent. This remote vigil-keeping is a way to bear witness and extend ultimate kindness to ALL dead — near and far, whether named or unknown.

When the Rabbi asked for volunteers, I signed up. I told her that every night in Las Cruces, 11 p.m. until midnight, I would sing songs and accompany myself on the ukulele, while concentrating on the bodies elsewhere. Given the dire predictions about second waves of infection, this job will no doubt last for months, even longer.

Ordinarily, around 10:30 p.m., I am either at my computer in my office or streaming TV in the living room. I turn off the electronics and enter my bedroom for nightly ablutions before changing into my bedclothes.

At precisely 11 p.m., I begin to sing and play while I visually focus on a sight that will never leave me — in New York City, large white refrigerated trucks, temporary morgues, that are crammed with bodies awaiting their final disposition. The thought of these lonely crowded bodies fills me with great sadness.

For one hour, I sing.

This new and moving experience satisfies my need to meaningfully participate in one of the most horrendous events of a lifetime.

Norine Dresser is a folklorist who strongly disagrees with those who want to end the coronavirus lockdown and reopen businesses prematurely.

COVID-19 could bring film opportunities to Las Cruces

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Film and media production are likely to have a faster and stronger recovery from COVID-19 than other industries, and Las Cruces could have an important role to play in Hollywood's "new normal."

That's what Film Las Cruces (FLC) Director Don Gray told the Las Cruces City Council at a recent work session, as councilors examined several options to expand film and television opportunities in Las Cruces.

The health pandemic "has created some really interesting market forces," Gray said, and "a lot of opportunity."

In the next 12-24 months, film studios will begin making small productions, and will be looking for "contained environments in which to shoot" he said. "Anybody who has these contained spaces is going to be in the conversation in this industry."

Film-makers will also be looking to eliminate as much travel as possible, he said, but they will also be seeking locations outside of densely populated areas like Los Angeles and New York.

With its smaller population, proximity to West Coast studios, a 75,000-square foot film studio already in operation and the state's 35 percent film rebate, Gray said, Las Cruces could be a very attractive option.

The city has nearly $1 million in state capital outlay funds and $3 million in hold-harmless gross receipts tax funds targeted for film and TV production and has had an agreement with FLC to provide film and TV production since 2016.

The city issued an RFP for the management and operation of a Las Cruces film soundstage facility in 2018 but was unable to come to an agreement with the only respondent to the RFP and cancelled it in January of this year.

City Economic Development Department Director Griselda Martinez said options going forward include 1) buying and retro-fitting Las Cruces Film Studios at 2100 S. Valley Drive; 2) partnering with New Mexico State University and Doña Ana Community College on a purpose-build film studio at NMSU's Arrowhead Park; and 2a) partnering with NMSU and DACC on a workforce training facility for digital media.

State Sen. Jeff Steinborn, D-Doña Ana, who is president of the FLC board and a leader in creating New Mexico's film rebate, said Las Cruces should rely on the state to help with funding to attract an anchor tenant to Las Cruces. The state, he said, has invested $27 million in Local Economic Development Act (LEDA) funds into building three films in northern New Mexico.

"We all need to be leaning on the state of New Mexico pretty hard to create the same opportunity for southern New Mexico," Steinborn said.

FLC STUDIOS

Las Cruces Film Studios, 2100 S. Valley Drive

In the meantime, he and Gray said the city should invest $20,000-$30,000 in sound-treatment improvements at Film Las Cruces Studios. The city's total investment in the studio since it became operational, Steinborn said, is $20,000 to purchase sets. The studio, which was previously a Coca Cola bottling plant, is privately owned and is leased by DACC, which uses it as a training facility for students in its Creative Media Technology program.

DACC President Monica

Torres said DACC and NMSU have, for the past five years, been working on the development of a creative campus to "support high-demand, good-paying jobs with state-of-the-art digital and emerging media skill development," with a goal to create a collaboration among "industry, government and academia to create a focused center of digital media."

She said local voters passed a 2019 DACC bond issue that will provide $3.9 million for a 15,000-square-foot creative media technology facility at Arrowhead Park.

Reopening Las Cruces has many moving parts: NMSU, WSMR, border critical to recovery

Like other department heads at NMSU, I've been spending a lot of time working on the fall schedule. Courses are being restructured to allow for social distancing. For many classes, this means moving at least partially to online delivery. We have had to do a full rethink of how things will happen in the fall.

Of course, the really heavy lifting will be done by the faculty, who have had to adapt delivery to account for the new COVID realities. Meanwhile, others at NMSU are involved in developing plans to reopen dining halls and dorms. Yet others are working on the IT infrastructure to ensure the smooth delivery online. The list goes on. Bot-tomline, NMSU is engaged in an all-hands effort to reopen campus in the fall.

In my 33 years at NMSU, I have never seen anything like it. It's shoulders to the wheel, all oars pulling together, eye-on-the-ball time, and the NMSU community is stepping up to get the job done.

Orchestrating this effort is the NMSU leadership team headed by President Floros and Chancellor Arvizu, who have done an excellent job.

That NMSU will successfully reopen even now is not a slam dunk. In the background lurk external threats. There is the state budget shortfall that will almost certainly result in cuts to the higher-ed budget. There is also the projected nationwide decline in college enrollment as students decide to defer attending college given the uncertainties. There is the problem of newly admitted foreign students' inability to obtain visas to travel to the United States. Finally, and most concerning, is the very real possibility of a pandemic second wave.

That NMSU successfully reopens is critical for Las Cruces, as NMSU is the county's largest single employer. But for the county to recover, it's not just NMSU that has to succeed. The hard-hit leisure and hospitality sector, which is made up mainly of bars and restaurants, hotels, racetracks and casinos. This sector has seen a 47 percent decline in employment.

It is going to take some time to bring this sector back. Current guidelines allow dine-in eating at 50 percent of capacity. This means fewer customers, less volume. Many restaurants won't survive the loss of business. Those that remain likely will charge higher prices. The sector may never recover fully, at least, not until there is a vaccine.

The county's border region has also been affected. Many maquilas in Juarez and elsewhere in Mexico have shut down due to COVID, with knock-on effects for Doña Ana County. About 4,400 hundred people work in border-related industries such as border control and warehousing. These jobs are at risk until COVID is under control in Mexico.

White Sands Missile Range is the largest source of jobs in the county when private contractors that work on base are accounted for. About 70 percent of the base's civilian workforce is on administrative leave or working from home. Most of the WSMR employees have remained on payroll, which has softened the blow to the local economy. Some testing has been deferred, which means fewer contractors on base.

LC School athletics reboot practices, with precautions

By KELLY JAMESON
Las Cruces Public Schools

Under guidance from the New Mexico Activities Association (NMAA), Las Cruces Public Schools could begin summer workouts for student athletic programs as early as June 22, following a week of re-entry meetings and updated district-wide athletic safety protocols.

Phase 1 of athletic re-entry will include mandatory COVID-19 testing for all coaches. Wellness checks for athletes will be conducted daily, and training sessions will be planned for parents, athletes and the coaching staff began June 15 by video conference. The target date for workouts is June 22.

“When additional restrictions are lifted, we will be flexible,” said District Superintendent Dr. Karen Trujillo. “Until then, this is the best solution to get back on track with our athletic programs to keep our student athletes engaged and active over the summer.”

Restrictions under Phase 1, according to NMAA, include: Individual skill development and workouts allowed, no contact with others, no sharing of equipment and no games or scrimmages; No gatherings of more than six with a 5-to-1 player-to-coach ratio; Workouts conducted in pods, with the same five students always working out together with the same coach; Indoor facility pods limited to three and outdoor facility pods limited to five; Minimum distance of 6 feet between individuals; All coaches and students screened daily for signs/symptoms of COVID-19, including a temperature check, and anyone with a temperature of greater than 100.3 degrees will be sent home; No use of locker rooms or weight rooms; No shared athletic equipment; All equipment cleaned after each use.

Hart family embraces return to sports in schools

By JESS WILLIAMS
Las Cruces Bulletin

Spencer Hart has been a football enthusiast since he was a toddler, and he’s played in some capacity since the age of four. He’s just about to enter high school, and he’s excited to play for the Mayfield Trojans.

Amid COVID-19, sports practicing is starting to gear up for the fall, but it looks different than it has in years past.

The Bulletin reached out to Spencer Hart and his mother, Tai Gutierrez-Hart, for their feelings and thoughts as the new normal begins to emerge.

Bulletin: How do you feel about the district’s timing and protocols?

Tai: I think it is safe to say everyone can agree it is a bit strange to have a plan in place for a first phase of school athletics, prior to knowing or having a plan in place for the next school year in general. But with all the planning and precautions being put into place, I think the timing is right. The coaches are going through trainings on how to comply with the regulations, and prior to our first practice, we have a meeting set up to further discuss and make sure all the student athletes know what is required and expected of them.

Bulletin: Are you

excited to get back into practicing and playing?

Spencer: Yes, because it’s been months without practicing any sports. I’m really ready to get back to being active.

Bulletin: Do you have any reservations about letting Spencer practice and/or play?

Tai: Right now, I don’t have reservations with the Phase 1 guidelines. The plan really minimizes exposure with the staff being tested, player and coach screenings, low player-to-coach ratios and distance requirements.

Bulletin: Will you take additional precautions? If so, please specify.

Tai: Constant reminders to the student athletes are essential. We have, and will continue, to remind Spencer how important it is to keep distancing, sanitizing and not sharing. Outside of practice, we’ll continue to do our part as a family to limit exposure by not traveling and practice social distancing.

Bulletin: What are your feelings about the district’s protocols? Do they go far enough? Too far? Why?

Spencer: I feel like the rules they put into place are ok. I hope we can eventually get back to a normal football practice and have a normal season. Things seem to be changing daily, but we want to be prepared for whatever the outcome is.

Bulletin: Why is letting Spencer participate in sports important to you?

Tai: Spencer has been playing football since age four, transitioning from playing flag football to full tackle, and his passion and talent just increased over time, and he has the desire to play college level. I’m excited to see him in the green and gold at Mayfield, my alma matter. Coach Bradley has stated our slogan for the year is, "Rise Up," which really has a double meaning now with everything going on.

Bulletin: Do you have any fears or reservations about getting back on the field?

Spencer: Not really,

I'm young and healthy and do not think the virus would impact me too hard if I were to get it.

Bulletin: Why is participating in sports at school important to you?

Spencer: I know I have to get good grades to play, and it keeps me focused. It helps me to stay out of trouble.

Post COVID Quarantine Working through the backlog of delayed healthcare.

The COVID-19 pandemic has delayed many physician appointments, elective procedures, and medical tests. As restrictions ease, working through this backlog will be a challenge. For people who have pain or orthopedic issues, their best option may be to see a physical therapist first.

Physical therapists are highly trained specialists who are well equipped to be the first point of contact for patients with musculoskeletal issues. Most states - including New Mexico - have direct access laws that allow patients to see a PT, when appropriate, without seeing a physician first. In addition, research shows that people who see a PT have better outcomes, recover quicker, and spend less money. If people are using insurance to pay for their care, they should check with the insurance company to learn if a physician's referral is required.

Better Outcomes

Because back pain is so common, there is a lot of outcome data from people with back pain. A study of 150,000 insurance claims published in Health Services Research, found that those who saw a physical therapist at the first point of care had an 89 percent lower probability of receiving an opioid prescription, 28 percent lower probability of having advanced imaging services, and a 15 percent lower probability of an emergency department visit.

Faster Recovery

The Mitchell Study published in Physical Therapy looked at outcomes when patients went to a PT first. It found that patients who went to their physician before their PT spent 65% more time recovering, and had 60% more office visits than patients who went directly to their PT.

Less Expensive

There are many studies showing that the faster you get to your PT, the less money you spend. A study published in the Journal of Orthopaedic and Sports Physical Therapy showed that patients who obtained physical therapy via direct access had significantly lower medical costs— an average of $1,543 less per patient than those who chose referral from a physician. The Mitchell study mentioned above found that the total cost for physician referral to physical therapists was 123% or 2.2 times higher than the paid claims for people who went straight to PT.

As the healthcare system tries to work through the backlog of delayed visits and procedures, using physical therapists as the first provider for patients with pain or orthopedic issues could take some of the pressure off of primary care physicians and orthopedists. It could also lead to better outcomes, quicker recoveries, and cost savings for patients. That's a winning solution for everyone involved.

Atrium Physical Therapy is open and ready to serve! If you are uncertain as to how physical therapy can help you, we are happy to schedule a 30-minute, no obligation, Discovery session with a physical therapist. We can hold the session in person, or via a 'telehealth' call if you like. Call us at 575-525-2450 and our staff will be happy to get you set up and moving towards recovery!
