DOÑA ANA COUNTY RECEIVES $1 MILLION FEMA GRANT

Doña Ana County was awarded a $1,019,855 grant from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, Federal Emergency Management Agency, FEMA. The federal funds will dramatically increase the capacity to distribute vaccines throughout the area.

"I want to express my appreciation to FEMA for the expeditious processing of our application and award of the grant funds," said Doña Ana County Commission Chair Manuel Sanchez. "I also want to thank the local Office of Emergency Management and the Unified Area Command for their ongoing, dedicated efforts to distribute much needed vaccines to our constituents, no matter where in Doña Ana County they reside. All of us on the Board have heard pleas from the public wanting the vaccine. This FEMA grant will definitely assist in getting more vaccines in the arms of our constituents, along with increased vaccine distribution from the State of New Mexico."

County staff worked closely with FEMA for a month in preparing the grant application. The funding request was submitted on Mar. 9 and awarded on Mar. 16.

The vaccinations will be distributed in accordance with the New Mexico Department of Health, NMDOH, phases. All individuals will need to be registered in the NMDOH portal to be able to receive invitations to the Point of Distribution, POD.

Funds will also be used to help secure needed operational equipment and supplies, such as vaccine transport coolers and personnel protective equipment, to support planned distribution efforts in areas around the entire county and help increase the number of people being vaccinated daily. A large percentage of the grant award will cover medical and support staff.

"We are really excited about the capability that this grant will provide to the Unified Area Command and how quickly it will help us expand our vaccination efforts," said Stephen Lopez, Interim Supervisor, Office of Emergency Management.

Unified Area Command is a group that represents all local governments, educational institutions, hospitals and the state department of health. The group works collaboratively to address COVID-19 concerns, such as the distribution of vaccine.

The federal funds will decrease challenges that some homebound elderly residents encounter in accessing the vaccine. Through the funds awarded the ability to offer "at home" vaccines to the elderly population, 75 and older, with no access to transportation, will vastly improve.

Doña Ana County Board of Commissioners continue to closely monitor this situation and advocate for more vaccines and additional resources for the border community. In response to the need for more vaccines, Sanchez sent a letter to New Mexico Governor Michelle Lujan Grisham last week. In the letter to the Governor, Sanchez requested additional resources such as increasing the share of vaccines available for distribution, National Guard resources to reach homebound and rural areas and expediting certification of local entities, such as the Las Cruces Fire Department, to administer the vaccine.

To register for a COVID-19 vaccine, please visit cvs.vaccine.nmhealth.org or call the COVID-19 Vaccine Hotline at 1-855-600-3453.

Coming back with a launch company

Spaceport America Cup participant a founder of C6

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

During a ribbon cutting ceremony March 16, Canadian corporation C6 Launch Systems unveiled its launch system and a new rocket engine test stand at Spaceport America's vertical launch area.

This is not the first visit to Spaceport America for C6 Director of Structures Sadben Khan. He was the co-captain and structures lead for the Ryerson Rocketry team at Spaceport America Cup in 2017. He designed and built the entire airframe. The Ryerson team placed second in the 30,000-foot competition.

Khan said his experience in the Spaceport America Cup taught him a lot of valuable engineering skills. People learn a lot more from hands-on work and experience with rockets than sitting in a classroom with books, he said.

"My grad school position was related directly to the results of the competition," he said. "I managed to get a lot of internships and a lot of jobs and research positions."

Kahn, Resident Engineering Vice-President Daniel McCammon and Director of Avionics Tayo Shonibare are co-founders of C6 Launch Systems.

"All those years ago, I would have never thought we would be standing with this equipment ready to go — firing a rocket engine," Kahn said. "It's just surreal to be here."

C6 Launch is based in Ontario with offices in Toronto. The company brings a new launch capacity to the market for small satellite payloads up to 30 kilograms. This means the game changers, first movers and those with urgent operational requirements can deploy "smallsats" where they want, when they want, according to a C6 press release.

With the permission of Spaceport America, C6 Launch contracted Highland Enterprises of Las Cruces to build a vertical test stand for static-engine integration testing (SEIT). The flexible design of the stand supports several different engine sizes. The stand will remain at Spaceport America for future use by C6 Launch and others. In the end, C6 Launch will have contributed $200,000 to the local New Mexico economy, $450,000 to the Colorado economy (where the engine is made), and more than $400,000 to the Ontario economy.

"The tests will confirm operation of the C6 internal systems by conducting a hot-fire test of the Hadley engine from Ursa Major," said Richard McCammon, president of C6 Launch Systems. "This test will be the first of many Hadley engines that C6 intends to use in the quest for space."

Gadsden school board member donates kidney to retired educator

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

“Never did it cross my mind to say ‘no,’” Gadsden Independent School District (GISD) Board of Education member Claudia Rodriguez said about her decision to donate a kidney to her long-time friend and mentor, retired GISD educator Toni Jacquez.

After a delay of several months because of COVID-19, the successful transplant took place in February at Las Palmas Medical Center in El Paso. Both recipient and donor are doing well, Rodriguez said.

Rodriguez, who lives on the outskirts of La Mesa, said she first got to know Jacquez, who lives in Chamberino, when she was a student at Gadsden Middle School and Jacquez was a school counselor. Jacquez also served GISD as a teacher and principal before retiring.

They continued to stay in touch, sharing a passion for education and becoming “very close, creating advocacy and awareness,” Rodriguez said. “We lean on each other for everything that has to do for education.”

During their travels together, Rodriguez said she became aware that Jacquez was having serious health issues. Jacquez told Rodriguez in December 2019 that she would have to begin dialysis unless she could find a kidney donor.

Thinking, ““this is an education warrior who I need to help,” Rodriguez immediately volunteered to be tested to see if she was a compatible donor.

Jacquez was hesitant because Rodriguez and her husband, Jesus, have four children, ages 7, 13, 19 and 24.

“I talked to my husband,” Rodriguez said, telling him, “This is happening with her and I would like to help her.” Jesus Rodriguez told his wife, ““If you think that’s what you want to do, do it.”

After some discussion, their children were on board as well.

Rodriguez also connected by Zoom with her parents, siblings, nieces and nephews. Last Thanksgiving Day, she told them about the upcoming donation.

“We have been blessed with many, many great things,” Rodriguez said. “It’s my turn to give back.”

“My beautiful family, all of them, they were all on board,” she said.

After a few delays, the three-hour surgery was performed Feb. 15.

Rodriguez spent three days in the hospital following the surgery, but that didn’t keep her from her GISD work.

“My duties continued as a board member,” said Rodriguez, who joined the board in January 2020. “No way was I going to leave my role as a board member behind. I haven’t stopped. It is a duty I don’t take lightly.”

The board has returned to face-to-face meetings, but Rodriguez is continuing to attend via Google Meet until her recovery is complete.

Rodriguez said she has had “great, great, great support” since the surgery. “My husband has been an angel in helping me with everything. He’s in complete charge of the house.”

In a recent phone call, Jacquez told Rodriguez life is returning to normal.

Springtime in Santa Fe

The New Mexico State Legislature has just ended its 2021 60-day session. It was anything but business as usual.

I was in Santa Fe Saturday, Jan. 16, four days before the session's open, and the Roundhouse was surrounded by fencing and armed guards. Every state capitol in the country was on high alert because of threats of protest and violence.

I had to get special dispensation to deliver our Legislative Guides to the Roundhouse, both because of Covid and the added security.

I've been in the state capitol building, surely one of the most beautiful in America, a hundred times or more. Never have I seen it so empty and quiet.

I've been there late at night on a holiday, and even then, it was more active than on Jan. 16. The morning after the session opened, I ran into State Rep. Nathan Small at a Santa Fe coffee shop. Unlike others who were working remotely, Small was working inside the Capitol. He said it was indescribably weird.

I was back in Santa Fe March 1, hoping to see things closer to normal. The fences still surrounded the Roundhouse. State Police vehicles still kept traffic from getting within a block of the building. There's a good chance things will never be the same. The last 10 years, my visits to the Roundhouse have been mostly in a working capacity. Before that, and a few times since, my visits were as a tourist. The building itself is beautiful. The greatest attraction is the art in the building. Almost every style of art is represented. And almost every corner of the Land of Enchantment is represented.

Among my favorite pieces are the giant buffalo head made of recycled materials, Las Cruces' Steven Hansen's sculpture "Mental Floss" and Lois Duffy's painting of the Buffalo Bar, the now-gone haunt on Silver City's Bullard Street. There are dozens of striking black-and-white photographs, wonderful paintings, mixed-media pieces, sculptures, rugs and nearly every kind of art you can imagine, and many you can't.

I hope one day again we'll be able to walk in freely and wander about this beautiful space, the people's house, but I suspect it's going to be more complicated even after the fence is gone and Covid is behind us.

THIS YEAR'S SESSION

Every year, I find myself questioning legislation more. I find myself disagreeing more with new laws or, worse, not understanding why they are proposed. I felt this year almost every effort should have been focused on the short- and long-term effects of COVID-19. It is the biggest health, economic and social crisis of our generation, and it will have long-lasting impacts we can't even predict yet.

But I will never fault the effort of our legislators.

They have taken the bold step of running for office, putting their lives on hold, and subjecting themselves to all kinds of criticism and second-guessing. It can be all-consuming.

My hat is off to all of them for their hard work and dedication.

And even if you vehemently disagree with their stances or their votes, they are representing all the constituents of their district. Many of those constituents are as much in favor of their legislators' stances and votes as you are against them.

Legislature will be subservient until rules change

The New Mexico Legislature is not a co-equal branch of government, and that's by design.

The New Mexico governor's office is modern and up to date, and it operates much like other governors' offices throughout the country. The last major update came in 2020, when a new cabinet-level department was added to coordinate services for young children.

The New Mexico Legislature is antiquated and out of date, and it is thoroughly unlike any other state legislature in the country. I'm not sure when (or if) the last major update was, but it happened sometime before I came here in 2002.

Those differences have created a power imbalance between the governor's office and the legislature that is most stark during times when a Democrat is governor.

There were some epic budget battles when Gary Johnson was governor, and constant tension during the two terms of Susana Martinez, both Republicans.

But Bill Richardson, a Democrat, was able to bully legislators into passing a huge tax cut that benefited our state's wealthiest residents (and Richardson's quixotic presidential aspirations), even though lawmakers knew it would come back to haunt them. They didn't want to be seen as going against the leader of their party.

That dynamic played out this session on the issue of the governor's public health order in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. Current rules give the legislature no role in that process. It is entirely at the discretion of the governor as to how restrictive the rules will be, and how long they will be in place.

Legislators had it within their power to change that this session, but they choose not to. Once again, Democrats didn't want to be seen as going against the leader of their party.

The legislature will never be on an equal footing with the governor's office until there is a change in its basic structure. As it is now, we have full-time professionals in one branch, and part-time amateurs in the other.

I don't use the term "amateur" derisively. Unlike legislatures in other states, our lawmakers receive no salary and have no staff, other than somebody to help answer phone calls during the session.

And so, many legislators have other jobs to which they must also be attentive. Meetings of the Senate Judiciary Committee were cancelled this session, reportedly because Chairman Joseph Cervantes had important work with his private law firm that demanded his time.

Beyond being unpaid, legislators are only required to work during the sessions. That's 60 days in

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Unfair legislation

To the editor:

The Utility Affordability & Relief Act (HB206), passed by the House, requires struggling families to pay the past-due electric bills for other struggling families.

This is, obviously, spectacularly unfair.

An icy winter coupled with a global pandemic and an economic crisis means that too many families have utility bills they can't pay. Not having heat and power isn't an option, so the bills keep going up. And up and up. These families need help ASAP. Anyone with a conscience agrees.

House bill 206 forgives past-due electric bills for anyone below the 250 percent poverty level. So far, so good.

The reasonable assumption by those who haven't read the fine print is that those bills will either be forgiven out-of-hand or subsidized by the state or federal government.

Not so. As with most legislation, the devil is in the details.

Instead, HB206 does something so bizarre we have trouble wrapping our heads around how anyone thought this was a good idea: it requires families above the poverty line — even if just barely — to cover the past due amounts by increasing their own power bills.

Yes, you read that right.

If passed, HB206 piles

more debt onto families barely hanging on to help people who've already fallen off the cliff.

That's not how it should work. That's why we voted against it, and we hope our senate colleagues will do the same.

Reopen safely

To the editor:

While I am a huge proponent of face-to-face teaching and fully understand the push to reopen the public schools, I am concerned about the proposed date of April 5. The teachers have been assured they will have access to vaccinations by the end of March. If they receive one of the two-dose vaccines, they must wait up to four weeks until the second dose, and then another two weeks until full immunity is developed. Only if the teachers all receive the J&J single dose vaccine before March 22 will they have protective immunity.

It is possible to reopen safely before full vaccination if great care is taken. Our school, the Las Cruces Academy, has operated continuously since Sept. 8, because we are very careful. All teachers and students wear well-fitting face masks at all times, unless they are eating, which they do outside while socially distanced. While in class, the students are socially distanced in small groups with enhanced air flow in every classroom.

All of us wash our hands frequently and practice social distancing. Equally important, our family members are careful, wearing face masks when in public places. We are lucky to be a small school with a big building. Our students, teachers, and family members are good about wearing their face masks. The benefits of in-person instruction are numerous and documented. The school district should act responsibly to insure a safe reopening.

BEFORE YOU DIG!

Did you know that gas, water, and utility lines have a huge network that is hidden safely away underground? Digging or excavation of any kind could interrupt those services if you don't call 8-1-1 first. Worse yet damage to utility lines can pose a danger to you, your family, and the community. BE SAFE, make a free call, dial 8-1-1 from any phone, anytime BEFORE starting any digging projects. We will come out to mark the utility lines in your area. It's fast, it's free, it's 8-1-1. Naturally the smart decision.

odd-numbered years and 30 days in even-numbered years. There are interim meetings held between sessions, but no requirement that lawmakers attend them.

You get what you pay for. In this case, I'd argue that we're getting a lot more than we pay for, as many unpaid legislators work hard throughout the year. But it's still woefully inadequate.

Beyond the unpaid, part-time status of our legislature, its power also is diminished by being limited to 60-day and 30-day sessions. The brevity of that time period ensures that only a limited number of bills will get passed each session. And, anything unique or creative is doomed to failure.

The legislature has it within its power to change this system and make itself a legitimate co-equal branch, but refuses to do so.

We came close to taking a tiny step in that direction this year. A joint resolution to nix the alternative 30-day and 60-day system made it through the House and onto the Senate calendar. Ironically, it died because there wasn't enough time in the session for it to be heard.

MVEDA executive shares national award with colleagues, community

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Mesilla Valley Economic Development Alliance (MVEDA) Vice President for Business Development Eric Montgomery is a recipient of the 2021 Economic Development 40 Under 40 Award, the biennial award recognizing rising stars under 40 years old in the economic development industry nationwide.

"It's almost like a toast to the great work the organization has done since its inception and during the course of my career," said Montgomery, 38, who joined MVEDA in 2012.

"I think it is a tip of the hat to the past and current leadership and the community support throughout the years," he said. "The award may have my name on it, but the kudos go to the leadership and the amazing co-workers I've had."

"This recognition is well deserved," MVEDA

President and CEO Davin Lopez said in a news release from MVEDA and the two organizations that sponsor the award, DCI and Jorgenson Consulting. "Eric is a true economic development professional, and his passion and efforts have positively impacted economic development efforts both locally and at the state level year after year."

Nominations for the award are accepted every two years, and more than 200 applications were submitted for 2021, from across the country and some internationally, Montgomery said.

"We're very mission-driven," Montgomery said about MVEDA. "We're focused on very specific aspects of recruitment, on very specific companies that we look to recruit. That work has led to companies locally that have grown with us," he said, and new companies that have relocated to Doña Ana County from Germany, Taiwan, Turkey and Ireland.

ERIC MONTGOMERY

The pandemic has definitely impacted MVEDA,

Montgomery said, but the nonprofit has continued recruitment efforts.

The current digital environment necessitated by COVID-19 has made it more difficult to establish the personal relationships that encourage companies to make large investments in the community, Montgomery said. But throughout the pandemic, MVEDA has "done an incredible job of shifting to adjust and utilize technologies in new ways that we hadn't done before that allow us to accomplish both the relationship-building as well as the marketing to achieve our goals," he said.

And, while Montgomery continues to work from home and MVEDA staff haven't begun traveling again, MVEDA continues "stretching our resources further than we ever have before," he said. "The personal interactions, the one-on-one conversations are still necessary. However, we have found a lot of new efficiencies and digital marketing techniques that we'll be using going forward to spread the word about Doña Ana County's communities.

"We're here to get the deals done and to market and to land more job opportunities and to get companies to make that risk and invest in our community," Montgomery said.

Montgomery said his favorite part of the job is that, "I learn something new every single day. My motivation in doing the work is to see future opportunities for everybody in the family and for all of our friends and neighbors to know that when their kids grow up, they are going to have a place that they can land and stay within the community. My wife and my kids are my main motivation in what I do," he said.

Montgomery and his wife, Brooke Higginbotham (director of Studio G at NMSU's Arrowhead Center), have four children, ages 7, 9, 12 and almost 13.

Montgomery grew up in the suburbs of South Bend, Indiana. His mother was recruited to a medical office in Hobbs, so his family moved from St. Joseph County, Indiana to Lea County, New Mexico. Montgomery graduated from Hobbs High School and came to Las Cruces to attend New Mexico State University. At NMSU, he earned his bachelor's degree in psychology and his master's degree in public administration. Montgomery worked for the City of Las Cruces and LaserShield before joining MVEDA.

Flag donations

Flags donated for veterans' graves. Brenda Dunn of the Las Cruces De Noche Lions Club saw a recent Facebook post from someone seeking "gently used/not too faded" American flags to replace two worn-out flags at a cemetery in Doña Ana. The sender got those replacement flags flying with help from the Doña Ana Fire Department, the Facebook post said, but discovered 10 flagpoles on veterans' graves in the cemetery that didn't have flags. Enter Dunn, who donated five flags, and other community members who donated the additional five flags, all "in very good condition."

A new Las Cruces Fire Station No. 3 is under construction right next to the existing station at 390 N. Valley Drive. The $6.2 million project was approved by city voters in the August 2018 all-mail general obligation bond election. The existing station was built in 1967 and has serious structural issues. It is the busiest single-unit fire station in the city, but it's too small to add a second unit and lacks the capacity it needs to address the growing population the station serves on the city's west side. Construction began Jan. 20 and should be complete by the end of January 2022.

Las Cruces Utilities Deputy Director Selected for Duke University's 2021 Water Innovation Leadership Development Program

By Cassie McClure

Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) Deputy Director Environmental & Technical Support Carl Clark has been selected as one of the 17 fellows in the yearlong 2021 Water Innovation Leadership Development (WILD) Program developed by Duke University's Nicholas School of the Environment.

The WILD Program is a leadership curriculum for rising leaders at water utilities around the country. The inaugural 2021 cohort of Program Fellows has been selected from across the U.S. and encompasses a range from large to very small utilities. This leadership program is designed to further leadership capacity, grow networks, and empower fellows to embrace new practices and implement innovative, equitable solutions to water infrastructure challenges.

"Mr. Clark is experienced, innovative, collaborative, and has a passion for growing his own skills and those of his team members," said Delilah Walsh, LCU director, who also credits City Councilor Gill Sorg for sharing the program information. "His selection is not only the benefit for his professional growth but will allow him to bring back new ideas that we can use."

Clark's capstone project will focus on a solution that could be adapted to future sustainable energy practices in Las Cruces. Clark wants to look at existing City wells and booster station pumping, to maximize solar energy in water production, reservoir storage, and minimize energy produced by fossil fuels.

"Bringing my ideas to be vetted by others at the forefront of the industry, and who are in academic areas of water utilities, can allow us to test out those ideas, and that could save our customers money – and allow us to switch to renewable energy in the future more easily," said Clark.

Las Cruces Bulletin

The "Clemson 8" Challenge continues through Sunday, March 28, in Las Cruces.

A small, private opening ceremony was held March 21, and participants of all ages are invited to join the challenge of completing eight miles in eight days, competing at their own pace.

Visit www.facebook.com/TheClemson8 and <https://runsignup.com/Race/SC/YourOwnLocation/ClemsonEightBataanDeathMarchRemembrance?remMeAttempt> to sign up.

The event is an offshoot of the White Sands Missile Range Bataan Memorial Death March, created because the pandemic interrupted the march, said Kathryn "Katie," Lewis von Ende.

"This is a virtual race," von Ende said. "You can complete your own walk, run or hike, on your own course in your own town. And, you can complete it in one day or throughout the eight-day period."

Von Ende said 100 percent of proceeds from the challenge will benefit the Clemson University ROTC Department to fund scholarships and send a group of cadets to compete in the 2022 Bataan Death March Memorial Race at White Sands Missile

Von Ende's father, Jack Lewis, of Deming, was a survivor of the Bataan Death March.

The challenge commemorates eight Clemson University graduates who survived the Bataan Death March, only three of whom survived the POW incarceration that followed. One of the eight, U.S. Army Col. Ben Skardon, who turns 104 in July, is a challenge participant. He began participating in the Bataan Memorial Death March in 2007.

"When Ben started walking, there were just maybe five of us," Lewis von Ende said. "By 2019 there were about 90 in Ben's Brigade — family, former students, old and new friends — he's a magnet. When the numbers started increasing, he established Mile 3 as my mile to walk with him — everyone wanted to be on his arm, of course."

State to pilot vaccination program at Vado Speedway

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The New Mexico Department of Health (NMDOH) is partnering with the Doña Ana County/City of Las Cruces Office of Emergency Management (OEM) and Vado Speedway owner Royal Jones to begin using the speedway, 15900 Stern Drive in Vado, as a COVID-19 vaccination site.

Dawn Sanchez, southwest region director of the NMDOH Public Health Division in Las Cruces, said a pilot vaccination program will take place at the speedway by appointment only, 10 a.m.-noon, Monday, March 29.

"Royal had contacted me offering the speedway as a site for vaccinations," Sanchez said. "It's been a good partnership with Mr. Jones," she said.

NMDOH will begin with a "slow roll" at the speedway, Sanchez said, probably administering about 300 vaccinations that first day, as NMDOH determines its staffing needs for the site and when it would be available.

If all goes well at the speedway, it could expand to a "big site," Sanchez said, and ramp up to perhaps 3,000 vaccinations a day, depending on vaccine availability.

Overall, vaccination administration is going smoothly in Doña Ana County, Sanchez said, and the county is receiving its fair share of the vaccine.

When the vaccine first became available in early February, she said, some providers in other parts of New Mexico ordered large doses, but Doña Ana County has been catching up, she said.

"We are fully supplied with vaccine," Sanchez said. "We have more than our typical allotment," which she said NMDOH distributes based on population. The county should be entitled to about 10,000 doses a week, Sanchez said, but has been receiving 12,000-16,000 doses weekly.

And, while there is a limited supply of vaccine statewide, "they have been allocating large amounts to our area," she said. "The state has very consciously focused on pushing more vaccine to our county."

An NMDOH spread-

NMDOH GRAPHIC

sheet shows the county received 6,125 doses of vaccine (Pfizer and Moderna) Feb. 4, and with the addition of the Janssen Pharmaceuticals of Johnson & Johnson vaccine in late February, the county received almost 17,500 doses of vaccine Feb. 25, 11,690 doses March 4 and 12,590 doses March 11.

In addition, Sanchez said some area pharmacies are receiving their own allotments of vaccine through a federal program.

In addition to Vado Speedway, Sanchez said NMDOH has developed important partnerships to deliver the vaccine in southern Doña Ana County with Gadsden Independent School District (GISD) and La Clinica de Familia.

"They've been just tremendous partners," Sanchez said about GISD, which she said has set up vaccination sites at its high schools in Anthony, Chaparral and Santa Teresa.

Movie: Don't Go Breaking My Heart

Miranda (Italia Ricci) finally is enjoying some success with Breakup Boot Camp, a program she developed to help the recently broken-hearted. Her latest group of "campers" includes journalist Ben (Ryan Paevey), who insists he has come entirely to support his sister, not out of any personal need in the fallout from a recent failed romance. The truth is, Ben's there on assignment to do an undercover story on whether Miranda's venture is just giving false hope to clients in this new 2021 romance.

8:15 p.m. on TCM
Movie: Luther

Stacy Keach stars as Martin Luther, a seminal figure of the Protestant Reformation in 16th-century Europe in British director Guy Green's 1974 film adaptation of a biographical play by John Osborne. The story, which covers events from 1506 to 1526, finds Luther being challenged on several pivotal decisions in his life by a young knight (Julian Glover). The cast also features Patrick Magee, Hugh Griffith, Robert Stephens and Judi Dench. "Luther" originally was released as part of American Film Theatre's series of stage-to-film adaptations produced by Ely Landau.

9 p.m. on HBO
Movie: Tina

Drawing on previously unseen footage, audio tapes, personal photos and candid interviews with its subject from her home in Switzerland, this new feature-length documentary from Dan Lindsay and T.J. Martin chronicles the life and career of music superstar Tina Turner, taking note of how this iconic performer overcame multiple challenges in her personal life to rack up a slew of professional triumphs before retiring in 2008. What emerges is an inspiring story of survival and personal ownership, as told in Turner's own words.

9:20 p.m. on FREEFRM
Movie: Mary Poppins Returns

Emily Blunt steps into the iconic (and Oscar-winning) movie role of the practically perfect nanny in Rob Marshall's 2018 musical fantasy, a sequel to Walt Disney's 1964 classic "Mary Poppins." The new story finds Mary Poppins returning to Depression-era London to help the now adult Michael and Jane Banks (Ben Whishaw and Emily Mortimer) who are grappling with some very grown-up troubles. Dick Van Dyke, Andrews' leading man in the 1964 original, has a memorable cameo, as does Angela Lansbury; Lin-Manuel Miranda, Colin Firth, Julie Walters and Meryl Streep co-star.

Charmed

An encounter with the Shea Group sends Macy (Madeleine Mantock) reeling, so Maggie (Sarah Jeffery) draws on her psychology background to get to the root of the issue in the new episode "O, the Tangled Web." Elsewhere, Harry and Mel (Rupert Evans, Melonie Diaz) try to untangle a maddeningly complicated ancient feud. Poppy Drayton and Jordan Donica also star.

9 p.m. on KVIA
The Rookie

In a new episode called "Bad Blood," Officers Nolan and Harper (Nathan Fillion, Mekia Cox) join Detective Lopez (Alyssa Diaz) on a high-profile investigation into the kidnapping of a criminal court judge's son. While there's immense pressure coming down from the upper levels of law enforcement, solving this case won't be easy: The anxious judge has a long and highly motivated list of enemies. Richard T. Jones and Melissa O'Neil also star.

11 p.m. on SHOW
City on a Hill

Kevin Bacon and Aldis Hodge return as, respectively, FBI agent Jackie Rohr and assistant district attorney Decourcy Ward as this critically well-received drama returns for a second season. These eight new episodes revolve around a federal housing project in the Roxbury neighborhood of Boston, an area rife with drug violence and an understandable distrust in local law enforcement. Coalition leader Grace Campbell works tirelessly for her community, but she's undercut every step of the way by rampant gang activity.

tonight's picks

Jennifer Connelly

7 p.m. on TNT Snowpiercer

Two back-to-back episodes wrap up Season 2, starting with "The Show Must Go On," which sees Willford (Sean Bean) pressing forward on his endgame. Then, as the train approaches Melanie's (Jennifer Connelly) retrieval point, Layton (Daveed Diggs) is determined to lead an attempt to rescue her in the finale, "Into the White." Unfortunately, his audacious plan probably won't succeed without some major sacrifices. Iddo Goldberg, Mickey Summer and Lena Hall also are featured. The series has been picked up for a third season.

8 p.m. on FOOD Easter Basket Challenge

A finale called "Bunny and Sunny's Egg-cellent Adventure" closes out Season 1 of this seasonal baking competition, as host Sunny Anderson challenges the three finalists to create a 3-foot-tall panoramic Easter egg, a task that likely will produce both cottontails and Easter fails. After the bakers work their holiday magic, judges Jordan Andino and Claudia Sandoval decide who gets to take home the golden egg filled with $25,000.

9 p.m. on KVIA The Good Doctor

Claire (Antonia Thomas) is absolutely thrown for a loop when her long-estranged father (guest star Marcuis Harris) shows up without warning at her door in the new episode "Spilled Milk." Meanwhile, Shaun (Freddie Highmore) feels as if he and Lea (Paige Spara) are drifting apart, which causes their relationship to become even more frayed. Hill Harper and Richard Schiff also star; the guest cast also includes Jasmine Vega, Michael Hsu Rosen, Noah Galvin and Bria Samone Henderson.

10 p.m. on NGC Running Wild With Bear Grylls

Currently starring in the Disney Plus streaming series "The Falcon and the Winter Soldier," Marvel superstar Anthony Mackie experiences real-life adventure as host Bear Grylls takes the actor to the highest peaks of the Italian Dolomite mountain range in the Season 6 premiere "Anthony Mackie in the Italian Dolomites."

tonight's picks

Rebel Wilson

6 p.m. on TLC
OutDaughtered

As they grow older and more headstrong, the quintts have been fighting more than ever under the frustrations of the pandemic, so the Busbys agree to join the Mills in San Antonio to let off some familial steam in the new episode "Girl Fights and Big Heights." Meanwhile, Hazel is prescribed an unexpected treatment at her eye appointment, and Danielle tries to confront her profound fear of heights.

7 p.m. on KVIA
Pooch Perfect

Actress Rebel Wilson hosts this new eight-episode reality competition series in which 10 of the best dog groomers in the country (and their assistants) compete in themed challenges. First up, the Immunity Puppertunity challenge gives a team the chance to win immunity from elimination. Then, in the Ultimutt Challenge, the team tackles an epic grooming transformation, with the final results shown off on the "dogwalk." "Vanderpump Rules" star Lisa Vanderpump, dog stylist Jorge Bendersky and veterinarian Dr. Callie Harris are the celebrity judges.

7 p.m. on KVIA2
The Flash

A powerful new villain named Psych (guest star Ennis Esmer), who channels and intensifies everyone's worst fears to wreak havoc, arrives in Central City in the new episode "Fear Me." It doesn't take Barry (Grant Gustin) long to realize he must confront his own deepest terror — with Cecile's (Danielle Nicolet) help — to vanquish this new nemesis. Elsewhere, Kristen Kramer (guest star Carmen Moore) from the Governor's Municipal Logistics Commission surprises Joe (Jesse L. Martin) with an unexpected visit to the Central City Police Department.

7 p.m. on OWN
Our OWN Easter

Gospel star BeBe Winans and his niece, actress-singer Deborah Joy Winans ("Greenleaf"), host this one-hour holiday music special, welcoming celebrated gospel and R&B music artists to commemorate Easter in their own unique way. The special blends the traditions of a sunrise service with modern performances. Guest artists include CeCe Winans, Kirk Franklin, Fantasia, Anthony Hamilton, Ledisi, Travis Greene, Osby Berry and Jonathan McReynolds, among others. Faith leaders Bishop J. Drew Sheard, pastor William Murphy and Priscilla Shirer also participate.

7:01 p.m. on HGTV
Unsellable Houses

Top-selling real-estate duo — and twin sisters — Lyndsay Lamb and Leslie Davis return for a new season of helping homeowners energize interest in their languishing Pacific Northwest properties. Lamb and Davis are so confident they can turn things around that they're willing to invest their own money into these makeovers, along with their time and skills. The season premiere finds them reimagining the exterior of their clients' Craftsman-style home, as well as adding a new roof and implementing an open-floor plan inside.

8 p.m. on KRWG
American Experience

In 1946, Black military officer Isaac Woodard was returning home to South Carolina after serving in World War II when he got into an altercation with a bus driver who refused to let Woodard off at a rest stop. Woodard was taken off the bus and the local chief of police beat him so savagely that he was permanently blinded, although an all-white jury acquitted the chief. Jamila Ephron's documentary

"The Blinding of Isaac Woodard" examines how this horrific incident changed the course of U.S. history.

8 p.m. on KVIA2
Supergirl

While breakout freshman hit "Superman & Lois" takes a brief hiatus, this veteran superhero series launches its abbreviated sixth and final season with "Rebirth," which opens with Brainiac (Jesse Rath) lying near death after his attempt to stop Lex Luthor (Jon Cryer). Supergirl (Melissa Benoist) and her team swoop in to save him, though, igniting an epic battle with Gamenmae (guest star Cara Buono). After defeating Leviathan, Supergirl immediately shifts her attention to Lex, who has used the Obsidian platform to brainwash half the world into idolizing him.

10 p.m. on HBO
The Last Cruise

Parts of it play like a horror movie, and the grim title doesn't help matters in that regard, but the events chronicled in filmmaker Hannah Olson's short 2021 documentary are all too real. Serving as an "origin story"

Extinction: The Facts

Owing largely to the devastating global effects of climate change on natural habitats, scientists, ecologists and conservationists have made the dire prediction that as many as one million species face the imminent threat of becoming extinct. That's bad news not just for these myriad creatures, but also the countless other animals whose lives are affected by the presence of these endangered species. Sir David Attenborough explores the topic of extinction and how this crisis has consequences for us all, even making more pandemics increasingly likely.

Resident Alien

Harry Vanderspeigle (Alan Tudyk) — or, more accurately, the genocidal extraterrestrial who murdered Harry and assumed his identity — finally stands at the brink of carrying out his mission to wipe out the entire human race as this TV adaptation of a darkly funny comic book by Peter Hogan and Steve Parkhouse wraps up Season 1 in a finale called "Heroes of Patience." Fortunately, however, Harry is wrestling once again with those pesky human "feelings" that have been confounding him. Syfy has renewed the series for a second season.

He wants to turn his heating and air business over to his hapless older son, Sean Jr. (Jay Baruchel), then cross America in an RV with wife Ann (Elizabeth Perkins). Meanwhile, daughter Bridget (Chelsea Frei), newly divorced, has moved home while her townhouse is being renovated, and commitment-phobic kid brother Dan (Francois Arnaud) is back home as well, having backed out of another relationship.

“ZeroZeroZero”

This Italy/Mexico co-production is inspired by the same-titled book by “Gomorrah” author Roberto Saviano and follows the international cocaine trade through a shipment of the drug, from the moment a powerful cartel of Italian criminals decides to buy it until the cargo is delivered and paid for. Érick Consuelo, Gabriel Byrne, Andrea Riseborough and Dane DeHaan head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

“Somewhere South”

North Carolina-based chef and restaurateur Vivian Howard’s follow-up to her Emmy- and Peabody Award-winning 2013-17 PBS series “A Chef’s Life” is the first season of this unscripted program that takes viewers along for the ride as she embarks on a culinary tour of the South through its cross-cultural dishes.

“Life With Elizabeth”

Betty White, who turned 99 in January, was in her early thirties when she starred in this 1953-55 syndicated sitcom about the day-to-day lives and predicaments faced by an ordinary suburban couple (played by White and Del Moore). Jack Narz, later the host of game shows such as “Concentration,” served as the on-camera host and narrator in this black-and-white series.

“LOL: Last One Laughing Germany”

As the title suggests, the series that challenges stand-up comedians to keep a straight face while their fellow funny men and women do their best to break them up into laughter comes to Germany. Anke Engelke, Barbara Schöneberger, Carolin Kebekus, Kurt Kromer and Max Giermann are among the 10 competitors vying for the grand prize. Michael Herbig is the host.

Wage equality

Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham signed Senate Bill 35 into law March 18. Sponsored by state Sen. Jeff Steinborn, D-Doña Ana, SB 35 eliminates the lower minimum wage for high-school students. When the new law takes effect June 18, eligible young workers will receive the same minimum wage as other New Mexico workers, Steinborn said, including both high school students and people 18 years old and younger who are not enrolled in school. "This is a great day for our young workers," Steinborn said. "With this bill's passage, we honor their hard work and right to receive equal pay for equal work."

Albers retires from DAAC after 25 years

By KATHLEEN ALBERS

My first association with DAAC was when my husband, Kelly, and I attended a Renaissance Crafts Faire (as it was called in 1987) and I thought, “This is fabulous! Whoever is running this event really knows what they’re doing!”

We had just moved to Las Cruces from Denver, seeking a place with less traffic, less snow and a university nearby. The Renaissance Faire was a refreshing pocket of excellence. Little did I imagine that in a few years, I would be running the Faire, and then would go on to run the Arts Council itself, as well as the Rio Grande Theatre (RGT).

Before finding DAAC, my background was in business, software development and tennis. Being an avid player, I never considered myself artistic, and while certainly interested in the arts, I never considered working in an arts-related field. But after our two children came along in 1989 and 1992, I saw how opportunities in the arts were sorely lacking for many in the Las Cruces community. It was then I found my life’s passion, and my career path was set in developing arts education opportunities for both children and adults.

What drew me to DAAC was the “Partners in Education” program DAAC

and Las Cruces Public Schools had established through the Kennedy Center. The program provided a model for public schools to partner with arts organizations and provide arts integration — using arts to teach core subjects, like dance, to show how planets rotate the Sun, or music to teach math or theatre to help learn history.

I embraced the Kennedy Center philosophy, first as a DAAC Board member in 1998, then DAAC staff member starting in 2002. My mission was to advocate at the state and local levels for arts integration in all grade-level classrooms, raise money for arts-integration teacher training and present high-quality enrichment experiences for students and teachers.

For approximately 15 years, I was privileged to work with LCPS Fine Arts Coordinator John Schutz to deliver art experiences to K-12 students and professional development in arts integration to teachers.

In 2005, I left DAAC to work with the Las Cruces Symphony and took live symphonic music directly into the schools. I also served the symphony as general manager.

My real career adventure began in 2010 when then DAAC Board President Kathleen Squires asked me to return to DAAC to help raise funds. I learned more about grant research and writing, plus donor-development strategies.

In 2012, then DAAC Board President Scott Breckner asked me to serve as executive director and expand programming for the RGT. From 2012-17, I worked to keep the DAAC organization running smoothly with eight staff, and simultaneously functioned as RGT manager. The city wrested back control of the RGT in 2017, despite the fact that DAAC had acquired the RGT (1998-99), raised money for remodeling (1999-2002), remodeled (2003-05), hosted the RGT grand re-opening (October 2005), celebrated the 10th anniversary (2015) and programmed the RGT (2005–17).

Now that I have some distance from the unpleasant experiences of 2017, I have a somewhat more philosophical view. Like many great adventures, there were two sides of the same coin: RGT offered a tremendous amount of back-breaking and heartbreaking work, but at the same time, a tremendous reward of satisfying work that has made a difference in the cultural and educational fabric of the Las Cruces community.

In April 2021, it is on to a new adventure, but one that is sure to include education and the arts.

During her tenure at DAAC, Kathleen Albers added the New Mexico Heritage Series and the National Touring Series to RGT programming and began a partnership with the Santa Fe Opera to bring free performances to the theatre. She created “Artistas del Camino Real” as part of the Renaissance ArtsFaire, started Opera Storytellers Camp for third-12th-grade students and developed the “Feed Your Mind” art history and Get ArtRageous DAAC studio art programs for adult lifelong learners. Albers is forming the Arte Institute for Lifelong Learning with business partner Kathleen Key. Albers will officially retire from the Doña Ana Arts Council in April. She served as volunteer, board member, education- and fund-development coordinator, executive director and communications director.

Inane, insane and just plain funny

Watch 'Mr. Rogers: American Terminator'

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

I'm sure "Mr. Rogers:

American Terminator" — which Black Box Theatre will continue streaming through Sunday, March 28 — has a deeper message, but I'll be damned if I can figure out what it is.

Perhaps the playwright within the play says it best: "That's why we go to the theatre: To escape the stubborn facts of reality." Aha! There's the deeper meaning: Watch this truly funny play and let William Missouri Downs (the real playwright) deliver laugh-out-loud craziness and a brief respite from the insanity of so-called real life.

Join director Ceil Herman and cast members Monte H. Wright (Mr. Rogers), Gino Tafoya and Nancy Clein Tafoya (George and Martha Drake), Ed Montes

(Brooklyn Gray), Rachel Thomas Chappell (Jojo Porchnik), Debbie Jo Felix (woman from the audience and Google's vice president for product development), Autumn Gieb (voices of Siri and Alexa, and singer) and Becca Taulbee (herself) in this irreverent plunge into the mundane, the bizarre and the completely original.

Downs is surely poking a bit of fun at himself, theatre, movies and television. How else do you explain a playwright with a state in his name writing about a playwright with a city in his?

"Let's not use any device that has the word smart in it," Downs' playwright Gray tells Jojo during their one-night stand. Gray has no cell phone or Facebook account, and he uses a typewriter. But he is hoist on his petard, as George and Martha's YouTube video trashing his play gets a million views and closes the show.

"The actors did an awful lot of talking," Martha says, asking Gray in the video, "Did you know your play tonight lasted 81 minutes? That's like an hour and 21 minutes!"

"George and Martha aren't very nice people, are they?" Mr. Rogers tells his audience. "The modern tragic world is full of not-very-nice people. Time to change scenes."

Later, Gray will hold George and Martha at gunpoint, and when George asks Siri how to escape from a hostage situation, she says, "Okay. Here's what I found for hospitals for crustaceans." Mix in a few adult themes, a little Charles Dickens, a bit of musical theatre, a nuclear holocaust and a "meaningful conversation" about dead Uncle Bob, the lake and divorce and you have this delightfully entertaining virtual glimpse at nothing and everything.

"It's such a good feeling to know you're alive," as Mr. Rogers says. "It's such a happy feeling. Oh, to hell with it."

Gold stars all around: Wright is a charming Mr.

Rogers with just a bit of an edge: "Let's all share a Prozac."; The Tafoyas capture the intimate, drunken insanity of George and Martha to a tee; Montes makes you cheer for the much battered but ultimately triumphant playwright; Thomas Chappell sparkles as the endlessly multi-tasking Jojo: "If you're not doing at least three things at once, you're not living."; Felix is a priceless scene interrupter and tech giant exec as she introduces Google Theatre for "anxiety-filled, multi-tasking Instagram addicts who demand instant gratification." (It's theatre "that allows you to kind of pay attention ..."); and Gieb steals the show with her brilliant Siri.

There is no charge to watch "Mr. Rogers: American Terminator." And you should!

Museum hosts virtual papercutting workshop

BULLETIN REPORT

The Las Cruces Museum of Art (LCMOA) will host a workshop on Islamic geometric papercutting with artist Mindy Shapiro, 5:30-7 p.m. Tuesday, April 6. The Zoom workshop is a collaboration between LCMOA and the Guild of American Papercutters. Space is limited and registrations for the workshop must be made by Saturday, March 27. Supplies are provided and will be available for pickup at LCMOA, 491 N. Main St.

The workshop is intended for adults ages 18 and older and will involve the use of a hobby knife to cut a design from a paper template.

Contact Bryan Lee at BLee@las-cruces.org to register and for more information.

Papercutting is an ancient art form, with original papercuts dating back to the sixth century in China. Since that time, artisans have used paper, scissors and knives to create objects both ornamental and functional. Snowflakes and silhouettes made by American grade-school children are forms of papercutting, the City of Las Cruces said in a news release.

Shapiro is a Papercutting, Zentangle® and book artist whose creativity, intricate designs and use of color distinguish her as an artist, the museum said.

The Las Cruces Museum of Nature and Science Zoom teaches geometry of Islam

BULLETIN REPORT

The Las Cruces Museum of Nature and Science (MONAS) presents “Quasi-crystalline Geometry in Islamic Art and Architecture,” with a Zoom presentation at 3 p.m. Tuesday, April 6, with guest speaker Rima Ajlouni, Ph.D, from the University of Utah’s School of Architecture.

Contact Stephanie Hawkins at shawkins@las-cruces.org to request a link or go to <https://us02web.zoom.us/j/84737728915> at the scheduled time.

Ancient Islamic patterns with quasi-crystalline properties have triggered significant discussion and a number of debates on the scientific relevance of Islamic geometry, MONAS said in a news release. “Astonishingly, eight centuries before their discovery in modern science, ancient artists created patterns with quasi-crystalline geometry,” the museum said. “The discovery of ‘forbidden symmetries’ in the 1980s shook the bedrock of theoretical solid-state science, prompting a foundational shift in the understanding of crystallography. Three decades after their initial discovery, hundreds of quasi-crystalline formations have been uncovered; however, a full understanding of their generating principles and long-range structural order is still posing many challenges. Ajlouni will introduce the simple relational method that was used to construct these ancient formations using a compass and a straightedge.”

For additional information and updates on museum reopening, visit <http://las-cruces.org/museums> and follow city museums on Facebook and Instagram @LCMuseums.

DACC students write children’s book on pandemic

BULLETIN REPORT

Doña Ana Community College (DACC) students in the Education Department have written a book about children and the pandemic.

The book was written by students in the DACC Education Club, whose members promote professionalism in the education field by providing mentors for educational students.

The book, “Chris’ Mask

Nightmare,” was written and illustrated by club members. It tells the story of a little boy afraid of wearing his mask to school. With a little explanation about germs and imagination, the lead character, Chris, uses his creativity to overcome his fears and make new friends at the same time.

“We wanted to come up with a fun and illustrative way to help kids throughout this pandemic,” said DACC associate professor Mylis Murdock. “With many kids heading back into the classroom, our hope is that the book can ease students’ fears about COVID.”

The book, targeted toward early childhood pre-school students, can be accessed and read online free at www.mystorybook.com/books/986337.

Dear Jack, 'Thank you for your book'

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

In reviewing "Thank You for Your Lessons," let me say to author and former Las Cruces city councilor Jack Eakman, "Thank you for your book."

A worthy sequel to "Thank You for Leading," TYFYL is a collection of business lessons — really, life lessons — that Eakman learned in more than 30 years as a healthcare administrator throughout the Midwest, and before that working the 4 p.m.-1 a.m. shift making electrical components for the General Motors factory in Anderson, Indiana, where he worked a second full-time job as a laundry washman for a Catholic hospital.

Learning while leading is one of the skills Eakman brought to his four years on the Las Cruces City Council, 2015-19. He always listened and paid attention to what he heard at council meetings. He understood budgets and how business and government work, but never forgot that he was representing real people with real needs and aspirations.

Eakman also asked many outstanding and insightful questions. I live in his council district, and I was proud of his representation.

He's also a good writer: "Knowing the legends of cold weather in Bismarck (North Dakota), my wife bought a new snowsuit for our (10-month-old) son, boarded our plane, and awaited the arctic climate. Turns out, it was late July and 96 degrees when we landed."

and
"Here I am in the presence of probably the most authoritative person on the planet regarding leadership and management (who was in the hospital suffering from exhaustion and dehydration), and what do I learn? Lead and manage me first."

In his book, you will learn about Eakman's experiences with a carpet-cleaning entrepreneur, a human resources consultant, an author and motivational speaker, an artist, a clinical psychologist, a nurse, an engineer and many others — from every walk of life and level of employment.

And here is some of his advice from the new book:

"Quit thinking about yourself and your needs all the time! Start thinking about others and what you can do for them. Because it is how we treat others that controls how we think about ourselves."

"We found that impossible tasks could be achieved with education, communication, cooperation, humility, persuasion, appreciation and persistence."

In "Thank You for Your Lessons," you will learn a lot about strong leadership that is based on motivation, compassion, expectation and wisdom, and you'll learn about Eakman's very interesting life. I'm glad he's in Las Cruces sharing his passion and his compassion with us. And I'm glad he's already planning another book.

Las Cruces creative agency receives awards

By JESS WILLIAMS
Las Cruces Bulletin

Las Cruces-based creative agency NMCO Media has received two Silver American Advertising Awards.

The American Advertising Federation annually hosts a competition to recognize creative media produced in advertising. The American Advertising Awards of New Mexico is part of a regional tier for the national AAF competition. For 2021, due to the pandemic, New Mexico's Addy Awards event was virtual.

NMCO won the Silver Ad Award for the 2020 integrated political campaign for Rep. Angelica

Still from NMCO's Silver Ad Award campaign for Angelica Rubio's "Talk is Cheap, Action Speaks."

Rubio, D-Las Cruces.

NMCO produced the "Talk is Cheap, Action Speaks" campaign, which featured Rubio as not deterred by negativity and committed to representing the people of New Mexico. The campaign consisted of a tagline, campaign video, branding and graphics. The campaign proved successful, with Rubio securing re-election.

NMCO also won a silver award for an Otero County campaign titled, "Otero County Counts." The campaign featured animated videos with characters who reflected the communities, as well as illustrations of Otero County buildings and landmarks. The campaign — produced in both English and Spanish — was designed to increase U.S. Census participation.

NMCO Creative Director Christina Ballew said the awards were the result of teamwork.

"Our team has worked very hard throughout the years building a standard for creative services in southern New Mexico. Winning silver is monumental," she said. "We're very honored by this recognition. NMCO is grateful to our loyal clients that hire us for creative solutions, trust the process and let us help communicate their ideas and stories. We are very proud."

Along with the Silver Addy Awards NMCO was also entered into the prestigious Albuquerque 30, which awards the best ideas of 2020 within a criteria of excellence.

NMCO Media competed against more than a dozen other professional agencies in the state in various categories of advertising and media.

Jim Bobs BBQ opens at Las Cruces Airport

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

A second Jim Bobs BBQ location opened at Las Cruces International Airport in late 2020 with a mouth-watering menu that is available to “eat in (depending on the state’s red-to-green framework) and cart out.” (I looked for a fly-through window; I guess that’s coming later.)

I sampled the fare for the first time recently while visiting Airport Administrator Andy Hume.

Let me summarize the dining experience in a single word: “Yum!” Good barbecue – and Jim Bob’s is always outstanding – is about as good eatin’ as there is to me.

Andy ordered the “Haystack,” burger, which includes a seven-ounce patty with lettuce, tomato, onion and cheddar cheese. He had potato salad as a side.

I went for the “Wholly Cow,” choosing brisket, sliced sausage and chicken from the meat menu that also includes pulled pork and ribs. I also got two sides, vinaigrette coleslaw and smoked cream corn.

Owner Jim Leon also offers a variety of sauces. I tried several, and they were all great.

In addition to the various meats served individually and in combinations, you can get Spicy Bites and a Bowl o’ Chili. Breakfast includes a croissant or biscuit sandwich, cinnamon rolls and muffins.

In addition to those already mentioned, side dishes include jalapeno baked beans, seasoned fries, mac and cheese, sweet potato fries, onion rings and cornbread.

The airport Jim Bobs is open 6 a.m.-2 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday.

It’s one more attraction at the airport, which is 10 miles west of downtown and offers spectacular views of the Organ Mountains and the desert landscape.

If you’re lucky, you’ll get to dine surrounded by firefighters from nearby Las Cruces Fire Station #7, pilots and airport crew and members of the military. They were all

State insurance exchange holds special enrollment

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

BeWellnm has started a special enrollment period for the New Mexico Health Insurance Exchange, which ends May 15. The reopening of the Affordable Care Act insurance marketplace provides uninsured New Mexicans with a new opportunity to find affordable coverage.

“BeWellnm encourages all uninsured New Mexicans to begin the enrollment process as soon as possible, because of the limited amount of time to find comprehensive, affordable health insurance options,” said Maureen Manning, director of communication and outreach for beWellnm. “Having the security of health insurance coverage may be more affordable than [people] think.”

Manning said the insurance is affordable, and there is free local help to assist people exploring their options.

The need for insurance includes not only people in service industry professions and retail employees, but also those who work for places like GrubHub and Uber, where people may not have access to their employer coverage, she said. The opportunity includes those in the construction and contractor industry, individual workers and the self-employed.

“This is a huge opportunity for our state,” she said. “This window is unique.”

Jeffery Bustamante, beWellnm CEO, said the opportunity is designed to help support individuals going through transitions and to help people work through a difficult time.

“For the remaining uninsured who don’t have coverage, we’re spending a lot of energy to get them connected,” he said. “Even if you don’t qualify for beWellnm, we will help you qualify for insurance. If somebody comes to us with questions, we will help them: period.”

BeWellnm is the only outlet for low-cost or no-cost insurance, featuring free local help to explore options. To enroll, call 1-833-862-3935 for assistance or visit beWellnm.com and schedule a virtual appointment.

“All plans cover the 10 essential benefits such as doctor visits, hospital stays, maternity care, emergency room care, prescriptions and more,” Manning said. “At the core of it, we exist to serve New Mexico, to help people get people covered.”

Federal law and regulations provide protections against preexisting-condition exclusions in health insurance coverage.

Health plans must permit New Mexicans to enroll regardless of health status, age, gender or other factors that may predict the use of health services.

New Mexico health insurance companies participating in the beWellnm marketplace include Am-better from Western Sky Community, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Mexico, Friday Health Plans, Molina Health Care of New Mexico and True Health New Mexico.

Financial help also is available to New Mexicans who qualify. A premium subsidy helps pay for health insurance, and the amount is based on income, family size and other related factors.

They may not appear to go together, but Ngage New Mexico has made quesadillas and running a thing.

The Quesadilla Run, Q-Run for short, is being staged for the fourth year, but virtually for 2021.

tration deadline is Saturday, April 23.

The event has registrations and sponsorships this year from a national field, including one in Chicago.

To participate, each runner must monitor his or her time and distance and post it to the event website.

cial media accounts are encouraged to use the hashtag #Qrun.

USGA poised for significant change in leadership

Can a new administrator of a major golf association significantly change the game? In mid-February, Mike Whan was named CEO of the United States Golf Association (USGA), replacing Mike Davis, who is retiring this summer.

The USGA, along with the Royal and Ancient Golfing Society of the U.K., are the respected “keepers of the game,” as they are responsible for the rules, standards and structure of the worldwide game of golf for both amateurs and professionals. After more than 30 years with the USGA, Davis will team with Tom Fazio in a new golf course design venture.

Whan steps down after serving 11 years as commissioner of the LPGA, and in that time became a superstar for taking a league on the brink of disaster and transforming it into one of the most dynamic sports properties in the world.

Whan increased the number of LPGA scheduled tournaments from 24 to 34, with increased purses from $41 million to $76 million, while quadrupling the television hours per season to more than 500.

Whan was a somewhat unlikely choice to head the USGA, as all previous CEOs have come up through the USGA ranks. But the search committee, led by USGA President Stu Francis, encouraged “a healthy and aggressive discussion” about needing a fresh perspective.

“We’ve never gotten an outsider to come in and lead the USGA in 100+ years,” Francis said. “It’s going to be a new USGA. Mike is already a trusted peer for so many stakeholders in the industry and his existing relationships will not only help the USGA but will also help advance the game.”

Whan has an extensive portfolio of business positions and experience. He started at Procter & Gamble in 1987, where he rose to director of marketing for oral care before leaving to pursue his passion for sports. He joined Wilson Sporting Goods as a vice president and general manager in the golf division.

He joined TaylorMade Golf Company as vice president of marketing in 1995, and later served as vice president of sales and marketing and executive vice president and general manager for TaylorMade/Adidas Golf.

In 2002, he became president and CEO of Mission Hockey.

Whan is taking over the USGA helm as the world is entering the second year of the COVID-19 pandemic, which will further impact many tournaments scheduled. The biggest are the U.S. Open, the Women’s U.S. Open and the U.S. Senior Open. And there are multiple other amateur and junior tournaments, both regional and national.

The 2020 U.S. Open was moved from June to September and won brilliantly by Bryson DeChambeau at Winged Foot Golf Club in New York, without fans. This year the 121st U.S. Open is scheduled for June at Torrey Pines in La Jolla, California. The pandemic will continue to be a major issue, posing challenging decisions about competitors, spectators, travel and hundreds of other variables.

The pandemic has shifted some of the USGA’s priorities and urgency, but still looming is the distance situation, which Whan must come to grips with soon enough. This has to do with the overall, global health and status of the game, both for amateurs and professionals.

The USGA has been there before: COR “trampoline” effect on drivers 25 years ago; square grooves on wedges 20 years ago; anchoring putters just six years ago; big rules changes (e.g. flagstick in) within the past two years.

But now, according to the Distance Insight Report, the golf ball flies too far and the clubs’ specifications are all on the examining table. We haven’t heard Whan’s views or stance on the distance issue, but he has been quoted as saying he intends not only to “respect history, but make some.”

This is what Mike Whan promises for his USGA tenure: “There will be no greater promoter of the game.”

Racing

After 14 months of waiting, race car drivers and their teams were able to get their vehicles moving Saturday, March 20, as Vado Speedway Park opened its gates at 25 percent capacity. As long as Doña Ana County remains at the yellow level or better, there will be racing every weekend through the end of November.
