Green desert

COURTESY PHOTO FROM MICHELLE CARREON, LA SEMILLA COMMUNITY FARM

La Semilla Community Farm in Anthony, New Mexico, is on a mission to educate people and demonstrate how a farm operates, show people what they're eating and how to be healthier. In particular, the farm is combating the term "food desert" by showcasing the wide variety of plants that can grown in the borderland region. The farm, which is run by the La Semilla Food Center, also has a new fellowship program. For more on this, see page 11.

DONA ANA COUNTY DISTRIBUTES OVER $2 MILLION IN RENT AND UTILITIES ASSISTANCE SINCE JANUARY 2021

The U.S. Department of the Treasury awarded Doña Ana County $9.3 million to assist residents who have been impacted by COVID-19 with their past due rent and utilities payments. Doña Ana County has already distributed $2.08 million in assistance and still has resources available.

"While our efforts have resulted in us serving more than 440 applicants, with 89% of the distribution going to Las Cruces residents, we are prepared to assist many more," offered County Manager Fernando Macias. The Emergency Rental Assistance (ERA) program funds, also known as ERA1 for the current round of funding, are meant to assist all county residents. All area residents who are currently renting the place they live, are eligible to apply for grants to cover their rent and utility payments. "We do not want anyone who needs help to miss the opportunity to get caught up on their past due rent or utility bills if the pandemic has caused any interruption of their job or income," added County Commissioner Chair Manuel Sanchez.

The county's outreach efforts are being well-received, with residents who are proud to share their experience, like one of our applicants who had contacted community organizations seeking help. She had fallen behind on her rent and utilities during COVID-19 and while experiencing a family medical emergency. She was referred to the ERA program by Immaculate Church. Not only did she receive help, but her son who was temporarily living in a hotel, was also assisted. The program paid his down-payment for an apartment and months of rent to allow him to get stable as he started a new job.

"We continue to be inspired by the journeys of our applicants," adds Ms. Emma Johnson-Ortiz, an outreach coordinator for the county's ERA program. Johnson-Ortiz is a retired public servant who learned of the county's grant award and sought to join the team because she saw the great need in the community. "The landlords and the utilities companies have been phenomenal to work with during this process. They respect the work that we are doing and understand that we are working diligently to help their tenants and customers, which will benefit them by paying the outstanding amounts that that due." One such landlord is Lori Conn with Coyle Realty who found out about the rental and utilities assistance program from one of their tenants. "Once we were successful going through the process with that one tenant, we started to recommend it to other tenants. This program has helped us assist our tenants who want to be able to pay their bills, but the circumstances around the pandemic have caused them to fall behind. It has been great working with everyone," says Conn.

The word is spreading, and many Doña Ana County residents are learning about the rental and assistance program through difference channels. Alex Lopez heard about the ERA program through his social worker. He is 81 years old and his job as a kiosk salesperson for the El Paso Times was phased out at the onset of the pandemic. Lopez, who is the caregiver for his son, has always needed to work to supplement his social security benefits which does not fully meet his obligations. "For months, my electricity and water were shut-off. I would walk to a local truck stop here in Sunland Park to clean up. The county paid almost $8,000 to catch me up on my rent and utilities. I just did not have it. It is not easy to find work at 81 years old. Even though I am willing to work, many companies see me as a liability. Without this program, I am not sure what I would have done," offered Lopez.

Doña Ana County will continue its outreach efforts to help as many residents as possible with the available funds. To learn about the qualifications and to start the application, county residents can visit www.donaanacounty.org/ERAP. The online application is available in English and Spanish. For those who need assistance, some county community centers have staff on-hand to assist with applications. For those areas without community centers, every attempt will be made to meet the resident in a public location near their home to assist with the completion of the application. To schedule an appointment, residents may contact (575)-525-5898.

RAILROAD TRACK REPAIRS CONTINUE THROUGHOUT COUNTY

Union Pacific will repair train tracks, as part of a regular maintenance schedule, at several locations throughout Doña Ana County, starting on or around Sept. 1 through Oct. 1.

The following roads will be affected:

ROAD LOCATION

- Garner Road near Afton Rd. and County Rd B02
- La Union Road in Santa Teresa
- Industrial Road in Santa Teresa
- Anapra Road in Sunland Park
- Cristo Rey Road in Sunland Park (North and South ends)

Steinborn: 'Stomps foot' to keep momentum going with 500-mile-long Rio Grande Trail

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

State Sen. Jeff Steinborn, D-Doña Ana, said he “stomped my foot on the gas pedal” to keep momentum going on the development of the Rio Grande Trail.

The trail will be about 500 miles long when it is complete, stretching the entire length of New Mexico, from the Texas border to the Colorado border.

The trail already has designed sections in Doña Ana County and is building momentum in the state's other counties that include parts of the trail, Steinborn said.

Then a state representative (he was elected to the state Senate in 2016), Steinborn introduced House Bill 563 and shepherded it through the New Mexico Legislature and into law in 2015. The law created a commission within the state Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department to guide the trail's development, defining it as “a recreation trail for New Mexico residents and visitors to enjoy the natural beauty of New Mexico and the Rio Grande and learn about the culture and history of New Mexico.”

The trail “offers a host of outdoor recreational opportunities for exercise, adventure and enjoyment,” according to RioGrandeTrailNM.com, which said users will be local walkers and runners; local and visiting bicyclists, mountain bikers, hikers and equestrians; and through hikers and touring cyclists, who are traveling the entire trail.

Signs and other infrastructure will make the trail more attractive to all users, Steinborn said, and through hikers and bikers will spend money on local lodging, food, gasoline and equipment.

Covid-19 slowed down the trail's development, Steinborn said, which was already a slow process because the trail crosses so many different jurisdictions – towns and cities, counties, private landowners and even the International Boundary and Water Commission — that are dealing with “different challenges and opportunities,” he said. “So much work has been done in (Doña Ana) County” on the trail, Steinborn said. In October 2016, the 4.5-mile La Llorona Trail between Las Cruces and Mesilla became the first segment of the statewide trail to be designated. Other segments of the trail have also been designated in the county.

Steinborn and other government officials and representatives of local user groups met in June to continue planning the trail in the entire county, including “quality campaign infrastructure to accommodate hikers and other users,” Steinborn said.

has almost $300,000 “to invest in needed infrastructure along the Rio Grande Trail to help this vision become a reality,” ORD Director Axie Navas said. The money must be spent before June 30, 2022.

Both locally and statewide, “there’s great new momentum ... to make good progress toward developing the planned statewide trail,” Steinborn said.

The Rio Grande Trail Commission continues to develop the master plan for the entire trail. Local leaders are being encouraged to tap into state and federal money available for trail development, Navas said.

It’s “a very unique trail,” Steinborn said, and a “crown jewel for New Mexico.”

The Rio Grande Trail will cross four national wildlife refuges, six national monuments, one national heritage area, six state parks, nine of the state’s 33 counties, 22 towns and cities and multiple life zones, including the Chihuahuan Desert, national forests, deep canyons, pueblos and mesas.

The nearly 80 miles of trail that will exist in Doña Ana County, stretching from Sunland Park to Hatch and Garfield, will include: the historic Rio Grande and breathtaking views of the Organ Mountains; Mesilla Valley Bosque, Leasburg Dam State Park; and Organ Mountain Desert Peaks National Monument.

The Rio Grande was likely first charted by a Spanish expedition in the New World in 1519. It appeared on a map of New Spain for the first time in 1536. The river is called Rio Bravo del Norte in Mexico. Before that, the Pueblo Indians and Nava-

City OKs $2M to continue Amador Hotel renovation

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

"I have stood on the corner of Amador and Water streets in Las Cruces since the 1870s, serving as a rest stop for weary drivers and travelers," former Las Cruces City Councilor Dolores Archuleta said, portraying the character of Señora Hotel Amador.

"Famous people (including President Theodore Roosevelt and Mexican President Benito Juárez) came and went and I was so proud to show them my hospitality," Señora Amador continued. The hotel's builder, Martín Amador (1836-1903) and his wife, Refugio Amador de Ruiz (1848-1907), left the hotel to their youngest daughter, Corina.

"With love and care from Corina and her husband, Frank Campbell, I became the finest hotel in the region," Señora Amador said. "I was filled with beautiful furniture and exotic collections from all over the world. Soon,

The Amador Hotel, at Amador and Water streets, has been a fixture of Downtown Las Cruces since the 1870s. The city council approved $2 million to continue restoration efforts.

I hope to see the historic preservation take place so I will be restored and will once again be a jewel in the crown of Las Cruces."

Shortly after that presentation, the city council, acting as the Las Cruces Tax Increment Development (TIDD) board, unanimously approved $2 million to continue restoration of the Amador, which Archuleta called a "beloved and iconic landmark" of Las Cruces. The resolution approved by the TIDD board provides $1.5 million to the Amador project in fiscal year 2022 and $500,000 in FY23 for a total of $2 million, said Amador Foundation Vice President Deb Dennis, Ph.D.

Martin Amador Campbell, the great-grandson of Martín Amador, also spoke at the meeting. He was born in the hotel in 1941, in the same room in which his father, Martin and grandmother, Corina, were born, he said.

"My family have a deep-rooted memory of the Amador Hotel," Campbell said. "When I was growing up, it was the social center of Las Cruces."

"We are very relieved and grateful to the TIDD board/city council for their unanimous and strong support for the Amador Hotel," Amador Hotel Foundation Board

President Heather Pollard said. "The future of the Amador is now secure for the next two years and we believe this restoration is going to be a reality."

The city purchased the hotel in 2007 and the nonprofit foundation was formed to save and restore the hotel.

The Amador's restoration "will be an important part of the economic development of Downtown," said Amador Project donor Frances Williams, 92, whom Pollard called "a local icon and a good soldier."

"It's a must to continue to revitalize our beautiful downtown," Mayor Pro Tempore and TIDD board member Cassandra Gandara said.

"Without Mr. Amador, we wouldn't have Las Cruces," said city councilor and board member Yvonne Flores.

Archuleta also read a letter from former state Rep. J. Paul Taylor of Mesilla, who turns 101 in August. Taylor helped save the hotel from being destroyed during the urban renewal of the 1960s, when most of the old buildings in Downtown Las Cruces were demolished.

"Any event in town was at the Amador Hotel," Taylor said in his letter.

"It's an extremely important part of our history," said city councilor and TIDD board member Gill Sorg.

The new TIDD funding "will allow us to do many things and jump-start the next phases while meanwhile we can be writing these grants for that additional money," said Amador Foundation board member Sonya Cooper, Ph.D.

It will keep the "best adobe masons and the best lime plasterers in the region" working on the project, she said, and will "keep excitement up" as people see the progress of the building.

More than $1 million in grants, private funds, in-kind donations and legislative appropriations have been spent on hotel renovations to date, and about 4,000 volunteer hours contributed to the hotel's restoration, said Chris Faivre of the city Economic Development Department. About $9 million total is likely to be spent to restore the hotel to public use, the city said.

The TIDD was created by the city in 2009 "to generate revenue within the Downtown area" and use the money for public improvement projects Downtown, according to city documents.

It is funded through existing gross receipts tax revenues, with additional funding from the New Mexico Legislature. Before the July 26 meeting, the TIDD had a total balance of more than $5.3 million.

Chile just one taste of our agricultural menu

“It’s the most wonderful time of the year!”

If that phrase gets you singing a jingle and thinking of red and green, I’ve done my job today.

Except, I’m not talking about Christmas. I’m talking about New Mexico red and green.

Yes, chile.

Some of the early harvest is already out, and soon every street corner in southern New Mexico will have that intoxicating aroma of green chiles roasting on an open fire.

Many regions have specialty foods and beverages unique to their area or ethnic heritage. Philadelphia has its cheesesteaks. Mississippi has its “tamales,” ones much different from ours. New England has its clam chowder. Kansas City has its barbecue. Alaska has its king crab. Hawaii has its ono fish (and Spam). Kentucky has its bourbon. The Rocky Mountains have, well, their oysters.

Perhaps nowhere else, though, are people as passionate about their products as New Mexicans are about their chile.

RICHARD COLTHARP

From the Publisher

Last week, I got a side-by-side comparison of roasted Anaheim chiles and New Mexico chiles. I should correct myself; it was no comparison. The New Mexico chiles burst with complex flavors and heat, while the Anaheim was about as bland as a green bell pepper.

Many of you know Coloradans who dare to call their native lifeless green growths “chiles.” They even act proud of them. Perhaps the cold weather up there has dulled their tastebuds.

Our green chile is the best, we know.

However, it is just one element of the vital New Mexico industry of agriculture.

The Land of Enchantment creates $3 billion annually in agriculture revenues, and 12 percent comes from Doña Ana County alone. Because of its agricultural diversity, our county ranks first in the state for crop value. Just drive around a bit and you’ll see that diversity: dairies down south, green chile in Hatch, corn, alfalfa, pecans all around. There are so many onions here you’ll see them on the highway, as they have a tendency to roll off the back of trucks.

There are 2,100 farms in Doña Ana County, covering 660,000 acres.

In America, with food readily available, it’s frighteningly easy to take agriculture for granted. But we do so at our own peril. Every farmer and rancher is one devastating event away from a lost season.

Whether by weather, pests, vandals, plant diseases, rules and regulations, or some other outside effect, agriculture is constantly threatened.

It’s also affected by forces thousands of miles away, which can impact prices on equipment, feed and materials.

The global pandemic, combined with restricted border crossings, have put a huge dent in the temporary migrant workers our farms have historically relied on.

The first time I made red enchiladas from scratch, it dawned on me how native that meal is.

While not all the ingredients are always from New Mexico, they certainly could be.

Tortillas made from New Mexico corn. Cheese made from New Mexico cows. New Mexico red chile. New Mexico onions. And on top, an egg from a New Mexico chicken.

A meal like that reminds you how connected we are to the place we live.

When you do your shopping, you have options.

You can buy pistachios made

Ted’s excellent adventure on getting a steer to market

Ted and his dad needed some cows to stock their little ranch in Oklahoma, and they needed ‘em right away. A local trader solved their problem and injected a couple loads into them. By fall, Ted began to notice one calf that stood taller than the rest. Must’ve had some Chianina blood coursing through his veins. They called him Alf.

They got the big calf castrated and branded and watched him grow like a weed. After several months, Ted gathered a bunch to ship. But Alf ducked back. Ted shook out a loop and gave chase.

of Common Sense

“Let ‘im go!” said Dad, “We’ll get him next time!”

Early spring, they went to feedin’ cake to the herd. Alf was now a yearlin’. Ted kept thinkin’ he’d get a rope on him but Alf was too smart. He’d hang back ‘til the truck pulled forward, then he’d hit the cake. “Yer better off just lettin’ him go,” said Dad. “We’ll get him eventually.”

Over the next two years, Ted became a master of the bait, trap, ambush, sneak attack methods of capturing a wild beast. He actually tricked Alf into a set of corrals only to see him clear the 4 1/2 foot board fence like a hunter-jumper.

His last fall, Alf was big as an army ambulance.

He let himself get gathered with the cows knowing he could escape at will but Bwana Ted had reinforced his alleys making them too high for Alf to jump out of. Ted sorted off all the cows but one leaving her in the alley with Alf. You could almost hear the chalk squawkin’ on the blackboard inside Ted’s brain. He backed a closed top stock trailer into one end of the alley and opened the tailgate. He figured he would take both to the sale if both accidentally loaded. Sure nuf, one loaded. The cow of course!

Alf was circlin’ like a hammerhead shark in the shallow end of the pool. Rust and metal filings flew out Ted’s ears as he plotted his next move. With

Lawmakers must serve state before church

In 2019, the New Mexico Senate rejected a bill that would have removed an old, invalid abortion law from the books.

A year later, voters had their say. Six Democratic senators who had voted against the bill were removed from office, including veterans such as former President Pro Tem Mary Kay Papen and Finance Committee Chairman John Arthur Smith.

Clearly, the bill was supported by not only Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham and the House, but also by a majority of voters in New Mexico.

But, it was passed against the wishes of the Catholic Church, which has tried to strike back.

Sen. Joseph Cervantes, who voted for the bill and retained his Senate seat, announced last week that “some new clergy” within the Las Cruces Catholic Diocese have decided that his vote disqualifies him taking communion.

Cervantes reported via Twitter that he had been denied communion during a celebratory mass at the Carmelite Monastery.

It’s a tactic Catholic leaders have used many times before, with little success. President Joe Biden recently was denied communion at a Catholic church in South Carolina. Presidential candidate John Kerry was denied communion at a Catholic church in Boston during the heat of a presidential race.

WALT RUBEL

The View
From Here

New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, former California Gov. Gray Davis, former Kansas Gov. Kathleen Sebelius, U.S. Rep. Patrick Kennedy and even former GOP presidential candidate Rudy Giuliani have all been denied communion based on their views on abortion.

That may have caused personal pain for the individuals involved, but not one person changed his or her position as a result.

Christopher Velasquez, a spokesperson for the Catholic Diocese of Las Cruces, defended the decision by explaining to the Sun-News that Cervantes had been told multiple times by the church how he should vote on that bill, including a personal warning from Bishop Peter Baldacchino. Yet he went against their orders.

When John F. Kennedy ran for president in 1960, there was great concern among millions of Americans that if he won, our nation’s leader would be subservient to the pope. Decisions would not be made in Washington, D.C., but rather at the Vatican. Kennedy’s independence and his willingness to put the interests of the nation above the teachings of his church opened the door for the many Catholics who have followed him into public office, including our current president.

Now, Catholic church leaders seem intent on chipping away at that political independence.

If they’re successful, it will surely result in further backlash at the polls, such as the one in 2020 that completely reshaped the state Senate.

I realize that I’m making a political argument, and not a moral one. That’s because of the insignificance of the bill that’s causing the ruckus.

Passage of Senate Bill 10 had no impact on the lives of New Mexico residents. It removed a law that has been unconstitutional - and thus unenforceable - since the Supreme Court’s Roe v. Wade decision of 1973.

Should that ruling ever be reversed, the current Legislature at that time should decide how to proceed - not one that was elected in the 1950s.

Cervantes said he has actively participated in his parish church for 50 years, and has served as its attorney for 20 years.

But he was elected to represent all the residents of District 31.

And, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he has obligations to the entire state.

His decision to put the state and his constituents first was the correct one.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Having options at end of life 'humane thing'

With regard to Naga P. Raja's opinion on end-of-life options, I have advocated and fought for a person's right to determine how they die since Oregon brought the issue to light many years ago. Just because one can be assisted, does not mean they will use it. They certainly need the option. Life, in general, is easier when we have options. How we die is no different. Just knowing we do not have to suffer can make the suffering more bearable.

Pain and suffering are more than just physical. They can include watching family caregivers destroy their own health caring for the loved one.

It can include watching life savings disappear until there will be nothing left for a survivor to live on after one's death. Then, there is the constant physical pain that many suffer before death. Most of us are against torture of animals and fellow human beings, yet many seem fine accepting the torture that often comes at the end of one's life. That has never made any sense to me. I am all for prayer, palliative care and hospice care, but I believe it is our right to choose how we die when we are in such terrible pain. That includes aid from a physician who understands end-of-life options. It is the humane thing to do if one wants to end the suffering.

Phase out natural gas

Well, Paul Gessing has done it again. Criticizing Martin Heinrich for wanting to phase out fossil fuels. Mr. Gessing promotes the benefits of natural gas, (at least he's not extolling the virtues of coal.) We have the warmest seven years in history occurring in the past seven years! We have record warm temperatures in the northwest, 100 degrees recorded in the Siberian arctic on June 20, 2020. Huge wildfires, record flooding with hundreds of people drowning. Thank goodness, we have been spared here in New Mexico, but we do have the largest areas of methane pollution in the US, which exacerbates asthma. Methane is a by-product from natural gas extraction, and we are also blessed to have the two greatest resources to create low cost electricity here: wind and sun.

So let's not race China to the bottom in a suicide pact. We can instead try to lead diplomatically, and by example. Just as your neighbors will react positively to your well-kept yard, our international neighbors will react positively to our concern and actions to help save the planet. I like natural gas too, but I like not drowning or burning up more.

*Bob Libby

Voting via Zoom

Is there any standard for anything? The liberals, like all seated behind the great wall of authority in our City Council Chambers, feel it is perfectly within their authority to deny access to a City Council meeting without showing a specific form of personal identification, while on the other hand feel having to present a form of personal ID to vote for them is denying a voter of their right to vote. We should ask them if they support voting being done via Zoom as an acceptable option where voters could just raise their hand or as in rank choice voting just show by number of fingers raised. Who pickles these people's brain?

TED

Dad's help as a diversion (bait, some would say), Ted snuck into the back end of the alley driving the tractor with the loader bucket 6 feet in the air.

Suspended from the bucket with chains was an 8-foot steel panel. It just cleared the sides of the alley.

Ted drove slowly down the alley until Alf was 6 feet from the open trailer tailgate. Alf was bouncing off the boards and metal.

Splinters flew, welds broke, bolts came loose, cannons boomed, flags fluttered, palm trees bent and waves crashed as Alf turned the earth into a whale wallow!

Ted invoked the cowboy spirit and leaped up into the loader bucket.

His eyes blazed with fury, his body tensed, his mind temporarily left the scene of the impending wreck.

He was almost eyeball to eyeball with the raging behemoth.

Alf paused in surprise. Ted rose to his full height and screamed at the top of his lungs!

Alf tucked his tail and loaded like a milk pen calf.

When he crossed the scale at the sale the next day, he weighed 1,750. Brought nearly a thousand dollars.

Dad's still trying to talk Ted into getting' some more like him.

Bridging 'awareness gaps' to connect employers, job seekers

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Through New Mexico True Talent (NMTT), The Bridge of Southern New Mexico is "cultivating an ecosystem of opportunity," The Bridge President and CEO Tracey Bryan said.

At the NMTT website (newmexicotruetalent.org), The Bridge has "created a hub of information to connect resources to opportunities" and produce "a very clear picture" of what employers in key industries are looking for from the local workforce.

The NMTT initiative is the only comprehensive program alignment plan in the state, Bryan said, and is essential because "the workforce system continues to be our weakest point."

It also is a vital resource, she said, as New Mexico emerges from the pandemic.

Opportunity Insights Economic Tracker (tracktherecovery.org) estimates the number of small businesses open in Doña Ana County decreased by 45.3 percent from January 2020 to January 2021. Opportunity Insights is a non-partisan, nonprofit based at Harvard University.

The personal finance website WalletHub said weekly unemployment claims in New Mexico increased by 624.91 percent in early July compared to the same week in 2019. Claims increased by 646.68 percent compared to the start of 2020. Both figures are the biggest increases in the U.S.

TRACEY BRYAN

SEN. CARRIE HAMBLEN

Weekly unemployment claims in New Mexico decreased by 6.5 percent compared to the same week last year in early July, the second smallest decrease in the U.S.

You can find the report at wallethub.com/edu/states-unemployment-claims/72730.

About three-quarters of the local businesses lost during the pandemic were small "mom and pop" businesses, said Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce President and CEO Debbi Moore, who is also president of The Bridge's executive committee.

Those jobs "are not coming back, at least not in the short term," Bryan said.

"There's no doubt about it, businesses have closed as a result of the pandemic," said state Sen. Carrie Hamblen, D-Doña Ana, who is president and CEO of the Las Cruces Green Chamber of Commerce. "There's no doubt people have lost their jobs. And there's no doubt that individuals who are now without jobs (are) having to reconsider what their future professional life is going to look like. I think what we are going to see is businesses reinventing how they interact with their customers, how they sell their goods and services and how they plan for crisis, because something like this was never considered," Hamblen said.

As business, education and government continue to deal with Covid-19, Bryan said they should be asking, "How do you see yourself helping to position the people you represent to take advantage of the opportunities here in Doña Ana County? How do we grow into problem solvers?"

There are "amazing career opportunities right here in Doña Ana County," Bryan said, "not only Las Cruces, but also in Santa Teresa's international trade industry due to the nation's efforts in reshoring (returning the overseas production of critical supplies to the U.S.) and nearshoring (leveraging the additional production capacity of Mexico rather than overseas)."

Another local opportunity, Spaceport America, "puts us at the forefront of the rapidly emerging commercial space industry," Bryan said.

"It's not just Virgin Galactic. It's a host of customers using the site and new technologies, things

Bridge analyzes key industries

BULLETIN REPORT

The Bridge of Southern New Mexico has produced detailed reports on key local industries: healthcare; energy; digital media and film; agriculture; aerospace, commercial space and defense; and trade.

Here are some of the reports' findings:

- International trade: "Turnover in this industry currently stands at about 50 percent, presenting an enormous challenge to employers and accounting for high turnover costs. Many employers use temporary agencies to source talent (and) much of the workforce is comprised of Texans rather than New Mexicans, but employers are open to hiring more people from New Mexico."

- Aerospace, commercial space and defense: "One of the greatest barriers between prospective workforce talent and careers in the industries is simple awareness. Our youth and young adults are vastly unaware of the opportunities available to them."

- Agriculture: "Doña Ana County is the most diverse agricultural area in the state, ranking first in crop value. It is the top producer in the world for pecans, grows 30 percent of all U.S. chile and is second for vegetable production."

- Digital media and film: "There is a holistic, reasonably well-connected education pipeline for talent development here between career and technical education programs in high school, the Creative Media Technology program at DACC and the Creative Media Institute at NMSU."

- Energy: Electric, natural gas, wind and solar energy "provide more than 1,000 jobs and careers in the region that are at or exceeding the country's median income."

- Healthcare: "The healthcare industry accounts for one out of every five jobs in Doña Ana County. There are nearly 1,000 employers who posted 1,200 jobs in January 2021."

State tax collections fall millions short of amount owed

FROM THE NEW MEXICO LEGISLATIVE FINANCE COMMITTEE'S JULY 2021 NEWSLETTER

The “tax gap” between what taxpayers owe but fail to pay has grown by more than $100 million in the past five years, partly because agency efforts have resulted in greater identification of owed taxes but not an increase in collections, an LFC report finds.

In a follow-up to an

tion Unit reports the tax gap has grown from $635 million to $743 million since its original report. At the same time, spending on tax administration programs increased by 26 percent, and the department invested in technology that has improved its auditing. As a result, staff finds in the progress report that was scheduled to be presented to the LFC July 22 that the state Taxation and Revenue Department (TRD) has improved its ability to assess taxes, but not its ability to collect them. Taxpayers who dodge their responsibilities force the state to raise taxes to support government services, placing a greater burden on law-abiding taxpayers, the report notes.

LFC evaluators point out almost $593 million in assessed taxes are being challenged by taxpayers in formal protests, a 360 percent increase over the $161 million under protest in fiscal year 2017. Noting the potential impact of a half billion dollars in protested taxes on revenue forecasts and budgeting, the evaluators report five of the 25 positions in the department's protest unit are currently vacant and almost $50,000 of a $500,000 special appropriation for protest litigation was never spent. Many of the weaknesses identified in the 2016 report and a 2017 update remain, the progress report said, including a finding that the audit program suffers from high vacancies and turnover among staff. However, the report notes, TRD's Audit and Compliance Division increased productivity in identifying taxes owed until FY21, when assessments per full-time equivalent (FTE) fell by 26 percent. In FY20, division staff assessed an average of $671,000 per FTE, a 12-to-1 return on the state's investment in the division.

we can't even imagine at this point. The careers will evolve quickly, in addition to being here right now," Bryan added.

The message to people looking for jobs is, “Don't leave here because you thought there was nothing here for you,” she said.

People seeking a career change “might be a course away or a degree away” from a new career track and a better-paying job, she said.

Bryan said NMTT was created in part to “close the awareness gap” that has prevented connections from being made between and among students, those in the workforce seeking a career change, educators and employers. It also helps identify sources of funding and transportation.

“Knowing where to access information is power,” Bryan said.

A lack of information has been especially harmful during Covid, she said, and NMTT is a way to “give people the best possible way to recover.”

“I know what's possible,” Bryan said. “I'd like to see us all working together.”

As a state senator and president/CEO of the Green Chamber, Hamblen said she has a unique connection to state and local resources, to ask for help and information for local business and to share state government “where there are deficiencies.”

Chambers and other business-serving groups and organizations “have joined together,” Hamblen said, “sharing with each other what resources we have, where we need help from the state and coming up with creative ways to reach out to our businesses.”

It's important for business owners to take advantage of the resources being offered, she said.

“I get that it's hard asking for help,” Hamblen said. “When you are a small business owner, your success comes from your determination, from your drive, from why you got into business in the first place. And usually it's been because of your own hard work. But when we have a crisis like we've had over the last 18 months, it is completely fine to ask for help.”

The Bridge, founded in 2009, is a unique collaboration among business, economic development, education and government leaders in Doña Ana County to increase high school and college completion rates and build a skilled workforce.

Its board and executive committee include: NMSU Chancellor Dan Arvizu and Doña Ana Community College President

Monica Torres; the superintendents of Las Cruces Public Schools, Gadsden Independent School District and Hatch Valley Public Schools; Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce President and CEO Debbi Moore and Las Cruces Hispanic Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Curtis Rosemond; Mesilla Valley Economic Development Alliance (MVEDA) Vice President Les Baldock; and Doña Ana County Assistant County Manager Chuck McMahan.

The Bridge has worked closely with a wide range of partners throughout the pandemic to “create win-win situations,” Bryan said.

Its specific goal is to connect “all the systems that enable our people ... to be prepared and ready for middle- and high-skilled careers in specific industries vital for economic development,” according to NewMexico TrueTalent.org.

The Green Chamber was founded in 2010.

La Semilla farm growing food, planting seeds of social justice

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

At La Semilla Community Farm in Anthony, New Mexico, it's not just about growing food.

The mission of the 14-acre education and demonstration farm is also about helping people know what they're eating, why it grows in the desert and how it impacts local culture and history.

La Semilla works in southern New Mexico and the El Paso-Ciudad Juárez region "to build a healthy, self-reliant, fair and sustainable food system," according to its website.

La Semilla is also about "challenging dominant narratives about our communities and about our desert environment,"

La Semilla launches fellowship

La Semilla Food Center has announced the start of its inaugural Farmer Fellowship: "Training Agroecological Farmers for a Hotter, Drier Future in the Chihuahuan Desert: Increasing Representation and Opportunity."

The fellowship, which is supported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Beginning Farmer and Rancher Development Program, is led by La Semilla's Community Farm Program.

"The fellowship offers a unique opportunity for beginner farmers and those looking to start their own farming journey in the Paso del Norte region," a news release said.

Throughout the program's six-month paid apprenticeship, fellows are immersed in a hands-on learning experience and instruction designed around the 10 agroecology principles defined by the United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization.

Ten farmers were selected for the 2021 fellowship. Some have been placed at La Semilla and others at partner farmer mentors in the region: De Colores Farm (Anthony, New Mexico); Utopia Valley (Las Cruces); and Fossil Face Farms, Myers Mushrooms and One Grub Community/Planty for the People, all in El Paso.

During the application process, priority was given to beginning or small-acreage farmers who are low-income, of limited resources and "BIPOC (Black or indigenous People of Color), ESL (English as a second language) and/or female or non-binary." Farmers did not need to be landowners to apply for a fellowship, La Semilla said.

The fellowship is designed to create "community among the fellows and fostering and strengthening a broader, supportive community of desert farmers," La Semilla said.

SCSWA Take Proactive Approach Through Annual Stormwater Training

Submitted by South Central Solid Waste Authority

When the rain hits Las Cruces, certain streets flood. Rainwater captures the oils from cars and sends it off down the road until it hits a barrier or ends up in the sewer. The same process happens with a garbage pile. Rainwater can seep through a landfill or transfer station, and the runoff can be filled with hazardous contaminants.

However, South Central Solid Waste Authority is proactive about making sure that rainwater stays on its property.

"We hold annual trainings for staff so they can make sure to mitigate erosion of barriers and plan for that 100-year rain," said Miguel Fernandez, SCWA Authority program administrator. "Our staff knows how to access the damage that rain can cause to our facilities."

Fernandez explained that especially county collection sites in Doca Ana ramps can erode, and crews need to come out to do dirt work before residents can safely come back to drop off recycling materials and household trash. But beyond moving dirt, SCSWA employees stay informed about how to deal with water runoff through regulatory courses which keeps us in compliance with EPA regulations regarding storm water pollution prevention plans.

All site managers have a yearly refresher by certified trainers to ensure we keep up with the date with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) on stormwater regulations. The National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) Stormwater Program was established by the federal Clean Water Act and makes sure that states protect surface water quality. More simply, if protections and barriers fail, SCSWA staff must know how to take samples so that New Mexico Environment Department (NMED) can check for contaminants that may be contained in the trash pile that ends up in rainwater or runoffs.

"We rarely need to do this because we already cut off any flow of water with sloped ponding areas, drainage ditches, and man-made channels for any rain to flow back inside our property," said Fernandez.

He said, "Everyone who may be on duty from the managers to the attendants, knows to be on alert when we get rain and what to do, especially if it's large amounts like how it has been recently."

New America School offers free meals

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

With funding from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service program, New America School Las Cruces (NASLC), 207 S. Main St., is offering free meals to all enrolled students/children ages 18 during the 2021-22 school year, the school said in a news release.

The program is part of the federal Families First Coronavirus Response Act. And, through a waiver, continues the National School Lunch Program's Seamless Summer Option during the regular school year.

"Studies have shown that children who are not hungry perform better in school," NASLC said in a news release. "By providing breakfast and lunch to all children at no charge, we are hoping to create a better learning environment for our students." NASLC said the meals it serves will follow USDA guidelines for healthy school meals.

Paso, Carreon said.

It's also about the "very intentional spaces we're creating for our community to share their stories," Carreon said.

That includes story-gathering sessions led by La Semilla Organizational Storyteller Rubi Orozco Santos, a website, a blog, videos, news releases and even public art – as influenced by the storytelling sessions.

In partnership with

Bowie High School and Native American artist Al Woody of El Paso, La Semilla unveiled a mural called "Life Origins," inspired by local "foodways stories" and the story-gathering sessions, in the Bowie High auditorium in May.

There are also murals on both sides of a shipping container at the community farm.

One side shows hands making tortillas with blue corn in the background.

The other side features native plants and pollinators.

A new mural will be unveiled this fall, she said.

The nonprofit La Semilla is also committed to social justice, Carreon said.

It works with other organizations in the region to support the creation and growth of small farms, to help farmers of color and historically excluded communities and to focus on issues like farm labor, land ownership, climate change, recycling, defining sustainability and water.

La Semilla was founded in 2010 to focus on community gardens, youth programs and transforming the food system, according to the farm's website. In the past decade plus, it has taught "thousands of elementary and middle school students how to grow and cook fresh food."

Carreon, who grew up in El Paso, has a doctorate in the interdisciplinary field of American Studies, with a concentration in sociology.

"Storytelling has always been an important part of my lived experience," she said.

Carreon is especially "pulled toward local history," she said. Before coming to La Semilla in February, one of her prior positions was at the Border Heritage Center at the El Paso Public Library's downtown branch.

"Something that struck me about this position (at La Semilla) was learning about our community members' own lived experiences and stories and how they connected to the broader history of our region," she said.

"We work with and support local farmers and beginning farmers (e.g., the fellowship), but we also work to amplify and learn from the local wisdom and histories of our community and create spaces for community members to share about their own connections to foodways in our region," Carreon said.

"Our stories really matter," she said.

"If I wasn't in my position (at La Semilla), I would want to be out on a farm. I want to be a farmer," Carreon said.

La Semilla Food Center is the parent organization for the farm.

P.E.O. of Las Cruces honors Centennial grad with scholarship

BULLETIN REPORT

Shea Binkley has been selected to receive a $2,500 STAR Scholarship from the P.E.O. Sisterhood. Binkley was recommended by the P.E.O. chapter in Las Cruces.

Binkley attended Centennial High School and was active on the student council, tennis team, Interact Club and was a foreign exchange student to The Netherlands her junior year. She will attend New Mexico State University this fall, P.E.O. of Las Cruces said in a news release.

The P.E.O. STAR Scholarship was established in 2009 to provide scholarships for exceptional high school senior women to attend an accredited postsecondary educational institution in the United States or Canada in the next academic year. The competitive STAR Scholarship is for women who exhibit excellence in leadership, academics, extracurricular activities, community service and potential for future success.

P.E.O. (Philanthropic Educational Organization) has been celebrating women and helping women reach for the stars for more than 150 years. Since its inception in 1869, the nonprofit has helped more than 116,000 women pursue educational goals by providing more than $383 million in grants, scholarships, awards and loans. P.E.O. also owns and supports Cottey College in Nevada, Missouri. It has more than a half million members in the U.S. and Canada.

What began with a bond of friendship among seven women in Mount Pleasant, Iowa, is now one of the oldest women's organizations in North America with nearly 6,000 chapters.

DACC offers early childhood development certificate

BULLETIN REPORT

Doña Ana Community College's (DACC) education program has added a new certificate for students.

The DACC early childhood development certificate aligns coursework with the New Mexico child development certificate, DACC said in a news release.

"This certificate meets entry-level course requirements for professionals who would like to work with infants, toddlers or preschoolers in New Mexico," DACC said.

According to the New Mexico Department of Workforce Solutions website, the news release said, there will be a 7.01 percent projected increase in jobs for child-care workers in New Mexico from 2016-26. DACC's education program offers numerous degrees and certificates in early childhood and education, DACC said. All degrees are considered two-plus programs, meaning that all courses in each of the associate degrees apply to bachelor's degree programs in education and early childhood education at New Mexico State University.

"Education and early childhood professionals are highly sought after in New Mexico," said DACC Education Program Department Chair Mylis Murdock.

"Students may start their journey in education or early childhood at DACC while enjoying the small class sizes, faculty members who are invested in student success and many online course offerings within the education and early childhood programs," Murdock added.

Apply now for DACC's fall semester

DACC is accepting applications for its fall semester, which will begin in August. DACC encourages applicants to apply early to better assist them with getting financial aid and scholarships. Applying early allows students to attend orientation, meet with their advisers and register for classes.

For more information about degree programs, tuition costs and financial aid visit dacc.nmsu.edu. Apply online at dacc.nmsu.edu.

If you're like most people, you like combining errands. Now Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) has partnered with El Paso Electric (EPE) to make paying bills easier. When you pay your utilities bill at the East Mesa Utilities Customer Service Office at 5195 Bataan Memorial West, there is now an automated kiosk that lets you pay your electric bill as well.

"The kiosk offers our customers another location where they can securely pay their EPE bill in addition to already having a place to pay their LCU bill without driving all the way into town," said Chase Johnson, LCU customer central supervisor. "For customers who live closer to City Hall, EPE will also have another kiosk in their building on Water Street."

Las Cruces Utilities Adds El Paso Electric Payment Kiosk at East Mesa Location

By Cassie McClure

Since it is only for EPE's electric bill payments via card and cash, any inquiries on a customer's EPE accounts cannot be accessed by LCU Customer Central staff.

"However, if LCU customers are needing help with their utilities, especially with the moratorium on accounts ending September 1st, this is the time to have a conversation with one of our representatives to let them know and find a way to pay that works for you," said Johnson.

There are different ways to schedule a payment, make a partial payment with a Promise to Pay program for the remainder. Plus, you can also check with staff to see if you qualify for assistance with your bill if you are having financial difficulties. Other services and answers are available such as utilities activations and deactivations.

By bus, the office is accessible by taking Route 3 on the Roadrunner Transit. If you're coming by car, take the Porter exit off Highway 70, and look for a bright blue sign. The East Mesa Utilities Customer Central Office hours are modified from normal City Hall hours and are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. Customer Central can be easily reached by phone at (575) 541-2111 during regular business hours.

LCU Customer Central can be reached at 575-541-2111 from 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. LCU provides services to approximately 100,000 Las Cruces residents and businesses.

Rotary Club names 9 members as Paul Harris Fellows

BULLETIN REPORT

The Rotary Club of Las Cruces has named nine individuals as Paul Harris Fellows.

The award is named after Rotary's founder, Paul Harris.

It honors club members who have made significant contributions to their communities and/or who have provided $1,000 for the Rotary Foundation for Rotary International's efforts to help achieve world peace.

Six Paul Harris Fellows were named at the club's June 16 meeting. Three additional fellows were presented June 30 by Rotary District Governor Sunny Kellerman.

The six honored at the Rotary Club meeting were:

Larry Allen, who has had a distinguished career as a business leader and is an active supporter of charitable fund-raising. He is a second-generation Rotarian and a member of the NMSU Foundation Board. Allen received an honorary doctorate from NMSU.

Pamela Angell is CEO of St. Luke's Health Care Clinic/Amador Health Center and for 10 years was executive director of Mesilla Valley Community of Hope. Angell's service has most recently included working to alleviate the Covid-19 pandemic.

Cynthia R. Garrett and Billy G. Garrett have had very distinguished careers with the National Park Service (Cynthia was director of the Statue of Liberty National Park and Billy was deputy general superintendent of the Gateway National Recreation Area). Billy Garrett served for eight years as a Doña Ana County commissioner and Cynthia Garrett has been a significant leader in the creation of the Taylor-Mesilla Historic Property.

Joe P. Montoya has had a distinguished career with the U.S. Marine Corps. After retiring from the Marines, Montoya was a Mesilla Valley 911 dispatcher and served for 20 years with the U.S. Postal Service. He is commandant of the county Marine Corps League and has played an active role in the league's work with the local Toys for Tots campaign.

Paola Sherwood, who earned a bachelor's degree in anthropology and a bachelor's in geography at NMSU, has worked for public and private companies using her skills with geographic information systems. Sherwood has most recently been an operations engineer with Lockheed Martin Corporation and became an active volunteer for the Las Cruces Toys for Tots campaign beginning in 2019. She buys and collects toys, organizes and trains volunteers and helps the campaign as a warehouse manager.

The Rotary Club's Paul Harris Committee is comprised of Bill Harty (chair), Dinus Briggs, Wanda Mattiace and Charles Tharp.

Kellerman presented Paul Harris Plus awards to retired physician Dr. Barry Fisher, the incoming Las Cruces Rotary Club president; financial adviser James Gerwels, the club's outgoing president; and architect Ted Shelton, an active member of the club's board of directors.

Always call 811 two business days before you dig!

UTILITY COLOR CODES
UTILITY	COLOR CODE
Gas, Oil, Steam, Petroleum	Yellow
Electric	Red
Telecommunications	Orange
Water	Blue
Sewer or Drain	Green
Pending Work or New Construction	White
Temporary Markouts	Pink
Reclaimed Water, Irrigation & Slurry	Purple

Even small projects such as planting a tree or installing fence posts can be very dangerous if you do not know what utilities are buried around your dig site. Whether you are a professional excavator or homeowner, you can be fined AND held financially responsible for repair costs to damaged utilities when 811 is not called. How it works:

1. Use white spray paint and/or white marker flags to mark the ground where you plan to dig.
2. Call 811 two business days before beginning your project and they will alert all of the local utilities to respond to your dig site and mark where the utility lines are buried. Utility companies will have two days, once notified, to respond to your dig site.
3. Once utilities are marked, you must adhere to the "18 inch" rule, which is no mechanical digging (tractor, auger, etc.) within 18 inches of the utility markings. If you must dig within 18 inches of a utility marking, it has to be hand dug or vacuum excavated.
4. Once all of the utilities have been marked, you will have 15 days to complete your digging project. If your project is not complete in that time frame, you must call 811 again.

Las Cruces native is master-at-arms at Rhode Island naval base

FROM THE U.S. NAVY OFFICE OF COMMUNITY OUTREACH

Petty Officer Third Class Angel Vargas, a native of Las Cruces, joined the United States Navy searching for ways to do something better in life.

Three years later, Vargas serves as a master-at-arms at Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport in Rhode Island.

"I know that what we do is necessary," said Vargas. "It takes a special type of person to keep doing this day-to-day."

"Growing up in Las Cruces, I learned the importance of mental preparation," said Vargas, a 2016 graduate of Centennial High School. "When I got to boot camp, I felt like I was well prepared to meet the challenges ahead."

Petty Officer Third Class Angel Vargas is serving as the master-at-arms at Naval Station Newport in Rhode Island.

These lessons have helped Vargas while serving at NAVSTA Newport.

Home to 50 Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and U.S. Army Reserve commands and activities, NAVSTA Newport's mission is to fulfill the diverse requirements of its tenant commands by providing the facilities and infrastructure that are essential to their optimum performance.

Thousands of students pass through NAVSTA Newport's on-base schools from all parts of the U.S. and many free nations around the world. These schools include: the Navy Supply Corps School; the Center for Service Support; the U.S. Marine Corps Aviation Logistics School; and the prestigious Naval War College.

For this reason, the base is the Navy's premier site for training officers, officer candidates, senior enlisted personnel and midshipman candidates, as well as for testing and evaluating advanced undersea warfare and development systems.

With more than 90 percent of all trade traveling by sea, and 95 percent of the world's international phone and Internet traffic carried through fiber optic cables lying on the ocean floor, Navy officials continue to emphasize that the prosperity and security of the U.S. is directly linked to a strong and ready Navy.

"I'm most proud of earning my designation as a master-at-arms and graduating at the top of my class," Vargas said.

"I feel like I'm doing something good for the world; maybe something that not everyone is willing to do," Vargas said.

“Movie: The Artist”

This best-picture Oscar winner is an affectionate tribute to movie history, with director Michel Hazanavicius going so far as to make it a silent film. Jean Dujardin also earned a statuette as an actor who fears what the dawn of talking pictures may mean for his career — and who falls for a chorus girl (Berenice Bejo) whose star is rising. John Goodman also stars.

“Movie: Raiders!: The Story of the Greatest Fan Film Ever Made”

This 2015 documentary from first-time filmmakers Jeremy Coon and Tim Skousen tells the story of three childhood friends — Chris Strompolos, Eric Zala and Jayson Lamb — who spent their teen years doing their own remake of their favorite movie, the 1981 actioner “Raiders of the Lost Ark,” a production they wound up finishing as adults.

“Movie: The Keeping Room”

From director Daniel Barber (“Harry Brown”) comes this 2014 Western about three women who must fight to defend themselves and their homes from two rogue soldiers who broke off from the advancing Union Army in the waning days of the Civil War. Brit Marling, Hailee Steinfeld, Muna Otaru and Sam Worthington head the cast.

“Movie: Mood Indigo”

From French filmmaker Michel Gondry (“Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind”) comes this surreal 2013 comedy drama about a young inventor (Romain Duris, “The Spanish Apartment”) who seeks a cure for his lover (Audrey Tautou, “Coco Before Chanel”), who is afflicted with an unusual disease caused by a flower growing in her lungs. Gad Elmaleh, Omar Sy and Charlotte Le Bon also star.

Tony Beets

6 p.m. on DSC Gold Rush

A spinoff of Discovery Channel's highest rated show, this limited docuseries follows what some familiar miners do during winter months, as arctic conditions make even the simplest outdoor task all but impossible. Instead, miners including Tony Beets, Rick Ness, Dave Turin, Fred Lewis and Dustin Hurt spend these weeks prospecting for new gold-rich claims, purchasing them, and nailing down necessary permits. As the show opens, Beets is hoping to triple his gold haul by gambling millions on a high-risk monster machinery overhaul.

7 p.m. on WE Love After Lockup

Lisa's risky run-in with the cops can only spell trouble, while Daonte's mom subjects Nicole to a severe grilling in the new episode “Sex Dolls & Booty Calls.” Meanwhile, Jeff is keeping a big secret from Anissa. Elsewhere, even though Courtney is starting to worry her relationship is on the rocks, she continues to plan her wedding. Britney is dismayed to discover she's not the only woman fighting for Ray's love.

tonight's picks

Chloe Bridges and Scott Michael Foster

6 p.m. on KTSM
2020 Tokyo Olympics

Expect to see an American on the podium tonight in swimming, where Simone Manuel figures to vie for gold in the women's 50m freestyle. In track and field, the women's 100m dash was Sha'Carri Richardson's gold to lose before her suspension for a banned substance, leaving Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce of Jamaica as the favorite. Also, the women's beach volleyball tournament continues.

6 p.m. on AMC
Eden: Untamed Planet

The new episode "Namib: Skeleton Coast and Beyond" takes viewers to the Namib Desert, widely believed to be among the oldest such deserts on Earth. It's home to more indigenous species than any other such environment — but how is that possible? Temperatures there climb as high as 122 degrees F., and annual rainfall is measured in millimeters. The answer, in part, lies with a mysterious sea fog that sweeps across the Skeleton Coast. Helena Bonham Carter narrates.

6 p.m. on LIFE
Movie: You're Not Safe Here

Ava is in her last weeks of pregnancy when she decides she's fed up with her abusive boyfriend, Shane. Her sister offers her a safe haven, but as Ava makes a run for it, she has a car accident, regaining consciousness in the posh home of William and Valerie, a doctor and his childless wife. They make Ava comfortable in their isolated home, but it's not long before Ava intuits her hosts have designs on her child. Haskiri Velazquez, Cleo Anthony and Nicky Whelan star in this 2021 thriller.

6 p.m. on BET
Movie: Tyler Perry's A Madea Family Funeral

This 11th installment in the wildly popular "Madea" movie comedy series, this 2019 comedy finds Perry — who also wrote, directed and produced — reprising his crowd-pleasing turn as the title character, as well as several other roles. The story finds Madea and several of her relatives traveling to backwoods Georgia for a surprise anniversary party that takes a tragic turn. Cassi Davis, Patrice Lovely, Jen Harper, Derek Morgan, Courtney Burrell, Rome Flynn and KJ Smith also are featured in the huge ensemble cast.

6 p.m. on OXYGEN
Cold Justice

Detective Steve Spingola joins veteran prosecutor Kelly Siegler in Rio Arriba County, N.M., to investigate a bizarre case involving a man who evidently died of natural causes, based on outward appearances. As this new episode "Unnatural Causes" reveals, however, when postmortem scans revealed a previously undetected gunshot wound, the man's death sparked a murder investigation. Now Siegler and Spingola hope they've picked up the trail again in time to find the killer.

7 p.m. on HALL
Movie: Love, for Real

Frustrated by their stalled careers, Hayley (Chloe Bridges) and her bestie, Bree (Taiana Tully), decide to appear on a TV dating show in hopes of recapturing the spotlight. Meanwhile, one of the bachelors, Marco (Corbin Bleu, "High School Musical"), and producer Luke (Scott Michael Foster), are more than willing to pull a few behind-the-scenes strings to ensure Hayley makes it all the way through to the finale in this 2021 summer romance.

7 p.m. on TRAV
Destination Fear

Dakota Laden throws a terrifying curveball to his team when he tries to amp up the fear factor during the group's paranormal investigation of "Missouri State Penitentiary," in a new episode set mostly inside what once was considered the bloodiest prison in America. There are some spine-chilling episodes awaiting all of these visitors, but Chelsea has the roughest time of it, struggling to hold it together when the ghost of a child kidnapper aggressively tries to communicate with her.

9 p.m. on HBO
Movie: Tom & Jerry

In this 2021 movie comedy, which combines live action with CGI animation, mischievous rodent Jerry decides to take refuge in a fancy Manhattan hotel, much to the dismay of wedding planner Kayla Forester (Chloe Grace Moretz), who's in charge of some big-ticket nuptials on the premises. Deciding desperate measures are called for, she hires Jerry's rival Tom to exterminate the little mouse before he threatens the lavish ceremonies.

tonight's picks

Alexa Davies

6 p.m. on AMC
A Discovery of Witches

Episode 7 sees Matthew and Diana (Matthew Goode, Teresa Palmer) arrive in 1591 Bohemia to continue their search for the elusive Book of Life. Their quest leads to an encounter with Emperor Rudolf II (Michael Jibson), who immediately expresses an aggressively lascivious interest in Diana. It's not long before this awkward situation pushes Matthew to the edge. Holly Aird, Steven Cree and Owen Teale also star; Simon Thorp, Milo Twomey, Joshua Pickering and Anton Lesser guest star.

7 p.m. on AMC
Kevin Can F... Himself

This pitch-black sitcom satire wraps up Season 1 with a finale called "Fixed," which finds detectives grilling Allison (Annie Murphy) about what happened on the night before. Meanwhile, still reeling from the trauma of the break in, Kevin (Eric Petersen) searches for some meaning in his life by launching a bid for city council. Elsewhere, Kurt (guest star Sean Clements) plants a seed of doubt, while Allison and Patty (Mary Hollis Inboden) struggle to deal with the repercussions of their actions.

7 p.m. on FOOD
Buddy vs. Duff

Duff Goldman and Buddy Valastro both have claimed the "Buddy vs. Duff" crown, in Seasons 1 and 2 respectively, so now their baking teams are kicking their strong-willed bosses out of the bakery to face off and show what they can do with challenges all on their own in this new companion series. When the kings are away, the teams will play, but will they successfully pull together or will there be some show-offs looking to strut their stuff? The flour is sure to fly!

8 p.m. on KVIA2
Wellington Paranormal

A new episode called "Vampire" takes place on an evening shift that is anything but a routine night for Officers Minogue and O'Leary (Mike Minogue, Karen O'Leary), as they race from one weird incident to another. Their calls involve everything from a mysterious plastic bag and a gathering of creepy clowns to more sinister matters such as a human sacrifice ritual and theft from a hospital blood bank.

8:30 p.m. on KVIA2
Dead Pixels

News that a tradesman is scheduled to visit their flat just as they're both struggling to complete an in-game mission isn't well received by Meg and Nicky (Alexa Davies, Will Merrick) in the new episode "Mission." When this visitor arrives, however, Meg finds him so distractingly attractive that she tries desperately to act "normal." Meanwhile, Russell (Sargon Yelda) literally is flogging himself for failing at the same mission, and Russell's (David Mumeni) living situation starts to border on prostitution.

10 p.m. on HMM
Mystery 101

The new adventure "Deadly History" opens right on the heels of the previous investigation, as Amy, Travis and Peter (Jill Wagner, Kristoffer Polaha, Robin Thomas) hit the road for Ithaca, N.Y., where her Uncle Alastair (Peter Benson), a college professor, has vanished. Also missing is his research into the accidental death of a prominent local heir 50 years ago, which Alastair had grown to suspect was actually a homicide. Amy and Travis team up with the local sheriff and endeavor to make their way through a labyrinth of clues and suspects.

11:30 p.m. on SHOW
Flatbush Misdemeanors

After experiencing a shocking tragedy, Dan and Kevin (Dan Perلمان, Kevin Iso) argue about the merits of their friendship in the Season 1 finale, "Peace." Meanwhile, Zayna (Kristin Dodson), who's staying at Dami's (Zuri Reed) house to avoid being around Drew (Hassan Johnson), faces a decision about her future. A final turn of events ultimately leaves all their futures in question.

tonight's picks

Simone Biles

6 p.m. on KTSM 2020 Tokyo Olympics
The eyes of the world will be on tonight's final in the women's floor exercise, in which Team USA's Simone Biles is expected to successfully defend her gold medal from Rio in 2016 as well as continue her pursuit of the record for the most gold medals won by a single gymnast in the history of the Olympics. Also on tap tonight are the finals in the men's 400m hurdles and women's long jump and a quarterfinal match in the women's beach volleyball.

7 p.m. on KVIA2 Roswell, New Mexico

As they look for a way to save Max's life, Jones (Nathan Dean) fills Michael and Isobel (Michael Vlamis, Lily Cowles) in on important insights from the past in the new episode "Give Me One Reason." Meanwhile, Maria (Heather Hemmens) is forced to take extreme measures to stop a murder. Elsewhere, Liz (Jeanine Mason) realizes she'll have to confront her past to move forward in her research. Michael Trevino and Amber Midthunder also star.

8 p.m. on AMC The Beast Must Die

As Frances (Cush Jumbo) succeeds in becoming more deeply embedded in the home and its various routines, she makes unexpectedly swift progress with her plan and finds the weapon she will use to exact revenge in "Episode 4." Meanwhile, things heat up for DI Strangeways (Billy Howle) as he becomes ever more convinced that the case he is investigating involves foul play on someone's part. Jared Harris, Dougie McMeekin, Maeve Dermody and Geraldine James also star.

9 p.m. on KRWG POV

Filmmaker Elegance Bratton captures a vibrant but highly vulnerable subculture of at-risk youth in New York in his acclaimed documentary "Pier Kids," which follows homeless queer and trans young people of color who hang out at the Christopher Street Pier. Many of them are charming, heartbreakingly genuine and surprisingly eloquent as they talk about their precarious existence in the face of overwhelming homophobia and abuse.

10 p.m. on HBO Small Town News: KPVM Pahrump

Who needs the unforgettable fictional personalities from the late, great sitcom "WKRP in Cincinnati" when you've got the colorful real-life characters in this good-natured new six-part, half-hour docuseries, which airs each week with two back-to-back episodes? This new production from filmmakers Fenton Bailey and Randy Barbato ("Carrie Fisher: Wishful Drinking") pulls back the curtain on life at a scrappy, privately owned TV news station in the small desert town of Pahrump, Nev.

tonight's picks

6 p.m. on A&E
America's Top Dog

Some of the dogs who suffered the heartbreak of coming in just behind the winner return to battle it out for the last remaining spot in the upcoming Season 2 grand finale in the new episode

"The Comeback Dogs." Working dogs face off against underdogs for their last chance to be America's Top Dog.

6 p.m. on MAX
Movie: Wendy

Director Benh Zeitlin ("Beasts of the Southern Wild") transplants the "Peter Pan" story to the rural Deep South in this 2020 fantasy drama, which he also co-wrote with his sister, Eliza. Devin France stars as 9-year-old Wendy Darling, whose mother, diner waitress Angela (Shay Walker), gave up her childhood dreams to raise a family. Wendy and twin brothers Douglas and James (Gage and Gavin Naquin) are swept into an adventure, though, as they hop a train with a rambunctious boy named Peter (Yashua Mack). Kevin Pugh plays Captain Hook.

7 p.m. on MTV
Catfish: The TV Show

Still reeling from the trauma of her recent break-up, Brittany finds herself almost wishing that she actually is being catfished — and by her ex, no less — in the new episode "Brittany & Mark." Specifically, she's indulging in the pipe dream that her former love has repented and wants to test the waters as far as a reconciliation. Nev & Kamie are able to assess the sad situation more rationally, and they hope to free Brittany from heartache and find out who's behind a mystery profile.

8 p.m. on TLC
Doubling Down With the Derricos

Diez has his post-operative follow-up exam to determine how well he is healing in the new episode "Snowy Surprise." With much to celebrate, the Derrico kids are thrilled to take their first trip to the snow for some much needed recreation and fun after so much worry. Trouble rears its head in Utah, though, when Deon shoots down a monumental wish Karen has for the family's future.

8:03 p.m. on HISTORY
Man vs. History

Storyteller and historian Bil Lepp explores the daredevil career of "The Real Houdini" in this new episode by putting his very own twist on this showman's death-defying stunts, testing whether it's possible for a human to survive a plunge over Niagara Falls. Lepp also investigates the controversial 1926 death of daredevil aviator Bessie Coleman, who was thrown from a plane in mid-flight at 2,000 feet.

8:30 p.m. on FX
Movie: Alita: Battle Angel

Adapted from a popular 1990s manga series by Yukito Kishiro, director Robert Rodriguez's 2019 cyberpunk action flick has no less a power player than James Cameron as a producer and co-writer, but the project still went through a tortured pre-production process between its 2003 announcement and the commencement of filming in 2016. Rosa Salazar ("Man Seeking Woman") provides the voice of the titular cyborg heroine, who awakens in an unfamiliar body.

11 p.m. on FREEFRM
Motherland: Fort Salem

The new episode "Irrevocable" finds Raelle (Taylor Hickson)

desperately fighting for her life, just as the Army and the Spree converge on a secret stronghold of the Camarillo. In the middle of all that drama, the thirst for revenge on the part of Abigail (Ashley Nicole Williams) and Khalida's brother Adil (Tony Giroux) only keeps escalating. Jessica Sutton and Amalia Holm also star.

“How to Sell Drugs Online (Fast)”

Season 3 of this crime caper from Germany finds Moritz (Maximilian Mundt) alone and desperate as he struggles to hold onto power as CEO of MyDrugs while reuniting with Dan (Damian Hardung) and Lenny (Danilo Kamperidis), whose condition is deteriorating, for one last job. Bjarne Madel and Lena Klenke also star. (ORIGINAL)

“Tattoo Redo”

When bad tattoos happen to good people, these folks step in. In this unscripted series, five supremely talented tattoo artists bring their skill and creativity to bear on some of the most embarrassing tattoos and transform them into masterpieces — with designs chosen by the clients' loved ones. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Bankrolled”

A drunken social media post leads to a huge accidental influx of cash for two directionless millennials seeking crowdfunding for a social justice app in this comedy film from Spain and writer/director Marcos Bucay (“How to Survive Being Single,” “Club de Potros”). Ricardo Polanco, Natalia Tellez and Fabrizio Santini head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

“Naomi Osaka”

Garrett Bradley (“Cover Me,” “Time”) directed this documentary that gives an intimate look into the life of the four-time Grand Slam tennis champ, revealing the difficult decisions and exhilarating triumphs that come with being an elite global superstar and a young woman navigating a pressure-filled world. (ORIGINAL)

The Pro Football Hall of Fame Game
6 p.m. on KFOX
NFL Football

NFL fans hungering for gridiron action will get their first taste of it for 2021 when the Dallas Cowboys and Pittsburgh Steelers clash in the Pro Football Hall of Fame Game from Tom Benson Hall of Fame Stadium in Canton, Ohio. This marks the seventh time these teams have met in this preseason classic, each winning three times. It also signals the beginning of Enshrinement Week that culminates with the Hall of Fame Inductions on Aug. 8.

6 p.m. on HISTORY Mountain Men

John battles a ferocious blizzard and an onslaught of equally fierce predators to protect his bison in the new episode "Winter's Fury." Elsewhere, a stranded pack mule in dire straits forces Kidd and Harry to navigate treacherous rapids in a risky rescue mission.

7:33 p.m. on HISTORY Alone

As the challenge comes down to the final four participants, British Columbia's Chilko Lake continues its merciless assault on those struggling to survive in a new episode called "The Troll." Some survivalists attempt to change up their strategy as a new resource opens up, while another participant copes with the mental head game.

8 p.m. on KVIA2 The Outpost

As Garret (Jake Stormoen) leads a rebellion, Talon and Zed (Jessica Green, Reece Ritchie) track a Lu Qiri to find a new enemy in the new episode "Going to Meet the Gods." Elsewhere, Falista (Georgia May Foote) recruits Wren and Janzo (Izuka Hoyle, Anand Desai-Barochia) for a very specific mission.

“Movie: School Daze”

Students navigate life at a historically Black college in this 1988 musical comedy, one of Spike Lee's early efforts. The subject matter is often serious — such as the positions of light-skinned versus darker-skinned African-Americans in the social order — but the clever writing and frequent musical numbers keep the film from becoming too preachy. Laurence Fishburne — going by Larry then — heads the cast.

“Movie: Only Lovers Left Alive”

From director and co-writer Jim Jarmusch (“The Dead Don't Die,” “Mystery Train”) comes this enjoyable 2013 comedy drama about two centuries-old vampire lovers (Tom Hiddleston, Tilda Swinton) with highbrow attitudes and tastes, who are forced to consider their place in a 21st century world full of philistines. Anton Yelchin, Mia Wasikowska, John Hurt and Jeffrey Wright are also in the fine cast.

“Movie: On the Waterfront”

Marlon Brando became a contender in his own right as a longshoreman battling a ruthless racketeer in Elia Kazan's searing 1954 melodrama of political corruption and personal heroism. Filmed in Hoboken, N.J., this landmark film won eight Academy Awards, including best picture and best supporting actress (Eva Marie Saint), as well as Oscars for Brando and Kazan. Karl Malden and Rod Steiger co-star.

“Movie: Val”

Fans of Val Kilmer will get an up-close-and-personal look at the mercurial “The Doors” and “Batman Forever” actor in this documentary from first-time directors Leo Scott and Ting Poo, which uses home movies, on-set clips and footage shot by Kilmer himself to chronicle a life lived to extremes and reveal what it means to be an artist and a complex man. ## LCPS board president writes children's book

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

"Gust! Gust! Gust!" tells the story of a young boy's journey as he navigates his fear of the wind through playing the bongos.

The new book was written by Ray Jaramillo, director of Alpha School, Inc. preschool in Las Cruces and president of the Las Cruces Public

RAY JARAMILLO

RAY AS A YOUNG BOY

RAY'S TATA JACOBO

Schools Board of Education.

Jaramillo is also a member of the New Mexico Early Learning Advisory Council. He has a master's of science degree in early childhood education and development.

"When Gust plays the bongos with his Tata during a heavy storm, the people in his village blame the bad storm on them and demand that they never play the bongos again," Jaramillo said. "When the wind disappears from the village, Gust learns how important the wind is for the village's survival."

"This is my first book," Jaramillo said. "It started out as a project (assignment) for my master's program at Erikson Institute. The assignment was to write a STEM children's book. I got an A on the project! I eventually read it to the children at my school and they seemed to enjoy the story. One child would ask me to read it every day. I eventually began the process to get my book published.

"Also, many years ago, I had a student that was terrified of the wind," Jaramillo said.

"I used to play music on the playground to drown out the sound of the wind for him. The tata in the story is my tata and the boy in the story is me (the publisher used old pictures of us to create the characters)."

"Gust! Gust! Gust!" was published by Page Publishing and is available at bookstores and online from Apple iTunes Store, Amazon, Google Play and Barnes & Noble.

Art Council exhibit takes a look at how pandemic 'disrupted' life

By GREG SMITH
Executive Director
Doña Ana Arts Council

The August Doña Ana Arts Council (DAAC) exhibition features the Ten o'Clock Club's perspective on the pandemic in a show titled "Disrupted."

The show will feature work reflecting emotion, observations and change as these artists navigated the course of the pandemic over the last 16 months.

The founding members — Penny Duncklee, June Decker, Alice Dressler, Jean Smith and Margaret Bernstein — started this group in Las Cruces in 2005. They met at cafés on the 10th day of each month at 10 a.m. to share ideas and artwork. The overall intention of the group was and still is to encourage members to stop each day at 10 a.m. and devote time to art.

Today, the group, often referred to as The Tenners, continues its contagious enthusiasm for all art endeavors in the community. The diversity of art mediums within the group includes assemblages, printmaking, painting, encaustic, weaving, jewelry and ceramics. The artwork in "Disrupted" reflects the diversity of the group. Overall, as a group, the artists explore resilience, renewal, reflection, loss, and love through their art.

Noël Sandino's work is straightforward in its relation to the pandemic.

"My installation is a representation of the inconvenience of staying at home and the need to reach out in prayer for ourselves and our loved ones," Sandino said. "When people feel helpless, when they experience something uncertain, they pray."

Several artists have focused on portraits showing a depth of emotion.

Entertainer George Jarden hosts free in-home shows this summer

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Performer George Jarden, 85, has been performing on local stages since shortly after coming to Las Cruces more than 50 years ago. And he's not done yet!

Jarden is performing two different shows in home concerts at his house, 3100 Karen Drive in Las Cruces, in August. There is no charge to attend. All shows are approximately 90 minutes in length.

Here is the lineup:

• "Twice Told Tunes & Tellings," which Jarden calls "celebrations of classic songs and stories with a seasoned citizen (and a kaleidoscopic pastiche of our received culture," will be performed at 7 p.m.

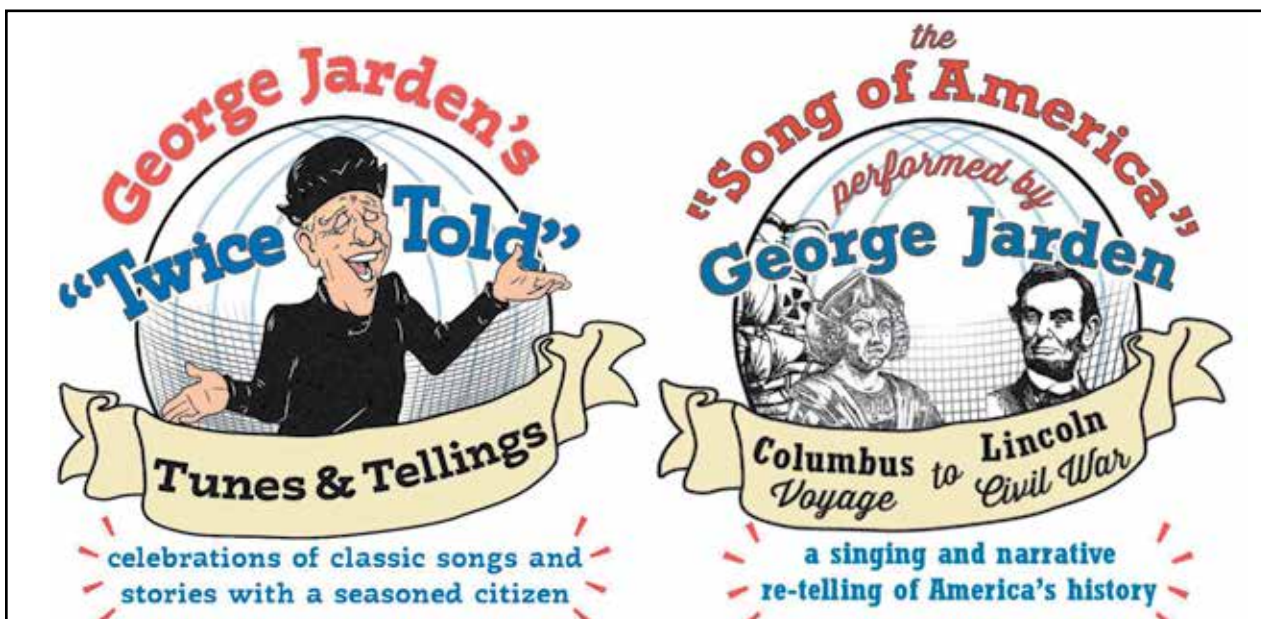

Wednesday, Aug. 4; 10 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 8; and 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 14.

• "The Song of America, Part One," which Jarden calls "a singing and narrative re-telling of America's history up to before the Civil War," will be performed at 7 p.m.

Saturday, July 31; 10 a.m., Wednesday, Aug. 11; and 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 15.

• "The Song of America, Part Two," also sung and narrated, contains American history of pre-Civil War era through Abraham Lincoln will be performed at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 1; 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 7; and 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 18.

The unusual variety and day of the week, morning, afternoon, evening performance times, is "to satisfy needs of persons of all ages and

A look at Jarden through years

FROM GEORGEJARDEN SHOWS.COM

George Jarden came to Las Cruces in April 1970, and he has been writing, performing in and organizing theatrical events ever since.

He performed that December with "Los Pastores del Valle de Mesilla," the annual Spanish-sung traditional mystery play, at Holy Cross Retreat, which led to his forming the 70-voice male chorus Voz Vaqueros, The Singing Men of Las Cruces, which he led for 40 years, until 2011.

Jarden played "Curly" in Las Cruces Community Theatre's production of "Oklahoma" in the old Fountain Theatre in 1973 and was Sir Joseph Porter in the New Mexico State University Theatre Department's 1974 production of "H.M.S. Pinafore."

In 2010, Jarden wrote and produced his one-man Gilbert and Sullivan show, "Gee'n Ess & I."

In 1976, Jarden conducted Las Cruces' "American Bicentennial Pageant, 'Echoes of an Era'" at the Pan American Center. In 1980, he created

"The Choral Festival of Southern New Mexico," featuring high-school and community singers.

Jarden conducted a full orchestra, Voz Vaqueros and Las Cruces Community Chorus in performances at NMSU's Atkinson Recital Hall in celebration of the bicentennial of the signing of the U.S. Constitution.

In 1991, Jarden organized the "International Choral Festival" and hosted The Musicum Collegium Bremen and Chamber Orchestra, from Bremen, Germany.

Las Cruces musician releases Native American flute album

BULLETIN REPORT

Las Cruces based musician C.S. Fuqua has released a new album, "Within the Mystic."

With the album, Fuqua "attests (that) the native flute is gradually becoming known as an instrument for all genres."

Fuqua's first six albums, "WindPoem – Native American Flute Meditations I-VI," celebrate the traditional sound of the native flute, the artist said in a news release.

His seventh album, "Different Direction," was "an exploration of the flute's range, incorporating it into music that combines influences from bluegrass, rock, jazz and traditional music to create a genre best described as world fusion."

"Within the Mystic" continues to expand the flute's range, Fuqua said, "drawing on an eclectic blend of styles and genres to create a sound that is as familiar as it is unique."

The album contains 12 cuts "of world jazz,"

he said, with native flute featured as the primary instrument in most of the songs.

"Within the Mystic" is available for streaming and/or purchase from most major music platforms, including Pandora, Deezer, Amazon.com, iTunes and Fuqua's website, csfuqua.bandcamp.com, where the album can be previewed in its entirety.

Fuqua released the first "WindPoem" album in 2014. His "WindPoem – Infinite" album was a finalist in the 2019 New Mexico Music Awards.

Brown Bag lectures return to Railroad Museum Aug. 10

BULLETIN REPORT

Las Cruces Railroad Museum's popular Brown Bag Lecture series returns to the museum at noon Tuesday, Aug. 10, with George Hackler's presentation "The Mormon Battalion March Through Southern New Mexico."

In 1846, 500 members of the Mormon community volunteered for military service in what would become the "Mormon Battalion March," the City of Las Cruces said in a news release. "In exchange for aiding the country in the war with Mexico, the soldiers would receive government assistance to relocate their families to new lands in the West. The journey took them from Iowa to California. Hackler will detail the route the soldiers took through southern New Mexico, which is largely overlooked in the history books," the city said.

Hackler is a native of the Mesilla Valley. His interest in Southwest history was planted growing up on a farm below Rincon while he was collecting arrow points and potsherds. Hackler graduated from New Mexico State University with a double major in physics and math and worked for 18 years in the Physical Science Laboratory at NMSU in rocket flight determination.

Hackler's additional work experience includes three years at the Martin Denver Company working on the Titan One intercontinental ballistic missile, 17 years at Burn Construction Company and finishing his career designing and building rocket test facilities at White Sands Missile Range-NASA. He also served on the Las Cruces Public School Board of Education.

Information: Bryan Lee at 575-541-2217 and BLee@las-cruces.org.

Las Cruces Railroad Museum is at 351 N. Mesilla St.

Celebrate Authors welcomes five more local writers to event

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

“Celebrate Authors” will be held 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 19, in the boardroom and Roadrunner Room on the second floor of Thomas Branigan Memorial Library, 200 E. Picacho Ave.

The event is free and open to the public.

Moonbow Alterations and Moonbow’s Book Nook are the event sponsors.

Celebrate Authors 2021 will feature authors from Las Cruces and the surrounding area with books published in 2019, 2020 and 2021. The event began in 2014.

Here is the third group of authors signed up for this year’s event.

sold her first short story when she was 18, and has been writing ever since.

Most of her work “has not been submitted for publication although some has been published in minor magazines, newspapers and books,” Davenport said. “As a ghost writer, my words have appeared

Davenport has self-published short (80 to 100 pages) self-help books, a cookbook, young teen novels, a romance and a memoir. “The Reality of Publishing Your Book” was written, she said, “for those wanting to publish their own works.”

Davenport has a bachelor’s degree from Boise State University and a master’s degree from New Mexico State University.

NANCY V. BAKER

She is a certified family life educator and owns and operates Moonbow Alterations and Moonbow’s Book Nook, where she hears lots of “people problems,” Davenport said.

Her book, “Relationships: Making Them and Our-Self Better” shows us how to “self-examine, reframe issues, put our thoughts into words, and deliver them,” Davenport said. “Communication in an honest, thoughtful and respectful way leads to better, healthier relationships. Sometimes, we have to acknowledge the ‘death’ of the relationship we thought we had and give ourselves time to grieve, or even walk away from a toxic relationship.

“I write because I have to write, just as I have to breathe,” she said. “I encourage others to do the same without worrying about what others will think or say. Keep your own voice, learn how to better express yourself, be respectful and kind.”

Anelise M. Elmquist is 13 years old and lives in Las Cruces. She enjoys reading, writing, coding, playing Minecraft with my friends and creating art for her business, Art for the World.

Elmquist’s book, “Coo-

“I write because I love getting all my ideas down and expanding them,” she said. “I write because it helps me relax and just be creative.”

“My advice for would-be authors is to be yourself and don’t think too much about if other people will like what you write,” the young author said. “What people think should not change how you write or discourage you from your writing.”

Your writing is your expression, and nothing else should matter except that you love it and enjoy it!”

H. Clark McCaffrey was born in Baltimore, Maryland, but attended elementary, high school and university in Maine, he said.

“Four years of college became seven as the major shifted several times,” he said. Reserve officer training was a subject matter that matched his personality, and upon graduation he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Army then became a career, both in uniform and as an Army civilian employee, McCaffrey said.

But, the author acknowledges that he may have “had the wrong career,” as he spent 25 years as a volunteer ballet company production manager, prop shop chief and backstage crew chief. For 10 years, he ran the talent show for the New Mexico State Senior Olympics. If there is anything else he could have, McCaffrey said, “it would be to live another hundred plus years.”

McCaffrey’s book, “From a Lifetime,” “contains a series of poems and essays (and a little love story) that reflect the observations, opinions and sentiments compiled from a lifetime of living, learning, observing and developing a unique character,” he said.

Nancy V. Baker says, for local writers, “our community is fortunate in two ways. First, it attracts so many others who share the passion and gift of telling stories. Second is the presence of Alice Davenport, a true champion of local authors. Her shop, the Book Nook at Moonbow, brings both visibility to their work and a sense of community and shared endeavors.

“As the author of two novels — “Vanished” and “The Boy in the Suitcase” — I know how challenging the process can be, from developing a rough idea of plot and character, to publication and marketing,” Baker said. “Even in ordinary times, a writer can feel isolated and uncertain; those feelings were magnified over the past difficult year. Writers meeting readers face-to-face provides an extraordinary opportunity for connection. That is why I am so excited to help organize Celebrate Authors in 2021.”

David G. Thomas has been researching and writing Mesilla Valley history for almost 20 years. To date, he has seven books published on the subject.

Thomas’ book on Sheriff Pat Garrett has won five awards, including the 2020 Will Rogers Medallion Award for Western biography.

His latest book is “The Trial of Billy the Kid.”

“The Trial of Billy the Kid” is about the famed outlaw’s trial for murder and the events leading up to that trial, Thomas said.

“The result of Billy’s trial sealed his fate,” the author said. “And yet Billy’s trial is the least written about and, until this book, the least known event of Billy’s adult life. Prior biographies have provided extensive — and fascinating — details on Billy’s life, but they supply only a few paragraphs on Billy’s trial. Just the bare facts: time, place, names, result.”

Thomas said the information presented in his book “has been unknown until now. This book makes it possible to answer these previously unanswerable questions: Where was Billy captured? Where was Billy tried? What were the governing territorial laws? What were the charges against Billy? Was there a trial transcript and what happened to it? What kind of defense did Billy present? Did Billy testify in his own defense? Did Billy have witnesses standing for him? Who testified against him for the prosecution? What was the jury like? What action by the trial judge virtually guaranteed his conviction? What legal grounds did he have to appeal his verdict? Was the trial fair?”

Supplementing the text are 132 photos, including many photos never published before, he said.

The book is available in both paperback and hardcover from Amazon and Ingram.

“Avoid basing your work on other authors’ books about the topic,” is his advice to would-be writers of history.

For more information, contact Joy Miller at joyemmamiller@gmail.com and Alice Davenport at 575-527-1411 and adavenport@totacc.com.

Book club hosts Billy the Kid author

BULLETIN REPORT

The Mesilla Valley, Southern New Mexico Book Club will host author Dennis McCarthy via Zoom at 4 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 5. Email bitsabookclub@gmail.com for the meeting ID and passcode.

McCarthy will talk about his recent publication, “The Gospel According to Billy the Kid,” which was published by the University of New Mexico Press (UNMP) in March.

The presentation is free. “Like many good stories of the old West, this one begins in a saloon,” UNMP said about the book on its website. “In 1914 in El Paso, Texas, two strangers strike up a conversation at the bar — Bill Roberts, a real-life figure who died in Hico, Texas in 1950, and a former U.S. Army scout whose brother knew Roberts by another name: Billy the Kid.

“So begins ‘The Gospel According to Billy the Kid,’ a tale of the old New Mexico territory, corrupt lawmen, honest ranchers, murder, betrayal and the explosive events of the Lincoln County War that sent young Billy off seeking justice — and headed toward a bloody rendezvous with a sheriff hired to track him down. In the saloon, Roberts has us imagine another story, told 33 years later over shots of whiskey, about a young outlaw given a second chance to find himself, to find peace, and to finally grow up and out from under the shadow of his own infamy.”

McCarthy has been a park ranger, ecologist, speechwriter, editor, professor and attorney, the book club said in an email. At work on his second novel, he and his wife and beagle live in Santa Fe.

"My work evokes the psychological impact felt while most of us were separated from our loved ones," Lopez said. "The faces portray the universal emotions of disruption in our lives during the past year."

When New Mexico reached a turquoise status (in the state's Covid-19 tracking system), Rosemary McLoughlin created two paintings to honor the transition. Both "Cat and Koi" and "Jo's Chair" are a nod to McLoughlin's fellow artists Janice Cook and Jo Rango and a celebration of moving forward.

"My friend, artist Jo Rango, had an old kitchen chair that became transformed when she painted it turquoise," said McLoughlin. "I celebrated both New Mexico's turquoise status during Covid and my friend Jo, with a painting titled 'Jo's Chair' of a chair, embellishing it with some of Jo's own wonderful and whimsical creatures."

In addition to the curated exhibition, the group will also feature smaller works for sale by Jan Archey, Georjeanna Feltha, Carrie Greer, Vickie Morrow and Gabriele Teich. Teich has also created a Free Little Art Gallery in which patrons can contribute and exchange artwork.

Other artists contributing to the show include: Dani Anderson, Diana Ayres, Margaret Bernstein, Christina Campbell, Lisa Carlson, Rebecca Courtney, Penny Dunclee, Carol Eggers, Linda Elkins, Jan Minnow, Caroline Ryan and Leslie Toombs.

Black Box Theatre presents comedy 'A Coupla White Chicks'

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

"A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking" by John Ford Noonan opens Friday, Aug. 6 at Black Box Theatre, 430 N. Main St. downtown.

The play stars Karen Buerdsell and Gina DeMondo and is directed by Robert "Bobcat" Young.

This two-character comedy takes place in the kitchen of Maude Mix in the fictional town of Fox Hollow in secluded northern Westchester County, New York.

Maude "is having a tough day," according to books.google.com. "Her husband is off on a weekend spree with his secretary and she can't get rid of the pesky neighbor who has just moved in from Texas. Hanna Mae Bindler badgers Maude into friendship and the two eventually join forces against their errant and erring husbands."

"This is a fun play," Young said. "I was really excited when I read it. Then I was asked to direct it. And what a great play and cast to work with! When we started rehearsing, so much more came out of the writing. Discovering the hidden agendas and their lives. We really laughed so much in the first month of rehearsing. I hope the audience loves it as much as we did pulling it all together."

This is Young's directorial debut.

Young's past participation in arts and theater has included Middle East dancing, drag and comedy.

Young also has done theater costuming since 1982 and has acted in several BBT and Las Cruces Community Theatre productions.

Noonan (1941-2018) wrote the play in 1979.

It had more than 800 off-Broadway performances, starring Susan Sarandon and Eileen Brennan.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, Aug. 6-7, 13-14 and 20-21; 2:30 p.m. Sundays, Aug. 15 and 22; and 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 19.

Tickets are $15 regular admission, $12 students and seniors over age 65 and $10 for the Thursday, Aug. 19 performance only.

'H.M.S.' Pinafore lands at Black Box

BULLETIN REPORT

The Gilbert & Sullivan Company of El Paso (GSCEP) will perform "H.M.S. Pinafore" at 2:30 p.m. and again at 7 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 8, at Black Box Theatre (BBT), 430 N. Main St. in downtown Las Cruces.

Tickets are $10 to $15. Reservations can be made by calling BBT at 575-523-1223 or online at no-strings.org.

"This fanciful comedy is one of the most beloved and delightful of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas," BBT said in a news release. The musical "is a cheerful satire on the arrival of the modernity, bureaucracy and democratic ideals to the Royal Navy of Queen Victoria's era and pokes fun at the Royal Navy, parliamentary politics and the rise of unqualified people to positions of authority."

Gallery showcasing two local artists in August

BULLETIN REPORT

Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Galley (MVFAG), 2470-A Calle de Guadalupe, will feature local artists Sue Ann Glenn and Jane Peacock in August.

Glenn moved to Las Cruces from Michigan 10 years ago. She received a degree in art education from Central Michigan University and taught elementary art for 15 years in a large Michigan school system. After 32 years of teaching, Glenn retired and has since focused on watercolors. She is a signature member of the New Mexico Watercolor Society. Glenn also shows her paintings at the Mas Art gallery and at judged and juried art shows in New Mexico.

Peacock, a native of El Paso, studied art at the University of Texas at El Paso. She and her husband raised their family in Santa Fe. Peacock, a lifelong painter, specializes in portraits of people of the borderland and landscapes of New Mexico. Her passion has always been issues affecting women, infants and children. While working with migrants for many years in public health, Peacock created paintings portraying the lives of the people working in the fields around Las Cruces. Her chile-field paintings focus on the farming activities of southern New Mexico.

MVFAG is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Call 575-522-2933. Visit www.mesillavalleyfinearts.com.

Two-week Opera Camp culminates with live musical on July 30

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Doña Ana Arts Council's (DAAC) 2021 Opera Camp production is "Girl Meets Whirlpool," which will be presented at 1 p.m. Friday, July 30, in the theater at Centennial High School, 1950 Sonoma Ranch Blvd.

"Girl Meets Whirlpool" is an original opera written by Las Cruces students, aged 8-18, said Opera Camp Director Christa Fredrickson.

There is no cost to attend the performance. Donations will be accepted.

During DAAC's two-week opera camp leading up to the production, "students learn about all the parts of opera and work together to create every single element," Fredrickson said.

In week one, the students start on Monday by finding the theme, the hero and the world in which the opera takes place.

By the end of day two, the students have a fully developed story, the cast list goes up and the students begin developing their characters.

By the end of day three, they have a fully written libretto, and on day four, they begin setting it to music.

During the second week of the opera camp, students design and build the stage elements, the costumes, the lighting design, the choreography and block and rehearse the show.

"In 'Girl Meets Whirlpool,' our hero, Iris, discovers that the gods and goddesses on the island where she has been kidnapped by an evil serpent," Fredrickson said. "She jumps into the whirlpool and befriends a seahorse and together they travel to the Crab Shack Casino under the sea to find her friends. Along the way they meet a group of pop starfish, a comedian clownfish, the king of all crabs and his thug eels and a dangerous ninja sword fish. Can they rescue the gods and goddesses from the evil serpent and make it back to the island they love?"

Payton Matthews is the show's assistant director. Darin Cabot is the set designer.

In the process of creating the 30-minute musical, "the young participants will be learning the technical aspects of lighting and sound, as well as set and costume design to round out the skills necessary to make this wild deep sea opera sing," said DAAC Executive Director Greg Smith.

Smith said the cast of characters also includes the "god of pumpkin spice lattes and scented candles, who will be turned into a barnacle on the side of a sunken pirate ship."

St. Andrew's parishioners share stimulus checks, donate $7K

By DEACON ANNE TURRIE
St. Andrew's Episcopal Church

How can people make a difference for people in need in their own community? They can "Share the Blessings!"

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Las Cruces always knew how much their congregation had been blessed in so many ways. They decided that they would share any income they had that wasn't needed for their own care. When the stimulus checks started arriving in the mail, there were those who needed the money desperately and others who did not. During the recovery from the pandemic, everyone noticed the divide that happens in society when some people have jobs and a stable income while others who don't end up falling so far behind.

COURTESY PHOTO

St. Andrew's has a history of helping those in need. In 1984, the church laid the foundation for El Caldito Soup Kitchen when the church began the first soup kitchen in the community. Using their own kitchen facilities, the soup kitchen operated out of the church for years, serving over 17,000 meals. Today, many members of the congregation still volunteer at El Caldito. Two years ago, we began "Second Sunday Supper" where parishioners could share a potluck meal each month with our sisters and brothers living at Camp Hope (the tent city at Mesilla Valley Community of Hope).

The idea for "Sharing the Blessings" originated in a brief story out of Portland, Oregon, that was broadcast on KRWG. A parishioner heard how a television newscaster in Portland decided that he had a good job and didn't need his stimulus check. So, driving past the long lines for his local food bank one day led him to create a campaign called "Redirect the Check." The community of Portland raised over $40,000. Hearing this story inspired many parishioners at St. Andrew's to recreate this campaign at the church. A total of $7,300 was raised and divided among three nonprofits.

Casa de Peregrinos (childcare and education for homeless and near homeless children and their families) received $2,500 on "Giving Day" and that contribution was matched by corporate sponsors.

Both El Caldito and Community of Hope received a check for $2,400. All three nonprofits are located on the Community of Hope campus, 999 W. Amador Ave.

St. Andrew's is located at 518 N. Alameda Blvd.

Classic Model A car still generating ‘a lot of honks and smiles’

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Rick Black gets “a lot of honks and a lot of smiles” when he’s out driving.

That is, if he’s driving his completely restored 1931 Model A Ford.

Black, 77, bought the car more than 50 years ago, and has been interested in classic cars for even longer than that. Just out of high school, he bought a 1936 Ford and later a 1948 Chevy. He also bought a 1940 Mercury from popular Western actor Jack Elam (1920-2003).

“I’m a car guy,” Black said.

Black and his wife, Dana, moved to Las Cruces in 2018 by way of California, Oregon and Texas. He spent 10 years as network systems manager at El Paso International Airport, retiring in 2012.

Wherever he’s lived, Black has gotten involved in local Model A car clubs.

In El Paso, he started the Borderland A’s, which now has about 25 members in the Las Cruces-El Paso area, with Black serving as president. He created the Model A Ford Club of America’s website (www.mafca.com) in 1996.

Black’s first Model A was a 1929 Ford. With parts from a wrecking yard in the San Fernando Valley, he placed the car’s body on a Mercury chassis and replaced the engine. Black sold the car when he enlisted in the U.S. Army.

When Black came out of the Army and started college in 1968 in Canoga Park, California, he discovered a 1931 Deluxe (the deluxe model cost $30 extra) Tudor Sedan Model A Ford parked under a tree three blocks from his apartment. He bought the car and spent the next 25 years restoring it to its former glory – refurbishing about 99 percent of its more than 5,500 parts.

Black drives his Model A about 1,000 miles a year, he said. It’s been in parades and car shows, took his daughter and her husband to their wedding reception and was featured, along with Black, in the Model A Ford Club of America “Restorer” Magazine.

“It’s still a joy to drive,” Black said.

The 90-year-old two-door has fewer than 130,000 miles on it and features a quail-shaped hood ornament complete with thermometer. It safely tops out at about 50 mph, Black said. Originally a two-tone gray, research on the car’s history helped him restore it to Ford Maroon.

The Model A was the first Ford automobile with conventional driving controls, Black said, allowing a driver’s hands instead of his or her feet to do most of the work. Starting the Model A involves putting in the clutch, turning the ignition, advancing the throttle, working the choke and stepping on the starter.

The car has “no automatic anything,” Black said, so there are no turn signals and no radio, heater or air conditioning. But the windshield opens to increase air flow.

Henry Ford (1863-1947) produced his first vehicle, the Ford Quadricycle, in 1896 while working for Thomas Edison in Detroit, Michigan. Ford founded the Ford Motor Company in 1903 and produced the first Model A that same year. That was followed by models B, D, F, R, S and the Model T (1908) that revolutionized the automotive industry. The second version of the Model A, designed by Henry’s son, Edsel Ford (1893-1943), produced 4.8 million cars 1928-31, Black said.

Ford was the first car company to allow people to buy vehicles in installments, Black said, which greatly increased their availability to the general public. That’s one reason there are still so many classic Fords on the road today, Black said.

There are at least 100,000 Model A’s still out there, he said, and possibly as many as 500,000 around the world. The Model A Ford Club of America has about 10,000 members and the national Model A Restorers Club (model-a-ford.org) has about 6,000 members.

Black is looking forward to driving his car to the national Model A Ford Club of America convention in Kerrville, Texas, in June 2022.

The Borderland A’s meet the first Sunday of the month, returning to in-person meetings in April. The meetings often begin with a tour of members’ Model A’s. You don’t have to own a Model A to join the Borderland A’s; you just have to have an interest in the cars.

Report: Oil, gas 18 percent of NM economy

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

A report issued in mid-July by the New Mexico Oil and Gas Association (NMOGA) and the American Petroleum Institute (API) shows that New Mexico's oil and natural gas industry added almost $19 billion to the state's gross domestic product in 2019, NMOGA said in a news release.

The study was conducted by PricewaterhouseCoopers and is based on the latest government data available, the news release said. It was commissioned by API.

"Oil and natural gas are a big part of New Mexico's economy and will continue to play a leading role in driving our state from recovery to prosperity," said NMOGA Chairman Leland Gould. "New Mexico has enormous oil and natural gas potential, and we should continue to make this state a magnet for capital investment and job creation by prioritizing the development of these resources right here in our own backyard."

"Our industry is crucial to growing New Mexico's post-pandemic economy, and America's future is stronger when we are leading the world in energy production," API President and CEO Mike Sommers said.

"America's natural gas and oil industry has a footprint nationwide, supporting hundreds of thousands of jobs from coast to coast, even in states with little to no production. This study reinforces that the pace and strength of our nation's economic recovery will depend on policies that support, rather than hinder, American energy development," Sommers added.

As economic activity, travel patterns and consumption continue to grow during the post-pandemic recovery, the U.S. Energy Information Administration expects global oil and liquid fuels consumption to surpass 2019 levels in 2022, the news release said.

According to the report, in 2019, the state oil and gas industry directly and indirectly:

- Contributed $18.8 billion to New Mexico's gross domestic product, 17.9 percent of the state's total.

- Supported more than 46,000 direct jobs.

- Generated an additional 1.5 jobs elsewhere in New Mexico's economy for each direct job in the state's oil and natural gas industry.

In 2019, the U.S. led the world in oil and natural gas production, the news release said.

At the national level in 2019, the oil and natural gas industry:

- Supported nearly $1.7 trillion to U.S. gross domestic product, accounting for 7.9 percent of the national total.

- Supported more than 2.5 million direct jobs.
- Generated an additional 3.5 jobs elsewhere in the U.S. economy for each direct job in the U.S. oil and natural gas industry.

NMOGA is a coalition of more than 1,000 oil and natural gas companies, individuals and stakeholders "dedicated to promoting the safe and environmentally responsible development of oil and natural gas resources in New Mexico," the association said.

API represents all segments of America's natural gas and oil industry, the news release said. Its 600 members "produce, process and distribute the majority of the nation's energy." API was formed in 1919 as a standards-setting organization and has developed more than 700 standards to enhance operational and environmental safety, efficiency and sustainability.

New Mexico film production breaks record, ramps up in Las Cruces

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The New Mexico Film Office (NMFO) announced that in fiscal year 2021, despite the global shutdown of production due to the Covid-19 pandemic, it has recorded an estimated $623 million in direct spend by film and television productions in New Mexico, breaking all previous state records.

Things are also looking up for film and television production in Las Cruces and Doña Ana County, according to local industry officials.

"Film and television

JONATHON SEPP

production in FY2022 has kicked off stronger than ever for Las Cruces," said city Film Liaison Jonathon Sepp. "The global shutdown of productions abruptly paused the growth of the industry for Las Cruces, but filming activities are quickly ramping up this month with five productions in place."

"As the film industry roars back to life, we are more committed than ever to ensure that Las Cruces and Doña Ana County gets its share of the growing industry in New Mexico," said state Sen. Jeff Steinborn, D-Doña Ana, who is president of the nonprofit Film Las Cruces (FLC).

"The tools we have put in place, including the extra 5 percent rebate and full-service film office, are starting to pay off. We are developing a reputation as the up-and-coming production center in New Mexico."

FLC has contracts with the city and with Doña Ana County to bring film and television production to the area.

An estimated 9,000 New Mexicans work in the industry with an average wage of over $56,000 annually, NMFO said. In FY21, approximately 75 percent of total below-the-line crew were New Mexico residents, including, 4,559 New Mexico crew, 1,374

MountainView Regional a steady presence during pandemic

By BERYL RAMSEY

Guest column

I write today with hope for the future and gratitude for the resilience of our provider team at MountainView Regional Medical Center and MountainView Medical Group. The pandemic has demonstrated how interconnected we all are, the impact each one of us can have and the benefit of working together for a common cause. We care deeply about our community and remain steadfast in our commitment to deliver safe, quality healthcare services.

The arc of life is always present in a hospital, but its frailty has been very clear this past year. Over a half a million patients received the medical care they needed thanks to our physicians, nurses, pharmacists, respiratory therapists, lab techs, housekeepers, food service workers and other providers who have worked tirelessly to maintain a safe environment. Our family of caregivers put aside their personal fears and concerns and came to help every single day, with bravery and courage.

More than 1,400 babies took their first breaths and we celebrated with their moms. More than 11,000 walked away in better shape than when they came in with less pain following a joint replacement, a heart beating in rhythm after receiving a pacemaker or a smile of relief when their colonoscopy was clear.

We cheered hundreds of patients who left for home after beating Covid-19. But there have been times of sadness too, as our caregivers helped patients transition at the end of life and comforted the loved ones who grieve for their loss.

Helping people get well and live healthier is rewarding work, and we are grateful for the trust every patient places in us. And we feel the support of the community as you've extended your thanks and encouragement through prayers, caregiver parades, signs, meals and more.

Led by a local administration and advisory board of community leaders and physicians, we are putting our resources toward increased medical services, facilities and technologies that are important to our patients, including a new hybrid operating room and increased surgical services. Access has been enhanced through recruitment of primary care and specialists. Many of our physicians are now offering telemedicine, making it easier than ever to see the doctor when you're in the comfort of home.

We value our relationship with Las Cruces and southern New Mexico. The more than $18 million in taxes we paid last year support critical infrastructure such as first responders, schools and roads. Wages and benefits for our provider team generate buying power for local goods and services and help drive the local economy.

And we deliver care for our most vulnerable residents, last year providing more than $24 million in charity and uncompensated care.

Hope is on the horizon as Covid-19 vaccinations are underway and we look forward to a time when we can all gather safely. Until then, keep up the safe practices — wear a mask, maintain social distancing and regularly wash your hands. By following these simple acts, we can do extraordinary things.

MEMBER SOUGHT FOR THE LAS CRUCES UTILITIES BOARD

Qualified applicants are being sought to fill a vacancy on the Board of Commissioners for the City of Las Cruces Utilities (Utilities Board). The Utilities Board provides strategic policy direction on City-owned natural gas, water, wastewater, and solid waste utility systems.

To qualify for appointment as a member of the board, an applicant must be:

- A registered voter, and
- A Las Cruces utilities customer for at least a year prior to appointment.

The applicant cannot be:

- An elected official,
- Appointed to public office,
- A current City employee, or
- A contractor, consultant, or have a contractual relationship with the City for the benefit of the Las Cruces Utilities.

Applicants must also have technical expertise in one or more of the following fields: banking and finance, business, economics, engineering, and/or related utility management.

The objectives and authority of the Board include but are not limited to:

- Greater public access and participation in utility issues,
- Ensuring more independent oversight and accountability for utility policy decisions,
- Allowing for more time to focus on utility matters,
- Less political influence in business-decision making,
- Developing long-range and strategic policy recommendations to the City Council for the Utilities Department,
- Reviewing and providing direction in the City's new utility rate setting process and submitting rate adjustment recommendations to the City Council, and
- Set water and wastewater impact fees in compliance with the City Development Impact Fee Ordinance.

Applications can be picked up at the City Clerk's office inside City Hall at 700 N. Main Street or accessed online at the City's website: <https://onboard.las-cruces.org/apply/>. For more information contact City Clerk's office at (575) 541-2115. The TTY number is: (575) 541-2182.

Gus Macker tourney is back

By DAVE BURGE
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Gus Macker 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament is back after a year's hiatus because of Covid, and organizers hope it will be bigger and better than ever.

The tournament will be held Aug. 27-29 along Hadley Avenue. The street will actually be blocked off near the Meerscheidt Recreation Center and portable baskets will be brought out for the event.

In the recent past, the Gus Macker had been played at the Field of Dreams, but this year's tournament organizer, Keith Placencio, the owner of Kona Ice, thought it would be better if it returned to its roots along Hadley Avenue where there is more shade and more of a family atmosphere.

"We don't just want it to be for the players," Placencio said. "It's been a long year and a half because of Covid and all. We want something amazing for the community to do."

Placencio had been involved with the Gus Macker tournament in Ruidoso for the past few years and he saw how excited people were to play in and attend this year's tournament in early June.

He was worried that that the tournament may not be held in Las Cruces so he stepped forward and has been working with the national Gus Macker organization, which bills itself as the largest 3-on-3 basketball tournament in the world.

"People were so excited and happy (at the Ruidoso tournament)," Placencio said. "They hadn't been out in a year and a half. The energy levels, it was amazing. We need this year in Las Cruces. I thought we couldn't let it go by."

The tournament is open to teams ranging in age from elementary school to senior citizens. The cost is $148 for four-person teams and the registration deadline is looming on Aug. 6.

Sponsorship opportunities are also available, ranging from $250 to $10,000.

Kona Ice, which has five mobile shaved ice trucks serving the El Paso and Las Cruces area, has a history of giving back to the community.

The company donated about $70,000 in 2018, mostly to local schools but also to sports organizations and other nonprofits, Placencio said.

Placencio and his wife picked Tresco Inc. to be their nonprofit partner, which will benefit from the tournament.

Tresco provides a wide array of services, support and opportunities for people coping with disabilities.

"It is wonderful to see our state and community opening up," said Stacie Allen, community engagement manager with Tresco. "People are out and about. They are eager to connect with their friends and neighbors again. This is a grand opportunity for the community to come together."

Placencio is expecting about 300 teams will compete.

He also wants to make sure the Las Cruces community knows it is invited to come out and watch the

LC Boom win national title

The Las Cruces Boom girls softball team won the under-14 championship at the U.S. Specialty Sports Association Southwest tournament over four days in Plano, Texas.

The Boom went 1-2 in pool play but then went undefeated in bracket play to win the Southwest National championship title.

Zaysha Hawkins was the offensive Most Valuable Player for the tournament and Angelina Ramirez was the pitcher of the tournament as well as the overall MVP.

Former Aggie, Oñate women's basketball star Blunt dies

Former New Mexico State women's basketball star and Las Cruces native Paulina Blunt passed away Tuesday, July 20, her family announced.

A graduate of Oñate High School, Blunt played for the Aggies from 1989-1994. During that time, Blunt racked up 1,148 points and 848 rebounds, good for 22nd and eighth in the NMSU record books, respectively. The two-time All-Big West honoree snagged 310 rebounds during the 1992-93 which still stands as the 10th-highest single-season total in school history.

Blunt was a multi-sport star at Oñate High School where she lettered four times each in basketball, volleyball and track.

She was named the Naismith High School Player of the Year for New Mexico after she averaged 22.5 points and 12.2 rebounds per game for the Knights as a senior.

The Gus Macker tournament returns after a year's hiatus.

Cool, calm, collected: Morikawa impresses with British Open win

Cool, calm and collected. That's how Collin Morikawa appeared on Sunday, July 18, as he dissected the field at Royal St. George's on his way to winning the 149th Open Championship. Last year should have been the 149th Open Championship but it was canceled due to the pandemic.

The first year the Open Championship was played was 1860. It was not held during World War I years from 1915 thru 1919 or during World War II years from 1940 through 1945.

Morikawa won the Gold medal as the "Champion Golfer of the Year," a legendary title dating back to the 1800s, and with it the prized Claret Jug. It was Morikawa's debut at the Open Championship, aka the British Open, played this year at Royal St. George's in Sandwich, England, very near the white cliffs of Dover.

Past champions at Royal St. George's in the modern era include Sandy Lyle (1985), Greg Norman (1993), Ben Curtis (2003) and Darren Clarke (2011).

Beginning in 1894 there have been nine previous Opens at Royal St. George's. Colin Morikawa finds himself in pretty elite and historical company.

Louis Oosthuizen was the leader through the first three rounds of the Open Championship but that was inconsequential to Morikawa, 24.

Morikawa shot a final round of 4-under par 66, finishing the tournament at 15-under and two strokes better than runner-up Jordan Spieth. Spieth, who won the Open at Royal Birkdale in 2017, was lurking near the top all week, but bogies on 17 and 18 at the end of his third round, and two bogies in his first six holes on Sunday hurt his chances.

Morikawa won $2,070,000, while Spieth won $1,198,000 in sole second.

Bryson De Chambeau, whose pre-tournament talk suggested he intended to bring Royal St. George's to its knees with his length off the tee, barely made the cut.

After round one he stated to the press that his driver "sucks," to which he needed to apologize hours later.

Bryson finished tied for 33rd and won only $60,143, and maybe lost some fan support with his complaints.

Morikawa has now won two majors in just eight starts. He won the 2020 PGA Championship last August at Harding Park in San Francisco.

Regarded as the best ball striker in the game today, he remains the leader in the "strokes gained approach" stat at +1.52. That means he's one and a half strokes better than the rest of the field for tournaments played this year. That's huge!

On Wednesday prior to Thursday's first round Golf Channel's Brandel Chamblee picked Morikawa to win. "This golf course has a darn good record at picking the best ball striker in the game," Chamblee said. He added that, since the stroke gained metrics came out in 2004 there has only been one player who has ever finished a season gaining more than a stroke and a half over his peers with his iron play — that's Tiger Woods.

Morikawa may not be the longest driver in the world, but he is one of the most accurate.

That counted big at

Royal St. George's, with lurking out-of-bounds on several holes, and extremely long and penal rough.

Plus, for his 72 holes Morikawa averaged per round 27.75 putts. Think about that! How many putts do you take per round? Majors are won with the putter.

There are many takeaways from this edition of the British Open. One is that Jordan Spieth is back with his game, and he knows that winning is hard. It's hard for everyone.

The R&A and the golf community in the U.K. know how to maintain golfing's ageless traditions. Their fans know and love their golf. The bomb-and-gouge style isn't suited to links golf; links golf is like no other.

Bryson needs to harness his brain and his science to the real world and grow up.

One of the most impressive aspects of Morikawa's game in the final round was the poise and focus he demonstrated. Morikawa's three-minute speech on the 18th green at Royal St. George's, as he clutched the champion's Claret Jug, was professional and moving as he praised the fans and everyone on his team.

Lastly, Collin Morikawa will win more majors and eventually reign No. 1.

games. There is no charge for spectators.

Three days of basketball will kick off from 4 to 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 27, with a special welcome event.

A spotlight will be on the Special Olympics and their special athletes. About eight or nine teams of Special Olympics athletes will play on the main court that night.

The tournament will get going on Saturday, Aug. 28, and will start at 8 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday.

In the afternoon or early evening on Saturday, there will be a slam dunk, 3-point and free-throw contest.

An exact time for the skills contests have not been set yet, but they are always a huge attraction at any Gus Macker event.

Participants will get a T-shirt and goodie bag. There will also be food trucks available and DJs providing music and entertainment.

"This will help the economy," Allen said. "It isn't just local. People will travel from around the region to come to a Gus Macker. They will eat, sleep here and support the economy of Doña Ana County."

Organizers are also looking for a wide range of volunteers, including referees, people to man water stations and pick up trash.

NEW MEXICO, IT'S TIME TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR HEALTH.

TALK TO YOUR MEDICAL PROVIDER ABOUT YOUR HEALTH.

Now more than ever, it's important to stay healthy. Scheduling an appointment with your medical provider will give you the opportunity to address any symptoms or conditions that may have come up over the past year.

PREVENTIVE CARE VISIT

Preventive care can help you avoid potentially serious health conditions and/or obtain early diagnosis and treatment.

MENTAL HEALTH APPOINTMENT

Mental health is an important part of overall health and well-being. Mental health includes our emotional, psychological, and social well-being.

WELL-CHILD CHECKUPS

Making sure that your child sees their doctor for well-child visits and recommended vaccines is one of the best things you can do to protect your child and community.

PRESCRIPTION MEDICINE

Medicines are used to treat diseases, manage conditions, and relieve symptoms.

DO YOU HAVE QUESTIONS ABOUT THE COVID-19 VACCINE?

Millions of people in the United States and around the world have received COVID-19 vaccines. These vaccines have undergone the most intensive safety monitoring in U.S. history.
