U.S. Highway 70 was shut down all day Saturday, Aug. 14, while repairs were done to mitigate rain and flood damage, including collapsed pavement and mud across the road. Opening late Saturday night, the road was still down a southbound lane when this photo was taken Sunday, Aug. 15. One of the main corridors for northeast-bound New Mexico traffic and for White Sands Missile Range, this is the second time the highway through San Augustin Pass has been closed because of flood damage this monsoon season. For more on the impact that flooding has had in Doña Ana County, see the story on page 2.

COUNTY HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES AWARDED $2.4 MILLION TO IMPROVE HEALTH LITERACY

The Doña Ana Board of County Commissioners accepted a $2,460,636 grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Minority Health (OMH) to support the Advancing Health Literacy to Enhance Equitable Community Responses to COVID-19.

"This grant will enable us to learn how to best serve people in the northern region of the County by understanding how they want to receive information and services. Though this funding is only available to support projects in this area, what we learn about health literacy will help us better serve all communities," Jamie Michael, Doña Ana County HHS Director said.

For the next two years, HHS will work closely with local community members and organizations to develop a health literacy plan to increase the availability, acceptability and use of COVID-19 public health information and services by racial and ethnic minority populations.

Rural communities have unique assets and needs. Projects implemented with these funds will enable us to build upon existing assets and address needs to improve health outcomes and reduce the impact of COVID-19. The program will rely on community health workers, or promotoras, who are proven change agents in communities.

OMH is dedicated to improving the health of racial and ethnic minority populations through the development of health policies and programs that will help eliminate health disparities.

"I extend our thanks to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services for this grant that will continue our efforts on education around COVID-19. As we are starting to see another rise in positive cases, we need to ensure that our residents understand key facts around the disease, how to prevent or mitigate the spread, and are aware of available vaccines," Board of County Commissioners Chair Manuel Sanchez said.

La Union families escape homes ahead of floodwaters

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Aguirre home floor is a plane of slippery, sticky mud. Everything is covered with the stuff. A dirt-colored water line can be seen on the walls, curtains and all the furniture, almost a yard high where the most recent La Union flood rushed into the house and stayed a while.

Patricia Viramontes said her mother, father and sister lived in the home, which her father had built 31 years earlier. Now, suddenly, the home is unlivable and unlikely to ever function as a home again. Its instability can be seen as one of the walls visibly gave way under the pressure of the water and is canted over.

It was Thursday and Friday, Aug. 12 and 13, that the community of La

Union in southern Doña Ana County was deluged by rain and flooding in which several resident families found themselves in trouble and fearing for their lives.

"So, the wall collapsed while we were walking my mom out," Viramontes said. "We called 911 and said, 'We need help. We are trapped inside with water coming up,' but they couldn't come. There were problems everywhere. By the time they got here, we were already on the street."

Moses Aguirre, brother to homeowner Guillermo Aguirre, also tells a tale of the flood.

The family was escaping through a window when the wall was collapsing.

"We were running back to the ladder (to the window) before the collapse,"

Moses said. "The last one to climb was my brother. Then, the wall came down. The water was like a little tsunami."

He went on to say the house was uninsured because last time, in 2013, they had been covered by insurance but the insurance refused to pay out for flood damage. So what was the point, Moses said. After the 2013 flood, then Gov. Susanna Martinez had visited the area to view the damage and promised to fix the problem and rebuild the damages. It never happened, Moses said.

This time, Lt. Gov. Howie Morales was on hand to visit with families and view the damage that had occurred. State Reps. Doreen Gallegos and Raymundo Lara, as well as

The Aguirre family kitchen will likely never see a meal cooked in it again as the home seems damaged beyond repair following the La Union floods.

Elephant Butte Irrigation District helping with flood cleanup

BULLETIN REPORT

Elephant Butte Irrigation District Manager Gary Esslinger said the district was busy over the weekend answering calls about dangerous wash-in's into La Union drains that were causing problems for those trying to use the district's rights of way to access their homes and fields.

District employees were busy hauling dirt and shuttling equipment to repair flood-damaged infrastructure.

"We also sent out our battery of pumps to help farmers who were unindated with floodwater," Esslinger said.

"We are using our canal and drain system to drain flooded fields. We are working on trying to drain the fields below La Union in order to help get the water off the crops as well as removed from around streets, homes, barns and corrals. It's going to be a very busy week, just trying to address the wash-ins and keep our pumps running," Esslinger added.

On Dosi Alvarez' farm in La Union, orchards and cotton fields were standing in floodwater. According to the farmprogress.

com, "When the supply of oxygen is cut off to the [cotton] plant and the field is in standing water, the plant can die in as little as 36 hours."

Two of Alvarez' long-time farm crew, Lorenzo Esquivel and Ramon Charvarria, raced the clock as they monitored the pumps

EBID had loaned to help drain the fields.

"Hopefully we will get a break in the weather," Esslinger said. "Our flood-control system worked well and we were able to capture floodwater and recharge the aquifer and put a lot of the stormwater in our system."

Doña Ana County Sheriff Kim Stewart and Kelly Hamilton, deputy secretary of the New Mexico Department of Homeland Security and Emergency Management, also were on hand to view the damage.

Morales pledged to find help for the families whose homes were badly damaged like the Aguirres and their neighbors on both sides.

"It was extremely heart-breaking to see what these families have endured in the past few days," Morales said following the La Union tour. "But this is not new to them. They have experienced that in the past and are frustrated that it happened again. It was important to be here to experience the impacts, that way I can help advocate on their behalf as well as on the community's behalf to provide some type of resources for them."

During the drive from La Union back to Las Cruces, Morales spent his time on his phone doing exactly that. He said county and state governments are unable to directly provide relief funds because the damage is on private property and there are antiodonation clauses in place.

But while long-term solutions are being explored, from FEMA to the Army Core of Engineers, he also connected with the Community Foundation of Southern New Mexico which set up a fundraising link for the families at cfsnm.fcsuite.com/erp/donate/create?funit_id=3112.

He said he was touched by the gratitude the residents showed the officials who were visiting the site.

Also, he was affected by the gratitude they had that their loved ones didn't lose their lives.

"All the material things can be replaced but there is sadness that their family homes were destroyed," Morales said.

"I was specifically moved by the story of one of the daughters who started school this week at New Mexico State University but wasn't able to attend because her car wouldn't start because of the damage. These families have lost everything but still have that generous-giving spirit."

Hugo Cruz, part of the Aguirre family, said the flood was a horrible experience.

"Mother nature is a beast," he said.

Apartment complex helps 40 Las Cruces escape homelessness

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

“We will end homelessness for 40 people in Las Cruces,” Mesilla Valley Community of Hope (MVCH) Executive Director Nicole Martinez said Aug. 5 as a refurbished apartment complex on Pecos Street was officially opened and will be the new home to people who had been living in shelters or on the street.

“This is really a great, great accomplishment,” Mayor Ken Miyagishima said at the grand opening ceremony for the Desert Hope Apartments, 1310 Pecos St.. The mayor said the Rawson family has donated nearby land so a second phase of the project can get underway.

“When we come together, we can really do some wonderful things,” Las Cruces City Councilor Gabriel Vasquez said. The housing project is located in city council district 3, which Vasquez represents. He called the apartments “a rose in the desert.”

With the groundbreaking taking place about a year ago, the project was completed on time and on budget, said Mesilla Valley Public Housing Authority (MVPHA) Board of Commissioners Chair Marcos Montes, who cut the ribbon to officially open the site. Homeless veterans will have priority as tenants for the complex, he said.

The project to convert an old 20-apartment complex into 40 efficiency apartments for the homeless is a partnership among MVCH, MVPHA, the City of Las Cruces and the New Mexico Coalition to End Homelessness, with additional funding provided by the New Mexico Mortgage Finance Authority.

Martinez said MVCH will have an office on site so staff can help new residents “transition from being unhoused to being tenants.”

Amador Health Center of Las Cruces will also provide health screenings on site, Martinez said, and Casa de Peregrinos emergency food program will have a food pantry at the apartments. There also is a laundry room, a community room and landscaping throughout the property.

The grand opening is “such a testimony to the passion and dedication of everybody here today,” said Las Cruces Green Chamber of Commerce President Carrie Hamblen, who is also a state senator, representing Doña Ana County in the New Mexico Legislature.

Hamblen, the former president of the MVCH board of directors, said Martinez presented the idea for the housing complex to the board in 2016. “We have looked forward to this day,” Martinez said. To the apartments’ incoming tenants, she said, “Welcome to Desert Hope. Welcome home.”

Also attending the grand opening were City Councilors Tessa

Making sure NM chile is really from state

FROM A NEW MEXICO
DEPARTMENT OF
AGRICULTURE RELEASE

“As New Mexicans, we’re proud of our chile, and if products are advertised as ‘New Mexico’ chile, we want to be sure that is indeed the case,” New Mexico Secretary of Agriculture Jeff Witte said.

“The New Mexico Chile Advertising Act (NMCAA) was created through legislation, and it’s our job at NMDA to educate our hard-working producers in the state about the act, so they are in compliance,” Witte added.

products to verify they meet the criteria set forth in the act. The act states that individuals cannot advertise chile peppers or products containing chile peppers as New Mexico chile unless they were grown in New Mexico.

The act also stipulates that individuals cannot use the name of any city, town, county, village, pueblo, mountain, river or other geographic feature located in New Mexico in a misleading or deceptive manner that states – or reasonably implies – that the chile peppers are, or the product contains, New Mexico chile unless they were grown in New Mexico.

Currently, there are more than 200 registered vendors and products, and a list may be found at www.nmda.nmsu.edu/new-mexico-chile-

Both New Mexico fresh and processed chile registration forms are available at www.nmda.nmsu.edu/new-mexico-chile-labeling-registration/.

There is no fee to register. Once successfully registered with NMDA, vendors and products are eligible to enter the various chile competitions held in the state.

You don't have to be 'this tall' to ride this ride

Back in March 2020, we all involuntarily hopped on a rollercoaster.

I don't know which part of the rollercoaster you consider the good part or the bad part. For me, the worst part is that slow, creaking ascent as the rollercoaster goes up, when you don't know for certain what will happen next. For others, the worst part might be the speeding, whooshing freefall. Still others might dislike the smaller, hilly bumps at high speed.

The past couple of weeks have brought a year's worth of good news-bad news scenarios.

The Good News: We got rain!

The Bad News: We got too much rain, causing serious damage in several parts of the county, forcing many from their homes and wrecking property and vehicles.

The Good News: Las Cruces Public Schools returned to in-person classroom learning for the first time in a lo-o-o-n-g time.

The Bad News: The return coincided with a spike in Covid numbers.

The Good News: Las Cruces Public Schools, anticipating the spike, had already put in place masking and sanitizing protocols.

The Good News: New Mexico State University students began returning and moving in, much of it in the rain, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 13-14. It was great to see the parking lots in front of student housing full.

The Bad News: Covid again poses a threat on the NMSU campus, and the 18- to 20-year-old segment has been a little bit lax on getting vaccinated.

The Good News: The university also had previously set up indoor masking and NMSU's Health Center is offering free Covid testing and free Covid vaccines.

The Bad News: The NMSU

RICHARD COLTHARP
From the Publisher

and Texas-El Paso football teams were ranked among the lowest of all of college football's 130 teams.

The Good News: Regardless of how accurate those rankings are, if the two teams are indeed comparable, it could make for a competitive, exciting game for the Aggies' home opener, Saturday, Aug. 28. It's a scheduled 7:30 p.m. kickoff. And if we're required to wear masks, so be it. We'll just bring bigger and louder cowbells.

The Bad News: Every New Mexico county except for sparsely populated Harding County, has rising Covid-positive testing rates. Taos County is lowest as of Aug. 17, at 3.57 percent. DeBaca County is highest at 29.79 percent.

The Good News: In theory, with a year of Covid response experience, people better understand the processes and practices needed to navigate the virus.

The Bad News: Covid fatigue is real. Many people are sick and tired. It is scariest among health care facilities. The health care industry has already lost many good people who were overwhelmed during Covid's peak, when they were stressed heavily with overtime and constant pressure of dealing with so many cases. And now, as numbers are coming back up, some of the added restrictions, on top of the return of packed hospitals, may be enough to drive more health care workers out of the industry. This would leave our health care system even more unstable. As numbers have risen the past couple of months, particularly in the Southern states, health care workers quickly learned the vast majority of Covid patients were unvaccinated. This created friction among some patients and health care workers, who perceived their exponentially increased caseload as having been avoidable.

The Good News: For once,

Farmland has its own unique sights and feel

Corn country landscape — painted late summer — high clouds, heavy with moisture waiting for afternoon to thicken and darken and start raising Cain.

You can see for miles. Brown, green, yellow patchwork pieces of a giant jigsaw puzzle. Feedlots in the distance, their pens spread out like dark blankets on the side of a hill.

On the horizon to the north and south I can count three spray planes circling over the corn like buzzards. They are so far away I cannot hear them.

Closer, I can see circle sprinkler lines leapfrogging over the tops of corn rows taller than a pickup and thick as pile carpeting. The stalks stand straight and tasseled.

They remind me of a crowd waiting to hear the pope. An orderly group. Corn is seldom unruly.

BAXTER BLACK
On the Edge of Common Sense

The fields of sunflowers are less organized. They are Woodstockers, jostling and stretching to get a glimpse of the morning's performer.

Suddenly, I pass a farmstead. Acres of lawn with a butch haircut from the side of the road to the first row of corn. Who mows all this, I ask. A windbreak. Deep green, paint-by-number rows of pine trees and juniper. Beautiful, yet somehow out of place.

A fresh tilled field pushes within a few feet of the road.

It smells strong, heavy on my lungs. On this humid morning, it reminds me of chocolate cake.

I drop into a creek bottom. Cows of all colors lay like mixed nuts spilled on a green carpet. Bleached round bales hunker along the fence row like melting clumps of sticky candy.

I follow the pretty three-line power poles festooned with mushroom-like insulators. Proud they are in their orderliness, functional yet outdated.

SEE UNIQUE, PAGE 8

Local elections may be low profile, but they are key to democracy

With national discussions about the protection of voting rights and the congressional elections in 2022, residents of southern New Mexico may not be focusing on the local elections that are coming up in November.

Doña Ana County has five municipalities: Anthony, Hatch, Las Cruces, Mesilla and Sunland Park. Depending on where you live, you may be voting for members of a school board, a city council or other local positions and issues.

In Las Cruces, three City council seats, three Las Cruces Public Schools Board of Education seats and a municipal judge position will be filled.

There will also be elections in the Gadsden and Hatch school districts.

Often, voters are less engaged in these elections than in those at the state and national levels, leading to lower voter turnout.

The public may not be readily aware of the issues involved and candidates may not appear daily in the media. However, the Covid-19 pandemic has given new visibility to local government functions as city, county and school board officials have been responsible for continuing the operations of their

VANWIE

vital services. They are currently making decisions about the allocation of federal funds designed to speed recovery of the economy and address inequities that were magnified by the pandemic. Beyond the pandemic, local boards decide the extent of support for parks, streets, public safety, workforce development and many other issues significant to our daily lives.

Local government bodies also provide relatively easy access to decision makers in terms of the public's ability to observe their actions and provide input.

In New Mexico, the Open Meetings Act specifies that agendas of meetings be available in advance and that, with limited exceptions, the business of these bodies be conducted transparently.

In addition, the Inspection of Public Records Act (IPRA) provides access to public information.

Notably, public participation in meetings is not a requirement, but some organizations provide mechanisms for public input during meetings. One of the losses during the past 18 months was, for example, the opportunity for members of the public to speak in person at meetings. The practice was commonly replaced by reading emails submitted to the body.

Local elections are nonpartisan. Candidates are not nominated by a political party, do not run as representatives of a political party and are not identified by party on the ballot.

Similarly, the League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico (LWVSNM) is a nonpartisan organization, in that it does not support or oppose political parties or candidates. It does encourage voters to get informed and engaged in local government. In early October, the LWVSNM will be providing printed and online English and Spanish voter guides and, with KRWG, candidate forums giving information for the November elections. The LWV US national service "VOTE411.org" provides election information and will include voter guides about local candidates. Check the LWVSNM website or KRWG for dates of the forums (www.lwvsnm.org).

All voters are urged to learn more about local issues and to actively engage in selecting well-prepared candidates to serve our local democracy.

Kathy Brook and Eileen VanWie are co-presidents for the League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico.

Visit lwvsnm.org for more information.

New Mexico is in the Top 10 of a positive category. With a 68 percent rate of having at least one vaccination shot, as of Aug. 17, our state was tied for seventh among the 50 U.S. states. And we have the highest rate in the country (101 percent) of having used the doses we've been given. The only American entity with a higher efficiency is the U.S. Department of Defense, which has used doses at a 106 percent clip.

The Bad News: Most of you already know at have shown to greatly reduce the severity of the illness, as well as protect against the Delta variant, which has proven to be significantly more contagious than the original Covid.

Chances are, you or someone you know is likely to get Covid.

Time to turn attention to the homefront, not yesterday's wars

This week, the United States joined a long list of nations that have tried and failed to rule Afghanistan.

The Soviet Union came immediately before us. Their adventures in Afghanistan left them vulnerable to the collapse of the Soviet empire that was to follow. The British, Sikhs, Persians, Mongols and Greeks all suffered the same fate, dating back to Alexander the Great and Genghis Khan.

The fact that our 20-year effort in Afghanistan was no more successful than all the great empires before us should not be surprising.

What is surprising

WALT RUBEL

The View

has been how quickly our efforts have all come undone and how little we were able to accomplish in two decades of work and sacrifice seeking to install a credible government and competent military.

Leaders have been telling us for the past 20 years that our commitment in Afghanistan was temporary.

We would only be there for as long as it takes to build a self-sustaining government. It's now become obvious that day will never come. It won't matter if we stay another 20 years, or another 200 years.

This week, the war has come to an inglorious conclusion. The Afghan army that we have been equipping and training for 20 years failed to stop the advance of the Taliban as it claimed town after town on the march to Kabul.

Scenes of desperate Afghans clinging to American military airplanes attempting to leave the country bring back bad memories from Saigon in April 1975, when our nation was ending another unsuccessful military campaign.

President Joe Biden can be faulted for a lack of planning in the war's final days. But, as with Vietnam, our discomfort with how the war ended does not alter the fact that both wars needed to end much sooner than they did.

As we approach the 20-year anniversary of the terrorist attacks on Sept. 11, 2001, I fear that many of our nation's leaders have learned the wrong lessons from our failed attempts at nation building in Afghanistan and Iraq.

They believe we left Iraq too soon, leading to the rise of ISIS. And now, they believe we are leaving Afghanistan too soon, leading to a resurgence of the Taliban. They continue to believe that the American military can bring order to the world, if we're just willing to drop enough bombs.

The real lessons are the limitations as to what can be accomplished with a strong military. Removing the Taliban from power was easy. According to former CIA Director George Tenet, Taliban leaders had fled the country before the first U.S. troops arrived. But, tanks and jet fighters are less useful for building democratic institutions of government.

Some members of Congress seem to be learning that lesson. In June, the U.S. House of Representatives voted 268-161 to repeal the Authorization for Use of Military Force, which was passed immediately after the 9/11 attacks and has been used like a blank check by three different presidents to justify any military actions they wanted to take.

The bill still needs to be passed by the Senate. Only Congress can declare war. It has abdicated that responsibility for far too long.

Our nation is in a much different place now than it was 20 years ago. While foreign terrorists are still a threat, the greater threat is now posed by Americans lashing out at their fellow countrymen over any number of perceived grievances.

It's time we stopped fighting yesterday's wars and turned our attention to the homefront.

Walter Rubel can be reached at waltrubel@gmail.com.

Editor's note: This column was filed on Monday, Aug. 16. Afghanistan is a fast changing news story and events on the ground there could change.

August Is National Immunization Awareness Month

Your health means everything. But you may not know that there is a list of recommended vaccines for American adults and teens, just as there is for young children. Vaccines help keep you, your loved ones, and your community safe and healthy. Don't make your health wait. Talk with your healthcare provider, and learn which vaccines are recommended for you.

Recommended adult and teen immunizations vary based on age, medical history, and travel plans, but typically include:

- Flu vaccine
- COVID-19 vaccine
- HPV vaccine
- Tdap vaccine (tetanus/diphtheria/pertussis)
- Shingles vaccine
- Pneumonia vaccine

Candidate says LCPS board should be 'stewards of community'

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

"What's the new world as far as how we prepare our students?" said Eloy Francisco Macha, who is making his first bid for elective office as a candidate for the District 3 seat on the Las Cruces Public Schools Board of Education. Maria Flores, who has held the seat since 2009, will not run for a fourth four-year-term on the board.

Members of the school board are "stewards of the community," Macha said, and must guide district policy to help students adapt to the changes that have occurred since the onset of the pandemic so they are prepared for success, and to ensure that limited resources available for public education are being wisely spent.

Macha, whose campaign slogan is "Your voice for our schools," said he also is concerned that current school board members are not listening to their constituents to determine what is best for Las Cruces schools.

Changing the name of Oñate High School to Organ Mountain High is one example of the board taking action contrary to parents' wishes, he said. Like that name change, Macha said the board's recent adoption of Policy JBC: Equity and Excellence for All Students, also could lead to the allocation of limited resources that would be better spent elsewhere. (The policy states LCPS' "commitment to correct the inequitable experiences and negative stereotypes of historically under-represented, underserved, and marginalized student populations, cultures, and languages.")

And, Macha said, deciding how best to deal with health issues like Covid-19 should be driven more by local needs than by state mandates.

While the New Mexico Public Education Department "provides a lot of good framework to ensure the success of our students," the implementation of state policies should be "Las Cruces specific," Macha said.

"Does the school board represent the local community or Santa Fe?" he said.

And, while the LCPS graduation rate has increased, the school board should be held accountable for student proficiency levels, which Macha said have been declining for past 12 years.

Macha, 47, has worked in the technology field for the past 25 years and is an enterprise adviser for New Mexico State University's Arrowhead Center.

As a school board member, Macha said he would like to share his knowledge and experience with technology and entrepreneurship to motivate students to "be successful in their own way" and pursue their individual passions.

"The one-size-fits-all mentality needs to go away," he said.

Macha said his vision for LCPS also includes creating internships with local businesses for middle- and high-school students, teaching students about financial literacy so they can navigate issues like student loans and credit-card debt, increasing emphasis on trade schools and other career pathways besides four years of college, and ensuring that all students "have the opportunities they need" and all teachers have "all the resources they need to be successful in the classroom."

A native of Peru who came to the United States on a student visa in the early 1980s, Macha said he also would like to share his sense of pride in being an American with the district.

Macha has a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from NMSU.

He became a U.S. citizen in 2005. He and his wife, Sandra (who is serving as his campaign treasurer), and their two children moved back to Las Cruces in 2016.

If he is elected to the school board, Macha said his first action would be to take school board meetings out of the central office and hold them in Las Cruces middle schools and high schools. That is important for accountability and transparency and to "build trust with our

Burrell College Finds Home for Research at Industrial Park

By Cassie McClure

The Burrell College of Osteopathic Medicine main campus can be easily seen from I-25n the New Mexico State University (NMSU) campus. Still, fewer people know how Burrell College has been growing its research efforts off I-10. In the Southwest Production and Research Complex (SWPRC) at the Las Cruces Innovation and Industrial Park (LCIIP), Burrell College allows its faculty and students to do in-depth research on topics like diabetes, inflammation or long-term COVID effects. The College has also established a human physiology laboratory at the site that includes equipment for research on human performance as well as the scientific underpinnings of osteopathic manipulative medicine.

Assistant Dean of Research & Professor of Physiology Dr. Joseph Benoit and Director of Research Laboratories & Associate Professor of Physiology and Pathology Dr. Michael Woods were both astounded by the quality of the laboratories that were available at the site that were unused.

Burrell College Scientific Research Associate Kalli Martinez and faculty member Dr. Debra Bramblett work at the Burrell College bioscience laboratory at Las Cruces Innovation and Industrial Park.

The College has two main buildings at the SWPRC site: a laboratory for bioscience research and a dedicated space for human physiology research with willing participants. "Our faculty have diverse research interests," said Benoit. "This space is where our faculty can bring students who may have a research interest and supervise the growth of their students outside the traditional classroom setting."

Dr. Woods explained that the students could conduct biomedical research of human physiology related to health and disease. "The research is grounded in knowing how the body works," he said. Students participate in basic bench-top experiments – where they can approximate what might happen on a larger scale – as well as experiments with human volunteers.

The laboratory is a Bio-Safety Level-2 (BSL-2) space – a facility capable of handling infectious agents that has more strict entry and exit protocols – but nothing dangerous enough to warrant full biocontainment suits.

"Research and scholarly activity are of paramount importance in the academic realms of the biomedical sciences, clinical sciences, and educational sciences," said Benoit. "We hope to grow our ability to use local participants to help us understand issues that may have a larger effect on the population. Right now, that would be looking at COVID."

The LCIIP location also allows Burrell College to continue and expand collaborative research with NMSU and other national research institutions and medical centers and helps their ability to gain grant work that can study issues like biosafety.

"There is an energy and vision that the Rio Grande Valley can be a hub of research," said Benoit. "We can see where it can grow if we have the right collaborative spirit."

If you have questions about LCIIP, please contact the City of Las Cruces Economic Development Department at (575) 541-2286.

Local nonprofit gets Lowe's grant to renovate CCC schoolhouse

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Thanks to a grant from Lowe's Corp., Human Systems Research, Inc. (HSR), a Las Cruces nonprofit, will be able to renovate the old schoolhouse it uses as a headquarters — and just in time for HSR's 50th anniversary in 2022, said HSR Executive Director Deborah M. Dennis, who has a Ph.D.

HSR's home, 535 S. Melendres St., "is the last of the historic Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) camp schoolhouses still standing in New Mexico," Dennis said. "The renovation will provide community residents and visitors with reminders of the building's rich past and be a model for historic preservation."

The 1938 building is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, she said.

Lowe's Las Cruces store manager Kevin Quinn was expected to bring 20 to 30 volunteers from Las Cruces and El Paso Lowe's stores to HSR on Aug. 17 — Red Vest Day (Lowe's employees wear red vests at work) — to join HSR volunteers in one-day removal of the building's concrete stucco, Dennis said.

Lowe's Corp. announced its 100 Home-towns Project this spring to celebrate Lowe's 100th anniversary. HSR was one of 100 grant recipients in 37 states selected from about 2,200 applications received from across the country, Dennis said. It was one of two New Mexico projects selected and the only one in southern New Mexico.

Volunteering with Lowe's and HSR on Red Vest Day were: Dr. Sonya Cooper, a licensed struccultural resources.

Dennis said HSR is "also looking forward to having the expertise of Larry Limon when he is not working on the Amador Hotel project."

"Limon is a maestro yesero, a traditional plasterer of historic adobe homes and buildings. His work is recognized throughout the state and the Southwest. A third-generation plasterer, he was recognized with a state of New Mexico Historic Preservation award in 2017 for continuing a family tradition that is essential to preserving New Mexico's adobe buildings. Limon has taught plastering in multiple venues, including at Phillips Chapel CME, the oldest African-American church in New Mexico, which during segregation became a school for Black children in Las Cruces," Dennis said.

"Our hope is that Larry will be able to host a few clinics on Saturdays in September and October to teach plastering."

"As (HSR) executive director and head cheerleader, I'm recruiting volunteers to complete the rehabilitation of the exterior using traditional lime plaster," Dennis said. Anyone "interested in learning the art of plastering and wanting to save a piece of Las Cruces history in the process" is encouraged to contact Dennis and volunteer to assist with the HSR renovation project.

HSR is the oldest nonprofit in New Mexico doing anthropological and archaeological research and preservation work and was founded in February 1972.

HSR has been involved in a wide range of research and excavation projects since its found-

Community group moves to new home

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Community Foundation of Southern New Mexico (CFSNM) has moved to a permanent location, the nonprofit announced in a news release. The foundation, now in its 32nd year, will break ground on the new space, 2640 El Paseo Road — just steps away from its current location — at 10 a.m., Friday, Aug. 20. CFSNM's new home is the former Cutter Gallery building and historic Hadley-Ludwick House.

CFSNM said the new location will not only be the home of the foundation and will allow other nonprofits to use the overall space for office space and special events.

"We began searching for a location in 2017, and with the help of community members sponsors and donors, we are excited to finally be moving into a permanent location," said CFSNM President and CEO Terra V. Winter, Ph.D. "This move will allow us continue to improve upon our mission of service in the region, and support families, students and nonprofits across southern New Mexico."

CFSNM has become the largest philanthropic granting foundation in its service area, which includes Doña Ana, Otero, Grant, Hidalgo, Socorro, Catron, Chaves, Luna, Lincoln and Sierra counties. CFSNM manages more than 250 endowments, including 45 nonprofit organizational endowments and 35 annual scholarships.

For more information and to RSVP to the groundbreaking, call 575-521-4794 or email info@cfsnm.org. Visit facebook.com/CFSNM.

TERRA WINTER

It was signing day for the new interns starting their careers with Las Cruces Utilities (LCU), and a buzz was in the air. Las Cruces City Manager Ifo Pili said it reminded him of a signing day for sports with similar energy.

"You and your families should be no less proud for who you are and what got you here," he said. "The process is not an easy one, with many good applicants. LCU chose you for who you are and what they feel you'll bring."

Gerardo Carrasco and Irvin Villa are the two newest successful applicants to the LCU Internship Program. The program is a competitive program that awards internships to incoming or current full-time students pursuing an Associate Degree in Water Technology at the New Mexico State University Doña Ana Community College.

The LCU Internship pays for tuition and other reasonable education-related expenses, including a monthly stipend and paid on-the-job training to assist with educational and living expenses.

"These interns will go on to do jobs that support our quality of life, so we want to be there for them and their education," Delilah Walsh, LCU director, said. "What do they need to succeed? Safety goggles or a laptop?

Las Cruces Utilities Celebrates Two New Interns

By Cassie McClure

We will help to provide that."

Interns work 20 hours per week while in school and 40 hours during academic breaks. After they graduate, they commit to working four to eight years with LCU. The intern graduates will work in one of the following lines of business: Water Operations and Maintenance, Wastewater Operations and Maintenance, or Utilities Environmental.

Both Villa and Carrasco had experiences that led them to find the internship in their own ways.

Villa spent a year as a temporary employee, working in wastewater, and enjoyed the subtle creativity of the work. "Every day, it was something new to learn, something new to try," Villa said. "I asked my coworkers more and more, and they referred me to this program. Carrasco said an interaction at Las Cruces High captured his interest when a water technician came to campus. "He was taking water samples, and I just asked him questions – what are your responsibilities?" Carrasco said. "It's something I hadn't considered before, and now I'm looking forward to helping keep our water supply clean

if I can."

Villa said that the ceremony was surreal because he knew he was competing with others. "Don't hesitate to apply, especially if you're struggling to figure out what you want to do," he said. "This opens the door to keeping you moving forward, especially if you might have trouble paying for your education."

NMSU'S KRWG garners statewide honors

FROM NMSU PRESS RELEASE

New Mexico State University's KRWG public broadcasting station earned nine awards, including station of the year in radio for KRWG-FM, during the New Mexico Broadcasters Association's (NMBA) annual Excellence in Broadcasting Awards.

"These awards represent the collective efforts of the most talented and hard-working individuals I've had the good fortune to work with," said Adrian Velarde, general manager of KRWG public media. "The pandemic threw them nothing but curveballs, yet they adapted and rose to every challenge. I'm beyond proud of their work."

The NMBA selected the 2021 award-winners from works submitted by New Mexico broadcasters throughout the state for work completed during 2020. KRWG competes statewide for the television category and in the large market category for radio.

KRWG public media Director of Content Fred Martino received the award as producer and anchor of KRWG's 2020 election coverage in the television category, a statewide award. This award is shared with Christian Valle, director and producer, and Joe

FRED MARTINO

Widmer, co-producer of the programs.

"We produced 14 candidate forums for the 2020 election, which was a record for KRWG-TV," Martino said. "That was extremely important of course, because for the most part people were not able to have in-person candidate forums. It may have been the only chance for voters to hear from candidates on a range of important issues."

Martino received an award in the radio category of specialty show for "Voice of the Public: Coronavirus Update" and another award for radio talk show or interview for "Frontline: The Choice 2020."

KRWG-FM Broadcast Operations Manager KC Counts received

five radio awards in the categories of breaking news, continuing coverage, sports show or interview and newscaster. Counts also submitted the newscast from June primary election night coverage, which won the radio newscast station award.

The 2021 NMBA convention is scheduled for Sept. 24.

NMBA is a not-for-profit corporation. Its membership includes radio and television stations, as well as other community members with a stake in broadcasting. For more than six decades, the organization has encouraged standardizing customs and practices in broadcasting in the best interests of the public and the broadcasting industry.

community," he said.

"All of us have a common goal," Macha said. "We all want what's best for our students."

Macha said he is knocking on doors in his school board campaign and making phone calls.

"I've had a lot of great conversations," Macha said, adding that he has talked to a lot of LCPS parents and "has learned from them."

Macha said he is hopeful his campaign will raise voter turnout in the Nov. 2 election.

"We have to fight the good fight," he said.

In running for school board, "there shouldn't be any other motivation except 'I love my community,'" he said.

Former LCPS superintendent takes over Floyd School District

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Former Las Cruces Public Schools Superintendent Stan Rounds will serve in place of the Floyd Municipal Schools Board of Education in operating the small school district in Roosevelt County while the elected board remains suspended, the New Mexico Public Education Department (NMPED) announced.

Rounds, who served 10 years as LCPS superintendent before his June 30, 2016 resignation, is currently executive director of the New Mexico Coalition of Educational Leaders.

NMPED Secretary Ryan Stewart said Rounds now has the legal authority, rights and responsibilities of any New Mexico school board member to govern the Floyd school district, which is located 272 miles northeast of Las Cruces in north-central Roosevelt County.

Stewart suspended the five-member Floyd school board Aug. 4 after they twice voted to disregard NMPED's Covid-19 safe practices for school re-entry and then placed Floyd Superintendent Damon Terry on administrative leave when he refused to carry out the board's wishes.

Stewart reinstated Terry the same day he suspended the Floyd board. Terry, who has been reporting directly to Stewart, will now report to Rounds.

"I want to be sure I don't usurp Damon's role," Rounds said in the NMPED news release.

"I'm there to serve him.

"He's my only employee," Rounds said.

"New Mexico communities are each uniquely wonderful. I see my task as one that assists the schoolchildren of Floyd, the teachers and staff who serve those children and to assure that we act in a responsibly fiduciary fashion to support the mission of the district."

Stewart held open the option of designating additional individuals to serve with Rounds as an interim governing council as he has done in previous cases.

Rounds is a New Mexico native who now lives in Las Cruces. He spent 27 years in the superintendent's role, first in Des Moines, New Mexico, beginning in 1983. Later, he became superintendent in Alamogordo, Hobbs and Las Cruces, with a stint at NMPED.

Rare seasonal blue moon will be seen on Aug. 22, only 5th since 2010

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

A blue moon is the second full moon in a calendar month. As it turns out, there's a second kind that's even more unusual – a seasonal blue moon. There will be one Sunday, Aug. 22. It's only the fifth seasonal blue moon since 2010 and the first in more than two years.

A season is defined as the time between a solstice and an equinox, and if there are four full moons during that quarter of the year, the third full moon is called a seasonal blue moon.

The official full moon on Aug. 22 is at 6:02 a.m. MDT.

Many full moons have names associated with Native American history and lore.

The August full moon is often called the Sturgeon Moon because of the large number of fish in the lakes where the Algonquin tribes fished. Other names are the Green Corn

Moon, Barley Moon, Fruit Moon and Grain Moon from Old English/Anglo-Saxon.

The seasonal blue moon apparently traces its origins to an edition of the Maine Farmers Almanac published in 1937.

Using the term blue moon for the second full moon in a calendar month may have originated in an article in the March 1946 edition of "Sky & Telescope" magazine.

Visit skyanndtelescope.org/observing/once-in-a-blue-moon to read more about it.

The article says National Public Radio's January 1980 Star Date program popularized use of the term.

The Harvest Moon, which is the full moon nearest (either before or after) the fall equinox, is Sept. 20.

It's officially full at 5:55 p.m. MDT.

The fall equinox occurs at 1:21 p.m. MDT Wednesday, Sept. 22.

Help Wanted Part-Time

General Manager

Las Cruces Community Radio is looking for a General Manager.

The General Manager (GM) is responsible for all operations at Las Cruces Community Radio (KTAL), including the production, broadcasting and quality of content; management of the station; management of volunteers and adherence to KTAL policies and procedures.

The GM is responsible to the Board but has authority to assign responsibilities and delegate duties to volunteers and contractors.

The GM keeps the Board apprised of staff and volunteer needs and any issues as many be appropriate. The GM attends monthly and special Board meetings as required.

The GM produces the station budget and is responsible for paying and recording financial transactions. The GM ensure that KTAL meets any government regulations, such as those by the FCC and IRS.

Because the GM serves as liaison between KTAL and the broader community, they are expected to act in a professional and collegial manner with the public, volunteers and contractors.

The GM will work with the Board to raise funds through fund-raising campaigns, grants, underwriting and contracts.

The job requires on average about 20 hours per week, and KTAL will pay a weekly stipend to the GM.

For more information, contact Paul Dulin, President of the Board, at pdulin@aol.com or by cell at 575-343-2324.

The property to be sold is located at 2029 Rose Lane, Las Cruces, and is situate in Dona Ana County, New Mexico, and is particularly described as follows: Lot 7, NORTH HIGHLAND ADDITION, in the City of Las Cruces, Dona Ana County, New Mexico, as the same is shown and designated on Plat No. 488 thereof filed for record in the office of the County Clerk of Said County on July 01, 1958 and recorded in Book 8 Page 25, Plat Records, Dona Ana County, New Mexico.

THE FOREGOING SALE will be made to satisfy a judgment rendered by the above Court in the above entitled and numbered cause on July 26, 2021, being an action to foreclose a mortgage on the above described property. The Plaintiff's Judgment, which includes interest and costs, is $141,184.48 and the same bears interest at 4.875% per annum from May 1, 2021, to the date of sale. The Plaintiff and/or its assignees has the right to bid at such sale and submit its bid verbally or in writing. The Plaintiff may apply all or any part of its judgment to the purchase price in lieu of cash. The sale may be postponed and rescheduled at the discretion of the Special Master.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the real property and improvements concerned with herein will be sold subject to any and all patent reservations, easements, all recorded and unrecorded liens not foreclosed herein, and all recorded and unrecorded special assessments and taxes that may be due. Plaintiff and its attorneys disclaim all responsibility for, and the purchaser at the sale takes the property subject to, the valuation of the property by the County Assessor as real or personal property, affixture of any mobile or manufactured home to the land, deactivation of title to a mobile or manufactured home on the property, if any, environmental contamination on the property, if any, and zoning violations concerning the property, if any.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the purchaser at such sale shall take title to the above described real property subject to a one month right of redemption.

6 p.m. on AHC DEST DLC
FYI IFC SMTH STARZ UP
Stand Up to Cancer

Executive produced by Oscar winning actress Reese Witherspoon and her husband, Jim Toth, this year's hour-long fundraising event originates live from Los Angeles and airs simultaneously on more than 60 media platforms across the U.S. and Canada. The coverage includes all four major U.S. networks — ABC, CBS, Fox and NBC — which are donating an hour of commercial-free airtime. Ken Jeong and his wife, physician

Tran Ho, a cancer survivor herself, are co-hosts, along with Anthony Anderson and Sofia Vergara, with Common and Brittany Howard among the performers.

6 p.m. on BBCA
Eden: Untamed Planet

The new episode "Patagonia: The Ends of the Earth" travels to the far tip of South America to visit a seemingly magical realm that appears to be frozen in time. Patagonia is a land of extremes, from the dizzying heights of the Andes mountain range to coastal fjords. In these extreme conditions, any life follows one of two strategies: specializing in a single habitat and living there exclusively, or somehow evolving to become tough enough to endure multiple conditions. Helena Bonham Carter narrates.

6:30 p.m. on NBCSN
IndyCar Racing

One of IndyCar's more interesting ovals is front and center today in Madison, Ill., where World Wide Technology Raceway just outside St. Louis plays host to the Bommarito Automotive Group 500. The 1.25-mile course boasts a unique egg shape and varying degrees of banking in each corner that are reminiscent of turns at New Hampshire and Phoenix. Scott Dixon won his 50th career IndyCar race here a year ago over Takuma Sato in a thrilling finish.

7 p.m. on HALL
Movie: A Little Daytime Drama

This new 2021 romance stars Jen Lilley as Maggie, head writer on a soap opera with ratings so low the show faces imminent cancellation. Maggie has a vested interest in turning that scenario around, since the show's creator, Alice (real-life soap veteran Linda Danon), is ready to pass the baton to Maggie and retire. Alice's plan to boost ratings, however, is to bring back Darin (Ryan Paevey), a past fan favorite who bailed on the show — and a relationship with Maggie — years ago.

7 p.m. on TRAV
Destination Fear

Thoroughly peeved at Tanner and Dakota's mean-spirited experiments this season, which seem planned to push all her buttons, Chelsea retaliates with a revenge destination she hopes will settle some scores: the historic Greene County Almshouse, just outside the town of Carrollton, Ill.

This poor farm — in some respects, the American equivalent of the infamous debtors' prison in England — is known to other paranormal researchers for its aura of dark, untapped energy, and it pushes the team into a test of their very sanity.

10 p.m. on HBO
Movie: Godzilla vs. Kong

Released internationally in theaters and domestically on the HBO Max streaming service during the COVID-19 crisis, director Adam Wingard's 2021 monster film — a sequel to "Kong: Skull Island" (2017) and "Godzilla: King of the Monsters" (2019) — broke several pandemic box office records and proved a financial blockbuster. It also earned generally good reviews, especially for its visual effects and action sequences. The story finds humans enlisting Kong to retrieve a power source to use against Godzilla. The international cast includes Alexander Skarsgard, Millie Bobby Brown and Brian Tyree Henry.

10 p.m. on SHOW
Movie: Pixie

British producer Barnaby Thompson (the "Wayne's World" movies) made his solo directing debut with this somewhat dark but amiable 2020 comedy thriller, with Olivia Cooke ("Bates Motel") in the title role of Pixie O'Brien, a sly young beauty who daydreams of getting out of her sleepy Irish village to start a bohemian life in San Francisco. Using inside knowledge acquired from her stepfather (Colm Meaney), a small-town gangster, Pixie manipulates some old flames into staging a drug heist, which goes badly wrong. Ben Hardy, Dylan Moran and Alec Baldwin co-star.

Anthony Anderson

6 p.m. on LIFE
Movie: The Pom Pom Murders

Shortly after making the dance squad of the L.A. Renegades basketball team, Audrey (Anna Marie Dobbins) meets Walter (Jon Schaefer), one of the players, and they quickly fall for each other. When Bailey (Grace Patterson), another Renegade girl and Walter's ex, is found murdered, though, Walter immediately becomes the prime suspect. Despite damning evidence against him, Audrey sets out to prove her new boyfriend is innocent. Lindsay Diann and Jhey Castles also star in this 2020 thriller.

6 p.m. on APL
North Woods Law: Protect and Preserve

The new episode "Grave Danger" finds the officers of the Fish and Game Dive Team on a mission to find gravestones and bodies after the embankment of New Hampshire's Upper Ammonoosuc River erodes near a cemetery. Elsewhere, Officer Eric Hannett hunts for the owner responsible for an abandoned firearm left in an unsecured location.

7 p.m. on FOOD
Buddy vs. Duff

Buddy Valastro and Duff Goldman take to the high seas to make pirate cakes in the new episode "High Seas and High Stakes." Team Duff's cake is in the form of a detailed ghost ship, complete with wind effects to make it ride the waves. Team Buddy takes a different tack, building an unlucky pirate being pursued by a lovestruck shark. The winner is chosen by a panel of 50 cake artists.

8 p.m. on EPIX
Chapelwaite

Academy Award winner Adrien Brody stars in this new horror series based on "Jerusalem's Lot," a short story by Stephen King. The actor plays Captain Charles Boone, who moves with his three children (Jennifer Ens, Sirena Gulamgaus, Ian Ho) to the small town of Preacher's Corners, Maine, after Charles' wife dies at sea. They'll be living in his ancestral home, which Charles soon learns harbors an abundance of dark family secrets. Emily Hampshire ("Schitt's Creek") also stars as Rebecca Morgan, a writer who becomes the children's governess.

8:30 p.m. on KVIA2
Dead Pixels

Nicky (Will Merrick) prepares to meet the female "Kingdom Scrolls" player of his dreams in real life in the Season 2 finale, "Flanks/Yams." Meanwhile, with every good intention, Meg (Alexa Davies) reboots an old version of the game that she, Nicky and his lady friend can play together. What could possibly go wrong? Charlotte Ritchie, Sargon Yelda and David Mumeni also star. This sitcom's British production company has not confirmed whether a Season 3 is in the cards.

9 p.m. on KVIA
To Tell the Truth

Host Anthony Anderson welcomes his "black-ish" co-star Deon Cole to the panel, along with Caroline Rhea ("Sabrina the Teenage Witch") and Adam Pally ("Happy Endings") to a new episode in which they'll try to guess which guests are telling the truth about their real identities. In the case of this bunch, the panelists are trying to find a peanut artist, a bug baker, an aquanaut, a breakup coach and a blues musician.

10 p.m. on HMM
Aurora Teagarden Mysteries

Candace Cameron Bure returns to her role as the titular crime-solving librarian in "Honeymoon, Honeymurder," which finds Aurora and newlywed husband Nick Miller (Niall Matter) on a "pre-honeymoon" getaway together at a lake cabin after weather forces them to postpone their main trip to Paris. Any romantic mood curdles, though, with the discovery of a corpse. Marilu Henner also stars; Miranda Frigon, Brad Harder and Dylan Sloane guest star.

Nicole "Snooki" Polizzi

5 p.m. on MTV Messy Ness

A new entry in the offbeat franchise that started with "Ridiculousness," this new spinoff hosted by Nicole "Snooki" Polizzi showcases people who are living their best lives while having the courage to celebrate the "messiness" in their lives. In each episode, Polizzi will be joined by a celebrity panel of guest, with scheduled appearances by actress and reality star Tori

Spelling, former Olympic figure skater Adam Rippon and comic Teddy Ray, who view and comment on clips featuring everything from awkward proposals to nights out that take a wrong turn.

8 p.m. on KVIA2 The Republic of Sarah

Sarah and Paul (Stella Baker, guest star Xander Berkeley) are just starting to make headway in their relationship when Ellen (Megan Follows) surprises everyone by returning home earlier than expected in the new episode "Pledge Allegiance." Later, Weston (guest star Daniel di Tomasso) turns to Sarah for help after catching a big break with his story, and Danny (Luke Mitchell) accidentally makes things harder for Corinne (Hope Lauren), forcing her to make a hard decision. Izabella Alvarez also stars.

8 p.m. on CNBC Super Heists

The new episode "A Van Full of Dollars" chronicles how a bank employee who is regarded as a model worker by his managers and colleagues pulls off the second biggest cash heist in history when he stuffs a work van with $17 million in untraceable cash and flees to Mexico. Unfortunately, the thief finds himself betrayed by his partners in crime when greed fuels a murder plot.

8 p.m. on SUNDANCE Movie: 1275 Days

Filmmakers Carlye Rubin and Katie Green explore the complicated topic of juvenile incarceration in America in this 2019 documentary, which was filmed over four years after a 15-year-old named Blake is convicted of felony murder following a botched home invasion and sentenced to 55 years. In many respects the film is a "David and Goliath" tale that follows Blake's family as they desperately try to get his sentence reduced.

9 p.m. on KVIA The Ultimate Surfer

Jesse Palmer hosts this new summer competition series, which premieres tonight and Tuesday, Aug. 24, and brings together some of the world's best rising surf stars to vie for the title of Ultimate Surfer. tonight's picks

6 p.m. on DSC
Deadliest Catch

An Arctic storm blasts the fleet as Sig Hansen ventures into deep waters he hasn't fished in 17 years in a new episode called "Winter's Gambit." Meanwhile, Capt. Johnathan Hillstrand steers the Time

Leah McSweeney

Bandit into menacing 30-foot waves as he attempts a Hail Mary run toward Russia. Capt. Keith Colburn attempts a risky maneuver to save the Wizard's pots.

6 p.m. on APL
North Woods Law: Wildside

On Mount Washington, Officer Glen Lucas races to rescue an injured teenager who is living with autism in the new episode "Confrontations and Confessions." Elsewhere, a major ATV accident report comes in, and a pair of hunters are confronted after being caught in a lie. Meanwhile, Officer Ron Arsenault handles some teen anglers who refuse to give up some necessary information.

7 p.m. on KVIA2
DC's Stargirl

Having gotten a seductive taste of the superhero life, Mike (Trae Romano) begs Pat (Luke Wilson) to let him join the team in the new episode "Summer School: Chapter Three." Elsewhere, after seeking help from Thunderbolt (voice of guest star Jim Gaffigan), the JSA team prepares to confront The Shade (guest star Jonathan Cake). Brec Bassinger, Yvette Monreal, Cameron Gellman, Anjelika Washington, Amy Smart and Meg DeLacy also star.

7 p.m. on BRAVO
The Real Housewives of New York City

Leah clashes bitterly with her mother during a family dinner, while Luann takes up a (literally) sobering new business venture in a new episode called "Be Mine, Galentine." Elsewhere, Sonja has an untimely brush with COVID-19, spurring a close-knit girls trip back to Ramona's vacation home in the Hamptons.

8 p.m. on KFOX
Fantasy Island

Eileen (guest star Debbi Morgan), a flamboyant eccentric, arrives on the island hoping to spend time with her estranged daughter and her family, but they're not remotely interested in that idea, in the new episode "Quantum Entanglement." The new arrivals also include Charles (guest star Cliff Chamberlain), a depressed physics professor seeking reassurance that the universe has something greater out there for him. Roselyn Sanchez and Kiara Barnes star; Mieko Hillman, Rodrigo Rojas, Katira Maria and John Gabriel Rodriguez also guest star.

8 p.m. on KVIA2
Supergirl

Supergirl and Zor-El (Melissa Benoist, Jason Behr) return to National City, determined to put the trauma of the Phantom Zone behind them and enjoy the shared superhero life in the new episode "Welcome Back, Kara." Unfortunately, their efforts turn a mite too overzealous, inadvertently creating a whole new threat to the city. Chyler Leigh also stars.

11 p.m. on FREEFRM
Motherland: Fort Salem

In the Season 2 finale, "Revolution, Part 1," the Camarilla brings the fight to Fort Salem. As the conflict builds, Raelle, Abigail, Tally (Taylor Hickson, Ashley Nicole Williams, Jessica Sutton) and many of their allies are forced to make some nearly impossible, potentially world-changing choices. Amalia Holm and Demetria McKinney also star.

Honoring health workers

By DEBBI MOORE
GLCCC CEO/President

They say a “picture says a thousand words,” but yet oftentimes, does not capture the true sentiment of the moment. It records the moment, but the feeling, the emotion, lies in the heart of the viewer. This issue features many pictures of the honorees from our 2021 Healthcare Awards. This year’s nominations were exceptionally tender, honest and truly from the heart. More than ever before, many of these nominations came from patients and their families. Families who were touched by our valiant healthcare workers in extraordinary ways at such an unimaginable time of their lives took the time to document their experience by nominating that special worker.

As I took the time to read each nominees name and had them stand across the room, a loud silence passed across the banquet hall. As they stood, all of us in that moment knew the pain, sorrow, loss and sadness these nominees had experienced over the last year and continue.

These nominations included front line workers, along with what many of us would consider, “back-office” workers. From the engineering departments to the janitorial team to the culinary department, these workers made certain that environments remained sterile, floors were cleaned, and food was prepared & delivered on time, checked patients in, these wonderful people show up every day right besides the nurses, doctors, therapists.

We salute all these nominees and thank them from the bottom of our hearts for their dedication and service. Take a look at the pictures inside. If you know one of these recipients, take time to write them a note of appreciation and congratulations. If you don't, then take time to write a note of appreciation to a healthcare worker that you do know. We are as always, LASCRUCESSTRONG!

THE LAS CRUCES

What's Available NOW On NETFLIX

“Untold”

Chapman and Maclain Way are the creative forces behind this five-part documentary series that explores the stories behind some pivotal sports moments in history, among them Indiana Pacer Ron Artest's altercation with a fan that touched off a massive brawl with the Detroit Pistons in 2004 and Caitlyn Jenner's reflections on winning the gold medal at the 1976 Summer Olympics. (ORIGINAL)

“Bake Squad”

Milk Bar founder Christina Tosi (“MasterChef USA,” “Unique Sweets”) is front and center of this competition series, which in each episode she brings together four talented bakers to battle it out to see whose dessert will be chosen for someone's extra special big day and make dessert dreams come true. (ORIGINAL)

“Motel Makeover”

This unscripted series follows Canadian entrepreneurs April Brown and Sarah Sklash as they buy and refurbish rundown Toronto-area motels and turn them into showplaces designed to attract more customers and thus higher rental fees. The catch? Neither has experience in design or the hospitality industry. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: He's All That”

This reimagining of the 1999 teen cult hit “She's All That” turns the tables on the genders and stars newcomer Addison Rae as an influencer who accepts the challenge to transform her school's biggest loser (Tanner Buchanan, “Cobra Kai”) into the prom king. Rachael Leigh Cook, who played the transformed party in the original, is the influencer's mother here. (ORIGINAL)

tonight's picks

7 p.m. on KFOX MasterChef

A new two-hour episode opens with a visit to the kitchen by Dominique Crenn, the only female chef in America to attain three Michelin stars. She challenges the chefs to split into two-person teams, with both making the same dish while not being able to see each other. Next, iconic chef Niki Nakayama gives the cooks an authentic taste of Japan. Gordon Ramsay is the host and head judge, joined on the panel by Joe Bastianich and Aaron Sánchez.

8 p.m. on FXX Archer

For many "Archer" fans, the big question is whether beloved actress Jessica Walter — who died in March at age 80 — is part of Season 12. Happily, since Walter adored her hilarious animated role as self-absorbed Malory Archer, she reportedly worked on these new episodes right up until the end, so she definitely will be present to some degree. In the world of the show, Archer (voice of H. Jon Benjamin) and his colleagues face competition from International Intelligence Agency, a faceless new spy conglomerate.

tonight's picks

Amy Poehler and Nick Offerman

6 p.m. on BRAVO
Million Dollar Listing
New York

In the new episode "New York Is Back!," Ryan hustles

frantically to land his first development under his new Serhant brand, while Fredrik celebrates his decision to go bi-coastal and announces some big new plans. Elsewhere, Steve hits the ice to lock down his 57th Street rental, and Tyler celebrates an emotional closing.

8 p.m. on KTSM
Making It

The Season 3 Master Maker is crowned at the end of tonight's finale, in which co-hosts Amy Poehler and Nick Offerman challenge everyone with a staple of this show: the "Shed Hack" (also the title of this season-ending episode). This time around, though, the Makers are free to transform a shed into their own personal happy place, whatever that involves.

8 p.m. on KVIA2
The Outpost

Talon and Luna (Jessica Green, Maeve Courtier-Lilly) enlist the help of an old friend to help them in their urgent search for an ancient key in the new episode "The Power of the Masters."

9 p.m. on FREEFRM
grown-ish

After Luca (Luka Sabbat) brutally calls out Zoey's (Yara Shahidi) boss on social media, Zoey makes a desperate attempt to rein in the ensuing "cancel culture" sentiment, but things backfire spectacularly in the new episode "Canceled." Meanwhile, as Jazz (Chloe Bailey) tries to train herself not to lean so heavily on Sky (Halle Bailey), she starts to grow closer to Des (Warren Egypt Franklin).

“Luke Bryan: My Dirt Road Diary”

The five-time Entertainer of the Year is not only the subject but an executive producer (with Kerri Edwards, Ryan Schmidt and director Michael Monaco) of this five-part documentary series that uses original home videos, interviews and personal footage to chronicle the ups and downs in the life of the country music superstar. (ORIGINAL)

“The Tent Mender”

From writer/director Laura Hand (“I Am Not My Home”) comes this five-part documentary series about a recovering heroin addict who embarks on a journey of self-discovery when he returns to Skid Row after being sober for 15 years. Actor Peter Coyote serves as the narrator.

“Movie: Sideways”

The engaging 2004 comedy that made wine a hot movie commodity casts Paul Giamatti and Thomas Haden Church as longtime friends and partners on an odyssey through California’s wine country, where they share their unrealized dreams and the hopes they still manage to maintain, which come to involve a couple of distinctive women (Virginia Madsen, Sandra Oh).

“Movie: The Courier”

From director Dominic Cooke (“On Chesil Beach,” “The Hollow Crown”) comes this 2020 thriller that follows Greville Wynne (Benedict Cumberbatch, “Sherlock”), a British businessman and Mi6 recruit who works with Soviet spy Oleg Penkovsky (Merab Ninidze, “McMafia”) to gather crucial intelligence to defuse the Cuban Missile Crisis. Rachel Brosnahan and Jessie Buckley also star.

In Focus

“The Morning Show: Season 2” (Apple TV+ — season premiere, Sept. 17)
The sophomore round of this original drama series picks up after the explosive events of Season 1 and finds the “Morning Show” team emerging from the wreckage of Alex (Jennifer Aniston) and Bradley’s (Reese Witherspoon) actions. New cast members include Julianna Margulies, Holland Taylor, Greta Lee and Hasan Minhaj, joining returnees Steve Carell, Billy Crudup, Mark Duplass and Nestor Carbonell.

“NCIS: Hawaii” (CBS — series premiere, Sept. 20)
One of the most phenomenally successful TV franchises ever, “NCIS” expands its reach to the seductive shores of the Aloha State with this new procedural, which stars Vanessa Lachey as Jane Tennant, the first female Special Agent in Charge of NCIS Pearl Harbor. In a male-dominated system that has pushed back on Jane at every turn in her professional journey, she has thrived and risen through the ranks thanks to confidence and canny strategy.

County working to enhance health literacy, Covid effort

BULLETIN REPORT

The Doña Ana Board of County Commissioners accepted a $2,460,636 grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Minority Health (OMH) in August to support the Advancing Health Literacy to Enhance Equitable Community Responses to COVID-19, the county said in a news release.

“This grant will enable us to learn how to best serve people in the northern region of the county by understanding how they want to receive information and services,” said county Health and Human Services Department (HHS) Director Jamie Michael said. “Though this funding is only available to support projects in this area, what we learn about health literacy will help us better serve all communities.”

For the next two years,

HHS will work closely with local community members and organizations to develop a health literacy plan to increase the availability, acceptability and use of Covid-19 public health information and services by racial and ethnic minority populations, the county said.

Projects implemented with the grant will enable the county to build on existing assets and address needs to improve health outcomes and reduce the impact of Covid in rural areas, the news release said.

OMH is dedicated to improving the health of racial and ethnic minority populations through the development of health policies and programs that will help eliminate health disparities, the release said.

'Harvey' cast a family affair; show opens Aug. 20

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Las Cruces Community Theatre's production of "Harvey," which opens Friday, Aug. 20, at LCCT and continues for three weekends, is a true family affair. The cast includes two sets of real-life husbands and wives, and the play's director and another cast member are mother and daughter.

Brandon Brown stars as Elwood P. Dowd. His wife, Lennie Marie Brown, is Veta Louise Dowd Simmons (Elwood's sister). Real-life husband and wife David Edwards and Cindy Murrell play Dr. William R. Chumley and Betty Chumley and "Harvey" director Gail Wheeler is the mother of Alex Wheeler Larkin, who plays Myrtle Mae Simmons.

The cast also includes Nathan Harper, Erin Wendorf, Alecks Rundell, Mike Cruz, Vanessa Dabovich and Ed Montes.

Brandon Brown has starred in some of the most popular shows LCCT has ever presented, including "White Christmas," "I Love You, You're Perfect, Now Change" and "The Wizard of Oz." For the New Mexico State University Theatre Department, he has recently appeared in "My Fair Lady" and "The Drowsy Chaperone."

Lennie Marie Brown has been doing shows at LCCT since 1993, when she was the princess in "Once Upon a Mattress." She also performed in the starring role in "Glorious! The True Story of Florence Foster Jenkins, the Worst Singer in the World." Most recently, she played Mrs. Parker in LCCT's production of "A Christmas Story."

Edwards' credits include being in the original cast of Mark's Medoff's Tony-winning play, "Children of a Lesser God," when it premiered at New Mexico State University in the late 1970s. Most recently, he appeared in LCCT's production of "Noises Off." Edwards has also appeared in many local and regional films and has written his own screenplay, "Caprock."

Murrell acted in "Scenes from Caprock," based on Edwards' screenplay, at LCCT in 2019. She also performed in Las Cruces theater company lo-fi productions' "Circle Mirror Transformation" and "August, Osage County" (which also co-starred Edwards). Murrell also has performed with Doña Ana Lyric Operation and No Strings Theatre Company at Black Box Theatre, including performances in "A Delicate Balance" and "Collected Stories."

"Harvey" is Gail Wheeler's 33rd production at LCCT — 10 other shows she has directed and 22 she acted in.

Her acting credits also include "Death of a Salesman" for lo-fi productions (which starred David Edwards as Willie Loman), and "Firebugs," also co-starring Edwards and directed by the late Dick Rundell. At LCCT, Wheeler's directing credits include "Belles" and "Mr. Roberts." She acted in lo-fi productions' "August, Osage County" and "School for Lies."

Las Cruces storyteller: Deep roots, strong voices, uplifting tales

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Sarah Addison tells stories that reach back into the bleakest pages of American history, recounting tales of slavery, oppression, struggle and sacrifice. But her stories are always full of hope and humor and triumph over incredible obstacles.

Addison performs under the name Juba and is a national-award-winning storyteller and president of Storytellers of Las Cruces (STLC).

Earlier this year, she won the Oracle Award from the National Storytelling Network, one of four recipients of its regional service and leadership award.

Addison has lived in Las Cruces since 1995 and has been a member of STLC for 18 years and has served multiple terms as president.

Among Addison's most popular characters are Cathay Williams (1844-93), who disguised herself as a man to join the U.S. Army as a buffalo soldier in the 1860s and served in the American West, and Susie King Taylor (1848-1912), the first Black nurse to serve during the Civil War.

"You have to be able to tell your story," she said.

Addison tells "folktales and fables," retelling stories that are in the public domain and have no copyright.

Addison also got permission from author Irene Smalls to tell a story based on Smalls' children's book "Ebony Sea," Sarah Addison as Cathay Williams, who disguised herself as a man to serve as a buffalo soldier in the 1860s.

opening that presentation by singing "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," an African-American spiritual that dates to the mid-19th century.

"I love stories about strong women," Addison said. "It's amazing how many women unsung 'sheroes' are hidden in history," including Williams and Taylor and other iconic figures from American history like Harriet Tubman and Rosa Parks.

Addison also incorporates life lessons into her stories, especially when she performs for children.

Her stories are always upbeat, with an underlying theme that "it could have been worse."

"Lift 'em up. I don't want anyone to learn they're sad," Addison said. "Life is like a roller coaster – ups and downs. You tell how you survived the valleys. To keep from crying, you have to laugh."

Sharing a character's trials and tribulations "lets people know we're all the same," she said.

The daughter of Mis-issippi sharecroppers, Addison said her love of books helped guide her into storytelling.

"I traveled around the world just by reading," she said.

"Leah's Journey" by Gloria Goldreich, which won the 1979 National Jewish Book Award for fiction, was a particularly inspirational book, Addison said, helping her learn about a culture different from her own.

"It intrigued me. I learned so much," she said.

Addison already had deep roots in the art of storytelling, which is as old as mankind and pre-dates the written word.

She is descended from the griots, West African storytellers, poets, musicians and singers.

Addison's mother was also an important influence on her life and her pursuit of storytelling.

"The older I get, the wiser she becomes," Addison said about her mother.

"As long as you have books, you can educate yourself," was her mother's strong belief, Addison said.

Her mother had only an eighth-grade education, but "you would have thought she had a college degree," Addison said.

In an age when people — and especially children — aren't reading or writing as much as they used to, keeping storytelling alive is an important mission for Addison.

The world's oral tradition is "just as vital as writing," she said.

"Before the written word, that's how information was passed on," Addison said.

"Tell your story so people will know who you are," she said.

Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Gallery to feature oil painters in new exhibit

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Gallery, 2470-A Calle de Guadalupe, on the historic Mesilla Plaza across from the Fountain Theatre, will feature local artists Yvonne Postelle and Roberta Leavell "Bobbie" Widner during the month of September.

After retiring from the business world and raising a family, Postelle revisited her passion for oil painting. She is a member of numerous art associations and has held various positions in these organizations. Postelle continues to improve her technique by attending various workshops.

Widner is an oil painter who expresses her talent in subject matters from abroad, mainly France and Italy, where she has taken extended workshops, rendering her art in the Old Masters' style.

MVFAG features 30 artists in various media, including oil, acrylics, pastels, watercolor, fused glass art jewelry, woodturnings, stained glass, photography, ceramics, mixed media, decorated gourds, handmade textile

'O Fair New Mexico' art show features Las Cruces couple

By CRAIG MASSEY

Communications Manager
New Mexico Farm and Ranch
Heritage Museum

Throughout 50 years of marriage, a shared love for art and for New Mexico has patterned the life and work of Ken and Betty Krebs.

Thirty-six of their paintings make up the show, "O Fair New Mexico: Land of Enchantment," which opens Aug. 20 in the New Mexico Farm & Ranch Heritage Museum's (NMFHRM) Arts Corridor.

Ken, from Texas, and Betty, a New Yorker, made the "Land of Enchantment" their home and are deeply connected to its history, culture and natural beauty.

The paintings — Ken's in oil, and Betty's in watercolor and pastels — cover a variety of scenes that capture the beauty and texture of New Mexico. There are farm scenes that feature crops and farmworkers, ranching and cowboy scenes, rural life and landscapes. The show displays the state's agricultural diversity.

"Living our busy lives, we found little time to paint before retirement," said Betty. "Now we share our home studio, comfortable with painting in our different styles. What joy it brings me when painting at my easel, and I look over to see Ken painting at his easel! Our favorite theme is New Mexico, loving its beauty, people and culture. So, in this exhibit 'O Fair New Mexico' we share our love and appreciation for both art and our dear state."

The couple named their show after the song, "O Fair New Mexico," written by Elizabeth Garrett, the daughter of Pat Garrett, who served as sheriff of both Lincoln and Doña Ana counties and shot and killed Billy the Kid in Fort Sumner, New Mexico, on July 14, 1881. In 1917, Gov. Washington Ellsworth Lindsey signed legislation making it the state song.

"We are thankful that NMFHRM so successfully integrates history and local artists' reaction to history through their artistic endeavors," Betty Krebs said. "It's a favorite destination for us when a new exhibit is created and often take visitors there during their stay. We especially appreciate the featured art display, enjoying the varied perspectives of farm and ranch life in New Mexico. Multiple visits often fill us with great appreciation for the creative talent in our community."

Ken and Betty met when they both worked at the Popular Dry Good's display department in El Paso. After marrying and starting a family, they established "The Ink Well," a silk-screening business. Later, Ken became "The Village Cabinetmaker" in Cloudcroft, New Mexico. Betty began teaching and integrated art into her curriculum. Now retired, they devote much of their time to creating art.

The show will be exhibited through Dec. 5, 2021.

NMFHRM, 4100 Dripping Springs Road, is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Call 575-522-4100. Visit www.nmfarmandranchmuseum.org.

'Celebrate Authors' welcomes 3 more writers for Sept. 19 event

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Celebrate Authors 2021, sponsored by Moonbow Alterations and Moonbow's Book Nook, will be held 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 19, in the boardroom and Roadrunner Room on the second floor of the Thomas Branigan Memorial Library, 200 E. Picacho Ave.

The event is free and open to the public.

Celebrate Authors 2021 will feature authors from Las Cruces and surrounding area with books published in 2019, 2020 and 2021. The event began in 2014. New for 2021, the event will also honor local writers who have died with a memorial board at the Sept. 19 event. To provide names of deceased authors to be honored, contact Alice Davenport at adavenport@totacc.com.

Here are three more authors who will participate in this year's event:

Elva K. Österreich is a southern New Mexico journalist, poet, author and adventurer. She is editor of "the biggest little paper in the Southwest," Desert Exposure, and writes for The Las Cruces Bulletin as well. Her first book "The Manhattan Project Trinity Test: Witnessing the Bomb in New Mexico," came out in November 2020.

The book "is a comprehensive history of the people who were instrumental in creating the atomic bomb ignited early on July 16, 1945, in the New Mexico range-land, and its effect on those who lived near the blast," fellow southern New Mexico writer Alethea Eason said. "The story of the Manhattan Project is told through oral histories of those who worked at the Trinity Site and the farmers, ranchers and their families who woke to an unimaginable brightness, uninformed of the nature of the blast and the 'earth-shaking consequences of the birth of the nuclear age.'"

"I look for flow, meaning and connection with the readers," Österreich said. "Writing is about bringing something to life for the reader, creating something that touches the imagination and emotional core, something that encourages folks to think meaningfully about and connect with things normally outside of their purview, places and thoughts."

Her advice to authors is two words, found in "Chicken Soup for the Writer's Soul": "bum glue."

Darby Berryhill grew up in Texas, where she graduated from the University of Texas at Austin. Berryhill obtained a graduate degree in social work at the University of Maryland. After careers in social work and management in higher education, she retired to New Mexico.

Berryhill is a newly published author, as her book, "7th Heaven It Was Not; A Memoir Of A Preacher's Kid," was published in May 2021. Her book tells the story of the often-misunderstood life of preachers' kids, Berryhill said. Her father was an Episcopal priest.

In the book, Berryhill "tells funny stories of playing church with her brothers at home in front of parishioners."

She takes the reader down the road of the challenging and sometimes painful lives of preacher's kids, and "gives you glimpses of the experiences of famous and non-famous adult children of pastors." Berryhill said the book also "shares her healing process and suggestions for pastors in training and current pastors." She also reveals some resources for preacher's kids.

Berryhill began writing funny skits and humorous stories for storytelling after retiring. She found them to be a creative outlet and began thinking about writing her first book. The isolation of Covid-19 motivated her to start the book, Berryhill said.

Berryhill suggests that new writers join a writing group. She has been in two groups in the Las Cruces area. Berryhill said that the encouragement and feedback are invaluable for new writers.

Sara Hernandez is a native of Wilcox, Arizona, who now lives in Las Cruces. Hernandez studied nursing for three years and became a certified nursing assistant working in oncology. She has been writing for the past three years.

"I enjoy it so much, watching the grandkids light up when I share my books with them," Hernandez said. She has even promoted book writing to children.

"I think that they all need to be encouraged to be writers, so hopefully they are following my footsteps," she said

"I have had lots of different experiences that life has given me," she said. "It seems like the more you hear or see, the more you want to write."

Hernandez has written "Jacob and His Big Adventure" and had it translated into Spanish by Josh Galvez. "Jacob and His Next Big Adventure" was published in 2021. Both books were illustrated by artist Penny Duncklee of Las Cruces. Hernandez is also the author of "Anna."

Las Cruces Youth Orchestra expanding to include a choir

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

When the Las Cruces Youth Orchestra (LCYO) begins its new season of rehearsals and performances in September, it will include a brand-new voice – the Youth Choir.

“Kids are really going to need this after not singing for a whole year,” said director Ida Holguin.

The choir, she said, will be open to middle- and high-school students from Las Cruces and throughout the region. Students don’t need any singing experience to join, Holguin said, and don’t even need to know what voice part — soprano, alto, tenor, bass — they sing.

Holguin said Youth Choir’s rehearsal atmosphere will be “positive and respectful,” and rehearsals and performances will include “music they enjoy,” coming from shows “Hamilton” and “In the Heights” and other Broadway shows and “not just choral music.”

Participants will also learn classical as well as contemporary music, she said, including the work of composers like Bach and Mozart.

The Youth Choir will include at least 20 members, Holguin said. If it’s large enough, the choir will be broken into separate middle- and high-school sections.

The plan is to rehearse from 2 to 4 p.m. every Saturday in the NMSU Music Building choir room and perform one big concert this year and two next spring, Holguin said.

Holguin is a graduate of Silver High School in Silver City. She came to Las Cruces to attend New Mexico State University, where she earned a bachelor’s and a master’s degree, both in performance.

“That’s why she’s such a good conductor,” said LCYO director and founder Simon Gollo, who

La Academia Dolores Huerta charter school to add orchestra

BULLETIN REPORT

Julio Campos has begun his first year as a teacher this fall at La Academia Dolores Huerta charter school (LADH), where he will start the school’s first-ever orchestra.

Campos also will be the viola teacher in the Las Cruces Youth Orchestra (LCYO) that begins its new season in September.

His goal is to develop LCDH’s orchestra “side by side” with the Youth Orchestra, and to offer it not just as a class but “to everybody in the city.”

In both programs, he hopes to repair a disconnect between public schools and private schools in Las Cruces and provide “a good avenue for them to merge,” Campos said.

Campos taught students in the El Paso Symphony Orchestra’s Tocando Music Project in El Paso.

He is a graduate of Las Cruces High School with a bachelor’s degree in music education and a master’s in music performance, both from NMSU. He did his student teaching with LCHS orchestra teacher Jennifer Rogers.

Campos said he is “a bit nervous, but it’s exciting as well.”

LCYO founder and director Simon Gollo said he is impressed with Campos’ “quality of teaching,” and will “support him to build his program” at LADH.

“We need to have 10 Julios,” Gollo said.

“There’s no competition in education,” Gollo said. “We work as a team. We help the development of musical education.” Visit ladh.org.

LCYO staff also will include cellist Hyerim Mapp, the orchestra teacher at Centennial High School.

Mapp, a native of South Korea, began the Las Cruces Cello Project three years ago. It includes 25 middle- and high-school students who will also be encouraged to join LCYO.

Mapp has a master’s and a Ph.D. in cello performance from the University of Kansas.

“I’m very excited to have these wonderful people support this idea,” Gollo said.

Simon Gollo — first and last names are pronounced SEE-moan goy-O — watched El Sistema, a network of youth orchestras in his native Venezuela, grow from about a dozen members when it was founded in 1975 to a program that has attracted a million concert attendees.

He is hopeful for strong growth and support for both LCYO and Choir, and expects the organization to “become 100 kids very soon.”

“People will be proud to support the Youth Orchestra and Choir,” he said.

Want to be inspired? Artists can apply for residence at Organ Mountains park

BULLETIN REPORT

The Friends of Organ Mountains-Desert Peaks (FOMDP) and the U.S. Bureau of Land Management (BLM) have issued a call for artists to apply for the Organ Mountains-Desert Peaks National Monument Artist in Residence Program that will be held Sept. 1-30.

Entries for the program must be received via email by Wednesday, Aug. 25.

Only applications from local artists will be accepted for the fall program.

The artist in residence program educates and promotes the appreciation, protection and preservation of natural and cultural resources on public lands, FOMDP said in a news release.

The residency helps artists and the public to interact to enhance

Ex-NY Times reporter on Zoom with book club

BULLETIN REPORT

The Mesilla Valley/Southern New Mexico Book Club will host a Zoom presentation with award-winning New York Times reporter Ralph Blumenthal, author of "The Believer: Alien Encounters, Hard Science, and the Passion of John Mack."

The Zoom presentation will be 4 to 5 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 26. The event is free.

"The Believer" was published in March 2021, the book club said in a news release.

It is the biography of John Mack (1929-2004), a 1955 cum laude Harvard medical school graduate. After residency and a voluntary stint in the U.S. Air Force and work and certification in Boston with prestigious psychiatric programs, Mack was head of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School from 1977 until his death in 2004.

The dominant theme of Mack's life's work at Harvard had been the exploration of how one's perceptions of the world affect one's relationships, the news release said. In the early 1990s, Mack commenced a decade-plus psychological study of 200 men and women who reported recurrent alien-encounter experiences. Many of those he interviewed reported that their encounters had affected the way they regarded the world. And the controversy began.

Blumenthal, a distinguished lecturer at Baruch College of the City University of New York, was a New York Times reporter from 1964 to 2009.

He led the Times metro team that won the Pulitzer Prize for breaking news coverage of the 1993 truck-bombing of the World Trade Center.

Blumenthal also has written books on organized crime and cultural history.

Looking at deeper meaning of words to find balance and depth

My topic involves a variety of definitions relating to cultural attitudes and thinking patterns. First of all, I must say that I am not talking politics. In general, the terms which we use in ordinary conversations mean many things depending upon the person.

The terms “conservative” and “liberal” in political terms may not carry the basic meaning of the words. Both are positive terms in their essential meanings.

To “conserve” something is to keep that which is felt to be worthy or valuable. It means to “save” or “preserve.”

“Liberal” has many aspects which relate to generosity. It also means being open to new ideas and ways of being. The term “broadminded”

RUTH MOORER
Adventures of a

applies here. Both religiously and politically, it means “not bound by orthodoxy.” It implies a willingness to learn.

Naturally, there are negative attitudes about these definitions. The people who hold opposite positions often feel that the others are wrong or bad (stupid or dumb or evil....). All of us have both liberal and conservative attitudes toward different things. I may be conservative on some things and liberal on others.

Unfortunately, our human tendency is to demonize those who do not agree with us. Would that we could be gracious and magnanimous (great of mind; elevated above what is low and mean; honorable) in our attitudes and dealings with those with whom we disagree.

What prompted my thinking on this topic may seem unrelated to what I have just said. However, bear with me. I believe that in our very materialistic American culture, things dominate our thinking. Note how advertisers try to convince us that we really do need their product when chances are that we do not. We are told that we must have the latest model car, or the newest gadget, see the latest movie or take that cruise. We must be modern, up to date, in style and get rid of what has become obsolete.

I regret that some “advances” take us away from what is good and worthy of conserving and treasuring. Take, for example, long-playing records, cassette or reel-to-reel tapes, or VHS tapes which are now obsolete because one can seldom find a player for them. This is true for cameras and buying film. New inventions have practically eliminated them.

The expression, “If it ain’t broke, don’t fix it” can apply here. In a previous chapter, I told about the time my father was riding in the back seat of a car with new power windows. Unfortunately, the window next to him was open and would not close. He was frustrated to find no knob to turn in order to raise it, so he had to endure the wind blowing in his face. His comment was, “I believe that we are going to die of improvements!”

Just because something is “modern” or the latest invention does not automatically make it good, or useful, or even practical. Just because it is “old fashioned,” or 200 years old, or 2,000-plus years old (like the Bible) does not make it bad or impractical or out-of-date.

Recall the word “conservative.” Remember that it means to save, to preserve what is valuable, good or useful. The word “liberal” is a great word to express a life which is open-hearted, open-minded, flexible and generous. We need both words to give life the proper balance for daily living.

Memorial Medical Center honors longtime pastoral care chief

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Memorial Medical Center (MMC) dedicated its chapel Aug. 3 in honor of the Rev. Dr. Margaret Short, who started the hospital's pastoral care program in 1997.

Short retired May 21 after 24 years as MMC's Pastoral Care Department director.

The dedication and the chapel plaque honoring Short "celebrate the legacy of an individual who has been so important to Memorial Medical Center," MMC CEO John Harris said during the dedication ceremony.

Providing spiritual care to its patients, along with health care, is important to MMC, Harris said.

"This hospital believes in that holistic care," Short said.

Harris said Short has "always been there to extend her faith, to extend

Hospital names new chief operating officer, promoting from within

BULLETIN REPORT

Memorial Medical Center (MMC) has promoted Mary Armijo to chief operating officer (COO), effective August 9, the hospital announced.

During her nearly two-year tenure at MMC as associate administrator, Armijo "has demonstrated exceptional capability in guiding success in each of her areas of responsibility, most notably in cardiovascular services, laboratory services, growth and outreach and business development," the news release said.

Reporting directly to MMC CEO John Harris,

MARY ARMIJO

Armijo will guide the hospital's clinical program development and continue to enhance the delivery of high-quality health-care services.

"We are so excited to congratulate Mary on this well-deserved promotion," Harris said. "I have every confidence that Mary will continue to perform at a superlative level, achieve great things at our hospital and further Memorial's tradition of delivering safe and quality care to our community."

During her seven-year tenure at MMC's parent company, LifePoint Health, Armijo had oversight over building clinically integrated networks and managing large programs and projects for the Hospital Support Center.

Armijo began her tenure in hospital operations in 2015 as an associate administrator for UP Health System Marquette hospital in Michigan. Before LifePoint, Armijo worked for Hospital Corporation of America (HCA) for eight years in multiple roles both at the division and corporate levels, leading and supporting clinical systems and programs for the company, the news release said. She started her health care career at Tallahassee (Florida)

Memorial Medical Center, a 777-bed hospital, and led multiple large facility construction and program growth projects.

Armijo holds an MBA from Western Governors University and a master of computer information systems from the University of Phoenix and is a certified project manager and a fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives.

So you want to be part of the 'Green Rush' and grow cannabis?

If you have been paying attention to the news, you must know by now that in April 2021, Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham signed a bill legalizing recreational cannabis in New Mexico, effective April 1, 2022.

HILDA LUZ CHAVEZ

for personal use. The patient grow licenses are no longer needed. According to the new laws, anyone 21 years of age will be able to legally grow 12 plants per household.

The CCD has much to sort out and they will keep the public informed. It will be a long process and there will be many questions.

Many think that it is already in effect and legal. It is not! It is evolving.

The Cannabis Control Division in the Regulation and Licensing Department is now the regulatory agency for not only the recreational laws but also some of what used to be managed by the New Mexico Department of Health's Medical Cannabis Program.

The Medical Cannabis Program must be protected and will remain intact for the most part, according to Director Dominick Zurlo. One significant change is the personal production license for medical patients to grow

If you are interested in being part of the Green Rush in New Mexico, know that it will not be easy and it will take guidance and a whole lot of money. Cost of license applications, to grow, manufacture and distribute are just the first investment. According to the regulators and existing producers, funding the businesses will require good business sense, deep pockets and serious investors. Here is the link to CCD, ccd.rld.state.nm.us.

There are opportunities for microbusinesses and commercial growers. In the past, if you applied for a license to grow for the medical program, you got zero guidance from regulatory agencies, zero support from existing producers and zero support from banks. Apparently, the system was not friendly to small businesses. According to the new superintendent of CCD, John Blair, that will change.

In late June, a group from Las Cruces attended the Legalization Cannabis Conference in Albuquerque. We were among 300 there to learn from the regulators, producers, vendors and lawyers. We were part of history in the making. We are excited to be part of what could be an economic boom for New Mexico. The Green Rush is here.

NMMCP Consulting has been consulting, certifying, and guiding patients since 2007. There has been an interest in the cannabis industry among patients for over 15 years. There are many excellent cannabis growers amongst us and there will be jobs now, in the industry. The doors to the industry are open; they were closed to most New Mexicans for way too long. Licenses were granted to those with deep pockets, some from out of state and very few New Mexicans. This legalization bill could be the opportunity for thousands of cannabis entrepreneurs to be able to participate in the industry.

Many entrepreneurs can't wait to see how effective the process is and how we can succeed in the industry.

If you are interested in learning whether you are a good candidate for a license to grow, we can get you started. Be aware that this industry is not for everyone. We have been there; we know and we have resources for you.

Let's start with a reality check and a few questions:

Do you want to grow commercially? Do you have access to at least $1 million? Outdoor grow? Greenhouses? Indoor grow? Do you have a strong team of professionals to back you up? Do you have a solid business plan?

These are just a few of the many questions you will be faced with.

Expertise, compassion guide staff at small business center

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Among the takeaways from thousands of hours of phone conversations with Las Cruces small business owners since the onset of Covid was that “they love what they do” and their primary concern is for their employees, said Small Business Development Center at Doña Ana Community College (SBDC) Director Jo Ann Garay and Business Adviser Jennifer Therrien.

“I didn’t have one business owner that thought of themselves first,” Garay said. “They were doing everything they could to keep their employees on.”

“It gutted them” to let employees go, Therrien said, especially workers who had been with their businesses for a long time.

Often dealing with 30 to 40 phone calls a day after state public health orders forced many businesses to shut down in the spring of 2020, Garay, Therrien and SBDC’s other business adviser, Mary Ann Quesada, had to recommend that owners make tough decisions to stay in business, including laying off employees. Sometimes, they had to tell business owners, “You don’t have a choice here,” Therrien said. “Look at the numbers.”

It was even more difficult for Garay, Therrien and Quesada because they were dealing with clients who were panicking and sometimes in tears while making the almost overnight transition from working in an office to answering phone calls “from our kitchen table,” Garay said. The three also had to quickly master how to conduct meetings and appointments via Zoom.

“It was a big learning process for us,” Garay said.

And, as they helped businesses apply for Covid relief funds, Garay, Therrien and Quesada also discovered that some owners weren’t as good at recordkeeping as they needed to be.

Often faced with only a narrow window of time to apply for assistance, businesses sometimes didn’t have the records on hand that they needed, Therrien said.

“A lot of people learned what a profit and loss statement was,” Garay said.

Others were challenged by the technology needed to apply for grants and loans, either online or on their phones. Some owners who had been in business for a long time relied on paper recordkeeping, and that made it difficult to upload information for grant and loan applications, Garay and Therrien said.

Sometimes, they didn’t speak English and SBDC staff had to translate the questions for them and then translate their answers.

The three did everything they could to assist every business that contacted them for help during Covid — just as they did before the pandemic and have continued to do as state public health orders placing restrictions on business operations have been relaxed. Collectively, Garay (20), Quesada (seven) and Therrien (three) have more than 30 years of experience with SBDC. Their office has 1,500 to 2,000 active clients.

“Jo Ann really, really cares about what she does,” said LiftFund (a regional nonprofit) Business Development Officer Victor Zamora of Las Cruces. The SBDC staff are “very, very in touch with the small business community,” he said.

Therrien was among those who received recognition from president and founder Nancy Bates when she cut the ribbon on The Village Early Childhood Development Center in Las Cruces in July. Bates presented Therrien with a plaque and thanked her for SBDC’s help and support in opening The Village.

Therrien’s visits to The Village are just one example of SBDC’s outreach. Going forward, she, Garay and Quesada are happy to visit local businesses to offer “a fresh set of eyes,” Therrien said.

“When you’re on their turf, it’s a whole different ballgame,” Garay said. “We can actually see what they can’t describe.”

Owners also tend to open up more at their own businesses, she said, and SBDC staff can often point out changes that might make the business even more successful.

“They show and tell their goals,” Garay said. “You start to see their dreams unfold.”

Training events

The statewide New Mexico Small Business Development Center (NMSBDC) hosts a wide range of live, online training sessions that are free of charge.

Webinars in the second half of August include these topics: attracting and retaining customers; how to detect online picture plagiarism; basic steps to starting a business in New Mexico; e-commerce and alternative selling methods; business phone apps; being tax ready; listening to your business; attracting and retaining customers; government-to-business outreach; and increasing word-of-mouth leads.

Some sessions are bilingual.

For a complete list of NMSBDC training events, visit nmsbdc.ecenterdirect.com/events.

New Mexico SBDC history

NMSBDC network was established in 1989 through a partnership among the U.S. Small Business Administration, the state of New Mexico, the New Mexico Association of Community Colleges and the New Mexico Association of Independent Community Colleges, according to www.nmsbdc.org. The NMSBDC state office is located in Santa Fe. There are 18 NMSBDC service centers, including the Las Cruces location, and nine satellite offices across the state.

With a mission “to develop skilled entrepreneurs and strong businesses,” NMSBDC network staff have more than 750 years of combined small business management and ownership expertise and more than 440 combined years of service with NMSBDC. Consultants have helped network clients start almost 10,000 businesses in the state since 1991.

Making up for lost time dealing with Covid-related disconnects

Back to school this year came with an extra-heavy sigh of relief after last-year's Covid shutdowns that impacted students and families nationwide.

The very real cost of learning loss, quantified in a national study by McKinsey & Company, pointed to a potential lifetime earnings loss of $61,000 to $82,000 for the average K-12 student.

For students who dropped out of school during this time, their future earning loss may be as much as 21 percent on average.

So, the impetus on all of us, as a community, is to both support our students in recovering any lost time and/or lost learning and help those who disconnected from their education get reconnected as quickly as possible.

And, we already have

TRACEY BRYAN

The Bridge of Southern New Mexico

definitive proof of what works to keep students engaged in their education.

A poll by Gallup in 2012 showed us that high-school students were almost twice as likely as elementary students to feel disengaged from their education (44 percent for elementary vs. 76 percent for high school), but we also knew how to reduce the risk of dropping out. According to a national Dropout Prevention Study conducted with students who had dropped out of school, career development and job training (connections between what they were learning and their future careers) were the top interventions that would have kept them in school. Family engagement and mentoring came in a bit behind at second and third.

We also knew that we had pretty dramatic disconnects in student "readiness" between high school and college and between college and employment. According to Jobs for the Future and the ACT National Curriculum Survey, nationally 89 percent of high-school teachers thought students were "ready" for college, but only 26 percent of college faculty agreed. And yet while 96 percent of college staff thought their graduates were "ready" for careers, only 11 percent of employers agreed with them. Closing these disconnects moving forward must be top of mind in our community's collaborative work.

Separately, the lockdowns also imposed an economic loss on parents, many of whom lost jobs or were unable to work for a number of reasons, including school and childcare closures. A Pew Research Study in March showed that the majority of "non-retired adults" who faced job and wage loss felt the economic impact of the lockdowns would make it harder for them to achieve their financial goals. Those most affected, as studies have shown, are those who are lower-income, lower-skilled workers—primarily those with lower levels of education.

For these families, the impetus is on us as a community to help our 6,000 still unemployed workers secure the education and family-sustaining employment opportunities they need to make up for lost time in the workplace.

Thanks to the incredible series of partnerships that comprise the Workforce Talent Collaborative, we, as a community, are in the perfect position to help these students and families recover lost time and money.

From the Career and Technical Education leaders in our school districts and Doña Ana Community College and NMSU's new Economic Development Council to our nonprofits, like the Community Action Agency of Southern New Mexico's Thriving Families pilot, and the voice and involvement of businesses individually and through the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce, we are moving as one to build out our "ecosystem of opportunity."

We need our youth, young adults, and displaced workers to find the best possible career destinations right here. To learn more about our talent pathways and where employers most need well-qualified workers, visit NewMexicoTrueTalent.org. It's a one-stop shop to the best careers in our region, along with the education and training to help you get where you want to go.

Collaboration is what has always defined our county... it's why we do things that other communities in New Mexico haven't been able to accomplish. It's our strength; it makes economic recovery possible.

What's That Smell?

Do you know how to identify a natural gas leak? You might smell sulfur or rotten eggs, you may notice dirt or debris shooting up out of a hole in the ground, dead or dying vegetation in an otherwise green area, and a loud hissing or roaring sound near pipeline markers. These and many more are all telltale signs of a natural gas or pipeline leak. Use all your senses, even common sense and report any possible leaks to Zia Natural Gas Company. When in doubt call us out!

As always, Zia personnel are available 24/7 for all natural gas emergencies. Call (575) 526-4GAS (427) if you have a natural gas emergency.

Gus Macker tournament promises a splendid time for all

We've all been cooped up for more than a year and many of us are itching to get back out in the world and experience some semblance of normal.

DAVE BURGE

Beyond the pressbox

Well, the organizers of this year's Gus Macker 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament think they have the perfect event — one that's full of fun while supporting a great cause.

This year's tournament will be held Aug. 27-29 and will return to its original site at the Hadley Sports Complex.

"We are going to put on a big old block party," said Stacie Allen, community engagement manager with Tresco, Inc., the nonprofit partner for this year's tournament.

Proceeds will benefit Tresco and help it continue with its programs that support and help individuals and families dealing with a wide range of disabilities.

Local businessman Keith Placencio and his company, Kona Ice, are this year's event organizer. Placencio has been working with the national Gus Macker organization, which bills itself as the largest 3-on-3 basketball tournament in the world. Placencio stepped up to run the Las Cruces tournament because he was afraid it might fall by the wayside after not taking place last year because of the Covid-19 pandemic.

"It's going back to its roots," Placencio said. "It will be a true block party and a true family event." The tournament will start with a special kick-off event from 4 to 7 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 27 at the Meerscheidt Recreation Center, 1600 E. Hadley.

Teams can pick up their packets then, but there will also be some celebrity basketball games featuring Special Olympic athletes and first responders with the Las Cruces police and fire departments.

It is a way to put the spotlight on Special Olympics, which had to cancel its own Las Cruces basketball tournament because of Covid, Placencio said.

The tournament will run from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 28, and from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 29.

The slam dunk, 3-point and free-throw contests are scheduled for that Saturday, but an exact time hasn't been determined yet.

There is no admission fee to come out and take in the competition and fun.

Masks are not required because the event is happening outdoors, but organizers are monitoring the latest health guidelines.

After extending signups to Aug. 16, there are now about 225 teams that are registered to play.

Teams will range from grade school to senior citizens, and some teams have former college basketball players among their ranks.

Teams are coming from all over southern New Mexico, west Texas and the Phoenix area.

"There will be some high-caliber teams; the slam dunk contest should be amazing," Placencio said.

Organizers will be closing off Hadley Avenue from the Maag Ball Park to Walnut. They will put down traveling basketball courts with hoops along the street.

In recent years, the Gus

Macker has been held at the Field of Dreams.

This year, that venue is not available because of high school sports.

That is fine with organizers, however. They say there is more shade and more of a family atmosphere along Hadley.

Adding to the festival atmosphere, there will be a DJ spinning tunes, a PA announcer to keep the crowd up to date on tournament results and a special children and family area that will feature inflatables, games and other activities. A $5 fee each day gives you unlimited access to the family area.

There are four confirmed food trucks with more in the works that will be selling their wares.

Sponsorships ranging from $250 to $10,000 are still available, and an army of volunteers is needed for things like setting up, breaking down, doing the brackets, picking up trash and supervising the family area.

Spectators can bring their own ice chests and drinks, but no alcohol or glass is allowed. Tents are allowed but you can't use stakes. They will need to be weighted down.

The first full day of the tournament is also the same day the New Mexico State University football team will open its season against archival UTEP. Kickoff is 7:30 p.m. at Aggie Memorial Stadium.

For the die-hard sports fan, it can make for a bonanza of a weekend. You can check out the Gus

Former Aggie women's hoop great named county info officer

Doña Ana County has hired Anita Skipper, known as Anita Maxwell during her basketball career, to be its new public information officer.

ANITA SKIPPER

During her playing career, Maxwell was New Mexico State University's only All-America selection, earning three Kodak and AP honorable mentions in 1994-96. She also became the first woman in NCAA history to record 2,500 points, 1,000 rebounds and 300 steals. She holds every women's scoring record at NMSU and is the school's all-time rebounder. She is also the only NMSU player drafted into the WNBA. She was picked by the Cleveland Rockers with the 29th pick in 1997.

Skipper has a bachelor's degree in international business from New Mexico State and a master's in nonprofit management from the University of Texas at Arlington. She is responsible for disseminating the county's message to the community.

NMSU women's volleyball kicks off season; schedule announced

The New Mexico State University women's volleyball team is scheduled to begin its season with an exhibition against Texas Tech at noon on Saturday, Aug. 21, at the Pan Am Center.

The Aggies will begin their regular season Aug. 27-28 at the Cactus Classic at the University of Arizona in Tucson. The Aggies will also host the Springhill Suites Invitational at the Pan Am on Sept. 3 and will wrap up the tournament on Sept. 5 with a game against I-10 rival UTEP in El Paso.

The Aggies will begin WAC play on Sept. 23 at Utah Valley and will host the WAC tournament from Nov. 18-20.

The Aggies won their second straight WAC regular season championship last season.

Macker Saturday morning or afternoon, go to the Aggies game and then come back to the Gus Macker on Sunday.

"Let's have a memorable weekend," Allen said. "You don't want to miss it."

DeChambeau started out as savant, but is now the Tour's bad boy

Just a few weeks after Bryson DeChambeau won the delayed 2020 U.S. Open, as the only player to actually break par, Sports Illustrated came out with DeChambeau on the cover with the feature story headline: "Bryson DeChambeau Is Breaking Golf."

The story details how DeChambeau has created for himself a new — no, revolutionary — and possibly scientific approach to master of the game of golf.

Ever since he graduated with a major in physics from SMU in 2016, after winning the U.S. Amateur and the NCAA individual championship, DeChambeau has become a virtual lightning rod to controversy, not only due to his oddball theories but also because of his brash persona. As if his prodigious driving distance wasn't enough, he bulked up, packing on over 40 pounds of gristle during the height of the pandemic, now averaging 340 yards off the tee, with a ball speed nearing 200 mph. He does things his own way, from irons all the same length, to an arm-lock putting method, to mentally computing real-time course data such as air density and humidity, intending to control the flight of his golf ball to a nano-fraction, but also risking slow-play infraction and annoying others in the process. No one questions his raw talent; what has created head-scratching and major media criticism is a combination of his unprofessional behavior and his recent seemingly brain-dead remarks. Is there a new "curse" on Sports Illustrated cover profiles? Many old sports writers claim it is real.

CHARLIE BLANCHARD

For those not especially familiar with DeChambeau's many documented faux pas let me bring you up to speed. This is by no means a complete dossier.

At the 2020 Rocket Mortgage tournament in Detroit (which he won), DeChambeau berated a cameraman filming him as he slammed his club to the sand after a poor bunker shot, complaining that the TV media ought to always show him in a positive light, and thereby "protect my brand."

At this year's Rocket Mortgage, his longtime caddie, Tim Tucker, who has banked an estimated $1 million working for DeChambeau, quit just the day before the first round. Allegedly, the split was mutual. DeChambeau missed the cut. A couple of weeks before losing his caddie, he led the U.S. Open at Torrey Pines with nine holes to play, and then proceeded to have a meltdown, shooting 44 on the final nine holes, to which he attributed as "bad luck."

In a mindless, petulant moment he expressed his view that winning majors is 50 percent luck. It was tantamount to telling Jack and Tiger their majors wins were as much through luck as through skill.

There's more. The ongoing feud with Brooks Koepka; frequent refusal to fulfill his obligation to talk to media; failure to call "fore" after wayward shots. A few weeks ago at the British Open at Royal St. George's, DeChambeau was unhappy for driving his ball into the deep hay so many times that he went off on his Cobra driver. "The driver sucks," he said to the press.

A Cobra exec rightly fired back saying DeChambeau was acting like an 8-year-old. He should have canceled DeChambeau's contract.

While DeChambeau was on the USA team for the Tokyo Olympics, he was ruled out because he tested positive for Covid-19. It wasn't clear at the time but it has since been verified that he had not had the vaccine. In a public statement (published by Morning Read on Aug. 8) he said: "I'm young enough; I'd rather give it (the vaccine) to people who need it. I don't need it. I'm a healthy, young individual that will continue to work on my health."

A cop-out. The fact is there is no shortage of vaccines in the U.S. Meanwhile, he stupidly and arrogantly gave up his chance to represent his country at the Olympics.
