Miyagishima becomes city's longest serving mayor ever

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

On Saturday, Nov. 20, Ken Miyagishima becomes the longest serving mayor in Las Cruces history.

Miyagishima, then a member of the Las Cruces City Council, won the 2007 mayor's race, defeating incumbent Bill Mattiace by about 80 votes. He was sworn in that Nov. 19, and completes 14 years of service — he's in the middle of his fourth consecutive four-year term as mayor — this year to surpass Sam Klein, who was mayor four different times between 1932 and 1953.

Martin Lohman, elected in 1907, was the city's first mayor. Through 1990, mayors were elected by city council members from among the council. Only Miyagishima and predecessors Mattiace and Ruben Smith have been popularly elected. Counting Klein's nonconsecutive terms as a single mayorship, Miyagishima is the city's 30th mayor.

Miyagishima, who was born in Mississippi but grew up in Las Cruces, began his political career in 1990, running against incumbent Leonard Lee Rawson for state representative and losing by only about 200 votes.

Miyagishima said his first campaign event was at Hillrise Elementary School.

"My speech was terrible," said Miyagishima, who was 27 at the time and very nervous.

"It's the worst speech I ever heard," he remembers his mentor and political adviser, Joe Thergood, telling him. "If I'd had a tomato, I would have thrown it at you," Thergood said.

Miyagishima's first campaign fundraiser was at China Temple. His goal was to raise $1,000, but he only collected about $500 in contributions, he remembers.

While campaigning in a mobile home park, Miyagishima introduced himself to a resident, who said, "Miyagishima? What kind of last name is that?" He shoved Miyagishima's campaign card back in the candidate's chest and said he wouldn't be voting for him.

"I just kept at it," Miyagishima said. "I knocked on so many doors. I knew that district so well. I knew which streets had dogs."

After that election, it was Thergood who advised Miyagishima that he now had political enemies, "people coming after you (who will) try to take you down."

"That was a huge lesson he gave me," the mayor said, "not to be so naive."

But Miyagishima also had political cache from his strong finish, and name ID.

He watched and met with "local bigshots," including state Sen. Frank O. Papen, former New Mexico Democratic National Committeewoman Mary Gail Gwaltney, then state Rep. and future mayor Ruben Smith and Chope's Bar and Café owner, Chope Benavidez, among others.

Chope's question to Miyagishima was, "Why are you wearing a tie? Democrats do not wear ties."

When Smith ran for mayor in 1991, he asked Miyagishima to be part of his campaign team.

"I learned from him," Miyagishima said about Smith. "I learned from his mistakes."

A year later, Miyagishima was elected to the Doña Ana County Commission, winning a three-way June Democratic primary and being elected in November with no Republican opponent.

He served two four-year terms on the commission and then took a year off before being elected to represent city council district six in November 2001. He lost to Mattiace twice for mayor before winning in 2007.

During the 2007 campaign, Miyagishima said he was inspired by a woman who told him in an email, "You truly care about the people. You are a fair and just man."

That was huge, he said. Miyagishima was re-elected in 2011, 2015 and 2019. He was tops among 10 mayoral candidates in that last race, as the city used ranked choice voting for the first time.

Miyagishima said it is too early to make a decision about running for a fifth term as mayor in 2023.

Miyagishima said he hopes whoever succeeds him as mayor continues to focus on "customer service, being responsive." The mayor answers emails from 5 to 7 a.m.

seven days a week, he said.

He also has worked closely with Las Cruces Public Schools on the stay-in-school initiative and fitness and nutrition challenge that he has presented to third-graders at Las Cruces elementary schools for the past 14 years. He also champions the Mayor's Top Teens and has been a strong advocate for a city-school district partnership on community schools.

Miyagishima is also proud of the help he has given individual constituents.

He helped a woman get a dealership to honor her warranty and repair her transmission, helped get a young man released from detention by Mexican authorities at the U.S.-Mexico border because of confusion over his name and helped another woman regain custody of her children from her ex-husband in Mexico in a well-publicized story.

"That was like a spy novel," the mayor said.

"To me, that's what we do," he said.

Miyagishima said his continuing goals for the city include developing city land across from Mountain View Regional Medical Center and the Amador Proximo region of the city west of Downtown. He also would like to see an increase in services for the growing number of homeless people in Las Cruces, the mayor said, including opening a public camping area near Mesilla Valley Community of Hope to provide a safer alternative to sleeping on the street.

"There's never a dull moment," Miyagishima said. "There's always something going on that impacts a person's life."

Film industry bringing jobs, activity to Mesilla, Las Cruces

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The movies and the movie stars just keep coming.

Netflix completed shooting the feature film “Chupa” in Mesilla Saturday, Nov. 13, using hundreds of Las Cruces extras and generating major economic impact and local excitement. Bruce Willis was in Las Cruces to shoot “Knight” a few weeks ago, and Mel Gibson followed to film “Hot Seat.” And filming began this week and continues through Dec. 17 in Las Cruces on the action movie “The Locksmith,” starring Ryan Phillippe, Kate Bosworth and Ving Rhames.

“We’re bringing the industry to Las Cruces,” said state Sen. Jeff Steinborn, who is president of the nonprofit Film Las Cruces.

Steinborn said about 750 paid extras likely will be hired for the four films.

Film producers and content production companies are “taking a shine to Las Cruces,” he said, and location scouts “know how special our locations are.”

“Chupa” began filming in northern New Mexico in August, employing more than 900 New Mexicans over three months of production, the New Mexico Film Office (NMFO) said in a news release.

In Las Cruces-Mesilla, the film generated more than 1,400 hotel nights, and a Thursday, Nov. 11, shoot near the historic plaza had 150 crew members and 160 extras in place.

For “Chupa,” the Billy the Kid Gift Shop at the northeast corner of Calle de Guadalupe and Calle de Parian on the plaza was painted over into a pharmacy and Calle de Parian converted into a busy Mexican market.

The real food used in the market was donated to Casa de Peregrinos emergency food program, said publicist Claire Raskind, who was in Mesilla for the shoot. She also served as publicist for “Lord of the Rings.” Magazines and newspapers visible at a newsstand on the Mesilla Plaza were all created by the movie’s art department, Raskind said.

Jonás Cuarón is directing the movie, which stars Oscar nominee Demián Bichir, Evan Whitten, Nickolas Verdugo and Ashley Ciarra.

The film follows a teenager (Whitten) who, while visiting his family in Mexico, gains an unlikely companion when he discovers a mythical creature hiding on his grandfather’s ranch, NMFO said. To save him, Alex, and his cousins must embark on the adventure of a lifetime.

The production is employing approximately 300 New Mexico crew members and 650 New Mexico background and extras, the NMFO news release said.

The increase in local movie production is due in part to the state’s 5 percent rebate for filmmakers who make movies in New Mexico but outside of Albuquerque and Santa Fe, said Steinborn, who was largely responsible for the bill passed by the New Mexico Legislature and signed into law by Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham in 2019 that created the rebate.

“My passion is to create jobs for all these people who aspire to make a living in this field but have to go elsewhere when we have the DNA to be successful here,” Steinborn said.

The makers of “Chupa,” for example, picked Mesilla to finish the movie after scouting more than 15 locations in the state, Steinborn said, because it “had that look the director was looking for.”

“The Locksmith” will employ approximately 65 cast and crew and 200 additional background talent, Film Las Cruces said.

“The movie follows Miller, an expert locksmith fresh out of prison after a job gone bad,” the news release said. “Back

Services, benefits readily available for vets

Veterans Day may be over for this year, but the fruits of veterans' service stay with us Americans year-round.

I spoke in last week's column about the struggles many veterans have with physical and mental health, but there are also many financial and logistical struggles veterans have as well.

Many of the benefits veterans receive are clear-cut and straightforward. Others, however, are not as obvious.

Many of the benefits support, directly or indirectly, the veteran's spouse or widow(er). Often, it can be difficult to sort through the options and paperwork needed to collect the benefits owed to honorably discharged veterans.

The good news is: Las Cruces has plenty of help available for veterans to make sure they're getting what they have coming to them.

"There are lots of organizations in our community that can help veterans obtain their initial benefits and enhancements of benefits," said Rod Gajewski, of the Mesilla Valley Military Order of the Purple Heart. "And the advocacy is always free."

RICHARD COLTHARP

From the Publisher

Among the many organizations providing these services in the Las Cruces area are Disabled American Veterans (DAV) 10, DAV 38, Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) 10124, VFW 3248, VFW 5845, American Legion Post 10, the Veterans Administration Vet Center on Commerce Drive and more.

One simple and basic benefit to honorably discharged veterans is a quality 4-foot-by-9-foot American burial flag and $250 for burial assistance.

If the veteran is 100-percent disabled, the burial assistance can go as high as $2,000. And spouses of 100-percent disabled vets can receive up to 50 percent of the veteran's regular disability payment.

"There are certainly a wide array of benefits available," Gajewski said.

For medical benefits, Gajewski recommended consulting with the civilian-based outpatient clinic (CBOC) at the VA Clinic at 3401 Del Rey Blvd. For disability benefits, the Las Cruces Vet Center at 1120 Commerce Drive is "very helpful," Gajewski said.

"But almost all veterans organizations in town can give you valuable information," he added. "Just ask first, 'Is there a fee?' Because there's no need for anyone to pay when these great resources are available at no cost."

Unfortunately, many veterans have passed away leaving benefits on the table for themselves and their families, simply because they weren't aware of the availability, or did not have access to the proper paperwork.

Many veterans are fully aware and are taking advantage of opportunities to those who were discharged honorably.

Many other veterans, however, for a variety of reasons, have not been aware of the opportunities.

Others, because of physical and/or mental health issues, lack the wherewithal to obtain and process the applications effectively.

By now, most of us understand how the issues of homelessness and suicide have hit our veterans disproportionately hard.

Sadly, there's a possibility many of these victims missed out on benefits they didn't know were available to them.

If you're a veteran unsure of your benefits, or if you know of an honorably discharged vet-

How team roping has been going down hill

"There's only one thing worse than eating next to a left-handed person, and that's heading for him. It's like trying to screw the male end of a garden hose into the matching threads on your stock tank drain," so spoke Bob to Allen, two fair-to-middlin' team ropers, both fives, in the prime of their addiction. The equivalent of two-pack-a-day ropers.

"Yeah, team ropin's gone to hell," answered Allen. "Used to be one guy had an arena and 12 guys came to his place to rope. You got in good practice, lots of pretty good ropers. It was a social occasion, too.

'Nowdays, everybody's got an arena and nobody comes. You have to rope with your wife and she's learning to barrel race. Fair is fair, so now all my rope horses run barrels too. And of course, she isn't interested in learning to heel, so you have to."

"Right." Said Bob, "Denny Gentry ruined everything. USTRC has made team ropin' so popular every horseshoer, ex-vet and dairyman thinks he's Alan Bach."

"I know," said Allen, "It's also attracted so many social ropers with money that I'm embarrassed to buy a new trailer. Used to be the best ropers pulled to ropin's in their 12-year old stock trailer with recaps and rust holes for ventilation. There wasn't enough money in ropin' to cover the cost of gas.

"At ropin's today there's so many duallies and three-horse slants with dressing rooms, it looks like an Arab horse show. And the guy can't even through a rope!"

"I know what you mean," said Bob, "I've got a motley hand full that come to my arena. I get to head but it's a rare occasion they ever catch. I'm always havin' to offer constructive criticism or advice. It's like a

With supply chain issues, time to get creative for holiday gifts

Oh no!

The world is backed up. Countries where stuff is made are behind in production. And even when the stuff is shipped, there are shipping containers piled up outside the ports. It's just plain HARD to get STUFF! Oh, and because of all that, stuff is getting just plain expensive.

Auto dealerships have empty lots because broken supply chains at key manufacturing plants around the world have slowed and even shut down resulting in a shortage of raw materials, including semiconductor chips.

Not only cars but also

ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH

durable goods, even things as small as toaster ovens, have chips in them. And that has nothing to do with transportation — it has to do with production. Then you come to the supply chain after you have produced the toaster oven and you want to send it to the U.S. There is a bottleneck at the ports with loading and unloading.

If the manufacturers raise their prices, the demand for goods would drop. But because price competition is so intense, and consumers can compare prices for items on the Internet before buying them, manufacturers are reluctant to raise prices too high.

And then there is the employment problem, Americans don't want to drive trucks much, they don't want to work in retail stores much and feel they can now be choosy about employment. More slow-down in the system.

Backorders, backorders, backorders and they are still running the car commercials, the sales, the deals. Watch out for Black Friday! Here it comes. Walmart, Best Buy, Amazon, Lowe's Home Improvement and more are already advertising the beginning of Black Friday deals. "Experts" recommend consumers start shopping for holiday gifts NOW, ahead of Thanksgiving and Black Friday. But why?

Just avoid it altogether. Shop local industries. Local businesses are finding ways to adapt. Take trips in nearby parks and play a little. Put thought into gifts and purchases like you never have before.

My friends, the sister proprietors at MasArt in Las Cruces, are featuring a Christmas art show where their regular artists get to create and offer whatever they want on sale. And the framing side of the business is feeling the supply shortage because materials are not coming in, they can't create frames like they normally can. But this isn't stopping them. They are building their own wooden components and repurposing found frames from thrift stores and yard sales. They complete the orders they get.

If you have the time to get online and "tackle the holiday shopping early," you have the time to put thought into alternatives. The gift of time is one of the most important and meaningful.

A walk in the mountains with a friend; an afternoon of baking cookies with your mother; a scavenger hunt with the kids; a movie basket with popcorn, soda and a trivia book are precious gifts beyond the STUFF.

My friend Suzanne sent me a card a couple of years ago with a picture of two chickens on it. It said she bought chickens, provided to some down-on-their-luck folks in Tanzania (or somewhere like that).

Not only are there lots of charity organizations with this kind of donation opportunities, you can also buy stars named after a friend, or a tiny plot of land in Scotland, or even slot on a rocket to space for cremated ashes.

Or how about support local businesses by giving a gift certificate to your favorite restaurant or bookstore; classes at the local gym, art museum, dance studio, soccer clinic or anything they enjoy or might enjoy.

And then follow up. Talk to them, just go ahead and bother to connect with your fellow human being, the best gift of all. STUFF, who needs it anyway?

Cut through sound bites and communicate with more respect

By EILEEN VANWIE AND KATHY BROOK

Guest column

It is often said that “your vote is your voice,” but voting is the culmination of an ongoing process in which we identify issues that concern or interest us. Then we respond through the ballot and other means, such as interactions with our elected officials. The issues on which we vote are often complex, and we make better decisions about them when we gather information and test our ideas against those of others. The League of Women Voters was created in 1920 with the goal of educating newly enfranchised women voters. That is, the right to vote was viewed as an important step, but not the only responsibility of citizens living in a democracy.

Engaged voters think critically about issues. When our thinking is challenged, we can choose to act with defensiveness, “digging in our heels,” or we can listen, learn and even clarify our own positions, taking action on the basis of new information.

EILEEN VANWIE

KATHY BROOK

Discussions of the current state of our political world emphasize that U.S. citizens are divided on crucial issues. A more fundamental problem is our interaction on these issues, frequently relying on slogans and sound bites. As in the recent discussions of the federal infrastructure bills, the debate may focus on one or two elements rather than the whole of the matter. It's not always clear whether the debates are about the dollar total (generally expressed over a 10-year period) or about the physical and human infrastructure to be provided by those dollars.

How do we move in a more productive direction? One suggestion is to speak from our own experiences to explain our positions and thoughts, setting aside the standard buzzwords. In his book “On Tyranny: Twenty Lessons from the Twentieth Century,” Timothy Snyder says, “Think up your own way of speaking, even if only to convey that thing you think everyone is saying.” Instead of yielding to the temptation to repeat a sound bite, we can provide detail on what the issue means to us and how it relates to our hopes and fears. When people are simply shouting slogans at one another, there are not likely to be efforts to understand a different point of view.

Listening carefully to better understand the thinking of those with whom we have strong disagreements, may lead to healthier conversations. We may need to investigate the arguments in support of our own, as well as opposing positions, and make sure that what we are communicating is reasonable. In addition, we can communicate with our elected officials on a regular basis, both when we have concerns or complaints and when we are pleased with their actions. A League member recently remarked that he considers the day wasted if he has not communicated with a public official. While we may not have that perspective, we can continue to seek better ways to communicate, with a goal to have respectful dialogue that enhances understanding and advances public interest.

Eileen VanWie and Kathy Brook are co-presidents of the League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico.

Don't let one city's crime problem stifle efforts at police reform in NM

One year after leading the effort to strip police officers of their qualified immunity from civil lawsuits, Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham is now seeking additional funding for law enforcement.

The governor will call for an additional $100 million to hire 1,000 more law enforcement officers throughout the state when the Legislature meets in January, according to the Albuquerque Journal.

She is also expected to call for reform of the bail system, following a constitutional amendment passed by voters in 2016 that limits the use of cash bonds.

The governor's office

has not yet issued a statement as to exactly what she will propose for the upcoming 30-day session, in which she controls the agenda.

This year's 60-day session, where the governor did not control the agenda, followed a summer of protests held in response to George Floyd's death in Minnesota.

Lujan Grisham convened a civil rights commission, which called for a bill making it easier to sue police officers and other public employees for civil rights violations.

The governor signed that bill into law, along with House Bill 183, which eliminates fines and fees for a number of crimes committed by juveniles.

While other bills weren't as successful, there were numerous attempts by the Legislature to curb police powers and reduce criminal penalties.

House Bill 263 would have established a uniform policy for reporting and investigating police shootings resulting in death or great bodily harm. HB 114 would have given judges more flexibility in sentencing habitual offenders. And, HB 140 would have eliminated mandatory minimum sentences for several crimes, including sexual offenses involving children.

This year, the pendulum has apparently swung back to the side of public safety, thanks to the continuing increase in Albuquerque's crime rate.

The homicide rate in Albuquerque is up by 75 percent in the first quarter of this year, with 35 murders through mid-April.

It's not just murder, and it's not just this year. Albuquerque has long had one of the highest overall crime rates in the nation, and one of the most troubled police departments.

Albuquerque police have been operating under federal oversight since a Department of Justice report in 2014 found a pattern of unconstitutional use of force by the department.

But, what is happening in Albuquerque is not happening in the rest of the state. Las Cruces police report that homicide rates have not changed. There is a slight uptick in robberies, but violent crimes were about the same as in past years.

The challenge for the governor and the Legislature will be to address what is a real problem in one city, without stifling efforts toward police and criminal justice reform in other communities throughout the state.

We don't know yet what the governor's plan will be.

The report suggests that instead of devoting all of the new funding to traditional police, some may go to alternative methods of handling calls involving those dealing with a mental health crisis.

The answer can't simply be more police.

As for the bail system, the old system of cash bonds was not equal justice under the law.

A $1,000 bond for the exact same crime was impossible for the very poor, devastating for the working class and insignificant for the wealthy.

If changes are needed to ensure compliance with court appearances, fine.

But they can't result in poor people waiting for their trial date in jail, which was what we had before the amendment.

America's Thanksgiving began four centuries ago this month

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

This Thanksgiving, Thursday, Nov. 25, is the 400th anniversary of the first Thanksgiving gathering, held in November 1621 in Plymouth Colony, Massachusetts, when the newly arrived Pilgrims sat with the Wampanoag for a three-day feast that included wild deer, fowl and the Pilgrims' first corn crop.

In the 17th century, the Wampanoag

(waam-puh-now-ag) were a confederation of tribes of Native Americans living in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Their groups included the Chappaquiddick, the Nantucket, the Mashpee, the Pokanoket and the Herring Pond. Today, the Wampanoag include five officially recognized tribes. The name means "People of the Dawn."

The Pilgrims were the English settlers who came to America in 1620 aboard the Mayflower and settled Plymouth Colony in Massachusetts. The term pilgrim was probably used for the Mayflower passengers for the first time in William Bradford's "Of Plymouth Plantation" in July 1620, when he quoted an Old Testament passage about "strangers and pilgrims." The word comes from the Latin peregrinus, "one who has come from afar."

The Pilgrims were Brownists, who were separatists from the Church of England. They went into exile in Holland in 1607-08 because of their beliefs, sailing from there to America Sept. 16, 1620, and arriving Nov. 9. A child, Oceanus Hopkins, was born aboard ship during the journey, but died in childhood. Another boy, Peregrine White, was born on the ship as it lay at anchor after arriving in America. (The Mayflower returned to England May 9, 1621. It was likely sold for scrap about three years later.)

Those in attendance at that very first Thanksgiving included Bradford, a weaver and judge, who served nearly 20 years as governor of Plymouth Colony in five nonconsecutive terms beginning in May 1621. The colony's first governor, John Carver, died in April 1621 after less than a year in office. The Wampanoag were led by their sachem (leader), Massasoit.

Menorah lighting, concert will kick off Chanukah season in Las Cruces

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

An 18-foot menorah will highlight Chabad of Las Cruces' 12th annual Light Up Las Cruces Mega Chanukah Concert and Outdoor Menorah Lighting.

"We're bringing light to the city," said Alevy Chabad Jewish Center de Las Cruces co-director Rabbi Bery Schmukler.

The event will take place at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 28, at Plaza de Las Cruces in Downtown.

"Everything is free," he said, and the entire community is invited and welcome to attend.

The rabbi said he hopes it will be "a fun family event" that also recognizes Jewish pride and an awareness of Chanukah, the Festival of Lights.

Chanukah 2021 begins Nov. 28 and continues through Dec. 6.

This year's festival will be "bigger and better than ever," Schmukler said, including a menorah that is twice as tall as before, thanks to a "very substantial grant" from the Jewish Federation of Greater El Paso. The event also has backing from the City of Las Cruces, he said.

"The city's really supportive," Schmukler said, including the city fire and police departments.

Another attraction to this year's event will be gourmet doughnuts and a variety of latkes, the rabbi said, including pastrami ("the real deal," Schmuckler said), beet and sweet potato latkes, in addition to the more traditional all-purpose potato latkes.

The event will also include a performance by Jewish soul singer Tali Yess, who will combine the music of his famous father, singer Moshe Yess, his own Jewish classics and new soul songs, Schmuckler said.

The Odd-Lab pyrotechnics will also be part of the event once it gets dark, Schmuckler said.

There will be a gelt (chocolate coin) drop from the top of a firetruck from the Las Cruces Fire Department, the rabbi said, toys for children, a moon bounce (bounce house), arts and crafts vendors (including a booth where Chanukah decorations can be purchased), food and a build-a-dreidel workshop.

"There's a little bit of everything," Schmuckler said. "It's a good way to start off the holidays, especially for the Jewish community."

"People can really have a good time," he said. "It's something the city deserves after such a crazy year and a half."

Chanukah history

"In the second century BCE, the Holy Land was ruled by the Seleucids (Syrian-Greeks), who tried to force the people of Israel to accept Greek culture and beliefs," according to chabad.org. "Against all odds, a small band of faithful but poorly armed Jews, led by Judah the Maccabee, defeated one of the mightiest armies on Earth, drove the Greeks from the land, reclaimed the Holy Temple in Jerusalem and rededicated it to the service of God. When they sought to light the Temple's Menorah (the seven-branched candelabrum), they found only a single cruse of olive oil. Miraculously, they lit the menorah and the one-day supply of oil lasted for eight days, until new oil could be prepared under conditions of ritual purity," the website said.

"It's a beautiful message," Schmuckler said. Chanukah has "a lot of meaning that you can apply to your life," he said. "You start with a little candle. You start small and grow."

Las Cruces Utilities Updates Foothills Landfill Composting Facility Station

By Cassie McClure

While many in the community may have been taking time to work on random fixes around their homes during the pandemic, Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) did the same at some of their facilities, including the Foothills Landfill Composting Facility (FLCF) at 555 S. Sonoma Ranch Blvd.

“There were new floors installed, but more importantly, a camera system that gives our station attendants the ability to see the bed of larger trucks that come to dump clean waste,” said LCU Interim Solid Waste Deputy Director Rosa Montoya. “This means our attendants do not have to climb up the trucks to ensure the load doesn’t have something it shouldn’t.”

Clean fill material should be material that, when buried, has no adverse effects on people or the environment. Clean fill materials include natural materials such as clay, soil, rock, and other inert materials. Other acceptable clean fill material includes asphalt, bricks, concrete [rebar or wire mesh sticking out must be shorter than two inches], and dirt. Contamination in a load is not only hazardous material but can include trash and branches.

“Those branches, however, can go into the FLCF in the yard waste area,” said Montoya. “Our staff recycles this material into high-quality, organic mulch.”

Yard waste is chipped, piled up, watered, turned, and left in the sun to “cook” at temperatures above 131 degrees to destroy weed seeds and pathogens to make the compost useful for landscaping and gardening. Water is added from reclaimed water from the nearby LCU East Mesa Water Reclamation Facility.

The free composted mulch is part of the circular economy of yard waste, along with the Green Grappler, which collects the yard waste residents dispose of in clear bags. As part of LCU residential Solid Waste service, the Green Grappler can pick up an amount equal to two-level half-ton pickup truck loads or four cubic yards, equivalent to four 5’x3’x2’ adjacent piles. Larger loads may be scheduled for pick up for an additional charge and can be arranged by calling Customer Central at 575-541-2111.

Mulch helps with blowing dust, erosion control, and provides ground cover to hold moisture longer. Residents who do pick up the mulch should know that the mulch is not screened, so sometimes bigger pieces of wood can sneak in. Those pieces can be added back to their next Green Grappler pickup pile.

The facility is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Residents are encouraged to take what they need, even filling up a pickup truck. If a truck is not available, LCU recommends bringing buckets, and don’t forget a shovel.

New cameras at the FLCF will help station attendants ensure the loads have no contaminants, instead of needing to climb the trucks to check.

LCU Customer Central can be reached at 575-541-2111 from 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. LCU provides clean, safe, and reliable services to Las Cruces residents and businesses. City council updated on crime statistics, leadership academy

CITY OF LAS CRUCES REPORT

The Las Cruces City Council was updated at its Nov. 8 work session about the Las Cruces Police Department (LCPD) and the city's Neighborhood Leadership Academy (NLA). The council also received a report from city staff about the El Paseo-South Solano Corridor Ad-Hoc Committee.

The LCPD provided statistics through the third quarter of 2021, which ended in September.

The council was told LCPD currently has 172 commissioned officers through the end of September. The Police Department has 202 authorized positions. The 51st LCPD Academy will begin in January 2022, and LCPD administration has established a goal of 25 to 30 cadets to be enrolled.

The council also learned LCPD responded to 103,671 calls for service, January to September 2021; 20,715 incident reports were filed; and 502 online reports were received through the end of September.

Other notable details LCPD shared with council include:

- Robberies have increased 61 percent, from 36 in 2020 to 58, Jan. 1-Sept. 30, 2021.

- The number of total violent crimes – including criminal homicides, sexual assaults, robberies and aggravated assaults, has increased 22 percent, from 433 incidents in 2020 to 529, Jan. 1-Sept. 30.

POLICE CHIEF MIGUEL DOMINGUEZ

- Total property crimes, including burglaries, auto burglaries, felony larceny, vehicle theft and arson are relatively unchanged from all of 2020 through the first nine months of 2021.

- Felony larcenies have increased 117 percent in the past year, from 140 in 2020 to 304, Jan. 1-Sept. 30.

- Residential burglary has declined 26 percent, from 214 in 2020 to 159, Jan. 1-Sept. 30.

- Non-residential burglary has fallen 22 percent and commercial burglary has declined 21 percent thus far in 2021.

- Metro Narcotics has seized 105.7 pounds of methamphetamine, 23.2 pounds of cocaine, 10,399 Fentanyl pills, one pound of heroin and 389 firearms so far in 2021.

Training for LCPD officers is substantially more than that provided through the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy. Cadets in LCPD's 50th academy were provided with 1,081 hours of training, compared to 677 at the state Law Enforcement Academy (LEA). The NLA briefing updated city council members on efforts to continue the program considering ongoing impacts from the pandemic. NLA began in 2017 and continued until March 2020 when the pandemic forced it to be paused.

The NLA provides improved knowledge of city government to aid residents in becoming effective neighborhood advocates and community leaders, according to the city's Community Engagement office. In five semesters, NLA has been offered, 130 residents have participated in the program. Objectives of the NLA are to increase pride and understanding of city government operations; promote civic engagement and develop neighborhood and community leaders.

The next steps for NLA programming include: a la carte classes, tours and access for the next levels; bridging the Digital Divide; offering versions of NLA geared for adults and for middle school- and high school-age youths; creating shadowing and mentoring opportunities for adults and youth; establishing an ambassador status for NLA alumni; and growing active neighborhood groups and identification from residents who complete the NLA.

“Movie: Breaking News in Yuba County”

Allison Janney teamed up with her frequent collaborator Tate Taylor (“The Help”), who co-wrote and directed this 2021 comedy caper that casts the Oscar- and Emmy-winning actress as a meek woman who becomes a tabloid media star when police mistake her dead husband for being missing. The talented cast also includes Mila Kunis, Regina Hall, Jimmi Simpson, Awkwafina and Wanda Sykes. (ORIGINAL)

“Animaniacs”

The sophomore round of this iconic animated kids series from Steven Spielberg offers up more of what it's known for: pop culture parodies, musical showstoppers, takedowns of historical baddies and even some important safety tips as the Warners and Pinky and the Brain wreak havoc everywhere they go. The returning voice cast includes Rob Paulsen, Tress MacNeille, Jess Harnell and Maurice LaMarche. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Ride the Eagle”

Director Trent O'Donnell reteamed with “New Girl” co-star Jake Johnson for this 2021 comedy drama that casts the latter as Leif, a young man who must jump through an unorthodox series of hoops to claim the inheritance left him by his estranged mother, Honey (Susan Sarandon). J.K. Simmons, D'Arcy Carden, Luis Fernandez-Gil and Cleo King are also in the cast.

Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer

The beloved "Animagic" tale of the most famous reindeer of all offers a thoughtful lesson about discrimination. Young Rudolph is teased by the other reindeer and excluded from their games because his nose is different. His taunters sing a different tune, though, when Rudolph uses the trait to keep Christmas from being canceled. Burl Ives is the voice of Sam the Snowman, who narrates the story and renders the title tune (of course) plus "A Holly Jolly Christmas."

5:30 p.m. on TNT
NBA Basketball

TNT comes forth tonight with a peach of an NBA doubleheader, which gets underway with a historical rivalry as Julius Randle and the resurgent New York Knicks defend home court from Anthony Davis and the Los Angeles Lakers. Then in the nightcap, it's a clash of Northwest Division adversaries as Damian Lillard and the Portland Trail Blazers welcome Nikola Jokic and the Denver Nuggets.

7 p.m. on OWN
Holiday Crafters Gone Wild

Fashion expert and stylist Jay Manuel serves as host for this two-hour special in which four crafting duos show their impressive skills as they compete in a series of holiday-themed challenges. The two judges, designer Kim Myles and celebrity party planner Mikie Russo, evaluate their efforts, with the ultimate winners taking home a $10,000 prize.

8 p.m. on KRWG
Independent Lens

In the late 19th century, the U.S. government set up an Indian boarding school system that was dedicated to a dubious goal: "Kill the Indian in him, and save the man." Accordingly, the program removed tens of thousands of Native American children from their tribal homelands and stripped them of their languages, traditions and culture. The new episode "Home From School: The Children of Carlisle" examines the history of the flagship among those schools and looks at a tribal effort to recover the remains of three children who died there.

8 p.m. on BBCA
Top Gear

In their fifth season behind the wheel, hosts Freddie Flintoff, Chris Harris and Paddy McGuinness hit the road again in search of challenges that will push them and their vehicles to the limit. Details on tonight's premiere will be revealed at a later date, but a new trailer for the season includes footage of the main trio attending the British Grand Prix, going electric caravanning, traveling to Iceland on an international expedition and Flintoff's attempt at zorbing (rolling downhill inside an orb).

8:03 p.m. on HISTORY
Great Escapes With Morgan Freeman

The new episode "El Chapo" chronicles the almost literally incredible history of the notorious drug cartel kingpin who eluded capture for years despite dogged pursuit from various Mexican and U.S. authorities. Even on the rare occasions when he was captured and sentenced to prison, he invariably was able to use his vast financial resources and famously disarming charm and charisma to pull off one seemingly impossible escape after another, although at the moment he is incarcerated in a Colorado supermax prison.

9 p.m. on FX
Movie: Abominable

Jill Culton wrote and directed this charming 2019 CGI Dreamworks Animated release, about a teenage violinist named Yi (voice of Chloe Bennet, "Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D."), who is shocked to find a young Yeti on the roof of her apartment building in Shanghai. She quickly befriends the gentle creature, whom she names Everest, and enlists the help of two young friends (voices of Albert Tsai and Tenzing Norgay Trainor) to return her new friend to his family at the highest point on Earth. Eddie Izzard also is heard.

9 p.m. on HBO
Black and Missing

This four-part docuseries from journalist and activist Soledad O'Brien, which concludes Wednesday, follows the founders of the Black and Missing Foundation as they fight an uphill battle to raise awareness of missing-persons cases involving Black victims, which routinely get downplayed by both police officials and members of the press. Participants include missing-persons activist John Walsh, FBI victim specialist Dr. Renee Murrell; Baltimore chief of police T.J. Smith; and former assistant district attorney Glenn Kirschner, among others. Another episode immediately follows.

movie review

BY JAY BOBBIN

Eddie Murphy is an arresting ‘Beverly Hills Cop’

An immediate breakout talent on “Saturday Night Live,” Eddie Murphy teamed with Nick Nolte and Dan Aykroyd for early movie successes, but “Beverly Hills Cop” rested squarely on his shoulders.

The 1984 action-comedy – which Cinemax shows along with the two sequels as a Thanksgiving feast Thursday, Nov. 25 – was an enormous hit that left no doubt that Murphy had arrived on the big screen. Envisioned earlier as a project for such performers as Mickey Rourke and Sylvester Stallone, the final version wisely left plenty of room for Murphy's brand of improvisational humor. And even if it wasn't really improvised, it sure felt that way, playing right into the Murphy style.

The actor-comedian plays fast-talking Detroit police detective Axel Foley, who goes AWOL to California to get to the bottom of a longtime friend's murder. He's very clearly a fish out of water, and his manner of playing by his own rules greatly worries the Beverly Hills lieutenant (Ronny Cox) and police partners (Judge Reinhold, John Ashton) who end up keeping an eye on Foley as he continually rocks the figurative boat.

Fortunately, the visitor has another friend (Lisa Eilbacher) who's on the West Coast, but her employer is a gallery owner (Steven Berkoff) who may have something to do with the death in question. Jonathan Banks, more recently known for “Breaking Bad” and “Better Call Saul,” makes his presence known with few words as the possible villain's henchman.

Frame and Art Center featuring Beloved Community artwork

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

The Frame and Art Center, 1100 S. Main St. in Pueblo Plaza, has a very special art exhibit that will continue through the first week in December, said Brenda Nevue, who owns the store along with her husband, Ean.

The pieces on display are art projects created by members and affiliates of Beloved Community, which was started in 2013 in Las Cruces after state Sen. Bill Soules, D-Doña dents with developmental disabilities (DD). The organization is a “grassroots endeavor” to build a community for young adults with DD.

The artwork at the Frame and Art Center includes group art pieces “Whimsical Way” and “The Masks We Wear,” which were created by Beloved Community members and others with guidance from Las Cruces artist Dorothy Zitzler. “Peace Drum,” is another group project you will see, along with the works of artist Austin Millbourn, whose “artistic interests and talents” were rekindled by Zitzler.

The Frame and Art Center opened in 1980. Brenda and Ean Nevue bought the business from Ron Saltzman in 2019, after having worked there 35 years between them. Ean is the expert in building frames, while Brenda specializes in matte cutting, she said.

“It’s so fun to put that extra thought into the project,” Brenda said.

In addition to framing and matting almost any kind of artwork you can imagine, the store carries a wide range of paints, brushes, tools and books to suit any art project.

The store also features the work of a different artist every month.

The Frame and Art Center is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

‘I’m creating every second of the day’

Artist Renee Short delves into myriad mediums in search of ‘the experience’

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

“I’ve probably been doing art my whole life,” said Las Cruces mixed-media artist Renee Short.

“I just grew up doing it,” said Short, a native of Brooklyn, New York, who moved to Las Cruces in 2009 and has worked extensively in painting and drawing, pottery, fiber arts, woodworking, photography and other creative arts. She’s also a writer of poetry and screenplays.

Short began spinning yarn as a child and continues to knit, do needlepoint and rug making and makes many of her own clothes. She taught knitting and crocheting at Thomas Branigan Memorial Library and Doña Ana Community College and has given private lessons in fiber arts.

Often, while riding on the New York subway, Short said she would be stopped by someone admiring an article of clothing she was wearing and had made. Short would take out her sketch pad, get some ideas from this person she had just met and create a similar garment for her. She also makes hats and scarves that she gives to Goodwill, Mesilla Valley Community of Hope and people on the street.

In addition to the realism of the outdoors — painting and photographing the mountains and flowers — Short said she enjoys abstract art; another of her childhood interests was making collages. She also uses found objects in her work.

“Anything that pops up I will include in my artwork,” Short said. “I can take anything and make it into my art.”

Each piece that Short makes — for herself or someone else, as a gift or donation, on commission or for sale in a gallery — is one of a kind.

Short has found that she doesn’t like titles on her works of art.

A good model for her, she said, is the Japanese haiku poem, which is untitled and calls for an opening that “has got to grab you and take you through the whole thing.”

That’s what Short tries to do with her art.

“You experience it,” she said, “not my interpretation of what I want you to experience.”

Short paints and creates in her Las Cruces home.

“Everything has a place,” she said. “It’s very organized. I clean up after every work.”

Short once rented a baby pool to hold everything she was using for one particular project that involved acrylic paints.

That way, Short could pour, splash and create at will.

“I’m creating probably every second of the day,” Short said. “I always have pen and paper to write down ideas.”

She often lays out the materials she will use for a particular project, like canvases, fabric and wood, and then will “spend a day or a week looking at these possibilities” and move pieces around before she decides to “focus and get it done.”

When she’s taking photos, Short said she may spend hours setting up a particular shot. She particularly likes to follow animals, and especially insects, to capture her favorite shots. An avid hiker, biker and BLM volunteer, Short said she once followed a red velvet ant “for an hour before I got a great shot.”

“It’s really how it strikes me,” Short said.

As a writer, Short said her poems and stories are unique — “things nobody would ever think of writing.”

“I approach everything as an experience,” Short said. “I not only learn from it. I am enriched by it.”

You can see Short’s art at Agave Artists Gallery, 2250 Calle de San Albino in Mesilla, and in the administration building at Memorial Medical Center.

'Daddy Long Legs' play will spin musical tale at Black Box Theatre

BULLETIN REPORT

"Daddy Long Legs," music and lyrics by Paul Gordon, book by John Caird and based on the novel by Jean Webster, will open Friday night, Nov. 19, at Black Box Theatre (BBT), 430 N. Main St. Downtown, and continue through Sunday, Dec. 5.

The musical is directed by veteran Las Cruces actor and director Nikka Ziemer. It tells the story of Jerusha Abbott (played by Cristina Zermeno), 18, who lives in an orphanage, BBT said in a news release.

"As the oldest person living there, many of the responsibilities of running the orphanage fall on Jerusha — but when a mysterious stranger

(played by David Arias), visits the orphanage and leaves Jerusha a letter, she finds that as a result of an articulate and humorous essay she's written, this stranger is going to fund her college education in the hopes that she'll become a great author. There's a catch though, Jerusha has to write her benefactor letters detailing her experiences in college which he'll never reply to — the point of writing them is to foster her literary talent," the theater said.

"As Jerusha writes letters to her benefactor, who insists on being called Mr. Smith, she takes quite a liking to her imagined notions of him. Soon, she affectionately nicknames him Daddy Long Legs because of his height, which she caught a glimpse of as he left the orphanage.

"Ultimately, the story is one of romance — as Daddy Long Legs is not an old man of 80 as Jerusha imagines but is instead a young man who becomes enthralled by Jerusha's charming letters."

Zermeno is performing in her first BBT show, the news release said. This is also her first lead in a musical, although she has performed in plays in El Paso. Arias is well known to BBT audiences. He recently appeared as Voltaire in "Emilie: La Marquise du Chatalet Defends Her Live Tonight." He also has appeared in the BBT productions of "Little Shop of Horrors," "A New Brain," "Photograph 51" and "Seagulls in a Cherry Tree."

The production's music director is Barbara Toth;

Mesilla Valley Concert Band tuning up for holiday concert

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Mesilla Valley Concert Band

(MVCB) has 100 members “from all walks of life,” said

Director Michael Mapp.

“That’s what really makes it special.”

The community band, which is nearly 35 years old, includes teachers, engineers, band directors, professional musicians, students, retirees — even some snowbirds who missed MVCB’s first performance in more than 18 months in October but will be in the band for its upcoming holiday concert.

cert.

The free holiday concert will be at 3 p.m. Dec. 5 at the Atkinson Recital Hall at the New Mexico State University Music Center, 1075 N. Horseshoe St.

Most members are from the Las Cruces area, but some come from El Paso and one member even makes the two-hour drive from Roswell “just because he wants to play,” said Mapp, who is director of bands and coordinator of the Graduate Instrumental Conducting program at NMSU. He also is conductor of the NMSU Wind Symphony and teaches courses in conducting and literature.

“These people came together because they all love music,” Mapp said.

Mapp said a few band members were apprehensive about rehearsing and performing again because of the pandemic, but “people saw that we’re OK,” he added.

“The audience for the October concert — appropriately named “A Joyous Return” — was 300 to 400 people,” Mapp said, compared to pre-pandemic audiences averaging 600 to 700. But the band is hoping for a huge turnout for its holiday concert.

Mapp, in his fifth year on staff at NMSU, has seen a few of his students and former students in MVCB, he said. About a third of the band’s members had Mapp’s MVCB conducting predecessor, Dr. William Clark, as a professor at NMSU.

Clark, who joined the NMSU faculty in 1985 as director of bands and became chair of the Music Department in 1994, joined with John Schutz and Mike White to create MVCB in 1987. The band started with 30 participants who answered an advertisement in the local newspaper. The band has presented more than 200 free concerts to more than 150,000 people.

MVCB combines traditional band music with

The October concert, he said, featured “happy music” to empower the human spirit and engender resilience.

The Dec. 5 “Sounds of the Season” concert will include traditional holiday favorites, Mapp said, including “Sleigh Ride,” a song honoring Hanukkah, “The Nutcracker Suite” and an audience sing-along of traditional Christmas carols — “music that gets the sprit in the holiday season,” he said.

A native of Hobbs, Mapp spent 12 years in Kansas, where he was bands.

He also plays the piano. In addition to his duties at NMSU and as MVCB director, Mapp is active as a guest conductor, clinician, adjudicator and producer across the country.

Taking over as MVCB director has been “a pretty big honor,” Mapp said. Even though his job as director of bands is more than a full-time job, he “wouldn’t think of not doing it,” Mapp said.

“This is my time to relax and return to the real reason we all this — for fun, the deeper things that makes us human,” he said.

Mapp has a doctorate of musical arts in wind conducting from the University of Kansas, a master of music in instrumental conducting from Wichita State University and a bachelor of music education from NMSU, where he was an honors graduate and a Crimson Scholar — and also a student of Clark’s.

Mapp’s wife, Dr. Hyerim Mapp, is a cellist and the orchestra teacher at Centennial High School. She also is a member of the Las Cruces Youth Orchestra staff. The Mapps have a dachshund, Karma.

The nonprofit MVCB rehearses 6 to 8 p.m. Sunday nights at the NMSU Music Building, Mapp said, and band members “are expected to put a little time in” on their own.

For more information about MVCB and joining the band, visit www.mesillavalleyconcertband.org.

LA CALAVERA CATRINA

La Calavera Catrina is a bilingual exhibition featuring larger-than-life sculptures of La Catrina, one of the most recognizable figures of Día de los Muertos (Day of the Dead). An elegant female skeleton and an icon of Mexican heritage, La Catrina approaches death not through sadness, but as a colorful celebration of life. These works by artist Ricardo Soltero explore this rich iconography and feature interpretation written in partnership with Denver’s Mexican Consulate.

Take home a furry pal with half-off adoptions during holidays

BULLETIN REPORT

If you're looking for that perfect furry friend to join your family, don't miss out on ACTION Programs for Animals' (APA) Home for the Holidays adoption special, which begins Thursday, Nov. 25, and continues through Jan. 1.

With the exception of small dogs, all adoptions are 50 percent off during that time.

To meet adoptable animals, visit the APA adoption center, 537 N. Solano Drive, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday or Saturday, or call 575-571-4654 to schedule an appointment. (The adoption center will be closed Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day and New Year's Day.)

Adoptable animals may also be viewed online at apalascruces.org.

"We look forward to the holidays and our Home for the Holidays campaign each year," said APA Executive Director Michel Meunier. "The holiday season is a great time to bring a new furry family

APA's Second Chance Thrift Store will host an online auction in partnership with Mesilla Valley Estate sales in two blocks: Nov. 24 to Dec. 1 and Dec. 1 to 8.

Each auction block will feature 125 items, including jewelry, artwork and a wide range of holiday gifts. The minimum bid will be 99 cents.

APA joins with Petco to provide free shots

BULLETIN REPORT

ACTion Programs for Animals will join with Petco Love's initiative to provide free vaccinations for Doña Ana County-area pets, APA said in a news release.

APA hopes to vaccinate 600 pets (300 cats and 300 dogs) during the clinic, which will be held 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 11, at the APA adoption center, 537 N. Solano Drive. Pre-registration is not required. Free vaccinations will be offered on a first-come, first-served basis.

The free vaccines are made possible through Petco Love's new national vaccination initiative, which is providing 1 million free pet vaccines to its animal welfare partners, including APA, for family pets in need across the country.

Parvovirus and distemper in dogs and panleukopenia in cats are some of the most prevalent deadly diseases impacting pets that are preventable with a simple vaccine, APA said. An estimated 30 percent of pet parents do not take their pet to a veterinarian annually for preventative care. To address this critical need, APA and Petco Love are partnering to make pet vaccines free and accessible in an effort to ensure the health and wellness of our beloved pets.

Vaccines distributed through the Petco Love initiative will be the DAPPv Canine and HCP Feline vaccines. Rabies vaccines, bordatella vaccines and microchips are all offered at $15 each at APA's regular clinics.

"Thanks to Petco Love, we can offer these important vaccines at no cost to pet owners," APA Executive Director Michel Meunier said. "We urge community members to take advantage of this free resource to ensure the health and wellness of pets in Doña Ana County."

For more information, contact APA at 575-644-0505 and mail@apalascruces.org.

APA is hoping to vaccinate 600 pets during its free clinic on Dec. 11 at the APA adoption center.

Bridge to Health program aims to expand access to health care

BULLETIN REPORT

Bridge to Health (BtH), a newly created community health and wellness program, launched Nov. 8 in New Mexico with a goal of expanding access to resources that enable better health through collaboration, education and community engagement, BtH said in a news release.

The program connects community members to no-cost health screenings, educational resources, wellness testing and local services. BtH's website

(www.bridgetohealth.com, or www.bridgetohealth.com/es/ in Spanish) directs participants to information about health, housing support, food and other nearby resources.

a program of the New Mexico State University Cooperative Extension. "Making health care services available to all New Mexicans is a critical first step to improving the lives of and investing in the future of our communities. We must continue to work together to ensure that access to affordable and healthy food as well as safe housing is accessible to all residents in our great state."

BtH helps connect community members to local resources by bringing together a wide range of organizations providing access to vital services. BtH is part of Quest Diagnostics and its Quest for Health Equity (Q4HE) initiative, which focuses on improving health equity in underserved communities. Quest Diagnostics is the world's leading provider of diagnostic information services.

BtH also will host community events statewide, which began with a Nov. 13 kickoff at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Las Cruces.

The events will offer free resources and support BtH said, including comprehensive wellness testing and health screenings; vision screenings for children; Covid-19 vaccinations; groceries; healthy recipes; and a Kid's Zone to entertain children.

"St. Paul's is happy to support this important event for the community as an extension of our ministry to Las Cruces," said the Rev. Greg Kennedy. "We hope the community will take advantage of this outstanding opportunity and the Bridge to Health program."

Memorial Medical Center nurses receive Daisy awards for 'selfless actions'

BULLETIN REPORT

Two Intensive Care Unit (ICU) nurses at Memorial Medical Center (MMC) were honored in November with The DAISY Award for Extraordinary Nurses for their selfless and life-saving actions, MMC said in a news release.

The awards are presented by the nonprofit

DAISY (Diseases Attacking the Immune System) Foundation, which was created in November 1999 to honor nurses across the country. The foundation was established in memory of J. Patrick Barnes by his family after his death at age 33 from complications of idiopathic thrombocytopenic purpura, an auto-immune disease. The care Barnes received from hospital nurses inspired the award.

MMV award recipients for the third quarter of 2021 are Karl Ngoye and Emily Biad.

Ngoye was nominated by a community member who called the ICU in her greatest time of need, while Biad was nominated by the daughter of an ICU patient, MMC said.

"Words alone cannot explain how grateful I am to Karl for saving my life and giving me another chance to breathe and live again," wrote the nominator. "I don't want to talk about the circumstances that led up to me trying to commit suicide on that evening ... I called a few friends that night and no one answered their phone. Frustrated, I popped all the pills and with a knife on my vein, I was ready to take my life away. Suddenly, out of nowhere, I decided I will make one last phone call. I picked up my phone, dialed a random number and Karl, not knowing who I was, answered the phone. The rest is history.

"Every morning when I would wake up, I would cry in gratitude thankful to Karl for saving my life on that dreadful night I was so close to taking it away," she added in her nomination. "The 46 minutes, 16 seconds he stayed talking with me on the phone while on shift saved my life."

A patient's daughter nominated Emily Biad for the award.

"During some of our darkest days, we were greeted by phenomenal nurses who gave top-notch, life-saving care to our mom while showing true compassion and care for our family," she wrote of her experience in Memorial's ICU. "While many on the nursing staff were amazing, Emily was a true angel in scrubs. She took the time to explain the need for each medication and she had the knowledge to detail signs of progress. She had the patience to gracefully tend to all our requests to wash out our mom's mouth, clear her eyes and moisturize her lips."

"My mother is alive today thanks to all the angels that grace the Memorial Medical Center hallways."

"We are proud that our participation in the DAISY Program is a powerful way we continue to honor the hard work of our nurses," said MMC Chief Nursing Officer Caryn Iverson. "Recognition and celebration mean more now than ever before as nurses tackle the challenges of Covid-19 in addition to their usual roles."

Nurses may be nominated for the DAISY award by patients, families and physicians. Recipients are chosen by an MMC committee.

Some words of thanks for being able to tackle The Bridge mission

Before we rush into the frenzy of the holiday season, which may be even more frustrating this year thanks to global supply chain issues, it's important we not just see Thanksgiving as a speed bump between now and Black Friday.

Taking the time and intention to be grateful during the Thanksgiving season is good for our health — emotionally and physically. Medical studies have shown gratitude reduces stress and depression, makes for better relationship health, improves sleep and blood pressure and builds self-esteem.

I have been reflecting a lot on the work that I feel

TRACEY BRYAN
The Bridge of Southern New Mexico

so fortunate to be a part of and how grateful I am for the amazing people who pour their hearts into the wellbeing of this community.

It was almost six years ago that I called Wanda Mattiace, former chair of The Bridge of Southern New Mexico's Board of Directors, to ask for her participation on a project with the W.K. Kellogg Foundation.

That call led to another call, which led to an invitation to a retreat in spring 2016 at which the Board of Directors of The Bridge would determine the course of the organization's future, after having lost their leader a few days before. What was clear that day was that The Bridge wasn't done with its mission. Rather, there were critical areas that still needed to be addressed. After the meeting, I was offered the opportunity to come back to The Bridge and take on the leadership role and the work yet to be done. What a joy it's been to implement their vision!

Fast forward to today, the Bridge's board is almost completely changed from that meeting six years ago, but its commitment to achieving our goals is not. These new leaders in business, education, economic development and government know we are stronger and better when we work together.

Across The Bridge's work, and especially in the Workforce Talent Collaborative, there are literally scores of people working on what we now call our "PK-14/16-career" continuum — more connected and seamless pathways that lead students, youth and young adults from education to employment and earning power.

Together, we've scored tons of firsts:

- First comprehensive plan for workforce development aligned to industries targeted to economic development
- First career pathways to all skill levels needed in those industries
- First industry-informed workforce surveys and reports (a la the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's Talent Pipeline Management approach)
- First one-stop website to connect students, parents, teachers and businesses with information on education, preparation and employment (NewMexicoTrueTalent.org)

- First teacher externships with employers
- First students who completed a Blended Senior Year

• First students in the county participating in virtual internships

- First return-on-investment information on the impact of Dual Credit courses for both families and the state

There's actually a lot more, but you get the idea.

To the Bridge's board, I want to say thank you — for the privilege of working alongside you and for being so committed to our community that you'll do whatever it takes to make sure our students and families have what they need to succeed. Each of you is a hero to me!

To members of the Workforce Talent Collaborative, the Blended Senior Year Team, the CTE leaders and teachers in our districts and at Doña Ana Community College, the Arrowhead Center, Ngage NM's Leaders Circle and Steering Committee and our employers who gave their time and wisdom to the Industry Roundtables, I want to tell you how amazing I think you are and what a joy it is to roll up our sleeves together and get to work doing good things for this community. Your passion, wisdom, and commitment inspires me every day!

Happy Thanksgiving!

NM Oil and Gas Association donations benefit 3 local nonprofits

BULLETIN REPORT

The New Mexico Oil & Gas Association's (NMOGA) Brighter Future Fund awarded $100,000 in grant funds in November to 15 New Mexico nonprofits, including three based in Las Cruces, NMOGA said in a news release.

Big Brothers Big Sisters Mountain Region received $7,500, El Caldito soup kitchen received $5,000 and the New Mexico State University Foundation received $10,000, NMOGA said in a news release.

The Brighter Future Fund has awarded more than $400,000 to nonprofits since 2019.

"We are so grateful for the opportunity to partner with NMOGA and the Brighter Future Fund," said Big Brother Big Sisters Mountain Region Executive Director Beth Hoffman. "Being awarded these grant funds will allow us to expand our program more efficiently across southern New Mexico. Partnerships like these are so important to the growth of programs like Big Brothers Big Sisters. Thank you for being 'Defenders of Potential,' NMOGA!"

"El Caldito is beyond grateful for the $5,000 awarded from the New Mexico Oil and Gas Association," said El Caldito Soup Kitchen Volunteer Coordinator/Kitchen Administrator Diane D'Ambrosio.

"We are a smaller organization not often recognized, so when we have funders like this acknowledge our mission and what we do, we are thankful. These funds will help the soup kitchen continue to serve a hot, nutritious meal that every person deserves," D'Ambrosio continued.

will also feature crafts made from agriculture resources, such as wool, hand-made art and health products.

A show highlight will be NMDA's food demonstration trailer, with chefs demonstrating various recipes using products that will be available for sale by vendors.

"The holiday season is the perfect time to showcase New Mexico food, beverages and crafts," said New Mexico Agriculture Secretary Jeff Witte. "With the return of HomeGrown this year, everyone has an opportunity to support local businesses. New Mexico food products and crafts make perfect gifts and holiday snacks to share with family and friends. Our producers take pride in what they grow, and there is no better way to celebrate the holidays than with locally grown products. We look forward to seeing everyone at the New Mexico Farm and Ranch Heritage Museum for HomeGrown."

NMDA is also promoting its "Elevate New Mexico Agriculture $5 at a Time" campaign.

It aims to inspire every New Mexico household to spend $5, or increase its spending by at least $5 per week, on New Mexico agriculture products year-round.

"The Farm and Ranch staff is excited to welcome everyone back to our signature event, HomeGrown, featuring the New Mexico-based products of our talented community," said FRHM Executive Director Heather Reed. "In collaboration with our partners at the New Mexico Department of Agriculture, we're able to showcase the hard work that makes our state unique."

Attendees are also invited to tour the museum and enjoy the exhibits at no extra cost.

The 47-acre FRHM tells

Cruces football uses defense, ball control for win in rematch with Centennial

The Las Cruces High School football team won the rematch against Centennial High and earned the right to play another week in the New Mexico state playoffs.

The rematch of Las Cruces vs. Centennial shows it has the passion and emotion to become an important rivalry.

Las Cruces High used a tough defense and a ground-control offense in the second half to secure a 35-21 quarterfinal win over Centennial in the state 6A football playoffs.

And maybe, we are seeing the beginning of another great cross-city rivalry.

Friday night, Nov. 12, the Bulldawgs used a gritty defense and grind-it-out, ball-control offense to secure a 35-21 win over Centennial in the quarterfinals of the state 6A playoffs on a chilly night at the Field of Dreams.

Earlier in the year, Centennial overcame a 27-point deficit in the second half to beat Las Cruces 42-41. That win gave Centennial the district chamampionship and a first-round bye in the state playoffs.

It also knocked Las Cruces into second place in the district and sent the team home with broken hearts — at least temporarily.

That loss “probably made it (this win) a lot sweeter, to be honest,” Las Cruces head coach Mark Lopez said. “That was a heartbreaker that first time. I mean everybody’s hearts were broken — family, us (the coaches), kids. To get a second chance like this, you don’t get this very often in the same season, a chance to redeem yourself.

“For these kids to come back and prepare the way they did and come out and execute the way they did, I can’t say enough about them,” Lopez said.

With about 10 minutes left in the game, Las Cruces stopped Centennial on fourth down near the goal line and then proceeded to use its ground attack to take about eight minutes of time off the game clock to secure the win.

“You have to be able to do that,” Lopez said. “You look at the history of our program and I’ve been here for a minute. We have done that so many times. Milk that clock and keep getting first down after first down. It’s a huge credit to our O line. They keep doing such a great job for us.”

For Centennial, it was a heartbreaking (again, that dreaded adjective, which keeps on coming up this time of year) way to end a stellar season.

“I feel we had a great season,” Centennial coach Aaron Ocampo said. “We were district champs. We were city champs until we lost tonight. They are advancing in the playoffs and we aren’t. We had a great record, 8-2. I’m really, really proud of these kids.”

When asked if this year could be a building block for future success, Ocampo said they were focused on the “here and now.”

“State championships are awesome and that is our goal and everything, but right now for Cruces schools, it’s kind of a challenge,” Ocampo said. “Our enrollments are a lot smaller than the Cleavelands and Rio Ranchos, so it is kind of a challenge to

Centennial volleyball comes up short in repeat bid at state tourney

The Centennial High School girls volleyball team’s dream of repeating as state 5A champions came up short over the weekend in Rio Rancho.

Second-seeded Centennial lost to top-seeded and eventual state champion La Cueva in four sets in the semifinal round Saturday, Nov. 13 at the Rio Rancho Events Center. The Hawks lost 25-20, 19-25, 25-16, 25-20.

“It was a good season. Would we have liked to have won? Sure, but we knew it would be tough,” said Centennial coach

Al Rosen. “But our girls played their hearts out. You can’t ask for more than that.”

Centennial had to come up through the losers’ bracket of the tournament after losing in five sets to No. 3 Cleveland on Friday. Centennial won the first two sets but ended up falling in five.

Centennial then beat Rio Rancho in three sets in an elimination match on Saturday morning to advance to the semifinal with La Cueva.

Centennial graduated eight seniors off last year’s state championship team, but still won its ninth district title in the past 10 years under Rosen.

The Hawks lost just three matches all year, two this past weekend in the state tournament. The other was to El Paso Franklin, the number 1 team in El Paso, Rosen said.

The Hawks were led by Tess Fuqua, who had 35 kills against La Cueva.

Centennial swept district rival Las Cruces in an earlier round to take on Cleveland. The Bulldawgs were later eliminated with a four-set loss to Eldorado.

La Cueva beat Cleveland in the state 5A title match in three sets.

It happens once a year: That special time for us to give thanks

It's been an interesting year. But I'm thankful it was not like last year. We have seen the light at the end of the tunnel for the end of the pandemic — eventually. (Our heart goes out to those whom the pandemic took.) In this Thanksgiving week, I am thankful for so many things, one of which is the fact that we have a vaccine available to virtually everyone, and the majority of Americans have had their shots. Some have chosen not to be vaccinated, for various reasons. I personally have had two shots plus a booster, and feel safe and protected.

Next, I am most thankful for our freedom. I'm extremely thankful for our military veterans (yes, I'm one) who fought and died to keep America the "land of the free and the home of the brave." With all the changes to our names and culture thank goodness there is still Veterans Day. We all should keep in mind that freedom isn't free!

We owe a hearty thank you to our four golf courses in Las Cruces, especially for affording our golfing community these splendid venues to tee it up every week. Our courses were closed for six weeks in 2020, but thanks to my good friend Dave Kimble (and others) they have been up and running, for all to enjoy, ever since. Not many other towns our size in the U.S. have the same golfing opportunities. (Maybe the golf course at nearby White Sands Missile Range will be refurbished and be playable again someday.)

I'm thankful for the PGA professionals who run our golf courses and provide golf instructions. Backing up these head pros is the PGA Professional Golf Management program at NMSU, part of the School of Business, that educates and trains future PGA pros to manage and grow the game we love. Individuals enrolled in the PGM program, all of whom are excellent golfers, work part time at all four Las Cruces golf courses; they represent the future of the golf business. Those students and our community are thankful for Pat Gavin, director of PGM program, now in its 34th year.

Here's a shout-out to Josh Salmon, assistant director of PGM who recently returned from running the 50th New York City Marathon (26.2 miles), along with Henry Stetina, PGM program coordinator. Both Salmon and Stetina, along with two other Sun Country PGA section runners in the marathon, were part of a 12-man contingent representing the PGA Reach Team which is a charitable foundation arm of the PGA with the mission to impact youth, military and diverse members of the golfing community. The PGA Reach Team raised over $41,000 in donations with their run in the NYC Marathon. Congratulations and thanks guys!

I'm also deeply thankful for The Las Cruces Bulletin, and in particular Publisher Richard Coltharp for providing a quality weekly newspaper. Early next year, I will begin my 17th year as the Bulletin's golf writer.

We all should be thankful for the first responders, doctors, nurses, medical technicians, nursing assistants, orderlies and other folks that keep our health care services operating. I'm hoping that the nursing shortage caused by the pandemic is only temporary. And I'm not forgetting firefighters and police officers who keep us safe.

If you don't play golf often with a regular group, you're missing something. My golfing friends are something I prize and am very thankful for. Sure, we play for a few bucks, but nobody leaves with any cash; the money goes for beverages.

Lastly, I'm giving thanks for the abundance we enjoy as Americans. Not all of our people enjoy such abundance, and that is why we must give generously to those organizations and charities that provide for our less fortunate. Happy Thanksgiving.

have the depth. I think us and Cruces have shown we can beat those teams.

"It is just a matter of having that great season. We have a lot of kids returning and I expect us to have a really good year next year," Ocampo said.

Ocampo said that he believes Centennial vs. Las Cruces is now the biggest rivalry in the city.

"You can ask the kids," he said. "Obviously, Mayfield and Cruces has gone way back. I think this rivalry is the biggest in town right now, because it means a lot when it comes down to the end of the season. It seems like we are always playing for the district championship every year."

Lopez said he didn't know how many rivalries you can have, but said Centennial vs. Las Cruces definitely pits two strong programs against each other.

"The rivalry stuff I don't know," Lopez said. "But I do know it is two great programs with a lot of great kids on both sides."

Now, fifth-seeded Las Cruces, 7-4 overall, will turn its attention to the semifinal round of the state playoffs. The Bulldogs will get to host No. 1 seeded Cleveland of Rio Rancho, 11-0, at 7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 19, at the Field of Dreams. Tickets are available online at <https://gofan.co/app/school/NMAA>.

In the state 5A playoffs, Mayfield saw its season end with a 35-21 loss to Artesia in the quarterfinals on Saturday, Nov. 13. Mayfield finished the year at 7-5.
