The Mesilla Valley Iris Society celebrated its 50th anniversary, 1971-2021, by hosting the American Iris Society convention, April 11-16, in Las Cruces. The first-ever AIS convention held in New Mexico brought 240 people to the area and was also the 100th anniversary of the AIS (which happened in 2020 but they were unable to have the convention until this year). For more on the celebration of the iris, see the story on page 13.

From dancing to flying: LCHS grad finds niche in Navy

Las Cruces High School and New Mexico State University graduate Leonard I. Thurman III has found his niche in the United States Navy.

Thurman, 33, will graduate from flight school later this year or early in 2023 in Pensacola, Florida and will become a winged Naval flight officer (NFO).

Because his vision wasn't 20-20 when he applied for flight school, Thurman couldn't qualify as a Navy pilot but he still qualified as an NFO, a mission commander who serves as onboard navigator and runs the mission systems. Thurman is working toward a private pilot's license in his free time.

A native of California, Thurman was raised in Las Cruces and attended East Picacho Elementary School and Picacho Middle School (PMS) and graduated from LCHS in 2007. Thurman played trombone and euphonium in the PMS and LCHS band and earned the All-City Music scholarship to NMSU, spent a year in China through NMSU's Study Abroad program and graduated in 2014 with a degree in ballroom dancing.

He taught the community of Las Cruces to dance for about 10 years, Thurman said, helping to spark local interest in salsa dancing, served on the board of Las Cruces SalsaFest, founded Salsa Night at Amaro Winery and ultimately moved to Denver to instruct at Colorado Dancesport.

In 2019, Thurman decided it was time for a change. He joined the Navy, enlisting as an avionics technician and 10 months later, applied to be a Naval officer.

"I really worked hard for that," Thurman said in a telephone interview. "It's been a long, crazy road," he said, including five moves since his enlistment. When he graduates from flight school, Thurman hopes to be stationed in Jacksonville, Florida and wants to serve aboard big-wing aircraft.

Thurman said his path to the Navy has been "a little untraditional," as he is a decade or so older than most of the other students in flight school. But serving in the Navy has been "a rich opportunity," he said. "I'm very happy to be here. It was a great choice."

Thurman said he is grateful for his career as a dancer and for the life experience and education he received in Las Cruces. He is especially grateful to his middle school band teacher, Tony Montaño, and to LCHS teacher Bob Wofford, who has since retired and is now a member of the Las Cruces Public Schools Board of Education.

Montaño "always took an interest in me," Thurman said. "He told me, 'Hey, work hard.' He recognized my talent and wanted to nurture that."

Wofford was Thurman's AP English and history teacher at LCHS, and Thurman served as his teacher's aide.

"He started asking me about college," remembers Thurman, who wasn't sure how he would pay for it. Wofford "actually found me a scholarship. He went out of his way and found me some money, which was super helpful," Thurman said.

"I don't think I was the best student," Thurman said. "I come from not the most easy home life. School was a good thing for me. I met the people that I needed to meet. I had the experiences that I had to have through the education system."

At NMSU, Thurman gained leadership experience and "learned a lot," he said. His mentor was dance teacher Betty Bur-

Former NM State police captain running for sheriff in primary

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Retired New Mexico State Police (NMSP) Capt. James Frietze is a candidate for Doña Ana County sheriff in the June 7 Democratic primary.

Frietze, 51, said he was a public servant throughout his 25-year career with NMSP, and would like to bring that knowledge and experience to the sheriff's office (DASO).

At the state police, Frietze rose from patrol officer to sergeant, assistant district commander/lieutenant and district commander (Doña Ana and Otero counties)/captain. During his tenure, Frietze served on the NMSP tactical and crisis negotiations teams and as a detective.

JAMES FRIETZE

"The experience I have over others is a huge advantage," said Frietze, who retired from NMSP in October 2019.

His training, level of rank, leadership and experience in law enforcement far surpasses that of any recent sheriff when or she first took office, Frietze said.

If elected sheriff, Frietze said he will focus on enhanced training for DASO commissioned and non-commissioned staff, improved relationships with other law enforcement agencies, better service to the community and mentorship for DASO deputies to ensure their individual success and the overall strength of the department.

Frietze said certification for deputies could include training in incident command, accident reconstruction and the use of drones, which he said could also help them excel in careers after law enforcement.

Because he began his career as a patrol officer, Frietze said he understands and empathizes with what deputies experience in the performance of their duties. He knows what it's like to draw a weapon and was even forced to kill a man in the line of duty in 2006, Frietze said.

"I know what they're going through," he said. "To see people excel is what you want," Frietze said.

As a supervisor, assistant district commander and district commander, Frietze said he also has the administrative experience to lead DASO successfully.

"I've got my boxes checked," Frietze said.

Frietze said his NMSP experience has made him an advocate for law enforcement and for responsible gun ownership and has given him empathy for crime victims and their families and also for those accused of committing crimes.

Even a career criminal, he said, is still a human being and a husband, father, son and brother to someone.

Frietze said he has particular compassion for people with mental health issues who come into contact with law enforcement personnel but aren't criminals.

"I have empathy for people on the street," he said.

In many cases, Frietze said, "people want to be listened to."

'Networking is huge in law enforcement," Frietze said, and that includes backing up other agencies as a "force multiplier." But at the same time, he said, it's important to "know where our boundaries are." For example, Frietze said, it is not DASO's job to enforce immigration laws. As sheriff, Frietze said he will evaluate each request DASO receives for backup from the Border Patrol and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement and will always respond when public safety is an issue.

Frietze said part of his role as sheriff will be to work with the county commission and the county manager, but "I will not let you set my agency up for failure," he said. "My ultimate goal is to serve this community."

Frietze said a sheriff's candidate has to select a political party, but the office "should not be political," he said. "Why don't we do what's right for everybody? I lean toward common sense," he said.

Frietze is a Las Cruces native who was raised in Mesilla and is part of an old-line Mesilla Valley family. He graduated from Las

BULLETIN REPORT

After a two-year hiatus, the Henson family welcomes the community to join them in supporting the Boys and Girls Club of Las Cruces for the 14th annual Lou and Mary Henson Community Breakfast which will begin at 7 a.m. Thursday, May 19, at New Mexico Farm & Ranch Heritage Museum, 4100 Dripping Springs Road.

The featured speaker will be two-time Paralympian Trenten Merrill, the Boys and Girls Club said in a news release.

The breakfast has brought prominent keynote speakers to Las Cruces in support of the club since 2009. Merrill is the first-ever Paralympian to be a breakfast keynote speaker, joining NBA greats, Olympic champions, NFL Hall of Famers and others, said club CEO Ashley Echevarria.

TRENTEN MERRILL

Merrill spent his younger days attending what was then the Boys & Girls Club of San Juan Capistrano, California, the news release said.

At the age of 14, Merrill and his best friend were struck by a car while crossing the street on a dirt bike. As a result, Merrill's right foot was crushed and later had to be amputated. But his dreams of becoming a professional athlete never stopped. He went on to play on his high school volleyball and wrestling teams, participated in motocross racing and began training in mixed martial arts.

While attending Saddleback Community College, Merrill's prosthetist encouraged him to attend a running clinic, the news release said.

It was at the clinic that Merrill learned of the Paralympics and set his sights on competing at the Paralympic Games.

After participating on the track and field teams at Saddleback College and Azusa Pacific University, Merrill made his Team USA debut at the 2015 IPC Athletics World Championships. Since then, Merrill has competed in the Paralympics in 2016 and 2020 and is currently the American record holder in long jump for his classification.

Outside of track and field, Merrill is a public speaker and uses his experience as a Paralympic long jumper to help inspire others to pursue their goals and dreams. He also has a career in modeling and is an investor and entrepreneur with management experience in athletics, real-estate, stocks and cryptocurrency. Merrill also enjoys off-roading, camping and spending time with his German Shepard.

"Over the years, the Henson Breakfast has become the signature event for the Boys & Girls Club and the prime opportunity for community giving, with ongoing support from the Henson family.

"It's bittersweet to bring back this event without Coach Henson (1932-2020) in the room, but we are so grateful to the Henson family for their continued support, and happy that we can continue honoring Coach Henson's legacy through this event," Echavarria said. "Hearing from a Boys & Girls Club alumni who persevered in the toughest of situations is always a great reminder that the work we do at our club each day can result in greatness for every young person we serve. Trenten is living proof of that, and we are thrilled to welcome him to Las Cruces."

Sponsorships for the breakfast event are available and limited individual reservations may be made with a donation. All sponsors are invited to attend an exclusive VIP reception the night before with Merrill and the Henson family. To become a sponsor, call the Club at 575-526-1519 and visit www.bgclascruces.org.

Elephant Butte Irrigation District hires new treasurer-manager

BULLETIN REPORT

Elephant Butte Irrigation District's Board of Directors have hired Patrick Sullivan, Ph.D. as EBID's new treasurer-manager.

Sullivan replaces Gary Esslinger, who retired after many years of service.

"Dr. Sullivan brings years of agriculture related knowledge and management experience to the role with a background in the private, government and institutional sectors covering issues relating primarily to fiscal management and policy development," EBID said in a news release.

Sullivan begins his new position June 1, with the start of the 2022 irrigation season, EBID said.

An irrigation canal runs through the Mesilla Valley. Elephant Butte Irrigation District manages surface water in the region.

"I'm excited about the opportunity to lead EBID and continue to build on its legacy of service to its members," Sullivan said. "I look forward to working with the EBID Board of Directors, staff and other stakeholders to ensure the efficient operation of the district, with a special focus on delivery of water."

"This is an historic moment EBID is experiencing in transitioning to a new manager after a long, successful run with our outgoing manager, Gary Esslinger," said EBID Board President Mike McNamee. "We are also doing this at a time that is extremely difficult for farmers given the drought and economic issues we're facing daily. We are hopeful that our choice will take us in the right direction and continue to help steer EBID in the most positive direction available at every turn."

"I want to thank the EBID Board of Directors, EBID staff and all employees, past and present, for the honor of serving alongside you for the last 44 years," Esslinger said. "I want to express my deepest gratitude to the agriculture community, though I cannot adequately express in words how much it has meant for me to lead this organization with the willingness and commitment of the farmers within EBID to allow me to do so. I strongly believe that EBID will continue to hold tight to its commitment to serve the farmers and withstand the constant onslaught of enormous challenges we're faced with every day. With the appointment of a new treasurer-manager, a fresh set of goals and a vision for the future, I'm confident EBID will rise to any challenge it is faced with. My heart is truly with this District, and it always will be."

The hoped-for late season precipitation has not developed in the Rio Grande's watershed and the snowmelt has begun early as predicted by Phil King, Ph.D., EBID's hydrology and engineering consultant, the news release said. The spring runoff is expected to be very low due to the ongoing drought and the 2022 irrigation season outlook continues to remain poor.

EBID is a quasi-government agency managing and delivering irrigation surface water for 90,640 water- righted acres of the Rio Grande Project in New Mexico, EBID said on its Facebook page.

EBID is located at 530 S. Melendres St. in Las Cruces. The office is open 7:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday.

Remembering the fallen during Bataan march

RICHARD COLTHARP
From the Publisher

If you've moved to Las Cruces in the past 20 years, you may be curious why White Sands Missile Range has an annual event commemorating the Bataan Death March, or why U.S. Hwy. 70 is dubbed the Bataan Memorial Highway.

Most of us know "December 7, 1941 – a date which will live in infamy," as President Franklin Roosevelt described the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in Hawaii, which propelled the United States into World War II.

Most of us are not familiar, however, with Dec. 8, 1941, when the Japanese bombed Clark Field in the Philippine Islands just a few hours after Pearl Harbor.

That set the stage for atrocious events 80 years ago, half a world away in the Philippines during World War II. When the battle for the Philippine peninsula of Bataan ended in April 1942, the Japanese had about 72,000 prisoners of war. Around 60,000 of those were Filipino soldiers. Of the approximately 12,000 Americans, more than 1,800 – 15 percent or more – were New Mexicans. New Mexico had the highest per-capita representation of any state. The soldiers, many from southern New Mexico, hailed from the 200th and the 515th Coast Artillery of the National Guard.

Most of the Americans had arrived in the Philippines in August 1941 to help shore up the Filipino defense of Manila Bay, a strategic position in the Pacific. Even before the surprise attack in December, conditions were difficult. Food rations were inconsistent, and soldiers were stuck with old, World War I-era equipment. After Pearl Harbor, they lost the possibility of additional troops, equipment and battleship support from Hawaii, all decimated.

American and Filipino forces fought the Japanese and their superior firepower and fresher troops, for four months. On April 9, 1942, the depleted and weakened Filipino and U.S. forces surrendered to the Japanese, becoming prisoners of war.

For seven days, they marched at Japanese gunpoint 65 miles north to a railroad station. Anyone who fell out of the line was beaten, tortured or killed. The prisoners did their best to save the fallen, carrying or dragging victims in the oppressive 100-degree heat. They were given little to no food and fresh water. Dysentery and other diseases claimed many.

Once at the railroad station, surviving prisoners were crammed into boxcars and taken another 45 miles. Those who survived that were forced to march another 10 miles to the prison camp, where beatings and torture resumed. It is estimated more than 25,000 died on the march before reaching the camp.

Of the 1,816 New Mexicans originally deployed to the Philippines, 829 never returned home. They died either during the battle, on the march or in prison, or died after the 1945 liberation of the Philippines, succumbing to injuries or disease sustained during the march or imprisonment.

As difficult as it sounds, it was way more gruesome and terrifying than I'm describing here.

Twenty years ago this month, the Bataan Memorial Monument was dedicated at Veterans Memorial Park in Las Cruces. It culminated several years' work from many concerned citizens who believed these veterans needed recognition.

J. Joe Martinez, who currently has a Farmers Insurance Agency in Las Cruces, has long been active in community affairs in Las Cruces and New Mexico. Martinez's uncles, Juan and Jose "Pepe" Baldonado, who grew up in Tularosa, were both Bataan survivors.

Martinez had known longtime

Primary elections have a way of sneaking up on us

WALT RUBEL
The View From Here

One of the questions in a recent news quiz for the Saturday morning show from the farmer's market on KTAL-LP FM radio was, can you name any of the five Republican candidates running for governor?

Not only was the contestant stumped, but so was just about everyone else who was there.

Greg Zanetti, Ethel Maharg, Mark Ronchetti, Rebecca Dow and Jay Block are engaged in a fierce battle for the opportunity to take on incumbent Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham this November.

Campaign filings show the five have spent a combined $1.36 million since October, according to a recent story by the Santa Fe New Mexican.

But, because much of that money was spent on TV ads that never reached southern New Mexico, the candidates are still not well known by many of the voters here. Ronchetti, a former TV weatherman in Albuquerque, has spent more than $150,000 on media advertising, but none of his ads have made their way into my living room yet.

The decision to include Las Cruces in the El Paso TV market may make sense for advertisers, but for news viewers it means we learn a lot more about Texas candidates, and what's happening in the Texas Legislature, than our own.

It's probably not surprising that Dow, a state lawmaker from Truth or Consequences, is the only candidate whose ads I've seen in our TV market. And, her message of border security is targeted toward southern New Mexico.

The Republican race for governor may get the most attention during this primary election, but other statewide races are probably more important. With incumbents vacating the offices of attorney general, treasurer and auditor, those positions will likely be decided in the Democratic primary, if historical trends continue in the general election.

In local races, both incumbent

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Permanent guardianships need same safeguards

SB 35 has become New Mexico's newest guardianship statute. This is another small step in reforming the broken guardianship system in New Mexico.

Desperately needed safeguards are now in place for the alleged incapacitated individual who finds himself/herself in the center of an emergency temporary guardianship. These safeguards bar the temporary guardian from liquidating the AIP's (alleged incapacitated individual's) property and moving them out of their residence without the express approval from the judge.

Another important factor in SB35 is the firm timeline requiring judges to hold a hearing within 10 days of the filing of the petition to listen to the evidence. This allows the AIP, the attorney and interested parties the opportunity to provide evidence in a timely manner instead of waiting for months to appear in court.

This is fantastic progress; however, what happens if the individual is appointed a permanent guardian? What safeguards exist then? What protection is there from predatory guardians, conservators and attorneys? Who has the power and responsibility to protect the vulnerable individual from becoming exploited?

Ultimately, it is the district judge who yields this power to decide the fate of the protected person. In order for the individual's human rights, civil rights and financial status be preserved the following must occur:

1. District judges must honor all legally prepared documents such as wills, trusts and powers of attorney with no changes. Honor family members as the first priority of appointment if named in the legally and binding estate documents.

2. An attorney and/or GAL (guardian ad litem) must be provided by the state of New Mexico for every individual entering the permanent guardianship process.

3. Provide the same safeguards found in SB35 to every individual entering the permanent guardianship process.

4. Provide a penalty for any perpetrator found to be in violation of the protected person's human rights, civil rights and financial rights.

We want to thank the sponsors of SB35 for their leadership and continued concern for all vulnerable New Mexicans — the elderly, veterans, and disabled — who are in the guardianship system.

County Commissioner Lynn Ellins and Sheriff Kim Stewart will face challenges in the Democratic primary.

New Mexico continues to hold closed primaries, meaning only those registered as Republicans or Democrats can vote, and only for races in their party. Independent voters, who the primary winners will undoubtedly by courting in the fall, will again be left out of the process in the spring.

The general election in November is always preceded by so many weeks of relentless campaigning that it is a relief when election day finally arrives. But the primary election has a way of sneaking up on us.

The start of early voting on May 10 is only a couple of weeks away.

Chile Pepper Institute will sell plants grown by staff, students

BULLETIN REPORT

New Mexico State University's Chile Pepper Institute will host its annual spring plant sale Thursday and Friday, April 21-22, at the Fabián García Science Center, 113 W. University Ave. The sale will begin at 9 a.m. each day.

This year's sale will feature a variety of chile peppers, tomatoes, eggplants, tomatillos, zucchini and summer squash — all grown by Chile Pepper Institute staff and NMSU students, NMSU said in a news release.

Tomato varieties will include "Early Girl," "Brandywine," "San Marzano" and "Goliath." Chile varieties will include "NuMex Heritage Big Jim," "NuMex Joe E. Parker," jalapeños, bell peppers and several super-hot peppers.

"People should get there early for the best selection. We sold out last year and anticipate doing the same this year," said Liza López, program coordinator for the Chile Pepper Institute.

Due to shortages of trays and flats, López suggested customers bring containers to carry their purchases home.

López said this year's sale is a collaboration with the NMSU Horticulture Forum, a student club and nonprofit organization dedicated to educating others about horticulture and floriculture procedures on all levels.

"These students have grown some very nice herbs for sale, including cilantro, thyme and basil," López said.

All proceeds from the sale will benefit chile pepper research and education at NMSU and the NMSU Horticulture Forum.

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici since they both had boys playing Little League in Albuquerque, where Domenici was then a city councilor. In December 1997, they had a conversation in Las Cruces about the need for a Bataan Memorial tribute.

With Domenici's blessing and the hope of federal funding, Martinez, with help from his wife, Arlene, got the ball rolling. They located a young designer named Rob Sharp (now with Wilson Binkley Advertising & Marketing). Sharp drew a sketch of three Bataan soldiers. From that sketch grew the concept of a sculpture by Las Cruces artist Kelley Hestir.

To represent the thousands of others on the march, Arlene Martinez had the idea of a trail with hundreds of footprints. That idea also came to fruition, with several pairs of the footprints cast from the feet of actual Bataan survivors.

With participation and support from multiple entities – including federal, state, county and city officials – as well as White Sands Missile Range and Holloman Air Force Base, the unveiling was a success, and today we celebrate 20 years of this wonderful addition to our Veterans Park, and this solemn reminder of those men who so long ago sacrificed so much.

Public input continues for 2022 general obligation bond

BULLETIN REPORT

Input continues to be sought from registered Las Cruces voters and city residents regarding the 2022 general obligation (GO) bond, the city said in a news release.

In addition to public meetings, city voters and residents can now participate in a bilingual online survey available at www.clcbond.com/survey. The survey is available in English and Spanish and public participation will continue until Sunday, May 8.

A print version of the survey can also be filled out at the at City Hall lobby, 700 N. Main St.; Branigan Memorial Library, 200 E. Picacho Ave.; Munson Center, 975 S. Mesquite St.; Eastside Center, 310 N. Tornillo St.; Benavidez Center, 1045 McClure Road; Sage Café Senior Center, 6121 Reynolds Drive; Frank O'Brien Papen Center, 304 W. Bell Ave.; East Mesa Recreation Center, 5589 Porter Road; Meerscheidt Recreation Center, 1600 E. Hadley Ave.; Las Cruces Regional Aquatic Center, 1401 E. Hadley Ave.; A. Fielder Memorial Safe Haven, 906 N. Tornillo St.; and Rio Grande Theatre, 211 N. Main St.

Public meetings and the online survey are intended to provide general information to Las Cruces residents on GO bond programs and to gauge public interest in new capital projects or the continuation of capital projects that have been approved and funded by Las Cruces voters as part of the 2018 GO Bond questions.

The 2022 GO bond questions may propose as much as $23 million for capital projects. The proposed amount will not increase the property tax rate related to city, the city said.

Determining what new projects are wanted and needed by city residents is the primary reason for conducting the public meetings and online survey, the city said. From input gathered at the meetings and from the online survey, city staff will draft GO bond questions that will be presented to the city council for approval before placing those questions on the November general election ballot.

In an all-mail election in 2018, Las Cruces voters approved $36.4 million in GO bonds to construct new sports fields; rehabilitate some city parks; build two new dog parks; expand and improve walking, jogging, and biking trails; replace Fire Station No. 3 on Valley Drive; build a new Animal Services Center of the Mesilla Valley; and build a new East Mesa Public Recreation Complex on Sonoma Ranch Boulevard. All projects are expected to be completed by the end of this year.

For more information about the bonds, contact David Weir, city deputy director of community planning & improvement, at 575/528-3067 and dweir@las-cruces.org, or Karla Walton, city community engagement manager, at 575/528-4577 and kwalton@las-cruces.org.

Little Libraries mass build is April 30

BULLETIN REPORT

Doña Ana County Little Libraries and Pantries (DACLLP) is organizing a Little Libraries and Pantries Mass Build community event is 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, April 30, at NM Lions Operation KidSight, 1501 N. Solano Drive.

Individuals, organizations and businesses can acquire a little library unit for a donation of $40 or more and by volunteering at least two hours at the Mass Build event to help with the assembly of the units, DACLLP said.

Some tools will be available at the event. Participants are also encouraged to bring their own tools.

Groups, organizations and individuals who receive the little libraries will be responsible for their maintenance, DACLLP said.

DACLLP is funded by donations and community volunteers. Contributions during the Mass Build event will be used to purchase materials for the build and support the mission of the DACLLP.

Contact DACLLP at daclibrariespantries@gmail.com. Visit https://tinyurl.com/ysx9wrrx.

Services set for Cunniffs

The Cunniff family will gather with family and friends to remember and celebrate the lives of Roy and Donna at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, April 23, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, 225 W. Griggs Ave.

A casual reception will follow at the church. The service will be livestreamed via the St. Paul's UMC Las Cruces NM YouTube channel. Roy and Donna Cunniff were married for more than 59 years. They departed this world within three days of each other in February 2022, the Cunniff family said. They are survived by their three children, sons Ross and David and daughter Danielle; three grandchildren Shanley, Kelsey and Kira; and two great-grandchildren Auriel and Lydia, as well as a large extended family of siblings, nieces and nephews.

The family would like to thank the staff of Mesilla Valley Hospice, who helped provide them both with peace and comfort in their last days. In lieu of flowers, the family asks for donations to Disabled American Veterans and/or the Friends of the Thomas Branigan Memorial Library.

"I think that education, going to school is of the utmost importance for everyone in the world," Thurman said.

Retired Marine aviator Gerald Carson of Las Cruces has been another important influence in Thurman's life, he said, as were others who encouraged him to join the Navy. Thurman is also grateful, he said, to Dave and Midge Wilson of Las Cruces and their son and Thurman's friend, Matt.

"They were like second parents to me," he said.

"Would you ever imagine that you're a dance instructor and then a Naval aviator?" Thurman said. "It's definitely 100 percent possible. Whatever you put your mind to, you can do it."

Iris gardens hold open houses this weekend

BULLETIN REPORT

More than 240 American Iris Society members from across the United States and some from Canada descended on Las Cruces to learn more about their iris craft and tour iris farms and gardens throughout the area including the Blue J Iris nursery in Vado, Calhoun Flower Farms in La Mesa and the New Mexico Farm & Ranch Heritage Museum garden in Las Cruces.

They were in town for the American Iris Society convention, April 11-16.

The gardens they visited will be open this weekend for the public to take in some floral beauty and enjoy some time outdoors.

The Blue J Iris nursery has an open house, open to the public from 8 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday, April 23, 40 Palomino Road, Vado.

Visitors are welcome on other days as well, but they request a call, so they know you are coming: 915-780-8927. Visit Blueiris.com for more

UTILITY COLOR CODES
UTILITY	COLOR CODE

Electric	Red
Telecommunications	Orange
Water	Blue
Sewer or Drain	Green
Pending Work or New Construction	White
Temporary Markouts	Pink
Reclaimed Water, Irrigation & Slurry	Purple

Even small projects such as planting a tree or installing fence posts can be very dangerous if you do not know what utilities are buried around your dig site. Whether you are a professional excavator or homeowner, you can be fined AND held financially responsible for repair costs to damaged utilities when 811 is not called.
How it works:
1. Use white spray paint and/or white marker flags to mark the ground where you plan to dig.
2. Call 811 two business days before beginning your project and they will alert all of the local utilities to respond to your dig site and mark where the utility lines are buried. Utility companies will have two days, once notified, to respond to your dig site.
3. Once utilities are marked, you must adhere to the "18 inch" rule, which is no mechanical digging (tractor, auger, etc.) within 18 inches of the utility markings. If you must dig within 18 inches of a utility marking, it has to be hand dug or vacuum excavated.
4. Once all of the utilities have been marked, you will have 15 days to complete your digging project. If your project is not complete in that time frame, you must call 811 again.

Downtown partnership wants community members to take survey

BULLETIN REPORT

The Downtown Las Cruces Partnership (DLCP), a nonprofit New Mexico MainStreet organization, is asking the community to participate in its fourth annual community survey, DLCP Executive Director Jennifer L. Garcia Kozlowski said in a news release.

The survey, which has 24 questions and takes less than 10 minutes to complete, "polls community members and visitors about their Downtown experiences and asks for insights on district perceptions and possible improvements," the news release said.

The survey closes Saturday, April 30. Take the survey at www.surveymonkey.com/r/Y8ZSCD5.

Those taking the survey can register to win a $25 Downtown gift card.

At the conclusion of the survey, DLCP analyzes the results, shares insights with stakeholders and uses the information to shape future projects, programs and priorities.

"This tool is mission critical," Garcia Kozlowski said. "As a community-based economic development organization, having our fingers on the pulse of those who spend time in our district is absolutely essential and allows us to expand on our successes, create programs, recommend policy and develop data-driven solutions to issues and concerns. Providing a forum for community input allows Las Crucens to take an active role in creating their Downtown."

"Over time, our analysis just gets better and better," said DLCP Board Chair Robert Cruise.

Probate court assistant Norma Torres Roberts running for judgeship

BULLETIN REPORT

Norma Torres Roberts has announced her candidacy for the position of Doña Ana County probate judge in the June 7 Democratic primary election.

Torres Roberts has been the county Probate Court assistant since 2017, she said in a news release.

In that position, Torres Roberts said she has assisted current Probate Judge Diana Bustamante "to oversee the opening of over 300 cases a year and respond to thousands of calls and email inquiries."

NORMA TORRES ROBERTS

Torres Roberts said she has been responsible for maintaining, updating and closing thousands of cases during the past five years, and "has been instrumental in assuring numerous new case probate applications are carefully screened before turning them over to the judge for final review and approval." Torres Roberts said she has introduced "innovative ideas on improving procedures and forms in order to process and maintain new and existing probate case files in more efficient and thorough ways." During the last three years, Torres Roberts said she has been instrumental in overseeing the electronic digitizing of all probate archives for the county.

Torres Roberts said she receives training from the Administrative Office of the Courts, an office of the New Mexico Supreme Court.

"Doña Ana County hovers between having the second and third highest volume of probate cases in New Mexico," Torres Roberts said, and she "has been able to keep up with the exigencies of the court. During these last two years of the pandemic, the court has seen (an) increase in probate cases and an extraordinary number of inquiries about the probate process," Torres Roberts said, and she "has been able to continue to work from home and later, back in the court, to assist Bustamante in assuring all probate inquiries are addressed in a timely manner."

Torres Roberts is a longtime resident of Las Cruces, having attended Las Cruces High School and later graduating from Oñate High School. She has more than 20 years' experience working professionally in the banking field, Torres Roberts said in the news release. "This experience ranges from processing credit/ATM cards and consumer, personal, auto and home mortgage loans."

Torres Roberts said she also has experience in the nonprofit field as a one-on-one credit and foreclosure counselor for first-time homebuyers.

Because she is fluent in both English and Spanish, Torres Roberts said she "has been able to provide much-needed assistance to the Spanish-speaking community of Doña Ana County."

Soroptimists award scholarships to help 8 determined women

COURTESY PHOTO

BULLETIN REPORT

Eight determined women from New Mexico and far West Texas moved a step closer to realizing lifelong dreams thanks to recently announced Soroptimist International of Las Cruces Live Your Dream Awards.

Recipients of cash grants ranging from $500 to $2,000 include a nursing student whose long-term goal is to put herself through medical school, then use her skills to improve health care for the Navajo Nation; an Afghan immigrant who in five years learned English, completed nursing school prerequisites and enrolled in a nursing program; a dental assistant pursing her ambition to become a dental hygienist; and an artist pursing her dream of becoming a designer.

All women provide primary financial support for dependents, parents and/or children. All have overcome significant personal obstacles including civil unrest, domestic violence, illness or poverty.

"While the primary focus of our program has been Las Cruces and Doña Ana County, we are pleased this year to be able to support such deserving women from a broader geographic area," said Esther Devall, SI-Las Cruces president. "The Soroptimist mission is to provide women and girls with access to the education they need to achieve economic empowerment. Helping one woman anywhere achieve success is helping women everywhere. This year is the 50th anniversary of the LYDA program, so we are excited to be able to celebrate that milestone by adding three grants and doubling the amount of funding."

In addition to a cash grant, each awardee received a laptop computer from Doña Ana County Commissioner Shannon Reynolds and his wife, Maggie Reynolds. "I feel blessed to be in a position where we can show these women that they matter and can achieve their dreams," Maggie Reynolds said. "To recognize their struggles and in some small way help them through those same difficult decisions that I had to make when I was in school is such a blessing and reward for me."

The awards provide women who serve as the primary wage earners for their families with funds to offset costs of attaining post-secondary education or training, including expenses that most scholarships don't cover. The program's goal is to help women who have faced economic and personal hardships to live their dreams and build a better life for themselves and their dependents. Awardees were chosen by four community judges, based on demonstrated determination, resiliency and the ability to work toward goals. Soroptimist International of Las Cruces is the only Soroptimist Chapter in New Mexico and also serves the El Paso area because no club exists there.

This year's cash awards were made possible by generous grants from the Wellness Fund of the Community Foundation of Southern New Mexico, the Nusenda Community Awards program and the John and Eunice Davidson Fund.

Founded in 1970, Soroptimist International of Las Cruces is part of Soroptimist International of the Americas, a global volunteer organization that works to improve the lives of women and girls through community-based programs leading to economic empowerment.

Soroptimist is a 501(c)(3) organization that relies on charitable donations to support its programs.

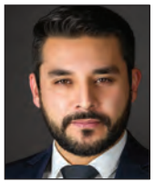
Deputy economic development chief: Major assets driving growth

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

"Las Cruces is a place where people want to be. It's a place where they see themselves and their families growing," said Francisco Pallares, Ph.D., deputy director of the city Economic Development Department (EDD).

Major assets like New Mexico State University and White Sands Missile Range (WSMR) have helped drive the city's growth from 97,618 residents after the 2010 census to 111,385 after the 2020 census, an increase of 13,767, Pallares said.

"That's big growth for a city our size," he said.



FRANCISCO PALLARES

New Mexico's population grew from 2,059,179 in 2010 to 2,117,522 in 2020, an increase of 58,343, according to census figures. That means Las Cruces contains about 5.26 percent of the state's population but accounted for 23.6 percent of its growth from 2010-20.

A chart of the city's population pyramid shows the highest percentage of growth for both males and females in the 20-24 age group, Pallares said, including many college and university students.

NMSU "brings a lot of new potential workers that can stay here in the City of Las Cruces and continue to grow our community," Pallares told the city council at its March 14 work session.

In fact, NMSU is what brought Pallares to Las Cruces, he said. A native of El Paso, he grew up in Ciudad Juarez and returned to El Paso to earn bachelor's and master's degrees from UTEP. But he came to NMSU to pursue a doctorate, earning a Ph.D. in economic development policy in 2015.

"I love NMSU," said Pallares, who lives in El Paso and commutes daily to Las Cruces. "I'm an Aggie now," he said. "It has given me everything."

NMSU draws young people from southern New Mexico and throughout the country to Las Cruces and provides them with a "very high-quality education," Pallares said, making it one of the city's most important assets, and putting Las Cruces "ahead of many communities in the country."

The quality workforce that NMSU helps create to fill jobs in many local industries also gives the city an edge, he said.

Challenges for the city include keeping its young people living and working in Las Cruces, Pallares said, and partnering with NMSU, WSMR and other partners to boost economic development in all parts of Las Cruces, Pallares said.

For example, in March, the city council approved a marketing campaign to promote the Las Cruces Innovation and Industrial Park on the city's West Mesa. Earlier this year, the council approved the sale of 11.2 acres of the park so Artico Cold Storage New Mexico, LLC can build a 120,000-square-foot facility there and create 60 full-time jobs. The city and state will invest nearly $900,000 in the project.

The council also approved zoning changes that will allow development of 75 acres in North-central Las Cruces that is the former Las Cruces County Club property. Three Crosses Regional Hospital opened there last September.

Growth continues in Downtown Las Cruces and at Las Cruces International Airport, and the city is looking at development plans for the El Paseo Corridor, Amador Proximo and other parts of Las Cruces.

Pallares worked at NMSU 2012-17 before becoming an economist with the city. He became interim EDD deputy director in March 2019 and became permanent in 2020.

Burrell College names new senior associate dean of academic affairs

BULLETIN REPORT

Eduardo Velasco, MD, Ph.D., has been named the senior associate dean of Academic Affairs for the Burrell College of Osteopathic Medicine in Las Cruces following a thorough national search.

Velasco, a family medicine specialist, is currently the associate dean of PreClinical Education and professor of epidemiology at Touro University College of Osteopathic Medicine in California. He also serves as chair of the Epidemiology and Biostatistics Section for the National Board for Osteopathic Medicine Examiners.

EDUARDO VELASCO

Velasco holds a medical degree from Mexico's National University (UNAM) and a family medicine specialist degree from Mexico's Technology Institute (IPN). In addition to his medical education, Dr. Velasco earned a master of science degree in health systems from Mexico's School of Public Health and a Ph.D. in epidemiology from Johns Hopkins University.

Velasco spent 14 years practicing family medicine before transitioning to a career in public health research and medical education. He has held leadership positions in Mexico's National Institute of Public Health/School of Public Health of Mexico, where he chaired two departments and served as the deputy director for academic development. He also held a tenured position at Morgan State University in Maryland, where he oversaw the public health master's and doctor of public health programs, the nursing program and the nutrition program.

In addition to his work within collegiate systems, Dr. Velasco has served as a grant reviewer for both the U.S. Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) and the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), as well as a consultant for the World Health Organization/Pan American Health Organization (WHO/PAHO).

"Dr. Velasco will join our senior leadership team, collaborating closely with the dean's office and our associate and assistant deans to oversee the academic elements of our degree program," says Dr. William Pieratt, dean and chief academic officer of the Burrell College. "His extensive career shows an ongoing dedication to the advancement of both medical education and the overall health of our society."

BCOM was established in 2013 to improve the health of the Southwestern U.S. and its border with northern Mexico. The four-year, private osteopathic medical school is student-centered, utilizing the latest medical education technologies and methods to ensure student success in all fields of medicine — from primary care to subspecialties like surgery, anesthesiology and emergency medicine. Las Cruces Public Schools warehouse staff recently delivered 73 boxes of dictionaries to 1,766 third-grade students in 26 elementary schools throughout the district.

The dictionaries were donated by the Rio Grande Rotary Club, continuing a tradition it began in Las Cruces in 2007. More than 30,000 dictionaries have been delivered in the past 15 years — some of the recipients are now college graduates.

The dictionaries weren't delivered in 2020 because of the pandemic, but the deliveries were restarted last year with the help of LCPS staff, who delivered them to the schools instead of Rotary Club members to keep everyone safe. That same plan was followed again this year, said Rotarian Gene Gant, a former member of the LCPS Board of Education and the New Mexico Public Education Commission. In-person delivery by club members will begin again next year, said Gant, who has been involved in the dictionary delivery since it began. He said club member Rob Shelton is taking over the reins of the project.

"A dictionary is a necessity for students and adults who wish to communicate well throughout life," Shelton said. "That is why the Las Cruces (Rio Grande) Rotary Club has provided every Las Cruces third grader with their own student dictionary since 2007. Until 2019, Rotarians enjoyed making the presentations to the students in their classrooms. Since the Covid pandemic, we have not been able to enter the schools; but, we have been assisted at LCPS by Bridgette Zigelhofer and the LCPS staff who picked up the dictionaries from the Rotary Club and delivered them to the schools where the third-grade teachers will make the presentations to the students. The Rotarians look forward to when we can once again make the presentations in person."

"We are proud to collaborate with the Rio Grande Rotary in the delivery of dictionaries to our third-grade students," Zigelhofer said. "There is something special about witnessing the excitement on a child's face when they receive their very own dictionary to take home. This program is a magnificent example of how the community partners with the school district to enrich the educational environment for our students."

Once the dictionaries arrive, Rotary Club members place a sticker on the inside of each dictionary cover, showing the club's Four-Way Test, which can be applied to "the things we think, say or do," according to Rotary International. It includes these questions: 1. Is it true? 2. Is it fair to all concerned? 3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships? 4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

The dictionaries have sections on everything from parts of speech, punctuation, the periodic table of elements and multiplication tables to facts about the American flag, the states, the presidents of the United States and the U.S. Constitution.

Each dictionary costs $3.50, Gant said.

"The cost is covered by a grant for Rotary District 5520 and about a third of it from our club membership," he said.

Santa Teresa student gets $40K Future Engineer scholarship from Amazon

BULLETIN REPORT

Ethan Garcia of Santa Teresa High School is one of 250 high-school seniors from "underserved communities across the country" who have been awarded an Amazon Future Engineer Scholarship, including a $40,000 scholarship to study computer science at a university of their choosing and a paid internship at Amazon after their freshman year of college, Amazon said in a news release.

ETHAN GARCIA

Garcia was selected "because he was willing to carve a path for himself in computer science, teaching himself to code and attended STEM summer programs," Amazon said.

"Despite usually being the only Hispanic present, I was not discouraged. Instead, I was more motivated to use this opportunity to represent my culture," Garcia said in the news release.

"My community is capable of exceeding in technology and I want to become an example of that. I want to show the world who I am, where I am from and how computer science can change lives," he said in his application.

Amazon awarded $40,000 scholarships to 250 students in 2022, for a total of $10 million, more than double the company's commitment from previous years, the news release said.

Scholarship recipients will also receive a paid internship at Amazon after their freshman year of college to gain hands-on, practical work experience with mentorship from Amazon leaders.

Since 2019, Amazon has awarded $22 million in scholarships through Amazon Future Engineer, the company's global philanthropic education program, to 550 U.S. high-school seniors from underserved and historically underrepresented communities.

This year's winners were chosen among thousands of applicants and more than 70 percent of scholarship recipients identified themselves as Black, Latinx and Native American, Amazon said. Scholarship recipients were chosen based on a variety of criteria, including their academic achievement, demonstrated leadership, participation in school and community activities, work experience, future goals and financial.

"Family Law"

From Canada comes this dramedy that follows a group of flawed family members who reluctantly work together at their father's law firm in downtown Vancouver. Jewel Staite ("Firefly"), Victor Garber ("Legends of Tomorrow"), Genelle Williams ("Warehouse 13") and Zach Smadu ("The Expanse") head the cast.

"Movie: Drunk Stoned Brilliant Dead: The Story of the National Lampoon"

Douglas Tirola's 2015 documentary is a love letter to the iconoclastic and often outrageous National Lampoon magazine, including extensive and previously unseen archival material and illustrations from its pages. The film also includes new interviews with Chevy Chase, "Animal House" director John Landis, Kevin Bacon, Tim Matheson, Beverly D'Angelo, writer P.J. O'Rourke, Billy Bob Thornton, John Goodman and a host of others.

"Movie: Permanent"

Bullied at her small-town Virginia school after getting a perm her clueless parents got her at a beauty school, 13-year-old Aurelie (Kira McLean, "The Veil") schemes to raise the money to get it corrected in this 1980s-set 2017 comedy from writer/director Colette Burson ("Hung"). Patricia Arquette and Rainn Wilson also star.

"Movie: Crush"

Forced to join her high school's track team, an aspiring artist uses it as an opportunity to pursue the girl she has a crush on — that is, until she starts falling for one of her teammates in this romantic comedy from director Sammi Cohen in her feature film directorial debut. Rowan Blanchard, Auli'i Cravalho, Isabella Ferreira and Tyler Alvarez head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

Secrets of the Whales

This Emmy-winning four-part series from Oscar-winning filmmaker and environmentalist James Cameron plunges viewers into the complex private world of whales to explore how these magnificent creatures experience life and love. Filmed over the course of three years in 24 global locations, the series ultimately reveals that whales are much more like humans than most people ever imagine. Part one, "Orca Dynasty," explores some of the unique strategies orcas around the world use to stay atop the food chain. The other three episodes immediately follow.

6 p.m. on TCM
Movie: Paper Moon

Tatum O'Neal won an Academy Award as best supporting actress for her precocious performance as Addie Loggins, a worldly-wise 9-year-old who hooks up with a smooth-talking con man (Ryan O'Neal) to criss-cross the Depression-era Midwest. Madeline Kahn, also Oscar-nominated, plays a colorful floozy they meet along the way in Peter Bogdanovich's lovingly directed 1973 comedy, filmed in black and white. The film airs tonight as part of a memorial tribute to the filmmaker, who died in January at age 82.

7 p.m. on KVIA2
Movie: 2040

Airing in observance of Earth Day 2022, filmmaker Damon Gameau's 2019 documentary explores a positive vision of the future, where humanity has solved climate change with solutions that are well within our reach in today's world. Motivated by fatherly concerns about the world his young daughter will inherit, Gameau draws from interviews he conducted during a global journey to meet innovators and change-makers and listen to their insights.

9 p.m. on KRWG
Movie: The Trick

This 90-minute docudrama stars Jason Watkins ("The Crown") as Phil Jones, a highly regarded scientist specializing in climate science. He and his wife, Ruth (Victoria Hamilton), see their calm lives blown up in 2009 by an act of cyberterrorism, wherein anonymous hackers steal thousands of emails from Jones and his climate team. Climate deniers pounce on the information, publishing it in a context that makes it appear Jones and his team exaggerated the dangers of climate change. George MacKay, Jerome Flynn ("Game of Thrones") and Adrian Edmondson co-star.

12 a.m. on NGC
Gorongosa: Paradise Reborn

"Africa's Eden" was the apt nickname for Gorongosa National Park until years of bitter war turned the region into something more akin to hell on Earth. Happily, though, the park is currently the focus of one of the most ambitious wildlife restoration efforts in history. This visually stunning nature documentary chronicles Gorongosa's inspiring story, as viewed through the journey of Mwana Nzo, a female elephant who survived all the violence to bear witness to her home's rebirth.

What's Available NOW On Disney+

"Sketchbook" (April 27)
From Disney Animation Studios and the creative forces behind "Chef's Table" comes this six-part series that gives an insider's look into the animation process as some of the Studios' talented artists teach viewers how to draw beloved Disney characters such as Kuzco from "Emperor's New Groove," Olaf from "Frozen" and young Simba from "The Lion King." (ORIGINAL)

"30 for 30: Four Days in October" (Available now)
From filmmaker Gary Waksman ("The Immortal: Ted Williams") comes this 2010 documentary that recalls the 2004 American League Championship Series, when the Boston Red Sox came back from a three games to none deficit to defeat their archnemesis New York Yankees, advance to the World Series and lay to rest the so-called "Curse of the Bambino" after 86 years.

"Raven's Home" (Available now)
The fifth season of this Disney Channel comedy continues the adventures of psychic single mom Raven Baxter (Raven-Symone, "The Cosby Show"), who shares an apartment with her twins Nia and Booker (Navia Ziraili Robinson, Issac Ryan Brown) and her best friend Chelsea (Anneliese van der Pol) and her son Levi (Jason Maybaum).

"Ghost and Molly McGee" (Available now)
This series of animated shorts follows the adventures of Scratch, a cranky ghost who is eternally cursed to be in the presence of polar opposite Molly McGee, a cheerful tween. Among those in the voice cast are Jordan Klepper ("The Daily Show"), Lara Jill Miller ("Doc McStuffins") and John DiMaggio ("Futurama").

Dan Sperry

6 p.m. on HALL
Movie: A Tail of Love

Bella Channing is dismayed to learn that the future of her dog rescue organization is in jeopardy after they lose funding from their primary sponsor, a dog food company that is being sold. JR Stockard, the son of the company's late owner, has come home on leave from military duty to coordinate the sale. During a visit to Bella's facility, JR bonds with a retired military dog, so he helps Bella in her quest to save the rescue. Brittany Bristow, Chris McNally and Jayne Eastwood star in this 2022 romance.

6 p.m. on LIFE
Movie: Greed: A Seven Deadly Sins Story

Interior designer Zuri Maxwell seems to have it all, including the love of a good man, an artist named Stephon. But too much of a good thing is never enough for Zuri, and greed rears its ugly head when she meets entrepreneur Godfrey Anderson and his insanely wealthy aunt, Miss Viv. Zuri is an easy target for Godfrey as he charms her and persuades her to compromise her values. Monique Coleman, Nathan Witte, Eric Benét and LisaRaye McCoy star in this new melodrama.

7 p.m. on OWN
Marry Me Now

In the new episode "Mickey and DC," Mickey always has looked to her grandparents as role models, since they've been married for 60 years. That's the kind of commitment Mickey wants to find with DC, but she'll have to find a way to resolve a conflict with his mother before popping the big question to him. Of course, the bigger question is whether DC will say yes to her proposal.

7:30 p.m. on KVIA2
Would I Lie to You?

For a new episode called "English Breakfast in Jail," host Aasif Mandvi welcomes guest panelists Jordan Klepper, Nikki James, John Hodgman and actor Michael Urie ("Ugly Betty") to join team captains Matt Walsh and Sabrina Jalees. Each team takes turns watching the body language and listening to the words as the opposing team relates a series of tales, which may or may not be completely fabricated.

8 p.m. on KVIA2
Masters of Illusion

For a new episode called "The Classics Remixed," host Dean Cain welcomes a new slate of illusionists, escape artists and similar performers to present another half-hour of jaw-dropping and even baffling magic. Stepping into the spotlight are Bill Cook, Dan Sperry, Tetro, Joel Meyer, Joshua Jay and Alex Ramon.

6 p.m. on STARZ
Gaslit

Inspired by a popular podcast, this suspenseful new docudrama chronicles previously untold stories, often involving forgotten characters, in the Watergate political scandal, from some of the subordinates to President Richard Nixon to the zealots aiding and abetting the crimes that eventually ended Nixon's presidency in 1974. The main players in the powerhouse ensemble include Sean Penn and Julia Roberts star as Attorney Gen. John Mitchell and his whistle-blowing wife, Martha, and Betty Gilpin ("GLOW") and Dan Stevens ("Downton Abbey") as Mo and John Dean.

7 p.m. on FOOD
Worst Cooks in America

Anne Burrell has a new co-host — former Food Network Star winner Jeff Mauro — as this hit reality cooking competition welcomes some new celebrity recruits. This batch of hapless kitchen novices may have been TV darlings back in the 1990s, but they never won points for their cooking. This season's recruits include Lori Beth Denberg ("All That"), Elisa Donovan ("Clueless"), Tracey Gold ("Growing Pains"), Jennie Kwan ("California Dreams"), Matthew Lawrence ("Boy Meets World"), Jodie Sweetin ("Full House") and Nicholle Tom ("The Nanny"), among others.

8 p.m. on KRWG
Sanditon on Masterpiece

In the Season 2 finale, Alison (Rosie Graham) prepares to leave Sanditon with her dreams of romance fading, while Esther (Charlotte Spencer) faces a bleak future. Elsewhere, Charlotte (Rose Williams) wonders what her future will look like, and Georgiana (Crystal Clarke) learns some shocking truths when Sidney's (Theo James) belongings are returned.

8 p.m. on BBCA
The North Water

Adapted from Ian McGuire's 2016 novel of the same title, this new British-Canadian miniseries stars Colin Farrell in the lead role of harpooner Henry Drax, a brutal killer who joins the crew of a whaling expedition to the Arctic. Also on board as ship doctor is Patrick Sumner (Jack O'Connell), a disgraced former Irish army surgeon seeking to escape the horrors of his past and redeem himself. What awaits him, however, is a harrowing fight for survival in a harsh alien landscape. The large cast also includes Stephen Graham, Tom Courtenay, Peter Mullan and Sam Spruell.

8:30 p.m. on FOOD
Inside Eats With Rhett & Link

YouTube stars and real-life BFFs Rhett McLaughlin and Link Neal have built a strong following on social media with countless video segments dedicated to learning about and trying new foods. Their new Food Network show focuses more on the familiar, however, as the duo go behind closed doors to meet the people who create many of the things we love to eat. In their first season, Rhett & Link visit Chipotle Mexican Grill, Coolhaus Ice Cream, The Cheesecake Factory and the innovation kitchens at Beyond Meat, among other businesses.

9 p.m. on KRWG
Before We Die

Season 1 of this crime drama concludes in a dramatic final showdown, as Detective Hannah Laing (Lesley Sharp) and the undercover police team attempt to bust the Mimicas' drug smuggling operation. Unfortunately, the crimefighters are in for an unpleasant surprise, to say the least. Vincent Regan, Dimitry Loubry, Issy Knopfler, Rebecca Scroggs and Patrick Gibson also star.

11 p.m. on HBO
Barry

Series co-creator and star Bill Hader returns to his Emmy-winning role of hitman-turned-actor Barry Berkman as this dark comedy returns following an extended pandemic-related hiatus. As the story resumes, Barry is desperately searching the dark web for jobs, while Sally (Sarah Goldberg), now starring in her own show, feels the pressures of success.

7 p.m. on KDBC
The Price Is Right at Night

Emmy winner Rachel Brosnahan (the Prime Video streaming comedy series "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel") is among those who "come on down" in the latest primetime edition of this long-running CBS game show, in which contestants try to win valuable prizes — which include a trip to Paris — by guessing their retail value. The actress will play alongside contestants to raise money for Covenant House, a charity that offers support to young people in need by providing shelter, food, crisis care and more. Drew Carey is the host.

11 p.m. on FX
Better Things

Series star, executive producer and frequent writer and director Pamela Adlon has said she wanted to wrap up the five-season run of this seriocomic show by pointing its major characters clearly toward their respective futures. That's surely the case for actress and single mom Sam Fox (Adlon) as the program reaches its end, but viewers also can expect resolutions for Sam's mother (Celia Imrie, for whom the production went to England to have her in its last episodes) and daughters (Mikey Madison, Hannah Alligood, Olivia Edward).

Kaley Ronayne

6 p.m. on DSC
Deadliest Catch

In a new episode called "Crushed at Sea," Captain Sig Hansen battles the elements to launch his risky new King Crab operation in Norway. Elsewhere, facing an Arctic storm, Johnathan Hillstrand sets pots deeper than he and his crew ever have before.

7 p.m. on KRWG
We Remember: Songs of Survivors

This new one-hour musical special, airing the week of Yom HaShoah (Holocaust Remembrance Day), celebrates the lives of Holocaust survivors through storytelling and music. The documentary follows four singer-songwriters in the Hudson Valley region of New York. who are tasked with creating original songs about the experiences of local Holocaust survivors. The film chronicles the relationships that develop and charts the songwriting process over several months, culminating in a highly emotional live concert.

7 p.m. on KFOX
The Resident

Conrad and Cade (Matt Czuchry, guest star Kaley Ronayne) gain new insight into prescription fraud while treating a Medicare patient in the new episode "Fork in the Road." Meanwhile, Leela'a (Anuja Joshi) performance suffers when she works herself ragged to avoid having a difficult conversation with Devon (Manish Dayal). Elsewhere, The Raptor and Padma (Malcolm-Jamal Warner, Aneesha Joshi) try to reach a compromise on how to move forward, while Kit and Bell (Jane Leeves, Bruce Greenwood) make a big decision about their own future.

7 p.m. on KVIA2
Superman & Lois

Superman (Tyler Hoechlin) speeds through the portal in pursuit of Ally (guest star Rya Kihlstedt), but when he arrives on the other side, he finds himself in a parallel Earth that is, in a word, bizarre, in the new episode "Bizarros in a Bizarro World." He quickly finds himself going on a discomfiting ride as he navigates his way through deceptively familiar faces and landscapes in his desperate bid to stop Ally from merging. Elizabeth Tulloch, Jordan Elsass, Alex Garfin, Dylan Walsh and Emmanuelle Chriqui also star.

8 p.m. on FOOD
Big Restaurant Bet

In the new episode "What Kind of Recipe Is This?!," the final four chefs are required to prove their recipes can be consistently pleasing as chef and restaurateur Geoffrey Zakarian attempts to cook them himself, which means the chefs' instructions must be clear and dependable enough to ensure success time after time. Then, Zakarian throws a private party at which the guests are local chefs and food critics — including picky eaters and dietary restrictions — to see whether the aspiring restaurateurs are able to adjust their dishes as needed.

9:01 p.m. on KTSM
New Amsterdam

Concluding a two-part episode, the new "Unfinished Business" finds the New Amsterdam medical team continuing to deal with the consequences of their boozy night out together. Max and Helen (Ryan Eggold, Freema Agyeman) have a candid conversation about their options for a future together, and Martin (recurring guest star Mike Doyle) finally discovers his husband Iggy's (Tyler Labine) secret. Meanwhile, Bloom (Janet Montgomery) helps Leyla (recurring guest star Shiva Kalaiselvan) avoid a potentially life-changing situation. Jocko Sims also stars.

10 p.m. on NGC
Primal Survivor: Escape the Amazon

Survivalist Hazen Audel fights his way through 500 miles of unexplored Amazon territory in South America using only traditional survival methods in this gripping and visually arresting nature adventure series. During his exhausting trek, he faces extreme environments, but as he confronts each challenge, he knows he must reach the Atlantic coast before he's trapped by floods during the rainy season. The series opener, "Poison Jungle," follows Audel as he hacks his way through the dense and dangerous rain forest.

What's Available NOW On NETFLIX

"David Spade: Nothing Personal"
The "Saturday Night Live" alum and comic makes his Netflix comedy debut with this stand-up special filmed in January at the Pantages Theatre in Minneapolis, in which he shares his disdain for crabs and his unique approach to turning down drugs — thus proving that no topic is off limits. (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: Silverton Siege"
From South Africa comes this actioner that's based on actual events in 1980, in which three young freedom fighters took hostages inside a bank to exchange for the release of Nelson Mandela. Thabo Rametsi ("Amandla"), Arnold Vosloo ("The Harrowing") and Noxolo Dlamini ("Liberty") head the cast for director Mandlakayise Dube ("Kalushi: The Story of Solomon Mahlangu"). (ORIGINAL)

"The 7 Lives of Lea"
This French crime drama series stars newcomer Raika Hazanavicius as the title character, a young woman who after finding a man's dead body, wakes up in the 1990s and body-swaps seven times to solve the mystery of his death as well as prevent it. Khalil Gharbia, Marguerite Thiam and Maira Schmitt also star. (ORIGINAL)

"Grace and Frankie"
The second half of the seventh and final season of this comedy series explores the further adventures of the titular duo played by Jane Fonda and Lily Tomlin as they continue to show themselves and their families what it means to fearlessly and unapologetically live life to the fullest. Martin Sheen, Sam Waterston, Ethan Embry and June Diane Raphael also return. (ORIGINAL)

In Focus

"Love Match Atlanta" (Bravo — series premiere, May 13)
This new docuseries chronicles the personal and professional lives of five of the most successful matchmakers serving the Black community of Atlanta. Matchmakers Ming Clark, Joseph Dixon, Kelli Fisher, Tana Gilmore and Shae Primus are part of the city's vibrant local social scene and they all know one another, although the dynamics of their circle include both friends and frenemies. Each draws on a distinct methodology and skill set as they try to outmaneuver one another to land elite clients ready to pay top dollar for their services.

movie review

BY JAY BOBBIN

Jennifer Lopez gives 'Hustlers' its real hustle

"Hustlers" boasts an impressive female cast, but there's little doubt who you'll remember the most from it.

Also a producer of the fact-based drama – which Freeform shows Monday, April 25, and Tuesday, April 26 – Jennifer Lopez has given herself a terrific role as the ringleader of a group of strippers who come up with a scheme to profit quite beautifully from practicing their profession. It has to do with bilking the wealthy men they coerce, but there's a lot more to the tale than that.

"Hustlers" also is a story of true sisterhood and of surviving tough financial times, especially when you're a single parent who also has to fend for your child. Constance Wu plays a newcomer to the group, and you almost can understand why she was so upset about having to return to TV's "Fresh Off the Boat" if it meant having to turn down projects like this. The characters are well-defined and generally well-played, giving this a boost above a typical con-artist saga while also furnishing the means for good work by a number of actresses.

"Hustlers"

Lili Reinhart of "Riverdale" also is on board, as is Keke Palmer, who around the same time became a daytime talk-show co-host on the now-defunct "GMA3: Strahan & Sara & Keke." Julia Stiles appears as the reporter who wrote the actual story that inspired the movie, which was written and directed by actress turned filmmaker Lorene Scafaria ("The Meddler," "Seeking a Friend for the End of the World").

tonight's picks

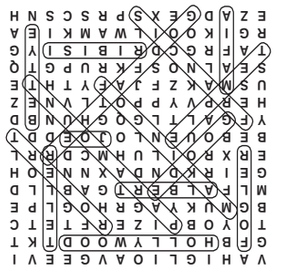
Adhir Kalyan

7:31 p.m. on KDBC
United States of Al

Al (Adhir Kalyan) decides he's finally ready to take his relationship with Cindy (guest star Jayma Mays) to the next level, but things go awry when he falls prey to a devastating attack of nerves in the new episode "Sock/Jeraab." Meanwhile, Riley (Parker Young) is stunned when he learns something about Vanessa (Kelli Goss) that leaves him wondering whether they are on the same page where their relationship is concerned. Elizabeth Alderfer and Farrah Mackenzie also star.

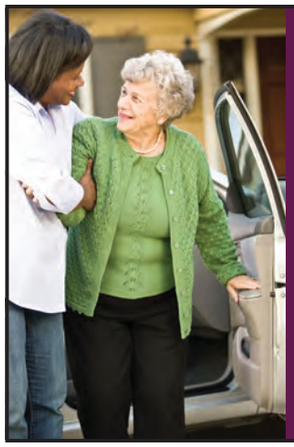


8 p.m. on KVIA2
Legacies

As Hope (Danielle Rose Russell) continues her fight against impossibly long odds, Lizzie (Jenny Boyd) comes up with a plan that might provide significant help in the new episode "I Wouldn't Be Standing Here If It Weren't for You." Meanwhile, Cleo (Omono Okojie) grows more apprehensive about what her fearsome visions could mean for those she loves, as Alaric (Matthew Davis) sends Kaleb, Ethan and MG (Chris Lee, Leo Howard, Quincy Fouse) on a high-stakes mission. Elsewhere, Landon (Aria Shahghasemi) makes a surprising discovery.

8:01 p.m. on KFOX
Call Me Kat

TV networks love crossover events, when they can use one of their shows to promote another one, but tonight's episode of this Mayim Bialik sitcom is synergy on steroids. Entitled "Call Me Flatch," the episode finds characters from time-slot neighbor "Welcome to Flatch" — Kelly and Shrub (Holmes, Sam Straley) — who drop by Kat's (Bialik) Cat Cafe in Louisville, Ky., during a road trip they're on.



Help your loved one make a safe return home.

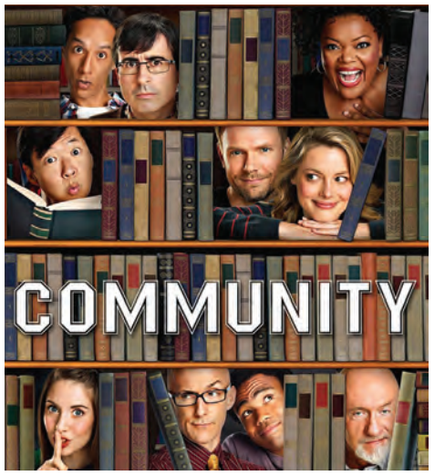
What's Available NOW On prime video



"Community"

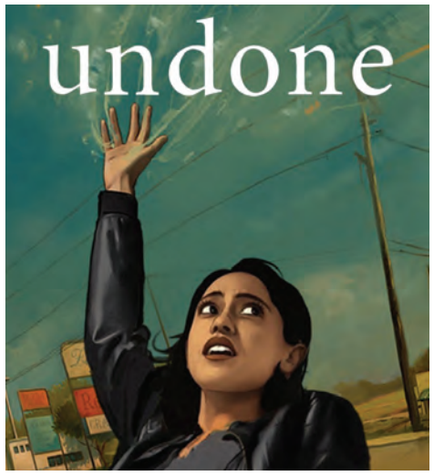
All six seasons of this 2009-15 cult hit sitcom about a disbarred lawyer (Joel McHale) forced to enroll at a community college with an eccentric staff and student body comes to the streaming service. Created by Dan Harmon ("Rick and Morty"), the series boasts a talented cast that includes Gillian Jacobs, Alison Brie, Danny Pudi, Ken Jeong, Yvette Nicole Brown, Jim Rash and Donald Glover. (ORIGINAL)

"A Very British Scandal"

From creator Sarah Phelps ("The Crimson Field") comes this three-part miniseries that focuses on the 1963 divorce of the Duke and Duchess of Argyll, a notorious and scandalous legal case rife with accusations of adultery, forgery, theft, violence, drug use and bribery. Paul Bettany and Claire Foy star as the couple, in a cast with Julia Davis, Camilla Rutherford and Sophia Myles. (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: I Love America"

From France comes this comedy that stars Sophie Marceau ("Sex, Love & Therapy") as Lisa, an empty nester who leaves Paris following the death of her mother to make a fresh start and find love again in Los Angeles. Djanis Bouzyani, Colin Woodell, Monika Casey and Carlease Burke also star for writer/director Lisa Azuelos ("Dalida"). (ORIGINAL)



"Undone"

The sophomore round of this animated drama picks up with Alma (voice of Rosa Salazar) realizing that there are deeper mysteries in her family's past but no one is interested in helping her unearth uncomfortable truths — that is, until she persuades sister Becca (voice of Angelique Cabral) to join her. Bob Odenkirk, Constance Marie and Daveed Diggs are also in the voice cast. (ORIGINAL)

NOTICE is hereby given that on March 8, 2022, Dal J Frost, 13300 Smokey Rd., La Mesa, NM 88044, filed with the STATE ENGINEER Application No. LRG-16597-POD2, OSE File No. LRG-16597-1, for Permit to Drill and Use a Replacement Well within the Lower Rio Grande Underground Water Basin of the State of New Mexico.
Dona Ana is the County affected by the diversion and in which the water has been or will be put to beneficial use. This notice is ordered to be published in the Las Cruces Bulletin.
Use of well LRG-16597-PODl, located within the SW¼ of Sec. 35, T24S, R02E, NMPM, and more specifically located at or near the intersection X= 1497628 ft and Y= 427629 ft, NMSP, Central NAD83, on land owned by the applicant, will be replaced by proposed well LRG-16597-POD2 which is to be located within the SW¼ of said Sec. 35 at the approximate intersection X=1497638 ft and Y= 427634 ft, NMSP, Central NAD83, on land owned by the applicant for the continued diversion of up to 3.0 acre-feet per annum of shallow groundwater for domestic purposes as described in Subfile No. LRS 28-005-0099 B of the Lower Rio Grande Hydrographic Survey. The site of the proposed well, LRG-16597-POD2, is in Mesquite, NM, approximately 730 ft NE of the intersection of Smokey Rd. and Vine Ave. Original well LRG-16597-PODl will be plugged. The applicant has requested emergency authorization to drill the proposed well under NMSA, 1978, Section 72-12-22.
To view the application and supporting documentation contact the State Engineer District Office to arrange a date and time for an appointment located at 1680 Hickory Loop, Suite J, Las Cruces, NM 88005.
Any person, firm or corporation or other entity asserting standing to file objections or protests shall do so in writing (objection must be legible, signed, and include the writer's complete name, phone number, email address, and mailing address). If the protest does not include the complete name, phone number, email address, and mailing address, it may be deemed invalid and not accepted for filing unless Protestant provides with the protest an affidavit stating that it does not have one of the above-listed elements/requirements (phone number, mailing address, email address, etc.). The objection to the approval of the application must be based on: (1) Impairment; if impairment, you must specifically identify your water rights; and/or (2) Public Welfare/Conservation of Water; if public welfare or conservation of water within the state of New Mexico, you shall be required to provide evidence showing how you will be substantially and specifically affected.
The written protest must be filed, in triplicate, with the State Engineer, 1680 Hickory Loop, Suite J., Las Cruces, NM 88005, on or before June 10, 2022. Facsimiles (faxes) will be accepted as a valid protest if the hard copy is hand-delivered or mailed and postmarked within 24-hours of the facsimile. Mailing postmark will be used to validate the 24- hour period. Protests can be faxed (575) 524-6160. If no valid protest or objection is filed, the State Engineer will evaluate the application in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 72 NMSA 1978.

‘A celebration of Mexican culture’

NY Times best-selling author to sign her latest offering ‘Flirting with Fate’

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Time Magazine, Parade and Buzzfeed have all named “Flirting with Fate” one of the most anticipated books of 2022, and the writer lives right here in Las Cruces.

New York Times best-selling author Jennifer Cervantes will sign the brand-new young adult novel at an event at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 23, at the Barnes & Noble Bookstore in the Mesilla Valley Mall, 700 S. Telshor Blvd.

“Flirting with Fate” is “a celebration of the Mexican culture,” Cervantes said, and is reflective of the southern California family she was born and raised in, and the family she raised in Las Cruces with husband Joseph Cervantes, a lawyer and state senator.

BULLETIN FILE PHOTO BY MIKE COOK

It was standing room only when Jennifer Cervantes signed copies of “Storm Runner” at Barnes & Noble Bookstore at Mesilla Valley Mall in September 2018. She will sign copies of her latest book, “Flirting with Fate,” at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 23, at the same Barnes & Noble.

Like the Cervantes’ three daughters, the characters in the book “take care of each other and love each other,” Cervantes said. She called on memories from her own teen years and raising her girls to create the characters and their very real emotions.

“We’ve all been through it,” Cervantes said. “We all know the saga of being a teenager.”

The story of sisterhood also has the elements of magic that you will find in all Cervantes’ novels.

“I always lean into magic realism,” she said.

And, as she does with all her books, the first thing Cervantes imagined for “Flirting with Fate” was its opening scene.

“I saw a woman on her deathbed, whispering into this young woman’s ear,” she said. “I wanted to know what she was whispering.”

And clearly, readers want to know what Cervantes is writing: Seven publishing houses bid for the right to publish “Flirting with Fate,” her 10th book.

Another young adult novel by Cervantes, “Fractured Path,” will be published this July. It is the third in Disney-Hyperion’s “The Mirror” fairytale quartet, which follows a family’s curse through multiple generations. Each of the four books is written by a different author.

To write “Fractured Path,” which is set in northern California in 1965, Cervantes traveled to San Francisco, “just to get a sense of the streets she (lead character Blake) would have walked,” Cervantes said.

That’s one of the perks of being a best-selling author: “I get to travel and do research in some pretty incredible places,” she said.

The actual writing takes place in the in-home studio that husband Joseph created for her. (He has both a bachelor’s and a

‘The Villains of Broadway’ postponed, will now open April 29

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Editor’s note: “The Villains of Broadway” April 22-24 performances at Las Cruces Community Theatre have been canceled. Performances scheduled for Friday-Sunday, April 29-May 1 are expected to go on as scheduled. Visit www.lcctnm.org.

Las Cruces Community Theatre (LCCT) presents “A Little Bit Bad: The Villains of Broadway,” a musical revue, for several live performances.

Shows are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 29-30 at 7:30 p.m., and 2 p.m. Sunday May 1 at LCCT, 313 N. Main St. Downtown.

The production is an ensemble of many of LCCT’s most popular actors and singers, including many you have already seen in plays and musicals this season. They will be performing music from old and new Broadway productions featuring some of its most famous baddies.

Here is the lineup of songs, shows and performers:

• “Poor Unfortunate Souls,” from “The Little Mermaid,” performed by Vanessa Dabovich as Ursula;

• “Little Girls” from “Annie,” with LCCT Board President Janet Beatty-Payne as Miss Hannigan;

• “Miss Baltimore Crabs” from “Hairspray,” with Lennie Brown as Velma Von Tussle;

• “Evil Like Me,” from “The Descendants,” with Lennie Brown as Malefi-

Bri Bagwell, a Las Cruces native, will be one of the stars who will be performing during Amador Dayz May 5-7.

For Frank Ray and Bri Bagwell, Amador Dayz 2022 is a homecoming.

Ray is part of the Thursday, May 5, lineup at Amador Live, while Bagwell performs Friday, May 6.

Another local favorite, Satisfied, with Karlos Saucedo, is also on the May 5 list of performers.

A native of Deming, New Mexico who was raised in Texas and southern New Mexico, Ray was a Las Cruces police officer for 10 years before beginning his career as a full-time country music singer and songwriter. He was featured in People magazine in a story published in January, about a week after Ray's 32nd birthday. He was featured in a CMT News story last June.

Ray released his first album, "Different Kind of Country," in 2018. His single, "Country'd Look Good on You," is currently climbing the charts. "Streetlights," which Ray co-wrote, was his first single.

Bagwell is a Las Cruces native who began performing locally at age 14, using a keyboard she found in her parents' garage. They later bought her a used piano at an auction. She also sang in the Mayfield High School Chorus and formed her first band with her brothers Bryan and Brandan, who are twins. Bagwell began a full-time music career more than a decade ago and has hit the big time in Texas as a singer-songwriter.

A native of Las Cruces, Tejano singer Saucedo has been performing since age 6. "Suenos" (Dreams) is the title of his first album, released in 2017.

Here is the lineup:

• Wednesday, May 4: Mega trivia, interactive quiz show, begins at 7 p.m.; first come, first served on the outdoor lawn; free to play, with a recommendation of at least five people per team.

• Thursday, May 5: Headliner: AB Quintanilla III y Los Kumbia Kings; featuring: Frank Ray; also playing: Satisfied, with Karlos Saucedo and El Paso's Radio La Chusma. The host is Latin king of comedy original Alex Reymundo. Performing at the FatCrates beer garden: Jordano Baby, Grupo A1, EMEKU and DJ NEOKIDD.

• Friday, May 6: Headliner: Grupo Metal featuring Chris Perez; featuring: DJ Henry Fong and Bri Bagwell; special guest: Ricardo Castillon y La Diferenzia; also playing: regional favorite Unlyshed. The host again is Alex Reymundo. Performing at the FatCrates beer garden: DJ Mischievous; DJ NEOKIDD; and Legit Alpha.

• Saturday, May 7: Headliner: Los Huracanes del Norte; featuring: Revancha Nortena; special guest: regional favorite Che Che Rodriguez; also performing: El Paso's Frequenzia and La Culpa Nortena. Performing in the FatCrates Beer Garden: Grupo A1, Jornado Baby; Cen and DJ NEOKIDD.

For the Thursday-Saturday, May 5, 6 and 7 live performances, doors open at 4 p.m. General admission for each day is $50 if you buy tickets online or $60 at the door.

For tickets, call 1-877-466-3404 or visit www.amadorlive.com.

The Range to host its first-ever vendor, food market April 23

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Range, 3217 El Camino Road in Las Cruces, will host its first-ever "El Camino Mercado" vendor and food market, 5 to 11 p.m. Saturday, April 23.

There is no charge to attend the event, which will include food trucks and local arts and crafts vendors.

There also will be an art class held during the mercado. All supplies are included in the class, which will be taught by Alyssa Trujillo.

The cost of the class is $35, and tickets must be purchased in advance at therangelc.com/store.

Art class sessions will be 5:30-7:30 p.m. and 8-10 p.m.

LOGAN SAGE

At the end of the art class, "you will be taking home your own acrylic masterpiece," The Range said.

The Range co-founders Logan Sage and Josh Tellez are hopeful the mercado can become a regular event "for people to enjoy themselves," Sage said. With a slogan of "We're open late, so bring your date," the event is "the perfect date night for all ages," Sage said.

The Range event venue and recording studio opened in May 2019. "We work to provide an environment where artists of any medium can feel comfortable and encouraged to express themselves, and where members of our community can always have a good time," Sage and Tellez said.

master's degree in architecture in addition to a juris doctorate.)

"It means so much to me that he designed and built it," Cervantes said. "He used his own magic so I could live in my imagination."

The studio's bookcases are filled with books by Cervantes' favorite authors, including thrillers, mysteries, romances and other genres. A particular favorite is "Big Magic" by Elizabeth Gilbert.

"I love to read widely," Cervantes said.

There are also a few shelves devoted to her own books, showing them in at least 10 different languages from around the world.

Cervantes will be needing even more space, with three more novels scheduled for publication in 2023. And, due out this October is "The Lords of Night," the first book in her "Shadow Bruja" duology.

Her books about Mesoamerican culture and lore "reflect the authenticity of the culture," Cervantes said. "I take poetic license," she said, to present the ancient Mayan civilization in such a way that young readers are entertained and also learn about a culture and civilization that few others are writing about.

"The Lords of Night" and the books in Cervantes' "Storm Runner" series also "help a kid parse out what's real and what's fantastical," she said.

It all began for Cervantes when she wrote "Tortilla Sun" in 2010 as a story for her youngest daughter about her treasured "Julie Bear" stuffed animal.

Today, Cervantes is writing full time and connecting with readers across the country and around world in person and via Zoom.

"Living a creative life is a beautiful way to live," Cervantes said.

‘Planting the Seed:’ Retreat center celebrates Earth Day

BULLETIN REPORT

Holy Cross Retreat and NM CAFé are sponsoring two events to commemorate Earth Day. Collectively, the celebration is called “Planting the Seed.”

At 6:30 p.m. Friday, April 22, the Holy Cross Retreat Center will host an interfaith service “to pray for a common respect for our planet and action to improve our ecological awareness,” said center Director Father Tom Smith. “Leaders from various faith groups will lead us through music, prayer and a reflection by Rev. Canon Dr. Henry Atkins of the Episcopal Church. There will be a small reception afterwards to visit together,” Smith said.

BULLETIN FILE PHOTO

Holy Cross Retreat Center, located in Mesilla Park, provides a scenic backdrop and will host Earth Day events April 22-23.

From 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, April 23, the retreat center will have 10 presenters “giving practical information about planting trees and seeds in the desert, pruning roses, preserving water, appreciating our parks, etc., plus an opportunity to help paint a mural, plant a tree and talk with an owner of an electric car,” Smith said. Burritos and biscochos will be available as well.

April 23 participants will include officials from the Asombro Institute for Science Education/Chihuahuan Desert Nature Park; Thomas Branigan Memorial Library Tierra Sagrada Program; Doña Ana County Cooperative Extension Service, including master gardeners; La Semilla Food Center; and Friends of the Organ Mountains-Desert Peaks.

This artwork, from the “Planting the Seed” poster designed by Deb Isham of Holy Cross Retreat, shows St. Francis of Assisi, who wrote a “Canticle of the Creatures.”

These are free events for families and adults, Smith said.

Holy Cross Retreat Center is located at 600 Holy Cross Road in Mesilla Park, two miles south of University Avenue off South Main Street.

NM CAFé is a faith-based community-organizing nonprofit in Las Cruces.

This is the first year for these Earth Day events, Smith said.

“We hope to have it as an annual event,” he said.

New Partnerships for Las Cruces Recycling

Submitted by South Central Solid Waste Authority

South Central Solid Waste Authority (SCSWA) has started a new relationship that will enhance recycling for Las Cruces residents.

Since January 1, 2022, the original processor that held the recycling contract with SCSWA to handle sending its recycling out to market, Friedman Recycling, sold its operations to Waste Connections.

"Going forward, Las Cruces residents will be receiving a higher quality of service at the curb," said Miguel Fernandez, SCSWA program administrator. "By partnering with a private organization this large, SCSWA's ability to maintain and grow more sustainable recycling program increases. Residents can rest assured that their recyclables are being sent to markets to create new products."

Waste Connections is the third-largest solid waste management company in North America, with a network of operations in 41 states and six provinces in Canada.

Fernandez explained that recyclable materials need to be shipped to different markets to process raw materials. Las Cruces' location is a barrier logistically. Fernandez explained that the organization has the logistics to move more material for sale. Residents won't see a shift in how their recycling is taken from their curb since Waste Connections, doing business as BARCO, will be using the same Friedman Recycling sites in El Paso and Albuquerque.

"Recycling is still on a roll, even with a possibly wider reach," said Fernandez. "Waste Connections has a solid formula endorsed by professionals in the industry that will allow them and SCSWA to drive a sustainable recycling system to even greater success."

Fernandez continued, "Waste Connections' slogan is 'Together We Are Better' and that includes our customers. Recycling depends on residents choosing to do better. For Las Cruces, the answer from our customers is that a strong recycling program is important to the quality of life for our city. This partnership will ensure that."

South Central Solid Waste Authority manages recyclables and solid waste for residents and businesses throughout Doña Ana County. Contact SCSWA at (575) 528-3800 or visit www.SCSWA.net.

Renowned tuba player brings motivational talk to local area

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

Richard Antoine White's mother was a hero.

Homeless as a child, White was often hungry and cold. He said his imagination saved his life. Sometimes, he had to imagine a warm blanket and food in his stomach.

"My mom is a hero because she did the hardest thing — to give a kid up," he said.

For a long time, he disliked his foster parents; they made him follow rules. He said at first when they fed him three times a day, they would give him a sandwich and he would put half in his pocket. He didn't understand when they told him he could have a sandwich any time he wanted.

COURTESY PHOTO

Richard Antoine White will be the guest during the Mesilla Valley Film Society's fund-raiser at 7 p.m. April 30 at the Fountain Theatre.

Today, White has navigated his powerful imagination, which he calls his superpower, into a lifetime as a world-renowned tubist.

In fourth grade he discovered the trumpet and went into the school music program. The "music motion and emotion" taught him to learn and behave in school (because if he didn't, his foster parents would take away the trumpet). In middle school, he became frustrated as one in a sea of trumpets and, looking around, focused on the lone sousaphone in the room and decided on that instead.

His skill got him into the arts magnet school, Baltimore School for the Arts, and from there he went on to eventually be the first African American man to earn a doctorate in the tuba. He has played in symphonies and numerous other on-stage performance venues. Today, he is a full professor of the tuba and euphonium (baby tuba) at the University of New Mexico.

But that is not the end; in fact, his bucket list is just getting started.

At the top of the list is a nonprofit he calls the RAW Tuba Ranch he is starting in Bernalillo County.

"The goal is inspiring hope, establishing the RAW Tuba Foundation," White said. "It will be a place of fellowship where you can come and be yourself — a music school and an art school."

Two more things on his list include being able to say, "I played a recital on all seven continents," and to create a tuba yoga CD with the help of some colleagues.

At 7 p.m. Saturday, April 30, White will be bringing his own brand of motivational speaking to the Fountain Theatre, 2469 Calle de Guadalupe, in Mesilla for a Mesilla Valley Film Society (MVFS) fund-raiser event.

He said he is passionate about sharing his inspiration and will be visiting various schools on that day to speak with students.

The MVFS event, "An Evening with Richard Antoine White," includes a screening of the documentary, "Hi, I'm Richard Antoine White," a presentation, tuba performance and signing of his memoir "I'm Possible: A Story of Survival, A Tuba, and the Miracle of a Big Dream."

Tickets are $50 and are available in advance. The memoir is available for $20 ($28 at the book signing).

A hundred tickets will be sold, and masks are recommended. For more information call 575-524-8287 or go to www.mesillavalleyfilm.org.

"I am spreading hope in a time we need it — embracing humanity with hope and music," White said. "I am a believer that there are thousands of problems in the world, but 99 percent could be solved if we could just be kind. If there is a statement I could wear on my heart, that would be it."

Community invited to paint by numbers during participatory mural event

BULLETIN REPORT

Community members of all ages and artistic backgrounds are invited to help create a paint-by-numbers participatory mural at Raíces del Saber Xinachtli Community School, 2211 N. Valley Drive, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, April 30, and Sunday, May 1, Cruces Creatives nonprofit makerspace said in an email.

The project "scales up the principle of paint-by-numbers drawings to let the public create public art," Cruces Creatives said.

The project will also help beautify the school and involve the community more with it and "celebrate students' accomplishments in creating the mural design."

The design for the mural was developed as part of an afterschool enrichment program by students at Raíces, with guidance from Cruces Creatives, Las Cruces artist Celina Corral and Raíces instructors Kayla Martinez and Anita Lara.

Funding comes from the Deupree Family Foundation and the NMSU STEM Outreach Center.

"Through making-related interventions, Cruces Creatives, 205 E. Amador Ave., works to strengthen education, foster economic development, support the arts, protect the environment, advance science and technology and improve social connections and quality of life," the email said.

Raíces is a bilingual community school that provides a curriculum grounded in Mesoamerican indigenous ways of learning.

High court creates panel to improve response to mental health issues

BULLETIN REPORT

BRIANA ZAMORA

MICHAEL VIGIL

K. LYNN GALLAGHER

The New Mexico Supreme Court has created a permanent commission to improve how the justice system responds to people experiencing mental health-related issues.

The New Mexico Commission on Mental Health and Competency will include representatives of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government, tribal governments, advocates for behavioral health services and housing, those with a life experience in mental health issues, and criminal justice system partners — law enforcement, prosecutors and defense counsel, the court said in a news release.

"The commission will develop a roadmap for New Mexico to better meet the behavioral health needs of adults and juveniles who come into contact with our state judicial system," said Justice Briana Zamora, who will serve as the court's liaison to the commission.

"The creation of this Judicial Commission is a great step forward for New Mexico and has never been more critical," said K. Lynn Gallagher, director of the City of Las Cruces Quality of Life Department and the former secretary of the New Mexico Department of Health.

"The commission can foster a collaborative response in our courts and communities to effectively and fairly respond to those with mental health issues," said Supreme Court Justice Michael Vigil.

The commission will have a broad range of responsibilities, including reviewing policies and procedures concerning a person's competency to stand trial and considering how to better identify people in need of mental health treatment before they enter the justice system.

The commission also is to explore ways of expanding the behavioral health resources available in communities and courts statewide, particularly in underserved communities and rural areas.

The court will appoint the commission's 17 voting members and is encouraging participation by other groups and governmental organizations as ex-officio members, including the New Mexico chapter of the National Alliance on Mental Illness, the New Mexico Human Services Department's Behavioral Health Services Division, the state Children, Youth and Families Department's Behavioral Health Division, the New Mexico Behavioral Health Institute, the state Department of Corrections, state Indian Affairs Department, state Department of Veterans Services and New Mexico Association of Counties.

The court is seeking applicants for the commission.

Applicants should send a letter of interest to Supreme Court Chief Clerk Elizabeth Garcia by email to nmsupremecourtclerk@nmcourts.gov, by fax to 505-827-4837 or by first-class mail to P.O. Box 848, Santa Fe, NM 87504.

Applicants should limit their letters to two pages, indicate which position they are seeking and describe (1) why they wish to serve on the commission, (2) what they bring to the commission and (3) their professional experience with mental health and competency issues.

Letters of interest should be submitted by 5 p.m. Friday, May 27.

The court has several permanent commissions working on justice system issues, including the Commission on Access to Justice and the Children's Court Improvement Commission.

Healthy Kids grants open through May 13

BULLETIN REPORT

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Mexico (BCBSNM) is accepting applications for its Healthy Kids, Healthy Families (HKHF) grant initiative through Friday, May 13, for programs occurring July 1, 2022- June 30, 2023, BCBSNM said in a news release.

CBSNM said it is encouraging applications from nonprofit organizations with innovative programs that are working to improve the health and wellness of New Mexico's children and their families.

BCBSNM's HKHF grants invest in nonprofits that offer sustainable, measurable programs in nutrition, physical activity, disease prevention and management, and supporting safe environments. This year, HKHF grant focus areas will also expand to include programs focusing on social and community context, economic stability, neighborhood and built environment, and education access and quality.

All applications must be submitted online. Visit www.bcbsnm.com/company-info/community-involvement/healthy-kids-healthy-families. Or, visit www.bcbsnm.com, click on "Company Information" at the top of the page and then click on "Healthy Kids, Healthy Families" in the Company Info box on the left.

BCBSNM, a division of Health Care Service Corporation, is a health insurance company.

State budget includes funding to continue chile labor program

BULLETIN REPORT

As part of the fiscal year 2023 state budget signed by Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham in March, the New Mexico Department of Agriculture received $1 million in appropriations to continue the Chile Labor Incentive Program (CLIP).

The program which was created by the governor at the prompting of New Mexico legislators in August 2021 to assist chile farmers and processors because of labor shortages reported by the industry. About $2.8 million was delivered to chile growers in the state at that time.

The additional $1 million in funding was included in the FY23 budget at the request of state Sens. Jeff Steinborn, D-Doña Ana, and Crystal Diamond, R-Doña Ana, Luna, Hidalgo and Sierra, the two senators said in a news release.

The program supports chile farmers and processors by supplementing the wages of workers to incentivize hiring and retention of the seasonal workforce necessary to harvest and process New Mexico chile crops, NMDA said in an April news release.

The deadline for all applications is May 1, 2025, and funds will be disbursed on a first-come-first-serve basis until the allocated funds have been fully utilized, NMDA said.

CRYSTAL DIAMOND

JEFF STEINBORN

"This temporary aid will help our family farms in desperate need of workers," Diamond said in the senators' joint news release. "Our agriculture industry is the backbone of our state's economy, and for every community and family that relies on a strong chile harvest, this wage program represents a small step toward recovery."

"As our chile farmers struggle to find workers to harvest our prized state chile crop, it's essential that we help support them meet the global demand.

Red chile grows in a New Mexico field. The Chile Labor Incentive Program continues thanks to a $1M appropriation.

Hatch and New Mexico have worked hard to establish a global brand for our chile, and we want to ensure we meet the demand," Steinborn said.

"By having CLIP funding available, we will be able to continue assisting the chile industry by distributing the labor-wage supplemental funding as needed in order to ensure the crop is harvested and processed," New Mexico Agriculture Secretary Jeff Witte said in the NMDA news release.

"CLIP provided much needed relief to members of our industry and their ability to harvest and process chile during the 2021 season," said New Mexico Chile Association Executive Director Travis Day. "We are thankful to see the program continue providing further relief for our industry, while we work toward long-term solutions to address labor shortage issues."

Cattle growers sponsor youth essay contest

BULLETIN REPORT

The New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association (NMCGA) is sponsoring its second annual Heritage Buckle Contest in all 33 New Mexico counties, NMCGA said in a news release.

Youth ages 9-15 are eligible to enter the contest, which requires the submission of a 200- to 500-word essay on the topic of "How will you build on the legacy of agriculture in New Mexico?"

Essay submission deadline is Wednesday, June 1.

NMCGA board members, county fair board members and award sponsors will collaborate in deciding the final winners, NMCGA said. Each county winner will receive a belt buckle and a one-year junior NMCGA membership. Because NMCGA received so many outstanding essays, it will offer a $1,000 heritage scholarship to one overall state winner.

"This contest shows the passion kids in rural New Mexico have for their agricultural roots," said NMCGA President Loren Patterson. "It inspires us all to remember why we do what we do to feed America."

For more information on the contest, including the contest rules and entry form, visit www.nmagriculture.org/heritage-contest.html or call 505-247-0584.

NMCGA has more than 1,200 members, including more than 50 members in Doña Ana County.

Aggies see no limits during new era for football

DAVE BURGE
Beyond the pressbox

A new era has dawned for New Mexico State University football and everyone associated with the program seems to be bubbling over with enthusiasm.

Thursday, April 14, the Aggie football team wrapped up its first set of spring practices under new coach Jerry Kill with an informal scrimmage/spring game in front of several thousand fans at Aggie Memorial Stadium.

Afterwards, hundreds of fans went on the field to meet players and coaches and collect autographs.

"They used to draw 20,000 people to high-school football games (here in Las Cruces)," Kill told the media after the spring game. "To me, this has a lot of football town in it. We have to put a good product out on the field. We owe it to Las Cruces and we will work our tail off to do that."

The New Mexico State University football team culminated 15 days of spring practice with an informal scrimmage/spring game April 14.

Kill inherits a team that went 2-10 last year. New Mexico State also has a reputation for being one of the hardest places in college football to put together a consistent winning program.

The NCAA allows college football programs to have 15 days of spring practice.

Kill said he liked the enthusiasm and effort he saw from his players during the spring practices, which were spread out over nearly a month.

"We got a long way to go mentally and physically," Kill said. "The effort and enthusiasm give you a chance. We have a lot to learn but I am proud of the kids and their effort."

Kill said both the offense and defense had "their moments" during the culminating spring scrimmage.

"The big thing: It wasn't sloppy," he said.

What the team needs to continue to work on is what Kill calls "alignment and assignment," lining up in the correct place and doing your assigned job.

"We have to learn how to play football," Kill said. "The positive things are what you seen here tonight — the enthusiasm they played with. They are having fun playing the game. That is half the battle.

"Misalignments and missed assignments will beat you long before mismatches," he added.

Kordell David, a junior wide receiver who transferred from Trinity Valley College in east Texas, said he really likes coach Kill and what the coaching staff is trying to do.

"We have done a lot of growing together," David said.

Syrus Dumas, a junior defensive back from Mississippi, played for last year's Aggie team and what he has seen so far under the new coaching regime has been "amazing."

"Everything is different, the intensity of practice," Dumas said. "First of all, the intensity of the coaching, the intake of the players, the focus, the daily dedication from the weight room to the field, from the film room to the field."

Dumas said he didn't want to place any predications on what the team will do this fall.

2 Las Cruces area track athletes win at Meet of Champions

By DAVE BURGE
Las Cruces Bulletin

Two Las Cruces area track and field athletes won gold in what is widely considered to be a preview of the state championship meet.

Organ Mountain High School's Shaolin Munir took first place in the girls javelin competition (130 feet, 11 inches) at the Marilyn Sepulveda Meet of Champions Monday, April 11, at the UNM Track Stadium in Albuquerque.

Centennial High's Agalelei Pili won the girls discus (126-3) at the same meet. Pili also took third place in the shot put (38-9).

"The Meet of Champions is a meet where you get a rare opportunity to match up with some of the best track performers in all classifications," Organ Mountain High track coach David Nuñez said. "It serves as a nice gauge of where you stand currently in an event and how you compare with the state's competition.

"Getting invited to the meet is an accomplishment in of itself," Nuñez said. "Las Cruces was well-represented and all track athletes did an amazing job for their respective schools."

The annual meet is by invitation only and athletes are chosen from classes 1A to 5A, based on overall ranking in each event. The top eight are invited to the meet for each event. No team score is tallied at the meet.

Organ Mountain had several other athletes who participated in the meet.

James Limon was second in the boys 200 meters (22.69) and fifth in the 100 meters (11.55). Beto Garcia was second in the boys javelin (154-8), and teammate Jonathan Torres was second in the boys pole vault (13-0).

Other standouts for the Knights were: Marisa Harrington, fourth place in girls 100 meters (13.15) and fifth in the 200 (26.75); Brett Bybee, fourth in the boys 1,600 meters (4:36.46); Jeron Wisner, fourth in the boys 800 (2:04.66); and

Offering up a game plan for making every round count the most

CHARLIE BLANCHARD
Golf Doctor

I'm reluctant to disclose this, but in a few months I'll be turning 80; scary thought, in some ways. Over the past couple of years, I have been regularly shooting below my age, with two low rounds under par. I certainly don't feel close to 80, especially when I'm at the gym pumping iron. But in thinking about golf that will be played for the upcoming next few years, I have decided to use the approach whereby I make every round count. I'm determined to make each round count for the best I can play. There might be less golf but it will count for more. Let me share with you my game plan; maybe you can use this for your game.

Since I'm retired, I can get to the course sooner, so I have the opportunity to warm up properly on the range and go to the practice green to get a feel for the speed of the greens. Even though I've been known to joke that "warming up is overrated," I don't believe it. You're always better off stepping onto the first tee loose, relaxed, confident and ready to play your best. Being more organized, with smarter time management, is sure to make me better prepared to make each round count for the most it can be.

Several years ago, a dear older golfing partner of mine (now gone) used to pack as many rounds of golf into each week (occasionally 27 holes a day), explaining that "I never know how many more rounds of golf I have left." I don't either, but I'm not worried about that. Then, my friend shared that, the older he aged, he looked at each round of golf like the last one he would ever play.

That attitude must have served him well because he was very fine golfer up to the end. If I went out tomorrow for my usual game, and thought it might be the last round I would ever play, I would be so nervous, and probably so sad, I could barely take the club back. No, I'm a fairly cerebral player, so I have thought clearly about how to play my best golf in the next few years.

I know I will need to focus on each shot more than ever. That doesn't mean thinking longer or harder over a shot; rather, it's about being disciplined with my pre-shot routine, while engaging all my mental energy with the singular task of making the very best golf swing that I can at that brief opportunity. I call those "focusing moments," where your intensity peaks, then you relax a bit in order to re-focus a few minutes later for the next shot. It's making each shot count, so the round counts for more.

Coupled with more disciplined focus, I am committed to staying less concerned about the outcome of any particular shot. All of us tend to have anxious golf moments from time to time over how a certain shot will turn out, even though we may not consciously recognize that happening. By keeping those mini-nervous episodes to an absolute minimum, we will make solid, confident swings and putts a much greater percentage of the time. Taking it a step further I have decided to worry less about the results at the end of the day. Having fallen into an unfortunate lapse of thinking "score," it has become painfully evident to me that spending that type of emotional currency on the golf course was making things worse, especially after a slow start.

Digging: Your Rights and Responsibilities

Know what's below. Call before you dig.

New Mexico excavation law places certain responsibilities with the excavator (a person using a mechanical digging device) for preventing damage to underground facilities. The law provides for a one-call system that the excavator can use free of charge to arrange to have underground facilities located and marked before an excavation occurs.

State Law Requires Excavators to:

1) Plan your excavation.
2) Mark the excavation area in white.
3) Call before you dig.
4) Determine the location of any underground facilities.
5) Call the one call center if any facility is not marked to determine if it is "clear."
6) Preserve line location markings or provide offsets.
7) Expose any conflicts and maintain at least 18 inches of clearance from the horizontal mark and the edge of the mechanical digging device.
8) Support underground facilities during excavation as necessary.
9) Backfill in a careful manner.
10) Notify facility owners and 811 of any damage immediately.
11) Standard locate tickets are valid for 15 working days.

A Day in the Life: Meters, Valves, and Hydrants

By Cassie McClure

It's 8 a.m., and two crews from Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) are already set up at two locations on opposite sides of town. It's part of LCU's Water line of business, employees in the Meters, Valves, and Hydrants (MVH) program.

Off North Fairacres Road, LCU MVH Crew Leader Mike Lara is at a water meter relocate. A relocate is done when an established water meter needs to be moved to another location on a property, in this case, out of the way of a new driveway.

It would take about two hours to complete, with his two crew members working in tandem. One grabs more equipment for the next stage, and Lara jumps into the hole with a wrench to make sure everything is lining up.

Lara has been with LCU for four years and previously was an equipment operator for Las Cruces Public Schools. There was a lot to learn, but he said he picked it up quick – and learning from his Deputy Director Ron Borunda who helps crew members studying for their level certifications with math twice a week.

Lara enjoys working with the crew and customers. He'll try to reach out to customers as soon as he gets the work order and knows when he can schedule his crew to get out there. But, like others, he's on rotation being on-call and remembers how the last water main break kept him there until four a.m. after they had been working for two days.

LCU MVH Crew Leader Mike Lara

"The pipe was old; it broke three times before we could finally fix it," Lara said. "Those things are out of our control, but we work until completion. We just hope that the customers bear with us."

Lara snaps a picture of the water meter box in its new location – to update the work order virtually – before waving to have the digger push the dirt back in with the bucket.

Over off Roadrunner, LCU MVH Crew Leader Donnail Bailey estimated 11:30 a.m. to finish replacing a hydrant. After twenty minutes and finding a huge block of cement at the base of the hydrant under compacted dirt, Bailey said they'd have to reassess that estimate.

Someone had run into the hydrant, something he's seen before. "Especially around New Year's Eve," Bailey stated. He's been with LCU for three years but has worked in construction since 2010.

"I love my job, you have to be ready to work hard and long, but it's live-action, with the active water lines," he said. "We get a lot of support from Ron, who considers our suggestions when we're handling a job."

Support is key. While the crew of three works on the hydrant, other LCU crew members come to drop off the new hydrant and supplies. Bailey jumps into the hole for the jackhammer, and the other crew member moves trucks, collects debris, and hands the other two tools. While still in the hole, Bailey directs traffic that has stopped in front of LCU cones and is confused by the closed road in their neighborhood.

"Be patient with us to let us do our job," Bailey said. "Just keep an eye out for us while you're driving."
