The Elephant Butte Irrigation District (EBID) released water into the Rio Grande on June 1. Farmers and other water users can expect up to a 40-day water irrigation season with an allotment of 6 inches per acre or about 163,000 gallons. About 80 percent of Rio Grande water is used for agriculture, but the river also provides water for cities like Las Cruces and El Paso. Here, the water follows its path as it passes south along the communities of Hatch, Rincon and Radium Springs.

Primary results: Stewart to take on Hollister for sheriff

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

In the Tuesday, June 7 primary, Doña Ana County Democrats renominated Sheriff Kim Stewart for a second four-year term and joined other Democrats in New Mexico's newly redrawn 2nd Congressional District in nominating former Las Cruces City Councilor (he also is a former Las Cruces Bulletin business editor) Gabriel Vasquez for Congress. Vasquez will challenge incumbent Republican U.S. Rep. Yvette Herrell of Alamogordo in the Nov. 8 general election.

In other local races, Democrats nominated Robert Lara for district judge, former county Democratic Party Chair and Salud! de Mesilla co-owner Christopher Schaljo-Hernandez for county commission in district one, Las Cruces business owner and former mayoral candidate Gina Ortega for county assessor and Judith Ann Baca for probate judge. None of those four will have an opponent in the November general election.

County Republicans chose former U.S. Marshal and Las Cruces police officer Byron Hollister to run against Stewart for sheriff. A plurality of county Republicans supported state Rep. Rebecca Dow of Truth or Consequences for governor, but 2020 U.S. Senate candidate Mark Ronchetti of Albuquerque won the primary statewide and will oppose incumbent Democrat Michelle Lujan Grisham in November.

The county had a turnout of approximately 16.4 percent, as 15,490 of the county's 94,403 voters cast ballots in the Democratic, Republican and Libertarian primaries, according to the New Mexico Secretary of State's office.

Here are unofficial returns in contested races in the June 7 primary:

Juneteenth history

Juneteenth has been celebrated since 1865.

The Emancipation Proclamation, which President Abraham Lincoln signed Jan. 1, 1863, declared “all persons held as slaves within any (rebellious state), shall be then, thenceforward, and forever free.”

Word didn’t reach Texas, the western-most state in the Confederacy, until June 19, 1865, when about 2,000 Union troops arrived at Galveston Bay.

U.S. Army Major Gen. Gordon Granger (1821-76) read General Order No. 3, which carried news of the Emancipation Proclamation and freed all remaining slaves in Texas.

Juneteenth, which became a federal holiday in 2021, commemorates the announcement of the order and Granger’s enforcement of it.

“Juneteenth marks our country’s second independence day,” the National Museum of African American History and Culture said on its website.

Business owners, residents express concern over thefts, other crime

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Editor's note: To read additional comments by city councilors, builders, business owners and Las Cruces residents, visit www.lascrucesbulletin.com.

Between 150 and 200 local business owners and residents attended a June 2 public safety forum hosted by the Las Cruces Home Builders Association (LCHBA). The meeting was held because of concerns local builders, other business owners and residents have expressed about an increase in thefts and property damage.

More than a dozen people spoke on the same issue during the public input portion of the Las Cruces City Council's June 6 work session.

Speaking at the work session, Mayor Ken Miyagishima, who owns a business on south Solano Drive, said he has had people "stealing my stuff, breaking my windows, trying to break in."

The mayor said he conducted his own investigation of the causes of the increase in property crimes, saying he spoke to Municipal Judge Joy Goldbaum; state Sen. Joseph Cervantes, D-Doña Ana, who is chair of the state Senate Judiciary Committee; and a Las Cruces district judge. Miyagishima said he learned that the issue is the Bail Reform Act, a constitutional amendment approved by the New Mexico Legislature (state Senate vote: 29-9; state House of Representatives vote: 69-0) and passed by state voters by a margin of 87 percent in favor to 13 percent against in 2016.

Here is language from the act: "A person who is not detainable on grounds of dangerousness nor a flight risk in the absence of bond and is otherwise eligible for bail shall not be detained solely because of financial inability to post a money or property bond."

As a result, people who are arrested are almost immediately released because they cannot be held unless they are deemed a flight risk or a danger to society, Miyagishima said. The language in the act needs to be changed, he said, through another constitutional amendment to give judges leeway in determining release.

"I'm not here to criminalize homeless," the mayor said. "This applies to everyone."

Here are comments from others attending one or both meetings:

• "I want to express my discontent with your solutions, Mayor," Neil Campbell of Hakes Brothers construction said at the work session; he also spoke at the LCHBA meeting. "We can't wait on the state that has done us no justice. We must take it into our own hands to make sure we have a safe community. We have to combat fire with fire. Book 'em every single time. Give the police department all the resources they need ... until we can solve the legislative issue." Campbell said Hakes Brothers builds about 300 houses a year in Las Cruces and the cost of each one is increased by about $2,000 because of theft.

• "We need your support to make sure we do hold these people accountable," said Las Cruces Police Chief Miguel Dominguez. The Las Cruces Police Department has 202 authorized positions, Dominguez said, and currently has 171 officers. Twenty-six cadets will graduate June 17 from the police academy, he said, bringing LCPD to 197. The chief said a small number of people within the homeless community are responsible for a disproportionate level of vandalism, theft and other property crimes in the city. One individual has been arrested 14 times since February, Dominguez said, and another has been arrested 10 times. Many lawbreakers are using drugs, Dominguez said, especially fentanyl and methamphetamine. Dominguez said the maximum number of inmates that can be held at the county detention center is down because of Covid restrictions.

• Business owners should mark their tools and equipment with identification numbers so they can be returned when they are recovered, said County Sheriff's Department Major John Day. He also said businesses could benefit from additional lighting, noting that criminals are targeting construction sites between midnight and 6 a.m., and inexpensive camera systems. "Help us help you," Day said.

• "If you want to get serious about crime, get serious about reducing poverty," Mayor Pro Tempore Kasandra Gandara said at the LCHBA meeting. Gandara said she has recently held four community meetings to discuss poverty, homelessness, crime and other issues. The city is addressing homelessness, she said, including creating a program that provides jobs with the city Parks and Recreation Department for people struggling with homelessness. The city is also addressing mental health issues and affordable housing, Gandara said. It's also important for businesses to build better relationships with LCPD officers, she said.

• "We're serving as many people as we can," said Mesilla Valley Community of Hope Executive Director Nicole Martinez. MVCH, which includes Camp Hope tent city for people struggling with homelessness, has not experienced a big increase in residents, she said, and homeless people are not being bused into Las Cruces, as a speaker at the LCHBA meeting suggested.

Senior Olympics show benefits of staying active

Most of us men over 50 are self-conscious about our receding hairlines and expanding waistlines.

Al Berryman, however, is concerned about different measurements. Things like split times on multi-mile runs, his heart rate or running time logged in a week.

The New Mexico Senior Olympics State Games are back in Las Cruces this week after a several-years absence. Seniors aged 50 and over from all over the state will descend on the campus of New Mexico State University, and other locations in Las Cruces, to compete in a wide variety of events.

Berryman, now 79, will be one of those competitors.

He started running in 1979, when he was 36, and got involved with Senior Olympics in 2018.

Berryman performed well enough in the New Mexico State Games that year to qualify for the National Senior Games, which were held in Albuquerque in 2019. There, Berryman finished third nationally in his age group in both the 5K run and the 10K.

He also competed in the 2022 National Games, held earlier this year in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and hopes to qualify for Nationals again, which will be in Pittsburgh for 2023.

"Exercise is a lot easier if it's part of your social life," Berryman said. "Combining your exercise with other groups, whether it's pickleball, basketball, shuffleboard or something else, helps you keep on track."

"That's a big part of Senior Olympics, and it's important in your personal training. I've been a part of Saturday morning running groups since I first started running in 1979."

Having competed in both the state and national games in the Land of Enchantment, Berryman had high praise for the events' coordinators.

"New Mexico runs very well-organized events," Berryman said. "And they're a lot of fun."

For many years, Berryman ran an insurance agency in Roswell. Then he retired, went back to school and then taught at NMSU. He's also involved in Mesilla Valley Search and Rescue, "and, yes, you have to be reasonably physically fit" for that duty.

Running and staying in shape have improved other aspects of Berryman's life.

"It's widely known exercise improves mental health, and for me, it greatly improves your quality of life," he said. "It helps you enjoy your grandkids and your great grandkids."

In general, "things don't work as well if you don't exercise."

Berryman typically runs about 20 miles a week, but is more focused on the time he spends running than the distance, trying to run for three or four hours in a week, and then add some time at the gym twice a week, doing machines and light weights.

"Consistency is a lot more important than intensity," he said. An important key to consistency is avoiding down time due to injury. And an important key to avoiding injury is proper rest.

"In past years, I had knee problems and back problems," he said. "Now I know not to overdo. Rest is extremely important."

While we all know there are multiple advantages to regular exercise, Berryman touched on one I hadn't thought of before.

"A side benefit is, it's prob-

Absolutely no shame in accepting, asking for help

I understand criticism of the Biden Administration for not acting sooner to address the baby formula shortage before it became a crisis. That's justified.

What I don't understand is the criticism he's received for fixing the problem.

Political commentators from both parties have claimed it is "shameful" to be receiving assistance from other countries. No, it isn't. It's wonderful, and it's bringing immediate relief to desperate mothers throughout the nation.

The only reason to think it would be shameful is pride, which is a quality shared by both parties. We are a very proud people.

Pride can be a good thing. For individuals and groups who have been marginalized for decades, pride can be essential. But when pride gets in the way of asking for help when it's needed, that's not a good thing. And it's a huge problem in this country, for both our physical and mental health.

It's estimated that only 41 percent of those in the United States who had a mental health disorder in the past year received professional treatment. While cost was the leading factor for why people did not seek services, the second-most common reason given was a belief that they did not need help. Not surprisingly, the percentages are higher for men than women.

As for the baby formula shortage, that is the symptom of a larger economic problem — the creeping monopolization of one critical industry after another.

Almost 90 percent of the baby formula manufactured in the United States comes from just four companies — Abbott (Similac), Reckitt Benckiser (Enfamil), Nestle (Gerber) and Perrigo (store brands). An FDA inspection of the Abbott plant in Michigan resulted in the temporary closure of the plant and a product recall. And that resulted in the shortage.

In the meantime, our friends and allies in other nations did what friends and allies are expected to do, they helped us out. The United Kingdom and Australia announced last week that ably the best financial investment you can make, because it will reduce your health care costs," he said. "For older people, that's a big item."

While he maintains regular check-ups, Berryman said he's been able to stay out of the doctor's office for bigger issues, outside a couple of surgeries. After the surgeries, doctors remarked how fast he recovered, which Berryman attributed to being in shape, as well as eating right.

"I eat a salad every night, eat lots of fruit and I'm pretty good on vegetables," he said. "I try to reduce the amount of sugar I eat, which is really hard in our society. Sugar creates inflammation in all parts of your body."

"I run because I like it, but it's important to get out six days a week and do something or other, even if it's just going for a 20-minute walk. It's inevitable I am going to get old and feeble, but with exercise, we can push that back."

they would be sending millions of cans of infant formula. Earlier shipments were flown in from the Netherlands, Switzerland and Germany.

None of this is meant to excuse the Biden administration's poor handling of the crisis. Its slow response led to desperation and panic for mothers throughout the nation. There should be accountability in the short term, along with long-term restructuring that allows the system to survive the closure of one plant.

But the help we have received should be accepted with gratitude, not shame. It's good to have friends. And the day will certainly come when we will be able to repay the favor.

'One-stop shop': Pharmacy opens at counseling center

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

"We're rebuilding ... to ensure we can move forward," Lt. Gov. Howie Morales said Thursday morning, May 26, at a ribbon-cutting ceremony celebrating the opening of a Genoa Healthcare pharmacy inside Southwest Counseling Center, Inc. (SCC) at 100 W. Griggs Ave. Downtown.

Opening the pharmacy is part of an opportunity "not to reform mental-health services, but to transform them," Morales said. "The investments have been made and they will continue to be made."

"I know how proud you are," Mayor Ken Miyagishima told SCC staff at the ribbon cutting. "This is in your blood. This is in your DNA."

"We are honored to celebrate this grand opening," said Genoa Director of Pharmacy Operations in New Mexico and Southern Arizona Joey Pelierito. Opening the pharmacy transforms SCC into a "one-stop shop," he said. "Patients do not have to leave the clinic without their medication."

Pelierito said SCC's pharmacy is the fifth one Genoa has opened in New Mexico and the first in Las Cruces.

SCC CEO Roque Garcia said SCC had 140 employees and 3,000 consumers and was preparing for its 50th anniversary in 2013 when then Gov. Susana Martinez closed down 14 mental-health providers in the state, including SCC.

Garcia said SCC was accused of $1.5 million in fraud. When it was finally allowed to defend itself after Martinez was succeeded as governor by Michelle Lujan Grisham, he said, SCC had to pay back a total of $400 because of three or four claims it could not find.

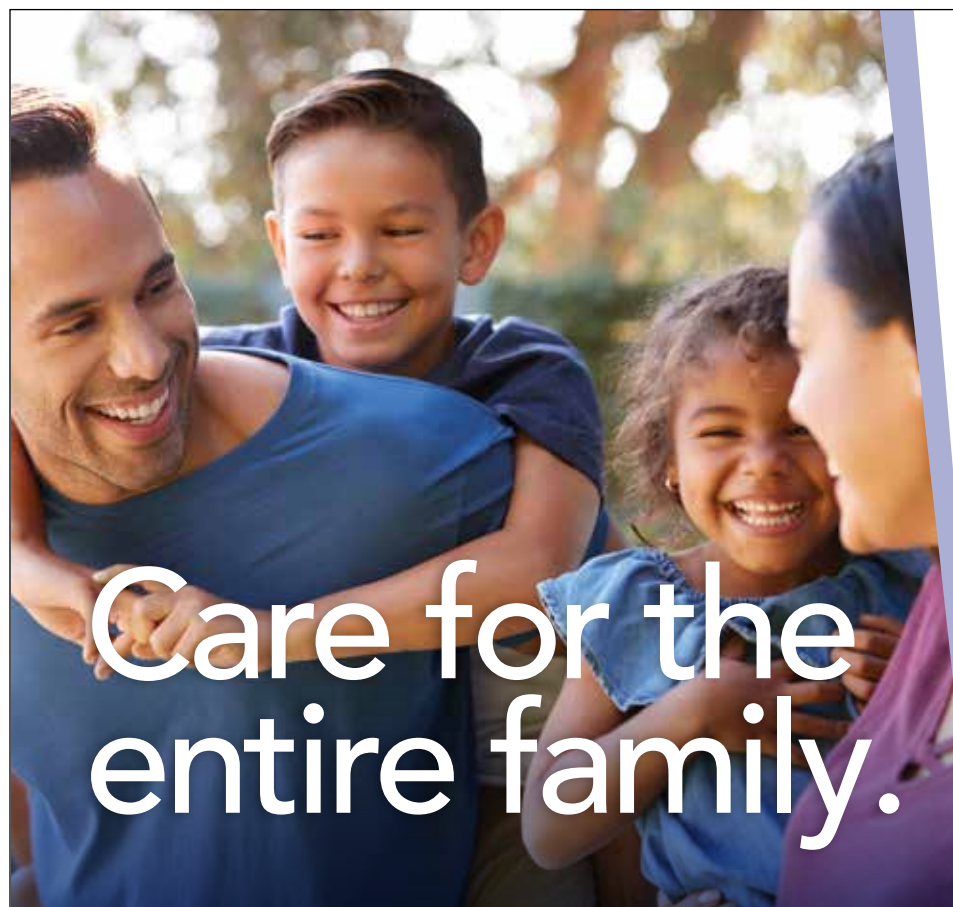

Today, he said, SCC has 40 staff and 2,300 unduplicated clients.

"That is outstanding, considering where we were," Garcia said.

"Why don't we have pharmacies in every place that we have mental-health services?" state Sen. Carrie Hamblen, D-Doña Ana said at the ribbon cutting. Hamblen also read and presented a plaque commemorating the ribbon cutting on behalf of the Las Cruces Green Chamber of Commerce, of which she is president and CEO.

Also attending the ribbon cutting were state Sen. Bill Soules, D-Doña Ana, Mayor Pro Tempore Casandra Gandara and Doña Ana County Health and Human Services Department Director Jamie Michael.

State Senior Olympics bring active seniors to Las Cruces

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

The 2022 New Mexico Senior Olympics have descended on Las Cruces, bringing active seniors into town to explore and compete.

New Mexico Senior Olympics Executive Director Cecilia Acosta said just under 600 athletes signed up. On arrival day, Tuesday, June 7, she said the athletes were calling, asking questions and excited about getting back into the competition after three years of being unable to gather.

The games are being held in various locations across the city and at New Mexico State University through Saturday, June 11.

As a qualifying event for the national Senior Olympic games, many of the seniors have their eyes set on the 2023 Pittsburgh event.

"I am just looking forward to seeing the athletes do what they like best," Acosta said. "Be on that track, or be on that course, in the lanes at the pool."

Acosta, who has been the director of the games for 32 years now, got involved as a staff member at a senior center in Roswell. When she was hired, she ran the program out of her kitchen for a year until an office space was acquired.

"Our goal was to build the games every year," she said. "Now this is our 41st games."

She is always inspired by the athletes.

"They don't give up and they cheer each other on," Acosta said. "It is inspirational to see them give each other their best. This is what it's all about."

Most importantly to many of the athletes is the interaction with fellow seniors and connecting with old friends.

Las Cruces participant Pat Martinez said her fondest memories about meeting new people and seeing people she met in the past, playing against them and seeing how everyone has gotten a little better.

"It really is a social thing," she said.

"You meet a lot of nice people, and you have a lot of laughs," former Senior Olympian Bess Hobson said. "It's about friends and social interaction. You do a lot of laughing; we just don't take things too serious. It's just good."

The New Mexico Senior Olympics will be in Las Cruces through Saturday, June 11.

The desire to stay active is another huge motivator for the people participating in the games. Participating in the games encourages archer Herman Lente to stay in shape by using his treadmill, riding his bike and taking regular walks.

Athlete Ramiro Morales would tell those interested in participating in the future to find the sport they are interested in, research it and try it.

"If you do it, it will motivate you to compete with people your age," he said. "People are friendly and happy. See if it's what you want and just stay fit. Stay active; that's the whole thing."

The state games were not held in 2019 because the National Senior Games were held in Albuquerque that year and the state games were not held in either 2020 or 2021 because of the pandemic.

"The games will still include only 18 sports, as 2022 will be a limited version of the games," Acosta said. "Many seniors have not been training and have not had access to sport facilities to practice their sport."

Athletes compete in five-year age divisions and the games are open to out-of-state senior participants.

Crisis Triage Center serves 600 in first 10 months of operation

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

"We're here to meet the needs of the community," Doña Ana County Crisis Triage Center (CTC) Clinical Director Jess Spohn said as the center nears its first anniversary.

"Don't be scared to ask for help," CTC Program Director Karina Diaz said. "You're not alone."

In its first 10 months of operation, CTC has served about 600 clients and is continuing to connect with law enforcement agencies, health care providers and the community to make its services known and to reduce the stigma and misinformation that surround mental and behavioral health, Diaz said.

in Las Cruces, provides free services to anyone over age 18 experiencing a mental health crisis.

"We say 'yes' to anyone coming into our center," Diaz said.

Diaz said CTC is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year, with licensed staff working in four shifts.

"It's a safe place for me," is the clear message a visitor receives from the moment he or she enters

CTC, Diaz said.

Each client (CTC staff call them "guests") receives a psychiatric evaluation and medical check during his or her visit. Staff can help those with substance-abuse issues begin or continue detox, and the center's "recovery culture" might include participation in a virtual Alcoholics Anonymous meeting or similar program. Treatment is often guided by peer support specialists who have dealt with their own mental and behavioral health issues.

The center also provides meals, showers and a laundry.

As part of the treatment plan CTC staff help them create, clients receive referrals "to the next level of care,” Diaz said. CTC staff make contact with clients within 72 hours of a center visit to ensure they are “receiving the services they need,” Spohn said.

Spohn and Diaz said CTC’s community outreach includes connecting with all the agencies, programs and support groups that might provide additional services to a client.

Although a client’s visit to CTC cannot exceed 24 hours, repeat visitors are welcome “no matter how many times you’ve been there,” Spohn said.

The center is seeing an average of four guests per day and has had a steady increase in visitors: two in June and 11 in July 2021; 93 in March and 102 in April 2022.

The center needs to reach an average of about six guests per day to break even, county Health and Human Services Department Director Jamie Michael said at the Las Cruces City Council’s May 23 work session.

All CTC clients are voluntarily at the center, either coming on their own or being brought by someone else, Diaz said. Referrals come from a variety of local providers, law enforcement agencies and hospitals, and, most frequently, from friends or loved ones, Diaz said.

Diaz said CTC is working to “increase diversion from emergency rooms” to the triage center, which she said is “a more appropriate resource.”

“We want to be able to meet the needs of people who need this care,” Michael said.

CTC has a mobile response unit that can travel anywhere in the county to bring people to the center, Diaz said. Staff also respond to phone inquiries and to visitors who only want to learn more about what CTC offers.

Diaz said CTC is expecting an increase in calls, referrals and visits after July 16. That’s the start date for the new national 988 three-digit dialing code that will route callers to the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline.

CTC is operated by Recovery Innovations International (RI), based in Arizona, under a contract with the county.

RI is a national leader in crisis care, Michael said. Seven members of the RI team were among about a dozen contributors to the national guidelines for behavioral health crisis care that CTC and other programs like it follow.

Las Cruces Coins and Collectibles nears first anniversary

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Editor's note: The prices quoted for coins in this story reflect precious metals markets for mid-May 2022 and are subject to change.

Buying silver and gold coins is not only a fun hobby, it's a great investment.

Just ask Las Cruces Coins & Collectibles co-owners Gary Henderson and his son-in-law, Joseph Santana.

They opened Coins & Collectibles at 2615 Missouri Ave. last July and have been buying and selling gold, silver and platinum coins and bars and appraising coins and coin collections for nearly a year.

The store also sells walking sticks handmade by Joe McClarin, framed butterflies, original artwork by Laurie Smith and coin-collecting supplies. Be sure to check out the two giant quartz crystals, which are both for sale. They come from the Ron Coleman mine in Jessieville, Arkansas.

Coins & Collectibles also has:

- Coins and silver bars from the United States as

- 1850s-90s silver quarters, 1860s half-dollars and 1916-45 Mercury dimes;

- "Junk" coins, which include silver (pre-1964) dimes, quarters and half-dollars that have been in regular circulation. Silver half-dollars, including Walking Liberty, Franklin and Kennedy halves, are $11.50 each; quarters are $5.50 each; and dimes are $2.20 each;

- A one-half price box with a variety of coins for sale at reduced prices. It might be the place for a child to begin a coin collection.

"We enjoy having kids come into the store," Henderson said, as he and Santana help "start a new generation in the hobby" of coin collecting.

It was pennies that got Henderson interested in coin collecting as a child living in Iowa. Henderson and his father would travel to Omaha, Nebraska, where they would buy $10 worth of pennies from a bank and then sort through them at their kitchen table for any collectibles. Henderson still has some of those pennies.

"It's been a very fun hobby," he said.

Henderson is also an avid collector of trade tokens. He has them from more than 40 states and even wrote a book "Iowa Trade Tokens," about the hobby.

For investors, gold and silver coins hold their value "if U.S. currency goes kaput," Henderson said.

They are an especially good investment now, he said, because "a lot of people are afraid our dollar is going to lose a whole lot of its value."

Henderson said he and Santana received a lot of help and support from SCORE of Las Cruces in opening their business. SCORE provides volunteer mentors to help businesses thrive.

Henderson said he began meeting with SCORE mentor Peter Krebs six months before opening Coins & Collectibles. Krebs helped Henderson and Santana develop a business plan; comply with city, state and federal regulations; develop a marketing strategy; find a location; and get the necessary security in place.

Krebs and SCORE "gave us a lot of help in getting started," Henderson said.

Las Cruces Coins & Collectibles is open 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and closed Sunday and Monday.

Public can comment on council boundary changes

BULLETIN REPORT

The City of Las Cruces' Redistricting Ad Hoc Committee (RAHC) is asking for public input regarding proposed concept maps that will be used to help determine the boundaries of the six Las Cruces City Council districts for the next 10 years, the city said in a news release.

To view the maps, visit www.las-cruces.org and click on "Redistricting."

Public comments can be emailed to redistricting@las-cruces.org. Comments will be accepted through Wednesday, June 22.

After public comment closes, RAHC will reevaluate the maps and narrow down the best options to be presented to the city council for further consideration at a future work session, the city said.

For more information, call the city clerk's office at 575-541-2115.

From the creative forces behind “The Amazing Race” and “The Lord of the Rings” comes this immersive, hybrid eight-episode competition series that drops eight real-life teenagers otherwise known as Paladins into the fantastic, fictional world of Everrealm, where they must save a kingdom by fulfilling an ancient prophecy. (ORIGINAL)

“This Magic Moment”

The “Magic” of the title of this 2016 “30 for 30” documentary refers to the Orlando Magic, who in the early ‘90s ascended to the top of the NBA and pop culture led by charismatic superstars Shaquille O’Neal and Penny Hardaway — both of whom deliver some delightful and brutally honest remembrances here.

Heather Hemmens and Ser'Darius Blain

11 a.m. on SYFY
Movie: E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial

A boy named Elliott (Henry Thomas) attempts to help a stranded alien "phone home" and return to his planet in director Steven Spielberg's touching 1982 fantasy, which celebrates its 40th anniversary this year. An Oscar went to composer John Williams, a frequent Spielberg collaborator, for a score that soars — just like the movie's bike-riding youngsters.

6 p.m. on HALL
Movie: Caribbean Summer

In the wake of an embarrassing blunder during a live telecast of the morning TV news show she produces, Jade's (Heather Hemmens, "Roswell, New Mexico") bosses order her to take a vacation to clear her head. Accordingly, she heads off to a beautiful, stress-free island in the Caribbean, but almost immediately runs into a screw-up involving the house she rented for her stay. Once that gets resolved, however, Jade finds herself falling under the spell of her home's enigmatic owner, Ford (Ser'Darius Blain), in this 2022 romance.

8 p.m. on TCM
Movie: Tootsie

What do you give a movie that has everything? Your undivided attention, for starters. This 1982 romantic comedy looks even wiser and more heartfelt with the passage of time, and its farcical story line, about a desperate actor who poses as a woman to land a soap opera gig, benefits from the Swiss-watch timing of Dustin Hoffman, Bill Murray, Teri Garr, Dabney Coleman and Jessica Lange, who snagged an Oscar for her luminous supporting turn.

9 p.m. on HBO
Movie: The Card Counter

Writer-director Paul Schrader earned mostly enthusiastic reviews for this 2021 crime thriller, which stars Oscar Isaac in the central role of William Tell, a gambler who taught himself how to count cards while serving an eight-year stint in a military prison. Now a free man, William tries to fly under the radar in casinos by winning smaller jackpots that don't attract notice.

10 p.m. on SHOW
Movie: Stillwater

Academy Award winner Tom McCarthy ("Spotlight") co-wrote and directed this 2021 crime drama that's loosely based the Amanda Knox murder case. Matt Damon stars as unemployed oil-rig worker Bill Baker, who travels to Southern France to visit his daughter, Allison (Abigail Breslin), who is currently in the middle of a nine-year sentence for killing her college roommate. After meeting Allison's lawyer and a helpful Frenchwoman named Virginie (Camille Cottin), Bill is convinced his daughter is innocent and begins working to win her freedom.

6 p.m. on KDBC
The 75th Annual Tony Awards

Celebrating 75 years of honoring the best of Broadway, this year's Tony Awards ceremonies are hosted by recent Oscar winner Ariana DeBose from Radio City Music Hall in New York. The live three-hour telecast honors outstanding shows and performances from the 2021-22 season and includes a special Tony to Angela Lansbury for "lifetime achievement in the theatre." The competitive categories are led by best musical contender

"A Strange Loop" — which already won a Pulitzer Prize — with 11 Tony nods. The British play "The Lehman Trilogy" drew eight nominations.

6 p.m. on HISTORY
The Booze, Bets and Sex That Built America

This three-part docuseries reveals some surprising origin stories about the early years of the alcohol, gambling, sex and tobacco industries in America, as well as the notorious entrepreneurs who built massive fortunes by responding to these consumer appetites. The first two-hour episode, "Secrets & Sins," explores how Tennessee businessman and distiller Jasper "Jack" Daniel pioneers American whiskey, while Adolphus Busch creates an iconic American beer. Elsewhere, Buck Duke brings innovations to cigarette production, and Julius Schmid makes condoms available. Meanwhile, the temperance movement battles all the above.

6 p.m. on MAGN
Silos Baking Competition

In this new one-hour special, home bakers travel to Waco, Texas, for a friendly(ish) competition aimed at celebrating the simple joys derived from spending time in the kitchen. Each member of the group is challenged to perfect a favorite recipe, and the baker who most impresses the judging panel will have their winning treat featured on the menu of Silo Baking Co., which is owned and operated by fan favorites Chip and Joanna Gaines.

6 p.m. on STARZ
Gaslit

In the waning days of the Nixon administration, Martha Mitchell (Julia Roberts) struggles mightily to keep her family together even as she deals with her own physical decline in the finale "Final Days." Meanwhile, John and Mo Dean (Dan Stevens, Betty Gilpin) prepare themselves for whatever their own future holds, as G. Gordon Liddy (Shea Whigham) gives John a parting gift.

7 p.m. on AMC
Dark Winds

Adapted from Tony Hillerman's Leaphorn & Chee novels, this new thriller series is set in 1971 on a remote outpost of the Navajo Nation near Monument Valley, Utah.

On this rugged turf, Lt. Joe Leaphorn (Zahn McClarnon, TV's "Fargo") of the Tribal Police struggles to stay on top of a series of seemingly unrelated crimes. He is joined by new deputy, Jim Chee (Kiowa Gordon, "Roswell, New Mexico"), who — like his boss — is wrestling with some personal demons. Jessica Matten, Noah Emmerich and Rainn Wilson also are featured.

10 p.m. on HMM
Movie: Color My World With Love

Kendall (Lily D. Moore), a gifted artist with Down syndrome, has received a warm response to the paintings she does in an impressionist style that reflect the reality of her subjects as she perceives them. With the unconditional love of her mother and grandmother (Erica Durance, Karen Kruper), Kendall is thriving, and her life takes another exciting turn when she meets Brad (David DeSanctis) in a cooking class for diverse learners. Her protective mother can't help getting concerned, though, when this new relationship starts growing serious, in this 2022 romance.

Suranne Jones

7 p.m. on A&E
Intervention

A&E Network's groundbreaking — and Emmy-winning — docuseries that profiles subjects struggling with an almost hopeless addiction to a substance or destructive behavior returns for its 24th season of stories about families trying to save a loved one from oblivion. The season premiere, "Kenny," looks at a Northern California native whose childhood dreams of playing for the NFL were scuttled by a series of mistakes during high school. Eventually, Kenny was homeless and severely addicted to fentanyl.

11 p.m. on HBO
Gentleman Jack

This critically acclaimed British historical dramedy — which was adapted from the diary of "the first modern lesbian," Anne Lister — wraps up its sophomore season with "It's Not Illegal," a finale that finds the marriage of Anne (Suranne Jones) and Ann Walker (Sophie Rundle) in serious peril. The threat comes in the form of Captain Sutherland (recurring guest star Derek Riddell), Ann's brother-in-law, who has arrived from Scotland determined to destroy Anne Lister's reputation. This series is awaiting a decision regarding a potential third season.

tonight's picks

Kermit the Frog

6 p.m. on TCM Movie: How to Marry a Millionaire

The first film ever shot in the CinemaScope widescreen technique, this witty 1953 comedy stars Marilyn Monroe, Lauren Bacall and Betty Grable as three young gold diggers who sublet and share a luxurious New York penthouse from a millionaire (David Wayne) to use as bait to hook rich husbands. This sparkling gem kicks off a night of "Hot To ..." movies, including "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," which immediately follows.

7 p.m. on KVIA Holey Moley

The new episode "Night of Music!" boasts a harmonious assortment of golfers, in the sense that all eight players are seasoned musicians. One competitor manages to stick a remarkable landing after teeing off on Polecano, while another golfer just ignores the irritating Distractor. The final competitors do their best to keep their balance on Big Foot Wedge, yet only one of them can walk away with the golden putter, plaid jacket and a spot in the finals. Kermit the Frog joins Rob Riggle and Joe Tessitore in the announcers booth.

7 p.m. on A&E Bobby Brown: Every Little Step

In the new episode "Bobby's Back in Business,I" entertainer Bobby Brown begins getting ready for his first solo performance in years: a show in Niagara Falls. The gig is to be a family affair, so son Landon also is having his own bout of nerves over being a back-up vocalist for his dad. Another new episode immediately follows.

7 p.m. on HISTORY The Secret of Skinwalker Ranch

While the Skinwalker team is uncovering mounting evidence of an extensive underground cave system that is said to run beneath the mysterious mesa where the ranch is located, they also broadcast a strange signal they recorded on the property in the new episode "Where There's Smoke ... ." The transmission over the airwaves of a local radio station quickly elicits a stunning UAP (unidentified aerial phenomena) response.

8 p.m. on KRWG American Masters

Directed by Brent Wilson (no relation), the 2021 documentary "Brian Wilson: Long Promised Road" follows the co-founder of the Beach Boys as he and Rolling Stone editor Jason Fine drive around Los Angeles and visit locations from Brian Wilson's past. The film also features interview excerpts with such music industry figures as Bruce Springsteen, Elton John, Jim James, Nick Jonas, Taylor Hawkins and Jakob Dylan.

8 p.m. on KVIA The Chase

In a new episode called "Oprah, Please Forgive Me!," James "The High Roller" Holzhauer returns as the featured Chaser, and he's determined to make life difficult for a technology trend scout, a product manager and a forum series producer from the John F. Kennedy Presidential Library and Museum. Sarah Haines is the host.

8 p.m. on FOOD Supermarket Stakeout

The pressure is on as host Alex Guarnaschelli challenges the four chefs to prepare perfect paninis in the parking lot in the first segment of a new episode called "Stew or Get Off the Lot." Given time constraints, no one has the luxury of going "low and slow," the traditional way to concoct savory stews. After eliminations, the final two chefs look for the right ingredients to prepare satisfying crusted dishes.

11 p.m. on FX Mayans M.C.

This crime drama closes out Season 4 in a finale that finds EZ (J.D. Pardo) tying up loose ends as the future of the club hangs in the balance, in "When the Breakdown Hit at Midnight." Elsewhere, Alvarez (Emilio Rivera) seeks peace with a Redwood Original. Clayton Cardenas and Sarah Bolger also star. FX has not yet announced whether this series will be renewed for a fifth season.

Strategies needed to address crime

By CRAIG BUCHANAN
GLCCC Board Chair

One of the primary responsibilities of local government is to provide a structure and resources to maintain an acceptable level of public safety for its citizens. There has been much discussion recently around the topic of public safety here in Las Cruces. Much of the discussion has been centered around the increase of crime in our community. We are hearing from people across our community that many people are feeling the effects of increasing levels of property theft, vandalism, trespass and sometimes violent interactions. The impacts of these crimes cause financial burdens, loss of time and productivity and loss of a sense of safety within our community.

In small meetings with community partners, as well as public meetings with many stakeholders in attendance, we are finding that the causes of increased crime are diverse, such as drug addiction, mental illness, homelessness and a “revolving door” bail policy that allows too many repeat offenders to be easily and quickly out of custody. The solutions to the problems may be more complex than we would generally like, particularly as we try to address our problems with more lasting solutions. Programs to address addiction, mental illness, poverty, homelessness and even criminal law reform will all take time and significant resources. We all want to see progress toward fully addressing these issues. However, we also need to be mindful of the need to quickly address the more immediate and tangible concerns of our citizens who are suffering direct impact of increasing crime. There is certainly a financial cost to each of us related to theft and property crimes in our community. But, there is an even greater cost to our community if we lose our sense of safety and well-being.

We need to develop strategies to address both short-term remedies for crime that is currently being committed in our community, as well as longer term strategies and programs to address the underlying causes of the problems. The Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce is committed to working with community partners at all levels to develop both short and long-term strategies to maintain the high level of public safety that our community expects and deserves.

“Movie: Halftime”

Jennifer Lopez is front and center of this feature-length documentary from director Amanda Micheli (“One Nation Under Dog,” “Vegas Baby”), in which the actress and singer reflects on her milestones and evolution as an artist and looks ahead to navigating the second half of her life and career. (ORIGINAL)

“God’s Favorite Idiot”

Ben Falcone created and co-wrote (with wife Melissa McCarthy) this comedy series in which he also stars as Clark, a mid-level IT worker who finds love with colleague Amily (McCarthy) at the same time he becomes the unwitting messenger of God — and the message he’s to deliver isn’t good news for humanity. (ORIGINAL)

“Iron Chef: Quest for an Iron Legend”

This reboot of the “Iron Chef” franchise pits Iron Chefs Curtis Stone, Dominique Crenn, Marcus Samuelsson, Ming Tsai and Gabriela Cámara against up-and-coming Challenger Chefs in challenges that push them to the limits of their creativity. The most successful Challenger will return in the finale with the title of “Iron Legend” on the line. Andrew Zimmern and Nilou Motamed serve as judges. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Spiderhead”

In a state-of-the-art prison where there are no bars and inmates are drugged to bring out their better selves, convicts Jeff (Miles Teller) and Lizzy (Jurnee Smollett) form a bond and decide to push the limits of their supposed free will in this dark comedy/psychological thriller from director Joseph Kosinski (“Top Gun: Maverick”). Chris Hemsworth also stars. (ORIGINAL)

In Focus

“Only Murders in the Building: Season 2” (Hulu — season premiere, June 28)

The sophomore round of this original dramedy picks up in the wake of Arconia Board President Bunny Folger’s shocking death and finds Charles, Oliver and Mabel (Steve Martin, Martin Short, Selena Gomez) on a race to unmask her killer — a crime in which the trio becomes implicated, thus making them the subject of a competing podcast.

movie review

BY JAY BOBBIN

Amy Adams is a great guide to aliens’ ‘Arrival’

The “Arrival” in the 2016 movie by that name — which EPIX Hits shows Saturday, June 18 — is that of aliens, who hover in their spaceships above several parts of the world, including Montana.

That’s the one that most immediately concerns Amy Adams, playing a professor of linguistics enlisted by the Army (and, more specifically, Forest Whitaker as its chief embodiment) to make contact with the travelers and decipher their messages.

She does that along with a physics expert portrayed by Jeremy Renner, and even if their meeting with the aliens is quite tranquil — naturally, think Steven Spielberg’s “Close Encounters of the Third Kind” or “E.T.: The Extra-Terrestrial” — at the slightest suggestion that the creatures might be thinking of launching an attack on Earth, others predictably go into panic and retaliation mode.

Of course, there’s a whole tradition of that sort of screen tale. On the more traditional side of sci-fi, it also encompasses “The War of the Worlds,” “The Day the Earth Stood Still” and certainly “Independence Day.” The “aliens can be our friends” stories aren’t as frequent, and especially when handled with great intelligence, they’re well worth noting.

As familiar as its plot may seem, “Arrival” benefits hugely from the presence of the ever-luminous Adams, who conveys her character’s willingness to believe in the unknown to moviegoers. Working with director Denis Villeneuve (“Dune,” “Sicario”), she generates just the right sort of protagonist for this tale ... grounding the film even when it’s literally up in the air.

Legacies

Executive producer Julie Plec knows that The CW

Network's cancellation of this supernatural coming-of-age series after four seasons hit its fans right in the feels, since "Legacies" was part of a complex narrative universe that began with "The Vampire Diaries" back in 2009. Accordingly, she promises that tonight's series finale "Just Don't Be a Stranger, Okay?" will include several Easter eggs and some surprises "that may just blow your mind." Danielle Rose Russell, Jenny Boyd and Matthew Davis are among the actors bidding farewell to their characters.

11 p.m. on FX
The Old Man

This new limited series adaptation of a novel by Thomas Perry stars Jeff Bridges as Dan Chase, a former CIA operative who has lived off the grid since absconding from the agency decades ago. After a hired assassin flushes him out, however, Chase realizes he must confront his complicated past to ensure his future safety.

“Movie: Tombstone”

Wyatt Earp (Kurt Russell) gets out of Dodge and attempts to settle down in Tombstone, Ariz., with his brothers (Sam Elliott, Bill Paxton) and buddy Doc Holliday (Val Kilmer). But just because it's called Tombstone doesn't mean it's dead. Wyatt can't hang up his six-shooters until he deals with the outlaw gang that's causing trouble. Charlton Heston and Dana Delany also star in this 1993 Western.

“Movie: Office Space”

A corporate cubicle drone (Ron Livingston) emerges from a hypnotherapy session gone awry with a new couldn't-care-less attitude toward work. Soon he's in line for promotion, while his two best office buddies are targeted for the ax. They retaliate with a revenge prank guaranteed to delight any bored worker. Jennifer Aniston and Gary Cole also star in this 1999 satire from director Mike Judge.

“The Summer I Turned Pretty”

A love triangle develops between a girl and two brothers in this coming-of-age drama about first love, first heartbreak and the magic of that one perfect summer. Starring Lola Tung, Christopher Briney, Gavin Casalegno and Sean Kaufman, the series is based on the novel by Jenny Han, who is also its creator and showrunner. (ORIGINAL)

“The Lake”

From Canada comes this half-hour comedy about Justin (Jordan Gavaris, “Orphan Black”), who returns from living abroad to reconnect with the daughter he gave up for adoption at the idyllic family lake cottage of his youth. However, his plans are upended when he learns his father left the home to his “picture-perfect” sister, Maisy (Julia Stiles, “Riviera”). Jon Dore and Carolyn Scott also star. (ORIGINAL)

• Cleo Arévalo is a conceptual multimedia artist who creates prints, ready-made objects and installations that examine what she describes as the globalized oppression of the masses, primarily through an analysis of the cultural meanings of language, the news release said. She received a bachelor of fine arts degree in studio arts from UTEP and moved on to multimedia at the graduate level at NMSU. Arévalo teaches at El Paso Community College.

• Elizabeth Calil Zarur

holds a BFA in printmaking and drawing, an MFA in fiber arts and a Ph.D. in philosophy of art. During her 30-year career teaching art history at NMSU and Wheaton College in Massachusetts, Zarur published extensively and curated several exhibitions. Her artwork in this exhibition is inspired by the combination of traditional 19th-century Mexican retablos and santos and present-day photographic documentation of migrants to the U.S.-Mexico border.

• Paul Ratje, originally from Mesilla, studied photojournalism and foreign languages at NMSU. After living in Taiwan, where he began his career in photojournalism, he returned home to the El Paso area. He feels his true calling is documenting immigration and border issues and revealing the humanity in the immigration story.

• Sterling Trantham is an award-winning photographer, photojournalist, documentary photographer, photographic educator and a National Geographic Faculty Fellow. He lives in La Mesa, New Mexico, and teaches photography at El Paso Community College.

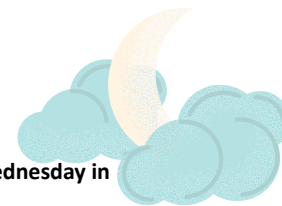

The exhibit will be available for viewing through June 28 at DAAC, 250 W. Amador Ave.

DAAC hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday and noon-5 p.m. during Second Saturday (June 11).

New exhibit at NMSU museum to showcase work of 3 artists

BULLETIN REPORT

The New Mexico State University Art Museum (UAM) welcomes works by three artists with exhibitions beginning Friday, June 10, and continuing through Friday, Sept. 2, at the museum, 1308 University Ave., in Devasthali Hall near the intersection of University and Solano Drive.

The show features “Pray for Rain” by Carissa Samaniego in the museum’s Mullennix Bridge Gallery, “(ir)regular evolution: New Works by Rachel Stevens” in the Bunny Conlon Modern and Contemporary Art Gallery and “Joey Fauerso: Wait for It” in the Contemporary Gallery.

Stevens is a professor emeritus at NMSU; Samaniego is from Colorado and will soon be on the faculty at NMSU. Fauerso is from Texas.

The opening reception for all three exhibits begins at 5:30 p.m. Friday, June 10, at the museum.

“Laeree with Flowers,” by Joey Fauerso, 82- by 110-inch acrylic on canvas

“Pray for Rain is an exhibition featuring recent works by Samaniego, who will join the NMSU Department of Art as visiting professor of sculpture in the fall of 2022,” UAM said in a news release. The exhibit includes artwork from three of the Samaniego’s ongoing projects: the Querencia textile series, Block Pattern Halo drawings and Americana research.

“Raised between a small town on the prairie in the upper Midwest and a Nuevomexicano family rooted in the borderlands of the Southwest for 12 generations, her identity straddles geographic and cultural borders. She draws from contrasting family traditions, generational knowledge, histories and relationships

“Old Blue – Detail,” by Carissa Samaniego, 84- by 36- by 10-inch cotton fabric and thread, voile, chiffon, denim, neon, silver wire, lead weights and lure spinners to the land based on her personal experience and ongoing research focused in her places of origin,” UAM said.

“(ir)regular evolution” is an exhibition featuring all new works in clay by Stevens, who is an NMSU Department of Art emeritus professor.

“These pieces mark a radical shift in Stevens’ practice from large-scale monochromatic metal installations to multicolored biomorphic ceramic sculptures. From evolutionary theories of meteors sparking life on Earth to genetic mutations causing cataclysmic pandemics, in this exhibition Stevens’ new forms explore the (ir)regularities that she is embracing in her own work and in our modern world,” UAM said.

Stevens received the Fulbright Research Scholarships to Patan, Nepal in 2006 and Lviv, Ukraine in 2018. She is the recipient of a Pollock-Krasner Foundation grant and has shown in galleries and museums nationally and internationally. She served as area head of sculpture at NMSU for 25 years.

Fauerso is a San Antonio-based artist and a professor of art at Texas State University in San Marcos.

“‘Wait for It’ features a selection of Fauerso’s recent paintings and monoprints, from intimate portraits to mural-sized abstractions, alongside a four-channel video installation made in her San Antonio studio and at a residency in Berlin,” UAM said.

“‘You Destroy Every Special Thing I Make’ (2017-19) transforms the artist’s workspaces into sites for destruction and reconstruction, with Fauerso’s two sons, their friends, and other performers adopting clever methods to tear down a series of black and white installations for the camera’s lens. This work was acquired into the NMSU Permanent Art Collection in 2020.”

Review: 'Three Tall Women' reaches highest heights of theater

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

A play and playwright that won a Pulitzer Prize and multiple Tony Awards, an outstanding cast, a stunning set and costumes and one of the finest directors at any theater venue I have ever been to make for a great evening of entertainment at Las Cruces Community Theatre.

"Three Tall Women" is about three powerful women who morph into a single woman at different stages in her life as only a master of American theater like Edward Albee could accomplish. To explain more would only dilute the experience you will have seeing it for yourself.

Annie Pennies, Deborah

Storm, Rachel Thomas-Chappell and Gus David Sanchez comprise the cast; Doug Roby is the scenic designer; Lennie Brown the property master; Tiffini Reinmann the costume designer; Jazmen Escarcega and Ryann Nunley the stage manager and assistant stage manager; Jessie M. Ortega the lighting designer and board operator; and Michael Wise the director.

For everyone on stage and backstage, the attention to detail in this show is incredible — the set (what Roby can do with flats and Styrofoam is nothing short of alchemy); every piece of furniture and its placement on the stage — pay attention to what moves and what disappears at intermission — the colors and the jewelry the women are wearing, especially in Act 2; the music; the lights.

For everyone involved in this show, I proudly confess the strongest possible bias in their favor. I envy all of them for their participation in a memorable production of a brilliant play and the time, talent, intelligence, wit and grace they are sharing with each other and their audience.

I have acted in plays that Wise directed and others for which he was stage manager. We also acted together — wearing wigs and dresses — in low-fi productions of "The Golden Guys" a decade or so ago. As an actor, a director, a stage manager and a human being, he is the gold standard, as confirmed once again with "Three Tall Women."

I shared the stage with Pennies in LCCT's "The Homecoming," which Wise directed, and with Thomas-Chappell in NMSU's "Dracula," for which Wise served as stage manager. I served for many years with Storm on the American Southwest Theatre Company board of directors, and I have for the last several years been in awe of the work Sanchez has done both on stage — I loved him in "Biloxi Blues," which Wise directed for LCCT — and as the co-founder of Blank Conversations Theatre Company.

Each of these gifted artists has honed and shared his or her talents — acting, directing, writing, dance, improvisation — at NMSU, LCCT, Black Box Theatre, Rio Grande Theatre and multiple other venues in Las Cruces and far, far beyond. Individually and collectively, they are center-stage magic in "Three Tall Women."

The play continues for two additional weekends at LCCT, 313 N. Main St. Downtown.

Performances are at 7:30 p.m. Friday-Saturday, June 10-11 and 17-18, and 2 p.m. Sunday, June 12 and 19.

Tickets are $17 for adults; $14 for seniors, students and military; $10 for children ages 12 and younger; and $5 for student "rush" tickets.

For tickets, visit www.lcctnm.org or purchase them at the theatre before each performance.

NETWORKING FOR THE BETTERMENT OF OUR COMMUNITY by C.T. Barnes

For the past three years Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) has been networking with other utility municipalities in the Southwest to strengthen their information sharing for the betterment of their customers.

"This started more as a collaboration within LCU, we have networked with a lot of other municipal utilities at national conferences and in our conversations, from those discussions LCU was invited to visit other cities in our region," stated LCU Deputy Director Natural Gas and Energy Lucio Garcia.

Three years ago, LCU's first site visit was to the City of Mesa Utilities in Arizona, LCU had hoped to schedule similar trips, but the COVID-19 pandemic had other plans. With restrictions lifting, LCU was able to visit the City of Colorado Springs Utilities (CSU) facilities this past month.

Colorado passed a regulation to capture and control methane, challenging CSU to figure out an efficient way to meter methane, regulate it, and account for how much methane is released in the atmosphere in the next two years. LCU does not capture or control methane yet, but the practice is expanding throughout the utilities industry. This is one reason LCU placed high importance on staying in contact and fostering networking opportunities with municipalities in the region. "Processes other utilities are implementing or researching may be good ideas for us to mimic or understand what would work in our community," LCU Gas Systems Inspection Supervisor Ramiro Pereyra stated.

Something that LCU currently utilizes that CSU has not yet implemented is a Global Positioning System (GPS) identification of all their utility lines. LCU's GPS program, allows the city-owned utility to document any damages in real-time. "We are a little ahead of them in this technology and we invited them to come to Las Cruces and tour our facility to see how we implement our GPS technology in our community," added LCU Technical Gas Systems Supervisor and Interim Gas System Operations Supervisor Pete Duran.

Another great insight LCU was able to provide to CSU is their corrosion testing. Currently LCU connects their system to a test box, which alerts the detection of corrosion. This is something CSU has not done yet and LCU was able to provide assistance and share information on how our system is working in the service area. CSU's corrosion engineer is now looking to implement a similar program for their staff to be up-to-date on their readings to help detect corrosion.

The next goal for LCU is to send a team to visit the municipal utilities in San Antonio, Texas, to expand their knowledge network. In turn LCU hopes to open the door for similar site visits to take place at their facilities. "We have a lot of experience in the industry, so it is easy for our team to talk to industry members about problems we are facing or issues they may be working on. It broadens the connection on how to solve problems that we have and is just a great way to better ourselves and the Las Cruces community," Garcia concluded.

Agave Gallery features watercolorist, silversmith

BULLETIN REPORT

Agave Artists Gallery is now featuring the work of watercolorist and wood carver Nancy Begin and jewelry designer and silversmith Margaret Berrier.

Begin is also a furniture maker, an entrepreneur and a teacher who creates uniquely beautiful art in her Las Cruces studio. A native of Buffalo, New York, she has lived in Las Cruces for more than a dozen years. Begin has been painting since she was a little girl. She comes from a family of artists, including both parents and a grandmother who was a quilt maker.

For the last several years, Begin has begun each of her paintings, not by picking up a brush, but by ripping up pages from old magazines ("Architectural Digest" is one of her favorites) to make a collage of what she plans to paint.

"I'm fascinated by archaeology and nature and have studied the ancient cultures of Central America and the Southwest for almost 25 years," Berrier said. "My inspirations have many 'layers' that incorporate images. Some, like my landscape series and my stone dreamers include stones, hidden images and multiple techniques. They are almost mini sculptures. I also make simpler silver and copper pieces using some of these same techniques, so I am able to make earrings, bracelets, necklaces, etc. The stones in my jewelry remind me of the natural connections I value and many times remind me of the varied forms I see while outdoors. "

Agave Artists Gallery is located at 2250 Calle de San Albino on the historic plaza in Mesilla. The gallery is open 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

ACTion Programs for Animals gets $5K from Maddie's Fund

BULLETIN REPORT

A $5,000 grant was awarded to the nonprofit animal rescue organization ACTion Programs for Animals (APA) of Las Cruces from Maddie's Fund, a national family foundation established to revolutionize the status and well-being of companion animals, APA said in a news release.

The grant will support APA's continued effort to make Doña Ana County a "no kill" community and keep pets and people together, APA said.

The grant supports the operations of U.S.-based Black, indigenous and people of color (BIPOC)-led government agencies or nonprofit animal welfare or veterinary medicine organizations. APA's founder and executive director, Michel Meunier, is a person of color, the news release said.

"Thanks to Maddie, this grant will allow us to continue to pull animals from our municipal shelter and work toward finding homes for dogs and cats in our community," Meunier said. "APA is one of our shelter's biggest partners in our collective lifesaving efforts."

In addition to offering dog and cat adoptions, APA also offers low-cost vaccination and micro-chip clinics, as well as a pet food bank.

"Our staff and volunteers work tirelessly with our community, other rescues, and the shelter to help keep animals out of the shelter and in their homes. And we would not be able to offer the services we offer without grants like this one from Maddie's Fund," Meunier said.

Visit APA's adoption center at 537 N. Solano Drive, open 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday and by appointment.

Since May 2012, APA has rescued more than 5,500 animals. The majority of these have been dogs and cats/kittens pulled from the municipal shelter, the organization said. APA is able to do this through volunteer work of rescue/foster coordinators, foster families, weekend adoptions and donations.

while possibly winning some unique swag, the New Mexico Department of Agriculture (NMDA) said in a news release.

NMDA launched its 2022 $5 Challenge campaign May 31 to support the state's agriculture industry, including ranchers, farmers, processors, greenhouses and agritourism. The campaign encourages New Mexicans and visitors to increase spending by $5 per week on locally grown and locally made products to strengthen the state's economy and support New Mexico agriculture.

"Supporting local is as easy as buying plants and herbs from a New Mexico nursery or perusing your local farmers market for home-grown products," said state Agriculture Secretary Jeff Witte.

The consumer contest continues through Tuesday, July 5. To enter, just take a picture of the New Mexico item you purchased or item you already have and upload it at NM5Dollar.com. Each person and email address is limited to one entry per week. Two winners will be randomly selected each week.

The $5 Challenge campaign also includes a retailer contest. Through July 5, retail stores that sell New Mexico agricultural products may submit up to four pictures of a single display featuring New Mexico-grown or -made products for a chance to win weekly prizes.

May 2022 real estate statistics

By STEVE MONTANEZ

In real estate, higher interest rates will result in higher inventory. Rate hikes in the month of May put a halt on refinances and brought more homes to the Las Cruces market, and the spring buyer season quickly absorbed the additional inventory. Homes did stay on the market a few days longer than previous months and sellers are now having to consider lowering home prices to counter these rate increases. This is a start to a shift in our market amid fears of economic recession and more anticipated rate increases. Many homebuyers are discovering solutions to interest rates that have included extended rate locks, point buydowns and even the return of seller-paid closing costs. The Las Cruces market is still holding strong with sellers closing at 101 percent of asking price. It's still a great time to be a homeowner in Las Cruces.

NM State baseball's Cinderella run ends in NCAA regional

By DAVE BURGE

Las Cruces Bulletin

The New Mexico State University baseball team saw its Cinderella run through the postseason come to an end in the Corvallis, Oregon, NCAA regional June 3-4, but not before making an impression on the national stage.

The Aggies, who barely made the Western Athletic Conference tournament only to run the table and win the conference title, gave No. 3 national seed Oregon State all it could handle in the opener before falling 5-4 in 10 innings.

The Aggies, 24-34 overall, were eliminated from the NCAA tournament the next day with a 21-1 loss to Vanderbilt, which was the national runner-up last year and had won the College World Series in 2019 and 2014.

Head coach Mike Kirby said he will always be proud when he thinks back about this year's team and what they were able to accomplish.

"I am just so proud of this team for overcoming all the adversity they had to overcome," Kirby said in a phone interview a couple hours after the Aggies' season-ending loss. "It will only make them become better people and will help our young guys (become better players)."

"Some nights, I'm starting three freshmen," Kirby said. "No one is doing that (playing in the NCAA tournament)."

The Aggies had to overcome a rash of injuries this season, having young players get adjusted to key roles on a college Division I program and having to play some players out of position.

As Kirby likes to point out, with a college baseball team, you can't just call up another player from a lower level when someone gets hurt or is academically ineligible.

Heading into the final regular-season series of the year, the Aggies had to beat Utah Valley two out of three on the road just to qualify for the WAC tournament. The first game against Wolverines, the Aggies scored seven runs in the ninth inning to win the game. They followed that up by scoring 17 runs the next game to clinch a spot in the conference tournament.

"That is when I thought the baseball gods were on our side for the first time," Kirby said.

NM State then proceeded to go 4-0 in the WAC tournament in Mesa, Arizona, to earn the conference's automatic bid to the NCAA tournament.

Against Oregon State, the Beavers paid the Aggies the ultimate compliment by throwing their top pitcher, Cooper Hjerpe,

No pressure: Organ Mt.'s Warden wins state golf title as eighth-grader

By DAVE BURGE

Las Cruces Bulletin

Eleanor Warden, an eighth-grader representing Organ Mountain High School, didn't look at the leaderboard while she was golfing at the recent state 5A championships at Twin Warriors Golf Course in Albuquerque.

The idea was not to put pressure on herself and try to stay as calm as possible.

The plan worked beautifully as Warden, 14, ended up shooting a two-day total of 151 on the par-72 course on May 9-10. She edged Centennial High's Alex Armendariz, the defending champion, by 3 strokes. The Centennial girls won the team title.

"The first day was very, very windy," Warden said. "I wasn't too sure how other people were playing, but it is always windy here (in Las Cruces), which is great cause I get to practice in it."

Warden, who was a student at Camino Real Middle School this past school year, said she just tried to keep her ball in play that first day and ended up carding a 76 to take the lead after one day of competition.

The next day, she continued to avoid looking at the leaderboard until she finished.

"I was in the second group; I couldn't exactly celebrate," Warden said. She had to wait to see if her score held up for the win.

Warden has been playing golf since she was 4 years old and has been playing in tournaments since she was 7.

She says she has a simple formula — practice, keep improving and give herself plenty of opportunities to try to keep getting better.

"I really like it when I hit a good shot," Warden said. "It just feels nice. The courses are so pretty. Chipping and putting have been pretty good for me. Making long putts and even short putts are nice."

Organ Mountain coach John Tarango said his role was to walk the course with her at state, keep her calm and talk to her about anything but golf in between holes.

What makes her special is her drive to succeed, Tarango said.

"She is unreal at her practices and the way she breaks down a course,"

he said. "She takes notes after every single shot she takes. That is amazing for a 14-year-old."

Organ Mountain has a boys golf team, but Warden was the only girl golfer this year. Tarango said his goal is to get other girls to come out for golf and go after the team title at state.

Warden cited Vernon Bane, the head pro at Sonoma Ranch Golf Course, for helping her with her swing, and everyone at Red Hawk Golf Course, the home course for Organ Mountain High.

"She has a huge supporting cast," Tarango said. "This is a huge accomplishment and we are all very proud of her."

Looking for some great summer reading? Here's a suggestion

Summer is for playing golf. And for reading about golf. Be they instruction manuals, novels or biographies, I love reading golf books. I confess I have a selection of over 1,000 golf books in my home library, and I may never be able to read some of them.

So here, for your summer reading, I recommend one classic in particular: "The Match: The Day The Game of Golf Changed Forever" by Mark Frost.

In 1937, scaling the peak of his stardom, Bing Crosby got the idea to have a friendly little golf tournament.

The rich and famous from Hollywood and from the world of golf got together for a week to play, in every sense of the word. It started in San Diego, but in the late 1940s Crosby moved the golf tournament and party to the Monterey Peninsula where the happening soon became known as "The Clambake."

CHARLIE BLANCHARD
Golf Doctor

The tournament eventually morphed into the very high-profile AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am. But earlier days seemed more fun, with hijinks, music, girls, golf, gaming and parties galore.

Frost describes the Clambake goings-on this way: "Bing tossed some steaks on the grill and sang a few tunes on his piano, which was just off the back nine (at Pebble). Mixed drinks flowed like the Ganges. Waves of aspiring actresses, unbidden, materialized like woodland nymphs."

On the Tuesday evening of the Clambake in 1956 George Coleman, a wealthy mining mogul from Oklahoma, hosted the usual A-list cocktail party at his home on Pebble.

It was at that affair, Frost writes, that history was in the making. Arriving later in the evening were Eddie Lowery, his wife, and his houseguest Byron Nelson. You may remember the name Eddie Lowery — he was the precocious 10-year-old who caddied for Francis Ouimet, the eventual winner in the famous 1913 U.S. Open. (Another fun read is Frost's book "The Greatest Game Ever Played" about that very U.S. Open.) Lowery had since become a successful and rich car dealer in San Francisco. Lowery was also a golfer, a gambler and a nurturer of up-and-coming amateur golfing talent, using his car dealership to provide "jobs" to a few young sticks.

One of his car salesmen was a fellow named Ken Venturi. The other was better known at the time — a playboy with a stellar golf game named Harvie Ward. Lowery was so bullish on his two players that he boasted that his two amateur boys could beat any other two players in the world, pro or amateur.

Coleman had heard enough and told Lowery to put his money where his mouth was.

Lowery did; the bet was on. Nobody knows how much but the stakes were plenty.

Nelson said he was in, then Coleman talked Ben Hogan into playing, and the match was a go — at nearby Cypress Point.

In a suspenseful tapestry of stories and facts, Frost alternatively takes us deep into the backgrounds and colorful lives of the four golfers, while giving us nearly a shot-for-shot replay of the impromptu, un-broadcast 18-hole match. My favorite passage comes at the very end.

"No four men will ever play such a match again. No four men like these. The genuine way they lived their lives makes most to today's fast and frenzied sports and entertainment culture seem like so much packaged goods, a self-conscious, inauthentic hustle. In their best and worst hours alike each one of these four stood his ground, put all he had on the line, and for better or worse lived with the consequences of his actions and moved on."

against them.

New Mexico State countered with another gritty performance. Aggie ace Ian Mejia threw 124 pitches in 7 1/3 innings to keep the NM State in the game. When he left the game, he was given a standing ovation by nearly 4,000 Oregon State fans in attendance at the regional. Outfielder Tommy Tabak had two clutch hits and knocked in three runs against the Beavers.

"They could have easily cashed in the tent this year," Kirby said. "It would have been easy to do that. They wouldn't have any part of that. As a result, they got rewarded by the baseball gods and got to have this great experience. I told them they would remember this the rest of their lives."

Kirby cited his coaching staff of recruiting coordinator/pitching coach Keith Zuniga, assistant coach Michael Pritchard and hitting coach Brandon Van Horn.

Undergraduate assistants Nick Rogers, Connor Laux and Ryan Olson took a lot of mundane tasks off Kirby's hands, like getting the team fed while on the road, and that allowed Kirby to concentrate on being the head coach.

"It was all awesome," Kirby said.
