Las Cruces Public Schools students, such as these last year at Booker T. Washington Elementary School, return to classes Wednesday, July 20. It's an earlier return than usual, due to the schools' moving to a new balanced schedule that adds 10 days of instruction to the annual calendar and a two-week fall break.

ENGINEERING AND ROADS UPDATE

What it means to grade a road

Doña Ana County maintains over 700 miles of unpaved road that requires constant grading. Most of our roads are on the 4-week cycle. The aim of grading is to create and preserve road geometry which is required shape for dirt roads to function properly.

Our chip seal crew has completed paving projects on Schneberger, Tuna, Gramma Grass, Deer Grass and Maguey roads in Chaparral. The roads were graded to create a positive drainage, base course aggregate was placed and finally two inches of asphalt pavement capped the road surface to create an awesome surface. The paving will improve road safety and offer a more comfortable drive. Doña Ana County thanks the road crew members.

Designing underway for these roads:

- Airport Road - From McNutt to Sunland Park High School in Sunland Park
- El Camino Real - From Thorpe Road to San Ysidro Road in Doña Ana
- Elks Trail - From Doña Ana School Road to Thorpe Road in Doña Ana
- Embarcadero Bridge - Doña Ana Road over EBID Irrigation channel in Fort Seldon
- Fairacres Road - From Picacho Ave. south, for 0.25 miles in Fairacres
- Lomas Ave. - Plaza to Stern Drive in Vado
- Missionary Ridge Road - From Zule Place to Stern Drive, Brazito Acres
- Peachtree Hills Road - From Jornada Road to Mesa Grande Drive in East Mesa
- San Miguel - from Highway 28 to Calle de las Flores in San Miguel
- San Ysidro Road - From Lopez Road to El Camino Real Road in Doña Ana
- East Taylor Road - From April Place to Elks Drive in Doña Ana
- Teak Lane - from Roswell Road to the end of the road in Brazito Acres
- Tierra Alta Road, U.S. Route 70 loop in Organ

COUNTY TO DISTRIBUTE EMPTY SANDBAGS IN PREPARATION FOR MONSOON SEASON

Doña Ana County, NM - To help residents of Doña Ana County prepare for monsoon season, the Office of Emergency Management is setting up distribution sites for empty sandbags to help residents with flood mitigation.

City and county officials are assisting residents with preparation for potential flooding caused by heavy rain in a short period of time.

It is recommended to fill the sandbags close to where they are going to be used. It is advised to fill sandbags with either clean sand or soil. While yard dirt can be used, it is not ideal if it contains debris that could puncture the bag, providing an opening for water to penetrate the bag therefore weakening the ability to prevent flooding.

Good sources of sand are designated sand piles (at or near some County fire stations), as well as from arroyos. Sand can also be purchased in bulk (usually by the ton) from a variety of landscaping and sand/gravel companies (for those wanting to have it delivered to their houses).

Each household is allowed up to 25 empty bags, but in flood-prone areas, up to 50 per household will be provided. County residents may pick up sandbags at the following fire stations and community centers in Doña Ana County.

- La Union (next to the fire station) - Sat., July 16 from 3:30- 6:30 p.m. 350 Telles St.
- Hatch Fire Department (by appt only) - 207 Franklin St, Hatch, NM 87937
- Radium Springs Community Center - Mon.- Fri. from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. 12060 Lindbeck Rd., Las Cruces, NM 88007
- Doña Ana Fire Station - Mon.-Fri. from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. 601 E. Doña Ana School Rd., Doña Ana, NM 88032
- Mesquite Community Resource Center - Mon.-Fri. from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. 129 Tawa Ave., Mesquite, NM 88048
- Anthony Fire Station - Mon.-Fri. from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. 1055 E. O'Hara Rd., Anthony, NM 88021
- Chaparral Fire Station - Mon.-Fri. from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. 500 E. Lisa Dr., Chaparral, NM 88021

Nonprofit to benefit children founded, run by high schoolers

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

It all started when Shreeya Moolamalla was in ninth grade and met a speaker “who talked about how he was treated terribly due to his face deformity.”

Moolamalla was inspired to help underprivileged children in her community. Three years later, she is a senior at Mesilla Valley Christian Schools (MVCS) and founder and president of HandinHand, sponsored under the Community Foundation of Southern New Mexico (CFSNM).

HandinHand, with its own board of directors composed entirely of MVCS students, is fundraising and advocating on behalf of Doña Ana County children dealing with neurodiversity (variations in brain function and behavior), health and financial issues.

“We seek to make a difference in the lives of the children we meet,” HandinHand said on the CFSNM website.

“We are the first youth philanthropic organization that is completely run by high school students, and this is a great opportunity for more high school students ... for the reason that not only will they turn into leaders, but also help children who really need it,” said Moolamalla, 16.

HandinHand members have volunteered at many local events, helping nonprofits and programs that benefit children. They have worked with special education students at Valley View Elementary School and children at the La Casa, Inc. domestic violence program and to benefit the children served by La Piñon Sexual Assault Recovery Services.

“It is such an amazing experience to meet these children,” Moolamalla said.

“I love helping kids,” said HandinHand Vice President Connor Coyle, 17.

Even though he was busy at school and playing baseball, basketball and football, Coyle said he “decided to go all in” with HandinHand.

“Kids can help in ways that better relate to children,” said Coyle.

He has found ways to balance these new responsibilities with his schoolwork and athletics, Coyle said.

“HandinHand meant that I could finally make a difference in my community and I didn’t have to do it alone, I would have fellow teens who wanted to help people as well that I could work and grow with,” said HandinHand historian Keely Starritt, 17.

The organization has “taught me leadership skills, how to work and plan events with a group of people, and it has given me the opportunity to help people from a different walk of life. I am so excited to continue to work with Shreeya and all the members of HandinHand,” Starritt said.

“I am happy I got to be part of it,” said HandinHand treasurer Ethan Mondoux, 17, who moved to Las Cruces from California four years ago.

Mondoux said he was “not good with kids” before joining the organization, but has become more comfortable interacting with them and taking on a leadership role as HandinHand treasurer, his first elective office.

Sharing kids’ happy moments, helping them make good memories and “making an impact” in his community have become important to Mondoux, he said.

HandinHand Secretary Elizabeth Duvallon has been friends with Moolamalla since first grade.

“I just wanted to be there by her side,” said Duvallon.

She has enjoyed “hanging out with the kids” and building relationships with them, Duvallon said. And, she believes it has made a difference to the children.

Part of the work Moolamalla and the other HandinHand officers are doing is focused on the organization’s sustainability – keeping it going after they have graduated.

Moolamalla said she is interested in research work and neuroscience as a potential career. Duvallon wants to be a film director. Mondoux is interested in studying psychology. Coyle is thinking about a career in real estate or possibly going to law school. Starritt is thinking about studying marine biology.

HandinHand membership is open to anyone up to age 18, Moolamalla said.

You can donate to HandinHand at <https://cfsnm.fcsuite.com/erp/donate>. Scroll down to HandinHand and click the “Donate” button.

Do you know how to identify a natural gas leak? You might smell sulfur or rotten eggs, you may notice dirt or debris shooting up out of a hole in the ground, dead or dying vegetation in an otherwise green area, and a loud hissing or roaring sound near pipeline markers. These and many more are all tell tale signs of a natural gas or pipeline leak. Use all your senses, even common sense and report any possible leaks to Zia Natural Gas Company. When in doubt call us out!

Early monsoon season may deliver additional rain

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

“The rains are here,” said National Weather Service (NWS) meteorologist Jason Laney.

It’s an early start for the monsoon season, which could produce a total of six to seven inches in the Southwest United States by the end of September, Laney said in a telephone interview. He is the warning coordination meteorologist for NWS’ El Paso weather forecast office in Santa Teresa, New Mexico.

But even a wetter-than-usual summer won’t end the region’s drought, driven by a third consecutive La Niña climate pattern that forecasts a cold, dry winter, he said.

NWS defines the monsoon season as June 15-Sept. 30, but it doesn’t usually start in the El Paso-Las Cruces region until mid-July, Laney said. This year, however, the conditions that define the onset of the monsoons were in place in June.

“We really started seeing monsoon conditions full force on (June) 21,” Laney said, when both a high-pressure air mass and rising dew point (measuring moisture in the air) were in place. The 2021 monsoon season official started June 28, he said.

But a monsoon isn’t a rainstorm; it’s a seasonal reversal of winds.

In the desert Southwest, prevailing winds are from the west and southwest, Laney said. They come off other desert regions, so they don’t produce a lot of moisture. The pattern shifts in the summer “and we begin to have more of a flow from the south or southeast,” he said. “Most of the time it picks up moisture when it happens.”

An area needs to receive at least 50 percent of its annual rainfall as a result of the wind change for it to be a true monsoon, Laney said. Since El Paso gets an average of 5.7 inches of rain during the monsoon season (59 percent of its annual total) and Las Cruces gets about 5.5 inches (57 percent), “we definitely qualify to be a monsoon,” he said.

Because “summer thunderstorms can be quite isolated,” Laney said, “the numbers only tell part of the story. So much of it is who gets what,” he said, noting that west El Paso “took the brunt” during heavy monsoons in 2006 and La Union had severe flooding issues because of last year’s monsoon precipitation.

But even with a wetter-than-usual summer this year, the region’s drought is likely to continue, Laney said.

That’s because a La Niña weather pattern is in place for the third year in a row, creating a dryer, colder winter than one experienced during an El Niño.

El Niño is the warm phase of the El Niño–Southern Oscillation (ENSO) weather pattern (winds and sea-surface temperatures) in the equatorial Pacific Ocean that impacts weather around the world. La Niña is the opposite – a cooling phase of ENSO. There is also a third, neutral phase. (“El Niño de Navidad,” a reference to the Christ Child, was given to the warm, south-flowing air current centuries ago by Peruvian fishermen because it was most noticeable around Christmas. “La Niña” [the girl] came into use sometime later to denote the opposite air current.])

Laney said existing drought conditions began in the summer of 2020, during a weak monsoon season. The Southwest remains in NWS’s D3 category, “extreme drought,” he said. Categories range from D0 (abnormally dry) to D4 (exceptional drought).

Downtown tower has new owner, rich history

Frank O. Papen had big dreams for Las Cruces.You've heard the saying,
"When you dream, aim for the stars! Even if you miss, you might hit the moon!"Space was big in the 1960s, and Papen was banking on it. Literally.
An influential board member, chairman and president of First National Bank of Doña Ana County, Papen was known as "Mr. First National."In 1962, President John F.
Kennedy had challenged America to get to the moon by the end of the decade. The Soviet Union had already beaten us with the first satellite (Sputnik, 1957), and the Space Race was on.Papen knew NASA had a future in Florida and in Houston, but NASA had a presence in Las Cruces (White Sands Test Facility, 1963) and he was betting on the come.He envisioned thousands of Las Cruces working for NASAin a big building downtown.
After all, southern New Mexico was a cradle of space history, with Goddard's rocketry pioneering in Roswell, Von Braun's V2 at White Sands Proving Grounds, the high-speed test track at Holloman Air Force Base and, of course, 1945's atomic bomb test.RICHARD COLTHARP
From the PublisherSo, he built a building that would get as close to space as any building in Las Cruces ever would: The First National Bank Tower.
Construction began in 1966 for a seven-story building, and by the time it opened its doors in 1967, it had grown to 120 feet and 10 floors, 11 if you count the basement. Las Cruces was as poised as any Southwest city for an explosion.Most of those NASA jobs, however, stayed in Florida;
Houston; Huntsville, Alabama; and elsewhere. The flurry of skyscrapers never came.

First National Bank sold to Wells Fargo, which had the tower for many years and maintained offices in the tower, as did several government agencies. In 1983, Abraham's restaurant took a space on the fourth floor. (When I came to Las Cruces in 2007, Abraham's also took a space in my heart. I love their meatloaf, burgers, pie and, of course, the fact they sell RC Cola). But by the mid-2010s, everything with the aging tower seemed to be taking the "down" elevator.A half century after Papen, however, another man came along who had big dreams for Las Cruces.In 2009, Anthony Dohrmann began a little company now known as Electronic Caregiver, which creates devices that assist people with healthcare and safety. A few years ago, having grown the company steadily, Dohrmann looked for some bigger office space.If you've ever met Dohrmann, you know he doesn't think small.So, he went for the biggest building in town. At first, they occupied one floor, then two, then three, then four and more.

The next step: Stripping Wells Fargo's name from the top of the tower and replacing it with Electronic Caregiver.And now, the biggest step:
Monday, July 11, Electronic Caregiver bought the whole building.For Kiel Hoffman, Las Cruces market president of Pioneer Bank, which orchestrated the loan for the $8.9 million purchase price, the deal has additional personal meaning.
His late father, Bob Hoffman, was a New Mexico economic developer who worked on the original deal for the building in the 1960s and attended the ribbon cutting.The sale solidifies not only Electronic Caregiver as a force in New Mexico and beyond, it further solidifies the Las Cruces community and our re-emerging downtown.

Here's to the big dreamers!

Desert Hope complex drawing keen attention

The city of Las Cruces has a lot invested in the Desert Hope apartment complex for low-income residents.It's not just the financial investment, coming from local, state and federal sources. There is also a large segment of our community eager for the opportunity to say, "I told you that was a bad idea; never try that again," if things go wrong.Which is why it was so discouraging to read reports last month from both residents and neighbors that the complex wasbeing neglected. Residents said there has been a lack of security and maintenance, resulting in damages to the property that do not get repaired, and increased criminal activity.Neighbors on or near Pecos Street have complained about aggressive panhandlers, people sleeping on or near their property, attempts to break into their homes and finding waste left behind.WALT RUBEL
The View
From HereCue the NIMBY Chorus, just as city officials are planning an expansion of the facility.The shame is that Desert Hope, and other complexes like it, are exactly what the city needs to address a growing homeless population.Getting people off the streets and into a safe, secure environment is often the critical first step in helping them turn their lives around. A well-managed Desert Hope would be a benefit to the community and a Godsend to some of its most vulnerable members.That's where the JL Gray Company comes into the picture. It has been hired to manage the complex, and has already started to clean and make repairs, company director Jeff Curry said. He said they would work to educate residents on the rules, and would terminate leases when necessary.

Las Cruces Police said they planned more patrols in the neighborhood around the complex. They have also started a new neighborhood watch group with area residents and business owners and installed a new security camera near the apartments.

It is wrong to associate homelessness with crime. Desert Hope residents have the same desire for safety and security as we all do. They want to see the troublemakers removed just as much as the neighbors do.

City officials plan to expand on the Desert Hope model as they continue working to assist those who do not have stable, permanent housing. That's why it's so important to learn from past mistakes and to get this right.

Desert Hope will be a model, one way or the other. Right now, it is Exhibit A for all of those screaming, "Not in my backyard!" But, the right steps are being taken to alter that reality and make the complex an asset for our community.

Protecting citizens' right to vote

The League of Women Voters supports election procedures that protect the right of every citizen to vote and that are verifiable. New Mexico is fortunate to have a well-functioning voting system and has been rated in the top half of the states by the MIT Election Performance Lab. Recently, however, we have seen how pandemics, wildfires, and partisan activities pose challenges to orderly elections, the vote counting may be confusing, and threats to election workers, a form of voter suppression, have become more frequent.

Elections are administered by professionals whose day-to-day activities focus on voting and they depend crucially on citizens who assist by serving as voter registration agents and poll workers. Elected officials, such as county clerks, county commissioners, and secretaries of state, are also important to successful elections.

Some nonpartisan organizations have been examining election administration to see how our system might be strengthened. A fairly simple step would be adoption of a code of ethics and oath of neutrality for elected administrators. County clerks and secretaries of state would commit to refrain from endorsing or fundraising for other candidates; they would also agree to step back from decisions involving their own race.

Other reforms could include designating these election-related positions as nonpartisan, so that candidates for the offices run without a party affiliation on the ballot.

Additional issues receiving attention involve the federal Electoral College. Controversies over the counting process were particularly problematic in the 1876 presidential election when neither Rutherford B. Hayes (Republican) nor Samuel Tilden (Democrat) received an electoral majority and multiple states presented serious problems. A 15-member commission appointed by Congress ultimately decided the disputes in favor of Hayes.

The Electoral Count Act of 1887 was intended to resolve some of the issues, but confusion remains. Electors are appointed in each state on Election Day and subsequently meet to send certificates of their votes to the U.S. Archivist, the President of the Senate, and the federal judge in the district where the electors voted. A joint session of Congress convenes in January to certify the vote and declare official results of the election for President and Vice President. The President of the Senate (the Vice President), presides over the joint session, preserving order and opening all the certificates.

Potential reforms under discussion include

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Questioning city's plans to address poverty situation

Judging from City Manager Pili's statements taken from the recent faith/homeless meeting he has no plan to "Lift Up Las Cruces" beyond the City Council's plan to elevate the poor through a form of socialism that they are promoting.

If one wants to improve the poverty situation anywhere it is done by offering opportunities that provide pathways out of poverty, not paving streets, putting up street lights and offering free haircuts.

Pili helped bring in opportunity to his former city in Utah so why is that not his focus today?

Answer: because he was hired and can be fired by our City Council if he is not in line with their program that keeps Las Cruces in poverty, unhealthy, uneducated and on the government dole.

As it stands, the only two growth businesses we have are recreational cannabis and, coming soon to go along with all our urgent care facilities, abortion clinics combined with a lodging industry that can help with the out-of-state travelers. Maybe that will be the boost we need to get scheduled air service into Las Cruces?

Missing Baxter Black's common sense

Just read your piece about the Cowboy Poet Baxter Black's death.

Thank you for a writing a lovely notice about him. I always enjoyed reading his columns and mourn the loss of someone who shared good natured common sense as well as the fine values of our rural folks. He will be missed.

Health secretary reviews 'game-changers'

By DAVID R. SCRASE

There have been a lot of game changers since COVID-19 began — including the virus itself, which has upended our way of life across the globe.

The first game-changer and the most prolific is, of course, the ground-breaking mRNA vaccine. If you haven't gotten yours, please make sure to get your vaccine and stay up-to-date on your boosters. Second came at-home testing: the free, convenient way for everyone to confirm within minutes instead of days, whether they are positive for COVID-19. In addition to its vital role in mitigating viral spread, the swift response time gives a third game-changer its best chance at leveling the field: the mighty, the powerful, the must-be-taken-within-a-five-day-window pill that will likely keep you out of the hospital and may even save your life: the oral treatment.

Oral treatments, taken from the convenience of home, reduce our chance of severe outcomes from COVID-19, including hospitalization and death, by nearly 90 percent. What more needs to be said? But wait, there is more: Oral treatments can prevent our hospitals from being overrun during surges. That's a game-changer.

You might be saying, sounds good, but who gets these oral treatments? Just those at risk for hospitalization or death? Well, yes and no. Yes, of course those at increased risk for severe outcomes qualify for oral treatment. But what constitutes a high risk individual? You may be surprised to know: Anyone who is over 65, overweight, pregnant, has asthma, is a smoker, diabetic and more. So in fact, that means the majority of us here in New Mexico. The more qualifying conditions a person has, the more likely they'll suffer severe outcomes. If this is you, the time is now to speak with your doctor about a plan for oral treatments.

So how do we all get started? A positive test result is required, along with any COVID-19 symptom, even fatigue. A few options: The Department of Health has launched a resource to help you find a treatment. Test-to-treat locations offer both testing and treatment during the same visit. Since treatment needs to start within the five-day window of the first symptom, the value of one-stop shopping goes beyond convenience.

Another is at-home tests; quick results mean you'll have the best chance at seeking treatment fast. If you don't already have a handful of these tests at your house now, order some today at findatestnm.org.

As tired as we are of COVID-19, it is not tired of us. And it's not done with us. By using these game-changing tools, we become the game-changer ourselves.

You have that power; I urge you to use it just like one of my patients did Memorial Day 2022. She had a positive home test, is over 65 and has other risk factors. She texted me while I was out with my wife on a bike ride, and after we returned home I called her, verified her test result, symptoms and risk factors. Then I sent a prescription for oral treatment to her pharmacy. As I write this, she's already taken her first dose.

I'd like to thank all of you for your continued efforts to safeguard your fellow New Mexicans. COVID-19 may not be over, but we are stronger than ever and can reach that day in the hopefully not too-distant future, together.

The simple take away: Get vaccinated. Get tested. Get treated (right away).

Dr. David R. Scrase is acting Cabinet secretary for the New Mexico Department of Health.

(1) clarifying the role of the Vice President in the vote counting; (2) more clearly defining the role of Congress in future controversies about the counts, and (3) specifying when a State may appoint electors after Election Day (such as in natural disasters, terrorist attacks). A more substantial change, supported by the League since 1970 as essential to representative government, is replacement of the Electoral College vote with the national popular vote.

A secure and resilient electoral process is vital to our democracy so confusion and chaos are not acceptable when the United States works through a transfer of power. The League will continue to partner with nonpartisan organizations to support free and fair elections.

'Mother' Hubbard celebrates 95th birthday

By ELVA ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

On the occasion of Barbara "Mother" Hubbard's 95th Birthday, July 12, she announced a date for her birthday party. On Oct. 19 at the New Mexico Farm & Ranch Heritage Museum, a tribute is set to honor Hubbard in the form of a great big birthday party/fundraiser.

During a press conference in her namesake room inside the Pan American Center, Hubbard said she plans to keep giving back – whether mentoring or providing scholarship funds to students through her American Collegiate Talent Showcase (ACTS) program.

Over the years, the ACTS program has generated more than $750,000 in scholarship funds for New Mexico State University students. Hubbard is an entertainment industry icon, and every penny she's raised through concerts she's promoted has gone to support those funds.

But Hubbard will not accept full credit for the accomplishments on her long list.

It's not about me," she said. "It's about these young people that want to get into this business and the fact that we have got to keep the program going. It's the students. That is the product, and I am proud of every one of them."

One of those former students, Steve Dixon, now works with Jennifer Lopez and several other well-known clients marketing their events.

"I got to intern with Tina Turner," Dixon said. "And today I have a robust career because my mentor (Hubbard) gave me a shot."

Dixon said Hubbard at 95 is as relevant as she was at 40.

"It's important to celebrate her because she is still as relevant in the industry as she was then," he said. "It's not very often you see a 95-year-old with as much energy as a 28-year-old."

For event individual and table reservations visit Ashley Furniture, 3299 Del Rey Blvd, Las Cruces.

Progress Club: Giving, growing, 'living the volunteer spirit'

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Talk about progress! Despite the pandemic and the membership decline impacting many service clubs across the county, the Progress Club of Las Cruces has seen its active membership nearly quadruple in the past couple of years.

Club members logged more than 40,000 in volunteer hours in 2021 and donated nearly $40,000 to programs benefitting local veterans, domestic violence programs, children and students, and women and families in need.

"We're all working for that common goal – to help our community," said club President Minel Schlaefli, who has been a member since 2013. "We're a group of really strong women (who keep) the focus on what we have in common. Our diversity is amazing."

Club members range in age from 32 to 89, Schlaefli said, and come from all backgrounds.

"I'm just so proud of the women we have in our organization," said Debbie McAllen, a club member for the past eight years and past club president.

Community impact

In the past 18 months, the Progress Club of Las Cruces has helped 15 local veterans move out of Camp Hope Tent City at the Mesilla Valley Community of Hope into their own apartments. The club also donated a computer, printer and microwave oven to the veterans resource room at the Oak Street apartments in Las Cruces and acknowledged each veteran there with cakes and birthday gifts.

Club members funded scholarships to Doña Ana Community College and New Mexico State University, became a Proud Patron of Thomas Branigan Memorial Library, supported the local Children's Reading Alliance and provided 835 science kits for students at Asombro Institute for Science Education in Las Cruces and other students around the state.

Club members participate in the annual Christ Child Society Layette Shower providing clothing and supplies for new mothers, donated $4,000 to My Friends Place youth shelter and supported the Doña Ana Arts Council's Missoula Children's Theatre and other children's advocacy programs.

The club partnered with Ashley Furniture to purchase furniture for La Casa, Inc. domestic violence program's intake room and to collect clothing, toys and other items for La Casa clients. It donated $3,500 to La Piñon sexual assault recovery services program.

Coming up

The club will sponsor a Sept. 17 fundraising golf tournament at Picacho Hills Country Club, with Ron Cavill and Associates as the major sponsor. Last year's tournament raised $19,000.

Meetings, book club, socials

The club meets regularly September-May:

- Monthly meeting: 11 a.m. the second Friday of the month at the WIA building, 340 N. Raymond St.;
- Book club: 11:30 a.m. the second Tuesday of the month at Hacienda de Mesilla, 1891 Avenida de

Mesilla;

- Socials: 5:30 p.m. the last Tuesday of each month at a different area restaurant.

Club history

The club celebrated its 100th anniversary in 2015 but got its start when the Women's Improvement Association was formed in 1894 by five Las Cruces women who wanted to help provide services to the community the city was not providing, according to club records.

At the time, the women were riding behind a coal wagon taking the body of a friend of theirs to a local cemetery. Their first goal was to buy a hearse for the community. That commitment to serve evolved into the Progress Club of Las Cruces' mission of "living the volunteer spirit."

Join the club

Membership is open to all women. Dues are $40 a year. To become a club member and/or to make a donation to the club, contact Belen Valenzuela at 575-496-4292 and belen8@yahoo.com.

The great Colosseum of Rome becomes a metaphor to recount the thrilling story of the Roman Empire through the vantage point of the men and women who fought and died there in this classic structure. Each episode focuses on one of eight key characters, all based on real people from history. The docuseries premiere, "The Gladiators," opens in 80 AD, when Emperor Titus opens this architectural wonder with 100 days of spectacular games, including one of the most famous gladiatorial matches in Rome's history.

History's Crazy Rich Ancients

The history of the world has been shaped by rich and powerful figures whose names and deeds are familiar to nearly everyone. To really understand these insanely rich power players, however, and get inside their heads, one must obey a familiar maxim: Follow the money. This new docuseries, which airs weekly in two back-to-back episodes, introduces icons from the past who share an obsession, whether it's exotic animals, mind-boggling palaces or obscenely lavish parties. It all adds up to an immersive ride through jaw-dropping decadence.

Who Do You Think You Are?

Actor and TV personality Nick Offerman ("Parks and Recreation") finds a few tangled roots to his family tree in this new episode, wherein he discovers ties to some ancestors during the Revolutionary War era, including the story of how his 8-times-great-grandparents ran a successful tavern in New York during the 1700s. Alas, however, as his genealogical search deepens, Offerman unearths the unpleasant truth about how these forebears treated members of the Mohawk nation to keep their tavern going on some hotly contested land.

Jaws vs. Boats

Anyone who scrolls through YouTube will find no shortage of viral videos capturing great white sharks and their finny kin ferociously attacking boats with what looks a lot like a white-hot fury. Why does this kind of shark behavior seem to be on the rise, however? Is it something other than the simple fact that there are exponentially more people with phone cameras capable of filming these episodes? Dr. Mike Heithaus and colleague Sara Casareto set out to find out what seems to be triggering the watery acts of violence.

Employee engagement and productivity

Several factors influence the productivity, revenue growth, and smoother functioning of a business organization. A significant factor among them is employee engagement. The impact of employee engagement is so relevant that it inspires the teams to make substantial progress and improvements that have a massive effect on the business's bottom line.

The Definition of Employee Engagement

Employee engagement is a Human Resource (HR) development approach of a business organization that motivates employees to stay committed to their goals and put their best at work. Broadly, employee engagement productivity can be taken as how employees invest themselves in their job and put in their best effort to get the job done. More than anything else, engaged employees are more committed, motivated, and productive than their counterparts.

The Employee Engagement Impact on Productivity

Deadlines, company growth, and revenue statistics matter more to most business organizations than the level of employee engagement in their enterprise. As a result, they tend to miss the fact that employees' enthusiasm is significant and engaged employees more productive. One motivated yet engaged employee can contribute more to business productivity than ten spiritless, disengaged employees.

Now let's look at how employee engagement can positively impact your business.

The Relevance of The Impact of Employee Engagement

It is true that employee engagement impact on productivity, but it has a direct effect on the critical outcomes of a business organization as well. Employee engagement helps develop a dynamic and skilled workforce equipped to take the challenges ahead. More than that, the impact of employee engagement creates an interactive workplace packed with a happy and engaged workforce. An enthusiastic crew in an active workplace significantly helps brand building and makes the organization more inviting to job seekers.

Well, employee engagement impact on productivity, but it also comes with several other benefits. Here let's take a glimpse at some of the significant benefits of undertaking employee engagement initiatives in a business organization.

1. Happy and Satisfied Workforce

Despite the linkage between employee engagement and productivity, the former is one of the fundamental ways to boost employees' job satisfaction. Doubtlessly, engaged employees are more immersed in their job that they never consider it even a 'job.' This attitude bestows them with more happiness from their jobs than the disengaged employees.

The impact of employee engagement also creates a workplace filled with positive vibes. This positive ambiance boost employee productivity which in turn drives business success. When employees never hesitate to take up job responsibilities, they feel free to put extra effort into their work while improving their overall performance.

2. Enhanced Customer Experience

Customer is always the king in the world of business. Therefore, a customer-centric approach results from enhanced employee engagement and productivity. This also adds value to a business organization.

The impact of employee engagement plays a significant role in how a business treats its employees and how the workforce treats its customers. Happiness and readiness are the by-product ucts of employee engagement. Therefore, happier and proactive employees tend to provide a better customer experience. When the customers are satisfied with a business's products and services, it eventually leads to your business' more outstanding success.

3. Employee Engagement Impact on Productivity and Innovation

Monotonous, repetitive tasks lead to disengagement and boredom in employees. When a business focuses on employee engagement and develops a friendly yet challenging workplace, engaged employees become more productive. Not only that, their approach towards work and goals turn into an innovative approach.

4. Improved Employee Retention and Talent Acquisition

The more an enterprise focuses on its employees' job satisfaction, the more loyal the employees are to the enterprise. A recent Gallup research lists three factors (see below) attained by organizations with higher employee engagement.

1. spend a decade or more in their companies
2. Their engagement levels are higher
3. Their innate talents align well with their jobs.

A business organization that focuses on employee engagement and productivity attracts better talent and can retain existing employees.

5. Employee Engagement Productivity Brings Lower Absenteeism

The level of absenteeism in an enterprise determines the extent of the impact of employee engagement. As a result, the higher the influence of employee engagement and productivity, the lower the absenteeism. It is because engaged employees care about what they do — the relevance of their contribution to the company's growth. They also possess higher focus and efficiency.

Recent research reveals that engaged employees consistently turn up and engage in their work to contribute better to their work. The statistics from another research displays that employee engagement plays a significant role in determining absenteeism rates. The research also found that absenteeism was 37% higher in enterprises at the bottom 25% on employee engagement.

5. Improved Employee Productivity

Employee engagement and productivity are essential to any business. The more productive the workforce is, the more successful the company. According to Gallup, highly engaged teams in an enterprise are 21% more productive and have 28% less internal conflict than those with lower engagement.

Engaged employees bring innovation and are confident that they can do better at their job. In addition, being collaborative and enthusiastic at the workplace allows the employees to achieve their targets and goals more effectively, improving productivity.

Conclusion

Several pieces of research have shed light on the positive correlation between employee engagement and productivity. As a result, business organizations worldwide are investing heavily in employee engagement impact on productivity and reaping its benefits.

For the past several years, enterprises have realized the importance of employee engagement in the workplace. This realization compels them to kickstart employee engagement initiatives to increase employee productivity. Along with direct, face-to-face interactive programs, many business organizations deploy employee engagement applications and online games for the positive impact of employee engagement. All these initiatives can transform their workforce and enhance their overall performance.

FROM OUR U.S. SENATOR

This is about our children's future

BY U.S. SENATOR
MARTIN HEINRICH

If we want the next generation of New Mexicans to succeed and thrive, we must increase educational and economic opportunities for them and their families—particularly in their critical, earliest years of development.

Researchers have consistently found strong evidence that targeting resources to support successful development in the earliest years of our children's lives produces social and economic benefits, including long-term academic and career success and improved social and health outcomes.

Investing in the success of our future workforce will set a much stronger foundation for our state's economic development and competitiveness. When we improve New Mexico's education and childcare system, we make our state a much better place to raise a family, to start or expand a business, to find a good-paying job, and to hire the best and brightest employees.

New Mexico has taken significant strides in recent years to expand families' access to high-quality and affordable preschool, childcare, and other proven early childhood supports. But if we want to build a strong, long-term foundation for our children's success, we still need to provide a more permanent commitment to early childhood education.

Last year, the New Mexico Legislature passed a historic resolution that will propose a constitutional amendment to the voters this fall to invest more than $245 million each year in additional funding from our state's $26 billion Land Grant Permanent Fund to support our children's education in our state. Around $127 million of that new funding would support early childhood programs every single year.

I have been proud to be a part of this effort alongside so many parents, educators and children's advocates. I was the first member of New Mexico's Congressional Delegation to support investing more of the resources in the Permanent Fund in early childhood education. And I am now leading the effort in Congress to pass the New Mexico Education Enhancement Act, which would provide the congressional approval that the State Legislature requested for the proposed state constitutional amendment.

This new, consistent level of investment will help us deliver high-quality preschool education to all of the 3- and 4-year-olds in our state so all of our kids can arrive at their first day of kindergarten ready to learn. We will also be able to grow our early childhood workforce and provide long-needed and consistent support to the childcare providers and fair wages to early childhood teachers across our state.

We are now only steps away from the greatest opportunity in our lifetimes to transform our state's future—from early childhood on—by investing in our children at the level they have long deserved.

FROM THE LOS AMIGOS CHAIR

United Way of Southwest New Mexico provides over $200,000 to support grant recipients

United Way of Southwest New Mexico (UWSWNM) reaffirmed its commitment to graduate more kids, lift families and individuals to financial stability and create a healthier community when its board of directors approved funding recommendations made collectively by community volunteers and donors for the 2022-2023 Community Impact Fund.

Through the Community Impact Fund, United Way of Southwest New Mexico will invest more than $200,000 in 26 education, financial stability, and basic needs programs throughout Southern New Mexico. This annual application process is for nonprofit organizations in our coverage area of Dona Ana, Grant, Hidalgo, Luna, Otero, and Sierra counties. Eligible organizations must be a 501(c)3 organization, serve our coverage area, and provide services related to Basic Needs, Education, and Financial Stability.

"We're committed to creating meaningful change in Southwest New Mexico," said United Way of SWNM Chief Executive Officer, Amanda Morales. "One way we drive change is by investing in the best local education, financial stability and basic needs programs to impact our community's kids and their families."

AMANDA MORALES

United Way of Southwest New Mexico

UWSWNM supports education programs that work to reduce barriers and create meaningful learning opportunities to create a community where all children are born healthy, develop on track and are fully prepared to enter the educational system. Where all students progress successfully through elementary school and middle school and graduate high school and are ready for post-secondary education, life or work.

The financial stability programs that are supported through the community impact fund, work to create a community where all individuals and families have adequate and sustainable resources to support their needs and have the skills, knowledge, and relationships they need to effectively increase and manage their income. The value of these programs are the better outcomes in work, reducing poverty and helping low to moderate income families with children at virtually every stage of life.

Basic human needs impact every aspect of a person's daily life. The basic needs programs work to create a community where all individuals and families receive affordable and equitable health services, live in a safe environment, exhibit healthy behaviors, have access to healthy food, and live in a health-promoting environment.

"We've heard from local organizations that flexible funding is most needed as they continue to navigate the pandemic's impact on our community. For this reason, we made sure to provide funds for operating support through these grant programs if requested," shared Amanda Morales, Chief Executive Officer, United Way of Southwest New Mexico.

By consolidating our collective resources, we improve lives by focusing on supporting programs that address the very building blocks for a good life. We know that by improving education for all children, we're setting them on the path to high school graduation and college success. We know that those children will go on to hold skilled jobs and be financially equipped to support their families. We know that basic needs and good health are directly linked to a successful life. And most importantly, we realize that when we improve education, financial stability and basic needs at a community level, we all benefit. That's what LIVING UNITED looks like in southwest New Mexico.

movie review

BY JAY BOBBIN

An all-star cast leads trek 'Around the World'

At the time it was released almost 70 years ago, "Around the World in 80 Days" was as spectacular an extravaganza as the movie screen had seen.

Producer (and Cinerama co-founder) Michael Todd spared no expense in bringing Jules Verne's novel to film as a sprawling blockbuster that ultimately won the Oscar for best picture of 1956. Turner Classic Movies shows it Tuesday, July 19, as part of a festival of features based on Verne novels ... and as fantastical as the others also may be, none holds a candle to the sheer grandeur of "80 Days," which crammed every star it could get into the proceedings.

As much of a celebrity-driven pop-culture artifact as the movie is, it's also quite faithful to Verne's tale of Phileas Fogg (played by David Niven), the 19th-century Englishman who accepts a wager to prove he can circle the globe in — you guessed it — just under three months. He brings his valet Passepartout (Mexican actor and comic Cantinflas) along, using various means of transportation including a hot-air balloon to accomplish the journey.

Shirley MacLaine also stars as a princess saved from a terrible fate by the duo, becoming their companion as the path brings them to America ... but Spain, Italy, India, Hong Kong and Japan also are on the itinerary, with filming actually done in every country featured in the saga. As a problematic police inspector, Robert Newton completes the starring quartet, but the "name" talent certainly doesn't stop there.

Mesilla restaurant wins Wine Spectator award

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Salud! de Mesilla, 1800 Avenida de Mesilla, has won Wine Spectator's 2022 award of excellence.

Wine Spectator is a magazine focused on wine and wine culture. It began the Restaurant Awards Program in 1991.

Salud! was the only restaurant in Las Cruces, one of only two in southern New Mexico and one of 24 statewide to receive the honor as Wine Spectator recognized restaurants in all 50 states and more than 70 countries and territories worldwide with 2022 restaurant awards for outstanding wine programs.

Salud! co-owner Christopher Schaljo-Hernandez said the restaurant is adding more wines to its selection and will feature 122 varieties by the end of July, including wines from the United States, Europe and South America. Salud! specializes in California, South American,

Spanish and Italian wines, he said, with a focus on wines produced by minority- and women-owned wineries.

Prices range from $28 to $187 a bottle and $7-$51 a glass.

As part of their training, Salud! servers learn about the restaurant's different wines, how to present them and how to pair them with the food they serve, Schaljo-Hernandez said. The training includes staff wine tastings so servers know first hand which wine complements a particular food item on the menu, he said.

"The Award of Excellence is given to restaurants that offer thoughtfully chosen lists, containing both quality and diverse selections that are compatible with the menu's style and pricing," Wine Spectator said on its website.

Schaljo-Hernandez and partner Russell Hernandez opened Salud! in 2016. It has 44 employees.

Review: 'Women Playing Hamlet' 'makes a merry feast'

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

"Indeed, my lord, it followed hard upon."

What better way to begin the new season at Black Box Theatre (BBT), 430 N. Main St. downtown, than to produce William Missouri Downs' "Women Playing Hamlet" as a follow-up to John Lowell's outstanding

A majority-woman cast and crew brings "Women Playing Hamlet" to the Black Box Theatre in Downtown Las Cruces.

"The Standby Lear"?

And if you produce it with some of the best actors in Las Cruces, why then, 'tis a consummation devoutly to be wished."

You may remember Cassandra "Casi" Galban from her brilliant solo performance in "The Gun Show" at BBT last season. In "Women Playing Hamlet," she shares the stage with Autumn Gieb (incredible in BBT's "Every Brilliant Thing"); Nikka Gornitzka Ziemer, who has acted in and directed some great shows at BBT since 2005 and just completed work in ToadHall's production of "Murderess"; Karen Buerd-sell, who was last seen in "A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking" at BBT last August and has done some of the finest acting work I've ever seen at BBT and Las Cruces Community Theatre; and newcomer Alize Torres, who is about to start ninth grade at Desert Springs Christian Academy and absolutely holds her own with the other members of this great cast.

Casi plays Jessica Bisset, who is suddenly thrust into the role of "Hamlet" and begins an inward journey of self-discovery that includes visits from a humanities professor, an acting coach, an English lord, a priest, a psychiatrist, a gravedigger (complete with three Yoricks), a bicycle messenger, a Starbucks actress, a ghost, her mom from Minnesota and a barfly.

Bravo to director Ceil Herman for her casting in these wonderfully varied roles, and another big gold star to Autumn for creating their excellent costumes.

This comedy makes you think, and the production makes you grateful for the many talented actors in Las Cruces. Peter Herman is the scenic and lighting designer as well as the light, sound and projection operator for the show. The crew also includes Joshua Taulbee and Bekah Taulbee.

Bravos and gold stars all around.

The "merry feast" that is "Women Playing Hamlet" 'tis a fancy to delight the coldest heart upon the warmest summer night. (Don't look for that among Shakespeare's quotes; I just made it up.)

Remaining performances of "Women Playing Hamlet" are 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, July 15-16 and 22-23; 2:30 p.m. Sunday, July 17 and 24; and 7 p.m. Thursday, July 21.

Tickets are $15 regular admission, $12 for students and seniors over age 65 and $10 for the Thursday, July 21, performance only. Call BBT at 575-523-1223 to reserve tickets or buy them at the door. Seating begins 30 minutes before the performance.

Blank Conversations announces upcoming season

By GUS DAVID SANCHEZ

Blank Conversations Theatre Company

Blank Conversations Theatre Company (BCTC) is gearing up for all kinds of shows for the 2022-23 season at Rio Grande Theatre (RGT), 211 N. Main St. downtown. As it enters its third year, the company expects this season to be full of nothing but honest, exciting and thoughtful presentations.

BCTC leaps into the farcical world of "The Importance of Being Earnest" by renowned playwright Oscar Wilde. Directed by Christopher Lininger, who directed Blank's production of "Singin' in the Rain" earlier this year, the play follows the story of two bachelors, John "Jack" Worthing and Algernon "Algy" Moncrieff, who create alter egos named Ernest to escape their tiresome lives. They attempt to win the hearts of two women who, conveniently, claim to only love men called Ernest. The pair struggle to keep up with their own stories and become tangled in a tale of deception, disguise and misadventure. The production is set to open Sept. 15-18 for a one-weekend run at RGT.

Pop-punk rock and angst will find their way to the stage this year with a production of "Green Day's AMERICAN IDIOT" during a two-week run January 2023. Directed by Gus Sanchez, the show follows the story of Johnny, the self-declared Jesus of Suburbia, and his two best friends as they attempt to navigate adolescence in a post-9/11 America. As each friend follows their own declared path, the thinly stretched American Dream crumbles as Johnny and his friends grow unprepared for the lives created for them. The show is based on the Green Day album of the same name from 2004 and features songs from other albums, including "21st Century Breakdown" and "Nimrod."

Next, BVTC will premiere the two-man show "Red" by John Logan and co-directed by Anjelica Martinez and Chad Gonzalez. This historical fiction follows the life of Mark Rothko as he's commissioned to paint what would become known as the Seagram's Murals.

Rothko is joined by a fictional assistant, Ken, in helping him around his studio. The two get into heavy debates and arguments about art and life, all the while the commission hangs over Rothko's head. The production is set to run April 20-23 at RGT.

BCTC will wrap up their season with a production of Matt Crowley's "The Boys in the Band," directed by Eva Cullen.

Set in 1968, the play follows a group of gay men gathering for a birthday party in a New York City apartment. As the night goes on and drinks are had, the group is suddenly torn between their unresolved conflicts in friendship and romance. The play premiered Off Broadway in 1968, but regained popularity with a Broadway revival in 2018 and a subsequent film adaptation on Netflix. The show is set to open July 2023.

This season will also see the return of the famed "Rocky Horror Shadow Cast" events, being presented in late October 2022, as well as in April for one performance. Both runs will see Carissa Galban returning to direct. August will also feature a shadow cast performance of "Moulin Rouge," directed by Eva Cullen for one performance. Stay tuned for those announcements.

BCTC aims to keep making accessible theatre for all demographics by producing a unique season.

All of us are thinking and asking a ton of questions about the world as it stands, and what better way to make sense of it than telling it on the stage? Creating engaging theatrical experiences is a core part of BCTC business, but making it mean something is what we're really here to do this season.

All show and audition information can be found at www.blankconversations.org or through our social media. Tickets can be purchased at www.riograndetheatre.org. A season pass option for all four stage productions is available at a 10-percent discount.

Fort Selden has guided tours; 'A Night of Folklore' is July 23

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

A step back into the history of the Old West is only a 20-minute drive from downtown Las Cruces.

Hop on Interstate 25 and head north of Las Cruces. Take the Radium Springs exit (exit 19), follow the signs and you will arrive at Fort Selden Historic Site.

There you can tour the ruins of Fort Selden, a frontier fort that was home to United States Army cavalry and infantry, including the famed Buffalo Soldiers, 1865-91. A young Douglas MacArthur (1880-1964) lived here as a young child when his father, Arthur MacArthur Jr. (1945-1912) was post commander.

The recorded history of the area dates back to about 400 A.D., according to New Mexico Historic Sites records, when it was home to Mogollon farmers. In 1598, the area was a campsite along El Camino Real del Tierra Adentro (The Royal Road to the Interior Lands).

Fort Selden Historic Site is open 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday; closed Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Upcoming events

• Guided tour with Ranger Flo. Upcoming tours are 11 a.m.-noon Wednesday, July 20, Saturday, Aug. 6, and Wednesday, Aug. 31.

• Extended Summer Nights: A Night of Folklore. 4-9 p.m. Saturday, July 23. Fort Selden will keep its gates open late so visitors can watch the sun set behind the Robledos and Sierra de las Uvas to the west of the site and experience a family friendly night dedicated to New Mexican folklore. Family activities, food, music and a history of folklore will highlight the evening, culminating in a visit by one of New Mexico's most famous folktales: La Llorona, The Wailing Woman, as presented by actor and vocalist Rosalia Pacheco. La Llorona is the infamous ghost from Spanish folklore known for her terrifying cries as she searches in vain for her drowned children.

• Campfire cooking with Ranger Mike. 11 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday, July 30. Learn some basic campfire cooking.

The cost of these special events is included in the site admission fee: $5 for adults and free for children aged 16 years and younger. New Mexico residents with ID are admitted free the first Sunday of every month. State residents 60 years old and older with ID are admitted free every Wednesday.

More History

From the New Mexico Historic Sites website:

"In 1848, New Mexico formally became a United States territory. With the new government came more settlers further encroaching into the traditional homelands of the Apache, leading to a worsening of hostilities that had been increasing throughout the 19th century. In an effort to bring peace to the region, the U.S. government established Fort Selden in April 1865. The New Mexico Volunteers and troops from California constructed the adobe buildings. For 25 years, about 1,800 soldiers (infantry and cavalry) were stationed there protecting settlers from raiding and general lawlessness, and escorting travelers throughout New Mexico Territory."

For more information, call 575-526-8911.

Visit nmhistoricsites.org/fort-selden for more history and information about upcoming events.

Upcoming events at White Sands

BULLETIN REPORT

There is no place in the world like it. White Sands National Park (WSNP) covers more than 146,000 acres in the Tularosa Basin, covering parts of Otero and Doña Ana counties and including 275 square miles of white sand dunes. It is the largest dune field of gypsum crystals on earth: Astronauts on their way to the moon could see it from space.

Here is some of what the park has to offer in July, August and going forward.

Full Moon Nights

Experience WSNP under the glow of the full moon. If you go in September, you can watch the Harvest Moon rise.

There is no fee for the program.

Events dates and times are Friday, Aug. 12: 7-11 p.m. (Sturgeon Moon); Saturday, Sept. 10: 7-11 p.m. (Corn/Harvest Moon); and Monday, Oct. 10: 7-10 p.m. (Hunter's Moon).

Full Moon Hikes

Sign up for ranger-led one- to 1.5-mile hikes and explore the beautiful dunes in a whole new light.

Hike dates and times are Thursday, Aug. 11: 8 p.m.; Friday, Sept. 9: 7:30 p.m.; Sunday, Oct. 9: 6:45 p.m.; Tuesday, Nov. 8: 5:15 p.m.; and Thursday, Dec. 8: 5:15 p.m.

Tickets are $8 for ages 16 and older and $4 for ages 15 and younger.

Pre-registration is required at Recreation.gov or by calling 1-877-444-6777. Participants meet the ranger at the Dune Life Nature Trail, a 2.3-mile drive from the fee station, 30 minutes before the program begins

Sunset Stroll

This ranger-guided stroll through the dunes is a chance to learn about the park's geology, plants and animals. The stroll ends at sunset to provide a panoramic view of the sun setting over the mountains.

The one-hour strolls are held every Friday, Saturday and Sunday with these starting times: 7 p.m.: now through Aug. 13; 6:30 p.m.: Aug. 14-Sept. 10; 6 p.m.: Sept. 11-Oct. 1; 5:30 p.m.: Oct. 2-15; 5 p.m.: Oct. 16-Nov. 5; 4 p.m.: Nov. 6-Dec. 31 (no tour on Christmas Day).

Whether you've been to Whites Sands National Park a dozen times or not at all, the Sunset Stroll always offers something newfor visitors.

Lake Lucero Tours

Take a three-hour tour to Lake Lucero with a WSNP ranger and learn about the formation of the sands. Rangers will share the geologic story of the park as you traverse a steep gully down to the lakebed and walk by thousands of exposed selenite crystals. The lake is dry and only fills with water when there is abundant rain or snow in the area.

Tour dates are Nov. 19 and Dec. 17, 2022; Jan. 21, Feb. 18 and March 18, 2023. All tour dates are Saturdays, and all tours begin at 10 a.m.

Tickets are $8 for ages 16 and older and $4 for ages 15 and younger.

Tickets are available two months in advance of each tour. Pre-registration is required at Recreation.gov or by calling 1-877-444-6777.

For all events, WSNP entrance fee is $25 per vehicle ($20 for motorcycles), $15 per person for those walking or bicycling.

Call 575-479-6124 for more information and to make sure the event you want to attend has space available. Visit home.nps.gov/whsa/planyourvisit.

Summer reading for grownups: some recommendations

As is our tradition each summer the Children's Reading Alliance Team shares our recent favorite reads. Science, history and exotic locations dominate the list this year, including two books by Walter Isaacson.

"Benjamin Franklin: An American Life" delivers the life and adventures of colonial America's remarkable writer, inventor, media baron, scientist, diplomat and business strategist.

In "The Code Breaker: Jennifer Doudna, Gene Editing, and the Future of the Human Race" Isaacson chronicles the race to develop CRISPR, the gene editing tool that led to the creation of vaccines for coronavirus and ushers in the next era of medical innovation.

In the memoir "Fox and I: An Uncommon Friendship," nature writer Catharine Raven explores her multi layered experiences observing a fox that decides to let her follow him.

"Fifth Sun: A New History of the Aztecs" by Camilla Townsend offers a chronological history of the Mexica (Aztecs) relying principally on their own documents translated from the Nahuatl language.

"Born in Blackness: Africa, Africans, and the Making of the Modern World, 1471 to the Second World War" by Howard W. French examines the overlooked role of Africa in the creation of modernity.

"Violeta" by Isabel Allende, written in Spanish, is also available in English. Violeta Del Valle, a fictional character, born in Chile in 1920, reveals through personal letters her feminist awakening amid repressive domestic and state forces.

Anne Patchett delivers difficult human dilemmas and scientific adventure in the Amazon jungle in "State of Wonder."

Reading Solution

Alexander McCall Smith's "The No. 1 Ladies' Detective Agency" series is set in Botswana and features lovable recurring characters in cozy light mysteries with charming, funny life affirming endings.

Other recommendations include books that promote personal growth. In "Every Last Word" by Tamar Ireland Stone, a girl with OCD learns to accept herself. "The Body Keeps Score: Brain, Mind and Body in Healing Trauma"

by Bessel van der Kolk M.D. paves the way to recovery through a combination of neuroscience, historical analysis, the arts and personal narrative. "The Four Agreements: A Practical Guide to Personal Freedom (A Toltec Wisdom Book)" by Don Miguel Ruiz reveals the source of self-limiting beliefs that rob us of joy and create needless suffering.

Las Cruces author Elaine Hampton has just released "Seekers of a Stable Sky," a timely, mostly first person accounts of the challenges facing poor women north and south of the El Paso/Juarez border.

To find books by other local authors drop in at Moonbow's Book Nook at 225 E. Idaho Ave. No. 12.

Alice Davenport makes it her mission to support local authors by buying and selling their books. A glance inside her shop reveals 250 locally sourced titles displayed on every vertical surface.

Suggestions for books to enjoy with a child come from Stephen, age 8, and Azalea, age 5. They recommend "The Book with No Pictures" by B.J. Novak, "There's a Monster in Your Book" and "There's a Dragon in Your Book" by Tom Fletcher, the "Captain Underpants" series by Dav Pilkey, Shel Silverstein's collections of poems and short stories, and anything by Roald Dahl.

ECG product test users will receive an Addison

Participants will be asked to share their experience with the features, design and usability of the product.

Product testers must meet the following criteria: 55 years old or older, no cognitive impairment, English-speaking (with the possibility of Spanish speaking testers in the future), have an active email account, be willing to complete interviews on product features and satisfaction, be willing to complete brief product information surveys and must have wi-fi set-up in home and a powered standard electrical outlet to plug in the device.

Lower health insurance premiums for small businesses

BULLETIN REPORT

New Mexico Superintendent of Insurance Russell Toal announced a new initiative will reduce small business health insurance premiums by 10 percent beginning in July.

“Small businesses are the backbone of New Mexico’s economy,” Toal said. “This premium relief comes at a critical moment in our state’s economic recovery.”

The Small Business Health Insurance Premium Relief Initiative, available to businesses with 50 or fewer employees that offer health insurance compliant with the Affordable Care Act to their employees, was made possible by a bill passed during the 2021 legislative session that created a Health Care Affordability Fund.

Under the law, the New Mexico Office of Superintendent of Insurance (OSI) is charged with implementing programs to lower health insurance costs for individuals, families and small businesses.

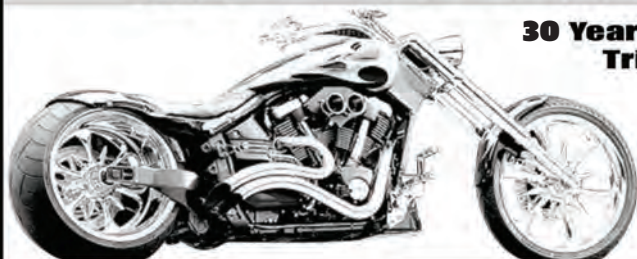

This fall, OSI will launch a program to lower premiums and out-of-pocket costs for individuals who purchase health insurance coverage on beWellnm, the state’s Health Insurance Marketplace.

“We hope that OSI’s initiative will provide meaningful economic relief for small businesses and their employees,” said Rob Black, CEO of the New Mexico Chamber of Commerce.

A DAY IN THE LIFE: Natural Gas Crews

By C.T. Barnes

While you are fast asleep, Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) natural gas crews are already hard at work to make sure your morning shower is hot. Most of the LCU natural gas crews work from 6:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. not only to beat the desert heat, but to make sure LCU customers have the natural gas to keep their day running smoothly.

I tagged along with LCU Natural Gas Compliance Inspector Ruben Garcia to witness a day in the life of a LCU natural gas crew member. Garcia is well versed in the work of natural gas utilities with many years in the welding industry prior to his 10 years working at LCU.

Before the sun rises over the Organ Mountains, each crew member checks in and makes sure they are fully up to code with the personal protection equipment (PPE) required by New Mexico Code. The PPE requirements include a hard hat, steel-toed boots, a safety vest, and other items depending on the daily job assignments. The crew members also wear long pants, a long-sleeved shirt, and some sort of covering on their face to protect from the harsh rays of the sun.

Not only are the LCU gas crews out in the summer heat, but they work in all weather conditions, from rain to wind, hail, snowstorms, and the famous southern New Mexico dust storms. Besides the changing outdoor conditions, LCU natural gas crews also have to be aware of wildlife, neighborhood dogs, construction crews, and residents.

One natural gas crew member told a story on how a large dog came out of nowhere and tried to attack the crew on one of their job sites. The reaction of the crew was not just to keep them safe, but make sure no harm came to the dog as well. In the end all was well, but dangers like this happen weekly to LCU team members in the field.

"We are the hidden people behind the scenes when it comes to public safety, fire safety, and being the first responders to most gas leaks," Garcia stated while talking fire safety. "Most of the time it is our guy down in the hole in a flash suit and oxygen mask fixing the leak," Garcia concluded.

Not only is safety a priority at LCU for the community, but the crews must go through physical tests to confirm they are fit enough to be able to withstand the stress that comes with fixing a gas leak in a flash suit. All LCU welders must re-certify every six months to be able to maintain their position. These certifications are only passible with a 100% score on their written and practical tests. With over 65 recertifications, most LCU natural gas crew members stay busy when they are not out on the field by keeping up their qualifications and skills. Every LCU crew member I encountered was happy to be there and extremely welcoming while showing me their day-to-day work life.

"We have great benefits, opportunity to grow, and a fulfilling job here at LCU. I never thought my career would have gone in the direction it has taken me, but I have been extremely happy every step of the way," Garcia ended.

SAFEGAS service provided to more than 43,000 customers.

"Meeting the great customers of my community is the best part of my job."

Are you addicted to golf? The Golf Doctor spells out some symptoms Aging rocker Alice Cooper is a serious golfer; and good. Even while still performing, he has played golf six days a week for 35 years. He is addicted to golf. He readily admits he started playing golf because he was an alcoholic; so he replaced one addiction with another. But, Cooper is quick to offer, golf saved his life. When he first tried golfing he striped his very first ball straight down the middle.

"And that," says Cooper, "was sexual chocolate."

Turns out a lot of people are addicted to golf in one form or another. Are you? If that thought concerns you here are a few warning signs and symptoms that suggest golf addiction.

First, you have let golfing interfere with your work, so that your job or business is suffering.

Another key item has to do with golf affecting personal relationships and loved ones, resulting in friction and resentments. In other words, your golf gets in the way of family obligations and functions, often leading to arguments.

CHARLIE BLANCHARD
Golf Doctor

Other ways you can tell if you might be a golf addict is if you have more than 1,000 golf balls in your garage; or if you secretly buy golf clubs and hide them; or if you suffer injuries due to stupidity or self-flagellation; or you belong to a country club you can't afford; or you are compelled to go out and play in rain, snow, cold or otherwise weather conditions dangerous for golf; or you get to the parking lot at your local muni in the middle of the night to put your ball in the rack and then sleep a few hours in your car; or you're writing golf articles 'til midnight with a 7:30 a.m. tee time.

Sometimes folks find themselves attracted to golf partly because they find it helps their self-confidence and self-esteem. A lot of golfers have a strong need for a sense of personal competence and worth and control; they find golf to be a way of demonstrating and reinforcing that feeling, just like addiction to work in a way.

Others find the fairways and greens a great escape from whatever they want to get away from.

That's not crazy.

However, if you let golf take over and occupy a completely inappropriate dimension in your life, to the extent that it has replaced other recreational pastimes or normal activities and interests you used to enjoy, you may be struggling with real problems. I don't mean to scare anybody, but over the years golf has surprisingly been a frequent cause for divorces and people going broke.

Just about all addictions have fundamentally the same underlying habits, thought distortions, denials and emotions in common. Yet, compulsive golfing seems a more socially benign affliction than say gambling or drug abuse.

So what's an obsessed chop to do? Go to AA? Hardly.

Get a shrink and suffer

a few visits on the couch? Find a local Golfers' Anonymous? Go it alone cold turkey? Of course, one paradoxical option could be joining the Golf Nut Society (www.golfnut.com) and admit you're powerless over golf.

The most famous Golf Nut member (# 0023) is basketball legend Michael Jordan, who earned the title in 1989 when he didn't bother to show up for his first NBA Most Valuable Player Award because he was at Pinehurst Country Club playing two back-to-back rounds.

Bob Hope was a Golf Nut board member. The 2006 Golf Nut of the year was Steve Thorwald, who played golf on his wedding day and then played 36 holes each of three days on his honeymoon.

The marriage didn't last. He went on to marry another certifiable Golf Nut.

Send me your stories. Well, it's now near one o'clock in the morning – I gotta go.

Trading his alcohol addiction for a golf addiction saved his life, says rock-and-roller and longtime golfer Alice Cooper.

Upgrading County Collections Centers

Submitted by South Central Solid Waste Authority

SCSWA Program Administrator Miguel Fernandez stands inside one of the new Collection Center Attendant Stations that are being deployed throughout Doña Ana County.

County collection centers managed by South Central Solid Waste Authority (SCSWA) have been getting upgrades for the workers and customers who use these eight locations throughout Doña Ana County (DAC). The Centers give all residents the opportunity to dispose of their trash, recyclables, and household hazardous waste safely and properly.

Currently, the Centers serve as a One-Stop-Shop to meet residents' recycling and waste disposal needs. Attendants on duty, while the Center is open, can also guide residents about where to offload their material.

"The Centers operate in locations that are farther away from our main transfer station and were developed through community need," said Miguel Fernandez, SCSWA Program Administrator. "The attendant stations needed not only upgrades like better air conditioning but technological upgrades for being able to take card payments in the future."

The Centers operate with flat-rate coupons and punch cards, and both are sold at $12, $24 or $48 increments.

To receive a coupon, request them via the mail: DAC Utilities Department 845 N Motel Boulevard Las Cruces, NM 88007. Coupons can also be billed to an existing County wastewater account in good standing. (For more information, contact DAC Utilities at 575-525-6194.)

DAC sells disposal punch cards to residents at the DAC Government Center and other locations, including SCSWA Transfer Station, La Fina in Mesquite and Doña Ana, and Jim's Supermarket in Hatch. The full list of where to purchase can be found here: <https://www.scswa.net/175/County-Collection-Centers>

Note: Coupons are no longer being sold from any of the DAC Sheriff's Department substations.

Every time a resident brings trash to a collection center, the punch card will be punched until it is used up. The amount is determined by the station attendant per SCSWA guidelines. Small loads, for example, a full-size pick-up bed, costs $4 or 1 punch. A larger load for two punches could include a pickup and a trailer.

The Collection Center locations open Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. are:

Anthony, 2120 E. Ohara Road
Butterfield, 4925 Eason Lane
Hatch, 110 Cerrito Road
Hill, 9293 Del Rey Boulevard
La Mesa, 1310 W. Afton Road
La Union, 2590 Visnaga Street
Mesquite, 725 County Road B-059

The Garfield Collection Center, at 505 Nightwatchers Road, is open on Saturdays only from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

South Central Solid Waste Authority manages recyclables and solid waste for residents and businesses throughout Doña Ana County. Contact SCSWA at (575) 528-3800 or visit www.SCSWA.net.
