School laundry reduces absences

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

To combat student absenteeism, Whirlpool brand, in partnership with the nonprofit Teach for America, has provided MacArthur Elementary School with a washing machine and a clothes dryer as part of Whirlpool's Care Counts laundry program.

A Whirlpool program brought a washer and dryer to MacArthur Elementary School.

MacArthur Elementary is one of two schools in New Mexico invited to participate in Care Counts, which expanded to include the state last year. The other participating school is an elementary school in Albuquerque.

Whirlpool found that nearly 70 percent of the schools nationwide that participated in the program saw an increase in attendance

"In an effort to meet the needs of the whole child, we are so proud to partner with Whirlpool to offer free laundry services for our community," MacArthur Elementary Principal Yuri Castillo said. "Our goal as a community school is to remove the barriers and challenges that our students face on a daily basis, and this partnership is one of those ways in which we are affecting change in the lives of our kids and their families."

"This generous partnership benefits our entire district and serves as a model for how corporations can become part of something good for kids, and for our community," said LCPS Superintendent Ralph Ramos

BULLETIN REPORT

Sonoma Elementary School fourth-grade teacher Christopher Nuñez received $25,000 last week as one of 40 elementary educators to receive this year's Milken Award, which have been presented by the Milken Family Foundation since 1987.

"Christopher Nuñez exemplifies what it means to be a teacher," New Mexico Public Education Sec. Kurt Steinhaus said. "He's gone above and beyond to ensure his fourth graders understand real-world applications of classroom material and become lifelong learners. His efforts to amplify the social and academic skills of every child in his class are evident in the high performance of his students. Thank you for your hard work and leadership, Mr. Nunez. You are a role model for everyone in education."

In Nuñez's classroom, Milken said, "students build problem-solving skills through engaging hands-on activities. Children lead class discussions and demonstrate their strategies to accomplish each lesson's learning objective. Nunez's students excel, growing from 70 percent to 100 percent proficient on the iReady Math assessment and ending the year with 92 percent proficiency on the Star Reading test.

Thank the Irish for Halloween; the Aztecs for Dia de los Muertos

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Halloween likely comes to us from ancient Celtic tribes that lived in western Europe and the North Atlantic as much as 2,500 years ago. The first day of their new year was on or about Nov. 1, when they celebrated the end of summer and the beginning of the long, dark, cold winter with a festival honoring Samhain, Lord of the Dead.

The Celts believed the souls of the dead returned at that time to mingle with the living, so they wore masks and lit bonfires to frighten them away. When the Romans conquered the Celts about 55 years before the birth of Christ, they adopted Samhain, and added their own touches. Those included baking ossa dei morti ("bones of the dead") cookies shaped like finger bones to purify their homes. (Visit www.foodnetwork.com/recipes/bonz-of-the-dead-ossa-dei-morti-2108755 to create a little finger food of your own.)

The word Halloween and its older spelling of Hallowe'en are shortened from All-hallow-even, the eve of All Hallows Day, also known as All Saints Day, which was a pagan (Celtic and Roman) celebration until Pope Gregory III (papacy: Feb. 11, 731-Nov. 28, 741), moved the old Christian feast of All Saints Day to Nov. 1 to adapt Samhain to the Christian faith.

Trick or treating began in Ireland centuries ago. Groups of farmers went door-to-door collecting food and items for a village feast and bonfire. Those who donated were promised prosperity, while those who didn't were threatened with bad luck.

When Irish immigrants came to the United States in the 1800s, the custom of trick-or-treating came with them.

Pumpkin carving got its start when the Irish began hollowing out turnips to hold lighted candles to frighten off evil spirits. Pumpkins were substituted for turnips when the Irish came to America.

"Jack-o'-lantern has been used in American English to describe a lantern made from a hollowed-out pumpkin since the 19th century, but the term originated in 17th-century Britain, where it was used to refer either to a man with a lantern or to a night watchman," according to www.merriam-webster.com.

"At that time, the British often called men whose names they didn't know by a common name like Jack. Thus, an unknown man carrying a lantern was sometimes called 'Jack with the lantern' or 'Jack of the lantern.' At the same time, jack-o'-lantern was applied to another kind of light: the flame-like phosphorescence caused by gases from decaying plants in marshy areas, also known as ignis fatuus – a Medieval Latin term that means literally 'foolish fire' – or will-o'-the-wisp."

The name jack-o'-lantern is also tied to the Irish legend of Stingy Jack, a drunkard who bargained with Satan and was doomed to wander through an eternal night with only a burning coal inside a pumpkin to light his way, according to multiple sources.

The orange and black colors that are a traditional part of Halloween "are thought to go all the way back to the Celtic celebrations and be reminders of the candles and fires that were lit to welcome the cold black winter ahead," according to www.colourlovers.com.

The ancient Aztecs believed the souls of the departed were allowed to return to earth one day each year: children on Nov. 1 (All Saints Day) and adults on Nov. 2 (All Souls Day). Celebrations of these days – Dia de los Muertos ("Day of the Dead") – have continued for centuries in many Latin American countries and have been adopted in parts of the U.S., including and especially the Southwest. The families of the departed often build altars to honor their lost loved ones, and they make special treats for the celebration, including sugar skulls and pan de Muerto (bread of the dead).

Do you know how to identify a natural gas leak? You might smell sulfur or rotten eggs, you may notice dirt or debris shooting up out of a hole in the ground, dead or dying vegetation in an otherwise green area, and a loud hissing or roaring sound near pipeline markers. These and many more are all tell tale signs of a natural gas or pipeline leak. Use all your senses, even common sense and report any possible leaks to Zia Natural Gas Company. When in doubt call us out!

As always, Zia personnel are available 24/7 for all natural gas emergencies. Call (575) 526-4GAS (4427) if you have a natural gas emergency.

Looking back, ahead through alums' eyes

The eight former students who were named New Mexico State University Distinguished alumni for 2022 have almost nothing in common.

Their career fields are wildly disparate.

Their ages range from their 20s to their 80s.

As you might expect, most of them went to high school in New Mexico, or had other connections to the Land of Enchantment before arriving at NMSU, but there the similarities end.

Yet when they returned to Las Cruces to receive their honors Oct. 21, you could see a crucial commonality.

Charley Johnson, who earned the top recognition – the James F. Cole Memorial Award for Service – epitomized that common ground when he summed up his comments this way: “I’m an Aggie. Through and through.” Johnson is likely the most well known of the recipients, with his name emblazoned on the Ring of Fame in the stadium of the Denver Broncos, the last of three NFL teams he played for in his 15-year career. He followed that with a successful career in the oil business, and later returned to NMSU as head of the chemical engineering department. A lot of people remember he was

RICHARD COLTHARP
From the Publisher

MVP of back-to-back Sun Bowl games the Aggies won in 1959 and 1960. But did you know No. 33 earned his bachelor’s degree in engineering with a 4.0 grade average? “I sure am an Aggie,” Johnson told the crowd again.

Johnson clearly cherished his time at NMSU, as did Michael Galyean, a 1973 grad and this year’s Distinguished Alumni in agriculture. He’s now the dean of the ag school at Texas Tech University, but was an NMSU faculty member from 1977-96

“In the fall of 1969, I loaded up my 1966 Mustang (which I wish I still had) and headed to Las Cruces,” Galyean said. Shortly thereafter, he found “a sense of belonging.”

Each of the honorees echoed feeling that sense of belonging at NMSU, citing specific instructors who made an impact on their careers, friendships made, and influential courses and jobs they had.

Here’s a closer look at the other honorees.

Kellie Ann Jurado, NMSU Class of 2011. Grew up in Roswell, to an agricultural family, has done groundbrekaing work on virus pathogens and infectious diseases and is now an assistant professor at the Penn school of medicine. One of Jurado’s former NMSU instructors described watching Jurado work as an undergrad, her passion for her work so overflowing that Jurado would “vibrate.” She still carries that energy today.

Don T. Foster, NMSU Class of 1981. Inspired by his writing instructor, the legendary Mark Medoff, found it infinitely beneficial to “study theater at an ag school.” NMSU was small enough, Foster learned every aspect: acting, writing, directing, even set design. So when he found himself in Hollywood, writing scripts for such TV shows as “Roseanne,” “Dharma and Greg,” “Two and a Half Men,” “Mike and Molly” and “The Big Bang Theory,” he discovered he was “the best trained writer in L.A.” Foster shouted out not only Medoff, but other instructors, including those at NMSU-Alamogordo, where he spent his first two years of college at, as the locals call it, “Harvard on the Hill.”

Courts can't fix a broken process

If Yvette Herrell wins re-election in the newly re-configured New Mexico Congressional District 2, will that disprove the lawsuit filed by the Republican Party now pending in the state Supreme Court alleging gerrymandering?

Earlier this month, the Supreme Court moved to take control of the case from the district court in Clovis. They plan to begin hearing arguments in January. The new district boundaries are in effect for the current election.

In their lawsuit, Republicans argue that those boundaries give Democrats an unfair advantage. Attorneys for the Democrats argue there is no firm legal definition for what constitutes partisan gerrymandering. They said the new maps achieve the desired goal of bringing rural and urban areas together.

And, they note this was the first time in 30 years the Legislature has been able to complete the redistricting process without intervention from the courts, as the Constitution intended. The last two attempts were conducted under Democratic Legislatures and Republican governors (Susana Martinez and Gary Johnson), who could not come to agreement.

I’ve written in previous columns that breaking the Republican stronghold in southeast New Mexico into three districts, creating one new district that stretches from Farmington to Hobbs, is the textbook definition of gerrymandering. But that’s political theory, not legal theory.

WALT RUBEL
The View

In 2019, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that partisan gerrymandering is allowed under federal law. That legalized a practice that had already been taking place for decades.

As the legal theories are being debated in court, an election is taking place that will soon provide hard answers as to the impact of the new maps. Politico calls the race a toss-up. A recent poll by Global Strategy Group had Herrell trailing by two points, 45 percent to 43 percent, to her Democratic challenger, former Las Cruces City Council member Gabe Vasquez.

In contrast to the question that opens this column, if Vasquez wins, will that be proof the district maps were drawn unfairly? And, should the courts respond by ripping up the new maps and starting over?

I was a big fan of the independent redistricting commission that tried to lead this process, but was naive to think that Democrats would relinquish their power. Partisan gerrymandering is one of the biggest drivers of our divided politics. Too many candidates serve in districts where the only challenge comes Anthony Boor, NMSU Class of 1989. Boor grew up and went to high school in Las Cruces, Boor said staying at home for college was “the best decision of my life.” He’s now chief financial officer of Blackbaud, a cloud software company.

Wencil McLenahan, NMSU Class of 1991. When I saw McLenahan’s graduation date, and his photo, I thought something was wrong. When he spoke at the event, though, he explained it. “I came to NMSU and it didn’t work out. So I took a couple of gap decades and came back.” He returned to college so much later, he was a fellow student with two of his own children. He went on to a career of innovation at Boeing before coming back to Las Cruces, where he taught mechanical and aerospace engineering, and remains involved in support of those programs.

David Gallegos, NMSU Class of 1997. Educated as an athletic trainer at NMSU, Gallegos spent a few years working with professional sports teams, he came back to Las Cruces, where he is now deputy CEO at Fyzical, a physical therapy center, and is vice president of the National Athletic Trainers Association.

Bobby Brooke Herrera, NMSU Class of 2012. Herrera is the Young Alumni Service Award recipient is another expert in medical technology and viral infections. He’s an assistant medical professor at Rutgers. As a boy, growing up in nearby San Miguel, he was fascinated with space and wanted to be an astronaut. But when he asked for a telescope for a gift, he got a microscope instead. The rest, as they say, is history and, also, the future.

County needs above average sheriff

Doña Ana requires a sheriff who will go beyond the call of duty, a full-time sheriff invested in the day-to-day operations and the impacts those decisions have in this community. It’s what we have lacked for the last four years of the current administration.

This is why Byron Hollister is the sheriff we need and a sheriff we can trust. From serving in the United States Army to graduating from New Mexico State University, Hollister has a passion for this community and for the generations to come. He has lived here for 36 years and served as a criminal investigator for eight years with the Las Cruces Police Department. He has served as a co-commander of the United States Marshal Service in Las Cruces and has owned and operated a thriving local business for 22 years.

Hollister has proven time and again it takes a community to make a county safe, and would seek to unite county management and elected officials, not separate them.

Hollister knows programs such as the chaplain’s program, the honor guard unit, the county sheriff’s museum, the School Resource Officer program, G.R.E.A.T. teen gang and drug prevention program, Animal Cruelty task force, and the Stone-garden drug and human trafficking grant are vital programs that affect every person in Doña Ana County. Our current administration deemed these programs unnecessary and removed them.

Community policing and team building is what we need in this community. Our sheriff’s office requires a uniter not a divider, proactive work not reactive work, a leader and not a boss. If we want to live better, safer, and happier, we have to be willing to make the change for those who will do it, and that is why we need Byron Hollister as sheriff.

in the primary election, driving them further to the extremes.

As long as the maps are drawn by the Legislature, the party in power will seek to gain a partisan advantage every time. For the courts to intervene and try to determine exactly where that crosses the line seems like a fool’s errand.

Veterans Day Parade set for Nov. 12 downtown

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Mesa Middle School eighth grader Andrea Logo won this year's City of Las Cruces Veterans Day Parade Poster Design Contest, and was honored at a city council meeting.

"The poster design contest is an annual event started by Bill Hawkins, chairman of the Veterans Day Parade Committee five years ago," said Veterans Day Parade Committee Coordinator Dolores Archuleta.

The Las Cruces Veterans Day Parade will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 12. This year's theme is "Welcome Home Vietnam Veterans." The parade's opening ceremony will be at 10:30 a.m. at the reviewing stand at the corner of Las Cruces Avenue and Main Street. At the sound of the cannon at 11 a.m., directed by Mayor Miya-gishima, the parade will begin.

Parade participants will stage at the corner of Lohman Avenue and Main Street and travel north on Main Street to the turn-about, then to Water Street back to the staging area, Archuleta said.

Parade history

The Veterans day Parade was started in Las Cruces "to thank our veterans who served in all the wars," Archuleta said.

"The late Lt. Col. (ret.) Fred Frank decided that it was time for Las Cruces to have a Veterans Day Parade to honor our veterans, and through his efforts, our first Veterans Day Parade was held on November 11, 1995," Archuleta said. "It started on Lohman Avenue and traveled north on Church Street past the old City Hall to the Sole Food Warehouse parking lot (now the new City Hall). "The list of participants at our city-sponsored parade is too long to list them all, especially the 10 parade grand marshals led by the White Sands Missile Range Joint-Service Color Guard," Archuleta said.

LCPS Foundation seeks donations for student care kits

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

The Las Cruces Public Schools Foundation is seeking donations of cash or items for its “Care Kits for Kids.”

The kits are being put together for LCPS high school students in need and are particularly important “because removing any barrier that interferes with student attendance and their ability to learn is crucial,” said LCPS Foundation Executive Director Amy McCarty.

“With the cost of everyday items rising and having to make difficult choices, personal hygiene items are necessities that some students and families go without,” said Las Cruces High School Title I Interventionist Annette Contreras.

The LCPS Foundation will have a drive-through event, 11 a.m.-2 p.m. Friday, Nov. 4, at the LCPS Karen S. Trujillo Administration Building, 505 S. Main St., suite 249, during which people can drive into the parking lot of the admin building and an LCPS Foundation Board of Directors member will come to their car to pick up their donations.

Items needed for the kits are shampoo, conditioner, bar soap/body wash, lotion, deodorant, toothpaste, toothbrushes, dental floss, Q-tips, razors, shaving cream, feminine products and laundry soap. Also requested are donations of new socks and new underwear for boys and girls in all sizes.

Las Cruces hospitals are partnering with the LCPS Foundation and are serving as drop-off sites for donated items. You can place items in bins located in the lobbies of Memorial Medical Center, 2450 S. Telshor Blvd.; MountainView Regional Medical Center, 4311 E. Lohman Ave.; and Three Crosses Regional Hospital, 2560 Samaritan Drive.

Each kit costs $25, McCarty said, but any donations are welcome.

Make a donation to the LCPS Foundation Care Kits for Kids drive at lcpssfcsuite.com/erp/donate/create/fund?funit_id=1264, or text CareKITS4Kids to 44321. The mailing address is LCPS Foundation, P.O. Box 16214, Las Cruces, NM, 88004. Contact McCarty at 575-527-5888 or 505-362-9770. Visit the foundation at lcpssf.org.

NMSU grad seeks NM Supreme Court term

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

New Mexico Supreme Court Justice Briana Zamora is seeking a full eight-year term on the court.

Zamora was appointed to the state’s highest court by Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham in July 2021 when Justice Barbara J. Vigil retired. Lujan Grisham chose Zamora from a list of candidates submitted by the nonpartisan Judicial Nominating Commission.

If Zamora wins the Nov. 8 general election, it will be her only partisan election as a state Supreme Court justice, as she would face retention elections every eight years after that for as long as she remains on the court.

Zamora was appointed to a Metropolitan Court judgeship in Albuquerque in 2008 and was elected as an Albuquerque district judge in 2012. She was elected to the New Mexico Court of Appeals in 2018 and held that position until her appointment to the state Supreme Court.

Zamora, 48, was born in Torreon (in Torrance County), New Mexico and grew up in Albuquerque, where she lives today with her two children – she is “the only mom” on the state Supreme Court, Zamora said. She attended New Mexico State University in Las Cruces, earning undergraduate degrees in psychology and government.

“I loved it,” Zamora said of her time in Las Cruces.

Zamora had planned to become a child psychologist, she said, but became interested in the law after taking government classes at NMSU.

Zamora earned a law degree from the University of New Mexico in 2000 and was admitted to the New Mexico Bar that same year. She served as an assistant attorney general in the Consumer Protection Division of the New Mexico Attorney General’s office and as guardian ad litem for abused and neglected children.

“I know how the courtroom operates,” said Zamora, who said she has presided in more than 20,000 criminal and civil cases, including water law and cases involving children and families, during her career as a judge and justice. She also has presided over specialty cases, including homeless, drug and tribal courts.

Zamora was part of a unanimous state Supreme Court ruling on a cattle-rustling case heard earlier this year in Las Cruces. She said it was the first time the court has heard a case outside of Santa Fe. Attendees included New Mexico State University and local high school students.

After her appointment to the state Supreme Court, Zamora said she led the justices in establishing a Commission on Mental Health as part of her passion “about making sure that in our criminal justice system, there was more availability of mental health resources,” Zamora said on an October Portia Project.

“People want their judges to follow the law,” Zamora said. They “want a fair shake,” she said, and are entitled to timely rulings.

Delays in cases are “heartbreaking,” she said. “Justice delayed is justice denied.”

Making sure the courts in New Mexico are open to everyone is also vital, she said. Broadband access is essential to maintaining virtual court hearings that may be necessary for cases in some rural areas and tribal communities in the state.

“Look at my record,” Zamora said. “My judicial philosophy is, whoever you are, you are going to be treated fairly in my courtroom and by me.” Visit <https://keepjusticezamora.com/>.

Zamora’s opponent in the Justice of the Supreme Court position 2 race on the Nov. 8 ballot is former Bernalillo County Assistant District Attorney Kerry J. Morris, a Republican from Albuquerque. Morris opened Abq Law Clinic/Morris Law Firm 37 years ago. Visit www.morrisforsupremecourt.com.

Finding ways to help others during the holidays

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

There are many non-profits and charitable organizations in Las Cruces and Doña Ana County that provide care and support for those in need every day of the year.

As we approach the holidays, "it is more than usually desirable that we should make some slight provision for the Poor and Destitute, who suffer greatly at the present time," as Charles Dickens said in his classic 1843 novella, "A Christmas Carol."

In this series, which will continue through mid-December, the Bulletin will provide current information on nearly 30 local organizations that could use your support – money, other donations and volunteer time – this holiday season.

And remember, every dollar and every hour you donate makes a difference.

New director takes reins at Children's Reading Alliance

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Celebrating its 10th anniversary with a new executive director and assistant director, the Children's Reading Alliance (CRA) is continuing to support and empower parents and put books in the hands of children in Las Cruces and throughout Doña Ana County.

"It's an exciting year and an exciting time," said Marisa DeWolf, who came on board as CRA executive director earlier this year. "New people are continuing CRA's really rich and established history," she said.

"We are reintroducing ourselves," said CRA's new assistant director,

Linda Lardner. "We are the book people."

CRA is an independent nonprofit housed at the Community Action Agency of Southern New Mexico, located at 3880 Foothills Road in Las Cruces.

CRA's major programs are

- Book distribution: Getting thousands of books each year into the hands of children through a wide range of community and school events and via La Clinica de Familia, Big Brothers and Big Sisters, Jardin de los Niños, Save the Children, Head Start, New Mexico PreK and other local partnerships. "There are so many opportunities to connect and collaborate," DeWolf said.

- First Teacher Program: This six-week bilingual training course is "our bread and butter," said DeWolf. It is a "really extensive, really effective" way CRA helps parents engage and interact with their children through reading. Participants receive almost 20 children's books to keep – "It already creates a home library," DeWolf said – along with educational toys and other learning tools. DeWolf said a recent impact study conducted by UTEP showed "families love the program," she said. The overwhelming response from parents who participate in First Teacher is, "I read more often to my child," DeWolf said.

- Reading Buddies: This program matches CRA volunteers one-on-one with struggling readers in second- and third-grade classrooms throughout Las Cruces. CRA is increasing the training in provides to participating volunteers, De Wolf said, especially in recognition of how much reading and learning time young children lost because of COVID-19.

"Our focus is supporting parents," said Lardner, who is co-leader of the parents sector of Doña Ana County Resilience Leaders, an organization formed in 2017 to combat childhood trauma and abuse.

CRA's other staff include Karina Gomez, the program manager for First Teacher; April Bennett, a programs assistant; and Cassandra Reveles, creative media lead.

One of Reveles' most impactful creations on the new CRA website is the parents' resource page," DeWolf said. Visit www.childrensreadingalliance.org/parent-resources-page.

40th annual art students' jewelry sale all day Halloween

BULLETIN REPORT

The 40th anniversary of the New Mexico State University Department of Art's jewelry sale will be held 7 a.m.-7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 31, at NMSU's Follett bookstore. NMSU said in a news release.

More than 200 pieces of jewelry will be on sale, crafted by more than 20 NMSU jewelry and metalsmithing students, the news release said.

The event is open to the public from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 31 at the NMSU bookstore, 1400 E. University Ave., with free two-hour parking available.

All pieces featured in the sale are one-of-a-kind designs by students in the metalsmithing and jewelry studio.

"My theme is flowers and traditional Mexican flower patterns," said Alexa Gonzalez, junior studio art major. "My favorite right now is this small piece with cutouts in it. It's going to be a necklace and I will also make a similar bracelet. I'll cut the pieces of the flower and it will look like lot of small flowers together."

Student artists use a variety of materials other than metals including clay and leather. Pieces range in size from dainty earrings to large statement brooches and rings, NMSU said.

"This my first time doing the jewelry sale, so I'm excited," said Mary Solorza, a junior majoring in individualized studies with a minor in fashion. "It's a lot of work, but it's fun and everybody has so many great things for the show. It's inspiring to see everybody's level especially some of the older students who have been here a few years. Seeing what they put out is great."

"In this assignment, our students learn professional practices from advertising, marketing and team event organization, as well as learning new jewelry making techniques and how to work in production," said Motoko Furuhashi, associate professor in the Department of Art. "It may be a challenging, stressful, hardworking process but at the end I see pride on their faces."

Profits from the annual sale are used to support students and help acquire new equipment and tools for the jewelry and metalsmithing studio in Devasthali Hall on NMSU's main campus.

tonight's picks

Haley Lu Richardson

6 p.m. on HALL
Movie: Ghosts of Christmas Always

'Tis the season for making merry and straightening people out. Katherine (Kim Matula) is a Ghost of Christmas Present who is tasked with helping one confused soul (Ian Harding) rediscover his Christmas spirit in this 2022 comedy. But this year has been somewhat unusual, making the season even more magical. Reginald Vel-Johnson, Lori Tan Chinn and Kathleen Garrett also star.

6 p.m. on TCM
Movie: Peeping Tom

Say cheese! You might never want to have your picture taken again. In this wholly disturbing 1960 gem, which airs as a part of the channel's "Happy Halloween-A-Thon," Mark Lewis (Carl Boehm) works as a focus puller in a British film studio. During his off hours he dabbles in filmmaking of another sort, capturing the fear on the faces of models he stabs with his tripod. He surrounds himself with the sights and sounds of terror due in large part to the experiments subjected on him as a child by his own father.

6:15 p.m. on KTSM
NFL Football

Two teams with designs on the postseason come to loggerheads tonight in Western New York, where Josh Allen and the Buffalo Bills hope to continue their winning ways against Aaron Rodgers and the Green Bay Packers. The Bills have once again risen to the top of the AFC East behind the powerful arm of Allen and one of the stingiest defenses in the NFL. The Packers, meanwhile, are off to a lackluster start, hamstrung by an offense that has struggled to put up points and a defense whose performance hasn't lived up to its talent level.

7 p.m. on KFOX
The Simpsons

Halloween releases all of the inner demons in this book-themed trilogy. As Marge's (voice of Julie Kavner) resentment takes monstrous form, Lisa (Yardley Smith) tries to save the planet through murder and Homer (Dan Castellaneta) learns he's not the man he thought he was in the new episode "Treehouse of Horror XXXIII." John Roberts of "Bob's Burgers" makes a guest-voice appearance as Linda Belcher. Nancy Cartwright, Hank Azaria, Harry Shearer and Pamela Hayden are also heard.

7 p.m. on EPIX
War of the Worlds

With no way to stop Adina's (Ania Sowinski) scheme, Bill (Gabriel Byrne) has little choice but to make a dangerous journey while his comrades brace themselves for a brutal end. It may be too overwhelming for Bill who has already sacrificed so much. Meanwhile, in space, Richard (Lukas Haas) and Juliet (Lizzie Brochere) can see how close humanity is to total destruction in the Season 3 finale. But how far are they willing to go to help the heroes on Earth complete the mission?

8 p.m. on KFOX
Bob's Burgers

It only takes one bad apple to spoil the bunch and Louise (voice of Kristen Schaal) suspects there's something sinister afoot during a Halloween field trip to an apple orchard in the new episode "Apple Gore-chard! (But Not Gory)." Is it just her over-active imagination or is horror hiding behind a red delicious? Meanwhile, Tina (voice of Dan Mintz) and Gene (voice of Eugene Mirman) hope to win the school costume parade in the face of serious competition.

10 p.m. on HBO
The White Lotus

It's an entirely new setting for this Season 2 premiere as things shift from Hawaii to Sicily, Italy. Newlyweds Tanya McQuoid-Hunt (Jennifer Coolidge) and Greg (Jon Gries) visit the resort, but Tayna has brought along her personal assistant, Portia (Haley Lu Richardson) and suspects Greg could be cheating on her. Aubrey Plaza, F. Murray Abraham, Sabrina Impacciatore, Michael Imperio-li, Theo James, Meghann Fahy and Will Sharpe also star.

Then, the bakers create 3D cookie cauldrons in the Season 1 finale episode "Body Parts and Creepy Cauldrons." CELEBRATING WOMEN OF THE MESILLA VALLEY

The range in age of this year's Outstanding Women of the Mesilla Valley is jarring.

Age 18 to age 97. I'll save you the trouble of doing the math. That's a 79-year spread.

In fact, we have two nonagenarians – Barb Hubbard is 95 and Flo Hosa Dougherty is 97.

As we have each year since we initiated this program in 2020, the variety of the talents and backgrounds of these outstanding women is as jarring as the age spread.

Did you know that making crystal suncatchers is a hobby? Neither did I. Another one of our outstanding women has a much more traditional hobby: Studying Scripture.

If you know me, or if you have read any of my columns I've been writing in the Bulletin the last dozen years, you know my passion for New Mexico chile. So you can thank (or blame) me for the chile question. But since most of you share that passion, I hope you'll forgive me.

The best answer I got to that question came from Barb Hubbard, who answered it with absolutely ZERO hesitation: "Chope's red enchiladas!"

But I also love the answers from women who cited the chile dishes from friends and family members.

As much as I love chile, its joy is only temporary.

The work and inspiration of these outstanding women will last for generations.

Elizabeth Brasher

What roles do you play as a woman?

I feel very blessed to be happily married and to be the person that two great kids call mom.

What year were you first in the Mesilla Valley?

I moved to Las Cruces in 2003.

What is your job?

I am a teacher at Las Cruces Academy.

What is your favorite chile dish in the Mesilla Valley?

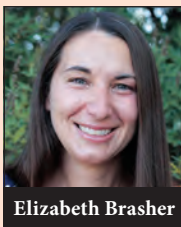

That's easy! Red chile cheese enchiladas are my favorite.

What are your hobbies?

I truly enjoy spending time with my family: watching sports, playing games, making dinner, or just talking with them. I like to read, sing, and work in my garden.

What inspires you?

I am so proud to see the people that my children and my students are growing up to be.

Elizabeth Brasher

Linda Prendez

What roles do you play as a woman?

I am a daughter, sister, and friend.

What year were you first in the Mesilla Valley?

I attended NMSU in 1967 to pursue a degree in secondary education. I graduated after four years, left to teach in Austin, Texas, and returned in 1972 to teach at Mayfield High School. My sister was going to attend NMSU and I wanted to help make her college years easier by providing her with all the necessities so she could concentrate fully on her studies. I fell in love with Las Cruces, my job and my friends.

What is your job?

I am working part-time at Centennial High School as an instructional specialist. I have the privilege of supporting teachers with technology, programs, initiatives, strategies, and NM PED requirements.

What is your favorite chile dish in the Mesilla Valley?

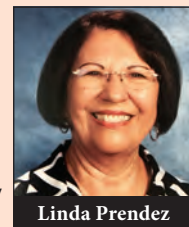

I love a good salsa and red chile cheese enchiladas with onions. If you ask me if I choose red or green chile, red always wins out.

What are your hobbies?

I love walking, reading and crafting. I love to make unique gifts for family, friends and co-workers.

What inspires you?

Since I usually have four-day week-ends, I look forward to walking and watching the colorful sunrises in the Land of Enchantment. Their beauty and the possibilities the day can bring inspire me. My dedicated, hard-working, and caring co-workers inspire me by setting the example of life-long learners for their students. Family and friends are my most important inspiration because of their love, giving and kindness.

Linda Prendez

Getting to work with diverse people because their perspectives are so different from my own; my colleagues and co-workers inspire me. My PhD program, as well as my cohort in the program, have inspired some of my perspectives on teaching and learning. Living in New Mexico is inspiring, it's so beautiful and people are so nice. Even though I've lived here my whole life, I'm still inspired by my place.

Carrie Hamblen

What roles do you play as a woman?

Well, my identity as a person goes way beyond my gender. I am an activist, a partner, a friend, a leader, a senator....so, I would hope my gender is not what drives the recognition. I think every woman that gets recognized for an honor such as this credits their accomplishments and their community involvement above all else.

What year were you first in the Mesilla Valley?

I moved to New Mexico in 1992.

What is your job?

President and CEO, Las Cruces Green Chamber of Commerce; Doña Ana County state senator for District 38.

What inspires you?

I am inspired by the

young people who are stepping up in the fight for equality, climate change, reproductive health, and equity for those whose voices are ignored. They are mobilized to act because they have seen the inaction by those who have done little or nothing to create a state, country, and a world that is a place where everyone has a chance to thrive and prosper.

Maria Laguerre-Diego

What roles do you play as a woman?

What an interesting question! Daughter, sister, mother, friend, colleague, teacher, boss, healthcare worker, neighbor.

What year were you first in the Mesilla Valley?

I came to NMSU in 1999.

What is your job?

I am a Marriage and Family Therapist and a Registered Play Therapist by training. I am a healer and a helper by passion. My job title is CEO and Owner of A New Hope Therapy Center but my job is providing a safe, passionate environment for therapists to do the hard work that they do for our community. My latest "job" has been providing educational workshops to other therapists in our community, state and across the nation.

What is your favorite chile dish in the Mesilla Valley?

Ooooooh!! That's a tough question, but you can't go wrong with the green enchiladas from Andele's.

What are your hobbies?

The quick answer would be playing! I enjoy creating cosplay costumes, traveling and enjoying adventures with my family. We are a gaming family, so we often play board games, role playing games and video games.

What inspires you?

The resiliency in others to bounce back, grow and even thrive after a difficult situation.

The ability to be kind and compassionate, even when others are not. We are all hurting and surviving, so when people lift up others it has a positive ripple effect. I have the honor of working with a team of people who dedicate their lives to helping others - I am inspired by their work, their passion to help heal our community, and their dedication to improving the lives of others.

Debbi Moore

What roles do you play as a woman?

As life changes, our roles do as well. My hope and prayer is no matter my specific role in life -- mother, grandmother, sister, widow, teacher, etc. -- is that I embrace each role with grace, zeal and passion to make a difference in someone's life. Our influence and impact can last a lifetime.

2016

What is your job?

President and CEO, Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce

What is your favorite chile dish in the Mesilla Valley?

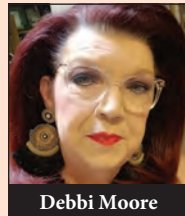

Green chile chicken enchiladas

What are your hobbies?

While I am an avid reader, I've been known to binge on a few foreign films with sub-titles (very hard to multi-task when you're reading sub-titles.) I suppose one could say my main hobby is Santa Claus and Christmas.

What inspires you?

For me, passion drives inspiration. Inspiration is defined as a feeling of enthusiasm you receive from someone or something, that gives you new and creative ideas. Being inspired may not always mean ideas, but could be simply how we look at life. Ultimately, inspiration is to be passed on and shared. To give someone else that one feeling that inspires them is priceless.

Rosalie Lucas

What roles do you play as a woman?

I am a daughter, sister, mother, grandmother, wife and friend. I am lucky to have a wonderful husband and share in his large family. I have my mother and her wonderful partner. Friends near and far bless my life.

What year were you first in the Mesilla Valley?

We visited and purchased a home in Las Cruces in April 2019 and moved in February 2020.

What is your job?

I have been a physical therapist for over 40 years. I first worked for Fyzical here, and helped set up and run inpatient physical therapy for Three Crosses Hospital. Now, I work with a national company, HD Nursing.

What is your favorite chile dish?

One our neighbor makes that is a type of Hatch chile with sour cream.

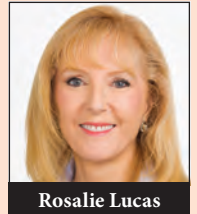

What are your hobbies?

Mostly my grandkids. But I also like to hike, I sing in a chorale, I help out with the Borderlands Ballet, and I'm working on my golf game. I had time during the pandemic to do some sewing and create a few fun things. My husband and I also created a harness that can be used for exercise and balance training with folks who are at risk for falling.

What inspires you?

The helpers! I see them everywhere and have felt inspired to jump in and help where I can in this community. I am always in awe of our beautiful open skies and stunning Organ mountains. I am inspired by the people who strive to make a difference here for the greater good and give of their time and talents to bring wonderful opportunities to our communities.

Rosalie Lucas

What is your job?

I am a board certified physician in internal medicine and obesity medicine. My focus is primary care, diabetes, hypertension, weight management and women's health. I am medical director of New Mexico Primary Care Group, PC.

What is your favorite chile dish in the Mesilla Valley?

I prefer chile in everything. However, my comfort food is a chile relleno burrito with beans and salsa from Go Burger.

What are your hobbies?

We travel and have covered a huge amount of New Mexico. I dabble in art, interior decoration and restoring old chairs, working on our small pecan orchard and long walks either along the dam trail or Sierra Vista trails.

What inspires you?

Young women leaders like Amanda Gorman, Sabrina Gonzales Paterski, and Malala Yousafzai inspire me to be confident of our future. Also my office colleagues, which includes my daughter, who are mostly women with families and inspire me with their hard work of managing expectations of our patients and yet go home with a smile to take care of their families.

Dr. Sangeeth Shanbhag-Pai

Barbara Hubbard

What roles do you play as a woman?

I'm a grandmother (one of my grandsons says I play a substitute role for his mom who passed away), to my sons I'm a mother, and out at the school I try to be a mentor.

What year were you first in the Mesilla Valley?

I moved from Arkansas in 1954, to take a teaching job at Las Cruces High School.

What is your job?

I'm American Collegiate Talent Showcase executive director and I raise scholarships for young people who want to get into the entertainment business. We started that in 1972, and Bob Hope was first one to put his name on one of the scholarships. We have endowments now in five states.

What is your favorite chile dish in the Mesilla Valley?

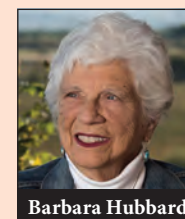

Chope's red enchiladas.

What are your hobbies?

I try to go to any Aggie athletics game the university has.

What inspires you?

I tell everybody right now, at 95, I think the good Lord's got something he wants me to finish. I want to finish it but I don't know exactly what it is. It might be the amphitheater project, the idea I have for a big amphitheater with a large outdoor screen, and big enough for concerts, regional rodeo events and other things we're not capable of hosting right now. In addition, it would furnish jobs for the Valley. It would be something for the community and the students. I love the young people and want to believe there is something in this old crazy world for them and I just want to be a part of it.

Barbara Hubbard

Congratulations Dr. Sangeeth Shanbhag-Pai

on your well deserved honor of being recognized as an Outstanding Woman of The Mesilla Valley. We are so proud to see you recognized as a leading woman of this community.

What are your hobbies?

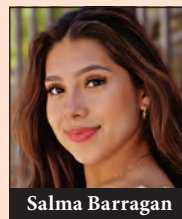

My current and only hobby is studying. However, I like going to the park with my dog, painting and helping out with the non-profit Distinguished Young Women.

What inspires you?

My mother is my biggest inspiration, having shown me exactly what a woman should be: hard-working, dedicated and independent. She's shown me and my siblings how much she's sacrificed for us. She's raised four kids as a single mother after leaving her country Mexico behind. She also left her career behind. She gave us the most beautiful childhood memories even through her struggles. I know one of mine and my siblings' biggest blessings was and always will be having such an outstanding woman as a mother.

Jennifer Connelly and Tom Cruise

"TOP GUN: MAVERICK"

Just as it became the top hit of 2022 at the movie box office – by far – this long-awaited sequel to Tom Cruise's naval-aviator classic is sure to make its mark loudly on physical home media in the last weeks of the year. Still bucking authority as a test pilot, and paying a professional price for it, Pete "Maverick" Mitchell is assigned to train a new class of Top Gun flyers, one of them being the son (Miles Teller) of his late co-pilot Goose. There's a natural tension between the two men, due largely to a promise made by Maverick that is hindering the younger man's career. Jennifer Connelly also stars as an ex-flame with whom Maverick reunites, with Jon Hamm, Glen Powell, Monica Barbaro and Ed Harris also appearing ... and Val Kilmer reprising his "Iceman" role from the original film. As it was the first time, the bountiful aerial footage is thrilling. Special features on the digital version include a featurette on Cruise at the picture's Cannes Film Festival premiere. ★★★ (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD, Digital and On Demand)

"HONK FOR JESUS. SAVE YOUR SOUL."

The future of a Southern church is in doubt after its leaders become embroiled in a scandal in this satire written and directed by Adamma Ebo, who expanded her same-named short subject for this film. The pastor (played by "This Is Us" alum Sterling K. Brown) is found not to be practicing what he literally preaches, so he and his wife (Regina Hall) set out to repair their own images and that of their place of worship. They recruit a documentary crew to trace that process, but the filmmakers observe and record more than the couple would like. Moreover, another couple (Nicole Beharie, Conphidance) is planning to open their own rival church. Hall and Brown also are producers of the movie, along with "Get Out" and "Nope" colleagues Jordan Peele and Daniel Kaluuya. ★★★ (R: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray, Digital and On Demand)

"EUPHORIA: SEASONS 1 & 2"

Zendaya won a Primetime Emmy Award for each of the first two seasons of this frequently frank HBO drama series about the lives of a group of teens. Inspired by an Israeli program, it largely revolves Zendaya's character Rue, a recovering addict whose circle includes close relations and acquaintances whose relative closeness to her sometimes shocks her, even when she thought she had a clear read on that. Maude Apatow, Angus Cloud, Eric Dane, Jacob Elordi, Storm Reid, Barbie Ferreira and Sydney Sweeney also are in the excellent cast. The show, which has alarmed some viewers (and even some critics) with its unapologetic candor, has been renewed for a third season. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, N, P)

"HOLIDAY INN"

One of the most beloved of all holiday movies makes the conversion to 4K Ultra HD with its latest home-video edition. The Irving Berlin-fueled musical that led to "White Christmas" (with that song introduced by this 1942 film) features Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire as entertainers at an inn open only on holidays, though they have to get beyond a love triangle that also involves their former showbiz partner (Virginia Dale). Another woman (Marjorie Reynolds) eventually enters the scene and ups the romantic stakes. Also on the soundtrack are "Easter Parade," "Happy Holiday," "Be Careful, It's My Heart," "You're Easy to Dance With" and "Let's Start the New Year Right." ★★★ (Not rated)

celebrity scoop

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Checking in with HAYLEY ORRANTIA

As sitcom actresses go, Hayley Orrantia of "The Goldbergs" is something of a rarity.

Her show is on a short list of comedies that have lasted at least 10 seasons, joining such venerable series as "M*A*S*H," "Cheers," "Friends" and "Happy Days." And she's also perhaps the only actress to play a character that's based on a real person – who's of the opposite gender.

Her character of Erica, the rebellious eldest child in ABC's Wednesday family comedy "The Goldbergs," is actually based on Eric Goldberg, the brother of series creator Adam F. Goldberg, who used his own family as inspiration for the series.

But the 28-year-old actress says she consulted her real-life counterpart when she took on the role 10 years ago.

"I did get to sit down with Adam F. Goldberg at the beginning of the show ... and he told me a bit about his brother," she says. "But the beautiful thing about my character in particular, because it's the only character based on a different gender person and just kind of different experiences overall since Adam Goldberg or any of his family hadn't been raised with a sister, they didn't have a ton of storylines to go off of particularly with a sister. So it gave me a little bit of free reign to play a little more within who Erica was going to be."

When she's not filming "The Goldbergs," the Texas native is pursuing a career as a recording artist, having released eight singles and an EP during her time on the series. While she admits her songs have elements of country and pop, she's reluctant to pigeonhole them into a genre lest people come to them with preconceived notions.

"Some of the artists that I really admire, they don't kind of box themselves into that," she says. "And so while at the moment some of my stuff is more pop-leaning, I can't confidently tell you that that's where I'll be staying forever."

Full name: Sarah Hayley Orrantia

Birth date: Feb. 21, 1994

Birthplace: Arlington, Texas

Family ties: Single; she's the only child of Daniel and Melody Orrantia

TV credits: "The Goldbergs," "Roommates," "Schooled," "Find a Way or Make One"

Movie credits: "Cooper and the Castle Hills Gang" (2011); "God's Not Dead 2" (2016); "Christmas Is Canceled" (2021); "Be Alright" (forthcoming)

Music credits: The songs "Love Sick," "Until Then," "Hasta Verde," "Silence You," "Strong Sweet & Southern," "Give Me Back Sunday," "If I Don't" and "Nights and Weekends"; the EP "The Way Out" a reverent tribute to the writings of Edgar Allan Poe," Forestal said. "The fine actors who are members of this ensemble will present Poe classic literature pieces that include 'The Tell Tale Heart,' 'The Mask of The Red Death' and 'The Raven.' This program will satisfy the staunchest of Poe followers as well as gain new admirers to those being exposed to Poe for the first time," Forestal said.

"I'm happy to be working with ToadHall again," Edwards said. "Ken Forestal always comes up with such interesting projects. The Master of the Macabre, Edgar Allan Poe, on Halloween. It's going to be fun."

"I'm really enthused to be part of this project," said Montes, a veteran of productions at venues throughout Las Cruces.

"I've been a Poe fan since I was in grade school and my cousin gave me a book of his poetry. I fell in love with 'The Raven.' These Poe pieces seem to be exactly the right thing to be presenting on Halloween night; he can lead you down some twisty roads and before you know it you're in a pretty dark place. That's fun."

Poe (1809-49) was born in Massachusetts and died in Baltimore under mysterious circumstances.

Sing along with films for 'Fright Night'

BULLETIN REPORT

Blank Conversations Theatre Company (BCTC) is collaborating with Rio Grande Theatre for an evening of films and shadow casts as it presents "Fright Night," 4 p.m. to midnight Saturday, Oct. 29.

The first film is a sing-along version of Tim Burton's "The Nightmare Before Christmas," said BCTC president and co-founder Gus David Sanchez. Halloweentown King Jack Skellington becomes bored with his everyday life of scaring people. He discovers Christmastown and tries to take it over. The film will be led by pre-show games and fanfare, Sanchez said. Tickets are $5.

Next in the lineup, BCTC will debut a shadow-cast performance of "Dr. Horrible's Sing-Along Blog." Starring Neil Patrick Harris, the film depicts Dr. Horrible's struggle to become the world's greatest supervillain while fighting for the love of Penny.

This hour-long film adds to the variations of shadow-casts hosted by BCTC, similar to "Moulin Rouge," Sanchez said. Tickets are $10.

Finally, the titan of all shadow-casts returns with "Rocky Horror Picture Show" for a midnight screening, Sanchez said.

Directed for BCTC by Carrissa Galban, the film tells the story of Brad and Janet as they stumble upon the castle of Frank-n-Furter. Tickets are $15. Purchase tickets for all three shows for $25 at www.riograndetheatre.org or at the box office up to one hour before each performance. For more information, visit www.blankconversations.org.

Dia de los Muertos comes to the Mesilla Plaza Oct. 28-29.

BULLETIN REPORT

The Calavera Coalition hosts a Dia de los Muertos celebration of departed friends and family Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 29-30 in Mesilla.

Altars constructed in memory and honor of lost loved ones will be erected on the Mesilla Plaza Friday, Oct. 28, and will remain on the plaza for public viewing Saturday and Sunday, ending 5 p.m. Sunday.

The event will also include live music, food and vendors.

There is no charge, but Calavera Coalition requests the donation of five items of non-perishable food, to be donated to Casa de Pergrinos emergency food program. Donations can be made at the Calavera Coalition booth at the north end of the plaza.

"Integral to the celebration is the belief spirits of the dead visit their families during this time of the year," Visit Las Cruces said on its website. "To pay respects to those wandering souls, families create elaborate altars in their memory, placing offerings of flowers, favorite foods, mementos, pictures and more upon them."

"At the heart of this annual event is a small group of volunteers calling themselves the Calavera Coalition, a nonprofit in existence since 1998," Visit Las Cruces said. Dia de los Muertos ("The Day of the Dead") is traditionally celebrated Oct. 31 (All Hallows' Eve), Nov. 1 (All Saints' Day) and Nov. 2 (All Souls' Day).

Renaissance ArtsFaire makes its return

By GREG SMITH
Executive Director
Doña Ana Arts Council

After a rousing 50th Renaissance ArtsFaire in 2021, the Doña Ana Arts Council (DAAC) is bringing back this iconic event to Young Park (Saturday-Sunday), Nov. 5-6.

With the theme “Travelers in Time,” there are very real possibilities that costumes in 2022 may range across a number of centuries and from a wide range of places. Of course, the Renaissance is still at the heart of the event, but that was verily a time of discovery, innovation, and renewal. The Arts Council asserts the same is true of our own time.

Due to inopportune conditions with the lake (at Young Park), Magellan the Dragon will not be able to bask in it this year, nor will boat rides be allowed. The Arts Council has expressed a hope that both can return in 2023 and has further expressed many “Huzzahs!” on the subject of the entertainment, vendors, and experiences, both old and new, that will be part of the event this year.

Period costumes and throwback adventures are always a part of RenFaire, but this year’s “Travelers in Time” theme, the event could see a wide variety of fashion looks.

“Like any similar event, the Faire has evolved, and while attendees will notice many of the familiar booths and events, they will also see a few changes,” said DAAC Board of Directors President and event co-chair Dan Lere. “We look forward to bringing this long-standing event to the people of Doña Ana

County and beyond.”

Parking will be available for a charge at Lynn Community Middle School, 950 S. Walnut St., and for free at Doña Ana Community College, 2345 Nevada Ave., and Rawson Builders Supply, 2355 Nevada Ave. Free parking with a free shuttle bus will also be available at Mesilla Valley Mall.

For safety reasons and for consideration of the residents, the Arts Council has asked that those attending the ArtsFaire please avoid parking in the neighborhoods immediately adjacent to Young Park.

The first weekend in November has been known for this event since its earliest years, and it is usually a time of comfortable temperatures and clear skies. The Doña Ana Arts Council claims that all of the available experts predict a lovely weekend Nov. 5-6.

RenFaire will be held 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Nov. 5 and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Nov. 6. Young Park is located at 850 S. Walnut St.

Tickets are $10 each and two for $15. Tickets are available at daarts.org.

For more information, contact Smith at 575-523-6403 and director@daarts.org.

The vendors and food booths that have made RenFaire popular for more than 50 years will be back.

A look at the skies through telescopes is always a part of the ArtsFaire that celebrates the science of the Renaissance.

Posada exhibit coming to MOA

BULLETIN REPORT

The City of Las Cruces Museum of Art (MOA) is opening “José Guadalupe Posada: Legendary Printmaker of Mexico.”

The exhibit features more than 60 pieces of the artist’s work, from broadsides and advertisements to notebooks and some of the artist’s original printing plates, the city said in a news release. Contemporary pieces of artwork that use his images or were influenced by his style also are presented.

The exhibit opens Nov. 4 and continues through Jan. 21, 2023.

Posada (1852-1913) was a Mexican printmaker whose satirical political art and social engagement resulted in illustrations that were popular among the working class in Mexico. Despite his popularity, Posada died a poor man. Shortly after his death, other influential Mexican nationalist artists like Jean Charlot, Diego Rivera and Frida Kahlo recognized the power of Posada’s work and began promoting him, the news release said. These artists would establish and encourage the Posada legend that has lasted well into the 21st century, as demonstrated by the Grateful Dead and the band’s use of (Posada-esque) skeletal figures in their record covers and logo designs.

Posada’s “Gran Fandango”

MOA, 491 N. Main St. downtown, is open 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Tuesday-Friday and 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Tombaugh hosts Zuni potter

BULLETIN REPORT

Tombaugh Gallery is featuring the work of Zuni potter Leon Nastacio in November.

The work of Zuni potter and weaver Leon Nastacio will be the featured artist at the gallery Sunday, Oct. 30-Sunday, Nov. 27.

An opening reception will be 11:30 a.m. Oct. 30 at the gallery, at Unitarian Universalist Church, 2000 S. Solano Drive. There will be a special demonstration of Nastacio’s work at 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, at the gallery.

Nastacio grew up at Zuni Pueblo, about 150 miles due west of Albuquerque, the gallery said in a news release.

“He learned about native traditional pottery from his pueblo elders. His art teacher taught him how to collect, process and shape the clay into pots. He learned how to create colored slip (a thin layer of finer clay) using the natural dyes and to paint designs using brushes handmade from yucca. Finally, he learned the old way to fire the pots in pits,” Tombaugh Gallery said.

“Nastacio comes from a large extended, artistic family,” the gallery said. “His parents were both well-Nastacio moved to Albuquerque in 2007 “to learn a trade so he could support himself,” the news release said.

“In 2010, he relocated to Las Cruces where he works for a metal building contractor in addition to making his art. He looks forward to the day he can return to Zuni.”

BULLETIN REPORT

Red Sky Farm, 7440 Arroyo Seco in Las Cruces, will host a Halloween Costume Party and “Show What You Know” evening under the lights in the jumping arena, 6-9 pm Saturday, Oct. 29, Red Sky Farm owner Susie Ouderkirk said.

“We’ll have a big costume contest, with riders AND horses in costume, followed by an opportunity for all of the riders to ‘show what they know,’” Ouderkirk said. “Each rider will have 90 seconds to show off the thing they do best,” she said. “Maybe it’s mounting and dismounting, cantering over a jump with no hands, posting without stirrups, braiding a tail, teaching a skill or riding backwards.”

Prizes will be awarded

Winter Gas Prices

By C.T. Barnes

As the calendar moves into the colder winter months, Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) wants to make sure its customers are prepared in multiple ways. As highlighted in past articles, there is an increase in natural gas prices globally. This is due to the increased use of natural gas to generate electricity, the export of liquefied natural gas (LNG) overseas, and geopolitical events.

“In my 30 plus years of experience, 20 of those years at LCU, I have seen prices rise and fall for natural gas, and I can confidently say prices have been higher than they are currently,” LCU Gas Business Analyst Mario Puentes stated. “In the 2005 through 2009 period prices were higher or just as high as the current market prices,” Puentes continued.

Even though natural gas prices in the first decade of the 2000’s were comparable to today, current prices are about 35% higher now than they were a year ago. This is due to a tight balance between supply and demand for natural gas worldwide. The purchase prices in Europe and other world markets are much higher than in the United States, which creates an incentive for producers to sell natural gas to those markets in addition to the United States (U.S.).

“We monitor and watch prices, as well as study worldwide energy dynamics, this helps form the basis to purchase natural gas in layers or batches that will be used during the winter months,” Puentes stated. The rising natural gas prices are not related to the Cost of Service (COS) rates that increased in September 2022. LCU overall will continue to watch trends to look for dips in the market to buy the rest of the natural gas that will be consumed in the winter months. That is because LCU does not buy all the natural gas that will be consumed each winter in a single transaction. Instead, it is purchased in layers or batches to create a portfolio of gas supply with the objective to achieve a manageable average price.

LCU recommends, if possible, to upgrade your appliances to energy efficient appliances to be in control of the cost you are paying as we see this rise in prices for natural gas. Make sure that your house has proper insulation installed, while keeping all doors and windows closed, when possible, to keep the heat from escaping from your home. Although not all of these options may be possible right away, slowly upgrading your home can make a huge difference during the winter months.

With LCU’s main goal of providing excellent service and securing natural gas supply to its customers, LCU continues to monitor the market as the winter season approaches. “While constantly trying to provide Las Cruces citizens with the best natural gas service, it is important to know that we do not mark up the natural gas price to our customers, the fuel cost goes directly to the consumer and is not a profit for LCU,” Puentes concluded.

Animal therapy a big part of life at The Arbors

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Some of the most popular residents at The Arbors are Lulu, Luna, Pepper and Blue Sky.

They are, respectively, a rabbit, a kitten, a goat and a horse.

The Arbors is also home to a couple of turtles, a small herd of ducks and a few colorful birds.

"We use animals a lot for therapy," said The Arbors Assistant Executive Director Monica Leos. "They have brought a lot of comfort to our residents here."

three Vista Living Care facilities for dementia patients in New Mexico. The other two, Sierra Vista and Vista Hermosa, are in Santa Fe. Vista Living Care is owned by a family in Ohio, Leos said. The Arbors has been in operation for more than 20 years.

The animals can be very calming for dementia patients, who may suffer from a lot of emotions, including fear and paranoia, Leos said. Along with subdued lighting and noise levels and a slower pace, the animals help contribute to the overall atmosphere of tranquility at The Arbors, she said, and to the comfort and independence of the guests.

Lulu, Luna, Pepper, Blue Sky and the other animals can also be soothing for The Arbors staff, Leos said.

She often visits Blue Sky, "to see what he's up to, talk to him, tell him your problems," she said.

The Arbors is licensed for up to 24 guests, Leos said, who have varying degrees of dementia.

Leos, The Arbors Executive Director Bianca R. Loya and other staff work closely with doctors and families to ensure the best care for each guest, Leos said. They also work closely with Mesilla Valley Hospice, she said, and know The Arbors might be a patient's last home.

The more The Arbors staff of more than 20 know about their patients, the better able they are able "to communicate and connect" with them, she said. Staff also receive regular training on dementia care, Leos said.

That includes validation therapy, which allows each guest to live his or her own reality, Leos said, which can be "very important when it comes to dementia care."

The facility also emphasizes safety, cleanliness and good food for its guests, she said.

"We take away all their worries," Leos said. "We simplify their lives."

That's why knowing each guest as an individual is so important to The Arbors, staff, she said.

Dementia patients at The Arbors in Las Cruces find comfort in the facility's animals.

"We don't want institutional living," Leos said.

Not having a set wake-up time each morning is just one example, she said.

"You wake up whenever you want to wake up," Leos said, and patients "can stay in their jammies" all day if they want to.

Patients can also walk or sit in The Arbors' secure Zen-like garden, where they will find Blue Sky, Pepper and other animals to spend a little quality time with.

The Arbors, 3731 Del

Rey Blvd., provides 24-7 care for its guests.

Burrell College earns national recognition with HEED award

BULLETIN REPORT

Burrell College of Osteopathic Medicine (BCOM) received the 2022 Health Professions Higher Education Excellence in Diversity (HEED) Award from INSIGHT Into Diversity magazine, BCOM said in a news release.

"The HEED Award recognizes those colleges that prioritize diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) and go above and beyond for their students, faculty, staff and communities," the college said.

"Burrell is the only medical college in the United States with a mission addressing health-care in the southwestern United States and its border with northern Mexico."

The award marks the first time the college has been selected for the recognition, which is presented annually by the oldest and largest diversity-focused publication in higher education, BCOM said. Burrell was one of six osteopathic medical schools to receive the honor.

"We are honored to be a recipient of the 2022 HEED," said BCOM President John L. Hummer.

"This is a testament of our entire team's dedication to our mission and dedication towards a more diverse, equitable and inclusive campus."

"I am very proud of our Burrell College community for being recognized with the HEED Award," said BCOM Dean Dr. Bill Pieratt.

"We prioritize excellence through diversity, equity, and inclusion, and this award is a well-deserved testament to the efforts put forth by our students, faculty, and staff."

As a recipient of the HEED Award, Burrell will be featured, along with 63 other recipients, in the December 2022 issue of INSIGHT Into Diversity magazine.

The HEED award "involves a rigorous application process that examines the recruitment, retention and support of underrepresented students and employees, effective leadership in diversity mission-setting, innovative programming aimed at inclusive excellence, and many other aspects of diversity and inclusion across campus," said INSIGHT Publisher Lenore Pearlstein.

Of all students enrolled at BCOM this year, 57 percent are female, and 23 percent are underrepresented minorities in medicine, the college said.

Since opening its doors in 2013, the four-year, private osteopathic medical school "has matriculated between 21 percent and 32 percent of students from underrepresented populations in medicine," BCOM said.

DACC, Union Pacific open new training academy

BULLETIN REPORT

Doña Ana Community College and Union Pacific Railroad held a joint ribbon-cutting ceremony, as a new workforce training academy in Sunland Park.

The ribbon cutting was Oct. 19 at the new Union Pacific Industrial Careers Academy located in the DACC Sunland Park Center. It will provide fast-track training in logistics, warehousing, transportation, manufacturing and more, DACC said, and was made possible by a $350,000 grant from Union Pacific.

The academy will offer these courses, including two that began in October: certified logistics technician, commercial driver's license training, certified technician supply chain automation, certified production technician 4.0, digital foundation/IC3 certification, welding fast-track certification, OSHA training and OSHA forklift training.

"The academy is designed to help Sunland Park and Santa Teresa residents develop skills and training sought by area employers," DACC said in a news release.

The academy offers classroom activities along with job-shadowing, workplace observations and company tours and internship opportunities, said DACC, which will concurrently support students needing help with basic math and literacy skills or learning English.

Greater Chamber adds new staff member

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Taylor Issacs joined the staff of the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce (GLCCC) Oct. 17 as the new director of development and investment services.

"I'm really excited to start this journey," said Issacs, a graduate of Mayfield High School and New Mexico State University.

"I plan to be in it for the long haul. I've fallen in love with Las Cruces," Issacs said, adding that he has just bought his first home here.

Issacs, a native of Long Beach, California, originally planned to become an emergency medical technician he said, but instead began his career in sales for Southwest Labs, an Albuquerque-based medical company.

"We are excited for Taylor to join our team," said GLCCC President and CEO Debbi Moore. "His sales experience, along with his knowledge of the community, will be a tremendous asset to the chamber."

Contact Issacs at 575-524-1960 and tisaacs@las-cruces.org.

How to hit a decent shot from a sand bunker

For more than 70 years, golf magazines have featured tips on hitting shots from sand bunkers in almost every issue. Combined with tips on the internet, instructions numbers well into the hundreds of thousands.

And still golfers don't get it.

Have you ever wondered why tour pros say they prefer their ball winds up in a bunker rather than in the greenside rough? That's because they're not sure how a ball sitting down in a nasty, gnarly rough will come out, but they know how to hit the bunker shot because the sand is highly predictable; they know how the ball will react since they have practiced the shot in many different ways.

Of course, with all due respect to tour pros, the shots they face from their bunkers are much easier than what we have to deal with here in the desert. Our bunker sand may be hard-pan, wet (from over sprinkling), muddy or super fluffy. But that begs the question about why most golfers struggle with bunkers.

So let's discuss how to hit a sand shot - and here I'm referring a greenside sand bunker, rather than a fairway bunker some distance from the green. From my experience helping golfers of all levels at golf school, the problem is failing to grasp the proper technique for getting the ball out of the bunker.

Notice I didn't say "hitting" the ball. A correct bunker shot requires you thump the sand from just behind the ball, and the sand then lifts the ball out of the bunker. In this case the club-head never touches the ball. It's like the magician who says to the audience "my fingers never left my hand."

We don't have photos here with this article, but picture and average sand bunker with your ball in the middle, some 60 feet from the flagstick. Grab your sand wedge, a 54, 56 or 60 degree wedge, spread your feet shoulder width apart and distribute your weight evenly. You need to loft your ball some 30 feet to get it on the green and then it will roll the rest of the way.

The setup position is with your feet open 20 degrees to a straight line,

CHARLIE BLANCHARD
Golf Doctor

and the ball slightly forward in your stance. This position will allow you to open your clubface (an absolute must) so it's facing down the target line. And the reason you open the face of your sand wedge is to get it under the ball and displace the sand beneath. The "secret" to hitting an explosion shot from the sand is to slide the clubface under the sand behind the ball in such a way that the sand lifts the ball and propels it forward.

Too many golfers approach a bunker shot as a chip shot and try to "trap" the ball and it doesn't work. In addition, it requires a distinctly forceful swing to propel 10 ounces of sand up and forward. If you are going to practice bunker shots from the sand, learn to splash the sand from behind the ball. How far behind? Well, that takes practice.

And another thing, you don't need a lot of body movement, just shoulders, arms and hands, not brute force. A lot of touch and feel. Make believe you are carving out a 7-inch path in the sand, about a half-inch deep, where the ball is on top.

Now let's consider the shot from a fairway bunker, which is a horse of a different color, as cowboys here out West say.

Fairway bunkers are typically placed where an errant drive can cause problems. The fairway bunker on the par 5 hole number 5 at Red Hawk is huge and fairly easy to hit a layup second shot out of. There is plenty of fairway to the left so hitting into that bunker is a mistake, but not a big one. But let's say you're in a fairway bunker on a par 4 that is 150 yards to the green. If you normally hit a 7 iron 150 yards, take a 6 iron, or maybe a 5 iron. Try to hit the ball first and clean, since a little bit of sand behind the ball will really slow it down. The technique is to stand tall, and take a full swing keeping your lower body quiet, so your feet don't shift in the sand. Remember, you are not allowed to touch the sand with your club before the shot, so hover your club over the ball and contact the ball first.

It all comes down to a matter of technique, which is another word for skill, and it takes a lot of practice.

For the third straight year, NM State men's golf claimed the Herb Wimberly Intercollegiate championship played Oct. 17-18 at the NMSU Golf Course in Las Cruces. The Aggies cruised to victory, winning by 20 strokes over second-place finishers Seattle U and Weber State. Shooting a 198 throughout the tournament, Garrison Smith broke the NM State record for the lowest 54-hole score, running away with the individual title, shooting 15-under par. In the final round, Smith carded six birdies without a single bogey to go six-under.
