NMSU project supports Jardin de los Niños

A master's degree in communication studies may not sound magical, but for New Mexico State University graduate student Hannah Martinez, her communication studies project allowed her to bring the stuff of dreams and adventures to children at Jardin de los Niños through hundreds of books.

The nonprofit provides comprehensive services to homeless and near-homeless children, from the ages of six weeks to 10 years, and their families.

Recently, Martinez visited Jardin with a trunkload of books and a $2,000 donation thanks to her strategic communication plan. Her original goal was to raise $1,200 and get 100 books donated, but she exceeded her fundraising goal and tripled the number of books to 300.

Along with books, Martinez donations will fill baskets with necessities like detergent, paper towels, socks, blankets and other household items for families in Jardin's Adopt-A-Family program.

"Jardin de los Niños provides vital preventive services to homeless/ near homeless children and their families," said Jardin CEO Michelle Adames. "Our Adopt-A-Family Program helps to ensure that our children and families have access to items that support basic needs and educational materials throughout the

Looking back at news of 2022 in Las Cruces

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

For the arts, business, public safety, nonprofits helping those in need and much more, 2022 was a busy year in Las Cruces and Doña Ana County.

Here are a few highlights:

Casa de Peregrinos (CdP) emergency food program broke ground in March on a new building at 991 W. Amador Ave., the location of the old Horse N Hound feed and supply store.

The City of Las Cruces bought the building for CdP's use in 2020, with renovation funding provided by the city and the New Mexico Capital Improvement Program. The building is 12,000 square feet and provides more space to share with community groups. The larger facility will also allow room for client waiting and interview areas, designated areas for assembly and distribution of carts, food storage, a drive-up window for pre-ordered carts and a demonstration kitchen. It will include solar panels and green landscaping and incorporate artwork in the public areas through the city's "Art in Public Places" program.

In April, Las Cruces author Jennifer Cervantes signed copies of her latest New York Times best-seller, "Flirting with Fate," at Barnes & Noble Bookstore in the Mesilla Valley Mall.

Seven publishing houses bid for the right to publish "Flirting with Fate," her 10th book.

Another young adult novel by Cervantes, "Fractured Path," was published in July. It is the third in Disney-Hyperion's "The Mirror" fairytale quartet, which follows a family's curse through multiple generations. Each of the four books is written by a different author.

"The Lords of Night," the first book in Cervantes' "Shadow Bruja" duology, was published in October, and she has three more novels scheduled for publication in 2023.

It all began for Cervantes when she wrote

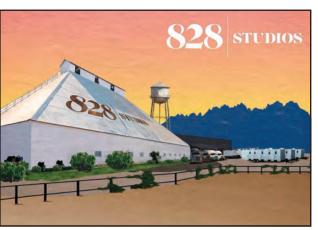

"Tortilla Sun" in 2010 as a story for her youngest daughter about her treasured "Julie Bear" stuffed animal.

In May, Las Cruces Gospel Rescue Mission (GRM) broke ground on a new facility, Bethesda – House of Mercy and Grace, at 1050 W. Amador Ave., next door to GRM.

House of Mercy No. 1 and No. 2 will provide housing for homeless people who chosen not to stay in the mission and will serve three hot meals a day seven days a week. They will also provide additional food storage for GRM's food pantry program.

The nonprofit GRM has been in operation since 1972. In addition to its shelter, kitchen and food bank, GRM provides clothing to those in need and operates Rock of Ages Thrift Store, 1420 S. Solano Drive.

In June, the Las Cruces Police Academy graduated 28 cadets. With 26 cadets joining the Las Cruces Police Department, LCPD had filled 197 of its 202 authorized positions.

The arrival of 828 Studios to Las Cruces could be the impetus for expansion of the local film industry.

In July, Electronic Caregiver (ECG) bought the tower that bears its name at 506 S. Main St.
With a price tag of $8.9 million, the tower is 120 feet tall, with 11 stories and 105,000 square feet.

ECG, a digital health technology company founded in 2009, moved into the tower in 2017 and has spent $4.5 million in upgrades in the past five years. The tower was built in 1962.

In August, Temple Beth-El welcomed new Rabbi Evette Lutman, who came to Las Cruces from Denver with her wife, Shari Abramowitz and their rescue dogs. Lutman is a native of Akron, Ohio, who worked as assistant religious school administrator for a Reform congregation in Ann Arbor, Michigan, and spent two years as the lay rabbi for a synagogue in Jackson, Michigan before entering the rabbinate.

As a practicing attorney, Lutman represented battered women in court and helped settle family-court issues like custody, visitation and child support as a referee for the Washtenaw County Friend of the Court program in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

In Las Cruces, Rabbi Evette succeeds Rabbi Larry Karol, who retired in 2020 and returned to Kansas City, Missouri.

Also in August, 828 Productions CEO and founder Todd Lundbohm announced that 828 will build a 300,000 square-foot studio on 35 acres of land just west of downtown Las Cruces.

"We have found our partner," said state Sen. Jeff Steinborn, D-Doña Ana. "It is definitely an incredible day for Las Cruces. This is a very big deal for our community. We have dreamed of this day for a long time," said Steinborn, who is president of Film Las Cruces, the nonprofit he helped create that brings film and television production to Las Cruces and Doña Ana County.

The studio will bring $350 million in direct spending to New Mexico,

Why not us Aggies?

At the end of the Quick Lane Bowl on ESPN Dec. 26 in Detroit, New Mexico State University head football coach Jerry Kill was on the turf of Ford Field accepting congratulations from fans and well-wishers who had spilled onto the turf following the Aggies' victory over Bowling Green.

After greeting one supporter Kill looked him in the eye and said in his Kansas drawl, audibly on national TV, "Hey, you're part of this, too."

And that's the way it's been since Coach Kill first arrived in Las Cruces.

Shortly after NMSU Athletic Director Mario Moccia hired him Nov. 29, 2021, Kill was at an Aggie home basketball game in the Pan American Center, walking up and down the aisles, meeting and greeting fans.

From Day One, Kill knew turning around NMSU football couldn't be just a "me" thing. It had to be a "we" thing.

Kill most definitely needed his own considerable experience, skills and expertise. He also needed the experience, skills and expertise of a great coaching staff, which he quickly assembled. But he also believed he needed the support and participation of the Las Cruces community. And so he has worked tirelessly since then to engage Aggie fans of all ages into his job.

So, when he said, "You're part of this, too," Jerry Kill wasn't just talking to that one fan in Detroit.

He was talking to the ticket-taker at the Pan Am. He was talking to the second-string linebacker for Camino Real Middle School. He was talking to an administrative assistant at NMSU. He was talking to long-time Aggie supporters like Lou Sisbarro and Wanda Bowman. He was talking to the server at Hooters, the cook at the food truck and the couple who have had season tickets to Aggie games for 50 years. He was talking to you and me.

Of course, Kill and his coach didn't make any of the plays on the field during the bowl game, or during any of their 12 games this season. Those were the Aggie players, all of whom are talented athletes and hard-working individuals. But they are different today than they were Aug. 27 when they opened their season losing against Nevada.

The first time I heard Coach Kill speak publicly was at a meeting of the Rio Grande Rotary Club last February. Someone asked him the first thing he had to do when he took the job.

"Get to know the players," Kill said. "I can't coach him if I don't know 'em."

Over the course of a year, as he's gotten to know the players, and as they've gotten to know him, they all learned something together.

They play these football games, and somebody's gotta win.

"Why can't it be us Aggies?"

New Year's Eve a lousy time for a party

If we were to pick a time, date and place to throw a party, I doubt many people would choose midnight on Jan. 1 outdoors.

It's way too cold. Our forecast calls for strong winds most of the day on New Year's Eve. They should calm down before midnight, but the temperature is expected to be in the mid-20s. And, as is always the case, our weather will be a lot nicer than other areas of the country.

The weather forecasts predict that folks celebrating on the East Coast will see freezing rain turning to snow as midnight approaches. States in the upper Midwest are also expecting a mixture of rain and snow, and it will be rainy in the Southeast. It will be clear but cold in the Southwest.

And it could be a lot worse. It was minus-24 degrees last week in my original hometown of Denver. You just never know this time of year.

Then there's the timing. Research published last year in the European Heart Journal found that those who fall asleep after midnight had a 25 percent higher risk of heart disease. The late sleep disrupts the body's internal

And, all of this comes exactly clock and places greater stress on our cardiovascular system.

That's not to mention the more immediate dangers of driving home in the dark at 2 a.m. on icy roads after a few drinks.

one week after our biggest holiday of the year. We just got done feasting and imbibing. Folks are still cleaning up the mess left from the holiday parties. Do we really need another party now?

I blame the Sumerians. Sure, tracking the cycles of the moon to develop a 12-month calendar during the Bronze Age was a marvel of forward thinking that provided the template for the more precise calendars that would follow. But why did they need to start the year during the coldest month?

There once was a time when I worked the night shift and enjoyed winter sports. Back then, I considered New Year's Eve to be amateur hour, and resented the fact that there were so many other people on the streets at 2 a.m.

This year, I will know the new year has arrived when neighbors down the street set off fireworks about two hours into my sleep. My celebration will consist of rolling over.

I think we expect too much from New Years. The narrative is always the same: this year stunk; sure hope next year is better. Then the sun rises on a new day and it looks just like the last.

Walter Rubel is a freelance journalist based in Las Cruces. His 40-plus-year career includes work in Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas and—since 2002—in New Mexico, covering Las Cruces and the state Legislature. His opinions are his own and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Las Cruces Bulletin. Rubel can be reached at waltrubel@gmail.com.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Different options available with country club

I read Walt Rubel's opinion piece in the Dec. 16 Bulletin, (regarding the Las Cruces Country Club building), and would like to send a response.

Mr. Rubel complains that the country club was an eyesore and seems to approve that a private developer is going to "make that property productive again."

However, he then does an about face and complains that the city asked the (presumably) small group of protestors/activists who want to preserve the old clubhouse, thus interfering with the private development, to pay some (not all) of the cost.

Mr. Rubel cannot have it both ways.

What he is really saying is that certain groups of citizens who feel strongly about a subject and want "the government" to do something about it, should not have to put their money where their mouth is.

The city government has essentially no money. The taxpayers provide the funding through taxes and their economic activity using money they earned.

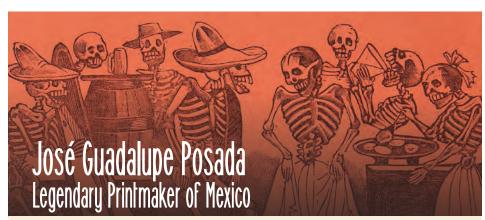

So, Mr. Rubel wants the average taxpayer to pay for the cause, not the people who are pushing it on the city and the developers.

If keeping the clubhouse is so important, they should convince people to pay out of their own pocket directly for something they believe in, not hoist the responsibility on everyone else in the city who may not care or who have a better use for their money.

There are many examples around the United States of historical trusts which collect funding from regular citizens to preserve parks, buildings, etc. that are deemed of historical value enough that people care to contribute.

Relying on the "government" to do everything you want without any responsibility or cost to yourself is part of what has got this country, at all levels, in unimaginable and unsustainable debt.

Indoor garage sale

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

The Emporium antiques and gift shop, 106 S. Water St. downtown, will hold an indoor garage sale 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 10, 2023, store volunteers Heather Pollard and Joanne Achen said.

The sale will include items The Emporium has been keeping in storage that normally would have been included in a local service club's garage sale. But, since that sale will not be held, The Emporium is having its own version of a garage sale, Pollard and Achen said.

The list of items that will be for sale includes furniture, dishes and bric-a-brac, the two said.

Since The Emporium opened in June 2015, it has donated approximately $500,000 from its sales to Mesilla Valley Hospice, Pollard said.

The Emporium is open 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesday-Friday and 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday.

The Emporium recently added a new room to the store, so it has even more antiques and unique items, including furniture, dishes, jewelry and collectibles. For more information and to inquire about donating to The Emporium, call 575-523-4700. Visit emporiumlc.com find The Emporium on Facebook.

tonight's picks

5 p.m. on SYFY The Twilight Zone

As part of the channel's annual Countdown to 2023 all-day marathon of "The Twilight Zone," after debating with a member of his club whether you could go back in time and change major events, Pete Corrigan (Russell Johnson) seems to go back to April 15, 1865 — the night Abraham Lincoln was assassinated. He tries to warn authorities of what will happen, but it falls on deaf ears. The one person who seems interested may have his own reasons to listen.

6 p.m. on TCM Movie: The Thin Man

Robert Wagner and Stefanie Powers owe much of their "Hart to Hart" rhythm to William Powell and Myrna Loy, who perfected the concept of married, often bickering sleuths in this classic 1934 comedy-mystery movie. The stars play Nick and Nora Charles, a highliving couple who investigate an inventor's supposed involvement in a murder, in between several frequent cocktail breaks. Maureen O'Sullivan plays his daughter, who enlists the couple.

7 p.m. on KRWG United in Song 2022: Ringing in the New Year Together

Actor/singer/dancer Chita Rivera hosts this new concert special taped at Philadelphia's Independence Hall. Featuring trumpeter Delbert Anderson, singer Jencarlos Canela, Judy Collins, violinist Midori, Sandi Patty, singer Lea Salonga, baritone Paulo Szot, the Washington Ballet, the American Pops Orchestra and more, it is a celebration of Americana as the nation counts down another year.

7 p.m. on KDBC New Year's Eve Live: Nashville's Big Bash

It's time to ring in the New Year in cowboy boots and a 10-gallon hat. Country music's hottest superstars return to downtown Nashville, Tenn., to celebrate the festivities across multiple locations. The star-studded special will be packed with high- energy performances from Brooks & Dunn, Kelsea Ballerini, Little Big Town, Zac Brown Band and more.

7 p.m. on KVIA Dick Clark's Primetime New Year's Rockin' Eve With Ryan Seacrest 2023

Put on your mittens and begin the countdown. Ryan Seacrest hosts from the preeminent destination to ring in the New Year — Times Square — and the nation's most-watched New Year's Eve celebration. Giving viewers a look at New Year's celebrations from around the globe, it also celebrates the year's very best in music featuring a night filled with superstar performances. It also kicks off Disney's 100 Years of Wonder celebration.

8 p.m. on DSC Moonshiners: Master Distiller

Inflation is hitting all corners of the marketplace. It's enough to drive a person to drink.

And so Mark, Digger and Tim taste the results as two outlaw shiners and a legal distiller take on record high prices in a competition to see who can make the best run of shine on a $30 budget in the new episode "Bang for the Buck."

9:30 p.m. on KTSM Miley's New Year's Eve Party

6 p.m. on HGTV Ugliest House in America

The Season 3 premiere of the surprise hit showcases 15 properties nominated by homeowners who believe their design-challenged home is among the worst in the country. "BLACK ADAM"

Dwayne Johnson lets his famous brawn do much of the talking in this effects-packed adventure, casting him as the title DC Comics character who has to determine whether to use his powers for good or evil upon his being freed from thousands of years of entombment. A very valuable crown becomes part of his quest to re-establish himself, though others are sold on the notion that he is much more villain than hero, a thought that many of his actions seem to underscore. Directed by Jaume Collet-Serra (who worked with Johnson previously on "Jungle Cruise"), the cast also includes Aldis Hodge (as Justice Society chief Hawkman), Sarah Shahi and Pierce Brosnan ... and watch until the end of the film for someone's somewhat surprising return. DVD extras: 10 "making-of" documentaries.  (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD, Digital and On Demand)

"PREY FOR THE DEVIL"

Known to television viewers from her role on "Salvation," Jacqueline Byers is central to this horror tale as a young nun who receives a mysterious summoning to become the first female exorcist. As she seeks training from a professor (Colin Salmon), the reason she was singled out becomes clear ... since her mother was possessed by the same demon who now is overtaking a youngster's soul. Its release delayed for some time by the coronavirus pandemic, the film was the final credit for the late Ben Cross ("Chariots of Fire"); Virginia Madsen also stars. DVD extras: three "making-of" documentaries; audio commentary by Byers and director Daniel Stamm.  (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD, Digital and On Demand)

"AMERICAN MASTERS: GROUCHO & CAVETT"

Among the most memorable visitors he had to his very brainy talk show, Dick Cavett ranks Groucho Marx very high on the list. The famously acerbic and witty member of the Marx Brothers of stage and screen fame was a reasonably frequent guest on "The Dick Cavett Show" ... and something of a mentor to the host as the latter was transitioning from writer to on-air personality. Highlights of the televised sessions are compiled in this program, coming to home video the week after it wax televised on many PBS stations. Filmmaker Robert S. Bader's documentary also includes newly filmed comments from Primetime Emmy winner Cavett, plus related recordings that underscore the unique relationship that Cavett enjoyed having with Marx.  (Not rated: AS)

"STAR TREK: PRODIGY – SEASON ONE, EPISODES 1-10"

The "Star Trek" universe has its younger fans, but rarely has the direct appeal of this Paramount+ and Nickelodeon series been made to them. The enduring sci-fi franchise goes where it hasn't often gone before with this animated series, which brings back Kate Mulgrew to voice a hologram version of her "Star Trek: Voyager" character Capt. Kathryn Janeway. However, the show centers around her new trainees, six young aliens who learn about working together – and the workings of Starfleet – while traveling aboard an abandoned ship. Also featured in the voice cast are Brett Gray, Jason Mantzoukas, Ella Purnell and – as the tyrannical Diviner and his enforcer Drednok – John Noble ("Fringe") and Jimmi Simpson ("Westworld"). Two of the episodes here are two-parters; a second season of the show was ordered even before the first one premiered.  (Not rated) (Also on Blu-ray)

"CHESAPEAKE SHORES: THE COMPLETE SERIES"

With the Hallmark Channel series based on Sherryl Woods' novels having ended recently, this set compiles all six seasons. The involving saga follows the O'Brien family after the return of daughter Abby (played by Meghan Ory) from New York to Maryland, where her father Mick (Treat Williams) has been a major player in helping to build their town. She's reunited with a former love (Jesse Metcalfe) while her dad, mother (Barbara Niven) and sisters (Laci J. Mailey, Emilie Ullerup) have their own romances to deal with. Diane Ladd, Brendan Penny and Andrew Francis also star; Robert Buckley ("One Tree Hill") joined the cast for the last two seasons after Metcalfe left.  (Not rated: AS) celebrity scoop

A decade into his role as part of "One Chicago," Taylor Kinney is anything but tired of the Windy City.

As NBC's Dick Wolf-produced drama "Chicago Fire" resumes its 11th season with new episodes Wednesday, Jan. 4, the actor's Lt. Kelly Severide has plenty of new situations to occupy his interest. Now married to colleague Stella Kidd (Miranda Rae Mayo), with both imperiled by a grenade in the December "fall finale," he's often finding himself enmeshed in investigations that have him as much a detective as a firefighter.

Also seen regularly in repeats on USA Network and ION Television, "Chicago Fire" remains a comfortable television home for Kinney, who says he continues to appreciate "the opportunity to do what we're doing. I thank Dick Wolf and (fellow executive producer) Peter Jankowski, who's an unsung hero ... I love that man. To everybody involved, I'm forever grateful."

Putting his all into his "Chicago Fire" work is standard operating procedure for Kinney, who believes that approach is shared widely among his co-workers. He reflects, "I hope I don't get to a point in my life – or in this life, anyway – where I look back and say, 'I shoulda, I coulda, I woulda.' And I don't think anybody I work with is doing that, either. We're doing something special, and I don't think that anybody is taking it for granted."

"Chicago Fire" fans clearly don't, and Kinney embraces them ... often literally, as can be seen in photos on social media. "I'm not joking that when people come up to me, I say, 'I wouldn't have a job if you didn't watch.' I'm thankful, so it's a communal affair. It's not lost on me, and it means the world."

Birthdate: July 15, 1981 Birthplace: Lancaster, Pa.

Current residence: Chicago ... but he notes, "I haven't had a home for a long time"

Marital status: Single

Other television credits include: "Chicago P.D.," "Chicago Med," "Chicago Justice," "Breakout Kings," "Castle," "Shameless," "Dating Rules From My Future Self," "The Vampire Diaries," "Five," "Rizzoli & Isles," "CSI, NY," "Trauma," "Bones," "What About Brian,"
"Fashion House"

Movie credits include: "Here and Now," "Rock the Kasbah," "Consumed," "The Other Woman," "Zero Dark Thirty," "Least Among Saints," "White Air"

On his work ethic: "'Luck' is a word that's attributed to people who want to sleep. Everyone involved (in 'Chicago Fire') works incredibly hard. It's a hierarchy of hard work."

work session to the public in accordance with NMSA 1978, Section 10-15-1(I) and Section II of this policy. Any person wishing to attend a work session of the City Council, which has not been closed pursuant to NMSA 1978, Section 10-15-1(H) and 10-

City Council will avoid emergency meetings whenever possible. Emergency meetings may be called by the Mayor or a majority of the members upon four (4) hours' notice, unless threat of personal injury or personal damage requires less notice. The notice of all emergency meetings shall include an agenda for the meeting or information on how the public may obtain a copy of the agenda. All emergency measures adopted must be submitted to the Attorney General within 10 days of the meeting at which the action was taken, provided that the requirement to report to the Attorney General is waived due to state or national emergency. (VI) Council Appointed Commissions, Committees, and Board Meetings

THAT Commissions, Committees, and Advisory Boards of the City of Las Cruces shall similarly issue their agendas by posting one on the City Hall bulletin board, the Thomas Branigan Memorial Library bulletin board, on the city's website, and furnishing copies to the news media who have provided a written request for such notice, and provide such other notice as may be required by ordinance and law. Such issuance and posting are determined to be reasonable notice.

Compliance THAT substantial compliance with any one of the foregoing methods of giving notice shall constitute compliance with this resolution and NMSA 1978, Sections 10-15-1 through 10-15-4. Nothing herein shall prevent the use of additional means or methods of giving notice of regular or special meetings. Nothing herein shall require new notice of any public meeting for which notice has been given and which is recessed or adjourned. However, in recessing the meeting, the presiding officer shall announce the meeting, the time, and the place the meeting shall reconvene.

(VIII) Accommodation THAT in addition to the information specified above, all notices shall include the following language: "If you need an accommodation for a disability to enable you to fully participate in this event, please contact us 72 hours before the event at 541-2115/V."

(X) Repealer THAT all bylaws, order and resolutions or parts thereof, inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed to the extent only of such inconsistency. This repeal shall not be construed to revive any prior bylaw, order or resolution or part thereof, heretofore repealed.

Gallery: Rimbach, Zucker in January

BULLETIN REPORT

The Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Gallery (MVFG), 2470-A Calle de Guadalupe on the historic Mesilla Plaza, will feature the works of local artists Frank Rimbach and Naida Zucker during the month of January 2023, the gallery said in a news release.

Zucker, a mixed-media artist, combines gelatin monoprinting (hectography) with digital photography to produce one-of-a-kind art pieces, the gallery said. Zucker, a retired New Mexico State University biology professor, has taken workshops at the Mesilla Digital Imaging Center at the now-defunct Preston Gallery and studied printmaking with Ouida Touchon.

Rimbach has a master's of fine arts degree from NMSU. He has taught at Central Texas College and currently teaches at El Paso Community College.

MVFG's 30 featured artists offer original art in various media, including oil, acrylics, pastels, watercolor, fused glass art jewelry, woodturnings, stained glass, photography, ceramics, mixed media, decorated gourds, textile weavings, art tile, fiber art, natural gemstone jewelry, fused glass, colored pencil, charcoal, pen and ink drawings, prints, cards and miniature paintings.

First American Bank, 1553 Avenida de Mesilla, features the work of many of the gallery's artists.

MVFG is open 10 a.m.-5 p.m. every day. Call 575-522-2933. Visit www.mesillavalleyfinearts.com.

Creche exhibit displays Jan. 7 in Mesquite Historic District

BULLETIN REPORT

"The Epiphany: Día de los Reyes" is an exhibit sharing creches (nacimientos) from the collection of Faith Hutson and John Verploegh, including creches from their world travels.

The exhibition will be noon-4 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 7, 2023, at 706 B S. Mesquite St., Hutson said in a news release.

A suggested donation of $4 will help increase the fund for public art in the Mesquite Historic District, Hudson said. Café de olla and Rosca de Reyes pastry will be served.

"The event is a recreation of the story of the birth of Christ through the creative lens of artists from around the world," Hudson said. It "coincides with Epiphany, which celebrates the manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles as represented by the magi or kings, in other words, 'here comes everybody.' Most Latin countries maintain the original date of the Nativity and celebrate Christmas on Jan. 6. Special prominence is given to the kings, who are the first recorded gift bringers and the origin of many customs, including caroling plays, and the traditional pastry, Rosca de Reyes."

The Hutson/Verploegh historic home is on the original El Camino Real de Tierra Adentro National Historic Trail, which was used 1598-1882, Hudson said.

"In Las Cruces, a portion of this trading route is on Mesquite Street, the eastern side of the 1849 original townsite of Las Cruces," she said.

In recognition of this important trail, Hudson and Verploegh designed and made a fence of historic wheels or replicas of the wheels that traveled the trade route from wooden carretas to modern-day wheels.

The creche exhibit coincides with Epiphany.

Outgoing arts council director reflects on time

Executive Director Doña Ana Arts Council

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Arts Council Executive Director Greg Smith is retiring from his position, and reflects on his time with the organization and on his hopes for its future.)

Regarding my three years at the Doña Ana Arts Council, to quote Charles Dickens, "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times..."

What was "best" about it was that I got to be in charge of an organization that has been very effectively promoting, encouraging, and inspiring the arts for half a century. During my time in charge, we emphasized reaching the broadest spectrum of our community through the widest range of the arts. I got to work with great people on the Board of Directors, on the staff, under contract, and in the community. We successfully partnered with six other public and private entities to bring STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art, and Math) learning experiences to young people in public elementary schools. We collaborated with the Community Foundation of Southern New Mexico to kick into gear an Artspace feasibility study on artist live/work spaces. We saw a former DAArts director and a DAArts art history instructor start up a separate service combining art history classes with tours to premier art museums. We moved into a spectacular space for our galleries adjacent to the Arts and Cultural District, and when new ownership of that space made it necessary to move on, we found a fantastic location actually in the Arts and Cultural District, one that will become a more permanent home for the Arts Council, if not the permanent home.

We also began showing art again, occasionally, in the gallery at the Rio Grande Theatre, and on March 22, we will again have a musical performance there in the auditorium that the Doña Ana Arts Council was so instrumental in bringing back into service for our community.

What was "worst" about the three years was that a pandemic forced us to close the galleries and cancel shows, classes, camps, performances, and art fairs. That resulted in strained finances, loss of volunteers, disconnections from people and events that had long been staples for the Arts Council. We had to be resourceful and innovative, not always with great success.

However, what forced us out of our comfort zone had us looking at how we remain viable, sustainable, and pertinent in our community. The future of the arts and their powerful impact on our community's pride and economy, along with support from members of our community remained sources of inspiration. Sadly, several supporters passed away during the three years. Still, two of them left significant legacies for the Arts Council in their wills, and a number of other supporters, still very happily alive, have also stepped up in significant ways financially. We now have an Advisory Council providing great input for consideration by the Board of Directors, and we have been able to return to some of the pre-pandemic activities as well as consider new, important directions.

Since Ken Miyagishima said he won't be running for mayor next year, one question that has come up, even before people knew I was leaving this position, is whether I will run for mayor again. The answer is, "No." Ten years ago, I had five things I wanted to accomplish as a member of the City Council. I believed our community would benefit from all of downtown Main Street being reopened, having a plaza downtown, moving the Museum of Art into the historic Post Office building, having a Community Olympic Pool, and establishing an Historic Preservation Ordinance. I saw four of those things become real during my time on the Council or in the years immediately following, and I still believe the Museum of Art move can happen in my lifetime.

While working on those goals, I was also part of establishing better collaboration with the Community of Hope, getting a new MVRDA (911 call center) built, planning a new Animal Services Center, and the establishment of Lynn Middle School as a Community School. In 2019, I believed I could do more for our community as mayor, but my experience since then with the Arts Council has helped me know that a lot can still be accomplished coming at goals from different directions. My sincere hope is that other motivated and inspired individuals will step up to run for elected office.

About 65 years ago, I wanted to be a railroad engineer, an architect, and an author when I grew up. While becoming a railroad engineer was pretty quickly abandoned, all these years later, I find I still want to design homes and write books. The side trips into teaching, politics, and nonprofits have been very constructive and informative, and there may actually be an opportunity for me to teach again on a very limited basis. Nonetheless, I am finally comfortable saying I'm retiring from one last, daily job and focusing my future years on family, architecture, writing, and travel.

Christmas begins way back with the Exodus

Thomas Cahill's popular book The Gift of the Jews brought to public attention a profound truth about Judaism. It is this: the Jews invented the notion of history, and with it came a concept of time as linear, with beginning, middle and end. This invention stemmed from their experience of God as liberator from the clutches of fixed cultures that were caste systems. Egypt is, of course, the poster child for this calcified view of human existence as bound termined to a wheel of repetitious cycles. Israel was the first to get off the wheel.

The scholar Jan Assmann wrote on this in The Invention of Religion. To him, the biblical Book of Exodus is dedicated to the two most important questions humans ask. These are: who is God, and who are we? Exodus proposes interrelated answers to both questions because who we are, according to the narrative, is deby what God has in mind for us. Assmann: "The

Egyptians appear never to have asked them-

Tales from the Cassock selves such questions." Exodus represents a great leap forward in the history of religion. Egypt and its values are rejected, Israel begins a new life in history and time. Coupled with this is a new and different understanding of the Divine that involves interaction, relationship, and covenant. We humans gain a sense of transcen-GABRIEL dence that enables free-ROCHELLE dom rather than slavery, personality rather than automation.

In The Body of Faith, the late Michael Wyschogrod wrote that the Jewish people were the presence of God in history, an incarnational reality not concentrated in one person. The body of faith is, thus, a visible and physical incarnational community extending across human history. In that 1984 book, Wyschogrod lamented that Judaism, perhaps especially in America, had become denigrated by a concentration on rationality to the point where it has been perceived primarily as an ethical monotheism. Judaism is not based on rationalism, however, according to Wyschogrod; it's much more than that. The special relationship of God to Israel means God has chosen Israel as his presence in the world. To use the word most associated with Christianity, God is incarnate in the Jewish people.

This is what the covenant is all about: this is not rational in the normal sense of the word, but it is the meaning of Israel in the world, and it follows from that same foundation in the meaning of the Exodus that Assmann put forth.

The idea that Jesus is the incarnation of God, God come in human flesh, is central to Christian faith. This idea grows from our human experience of the Divine transcendence in the immanence of birth, death, and love. It's a belief that the material world can indeed bear spiritual reality.

That's what the great move represented by the Exodus taught the Hebrews. God is available in human life and in the flow of history. The Christian concept of Incarnation is thus a continuation, in another modality, of Jewish faith.

We must recognize this truth if anti-Judaism is to be overcome in future generations. We do not supersede Judaism; we complement it, and we Christians offer the faith of Israel to the world through another channel.

If you commemorate the birth of Jesus, a thoroughly observant Jewish man, know that that path extends backward to Abraham and Sarah and all those who constituted the Hebrews who came out of Egypt into freedom and who, with others, became the covenant people of Israel. You are walking on a path that extends from Moses forward to the common people of Israel, to the Pharisees and to Mary and Joseph and Jesus and down through time.

City of Las Cruces Utilites: Leaders in Natural Gas & Energy

By C.T. Barnes

Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) is consistently looking for the next innovative idea that will reduce their carbon footprint and the cost of utilities for the Las Cruces community. LCU is currently reducing the amount of natural gas used by mixing it with methane produced at the Jacob Hands Wastewater Treatment Facility.

The Co-Generation Project began March 1, 2019. Since then, it has been successfully capturing methane produced from the sewage treatment process with two co-generators, mixing it with natural gas, and turning it into efficient energy used at the Jacob Hands Wastewater Treatment Facility. LCU had been developing the Co-Generation Project for three years before they opened the facility. They even purchased the generators before all plans had been approved.

With an annual savings of $220,000, this process captures 100% of the methane, which is usually burned off. This process also reduces the plant's electrical import from El Paso Electric by 30% per generator, producing 100% of the digesters' heating needs.

"The process of mixing methane captured by waste and turning it into efficient energy is not LCU giving up on natural gas but finding ways to reduce consumption with a new bi-product," stated LCU Utilities Deputy Director Natural Gas and Energy, Lucio M. Garcia, P.E., CEM.

LCU is the only utilities municipality in the region using this type of technology to produce energy by recycling methane instead of releasing it back into the environment. "We have been finding ways to use solar energy, as well as put in a facility that recycles methane from wastewater long before any law or regulation told us to," LCU Deputy Director Wastewater Laura Montoya pointed out.

The process of recycling methane has significantly reduced utility costs for the Jacob Hands Wastewater Treatment Facility. The facility is even producing its own electricity by using the recycled methane to generate the electricity used to power the plant and properly dispose of the wastewater. "They are only charged for the natural gas they use outside of the methane they are producing from the digester and turning into energy," stated Garcia.

LCU does not just focus on natural gas as a line of business, but energy as whole. This project is part of a diversified portfolio LCU is building for the betterment of the Las Cruces community.

The next project LCU is looking into is a community solar application that will bring solar energy to low-to-moderate income customers. This will involve installing a solar facility to create affordable and renewable energy for those who may not have the means to buy solar panels themselves. LCU is partnering with New Mexico State University (NMSU) engineering programs to help develop future projects.

Aggies bowl over Bowling Green in bowl game

NMSU REPORT

Quick Lane Bowl Champions. The only undefeated FBS program in bowl games stays undefeated as NM State took down Bowling Green 24-19 in a thrilling Quick Lane Bowl in Detroit

While the Aggies enjoyed a celebration after the game, Coach Jerry Kill said he cannot wait to continue to success of the NM State football program.

"Oh, we're going to continue to improve," Kill said. "There's no doubt about that. We'll continue to get better, but it's a whole different team next year, and a whole different – can they have the same type of culture? Can they have the same – what this team had? You just don't know, but I said it'd take three or four years to get where we want. That's the same thing I'll say right now. This has stepped way ahead, but at the same time, it's not way ahead either. There's a lot of chinks in the armor that have to be fixed, and we're going into Conference USA, which we're very excited about. To get into a conference – this should help us. Conference USA should feel a lot better about New Mexico State right now coming into the conference, which I think is very

COACH KILL

For the first time this season, the Aggies held an FBS opponent scoreless in the opening half. Linebacker Trevor Brohard swung momentum in NM State's favor with an interception on Bowling Green's opening drive. In his final game, the pick was Brohard's first of his tremendous five-year career.

NM State received help from a pair of missed field goals from Bowling Green in the first half. The Falcons missed from 51 and 41 yards, leaving six points on the score-Quarterback Diego Pavia was successful through the air in the first half, completing 11 of 18 pass attempts with two touchdowns sprinkled in. Pavia opened the scoring when he found Star Thomas at the 9:39 mark of the first quarter for a 15-yard touchdown. Pavia went on to win Most Valuable Player honors from the Quick Lane Bowl. The Albuquerque native finished the game with 167 passings yards and a pair of touchdowns, adding 65 rushing yards as well.

What do all these golf cliches really mean?

Golf Doctor

Don't you just love a cliché? These are clever little sayings you'll hear around any golf course the old "saws" people have heard for ages. You know, things like, "drive for show and putt for dough," and "never up, never in."

Lately I've been hearing more "mental" sayings. Perhaps it's because the big-name guys up in the TV booth have just about run out of anything new with swing analysis, and are now thinking of new material. So I thought I would explore some common mental cliches and take a closer look at what they're really saying.

My favorite is, "It's all in your head." This probably started when folks felt sick but had no obvious physical signs or symptoms to prove their illness, and some they may be malingering. I used to hear this self-statement at our golf schools some years ago when a high-handicapper would turn to me and say, "You know, my biggest problem is it's all in my head." I had to fight back the urge to reply bluntly, "No, it's mostly because you don't know how to make a correct swing and can't get the ball airborne." We would then proceed to help him fix that.

"I was thinking too much" is one cliché I hear a lot. This is mostly a nervous reaction to a badly missed shot. What is really going on is something like, "I knew I was between clubs, and I failed to quickly estimate the factors, make a decision and commit to it." As I size up golfers, both chops and sticks. I don't see the problem as thinking too much, or too little for that matter. I see golfers thinking at the wrong time. Most inexperienced golfers don't take the trouble to quickly think through the shot and rapidly consider choices before making the right one. All golfers occasionally make the mistake of allowing the brain cortex to actually try to operate (think) during the golf swing, which is practically impossible in reality, insofar as being able to transfer a thought into some practical or useful physical motion. This can be disastrous, especially when the mind is already pre-occupied with fear and doubt. Thinking anything immediately before or during the swing would be precisely the worst time to do anything except move your body gracefully. We must understand that the "think zone" is well behind the ball as we prepare for the shot itself. Once we step forward and address the golf ball we have entered the "play zone" and all thinking must end so that we can just react and swing.

Almost every time a pro or a parent of a young golfer sent me someone to work with in my role as performance coach they often would say "he's a head case." Today they usually don't say "mental case" because they feel that would be too demeaning. The parent might add, "He just needs to get out of his own way," whatever that means. They can't quite put their finger on exactly what the kid's trouble is but it goes something like this: "This kid's got loads of talent, and hits the ball a mile and putts great, but he can't seem to score." After hearing this many times I learned to decode a junior golfer's "head case" as a good golfer who is probably a perfectionist, an emotional volcano, a rapid-cycling thinker, and completely undisciplined when it comes to selfanalyzing his own game. And, ah, a perfect student for coaching.

I just adore hearing "even a blind squirrel (or blind pig) finds an acorn once in a while," especially after Mr. Average pulls off and absolutely brilliant play, like sticking a five iron from 175 yards to three feet. I respect selfeffacing humor, but what Mr. Average doesn't realize is that all the ability, focus, planning, positive karma and shotmaking that went into the successful result were his and his alone, assuming the ball didn't bounce off a ball washer.

Finally, all I can do is cliché you this: use the six inches between your ears, because it's just mind over matter. So don't be a mental midget, get out of your own way, get in the game, and above all, when the chips are down and it's crunch time, just don't choke.

NMSU football 2022

BULLETIN REPORT

Thirteen months ago, when New Mexico State University Athletic Director announced the hiring of new head football coach Jerry Kill, on Nov. 29, 2021, not even the most diehard Aggie fan would have predicted the team would be hoisting a bowl championship trophy this season.

Yet here they are, the 2022 Quick Lane Bowl champions.

Kill had a reputation for rebuilding programs, but he also had a history of health issues. Kill forged ahead, assembling a quality coaching staff.

On Jan. 7, 2022, the Aggies made their first player move and brought in a transfer, running back Ahmonte Watkins, who came from TCU, where Kill had been the interim head coach. As it turned out, Watkins was NMSU's leading rusher in the bowl game.

By making the bowl game, NMSU became one of only nine schools in the nation to make the NCAA tournaments in basketball, baseball and women's soccer as well as make a bowl game. The other schools were Arkansas, LSU, North Carolina, Notre Dame, TCU, Tennessee, Texas, UCLA, and UConn. We'll know next week how many of those teams actually won their bowl game.

QUICK LANE BOWL GAME NOTES

-NM State remains undefeated in bowl games, moving to 4-0-1.

-The Aggies are the only FBS team to have never lost a bowl game.

-Jerry Kill picked up his first win as a head coach in a bowl game

-Trevor Brohard picked up his first career interception in his final collegiate game

-Chris Ojoh led NM State with seven tackles and a forced fumble

-Ahmonte Watkins rushed for 76 yards to lead all Aggies.

-Diego Pavia won the Quick Lane Bowl Most Valuable Player honors, throwing for 167 yards and rushing for 65 more.

-Monday's contest was the first ever meeting between NM State and Bowling Green.
