COUNTY COMMISSION DISTRICTS Doña Ana County, NM

NEW COUNTY COMMISSION DISTRICT BOUNDARIES EFFECTIVE JAN. 1

The Doña Ana County Board of Commissioners in New Mexico approved the Concept F redistricting map for commission district boundaries on November 23, 2021. The new map went into effect on January 1, 2023 and was authorized by County Resolution 2021-123. Redistricting is done every ten years to adjust voting districts according to population shifts, with the goal of having each district's population as equal as possible within +/- 5%. The U.S. Census Bureau data revealed that County Commission District 4 had the largest population growth over the last decade.

County residents may use this link to the County GIS website to verify their districts at bit.ly/3w8rskD.

'This is power': Cotton says to MLK audience

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

"I wasn't always Sgt. Jamar Cotton. I wasn't always an Aggie football player. I was that little black boy who didn't have a choice," Jamar Cotton told the Doña Ana County NAACP's Martin Luther King Jr. breakfast Monday morning, Jan. 16.

Cotton, a sergeant with the Doña Ana County Sheriff's Department, spoke to an overflow crowd at the Las Cruces Convention Center that included Mayor Ken Miyagishima, Mayor Pro Tempore Kasandra Gandara and City Councilors Yvonne Flores and Johana Bencomo; City Manager Ifo Pili and Assistant City Manager Ikani Taumoepeau; County Manager Fernando Macias, County Commissioner Manuel Sanchez and County Sheriff Kim Stewart; Third Judicial District Attorney Gerald Byers and District Judge Robert Lara; New Mexico State University Vice President for Inclusion and Diversity Teresa Maria Linda Scholz, Associate Provost for Student Success Patrick Turner and Head Football Coach Jerry Kill and members of the Aggie football team; Las Cruces Public Schools Superintendent Ralph Ramos and LCPS Board of Education President Teresa Tenorio; Temple Beth-El Rabbi Evette Lutman; Las Cruces icon Barbara Hubbard; Las Cruces Symphony Orchestra Director Emeritus Lonnie Klein; and long-time educator and storyteller Dorris Hamilton; among others.

"Today is the day," Cotton said, with the audience echoing his words. "I can and I will be the difference. This is the power."

The world today is "lacking in mentors and teachers," Cotton said. So many people "need somebody to talk to them; need somebody to listen to them," he said. For Cotton, the person "who believed in me" was his Irvington (New Jersey) High School track coach, Martin Hawkins.

"This man told me I could be a champion,"

COTTON

Cotton said. "I laughed at him."

But Hawkins got Cotton into track, he said, where, by his senior year, he had become ranked in the top 15 nationally.

Cotton came to NMSU on a football scholarship and was an Aggie line-backer, 2006-10. He joined the sheriff's department in 2010 and is today third vice president of the DAC NAACP and youth president of the New Mexico Martin Luther King Jr. State Commission Ambassador Program.

Citing issues that were important to King, Cotton said "Change is needed," as are love, compassion and understanding; "justice for all, not some"; and equality – "We're still fighting that battle," he said.

"Silence is a big issue," Cotton said. "We're too quiet. We fail to speak up. This community doesn't get better with you being quiet."

Cotton closed with this quote from King: "If you can't fly then run, if you can't run then walk, if you can't walk then crawl, but whatever you do you have to keep moving forward."

Legislators get public input

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

"Keep doing the work that you're doing," Las Cruces Public Schools Superintendent Ralph Ramos told three Doña Ana County legislators during at Jan. 12 public meeting at Las Cruces City Hall.

Ramos was one of nearly a dozen people who spoke at the meeting hosted by state Sens. Jeff Steinborn and Bill Soules and state Rep. Angelica Rubio, all D-Doña Ana.

Others speaking included Las Cruces psychologist and former Doña Ana County Manager Al Galves, FYI+ Executive Officer Brian Kavanaugh, Hidalgo County Commissioner Kelly Peterson, former Doña Ana County Probate Judge Diana Bustamante, bicycle activist George Pearson and Yoli Diaz, founder of Cancer Aid Resource and Education, Inc. (CARE) of Las Cruces.

Also attending were Mayor Pro Tempore Kasandra Gandara, City Councilors Johana Bencomo and Tessa Abeyta, Las Cruces International Airport Administrator Andy Hume and New Mexico State University Creative Media Institute professor Ross Marks.

Topics raised by participants included public housing; accessibility for bicyclists, pedestrians and the disabled; banning plastic bags statewide; the need for additional senior citizens centers and healthcare access in Hidalgo County; housing for homeless youth; locating a group home in Las Cruces for people suffering with schizophrenia; cannabis; supporting public education; access to cancer treatment in Las Cruces for people who do not have health insurance; and unemployment benefits and medical leave.

Steinborn said the legislature will have about $3.5 billion in new funding during the 2023 legislative session.

He said the state has about 40 percent of its budget in reserve funds. Much of the surplus is do to a boom in the oil and gas industry that is likely to "last a few more years," Steinborn said. But, he said, energy development is moving away from fossil fuels and "it is essential that we diversity our economy. We need to plan for the future," Steinborn said.

With an eye toward the future, Soules said one of the bills he will introduce during the 2023 session will be to begin high-speed rail service between Chihuahua, Mexico, and Denver, Colorado, running the entire length of New Mexico.

"We need to be looking up and out to what the future could be," he said.

Soules, chair of the state Senate Education Committee, said he will support additional salary increases for New Mexico teachers and for other school staff, including educational assistants, custodians and cafeteria workers. He also will support additional teacher preparation programs, revised graduation requirements and more funding for career and technical education.

Soules said he will introduce bills to ban assault weapon sales in New Mexico, ban high-capacity gun magazines and appropriate $2 million for an assault-weapon buyback program.

"Assault weapons are designed to kill people and we've got to get them off the streets," Soules said.

Steinborn said the bills he plans to introduce this year include increasing the incentive to film movies in New Mexico outside Bernalillo and Santa Fe counties from five to 10 percent, establishing a new Creative Industries Division within the New Mexico Economic Development Department, funding a feasibility study to create a new

U.S. Sen. Lujan visits southern New Mexico

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

U.S. Sen. Ben Ray Lujan, D-N.M., visited the Las Cruces Fire Department (LCFD) Jan. 10 to announce more than $1 million in federal allocations to support crisis response and improve behavioral health services in Las Cruces.

LCFD's Mobile Integrated Health (MIH) is "a program I'm really excited about," Lujan told Las Cruces Fire Chief Jason Smith, firefighters, social workers and the media as he got an update on the program from Smith and MIH Coordinator Paul Ford.

Lujan, who suffered a stroke at his Nambe, New Mexico, home in January 2022, said the emergency services he received in route to a hospital in Santa Fe "saved my life. You do that every day," he told the Las Cruces firefighters and EMTs.

"The work they did on me (in the mobile unit) is part of the reason I'm here today," Lujan said.

Ford told Lujan LCFD responded to 22,850 calls for service in 2022. Less than one percent of those calls (211) were for fires; more than 62 percent (14,293) were for medical issues, including non-emergency transport, 1,263 "lift assists" (helping people in and out of bed, etc.) and 1,251 calls to assist people who had fallen.

Ford said MIH was created in 2016 to deal with the high volume of 911 calls LCFD was receiving from a small number of people who needed assistance with non-emergency issues but did not have access to other healthcare services.

LCFD MIH now has 10 employees, including two full-time firefighter/paramedics, three social workers, a case manager and a data analyst, he said. It includes the Opiate Overdose Outreach (OOO) program and Operation BlueBird, which pairs Las Cruces police officers with MIH paramedics and social workers "to follow up on behavioral health referrals."

"That personal touch; that's what it's all about," said Las Cruces City Councilor Johana Bencomo, who participated in the Jan. 10 meeting.

"It's pretty incredible. I'm very excited to continue our partnership," said Families and Youth Innovations Plus (FYI+) Senior Clinical Director Lisa Chavez.

Chavez said FYI will expand its MOU with the MIH program. FYI+ Executive Officer Brian Kavanaugh also attended the meeting.

"It's amazing how much trust the community has in the Las Cruces Fire Department," said social worker Allison Stoner, who joined MIH in 2021.

Ford said more than three-quarters of the people MIH serves are senior citizens with mobility issues who cannot afford the caregiver services they need, and people over age 55 who have a mobility-related disability. Most are in poverty, he said.

Ford said more than one-third of MIH calls are for mobility-related issues, more than one-quarter are for mental health issues, 11 percent are dementia related, nine percent are housing vulnerable/homeless related and four percent are substance-abuse related.

MIH had 1,629 referrals from the fall of 2016 when it was created to Jan. 1, 2023, including 505 referrals in 2022. The program had 170 "graduates," including 33 in 2022, Ford said.

Graduates refer to clients who are "the most complicated, at-risk people" and have had "good health outcomes" as a result of MIH service, he said.

"We're very proud of these numbers," Ford said.

Ford said MIH will launch Project LIGHT (Lessen the Incidence of workers dispatched to deal with behavioral health issues, suicide attempts and ideations, overdoses, welfare checks and CPRs in progress.

Operation BlueBird will continue to operate alongside Project LIGHT, Ford said, so MIH can collaborate with the police department on behavioral health referrals. He said OOO will transition to a "Narcan leave behind program" as part of the Project LIGHT response model.

MIH and programs like it "need more people on the ground providing services," Lujan said.

Other visits

During his visit to southern New Mexico,

Lujan also visited students and staff at Booker T. Washington Elementary School in Las Cruces to talk about the federal government's investment in early childhood education programs.

He was at New Mexico State University Jan. 11 "to highlight $5.8 million secured for multiple projects" that involve NMSU, including agriculture and research, Lujan's office said in a news release.

Lujan visited the New Mexico State Veterans Home in Truth or Consequences Jan. 12, and also visited Hatch Valley Public Schools "to celebrate the $200,000 funding secured to construct an animal science facility," his office said.

We love the dream, but don't forget King's reality

Imagine going with some friends to a local restaurant. You've checked in and are waiting for your table.

Another group walks up to put their name on the list, and the host says to them flatly: "We don't serve your kind here. If you want, you can call in a to-go order and pick it up at the window when it's ready."

Your first thought would be disbelief. "Wait, did I just see what I saw?"

Your second thought would probably be anger.

Yet there was a time in this country (and many other countries), where this was so commonplace no one would have batted an eye. That type of discrimination was deeply ingrained, established and tolerated.

And that time was not so long ago.

Even though the United States Supreme Court found segregated schools unconstitutional in 1954, there were many states still practicing segregation into the 1980s. For some states, the response to the 1954 ruling was to attempt ending state-supported public schools. Many segregationists would rather have had no schools at all than to have their white children go to school with African-Americans.

In South Africa, racial apartheid didn't officially end until

These types of discrimination across human history have been based on skin color, economic class, religion, gender, age, ethnicity, language. You name it. If there is a human trait – physical, mental, emotional or social – you can bet there are some humans who don't like it.

We sometimes like to think New Mexico is somehow different. Yes, we have, as the pledge to our state flag includes "friendship among united cultures."

We are also a state that has seen brutal treatment against and within those cultures.

In museums, I've seen a number of signs that once hung in New Mexico bars and restaurants bearing messages such as this: "No Indians, Mexicans or dogs."

As I write this in the wake of the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday, we are more than a half century beyond Dr. King's death. Most living Americans don't have a recollection of King even being alive. And this makes it easier for people to misuse and misinterpret his memory.

There are efforts to flip the story, and if you bring up the idea racism exists, YOU are somehow racist. I've heard people twist Dr. King's words about being judged by the content of one's character, not by the color of skin. Yes, that was his dream. For him it was a conceivable dream, but a far,

City makes pitch for switch to electric

Did they ever pry that gun away from Charleton Heston, or did they just bury him with it?

Inspired by Heston, U.S. Rep. Ronny Jackson, R-Texas, made a similar vow last week, though it will be tougher to bury him with the object of his devotion.

"If the maniacs in the White House come for my stove, they can pry it from my cold, dead hands," he declared. I assume he'll die with oven mitts on?

The freakout following a suggestion by a member of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission that a ban on gas stoves could be under consideration comes at the same time the city of Las Cruces is sponsoring a big event at the Convention Center trying to convince residents to switch from gas to electric, and not just with stoves.

The PowerUP Las Cruces Expo and Training will be held

Friday and Saturday, and is intended to persuade us to change from gas (or, as they put it, "fossil fuel appliances and/or vehicles") to electric.

Why should the city get involved in the free-market competition between those selling gas appliances and those selling electric? Lots of honest small businesspeople in our community make a living selling and servicing gas furnaces and water heaters.

The answer is the impact on both our personal health and the environment. We've long known about the adverse consequences of gas-powered vehicles, but the notion that furnaces, water heaters and, yes, even stoves should be seen in the same light is fairly new.

A 2022 study found that nearly 13 percent of childhood asthma cases in the U.S. can be attributed to exposure to nitrogen dioxide released during cooking with a gas stove. Other toxic pollutants released into our homes by cooking with gas or propane stoves include carbon monoxide and formaldehyde, according to an article by Professor of Environmental Health Jonathan Levy.

While the federal government is still a long way away from coming after Rep. Jackson's stove, states and local governments are moving more quickly. California will ban the sale of natural-gas appliances starting in 2030.

I understand the health and environmental arguments behind that decision, but still think it's the wrong approach. Education is the answer. Once people understand the dangers, most will want to keep their families safe. I hope this week's expo will help people make better-informed decisions.

But, for those who think a steak isn't the same when cooked on an electric grill, I get it. As long as we know the risks, we should all be able to weigh those against the rewards and make our own decisions.

New Mexico needs a modernized legislature

As the 2023 session of the New Mexico legislature begins, actions to “modernize” the state’s lawmaking body will likely be considered. Discussions about modernization occur in the context of a state whose population has grown by a factor of more than six since statehood, giving individual members of the House and Senate constituencies of 30,000 and 50,000 respectively.

Additionally, New Mexico remains geographically large and demographically diverse. The legislature needs to address complex challenges, including poverty, economic diversification, disposal of nuclear waste and limited access to health care and internet services.

The League of Women Voters and other civic organizations support lengthening the sessions, hiring permanent year-round staff, and creating salaries for members.

Currently, New Mexico’s sessions are among the three shortest in the country (alternating between 60 days in odd-numbered years and 30 days in even-numbered years). The scope of the short session is limited to the budget and topics specified by the governor.

Proposed changes involve expanding, at least the short session, to allow more time for bills to be studied and debated with consideration of a greater range of topics. Hopefully, a longer session would also discourage delaying tactics of “running out the clock,” leaving bills to die at the end of the session.

Now the legislature’s work is supported by a permanent staff of about 168 (about 1.5 per legislator) and most legislators do not have dedicated staff. Having access to more staff throughout the year would assist legislators in researching and analyzing bills. Staff can also aid in providing improved oversight of executive agencies. Having more staff would also decrease legislators’ reliance on paid lobbyists for information on bills and would better serve constituents.

A third area of modernization involves paying legislative salaries, as is done in the other 49 states.

New Mexico legislators do receive mileage and per-diem payments to attend sessions and interim committee meetings, but lack of salary seriously limits the ability of a large part of the population to serve in the Roundhouse. Those financially most able to serve are retired (with various kinds of pensions), independently wealthy, or self-employed in businesses that can be more easily combined with legislative work. Younger people, essential workers, those with young children, and those with full-time jobs find service in the legislature to be far more difficult. If there is a decision to pay salaries, the level of salary can be set in a variety of ways, including by an independent body. Rep. Angelica Rubio (a Democrat from District 35 in Las Cruces) and others plan to introduce a bill creating a legislative salary commission.

If the legislature approves changes in the length of sessions and legislative compensation, those issues will be put before the voters as constitutional amendments. Increased staffing may be approved by the legislature. A modernized legislature would enhance the capacity of the legislators to perform their role in the policy-making process.

The League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico encourages you to contact your legislators to support bills that improve fairness to legislators and the functioning of the legislative body.

Community celebration of Aggies set for Saturday

NMSU PHOTO

On the Plaza de Las Cruces noon-1 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 21, the City of Las Cruces and the NMSU Athletic Department host a celebration of the Aggies' bowl victory.

BULLETIN REPORT

The New Mexico State University Athletic Department and City of Las Cruces have collaborated to celebrate NMSU's football team, the 2022 Quick Lane Bowl champions.

The community event will be Downtown at Plaza de Las Cruces from noon to 1 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 21.

The event will kick off with a downtown edition of the traditional Aggie Walk. The Aggie gameday staple will begin at City Hall and head down Main Street, beginning at noon. The team will be joined by the

New Mexico State Pride Band, Sun Dancers, cheer squad and Pistol Pete. The special edition of the Aggie Walk will conclude at Plaza de Las Cruces, where there will be vendors, special performances, and speeches to commemorate the Aggies' first bowl win of the Jerry Kill era, the 24-19 victory over Bowling Green in December.

Dignitaries from the City of Las Cruces and NMSU will speak, including Las Cruces Mayor Ken Miyagishima; NM State Chancellor Dan Arvizu; NM State Director of Athletics

Mario Moccia; Coach Kill; and a representative from the Quick Lane Bowl.

There will be a free autograph session following the main program and limited-edition Quick Lane Bowl championship posters will be available. Fans will also have an opportunity take photos with the Quick Lane Bowl Trophy in the plaza.

The event is free and open to the public. Fans are encouraged to arrive early to take in the Farmers & Crafts Market of Las Cruces, which runs 8:30 a.m.- 1 p.m. Saturdays.

LCU Annual Survey Results and Looking Forward

By Cassie McClure

Surveys are the way for LCU to know what you know about its services. Keep your eye on your mail for the physical copy to fill out, or, how to go online and fill it out when the next survey is released this year.

For Las Cruces Utilities (LCU), feedback from customers is invaluable. It gives direction to the LCU Board of Commissioners. It allows LCU to know if customers know about services included with their connections, like when the monthly grapppler arrives or if clear bags are key to yard waste disposal.

“Due to COVID, we haven’t conducted a survey since 2019,” said LCU Senior Office Manager Alma Ruiz. “But based on the 2018 survey that we did, we were asked to identify any goals in our Strategic Business Plan that we could then add to our survey, which we did beginning in 2019, and we have carried those on to 2022 as well.”

The survey was both in English and Spanish and had 12 questions. LCU had a booth at the downtown Farmer’s Market, an online SurveyMonkey option, and sent the survey to customers as an insert to their physical and electronic bills.

There were 843 responses, which was only about 2 percent of customers.

“An astounding 97 percent knew what not to throw down their drains, which outsourced the 2019 record of 84 percent and beat the goal of 85 percent,” said Ruiz. “But 47 percent of our customers do not know to call 811 before digging in their yard, and that this is a free service where our Utility locators then go out to mark the lines.”

Other questions asked about LCU services and environmental stewardship including showing that over 60 percent of respondents felt confident or very confident that LCU processed wastewater safely recycled back into the environment, the same percentage as in 2019 and past years.

For possible gas leaks, early 70 percent of respondents knew to either call LCU Dispatch at (575) 526-0500 or 911.

“It’s fine to call 911 because the smell of sulfur can be worrying; however, our Dispatch is just as responsive to a gas emergency 24/7,” said LCU Deputy Director Natural Gas and Energy Lucio Garcia.

The last question was about UtilityHawk, which allows customers to monitor their gas and water usage. Unfortunately, 65 percent had never heard of it, and 24 percent weren’t interested. “This gives us the opportunity to educate the public more about the new, free tools they have available as part of their accounts,” said Ruiz.

LCU – Your Utility Connection. Customer Central can be reached at 575-541-2111 from 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. LCU provides clean, safe, and reliable services to Las Cruces residents and businesses. Learn more at: las-cruces.org/180/Utilities. For emergencies, call Dispatch at 575-526-0500.

ing the opening of a high-level nuclear waste storage facility in southeast New Mexico.

“I really want to see the federal government do their job,” Steinborn said, and come up with “a permanent solution” to the storage of high-level nuclear waste.

Rubio said she will focus on housing, economic diversification and modernizing the legislature in 2023.

“We lack housing,” Rubio said. “So many people are unhoused.”

As the state moves away from oil and gas production, it “must make sure” workers in those industries “are taken care of for years to come,” she said.

Rubio said she is one of nine legislators who will push to create a commission to set a base salary for New Mexico legislators. She also will support replacing the legislature’s 30-day budget session in even-numbered years. Rubio said providing paid staff for legislators is also “really important.”

The Jan. 12 meeting was one of eight community meetings Steinborn, Soules, Rubio and state Sens. Crystal Diamond, R-Sierra, Luna, Hidalgo, Doña Ana; and Carrie Hamblen, D-Doña Ana; and state Reps. Nathan Small, D-Doña Ana, and Tara Jaramillo, D-Socorro, Sierra, Doña Ana; held in Las Cruces, Doña Ana, Organ, Radium Springs and Hatch Jan. 9-14 as they prepared for the New Mexico legislative session that began Jan. 17.

Air service returns to Las Cruces

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

"This is a really great and exciting time," Mayor Ken Miyagishima said Tuesday morning, Jan. 10, as the City of Las Cruces welcomed Advanced Airlines President Levi Stockton and cut the ribbon to celebrate the return of commercial air service to Las Cruces International Airport.

"It's such a huge moment," said City Councilor Johana Bencomo, whose district includes the airport.

"It's really exciting to be here," Stockton said.

"Welcome to our family," Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce (GLCCC) President and CEO Debbi Moore said to Stockton.

The daily flights between Las Cruces and Albuquerque "are going to bring economic prosperity to our city," said Mayor Pro Tempore Kasandra Gandara. "This takes us to a different level," she said, for transportation, jobs, education and attracting more businesses and industry to Las Cruces.

Also attending the ribbon cutting were Las Cruces City Councilors Becky Graham and Tessa Abeyta, City Manager Ifo Pili and

Assistant City Manager Ikani Taumoepeau, state Sen. Bill Soules (a licensed pilot), D-Doña Ana, representatives of the offices of U.S. Sen. Ben Ray Lujan and U.S. Rep. Gabe Vasquez, both D-N.M., and New Mexico Department of Transportation (NMDOT) Aviation Director Pedro Rael and Planner Marilu Melendez, along with GLCCC Ambassadors.

Advanced Air began commercial air service operations in Las Cruces Jan. 16, the city said. The last time commercial air service was available in Las Cruces was 2005.

Advanced Air provides air service between Silver City and Albuquerque, between Silver City and Phoenix and between Gallup and Phoenix, the city said.

Advanced Air primarily utilizes the Beechcraft Super King Air 350 for its fleet, the news release said. The twin-engine aircraft has a capacity of nine passengers.

The two-year contract for Las Cruces air service has a total budget of $3,850,000, including $1.75 million each year from NMDOT's rural air service enhancement grant.

Small now heads appropriations committee

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

State Rep. Nathan Small, a Las Cruces Democrat, is the new chair of the powerful Appropriations and Finance Committee in the New Mexico House of Representatives.

Small was named chair Jan. 17, as the legislature convened in Santa Fe. He replaces Patricia Lundstrom.

As chair, Small will guide passage of the largest budget in state history, estimated to be about $12 billion, an increase of more than 40 percent from last year's budget.

Small was elected to represent House District 36, which is located entirely in Doña Ana County.

Other Doña Ana County state representatives and senators also have committee assignments. In the House, State Rep. Michaela Lara Cadena is vice chair of the House Taxation and Revenue Committee; Rep. Joanne Ferrary is chair of Consumer and Public Affairs; Rep. Doreen Gallegos is chair of Commerce and Economic Development; Rep. Ray Lara is chair of the House Democratic Caucus and, along with Rep. Willie Madrid, is a member of the House Education Committee; Rep. Angelica Rubio is vice chair of Consumer and Public Affairs. State Rep. Tara Jaramillo (Socorro, Sierra, Doña Ana), first elected last November, is a member of the House Appropriations and Finance Committee; Rep. Jenifer Jones (Luna, Hidalgo, Doña Ana), also first elected in November, is a member of the House

Health and Human Services and the Transportation, Public Works and Capital Improvements committees.

State Sen. Joseph Cervantes is chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee; Sen. Bill Soules is chair of Senate Education and the interim Legislative Education Study Committee; Sen. Jeff Steinborn is chair of the interim Radioactive and Hazardous Materials Committee and a member of Senate Finance; Sen. Carrie Hamblen is vice chair of Tax, Business and Transportation; Sen. Ron Griggs (Otero, Doña Ana) is ranking member of Indian, Rural and Cultural Affairs; state Sen. Crystal Diamond (Sierra, Luna, Hidalgo, Doña Ana) is a member of Senate Finance.

Incentive program helps support jobs

BULLETIN REPORT

The NMBorderplex Incentive Program created by the Community Foundation of Southern New Mexico (CFSNM) and the Mesilla Valley Economic Development Alliance (MVEDA) committed $530,000 to six companies in 2022 that will create 937 new economic-base jobs and more than $105 in new capital investments in Doña Ana County, MVEDA said in a news release.

Recipients of the incentive include Artico Cold Storage, Electronic Caregiver, BitWise Industries, Worthington Farms and two additional companies that will be formally announced in the coming months, the news release said.

The incentive program is a post-performance, economic-based, job-creation grant managed by MVEDA with financial assistance from the New Mexico Economic Development Fund (NMEDF), a multipurpose economic development initiative administered by CFSNM, MVEDA said.

"It is estimated the economic impacts of these investments in 2022 will lead to over $126 million in new household spending and an overall economic impact of $461 million to the region over the next five years," MVEDA said.

To date, in its first two years of existence, the incentive program has provided financial commitments of $805,000 across nine projects in the region, assisting in the creation of more than 1,400 new economic-based jobs, the news release said.

NMEDF was established by El Paso Electric to provide $1 million per year for 20 years in support of private businesses, projects and organizations that make or will make a measurable difference in achieving economic growth and development and creating new quality jobs within El Paso Electric's New Mexico service area.

For more information about the fund, visit www.communityfoundation-of-southernnewmexico.org. For more information about the NMBorderplex Incentive Program, visit www.mveda.com.

"Movie: True Things"

Stellar performances from Ruth Wilson ("The Affair") and Tom Burke ("Mank") elevate director Harry Woodliff's ("Only You") psychological drama about a young woman whose quiet existence is overwhelmed when she plunges headlong into a physical relationship with an ex-convict with dyed blond hair. Hayley Squires, Elizabeth Rider and Frank McCusker also star.

"How I Met Your Father"

The adventures of Sophie (Hilary Duff) and her close-knit circle of New York friends continue in this comedy series told from the perspective of a woman in the near future recalling to her son how she met his father. Christopher Lowell, Francia Raisa, Tom Ainsley, Tien Tran and Suraj Sharma head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

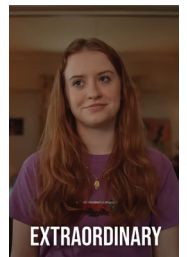

"The 1619 Project"

Created by Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Nikole Hannah-Jones and The New York Times Magazine, this six-episode limited series seeks to reframe the country's history by placing the consequences of slavery and the contributions of Black Americans at the center of the national narrative. (ORIGINAL)

"Extraordinary"

From debuting writer Emma Moran and the creative forces behind "Killing Eve" comes this British comedy set in a world where everyone acquires a superpower on their 18th birthday — that is, everyone but Jen (Mairead Tyers, "Belfast"), who struggles to figure out exactly what hers is. Siobhan McSweeney, Robbie Gee and Sofia Oxenham also star. (ORIGINAL)

What's Available NOW On

"Mila in the Multiverse" (Jan. 25)

From Brazil comes this adventure comedy for the younger set that follows 16-year-old Mila (Laura Luz, "Milagro y magia") as she travels among parallel universes looking for her missing mother, who herself is being hunted by a mysterious and dangerous group. Rafaela Mandelli, Malu Mader and Danilo de Moura also star.

"Hacking the System" (Jan. 25)

From National Geographic comes this unscripted series in which magician Brian Brushwood ("Scam School") and his co-host Jason Murphy show the methods by which criminals commit various offenses and demonstrate useful tips and tricks to help avoid them. They also share legal tips and tricks to get ahead in life — one hack at a time.

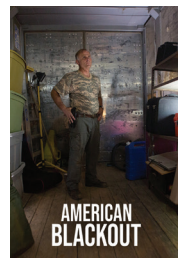

"Challenger Disaster: Lost Tapes" (Jan. 27)

This 2016 documentary from National Geographic and writer/director Tom Jennings ("Apollo: Missions to the Moon") follows the story of the Space Shuttle Challenger and its crew, specifically Christa McAuliffe, the first civilian to be launched into space, and the events leading up to the disaster on Jan. 28, 1986.

"American Blackout" (Jan. 27)

We've all experienced neighborhood or regional power failures, but what would happen if the entire country lost its electricity? That's the premise of this special from National Geographic, in which dramatizations tell five different stories of people caught in a blackout, including a group of students stuck in an elevator and a mother who's about to give birth.

tonight's picks

Celina Sinden

11:28 a.m. on STARZ
Movie: 2 Minutes of Fame

Former "Saturday Night Live" featured player Jay Pharoah received warm praise from critics for his performance in Leslie Small's low-budget 2020 comedy, which casts him as Deandre McDonald, an aspiring stand-up comic in Alabama. Deandre unexpectedly goes viral on social media after he posts a video ridiculing another Black comic, superstar Marques (Katt Williams). Keke Palmer ("Star") co-stars as Deandre's long-suffering girlfriend; Andy Allo (the Prime Video streaming comedy "Upload") and Kimrie Lewis ("Kenan") also are featured.

12 p.m. on KVIA
College Basketball

A rivalry that dates back 100 years gets another chapter today in Tucson as the Arizona Wildcats welcome in Pac-12 foes in the UCLA Bruins. The ninth-ranked Wildcats are led by a pair of budding stars in junior guard Kerr Kriisa and junior forward Azuolas Tubelis. Meanwhile, the No. 16 Bruins also have a stellar tandem in guard/forward Jaime Jaquez Jr. and point guard Tyger Campbell. This is the first meeting between these teams this year.

6 p.m. on HALL
Movie: The Wedding Veil Journey

Tracy (Alison Sweeney) is now head of the auction house and Nick's (Victor Webster) restaurant is such a success, he's looking at expanding. But their success comes at a cost, as it gives them little time to see each other. They agree to make time for their long overdue honeymoon and head to Greece. When a travel delay costs the couple their hotel room, they get the opportunity to stay on a remote island nearby in this 2023 romantic comedy.

6 p.m. on LIFE
Movie: Bad Behind Bars: Jodi Arias

Jodi Arias (Celina Sinden) has just been arrested and sent to prison while she awaits trial for murdering her boyfriend. In jail she befriends a couple, Donovan Bering (Tricia Black) and Tracy Brown (Lynn Rafferty) who will do anything and everything Jodi asks — even letting the murderess tattoo her name on one of them. When Donovan is released, she agrees to be Jodi's mouthpiece. But when the details of the case and Jodi's story were no longer adding up, Jodi's vengeful side emerges in this 2023 docudrama.

6 p.m. on OWN
Love & Marriage: DC

The Season 2 premiere introduces a new power couple to the group: Joi Carter and Clifton Pettie, who became instantly smitten on the Potomac iteration of OWN's "Ready to Love" series and were recently engaged. The series also continues to follow early empty-nesters Erana and Jamie Tyler, and author-entrepreneur Ashley Silva and her husband, on-air personality DJ Quicksilver. Viewers can also stay tuned for more of the group's friend, Winter Williams, who came into the circle like a blizzard last season.

9 p.m. on HBO
Movie: Cold Pursuit

Norwegian director Hans Petter Moland made his Hollywood debut with this 2019 thriller, which stars Liam Neeson as Colorado snowplow driver Nels Coxman, whose tranquil life is shattered when his son dies of a forced heroin overdose. His wife (Laura Dern) suffers a psychotic break and leaves Nels, who is on the brink of suicide himself when he learns the identities of the drug cartel who killed his son. He embarks on a mission of revenge. Tom Bateman, Tom Jackson and Emmy Rossum also star.

tonight's picks

Jon Barinholtz

6 p.m. on DSC
Bering Sea Gold

Catch a wave and you're sittin' on top of the world. But in the Bering Sea, you might prefer something a little less terrifying. Shawn and Vernon embark on a harrowing rescue mission on a stormy stretch of the Bering Sea. Meanwhile, M/V Mistress has problems that force Kris into limp mode. And Zeke relaunches the Havilah with a wild crew in the new episode "The Miner's Code."

6 p.m. on TCM
Movie: Peg O' My Heart

As part of the channel's tribute to "Star of the Month" Marion Davies, Peg (Davies) and her father Pat (J. Farrell MacDon-ald) live a simple life in an Irish fishing village. One day Sir Gerald (Onslow Stevens) arrives at the village to tell Pat that Peg is heir to the estate of her grandfather, who hated Pat. But she must go to England for three years to learn to be a lady and that Pat can never see her again in this 1933 drama.

7 p.m. on KFOX
9-1-1: Lone Star

The Season 4 premiere episode "The New Hotness," finds Owen (Rob Lowe), Tommy (Gina Torres) and the rest of the 126 being called into action to a county fair when a "derecho," a band of rapidly moving severe thunderstorms, hits Austin, causing hurricane- and tornado-force winds, heavy rains, flash floods and a wide path of destruction.

7:30 p.m. on KTSM
American Auto

The floundering horsepower behind Payne Motors is back for its Season 2 premiere and Katherine (Ana Gasteyer) and her team are on the verge of bringing back an American legend. But ineptitude and egos put everything at hilarious risk. Harriet Dyer, Jon Barinholtz, Humphrey Ker, Michael B. Washington, Tye White and X Mayo also star.

8 p.m. on KRWG
American Masters

The new episode "Roberta Flack," follows the music icon from a piano lounge through her rise to stardom. From "First Time Ever I Saw Your Face" to "Killing Me Softly," Flack's virtuosity was inseparable from her commitment to civil rights.

"The Hatchet Wielding Hitchhiker"

From filmmaker Colette Camden ("Imagine," "What Do Artists Do All Day?") comes this documentary that tells the story of Caleb "Kai" McGillvary, a hitchhiker who became a viral sensation with his video account of his saving a woman's life by killing her attacker with a hatchet, which resulted in him being convicted of murder. (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: Noise"

From Mexico and director Natalia Beristain ("The Mosquito Coast," "El Presidente") comes this drama movie about a woman who goes on a desperate search for her missing daughter and the disparate characters she meets along the way. Julieta Egurrola, Teresa Ruiz, Erick Consuelo and Arturo Beristain head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

"Represent"

Jean-Pascal Zadi ("Simply Black," "Craignos") co-created, co-wrote, directed and stars in this French comedy series about an idealistic educator who finds himself inadvertently thrust into the French presidential race. Marina Fois, Fadily Camara, Fary, Eric Judor, Panyaotis Pascot and Benoit Poelvoorde are also in the cast. (ORIGINAL)

"Lockwood & Co."

From Great Britain comes this fantasy drama series set in a world where giant corporations employ psychic teens to battle supernatural threats, and a young entrepreneur and his two sidekicks embark on a mission to unravel a mystery that will change the course of history. Ruby Stokes ("Da Vinci's Demons"), Luke Treadaway ("Attack the Block") and newcomer Cameron Chapman head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

Jersey Shore: Family Vacation

Last season tested friendships like never before, but the Season 6 premiere shows that “Jerzdays” are back with one vacation after another as the Shore family fist pumps their way across the country for the first time ever. First they hit wine country for the launch of Nicole’s new wine label. Then to South Carolina for Mike’s celebrity corn hole tournament and finally New Orleans for a jaw-dropping extended-family getaway. The squad continues to take every trip up a notch.

Last season tested friendships like never before, but the Season 6 premiere shows that “Jerzdays” are back with one vacation after another as the Shore family fist pumps their way across the country for the first time ever. First they hit wine country for the launch of Nicole’s new wine label. Then to South Carolina for Mike’s celebrity corn hole tournament and finally New Orleans for a jaw-dropping extended-family getaway. The squad continues to take every trip up a notch.

7 p.m. on STARZ
Movie: Little Women

Actress turned writer and director Greta Gerwig continued her winning streak with her glowing 2019 film adaptation (the seventh, in all) of Louisa May Alcott’s beloved 1868 novel. As star-crossed couple Jo March and Laurie Laurence, Gerwig reunited her “Lady Bird” lovebirds Saoirse Ronan and Timothée Chalamet. Emma Watson, Florence Pugh, Eliza Scanlen, Laura Dern and Meryl Streep also star in the film, which won an Academy Award for its costume design, along with Oscar nods for best picture and Ronan and Pugh as best actress and best supporting actress.

7:35 p.m. on HISTORY
Swamp People: Serpent Invasion

Troy Landry and Pickle stumble upon some unwanted visitors and witness just how far the pythons have spread. Meanwhile, Zak and Aaron take on a whole new type of beast. Then Bill and Tess have to deal with some uninvited guests, while Dusty does what he can to prevent an early end to his python season in the new episode “New Hunting Grounds.”

8 p.m. on KVIA2
Walker Independence

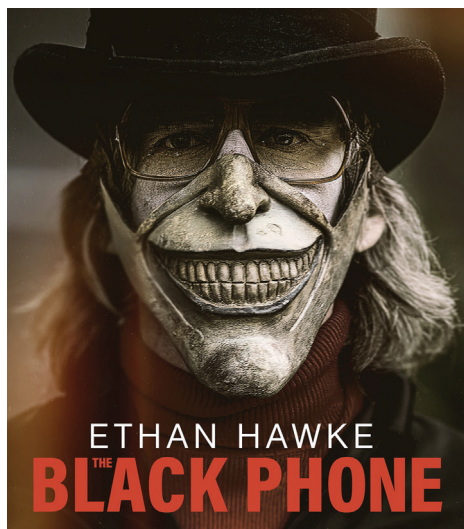

As a dust storm descends upon Independence, Abby

(Katherine McNamara) and Tom (Greg Hovanessian) find themselves desperately seeking shelter. Then Gus (Philemon Chambers) has a lead that can potentially help Calian (Justin Johnson Cortez). Meanwhile, Kate (Katie Findlay), Hoyt (Matt Barr) and Lucia (Gabriela Quezada) work together, and things do not go according to plan. But then Kate stumbles upon something very unexpected and leaves her questioning everything in the new episode “All In.”

10 p.m. on E!
Nikki Bella Says I Do

Nikki and Artem prepare for the next chapter of their lives and the one everyone has been waiting for — the moment Nikki walks down the aisle and says “I do.” But this moment is not without challenges as the bride and groom navigate parenthood, plan a wedding, throw a joint bachelor and bachelorette party, find a wedding dress, and choose the right venue all while holding onto hope that Artem’s family from Russia will make it to this event of a lifetime in this new reality series.

What's Available NOW On prime video

“Movie: The Black Phone”

Abducted by a child killer and held in a soundproof basement, a 13-year-old begins receiving calls over a disconnected phone from his kidnapper's victims in this 2021 horror thriller from director Scott Derrickson (“Deliver Us From Evil,” “Doctor Strange”). Ethan Hawke stars as “The Grabber” in a cast with Mason Thames, Madeleine McGraw and Jeremy Davies.

“Movie: Hercules”

Action meister Brett Ratner (“Red Dragon,” the “Rush Hour” film franchise) helmed this 2014 action/adventure yarn that casts Dwayne Johnson as the Greek demigod, who finds his life as a mercenary tested when the benevolent ruler of Thrace and his daughter seek his help in defeating a savage warlord. Ian McShane, Rufus Sewell, Joseph Fiennes and Rebecca Ferguson head a solid cast.

“Movie: The King's Speech”

After winning virtually every film award as the stammering King George VI, Colin Firth was the unsurprising but hugely deserving recipient of a best actor Oscar for this superb drama. Director Tom Hooper and writer David Seidler received Academy Awards as well for the 2010 film, which also boasts nominated performances by Geoffrey Rush as George's offbeat speech therapist and Helena Bonham Carter as George's wife.

“Movie: Shotgun Wedding”

Jennifer Lopez and Josh Duhamel head the cast of this comedy as a couple who get cold feet on the eve of their lavish destination wedding, but they soon have bigger problems when criminals take the entire wedding party hostage. Jennifer Coolidge, Sonia Braga, Cheech Marin, Selena Tan and D'Arcy Carden are also in the cast for director Jason Moore (“Pitch Perfect,” “Sisters”). (ORIGINAL)

Jackie Chan in
"Dragon Fist"

"THE JACKIE CHAN COLLECTION VOLUME 1 (1976-1982)"

If you're a fan of one of cinema's top martial-arts stars, you'll find plenty to like in this Blu-ray gathering of several of the films from Chan's early phase of international fame. The included titles are "The Killer Meteors," "Shaolin Wooden Men," "To Kill With Intrigue," "Snake & Crane Arts of Shaolin," "Dragon Fist," "Battle Creek Brawl" and "Dragon Lord." One aspect that has set Chan (who has performed most of his own stunts) apart from others in his genre is the sense of humor he has brought to his projects, which also served him well when he went Hollywood with such ventures as the "Rush Hour" and "Shanghai Noon" action-comedies. The package is generous with special features, which vary by the individual movie. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, V)

"THE GHOSTS OF MONDAY"

In this melodrama, a filmmaker (played by veteran actor Julian Sands) and several colleagues come to question whether making a reality show about an allegedly haunted hotel in Cyprus is such a good idea. They end up being the object of a terror campaign waged by a group that believes in human sacrifice, forcing them whether to double down on making the project or – for the sake of their own safety – to give it up. Cast members also include Mark Huberman and Elva Trill. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"COLOSSEUM"

After its television presentation on History, this series comes to home video, dramatizing the stories of some of the warriors – both male and female – whose stamina helped form the rise and fall of the Roman Empire, though some of them didn't survive. The eight-part program merges dramatized sequences with insights from historians and scholars who offer facts about the individuals profiled, and also about the overall culture of the place and time. Actors featured in the production include Robert R. Cargill, Alexander Mariotti, Ian Beattie, Timothy Blore, James Oliver Wheatley and Josh Taylor. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, V)

"POPPY"

The determination of a young woman with Down syndrome to live her own life fuels this drama, with Libby Hunsdale as the title character. She wants to become an auto mechanic, but her overprotective brother (Ari Boyland) interferes – prompting her to prove herself, and start on the road to what she deems her destiny, by covertly working on someone's car. Writer-director Linda Niccol adapted the film from a short story she wrote; her cast also includes Seb Hunter as a musician who becomes a potential boyfriend for Poppy. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, P) (Also on Digital and On Demand)

"NOVA: CRYPTO DECODED"

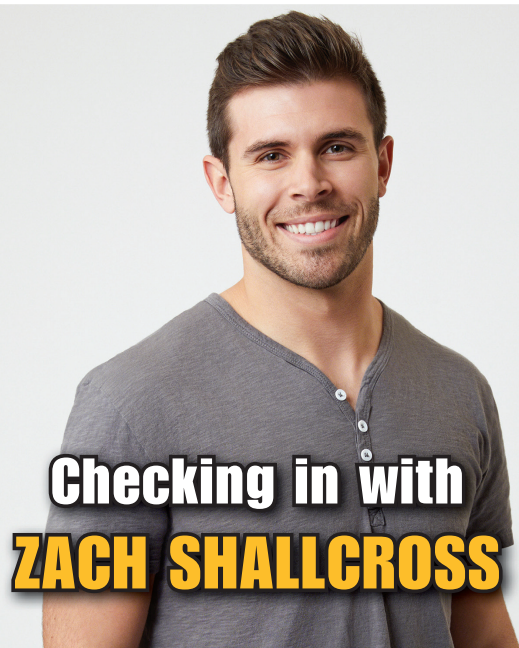

This installment of the venerable PBS science series turned out to be particularly timely when it aired last November, given disruptions in the crypto financial system that arose then and continue to play out. The program relies heavily on experts in economics and technology to explain just how that alternative-to-cash payment method accrued such strength so relatively quickly ... with the study encompassing, as has been borne out, the dangers in such rapid growth of an alternate and ultramodern means of intended currency savings and exchange. ★★★ (Not rated)

"J.R.R. TOLKIEN AND THE HOBBIT SERIES"

The many of the fantasy franchise, either in literary or cinematic form (or both), likely know a lot about it already ... but there still may be fresh information to be gleaned from this documentary. Of course, it traces the basic plot centering on the hobbit named Bilbo Baggins and his crusade to claim part of a treasure, but the program also examines the inspirations that prompted author Tolkien to create the saga that now has captivated multiple generations around the world. Some of the written passages so familiar to countless readers literally are brought to life here. ★★★ (Not rated)

Checking in with
ZACH SHALLCROSS

By the time the Season 27 premiere of ABC's "The Bachelor" hits the air on Monday, Jan. 23, this round's bachelor will have already chosen his "person" in real life.

Which means Zach Shallcross, a 26-year-old tech sales executive from Southern California, will have already fended off numerous requests for spoilers from family, friends and acquaintances. And he's gotten to be a pro at that, having gone through the other side of the process on Season 19 of "The Bachelorette."

"I mean, I did it almost daily," Shallcross explains. "And other than my immediate family ... you've got to get creative with how you let them know that, 'Hey, I can't budge.' You know, there's a lot of 'stay tuned' and 'get ready to watch it.' But you know, most people are actually respectful about that and aren't trying to dig at any spoilers or anything like that. They just mostly want to see how I'm doing and how I'm feeling with how everything is and that's been really nice."

Shallcross will be the focal point in Season 27 as he chooses from a pool of potential mates, going on dates in exotic locales and eliminating them one by one until he comes to the one who will be his "person," as he calls them. One of the major lessons learned from his time with Rachel Recchia on "The Bachelorette" was to just be himself, be open to the process and honest about his feelings.

"I'm here to find my person," he says, "and you can't find that person unless you are willing to open yourself up and be vulnerable and kind of take a chance, take a risk. ... I mean, that's just how it is in normal life as well. Like you have to put yourself on the line and risk."

Name: Zach Shallcross

Birth date: July 31, 1996

Birthplace: Fullerton, Calif.; raised in Anaheim Hills, Calif.

Family ties: Is the oldest of three children born to Chapman and Megan Shallcross; he considers his parents role models for having a healthy, loving relationship

Alma mater: Has a degree in business administration California Polytechnic State University, where he also played football

TV credits: Season 19 of "The Bachelorette"

Did you know: Is the nephew of actor Patrick Warburton ("Rules of Engagement," "Seinfeld")

'Love, Loss and What I Wore' coming to Black Box

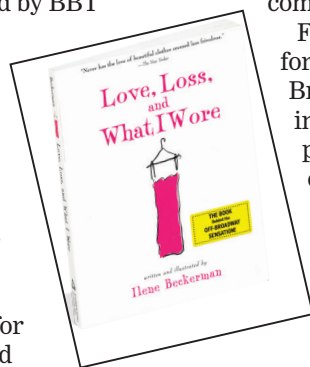

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

It's an all-star cast as Black Box Theatre (BBT) presents "Love, Loss and What I Wore."

Cast members are Autumn Gieb, Karen Buerdsell, Debbie Jo Felix, Nancy Clein Tafoya and Jamie Bronstein in a production directed by BBT co-owner and founder Ceil Herman.

The play, written by Nora Ephron, Delia Ephron and Ilene Beckerman, opens Friday, Jan. 27, and continues for a three-weekend run at BBT, 430 N.

Main St. downtown.

The production is "a play of monologues and ensemble pieces about women, clothes and memory covering all the important subjects – mothers, prom dresses, mothers, buying bras, mothers, hating purses and why we only wear black," according to www.dramatists.com.

First performed Off-Broadway in 2009, the play is based on Beckerman's bestselling book. It won a 2010 Drama Desk award (excellence in New York theatre) for unique theatrical experience.

Director Ceil Herman and BBT Resident Designer Peter Herman, who did the light and scenic designs for the show, have seen the play performed in New York and Albuquerque, BBT said.

Ceil Herman said the Las Cruces production "takes a fresh look" at the play.

"Both times when Peter and I saw it, I knew that the actors reading from scripts sitting on stools was necessary for productions that had a different set of actors for each week," Ceil Herman said. "However, we have been rehearsing since October, so our actors know their lines and are able to fully bring their many characters to life by leaving their chairs. It's also more fun for our audiences to watch!"

Actors in the Las Cruces production – all dressed in black – "will rise from their chairs to tell their wonderful, funny and moving stories," BBT said. The clothing described in the play will be picture slides projected onto the stage.

The Las Cruces production's guest choreographer is Debra Knapp, retired director of dance at New Mexico State University. Bekah Taulbee is the show's light, sound and projections operator.

Performances are 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Jan. 27-28

Author has new book

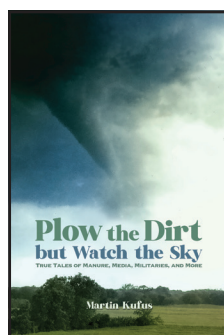

BULLETIN REPORT

Las Cruces author Martin Kufus' nonfiction book, "Plow the Dirt but Watch the Sky: True Tales of Manure, Media, Militaries, and More," was published in January and is now available for online purchase in paperback and as a Kindle download, Kufus said.

"The 95,100-word, memoir-ish book comprises an introduction and 26 chapters, from 'A is for America' to 'Z is for Zodiac' (flood-rescue boat)," Kufus said.

"O is for Oklahoma" details Kufus' a 1978 "danger-close event" involving a tornado when he was a newspaper reporter, the author said.

"Although I work at White Sands Missile Range (WSMR) as a contracted technical editor, the book mentions WSMR only in the context of Trinity Site, the Bataan Memorial Death March and rattlesnakes," Kufus said.

ARTE Institute outlines spring semester

BULLETIN REPORT

The ARTE Institute for Lifelong Learning has opened registration for its spring semester, which will include expanded workshops, courses and excursions, said institute founders Kathleen Albers of Las Cruces and Kathleen Key of El Paso.

The spring semester's courses will include History of Dutch and Flemish Art to Art Nouveau; Grand Study of Non-Western Art, Design and Style; The Scholar's Studio: Literati Pursuits in Imperial China, French Decorative Arts; and Music History, including El Sistema and the Power of Music to Transform Lives and The Great Gustavo Dudamel.

Local outings during the semester will include Rincon de Mesilla (the spring semester kickoff in Las Cruces, 10:30 a.m. Monday, Feb. 6) and Le Madeleine in El Paso, along with a Las Cruces Museum of Art tour.

Jean-Claude Linossi is joining the ARTE teaching staff in 2023 with a course in French decorative arts. He is originally from Alsace-Lorraine in eastern France and now lives in El Paso. Linossi's interests include watercolor and encaustic wax painting, the great outdoors, plants and animals, Albers and Key said. He teaches French conversation and French culture at the University of Texas-El Paso's Osher Lifelong Learning Institute.

Along with Albers, Key and Linossi, ARTE instructors are New Mexico State University history and linguistics professor Elvira Masson and former Mayfield High School teacher and New Mexico teacher of the year Jim Smith, who taught The Art of Teaching History online to more than 6,700 teachers in 148 countries.

LINOSSI

Courses are offered in-person or online Feb. 6-June 14.

Unlimited access to all classes and outings is $160 per person. The price per course is $65 per person. To add a household member to either option is an additional $10.

The deadline for registration is Sunday, Feb. 5.

For more information, contact Albers at 575-635-1973 and kathleenalbers@arteadventures.com, and Key at 575-915-4965 and kathleenkey@arteadventures.com.

Roy van der Aa is Agave Gallery's January artist

BULLETIN REPORT

Las Cruces artist Roy van der Aa is Agave Artist Gallery's artist of the month for January, the gallery said in a news release. van der Aa was born in Amsterdam, Holland, and grew up in Montreal, Canada. His formal education included two years of fine art specialty at John Abbott College in Quebec and three years at Concordia University in Montreal, where he studied printmaking and archaeology. van der Aa moved to the United States in 1989.

The Agave Gallery in Mesilla is at 2250 Calle de San Albino.

van der Aa's work "describes creativity as the power to connect the seemingly unconnected," Agave Gallery said. "His painted collages are a way of re-imagining landscape painting. Traditional landscapes are static snapshots that freeze a scene, but they ebb and flow, so when Roy began to sketch and paint outdoors, the wind blew his canvas board, and bugs flew into the paint. Not only that – images flowed into each other, and he wanted to find a way to express that. He overpainted copies of his collages in unique variations, finding connections between different elements in different ways."

Artist Gallery, 2250 Calle de San Albino on the historic plaza in Mesilla, is open 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Arts Council finds new home in arts and culture district

BULLETIN REPORT

"The Doña Ana Arts Council (DAAC), one of the key parties in the establishment of the Las Cruces Arts and Cultural District (ACD), is now actually housed in that singular district," DAAC said in a news release.

DAAC's new home, 230 S. Water St., is just inside ACD's southwest corner, the news release said.

"For most of its first 50 years, DAAC was located at several street addresses in what would eventually become the ACD in 2018," said DAAC Executive Director Greg Smith. "A significant portion of that time, DAAC was rehabilitating and then occupying and managing the historic Rio Grande Theatre (RGT), one of most iconic and significant landmarks in ACD."

In 2017, DAAC turned RGT management over to the City of Las Cruces and moved to Bulletin Plaza on Avenida de Mesilla.

"The Mesilla Location was beautiful," Smith said. "Still, considering the Arts Council's various roles with the ACD and discussions about things like artist live/workspaces being situated there, it made sense to explore what was available near downtown Las Cruces."

After three years in Mesilla, DAAC moved to a location that Smith described as "spectacular," a former bank building just outside ACD. The owners worked with DAAC to make what Smith described as a "premier gallery space." It worked well for almost two years, but new ownership and a different use for the space required moving again, he said.

"We are thrilled to be in such a great spot, and back, if you will, in the ACD," Smith said about the Water Street location.

Smith praised the work the landlords have done to

LCCT accepting scripts for one-act plays

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Las Cruces Community Theatre (LCCT) is now accepting applications from interested authors and/or directors for LCCT's 34th annual One Act Play Festival, which will be presented in performances March 17-19 and 24-26, LCCT said in a news release.

All play scripts must be submitted by Friday, Feb. 10.

With the festival, LCCT promotes local playwrights by offering them an opportunity to present their work in front of live audiences, the news release said.

"The One Act Play Festival at LCCT is a spring tradition that returns this year," said long time Las Cruces actor and director Gail Wheeler, who is the festival coordinator. "As we celebrate the return to normal, we've decided to add a theme to this year's festival: 'A New Beginning.'"

Having to close the theater right before opening a major production, and then having to re-build it again is what made us all think about starting again," Wheeler said. "A New Beginning expresses what we want to do with the festival. We encourage ALL writers to submit a script because part of a new beginning is to encourage everyone to come to the theater...there are many stories to be told and we want to include many."

For the festival, LCCT is seeking plays that:

- Are original scripts written by local playwrights
- Are one-act plays or cuttings from full-length plays
- Are 10-15 minutes in length
- Have simple technical/design requirements
- Have casts of six or fewer actors
- Contain content that is suitable for a general audience.

Playwrights interested in submitting original works for the festival should apply with a stage director, LCCT said. If the playwright does not have a director and the play is chosen for the festival, LCCT will assign a director.

All play scripts must be submitted by Friday, Feb. 10. Application forms are available at www.LCCTNM.org/ one-act, along with instructions regarding where to email the script and completed application.

If a play is selected for the festival, Wheeler will meet with the author and director before the first rehearsal to discuss the design and technical aspects of the play.

LCCT will hold a group audition for all of the one-act plays selected for production in 2023 from 6:30-8 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 15, at LCCT, 313 N. Main St. downtown. All the directors and authors seeking cast members should attend the audition.

"It is often a challenge to find directors, so playwrights should have someone in mind or plan to direct their own work. We will have open auditions where playwrights, actors and directors can come together. We encourage anyone who has ever thought about auditioning to come on down because this is a great way to start if you've 'always wanted to act,'" Wheeler said.

Directors should plan on eight hours of rehearsal for the typical 15-minute play, not including the week of dress/tech rehearsals before opening, LCCT said. The first rehearsals at the theatre will begin Monday, Feb. 20. Rehearsals will typically be scheduled in the evenings and on weekends. Tech week rehearsals are tentatively scheduled for Monday, March 13-Thursday, March 16.

Performances will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday-Saturday, March 17 and 18 and 24 and 25 and 2 p.m. Sunday, March 19 at 26 at LCCT.

Mojica: Acting is about theater, the theater of life

Monika Mojica's business, Mo Bu Creative, applies techniques of acting to vital training environments.

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The skills and techniques actors use on stage and in film can also help non-actors become better lawyers and police officers, doctors and CEOs, athletes and parents.

That's what Monika Mojica has discovered as an actor, director, and playwright, as a theater teacher at New Mexico State University, as a trial consultant for Kastl Law P.C.

Mojica is also the owner of Mo Bu Creative, a company that trains local first responders in crisis intervention and standardized patients who are part of the curriculum at Burrell College of Osteopathic Medicine.

"My job is giving a voice to the voiceless," said Mojica, who is also a wife and mother.

As a trial consultant, this means sitting down with victims of negligence and "unwrapping the narrative of their full trauma and suffering," she said.

"They tell me their story," Mojica said. "I ask what life was like before the traumatic event and what it's been like after that. Although I have heard troubling challenges, I am humbled by their fortitude."

Her training also helps attorneys with Krisi Kastl P.C., which has offices in Dallas and El Paso, to bring out the whole story in court in a way that helps their clients "recover their own resiliency," she said.

Using a wide range of role-playing scenarios she has created in partnership with the Las Cruces Police Department and other law enforcement agencies. Mojica employs a group of actors – creating characters like "Headwound Harry" and "Man with Dementia" – to help train police cadets to successfully interact with individuals they deal with daily who may be struggling with mental or behavioral health issues, homelessness or domestic violence.

The skills she has honed as an actor and teacher are also valuable in all these roles "because acting is about being open," Mojica said. "That lends itself to anything."

For attorneys and police officers, who "are trained to be very factual," she said, the more holistic theater techniques that actors learn can help them to see "the whole being" of the person they are dealing with, to "open up to the experience and connect and more fully with the individual in crisis."

"You think differently," she said, becoming more aware of assumptions, stereotypes and personal biases.

"There's something sacred when you're privy to another human's opening up," Mojica said. "It's an honor to hear that story. It's a gift to be truly present with someone."

For attorneys, first responders and for actors role playing with the police and with medical students, the training also focuses on ways to fully connect with the client, the person on the street, the student doctor while maintaining their emotional stability and "without letting their tragedy become ours," Mojica said.

At the same type, actors must always be aware that their role playing "may save a life," she said. "It's beautifully fragile."

"Monika puts her whole heart into everything she commits to," said NMSU Theatre Arts Department Head Wil Kilroy. "Her ability to work with a variety of unique actors, giving each one full acceptance along with her personable insight is impressive."

Ortiz to work government affairs for El Paso Electric

BULLETIN REPORT

El Paso Electric (EPE) announces Jennifer Ortiz as the newest Government Affairs Specialist. Jennifer joins an established government affairs team and will partner with all stakeholders in EPE's southern New Mexico service area that stretches from Anthony to Hatch.

"We are pleased to announce that Jennifer Ortiz has been promoted to Government Affairs Specialist in the Regulatory and Government Affairs Department. In this role, Jennifer will be responsible for representing the company in its interactions with local and state government representatives, community and business groups, and other external stakeholders on matters related to programs, services, policy, legislation, and regulatory issues," said James Schichtl, Vice President of Regulatory and Governmental Affairs. "Jennifer will also be responsible for developing and maintaining strong relationships with external and internal stakeholders and assisting in the development and implementation of strategies that will move this region forward."

A lifelong resident of Las Cruces, Ortiz is a proud graduate of Las Cruces High School and New Mexico State University and her career at EPE has spanned nine years. Jennifer is also actively involved in her community and is a Distinguished Honors Graduate of the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce's Leadership Las Cruces program. In her free time, Jennifer enjoys spending time with her daughter and her dog, Sadie, and loves taking road trips and attending concerts.

Hakes opens new subdivision: Trails at Metro 2

BULLETIN REPORT

Regional homebuilder Hakes Brothers has opened The Trails at Metro 2, which features “an innovative line of cost-effective homes to meet growing demand from home buyers,” the Las Cruces-based company said in a news release.

The new community is located adjacent to The Trails at Metro 1 in northeast Las Cruces.

“Situated in a master-planned community with mountain views and several neighborhood parks, The Trails at Metro 2 features six single-story home designs of 1,366-2,180 square feet,” the news release said. “The floor plans include three-five bedrooms, two-3.5 bathrooms, and two- or three-car garages.

“As the market continues to fluctuate, we recognized an affordability niche that was not being met here in Las Cruces,” said Hakes Brothers Rio Grande Division President Niel Campbell. “Given the popularity of The Trails at Metro 1, this was the ideal place to meet that need.”

For more information, call 575-800-5000.

at NMSU that it is “is one of the most important classes you can take.”

Even students and community members who never plan to set foot on a stage or film set will learn about communicating – not just looking, but really seeing; not just hearing, but listening and understanding, she said.

Early in the semester, Mojica’s students take a silent walk on the NMSU campus. They can’t talk to each other or use their cell phones because the experience is about “listening and observing,”

she said.

“It’s really powerful,” she said. “It’s also fun.”

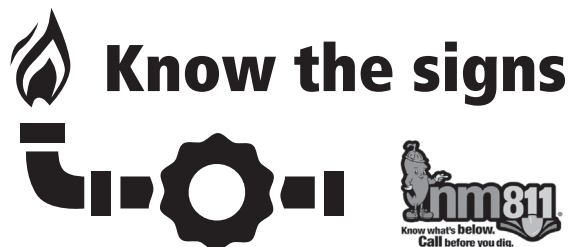

“I have had the joy of witnessing several of the performances that she has conducted with non-majors taking acting, and the way she involves everyone, playing to each individual’s strength and personality, allows them to shine,” Kilroy said. “Even when teaching online, I have received rave reviews of how engaged Monika remains with all of her students, as she is consistently supportive and accessible.”

Mojica has found even more ways to open on her own journey by adding “trial consultant” to her resume and “is very grateful to Krisi Kastl and the team at Kastl Law for the opportunity to parlay theatrical skills in a new field,” she said.

“I am so delightfully surprised to be doing what I’m doing,” she said. “It’s a profound honor.”

Do you know how to identify a natural gas leak? You might smell sulfur or rotten eggs, you may notice dirt or debris shooting up out of a hole in the ground, dead or dying vegetation in an otherwise green area, and a loud hissing or roaring sound near pipeline markers. These and many more are all tell tale signs of a natural gas or pipeline leak. Use all your senses, even common sense and report any possible leaks to Zia Natural Gas Company. When in doubt call us out!

Conference play brings midweek games

BULLETIN REPORT

Most of us grew up with Monday Night Football. And we've had NFL and occasional college games on Thursday nights for quite a while.

But the 2023 New Mexico State University schedule brings us Tuesday and Wednesday night football.

Most of the 13 games are still on Saturday, but there are two Wednesday night games, a Tuesday night game and a Thursday night game.

The mid-week games are part of the Aggies' transition to Conference USA, which entered a deal with ESPN and CBS, designed to give the conference more TV exposure on nights not competing with other college games.

NM State will play six home games at Aggie Memorial Stadium, including four conference games.

Coach Jerry Kill's Quick Lane Bowl champions will open with back-to-back games at Aggie Memorial Stadium. On Week Zero (Aug. 26), they'll kick off the 2023 college football season against UMass. Western Illinois will head to Las Cruces the following week (Sept. 2).

NM State will begin its first season of Conference USA play at Liberty Sept. 9. Then the Aggies travel to New Mexico (Sept. 16) and Hawai'i (Sept. 23) for a pair of non-conference games before an idle week.

The midweek conference games start at home against Florida International (Thursday, Oct. 5) and Sam Houston (Wednesday, Oct. 11). Wednesday, Oct. 18, NM State battles UTEP at the Sun Bowl. Next, the Aggies head to Ruston, Louisiana, to meet Louisiana Tech (Tuesday, Oct. 24). The Aggies return to Las Cruces to take on Middle Tennessee (Saturday, Nov. 4) and travel to Western Kentucky (Saturday, Nov. 11) and finish the non-conference slate at Auburn Saturday, Nov. 18. The final regular season contest will be Saturday, Nov. 25, at Aggie Memorial Stadium as Jacksonville State comes to town.

The Conference USA Championship will be Dec. 1 or 2 and will air nationally on CBS Sports Network. The team with the best record in conference play will host the Conference USA championship game.

All games throughout the 2023 season are subject to date changes and some dates may move in the future to accommodate national television selections.

Remembering Tom Weiskopf and Kathy Whitworth

It's a shame I only have a short space to summarize the life and times of Tom Weiskopf who died Aug. 20, 2022, at his home in Big Sky, Montana, after a battle with pancreatic cancer. Weiskopf played his college golf at Ohio State just a few years after Jack Nicklaus. He turned pro in 1964.

One writer described his swing as "pure poetry and his game equal parts of power and control." Golf pundits expected Weiskopf to challenge his rival Buckeye, Jack Nicklaus, but he ended up only beating Nicklaus twice in his 16 PGA Tour wins (including the 1973 Open Championship) and once in the 1995 USGA Senior Open.

Many analysts believed Weiskopf didn't get anywhere near what he should have out of his talent. He was not a club thrower, nor prone to outbursts of profanity. But he raged inside when things went wrong and let those emotions erupt.

Media folks dubbed him the "Towering Inferno." His most notorious meltdown happened on the par-3 12th hole at Augusta National during the 1980 Masters when he recorded an unimaginable 13. Looking back on his competitive career Weiskopf came to believe his own expectations of his golf game may have been too high.

"Perfectionists are determined to master things, and you can never master golf," Weiskopf said in a 2001 interview with Golf Digest. Weiskopf also had issues with alcohol, admitting finally "it was a serious problem. It ruined my career," he said 18 months after gaining sobriety in 2000. "Every big mistake I've made can be traced back to drinking."

In the late 1990s Weiskopf turned his considerable talents to golf course design. In over two decades he designed 43 championship golf courses, including TPC Scottsdale Stadium course, home of the WM Phoenix Open. I have personally played four Weiskopf courses: Double Eagle Club (Galena, Ohio), TPC Craig Ranch (McKinney, Texas), the Ridge at Castle Pines North (Denver) and Buffalo Creek G.C. (greater Dallas). He designed great, playable golf courses, period.

The answer to "Who is the winningest golfer in history?" may stump a few contestants on "Jeopardy," but golf aficionados know it is not Sam Snead or Tiger Woods, both with 82, but New Mexico's own Kathy Whitworth with 88 victories, who passed away Dec. 24, 2022. She was 83.

Whitworth was born Sept. 27, 1939, in the small West Texas town of Monahans, but shortly thereafter her family moved to Jal, New Mexico, where she learned to play golf when she was 14 on a 9-hole course built for the El Paso Natural Gas employees.

"I was really fortunate that I knew what I wanted to do," Whitworth once told Golf Digest. "Golf just grabbed me by the throat."

After turning 18, she won the New Mexico Amateur Championship in 1957 and 1958. She then began working with famed coach Harvey Penick and turned pro, joining the LPGA in December 1958. She won her first LPGA tournament when she was 22 - The Kelly Girls Open. Her 26th win was in October 1966 in the Las Cruces Ladies Open at Las Cruces Country Club. The United Virginia Bank Classic in May 1985 was her last win. "Winning never got old," she had said.

By today's standards there wasn't much money in LPGA tournament purses but Whitworth still was the first woman to win $1 million on tour.

Her 88 wins included six majors, but, sadly, she was missing a U.S. Women's Open championship. "I would have swapped being the first to make a million for winning the Open," she said, "but it was a consolation which took some of the sting out of not winning." Whitworth was the LPGA player of the year seven times in an eight-year span (1966 through 1973). She was the Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year in 1965 and in 1967, and she was inducted into the World Golf Hall of Fame in 1982. Annika Sorenstam expressed on Twitter "thanks (Kathy) for setting the bar so high," and referred to Whitworth as a "total class act."

She will always be remembered that way.

NM State women, men both on the road for weekend

BULLETIN REPORT

NM State's men's and women's basketball teams will both be on the road for the weekend.

The Aggie women (9-9 at presstime, and 4-2 in Western Athletic Conference play) will be in Seattle for a Saturday, Jan. 21, game.

The Aggie men (7-11 overall and 0-6 in the WAC) will face Utah Tech.

Both teams played Jan. 19 in road games that ended after the Bulletin's presstime. The men played Southern Utah, and the women were at Grand Canyon.

At home in the Pan American Center Jan. 14, the men's team lost 66-55 to UT-Arlington while the
