Recycling for a Purpose: When Glass Becomes Art

Santa Fe company Broken Arrow Glass Recycling will use blue bottles from Las Cruces to create art.

It was nearly a ton of blue glass that South Central Solid Waste Authority could offer Broken Arrow Glass Recycling's Shelby Kane, who had just made the trip down from Santa Fe. That blue glass would be made into something special for the Las Cruces community, challenge coins for students throughout the community who champion their own recycling projects and programs.

Kane started her journey by studying art in New York City. After an opportunity with a local glass-blowing facility, her focus turned to glass. With the pandemic, she began to incorporate a focus on recycling. When she became pregnant, and glass blowing materials she worked with were toxic, Kane started selling her artwork at the market instead and developed a kombucha habit.

"I thought, what if I turned the kombucha bottles into votives I could sell? I created a closed loop system from my own waste," she said. "Then a local brewery asked me to upcycle their bottles into drinking glasses. Everything grew from there, and now I make housewares out of recycled bottles."

SCSWA staff met with Kane at a recycling conference sponsored by the New Mexico Recycling Coalition and invited her to pick up as much as she wanted. "I think it's incredibly amazing in Las Cruces that the community is picking it up and utilizing it," Kane said. "All the other recycling centers are debating, what do we do with the material?"

Back home, Kane will get to work. First, she'll remove labels from the bottles and crush them. She'll heat the crushed glass and put it into molds in her kilns. During the cooling process, she'll stamp the top with a design. She's unsure how many coins a ton will make, but she's looking forward to doing the math. "I'll weigh the coins and get a sense that whether it's, say, a fourth of a bottle that makes one coin," she said.

SCSWA Recycle Education Coordinator Brandi Misquez explained that the coins would be a physical reminder for kids to see how the recycling process can be a closed loop. She said, "They'll know that these bottles came from their community, and it was the ingenuity and innovative ideas that can repurpose the items that they use every day. Maybe one day they'll have ideas of their own to use glass in new ways, and we'll be here to give them the glass they need in support of their efforts."

South Central Solid Waste Authority manages recyclables and solid waste for residents and businesses throughout Doña Ana County. Contact SCSWA at (575) 528-3800 or visit www.SCSWA.net.

The New Mexico Wine Festival comes to Las Cruces for three days at the Southern New Mexico Fairgrounds, May 27-29.

BULLETIN REPORT

The New Mexico Wine Festival will be noon-6 p.m. Saturday-Monday, May 27-29, at the Southern New Mexico Fairgrounds, 12125 Robert Larson Blvd., about 14 miles west of Las Cruces via Interstate 10.

The event will showcase hundreds of wines from 18 wineries, according to a news release.

“From rich reds to crisp whites and everything in between, attendees will have the opportunity to explore an extensive array of varietals, all made with passion and craftsmanship by local vintners,” the news release said.

Participating wineries include Amaro, DH Lescombes, Heart of the Desert, Luna Rossa and others.

There will also be more than two dozen arts and crafts vendors at the festival selling handmade jewelry, food and drinks, wine accessories and more.

Live music will be provided by Matthew Palmer Band, Frank Zona and Urban Edge, Proud Pete, Damian Wyldes, 575 Band and Benny Bassett.

Visitors can participate in free mini golf, painting classes and candle making, and can make their own flower crowns. There will also be food trucks onsite.

Tickets are $10-$60 and are available at nmwine.com. Follow the festival on that website and @NewMexicoWineFestLas-

Council approves city budget of $519 million

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

The City of Las Cruces FY2024 budget is $519 million, about $4.5 million more than the current fiscal year. The new budget includes almost $139 million in the general fund, which is the city's largest operating fund. FY24 begins July 1.

The budget was unanimously approved by the Las Cruces City Council at its May 15 regular meeting.

The new budget includes almost $34.5 million for the Las Cruces Police Department, an increase of about $7.5 million over FY23; almost $21.5 million for the Las Cruces Fire Department and emergency services, an increase of more than $3 million; $18.5 million for the city Parks and Recreation Department, an increase of almost $3 million; and $2.1 million for municipal court, an increase of about $600,000.

The budget includes reserves of almost $25 million.

Major capital improvement projects approved for funding in FY2024 include:

- Downtown video surveillance cameras: $100,000, “to support economic development and the security of businesses and residents,” the city said.

- Roof replacement program: $2.255 million, including Municipal Court, Meerscheidt Recreational Center, Rio Grande Theatre, Museum of Fine Arts, Branigan Cultural Center and the Las Cruces Railroad Museum. Roofs are selected for the program based on condition and lifespan, the city said.

- Remodel and expand Meerscheidt Recreation Center: $2 million.

- Street renovation projects: $7.66 million.

- Museum system technology improvements: $210,000.

- Fire station alerting system: $200,000.

- Fire training tower: $99,000, to renovate the Las Cruces Fire Department training town at the fire station at Las Cruces International Airport.

“For Fiscal Year 2024 we see more opportunities as our gross receipts taxes and property taxes are coming in strong,” City Manager Ifo Pili said in his budget document message to the mayor and city council.

When the ordinary become extraordinary

Is war inevitable? So far, in human history, the answer is yes.

Almost always, the people who die in war are not the ones who decided to go to war.

While political leaders make their decisions, it is left to the ordinary people, and almost always the younger people, to carry out the work of war.

One such young, ordinary person was Antonio Rey "Rod" Rodriguez.

A Las Cruces native, Rodriguez from a young age wanted to be a soldier. And that is what he became. And by all accounts, he became a damned good one.

An Army Ranger, Rodriguez and his colleagues accomplished missions others could not or would not do. They left the ordinary and became extraordinary.

But constantly living in the wake of danger stacks the odds.

And on Feb. 8, 2020, in Afghanistan, Rodriguez was fatally wounded.

Memorial Day is the day we set aside to honor and remember those Americans, such as Rodriguez, who died in war.

Rodriguez is the most recent of the 204 Doña Ana County residents who died in combat in the wars since World War I.

An event recognizing those who gave the ultimate sacrifice for their nation will take place Monday night, May 29, at Veterans Memorial Park.

The 10th annual candlelight ceremony is a solemn event where candles are lit for each of the fallen. It begins at 8 p.m.

RICHARD COLTHARP
From the Publisher

Monday, May 29, which is the day officially set aside for Memorial Day.

Last weekend, Rodriguez was honored with another remembrance.

The conjunction of Interstates 10 and 25 in south Las Cruces was officially named by the New Mexico Department of Transportation the "SFC Antonio Rey 'Rod' Rodriguez Memorial Interchange."

Another way you can remember Rodriguez is by visiting arfoundation.org, learning more about "Rod," and perhaps donating to the foundation's scholarship fund.

The frontage road along U.S. Hwy. 70 in east Las Cruces is named Bataan Memorial, honoring the atrocities of April 1942, when the Japanese marched about 72,000 prisoners through a hellish nightmare in the steaming Philippine jungle. About 12,000 of those were Americans (the rest were mostly Filipino) and of those 12,000, more than 1,800 were New Mexicans.

With White Sands Missile Range in our backyard, Holloman Air Force base just to our east, and Fort Bliss to our south, it is clear the impact the military has had on our community in its history.

WSMR recently re-opened its museum, and this weekend might be a good one to go see it.

I realize it is also a good weekend to relax with friends and family, have a cookout and play some games.

You should do all of that. But you should also take some time out to remember the point of Memorial Day, and make a personal recognition.

Drone weaponry raises questions

Have drones made it too easy for the U.S. military to act from thousands of miles away?

Earlier this month, U.S. Central Command issued a tweet announcing that an Al Qaeda leader had been killed by a drone strike in northeast Syria.

"This operation reaffirms CENTCOM's steadfast commitment to the region and the enduring defeat of ISIS and Al Qaeda," CENTCOM Commander Gen. Michael "Eric" Kurilla said.

The tweet promised more information about the strike would be released, "as operational details become available." That never happened. And now the military acknowledges that the person killed wasn't an Al Qaeda leader. He was a shepherd.

Mohammad Mesto told CNN his brother, Loutfi Hassan Mesto, was tending to his sheep in the village of Qurqaniya when he and six of his flock were killed by the strike. He leaves 10 children.

CENTCOM says the strike, "may have unintentionally resulted in harm to civilians," and promised to conduct an investigation. That will do little to reassure those living in the region who undoubtedly see our vow of "steadfast commitment" as a threat, not a reassurance.

In 2021, the Pentagon announced it had killed two ISIS fighters planning attacks against U.S. forces. In fact, the attack killed 10 Afghan civilians, seven of them children.

Mistakes get made during times of war, and innocent people who just happened to be in the wrong place at the wrong time were getting killed long before the invention of drones.

Is there a moral difference between killing an innocent with a drone and killing an innocent with a missile fired by a fighter jet? Ken Mayers of the Santa Fe Chapter of Veterans for Peace argued during a recent local radio interview there is. He said our use of drones has an impact far beyond the people killed.

WALT RUBEL
The View From Here

"When we have drones flying over these countries, all the people are terrorized, whether they're good guys or bad guys," he said. "The new form of Imperialism doesn't rely on occupying a territory. It relies on controlling the resources of the territory through political and military manipulation."

Mayers and others are protesting at Holloman Air Force Base, which they said is the largest training facility for drone operators.

Drones allow us to conduct strikes with far less cost or risk. The benefits of that from a military perspective are obvious. But, has it become so cheap and easy that we've lost our humanity?

We all share responsibility for the actions of our government. If it is using new military technology in a way that shows a basic disrespect for human life, that is a stain on all of us.

Walter Rubel is a freelance journalist based in Las Cruces. Reconsider buffer zone

As early as June 5, the Las Cruces City Council will vote on removing the requirement for a 300-foot buffer between cannabis dispensaries and residential neighborhoods. Other cities have far greater buffer distances, such as Denver's 1,000 feet.

Cannabis retailers and the City are lamenting it is difficult to find places 300 feet away from residential areas. Yet, there are already over 100 cannabis businesses registered in the City. There is clearly no shortage of these businesses.

Removing the 300-foot buffer will put Las Cruces' children at risk. Recent public health studies published have shown that, as cannabis retailers move into an area, children are more likely to have substance abuse issues and start using drugs at younger ages.

Las Cruces Public Schools recently spoke before the Council and reported increased issues with children vaping cannabis in schools.

Cannabis is not harmless. A recent study in the Journal of the American Medical Association found adolescent brain development is hindered by use of cannabis.

Instead of removing the 300-foot buffer for residential neighborhoods, I call on the City Council to extend this same protection by adding a 300-foot buffer for multi-family residential areas. There needs to be a balance between supporting this new industry and giving children and families the greatest chance of success.

Citizens group calls for police oversight board

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

There are more than 200 citizen police oversight boards in the United States and there should be one for the Las Cruces Department (LCPD), three local citizens told the Las Cruces City Council at its May 22 work session.

“What we’re doing is a spectacular failure, whether you count by dead people ... or by huge settlements where the city didn’t even like it’s position enough to even think about going to trial,” Peter Goodman said.

A proposed city ordinance recommends a hybrid model for LCPD oversight that would include OIR, the company

That “would give the city council ... more accountability and transparency of the police department,” he said.

“The bottom line, we cannot allow the excessive use of force by LCPD to continue on our watch,” said Bobbie Green, president of the Doña Ana County NAACP and a member of the Las Cruces Police Academy Board.

Green said she has asked the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) to conduct an investigation of the police department.

“We have two options,” Green said. “We can tell DOJ that we have made progress and we are collectively working toward a solution ourselves together or we can wait for DOJ to a commitment that this conversation will continue. The wider conversation around use of force and implementing high standards I think is necessary.”

“Not that it would in any way impede my support of having this oversight board established ... but it would be great to see if there is any data out there on how these changes and this oversight board has effected and what the outcomes have been,” Councilor Yvonne Flores said.

“What is the empirical data available that demonstrate these boards are effective for the problems that we’re looking to solve?” asked Councilor Becki Graham. “There was no real, hard data that showed that cities that implement these kinds of boards show a decrease – I’m not saying that it’s not true, I’m saying that I was not able to find it.”

“What it’s asking for in this ordinance is to look at HR personnel files. That’s something we as councilors don’t even have access to,” Councilor Tessa Abeyta said. “When oversight boards don’t have access to those items – there’s probably a legal reason why they don’t – then it makes them less effective, which therefore leads me to think there are other tools and mechanisms in place that help with accountability and transparency that go beyond this type of board.”

“I think that’s a fair question,” Goodman said.

SCREENSHOT

Bobbie Green, Peter Goodman and Earl Nissen were among the people talking to Las Cruces City Councilors May 22 about a citizen police oversight board.

“I think it’s a question that falls into the ‘How do we do this,’ not ‘This is a deal breaker’ category.”

Abeyta also questioned an oversight board’s ability to make decisions “before an investigation is closed out on the personnel side (and) in the legal system,” give advice regarding the hiring and firing of city personnel and provide public education.

Councilor Becky Corran requested that the council conduct a work session on existing police “mechanisms of accountability,” including disciplinary action and the use of force. She also said the city should revise its contract with OIR to include a random sampling of use of force incidents and all deadly use of force.

Mayor Ken Miyagishima questioned granting an oversight board the authority to recommend discipline, which he said is something even the city council cannot do.

“Who do you expect to pay for the liability” if an oversight board member is sued? the mayor asked. The city could not provide liability coverage to board members, he said.

The next police academy graduation will include bonuses for officers who have psychology or sociology backgrounds, the mayor said, and the city launched Project L.I.G.H.T. in March to include social workers when it responds to 911 mental health emergencies.

“You don’t think that has shown what the city is trying to do?” the mayor said. “It’s not we’re just sitting here not doing anything.”

“This is a topic that concerns us very highly,” said LCPD Detective Kenneth Davis, president of the LCPD union.

Police oversight is “one piece of the puzzle around policing in Las Cruces,” said Daniel Williams, policing policy advocate for the ACLU of New Mexico. The city should also look at adopting a higher standard for use of force than mandated by federal law, he said. Increased data and transparency would also be beneficial, Williams said, along with expanding “non-police responses.”

“I am a believer in community involvement in police oversight,” Loretta King said during public input. “Allow the community to speak and to be heard.”

Student art fills first floor of Government Center

BULLETIN REPORT

A new student art show featuring works of Las Cruces Public Schools elementary school students is now on display in the first-floor corridors of the Doña Ana County Government Center, 845 N. Motel Blvd. Art exhibits, including by local students, have been a rotating fixture at the county building since 2000, with hundreds of works by local artists – including students in the Gadsden Independent School District – that are also on display and can be viewed during regular county business hours.

League of Women Voters elects new leadership

BULLETIN REPORT

The League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico (LWVSNM) elected Jo Galván Nash and Kathe Kanim, both of Las Cruces, as new co-presidents in April, the non-partisan, nonprofit based in Las Cruces said in a news release.

Galván, who joined LWVSNM in 2019, retired from Las Cruces Public Schools in 2018 after 31 years as chief communications officer. She now works part-time as a freelance communications consultant.

Kanim served as a mathematics teacher in several states and retired from New Mexico State University, finishing her educational career as a manager on state and federally funded projects intended to improve mathematics instruction in public schools. She joined the league in 2021.

During its annual business meeting in April, LWVSNM also elected these officers: Laura Castille, vice-president, Edwina Jaramillo, secretary, Louise Marquez, treasurer, Dale Yeo, voter services director, Kate Mangelsdorf, membership director and Eileen VanWie and Josie Miller, co-directors of youth engagement. VanWie and Kathy Brook will serve on the league board as immediate past-presidents.

Additional appointees include Mary Flynn, chair of the league nominating committee, and members Johnnie Aldrich and Mangelsdorf. Nancy Stanton is the new chair of the league Development Committee and Claudia Powell and Cindy Broughton are liaisons to the board from Otero County.

"One of the biggest changes for LWVSNM is the formation of a new group, a league unit, from the Alamogordo region," Galván said. "A great team of women and men from Otero County are organizing activities to strengthen democracy and to get residents to vote."

During the April 29 New Mexico league convention in Los Alamos, Brook was elected statewide co-president; Kim Sorensen as treasurer, and Jaramillo as director of voter services.

In 2021, the League adopted the philosophy known as JEDI (Justice, Equity, Diversity and Inclusion), which sets the foundation for all future League activities, ranging from getting people registered, to empowering young voters, to advocating for affordable housing and education, Kanim said.

The League is accepting new members. The yearly membership fee is $65 per person and half the price for a second household member. Students 16 years or older who are enrolled in high school or college can join for free, Galván said. Visit www.lwvsnm.org/ join or mail a check mailed to LWVSNM, P.O. Box 15142, Las Cruces, New Mexico 88004.

Jo Galvan and Kathe Kanim are the new co-presidents of the League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico.

League meetings are 2:30 p.m. the second Saturday of each month. Members can attend in-person at the Doña Ana Community College Workforce Center, 2345 Nevada, or via Zoom.

For more information, email Galván or Kanim at lwvsnm@gmail.com.

Fikanys join Hummers as partners at Steinborn Inc.

BULLETIN REPORT

Steinborn Inc., Realtors announced in a press release a new, equal partnership between Amy and John Hummer and Zane and Kayla Fikany.

Effective immediately, the release said, the development marks a significant milestone for the company and sets the stage for continued growth.

Steinborn & Associates was formed in 1969. In 2006, John and Amy Hummer acquired the business from David and Vivian Steinborn. Under the Hummers' leadership, Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Steinborn & Associates ranks in the top 25 companies globally for the Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate network.

For the past 17 years, the Hummers have expanded the company with value-added services and four additional divisions: Steinborn Property Management, Steinborn TCN Commercial Real Estate, Steinborn Referral Company, and The Real Estate Institute. Steinborn is independently owned and operated with more than 80 Realtors.

“Our team at Steinborn is exceptional,” Amy Hummer said, “and we focus on connecting with them and our customers. This announcement will enhance those relationships and services, both internally and externally. We love where we work and live, and want to continually strengthen the brokerage.”

Amy Hummer, who has led and operated the company since 2015, continued, “Since recruiting Zane to Steinborn in 2009, we have formed a great relationship. We are thrilled to welcome Zane and Kayla as equal partners in our company. Together, their unique talents and dedication to excellence will ensure that we continue to provide the highest level of service to Steinborn’s sizeable client base and achieve our mutual goals for the future of the company.”

Amy Hummer will continue to lead the company as CEO.

Highly experienced and award-winning professionals in the real estate industry, with more than two decades of combined expertise, Zane and Kayla Fikany bring knowledge, expertise, and passion to Steinborn, the release said. With this new partnership, their roles will remain the same, and they will continue to lead their team, Z Real Estate, while continuing customer care for their clients. Zane will be taking a more active role in Steinborn’s leadership, focusing on business development, recruitment, and marketing efforts.

“Real estate has been my only career and it’s provided me with everything: my wife, my friends, my children,” says Zane Fikany. “Now, it’s important that I use this platform to help others succeed in this industry, since it has given so much depth and meaning to my life, personally.”

Zane and Kayla Fikany have repeatedly ranked in the top 10 for the state of New Mexico, rated by RealTrends since 2016, when Kayla joined Zane in sales. They also ranked nationally in the top 20

Sheriff's Office wellness program offers support

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

With support from Sheriff Kim Stewart, a Las Cruces mental health therapist has set up a wellness program at the Doña Ana County Sheriff's Office (DASO) to help move officers and deputies from being "the first to be the helper and the last to be helped" into a culture where they support each other in "staying healthy so they can help others."

The program got its start in early 2021, not long after the suicide of a sheriff's deputy. Psychologist Robyn Rehbein, who had begun working with the department as a volunteer, was awarded a contract in 2022 to help set up a DASO wellness and mental health program.

Rehbein guided deputies in selecting an eight-member peer support team they can turn to for emotional support, assistance and referrals in navigating on-the-job issues such as officer-involved shootings, domestic and child abuse and dealing with the mentally ill, as well as personal issues, including problems in a marriage or the death of a loved one. She also has overseen peer training, and ensures that all peer support is conducted in strictest confidence, she said.

Peer support team members are "our ambassadors to wellness," said Rehbein, who is a licensed professional clinical mental health counselor and a certified first responder counselor who has a private practice in Las Cruces and has been providing therapy for more than 15 years.

"We look at wellness from every aspect," Rehbein said, including spirituality, financial and family issues – how life impacts work and how work impacts life at home.

The program has given deputies "a place to go to be heard (by) people who understand, because first responders are different," said a DASO officer who has been with the department for nearly 20 years and is a peer support team member. "There is no way somebody who

'We never met him in life ...'

The below excerpts from Sheriff Kim Stewart's May 5 and 6 Facebook posts illustrate some of the harsh realities faced by law enforcement officers and first responders.

"I have to share with you all what it is to be in our shoes tonight," Doña Ana County Sheriff Kim Stewart said May 5 on Facebook. "We tried to revive a 4-year-old who was found in his family's hot tub. He did not survive. Believe me when I say this death reaches all the way up to me. Believe me when I say how devastating the loss of this life is to us. We never met him in life; only in death. Please know we all live these things every day. "Someone called me this morning after reading my post about the death of the 4-year-old," Stewart said May 6 on Facebook. "I told the caller it's hard for the public to understand those types of calls are sadly more routine than we might imagine. A 4-month-old died a few weeks ago. "The resources that are activated on these situations are not easily observable to the public. This one call probably activated 20 people for several hours to include the four responding deputies, a sergeant, maybe a lieutenant, a detective, the Children, Youth and Families Department, Office of Medical Investigations, fire rescue and ambulance, our wellness coordinator, several peer supporters, a victim advocate, to name a few. This does not include calls to the patrol captain, the detective sergeant, the wellness coordinator, the major and me."

It's about listening and helping them to come up with their own solution." Another senior officer who was nominated for the support team by his fellow officers said he received support himself in late 2021 as he dealt with the sudden death of a family member. "We had peer support in place and I'm glad we did," Rehbein said. She and the sheriff were part of the group that visited the officer at his home. "They were very supportive," he said, "in the most professional manner ever. That helped a great deal. I didn't feel alone." The peer support program has made DASO "a better department," the officer said. "I've been through it. The peer support program has made DASO "a better department. I've been through it. It may help save lives and careers," the officer said. "We deal with a lot." Part of Rehbein's job has been to make everyone in DASO aware of the peer support program, its 140 deputies and its 50 support personnel. The program is also included in the training and mentoring cadets receive at the DASO training academy every year, she said. "We're very proud of the work we've done," Rehbein said. Other law enforcement agencies "wish they had what we have."

doesn't do what we do can understand." The "demands are immeasurable," he said, and officers also must deal with "constant criticism." "We're expected to solve every problem with limited resources and limited authority," the officer said. That means making "split-second decisions" that call for skills as a law enforcement officer as well as "a social worker, a minister, a tough guy, a gentleman, a teacher and a report writer," he said. "It's not about giving them advice," the officer said. "We don't do that.

NOTICE is hereby given that on April 13, 2023, Gary R. & Sharron Stuart, P.O. Box 194, Fairacres, NM 88033, filed with the STATE ENGINEER Application No. LRG-01242-POD3, OSE File No. LRG-01242-1, for Permit to Use a Replacement Well within the Lower Rio Grande Underground Water Basin of the State of New Mexico. Use of well LRG-01242, located on land owned by Bamert's Home Place Inc. and located within the SE $\frac{1}{4}$ NE $\frac{1}{4}$ SE $\frac{1}{4}$ of Section 21 Township 23 South Range 01 East, NMPM, and more specifically located at or near the intersection of Latitude 32° 18' 15.84" North, Longitude 106° 50' 19.5" West (WGS84), will be discontinued and be replaced by existing well LRG-01242-POD3 which is located within the NE $\frac{1}{4}$ of said Section. 21, at the approximate intersection of Latitude 32° 17' 59.75" N Longitude 106° 50' 11.625" W (WGS84) on land owned by Jeb Stuart for the continued diversion of the amount of water subject to all conditions and provisions contained in the August 22, 2011 Final Judgment and Settlement Agreement in Stream System Issue No. 101, SS-97-

101, combined with surface water from the Elephant Butte Irrigation District, for the irrigation of 15.41 acres, owned by the applicant, located within the NE $\frac{1}{4}$ of said Section 01, and the NW $\frac{1}{4}$ of Section 22 Township 23S Range 01E, NMPM, as described in Subfile No. LRN 28-012-0020 Right C of the Lower Rio Grande Hydrographic Survey. Existing replacement well LRG-01242-POD3 is located at the physical address of 4095 Escondido Lane, approximated 600 ft. southwest of Bamert Rd. and Apple View Pl. Original well LRG-01242 will be retained for other rights. Dona Ana is the County affected by the diversion and in which the water has been or will be put to beneficial use. This notice is ordered to be published in the Las Cruces Bulletin. To view the application and supporting documentation contact the State Engineer District Office to arrange a date and time for an appointment located at 1680 Hickory Loop, Suite J, Las Cruces, NM 88005. Any person, firm or corporation or other entity assailing standing to file objections or protests shall do so in writing (objection must be legible, signed, and include the writer's complete name, phone number, email address, and mailing address). If the protest does not include the complete name, phone number, email address, and mailing address, it may be deemed invalid and not accepted for filing unless Protestant provides with the protest an affidavit stating that it does not have one of the above-listed elements/requirements (phone number, mailing address, email address, etc.). The objection to the approval of the application must be based on: (1) Impairment; if impairment, you must specifically identify your water rights; and/or (2) Public Welfare/Conservation of Water; if public welfare or conservation of water within the state of New Mexico, you shall be required to provide evidence showing how you will be substantially and specifically affected. The written protest must be filed, in triplicate, with the State Engineer, 1680 Hickory Loop, Suite J., Las Cruces, NM 88005, on or before June 30, 2023. Facsimiles (faxes) will be accepted as a valid protest if the hard copy is hand-delivered or mailed and postmarked within 24-hours of the facsimile. Mailing postmark will be used to validate the 24-hour period. Protests can be faxed (575) 524-6160. If no valid protest or objection is filed, the State Engineer will evaluate the application in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 72 NMSA 1978.

I am not 100% sure what I want to be in the future, but I know that I have a passion to direct films, write, and share my creativity with the world. I want to bring my ideas to life. After all, books and movies are inspired by life, life shouldn't be inspired by them, it should be more than what's in the movies. As for the law aspect, I am interested in becoming a lawyer and have considered going into criminal justice. Clearly, I am unsure of what I am doing in the future, but I can say that I know, for a fact, that whatever I end up doing it will all be for the glory of God.

JUNE 2 "Searching For Soul Food"

Explore the wide and wonderful world of soul food in all its many forms in this new reality series, as it follows celebrity chef Alisa Reynolds, the executive chef and founder of My Two Cents LA. While she continues to reimagine the potential for soul food and Southern classics in her own restaurant, Reynolds discovers what soul food looks like to people around the globe.

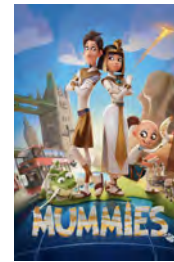

MAY 31 "Drag Me to Dinner"

Hosted by NYC legend and comedian Murray Hill ("Somebody Somewhere"), each episode sees two teams of successful drag queens go head-to-head in the ultimate dinner party battle, as they compete "to throw the most fabulous, awe-inspiring, drag-tastical dinner parties of all time" and take home "The Glorious Golden Grater — because one team may be GREAT ... but the other is GRATER!" (per Hulu).

MAY 28 "Movie: Mummies"

This animated family flick follows three ancient Egyptian mummies who live in an underground secret city, hidden in ancient Egypt — including a princess, a former charioteer and his younger brother, along with their pet baby crocodile — as they end up in present-day London and embark on a wild journey in search of an old ring belonging to the Royal Family, which was stolen by an ambitious archaeologist.

"Movie: The Old Way"

When an outlaw and his gang seek out gunslinger-turned-family man Colton Briggs (Nicolas Cage, "Renfield," 2023) seeking revenge, Colton must team up with an unexpected partner — his 12-year-old daughter (Ryan Kiera Armstrong, "American Horror Story") — to fight them off and protect their family.

tonight's picks

Jeremy Strong as Kendall Roy in "Succession"

2023 Indianapolis 500
KTSM 10:30 a.m.

The 107th running of "The Greatest Spectacle in Racing," the Indianapolis 500, airs live from the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. After a week of intensive practice, the green flag is raised and drivers ready their engines, as Race Day finally begins.

The Real Housewives of Atlanta
BRAVO 6 p.m.

Kenya pulls out the stops when she invites the ladies to Birmingham, Ala., to watch her halftime performance at the Magic City Classic football game. Then Sanya struggles to keep her family and work separate when her assistant/brother-in-law quits.

Naked and Afraid: Last One Standing
DSC 6 p.m.

The toughest and most experienced all-stars from "Naked and Afraid" go head-to-head through a grueling, multiphase challenge and have their primitive skills tested for the chance to win $100,000 in South Africa's punishing Oribi Gorge.

Hometown Takeover
HGTV 6 p.m.

The people of Fort Morgan, Colorado are ready to reignite their community spirit when Ben and Erin revitalize a downtown park and the team throws a finale party to pass the torch back to the town. And Dave and Jenny renovate the home of a family.

Fear the Walking Dead
AMC 7 p.m.

Mo's (Zoey Merchant) search to prove PADRE's true intentions has her well beyond her capabilities as she's drawn into the larger web of secrets in this new episode. With a decimated militia and scarce resources, the survivors are running out of options.

Ciao House
FOOD 7 p.m.

In the penultimate episode of this competition's inaugural season, the remaining chefs' finale plans are turned upside down as hosts and judges Alex Guarnaschelli and Gabe Bertaccini invite some former contestants back for one final shot at redemption.

Bar Rescue
PAR 8 p.m.

Veterans of Foreign Wars deserve the opportunity to enjoy a frothy alcoholic beverage whenever they see fit. But if Jon Taffer and his team of experts don't rescue a VFW on its last legs, its patrons might miss out on celebrating its 75th anniversary.

Succession
HBO 10 p.m.

It's the end of an era as the series finale wraps up the turmoil of the Roy family and their equally dysfunctional Waystar Royco media corporation. Thanks for everything, dad. Will they go out in a blaze of glory or a metaphorical body bag?

Local therapist discusses mental health, self-care

By RICHARD COLTHARP

Las Cruces Bulletin

A hundred years ago, if people had concerns about their mental health, they might not even know what it was. But if they did, they might be told by friends and family: “Don’t talk about it. Don’t air your dirty laundry. It doesn’t exist. You’re just imagining things.”

Fifty years ago, the responses may have been different, but no more helpful: “Tough it out. Suck it up! No pain, no gain. What doesn’t kill you only makes you stronger.”

These days, however, we’re more in tune with mental health. We know about things such as post-traumatic stress disorder and depression. We’re more likely to say, “Let’s talk about it.”

And, according to licensed marriage and family therapist and certified sex therapist Andrea Dresser, we definitely should be talking about it.

“Check in with a friend, or a therapist,” said Dresser, who owns Counseling Las Cruces. “People need acknowledgement and validation. If you can’t find it in your circle of friends, then it’s time to reach out to a professional.”

The attitudes surrounding mental health issues may have slowly evolved, and some of the past stigmas are eroding.

The pandemic, however, brought a whole new set of challenges for everyone: people with mental health issues, the caregivers of those people, and the therapists who treat them.

“Covid was a game changer for everybody,” Dresser said. “People were isolated, stuck at home, as individuals, as families.”

That led to some negative fallout, she said, such as substance abuse, domestic abuse and divorce. Some people became reclusive and therapists saw a big increase in social anxiety.

“But it also led to people realizing it’s OK to ask for help,” she said.

No one has ever had a problem going to a doctor if they break an arm or get a deep cut on their leg. Dresser said seeking a mental health professional should be just as common.

The same goes with medication.

“If you were diabetic you’d take your insulin, right?” Dresser said. “And if you’re depressed, you need an anti-depressant to make you feel better.”

Often, small, non-pharmaceutical adjustments can make a big difference.

For couples, Dresser said, sometimes simply getting out of the house and going for a walk outside can change moods and attitudes for the better.

For people with social anxiety, Dresser said a simple “homework assignment” is, when you’re at the store, say hello to someone you don’t know. For many people, that may sound basic or even silly, but for those with deep angst, it can be a big challenge.

But the reward of having someone smile and say hello back can be immeasurable.

Those human interactions, especially when we do something to help each other, can make a big difference, Dresser said.

“Twelve-step programs, such as Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous are real big on getting out of yourself by doing something for somebody else,” she said. “Doing something for someone else is really healing.”

FINDING A THERAPIST

If you do decide to reach out to a therapist, be aware of the current therapist backlog. A combination of increased demand for therapists, and many therapists retiring or taking a break from their careers has made it more difficult to find one.

It has been further complicated by the fact Medicaid is more restrictive on therapists than commercial insurance, which can make it even more difficult for people with low income.

When you do find a therapist, though, don’t feel as if you have to stick with the first one you see, Dresser advised.

“When you’re picking a therapist, you can start deciding from the initial meeting, ‘Is it a fit, or is it not a fit?’” Dresser said. If you don’t feel comfortable with a therapist, they are not going to be offended.

“They want you to have the right fit,” Dresser said. One positive result of Covid has been the increase in telemedicine, which gives people flexibility in choosing between a telehealth meeting or an in-person discussion.

SIGNS AND COUNTERMEASURES

How do you know if you should seek professional help?

If you’re upset because your favorite basketball team lost a big game, that’s probably not the kind of long-term depression requiring therapy. But if you throw a chair through the television and tear up your house because of the game, that may be a sign of anger issues that need to be addressed.

Dresser listed some behaviors that could benefit from therapy: Sleep disruption, irritability, agitation, not finding joy in familiar activities, apathy, avoiding social situations, feelings of hopelessness, suicidal thoughts, thinking of plans for suicide, addiction.

She also listed some things, in addition to seeking therapy, that could benefit if you’re having these symptoms: Moving your body, getting some fresh air, calling an old friend.

“Going to your church, synagogue or mosque, or finding ways to reconnect to your spiritual life” can be valuable for many people, Dresser said.

HELPING ALL PEOPLE

Children can also benefit through therapy, and Counseling Las Cruces has rooms with toys and other items for children to play with as a therapist observes and interacts. Dresser said some signs that children 3 and older may need professional attention include: Bedwetting, acting out, nightmares, incessant crying, violent tantrums.

And while some stigmas are going away, others are being redirected.

There may be less stigma today around the gay and lesbian community, but there is increasing societal and legal stigma around other segments, for example, the transgender population.

“Before, there wasn’t the terminology we have now,” Dresser said. “In our practice, we see a lot of transgender people. I feel for that population because, politically, it’s getting worse and worse for them. Some states are denying them medical care.”

City of Las Cruces Parks and Recreation Departments

The City of Las Cruces recently completed design and construction of several trails within the city limits in cooperation with Elephant Butte Irrigation District. These trails include the Mesilla Drain Trail between the Outfall Channel Trail and Burn Lake (2.5 miles), the Armijo Lateral Trail between the Outfall Channel Trail and Burn Lake (three miles) and the Las Cruces Lateral Trail between the Outfall Channel Trail and Spruce Avenue near the Las Cruces Police Station and Fire Station #1 (1.5 miles).

These trails are in addition to other trails that are managed by the City Parks and Recreation Department; Triviz Drive Multi-Use Trail (4.5 miles) between the NMSU main campus and Kohl's, the Outfall Channel Trail (4.3 miles) between Kohl's and the river and the La Llorona/Rio Grande Trail (4.6 miles) connecting the Outfall Channel Trail with the Town of Mesilla.

Other trails within the city trail system include Alameda Arroyo Trail (0.7 miles) near Camino Real Middle School, Legends West Trails (1.2 miles) throughout the Legends West neighborhoods and the Twin Parks Trail (0.9 miles) on Engler Avenue between Mesa Drive and Jornada Drive.

The new trails in the city's system expand the recreational trail system within the city limits from over 19 miles in length to over 26 miles in length.

Upcoming city recreational trail projects include more Las Cruces lateral trails between NMSU main campus and Las Cruces High School and also connecting NMSU main campus to the Village of Tortugas.

Construction is on-going to finish trails in and around Las Cruces to provide access for healthy walking and activities.

Additional trails programming in the planning stages includes mountain bike trails in the vicinity of the East Mesa Public Recreation Complex. Also, the city is completing a park and trail wayfinding plan that will guide the placement and visual appeal of a comprehensive wayfinding sign system that will help guide park and trail users to destinations and routes that are accessible by pedestrians and bicyclists.

The Parks and Recreation Department trail system development is guided by the master plan which outlines our community's goal to provide a system of multi-use trails that support residents' and visitors' fitness, recreation and transportation needs while linking community destinations such as parks, open space, schools and other community activity centers. This goal is consistent with the city's Active Transportation Plan.

Nutrition: The road to empowering, feel-good health

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH

Nutritional health is of primary importance to taking care of yourself according to Nutritional Health Coach Clifford Kinnear Jr. who works at Natural Grocers. His job includes services from nutrition workshops and cooking classes to providing one-on-one grocery experiences, all at no cost.

When children help with the cooking it supports the overall morale of the family, he said. They love the cutting and chopping too.

But it's not only the food that goes into the body that is important, but it is also the nutrients in that food and the nutrient density in it. Kinnear describes the benefits of organic and non-GMO foods to the body and mind.

more things like like Omega-3 fatty acids which support anti-inflammatory response throughout the body.

"Grass fed cattle have more vitamins," he said. "It has vitamins A (eye health), D (healthy hormone balance, cholesterol balance), E (skin health, eye health) and K (supports healthy calcium balance within the blood)."

Kinnear said when it comes to immune always number one," he said. "And when we do that, complex carbohydrates are going to bring in energy so you can tackle whatever it is you have got going on in your life. Finding ways to support mood, cognition and memory is going to be vital and one of the best ways you can do that is through your diet."

Cooking breakfast in the morning before work has become an important act

PHOTOS BY ELVA ÖSTERREICH

Clifford Kinnear Jr. works with a class on understanding food labeling at Natural Grocers in Las Cruces.

Kinnear started school wanting to be a chef, decided he was interested in nursing, then combined the two to earn his master's in nutrition.

"The more I learned about nutrition and how it supported overall wellbeing, I just got more curious and just stayed in school" he said. "In 2019 I was program coordinator for NMSU (New Mexico State University) and working with different programs."

As he learned more about nutrition and about how to support people with their lifestyles as a coach, Kinnear said he learned how nutrition can make an impact on self-care.

"Whenever people learn more about nutrition and their wellbeing, they start practicing it more and more at home," he said. "They start feeling better, more energy and they start having fun because cooking with family is pretty fun."

He uses the example of corn fields. In an acre of corn grown non-organically, herbicides and pesticides are killing the bugs and different organisms in the soil.

"Whenever we do that, we have a lot of corn but there is no biodiversity," Kinnear said. "Whenever the bugs and different organisms in the soil are dying you are reducing the biodiversity of the soil. Plants will have more nutrients to them when the plants are going through stress and if the plants aren't being stressed by the environment, then the nutrient density isn't going to be the same."

He said there have been many studies supporting better nutrient density in organic products. For example, in a study on bell peppers, they found an organic bell pepper has more vitamin C than conventional produce and it tastes different.

Animals, too, will have more nutrients for example, the grass-fed cattle have health the most important part of your body is your stomach.

"Your gut is like your second brain," he said. "When it comes to feeling good and taking care of yourself, nutrition can play a huge role."

In another example, Kinnear said when he eats something that doesn't agree with him or isn't very nutritious, he notices a difference in his whole day.

"I'm not as alert, kind of groggy, tired, maybe my mood is off, I feel bored or sleepy," he said. "But when I am taking care of my meal, I find that my energy is supported."

As a general guideline, a good balance for a meal includes a plate half full of veggies, with another quarter of the plate having healthy fats and the other quarter healthy protein choices.

"It doesn't matter what kind of professional you are, eating more veggies is for Kinnear.

"It provides a lot of emotional support for me," he said. "I just take care of myself in the morning and that's my time."

And cooking itself is a fast business. It generally takes less time to fry up an egg and toss some vegetables in a pan than it does to stop at a fast-food place in the morning. Kinnear said if you pick out a day or two a week to spend some time on prep work, like chopping things up, all you need to do whenever it comes time to cook that meal is just heat up the ingredients or just throw it on the pan.

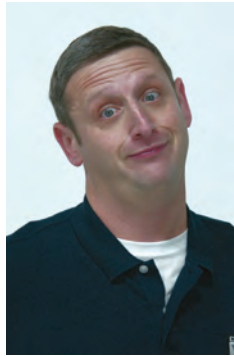

"Cooking is really relaxing, and it's fun," he said. "And it smells amazing when you sauté garlic and onions. It's nice to give time to yourself. While prepping and cooking, you are showing appreciation to yourself, giving time to yourself."

"The best thing we can do when it comes to self-care is to give ourselves time."

MAY 30
"I Think You Should Leave With Tim Robinson: Season 3"

Back for more off-the-wall and hilariously cringe-worthy content, this Emmy-winning sketch comedy series pokes fun at some of life's most bizarre and mundane situations. Usually featuring co-creator Tim Robinson ("Saturday Night Live") as the one who should leave, the series sees Robinson and his guest stars navigating hilariously socially awkward predicaments, from choking on hot dogs and hosting an intervention in a Garfield-themed house to uncomfortable job interviews and much more.

JUNE 2
"Manifest: Season 4, Part 2"

Struggling in the aftermath of the devastating volcanic fissure Angelina (Holly Taylor, "The Americans") released, the passengers face severe scrutiny in a world fueled by 828er hate. They are no longer free to solve their own Callings without constant supervision by the unscrupulous 828 Registry. Meanwhile, a mysterious accident delivers ominous warnings on a biblical scale that will further jeopardize the livelihood of all the passengers, Ben (Josh Dallas, "Once Upon a Time") and Saanvi (Parveen Kaur, "The Strain") attempt to collaborate with the Registry authorities and a mythological event reactivates Cal's (Ty Doran, "American Crime") sapphire-laden dragon scar.

"Movie: A Beautiful Life"

A romantic, musical journey, this new Danish film stars Danish musician Christopher ("When I Get Old") in his first leading acting role as Elliott, a young fisherman with an extraordinary voice. When he is discovered by a successful, high-profile music manager, he soon finds himself falling for her daughter, Lilly (Inga Ibsdotter Lilleaas, "The Last King," 2016). As his new career and relationship with Lilly start to blossom, ghosts from his past threaten to tear it all down.

"LEGO Ninjago: Dragons Rising"

In this new computer-animated children's series, many legendary realms have suddenly combined into one, but their union is unstable. A Spinjitzu Ninja Master must train a new generation of heroes to help find Elemental Dragons who can save the planet before the forces of evil use the same dragon energy to destroy this new world.

Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant in "Bringing Up Baby"

Flipping 101 With Tarek El Moussa HGTV 6 p.m.

Buying low and selling high is the dream of most house flippers. But it's that work in the middle that's the difference between making it and losing it. Flipper extraordinaire Tarek El Moussa knows just how to keep newbies on track to maximize profits.

Movie: Bringing Up Baby TCM 6 p.m.

Paleontologist David Huxley (Cary Grant) hopes to get Mrs. Random (May Robson), a philanthropist, to donate $1 million to his museum. But when he meets Mrs. Random's high-spirited young niece, Susan Vance (Katharine Hepburn), chaos ensues.

2023 NBA Finals Game 1: Teams TBA KVIA 6:30 p.m.

Chances are your favorite team did not make it this far. But two talented teams are set to kick things off in the opening game of the 2023 NBA Championship Finals. And if you had Milwaukee vs. Memphis in your office pool, just enjoy the popcorn.

I Survived Bear Grylls TBS 7 p.m.

This isn't cosplay. Survivalist Bear Grylls makes America's "armchair adventurers" eat their words by creating challenges that will test their real world smarts, physicality and their ability to modify plans on a dime in order to survive.

The Dead Files TRAV 7 p.m.

Paranormal researcher and physical medium Amy Allan and her co-host, retired NYPD homicide detective Steve DiSchiavi, reunite during the Season 15 premiere, combining their unique (and often opposing) skills to make sense of paranormal phenomena.

Movie: The Breakfast Club AMC 8 p.m.

A group of five high school students suffer through a Saturday detention with their principal in this 1985 comedy. Each tells their own story, making the others see them a little differently, leaving them to wonder if school will ever be the same.

Celebrity Prank Wars E! 11 p.m.

June 2 "Deadloch"

This eight-part Australian dark comedy series, set in the sleepy seaside hamlet of Deadloch, Tasmania, kicks off when a local man turns up dead on the beach and the town is left reeling. Two detectives are thrown together to solve the case: fastidious local Senior Sgt. Dulcie Collins (Kate Box, "Rake") and Senior Investigator Eddie Redcliffe (Madeleine Sami, "Super City"), a rough blow-in from Darwin. As the town gets ready for its annual arts, food and culture event — the Winter Festival — the duo, along with their overeager junior constable, Abby (Nina Oyama, "Utopia"), put their differences aside as they work together to find the killer.

"With Love: Season 2"

The new season of this rom-com series finds Lily focusing all of her energy on a journey of self-love after her whirlwind romance with Santiago (Rome Flynn, "How to Get Away With Murder") by growing her business and looking for more independence. But with the potential for love knocking at her door, she'll have to decide what's best for her future. Meanwhile, Jorge struggles in his relationship with Henry (Vincent Rodriguez III, "Crazy Ex-Girlfriend"), and meeting Henry's parents has him questioning whether they're truly compatible.

May 29 "Movie: Hot Pursuit"

Escorting the outgoing widow (Sofia Vergara, "Modern Family") of a drug boss on a journey across Texas, uptight and by-the-book cop (Rese Witherspoon, "Wild," 2014) must protect her charge from a slew of crooked cops and murderous gunman. Matthew Del Negro ("City on a Hill"), Michael Mosley ("Ozark"), Robert Kazinsky ("Pacific Rim," 2013), Richard T. Jones ("The Rookie") and Michael Ray Escamilla ("Snowfall") also star.

May 28 "Movie: She Said"

This biographical drama film tells the story of New York Times reporters Megan Twohey (Carey Mulligan, "Inside Llewyn Davis," 2013) and Jodi Kantor (Zoe Kazan, "Ruby Sparks," 2012) as they break one of the most important stories in a generation — one that helped ignite a movement and shattered decades of silence around the subject of sexual assault in Hollywood.

Hugh Grant as Forge in "Dungeons & Dragons: Honor Among Thieves"

VIEW FROM THE COUCH (for week of May 28)

"DUNGEONS & DRAGONS: HONOR AMONG THIEVES"

The popular role-playing game boasts true star power in its latest movie incarnation, with Chris Pine and Michelle Rodriguez teamed as a pair of thieves whose exploits involve more than a taste of the supernatural. They pursue items that have that otherworldly sense attached, but so does a villain (Hugh Grant) who wants the same objects to use in his pursuit of world domination. As should be expected, special effects play a major role in what transpires. Rege-Jean Page ("Bridg-erton") and Sophia Lillis also appear. DVD extras: six "making-of" documentaries; deleted and extended scenes; outtakes. (PG-13: P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD, Digital and On Demand)

"A GOOD PERSON"

Zach Braff was making his own movies while he was on television's "Scrubs," and he gets back behind the cameras with this deeply emotional drama. The film's writer and director, he gives the central role to Florence Pugh as a woman who becomes involved in a car accident in which two future in-laws of hers die. She was behind the wheel, and she grapples with immense guilt as she deals with the deceased couple's daughter (Celeste O'Connor) and that teenager's grandfather (an expert-as-always Morgan Freeman). Chinaza Uche, Molly Shannon and Zoe Lister-Jones ("Life in Pices") also appear.  (R: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

That's 65 as in "65 million years ago," the period in which this fantasy-adventure is set. The story combines elements of the past and future as "Star Wars" franchise veteran Adam Driver returns to an intergalactic environment by playing a space traveler left alone when his vessel crashes, killing almost all of his companions. He's redeemed from total desperation by a youngster (Ariana Greenblatt) he vows to protect, channeling the feelings he had for the seriously ill daughter he left behind to undertake the mission. Dinosaurs are among the dangers faced by the duo as they become aware that an asteroid is in a collision course with Earth. Scott Beck and Bryan Woods shared writing and directing duties on the sci-fi thriller.  (PG-13: P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD, Digital and On Demand)

"RAIN MAN"

Dustin Hoffman won his second Oscar for best actor for director Barry Levinson's superb 1988 film, making its 4K Ultra HD debut. Hoffman has one of his most iconic roles as Raymond, an autistic savant who meets his car-selling huckster brother Charlie (Tom Cruise). The latter wants to milk that newly discovered familial connection for any financial benefit he can get out of it, in the aftermath of their father's death, but he develops different feelings during a road trip shared by the siblings. Valeria Golino also appears in the picture, which went a long way toward building Cruise's credibility as an adult star of true character pieces, not just escapist fare. * (R: AS, P)

"CLIFFHANGER"

One of Sylvester Stallone's most popular and successful movies outside the "Rocky" and "Rambo" franchises returns to home video in a 4K Ultra HD Steelbook edition. The star plays a mountain rescue ranger who goes AWOL after experiencing an on-the-job tragedy, and when he returns, his path crosses that of criminals trying to recover a fortune stolen from the U.S. Treasury and lost in a failed mid-air transfer. The result is bountiful action, supposedly set in Colorado but actually filmed largely in Italy by director Renny Harlin ("Die Hard 2"). John Lithgow chews scenery enjoyably as the main villain in a cast that also includes Michael Rooker, Janine Turner, Ralph Waite, Caroline Goodall, Rex Linn ("Big Sky") and Paul Winfield. A remake involving Stallone reportedly is in the works.  (R: AS, P, V)

Checking In with
TYLER HOECHLIN

It seems that just about everyone is well-versed in, and on, Superman ... except, perhaps, for the actor who's currently playing him on weekly television.

As a youngster, Tyler Hoechlin had other interests, but he got a quick education in the Man of Steel upon landing the coveted role on "Superman & Lois." Now heading toward the end of its third season Tuesdays on The CW (and, in Canada, on CTV Sci-Fi Channel), the series has taken a very deep dive into the family life of the title characters — extending to how they've dealt with a family health crisis lately. That's new material for the iconic figures, and that may have benefited Hoechlin in his not having a preconceived, long-held notion of Superman.

"I really don't have a history with the character," the friendly "7th Heaven" alum confirms. "I played baseball and was acting at a young age, so all of my free time was taken up, and comic books weren't really my thing ... but in what I think in a fortunate way, that lack of history is beneficial, in that I can approach (Superman) in a way that's very honest and intuitive."

Indeed, Hoechlin believes the approach taken by

"Superman & Lois" sets it apart from other incarnations of the saga that he's now aware of. Noting that "the tone is very different," he emphasizes, "We've never seen this before, and that's a very freeing experience on the set."

Even then, Hoechlin wasn't sure he wanted to take flight as Superman at the start. He was enjoying being a free agent with acting gigs, but he changed his mind just in time. He recalls the producers "were thinking this was something they might actually get done, and I was ready to commit to something long-term again. It just worked out for everybody."

Dance Eclectic reimagines Alice in Wonderland

BULLETIN REPORT

Dance Eclectic (DE) will present “A Mad Mad Tea Party” at 8 p.m. Saturday, June 3, and 2:30 p.m. Sunday, June 4, at Black Box Theatre, 430 N. Main St. downtown.

Tickets are $15 for adults and $12 for students and seniors.

“This show is different than all of the shows we have done before,” DE Artistic Director Morgan Rivera said. “A Mad Mad Tea Party,” is the story of “Alice in Wonderland” set in 1970s California during the cultural revolution, Rivera said.

The production includes shorter and longer pieces and narration, telling the story of Alice, “a southern belle, who doesn’t feel like she fits in,” Rivera said.

Alice travels to San Francisco to find herself, meeting Pilar, who takes her to various places like a beatnik cafe, the post office, and the compound where Pilar lives. By the end Alice finds herself and changes her name to Aria.

The show is intended for adult audiences, Rivera said.

When Rivera took over as creative director in 2016, the company was known as Mesilla Valley Dance Collective and had seven members, she said, but no rehearsal space. The collective continued under Rivera’s leadership, giving all members equal say in how it was run, she said. It found a rehearsal space and obtained nonprofit status.

“Things started to fall into place for us,” Rivera said. “We created our first show.”

Ceil and Peter Herman provided a performance space for DE at Black Box Theatre.

“We have been performing there ever since,” Rivera said. “They love having dance in their theatre and have a lovely marley floor for us to dance on.”

The nonprofit’s name changed to Dance Eclectic in 2018, she said, which was “more encompassing of what we do and who we are. We are eclectic and we love to dance.”

“We are a group of people who come from all types of movement backgrounds who love to dance and perform,” Rivera said. “There are a few with dance degrees. Some who have cheer backgrounds. We have had strictly ballerinas in the past. We are all about inclusivity. We put a lot of work into producing professional shows.”

With increased technical demands for its performances, DE created a studio company, which has two members: a high school student who studied dance at Picacho Middle School with Rivera and another dancer who is autistic, she said. DE Studio participates in Fringe Dance Festival and the Renaissance ArtsFaire every year.

DE’s first show was “Pandora,” a play on Pandora’s Box, “but not in the traditional sense,” Rivera said. “One of our members was processing the grief of a friend passing away. So, the show was about how we process grief (the box being the event that created the grief).”

In 2018, DE created “Dancing in the Desert,” a dance festival show in which we invite other artists to share the stage with us,” she said. We re-named this show “Fringe Dance Festival” in 2019. We are expanding it every year.”

DE’s second show was “The Scarab Thief.”

For that production, DE used a ballet called “The Pharaoh’s Daughter,” about a thief who gets caught in a sandstorm and blown into a pyramid filled with treasure.

The nonprofit’s next show was “A Western Ode,” its first show featuring only DE dancers.

“For this one we took the story of the Odyssey but decided it would be fun as a western,” Rivera said. “We titled our main character ‘Ode’ as a play on a few things,” she said, including that the white swan in ‘Swan Lake’ is named Odette. Ode is also a reference to a previous time, she said.

After “A Western Ode,” DE decided it needed to add narration to its shows.

“The story was of a girl trying to make it in the movies,” Rivera said, and included all DE dancers and one guest artist.

As it continued through Covid, DE “wanted to tell the story of mental illness,” she said. “We chose the children’s story ‘Where the Wild Things Are,’ to help guide us.”

Doing a lot of the show’s choreography via Zoom, DE decided to film the production.

The company also moved to a new rehearsal space.

“The Ring Leader” was DE’s next show, in January 2022, and was a play on the movie “The Greatest Showman,” Rivera said. “We came up with some fun circus-type dances and asked a couple of guests who do circus acts with Odd Lab to join us.”

Houser to play July 4 concert

BULLETIN REPORT

The City of Las Cruces and New Mexico State University are teaming up to host the city's annual Fourth of July celebration concert and fireworks display at Pat and Lou Sisbarro Community Park, 3205 Arrowhead Drive on the NMSU campus.

The concert will begin at 6 p.m. Tuesday, July 4, followed by the city's annual fireworks display celebrating the 247th anniversary of the day the Declaration of Independence was ratified by the Second Continental Congress in 1776.

Platinum-selling country artist Randy Houser will headline this year's free concert, the city said in a news release. Opening acts will be Las Cruces country singers Chris Baker and Dzaki Sukarno.

Houser's 2013 Stoney Creek Records album "How Country Feels" produced three consecutive No. 1 hits and has sold more than four million singles to date, the city said. The album's title track, plus "Runnin' Outta Moonlight" and "Goodnight Kiss" all topped the charts, while "Like A Cowboy" was nominated for the Country Music Association song of the year. Houser added another No. 1 hit to his catalogue with "We Went," from his 2016 album, "Fired Up."

The Mississippi native's sixth studio album, "Note To Self," features 10 tracks all co-written by Houser, and is now available. Lead single and title track "Note To Self" has made its way up the country music charts. Houser's return to the music scene has been hailed by MusicRow, who described him as "one of country music's very finest vocalists."

Houser's talents have also been recognized beyond music, as he landed onscreen roles in Martin Scorsese's upcoming film "Killers of the Flower Moon," and "The Hill."

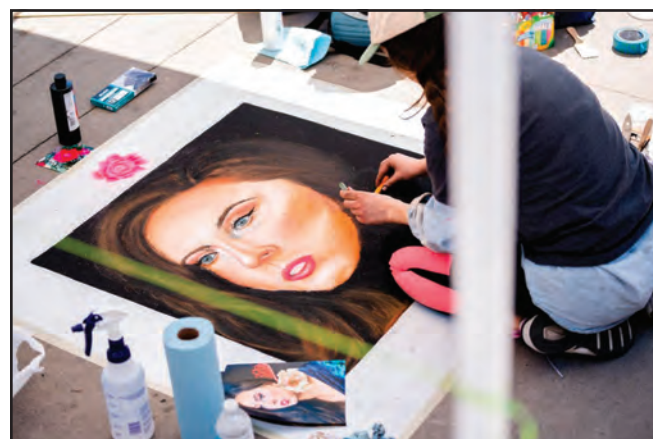

The Fourth of July celebration follows the July 3 Electric Light Parade.

'Gypsy' returns to Community Theatre June 2

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

"Gypsy: A Musical Fable" will open Friday, June 2, for a three weekend-run at Las Cruces Community Theatre (LCCT), 313 N. Main St. downtown.

Tickets are $17 for adults, $14 for seniors, students and military and $10 for children. Visit www.lcctnm.org/gypsy to purchase tickets online. Tickets will also be available at the box office before each show, but reservations are highly recommended, as all nine performances are likely to sell out in advance.

"Gypsy" was written by Jule Styne, Stephen Sondheim and Arthur Laurents, loosely based on the memoirs of burlesque entertainer Gypsy Rose Lee (1911-70). The show opened on Broadway in 1959, with revivals in 1974, 1989, 2003 and 2008. The revivals won a total of six Tony awards.

The LCCT production is directed by Constance Hasapopoulos, with a cast that includes Janet Beatty-Payne and Cassandra Galban.

"Collaborating with so many outstanding creative forces is not only exciting but makes my 'world' feel put together," Hasapopoulos said. "Whether it's the hilariously bawdy strip-pers belting out 'You Gotta Have A Gimmick,' or the heartrending 'Everything's Coming Up Roses,' the madness of directing such a large circus of talent melts away and makes it all feel worthwhile."

"I've been wanting to play Mama Rose since I was 18 years old and saw Tyne Daly play the role in a touring production of 'Gypsy' back in St. Louis where I grew up," Beatty-Payne said. "So, I've been waiting 34 years to play this part! Mama Rose is the last big role on my 'dream role' list, so this is very exciting for me to get to create this incredibly complex, bold, powerful, fun character. Belting out iconic songs such as 'Everything's Coming Up Roses' and 'Some People' is just a thrill and I'm so excited to get to share this production with our amazing community," said Beatty-Payne, who is president of the LCCT Board of Directors.

"I'm playing Pop Rose's Bible-loving dad," said Las Cruces actor David Edwards. He played "the appropriately named" Pasty, the stage manager in Wichita, when LCCT produced "Gypsy" in 2003-04.

"I think we mostly tried to stay out of everyone's way backstage," Edwards said about the production 20 years ago. "I'm looking forward to this new production and working with Constance and Janet."

The cast also includes Dustin Wright, Ed Montez, Teddy Aspen Sanchez and Rachel Thomas-Chappel.

Costume designer Richard Fredrick has designed for The Old Globe Theatre and La Jolla Playhouse. Former Broadway performer Anna Robillard is the show's co-choreogra-

Mayor's Jazz Fest set for May 28 at Plaza

BULLETIN REPORT

The City of Las Cruces Parks and Recreation Department will host the 2023 Mayor's Jazz Fest Concert at 7 p.m. Sunday, May 28, at Plaza de Las Cruces, 100 N. Main St. There is no charge to attend.

The concert will feature El Paso's Frank Zona, with Albuquerque's Son Como Son as the opening act.

Zona, a saxophonist, leads a group known for its high energy, rhythm and blues-influenced Jazz, the City of Las Cruces said in a news release.

Zona's album releases include "Frank Zona & Urban Edge – Live!!" and the studio recording "Over The Edge," which has received national and international airplay since its release, the city said. Zona studied saxophone with New York Jazz legend

Joe Manzone, University of Illinois woodwind professor Ralph Athey and has opened for The Yardbirds, James Brown, The Fabulous Thunderbirds, Ryan Starr and Ozomatli and has shared the stage with Dave Koz, Candy Dulfer, Richard Elliot and Najee.

Son Como Son, which bills itself as "Salsa Cuban Style," was founded in 1993 and is one of Albuquerque's longest standing and most popular salsa ensembles, the city said. Son Como Son plays regularly at the New Mexico Jazz Workshop's Salsa Under the Stars Series. The group is directed by trombonist/vocalist/percussionist/composer/arranger César Bauvallet, who moved from Havana, Cuba, to Albuquerque in 1992.

For more information, call 575-541-2550.

On May 4 and 5, 2023, Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) gave a tour of its facilities to new members of the LCU Board of Commissioners (Board) and the Capital Improvement Advisory Committee (CIAC). They went to well sites, booster stations, water tanks, and the Jorge A. Garcia Water Quality Laboratory, among other locations. Get to know the new members:

Philip Simpson, LCU Board

With degrees in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering from Georgia Tech and New Mexico State University (NMSU), Simpson has spent over 35 years as a civilian in various test and evaluation roles at Holloman Air Force Base and White Sands Missile Range before retiring in 2017.

Simpson began engaging in utilities issues before the New Mexico Public Regulation Commission (NMPRC), intervening and testifying in favor of increased solar power generation, energy efficiency, and electric vehicle charging incentives, among other things. He earned a master's degree in Economics from NMSU in 2021, with a concentration in Public Utility Policy & Regulation. He is interested in transitioning from fossil fuels to clean energy, especially in areas where clean energy is already cheaper than petroleum and natural gas.

"It was wonderful to see the wide range of services performed by LCU, like ensuring our drinking water is safe, handling our waste in all its forms, and cleaning up old environmental messes like the Griggs and Walnut superfund site," said Simpson. "I was impressed by the knowledge and dedication of all the LCU employees and the smart combinations of high-tech water quality monitoring and inexpensive, natural processes to treat and clean our waste products."

earned his bachelor's degree in Business Administration from NMSU in 2019. He is a commercial lender with First National Bank and serves on the board for Casa De Peregrinos, a food pantry serving residents in Las Cruces and the surrounding areas.

"I am proud to serve on a committee such as the CIAC that helps the community grow and thrive and watch local businesses succeed," said Freilino.

Ed Haworth, CIAC Member

Haworth has a background in planning and building for several communities in California, including the Director of Planning and Administration at Irvine Company, which included coordination of capital improvement programs for those entities. He has prepared numerous general master plans for local communities and hopes to use his experience in Las Cruces.

"Based on our recent tour of public utilities, I was extremely impressed with the professionalism of LCU and how our utilities are maintained," said Haworth. "I look forward to working with the CIAC Committee in continuing the quality of services the City of Las Cruces has developed and continue to work on updating our development fee structure needed to meet the future growth needs of the community."

Arts Council offers summer programs

BULLETIN REPORT

The Doña Ana Arts Council (DAAC) will offer two youth enrichment programs during the summer of 2023: Career Art Path (CAP) and Missoula Children's Theatre (MCT).

This is the 34th year DAAC will offer CAP, the arts council said in a news release. The program was founded by Marian and Jordon Wolle, "who believed middle school is the time for youth who are interested in the arts to realize their creative potential." During the two-week immersive CAP workshop, June 5-16, fifth-eighth-grade students explore art-related careers through hands-on art-making activities, guest speakers and field trips, DAAC said. And, the artwork they create during CAP will be exhibited by DAAC. The cost of CAP participation is $100 per student.

"As a former middle school arts educator, I am excited to support our young aspiring artists and look forward to seeing their creativity take form," DAAC Executive Director Araceli Solis said.

MCT "is one of the most exciting and fun summer programs for children and youth in Las Cruces," DAAC said. In this one-week theater camp, July 10-15, actors in grades one-12 "not only experience the thrill of performing, but also have the opportunity to work with theater props and costumes and learn invaluable team-building skills," DAAC said. This year, MCT students will perform "The Little Mermaid." Tuition is $70 per student, with a discount for children in the same immediate family.

Scholarships are available for both programs, DAAC said. To register for either program or for more information, contact Karen Conley at manager@daarts.org. To sponsor one or both programs, contact Solis at director@daarts.org.

Filming in Las Cruces

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

The film "The Line" has begun production in Las Cruces, New Mexico Film Office (NMFO) Director Amber Dodson said in a news release.

"We are thrilled to welcome 'The Line' to Las Cruces," interim Film Liaison Andrew Jara said. "In addition to showcasing our unique locations and talented crew, the film is providing some great opportunities for students to gain invaluable experience."

The film is about Emily, a young filmmaker who sets out to shoot a documentary about reuniting with her estranged mother of 14 years. When her mother vanishes, Emily's project explodes from an intimate exploration of family into something much more sinister.

"The Line" is produced by Gary Lucchesi ("Million Dollar Baby"), Aaron Kogan ("5 Doctors"), Steven Klein (Emmy-nominated "Wrestle"), and Michael McKay ("The Age of Adaline"), and Oscar-nominated documentary filmmaker, Pedro Kos ("Lead Me Home"), is set to direct, NMFO said.

"I fell in love with Las Cruces and have been so inspired by this area that it's becoming its own character in our film, as we are rooting our story in the local community," Kos said. The production is employing more than 60 New Mexicans, NMFO said, including approximately 25 background talent, 28 resident crew members and eight actors.

DAAC to open Sonya Fe exhibit

BULLETIN REPORT

Award-winning Las Cruces artist Sonya Fe will have a solo exhibit at the Doña Ana Arts Council (DAAC), June 2-June 28.

The exhibit, "RAW," will include more than two dozen pieces, many of which have not been exhibited previously, primarily because of their graphic subject matter, including child abuse, the artist said in an arts council news release.

In the show, Fe said she wants "the viewer to feel, see and understand what I am saying – to not be left behind."

"Sonya has an encyclopedia of stories, and visualization of these stories seems to come naturally to her," said DAAC Gallery Manager Penny Peace. "In creating her visual narratives, it's as if she's building an infrastructure, piece by piece. And each piece in this building process becomes an integral and visible part of the story she shares with us. And, more importantly, from my point of view, she forces us outside of our comfort zones. So, be prepared to react."

Fe, who grew up in the William Mead Housing Projects, aka "Dog Town," in East LA, began drawing at a young age on her family's cement floor, DAAC said. She has exhibited extensively in the United States and internationally and her work is exhibited in museums and private collections. Last year, Fe received the DAAC Newcomer Award, and she published "Barrio Girl goes to

Two receptions will be held for the "RAW exhibit": 5-8 p.m. Friday, June 2, and noon-3 p.m. Saturday, June 10. Both receptions will be held at DAAC, 230 S. Water St.

Begin Your Journey to Live Life Pain Free

Dr. Janet Quintanilla, DOM, Dipl. OM. of the Sonoma Acupuncture Integrative Health Center has been successfully using a breakthrough non-surgical treatment for Chronic Painsufferers in New Mexico for more than 10 years.

INTRODUCING ANOTHER SOLUTION

At Sonoma Acupuncture Integrative Health, we seamlessly blend the time-tested science of acupuncture with more innovative, medical solutions in order to achieve measurable long-lasting results. As a leader in Acupuncture and Integrative Medicine we specialize in difficult-to-treat chronic conditions.

WHY USE ACUPUNCTURE?

Acupuncture is a time-tested, holistic medicine that can help to decrease pain and restore function. An initial consultation with Dr. Quintanilla is required to find out if you are a candidate for Acupuncture. If you are determined to be a candidate, we can perform your first procedure the same day.

WHAT SHOULD I EXPECT WITH ACUPUNCTURE?

- Quick & Painless: Acupuncture is quick and painless, you're in and out of the office in 30 minutes.
- Treatment Course: Is individually set, specific to your needs and concerns.
- Accurate Evaluation: After evaluation, we will analyze your presentation and give you an estimate of the number of treatments likely needed based on clinically evidence based data.
- The Process: The Acupuncture process is repeated 2-4 times a week until maximum improvement is seen. Then a maintenance regimen is recommended to prevent recurrence. Maintenance may only be needed 2 times per month.
- Absence Of Symptoms: Acupuncture can and often results in a complete absence of symptoms, even in severe pain conditions that have been present for years.

AM I A CANDIDATE FOR ACUPUNCTURE?

Yes! The medical literature shows acupuncture's effect on nearly every biophysical system in the body. "I've seen patients suffering from a wide variety of problems respond to acupuncture treatment when nothing else has worked". So, for most people, yes, acupuncture is something you should explore.

HOW MANY ACUPUNCTURE TREATMENTS WILL I NEED?

The number of treatments needed differs from person to person. For complex or long-standing conditions, one or two treatments a week for several months may be recommended. For acute problems, usually fewer visits are required, and for health maintenance, we recommend monthly tune ups.

WILL IT HURT?

No. It's very comfortable. Most people end up taking a nap during the treatment and leave feeling relaxed and refreshed.

COVERED BY INSURANCE?

Since there are many varying types of insurance plans, we offer a complimentary check to see if your insurance plan offers reimbursement for acupuncture. If it does not, we offer payment options for your treatment plan and accept cash, credit card or check.

MVFG slates Wilkey, Zolto as June artists

BULLETIN REPORT

The Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Gallery, 2470-A Calle de Guadalupe on the historic Mesilla plaza, will feature the work of local artists Jean Wilkey and Bob Zolto in June, the gallery said in a news release.

"Wilkey's art starts with color, with a momentary glance at something previously unseen, with a feeling," the gallery said. "She paints worlds populated with plants, animals, people and objects that blur the line between indoor and outdoor, between still life and landscape. Her compositions incorporate personal symbolism that becomes a metaphor for our relationship to the animal kingdom, to nature and to our spiritual and physical selves."

Wilkey's art has appeared in Southwest Art and Exploring Tosca magazines and is in private collections in the United States and abroad. She holds an MFA in painting and has taught at NMSU, UTEP, and Doña Ana Community College. Wilkey currently teaches painting in her Las Cruces studio.

Zolto moved to Las Cruces in 2009 after a 40-year career as an editor for the New York Times. His interest in photography was reawakened by the New Mexican landscape, the gallery

ANNUAL DRILL: Las Cruces Utilities partners with the local fire department. By C.T. Barnes

Imagine coming into work one morning and immediately having to respond to an emergency call. When you arrive on the scene you realize it is just a drill. Scenarios like this happen yearly for Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) Gas employees. Every year, LCU hosts a much-needed safety drill in partnership with the local fire department regarding natural gas emergencies.

LCU supervisors and trainers work closely with the Las Cruces Fire Department to set up drills for newer team members in both departments. Only a select few know when the drills will happen and what the scenario will be. Each drill is recorded so both teams can see how accurately their response was, and what they could improve upon for when a real-life event happens.

"It is important that we grow with positive feedback and with safety as a reminder," LCU Technical Gas Service Supervisor and Interim Gas System Operations Supervisor Pete Duran stated. "For instance, this last drill we had, one of our new team members passed out from the heat, and the fire department had to respond in this now real-life event," Duran continued.

On the day of these drills, two scenarios are presented. The first drill is a blowing natural gas line called in by the fire department, and the second drill is a natural gas line leak in which the fire department is called in for support. Each drill lasts up to two and a half hours. The first drill will take part in the morning and the second drill will take place early afternoon.

LCU corrosion survey equipment at a test location - Courtesy LCU

Drills only take place in the spring due to the extreme heat summers can bring. There are 25-30 people involved including natural gas locators, dispatchers, and service departments.

"The great thing about these drills is how they show what our strengths and weaknesses are as a team," Duran stated. "There is no discipline involved for mistakes, just a debrief meeting at the end of each drill and an opportunity to get better," Duran concluded.

The drills also provide an opportunity for both sides to learn the code words and lingo involved when both teams are called out to manage natural gas issues in the community.

"The first time we did this drill, we found a gap in not knowing code words that the fire department used, which we both were able to fix to work together as one team," Duran concluded.

Safety is a top priority at LCU. In fact, last year, LCU was nationally recognized for their efforts. Even with the last drill they were able to identify simple issues such as the importance of eating right and remaining hydrated when working in the field. LCU is committed to learning and growing with each drill to better serve the Las Cruces community.

Santa Teresa keeps booming with expansions

BULLETIN REPORT

A New Orleans-based pepper exchange has purchased a 10-acre site in the southern Doña Ana County industrial boom town. And, a vegetable processing company is expanding operations there.

Louisiana Pepper Exchange (LPE) bought land in Santa Teresa's Ironhorse Industrial Park, the New Mexico Economic Development Department (NMEDD) said in a news release. The site will include a 40,000-square-foot processing warehouse and space for tank farms to store 30 million pounds of pepper mash for sale to U.S. customers.

The company will benefit from the industrial parks "strategic transportation advantages in processing pepper imports from Mexico and Central America (and cultivating) relationships with growers in southern New Mexico," NMEDD said.

"We are excited that Louisiana Pepper Exchange has chosen Santa Teresa for its expansion," Border Industrial Alliance President Jerry Pacheco of Santa Teresa told the Bulletin. "The efficient Santa Teresa Port of Entry and the overweight cargo zone in the Santa Teresa industrial base were two major factors in recruiting this value-added agricultural business. Additionally, a company such as this could put us in front of more players and suppliers in this industry."

The State of New Mexico is supporting the expansion with $300,000 from NMEDD's Local Economic Development Act (LEDA) job-creation fund. LPE expects to hire at least 20 people over the next five years with an average salary of $45,000, NMEDD said.

"We are excited to welcome Louisiana Pepper Exchange to the Borderplex region," said Davin Lopez, president and CEO of Mesilla Valley Economic Development

Alliance (MVEDA), which helped in recruiting LPE to Santa Teresa. "Their investment continues to solidify Doña Ana County as the chile capital of the world for both growing and processing."

LPE's presence in Santa Teresa "is a testament to the attractive business climate and talented workforce we have to offer. We wish them all the best in their endeavors and are eager to see what the future holds for their business and the economic impact their presence brings to our county," Doña Ana County Commission Chair Susana Chaparro said.

The City of Anthony,

New Mexico is supporting LPE with industrial revenue bonds, NMEDD said.

"Mayor Diana Murillo (who is also a Doña Ana County commissioner) believes in recruiting outside industry into our region so we can create new jobs for residents in southern Doña Ana County and the City of Anthony," Anthony City Manager Mario Juarez-Infante said.

LPE was established in 2010 by U.S. Army veteran Chris White, who patented "a proprietary shipping methodology for bulk pepper mash, which now supplies mash worldwide

ST still needs industrial space

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

About 6 million square feet of industrial space is now in use in Santa Teresa, and about 900,000 square feet is under construction.

"We are currently 100 percent occupied and we really need available space," said Border Industrial Association (BIA) President Jerry Pacheco.

Pacheco said Blue Road Investments is constructing its fourth (420,000 square feet) and fifth (220,000 square feet) buildings, which should be completed in the spring of 2024. He said Abyacsa Construction is completing work on its first spec building, which is 135,000 square feet, and is beginning work on a second building of the same size.

Pacheco said about 70 businesses are now operating in Santa Teresa, and about 85 percent are involved in cross-border trade with Mexico. They employ about 6,000 workers.

"The industrialization occurring at Santa Teresa provides the best way for New Mexico to diversify its economy, which is now heavily dominated in petroleum extraction, government spending, and tourism," Pacheco said. "This is evidenced by the fact that more than 50 percent of New Mexico's total exports to the world originate in Santa Teresa."

Founded by Pacheco in 2009, BIA is an advocacy group that represents the Santa Teresa Industrial base. Since its founding, BIA has successfully lobbied for more than $100 million in infrastructure funding for the Santa Teresa industrial base, he said.

With about 5,500 residents, Santa Teresa has .001 percent of New Mexico's population but generates more than half of the state's nearly $5 billion in international exports, Pacheco said.

Gym Magic earns statewide SBA recognition

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

Nancy Bates, owner of Gym Magic, Inc. of Las Cruces, received the U.S. Small Business Administration's (SBA) 2023 New Mexico Women-Owned Small Business of the Year award May 5.

Bates was the only award recipient from Las Cruces as SBA New Mexico recognized 14 award winners at a ceremony in Albuquerque.

Bates has been a client of the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) at Doña Ana Community College since 2000.

"The SBDC at DACC has provided technical assistance to Nancy and helped her with the process of applying for her SBA loans," SBDC Business Advisory Jennifer Therrien said in nominating Bates for the award. "Nancy started Gym Magic in Las Cruces with no business ownership experience and has owned and operated this thriving business for almost 30 years.

"The success of Gym Magic is Nancy's passion for people," Therrien said. "Nancy is passionate about the children who frequent Gym Magic, The Village and Ashley's Garden. She is also passionate about her employees and their well-being. Gym Magic employs 46 people in a city with a population of 104,519. Nancy is a business owner who knows her people are her greatest asset! I believe Nancy is a role model and an inspiration. She built Gym Magic from the ground up and has overcome every challenge she has faced personally and professionally."

"Running any small business truly requires a 'team' dedicated to supporting one another,"

Bates told the Bulletin.

"This is our 30th year in business, and our 20th year as a multi-sport facility, so we really have a lot to be grateful for. Women in business face extra issues, but groups like SBA and SBDC help level this playing field.

"We were especially fortunate in 2003 when Dan Panagrossi moved to Las Cruces, as he understood what a children's multi-sport program was all about. His guidance and assistance helped us get our very first SBA loan in 2003. I don't think we would exist today without his help. Then in 2019 when we wanted to expand to a second location, we again had the good fortune of working with great people like Jennifer Therrien from SBDC and Phil Stevens from Bank 34. They have been wonderful supporters of our programs and helped us through another SBA loan.

"I am so proud of the dedicated people I work with at Gym Magic and The Village," Bates said. "We named our second location, The Village, as we believe it takes a village to properly care for children. Today's parents don't always have the luxury of an extended family to help care for their children, plus parents today have very busy lives. Our hope is to help take some of that burden off their shoulders. Our staff is passionate about working with young children to help them shine and develop self-confidence."

"It is heartwarming to have an entrepreneur from our community receive this well-deserved award," said local SBDC Director Jo Ann Garay. "Nancy exemplifies everything an awardee for the Woman-Owned Small Business of the Year should be. She has built a business with a reputation of trust, quality services, and professionalism which are critical factors in attracting and retaining customers."

Meanwhile, Oro LLC is expanding operations into Santa Teresa, NMEDD said in another news release.

"The company has identified a 20-acre site in Gateway Rail Park and expects to begin construction this summer," NMEDD said. "When the facility opens in 2024, Oro plans to create 49 jobs in New Mexico with an average salary of $35,710.

Oro will invest $19 million into the site, the department said. The state awarded $750,000 LEDA funds to support expansion infrastructure. MVEDA pledged $100,000 from the NMBorderplex Closing Incentive program to help bring the project to Doña Ana County, NMEDD said.

"Santa Teresa continues to set records in commercial traffic and that number is expected to increase due to consistent heavy congestion at El Paso ports," NMEDD said. "In the last two years, the port has doubled the number of commercial vehicles processed per hour and hit a new record in 2022 by processing more than 160,000 trucks."

OMHS places in state track

BULLETIN REPORT

The Organ Mountain High School boys track team won its first-ever team trophy, capturing third place at the state meet in Albuquerque in a Class 5A field of 22 teams. The girls' team also performed well, with one athlete who won gold with a new state record.

Shaolin Munir was the girls' champion in javelin with a state-record throw of 145 feet, 4 inches.

On the boys' side, Corbin Coombs (800 meters in 1:57.01) and Jeron Wisner (3,200 meters in 9:38.78) each won individual state champion medals. They teamed with Jake Medina and Nohi Leyva for a new state record and first-place finish in the 4x800-meter relay with a time of 8:02.53.

Other boys medalists were: Tyson Hobbs, third place in the triple jump with 44 feet, 11.75 inches; Yeh-Nhi Kenaz Wilson, fifth place in the high jump with 6 feet even; and Nathanyal Chavez; sixth place in the long jump, with 21 feet, 9.75 inches.

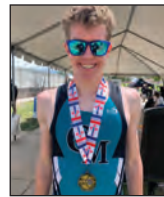

Marisa Harrington was the other girls medalist, placing sixth in the 200 meters with a time of 26.42.

"Both the boys' and girls' teams had an amazing season," said OMHS coach David Nuñez. "With the help of our senior leadership, we were able to overcome many challenges. I am super proud of all the track and field athletes that played a part in our success this season."

Organ Mountain High School's boys track team ran to a third-place finish at the state Class 5A meet.

The Knights' 4x800-meter relay team won the gold medal, setting a new state record.

Gymnast hits national spotlight

By RICHARD COLTHARP
Las Cruces Bulletin

When Mila Noopila started doing gymnastics at age 3, she probably wasn't thinking about competing nationally. But this spring, that's exactly what Noopila, now a 15-year-old, has done.

The sophomore-to-be at Las Cruces High School trains at Elevate Gymnastics and Athletics under coach Bridget Scholjegerdez. In the past few weeks, Noopila competed at the Level 9 state meet in Albuquerque, the regional meet in Topeka, Kansas, and at the Western Nationals in Boise, Idaho.

In Albuquerque, March 25, she was one of only two competitors to advance to regionals. At Region 3 in Topeka, gymnasts from seven different states – New Mexico, Texas, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Wyoming – were vying for seven positions to go to the Western Nationals.

Unfortunately, Noopila finished eighth, .025 points away from a secured spot. As a consolation, she was ranked the first alternate.

But on Tuesday, May 2, the Noopilas received a phone call. Another gymnast could not attend, and would Mila be able to be in Boise to compete Saturday, May 6?

An excited Mila said, "Yes!" Her parents worked out who would go (It would be mom, Marie Noopila) and how they would manage pricey, short-notice airline tickets.

In the all-around competition, gymnasts compete in four disciplines: uneven bars, balance beam, floor, and vault. Noopila does all four events but, according to her mother, "Her two best events are uneven bars and balance beam."

The younger Noopila proved her mom right at the Western Nationals, finishing fifth in the uneven bars and eighth on the balance beam among 35 other gymnasts. With her other two event scores factored in, Mila was a 14th-place finisher in the all-around.

Our choices determine our success in golf, life

The choices we make in life, in work, in goals, in beliefs, in lifestyle, in behavior and in sport, largely determine how successful we become.

Choices are precursors to how we think, act and see the world. Here, we're looking at choices in our golf game. Even before we set foot on the course, we have made choices about our equipment, club-fitting, practicing enough and properly, lessons, physical fitness, pre-round warm-up and compatible playing partners. We might not think of those important aspects of our approach to golf as choices, but they become such even by default. Each of those factors, even our mood, our attitude and our actions, influence how we play.

When golf pros talk about "course management" they are basically referring to choices we make each time we strike the ball. It may be selecting the club, planning the shot, aiming correctly, steady-ing our nerves and even accurately observing our surroundings. Tour pros have caddies to help them stay centered and choose the right club and the right aim. We have to do all those things ourselves, with no outside help to steady our nerves.

One of the first choices in good course management is playing for position. You need to play shots that get you in the best position to make a good score, while avoiding hitting shots that may get you in trouble. First, take a look at the layout of the hole you are playing; the course designer has set it up so there is a more desirable area to play from, and a less choice area. If you hit to the preferred area you will be rewarded with a better, safer angle and shot to the green.

Next, be more aware of where the trouble is and proceed to play away from those spots. All our courses in Las Cruces have native desert areas which are trouble with a capital T. Most every course has a yardage book with hole-by-hole layouts and diagrams of the greens to help you choose where to play the proper shot.

When you look at the diagram of the greens you can determine the position of the flag and hole locations, and coupled with your laser and/or GPS rangefinder you can select where you ought to aim your shot to the green. The choice for most amateur and recreational golfers is to play to the center, or "fat," part of the green, which allows for slight misses right, left, short or long. Resort courses have carts with GPS screens above the steering wheel which show where the hole is in relation to the layout of the green.

Your course management requires your estimate of the probability of success on a particular shot, and largely should dictate your final choice of the club and shot. Choices on the golf course frequently involve risk versus reward and more options. Here's where personality comes in. You really can't choose your personality, but you can choose to be acutely aware of your tendencies and weaknesses, leading to better decisions. In my case, I play golf more carefully and I try to avoid risks. Yet, sometimes the rewards of the miracle shot are addictive, like an occasional random big win at the casino.

Of course, the hardest part of course management is managing yourself wisely. We must choose to keep our emotions under full control at all time, since emotions rule when it comes to performance. Routinely making the best choices leads to winning on the golf course. You know in your heart that when you're in control you are a better decision-maker.

I have noticed far too many golfers allow the distraction of what they are wanting to happen to disrupt their natural playing ability, with the inevitable mistakes that lead to bogeys or worse. My advice is simple: focus on the process. The process of play. This is the commitment to the series of movements that will result in the desired outcomes. Do not become attached to outcomes.
