NMSU fueling cyber security, grid innovations

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in the Bulletin's series "Powerlines," exploring electric energy for Las Cruces.

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

"We are preparing for the grid of the future," New Mexico State University computer science professor Satyajayant "Jay" Misra said about the research he and 11 Ph.D. students are doing on the Las Cruces campus to modernize and secure the electric grid.

The grid is an interconnected network of producers and consumers that provides electricity to thousands of homes and businesses in Las Cruces and to billions of people worldwide. NMSU is engaged in wide-ranging research to make the grid more efficient and reliable and less vulnerable to disruption and cyberattack, Misra said.

"NMSU has an electric power program with researchers across campus contributing to building the resilient and sustainable grid of the future," he said.

New Mexico State is helping to create self-sustaining, customer-driven microgrids across the state, Misra said; it is studying the use of brackish water widely available in southern New Mexico to generate hydrogen as a source of renewable energy for the grid; and building grid resilience during weather extremes.

Misra leads the Cybersecurity Resilience Research Group at NMSU, which "is exploring the different dimensions from which malicious actors can adversely impact our critical infrastructure," he said.

The goal is to prevent phishing and other online attacks on the grid – and on NMSU in general, which is subject to myriad cyber probes every day, Misra said. By studying attacks that have really happened and creating even more serious potential attack scenarios, Misra and his students hope to stay a step ahead of cybercriminals.

"We're trying to think like them," Misra said. "You close all the doors and lock them," he said, create firewalls and "several levels of failsafe," and keep a close watch for any signs of danger or potential danger.

Misra, his students and other power grid researchers on campus are also working to make the grid more autonomous.

"Many things on the grid still require a human's intervention," he said. That makes a power outage more likely if, for example, a transformer goes down and there is no human to deal with it and no automatic backup in place.

It's also important to build the grid's reserve capacity, Misra said, so the electricity is there no matter how large the demand or what the weather is like.

This past July, for example, El Paso Electric (a key NMSU partner in grid modernization) experienced its highest single-

Garcia has spent a lifetime living Hispanic heritage

By RICHARD COLTHARP
Las Cruces Bulletin

Once upon a time, J.F. Apodaca built a ballpark.

The park was – still is – in La Mesa, in southern Doña Ana County just a couple of blocks from everyone’s favorite landmark, Chope’s bar and restaurant.

In the late 1950s, when the ballpark was still young, a young pitcher named George Garcia often took the mound for the La Mesa Blue Jays.

Apodaca’s daughter, Mary Helen, was around the ballpark enough to know some players but, for her, George stood out.

“I was 23,” says Mary Helen

today. “There was an attraction there.”

Enough of an attraction they married a year or so later, at the old St. Genevieve’s Church in Las Cruces. The attraction lasted 49 years, until George died less than a year before their 50th anniversary.

Many in Las Cruces know Mary Helen Garcia from her work as a representative in the New Mexico Legislature, where she served from 1997-2014. Her first foray into politics, however, was behind the scenes, about a decade before, as campaign manager for J. Paul Taylor.

“Paul was very reluctant,” Garcia said. “But I ran his campaign. I said, ‘You run and I promise you I’ll run when I’m able to.’”

The campaign was successful, to say the least, as Taylor served his Mesilla district in the New Mexico House of Representatives from 1987-2005.

She and Taylor, both educators, were motivated to run for office because they didn’t like what was going on at the state level in terms of education.

Garcia, whose first work, before raising family, was teaching third great at Mesilla Elementary, returned to education when her children grew up, working at Las Cruces Public Schools coordinating bilingual education, and then serving as an assistant principal at Booker T. Washington Elementary, where she was very hands-on.

“When a student was absent, I’d drive to their neighborhood,” Garcia said. “Sometimes I’d see them looking through the window. So I’d go to the door and say, ‘Get dressed. We’re going to school.’”

True to her word to Taylor, when she finally did retire, she ran for office, to join him in Santa Fe.

Garcia took pride in giving voice to her constituents in the southern part of the county.

“Nobody ever recognized Sunland Park as part of Doña Ana County until I got there,” she said.

She is proud of her role in helping bring Burlington Northern Santa Fe railroad through Santa Teresa, and ensuring bilingual ballots for Spanish-speaking citizens in District 34.

Having grown up in a society where speaking Spanish was shunned, Garcia and Taylor wanted English Second Language learners to have a place in New Mexico’s education system.

Let’s make LCPS the best school district in the state of New Mexico!

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING:

EARLY VOTING
STARTS OCT. 10

When you go to a LCPS board meeting you see your kids accepting awards and being praised for their achievements. This is great. What you won’t hear from the board is their deep concern about the state of the District, its low test scores in math and reading, its ongoing drug problems in the schools, its chronic student absenteeism, its ranking in the bottom half of all the schools in New Mexico, or the fact that New Mexico schools are dead last in US ranking. These are problems the Board can’t fix all at once, but displaying their continual desire to solve these problems would be a good start.

‘Project Clothesline’ honors domestic violence survivors

By CHLOE D. DUNLAP
NMSU Communications

A bright yellow T-shirt hung silently at last year’s “Project Clothesline” event at New Mexico State University. The tiny words “I wasn’t heard,” written in marker, spoke loudly not only for one survivor of domestic violence, but for all those who read her message.

Hundreds of people saw those words and other messages written by abuse survivors on more than 100 other tee shirts at 2022’s “Project Clothesline” display at NMSU. This year, the event is among many activities across Las Cruces recognizing Domestic Violence Awareness Month in October.

NMSU’s Department of Criminal Justice is hosting “Project Clothesline” again. More than 100 T-shirts with personal messages written by survivors will hang on clothesline strung across the room for visitors to view from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 17 in the Aggie Lounge on the first floor of the Corbett Center. Twelve local agencies and campus organizations will have tables to answer questions and provide resources for those who visit.

“This is a unique platform to share their survival stories and understand the prevalence of violence and abuse,” said Ahram Cho, criminal justice professor and organizer of the event. “One of the most common pieces of feedback I received from last year’s event was that students thought they were the only ones. The event serves to create a sense of solidarity and a safe environment for students to raise their voices.”

The Office of Health Promotion (OHP) under the Aggie Health and Wellness Center at NMSU is cohosting the “Clothesline Project” this year. OHP is a risk-reduction and prevention program that educates on issues of personal safety and well-being.

The “Clothesline Project” is an interactive exhibit, displaying anonymous stories of many forms of interpersonal violence. The displayed tee shirts are color coded with 11 different colors: yellow representing domestic violence and assault; red, pink and orange represent survivors of rape and sexual assault; blue and green represent survivors of incest and sexual abuse; and white represents someone who died because of violence.

Resources for survivors are available at ohp.nmsu.edu or call 575-646-2813.

“We also wanted to make sure students weren’t being promoted until they could fully pass the assessments at third-grade level,” Garcia said.

As a way of recognizing his work, and his life beyond the legislature, Garcia at the 2013 session, introduced House Memorial 79, “celebrating the adventurous life of former State Representative J. Paul Taylor.”

Garcia was asked recently, What does being Latina mean to you?

“It’s a whole culture,” she said. “The family.”

Then she added, with a tequila glass in hand, “The parties!”

She remembers specifically the harvest celebrations her mother and father would host for the field workers and everyone involved with the farm.

“They would kill three or four hogs, and put them in the ground,” Garcia said. “And cook them all night long. There would be chile, green and red, and fresh made tortillas.”

She also loved the music.

“The songs sound much more romantic when they’re sung in Spanish,” Garcia said. “Much more so than in English.”

She also found a taste for a certain Mexican delicacy.

“I never really drank,” Garcia said. “I didn’t care for beer. And then I had some tequila, and that was it. I like the silver, blanco tequila. I don’t like it sweet.”

demand day in history because of the record-breaking heat.

NMSU wants to help prevent rolling blackouts like the huge one in 2003 that affected an estimated 50 million people in the U.S. and Canada, and the two-day outage earlier this summer that affected more than 40,000 people during 110-degree heat in Phoenix.

That’s where micro-grid technology comes into play, Misra said.

“With smaller, independently operable microgrids, and the integration of renewable energy, there is greater energy availability for everybody and greater resilience,” he said.

Greener technology is an important part of improving the grid, Misra said, including more energy-efficient residential and commercial construction and continuing the move toward all-electric or hybrid vehicles. It also means transitioning the grid from traditional power sources like coal and diesel fuel to wind and solar power, which can be more distributed.

“We do a lot of cool stuff,” Misra said. “We could do more.”

For Misra, “This is a calling. As a teacher and a researcher, I can make a significant difference in somebody’s life,” he said. “My job is to make the world a better place. What drives me is the opportunity to learn about and help fix problems, preparing the next generation to take over while I am doing so. I don’t think it gets any better than that.”

NMSU faculty typically produce more results based on the resources they have available than other universities, he said. “That’s something that makes me proud.”

Misra has a master’s of science degree in information systems and physics from Birla Institute of Technology and Sciences in Rajasthan, India, and a Ph.D. in computer science from Arizona State University. He is a professor in computer science and electrical and computer engineering, the associate dean of research in the NMSU College of Engineering and an affiliated scientist/faculty with Los Alamos National Laboratory. Misra, who joined NMSU in 2009, holds two patents and is the author or co-author of more than 100 papers and book chapters and has been cited more than 8,000 times by his peers.

Youth bike skills clinic Oct. 14

BULLETIN REPORT

The nonprofit Southern New Mexico Mountain Biking's (SNMTB) Sabados on Bikes with Friends is collaborating with Friends of the Organ Mountains to host a series of bicycle skills clinics for local elementary, middle and high school students.

The first workshop was held in September for about 20 elementary-school children.

Additional workshops are

- 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14, Doña Ana Trailhead, for students in grades nine-12. The clinic will include a break to safely view the solar eclipse that will take place that day. The trailhead is located near Red Hawk Golf Course, on County Road D053. To find the location, Google Doña Ana Trailhead and click on "Directions."

Tents to Rents surpasses $110,000

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Mesilla Valley Community of Hope's (MVCH) Tents to Rents campaign has raised more than $500,000 since MVCH Executive Director Nicole Martinez began the campaign in 2016.

This year, Tents to Rents raised a record-setting $110,000, and it is still collecting donations.

The money will be used to move residents of MVCH's Camp Hope tent city into their own apartments, and to pay other Camp Hope operating expenses.

"It's absolutely outstanding that we have such a giving community," said state Sen. Carrie Hamblen of Las Cruces, who was the emcee for the Tents to Rents thank you celebration held Oct. 4 at Salud! de Mesilla. Hamblen is the former MVCH board chair and long-time MVCH supporter. She raised more than $1,500 and was this year's top individual fundraiser for Tents to Rents.

Hamblen and other fundraising partners and sponsors – including the Las Cruces Bulletin – were recognized at the celebration.

Good Sam's Housing Helpers was recognized as 2023's top fundraiser for Tents to Rents at more than $21,100. Marci Dickerson and Friends raised more than $6,200. Of the Same ilk: more than $5,100, Unitarian Universalist Church: more than $5,000, St. Andrews Episcopal Church: more than $4,000, Hearts for Hope: more than $1,900, Temple Beth El: almost $1,700, Doña Ana Community College President Monica Torres: $1,350 and Nigel Holman: almost $1,300.

New Mexico State University's Office of Experiential Learning raised almost $4,500 with its Color Run 5K fundraiser for the campaign, and the Hops for Hope pub crawl raised almost $1,500, with support from The Game, Little Toad Creek, Ice Box Brewing Company and Spotted Dog Brewery.

Martinez has tripled the $700,000 budget she had when she became executive director 10 years ago, Hamblen said.

Gov. mandates buy-backs

BULLETIN REPORT

On Oct. 6, Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham renewed executive orders on gun violence and substance misuse as the New Mexico Department of Health (NMDOH) issued a revised public health order.

The new public health order includes an additional provision:

“The New Mexico Department of Public Safety shall organize safe surrender events (also known as “gun buy-backs”) in the cities of Albuquerque, Española and Las Cruces within 30 days.”

“The fact of the matter is that New Mexicans are still being threatened, injured and killed by firearms,” the NMDOH order said. “Just yesterday, two guns were found in the possession of students at an Albuquerque high school, and while thankfully no one was hurt, these incidents have profound psychological effects on our children.

“The last four weeks have clearly demonstrated the impact we can have on violent crime when we work in better coordination, but the situation remains dire. We’re not letting up, and I’m continuing to make investments that drive down violence in our communities and protect our children.”

“Gun violence is a leading cause of death among young people in New Mexico. That should horrify all of us,” DOH Secretary Patrick Allen said.

“It’s vital that we all

Unique dean steers unique college

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series of articles introducing the community the deans of the colleges at NMSU.

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

There may not be another college anywhere quite like New Mexico State University's College of Health, Education and Social Transformation (HEST).

"It's very unique," said HEST inaugural Dean Yoshitaka "Yoshi" Iwasaki, Ph.D., who came to NMSU a year ago after living and working in 10 cities in three countries.

HEST formed in 2021, bringing together nine academic departments: borderlands and ethnic studies; counseling and educational psychology; communications disorders; kinesiology; public health sciences; sociology; and NMSU's schools of nursing; social work; and teacher preparation, administration and leadership.

The college also includes a diagnostic center that provides autism evaluations to southern New Mexico families at no cost, a speech and hearing center, exercise physiology and behavior sports psychology labs, Doña Ana County Head Start and a STEM outreach center.

"Learn. Engage. Transform." was chosen as the HEST slogan after Iwasaki solicited suggestions from students, faculty, staff and alumni.

"This slogan nicely captures the centerpiece of who we are, what we do and why we matter to highlight the signature strength of our college," Iwasaki said in an NMSU news release.

"We are producing transformative champions who are making a difference in our community," Iwasaki told the Bulletin.

Focused on NMSU's mission as a Hispanic- and minority-serving university, HEST faculty and the students they teach "are as diverse as possible," the dean said.

"We are creating the pathways," Iwasaki said, for public school students to flourish at NMSU and for

New Mexico State graduates to excel in the workforce.

"We think big," said HEST Communications Specialist Amanda Adame. "We are creating the people who are going to transform systems. We're putting the boots on the ground."

And even though it's new, HEST is "always searching for ways to grow," the dean said, "trying to catch up with the demand" for teachers, counselors, social workers, nurses, psychologists, communications disorders specialists, sociologists and experts in human movement the college is producing.

"Overall, HEST itself is a community of learning and engagement, as a catalyst for social change and transformation to uplift our people and communities we serve," Iwasaki said in the news release.

Mental health is a college focus of particular importance to Iwasaki because his brother not only suffered from depression, he was also subjected to the stigma of a mental illness that had no effective treatment, Iwasaki said. That compelled Iwasaki to research mental health issues, including effective treatment. Iwasaki's curriculum vitae includes multiple references to mental health and mental illness and to suicide loss and survival.

HEST students and faculty have connected with the Mesilla Valley Community of Hope to "help us find solutions besides medication" for people with mental health issues, and to address homelessness in the community, Iwasaki said.

It's about "how we build the relationships and create the environment so those people feel welcome, safe and appreciated," he said. "They have been abandoned; they give up."

Pathways to recovery can include saying hello and making eye contact with someone who is struggling with homelessness, reaching out to that person and building a relationship, Iwasaki said, as he invited the community to join HEST students, faculty and partners "to help us in creating transformation."

In the community and on the NMSU campus, that means addressing basic needs like housing, food and transportation, the dean said.

"It's about making a difference," Iwasaki said. "I'm proud of being an Aggie. I'm very grateful for the opportunity. I'm very blessed."

"This is the most welcoming place," he said. "I call Las Cruces home."

Iwasaki came to NMSU from San Jose State University, where he served as a full professor and chair of the Department of Public Health and Recreation. Before that, Iwasaki was associate dean for research and director of the Community-University Partnership for the Study of Children, Youth and Families at the University of Alberta, Canada. He was previously a professor in the Department of Health and Rehabilitation Sciences at Temple University in Philadelphia, and was a professional tennis instructor in both Tokyo, Japan, and Hilton Head Island, South Carolina.

Iwasaki has a Ph.D. and a master's degree in applied health sciences from the University of Waterloo in Ontario, Canada. He has a bachelor's of science degree from the University of Maryland School of Public Health in College Park, Maryland, and an associate of arts degree in tennis and sports management from the Technical College of the Lowcountry in Hilton Head Island, South Carolina.

Candidates address builders at mayoral forum

EDITOR'S NOTE: A longer version of this article appears at www.lascrucesbulletin.com.

By RICHARD COLTHARP
Las Cruces Bulletin

Six of the seven candidates running for mayor of Las Cruces participated in an Oct. 5 forum hosted by the Las Cruces Home Builders Association.

Present were Mike Tellez, Eric Enriquez, Alexander Paige Baca Fresquez, Kasandra Gandara, Isabella Solis and Gina Ortega. The one candidate absent was Mariah Hernandez.

The questions presented to the candidates were based in topics relevant to home builders and construction professionals, such as building costs, affordable housing and economic development.

Here are some of the candidates' comments on building costs and how city policies might affect them.

Enriquez: In Hobbs, I oversaw codes enforcement. What we need to do is look at the valuation of builders and what we can do about time, we need to expedite our procedures on permitting. Time is money.

Tellez: We need to look at places like Phoenix, that work with contractors. Here, we run off contractors. Our high minimum wage is also driving up costs for contractors.

Gandara: There are lots of different factors. I'll get involved with schools. The city has purchased very costly software that should be making it easier to reduce time frames. We have a one-stop shop and I know there are still some issues with that and the city needs to work on that. We have to build consensus to ensure we have good policy for you.

Solis: We need to make sure when a policy is implemented, if it is inhibiting to what we are doing in our community, we need to review it.

Ortega: We know it's an issue. We need to review the policy. Why is the policy hindering them from doing what they have to do. Can that policy be changed? What can we do in order to help?

Here are some of the candidates' comments regarding affordable housing, and what a mayor might be able to do to address it:

Solis: We need to create incentives and work on the policies we have in place right now as far as the delays. I think affordable housing has its purposes and as a mayor I think I could help in that process to be able to change some of those things.

Fresquez: Let the open market, the free market, solve the problem by building more houses that are the size and cost that meet the needs.

Gandara: I think we need a variety of housing stock, and that means looking at our continuum, ensuring that we have the proper transitional housing, permanent housing, missing middle, those are the things that are really important to all of us.

Enriquez: In Hobbs, we kept it simple. We got rid of a lot of regulation that hinders us here. Above all, mindset of people in the city needs to be that it's more important to us. We've got to show that what you're doing for us is so important that we need to get it out and we need to get it done quickly.

Tellez: I'm amazed at how we keep on lowering everything to meet people who do not want to go out and work hard and do what we all did to go out and buy a home. So what is an affordable house? Is it a government house or is it just a house that anyone can buy?

Got triskaidekaphobia?

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Friday the 13th... Eek!

It is such a powerful phenomenon, this combination of date and day of the week that occurs at least once a year (including this Friday) has its own designated phobia, slasher-movie franchise and a Wikipedia page of more than 4,000 words.

The fear of the unluckiness of 13 is called triskaidekaphobia. The aforementioned Wikipedia says the origin may have come about from an ancient Norse myth "about 12 gods having a dinner party in Valhalla. The trickster god Loki, who was not invited, arrived as the 13th guest. He tricked one god into killing another god at the party, and "the whole earth mourned."

In Christian mythology, the superstition around the number 13 may to relate to "the story of Jesus' last supper and crucifixion in which there were 13 individuals present in the Upper Room on the 13th of Nisan (the first month of the Jewish New Year) Maundy Thursday, the night before his death on Good Friday," again quoting Wikipedia.

Another theory suggests the 13 heebie-jeebies has to do with the destruction of the legendary Knights Templar.

The story goes that on Friday, Oct. 13, 1307, more than 600 Templars were arrested on the orders of King Phillip of France, who had accused them of black magic, scandalous sex practices and corruption, because he owed them money.

"Credit for popularizing the Friday the 13th myth often goes to Capt. William Fowler, a noted soldier who rubbed elbows with former presidents and other high-profile people of the late 1800s," according to a story in livescience.com. "Fowler noticed that the number 13 was woven throughout his life (he went to Public School No. 13 in New York City, for example, and fought in 13 Civil War battles), so he decided to combat the "popular superstition against 13," according to his obituary.

Fowler started a society called the Thirteen Club, which held its first meeting on Sept. 13, 1881. Guests walked under crossed ladders to a 13-seat table festooned with spilled salt.

New life for some old wheels

The other day, as I was driving through traffic, something very jarring caught my eye.

Some other dude was riding my bicycle.

No, he hadn't stolen it.

After I processed the image, I figured exactly what had happened.

I recently donated the bicycle to the Hub, a local bike repair and redistribution center created by Velo Las Cruces.

A few days later, I saw the same guy and my bike at a homeless encampment. It had become a primary mode of transportation for him.

That's something it never was for me. I'm someone who's never been without a car, truck or SUV (and for a while, one of each) since I was 16. There were long stretches when that bicycle hung upside down from my ceiling in my garage.

The guy had strapped a milk crate to the rear bike rack I had mounted shortly after buying the bicycle many years ago.

It may not have looked very cool, but very practical for the new owner.

A little over a year ago, I put my 1987 Panasonic Mountain Cat 4500 up for sale. I was the original owner of this unique mountain bike. Despite how much I liked it, though, it was out of date. With no front shocks, and a heavy frame, the cat was inferior to today's more updated mountain bikes.

RICHARD COLTHARP

Going Downtown

Just as cars and trucks have improved in the last 35 years, so have bicycles.

I advertised the bike as a collector's item in good condition for $265, and identified myself as its original owner. Panasonic didn't make mountain bikes for a very long period, but as it did with stereos before, it tried to do some cool things, such as a "Biopace" sprocket. Rather than the traditional round sprocket, Panasonic flirted with a sort of kidney-bean shaped sprocket with supposed ergonomic efficiencies.

I got a call right away and was excited at the prospect of a quick sale.

But a sale never happened. Instead, it was an elaborate scam attempt, and I narrowly avoided getting ripped off for $1,250. (Thank you, Pioneer Bank for helping me dodge that fleecing).

So after hearing a presentation from Velo Cruces about the Hub, I thought maybe I could donate the old Mountain Cat.

When I took the bike to the Hub one Saturday, several of the people working there got excited, like I'd just brought in proof of Bigfoot.

I wondered who might wind up with my longtime prized possession, and had sort of resigned myself to never knowing.

But when that unmistakable red and pearl bicycle toodled along beside me that day, it was a bit of an out-of-body experience.

And I'm grateful it's being used by someone for whom it can make a difference.

Voters need to pick more than the winner

Early voting started Tuesday, Oct. 10, in a municipal election that will result in Las Cruces electing a new mayor for the first time since 2007 and Mesilla electing a new mayor for the first time since 2009.

Voters in Las Cruces will have several candidates to choose from in the race to replace Ken Miyagishima. Unfortunately, that's not the case in Mesilla, where Russell Hernandez will run uncontested to replace Nora Barraza.

That's not a criticism of Hernandez, a small business owner with deep roots in the community. He's an outstanding candidate, but voters should have a choice.

They will in Las Cruces, where seven candidates are running for mayor, and more than two candidates are running in most of the City Council and school board races. In those races, ranked-choice voting will determine the winner.

That means instead of just picking the winner, voters need to evaluate all the candidates to get the full value from their ballot. Those ranked last will be the first eliminated.

That's just one way municipal elections, held in odd-numbered years, are different from state and local elections. Candidates in local elections run on their own, without party affiliation. There is no "R" or "D" after each name on the ballot.

That opens the door for Independents to run, as well as those who have no use for the state and local political machines. And it removes the crutch for voters who lazily make all choices based on party affiliation.

Beyond the mayor's race, there are also City Council races in District 1 (west of Interstate-25 between Spruce and Engler) District 2 (south of Boutz/Missouri) and District 4 (east of Main Street and south of El Camino Real). Council members Becki Graham and Becky Corran are not up for re-election until 2025.

Mayor Ken Miyagishima is the only member not seeking re-election this year, although Kasandra Gandara is vacating her District 1 seat to run for mayor. Ranked-choice voting could potentially come into play in every race except in District 2, where incumbent Tessa Abeyta is being challenged by only one opponent, former Mayor Bill Mattiace.

All three incumbents will also be running for re-election to the Las Cruces Board of Education, where seats in Districts 1, 4 and 5 are on the ballot this year. Ranked-choice voting will be used in both Districts 4 and 5.

This week's Bulletin includes a voter's guide created by the League of Women Voters, and previous articles about candidates can be found at www.lascrucesbulletin.com. Speak Up Las Cruces, a show I co-host on KTAL-LP community radio, is doing interviews for each race and will post them at lccommunityradio.org. KRWG public television has partnered with the League of Women Voters for more formal debates, which are also available online.

The View From Here

A layman's introduction to the Las Cruces City Charter

In 28 pages, the City Charter (2019) embodies the structure of self-governance agreed upon by the voters of Las Cruces. First codified in 1985, the Charter has been amended five times to remain a living document. As a city councilor in 2019, my fellow councilors and I approved the changes being recommended for revision authorizing the amended charter to go before the voters of Las Cruces for approval.

The Charter is divided into 10 sections. Section 1 states Las Cruces is organized as a Municipal Corporation to maximize local self-government. The city declares certain powers for governance, lays out its geographical borders, and imposes limits on powers as required by federal and state statutes and constitutions.

Section 2 covers the establishment and maintenance of a seven-member city council. Divided into six distinct districts (subject to change after each national census), voters in each district choose their individual City Councilor. The seventh member, the mayor, is elected by voters of all six districts. The mayor chairs all meetings of the council and is recognized as head of the city government for ceremonial purposes. The council elects a mayor pro tem to act in place of the mayor as availability dictates.

The council serves as the legislative arm of the city government. "All powers of the city are vested in the council, except as otherwise provided by law or this Charter, and the council shall provide for the exercise thereof and for the performance of all duties and obligations imposed on the city by law." Councilors are prohibited from holding any other elected offices or city employment. In fact, former councilors are barred from compensated appointive city office or employment until one year after the expiration of their term. Also, councilors shall not in any manner usurp the administrative authority of the city manager as outlined in Section 3.

Section 2 then sets out the procedures council is to follow, actions requiring ordinances, structures of ordinances and resolutions, emergency ordinances, codes of technical regulations, how the authentication and recording, codification, and distribution of council actions are to be managed, and how to establish and maintain boards, commissions, authorities, and agencies established to assist the council with their responsibilities.

Section 3 discusses the city manager; how the city manager is to be appointed (by a vote of at least four councilors), qualifications, and removal (by a vote of at least four councilors). The powers and duties of the city manager are clearly stated; "appoint, suspend or remove all administrative officers and employees, subject to the limitations and procedures established in the Charter and in any personnel rules adopted by the council." Meeting attendance requirements, budget, and capital improvements responsibilities, annually reporting a complete summary of finances and activities, keeping the council fully advised, and other duties as specified or required by the council.

Section 4 discusses the administration of the city and describes how the council controls policy, and the city manager executes those policies. "The administration of the affairs of the City of Las Cruces shall be divided into organizational units established by the council. All organizations units shall be under the direction and supervision of the city manager," is an example of that separation of powers and duties. A personnel system is to be maintained by administration respecting the required council ordinance. A city attorney licensed to practice in New Mexico is to be appointed by the city manager and serve as legal advisor to council, the city manager, and all organizational units of the city. A city clerk is to be appointed by the city manager. Also, "the council shall provide a method for receiving, acknowledging and striving to resolve complaints or grievances concerning the city or its operations."

Section 5 discusses the finances of the city. The fiscal year begins on July 1 and ends on June 30. The city manager is to submit a budget for the ensuing fiscal year no later than April 30/May 1. Likewise a five-year capital improvement budget shall be prepared and submitted. This section is very specific on how these duties are to be accomplished by the city manager and city council.

Section 6 covers the duty of city council to plan for the "coordinated and harmonious" development of the city. A comprehensive plan must be adopted by resolution to guide such development.

Section 7 discusses city elections, how they are to be planned and executed. Much of this section was revised by the 2019 amended version of the Charter which includes election management by the city to administration by the county.

Section 8 details the authority to institute initiatives, referendums and the recall of elected officials. Petitions, referendum petitions, and actions on them are discussed in detail.

Section 9 describes the municipal court. Section 1 of the City Charter states that the city is limited to administering penalties of misdemeanor charges only. Section 9 then prescribes how those determinations are to be handled. In this section, the city council's responsibility is to authorize additional judges if it decides there is such a need, and to appoint a municipal judge to fill a vacancy. A municipal judge is to be elected for a four-year term by voters of the city.

Section 10 outlines general provisions which tell how all by-laws, ordinances, and resolutions in force when the amended charter takes effect "are repealed and superseded to the extent that the same are inconsistent with the provisions of this Charter. All other resolutions and ordinances remain in full force and effect." It then discusses existing ordinances and resolutions, the duration of same, and that "all rights and property which were vested in the city shall remain so vested under this Charter. No existing right or liability and no pending litigation of any kind shall be affected by the adoption of this Charter."

I encourage you to read and understand the city charter for yourselves. Since municipal elections are just days away, informed voters will better understand the importance of their choices.

Will city listen to Veterans?

In a recent City Council vote, a contentious issue emerged that has stirred the passions of the community, particularly its Veteran members. The topic at hand is the proposal for a civilian memorial in one of our city's cherished parks, a move that has sparked a fiery debate among residents and Veterans alike. Tragically, an unattended child lost her life at Veterans Memorial Park last year, and a proposal to erect a memorial for this child at the park was introduced to the City Council. The Veterans Advisory Board has met many times with unanimous opposition to this proposal. We, the Veterans, offered our condolences and alternate options, including a memorial erected in the median across from, or even adjacent to the bus stop at the entrance of the park.

As a resident and an engaged member of the Veteran community, I, like many others, have concerns about this proposition. The proposal for a non-Veteran memorial has raised questions about the allocation of resources and the true purpose and intent behind this decision, including both its construction and inevitable lifelong maintenance. As per city ordinance and Las Cruces Parks and Recreation policy, Veterans Memorial Park is a special-use park, reserved exclusively for the remembrance of those who made the ultimate sacrifice. However, the City Council voted in support of this proposal, despite city ordinance, Parks and Rec policy, and against the advice from the Veterans Advisory Board. The near-unanimous opposition from the Veteran community brings to light the need for a more comprehensive discussion and reconsideration of this proposition.

Having served in both Iraq and Afghanistan, I understand the importance of commemorating those who have sacrificed their lives for our nation. When I walk through Veterans Memorial Park, I feel honored to be surrounded by family. As brothers and sisters in arms, all Veterans are united in this feeling. Erecting this memorial is no different than erecting a memorial for non-relatives at a family member's resting place. It is disrespectful to both our Las Cruces family and to our family across the United States of America.

What adds to the controversy is the exception made to previously established rules, which has raised eyebrows and created an air of inconsistency. The City Council's decision to deviate from established procedures has fueled skepticism and added to the confusion surrounding this issue. One of the more alarming concerns raised by this is the establishment of a new precedent. If one local civilian has a memorial erected on hallowed Veteran grounds, what is to stop it from happening again? This erodes honor and decimates the sacrifice these men and women made for our country. Las Cruces has designated itself a Purple Heart City, which is a designation meant for a municipality that expresses gratitude toward and honors those who have been wounded or killed in defense of this nation. Ironically, the City Council's actions are opposite of those to be expected of a Purple Heart City.

The Veteran community, which is deeply rooted in the spirit of unity and collective decision-making, feels a sense of disconnection and frustration over the lack of consultation in this matter. The near-unanimous opposition emphasizes the need for transparent communication and an inclusive approach when making decisions that impact the community. Our City Council must recognize the concerns raised by the Veteran community and engage in open dialogue to better understand the perspectives and values that unite us. We must work together to find a solution that honors the sacrifice of Veterans while ensuring the interests of the community at large are represented. If the City Council is unwilling to listen to and embrace advice from Veterans about Veterans, then perhaps it is time to elect new leadership in our city. I encourage all Veterans and locals alike to reach out to your council members and ask city leadership, "Why?", when they come knocking at your door for votes.

In the spirit of collaboration and understanding, let us hope that the City Council reevaluates this decision and explores alternative ways to address this issue while respecting the sacrifice of our servicemembers and maintaining the unity that defines our community.

Veterans Day Parade coming

Two months ago, Bill Hawkins, Director of the Veterans Day Parade called a meeting of the Veterans Day Parade committee to start planning for the 2023 Veterans Parade.

The date, time, route and location of the Reviewing Stand was agreed on by the committee members and are as follows: Veterans Day Parade: Saturday, Nov. 11, at 11 a.m. The Reviewing Stand will be located on the corner of Main Street and Las Cruces Avenue, this is where Mayor Ken Miyagishima will announce the start of the parade after a short ceremony starting at 10:30 a.m.

The theme? Honoring

Desert Storm Veterans. The Veterans Memorial Wall at Veterans Park, 2651 Roadrunner Parkway, has the names of 479 Doña Ana County veterans who served in this conflict.

On Nov. 11, the parade participants will report at 9 a.m. to the staging area on the corner of Main Street and Lohman Ave. The parade starts at 11 a.m. and will travel north down Main Street to the traffic circle, west to Water Street, south, back to the staging area.

To register to participate in the parade, contact Bill Hawkins at 575-621-7002 or wchawkins1962@gmail.com.

Republicans to appeal decision on CD 2 maps

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

After a two-day bench trial in Lovington, New Mexico Fifth Judicial District Court Judge Fred T. Van Soelen of Clovis ruled Oct. 6 that while Democrats succeeded in “substantially diluting their opponents votes” in the state’s Second Congressional District, the congressional redistricting map adopted by the state legislature in 2021 “does not violate the (New Mexico Republican Party’s) equal protection rights” under the state constitution.”

The Republican Party of New Mexico (RPNM) said it will appeal the ruling.

The legislature, with Democrats in control of both the state Senate and House of Representatives, approved Senate Bill 1 in a special session, redrawing the state’s three congressional districts based on the 2020 census. Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham, a Democrat, signed the bill into law.

The new map “altered the previous congressional districts,” Van Soelen said in his ruling, “adding all of Lincoln and De Baca counties and part of Otero County to CD (congressional district) 1. It added part of Eddy and Lea counties to CD 3. It split Chaves County, previously exclusively in CD 2, into all three (3) congressional districts. It also made changes in and around Albuquerque in Bernalillo County, and parts of Valencia, Sandoval and Santa Fe counties.

With those changes, the state Republican Party said in its lawsuit, the redistricting map “deeply fractures” the state’s southeast region by splitting it among all three congressional districts.

In his ruling, Van

Soelen, a Republican, agreed that the “predominant purpose in redrawing CD 2 ... was to entrench the Democratic in Party in power by diluting the votes of citizens favoring Republicans (and) “the resulting dilution of the (Republican) vote was substantial.”

However, the judge said the way the map was drawn does not rise “to the level of an egregious gerrymander.”

As stated by the New Mexico Supreme Court in a previous ruling, “some degree of a partisan Gerrymander is permissible,” Van Soelen wrote. “It is only when partisan gerrymanders are ‘egregious’ that constitutional protections are indicated.”

“Given the variables that go into predicting future election outcomes, coupled with the competitive outcomes of the only

Estrada makes second quest for city council

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

“I’m a very concerned citizen, that’s the only reason I’m running,” Las Cruces City Council district one candidate Jason Estrada said at a Sept. 28 Coalition of Conservatives in Action forum.

Estrada, a Las Cruces native and small business owner, is making his second bid for city council. He received 5.4 percent of the vote among four candidates and was eliminated after the first round of ranked choice voting in the 2019 district two council race. He withdrew from the 2021 mayor’s race.

In this year’s district one race, Estrada is running against Cassie McClure, Daniel Buck, Patrick Potter and Mark O’Neill. Incumbent Kasandra Gandara is giving up the seat to run for mayor. The election is Nov. 7. Early voting began Oct. 10.

Any of the five would do a good job if elected, Estrada said. “Everybody’s in this together,” he said. “Red or blue doesn’t matter. They’re focused on change.”

Estrada said change means electing a mayor and city councilors who represent their constituents rather than a personal or political agenda, doing a better job of fighting crime and supporting small businesses. Estrada owns Everything Las Cruces, which he said has the largest social media outreach in southern New Mexico.

Estrada said he learned a lot from his first bid for public office in 2019 and is more knowledgeable about city government and more frustrated, but also more passionate, than four years ago.

“It all ties in together,” Estrada said about the issues facing city government.

Poverty creates homelessness and contributes to drug addiction and mental health issues, he said, and “that breeds crime.” Overcoming poverty means supporting small business to strengthen the city’s economy.

“Small businesses are the backbone of our community,” Estrada said.

One way the city could assist small businesses is helping pay for damage caused by vandalism, including the broken windows that business owners, including Estrada, have experienced across the city, he said.

For some, the choice comes down to replacing the window or paying the rent, Estrada said.

Another way the city could help is doing more to stop theft in retail businesses, he said.

The city also needs to do a better job of allocating resources to help people in poverty who don’t have access to health care, Estrada said, and helping parents by paying for their children’s school supplies.

“The economy touches everything,” Estrada said.

In addition to providing better support to existing small business, the city should do more to attract businesses to Las Cruces, he said, including “businesses that relate to children” and appeal to the city’s young population to give them something to do and a place to go.

And, the city should provide more resources to make new and existing businesses successful and to encourage entrepreneurs, Estrada said, including asking local business professionals to lead free workshops on how to balance a checkbook, file taxes, write a business plan and more.

“Everybody wants to make a million dollars, but they don’t know how to make their first dollar,” he said.

The workshops should also be offered to high school students and college graduates.

“It seems like such a simple thing,” he said, “but it doesn’t get done.”

Reducing the city’s crime rate would also be a valuable recruitment tool, Estrada said.

For example, he said, a doctor or other medical professionals considering moving to Las Cruces and adding to the quality of Las Cruces health care, likely would change his or her mind after seeing the low grades the city receives for its crime rate in a Google search.

The city needs to enforce existing laws and city ordinances to reduce crime, he said, and it needs to adopt a panhandling ordinance.

“We’ve got to stop handcuffing the people who should be doing the handcuffing,” Estrada said.

If he had a conversation with whomever the city council chooses as the next Las Cruces police chief, Estrada said he would tell the chief, “My door is open and I expect you to walk through it and tell me everything you need to do your job ... and then let me know what we need to do.

“Nobody is in this alone,” he said. “We need every gear to be turning.”

Estrada also suggested moving city council meetings from 1 p.m. Mondays at city hall to 7 p.m. at different locations around the city so more people will attend. Every city councilor should also be required to hold a district meeting at least once a month, he said.

Las Cruces is “on the brink of giving up,” Estrada said, and that can’t be allowed to happen.

“You’ve got to give people hope,” he said. Let this city do better. Let’s make this the greatest city on earth.”

Estrada and his wife, Kayla Martinez, have four children, ages 4-17. Martinez is an assistant principal at Centennial High School.

Above is the redistricted map New Mexico legislators approved in a special legislative session in 2021. After an appellate judge ruled the redistricting did not rise to unconstitutional levels, the Republican Party of New Mexico said it plans to appeal to the state's Supreme Court.

actual outcome held so far under the ... map, the court finds that the (state Republican Party) have not provided sufficient evidence that the (Democrats) were successful in their attempt to entrench their party in CD 2," the judge said.

State Sen. Joseph Cervantes, D-Doña Ana, told the Bulletin in September the legislature's redistricting map "is strictly within the boundaries of the law."

Cervantes, a Las Cruces lawyer and chair of the state Senate Judiciary Committee, predicted whichever side Van Soelen ruled against would appeal the judge's decision to the state Supreme Court.

If that happens, Cervantes, who was one of the sponsors of the bill that proposed the map, said he is confident the map will be upheld.

The map makes all three congressional districts more competitive, Cervantes said. It more closely aligns congressional representatives with average New Mexicans in their districts and reduces the control of political parties in congressional races.

"The Republican Party of New Mexico believes the fight is too important to accept this setback without contest, a RPNM news release said. "On behalf of all disenfranchised voters in the state of New Mexico, RPNM will be appealing our case to the New Mexico Supreme Court.

"Today's decision was bigger than Republican or Democrat," RPNM chair and former Dist. 2 U.S. Congressman Steve Pearce said. "It struck at the heart of our Republic, the form of government that allows all beliefs to have a voice. Judge Van Soelen agreed that there was partisan gerrymandering in the district map for CD2, but we disagree with his ruling that it was not an egregious gerrymander. Our legal team presented a clear case that the legislature intended to and, in fact, did egregiously gerrymander the congressional maps to shift the second district by 18 points in favor of Democrats.

"It is no surprise that the New Mexico Republican Party lost its bogus lawsuit attempting to throw out competitive, fairly-drawn maps," the Democratic Party of New Mexico said in a news release. "RPNM Chair Steve Pearce's defunct Republican Party of New Mexico is merely looking to place blame somewhere for their recent election losses."

Defendants,
IN THE MATTER OF STREAM SYSTEM ISSUE NO. 108, GLOBAL ASSESSED ACREAGE PROCEEDINGS, No. D-307-SS-9700108, LOWER RIO GRANDE STREAM SYSTEM ADJUDICATION.

NOTICE OF GLOBAL ASSESSED ACREAGE POSTING

LEGAL NOTICES

Las Cruces Bulletin - your legal publication for Las Cruces and Doña Ana County, New Mexico

POSED LIST OF SUBFILES THAT WERE ADJUDICATED WITHOUT ELEPHANT BUTTE IRRIGATION DISTRICT (EBID) ASSESSMENT INFORMATION, AND DEADLINE TO OBJECT TO DESCRIPTION OF THE ASSESSED ACREAGE AND EBID PARCEL NUMBER AS OF THE DATE THE SUBFILE WAS ADJUDICATED.

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that the FIFTH proposed list of subfiles that were adjudicated without EBID assessment information is posted on the Court's adjudication website at <https://lrgadjudication.nmcourts.gov/ss-97-108.aspx> with a description of the assessment acreage and parcel number(s) as of the date the subfile was adjudicated. A copy of this FIFTH list is also available at the Lower Rio Grande hydrographic survey office, Office of the State Engineer, 1680 Hickory Loop, Suite J, Las Cruces, NM 88005-6598. Claimants with subfile numbers on the list must review the description of their amounts of EBID assessed acreage and parcel numbers as of the date the subfile was adjudicated. Claimants who object to the description of their EBID parcel numbers or amounts of assessed acreage as of the date the subfile was adjudicated must appear and show cause why their acreage and/or parcel numbers should not be adjudicated as described on the list, by completing FORM F, Objection to Description of Assessed Acreage, and mailing it to the State within thirty (30) days of the final publication of this notice. A copy of FORM F with instructions is available on the Court's website at <https://lrgadjudication.nmcourts.gov/ss-97-108.aspx>. A separate Form F must be submitted for each subfile for which the claimant objects to the parcel numbers or the assessed acreage amounts. Additional LISTS will be published in the coming months. Dates: 09/29, 10/06, 10/13, 2023

NOTICE is hereby given that on September 1, 2023, Martin Ruis, Maria Del Cannen Prado de Ruiz, and Manuel Rangel III, filed with the STATE ENGINEER Application No. LRG-1 7296-POD2, OSE File No. LRG-17296-1, for Permit to Change Location of Well within the Lower Rio Grande Under-ground Water Basin of the State of New Mexico by discontinuing the use of well LRG-17296-POD1, located within the NE $\frac{1}{4}$  SE $\frac{1}{4}$  SW $\frac{1}{4}$  of projected Section 22, Township 22 South, Range 1 East (NMPM), and more specifically located where Latitude and Longitude intersect at 32° 22' 31" N, 106° 49' 44.98" W (WGS84), on land owned by the applicants, and by drilling new well LRG-1 7296-POD2, to be located within the NE $\frac{1}{4}$  SE $\frac{1}{4}$  SW $\frac{1}{4}$  of projected Section 22, Township 22 South, Range 1 East (NMPM), and more specifically located where Latitude and Longitude interest at 32° 22' 30.67" N, 106° 49' 44.65" W (WGS84), on land owned by the applicants, for the continued diversion of 3.0 acre-feet per annum for domestic one household purposes. The applicant has requested emergency authorization to drill the proposed well under NMSA, 1978, Section 72-12-22. Old well LRG-17296-POD1 will be plugged. The proposed site of new well LRG-1 7296-POD2 is located 1101ih of Las Cruces, NM and is approximately 566 ft. southwest of the intersection of the in-tersection of Strang Rd. and Hare Rd. Dona Ana is the County affected by the diversion and in which the water has been or will be put to beneficial use. This notice is ordered to be published in the Las Cruces Bulletin. To view the applica-tion and suppling documentation contact the State Engineer District Office to arrange a date and time for an appointment located at 1680 Hickory Loop, Suite J, Las Cruces, NM 88005. Any person, firm or corporation or other entity having standing to file objections or protests shall do so in writing (objection must be legible, signed, and include the writer's complete name, phone number, email address, and mailing address). The objection to the approval of the application must be based on: ( 1) Impairment; if impairment, you must specifically identify your water rights; and/or (2) Public Welfare/Con-servation of Water; if public welfare or conservation of water within the state of New Mexico, you must show how you will be substantially and specifically affected. The written protest must be filed, in triplicate, with the State Engineer, 1680 Hickory Loop, Suite J, Las Cruces, NM 88005 on or before November 27, 2023.

Facsimiles (faxes) will be accepted as a valid protest if the hard copy is hand-delivered or mailed and postmarked within 24-hours of the facsimile. Mailing postmark will be used to validate the 24-hour period. Protests can be faxed to the Office of the State Engineer, at 575-524-6160. If no valid protest or objection is filed, the State Engineer will evaluate the appli-cation in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 72 NMSA 1978.

Simon Cowell

OF AMERICA'S GOT TALENT ON NBC

Q: Was Simon Cowell one of the original judges on "America's Got Talent"?

A: No, but he still played a major part in the NBC series from the start, since he created it. (He also has been an executive producer of the show from the beginning.) Piers Morgan, Brandy Norwood and David Hasselhoff made up the judging panel for the first season in 2006, with Regis Philbin as the host.

At the time, Cowell was intending to make a similar contest for British television, but some complications ultimately held that up and he turned his attention to making a U.S. version. The result was a summer hit for NBC, and it also jump-started the originally planned British edition, which premiered in 2007 and also continues. From there, the concept expanded even more, with versions still being done in Canada, Cambodia, France, India and Spain (among other locations).

A judge on the British version from the start, Cowell became an on-air "America's Got Talent" presence beginning with the 11th season – this year has marked its 18th round – but he wasn't present for the live episodes during Season 15, due to a back injury. Substitute judges were enlisted initially, but the number of judges then was reduced from four to three in Cowell's absence, with Howie Mandel (who has been with the show since Season 5), Heidi Klum and Sofia Vergara holding forth with those duties. Actually, Klum also missed some of Season 15 due to illness, with Vergara's fellow "Modern Family" alum Eric Stonestreet filling in for her.

“Movie: Slotherhouse” (Oct. 15)

Emily Young (Lisa Ambalavanar), a senior, wants to be elected as her sorority’s president. She adopts a cute sloth, thinking it can become the new mascot and help her win, until a string of fatalities implicate the sloth as the main suspect in the murders.

“Movie: Cobweb” (Oct. 20)

Eight-year-old Peter (Woody Norman) is plagued by a mysterious, constant tap, tap from inside his bedroom wall — a tapping that his parents insist is all in his imagination. As Peter’s fear intensifies, he believes that his parents could be hiding a terrible, dangerous secret and questions their trust. And for a child, what could be more frightening than that? Lizzy Caplan and Antony Starr also star.

“Movie: Life Upside Down” (Oct. 21)

Three couples who know one another are stuck at home during the beginning of lockdown. Jonathan (Bob Odenkirk), Clarissa (Radha Mitchell) and Paul (Danny Huston) will see their lives turned upside-down, forced to look at each other and ultimately at themselves.

“Movie: Totally Under Control” (Oct. 21)

This documentary takes an in-depth look at how the United States government handled the response to the COVID-19 outbreak during the early months of the pandemic.

What's Available NOW On

“Special: Werewolf by Night in Color” (Oct. 20)

On a dark and somber night, a secret cabal of monster hunters emerge from the shadows and gather at the foreboding Bloodstone Temple following the death of their leader. In a macabre memorial to the leader's life, the attendees are thrust into a mysterious and deadly competition for a powerful relic—a hunt that will ultimately bring them face to face with a dangerous monster. This 2022 special makes its full-color debut.

“L-Pop” - Season 1 (Available Now)

Film student Pau (Alicia Jaziz) is making a documentary about her sister Andrea (Andrea de Alba), a K-pop fan. Their parents want Andrea to be a dentist and to have a normal life. A part of a cover dance group, Andrea has another dream that she keeps secret: she wants to be a singer and dedicate her life to music. With the odds stacked against her, thanks to the documentary, her group and a run-in with a famous actor, she'll find the confidence to pursue her dream.

“Movie: Harry & Meghan: A Royal Romance” (Available Now)

This romantic biographical drama follows the meeting and courtship of Prince Harry (Murray Fraser) and Meghan Markle (Parisa Fitz-Henley).

“Movie: Betty and Coretta” (Available Now)

This biographical drama follows the widows of Martin Luther King, Jr. (Malik Yoba) and Malcolm X (Lindsay Owen Pierre) and how they carry on as single mothers after the assassination of their husbands. Angela Bassett and Mary J. Blige star.

Jenny Lewis performs in "Austin City Limits"

Field Day HALL 6 p.m.

Widow Jen (Rachel Boston) is one of three moms from different social circles who must work together to plan their kids' elementary school field day. When she meets Dan (Benjamin Ayres), sparks fly and she begins to believe she might find love again.

Murdaugh Murders: The Movie LIFE 6 p.m.

Oh how the tables have turned. Attorney Alex Murdaugh (Chris McGarry) becomes the prime suspect in the double homicide of his wife and son and is interviewed by a determined reporter (Nichelle Hines). Is a past client framing Murdaugh as revenge?

Love & Marriage: Huntsville OWN 6 p.m.

Huntsville might be known for everything from its Army base to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center. However, power couples Melody and Martell Holt, LaTisha and Marsau Scott, and Kim Grant and Maurice Scott are making names for themselves in business.

Poltergeist AMC 8 p.m.

Starring Craig T. Nelson and JoBeth Williams, the original, 1982 iteration of this horror movie airs, documenting a suburban couple's fight with the supernatural as their daughter is drawn from her bedroom straight into a nightmarish other dimension.

The Mummy: Tomb of the Dragon Emperor SYFY 8:40 p.m.

The third (and final) film in The Mummy franchise finds Rick O'Connell (Brendan Fraser) and his family battling a new fearsome force awakened by archaeology: the ruthless Dragon Emperor (Jet Li) and his terracotta warriors.

Austin City Limits KRWG 9 p.m.

This long-running concert series features artists from every musical genre, airing performances given in a live-music setting. This new episode highlights singer-songwriter Jenny Lewis (lead singer for Rilo Kiley) and the modern pop sensation MUNA.

tonight's picks

Mirabel from "Encanto"

Delicious Miss Brown
FOOD 10 a.m.

They know how to celebrate down south, and Kardea Brown is hosting Halloween in her new home and throwing a party for her friends and family. With a menu featuring the likes of pepperoni mummy stromboli and graveyard ice cream pie, we're dying already.

Naked and Afraid
DSC 6 p.m.

It might sound like the plot to a Lifetime movie, but when an ICU nurse and a banker begin their 14-day naked fan challenge in the dense Mexican jungle, access to food quickly becomes scarce and they wonder if they have the will and skill to go the distance.

The Real Housewives of New York City
BRAVO 7 p.m.

The real-life drama of these Manhattan housewives heats up as Season 14 continues. A new group of housewives take center stage, including the likes of model Ubah Hassan, content creator Sai De Silva and fashion designer Jenna Lyons.

The Toys That Built America
HISTORY 7 p.m.

It's 1983, and underdog company Tonka plans to bring a game-changing toy from Japan to America: the transformable robot. However, Hasbro, the industry giant, has its own competing toy line. In this season premiere, it's a true David vs. Goliath story.

Hotel Portofino
KRWG 7 p.m.

In this season premiere, Bella (Natascha McElhone) wants to build a spa, but her plans quickly go over budget. Meanwhile, the Portofino hotel must face an anonymous inspection while Bella deals with the unexpected return of her husband (Mark Umbers).

Encanto
KVIA 7 p.m.

In the mountains of Colombia live the Madrigals. At a young age, every family member receives a special gift, be it superhuman strength or the ability to heal any wound. Except for Mirabel. However, that may be what Mirabel needs to save her family.

Krapopolis
KFOX 7:30 p.m.

The ancient world is a mixed bag of nonsense with this flawed family of humans, gods and monsters running a mythical new city without killing each other. But don't think killing each other isn't something worth considering when it comes to compromise.

Rick and Morty
TOON 9 p.m.

Another new season of this fan-favorite animated series premieres tonight. Scientist Rick, a loud and unhinged genius, and his timid grandson, Morty, go on wild adventures, exploring the infinite universes while causing mayhem and running into trouble.

The Farmers & Crafts Market of LC
NIGHT MARKET

A bison seen in "The American Buffalo"

NFL Football
ESPN KVIA 6 p.m.

Football is in the air tonight as Monday Night Football returns for another week. This week, the Dallas Cowboys enter hostile territory to face the Los Angeles Chargers at SoFi Stadium in Inglewood, California. Historically, Dallas is 7-5 against LA all-time.

Kitchen Nightmares
KFOX 7 p.m.

Chef Ramsay hits the road to help struggling restaurants all over the United States turn their luck around. Ramsay looks at the problems each establishment faces, from unsanitary refrigerators to lazy or inexperienced staff, and searches for resolutions.

The American Buffalo
KRWG 7 p.m.

This two-part documentary by Ken Burns looks at the history of one of North America's most spectacular animals: the bison. They went from a population of 30-50 million to exactly 77 early in the 20th century. Thanks to conservation efforts, more than 350,000 exist today.

90 Day: The Last Resort
TLC 7 p.m.

When in doubt, head to a gentlemen's club. Jovi and Ed think it's a good idea to bring Asuelu to his first strip club. But they end up getting Michael in trouble — and their actions have Yara debating her relationship with Jovi. Then, Kalani comes clean to the girls.

Basketball Wives: Orlando VH1 8 p.m.

Are they opening or closing? Even though Ashley has worked herself sick a few days before her store's impressive grand re-opening party, sparks fly and accusations of infidelity are made when Danielle and Mackenzie meet for the first time in Orlando.

The Irrational
KTSM 9 p.m.

Nothing is as it seems when a desperate father asks Professor Alec Mercer (Jesse L. Martin) and his team to help solve a kidnapping. While investigating the case, a complicated family dynamic guides Alex towards the hidden motivations of those involved.

tonight's picks

Kelsey Grammer and Jess Salgueiro in "Frasier"

Dancing With the Stars

KVIA 7 p.m.

History is being made as "Dancing With the Stars" is the first series to simulcast live on ABC and on a streaming service, Disney+. From Jamie Lynn Spears to Lele Pons, 14 new celebrities hit the ballroom floor. Alfonso Ribeiro and Julianne Hough co-host.

Frasier

KDBC 8:15 p.m.

"Frasier" has re-entered the building with this Paramount+ reboot of the beloved comedy, airing its first two episodes back-to-back on CBS. It follows Frasier Crane (Kelsey Grammer) as he returns to Boston hoping to reconnect with family and old friends.

Navajo Police: Class 57

HBO 10 p.m.

This three-part docuseries follows a group of 28 recruits during their time at Navajo Police Training Academy and later out in the field. With the Navajo Police Department severely understaffed, these recruits may be the saving grace for a community dealing with rising crime.

“Camp Courage” (Oct. 15)

This documentary tells the story of Olga and her granddaughter, Milana, who, made refugees by the war in Ukraine, travel to a summer camp in the Austrian Alps to test the limits of their own bravery, and to strengthen their growing bond.

“Bodies” (Oct. 19)

Based on the mind-bending graphic novel by Si Spencer, this eight-episode series is a police procedural with a twist. When a body — the same body — is found on Longharvest Lane in London's East End in 1890, 1941, 2023 and 2053, one detective from each period must investigate. As connections are drawn across the decades, the detectives soon discover their investigations are linked, and an enigmatic political leader — Elias Mannix (Stephen Graham) — becomes increasingly central. Jacob Fortune-Lloyd, Shira Haas, Amaka Okafor, Kyle Soller and Tom Mothersdale star.

“Movie: Old Dads” (Oct. 20)

Three best friends become fathers later in life and find themselves battling preschool principals, millennial CEOs and anything created after 1987. Marking Bill Burr's directorial debut, this comedy film stars Burr, Bobby Cannavale, Bokeem Woodbine and Josh Brener.

“Surviving Paradise” - Season 1 (Oct. 20)

Twelve contestants think they are going to have the summer of their lives, living the life of luxury in a clifftop, oceanside villa. What they don't know is that they'll have to start with nothing, living in the woods without any lavish amenities. Through friendships and alliances, they'll team up to fight their way into the villa for a chance at the $100,000 grand prize. Jessiemae Peluso hosts.

“Life On Our Planet” - Season 1 (Netflix — Oct. 25, Series Premiere)

This is the story of life's epic battle to conquer and survive on planet Earth. Today there are 20 million species on our planet, yet what we see is just a snapshot in time — 99% of earth's inhabitants are lost to our deep past. The story of what happened to these dynasties — their rise and their fall — is truly remarkable. The series uses the latest technology and science to bring long extinct creatures back to life, revealing the incredible story of life on our planet.

“Five Nights at Freddy's” (Peacock — Oct. 27, Movie Premiere)

A troubled security guard begins working at Freddy Fazbear's Pizza. During his first night on the job, he realizes that the night shift won't be so easy. Pretty soon he will unveil what actually happened at Freddy's. Josh Hutcherson, Matthew Lillard, Elizabeth Lail, Mary Stuart Masterson and Kevin Foster star.

Nature
KRWG 7 p.m.

Pete Walsh is a Tasmanian with no background in natural history, yet he's become obsessed with one of nature's least understood creatures, the platypus. In this Season 42 premiere, he is on a mission to observe and save them from urban development.

Quantum Leap
KTSM 7 p.m.

Will Dr. Ben Song (Raymond Lee) ever find his way home? Or will he forever be stuck in the time stream like his predecessor? Now a government agent, Ben investigates extra-terrestrial activity after a mysterious incident in New Mexico.

Chucky
SYFY USA 7 p.m.

You may think Washington is dysfunctional based on 200-plus years of observation, but Chucky is not fooling around this time and his complex motivations are finally revealed. Meanwhile, Tiffany (Jennifer Tilly) is tried for Jennifer Tilly's murder spree.

Ms. Pat Settles It
BET 8 p.m.

Court is in session. In the inaugural season of this unscripted courtroom series, Patricia "Ms. Pat" Williams, takes on the role of TV judge, welcoming a jury of her closest friends and family to tackle the resolution of real-life cases.

Celebrity Wheel of Fortune
KVIA 8 p.m.

Pop icons Pat Sajak and Vanna White take a new spin on the iconic game show and welcome celebrity contestants to spin the world's most famous wheel. Natasha Leggero, Roy Wood Jr. and Kyle Brandt compete for charities of their choosing in this new episode.

The Spencer Sisters
KVIA2 8 p.m.

Lea Thompson stars as mystery novelist Victoria Spencer and Stacey Farber is her police officer daughter, Darby, in the fresh mystery series. The latest case has them investigating stolen intellectual property for a trio of Silicon Valley-type tech developers.

SurrealEstate
SYFY 8 p.m.

In the words of Ray Parker Jr., "Bustin' makes me feel good." Fortunately, the Roman Agency — led by Luke (Tim Rozon) — knows that all too well. In order to sell houses to their clients, they need to rid each home of their supernatural occupants.

The Amazing Race
KDBC 8:30 p.m.

The longer this race lasts, the harder it's going to get. Is $1 million enough for the remaining teams of two to persevere? Trials and tribulations are always around the corner as contestants vie to meet host Phil Keoghan at the finish line.

American Horror Story: Delicate
FX 11 p.m.

Actress Anna Victoria Alcott (Emma Roberts) desperately wants to start a family. But as the buzz around her new film grows, she senses something may be targeting her and her pursuit of motherhood. Her unhinged publicist (Kim Kardashian) isn't helping.

T.J. Lavin from "The Challenge: USA"

Hell's Kitchen
KFOX 7 p.m.

Chef Gordon Ramsay has his fiery disposition out in full force in this cooking competition. At stake is a head chef position, a $250,000 cash prize and, of course, bragging rights as the winner of TV's most stressful competition. Losing tastes terrible.

Accused: Guilty or Innocent?
A&E 8:05 p.m.

In a new episode, a mother awakens from a coma to a devastating truth: her 5-year-old son died in a multi-car accident she can't recall. Prosecution alleges her speeding and running a red light caused it, charging her with manslaughter.

Everyone Else Burns
KVIA2 8:30 p.m.

Eternal damnation and hellfire is always front of mind for members of this hyper-religious family, led by patriarch David (Simon Bird). In this series premiere, David, like his family, is devoted to preparing for Armageddon and avoiding burning in Hell.

The Challenge: USA
KDBC 9 p.m.

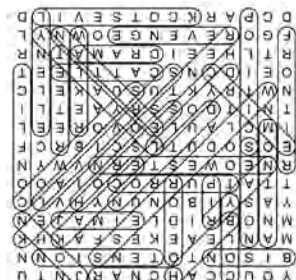

Season 2 of "The Challenge: USA" all comes down to this. This season brought together past contestants from CBS reality shows with veteran competitors of MTV's "The Challenge" for an all-star showdown.

Vindicta
SHOW 9 p.m.

A sadistic serial killer is terrorizing a city, forcing a young paramedic (Elena Kampouris) to try and survive her first night on the job. But the masked killer seems to be targeting her and the rescue team trying to help.

“Upload” - Season 3 (Oct. 20)

In Season 3, Nora (Andy Allo) and freshly downloaded Nathan (Robbie Amell) navigate their relationship, while racing to stop the conspiracy that threatens to destroy millions of lives. Meanwhile, in Lakeview, a backup copy of Nathan has been activated, and Ingrid (Allegra Edwards) is not about to let this second chance at love slip away. Aleesha (Zainab Johnson) rises through the ranks of Horizon by managing AI education, while Luke (Kevin Bigley), all alone in Lakeview, is forced to come up with the funds to pay for his stay in paradise.

“Bosch: Legacy” - Season 2 (Oct. 20 — Freevee)

During Season 2 of this series based on the works of author Michael Connelly, Harry Bosch (Titus Welliver) and Honey Chandler (Mimi Rogers) work together to seek out a killer who just might find them first. As a result of being kidnapped by a masked assailant, Maddie Bosch's (Madison Lintz) law enforcement career hangs in the balance.

“Movie: Sayen: Desert Road” (Oct. 20)

Following the events of the first movie, Sayen (Rallen Montenegro), now one of the most wanted criminals in the country, arrives in the Atacama Desert in pursuit of a lead in her mission against Actaeon, the organization responsible for the tragic loss of her family and the destruction of ecosystems throughout Chile. There, she will find new allies who join her journey to take down Actaeon and its director, Máximo Torres (Enrique Arce).

“Silver Dollar Road” (Oct. 20)

From Academy-Award Nominee Raoul Peck comes the story of the Reels family as told by the matriarch Mamie Reels Ellison and her niece Kim Renee Duhon, two women bending to valiantly safeguard their ancestors' land, and their brothers and uncles Melvin and Licurtis, who were wrongfully imprisoned for eight years — the longest sentence for civil contempt in North Carolina history. This documentary highlights the covert ways the legal system has been exploited to keep Black land ownership fragile and the racial wealth gap growing.

Tiffany Haddish, LaKeith Stanfield, Rosario Dawson and Danny DeVito in "Haunted Mansion"

"HAUNTED MANSION"

A Disney theme-park ride that was the source of an Eddie Murphy-starring 2003 movie also inspired this version, a sort of pseudo-"Poltergeist" that casts Rosario Dawson as a single parent who is sure that her home also has otherworldly residents. She gets a group of supposed experts in the supernatural to try to rid the place – which has a past that would lend itself to the apparent situation – of the eerie tenants, also putting this tale on a similar plane as "Ghostbusters." The picture (which was one of the first major movies to have its publicity campaign impeded by the rules of the SAG-AFTRA strike) boasts an impressive cast that also includes LaKeith Stanfield, Tiffany Haddish, Owen Wilson, Danny DeVito, Dan Levy, Jamie Lee Curtis, Jared Leto and Marilu Henner. DVD extras: two "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; outtakes. ★★★ (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD, Digital and On Demand)

"RABBIT HOLE: SEASON ONE"

Including "24" and "Designated Survivor," Kiefer Sutherland has had his share of series, and this latest one – which streamed on Paramount+ – casts him as an espionage agent working in the corporate world. After targeting so many others through his efforts, he finds his own career is upended when he is framed for murder, putting him in the unfamiliar position of having to use his skills to save himself. Meta Golding, Enid Graham, Charles Dance, Wendy Makkena, Peter Weller and Lance Henriksen also are in the cast of the twisty-turny melodrama ... but as with all of his home-screen vehicles, Sutherland (who's also among the executive pro-

"ALF: THE COMPLETE SERIES (DELUXE EDITION)"

One of television's most unusual title stars fronted this 1986-90 NBC sitcom, available in its entirety in this set of 24 DVDs. ALF is an alien life form (portrayed largely by puppeteer Paul Fusco) who goes by the name Gordon Shumway, and crashes both literally and figuratively into the lives of an average American family. The lives of the relatives (some of whom are played by Max Wright, Anne Schedeen and Andrea Elson) expectedly are transformed by their being in the presence of the very unexpected visitor. Though the show hasn't always been readily available during the intervening years, it maintains a place in the hearts of many fans who literally grew up with it over the course of its original run. Also included in this collection are the TV movie "Project: ALF" – which featured Martin Sheen, Miguel Ferrer and Ed Begley Jr. – and the complete cartoon shows "ALF: The Animated Series" and "ALF Tales." ★★★ (Not rated)

Artisan Market hits Alma d'arte

BULLETIN REPORT

Artists from New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and Mexico are expected at the 4th Annual Artisan Market scheduled for Friday, Oct. 13, through Sunday, Oct. 15 at the Alma d'arte Charter High School Performing Arts Auditorium at 402 W. Court Ave.

The Market, presented by Bellas Artes y Cultura (BAyC) in partnership with Alma d'arte, will bring together artists from diverse cultures to display and market their products.

Erlinda Portillo, President of Bellas Artes y Cultura said, "This partnership is a win/win opportunity for Bellas Artes and Alma d'arte in that the facility lends itself to accommodate an inside venue regardless of the weather. In addition, we are excited that students at the school have an opportunity to assist with the logistics of the event, set up a school booth to exhibit and sell their art pieces, and interact with older and more seasoned artists to expand their horizons in the arts."

The two-day market will run Saturday, Oct. 14, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 15 from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. On Friday, Oct. 13, the public is invited to a meet-and-greet artist welcome reception and silent auction of artwork donated by the participating artists. On Saturday morning, an opening ceremony for the market will take place at 9 a.m. Entertainment will be presented throughout the two-day market with local and area musicians and dance groups.

Dr. Adam Amador, chief academic officer at Alma d'arte expressed his excitement about the partnership with Bellas Artes Y Cultura. "This is a wonderful opportunity for our students and Alma d'Arte Learning Community," Amador said. "Bellas Artes y Cultura provides our students a platform to showcase their work to the featured artists, the Las Cruces community and beyond. I am excited for what is to come for our Alma d'Arte learning community."

The Market offers an opportunity for artisans from Las Cruces and Doña Ana County, throughout New Mexico and neighboring states of Arizona, Texas and Mexico to participate. Categories identified in the registration brochure include, but are not limited to: Straw Applique, Ceramics/Pottery, Fiber/Textiles, Jewelry/Precious, Glass Art, Basketry, Metal Work, Sculpture, Retablos, Woodworking, Oil/Acrylic Paintings, Non-precious jewelry, Furniture, and Indian/Native American Jewelry.

Featured artist in this year's market is Jerry Montoya, New Mexico santero artist in traditional and contemporary art for over 40 years. Montoya specializes in repujado tin work, silver jewelry, retablos and bultos that reflect his love of culture and spirituality. His award-winning work can be found in the collections of many museums, churches, and among private collectors. His art has also been featured in numerous books and publications. Montoya will hold demonstrations of his techniques in producing his art products throughout the two-day event.

Among the participating artists will be Jason Younis and Juan Lopez, well-known and popular Spanish Colonial artists from New Mexico; local airbrush artist Luis Navarro, whose work covers a spectrum of artwork on canvas, clothing, cars, motorcycles and much more; Peter Van Tongeren, whose metal work creates dazzling lights and luminaries; and others.

There is no admission fee to the event and food trucks will be available for the public to enjoy a taste of Las Cruces.

Critters come out to play at new Mesilla gallery space

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

Page Coleman came to Mesilla from Albuquerque in 2018, buying a historic building in Mesilla and completely renovating it. As an artist, as her place was being renovated, she had no space to work on her painting so she channeled her energy into creations of wire and found bits and pieces.

"I just cranked out critters," she said.

As she walks around her gallery showroom space at 2424 Calle de Parian, her energy is palpable. She talks about her critters like they are alive and this brings them to life in the eyes of the viewer.

"I swear they get around," she said. "And these are a little different. I started doing little nasties – if you walk by, they will grab you. And the other ones are these shrubs and bushes."

She imagined her critters moving through the shrubs and bushes, then moving right up into the drawings hung above them.

In direct contrast to her active, busy critter creations, her artwork is stacked against some of the walls ready to show and these paintings are minimal and striking. There are glowing orb landscapes and stark, naked trees. Her paintings are glowy and calm – "landscapey," she said.

Gallery Page Coleman, is officially opening with an open house from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 14. After that she is taking visitors to the gallery by appointment. The work on display features her artwork spanning 40-plus years including new charcoal drawings and lots of wire critters.

Born and raised in Greeneville, Tennessee, Coleman earned her art degrees in Virginia and Wisconsin, eventually ending up in Albuquerque in 1982. She worked in the arts there until moving to Mesilla.

"I had never heard of Mesilla and a friend of mine was living here so I drove down," she said. "I thought it was great."

Having gone from managing small to bigger and bigger gallery spaces with many artists in Albuquerque, Coleman finally said enough was enough, and downsized, moving to Mesilla. She just wasn't enjoying the business anymore.

"I really just wanted to quit from that and move down to this little town," she said. "I thought it was just charming."

So now she has her space, with adobe shapes, a rock wall and art creatures hanging around corners to be discovered next to fences and hanging in windows. Her little studio is full of found items with which she builds her critter structures and thinks about her next paint series.

REVIEW: 'True West' a true gem

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

The late great actor and playwright Sam Shepard (1943-2017) would have liked and appreciated Las Cruces Community Theatre's production of his Pulitzer Prize and Tony Award nominated masterpiece "True West."

The play premiered more than 40 years ago, but its story is more meaningful today than ever: a broken family, the struggle to survive and the hope not only to overcome but to win the game of life.

Luckily for Las Cruces audiences, the tale is told by a cast of four gifted actors and one of the best directors Las Cruces has ever produced.

Lee (Benjamin Ramsey), a thief, drifter and ne'er-do-well, meets up with his estranged younger brother, Austin (Nick Check), a well-educated family man and successful screenwriter, at their mother's home near Los Angeles.

They settle into the sibling rivalry that has characterized their entire relationship. They drink, they fight, they steal toasters and a TV. But it is the screenplay Austin is writing and the idea Lee has for a screenplay that cause a remarkable role reversal.

Which one is really the success and which the failure?

These are the words of director Mike Wise, who knows and loves Shepard's work: "In rehearsal I kept referring to this play as 'Cain and Abel in Hollywood.' It offers many insights and questions into what might or might not be the authentic soul harboring within each of us ... and what (if any) is the authentic soul of this country, this west, this nation."

If you have the privilege of acting in a play directed by Wise, you get to ask all the questions and explore all the nuances waiting to be discovered in a great script. And when you have a script, a cast, a crew and a director this good, the result is like a flashlight in a diamond mine – it sparkles and it takes your breath away.

The chemistry between Check and Ramsey – the playfulness of two boys who never quite grew up and the rage of two careworn men who "inhabit completely opposite personalities of the same soul," to again quote

Pride

Event organizers said 1,000-1,500 people attended Southern New Mexico Pride's Oct. 6 Pride on the Plaza event, and hundreds stretched out along main street for the first ever Las Cruces Pride Parade. "I talked to lots of people and all of the vendors at the plaza and every single person I spoke to said that this year's Pride Celebration was much better than previous year's and they are looking forward to next year," said event organizer Robert Williams. "I also received lots of comments about how much fun the Parade was and that it was a great way to kick off the Pride Celebration. I personally had a great time and I always love how exciting it is to see all the smiles and the sheer good will that come with the Pride Celebration every year."

Wise – is the golden thread stitched into the fabric of this production.

It fills the stage and the theatre.

It will, I think, be among the treasured memories of both these young actors throughout their lives and long careers.

Check and Ramsey are joined by two other wonderful actors: Matthew Esqueda as the movie producer who turns the brothers 180 degrees, and Claudia Billings as Lee and Austin's mother.

These are not big roles, but they are great performances.

The incomparable Doug Roby has designed another amazing set for "True West." Len- nie Brown designed costumes that fit each character perfectly, Alecks Rundell designed the lights, Darin Cabot was the fight choreographer and Charley Davis is the stage manager.

I also loved the music.

Remaining performances of "True West" are 7:30 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Oct. 13-14 and 20-21; and 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 15 and 22.

'Buffalo' features music by Las Cruces

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

The first part of filmmaker Ken Burns' newest documentary, "The American Buffalo," premieres on PBS stations in Las Cruces and nationwide Monday, Oct. 16, including six songs written by Las Cruces musician Randy Granger.

"His contribution was very valuable to the film," the film's editor, Craig Mellish, said of Granger's music, which Mellish discovered while surfing the internet. "It's essential to our storytelling."

Part one of the two-part documentary begins at 7 p.m., and re-broadcast at 9 p.m., Monday, Oct. 16 on KRWG-TV, the PBS station based at New Mexico State University. Part two will follow Tuesday, Oct. 17, on PBS, also at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Mellish said he began an online search for music for the film because nothing he had access to "had the weight I thought it should. The film is about the murder of 30,000 animals. It's about everything that went with it," Mellish said.

"They really speak to me," Mellish said about Granger's songs. "Some of Randy's stuff had tension to it."

He found "a wealth of music that I could dip into."

"Whatever song I'm going to use, I have to love it," Mellish said.

Mellish said "The Dog Star" was the first piece of Granger's music he found online. He also chose Granger's "Apache Tears," "Crane Dance Song," "Ghost Dancers," "Comanche Riding Song" and "Full Moon Insomnia."

"My own Native American ancestry and my music in this film means I am honoring their sacrifices and perseverance and only hope I make them all proud," Granger said. "I remember driving from Hobbs to Carlsbad weekends to visit relatives. We would see herds of buffalo along the way. I never knew what happened to them. What an amazing story of despair and hope is 'American Buffalo.' Maybe our descendants will again see these majestic creatures who have been in North America over 200,000 years roaming free."

Asombro Institute's solar eclipse event is Oct. 14

BULLETIN REPORT

Asombro Institute for Science Education (AISE) will host the final installment of its "Scientist Saturday" series for 2023, 9 a.m.-noon Saturday, Oct. 14, at Chihuahuan Desert Nature Park (CDNP), 56501 N. Jornada Road, about 15 miles north of downtown Las Cruces.

New Mexico State University astronomer Paul Mason, Ph.D., will be on hand at the park's outdoor amphitheater to share his knowledge and expertise as visitors safely view a solar eclipse through a telescope, AISE said in a news release.

Visitors can also "make their own solar viewer, learn about the solar system and enjoy this special celestial event in a grand desert setting," the news release said.

The eclipse maximum will occur around 10:30 a.m., when the sun itself will appear as a thin blazing crescent, AISE said.

AISE's outdoor amphitheater is about one mile from the AISE parking lot off an unpaved, uphill trail.

During the event, restrooms and sheltered picnic tables will be available for use. CNNP trails will be open 7 a.m.-5 p.m.

La Mesa Fall Festival set for Oct. 16

BULLETIN REPORT

VIVA La Mesa Community Group and La Mesa Lions Club will hold the first annual Fall Festival, 3-7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14, at La Mesa Community Center walking path, 744 San Jose Road in La Mesa, about 16 miles south of Las Cruces City Hall via south Main Street. The event is free and open to the public.

State Sen. Carrie Hamblen, D-Doña Ana, will be the emcee and will be among the cooks preparing hamburgers and hotdogs that will be free to the first several hundred festival attendees, along with chips and drinks. Kona Ice will be on hand and San Jose Church will provide aqua frescas. The VFW will have popcorn, event coordinator Lyla Wagley.

The festival will include an estimated 30 vendors, including Carmelite nuns, selling baked goods, arts and crafts, and local farm goods, including pecans, honey and flowers. Community outreach at the festival will include the Doña Ana County Sheriff's Department, Empowerment Congress, Matter of Balance (preventing senior falls), VFW Post 4383, La Mesa Lions Club (giving out chalk for Chalk the Walk), Diabetes Outreach and organizations from New Mexico State University and the University of Texas at El Paso.

VIVA La Mesa will conduct a raffle at the festival, with prizes donated by participating vendors. A children's carnival will have games and prizes. There will also be a corn hole tournament with trophies and prizes awarded.

Members of Gadsden High School ROTC, La Mesa Lions and the community are event volunteers.

Arrowhead Center receives $2.5 million donation

BULLETIN REPORT

In an Oct. 4 news release, the Woody and Gayle Hunt Family Foundation announced a new $2.5 million gift to New Mexico State University's Arrowhead Center. The donation doubles an earlier $2.5 million contribution by the Hunt Family Foundation that facilitated the establishment of the Hunt Center for Entrepreneurship at the Arrowhead Center in 2017.

"With this investment in the regional entrepreneurship ecosystem, our family foundation is highlighting its commitment to fostering the enterprising spirit and innovative technologies that drive economic prosperity in our region," said Foundation Chair Woody L. Hunt.

The contribution will be used to grow the strength and diversity of entrepreneurship in the Borderplex region by increasing access to early-stage investment and educating and encouraging students to bring innovative products and services to commercial markets, the news release said.

"This generous contribution will significantly bolster the Hunt Center's efforts to support new ideas and entrepreneurship opportunities in the region," NMSU interim President Jay Gogue said. "It means that we will be able to do even more to nurture emerging entrepreneurs, propel nascent businesses, expedite technology commercialization, and facilitate the exchange of invaluable industry insights."

One of the initiatives that the new grant will support is a program that will be known as "The Mike Hunt Construction Sprints." Named for the Hunt Companies vice chair, Sprints will include speaker events, business model workshops, idea-generation programs, networking opportunities and awards for NMSU students, all with the aim of accelerating businesses through innovative construction technologies, the foundation said.

"The Sprints will capture the excitement and challenges of building something new while also promoting learning and reflection," Hunt said. "After a lifetime of working at the intersection of construction, innovation, and business, I cannot imagine a more meaningful honor than to have this program named after me."

"We are proud to serve as a collaborative hub in the growth and evolution of new enterprises in the Borderplex," Arrowhead Center Director Kathy Hansen said. "The Hunt family deserves credit for their foresight and commitment to our entrepreneurship ecosystem, and for understanding the profound impact that strategic philanthropy can have on a community. With this new gift, we hope to establish the Hunt Center as a national exemplar when it comes to enhancing access to entrepreneurial resources."

The foundation has long been committed to supporting sustainable programs that can make a widespread and prolonged impact in the Borderplex region, the news release said. Started in 1987, the foundation focuses on support for nonprofit initiatives in six categories, including education and regional economic development. ## Alamogordo native discusses navigating for federal jobs

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Selina Carr-McEwen is a 2000 graduate of Alamogordo High School with a BA (2005) and an MBA (2008) from New Mexico State University. Today, Carr-McEwen is a senior budget analyst for the U.S. Defense Health Agency (DHA), responsible for reporting nearly $15 billion in salaries paid to more than 135,000 civilian and military employees of the U.S. Department of Defense (DOD).

With a top-secret security clearance, Carr-McEwen also provides financial advice to military leadership and other federal agencies and programs; she earned a second master's degree in military operational art and science from Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama, in 2016.

Her previous jobs have included senior financial specialist for foreign military sales and lead budget analyst with oversight of electronic warfare investment and modernization, both with DOD, and senior financial analyst in the Office of Air Force Surgeon General.

"I'm on an incredible journey," Carr-

McEwen said. A former military spouse, now divorced with an 11-year-old daughter, Carr-McEwen, 41, is a "military brat." She was born in England during her father's military service.

Working on the civilian side "is my way of serving without putting on the uniform," she said. "I still wanted to serve our country."

Carr-McEwen is planning to continue her career with Uncle Sam until retirement and is looking for the next step up with a move to Colorado in the near future.

Her message to high school and college students thinking about joining the workforce who might want to follow her career path is, "Reach for the stars."

You can also reach out to her. "I'll mentor anyone any time," Carr-McEwen said.

That means helping others learn how to navigate the system, look for federal jobs and build a resume that gets results.

"Be an advocate, be an opportunity spotter, learn the buzz words," said Carr-McEwen, who began her career as an office automation assistant at Holloman Air Force Base and later worked at White

Sands Missile Range before moving to Washington, D.C.

Decide on your area of interest and start looking at jobs (www.usajobs.gov is a good place to begin), she said. And don't forget about internships that may be available in your field of interest.

"Definitely don't give up and don't be discouraged," Carr-McEwen said, noting that she applied for about 40 jobs before she started getting calls for interviews.

"There are jobs out there," Carr-McEwen said, but "not a lot of people know how to get into the government. It's a very stable career," she said. "Just apply. There are careers doing absolutely everything you can imagine."

Carr-McEwen said she would "love to go back to Alamogordo" to mentor high school students and return to Las Cruces to help NMSU set up a mentorship program.

Selina Carr-McEwen, in glasses, has spanned the globe in learning and teaching others about federal jobs.

"I love to pay the lessons that I've learned forward," she said.

"I just keep getting these phenomenal, incredible opportunities," Carr-McEwen said.

Earning defense financial management certification a few years ago is one of Carr-McEwen's proudest accomplish-

Youth connects with county job beyond internship

By MIKE COOK

Las Cruces Bulletin

Jacob Slaughter graduated from Mayfield High School last May and joined the Doña Ana County Summer Student Internship program in June, working in the county clerk's office. The internship program ended shortly after the 2023-24 school year began in August, but Slaughter is still working in the clerk's office.

"Jacob has a set of skills for what we want to do to connect to the community," County Clerk Amanda López Askin said. "He's been invaluable."

Working as a temporary employee under the supervision of clerk's office Communications Coordinator Cynthia Mendoza, Slaughter has created more than a dozen podcasts about Doña Ana County and the Nov. 7 local election the clerk's office will coordinate.

Topics of Slaughter's "Preserving History and Democracy" podcasts have included the Border Archives Bazaar, which the clerk's office was a part of in September; candidate filing day in August; National Voter Registration Day; local election officials; the growth of Las Cruces and how it was impacted by the coming of the railroad; the 10th anniversary of the clerk's office issuing marriage licenses to same-sex couples, Shalam Colony settlers; how Doña Ana County got its name; and clerk's office staff.

To watch the podcasts, visit www.donaanacounty.org/departments/elected-officials/clerk?locale=en and click on "Clerk's Podcast" under "Clerk" on the left-hand side of the page.

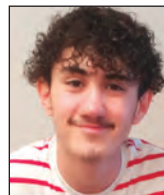

"I saw what he was capable of," López Askin said of Slaughter, so she put him to improve connections between the clerk's office and the community it serves and to give residents unprecedented access to election information and county history.

"He's bright-eyed and ready to take everything on," she said.

"I've learned a lot," Slaughter said. "I love the challenge."

At Mayfield High School, Slaughter created videos for the basketball team and started the school's Instagram program. Partnering with Dyami Provencio, he won second place in action sports editing at the Student Television Network 2023 National Convention; partnering with Camilla Flores-Cuenca, he won first place in digital cinema production (short film) at the 2023 SkillsUSA New Mexico

SLAUGHTER

State Leadership and Skills Conference and he was part of a New Mexico team that placed 17th among 33 states in digital cinema production at the June 2023 SkillsUSA national conference.

Slaughter also participated in Las Cruces Public Schools' first ever "Tell the Story Film Showcase" at Cineport 10 Allen Theatres in May. The competition was the day after Slaughter's 14th and final cleft palate and lip surgery, so he showed up with a broken nose, a swollen face and not feeling very well.

"I didn't want to miss my project on the big screen," he said.

Slaughter grew up in Las Cruces plans to attend New Mexico State University and study film production. He'd like to pursue being as sports or concert videographer as a career.

Slaughter's tenure in the clerk's office will continue at least until after the election in November.

Visit Instagram @jayslaphotos.

"I am blessed and honored that I get to apply my talents here at the clerk's office, and I want to thank our county clerk, Dr. Amanda López Askin, and everyone else who was involved in offering the temporary position," Slaughter said. "I have been able to add to my work skills and grow as a person here at the clerk's office. I am driven by my co-workers to keep being the person I am and to continue doing what I do best. Their energy and gratitude always puts a smile on my face, and that I value as priceless. Finally, I want to thank my supervisor who guides me each day, Cynthia Mendoza, who has been by my side to answer all my questions and has led the path for me to be successful."

ments. She failed part of the exam the first time she took it, but persevered, took classes, studied hard and earned the highly valued certification.

“I wanted that designation,” she said. “I’m always trying to learn.”

Carr-McEwen was selected to participate in Harvard University’s Phenomenal Women Global leadership conference in 2022 and was voted class president by the 60 women attending from 22 countries around the world.

“It was incredible, it was transformational,” Carr-McEwen said.

Carr-McEwen, who has a New Mexico room in her Virginia home, has started a side business, Level-It Up, to help people “go to the next level” of employment. Her ultimate goal is to catch the attention of the U.S. Office of Personnel Management and revolutionize the way the federal government hires and promotes employees. It’s a program she would also like to share with NMSU.

Fall looking more like ‘the old days’

By STEVE MONTAÑEZ
For the Bulletin

Leaves will soon be on the ground, and it will finally feel like fall in Las Cruces.

September’s real-estate market report reflects what fall used to look like prior to 2020. Interest rates, which have gone up 2 percent compared with September 2020, are the cause of a decrease in year-over-year activity.

This has also caused homes to stay on the market an average of six days longer than in prior months.

For many of the drop in activity may come as a small shock. For those in the real estate industry this is close to normal activity in the resale market. We are headed into what has historically been the lower sales months of the year.

Homeowners who still wish to sell can still get top dollar (97.4 percent) for their homes as long as they are priced well.

It is still a great time to be a Las Cruces homeowner.

Aggie-Miner I-10 rivalry: Now with C-USA stakes

By RICHARD COLTHARP
Las Cruces Bulletin

You could say the Wednesday, Oct. 18, NM State game against Texas-El Paso is special because it's the 100th meeting of the longtime rivals.

You could say the game is special because it's the teams' first meeting since they are both members of Conference USA, and the results now have even more implications.

Or you could just say two words: Aggies, Miners.

Because the Bulletin went to press before both teams' Oct. 11 games, we don't know the outcomes of those. NM State played Sam Houston and El Paso played Florida International, who the Aggies beat Oct. 4 34-17.

Before those games, NM State was 3-3 and UTEP 1-5, and they had played no common opponents.

UTEP's lone victory had come against Incarnate Word Sept. 2, 28-14.

This marks the second straight season the Aggies face the Miners in El Paso. In last year's contest, UTEP won 20-13, giving the Miners a 59-38-2 edge in the series that began in 1914.

And while this is the first year the two teams are playing in Conference USA, they squared off as conference foes in the Border Conference from 1932-1961, when the Aggies were known as New Mexico A&M and UTEP was the Texas College of Mines.

The last time NM State defeated UTEP was 44-35 in 2019, one of only two victories the Aggies had that season.

This year's Miners have a fairly balanced attack, with 1,099 yards gained on the ground through the first six games, and 1,126 in the air.

The Aggies have gained 1,276 yards rushing and 1,428 passing.

NM State will travel down Interstate 10 for a Wednesday, Oct. 18, matchup against longtime rival UTEP, only this time, the victory will impact the Conference-USA standings since both teams are now members. Kickoff is at 7 p.m. in the Sun Bowl in El Paso.

Aggie Athletics roundup ...

BULLETIN REPORT

Aggie volleyball: The NM State women's volleyball team this weekend hosts Western Kentucky in a pair of matches between the top two teams in Conference-USA. The matches are 6 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13, and noon Saturday, Oct. 14, in the Pan Am Center.

NM State is 13-6 on the season and 6-2 in Conference-USA play after splitting a pair of matches at Liberty in Virginia last weekend. The Aggies lost the first match 3-1 Oct. 7 and came back the next day to win 3-1. Western Kentucky is 16-4 overall and 6-0 in conference. In fact, the Hilltoppers have not lost a regular-season C-USA match since October 2018, a streak of 64 matches.

After this weekend, the Aggies will be back on the road for matches Oct. 20-21 in Jacksonville, Alabama, to play Jacksonville State.

Aggie women's soccer: NM State remains in first place in Conference-USA with a 5-0 league record. They're 8-5-1 overall.

The Aggies faced Florida International in a home game scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 12, after the Bulletin's press time. The Aggies' next home game is against Sam Houston 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22, at the NM State Soccer Complex. The C-USA conference tournament is Nov. 1-5 in Ruston, Louisiana.

Proper aim, sharp vision essential to good putting

Recreational golfers underestimate the critical importance of aim – especially when it comes to putting. If you're wondering about your aim, have your club pro look at your set-up and give feedback. Very often, faulty aim is a matter of faulty vision. It's a bit like the warning on rear view mirrors: "Objects in mirror are closer than they appear." Most off-line golf shots are due to poor aiming and alignment; disturbed vision and eye angle create an optical illusion resulting in bad alignment 99 percent of the time. Even if you have a perfect swing or putting stroke, but are still missing putts, it's because your eyes are deceiving you.

There are a number of visual skills essential for success in golf. One is depth perception, which helps assess yardage and green conditions. Another is eye-hand coordination that allows you to react to incoming visual information with accurate control and timing of body movements. Eye-tracking and eye-focusing allow you to keep your eye on the ball and change focus between distances. Peripheral vision helps you see everything in your environment without turning your head. Each of these factors may depend on corrective vision such as glasses, contacts or laser.

Everyone has a dominant eye that causes the brain to take more input from one eye. Folks who spend time at the shooting or archery range know all about that. The brain favors one eye in telling you how far away something is and the line to the target. Over 70 percent of people are right-eye dominant but it doesn't always correlate with the dominant hand.

Still, most golfers are same-side dominant. To determine your dominant eye, hold your hands at arm's length and make a baseball-sized circle with your fingers. Then focus at your target, like a golf ball on the green at a short distance with both eyes open. Now, close one eye and then the other. When you close one eye the ball will remain in your hand circle; when you close the other eye it will disappear. The ball didn't move – only your dominant eye kept it in sight. In putting, your non-dominant eye can create an alignment illusion or distortion. For the right-hand, right-eye dominant golfer, the hole usually appears slightly to the left of its actual location, resulting in more missed putts. Some people can unconsciously compensate for this phenomenon but it is very difficult.

Golfers 40 and older frequently have a condition known as "presbyopia." Literally translated as "old eyes," presbyopia is inevitable for virtually all people, whether nearsighted or farsighted, and requires some type of "fix." Many find regular glasses a problem, especially bifocals. Personally, I have benefitted greatly from intra-ocular lens implants, in which the eye's natural lens is removed, and replaced by a new, more appropriately powered and clearer lens. It did correct cataracts in both eyes. They changed my previously blurred and troubled vision to virtually 20-20 for distance. Reading glasses are necessary. But, on the golf course, the freedom from corrective eye wear is in most circumstances indescribable.

Implants helped my clarity of vision but didn't change my dominant right eye that caused me to miss putts. But the "spot-putting" method did. For spot-putting, stand directly behind your ball, close your non-dominant eye and see your target. This is especially important for short game and putting, where depth perception is needed. Find a spot a few inches in front of your ball on your target line (factoring in the break) to start; it may be an off-colored blade of grass, but clearly identifiable with your dominant eye. Then identify another spot half-way to the hole, and that's where to align the face of your putter. That process shouldn't distract you from sensing the right speed of the putt. And the eyes need to look straight forward out of your head, not tilted downward, as that creates distortion of the line. A Sharpie pen marker line on the ball along the logo will definitely help the alignment.
