Thanksgiving*

As we gather with family and friends to celebrate Thanksgiving, we are reminded of the rich tapestry of community and shared values that make our county a wonderful place to live. This season offers a special opportunity to reflect on the blessings of the past year and the strength found in our collective resilience and compassion.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to each member of our community for their contributions, big and small, that enrich our lives and strengthen our bonds. May this Thanksgiving bring joy, peace, and a renewed sense of togetherness to all.

Happy Thanksgiving from Doña Ana County.

America's Thanksgiving tradition dates back four centuries

By MIKE COOK
Las Cruces Bulletin

This Thanksgiving, Thursday, Nov. 23, is the 402nd anniversary of the first Thanksgiving gathering, held in November 1621 in Plymouth Colony, Massachusetts, when the newly arrived Pilgrims sat with the Wampanoag (waam-puh-now-ag) for a three-day feast that included wild deer, fowl and the Pilgrims' first corn crop, according to many sources.

The Wampanoag were a confederation of tribes of Native Americans living in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, including the Chappaquiddick, Nantucket, Mashpee, Pokanoket and Herring Pond. Today, the Wampanoag include five officially recognized tribes. The name means "People of the Dawn."

The Pilgrims were the English settlers who came to America in 1620 aboard the Mayflower and settled Plymouth Colony. "Pilgrim" was likely applied to the Mayflower passengers for the first time in William Bradford's "Of Plymouth Plantation" in July 1620, when he quoted an Old Testament passage about

"strangers and pilgrims." The word comes from the Latin peregrinus, "one who has come from afar."

The Pilgrims were Brownists, who were separatists from the Church of England. They went into exile in Holland in 1607-08 because of their religious beliefs, leaving there and sailing to America Sept. 16, 1620, arriving Nov. 9.

A baby, Oceanus Hopkins, was born aboard ship during the journey, but died in childhood. Another boy, Peregrine White, was born on the ship as it lay at anchor after arriving in America.

The Mayflower returned to England May 9, 1621. It was likely sold for scrap about three years later.

Those in attendance at that first Thanksgiving included Bradford, a weaver and judge, who served nearly 20 years as governor of Plymouth Colony in five nonconsecutive terms beginning in May 1621. The colony's first governor, John Carver, died in April 1621 after less than a year in office. The Wampanoag were led by their sachem (leader), Massasoit.

Happy Thanksgiving!

Las Cruces Utilities Resourcefulness Leads to City Profit

In May 2017, the City of Las Cruces contracted with a City vendor through an Energy Savings Performance Contract, to provide and install an Advanced Metering Infrastructure System.

The Advanced Metering Infrastructure System included smart water meters, gas meter transmitters, communication systems, and data repository. While in the beginning phases of the project, the City vendor initiated ordering equipment required to install under the project.

However, during this process, the City vendor ordered 1,417 water meter boxes that didn't meet Las Cruces Utility (LCU) specifications. Therefore, LCU did not accept the water meter boxes for the project.

After several attempts from the City vendor to use the boxes on other projects, and talking with other customers, they remained unused and were stored. After expending much effort to find a buyer, the City vendor concluded to dispose of the meter boxes at the Doca Ana County landfill.

However, Las Cruces Utilities Project Manager Fred Bourger, an engineer with LCU Regulatory Environmental Services and Technical Support, did not want to see this waste and convinced management to purchase the meter boxes from JCI at a significantly reduced amount. Bourger reasoned doing that would reduce the waste to landfill, and the City could offer the meter boxes to others in need of new meter boxes at an extremely reduced cost.

Bourger found a company in Arizona that had a customer in need of the meter boxes. After negotiations and contracting, a deal was made in July 2023. Las Cruces Utilities paid $1,315.50 for this set of meter boxes and sold them for $52,364.39, leaving a profit of $51,048.99 for the City affording additional funds for the Water Operations and Maintenance line of business.

The transaction resulted in fiscally and environmentally positive outcomes for Las Cruces.

The Whole Enchilada

BULLETIN REPORT

When the City of Las Cruces decided to dedicate the pavilion at Plaza de Las Cruces for Roberto V. Estrada, they didn't just give him a plaque, they gave him the "whole enchilada," his name all across the top of the stage.

Fitting for the man who created the Guinness Book World Record for the largest flat enchilada, and re-created it for many years at Las Cruces' Whole Enchilada Fiesta.

And there was indeed a plaque as well, situated on the east pillar of the stage, telling the story and achievements of Estrada.

At the event, family and friends told stories of Estrada's support for local sports teams, political candidates (but all sides, not just one) and the community at large.

As the plaque reads, "His passion and pride for his business and unending generosity will forever be remembered."

The City of Las Cruces' dedication ceremony for the Plaza de Las Cruces stage took place Friday, Nov. 17, naming it for Roberto V. Estrada, the legendary enchilada maker and local philanthropist. A plaque was also created and mounted on one of the stage's pillars. Lots of Estrada's friends and family members were on hand for the event, telling stories about Estrada's generosity and care, centered around "making sure people are fed."

Aggie football brings us together

Perhaps the most community-unifying event I've ever seen in Las Cruces didn't even happen in Las Cruces.

It took place four hours west of here in Tucson, Arizona.

You may have been there – it seemed half of Las Cruces was – for the 2017 Arizona Bowl, and the New Mexico State University Aggies' exciting, last-play, overtime victory over Utah State. NMSU alumni from all over the country made its way to the Sonoran Desert, and Tucson was alight with Aggies for three days. Even the gas stations between Las Cruces become impromptu Aggie Fan Club meetings.

And when the game ended, it was pandemonium in the University of Arizona football stadium as Aggie fans celebrated. My favorite memory of the night came as the PA announcer repeated, "Fans, please refrain from going on the field." At that moment, Aggie legend Barbara Hubbard, then a spring chicken at 89 years old, was climbing over the rails to get onto the field.

This year's edition of Aggie football is making even more history than that team, and Las Cruces has a chance to celebrate them this weekend. The game starts at 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 25, at Aggie Memorial Stadium against Jacksonville State.

By 2 p.m. on Saturday, we should all be emerged from our Thanksgiving turkey comas, and recovered from our Black Friday shopping injuries. What better way to cap off the weekend than watching the Aggies on a beautiful fall afternoon. It could be a mini-version of that Arizona Bowl.

It's likely to be a very good game. Despite the Aggies' stunning dismantling of Auburn last week, doing the same to Jacksonville State is easier said than done. Like NMSU, Jacksonville State is also 6-1 in Conference USA. The Aggies could use a loud crowd to help them shake the common letdown that can come following a huge upset victory.

There's a possibility of another magical bowl game experience. Conference USA has a tie-in with the New Mexico Bowl, and it is certain that bowl game's officials would want NMSU there, bringing the fans and money the Aggies would bring. That game is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 16. A packed stadium full of Aggie fans in Albuquerque would be a sight to see.

However, there's no guarantee the Aggies will go to the New Mexico Bowl. C-USA has tie-ins with other bowls, and there is still quite a bit of football to be played, and the bowl matchups won't be announced until Dec. 3.

Of course, we all hope the Aggies get to stay in New Mexico. But nothing's changing the Saturday, Nov. 25, game at Aggie Memorial Stadium. It will be a great sendoff for our football team, and a great community celebration for Las Cruces.

Ads mocking the elderly aren't funny

I'll be glad when the Medicare open enrollment period ends on Dec. 7, bringing a merciful pause to the flood of ageist television ads that saturate the airways each year at this time.

The worst are produced for a business called Medicare Advantage Advisors, and feature a gray-haired woman with oversized glasses named Martha who, we are told, "is a bit cranky" because she heard it was the open enrollment period.

In a voice that brings back memories of the old Saturday Night Live skits featuring Doug and Wendy Whiner, Martha screeches she is already on Medicare. The kindly announcer patiently explains why seniors need to update their plans, with Martha responding by putting her hands on her hips and petulant declaring, "I'm not calling."

Later in the ad she acts confused, saying, "I think I called before." Then, when she finds out plans provide services at no charge, she reacts with the astonishment of a toddler seeing toast pop up from the toaster for the first time. Martha finally comes around in the end. But by then she's been made to be so unlikeable that I really didn't care.

The Progressive Insurance ads about new homeowners becoming their parents also promote stereotypes of ageism, but at least they're funny.

Those are just two examples of a new trend in advertising that mocks the elderly.

A commercial for Tide starts with a couple explaining they are doing more laundry now that they have an extended family. A clueless grandpa in his boxer shorts then walks into the scene asking if anyone has seen his pants.

Older people have become the last safe group in America to make fun of. And, maybe some of that is understandable.

WALT RUBEL

The View From Here

Jokes told about the weak and powerless are cruel, not funny.

None of these ads would have been the least bit funny in the 1930s, before the advent of Social Security and company pensions. Back then, those too old to work who had not saved enough for their remaining years were forced to rely on the generosity of family or strangers to survive.

In 1959, more than a third of elderly Americans earned incomes below the poverty line. By the 1990s that had been cut to 10 percent.

Now, people age 55 or older control 70 percent of all personal wealth, according to a study by the Federal Reserve. Still, advertising that reinforces negative stereotypes is not harmless.

I'm not advocating for a world without humor; all of us need to be able to laugh at ourselves. But making ads that mock the frailties we all will experience during the aging process are more easy than funny.

Small Business Saturday: Catalyst for community growth

As the Board Chair of Downtown Las Cruces Partnership, a proud participant in both the New Mexico MainStreet and Main Street America programs, I cannot emphasize enough the crucial role Small Business Saturday plays in fostering community prosperity. Small Business Saturday is the backbone of the US economy.

In New Mexico, 54.2 percent of all New Mexican employees are employed by a small business. The owners and employees of these businesses are vested here, some for generations. We see them and their families at the movies, at football games, in our places of worship and other places around town.

Small businesses are the lifeblood of our local economy, embodying the entrepreneurial spirit that defines the American Dream. Small Business Saturday serves as an annual reminder to celebrate and support these enterprises, ensuring that they continue to thrive in the face of economic challenges.

Downtown Las Cruces, like many historic districts across the nation, is a unique tapestry of independently-owned shops, boutiques, and eateries. Each establishment contributes not only to the economic vibrancy of our community but also to its character and identity. Small Business Saturday is a powerful initiative that unites residents and visitors alike, encouraging them to explore the charm of our local businesses and invest in the heart of our city.

JOHN MUÑOZ

Beyond the economic impact, supporting small businesses is an investment in the social fabric of our community. These enterprises often serve as gathering places, fostering connections among neighbors and creating a sense of belonging. By patronizing local businesses on Small Business Saturday, we strengthen these communal bonds and promote a shared commitment to the well-being of our city.

In the context of the New Mexico MainStreet and Main Street America programs, Small Business Saturday aligns seamlessly with our mission to revitalize and sustain downtown districts. The collaborative efforts of these programs empower local businesses with resources and support, helping them overcome challenges and thrive in an ever-evolving marketplace.

As we approach this year's Small Business Saturday, let us recognize the impact of our choices as consumers. By choosing to shop locally, we contribute not only to the success of individual businesses but also to the resilience and vitality of our entire community. Together, we can ensure that Downtown Las Cruces remains a dynamic hub of commerce, culture, and community for generations to come.

Join us in Downtown Las Cruces on Saturday, Nov. 25, to celebrate Small Business Saturday. Downtown Las Cruces partnership is a nationally-recognized American Express Neighborhood Champion, charged with promoting and celebrating the small businesses of our district. Come downtown Nov. 25 to visit the Farmers Market, stop in on your favorite downtown and Arts and Cultural District spots, and join us as we man our welcome station and celebrate in the Mesilla Valley Pharmacy block party and free flu shot clinic. # Aerospace update luncheon explores purpose

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH

Las Cruces Bulletin

During an aerospace update luncheon with the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce, a panel made up of Debbi Moore, Chamber President & CEO; Jason Lazich, Virgin Galactic director of infrastructure; and Chris Lopez, director of site operations for Spaceport America.

Lazich started off the discussions talking about the recent announcement Virgin Galactic would be taking a pause in flights until 2026. After two Unity flights from Spaceport America in 2024, the company will hold flights until 2026 when the next generation of ships, the Delta class, goes on line.

“The Delta will be able to fly more often,” he said. “Currently we can fly once a month. The Delta class will be able to fly twice a week.”

Lazich also talked about layoffs by the company, 73 of which occurred in New Mexico, reiterating “there was nothing they did wrong.”

Moore said the Chamber and the business community are working with a rapid response team to connect those individuals with jobs.

“This is now their new home, so we need to rally around them,” she said.

Lazich said there are still more than 200 Virgin teammates in Las Cruces who are not just design builders but who provide all the support mechanisms the company has.

Lopez talked about the larger concept of investing in commercial space and the spaceport.

“Why is New Mexico investing in space?” he asked. “We always hear that it’s not a worthy investment.”

Debbi Moore, Jason Lazich and Chris Lopez serve as the discussion panel for the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce’s Nov. 16 Update Luncheon regarding the topic of space in Southern New Mexico.

He pointed out that investment in “transformational technology” has always received a lot of negativity.

“Have you ever heard about the thing called the horseless carriage?” he said. “Don’t worry about that. Don’t invest in that.”

Then he went on to talk about the calculator, computers, the internet and other industries that drew skepticism in their infancy.

“What if I gave you every library in America in the palm of your hand?” Lopez said. “All those ideas were crazy. But without the computer industry, without the internet industry, a lot of businesses we have today would not be here.”

Lopez discussed the state’s continuing investment in Spaceport America.

“Do we want to be a business enterprise and be able to sustain ourselves?” he asked. “Absolutely. Can you imagine if we asked every airport in the country to do that? They wouldn’t be there. There is not an airport that doesn’t get support from taxes.”

He pointed out that pre-Covid, in 2017 there were fewer than five venture capitalists investing in commercial space and today there are more than 40.

“The return is there,” he said. “I would just ask that rather than being so quick to a knee-jerk reaction saying, ‘because you are not net-margin profitable, let’s get rid of you,’ people realize we also have the business of being accountable to the state which means a lot of rules, public accountability.”

Moore closed the afternoon reminding people the space industry in southern New Mexico supports the economy, bringing people in who spend money, buy homes and participate in the community.

“Both of these organizations (Virgin Galactic and Spaceport America) want to keep our graduates working,” she said.

BY JAY BOBBIN

Morgan Kohan

OF SULLIVAN'S CROSSING ON CW

Q: I know I've seen Morgan Kohan of "Sullivan's Crossing" in some cable movies. Where did she get her start?

A: The British Columbia native started out studying dancing as her principal path in show business, but her main attention shifted to acting when she was accepted at Toronto's Randolph Academy. She began doing guest roles on such series as "Murdoch Mysteries" and "Star Trek: Discovery," then continued with appearances on shows including "When Calls the Heart" and "The Bold Type." Around the time of the later guest shots, Kohan also started getting prominent parts in cable movies on the order of "The Black Widow Killer" (2018) and "Love on Harbor Island" (2020). The fact that those have been repeated often didn't hurt her chances to land the lead in "Sullivan's Crossing." Among other movies that have featured Kohan are "A Romance Wedding" (2021) and "A Whirlwind Wedding"

(2021), and she also was seen on the shows "Batwoman," "Transplant" and "When Hope Calls." Inspired by novels by Robyn Carr, "Sullivan's Crossing" (which already has been renewed for a second season) originated on Canada's CTV network, and its inclusion of two veterans of The CW in its regular cast – Chad Michael Murray ("One Tree Hill") and Scott Patterson ("Gilmore Girls") – likely got the latter outlet interested in picking up the series for the American market, especially when production delays linked to the entertainment-industry strikes made finding product from other sources a necessity.

"A HAUNTING IN VENICE"

Doubling as director again, Kenneth Branagh is back as Hercule Poirot in his third lavishly filmed round as Agatha Christie's master sleuth. The detective is ostensibly and comfortably retired, but unexpected intrigue draws him back into active investigating when another attendee is killed during a seance that Poirot didn't want to attend. The story unfolds on the occasion of trick-or-treating, making it logical that the picture was adapted from Christie's story "Hallowe'en Party." As with the earlier "Murder on the Orient Express" and "Death on the Nile," Branagh works again with a diverse all-star cast; included here are recent Oscar winner Michelle Yeoh, Tina Fey, Jamie Dornan ("Fifty Shades of Grey"), Kelly Reilly ("Yellowstone") and Kyle Allen ("West Side Story"). DVD extras: "making-of" documentary; deleted scenes. ★★★ (PG-13: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD, Digital and On Demand)

"THE CARPETBAGGERS"

Author Harold Robbins' steamy novels were a cottage industry of their time, with many of them also inspiring movies that drew big casts and "name" actors. Making its first U.S. appearance on Blu-ray with a "Special Edition" (also available on DVD), this 1964 drama – relatively tame by today's standards, but quite scandalous six decades ago – was one of those films, with George Peppard as a ruthless tycoon who invests in a variety of businesses, and uses virtually anyone and everyone around him. In his final film role, released after his death, Alan Ladd plays a company stockholder named Nevada Smith, who was spun off into his own prequel movie (which starred Steve McQueen as the character). Also featured are Carroll Baker, Martha Hyer, Bob Cummings, Elizabeth Ashley (who made her movie debut here and married Peppard in real life, leading her to take a multiple-year break from acting), Lew Ayres and Martin Balsam. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, P, V)

Chamber orchestra joins in 'The Nutcracker' ballet

BULLETIN REPORT

Borderlands Ballet Company (BBC) presents its 2023 performance of "The Nutcracker" in December, including the Paso del Norte Chamber Orchestra (PDNCO), housed under the umbrella of Borderland Arts Foundation (BAF) and conducted by violist and New Mexico State University music professor Jorge Martinez-Rios, BBA said in a news release.

Performances are 7 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Dec. 8-9, 15-16, and 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 9, and Sunday, Dec. 17, at the ASNMSU Center for the Arts, 1000 E.

University Ave.

The show's running time is one hour and 45 minutes, with a 15-minute intermission.

Tickets are $25. Reserve seats at our.show/borderlands-ballet-company/nutcracker2023.

"Our shows have been basically selling out the last few years and we felt it was time to expand our performances – particularly adding a second matinee for those who prefer the earlier showing," BBC board member Marc Moffett said.

BAF's collaboration with Martinez-Rios is part of the foundation's mission "to collaborate with professional arts organizations from the region," Moffett said. "When the possibility for this collaboration arose, I didn't think twice. I've seen the work and dedication of Borderlands Ballet and I knew that working together would bring a first-rate performance to our community."

"Tchaikovsky's score is such an amazing piece of music, and at the same time it is so accessible," said BBC Artist Director Monique Foster. "Unfortunately, it's rarely performed as a stand-alone piece and so few people get to hear it live. Once we started talking with Jorge about this collaboration, I knew we had found someone who would immerse themselves in the project and deliver a phenomenal performance for our audiences."

PDNCO includes musicians from the El Paso and Las Cruces symphonies, NMSU faculty and selected NMSU students, the news release said.

The part of Clara will be performed by 12-year-old Isabella Jacquez, "the young girl who leads us from a stodgy Victorian Christmas party to a magical Land of Sweets," Moffett said.

Performing her first featured role, Isabella said she "is excited, but also scared. It's kind of scary going from being one of the dancers in a group

MV Fine Arts welcomes artists Bush, Peacock in December

BULLETIN REPORT

Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Gallery (MVFG), 2470-A Calle de Guadalupe, across from the Fountain Theatre on the Mesilla Plaza, will feature local artists Barbara Bush and Jane Peacock in December.

Bush has had a long and circuitous journey to becoming a fulltime artist, the gallery said in a news release. She studied art at Southern Methodist University, majoring in drawing and painting. Although she continued to pursue art as a hobby, her 30-year career in business and family consumed most of her time. In 1997, Bush quit working and started taking art classes again. In 2005, in Texas, she discovered outdoor (plein air) painting. Bush now makes her home in Las Cruces.

"I think there is no greater pleasure than exploring the beautiful Texas and New Mexico landscapes and to explore that unique moment in a painting," Bush said.

Peacock, a native of El Paso, studied art at UTEP and is a lifelong painter, the gallery said, with an emphasis on portraits of people of the Borderland and late directly to the landscape; she loves painting outside. It is her goal to create works that capture the Southwest landscape. It gives her a chance to

New Mexico landscapes. Peacock's passion has always been issues affecting women, infants and children. While serving migrants for many years in public health, she created paintings portraying the lives of people working in the fields around Las Cruces. Her chile field paintings focus on the farming activities of southern New Mexico.

Peacock's plein air paintings re-investigate a wide variety of colors, textures, and the changing light of day. Peacock is a member of Plein Air Painters of New Mexico and Let's Paint New Mexico.

MVFG's 30 featured artists offer original art in various media, including oil, acrylics, pastels, watercolor, fused glass art jewelry, woodturnings, stained glass, photography, ceramics, mixed media, decorated gourds, textile weavings, art tile, fiber art, natural gemstone jewelry, fused glass, colored pencil, charcoal, pen and ink drawings, prints, cards and miniature paintings.

First American Bank, 1553 Avenida de Mesilla, features the work of many of the gallery's artists.

MVFG is open 10 a.m.-5 p.m. every day.

Olivia Leon, who played Clara four years ago, is now reprising her performance as the Sugar Plum Fairy, one of the biggest parts in “The Nutcracker.”

opportunity to dance this role with a live orchestra,” said Olivia, an NMSU freshman. “But it’s still frightening. I have this sense of pressure to make sure everything is better than last time!”

Other BBC dancers performing in “The Nutcracker” include Brooke Gonzales (Dew Drop Fairy), Daniel Lindsay and Juliana Garcia (Snow King and Queen), John Pohl and

History-making season comes back to Cruces

BULLETIN REPORT

As recently as Oct. 3, the Aggie football team's record was 2-3. They had lost to Hawaii on the road, 20-17, and were preparing for their first-ever Wednesday night game, a Conference USA home game against Florida International.

They won 34-17.

The Aggies have not lost since.

Their record heading into the season's final home game at 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 25, is 9-3. NM State hasn't won nine games in a season since their 1960 masterpiece season, which ended with an 11-0 record and a Sun Bowl victory.

It's fun to look back at history, but the last three weeks, the 2023 Aggies have made their own.

Three weeks ago, they clinched a post-season bowl berth. They are only the second Aggie team in history to do that.

Two weeks ago, they clinched a berth in the Conference USA championship game. They are the first Aggie team ever to play in a conference title game. This one will be Dec. 1, against Liberty, at Liberty, who is undefeated at 11-0 and ranked No. 22 in the country.

And last week, they were the first Aggie team to beat a Southeastern Conference team, with their nation-shocking 31-10 victory over Auburn in Alabama in front of more than 88,000 people, almost three times as many as Aggie Memorial Stadium will hold.

NM State dominated every phase of the game against Auburn. They scored first, they scored last, they made no turnovers, Coach Jerry Kill and his staff made nery calls to go for it on fourth down in a couple of key situations.

The Aggies outrushed Auburn 213 yards to 65. They outpassed Auburn 201-148. They dominated time of possession 39 minutes to 21. They even out-sacked Auburn 4-1.

Before they head off to the Conference Championship game, however, the Aggies have that last home game, against Jacksonville State, a team that's been making its own history this season.

Frequently confused with Jacksonville in Florida, the Gamecocks are from Jacksonville, Alabama, and are playing their first season in the Football Bowl Subdivision. Their record is 8-3 and, like the Aggies, their only Conference USA loss has been to Liberty.

Aggie players celebrate during NM State's 31-10 win over Auburn. The final home game will be 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 25 against Jacksonville State at Aggie Memorial Stadium.

The NM State-Jacksonville State game comes at 2 p.m. the Saturday afternoon after Thanksgiving at Aggie Memorial Stadium.

How the doctor of golf actually plays golf

As I approach my 900th golf column for the Bulletin I thought I'd share some personal ideas, senses and thoughts about how I play my own golf game.

First of all, I don't play "golf swing." I play golf – the game of golf. There is a difference, and some folks don't realize that.

If one goes to the golf course and continually tries to analyze their golf swing, shot to shot, they are depriving themselves of the joy of actually playing the game.

Also, I don't always play for money, but when I do I play to win, but I sure want to avoid losing. My favorite group divides up any money after the round and it all goes to post-round drinks. One fellow insisted on taking his cash winnings home with him, which was the last time he played with us.

Mistakes and bad shots are going to happen, even on a good day. I have developed the habit of almost instantly leaving mistakes behind to focus on the next shot.

That formula helped me develop my short game, chipping and putting, to help me score and overcome errors.

When I'm on the course I've learned to be internally aware of the joy of being healthy, being able to play golf, see the beauty of the outdoors and appreciate the moment. Yet, emotionally, I'm a "flat-liner." I don't jump up and down like those fools on Let's Make A Deal when I make a great putt, and I don't mope and brood over a poor effort.

CHARLIE BLANCHARD
Golf Doctor

I take pride in playing pretty well, yet, as Jesus said 2,000 years ago, "For everyone who exalts himself will be humbled, but the one who humbles himself will be exalted."

Next to the score card on the golf cart I keep a 3 X 5 card with a few key thoughts. The first is "process." If you calmly go through the correct process while playing shot for shot, the results will come. I care deeply about how I play, but the process comes first. Sometimes I write "NATO" on my golf ball; that stands for "not attached to outcome."

Also on the card is the swing thought "Trust." If you are in between clubs with uncertain yardage, anxiety can creep in like a phantom. Club selection may not be perfect, but if I trust the swing, it should be OK.

Then comes "Aware" as a reminder to be completely attentive to everything around me, like breeze, slope, where the ball lies, risks and hazards, and more. That takes a few seconds.

Lastly, there is "Steady," not too fast, not too slow.

One of my mantras is, "Never give up on a hole." I couldn't count the number of times I made a couple of poor shots and was way out of position, and yet made what my partners called a "miracle" up-and-down for par or chip-in for birdie. To paraphrase a "Yogi-ism" the hole ain't over 'til it's over. One of my weaknesses is not finding enough greens in regulation. But my biggest strength is chipping. When asked me recently how I manage to chip it so close so many times, I replied I pick an estimated spot where I need to land the ball and execute the shot to that distance.

Another favorite mantra is, "The more I practice the luckier I get." You can't get better, or even maintain what you have, without practicing. I practice a couple times a week, one on the range and one on the course. If I don't have a game or a playing partner, I cherish the practice rounds of the course: hitting special shots, knowing what risks I can take and putting.

When I have written so many times "attitude is everything," I try my best to follow my own advice. Getting down on yourself will make matters worse. It's all about maintaining a positive disposition without being a phony. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's 1952 book "The Power of Positive Thinking" was one of the greatest books ever written.

I find doing my research and reading about golf for my weekly columns is immensely helpful in learning more about golf.

HOPE to DREAM

Children's beds flooded the parking lot of Ashley Home store Sunday, Oct. 22, as part of the Hope to Dream project, which provided 211 beds for children ages 12 and under in need.

Wanda Bowman and her team worked with Las Cruces Public Schools to identify children in need. Funding for the beds came mostly from Bowman and Ashley Home store, along with some friends who wanted to pitch in for the project.

"What we need to do for our community is to take care of each other,"

Bowman said. "That's what Las Cruces does. Churches, and other merchants and organizations do a good job for our community, and this is something we could do. Every child should have a nice bed and a good meal at night. In a country as wealthy as this is, no one should go to sleep at night cold, hungry, or without a bed."

Free delivery on all purchases made during the thanksgiving holiday.
