Defend against porch pirates

BULLETIN REPORT

As packages arrive on doorsteps in greater numbers for the holiday season, often after dark, delivery services typically see increases in stolen packages from FedEx, UPS, Amazon and the U.S. Postal Service.

The Las Cruces Police Department offers several tips to deter porch piracy and assure those packages make it to whom they were intended:

- Track deliveries online and try to be home when your package is scheduled for delivery.
- Require a signature for home delivery packages.
- When scheduling a delivery, leave instructions where the package can be delivered.

- Request electronic notification when delivery is made.
- Ask a trusted friend or neighbor to receive your package at the time of delivery.
- Create a concealed dropoff zone, possibly using planters or creative landscaping, where packages can be left near the front door and remain unseen from passers-by.
- If possible, have the package delivered to your place of employment or a location where you know it can be securely received.
- Schedule online purchases from big box retailers to be delivered to their local store where you can arrange for pickup.
- Have the package delivered to a FedEx or UPS store where it can be held for pickup.

- Utilize a motion-activated porch light to help deter unwanted guests.
- Consider installing a motion-activated home security system, such as a Ring or Nest doorbell camera, that records video and immediately sends notification of activity to your smartphone.
- Be a good neighbor and watch for suspicious activity. Immediately call police if suspicious activity is seen in your neighborhood.

The LCPD also suggested consumers consider purchasing insurance for the contents of packages at the time delivery is scheduled. Insuring the items does not prevent them from being stolen, but does help provide restitution if items go missing.

City funds workforce projects

By ALGERNON D'AMMASSA
Las Cruces Bulletin

With $1 million in federal Covid-19 dollars to reallocate, the Las Cruces City Council on Monday, Dec. 4, funded five projects, partnering with outside agencies, investing in workforce development.

The money was available because one organization awarded funds filed for bankruptcy: Bitwise Industries, a California tech company, filed for bankruptcy in June and last month its co-CEOs were charged with fraud.

The company never located any of its operations in Las Cruces. Bitwise had originally planned to partner with the Community Foundation of Southern New Mexico on a workforce development project.

Per data presented to the city council, the city reserved $10.4 million in American Rescue Plan dollars for community and economic development initiatives. The $1 million that had been planned for the community foundation's work with Bitwise was divided among five new projects that the city Economic Development Department presented to council.

The approved projects include:

- $240,000 to Doña Ana Community College: For a transitional job training program serving up to 150 residents living at or below poverty level over three years.

- $300,000 to Ngage New Mexico: For a two-year accelerator program for registered childcare providers to fill gaps, exacerbated by the Covid-19

VLC earns TopHAT award

BULLETIN REPORT

The New Mexico Hospitality Association recently gave a tip of its eponymous hat to four Visit Las Cruces nominees who received honors during its 2023 TopHAT awards.

Each year the state hospitality association recognizes initiatives and individuals who drive tourism to New Mexico and highlight its communities. Award categories include marketing and advertising campaigns, events, attractions, sustainability efforts and individuals in the hospitality industry.

Of the nine VLC submissions, the four categories in which the city's tourism bureau won comprised:

- "The Real New Mexico" Online/Broadcast/Streaming campaign in the Best Broadcast Campaign category. The campaign used a series of four commercials highlighting the people, landscape, innovative industries and bold flavors of the region. The judges felt this campaign deserved recognition for its compelling visual images and diverse market penetration. The winning broadcast campaign is available for viewing on Visit Las Cruces' YouTube page.

- The Spaceport America Cup for Best Outstanding Event. The annual rocketry competition lures thousands of students from around the world to Las Cruces, bringing an international spotlight to the city and the region's commercial space industry.

- Russell Hernandez, VLC board member, business owner and mayor-elect of the town of Mesilla, as Hospitality Professional of the Year. Judges noted Hernandez's work in education, promotion of Las Cruces and Mesilla and overall efforts to promote and grow the hospitality industry.

- Mira! Las Cruces for Best New Experience.

Turnout for the first-time event and its ability to highlight the culture and community were noted as reasons Mira! stood out.

"None of this is possible without the work from our dedicated and talented staff, our partnerships with local and state agencies like NMCO Creative Studios, Simply Social, Sinate, Sunny505 and support from the community and its leadership," Lorena Lozana, VLC's marketing director, stated in a news release.

"Las Cruces has outstanding attractions, events, initiatives and people in the hospitality industry," Rochelle Miller-Hernandez, VLC's executive director, added. "We wanted to take the opportunity to recognize these accomplishments. We are ecstatic that leaders in this industry also recognized the outstanding work being done to promote Las Cruces and its surrounding communities."

1915 fire engine comes home

By ALGERNON D'AMMASSA
Las Cruces Bulletin

A century-old fire engine once in the service of Las Cruces firefighters completed a long journey this week from a salvage yard, to a local home, all the way to Oregon and back again.

It was briefly parked, looking shiny and new, in front of Las Cruces City Hall Monday, as LCFD Chief Jason Smith celebrated its donation back to the city at the regular city council meeting.

Smith told the council it was the city's earliest known motorized fire engine – the seventh unit of its type manufactured in 1915, and one of just two still in existence from that model year. The engine had two 25-gallon tanks of water and used a soda-acid chemical system, which pressurized water through a chemical reaction in which acid was introduced into soda water to release carbon dioxide and force the water from the tanks.

The engine sat in a scrap yard until 1937, when local volunteer firefighter Joe Melendrez rescued it, Smith explained. It remained with his family for 62 years until, in 1999, they sold it to Wesley Melo of Roseburg, Ore. After loading it onto a truck for its trip to the west coast, Melo spent a decade restoring the motor and equipment and sprucing it up until it looked shiny and new. About two years ago, according to Smith, Melo let the city know it was time for the engine to go back home.

"I was a volunteer fireman all my life; my dad was a volunteer fire chief for the town I was raised in," Melo said. "This fire engine needs to go back to its original city ... it belongs back here."

Smith told the Bulletin the city contributed to the total cost of transporting the engine back to Las Cruces, as well as Melo's travel.

Members of the Melendrez family were honored along with Melo during the city council meeting while onlookers were invited to look, but not touch, the historic vehicle.

Smith said the LCFD Honor Guard has been trained to maintain and operate the engine, and plans are to use it for parades and other special events when it is not on display at the new fire station being built on Sonoma Ranch Boulevard. When the station is ready, he told the Bulletin firefighters will push the vintage fire engine into the garage in keeping with tradition.

Medicaid providers get rate increase

BULLETIN REPORT

The New Mexico Human Services Department announced a $409 million reimbursement rate increase last week for most Medicaid care providers. The HSD said the investment aims to “fortify and support the health care workforce in New Mexico,” which serves a base of 869,528 Medicaid subscribers.

Providers will be eligible for increased payments on claims dating back to July 1, and HSD said reimbursement claims have been automatically reprocessed in order to disperse payment at the higher rate.

“Medicaid providers across New Mexico will now receive reimbursements at rates as high as 120 percent of Medicare,” Lorelei Kellogg, acting director for the New Mexico Medicaid program, stated in a news release. “By elevating rates, New Mexico Medicaid continues to work toward the goal of ensuring that all New Mexicans enrolled in the program have access to vital health care services.”

HSD said the initiative reflects the agency’s efforts to strengthen the state’s healthcare system and ensure uninterrupted access to services for the most vulnerable populations. The agency said the increases comprise the first two of three phases aiming to boost payments to Medicaid providers. The proposal for phase three rate increases has been included in the agency’s budget request to lawmakers for state fiscal year 2025, HSD reported.

Sen. Griggs will not seek re-election

(EDITOR’S NOTE: Until the most recent re-districting, State Sen. Ron Griggs represented a portion of Doña Ana County for more than a decade. The Republican from Alamogordo is announcing his retirement at the end of the 2024 session and his decision not to seek re-election. Below is his letter to constituents.)

By STATE SEN. RON GRIGGS

My political career started when I was elected to the Alamogordo City Commission in August of 1999 to fill the seat vacated upon the death of my father, Jim Griggs. I was re-elected three times, serving 12 and a half years. In 2012, I successfully ran for the New Mexico State Senate. I was sworn in on Dec. 12, 2012, and have represented Senate District 34 since then.

During my tenure in the Senate, most of the legislation I worked on focused on the economy, especially the economy of our rural communities. I worked for years to change liquor laws and that work ultimately allowed more small restaurants to sell spirits. I sponsored legislation that allows large-scale economic development projects to see lower taxes on their construction costs, and initiated legislation that allows communities to use their local economic development tax to attract retail projects. Airports across New Mexico can receive state assistance to attract regional air carriers and the brine well is no longer a danger to the citizens of Carlsbad. Counties have access to state dollars to assist them in the construction or remodeling of district court facilities, non-profits can rent out their facility to other non-profits more often, and prescribed burns cannot be started when a red flag warning is in effect. I either sponsored these bills, co-sponsored them, or influenced their development and drafting.

I also introduced other important bills that did not pass. Bills such as the Adjunct Instructor Act and a bill to provide small oil and gas operators a tax credit to help bring their wells into compliance with New Mexico rules. I also introduced a memorial to study how best to return federally controlled land to New Mexico. I even sponsored a bill to allow customers to bring their own wine into a restaurant paying a corkage fee to have it opened. I did not shy away from these and other controversial issues. I never thought I was elected to follow just one playbook, but to find solutions for all New Mexicans.

I helped the communities in District 34 with many capital projects. Roads and infrastructure received most of the capital dollars I had to allocate but I also sent funds to Carlsbad for their Riverwalk Conference Center, their Community Recreation Center, the new gym floor for Carlsbad High School, and I funded projects and programs at Living Desert State Park. I funded recreation improvements in Cloudcroft along with vehicles and equipment for them. The big green activity bus was funded through my capital allocation. I provided both Cloudcroft and Timberon with dollars to repair, upgrade and develop their water and wastewater systems. The new fire station in Timberon was built with state dollars I allocated to that project. In Alamogordo, I provided funds to the New Mexico Museum of Space History, funds to New Mexico State University-Alamogordo, funds to purchase vehicles and equipment for both the City of Alamogordo and Otero County, funds for improvement projects and programs at Oliver Lee State Park, and in recent years, funds to help with quality-of-life projects at White Sands Golf Course, Alameda Park Zoo, and the baseball and soccer fields. Alamogordo, too, has a new activity bus your legislative delegation funded. NMSU-A will soon start a new nursing program funded in large part by your delegation. And, if you take a short drive to Sunspot, Sen. Bill Burt and I provided funds and other assistance to NMSU to help keep that facility open. Helping with these and other opportunities are the most positive and enjoyable things I participate in as your state Senator. And one last thing, although state legislation was not involved, I was a part of the reason White Sands is no longer a National Monument but is now a National Park.

I am proud to represent you. It is an honor like no other. It is exhilarating to be engaged in development of legislation to better New Mexico and to argue against legislation that will damage this district and our state. I just turned 71 in October, so another term is certainly doable and, in many ways, desirable. I want to continue to represent you in the State Senate. I also want to spend more time with my wife, Joan, and our family. It is time for new blood, new eyes, new ideas, and new directions. I will finish my term and retire from the State Senate at the end of 2024. Thank all of you for your vote, your confidence in me, your words of encouragement, and your concern for me and my family. You are the part of this job I will miss the most.

Youth-led nonprofit gains recognition

BULLETIN REPORT

The LAB is a youth-driven nonprofit that guides youth to build career and leadership skills as they use their voices to create positive change through art, communication, and action. Founded in 2017, it is now gaining national recognition due to the commitment and vision of its interns, employees, and board of directors.

If you would like to see for yourself why the LAB is quickly gaining recognition in our community and across the country, join us on Jan. 16, 2024, the National Day of Racial Healing. The LAB invites you to a healing community event that integrates art, music, and poetry. Participants explore the harm racism has created and begin repairing it through racial reconciliation to reduce barriers, foster genuine interactions, and establish trust. This free event will be from 5-7:30 p.m. and the location is to be determined.

The youth-produced LAB Radio Hour, which is in its sixth year on KTAL-LP 101.5 FM Community Radio, embodies its mission, "To support the ambitions of youth in creating a sustainable and healthy community." The radio show consists of interviews with regional youth and mentors on the topics of educational equity, environmental justice and racial healing.

The LAB works on these issues through partnerships with Transform Education New Mexico, New Mexico

State University Borderlands and Ethnic Studies, the Success Partnership, the National Education Association-NM, and Doña Ana Community College. The podcast archive is available at lablc.org or live on 101.5 FM Saturdays noon-1 p.m.

Other collaborations and programming that are uplifting the community include creative heart-tapestry and LABB-Learning Action Beat Buffet workshops (LABB).

Participants in the heart tapestry workshops receive a piece of canvas that has been stamped with a simple heart. They use words and pictures to answer a prompt such as "What does your heart beat for?" or "What mends your heart?" Quilts are then created with the heart tapestries.

The LABB is a year-long series of free workshops in beat making, hip-hop arts, entrepreneurship, and communal healing.

In 2023, the Doña Ana Arts Council recognized the LAB with the Community Arts Award for making a marked impact on the cultural life of the Las Cruces community. It is through a variety of collaborations, awards, and funding opportunities that the LAB is able to sustain their creative endeavors.

In 2022, the LAB received a fellowship from the Andrew Mellon Foundation to produce an environmental justice documentary in collaboration with the National Humanities Action Lab (HAL) project of Rutgers University and Doña Ana Community College. This film, "Water is Life," is about the declining water levels of the Rio Grande and premiered in November of this year.

A second film on the depletion of our aquifers, "Water as Wealth," will be released in June 2024. The National HAL project received the 2023 National Endowment for the Humanities grant, making it possible for The LAB to continue future environmental equity work with this partner.

Find out more about theLAB on the web, at lablc.org, and on Instagram at Learning Action Buffet (LAB).

Aggies reverse decades of futility

They said it couldn't be done ... and by "they" I mean me and just about everyone else who has followed the New Mexico State University football team over the years.

In 2020, when the state was facing a $2 billion budget deficit and all but two games on the NMSU scheduled were canceled due to the Covid-19 pandemic, I wrote my second column calling for the Aggies to drop down to the FCS division in football.

It wasn't that I didn't like college football or appreciate the potential benefits that come with the national exposure it brings. I was just tired of all the losing and the empty seats and the games that were over by halftime. The 1-1 mark in 2020, earned against opponents Tarleton State and Dixie State, was the first time in 18 years that the Aggies didn't finish with a losing record.

NMSU was the toughest nut in the college football world to crack, and all of the other coaches knew it.

But head coach Jerry Kill was undaunted. He led NMSU to a 7-6 record and bowl victory last year in a season with a schedule that included Missouri, Wisconsin and Minnesota. This year, the Aggies posted their first 10-win season since 1960, making it to the championship game in their first year of play in Conference USA. Liberty University, awash in Falwell money, defeated the Aggies in the title game to maintain an undefeated season.

The Aggies will look for their second consecutive bowl victory in a couple of weeks when they play Fresno State in the New Mexico Bowl.

Kill followed last year's bowl win by getting an Aggie tattoo. And it's not some small little thing on his ankle that can be covered with a sock. It's big and bold, right on the shoulder.

I don't know what, if anything, that means for his future commitment to the program. It's that time of year when losing coaches get fired and winning coaches get offers of obscene amounts of money to lure them away. Kill will undoubtedly be high on the list of many wealthier universities.

And I don't know if success for the Aggies is sustainable in an era when the rules of college sports are changing to favor the bigger programs who can bring players in through the transfer portal and set them up with lucrative advertising deals.

All of those are issues for another day. For now

... Go Aggies, beat the Bulldogs.

A Polling Place Watcher's Report

Doña Ana County just held a local election. Elections have recently been given a bad name, so the local League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico took advantage of state laws and appointed watchers to observe the local voting process. Twelve watchers went through the state's vetting and educational process and were assigned to various local polling locations. Here are the personal observations of one of these watchers.

I was assigned to watch during the busiest period of voting at the county office building. And indeed, it was busy. All day the line waiting to vote was some 30 to 50 people long. But the line moved quickly. The county had six to seven stations to process voters. This procedure was quick and easy. The voter presented identification and was given a newly printed ballot and voting instructions. The typical time between the presenting of the identification and the receiving of the ballot was one minute and 30 seconds. The voter was then given a marker and went to a voting booth.

There were about 20 booths set up as well as tables for handicapped voters. There were always some empty booths available. The ballot was short. The only contested race was for mayor. There was also a question on a bond issue to be voted yes or no.

The mayor's position had many contestants. The ranked choice voting system ensures that if your first choice does not win, your other choices will have an effect on the results. A table on the ballot had a place where you could rank order as many of the candidates as you wished. You did have to follow the instructions carefully. It was this feature of the ballot which caused the most spoiled ballots. The workers were prepared to record any spoiled ballots and issue new ones. Only on the order of 10 ballots were spoiled here all day. It was observed that a permanent record of each instance was kept, preventing any mistake in the election from this cause.

After voting, the ballot was taken to one of two voting machines where workers were supervising the final voting process. The voter was instructed to place the ballot into the machine and wait about five seconds until the machine signaled that the ballot was received.

I went through the whole process to cast my vote. I started at the end of the line, quickly moved to the front, was waved to an empty ballot dispensing station and received my ballot. A stop at a voting booth allowed me to fill out the Ranked Choice Vote area. A quick trip to the side of the room allowed the worker to show me how to enter my ballot into the machine and a short ding from the machine showed that I had voted. The whole process, including waiting in the line, took about 30 minutes.

The watchers were taught to do nothing which could be interpreted

LC Public School students rally into esports world

By ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

In an arena full of screaming fans, two teams face off against one another as shouts of “You can do it” mingle with boos and cries of enthusiasm carry them along on a wave of energy. The ball gets to the goal and the crowd gets louder and louder.

The game is on a big screen, the players are expertly moving the giant ball as they drive cars around the turf to get to the goal, and there are fireworks across the screen when someone gets one through. The stadium is the Organ Mountain High School gymnasium, and the game is called Rocket League, only one of the games energetically played by a growing base known as esports.

On Thursday, Nov. 30, students from across the Las Cruces Public Schools Roadrunner Rally Esports Showcase. Regional middle and high school esports teams competed in various esports arenas during the event. In addition to Rocket League and the eFlavor Show-down, an esports culinary dessert challenge where students created themed the games included League of Legends, Call of Duty, Overwatch 2, Halo Infinite, Football, Basketball and more.

Esports, or electronic sports, is a fast-growing field of competition video gaming, complete with teams, jerseys and game narration. Hundreds of area students showed up to participate and observe in the games desserts inspired by one of the games played in the tournament.

Allan Aguilar, vice president with New Mexico State University Esports, said there are real careers in the esports field. In addition to the gamers, the burgeoning industry includes coaches, recruiters, field managers and organizers.

“I worked really hard to be able to work in esports,” Aguilar said. “I was able to work for a full year with LeagueSpot, a tournament organizing company. I coordinated the whole nation’s private academies, many fully online.”

Aguilar said during Covid many private schools became fully online and couldn’t have sports in person and students didn’t have a lot of interaction with each other.

“They implemented a way through esports to be outside of the class while still being with other students and friends” he said. “So, I had to make a league with all 50 states, and we coordinated the whole season. I got paid really well for that. It’s not difficult to make over six figures in an esports position.”

as an attempt to influence the voter. If the voter asked the watcher a question, a poll worker quickly appeared to answer it. Watchers were told not to stand where they could observe how a voter voted. This watcher did observe a set of workers doing everything they could so that a voter could cast the vote as quickly and as securely as possible.

My wife requested a ballot by mail and filled it out. She placed it inside a plain envelope. And then into another. The outside envelope identified her while the inside envelope kept her vote secret. The outside envelope had a place for anybody other than my wife delivering the envelope to be identified. I filled out that part and placed her vote in a secure box at the polling place, where I then cast my own vote.

Watchers do not, of course, guarantee freedom from “mistakes,” but they sure help. Congratulations to the workers for a well-run election and to the League for the effort to keep it honest.

Grateful for a good election

Thanks to all who took time to read about, listen to and vote for your best choice and other candidates.

Note this city election was non-partisan – everyone was eligible to vote for the best candidate regardless of their party. With ranked choice, the winner needs 50 percent plus one vote (not as complicated as it seems, and eliminates costly run-off elections).

Congratulations to the winners, and also the losers, as all took time and energy to make it a very clean and interesting election.

Those who did not win, please try again. All elections are important to make changes for our future.

Please register and vote before the next election and exercise your patriotic duty. The right to vote is very important.

This was an exciting and rewarding team effort. Next, the real work starts in January 2024 for our mayor and city council, to work together on changes for all of us. With common sense and an open door policy, and with God’s help, we’ll be a better and safer community.

Many thanks to Mayor Ken Miyagishima for all of his county and city years of serving us. God bless you always.

On behalf of new Mayor Eric Enriquez and new councilor Bill Mattiace, thanks to all the families and friends and all team members.

Also, many thanks to all the organizers, participants, volunteers and spectators for the most wonderful Veterans Day parade last month.

David Duchovny

OF THE X-FILES ON COMET

Q: It’s been interesting to see David Duchovny back in the public eye for the movie he made with Meg Ryan. How long was he on “The X-Files”?

A: The actor’s run as FBI Agent Fox Mulder began in 1993, and he has said that he didn’t expect the Fox series (now repeating on Comet) to last as long as it did, nor to be as popular as it became. His regular weekly run on the show went through the seventh season, when headlines were made by a lawsuit Duchovny filed against 20th Century Fox Television, alleging that it sold rights to repeats of the show to Fox-affiliated stations for less than they were worth ... thus costing him some profits.

The suit was settled, but Duchovny’s contract for the show was up, so he left as a full-time cast member (with Robert Patrick assuming the role of a Mulder surrogate, John Doggett). However, Duchovny returned for part of the eighth season, with the explanation that Mulder had been abducted by aliens. He also came back for the presumed series finale in Season 9, but as it turned out, he wasn’t done with the show yet.

Fox gave “The X-Files” revivals as a limited-run program in 2016 and 2018, which were deemed to be the 10th and 11th seasons of the show. Series creator-producer Chris Carter has inferred that there are more stories in that universe to be told, but any discussions of a continuation of the franchise haven’t come to fruition. The show also yielded two theatrical films in which Duchovny played Mulder (opposite Gillian Anderson’s Agent Dana Scully), “The X-Files: Fight the Future” (1998) and “The X-Files: I Want to Believe” (2008).

If he's learned anything, it's that choice, while an illusion, is still the only way out of — or into — the Matrix. Neo already knows what he has to do, but what he doesn't yet know is that the Matrix is stronger, more secure and far more dangerous than ever before. Carrie-Anne Moss, Yahya Abdul-Mateen II, Neil Patrick Harris and Jessica Henwick.

"Dragons: The Nine Realms" - Season 8 (Dec. 14)

However, Sledkin (Carrie Keranen) throws a wrench in their plans when she steals Plowhorn from the Riders in relentless pursuit of the Gods Realm and the Dragonsite gem. Faced with the biggest challenge they've ever encountered, the team must recruit an army of dragons to fend off Jörmungandr and save the Hidden World.

"Swamp People" - Season 14 (Dec. 14)

As nature exerts its power across all of America and the globe, the swamper of Louisiana face a brand-new challenge. Some five hundred prime gator tags are at stake for next season—but to get them, gator hunters must compete now! It's renewal time for tags in Louisiana, which are usually granted in five- or ten-year deals. And this year, the large landowners who hold the tags, have made all too clear they're only willing to work with hunters who land the biggest beasts this year.

"The Retirement Plan" (Dec. 15)

Soon tracked down on the island by crime boss Donnie (Jackie Earle Haley) and his lieutenant Bobo (Ron Perlman), Ashley, Sarah and Matt become entangled in an increasingly dangerous web, while Ashley quickly learns her father had a secret past that she knew nothing about.

What's Available NOW On

“17 Again” (Available Now)

Mike O'Donnell (Matthew Perry) was a high school basketball star with a bright future, but he threw it all away to marry his girlfriend and raise their child. Almost 20 years later, Mike's marriage has failed, his kids think he's a loser, and his job is going nowhere. He gets a chance to correct the mistakes of his past and change his life when he is miraculously transformed into a teenager (played by Zac Efron). But, in trying to fix his past, Mike may be jeopardizing his present and future.

“A Christmas in Vermont”

(Available Now)

Riley Thomas (Abigail Hawk) is sent by her profit-obsessed boss to shut down one of the company's holdings, a small outerwear company in Vermont, for missing profit targets. Riley finds that the company is the lifeblood of a town and, instead of closing down the iconic firm, she unexpectedly falls in love and learns valuable lessons beyond the bottom line. Chevy Chase, David O'Donnell, Howards Hesseman and Morgan Fairchild also star.

“Chicago” (Available Now)

Nightclub sensation Velma (Catherine Zeta-Jones) murders her philandering husband, and Chicago's slickest lawyer, Billy Flynn (Richard Gere), is set to defend her. But when Roxie (Renée Zellweger) also winds up in prison, Billy takes on her case as well — turning her into a media circus of headlines. Neither woman will be outdone in their fight against each other and the public for fame and celebrity.

“Eight Crazy Nights”

In this animated holiday film, Davey Stone (Adam Sandler), a 33-year old party animal, finds himself in trouble with the law after his wild ways go too far. In keeping with the holiday spirit, the judge gives Davey one last chance at redemption — spend the holiday performing community service as the assistant referee for the youth basketball league, or go to jail. Davey thinks he's gotten off easy until he meets Whitey Duvall (also Sandler), the eccentric, elf-like head referee. Jackie Sandler, Austin Stout, Kevin Nealon, Rob Schneider and Norm Crosby also voice star.

Gina Carano, Pedro Pascal and Carl Weathers in "The Mandalorian"

"THE MANDALORIAN: THE COMPLETE SEASONS ONE AND TWO"

Available in two separate volumes, the much-praised, Primetime Emmy Award-winning Disney+ fantasy series — created by Jon Favreau — is part of the "Star Wars" canon. Pedro Pascal plays the title character, an intergalactic bounty hunter whose mission is to protect Grogu, a child who is kin to Yoda, from the forces of the sinister Moff Gideon (Giancarlo Esposito). With the third season having already been streamed earlier this year, a fourth is being prepared; Carl Weathers, filmmaker Werner Herzog, Gina Carano and Emily Swallow also are among cast members, with Nick Nolte and Taika Waititi supplying character voices. A very familiar figure (and performer) dating back to the roots of the "Star Wars" franchise resurfaces in the second season. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, V) (Also on 4K Ultra HD)

"FIVE NIGHTS AT FREDDY'S"

A supposed fun site proves to be anything but that as several animatronic figures come to life and threaten others at the location in this horror tale, inspired by a popular video game. Josh Hutcherson plays a security guard at the entertainment center who fears for his sister's (Piper Rubio) safety — as well as his own, ultimately — when she is targeted by the robots, who turn out to be under the ghostly possession of the spirits of children who became victims of a serial killer decades earlier. Elizabeth Lail ("You"), Mary Stuart Masterson and "Scream" alum Matthew Lillard also appear

"WEIRD: THE AL YANKOVIC STORY"

The popular song parodist has a history unlike those of most other music stars, and it's detailed in this pseudo-documentary ... which has to be taken with a grain of salt, since appropriately, it's a satire of biographical projects. It recalls how Yankovic — portrayed as an adult by Daniel Radcliffe — started out as an accordion player, then hit the big time by spoofing such hit songs as "My Sharona," "I Love Rock 'n' Roll" and "Another One Bites the Dust." Oprah Winfrey (played here by "Abbott Elementary's" Quinta Brunson) and Madonna (Evan Rachel Wood) were among early Yankovic patrons, as were radio personalities Dr. Demento and Wolfman Jack (portrayed respectively by Rainn Wilson and Jack Black). Julianne Nicholson, Thomas Lennon, Will Forte, and Lin-Manuel Miranda and the real Yankovic also appear. ★★★ (Not rated: P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD and Digital)

Chamber Ballet's 'Nutcracker'

BULLETIN REPORT

To celebrate its 40th anniversary of the "The Nutcracker Ballet" production, the Las Cruces Chamber Ballet has spared no expense.

For the first time, the Chamber Ballet Orchestra, comprised of 42 professional musicians from the Las Cruces, Juarez, and El Paso symphonies, and directed by Maestro Francisco Javier Renteria, will accompany more than 80 local dancers to create the largest dance production ever to be presented at the Atkinson Music Recital Hall at New Mexico State University.

More than 20 young ballerinas from En Pointe dance studio in Hobbs, and directed by Bethany Romney Bluth, will perform a special version of the "Waltz of the Flowers." Bluth was a previous member of the Chamber Ballet and has successfully run her studio for more than five years.

The usual playful antics between Clara (Adrianna Cordero) and her rascal of a brother, Fritz (Kinley Krol), will be tempered by her Mother (Victoria Rel) and Nanny (Malakai Garcia). Herr Drosselmeyer (Kevin Self) will help lead everyone through the harrowing battle scene and into the heavenly Land of the Sweets.

AppleHelen Kirby, contemporary dance director for Michele's Dance Academy, has been commissioned to create an all-new version of the "Waltz of the Snowflakes" after her much lauded "Waltz of the Flowers" in last year's production.

Marissa Cordero, folklorico director for Pasos de Alma at Michele's Dance Academy, has prepared a unique twist on the Spanish Dance.

With a live orchestra comes a live chorus. Through the extensive efforts of Diane Schutz, 18 singers from the local high schools will bless the audience with their angelic voices during the "Waltz of the Snowflakes."

This year, as a gift for 40 years of loyal attendance, the Las Cruces Chamber Ballet has the pleasure of presenting two leading soloists from New York's Dance Theatre of Harlem. Lindsey Donnell will perform the role of SugarPlum Fairy along with Micah Bullard as her Cavalier.

Performances will be 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 15; and 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 16, at the NMSU Atkinson Recital Hall, 1075 N. Horseshoe St. on campus. For reserved tickets, visit lascruceschamberballet.org or call Michele's Dance Academy, 575 527-1893.

Baker, Morrow at Tombaugh

BULLETIN REPORT

The Tombaugh Gallery at 2000 S. Solano Ave., presents Kathy Baker and Vickie Morrow in December for their exhibit "A Feast For Your Senses: Texture, Color, and Spirit."

The two women collaborate, with Baker showing textiles and baskets on pedestals in the gallery. Most of Morrow's work focuses on assemblage wall hung art.

The art term 'assemblage' means collection of things. It refers to an art practice created by using everyday objects in an artistic sense. The art materials can be either natural or man-made and are assembled in such a way as to create a new meaningful piece of art. Morrow's inspiration often comes during the hunting and gathering of items for her mass collection. She finds creativity in making parts including annealing, patina copper, unraveling fabric, rusting fabric, and using little metal washers and hardware. In addition, she includes hand-made tiles in her projects. Stacking, layering, adding seed beads, threading straw thread from African beads through holes all adds to the depth and texture of the art piece.

Baker will show textiles, baskets, fiber weaving, and art yarn. She has been working with yarn and textiles for many years and enjoys finding new techniques for her materials. She is a member of the Potters' Guild of Las Cruces, Cruces Creatives and the Agave Art Gallery in Mesilla.

In consideration of the holidays, Morrow and Baker are including creations with gift giving and pricing in mind.

The exhibit continues through Friday, Dec. 29. The gallery, in the Unitarian Universalist Church, is open 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, and Sundays 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

ing's collection. His landscape photographs are rich with texture, featuring everything from the roughness of rocks, thorns, and tree branches, to the softness of clouds, fog, and sand dunes.

Turning says he simply photographs landscapes and other things that interest him. He grew up in Alamogordo where his passion for photography sparked when he "borrowed" his dad's 35mm camera. In 2017, drawn by the expanded possibilities newer digital cameras provide, he upgraded from his pocket digital camera.

Embracing digital image processing, Turning mastered the intricacies of image manipulation and enhancement. Now retired, he finds joy in exploring nature and seizing moments through his camera, portraying them uniquely through his lens.

Turning's show will be on display in the museum's Arts Corridor through April 6, 2024.

The New Mexico Farm & Ranch Heritage Museum is at 4100 Dripping Springs Road. For information, call 575-522-4100.

TubaChristmas hits Las Cruces

BULLETIN REPORT

An idea that started 50 years ago has grown to more than 300 cities throughout the United States, in several foreign countries, and now in our own Las Cruces, will be p.m. Saturday, Dec. 9, in the New Mexico State University Atkinson Recital Hall.

"A TubaChristmas" was started as an homage to the late and great teacher, William J. Bell.

born on Christmas Day, 1902, was the premier tuba player and teacher in America during the first half of the 20th century. Bell passed away in 1971 and three years later a student of his, Harvey Phillips, started what has become a national sensation.

The first TubaChristmas opened in the Rink at Rockefeller Center in 1974, led by American composer Alec Wilder. Through Wilder, TubaChristmas concerts pay grateful tribute to composers who have embraced these noble instruments with solo and ensemble compositions.

They regularly attract tuba and euphonium players by the dozens.

The free event will be put on by Allan Kaplan, Professor of Music at NMSU. Currently there are more than 60 players ready to showcase a number of Christmas songs. All arrangements are by American composer Alec Wilder, who died on Christmas Eve in 1980).

Through Wilder, TubaChristmas concerts pay grateful tribute to composers who have embraced these instruments with solo and ensemble compositions. Awards will be given for categories such as "Best Dressed Tuba" and the oldest and youngest participant.

Atkinson Recital Hall is at 1075 N. Horseshoe St. on campus and the concert is free.

Cultural Center, Arts Council begin program

BULLETIN REPORT

The National Hispanic Cultural Center was in Las Cruces Friday, Dec. 1, to celebrate the first member of its Cultural Ambassador Program – the Doña Ana Arts Council.

The purpose of the program is to “identify, empower and elevate youth and art in New Mexico,” said NHCC executive director Zack Quintero, a Las Cruces native who added that another benefit of the program is to help spread the NHCC’s mission throughout the state and not just at its headquarters in Albuquerque.

“None of this would have been possible without the tenacity and ruthless empathy of (Arts Council) director (Araceli) Solis,” Quintero said.

A first step in the partnership will be the arrival of several paintings that will come to the Arts Council on loan from the NHCC.

State Sen. Carrie Hamblen was also on hand at the event, and reminded guests “Arts ARE an economic driver for our community. We have a robust artist community down here.”

Two more companies pick Santa Teresa

BULLETIN REPORT

The New Mexico Economic Development Department announced last week two more companies have been awarded state economic assistance to boost manufacturing expansions and create jobs at New Mexico's international Borderplex in Santa Teresa.

The newest additions to Santa Teresa are Coast Aluminum and Monti Inc. Combined, they expect to create 70 jobs and $24 million in new investment.

"The latest expansions to New Mexico are domestic companies who see the Borderplex as a strategic location for manufacturing," Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham said in a statement. "My administration's investments in this region are paying dividends with new jobs and sustainable growth as we create a manufacturing center of excellence in Southern New Mexico."

Monti, a national leader in industrial component manufacturing and fabrication, is moving into an 80,000-square-foot facility in Santa Teresa. The company is investing $14 million into renovations of the site, the state said. It will employ 36 people and the site will serve as a regional hub for Monti.

COURTESY PHOTO

Coast Aluminum and Monti will create 70 jobs, $24 million in new investment.

"Monti is one of several companies to recently select Santa Teresa to expand their operations because of the region's impressive manufacturing talent and superior logistics capabilities," Jerry Pacheco, executive director of the International Business Accelerator and business adviser to the New Mexico Partnership, said in a statement.

Coast Aluminum, which already has more than a dozen locations spread across the U.S.

and Mexico, distributes custom and in-stock aluminum materials, as well as stainless steel, copper and brass products. It has already broken ground on a 73,500-square-foot distribution center in the Santa Teresa Binational Industrial Park, a $10 million expansion. Once open next year, the site will employ more than three dozen workers.

The expansions of both companies are also being incentivized by the state, which is devoting funds from the Local Economic Development Act — about $350,000 for both Monti and Coast Aluminum.

The news comes as Santa Teresa this year has seen rapid growth. Recently, Taiwanese autoparts maker Hota Industrial Manufacturing announced its expansion into the region. And other companies, including Franklin Mountain Packaging and Louisiana Pepper Exchange, have also announced plans to set up shop in Santa Teresa.

Added Davin Lopez, president and CEO of the Mesilla Valley Economic Development Alliance: "Both of these projects point to the distribution and logistics advantages that the NM Borderplex region has to offer, and we are becoming more and more recognized as the center of trade for North America."

November brings good signs

By STEVE MONTAÑEZ
For the Bulletin

The November market report showed many signs of encouragement following one of the slower months we have seen in the past few years in the Mesilla Valley.

For the first time since 2020, listing inventory increased to more than 500 available homes. You may have seen more for sale signs last month as homes did stay on the market for more than a 30-day average. But closed sales still reported almost 98 percent of the asking price.

Another encouraging factor is the drop we have seen in interest rates, giving prospective homebuyers some optimism. As more homes are listed, expect to see lower prices and some great incentives being offered by sellers and builders this winter.

While December has historically been the industry's slow season, this is still a great time for planning, getting that preapproval letter, and calling your Realtor. And it's still a great time to be a Las Cruces homeowner.

Best wishes for a Merry Christmas and happy holiday season.

Excitement growing around New Mexico Bowl

BULLETIN REPORT

If you haven't gotten your tickets to the Dec. 16 Isleta New Mexico Bowl in Albuquerque, it could already be too late. New Mexico State University Aggie fans were buying them at a rapid pace Monday and Sunday, the day the team learned it would face Fresno State in the game, which starts at 3:45 p.m. Mountain Time University Stadium, on the University of New Mexico campus, is the host of the bowl, and seating capacity is 39,244.

"Our kids played in front of 85,000 in Auburn," said Aggie coach Jerry Kill.

Note that's more than twice the capacity of University Stadium.

"I think it's critical this is the year we play in the New Mexico Bowl in front of what I think is going to be a record amount of Aggie fans that maybe have ever watched a New Mexico State football game live," said NMSU athletic director Mario Moccia.

"With some bowl games you go, to there's not really very many people there," Kill said. "With this one, you're only three hours down the road, so it's a lot easier to access for our fans, and we've got a lot of fans in Albuquerque.

Our kids are excited about it."

The Aggies roll into the game with a 10-4 record, the first time NMSU has had a 10-win season in Kill's lifetime (and he was born in 1961). Last week, NMSU played in its first-ever conference championship game, suffering its first loss since September, falling 49-35 to regular season conference champ Liberty, which improved its record to 13-0 and its AP national ranking to No. 18.

As of Monday, Dec. 4, it was not known if Aggie quarterbacks Diego Pavia and backup Blaze Berlowitz would be 100 percent for the bowl game. Both were hurt in the game at Liberty.

"We're cautiously optimistic about both of them," Kill said. "They've both gotta get checked out, and they both feel better than they did the other night, that's a good sign."

Golf ball distance decision coming soon after pushback

We are in the off-season for professional golf. It used to be called the “silly season.”

However, a new silly season is now upon us with the re-emergence of the “distance debate” and the blow-back on the “Model Local Rule” (more on that shortly). In March 2019 I wrote two columns, the headlines of which tell it all: (1) “Get ready for the fight of the century – roll-back of the golf ball; (2) “Along with new rules a new golf ball may change the game.” Those articles came after the USGA and R&A began their deep dive into the characteristics of the ball and the shocking distance it now travels when rocketed by super-skilled players. Those two organizations, universally regarded as the “keeper of the game,” supervising on rules, equipment, tradition and the future of the game of golf, called their research the Distance Insight Project (DIP). To put the distance issue into perspective, the keepers of the game have been discussing distance for over a century.

In August 2020, I reported an overview summary of the DIP findings. They found that over the past 20 years, tour driving distance has increased on average by 1 yard per year. There was a lot of data to sift through, but the USGA and R&A reached the conclusion that “golf will best thrive over the next decades and beyond if this continuing cycle of ever-increasing hitting distances and golf course lengths is brought to an end.” They found many of the most famous and revered golf courses, with no additional land to use, would be rendered obsolete by the distances modern players hit the ball. Recently, Augusta National paid more than $30 million to purchase a parcel of ground with which to extend hole 13. The USGA and R&A set out to address the long-term trend of increased hitting distances and course lengthening. They believe the issue threatens golf’s long-term sustainability and undermines the core principle that a broad and balanced set of playing skills should remain the primary determinant of success in golf.

The USGA and R&A issued last March a “proposed” distance solution called the “Model Local Rule” (MLR) for elite competitions. They propose giving competition (for pro and amateur) organizers the option to require the use of golf balls that are lab tested under specified conditions. The limits of golf ball distance to become a future standard (i.e. the Overall Distance Standard, or ODS) are 317 yards carry with a 127 mph clubhead speed (127.5 was the mean fastest clubhead speed of the fastest 1 percent of men’s tour players in 2022). They propose the MLR is intended for use only in elite competitions and would have no impact on recreational golf. If adopted the proposal would take effect on Jan. 1, 2026.

Back in March 2023, the ruling bodies gave affected parties until August to provide comments. That was the fourth formal feedback period to be opened in the last five years which continued stakeholder engagement across the game, including golfers, fans, competition organizers, equipment manufacturers, golf course owners, superintendents, architects and others. As expected, there was considerable pushback about the proposal, with a majority of professionals and golf ball makers not in favor of the idea. Both the PGA Tour and the PGA of America have come out against it. Back in July, Seth Waugh, CEO of PGA of America published a memo to the USGA and R&A on behalf of all PGA organizations worldwide in which he stated unequivocally their opposition to the proposed MLR rule.

“We fear that the proposed changes (i.e. MLR) could seriously interrupt the current momentum in the game and be fundamentally damaging and detrimental in the long run,” Waugh wrote. He suggested golf maintain the status quo for the indefinite future.

“We believe this (status quo) to be the best approach towards a truly collaborative industry proposal and potential alternative to the thorny challenges of bifurcation.” Meaning unintended consequences. From the beginning, the distance debate centered on bifurcation – different balls, different rules for different groups. And it isn’t going away anytime soon.
