SPACEPORT AMERICA CUP SOARS AGAIN

Las Cruces Bulletin

Once more, the Spaceport America Cup competition drew thousands of people from around the world to Las Cruces and Sierra County for a week of research presentations, professional networking and rocket launches at Spaceport America's vertical launch area.

The nonprofit Experimental Sounding Rocket Association has organized its annual intercollegiate rocketry competition since 2006, which has been cosponsored and hosted at Spaceport America since 2017. This year, 122 teams from around the globe, out of 152 that had signed up, traveled to southern New Mexico for a week's worth of events, starting with research presentations at the Las Cruces Convention Center before moving to the spaceport for rocket launches.

Teams compete in a series of technical categories based on their rockets' target apogee (10,000 or 30,000 feet), components and propulsion systems. There is also a research payload competition with cash prizes sponsored by Utah State University's Space Dynamics Laboratory; and this year there were new prizes, as well, for video presentations.

Every team, whether they come from near or far, contended not only with design and assembly demands, but also the logistical challenges of transporting motors, fuel and components and assembling a working rocket, presented for safety inspections prior to launch, under tight deadlines and sometimes punishing weather conditions.

This year, searing temperatures on the desert plain outside of Truth or Consequences, combined with high winds and dust, forced delays. A large dust storm system known as a haboob that landed on Wednesday night "decimated all of the preparations, the pads, the base camp areas," as the spaceport's director of site operations, Chris Lopez, put it during the awards ceremony Saturday night at the

During a long pause in launches Friday morning because of overcast weather, teams bided their time. Two lines of vehicles waited for safety inspections, while teams sheltering under rows of tents alternately napped, worked on rocket bodies or motors, or socialized with other teams. Despite the wind, one group tossed a frisbee back and forth.

New Mexico State University's team, the Atomic Aggies, were among many teams that camped out near the spaceport waiting for the gates to open at 5 a.m. They were hoping for enough visibility to permit the launch schedule to resume, but they still worried about the harsh sunlight.

"We're made out of carbon fiber," Daniel Bluedorn said, referring to their rocket. "It's not very conductive. (Harsh sunlight) melts your solder and messes with your electronics."

sity of Texas at Dallas said their rocket was waiting on a concrete pad strapped to a launch rail, waiting out the team's second weather-related delay.

Teams that fly in for the competition, particularly on international flights, have to be creative, transporting the parts with which they are allowed to fly and acquiring other items locally once they get here. A team from the Mahidol University Institute of Technology in Thailand said they had been here since early June, building their propulsion system with some materials they shipped ahead of themselves.

Launches continued into Saturday, and that evening the teams assembled for a two-and-a-half-hour celebration at the Pan Am, where the prizes in research payloads, video challenges and technical awards were announced, leading up to the top trophies: The Spaceport America Cup (also referred to as the Genesis Cup) and the Chile Cup, a regional prize for teams from New Mexico and west Texas inaugurated in 2019.

The team from University of New Mexico took home the Chile Cup this year, and the top prize went to the University of Maryland, College Park, which had taken first place in the 10,000-foot-apogee, solid fuel, SRAD (student researched and designed) division. The runner-up for the Cup was Istanbul University.

DASO: Man killed by deputy was in crisis

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

This article discusses suicide. Immediate help is available by calling the Suicide and Crisis Lifeline by dialing 988.

A man killed by a Doña Ana County Sheriff's deputy had called 911 before the shooting and suggested he was in a mental health crisis before firing a gun at a deputy, according to information provided in a news conference this week.

Sheriff Kim Stewart identified the man killed in a shooting on June 19 as Michael Christopher Goodheart, 26. Stewart also provided video of the incident and answered questions at a news conference on June 21.

Stewart said Goodheart called 911 and initiated the incident by reporting a drunk driver near one of the Peter Piper Pizza locations in Las Cruces. The call came in around 11:30 p.m. Later, he reveals that he's making the call on himself.

"He indicates to (the 911 call taker) he's been drinking since 5 p.m. earlier in the day," Stewart said. "He goes on to make comments that are reflective of him being in a mental health crisis."

Around 11:45 p.m., Goodheart told the dispatcher that he needed to be stopped after providing them with a description of his white Dodge Durango car. Stewart said he was uncertain if he told the dispatcher he had a gun, and it's unclear if he remained on the line with 911 throughout the one-hour duration of the incident.

Around the same time,

Stewart said, the Mesilla Marshals spotted Goodheart near Avenida de Mesilla and Terra Verde Drive. The marshal began to chase Goodheart, Stewart said, but only briefly before breaking off the chase, losing sight of Goodheart around Young Park in Las Cruces.

At 11:55 p.m., a DASO deputy spots Goodheart near Lohman Avenue and Valley Drive. Stewart said the deputy tried to pull Goodheart over, but Goodheart drove away. Another chase ensued, leading Goodheart and the deputy to the Shalem Colony area west of the Rio Grande.

Stewart noted that Goodheart took a varied path to get there, driving around the city until ending up outside Las Cruces.

At this point, Goodheart delivered a final comment to the 911 dispatcher that might be construed as suicidal. Stewart then played a clip of the deputy's dashboard camera and showed screenshots of the same video. She did not show the actual shooting. However, the stills combined with the video show Goodheart exiting his car, pulling out a gun and firing toward the deputy.

Stewart did not say who fired first or how many rounds were exchanged.

LCPS approves $9M school bus contract

ALGERNON D'AMMASSA
Las Cruces Bulletin

The school board unanimously approved an annual contract between Las Cruces Public Schools and transportation STS of NM for school bus service in the 2024-25 school year during their June 18 meeting.

The agreement includes over $2.3 million for purchase or rental fees and over $6.6 million for services, totaling $9,010,747.89, per the fleet service contract. The payment may vary under certain conditions such as changes to bus routes, fleet or services.

Additionally, the contract provides for use of district property at Organ Mountain High School in east Las Cruces, where STS stages a bus yard and where drivers are allowed to access restrooms and office space. The contract states that the district benefits from the arrangement through reduced mileage and wear-and-tear on vehicles, a statement that appears to head off potential questions about the New Mexico Constitution's anti-donation clause. STS provides the buses, fuel and drivers for transportation services.

At the school board meeting, there was open discussion about a recurring topic in recent years: LCPS taking over school bus services and employing drivers itself. Two drivers with STS, whose drivers are organized by the Las Cruces Transportation Federation, endorsed the proposal during the school board meeting, as did an organizer with the American Federation of Teachers as well as Irma Valdespino of the Classified School Employees Council of Las Cruces.

Bus driver Velma Janssen expressed appreciation for the contract's passage during public comments but said, "I believe we would be more satisfied with our jobs if we were directly employed by the district. We like what we do, but many have left to seek employment elsewhere with more money, more benefits and better working conditions."

William Edgar, another bus driver, said wages for drivers have improved over his 14 years with the company but said drivers still lacked holiday or vacation pay and the health benefits available to drivers was not enough to make healthcare affordable.

Grace Jimenez of the AFT, which works with the LCTF employees, addressed the board also, expressing support for the movement among bus drivers for direct employment by the district instead of a private contractor, citing several complaints about pay, benefits and conditions. Further, STS drivers do not qualify from raises legislators have approved for teachers and other school staff.

"The only way for that to change is for them to become public employees and district employees," Jimenez concluded.

Four die in separate killings over weekend

BULLETIN REPORT

Four people are dead, one is in jail, a teen girl was injured by shrapnel and police are looking for suspects after two unrelated incidents rocked the city over the weekend of June 23.

According to a news release, the first incident occurred at the Avenida del Sol and Cortez Drive intersection on the city's East Mesa around 12:30 a.m. on June 23. Two people, 26-year-old Jonathan Pena and his 23-year-old sister, Jacinya Pena, were shot and killed. A 15-year-old girl in the back seat was struck by shrapnel but received only minor injuries, according to the police.

"Anyone with information on who may be responsible for the deaths of Jonathan Pena and Jacinya Pena is asked to call police at (575) 526-0795," the release said.

From the preliminary information, it's unclear whether the shooting was a random incident or if the victim knew the individuals who shot them.

The second incident occurred around 11 a.m. the same day. Police were sent to a home on the 1100 block of Wofford Drive and discovered two dead men.

Initially, police said they believed the shooter had killed his father and brother.

The victims have been identified as 88-year-old Francisco Javier Noyola, and brother, 51-year-old Lucio Noyola. Luis Noyola, 46, was charged with two counts of murder in this incident.

She did say that at least one round struck the deputy's vehicle. Goodheart was also shot at least once. The deputy then called in the shooting and attempted to perform CPR. Goodheart was pronounced dead at a Las Cruces hospital sometime later.

"Generally, if we can engage in conversation, we're going to engage in conversation first," Stewart said, noting that it's not uncommon for deputies to leave a scene if someone is suicidal but not threatening to hurt others.

"Research shows that we (police) escalate those activities," Stewart said. "The last two years that we've been involved in critical incident training, we've changed our approach a little bit."

But that option was not available for the deputy, Stewart said. She referred back to the video and screenshots that showed Goodheart removing and firing his gun at the deputy within a few seconds after leaving his car. Additionally, Stewart said Goodheart had threatened the public's safety during the chases in Mesilla and Las Cruces.

"We want to engage with individuals whenever we can. We aren't always given that scenario," Stewart said.

The deputy who killed Goodheart was not named in the news conference. However, Stewart said he's on a five-day administrative leave, which is the typical process following any police shooting.

The shooting is under investigation by the Doña Ana County Officer-Involved Task Force, a group of local detectives that investigate police shootings. The Task Force will provide a report on the incident to the 3rd Judicial District Attorney's Office, which will determine whether to charge the officer with criminal wrongdoing. That process can take anywhere from a couple of weeks to months or a year.

Julian Assange's shadow lingers over press

On Wednesday, WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange appeared in a U.S. courtroom to exercise his part of a plea deal, copping to a felony violation under the Espionage Act, connected to the publication of sensitive (and embarrassing) government documents pertaining to our wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. As expected, he was sentenced to time served and released from the British prison that has held him since 2019.

A lush spectrum of feeling has persisted about Julian Assange over the 15 years since his website actively solicited leaked information. At the outer limits, he has been hailed as a hero and martyr for the free flow of information, and villainized as a national security threat, a nihilist, a stooge for the Putin regime.

Defending Assange's activities as journalism excluded considerations of the industry's ethical standards and practices – a point seized upon by prosecutors. Journalism is more than dumping sensitive documents on a website, without context, without mitigation of potential harm, vetting of sources and other aspects of the news gathering process.

But here's the rub: The federal indictment of Assange alleges a number of legitimate activities by journalists, such as talking to sources over encrypted channels and asking for government documents, are acts of espionage worthy of prosecution. The plea deal means that will not be tested in a court of law, for now.

As the Freedom of the Press Foundation argues, in the end it does not matter whether one recognizes Assange as a journalist. His case will still cast a shadow over press freedoms worldwide.

Careless errors can lead to tragedy

Several years ago, when I was covering state government from Santa Fe, I attended the annual briefing given to reporters prior to the upcoming wildfire season.

After going over the current conditions and expectations for the coming months, the discussion turned to reporters' safety. We were warned about the unpredictable nature of fire and the importance of following their directions at all times.

At the end, they talked about worst-case scenarios. The instructor pulled out what looked like an aluminum-foil blanket and explained that, when all else fails, the only thing left to do is huddle beneath the blanket.

The mental image that created comes flashing back into my mind every time there's another wildfire, especially fatal fires such as the ones burning in and around Ruidoso.

As of Sunday, there were more than 1,000 firefighters battling the South Fork and Salt fires. On their best day, it's miserably hot, physically grueling work requiring constant attention and focus. Their worst day is too horrible to contemplate. In 2013, 19 members of the Granite Mountain Hotshots were killed while battling a fire near Prescott, Arizona.

There have been two confirmed deaths thus far in the Ruidoso fires. Both appeared to be trying to flee from the flames. The burned body of a 60-year-old man was found on the side of the road near the Swiss Chalet Motel. The second victim, who has not yet been identified, was found in the driver's seat of his or her car.

The fires swept through the village of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, claiming more than 1,400 structures and forcing more than 8,000 people to evacuate. Most of them will not have homes to return to when they are finally allowed back into the area. They are relying on the kindness of neighbors, including here in Las Cruces.

The FBI is leading the investigation into how the fires started, and is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person who is responsible. That suggests they have ruled out natural causes like a lightning strike.

It could have been a deliberate act, but it's more likely this was the result of a careless mistake - an unattended campfire that somebody wrongfully assumed was extinguished, a lit cigarette flicked out the window or a foolish attempt to burn trash.

While nature may not have caused the fire, it certainly facilitated it. The scorching hot summers and lack of rain have turned forests throughout the southwest into a tinderbox. According to the National Interagency Fire Center, there have been 19,444 wildfires this year, consuming more than 2.1 billion acres of forest.

All of which makes the annual tradition we're about to engage in on July 4 seem a bit foolhardy. But that will do little to deter revelers.

State law mandates that cities and counties allow fireworks. The best local leaders can do is pass so-called "safe and sane" regulations that are neither observed nor enforced. It's the same thing every year.

The show must go on. I get it. But this year especially, take the time and effort to do it properly. Find a safe location and have a source of water available, just in case.

LCPS approves new contract for superintendent

ALGERNON D'AMMASSA
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Las Cruces Public Schools board offered praise and thanks to Superintendent Ignacio Ruiz after approving a new contract for the district's top executive, along with a 10 percent increase in salary.

At the board's public meeting on June 18, following a closed session during which they reportedly discussed Ruiz's evaluation among other topics, the members voted unanimously on an agreement effective through June 30, 2026 for the new superintendent.

Ruiz joined LCPS last summer after serving the Clark County School District in Nevada as an assistant superintendent, and has seen his first school year through on the job in Las Cruces. As the successor to former superintendent Ralph Ramos, Ruiz was initially hired through June 2025 at a salary of $200,000. That increases to $220,000 annually under the new contract, which also includes health insurance benefits similar to other administrators' and a supplemental retirement plan of $10,000 annually. It takes effect on July 1, replacing the current agreement.

"We are very fortunate to be able to offer you this contract," board member

Robert Wofford said, addressing Ruiz, "and we thank you very much for what you are bringing to our district."

Earlier in the meeting, Ruiz had gone over an update to his strategic plan after a school year getting acquainted with district and school staff.

He also presented results of a "climate and culture survey," in which 4,532 respondents assessed the school district. Participants included students in middle and high school, staff and parents districtwide and community members. Students were in the majority, at 63 percent of those who participated, and among that group overall satisfaction had increased over 2022, yet still lower than in 2021. There was also a pronounced gap in perceptions among teachers, as compared to students', on the support and encouragement teachers offer as well as relevance of classroom instruction, with teachers rating these positively at a far higher rate.

Ruiz recommended addressing that gap, describing it as a "disconnect" calling for improved communication as well as professional development focusing on student engagement.

Ruiz also inaugurated a public "state of the district" address last month as a way to present data on the district's academic performance and goals, although the data he presented applied to the school year prior to his arrival.

Board approves SRO contracts

The board also approved agreements with Mesilla and Las Cruces for armed law enforcement officers to maintain a presence at school sites. Police on this duty are referred to as "school resource officers."

The district will pay the town of Mesilla $170,000 in the next school year for the assignment of two armed Mesilla marshals for three school sites in Mesilla.

The contract provides for two marshals who would remain under the supervision of the Mesilla Marshal's Department, the local law enforcement agency serving the town adjacent to Las Cruces. The officers will be covered under the town's liability insurance.

One officer apiece would be assigned to Zia

Middle School and Rio Grande Preparatory Institute, and the two would share time covering Mesilla Elementary School, according to the contract, which will be in effect from July 15 through May 30 of next year.

The board also approved a $409,500 agreement with the city of Las Cruces for 10 officers and one SRO supervisor to cover each high school and middle school in the city, plus $10,000 for training and office supplies and equipment. The agreement took effect immediately and will be active through June 2, 2025.

The officers will be employed and supervised by the Las Cruces Police Department. The description of their duties is similar to that of the Mesilla agreement, as well as the provision for officers to carry their department-issued weapons.

Deputy Superintendent Gabe Jacquez said the district and LCPD had worked to strengthen lines of communication between officers and school administrators, who will collaborate on safety plans at school sites.

Among the SRO duties outlined in the contracts are serving as "a visible, active law enforcement figure on campus" and role model, offering a resource for law enforcement education and making presentations before parent groups or other organizations for designated topics such as drug and alcohol abuse.

As with school district employees, SROs would be prohibited from providing transportation to students, except in circumstances where they are victims of a crime or subjects of arrest, or if they have been suspended or sent home due to disciplinary action, the student is potentially deemed a threat and a ride from the student's family is unavailable.

On disciplinary matters, the contract states that the district is primarily responsible for students and that "the SRO shall not become involved in routine school disciplinary matters such as tardiness, loitering, use of profanity, dress code violations, and disruptive or disrespectful behaviors." In the event a disruption might "place students, faculty, and staff at risk of harm," the SRO may get involved, the contract states, but arrests, citations or court referrals would only follow as a last resort. The SRO would be mandated to report crimes originating on campus and to share information with the school's administration "in regard to persons and conditions that pertain to campus safety concerns."

The contract terms make clear the officers will wear their authorized service weapons while on duty at the schools.

Board member Patrick Nolan asked whether Mesilla SROs would be able to contact Project LIGHT, a mental health response team based in Las Cruces, for services there and was told by staff that an agreement was in place that the team would respond, under an agreement with Doña Ana County, to any LCPS school site.

'Fancy Dance' addresses missing Indigenous women

BULLETIN REPORT

Academy Award nominee Lily Gladstone, the first Native American to be nominated for a Best Actress Oscar (for "Killers of the Flower Moon"), stars in a 2023 drama to be screened July 5-11 at the Fountain Theatre in Mesilla.

"Fancy Dance," directed by Erica Tremblay from a screenplay she co-wrote with Miciania Elise, centers on the case of a missing Indigenous woman and her family on the Seneca-Cayuga reservation. Gladstone portrays the missing woman's sister, who cares for her family and helps plan for a powwow while the search is underway.

The film, produced in Oklahoma, premiered at the 2023 Sundance Film Festival and will soon be available for streaming on Apple TV+. It has won favorable reviews for its depiction of life on a reservation and its attention to the crisis of missing and murdered Indigenous women whose cases are often neglected by investigators.

Jonathan Davis, a volunteer with the Mesilla Valley Film Society, which operates the historical theatre near Mesilla's central plaza, wrote to the Bulletin, "The film contains a great metaphor for the disconnect between Native Americans and whites," as when a well-intentioned white character suggests a young girl take up ballet rather than ceremonial dance from her tradition, "because ballet is also dancing and involves wearing 'costumes.'"

Davis continued, "There is simply nothing in white culture that I am aware of that compares to a mother-daughter dance at a public coming of age ceremony, nor is a young white woman's first menstruation considered to be something to celebrate."

A trailer for "Fancy Dance" can be viewed at the society's website, MesillaValleyFilm.org, where tickets are also available for purchase online.

The film plays at 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, July 5-6, at 7:30 p.m.; on Sunday, July 7, at 2 p.m.; and Wednesday and Thursday, July 10-11, at 7:30 p.m.

The Fountain Theatre is located at 2469 Calle de Guadalupe in Mesilla and can be reached at 575-524-8287.

Local musician brings home NM Music Award

ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

One day in 1993, Sage Gentlewing was driving through California on Highway 46 between Highway 101 to Highway 5 and stopped at Jack's Ranch Café.

A tree with a monument sculpture, surrounded by bronze plaques, drew his attention. This, it turned out, was the place where James Dean died. So Gentlewing sat down and wrote the beginnings of a song, "James Dean's Crash Site." The next year, he made an effort to go back to that spot and finish the song.

Now, 30 years and several versions of that song later, he has taken home the best Americana song award from the New Mexico Awards, held May 19.

"They announced it as best production encompassing best performance of an original song and best production in terms of the sonic value," he said.

Two years ago, Gentlewing decided he was going to put out a new extended play album with six songs including "James Dean's Crash Site," having rewritten the arrangement. He heard the pitch from the New Mexico Music Awards and sent it in.

"I've always been the kind of musician who, on one hand, takes all those things with a grain of salt," he said. "But you have to know your worth. I know that I am good and I have earned it and worked at it. There is no best. Everybody is great."

Gentlewing has been playing music professionally since he was 15, when he started as a drummer in San Francisco.

"We opened for Janis Joplin, we opened for Buffalo Springfield," He said. It was 1966.

But his budding career was cut short in 1967 when he was busted for possessing cannabis and sent to a juvenile county farm in 1967.

"The irony is I don't even smoke anymore; and haven't for 30 years," he said.

Summer of Love because he was in jail and the music scene changed. When he got out, he switched to guitar and has been playing it ever since.

"It took about 12 years to get my footing as a guitar player – to get where I was at as a drummer. By the time I got my act together the times were well into bebop and jazz and the scene was long gone," he said. "You have to strike when the iron is hot, because the moment will pass. You have to keep reinventing yourself."

So most of Gentlewing's life as a musician was spent working as a guitar player in other people's bands. He provided backup in more than 40 working bands over his lifetime.

With the Circus Vargus Band alone, he played 80 cities in 22 states in 11 months.

"I just loved it," he said. "Honestly, the fabric of my personality is that I am a working musician and I relish the work."

At 72, he admits "you do have to pace yourself as you get older." Today he still is a working musician but a bit more settled down.

"I'm happily married," he said. "Settled but still a working musician. You have to create a different type of environment for yourself to continue to perform in, because performance is the lifeblood of your craft."

Gentlewing did take a 10-year "backseat" from being a musician between 1986 and 1996, when he found himself following a muse to become a sacred dancer. He toured the country performing Tibetan and East Indian classical dance as a protégée to a couple he met while living in Sedona, Ariz.

"I ended up being on the cover of magazines as a dancer and I got Rockefeller grants to study and perform," he said. "I did 72 one-man shows across the country. I was doing that when I wrote 'James Dean's Crash Site.'"

Today, he still makes his living playing his music and still enjoys the game.

"It's been a rough-and-tumble life," he said. "You have got to pick and choose your battles. I would still crawl across the desert on glass in 120-degree heat if it meant a gig. And what I figured out – I can make a pretty good living playing solo."

To hear "James Dean's Crash Site" and other pieces of Gentlewing's music, visit sagegentlewing.com or just watch our local music venues for times and dates.

Elizabeth Banks

OF PRESS YOUR LUCK ON ABC

Q: I'm glad to see Elizabeth Banks and "Press Your Luck" back on the ABC schedule, but I know I've seen some of the episodes before. Are there new ones coming?

A: There are. One of the strong suits of the game-show revival has been its repeatability, but it's true that those who watch the program constantly may well recognize certain episodes as ones they've seen before. Reruns are being used during the early part of ABC's summer season, but new installments are slated to resume on July 18.

A big reason for that timing may be the network's desire to use "Press Your Luck" as the lead-in for a new game that premieres that night. "Lucky 13," with Shaquille O'Neill and Gina Rodriguez (the latter coming off the now-canceled ABC sitcom "Not Dead Yet") as interestingly paired co-hosts posing 13 true-or-false trivia questions to contestants who have the chance to win $1 million. That sum also continues to be the top prize on "Press Your Luck," and Banks has been so busy with work as an actress and filmmaker lately, it's a lucky thing for ABC that she wants to continue to make the game she was eager to revive when the current version premiered in 2019. It will be entering its sixth season in July, with Banks serving as one of the executive producers (along with her husband, Max Handelman) as well as the host.

As with most game shows, multiple episodes of "Press Your Luck" can be taped in one day, so the time commitment for Banks to turn out a whole season lasts only so long. Still, she has many other creative commitments — which presently include an animated, adult-themed "Flintstones" series update titled "Bedrock" (she's an executive producer and the voice of Pebbles) and a movie thriller titled "DreamQuil" — so it's no small thing that she isn't letting "Luck" run out.

What's Available NOW On

"Shark Beach With Anthony Mackie: Gulf Coast" (July 1)

Kicking off National Geographic's 2024 Sharkfest, this new installment of "Shark Beach" follows actor Anthony Mackie as he navigates the waterways of New Orleans, where he was born and raised. As Mackie explores the growing rumors that shark encounters may be on the rise in the Gulf of Mexico, he works with a team of experts, consulting the latest in scientific research, to find better ways for humans and sharks to coexist in the waters surrounding Louisiana.

"Bluey Minisodes" (July 3)

Bringing more tail-wagging fun and heartwarming stories to families, seven brand-new "Bluey Minisodes" make their debut. Further exploring the beloved world of "Bluey," the smash-hit Australian children's series about the adventures of blue heeler pup Bluey and her family, these new shorts, running one to three minutes each, highlight funny and sweet moments featuring Bluey and Bingo, leaning into playful interactions and games.

"Wahlburgers" - Season 1 (Available Now)

You've probably heard of Mark Wahlberg and his brother Donnie, too. But this time, older brother Paul steals the show, serving up some good, hot eats in Season 1 of this reality series from 2014. Even with the full support of his family, Paul still faces daily challenges running Wahlburgers — the Boston-based burger joint that bears their family's infamous moniker. The series follows Paul and the family as they are caught up in a whirlwind of bustling kitchens, an impending expansion and everything in between.

"The Jungle Book" (Available Now)

Based on Rudyard Kipling's book, this classic Disney animated film follows Mowgli (Bruce Reitherman), an abandoned child raised by wolves, who has his peaceful existence threatened by the return of the man-eating tiger Shere Khan (George Sanders). Facing certain death, Mowgli must overcome his reluctance to leave his wolf family and return to the "man village." But he is not alone on his quest: Aided by Bagheera the panther (Sebastian Cabot) and the carefree bear Balloo (Phil Harris), he braves the jungle's many perils.

DJ Hollywood in "Disco: Soundtrack of a Revolution"

Supermarket Stakeout
FOOD 7 p.m.

Nothing says "welcome to the parking lot" like a delicious flatbread competition. Host Alex Guarnaschelli has the four chefs forage the lot for ingredients. Then, it's off to the fryers to crisp a little something before the final two spice things up.

Farmhouse Fixer:
Camp Revamp
HGTV 7 p.m.

While this Colorado ranch is certainly home to a great deal of unexplained phenomena, it's only when investigator Katie Paige returns to the spot she was terrorized as a child does the concentrated activity point towards a possible portal above ground.

Disco: Soundtrack
of a Revolution
KRWG 8 p.m.

"Stayin' Alive" may have been an anthem for the ages when it was released in 1977. However, within a couple of years, the end was near as oversaturation and crass commercialization began to drive anti-disco sentiment to new heights in this series finale.

What's Available NOW On

“13 Hours: The Secret Soldiers of Benghazi” (June 30)

In Libya, 2012, Islamic militants attack the U.S. Consulate in Benghazi, killing Ambassador J. Christopher Stevens (Matt Letscher) and Sean Smith (Christopher Dingli), an officer for the Foreign Service. Stationed less than one mile away are members of the Annex Security Team (James Badge Dale, John Krasinski, Max Martini), former soldiers assigned to protect operatives and diplomats in the city. As the assault rages on, the six men engage the combatants in a fierce firefight to save the lives of the remaining Americans.

“Zoolander No. 2: The Magnum Edition” (June 30)

Former models Derek Zoolander (Ben Stiller) and Hansel (Owen Wilson) find themselves back in the spotlight after living in seclusion for years. Invited to a major fashion event in Rome, the estranged friends are surprised to see how much the business has changed. Even more shocking is their encounter with Valentina Valencia (Penélope Cruz), a special agent who needs their help. Someone is killing famous pop stars, and it's up to Derek and Hansel to help save the world's most beautiful people from a similar fate. Will Ferrell and Kristen Wiig also star.

“Space Cadet” (July 4)

Florida party girl Tiffany “Rex” Simpson (Emma Roberts) has always dreamed of going to space. With her life not going according to plan and determined to turn things around for herself, Rex, with the help of her best friend, Nadine (Poppy Liu, “Hacks”), submits an embellished application to NASA's ultra-competitive astronaut training program. Using her quick wits to get through the program — and hopefully to the top of her class — Rex will have to get through her training and blast off before she can be caught as a fraud.

“No Country For Old Men” (Available Now)

While out hunting, Llewelyn Moss (Josh Brolin) finds the grisly aftermath of a drug deal. Though he knows better, he cannot resist the cash left behind and takes it with him. The hunter becomes the hunted when a merciless killer named Chigurh (Javier Bardem) picks up his trail. Also looking for Moss is Sheriff Bell (Tommy Lee Jones), an aging lawman who reflects on a changing world and a dark secret of his own, as he tries to find and protect Moss.

Will Ferrell in "Anchorman: The Legend of Ron Burgundy"

"ANCHORMAN: THE LEGEND OF RON BURGUNDY"

Understandably a favorite in television newsrooms ever since its release, this 2004 satire gets a 4K Ultra HD release to mark its 20th anniversary, offering Will Ferrell (who also co-wrote it with director Adam McKay) in one of his best parts to date as the title character. Burgundy is one of the most popular personalities in San Diego, Calif., but he fears that some of his local stature will be usurped by his new co-anchor (Christina Applegate). Paul Rudd, Steve Carell and David Koechner also play members of the news team; Fred Willard, Kathryn Hahn, Danny Trejo, Ben Stiller, Jack Black and Seth Rogen are among other familiar faces here. Two included Blu-ray discs offer a bounty of related special features including Burgundy's supposed audition for a slot on ESPN, plus "Ron Burgundy: The Lost Movie," a feature-length film unto itself that's assembled from material shot for (but not used in) the original picture. ★★★ (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"ICONS UNEARTHED: THE SIMPSONS"

Anyone seeking a thorough history of how the animated Fox staple was devised, then thrived and endured right up to the present day and beyond, will find it in what constituted the second season of the "Icons Unearthed" documentary miniseries that was shown on Vice. The Matt Groening-created comedy about unconventional Homer Simpson and his family and acquaintances had its start as a short-subject franchise on "The Tracey Ullman Show," then was spun off into its own program in late 1989 – and it has set several records for longevity since then, one being its status as the longest-running scripted series in American TV history. Though some interviews were done for this offering, others are archival and taken from other sources. Groening., executive producer James L. Brooks and some of the "Simpsons" voice talents are among those who comment. ★★★ (Not rated: AS)

Feminist Border Arts features Film & Zine Fest

The Ninth Annual Feminist Border Arts Film Festival and the Inaugural Feminist Border Arts Zine Fest is happening June 28 and 29 during International Pride Weekend at the University Art Museum on the New Mexico State University campus. This event is free and open to the public.

This year's festival features a lineup of shorts and full-length films from NMSU, Las Cruces, the Borderlands region, the US, and around the world. Categories include documentary, animation, digital storytelling, performance, and narrative, along with experimental pieces that will keep you thinking for days. Festival selections focus on women, gender, LGBTQ+ communities, BIPOC, and themes of social importance, solidarity, and change. Please note, these films are not rated by the MPAA; viewer discretion is advised. For more information, visit fba.nmsu.edu and check the festival program to plan your viewing.

Films will be screened simultaneously in three different locations within the museum building throughout the two days. In addition to the screenings, we will host guest speakers, participating filmmakers, refreshments, and an OutsmART workshop, as well as a concurrent zine fest on June 29. Zine makers from the area, across the country, and from Juarez will exhibit and sell their self-published works.

Events are 9 a.m.-6:30 p.m. each day and supported by NMSU Gender & Sexuality Studies, genders.nmsu.edu, and Feminist Border Arts, fba.nmsu.edu.

'Impressions and Personalities' exhibit opening

"Impressions and Personalities" features the recent work of Alyssa Trujillo. As a Las Cruces native, Trujillo is accustomed to its blazing desert lands and familiar xerocole (desert creatures). The unique landscape and local wildlife catalyzed a new series of art featured in this exhibition.

This collection of work features Trujillo's range in medium and technique that can be thought of as an ode to the expressive painterly of the Impressionist movement as well as a development of expressive line work that roots in her initial Perpetuity Phase.

Trujillo is also exhibiting a collection of pen cross-hatched portraits featuring global personalities who serve as inspiration to Trujillo's creativity. The most notable to the artist being Leonardo da Vinci.

Her work will be on display through July 26. The artist will be on hand for a curatorial talk noon-3 p.m. Saturday, June 29, for a curatorial talk.

For information about partnerships, collaboration, becoming a sponsor, membership, volunteering and joining the board, contact Executive Director, Araceli Solis, at 575-523-6403 or director@daarts.org. ## Frida Kahlo Birthday Fiesta

Mesilla Valley Film Society and Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Gallery are holding a Frida Kahlo Birthday Celebration on Saturday, July 6.

At 2 p.m., the film society will show the 2002 award-winning movie Frida, starring Selma Hayek and Alfred Molina, at the Fountain Theatre, 2469 Calle de Guadalupe in Mesilla. Theatre seating is limited, and advance-ticket purchase is recommended. Tickets are available online and at the Fountain Theatre.

After the movie, Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Gallery will host its Frida Kahlo birthday party from 4 to 6 p.m. The gallery is located at 2470 Calle de Guadalupe, across from the theatre. See Frida Kahlo-inspired artwork by gallery artists. Refreshments will be served. Also, there will be music and folklórico dance demonstrations by Corazon de Las Cruces. Wearing Frida attire is encouraged.

Frida Kahlo was a Mexican painter best known for her uncompromising and brilliantly colored self-portraits that deal with such themes as identity, the human body and death. Her work is distinctive for her attention to Mexican and indigenous culture. When she was 18, a nearly fatal bus accident left her unable to walk for three months and she suffered lifelong pain and medical problems. Yet her disabilities made a lasting impact on her art; heavily influencing what, who and how she painted.

For more information about show times and tickets, visit mesillavalleyfilm.org. For more information about the Mesilla Valley Fine Arts Gallery, visit mesillavalleyfinearts.com.

Sage Café expansion begins Friday

BULLETIN REPORT

An expansion of Las Cruces' Sage Café community center, 6121 Reynolds Drive on the city's east mesa, begins before sunrise Friday as workers will seek to pour a foundation and beat the heat.

According to a news release, concrete trucks will take their positions at about 3 a.m. on June 28 in order to place the concrete during early-morning temperatures. The project is anticipated to finish by 9 a.m.

The Sage Café is a venue for senior and community services including meals, a computer lab, fitness classes, games and other activities as well as a public library branch that hosts events and a weekly book club. It sits next to a community garden that will be relocated to a site close by.

Information about the project is available via Thomas Gal-agher at 575-528-3121 or tgallagher@lascruces.gov.

Sage Café's operating hours are Monday thru Friday, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. For more information, contact 575-528-3151 or visit LasCruces.gov.

Overhaul of development rules sparks mixed reaction

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

A massive overhaul of Las Cruces' development codes received a mixed reaction during a council meeting on June 24.

Several groups lauded the proposed changes for creating safer streets and allowing for more affordable housing, while homebuilders and developers predicted increased costs that would burden homebuyers.

No vote was taken on Realize Las Cruces, a package of proposed updates to the city's more than 20-year-old zoning codes. Still, the council did hear concerns and encouragement as it prepares to approve or amend one of the most significant sets of rules in Las Cruces.

"Any cost that is dumped on me as a developer gets pushed to the builder. And once it gets pushed to the builder, I push every cost that I've incurred to my end customer. It's just part of the process," Kelly Fort of Fort Construction said.

Fort's comments juxtaposed with those of Beth Bardwell, who spoke on behalf of the League of Woman Voters of Southern New Mexico.

"(Las Cruces') comprehensive plan called for balanced development, preserving our natural setting, fostering economic prosperity, vibrant neighborhoods and livable community. And today's proposed changes to the land development code are a credible effort to implement that vision and those values," Bardwell said.

Zoning laws dictate the types of buildings, businesses and homes in a given neighborhood. These laws and regulations play a massive role in creating the character of a given area, how development and homebuilding firms make money and the public's access to housing, which research shows has several other downstream effects on poverty and crime.

The overhaul replaces many of the traditional zoning types with a more modern understanding of urban planning and development, according to Erica Craycraft, a consultant hired by the city to work on the project.

Craycraft said Realize Las Cruces originated in Las Cruces' most recent comprehensive plan, Elevate Las Cruces. While drafting Elevate Las Cruces before 2020, planners noted that the development codes were old and needed updating.

Now, Realize Las Cruces is nearing its final stages.

According to the proposed changes, Las Cruces would also affect regulations and rules around the subdivision, drainage systems, signs, outdoor lighting, roads and rights-of-way, landscaping, parks, trails, open spaces, tree preservation and fencing.

A full review of the proposed changes can be found at RealizeLasCruces.com.

Next, Craycraft said that the city is working towards an open house to allow the public to review the changes before they are brought before the council for a vote. A date for that has not been set.

Shunn Buchanan to coach Aggie basketball

NMSU REPORT

This month, Shunn Buchanan made it official that he will be back in crimson and white, but in a different role.

Buchanan returns to Las Cruces after two years as a graduate assistant at Mississippi State under Head Coach Chris Jans, the former bench boss for NM State from 2017-2021. Last season he helped the Bulldogs return to the NCAA tournament after recording a 21-win campaign, and saw Mississippi State ranked as high as #15 in the country following an impressive 11-0 start to the season.

While in Starkville, Buchanan assisted in the development of All-SEC First Team selection Tolu Smith III, who averaged 15.0 points, 8.1 rebounds and 1.3 assists in 23 games of action while shooting 56 percent from the field.

Before his time with the Bulldogs, Buchanan was an assistant coach at Navarro College under Grant McMillian during the 2021-22 season. While there, he played a large role in the development of the guards and defensive tenacity for the team. They finished with a 17-13 record.

As an NM State student-athlete for the Aggies under

Chris Jans, Buchanan saw 84 wins from 2017-2020, winning three WAC Championships and two bids to the NCAA tournament in 2018 and 2019. In his senior year, he averaged a career-high 20.4 minutes per game and earned 15 starts while leading the team in assists (83) on the season. That season, he also helped the Aggies close the regular season on a 19-game winning streak - then the second longest in the nation.

During his playing career for the Aggies, Buchanan totaled 230 points, 226 assists, 196 rebounds and 65 steals. Off the court, he received his Bachelor's of Science in individualized studies from NM State in August 2020.

Before playing in Las Cruces, Buchanan played alongside his brother Leroy at Northeast Mississippi College. While there, he led the Tigers to the MACJC Tournament and NJCAA Region 23 Tournament while averaging 12.7 points, 5.3 assists and 3.1 rebounds per game.

Buchanan also played with brother Leroy at Madison Central High School, leading the Jaguars to the Mississippi High School Athletic Association 6A State Semifinals as a sophomore and a championship game appearance in his junior year. He finished his senior year with another trip to the 6A State Tournament averaging 12.0 points, 8.0 assists, 5.0 rebounds and 4.0 steals per contest.

"I'm very excited to have Shunn back in Las Cruces and part of our Aggie coaching staff," head coach Jason Hooten said. "His 'team first' mentality as a former Aggie student-athlete made a deep impression on the people here in Las Cruces. He has a very bright future in this business and will be a valuable asset to our players. His basketball IQ, work ethic, and toughness are all attributes that we look for in our program."

DeChambeau plays to the crowd approaching U.S. Open

It seems like we have entered the age of “golf-tainment,” with individual pro golfers like Bryson DeChambeau gesturing, yelling and begging fan support from the crowd in the seats.

Congratulations to DeChambeau on his hard fought victory over Rory McIlroy in the 124th U.S. Open on June 16 at a truly iconic Pinehurst No. 2 course; but this piece is not about his gutsy play. It’s partly about the fuzzy line between an athlete’s actions for pleasing and playing to the crowd versus blatant unsportsmanlike behavior. In college football, in the interest of upholding sportsmanship, there is a strictly enforced rule against obvious celebrations on the field, with penalties involved. In the NFL, often wild, excessive even choreographed celebrations are permitted and maybe encouraged. The fact is that these big bucks football pros are just doing the job that they’re paid to do.

Bryson admits he thinks of himself as a golf “entertainer.” There is no question that pro tour golf is in the realm of entertainment, but I recoil at the notion that players should adopt the roles of actors or actresses. There is a difference between a golf exhibition (like LIV golf, whose motto is “golf, only louder”) and a major golf tournament. Bryson may have picked up the two-fisted, arm-pumping, mouth agape antics from Tiger Woods, who did plenty of that when he was winning. Back in the day, it was called “grandstanding.” You never saw Jack Nicklaus, winner of 18 majors, jump around and waving his arms like a fool. I’m a serious golf fan (not a betting one) but it should be no surprise that I’m “old school.” Behavior like Bryson’s seems to only encourage the idiots who shout “get in the hole” after every shot.

In the official Rules of Golf published by the USGA, there is no specific rule about “unsportsmanlike” behavior. Rule 1.2, “Standards of Conduct,” mentions that “all players are expected to play in the spirit of the game” by acting with integrity and showing consideration to others. I don’t think that wild fist pumping and inciting crowd response falls within the spirit of the game. The only sanctions or penalties could be through a tournament committee’s stated provision regarding player conduct.

There are respected golf authorities who see it differently. Ron Green Jr. (for globalgolfpost.com) writes: “The pro game has too many stone-faced automatons.

DeChambeau is a shot of tequila. DeChambeau is the game’s greatest showman at the moment, a churning mix of bravado, newfound self-awareness and stage presence. Until an agreement peacefully ending professional golf’s civil war is found, DeChambeau is the best thing to happen to a sport that needs to pull people in rather than push them away.”

Don’t get me wrong; I like Bryson; I just don’t like his play-acting. He is forthcoming to the press with quick, thoughtful responses to questions. He is genuinely appreciative of his fans, spending a lot more time schmoozing and signing autographs than most tour players, following a style that Arnold Palmer championed before Bryson was born. Bryson is probably the most precision-oriented and unique talent in all of golf. He uses single length irons all cut down to the length of a typical 6-iron, all made with 3D printing and bulging faces. Before using them, Bryson floats his golf balls in a solution of Epsom salt. He uses a somewhat long putter that is unusually braced all the way up his left arm with a stiff, upright and almost vertical position. He’s an excellent putter. Bryson is a devotee of “The Golfing Machine,” the controversial book by Homer Kelly, published in 1969, 24 years before Bryson was born.
