Removal of 'Apache Christ' icon shocks Mescalero

ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
Las Cruces Bulletin

MESCALERO — On Sunday, June 30, parishioners and guests walked into St. Joseph's Apache Mission in Mescalero for the 10:30 a.m. mass as they have done for close to 100 years. The stately, cavernous church was full of people, many dressed in their traditional native finery, all of them soberly taking their seats, filling the hall with men, women and children.

Missing from the hall were items significant to the Mescalero Catholics: ceramic communion goblets gifted to the tribe by a New Mexico pueblo, hand-woven Apache baskets, a large painting of Apache dancers honoring veterans and, most noticeably, the 8-foot icon called the Apache Christ, which has hung behind the altar since 1990. The painting is the work of American Franciscan friar Robert Lentz OFM and depicts Christ as a Mescalero holy man. Somewhere between June 26 and 27, someone had gone into the church and removed the items. Many of those present Sunday regarded this removal as a theft, claiming the Las Cruces Diocese, in the person of Fr. Peter Chudy Sixtus Simeon-Aguinam (known as Fr. Chudy to the parishioners) and the Knights of Columbus from Alamogordo had "stolen" the items.

The Diocese of Las Cruces did not respond to requests for comment from the Las Cruces Bulletin.

In a statement responding to the icon's removal, Lentz said, "I gave it to the people, not to the diocese."

Apache women in full regalia handed paper slips similar to Monopoly money for people to put into the collection baskets during services, saying, "We don't want to support the diocese."

Anthony Salazar, state

Apache Christ icon, by Robert Lentz OFM

deputy of the New Mexico State Council of the Knights of Columbus, told the National Catholic Reporter that any Knights of Columbus involved in the icon's removal "were acting on their own behalf" and "not ... in the capacity of a Knight of Columbus."

Following the mass, Ruta Shendo, chairman of the parish council, addressed a public discussion, stating Fr. Chudy, assigned to the parish in December 2023, had wanted to take down the Apache Christ or at least move it. The "icon," she said, had been given to the parish and the Mescalero people, not the diocese, "but for some reason they believe it is theirs and they do not feel that it is fit to hang there."

One of the parishioners, Anne Marie Brillante, had spoken by phone with

Affordable housing, other bond projects well underway

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

Bonds issued by the city of Las Cruces and approved by voters to support park improvements, a new fire station and affordable housing efforts are well underway, according to a recent report to the Las Cruces City Council.

The city issued $23 million over four bond questions in 2022, following the overwhelming support of Las Cruces voters.

On June 23, Public Works Director David Sedillo updated the Las Cruces City Council about the progress of the four projects.

Fire Station 9

The voters of Las Cruces approved a $10 million bond for the city to build a new fire station in the Sonoma Ranch area. Fire station 9 would service the Sonoma Ranch neighborhoods and the Highway 70 corridor.

According to the city, the new station would reduce wait times for those areas and reduce wear and tear on the fire department's apparatuses.

Sedillo said the plans for the new station have been completed, and the project has been sent out to bid. Sedillo estimated that construction would start mid-September.

East Mesa Public Recreational Complex

The East Mesa Public Recreational Complex was broken into two bonds, one in 2018 and one in 2022. Voters approved both. The second bond was worth $5 million.

A weathered sign and bathroom at La Lorona Park in Las Cruces on March 28, 2024.

The city said the complex is needed to support its growth over the last decade. It'll be the third "community-sized" park alongside Young Park and Apodaca Park and a "sister park" to the Hadley Sports Complex.

Sedillo said phase one of the project is mostly complete. The contractor is still waiting on playground equipment and shade structure materials. For the second phase, Sedillo said the design plans will be 90 percent complete by the end of July.

That phase includes the construction of sand volleyball courts, basketball courts, concession buildings, restrooms and more.

Park improvements

With the $2 million approved by voters, the city selected improvements to La Lorona Park. The improvements include replacements and upgrades to trails and amenities.

Sedillo said the plans for La Lorona are complete. However, before the project goes out to bid, it still needs some permitting approval from an international body that oversees the Rio Grande.

If any funds are left over, the city will upgrade Tellbrook Park on the southwestern end of Las Cruces.

OBITUARIES

ELAINE FOX PITTS

Elaine Fox Pitts, 57, passed away on Sunday, May 12, 2024, peacefully in her home. Elaine was born in Glasgow, Scotland on July 14, 1966 to Christina and Douglas Fox. She had one older brother, Colin Fox. Elaine grew up in Dennistoun, an area of Glasgow, attending Alexandra Parade Primary and White Hill Secondary School. She later went on to study geography at the University of Glasgow, before moving to London and studying nursing at Middlesex University London. She became a nurse at the Royal Free in London, meeting her best friend Joan Bosch. Elaine was a lifelong reader and spent much of her free time reading different books. She was a big cat person and had many cats over the course of her life. She also enjoyed traveling, international media such as movies, tv shows and books; learning languages, specifically French and German, and taking walks.

While being a nurse, she met her husband, Timothy Cameron Pitts. They got married on December 4, 1996. After getting married, she moved to the United States to Morehead, Kentucky, where Tim was a professor. They welcomed their first daughter, Sarah Catriona Pitts, on August 4, 1999. They soon moved to Erie, Pennsylvania, where they welcomed their second child, Emma Mairi Pitts on September 23, 2003. They moved to Inverness, Florida in 2007, then to Las Cruces, New Mexico in 2013.

Elaine is survived by her husband, who still resides in Las Cruces, Sarah, who lives in Tampa, Florida, and Emma, who attends Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Texas. She is also survived by her cousins Stephen and Ann Forsyth and her Aunt Catherine, all in Glasgow; as well as her mother-in-law, Ann Pitts, brothers-in-law Rick and Ted Pitts, and sisters-in-law Elizabeth Harro, Patricia Pitts and Susan Pitts; and her brother Colin Fox and sister-in-law Wendy who live in Ireland. She is also survived by many friends all over the world.

L. GRANT ROGERS

Mr. L. Grant Rogers passed away on the 25th of January 2024, at the age of 78 after a deterioration of his health and is now with his parents in heaven. He is survived by his sister Ms. Lea Rae Rogers Hugo of El Paso, TX, brother Mr. Bruce F. Ruble of Ingram, TX, as well as six nieces and nephews, nine great nieces and nephews, and three grand nieces and nephews.

The kids who grew up in Organ, NM during the 60's and 70's enjoyed coming to Grant's store, Organ General Store, to watch the popular show, Star Trek. He was a shrewd but fair businessman in his store of over 40 years and at Big Daddy's Flea Market where he could be considered a fixture every weekend until his failing health.

He was a graduate of Las Cruces High School in 1965. Go Bulldogs! There he was a state champion in wrestling. At Las Cruces High School, he took distributive education where he learned most of his business experience. After graduating high school, he went on to work at Weinrich Buick and Pontiac as a certified mechanic until starting his own business where he owned and operated Roger's Auto Parts, and then he worked at the Organ General Store.

A memorial service will be held at the Organ Community Church and interment of his ashes at the Slumbering Mountain Cemetery in Organ at a later date. He will be missed by all who knew him.

Symposium mulls strategic water supply

ALGERNON D'AMMASSA
Las Cruces Bulletin

New Mexico Energy Secretary James Kenney and Lt. Governor Howie Morales welcomed industry, government and higher education officials to Las Cruces on June 27 for a symposium on a proposed strategic water supply for industrial use. The proposal is part of Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham's 50-year water action plan.

New Mexico State University's interim president, Mónica Torres, said the all-day symposium presented an opportunity for research institutions to collaborate and communicate information to the public. "We hope that this will be the first of many collaborative events aimed at fostering the kind of conversations that build our knowledge base and move our research forward," she said.

Morales pointed to the recent wildfires in Lincoln County as an example of climate-related challenges pressing on New Mexico, where there is long-term drought and tightening supplies of fresh water, yet the state is also a leading domestic producer of oil and gas and resource for mining.

"We are uniquely positioned to support innovation with water reuse to offset our reliance on freshwater uses," he said in an address hailing the governor's plan, including the controversial proposal for the strategic water supply to include both brackish and "produced water."

The proposition, which includes a $500,000 appropriations request to lawmakers, has been criticized by environmental groups alleging the SWS constitutes a gift to industry – oil and gas, in particular. Some have also expressed concern that inequitable burdens on safe water supplies might be suffered by vulnerable communities.

Under a statute enacted in 2019, oil and gas companies are encouraged to recycle and reuse produced water, a byproduct of the drilling process which may contain fluids used in the extractive process, such as with hydraulic fracture (or "fracking"). The statute also established a Produced Water Research Consortium led by New Mexico State University under agreement with the state Environment Department, which regulates produced water for uses outside of oil fields.

At the time the law was passed, the Environment Department reported that just 10 percent of produced water generated in the state was recycled and reused by the oil and gas industry, while the amount of produced water generated from production amounted to as much

Ohio man pleads guilty to sending racist threats to DA

BULLETIN REPORT

A man accused of threatening Doña Ana County District Attorney Gerald Byers with racist attacks pleaded guilty, according to a Department of Justice news release.

Court records show Donald Walter Fowler, 47, pleaded guilty to sending voicemail threats to Byers in October 2023. The two-minute voicemail threatened Byers' life and referred to lynching the district attorney, using the n-word and threatening his family.

The racist voicemail was attached to a criminal complaint filed in federal court. From the message,

District Attorney Gerald Byers is seen at a Jan. 9 press conference.

Fowler seemed upset that Byers was not criminally charging more police officers for alleged wrongdoings.

"I knowingly sent the above communication from my telephone in Ohio to the District Attorney's Office in New Mexico. I consciously disregarded the substantial risk that (the communication) would be viewed as a threat by (Byers)," Fowler said in the plea agreement.

According to court records, Fowler, who lives in Ohio, could face up to three years in prison, a $250,000 fine and up to three years of supervised probation.

The Bulletin reached out to Byers for comment. He declined to comment for this article but said he would speak out at the sentencing hearing. That hearing is expected to take place in August.

The Bulletin also reached out to Fowler's attorney but did not hear back at press time.

Man sentenced to 22.5 years following emotional hearing

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

A Las Cruces man received the maximum sentence for a 2020 death during an emotional hearing on June 28.

Jeremiah Peña-Nieto, 21, was sentenced to 22 years and six months in prison after a jury found him guilty of killing Jacob Daniel Becerra, 18, in 2020. Peña-Nieto was 17 when he killed Becerra, just 29 days away from being a legal adult.

A jury in April convicted Peña-Nieto of two counts of tampering with evidence, one count of conspiracy to commit tampering with evidence and one count of second-degree murder.

During the hour-long hearing, the defendant did not plead for leniency. Instead, he apologized a dozen times and told the victim's family he had come to understand what he'd taken from them.

Yet the wounds of violent loss remained acutely felt by the family, who asked the judge for a maximum sentence.

But perhaps the most damning testimony came from Peña-Nieto's grandmother and Becerra's brother, who told the court how systems around Peña-Nieto and Becerra failed them.

"This is a harsh sentence," 3rd Judicial District Judge Conrad Perea said before issuing his ruling. "And it breaks my heart to do this."

The case against Peña-Nieto

According to court records, police discovered Becerra in a 2018 Kia Forte crashed into a light pole on E. Farney Lane near W. Park Drive. Further examination revealed Becerra had been shot multiple times. Later, his family said they were denied the opportunity to see Becerra for a time because of the damage done to his body.

Peña-Nieto was arrested for the murder and initially held in jail for two years. In May 2022, Peña-Nieto was put on trial for the first time to no avail: The trial ended in a mistrial after questions arose when prosecutors were unable to produce a toxicology report. At the time, the district attorney's office said they never received the report from the Las Cruces Police Department.

Peña-Nieto was then released from jail. Two years later, a jury found Peña-Nieto guilty of the shooting, and he was remanded back to the Doña Ana County Detention Center.

17 years old

Peña-Nieto was 17, less than a month away from his 18th birthday when he killed Becerra.

And since the jury found him guilty of second-degree murder, there was a question about what protections against over-punishing youthful offenders Peña-Nieto was entitled to. Judge Perea noted that if Peña-Nieto had been convicted of first-degree murder or voluntary manslaughter, the law was clear on how to proceed; but not for second-degree murder.

Peña-Nieto's lawyer, Jeffrey Lahann, acknowledged that his client was in a challenging spot. Lahann noted that there was no program into which Peña-Nieto could be transferred. If he were younger, Peña-Nieto could be placed into programs administered by the Children, Youth, and Families Department. But now, he's aged out of such programs.

"I think these laws should still mean something, even if there are no programs to support them," Lahann said.

It did, however, stop Perea from allowing Peña-Nieto to receive the lighter hand of the law as a child. Perea noted that Peña-Nieto would've been ineligible for any CYFD programs a month after the crime occurred anyway. He also stated that Peña-Nieto showed some awareness of the consequence of his actions when he posted photos on social media of himself flashing guns.

Those two factors contributed to Perea's ruling and allowed Peña-Nieto to be sentenced as an adult.

22.5 years, eternal sorrow

Two of Becerra's uncles described Becerra as a vibrant young man with a bright future ahead of him. They said he loved music, basketball and shoes. After graduating from Las Cruces High School months before his death, Becerra was looking into college. He wanted to study architecture and was preparing to meet with a community college advisor – a meeting he never got to make.

While Becerra may have looked intimidating as a big man at an early age, his uncles said he had

BULLETIN REPORT

Road work near the intersection of Telshor Boulevard and Sundown Road, near the Mesilla Valley Mall, has been extended through Tuesday, July 9, according to a news release from the city of Las Cruces.

The contractor, Burdagher Co., is performing work related to underground infrastructure on the westbound side of Sundown will involve lane closures with a flagging operation to keep traffic moving. Workers will preserve access to residences and businesses. The closure will not affect RoadRUNNER Transit service.

More information is available via the Public Works Department at 575-528-3098.

PROJECTS

Affordable Housing

The last update is different from those above. Unlike the other three brick-and-mortar projects, the voters of Las Cruces also approved $6 million to support the city's affordable housing efforts.

The city estimates there is a gap of about 6,000 units, causing people to fall into homelessness or become housing insecure. These efforts have also drawn criticism and condemnation from local conservative activist groups who say affordable housing will lead to increased crime.

This bond took a little longer to start than the others. It's taxable, meaning high interest rates would reduce the total dollar amount available to the city.

So, the city held off on issuing the bond for over a year, hoping that rates would go down. The money then went into the city's affordable housing trust fund, which allows them to leverage federal money to support projects.

Natalie Green, the city's Housing and Neighborhood Revitalization Manager, touted some of those projects during Monday's meeting, including the Three Sisters, Pedrena, and Peach Tree Canyon.

Green also said the money has helped complete three single-family homes that can be occupied by low-income families.

Look out for the orange flame

Summers in Las Cruces are perfect for grilling outside, but sweltering hot days can sometimes encourage residents to stick to the stove indoors.

Those with a gas stove may have experienced an orange flame burning, especially during the warmer months. That happened a few years ago when Las Cruces Natural Gas and Energy Office Manager, Deborah Hurst was about to start cooking one summer weekend. She noticed the orange flame and it quickly became a topic of conversation at work the following Monday with an Las Cruces Utilities (LCU) natural gas supervisor.

Hurst inquired about the orange flame color and quickly learned that something was preventing gas from burning clean from her appliance. A blue flame would indicate a healthy, efficient flow of gas from her stove.

LCU natural gas technicians have a few steps you can take to get more complete fuel combustion if you notice an orange flame at home. If you have a humidifier, turn it off. Open windows to air out the home for about 15 minutes. If you have scented candles put them out. These simple modifications can change the air mixture and therefore the chemical reactions in the gas being burned. You can also check to see if the appliance itself needs to be cleaned or if the burner caps are aligned for proper fuel flow. Check other natural gas fueled appliances in the home like water heaters to see if they are also burning an orange flame.

During summer months LCU receives several calls about the orange flame, but these steps could reduce the need for a technician to be sent out for an investigation into the natural gas line.

In Hurst's case, the LCU technician determined that the contributing factor was too much humidity in the air, after opening all windows and doors inside the house. Within five minutes, the humidity in the house dropped 20% and the flame turned completely blue. The technician took the time to re-light the pilot and check gas pressure in the home as a precaution.

Hurst was pleased with the customer service she received and the thankful for the extra steps that were taken to make sure there were no further issues in her home.

Next time you light your stove, check the flame:

A blue flame, the hottest and best flame to have according to LCU technicians, indicates that there are no combustibles around the flame or in the air to burn off.

An orange flame, an inefficient flame, means the gas is not burning correctly. There may be combustibles around or in the air, humidity in the home, or carbon in the air that is being burned in the flame.

Talk to us about TV listings

Michael Kilian of the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle once recalled a past editor telling him, "When you change any features in the newspaper, readers will feel like you've gone into their living room and rearranged the furniture."

It is witty and true, and while feedback on changes we've made to the Las Cruces Bulletin over the past several months has been primarily positive, we do want to make sure we stay in touch with you.

Today, I'm asking readers – before we make any changes – about how you use, if you use, our TV listing section, featuring syndicated articles and puzzles.

Newspaper publishers know to tread carefully here. When the Los Angeles Times dropped its television listing section, hundreds of readers responded with dismay, like many papers before and after. One day in 2018 or '19, at the Las Cruces Sun-News, Gannett inadvertently dropped TV listings from one day's print edition and I observed our editor spending the entire day answering phone calls about it.

So we want to ask you a few simple questions and hear from you. We'll make a survey soon for easy use online, but if you would be inclined to email me at algernon@lascrucesbulletin.com, you need not wait to be heard.

Here's what we're wondering:

• Do you watch television on a schedule or are you streaming shows online at your convenience?

• Do you find TV listings in the Bulletin useful?

• Do you read the articles in the TV listings section on any regular basis?

• How about the puzzles? Do you like the crossword, word search or other puzzles found in the TV section?

As things stand, we are wondering whether this section continues to be of service to our readers, and we very much want to know either way: If there is a continuing demand for it, we want to know; and if not, that's important to know as well. We want to stay relevant and maintain the maximum service for our readers.

Thanks for being in touch.

Overdue plan for state's water future

For the past five decades or longer, the state Legislature has been planning for what we will do when the oil runs out. We've set up permanent funds to ensure we'll be able to keep our schools open and provide other essential services, tucking away money that is needed now.

We haven't planned nearly as well for the depletion of an even more precious resource: water.

The state didn't even have a water plan until 1987, and the one drafted that year led more to regional competition than conservation. Many of the plans submitted to the Interstate Stream Commission projected increased usage, often coming at the expense of neighboring districts.

Recent legislation gives the state a new, and perhaps final opportunity to prepare for the hotter, drier conditions that are already here.

The Water Security Planning Act is intended to bring new rigor to the water planning process. According to the ISC, the Act "integrates the best available science and data, including the

New Mexico Water Data Initiative, to guide regional water planning in New Mexico, ensuring transparency, objectivity and professionalism."

Before establishing new rules, the ISC will gather public input from residents throughout the state. The meeting in Las Cruces will be from 3 to 7 p.m. July 24 at City Hall. More information on that can be found at MainstreamNM.org.

The group Rio Grande WAVES (Water Advocates for Vital Environmental Sustainability) will host a presentation by hydrologists Fred Phillips and Peggy Barroll 6 p.m. July 17 at NMSU's Domenici Hall to help local residents better understand the issues ahead of the ISC meeting.

While improved planning is long overdue, no plan is going to bring more water to our parched state. According to State Climatologist Dave DuBois, the evaporation rate at Elephant Butte Reservoir is eight inches for every one degree Celsius increase in the temperature. He predicts the Four Corners snowpack that feeds our lakes and rivers will decline substantially by the year 2070 and that our overall water supply will decrease by half in the next century.

We talk a lot in New Mexico about how much we value water. More precious than gold, we say. But the crass truth is, we value things based on price, and water is cheap. The city charges $13.60 for the first 3,000 gallons. You can get more than 23,000 gallons for another $5.23.

To be clear, municipal water use is not the problem and I'm not calling for increased rates on

The power of microloans for downtown

JOHN MUÑOZ

Guest columnist

In the heart of downtown Las Cruces, a vibrant and dynamic community is blossoming, driven by the passion and innovation of local entrepreneurs. At the Downtown Las Cruces Partnership, we are committed to fostering this growth by providing essential support and resources to small businesses. One of the key ways we do this is through our microloan program, which recently awarded a $5,000 microloan to Cassie Williams for her new venture, the Las Cruces Prep Kitchen.

Microloans are a powerful tool in economic development, particularly in communities like ours. They offer critical financial assistance to small businesses that might not yet qualify for traditional bank loans. These funds can be the difference between a business idea remaining a dream and becoming a reality. For Cassie Williams, the microloan means she can purchase the final pieces of equipment needed to open the doors of her prep kitchen and begin serving our community.

The Las Cruces Prep Kitchen is more than just a new business; it is an essential service for local food entrepreneurs. Providing commercial kitchen space enables businesses to prepare food in a fully equipped, licensed environment, ensuring they meet health and safety regulations. This support is crucial for startups and small food businesses that might otherwise struggle with the high costs of setting up their own commercial kitchens.

The funds for our microloan program are made possible through a generous grant from the McCune Fund. With a simple interest rate of 3 percent APR, the interest earned is reinvested into the loan fund, ensuring that we can continue to support new businesses year after year. Our goal is to award one microloan annually to a district business, contributing to the ongoing economic vitality of downtown Las Cruces.

Cassie Williams' story is a testament to the impact of community support. Her vision for the Las Cruces Prep Kitchen aligns perfectly with DLCP's mission to foster local business growth and sustainability. By supporting her, we are not only helping one business owner but also creating opportunities for numerous other food entrepreneurs who will use the prep kitchen to launch and grow their own ventures.

The presentation of the microloan at the B2B Quick Connect business fair on June 14 was a proud moment for all involved. It highlighted the collaborative spirit of our community and the dedication of organizations like DLCP to nurture and support local talent.

As we continue to develop and expand our microloan program, we invite everyone to learn more about DLCP, our events, and our programming. Visit us at DowntownLasCruces.org or email us at director@dlcp.org for more information.

Together, we can build a stronger, more resilient downtown Las Cruces, where entrepreneurs like Cassie Williams can thrive. Let's continue to invest in our local businesses and watch our community flourish.

SHOES IN THE NEWS

Lt. Governor Howie Morales sported squeaky clean running shoes with a business suit as he greeted guests at a recent symposium on New Mexico's strategic water supply at the Las Cruces Convention Center on June 27. The sneakers-with-suits look in recent years is part of a casual lean to business menswear in recent years, accompanied by frequent omission of a tie. Morales, for his part, stuck with a casual grey suit, purple tie and sporty white kicks.

residents. It's only about 15 percent of our overall usage. And we've done a pretty good job cutting back. You hardly ever see sprinklers watering sidewalks anymore. But we can't solve this with low-flow toilets.

The hard decisions are going to have to come where the water is being used, and that's in agriculture. While municipal use has remained flat, agricultural pumping has increased out of necessity to compensate for our lack of rain.

Will crops that require flood irrigation be sustainable in the future? If not, how can we help farmers transition to crops that use less water?

Any water plan we make now will be subject to the pending U.S. Supreme Court ruling on claims Deacon John Eric Munson, following the removal of the items. She recorded and shared that conversation over social media platforms.

Munson, in the recording, told Brillante the painting had not been stolen, just removed with the help of the Knights of Columbus and the diocese chief property risk manager. He said it was done under the authority of Bishop Peter Baldacchino. When she claimed the items didn't belong to them, he said in the recording, "There is no such thing as the parishioners owning anything."

When Brillante asked where the paintings were, Munson told her, "It is not germane."

During the June 30 gathering, Pamela Cordova, chair of the parish financial council, urged those present to sign a letter as they left the church asking the bishop to return all artifacts that had been removed by Fr. Chudy and calling for the removal of Fr. Chudy himself.

"We would like to be served by a priest that wants to be here," she said. "It got worse and worse. This is the last straw. I feel down to the depths of my heart the pain that we all feel."

"For over 100 years of Franciscan leadership and encouragement we were encouraged to believe that we are all created in the image of God," Mary M. Serna, former retired director/administrator at St. Joseph Apache Mission Restoration Project wrote in response to the removal of the items. "This does not seem to be the teaching of the current administration. Fr. Chudy has called us pagans and stated several times that the building is a church and not a museum. I guess he doesn't realize that it was built for the Apache people 'to light their lives forever' and as a veterans' memorial."

Details emerge in Wofford Drive killings

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

A judge ordered a man accused of killing his brother and father to be held in jail during a hearing on June 26, even as questions emerged about his mental health at the time of the killings.

Luis Noyola, 46, was imprisoned at the Doña Ana County Detention Center until the double murder case against him is resolved. He stands charged with two counts of first-degree murder and two counts of tampering with evidence.

Police accused him of killing his father, 88-year-old Francisco Javier Noyola, and brother, 51-year-old Lucio Noyola, then trying to cover up the crime as other family members checked in on him.

Prosecutors asked a judge to hold Luis Noyola in jail shortly after his arrest. To do this, state law requires that prosecutors prove Noyola is dangerous to the public and that no release conditions, like bond or house arrest, could protect the public.

The only testimony during a brief hearing on June 26 came from Luis Noyola's mother, the wife and mother of the victims. Utilizing the services of an English-to-Spanish interpreter, she asked the judge to "put my son in an institution so this way he can be healed."

Police narrative of events

Luis Noyola, 46, was arrested the morning of June 23 after his sister called the police when she learned about the potential attack.

Police arrived to the residence on the 1100 block of Wofford Drive shortly after and discovered Francisco Javier Noyola and Lucio Noyola dead, a hammer they believed to be the murder weapon, and Luis Noyola confessing to the killings.

According to the affidavit, Luis Noyola told police he attacked his brother and father with a hammer as they viewed something on their computer. He told police that he did it because he believed his family members were controlling his electronic devices, stealing his identity and secretly inserting human waste into his food.

After killing his father and brother, Noyola told police he called his other brother, who lives out of state. That brother informed the sister, who went over to Noyola's house to check up on her brother. Noyola allegedly delayed letting her in, telling her that he needed to clean up.

The sister then called the police, according to the affidavit. The affidavit also alleged Noyola called several friends, hoping they'd come over to help cover up what happened.

The hearing

Noyola's lawyer, Samuel McCallum Olmstead, argued that Noyola could be released. He pointed out that Noyola has no criminal history and that all his ties are to Doña Ana County.

"And if we're wanting to order him to get a mental health screen, or what have you, he would abide by that," Olmstead said.

Still, Judge Douglas Driggers found that prosecutors had proven that Noyola was dangerous and that no release could protect the public. Specifically, Driggers noted Noyola's apparent confession to police as proof of his intent to kill his brother and father.

"The defendant's actions represent an extreme danger to the community and those who know the defendant," Driggers said.

Prosecutors said they plan to take the case to a grand jury in the coming weeks for a formal indictment.

a soft soul, like that of a teddy bear.

Becerra's mother testified that Becerra loved nothing more than entertaining those around him. On the last day of his life, Becerra delighted his mother's work team when he appeared on a Zoom call. By 5:30 p.m. that same day, a Las Cruces detective informed her that Becerra had been shot to death.

"There truly are no words to describe the level of devastation we've felt each and every moment since that day," the mother said, describing how she and Becerra's father have suffered from fear and depression in the years since Becerra's death.

Becerra's brother also testified. He reiterated Becerra's loving and gentle soul, yet strayed from his family's words and took issue with the systems surrounding Becerra.

"I remember the impersonal feeling of being another case on the desk with some prosecutor for who-knows-where Texas, the gamification of our justice system, by what I can only describe as an unscrupulous defense attorney motivated only by money who slandered the good name of my deceased brother," Becerra said. "I remember the lack of impartiality from the first judge; I remember how she used her seat to stop my mother from exercising her First Amendment rights. But after all this, we're sitting here today with this whole process almost behind us."

Becerra's brother went on to say that he initially did not care what the court decided to do with a guilty Peña-Nieto. His brother was dead, and that's all that mattered, he said.

"What I believe is that if you live long enough, you cannot outrun your conscience. So, when (Peña-Nieto) has to walk free, whether tomorrow or in old age, he will have to live out the hell that he has created for himself," the brother said.

Yet, he said his perspective changed as he placed his brother's death in another context. He said he felt that society in the U.S. and Las Cruces had degraded to the point that men specifically were placed into positions where they were disaffected and led to crime.

"Jacob (Becerra) was disaffected himself. But he was also someone with a big heart and a strong conscience. He cared for the poor, for the homeless. He found purpose in giving back, and he was a valuable member of our community whose impact could not fully materialize due to the cold-blooded murder carried out by Jeremiah Peña-Nieto," he said.

'I feel the system failed him.'

Peña-Nieto was brief and to the point in his allocution.

"I am so sorry for the pain that I've put on you," Peña-Nieto said, pausing occasionally to stop himself from crying. "I think about it every day of my life."

He said his actions haunt him, he's not proud of them and that he mishandled the situation.

"It was wrong. It was evil," Peña-Nieto said. "I imagine if it was my daughter (who was killed,) and I'm terribly, terribly sorry. All I know is that, no matter what happens here today, I owe you guys (Becerra's family), I owe you the world."

Peña-Nieto's grandmother also spoke out to the court.

She provided some background on Peña-Nieto's life. He was born to two parents who were just 17 years old. His dad wasn't around. And when she and his mother sought to find Peña-Nieto help as he became more involved with guns and violence, no support was found.

"I feel that the system failed him," she said. "I just feel that, when he was 17 or before that, if he would've gotten, if just a few circumstances were different – he's not a bad person. And, I'm so sorry for the family."

She said Peña-Nieto became a father the same year he killed Becerra.

"It just goes on. The system, it creates another child without a father," she said.

as seven barrels per barrel of oil. Under NMED's classification, produced water does not include water used in mining.

Brackish water, on the other hand, occurs naturally in underground aquifers or in some surface water, particularly where ocean water is introduced, and presents high salinity.

Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham's strategic water supply proposal, announced last December, provides for the state to buy produced or brackish water, after treatment, for other industrial companies such as solar panel manufacturers – but not for other uses. The governor's office has argued that the strategic water supply is necessary for supporting the state's transition to clean forms of energy while protecting freshwater resources.

In his address to the symposium, Kenney said access to potable water for industrial use was typically the second priority, just behind labor force, for companies inquiring about possible investment in New Mexico. At issue is the high salinity of brackish and produced water absent treatment methods that can be expensive.

"I think we can preserve our drinking water by focusing on reuse opportunities that we're going to learn and talk about today," Kenney said, linking the issue to economic development as well as the state's climate change response.

At the same time, Kenney and Morales emphasized in a joint press conference that the state would proceed on the basis of scientific information rather than politics or industrial influence.

"There is not a community that we would give up on in terms of their water quality or quantity," Kenney said.

"There's not a month that goes by (without) an emergency request for water systems and water issues, especially in rural communities," Morales added. "We have the opportunity to learn from experts here, helping us to communicate how we can better serve for the long term, for the long haul, and that's really the commitment we have: setting the stage for the opportunities for us throughout Mexico, and throughout generations to come."

Valley Sessions gives voice to the creative community

DAVID SALCIDO
Las Cruces Bulletin

Music is an important part of any community, and Las Cruces is no exception. Though the city now supports more music venues than it did even a decade ago, it can still be difficult to know who the individual players are – musicians young and old who rely on live venues to get their work out. A group of enterprising young filmmakers and sound engineers have set out to change that.

Calling their project Valley Sessions, they have created a safe place for serious musical artists to show off their talent, for little or no cost, through a series of beautifully curated diegetic – or live performance – videos dropping every month on the project's YouTube page. Since January of 2023, twenty videos have been made and there is no indication that the group is slowing down anytime soon.

Season one consists of twelve sparkling performances, each set in a different location across the city. Some rely on multiple camera shots, like the six used for the Stoney Blue Fish video. Compare that to the incredible single take one shot used for the Papayas con Chile video, and the innovation becomes clear. Bathe them with expert lighting and you've got a series of masterful productions that showcase the incredible talent to be found here.

Among the other performers appearing in season one are local musicians Era Snow, Nick Brower, Taylor Paul, Desirae Price, Jenna Ivey, C.W. Ayon, M.qu, Anibal and Tucson-based band

Female Gaze. Through word-of-mouth, Valley Sessions finds its reach expanding to include acts either passing through town, or who come here specifically to shoot with them. To date, season two consists of performers from Arizona, Wyoming, Nashville, Albuquerque and El Paso.

The brainchild of Ryan M. Robson, Kent Harkey, Zane Chaffee and Aaron Walterscheid – all products of Las Cruces' burgeoning film scene who were looking for projects to fill their downtime between film projects – Valley Sessions has grown to encompass other willing volunteers from film, music, photography and other artistic pursuits. The result is a richness of visual splendor that reveals far more than musical prowess.

"I wanted to have something that local filmmakers and creatives can devote their time and energy to that would reflect back on the community," Robson says. "I like the idea of giving information and experience to people who are just trying to make a living here. Not just to students, but to anybody who wants to know how the industry works."

Chaffee, lead singer for Stoney Blue Fish and a music producer in his own right, agrees. "Being able to record on set is something I had never

Tracy Spiridakos

OF CHICAGO P.D. ON NBC/PEACOCK

Q: Now that Tracy Spiridakos has left "Chicago P.D." as a regular cast member, is it possible that she'll be back on the show as a guest?

A: That's one of those "never say 'never'" answers, since the actress made it clear at the time of her exit that she maintains great affection for her colleagues on both sides of the cameras on the NBC police drama. She said she definitely would return to Chicago to visit then, if only behind the scenes ... but if there was a sensible story-driven reason for her Hailey Upton character to reappear on-screen, one would think Spiridakos would give it serious consideration.

The way Upton departed from "Chicago P.D." left a possible way for her to resurface, since she was looking at the websites of agencies such as the FBI and the CIA, so it seemed that continuing in law enforcement in some way was on very much on her mind. In fact, Upton already has had a taste of working within one of those organizations: Spiridakos did a crossover guest shot in the role in a Season 2 episode of CBS's "FBI," executive-produced (as "Chicago P.D." is) by Dick Wolf.

That being said, Spiridakos expressed that a major reason for her deciding to leave "Chicago P.D." was her desire to shake things up for herself and see what other work might be available to her. Before starting her long run as a Windy City cop, she had starred in the NBC series "Revolution" and did recurring roles on such other shows as A&E Network's "Bates Motel" and CBS's reboot of "MacGyver." Still, her "Chicago P.D." tenure constituted a major portion of her career, so her wanting to spread her wings is understandable.

Anthony Michael Hall, Chevy Chase, Beverly D'Angelo and Dana Barron in "National Lampoon's Vacation"

National Lampoon's Vacation
AMC 5 p.m.

Despite his best intentions of spending time with his wife (Beverly D'Angelo) and kids (Anthony Michael Hall, Dana Barron), Clark Griswold's (Chevy Chase) family vacation quickly devolves into a series of unfortunate, yet hilarious, events.

Jaws 2
SYFY 5:30 p.m.

Years after the attacks that left the island reeling, Sheriff Brody (Roy Scheider) finds new trouble in the waters. Mayor Vaughn (Murray Hamilton) seeks to restore the town's reputation, but the disappearance of a pair of divers hints all is not right.

Three Wise Men and a Baby: Extended Cut
HALL 6 p.m.

A must-watch from the 2022 holiday season that sees three brothers (Tyler Hynes, Andrew Walker, Paul Campbell) take a merry stroll to self-discovery when they are forced to work together to care for a baby. This extended cut adds deleted scenes.

Amish Affair
LIFE 6 p.m.

When Amish leader Aaron's (Ryan McPartlin) wife becomes ill, he hires Hannah (Mackenzie Cardwell) to move in and help. The chemistry between the pair is undeniable, so Hannah quits. But when Aaron's wife dies suspiciously, Hannah gets framed for murder.

Accident, Suicide, or Murder
OXYGEN 6 p.m.

Season 5 continues with this troubling tale, finding a man found burned to death in his home workshop. Soon, his wife is charged with his murder, but the ensuing arson investigation uncovers more details, pointing in a very different direction.

Love & Marriage: Huntsville
OWN 6 p.m.

This week, Courtney and Stormi face changing winds, as Sunni and Moses head on a double date with Maurice and Kimmi, then debate buying a house in Huntsville. Plus, Stormi learns some surprising new details regarding Martell and Patricia's past together.

Boxing
ESPN 7 p.m.

Olympic Silver Medalist Shakur Stevenson (21-0, 10 KOs) defends his WBC lightweight title when he takes on 33-year-old Armenian Artem Harutyunyan (12-1, 7 KOs) at the Prudential Center in Newark, N.J. Stevenson is ESPN's No. 9 pound-for-pound boxer.

Outlaw Posse
PARSHO 9 p.m.

The outlaw Chief (Mario Van Peebles) returns to Montana in 1908 to grab the gold he hid years before. But his former partner, Angel (William Mapother), is on the hunt as well. Also stars Whoopi Goldberg, Neal McDonough and Edward James Olmos.

Krysten Ritter stars in "Orphan Black: Echoes"

Sins of the South
OXYGEN 5 p.m.

It's all hands on deck when a female soldier goes missing from Fort Bragg in North Carolina. While the police, military and neighboring community try to find her, a former bounty hunter turned private eye tries to get a location out of a suspect.

Belly of the Beast:
Bigger and Bloodier
DSC 6 p.m.

Swim into Shark Week with this hour-long special that follows marine biologist Dr. Austin Gallagher, marine scientist Liv Dixon and cameraman Kina Scollay as they travel to New Zealand to witness how sharks eat from within the stomach of a 29-foot whale decoy.

I Am Evel Knievel
KVIA2 6 p.m.

This documentary details the life of daredevil Evel Knievel, sharing some of his most death-defying feats, including his motorcycle jumps at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas and his attempt to jump the Snake River Canyon in a steam-powered rocket.

Professor T
KRWG 7 p.m.

Fresh from his brief stint in jail, Professor T (Ben Miller) is ready to get back to working at the university and as a consultant with the police, especially now that a series of unexplained deaths has investigators puzzled, leaving more people at risk.

Orphan Black: Echoes
AMC BCCA 8 p.m.

Ready to look into her past, Jules (Amanda Fix) heads out with Wes (Liam Diaz) to investigate. Then, Kira (Keeley Hawes) confronts Darros (James Hiroyuki Liao) about Lucy (Krysten Ritter). And, Lucy and Jack (Avan Jogia) track down a potential lead.

The Icons That Built America
HISTORY 8:05 p.m.

Jon Armond narrates an all-new episode of History's newest docuseries. The episode explores the events during the 1970s that led to two maverick broadcasters to challenge the rules of polite society and the wishes of their bosses to create talk radio.

Geffri Maya stars in "All American: Homecoming"

Intervention
A&E 6 p.m.

Despite their young age of 19, Tommy and Melly have both lived tremendously troubled lives. Both grew up in families that experienced ample hardships, leading them to spiral into addiction. Now, their families hope to bring them back from the brink.

BBQ Brawl
FOOD 7 p.m.

It's a Texas showdown in this Season 5 premiere as 12 of the U.S.'s best BBQ talent look to impress Bobby Flay, Sunny An-person and Michael Voltaggio. While they're asked to dazzle with signature sliders, the competitors need to wow on some surf and turf.

History's Greatest Mysteries
HISTORY 7 p.m.

A mere five years after his brother, JFK, was killed by an assassin's bullet, Robert Kennedy met the same fate in a hotel in California. But the latest clues in the investigation are riddled with inconsistencies. Who was really behind the murder?

The Bachelorette
KVIA 7 p.m.

She may have finished fifth in Joey Graziadei's season of "The Bachelor," but 26-year-old Jenn Tran, a physician assistant student, is ready to break some hearts in this season premiere. She's bubbly, charming and the first Asian-American Bachelorette.

Unexpected
TLC 7 p.m.

Season 6 continues with an intense new episode as Aniyah tests positive for COVID while in active labor and she must pick one person to stay with her during birth. Meanwhile, Kayleigh confronts Graham about his unreliability, which leads to a breakdown.

All American:
Homecoming
KVIA2 8 p.m.

In this Season 3 premiere, love and tennis go hand-in-hand as Simone's (Geffri Maya) tennis dreams are at risk and her friends Thea (Camille Hyde) and JR (Sylvester Powell) rally in support. Can she survive this downturn and come back better than ever?

tonight's picks

Steve Harvey is featured in "Family Feud: Decades of Laughs"

The Real Housewives of Dubai

BRavo 7 p.m.

During this exciting new episode, Caroline Stanbury can't seem to balance her kids' needs with her husband's. Meanwhile, Caroline Brooks puts all her effort into hosting her son's birthday party, despite the deeply-felt absence of her fellow housewives.

Family Feud: Decades of Laughs

KVIA 7 p.m.

Fifty years ago, Richard Dawson introduced "Family Feud" to the world — and things haven't been the same since. From there, a slew of hosts took over until current host Steve Harvey came along in 2010. This special looks back at the show's history.

VOCES

KRWG 9 p.m.

This season premiere celebrates the richness of Latino arts, culture and history through the story of Luis Cortes Romero, a DACA recipient and immigration attorney who became the first undocumented attorney to argue a case before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Congratulations Leadership Class 31

There are moments in life that we know beyond any shadow of a doubt that they will remain vivid and prominent no matter where we go, or what direction life takes us. And all of these moments collectively enhance our lives. One of those moments each year is our Leadership Las Cruces program. Our Leadership Class 31 graduated on June 28th, having completed the 10-month course.

A community/personal leadership program sponsored by the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce, Leadership

Las Cruces provides educational, informative and information on our community. To play a small role in the development of our leaders each year is something the Chamber is indeed proud of.

Over the course of the program year, our participants molded together into a cohesive class to learn about leadership, both personal and community leadership. While their relationships will continue way beyond their graduation day, it is my sincere hope that each of them realized that making a difference begins with just one.

It is often said that it just takes one candle to light up an entire darkened room. Being impactful, influential and making a difference can be understated and often invisible. We watch people from afar, looking for someone to lead us, to impact us or to influence us. That person often has no idea that we're watching them. Unfortunately, we don't always reach out to them and let them know the positive influence and impact they have played on our individual lives. To the LLC31 class, you've impacted my life in so many ways...Thank you!

GREATER LAS CRUCES
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Debbi Moore, President/CEO, with the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce had a one on one conversation on Friday, June 14 with Rico Gonzales, incoming Chamber Board Chair.

The Las Cruces Leadership #31's

"Tourism and Leaders in the Southwest."

The Las Cruces Leadership #31's last session was held on Friday, June 14. The theme of the day was "Tourism and Leaders in the Southwest." Our goal was to learn the impact of tourism on the economy and community in Dona Ana County. And we most certainly did!

We started our morning with a yummy breakfast donated by Dickerson's Catering. Thank you to Marci and her staff at NM Farm and Ranch Heritage Museum for being such wonderful hosts. Greater Las Cruces Chamber President Debbi Moore graced us with her tidbits on leadership. Our passionate panel of speakers; David Crider owner of Southwest Expeditions, Ed Carnathan with Visit Las Cruces and Wanda & Bill Mattice, owners of Adventure Travel Agency, shared their knowledge of tourism and answered questions from our class of 28 leaders.

Our first stop was NMSU Golf Course. Jason White, Director of the course and his staff instructed us with a fantastic golf lesson and shared his years of experience working with tourism continued from page 1 in our area. We loaded the bus for our next stop, the home of our local legend and icon Barbara "Mother" Hubbard. Mother Hubbard greeted us with open arms and spilled the tea on her experiences with tourism, leadership and her impact on our community. We walked the halls of Mama Hubbard's home in admiration over the decades of photos and memorabilia documenting her life's work. What a legend! We were treated to refreshments courtesy of Chalas Wood Fire Grill and Citizens Bank Country Club. Next stop, Hacienda de Mesilla for a lavish and tasty lunch. Thank you to Chris Hutchinson and his staff for their wonderful service to our Las Cruces Leadership #31 group.

One way to celebrate tourism is to visit the historic town of Old Mesilla. An even better way was having Preciliana Sandoval (La Morina Walking Tours) guide us through historic and haunted parts of the plaza. The La Morena Walking tour gave us insight into the rich history and cultural heritage of the small town. Our final stop for this hot day in June was a visit to Rio Grande Winery for a wine tasting. We walked through the process of local wine making and sampled delicious wines. We noshed in style with a charcuterie board fit for royalty created by Fig and Brie. Along the way we were able to share special prizes, smiles, laughs and stories to make our last session day memorable. We would like to thank Cydni Armijo with the Greater Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce, Rod our bus driver and all the speakers, businesses and individuals that generously donated to help make Las Cruces Leadership #31 Tourism Day a success.

FROM THE AMBASSADOR CHAIR

BY LYNDSAY MARTIN
2024 Ambassador Chair

We are officially halfway through 2024 and it seems like the first half of the year flew by in the blink of an eye! With July comes a new school year and a fresh start for the students. There are many local organizations and charities around town that have been and still are collecting school supplies for students. I always feel that it is important to give back (when you are able) to our community. What better way to do so than to give back to our youth? Going back to school prepared is something that all children should be able to experience. To all of the teachers and school administrators, I would like to thank you for all you do for the students and community. Being an educator is not an easy feat. I come from a family of educators and I would like to say that I understand both the challenges and rewards that come along with teaching, but I don't. So as the students and educators of our community start heading back to school this month, please consider thanking a teacher and encouraging a child. Small gestures can go a long way. I hope everyone has a wonderful school year!

“Receiver” (July 10)

It's been said that there's no more difficult position in the NFL than the quarterback — but throwing the pass is only half the story. This docuseries follows five of the NFL's best pass catchers throughout the 2023 season on and off the field, including Davante Adams, Justin Jefferson, George Kittle, Deebo Samuel and Amon-Ra St. Brown.

“Sugar Rush: The Baking Point” - Season 2 (July 10)

Six couples of bakers will have to face giant cakes, sweet delicacies that fight gravity and more challenges if they want to be crowned winners and take home $1 million pesos in Season 2 of this Mexican baking competition. Hosted by Capi Pérez, Gris Verduzco (Mis Pastelitos) and Luis Robledo are back as judges.

“Vikings: Valhalla” - Season 3 (July 11)

The third and final season of this historical drama picks back up seven years after the conclusion of Season 2. Freydis (Frida Gustavsson) is now the undisputed leader of pagan Jomsborg, and Leif (Sam Corlett) and Harald (Leo Suter) have achieved glory in Constantinople. But greater challenges lie ahead in order for each to reach their ultimate destiny.

“Exploding Kittens” - Season 1 (July 12)

Based on the hit card game, this new animated comedy sees God (Tom Ellis) get fired and sent to Earth to reconnect with humanity. The catch? He's trapped in the body of a chubby house cat. As part of his rehabilitation, he moves in with a dysfunctional family and tries to solve their problems, but ends up spending a lot of time chasing laser pointers. And to top it off, Godcat's next-door neighbor turns out to be none other than his nemesis, the Antichrist.

infocus

“Marvel's Hit-Monkey” - Season 2 (Hulu — July 15, Season Premiere)

Traveling from Japan to New York City, Monkey (Fred Tatasciore) finds a path to escape his life of killing, while Bryce (Jason Sudeikis) attempts to repair the damage to those he wronged in life. But what will it cost them to undo the past? Cristin Milioti also voice stars.

“Lady in the Lake” (Apple TV+ — July 19, Miniseries Premiere)

Based on the novel of the same name by Laura Lippman, this drama miniseries begins with the disappearance of a young girl, that grips the city of Baltimore on Thanksgiving 1966. Maddie Schwartz (Natalie Portman) is a Jewish housewife seeking to shed a secret past and reinvent herself as an investigative journalist, and Cleo Johnson (Moses Ingram) is a mother navigating the political underbelly of Black Baltimore while struggling to provide for her family. Their disparate lives seem parallel at first, but when Maddie becomes fixated on Cleo's mystifying death, a chasm opens that puts everyone around them in danger.

“Cobra Kai” - Season 6, Part 1 (Netflix — July 18, Season Premiere)

Debuting Part 1 out of three in this series' sixth and final season, the show picks up with Cobra Kai eliminated from the Valley, and our senseis and students forced to decide if and how they will compete in the Sekai Taikai — the world championships of karate. The cast includes Ralph Macchio, William Zaba, Martin Kove, Xolo Mariduena, Jacob Bertrand, Mary Mouser, Tanner Buchanan, Peyton List, Gianni DeCenzo, Courtney Henggeler, Vanessa Rubio, Dallas Dupree Young, Yuji Okumoto, Alicia Hannah-Kim, Griffin Santopietro, and Oona O'Brien.

“My Spy The Eternal City” (Prime Video — July 18, Movie Premiere)

Back by popular demand, “My Spy's” dynamic duo, veteran CIA operative JJ (Dave Bautista) and his 14-year-old stepdaughter and protégé Sophie (Chloe Coleman), reunite to save the world when a high school choir tour of Italy is interrupted by a nefarious nuclear plot targeting the Vatican. Kristen Schaal, Flula Borg, Craig Robinson, Billy Barratt, Taeho K, Anna Faris and Ken Jeong round out the cast.

Million Dollar Listing Los Angeles BRAVO 7 p.m.

It's been a great run for sales in the Los Angeles luxury real estate market, but things have definitely taken a turn for the worse. A new mansion tax, high interest rates and low inventory have Josh Altman, Josh Flagg and Tracy Tutor feeling the heat.

Pawn Stars HISTORY 7 p.m.

When a friend swings by to show Rick and Chum a star-studded collection of photos, will the duo expose the right price, or get shot down? Then, a vintage LP of the single We Are the World spins into the shop. Will this deal make a righter day for Corey?

Dynamic Planet KRWG 7 p.m.

After witnessing the extremes in all seven continents, this series finale explores how science, nature and tradition can help humanity get ready for the future to come. Despite rising seas, glacier melts and burning forests, there is still hope.

Who Wants to Be a Millionaire KVIA 7 p.m.

Celebrity contestants can use their lifelines once more as Jimmy Kimmel returns as host in this season premiere. The questions get harder and harder as celebs work in pairs for a chance to win up to $1 million for charities of their choosing.

The Real CSI: Miami KDBC 8 p.m.

True crime and tropical locations collide as cutting-edge forensic science is used to find justice in the 305 area code. While Horatio Caine (David Caruso) may not be involved, real-life investigators get into the facts and theories.

Reginald the Vampire SYFY 8 p.m.

In the Season 2 finale of this supernatural comedy series, Reginald (Jacob Batalon) proves he will do anything for love, leading to some unexpected consequences. Savannah Basley, Emily Haine, Thailay Roberge and Mandela Van Peebles also star.

Claim to Fame KVIA 8 p.m.

Kevin and Frankie Jonas return to host an all-new season of this unique reality show. A new crop of celebrity relatives steps up for a chance at winning $100,000 in cash. They just need to keep their identity and lineage secret for as long as possible.

My Strange Arrest A&E 8 p.m.

When nature calls, nature calls. Season 2 kicks off with the story of a woman who desperately pleads to use the bathroom during a traffic stop. Then, the oddities continue as a man is arrested after he jumps into a store's 24,000-gallon aquarium.

Gordon Ramsay's Food Stars KFOX 8 p.m.

This week, Gordon Ramsay and Lisa Vanderpump welcome Lucia Fox, Michael Baranowski and Chris Georgeson as guest judges, with the bunch watching on as teams must present and sell unusual kitchen gadgets to unsuspecting buyers at the International Food and Drink Event.

What's Available NOW On

“Sam Morril: You’ve Changed” (July 9)

In his distinct, laid-back style, comedian Sam Morril effortlessly riffs on the worst person he’s ever dated, the complications of getting older and his perspective on everything from cable news to the perils of social media in this punch-line-heavy comedy special.

“Divorce in the Black” (July 11)

From Tyler Perry, this drama thriller follows Ava (Meagan Good), a young bank professional who is devastated when her husband Dallas (Cory Hardict) abandons a marriage she is determined to fight for. That is, until fate intervenes, revealing Dallas’ wicked deeds that have trashed their marriage, and once upon a time sabotaged Ava’s destiny to be loved by her true soulmate.

“Sausage Party: Foodtopia” - Season 1 (July 11)

Based off the 2016 animated feature “Sausage Party,” this animated series follows Frank (Seth Rogen), Brenda (Kristen Wiig), Barry (Michael Cera) and Sammy (Edward Norton) as they try to build their own food society. David Krumholtz, Will Forte, Sam Richardson, Natasha Rothwell and Yassir Lester also voice star.

“Close Encounters of the Third Kind” (Available Now)

Roy Neary (Richard Dreyfuss), an Indiana electric lineman, finds his quiet and ordinary daily life turned upside down after a close encounter with a UFO, spurring him to an obsessed cross-country quest for answers as a momentous event approaches.

Cailee Spaeny and Kirsten Dunst in "Civil War"

"CIVIL WAR"

Writer-director Alex Garland's ("Ex Machina") involving and greatly unsettling drama boasts one of the strongest performances yet by Kirsten Dunst, as she plays a war photographer caught up in the violently escalating title conflict, which pits the U.S. government against secessionists. The Dunst character joins other journalists (Wagner Moura, Cailee Spaenny, Stephen McKinley Hendrickson) in covering the battle as it makes its way toward the nation's capital. The story takes a frank approach with the subject matter, which stays in the tradition of reporters-in-war tales while adding very contemporary aspects; Nick Offerman portrays the President of the United States, and Jesse Plemons (Dunst's husband) makes an uncredited appearance. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; "making-of" documentary. ★★★ (R: AS, P, GV) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD, Digital and On Demand)

"ABIGAIL"

Several criminals get a lot more than they bargained for in this melodrama, as they hold a young ballet dancer (played by Alisha Weir, of "Matilda the Musical") prisoner while awaiting an anticipated ransom from her crime-kingpin father (Matthew Goode). The scheme definitely doesn't go according to plan, though, since the youngster turns out to be a vampire who graphically turns her otherworldly abilities on her captors. Melissa Barrera, Dan Stevens ("Downton Abbey") and Kathryn Newton ("Freaky") are among those playing the kidnapers, with Giancarlo Esposito as their leader. Matt Bettinelli-Olpin and Tyler Gillett, who had much to do with recharging the "Scream" franchise (with Barrera as one of their stars in that), directed the film. DVD extras: four "making-of" documentaries; audio commentary by Bettinelli-Olpin, Gillett and editor Michael P. Shawyer; deleted and extended scenes; outtakes. ★★★ (R: AS, P, GV) (Also on Blu-ray, Digital and On Demand)

“It Came from Beyond the Border” opens at Branigan Cultural Center

“It Came from Beyond the Border,” an exhibit featuring work by El Paso artist Angel Cabrales that challenges current U.S. immigration policies, will open July 10, 2024, at the Branigan Cultural Center.

Cabrales’ artwork embraces the artistry of 1950’s science fiction B-movie posters and futuristic art to create powerful pieces that confront and comment on immigration policies in the United States. He began creating the ongoing “Tequila Sci-Fi Series” in 2016, in response to the increased hostilities toward immigrants and asylum seekers along the U.S./Mexico border. Seeing a parallel between the 1950s fear of nuclear mutants threatening America, and contemporary fears of America being overwhelmed by immigrants, Cabrales exaggerates these concerns using pop culture imagery.

“I examine the dehumanization of people through politicization, marketing, and spin that we are subjected to in our everyday lives by an exploiting commercialism, and by placing issues in an appetizing, yet disturbingly consumable form,” said Cabrales.

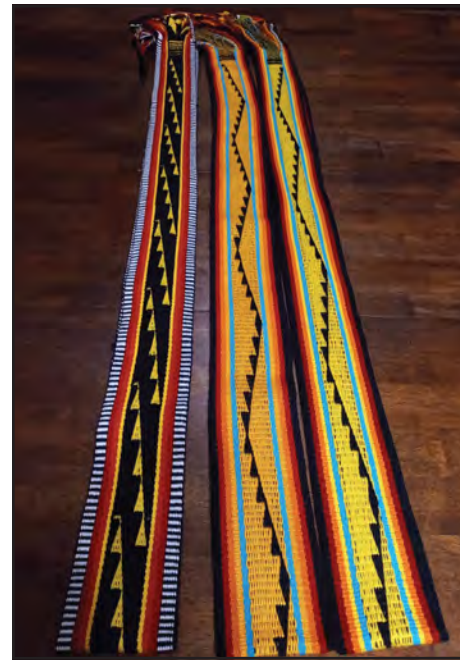

The exhibit runs through Saturday, September 21, 2024, at the Branigan Cultural Center. An opening reception from 5-7 p.m. on July 10 will include an Artist Gallery Talk starting at 5:30 p.m. The Branigan Cultural Center is open 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Saturdays. Admission is free. For more information, call 575-541-2154.

“Pottery and Weaving: A Living Tradition” opens at Branigan Cultural Center

“Pottery and Weaving: A Living Tradition,” an exhibition by artist Leon Nastacio showcasing a diverse array of his pottery and woven pieces exploring the creation process through the lens of his Zuni traditions, will be on display beginning July 10, 2024, at the Branigan Cultural Center.

This exhibition showcases Nastacio’s interdisciplinary artwork, while sharing and teaching others of their important interwoven traditions, while informing visitors of Zuni’s history and culture. Nastacio’s pottery reflects its historical and practical significance, serving purposes in farming, religious ceremonies, and daily life. Additionally, Zuni weaving encompasses a spectrum of styles, ranging from intricate to simplistic designs.

This exhibit runs through August 24, at the Branigan Cultural Center. Nastacio will be in attendance to talk about his pottery and his weaving at an opening reception taking place from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., Saturday July 13, 2024. The Branigan Cultural Center is open 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Saturdays. Admission is free. For more information, call 575-541-2154.

New Mexico Arts launches new website

New Mexico Arts recently launched a new website designed with constituents in mind, offering a user-friendly experience with enhanced navigation and functionality.

COURTESY PHOTO
The “Pottery and Weaving: A Living Tradition” exhibit opens July 10 at the Branigan Cultural Center.

Whether applying for a grant, looking to access public art information, or perusing the many programs NMA offers, the new streamlined design ensures that people can find the information they need quickly and easily. Packed with fresh content, interactive features, and a modern aesthetic, the website reflects NMA’s commitment to innovation and excellence.

New Mexico Arts is New Mexico’s federally authorized state arts agency and a division of the Department of Cultural Affairs. NMA works to ensure the arts are central to the lives of all New Mexicans through public art and arts grants programs, as well as by providing technical assistance, networking, and educational opportunities for organizations, artists, and arts educators throughout New Mexico. The website is an important tool in supporting NMA’s mission. Visit the new site at NMarts.org.

done before,” he admits. “It’s a new challenge each time and though it is difficult, it’s also really rewarding. And now I have people contacting me to do recording and sound mixing for them.”

Robson has also taken his project into the classrooms at local high schools, in order to share the wealth. “A lot of those kids are very interested in volunteering with us to learn more about how this stuff works. There are so many aspects of this project to learn about, including film, music, photography, set dressing, lighting, sound, and they can learn them on the job from people who do this for a living.”

The results, he says, have been very rewarding all the way around. The first performer ever filmed by the group, Era Snow, used her video to get into a songwriting competition. Local bluesman C.W. Ayon got an entire tour booked, based solely on the video created for him. Stoney Blue Fish used theirs to get into a battle of the bands show in El Paso, which netted them second place. The testimonials go on and on. It has also added a new list of invaluable credits to the filmmakers and sound engineers working on the videos.

Eventually, Robson and his crew would love to be able to put the music they have recorded up on Spotify and Apple Music, to further spread the word about Las Cruces’ hidden talents. But that takes money, which is in short supply. Until they can find grants or even sponsors to help them, they’ll keep on creating fresh content, and counting on the community to help get the word out.

BULLETIN REPORT

Elva K. Österreich is leaving the Las Cruces Bulletin after 10 years at the helm of Desert Exposure, the arts and culture monthly also published by the Bulletin. Elva also reported for the Bulletin on a range of topics including local arts, historical preservation, cultural events, Spaceport America and much more over the years, earning a stack of New Mexico Press Association awards.

The Bulletin welcomed David Salcido this week as Desert Exposure’s next editor. David previously worked as a staff reporter at the Bulletin from 2012 to 2014, and over the past year he has been a regular contributor of arts reviews and other articles for the Bulletin as well as Life is Good in Las Cruces, our annual free community magazine.

Elva and David are working closely together on the August edition of Desert Exposure while she prepares for a position at the New Mexico Farm and Ranch Heritage Museum.

“Elva’s leaving behind some pretty big shoes to fill,” Salcido said, “but I’ve got big feet and a closet filled with shoes.”

Desert Exposure was founded in 1996 in Silver City, acquired in 2014 by OPC News and is currently held by the Osteen Media Group, owners of the Las Cruces Bulletin. The free paper is distributed in Grant, Luna, Doña Ana and Otero counties.

JW convention to include baptisms, panels, video

BULLETIN REPORT

Jehovah's Witnesses say the organization expects thousands to attend its three-day convention in El Paso this coming weekend. This week, you may encounter denomination members inviting community residents to the event.

In a new release, the JW organization announced the theme of the 2024 convention series is "Declare the Good News," featuring a baptism of new entrants on Saturday along with a program including video presentation, discourses and interviews.

"We love coming to El Paso for our conventions every year," JW spokesperson Eliseo Ramirez stated in the news release. "It's a unique feeling to be among such a large and diverse group of people who share a common interest. These conventions are a highlight of the year for thousands of people since they help everyone who attends be a better neighbor, spouse, parent and friend. We are happy to enjoy the program once again in 'Sun City.'"

At JW.org, more detailed information about topics include discussion of Biblical scripture and a dramatic film titled, "The Good News According to Jesus."

The Christian denomination counts over 8.8 million people worldwide as members, across 239 countries and 118,177 congregations, according to its website.

The El Paso event will take place Friday thru Sunday, July 5-7, at the El Paso Convention Center, at 1 Civic Center Plaza. The event is free, including "no collections," and further information is available at the denominations' website by going to JW.org, clicking "about us" and then "conventions."

Lawmakers, industry plan fresh look at hospital bill

ALGERNON D'AMMASSA
Las Cruces Bulletin

On May 1, a law took effect in New Mexico giving an appointed state executive oversight powers over mergers, acquisitions or any change of ownership of hospitals in the state.

Senate Bill 15 temporarily authorizes the state Office of the Superintendent of Insurance to oversee changes in hospitals' ownership, including mergers. Meanwhile, legislators, the superintendent's office and healthcare representatives plan to craft a permanent measure for next year's session.

Proponents of the bill said ownership of hospitals by private equity firms and control by entities anchored outside New Mexico have shifted the institutional focus to profit over patients' welfare and are associated with declines in available services. However, some worry the oversight could exacerbate the latter problem by making New Mexico a less attractive place to invest and sending patients across the state line for some services.

"We just already have so many competitive disadvantages to other states, in terms of our poverty, in terms of our educational ranking, in terms of our crime," state Sen. Joseph Cervantes, D-Las Cruces, said in an interview shortly after the law took effect.

Nonetheless, Cervantes supported SB 15 after the New Mexico Hospital Association shifted its position from opposing the bill to contributing to a changed version.

For now, the Superintendent of Insurance – an

SB 15 in its original form, which included a broader range of healthcare organizations, more community review and no sunset date. With changes, the industry advocate supported the version that became law – which includes a one-year sunset clause – and took on a role shaping the future legislation.

However, NMHA CEO Troy Clark said in an interview, "I think we've got a bigger problem to look at."

Access to health services throughout the state, in both urban and rural areas, remains a significant challenge for New Mexico, he said, leading to waits of months to a year for some specialist appointments and even for some primary care and hospital services. Unlike some other states, Clark said even New Mexico's urban hospitals are running over capacity and can't take on patients from overloaded rural areas.

"We have an access problem across the board," Clark said. "We're the fifth largest geographic state and we have 37 acute care hospitals in our state. We only have four communities that have more than hospital in their community. We lose access to any one of appointed position – has the power to review and approve changes in hospitals' ownership.

Deputy Superintendent Colin Baillio told the Bulletin in an interview that, two months in, no transactions had yet been submitted to the office.

Concerns about private equity

According to the Private Equity Stakeholder Project's hospital tracker, 17 of New Mexico's hospitals, or 38 percent, were owned by private equity firms as of last January. That is the highest proportion of any state.

The PESP states, "Private equity firms often seek to double or triple their investment over 4-7 years. The pursuit of these outsized return expectations over relatively short time horizons can lead to cost-cutting that hurts care. In addition, use of high levels of debt can divert cash from operations to interest payments and dividends paid out to private equity owners."

Changes in ownership can raise other questions as well. For instance, the 2023 acquisition of Gerald Champion Regional Medical Center in Alamogordo by Texas-based Christus Health, a Catholic health group, raised questions about reproductive healthcare services in the community.

Direct cash assistance lifts up families

MARK A. HOHNSTREITER

Community Action Agency of Southern New Mexico is a primary support organization for the Success Partnership, which shares a common commitment to uplifting families in the region.

One such effort is the agency's family prosperity program. In May 2022, Family Prosperity launched an 18-month pilot guaranteed basic income program in Hatch with a disbursed total of $109,600 to single caregivers, and the outcomes were extraordinarily positive. One participant was a mother looking for full-time employment, and the funds from the program helped her start a small business. Another parent was temporarily out of work due to a car accident, but the GBI monthly payments helped them afford rent. One mother could go back to school and balance her education with the support of this program.

Another family was able to fund car repairs and vision care for their kids. This program builds upon the resiliency of single-guardian households and hopes to target the long term effects of multi-generational poverty.

GBI programs give monthly cash payments to participating families, which can boost financial stability, support unplanned expenses, invest in the future, increase parent engagement, and, most importantly, allow families to make spending decisions that will benefit the household the best. Participants in this program also have access to family-focused wrap-around services from the project's organizing partners: Families and Youth Innovations Plus (FYI+), Jardin de los Niños and the Community Action Agency of Southern New Mexico.

The family prosperity program, the first federally-funded guaranteed basic income initiative in Las Cruces, is centered on investing in families in Las Cruces and the surrounding communities within Doña Ana County. Its mission statement declares its commitment to empowering families in the county to achieve financial stability through direct cash support. Family Prosperity has been active in Hatch since 2022 and is now starting in Las Cruces.

When people live paycheck to paycheck, there are misconceptions about their ability to make decisions for themselves and the resources they need.

This program aims to change that perception by allowing families to choose how the money will be spent. In fact, data from other GBI pilot programs across the nation have shown that families primarily use the money for food, bills, debt, housing and basic needs or household essentials.

When parents experience less financial stress, their confidence in decision-making can improve, positively impacting their family. Improved quality of life for children can look like food and housing security, better access to clothing and hygiene, quality time with guardians and improved health outcomes.

Meaningful investments in families are a matter of social justice and economic equity. Early evidence shows that programs similar to Family Prosperity are working to stimulate the local economy and help hardworking families. Direct cash support has allowed families to invest in the health and wellness of their own families as well as their communities.

those hospitals, we're going to have a really big crisis in that community."

Mergers and acquisitions, he pointed out, are often seen by smaller providers as a path to sustaining services over the long term, controlling costs and helping to keep up with complex rules and regulations covering everything from medical practices, maintenance of facilities and date, all the way down to billing procedures.

Clark pledged to work on a new bill that would provide the insights and data the state sought with respect to hospital ownership and measures of quality, without making the environment prohibitive for investment or depressing access further.

"We don't want to have to take on step back," he said. "We need to be taking 10 steps forward, 100 steps forward. I think that's the (industry) perspective: Trying to protect against anything else that would be a deterrent from improving the access to care."

IDAHO HOUSING AND FINANCE ASSOCIATION, Plaintiff,

v.
CLARISSA M SKINNERRAMP, NEW MEXICO MORTGAGE FINANCE AUTHORITY, Defendants.

NOTICE OF SALE NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the undersigned Special Master will on July 16, 2024 at 10:00 a.m., outside the main entrance of the 3rd Judicial District Courthouse, 201 W. Picacho, Las Cruces, NM, sell and convey to the highest bidder for cash all the right, title, and interest of the above-named defendants in and to the following described real estate located in said County and State: Lot 14, Block 4, VILLA ENCANTADA SUBDIVISION, PHASE 2, in the City of Las Cruces, Dona Ana County, New Mexico, as the same is shown and designated on Plat No. 919 thereof, filed for record in the Office of the County Clerk of said county on March 29, 1978, and recorded in Book 12, Page 168-169, Plat Records. The address of the real property is 1230 N Willow Street, Las Cruces, NM 88001. Plaintiff does not represent or warrant that the stated street address is the street address of the described property; if the street address does not match the legal description, then the property being sold herein is the property more particularly described above, not the property located at the street address; any prospective purchaser at the sale is given notice that it should verify the location and address of the property being sold. Said sale will be made pursuant to the judgment entered on May 30, 2024, in the above entitled and numbered cause, which was a suit to foreclose a mortgage held by the above Plaintiff and wherein Plaintiff was adjudged to have a lien against the above-described real estate in the sum of $87,611.38, plus interest from May 16, 2024, to the date of sale at the rate of 3.87500% per annum, the costs of sale, including the Special Master's fee, publication costs, plus any additional attorney fees and costs actually expended from the date of this judgment until the date of the Special Master's Sale, plus those additional amounts, if any, which Plaintiff expended for taxes, insurance, or any other cost of upkeep of the property of any sort. Plaintiff has the right to bid at such sale and submit its bid verbally or in writing. The Plaintiff may apply all or any part of its judgment to the purchase price in lieu of cash. At the date and time stated above, the Special Master may postpone the sale to such later date and time as the Special Master may specify. NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that this sale may be subject to a bankruptcy filing, a payoff, a reinstatement or any other condition that would cause the cancellation of this sale. Further, if any of these conditions exist, at the time of sale, this sale will be null and void, the successful bidder's funds shall be returned, and the Special Master and the mortgagee giving this notice shall not be liable to the successful bidder for any damages. NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the real property and improvements concerned with herein will be sold subject to any and all patent reservations, easements, all recorded and unrecorded liens not foreclosed herein, and all recorded and unrecorded special assessments and taxes that may be due. Plaintiff and its attorneys disclaim all responsibility for, and the purchaser at the sale takes the property subject to, the valuation of the property by the County Assessor as real or personal property, affixture of any mobile or manufactured home to the land, deactivation of title to a mobile or manufactured home on the property, if any, environmental contamination on the property, if any, and zoning violations concerning the property, if any. NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the purchaser at such sale shall take title to the above-described real property subject to rights of redemption. ## Student-athletes receive Gatorade's Players of the Year nods

BULLETIN REPORT

Two student-athletes from Las Cruces High School and Organ Mountain High were selected as Gatorade Players of the Year following their academic achievements, volunteerism and on-field success.

Corbin Coombs of Organ Mountain was selected as the 2023-24 Gatorade New Mexico Boys Track and Field Player of the Year, while Kaselle Davis of Las Cruces High School was chosen as the 2023-24 Gatorade New Mexico Girls Track and Field Player of the Year.

The award is meant to acknowledge student-athletes who succeed on the field, contribute to their community, and excel in the classroom. According to Gatorade, Coombs and Davis are the first athletes from LCHS and OMHS to win the awards.

Coombs swept the 800- and 160-meter events at the Class 5A state meet this past season, leading the Knights to third place as a team. He also earned All-American honors with a second-place finish at Nike Outdoor Nationals.

According to Gatorade, Coombs has also participated in multiple service expeditions to Uganda and Guatemala, where he's helped build schools and medical centers and fundraised for clear water reforms.

Coombs also locally volunteered with the Senior Olympics road races and track events and donated his time as a student coach at a youth track and field camp. Per the news release, he also attends the LDS Seminary during the academic year.

Coombs has a 4.10 GPA in the classroom and will start his senior year this fall.

Davis broke two state records and set a class record in a third event this past season. She won four gold medals and shared in a relay bronze at the Class 5A state meet, leading the Bulldogs to fifth place as a team.

Davis also volunteers for the Holy Temple Church of God and Christ in Alamogordo. She's maintained a 3.66 GPA and starts her senior year of high school this fall.

Both players will receive a grant from Gatorade to donate to a charity or social impact group of their choosing.

Women's football team hosts Americans Conference championship

BULLETIN REPORT

The New Mexico Banitas, Las Cruces' women's tackle football team, defeated the Rocky Mountain ThunderKatz Saturday, June 29, at the Field of Dreams in Las Cruces to become the 2024 D3 Pacific Champions of the Women's Football Alliance (WFA).

After trailing 6-0 at the half, the Banitas took charge of the game in the second half, scoring three touchdowns and two two-point conversions. The game included a 30-minute weather delay.

The Banitas will host the Americans Conference Championship for the second year in a row on July 13 against the WFA Midwest champion Oklahoma Rage at Bears Stadium, 21 Lost Lodge Road, in Cloudcroft. The winner of that game will advance to the WFA Division III national championship game July 26 in Canton, Ohio. If the Banitas win July 13, it will be their second consecutive American Conference Championship and second trip to the national championship.

The Banitas were 5-1 during the 2024 regular season, playing all their home games in Cloudcroft. They had the best win-loss record of any New Mexico women's football team in history, and have not lost a game at home since the team was established.

'Babe' was way ahead of her time

School's out and summer is here, so it is a perfect time to get a little summer reading in. My recommendation this season is "Wonder Girl: The Magnificent Sporting Life of Babe Didrikson Zaharias," by Don Van Natta Jr.

Mildred Ella Didrikson was born in 1911 in Port Arthur, Texas, the sixth of seven children to Ole and Hannah Didrikson, immigrants from Norway. The family moved to nearby Beaumont, Texas when she was 4, and her mother called her "Bebe" from the time when she was a toddler – Americanized as "Babe."

She led a corporate basketball team to an AAU Championship in 1931. Competing in track and field. In the 1932 Olympics in Los Angeles, she set four world records, winning two gold medals and one silver medal. She is the only track and field athlete, male or female, to win individual Olympic medals in separate running, throwing and jumping events. Didrikson pitched a total of four innings in three Major League spring training exhibition games. Pitching for the Cleveland Indians, she pitched two scoreless innings. Later she played with the House of David barnstorming baseball team and is still recognized as the world record holder for the farthest baseball throw by a woman.

In 1935, Didrikson took up golf, for which she became best known. In 1945, she played in three PGA Tour events, making the cut in two of them, and she remains the only woman to make the tournament cut in a regular PGA Tour event. As an amateur, she won the 1946 U.S. Women's Amateur and the 1947 British Women's Amateur and three Women's Western Opens. She formally turned professional in 1947 and became a founding member of the Ladies Professional Golf Association in 1950. Didrikson went on to win 48 professional tournaments, including 41 LPGA Tour wins and 10 majors.

CHARLIE BLANCHARD
Golf Doctor

Babe was so strong and flexible that fellow Texan Byron Nelson once remarked that he knew of maybe eight other men who could out-drive her. While playing in the 1938 Los Angeles Open, she was teamed with professional wrestler George Zaharias. They were married eleven months later.

In 1951, Didrikson-Zaharias was inducted into the LPGA Hall of Fame, now part of the World Golf Hall of Fame. In 1957, she posthumously received the Bob Jones Award, the highest honor given by the USGA in recognition of distinguished sportsmanship in golf. In 1976, she was inducted into the National Women's Hall of Fame. On January 7, 2021, Didrikson-Zaharias was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom by President Donald J. Trump.

Diagnosed with colon cancer in 1953, she still competed in golf almost to the end, advocating for cancer awareness. She died on September 27, 1956.

Famed sportswriter Grantland Rice wrote of Babe: "She is beyond all belief until you see her perform ... Then you finally understand that you are looking at the most flawless section of muscle harmony, of complete and physical coordination, the world of sport has ever seen."

The Associated Press named Didrikson-Zaharias the "Woman Athlete of the 20th Century" in 1999.

In 2000, Sports Illustrated named her second on its list of the Greatest Female Athletes of All Time, behind heptathlete Jackie Joyner-Kersey.

There is a modest museum of Babe's memorabilia along Interstate 10 in Beaumont, Texas. "Through the smudged glass of the display cases, you can gaze at much of the treasure collected by Babe Didrikson during her sporting life – the trophies, medals, silver cups, keys to cities, and scrapbooks, as well as some of the telegrams, fan letters, and get-well cards sent by Presidents and prime ministers, housewives and schoolchildren, now tarnished yellowed and fading," writes Van Natta.
