Las Cruces Fire Academy recruits 2025 cadets

BULLETIN REPORT

The Las Cruces Fire Department is accepting applications for recruits until Oct. 20.

The recruits will enter the academy beginning on Feb. 24, 2025, and if enough people qualify for slots, the fire department said they would fill a second academy tentatively set for July 2025.

“Fire Cadets learn fire suppression techniques, emergency medical services, hazardous material response, and vehicle extrication techniques, amongst other critical lessons required to be a successful firefighter,” LCFD said in a news release.

Minimum qualifications include a high school diploma or equivalent, and applicants must pass a written exam, assessment board, physical ability test, acrophobia (fear of heights) test, background investigation, and medical examination.

According to the job posting, fire academy cadets receive $45,136.00 based on a 40-hour work week.

“Graduates of LCFD’s fire academy progress to full-time, regular position firefighters at one of eight Las Cruces fire stations,” the news release said, noting that Fire Station 9 in Sonoma Ranch is set to start construction in September.

ber.

During the budget cycle in June, the Las Cruces City Council approved several new firefighter positions at LCFD’s request. Council suggested that they would authorize another 15 positions in 2025.

Further information is available via 575-528-4250 or fd-hiring@lascruces.gov. The release stated that applications must be submitted through the city’s website.

NMSU names five, including the PED secretary and former regent, for presidential finalists

BULLETIN REPORT

New Mexico State University's Board of Regents announced five candidates as finalists for the job of president.

It's the second such slate of finalists the regents have announced as the search for former Chancellor Dan Arvizu's replacement. Arvizu departed in April 2023 after nearly five years on the job and close to the end of a five-year contract he signed with the university in 2018. Regents appointed Jay Gogue as interim president for a year as they began a search for the land grant university's next leader. In March 2024, after rejecting several finalists in the first search, regents started the process over again and appointed Mónica Torres as NMSU's second consecutive interim president.

Now, five more finalists – including one with close ties to the board – will seek success where the first group failed.

The local candidate on the list is New Mexico Public Education Secretary Arsenio Romero. Romero, who holds a Ph.D. in educational management and development from NMSU, was a university regent before his appointment to the PED in February 2023. He began his education career with the Las Cruces Public Schools as a classroom teacher and, later, a school principal, before moving on to serve as an assistant superintendent at the Roswell Independent School District, and later as superintendent for Deming Public Schools and Los Lunas Schools. He also taught at NMSU prior to his appointment as a regent in 2020, serving on the board until 2023.

The other candidates for NMSU's top job are:

- Valerio Ferme, Ph.D., Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost, University of Cincinnati
- Brian Haynes, Ph.D., Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs, University of California, Riverside

- Monica Lounsbury, Ph.D., Dean, College of Health and Human Services, California State University, Long Beach

- Neil MacKinnon, Ph.D. Professor, School of Public Health, Immediate Past Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost, Augusta University

In a news release announcing the candidates, Regent Chair Ammu Devasthali thanked the search committee for its work.

"We cannot complete this process without the help of all our Aggie community," Devasthali said.

Devasthali also called on the NMSU community to join in upcoming candidates' forums and meet-and-greet opportunities.

"This is an incredibly important decision, and we need your feedback to help us find the best leader for NMSU," Devasthali said.

According to its website, NMSU plans for the finalists to visit campus in September and for the regents to make a decision that same month.

City pays penalties in public records lawsuit

ALGERNON D'AMMASSA
Las Cruces Bulletin

The city of Las Cruces has handed over public records sought by a Las Cruces resident after a district court judge found the city had violated the state's Inspection of Public Records Act.

District Judge James Martin ordered the city to release records requested in June 2023 by Michael Hays or provide explanations for redactions and withheld documents as provided under the statute.

According to a July 29 judgment, the parties agreed Hays would be awarded fees and penalties amounting to $94,945, including $21,845 for non-compliance with the law and $73,100 in attorney fees.

In June 2023, according to court documents, Hays submitted a request for public records pertaining to the city's Public Safety Select Committee. The state's Inspection of Public Records Act requires agencies to provide access to documents no later than 15 calendar days from the request, if not immediately, under most circumstances. If access is not permitted within three business days, the agency must provide a written explanation including when the documents will be made available. Documents may be redacted or excluded from access based on exemptions stated in the statute, which must be cited in the agency's response.

In his petition, seeking the court to order the city to produce documents that had been withheld or redacted, Hays stated that the city had deemed his request "excessively burdensome or broad," a determination that allows an agency to take extra time to produce responsive documents. After delays, Hays told the court the documents that were produced were heavily redacted, and some documents excluded, without the explanations required by law. In some cases, Hays complained, the city had made broad claims of attorney-client privilege to redact multiple pages of documents.

"I think this case is further evidence that New Mexico courts take IPRA very seriously," Hays' attorney, Peter Goodman, commented. "The litigation was unnecessary and cost the city a lot more than compliance would have done. As a citizen I'm glad it appears that changes in the city administration have left the city more aware of certain aspects of the law and more ready to follow its openness requirements, while still safeguarding actual confidential information."

The most prominent administrative changes were the departure of City Manager Ifo Pili, who was succeeded by Ikani Tau-moepeau in April; and city attorney Linda Samples, who left in April and was succeeded by Brad Douglas.

In a comment for the Bulletin, the city stated it was "committed to transparency."

"We respond to thousands of IPRA requests per year," the statement continued. "This case included a small number of documents that were arguably overly redacted per IPRA guidelines. When we discovered this, the City voluntarily produced those documents and came to a resolution of this case."

"I'm glad Mr. Hays pushed for his rights, and hope this litigation will make it easier for other citizens to be treated as the law requires," Goodman said.

The outcome was applauded by the New Mexico Foundation for Open Government, the nonprofit that advocates for government transparency and compliance with the state's sunshine laws. Executive Director Melanie Majors said, in the organization's view, "the best way to ensure the public's trust is to avoid secrecy. IPRA is not a set of rigid legal requirements, it is a law to protect the public's right to know.

"This lawsuit proves that indifference to the terms, spirit and intent of our public records laws is not acceptable and carries consequences."

Herrell, Mike Johnson open 'battle station' as fight for CD2 heats up

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

Attention all units! Congressional candidate Yvette Herrell and Las Cruces Republicans christened a small office off of N. Solano Drive as a campaign office, or 'battle station,' last week as the contest for New Mexico's 2nd Congressional district heads toward Election Day.

The Republican hopeful and former congresswoman was joined on Aug. 21 by House Speaker Mike Johnson, R-La., to unveil the campaign office before a crowd of about 75.

"We came here to turn up the heat in this district. I am so excited about Yvette getting back in this battle," Johnson said.

Herrell and Johnson took shots at Democratic congressman Gabe Vasquez on immigration while calling on the Republican faithful gathered in the office to canvass and fundraise on their behalf.

"Gabe Vasquez voted, not once, but twice, to allow illegals to vote in our elections. You cannot vote to have illegals vote in our elections and then turn around and tell the people of New Mexico that we've got a problem at the border," Herrell said, referring to the SAVE Act.

This bill would make it illegal for non-U.S. residents to vote and require stricter voting registration requirements. It has stalled in the U.S. Senate, with Democrats pointing out that the law already requires people to attest they are U.S. citizens before registering to vote.

Herrell seeks to regain the seat in the House of Representatives she held from 2021-23 from Democrat Gabe Vasquez. Vasquez unseated Herrell in 2022 for control of the southern New Mexico district. While the seat has been represented mostly by Republicans, in recent election cycles the seat has ping-ponged between Republicans and Democrats: Democrat Xochitl Torres Small succeeded Steve Pearce, who left Congress to run for governor, from 2019-21, until Herrell ousted her in 2020.

"It's changed every two years since 2018, but we need to hold it and get

LAS CRUCES BULLETIN PHOTOS BY JUSTIN GARCIA

Yvette back in office," Johnson said, adding, "The second district of New Mexico is one of the big toss-up districts in the country."

Multiple national media outlets also named New Mexico's CD-2 as one of the most competitive in the U.S., and for good reason.

Vasquez beat Herrell by about 1,200 votes in 2022. And while the election did not see as many false claims of fraud as previous CD-2 elections, it did raise questions about redistricting and gerrymandering.

In 2020, the Democrat-controlled New Mexico

Legislature approved a new district for CD-2 that divided the southeastern portions of New Mexico between two districts. Previously, this part of the state, known for its oil production, was firmly in CD-2.

A judge found that state Democrats had gerrymandered the area, but not significantly enough to violate the law. The judge used Herrell and Vasquez's close 2022 contest as proof that the district had not been significantly gerrymandered.

Those realities set the backdrop for what is sure to be a tight race between Vasquez and Herrell. But they were not the centerpiece of Herrell and Johnson's stump. Instead, the Republicans sought to paint a portrait of an unregulated border and an American economy downtrodden by President Joe Biden's policies.

"Our nation is in harm's way, and the harm is this administration and these policies that are killing our country," Herrell said.

Johnson is the second Republican Speaker of the House Herrell has brought to Las Cruces. Kevin McCarthy, a California Republican, stumped for Herrell in Las Cruces in 2023.

The Bulletin contacted Vasquez's camp but did not receive a response. However, Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee spokesperson Lauryn Fanguen slammed the event.

"Bringing Mike Johnson on the campaign trail may buy Yvette Herrell favor with her party's leaders, but all it does for the average New Mexican is remind them of Herrell's steadfast anti-abortion extremism. Johnson and Herrell's radical and divisive abortion agenda was already resoundingly rejected in 2022, and New Mexican voters will reject Herrell once more this November."

Fanguen added, "After being caught on tape admitting she wanted to ban all abortion, it's not shocking Yvette Herrell is now hanging out with the architect of a national abortion ban. Just birds of a feather trying to ban abortion together."

The event also drew a small protest group calling for Johnson to pass a revamped Radiation Exposure Compensation Act, known as RECA. The bill would provide relief to families who suffered radiation exposure following a series of lawsuits in the 1990s from uranium miners and people affected by nuclear bomb fallout.

The original RECA sunsets this year, and advocates have called on Johnson's House of Representatives to renew it. Johnson has resisted calls to pass the bill. Herrell told Source New Mexico she supports the bill, which affects dozens in southern New Mexico.

New Mexicans leaning toward incumbent Democrats

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

A recent survey shows incumbent Congressman Gabe Vasquez with a nine-point lead over his Republican challenger, Yvette Herrell.

The Emerson College/The Hill poll surveyed about 1,000 New Mexicans from all over the state and reported 9 percent of respondents were undecided as of Aug. 23. This set the stage for heavy campaigning heading into the final two months of the 2024 election season.

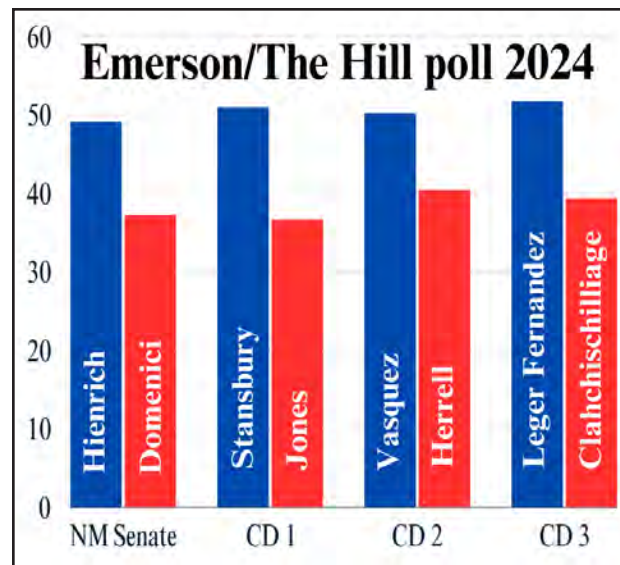

Numerous media outlets have named New Mexico's CD2 among the tightest in the country as the two major parties battle to control the House of Representatives. Republicans have an eight-person majority in the House going into an election that both parties have declared one of the most consequential in recent history.

New Mexico's southern district will play a role in that history.

The same poll showed that New Mexico's state-wide voters favored incumbent Democrat Martin Heinrich (40 percent) for reelection to the U.S. Senate over Republican challenger Nella Domenici (37 percent).

The data was similar for Democratic House incumbents Melanie Stansbury, who leads her opponent by about 12 percent, and Teresa Leger Fernández, who leads her opponent by about 9 percent.

Given those results, it shouldn't be surprising that respondents also held a mostly favorable view of Democrat Kamala Harris going into the presidential election. The poll projected that Harris would win New Mexico if the election were tomorrow.

The poll said 54 percent of respondents supported Harris, while 46 percent supported Donald Trump.

The poll also showed Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham's support in New Mexico had fallen compared to last year. Public Policy Polling reported that Lujan Grisham boasted a 47 percent approval rating in 2023.

But this year's Emerson College/The Hill poll showed that Lujan Grisham's approval rating had fallen to about 41 percent, with 48 percent in disapproval and about 11 percent either neutral or with no opinion.

Lujan Grisham took a tougher stance on crime and public safety this year, receiving criticism from state progressives and civil rights organizations and members of her own party.

On the topic of crime, the poll also asked the respondents if they felt safer compared to five years ago. About 53 percent said they felt less secure, 14 percent said they felt safer and 32 percent said they felt no different.

Still, crime was not the top issue for the respondents. The economy was by far the most important issue, followed by crime, immigration, education and health care.

LAS CRUCES POLICE DEPARTMENT VIDEO

Officers arrest Julian Valenzuela after his mauling by a service dog at the S. Espina Street and University Avenue intersection on March 4, 2022.

City pays $30K after K-9 mauling

BULLETIN REPORT

Note: This article contains descriptions of domestic violence. La Casa offers emergency shelter via walk-in between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. or by calling 575-526-9513.

The city of Las Cruces agreed to pay a Las Cruces man $30,000 after a police dog mauled him during an arrest on March 4, 2022.

According to a settlement agreement obtained by the Las Cruces Bulletin on Aug. 27, the city agreed to pay Julian Valenzuela $30,000, although the settlement was agreed to in January 2024.

As shown in body camera footage obtained by Bulletin, Valenzuela, 37, was fleeing police after shooting at an officer on S. Espina Street near where he crashed his car into another at the Espina and University Avenue interaction.

Earlier in the day, police had been called to Valenzuela's home and discovered he had shot his wife in the abdomen.

LCPD officer Matthew Dollar, who had shot back at Valenzuela during the chase on Espina, released his police dog on Valenzuela as officers surrounded the wrecked cars.

The dog pounced on Valenzuela and helped pull him out of the car, but Dollar was unable to convince the dog to release its bite.

Valenzuela later pleaded guilty to one count of aggravated battery. He was initially charged with four counts of abuse of a child (since the initial shooting occurred in front of his children), shooting at or from a motor vehicle and aggravated assault upon a peace officer, among other charges, all dismissed as part of the plea deal.

Valenzuela received a three-year sentence in prison, followed by two years of parole.

CITY OF LAS CRUCES

Food recycling is coming to Las Cruces!

The City of Las Cruces Utilities Department Solid Waste line of business was one of 38 governmental and educational institutions across the county that received a grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA) to support innovative, scalable waste management plans to reduce and divert food waste from landfills," Deputy Director of Solid Waste Carl Pierce said.

Through its Composting and Food Waste Reduction Cooperative agreement with NIFA, Solid Waste was awarded a two-year grant totaling $400,000 with a 25 percent cash match of $100,000 from the city, Pierce said. Federal funds come from the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA), the economic stimulus bill that became law in 2021.

The grant began June 1 of this year and continues through June 2026.

Through the Curb Your Food Waste Project, Solid Waste will target reducing the amount of food waste that winds up in the city's landfills and, at the same time, reducing related environmental impacts, including greenhouse gas emissions, Pierce said.

The project will include both residential and commercial customers in Las Cruces, Pierce said. They will be selected through in-person contact and telephone surveys and will also receive educational materials about the project.

"Our project objectives are to significantly reduce food waste in landfills and greenhouse gases and educate people about the importance of reducing food waste, composting, and sustainable living," Pierce said.

"Project participants will be equipped with green bins alongside their regular trash bins, enabling the collection of food scraps for composting," he said. "We will test innovative approaches to collecting food waste, both weekly and biweekly. From the food waste, we would create chemical-free compost fertilizers for Las Cruces residents, contributing to a greener and more sustainable environment."

Pierce said the NIFA grant "represents a significant step forward in our ongoing efforts to foster a greener, more sustainable community. Through collaborative initiatives like the Curb Your Food Waste Project, we reduce our environmental footprint and empower residents to adopt eco-conscious methods.

"We are working towards reducing the city's waste and promoting waste diversion, and we must consider various sustainable factors, such as food waste collection, to help us achieve our goals," he said. "In Las Cruces' municipal solid waste stream, a significant portion of food waste goes in the landfill. Redirecting food waste towards reuse and composting is not just a solution; it is a recipe for renewal that inspires hope and a sense of purpose in our waste management efforts. Our eventual goal is to foster a more circular local economy that minimizes the amount of material sent to landfills. The USDA grant and compost pilot program represent vital measures in this effort, highlighting the critical need for our waste diversion initiatives."

In 2023, USDA announced an additional $25 million in ARPA grants to prevent and reduce food loss and waste across the country. Through NIFA, USDA has committed more than $150 million since 2017 to more than 500 projects nationwide that relate to food loss and waste. USDA said more than one-third of all available food in the U.S. goes uneaten through loss or waste.

More information will be available on this grant in 2025.

Southern NM House race has new candidate

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

Democrats chafe over process, call for unity

Three candidates were competing to be the Democratic nominee for a Las Cruces state House district going into the weekend of Aug. 24.

The race took center stage in early August after Jon Hill, who beat the Democratic incumbent, state Rep. Willie Madrid of Chaparral, by 180 votes in the June primary, withdrew from the contest. Hill disclosed in an interview with Alamogordo radio station KALH he had been diagnosed with terminal cancer. He died weeks later.

Hill had served as a school board member, teacher, program specialist, principal, special educator and superintendent. He was also called to the legislature on occasion as a subject matter expert on education issues.

Each candidate had pitched their case and waited through the weekend for the results.

But it wasn't the thousands of Democratic voters in the district who'd be making this choice. Instead, a select committee of eight decided who would take on the Republican challenger.

The process resolved over the weekend, with the committee unanimously anointing Sarah Silva, a long-time community organizer, to the ticket.

"I'm honored to have the trust of the members of the State Central Committee and excited to shift my focus to making sure this seat stays in Democratic hands," Silva said in a statement.

But the show of unity generated by the unanimous vote was preceded by two weeks of political infighting and a process panned as opaque.

According to party rules, a select committee of Democrats living in the district would have nominated a successor to replace Hill. Three Democrats sought the party nomination following Hill's death.

Sarah Silva, a community advocate in Las Cruces, was the first to throw her name into the ring as Hill's chosen successor.

"I am excited to endorse Sarah Silva, who has organized and fought for our communities in House District 53," Hill said in a news release before his death. "Sarah shares my vision for long-term economic and social growth while building on our strengths to improve the quality of life for all New Mexicans."

Madrid, the Democratic incumbent Hill beat, made it clear he wanted back into the race. Kasey Peña, a political newcomer and Las Cruces teacher, was the third candidate.

Despite Madrid holding the seat for Democrats since 2018, party officials and officeholders scurried to endorse either Peña or Silva.

Silva told the Bulletin that, if elected to the office, she'd focus first on gathering input from the communities that comprise District 53. She'd prioritize her legislative staff – a new perk of being a state legislator as of 2024 – on "listening and learning."

"We could really do a lot with that additional capacity of constituent services," Silva said.

Silva also said she'd prioritize reproductive health, protecting local businesses from private equity takeovers, and public land protections. Silva said she would also work to create renewable energy infrastructure.

Silva's list of endorsements included state Reps. Nathan Small and Joanne Ferrary along with state Sen. Jeff Steinborn. Peña received endorsements from state Sens. Carrie Hamblen and Bill Soules, along with state Rep. Angelica Rubio and a slew of other local Democrats.

Madrid did not respond to a request from the Las Cruces Bulletin for an interview about his platform and his thoughts on the process. However, he told Source New Mexico he was concerned that residents of Chaparral were not included in the vote – despite the entire colonia being included in District 53.

In a text message to the Bulletin, Madrid said of the process, "They have not been clear."

Desde nuestros Centros de Control, usamos tecnología de punta para monitorear continuamente la operación de nuestras tuberías las 24 horas del día, los siete días de la semana. Nuestras tuberías están diseñadas, instaladas, probadas, operadas y mantenidas de acuerdo con todos los requisitos Federales y Estatales aplicables. La Ciudad de Las Cruces mantiene nuestras tuberías seguras, listas y eficientes por medio de inspecciones rutinarias, protección contra la corrosión, programas de mantenimiento y de prueba, capacitación de empleados y educación pública. La educación pública incluye reuniones educativas con contratistas de excavación, oficiales de respuesta de emergencia y otros oficiales públicos apropiados, la distribución de estos folletos informativos.

How to Work Around our Pipeline

We need your help in preventing pipeline emergencies. The number one cause of pipeline leaks is damage from earth-moving and construction equipment and tools owned by parties other than the pipeline company. If you plan to dig or do any type of excavation or construction work, call New Mexico One Call (NMOC) toll free at 811. A City of Las Cruces representative will locate and mark the underground gas lines at no cost to you. Call at least 48 hours (excluding weekends and holidays) before you dig. Even if you haven't provided advance notification, please contact us immediately if you dig and hit or touch a pipeline – even if you should cause what seems to be only minor damage to the pipeline – contact us immediately. A gouge, dent, crease, or scrape may cause a future safety problem.

Cómo Trabajar Alrededor de Nuestra Tubería

Necesitamos de su ayuda para evitar emergencias en las tuberías. La causa número uno de las fugas en las tuberías es el daño provocado por el movimiento de la tierra y el equipo y herramientas de construcción propiedad de otras partes diferentes a la compañía de la tubería. Si usted tiene planes para cavar o hacer cualquier tipo de excavación o trabajo de construcción, llame al Centro de Una Llamada de Nuevo Mexico gratuitamente al 811. Un representante de la Ciudad de Las Cruces localizará y marcará las líneas de gas subterráneas sin costo para usted. Llame por lo menos 48 horas (excluir los fines de semana y los días de descanso) antes de excavar. Aunque no haya enviado una notificación por adelantado, por favor comuníquese con nosotros inmediatamente si excava y golpea una tubería – aunque cause lo que parezca un daño menor a la tubería – comuníquese con nosotros inmediatamente. Una abolladura, pliegue o rayadura puede causar un futuro problema de seguridad.

Your Partner in Pipeline Safety

The City of Las Cruces cares about your safety. We design, install, test, operate, and maintain our pipelines to meet or exceed regulatory standards. Our employees are thoroughly trained to operate and maintain the system safely. We want you to be aware of our pipeline. We ask for your help in preventing accidental damage to it.

Su Socio en la Seguridad de las Tuberías

La Ciudad de Las Cruces se preocupa por su seguridad. Nosotros diseñamos, instalamos, probamos, operamos y mantenemos nuestras tuberías para cumplir o exceder las normas reguladoras. Nuestros empleados están totalmente capacitados para operar y mantener el sistema en forma segura. Deseamos que esté usted consciente de nuestra tubería. Le solicitamos su ayuda para prevenir un daño accidental.

How to Identify Where the Pipeline is Located

Since pipelines are buried underground, line markers are sometimes used to indicate the approximate – not exact – location of the pipeline. Line markers can be found where the pipeline intersects a street, highway, or railroad. However, they cannot be relied upon to indicate the exact position of the pipeline. The pipeline may not follow a straight course between markers, which provide no information on the depth or number of pipelines in the vicinity. Don't try to guess the pipeline's location or route by the marker's placement. Call New Mexico One Call (NMOC) at 811.

Cómo Identificar Dónde está Ubicada la Línea de Tubería

Ya que las líneas de tubería se encuentran bajo tierra, a veces se usan marcas para indicar de manera aproximada – no exacta – la localización de la línea. Los marcadores de las líneas pueden ser encontrados en donde la línea de la tubería interseca a una calle, carretera o vía del ferrocarril. Sin embargo, no son confiables para indicar la posición exacta de la línea de la tubería. La tubería puede no seguir un curso derecho entre dos marcas, lo cual no proporciona información de la profundidad o el número de líneas en la vecindad. No trate de adivinar la localización de la línea o ruta por la ubicación del marcador de las líneas de la tubería, llame al Centro de Una Llamada de Nuevo Mexico 811.

If you are a public safety official...

...you know to take whatever steps you deem necessary to safeguard the public in the event of a pipeline emergency.

The following suggestions are offered as a guide:

- Secure the area around the leak to a safe distance. This could include the evacuation of people from homes, businesses, schools, and other locations, as well as the erection of barricades to control access to the emergency site and similar precautions.
- If the pipeline leak is not burning, take steps to prevent ignition. This includes prohibiting smoking, rerouting traffic, and shutting off the electricity.
- If the pipeline leak is burning, try to prevent the spread of fire but do not attempt to extinguish it. Burning petroleum products will not explode. If the fire is extinguished, gas or vapor will collect and could explode when reignited by secondary fires.
- Contact the pipeline company as quickly as possible. Pipeline marker signs show the pipeline company's name, emergency telephone number, and pipeline contents.

Si usted es un Oficial De Seguridad Pública...

...sabe tomar las medidas que necesarias para proteger al público en caso de una emergencia relacionada a una tubería.

Le ofrecemos las siguientes sugerencias como guía:

- Asegure el área alrededor del escape hasta una distancia segura. Esto podría incluir la evacuación de gente de los hogares, negocios, escuelas y otros lugares, también la instalación de barricadas para controlar el acceso a la zona de emergencia y otras precauciones similares.
- Si el escape de la tubería no está ardiendo, tome las medidas necesarias para evitar la combustión. Esto incluye prohibir fumar, desviar el tránsito y cortar las fuentes de electricidad.
- Si el escape de tubería está ardiendo, trate de prevenir la propagación del fuego, pero no trate de extinguirlo. Los productos de petróleo en combustión no explotan. Si se extingue el fuego, puede haber una acumulación de gas o vapor y estos pueden explotar si un fuego secundario causara su combustión.
- Comuníquese con la compañía operadora de la tubería lo más rápido posible. Los marcadores de las tuberías muestran el nombre de la compañía, el teléfono de emergencia, y el contenido de la tubería.

New city crime in search of a victim

There's an old joke that ends with the punchline, "we're from the government and we're here to help." I fear that applies to the city's new shopping cart ordinance.

I still don't know who is the victim that this new law is trying to save. It certainly isn't the store owners. They have just been handed a new, burdensome government mandate that they didn't want or ask for.

This is now the second time the city has told store owners how to run their business. First they dictated what kind of bags could be used and what the store was required to charge for them. Now they're dictating how shopping carts are managed.

The new law allows the municipal court to levy $500 fines against people who don't have $5 to their name. Those who can't pay the fine can be sent to jail. While I trust the current police and court to handle this new power responsibly, the potential for abuse in the future is obvious.

And for what purpose? If not to protect the stores, the only other answer is that this is being done to protect all of us from the discomfort some people feel when seeing a homeless person pushing a shopping cart down the sidewalk. It's a bad look for our city. We wish they weren't there.

The new law hasn't even taken effect yet, and it has already produced negative consequences. The day after the ordinance was passed, two employees of a local Albertsons grocery store reclaimed one of their shopping carts from a homeless woman, leaving her belongings scattered along the ground.

WALT RUBEL

The View
From Here

Albertsons denied it, and supporters of the new ordinance accused the Community of Hope, which posted about the incident online, of fabricating the story. But surveillance video has since confirmed it, according to police.

I don't know either man, and certainly can't judge what was in their hearts. But that couldn't have felt good. I can't believe either one went home that evening happy about what they had done to keep their jobs.

Police Chief Jeremy

Story said the ordinance is clear that stores should not try to retrieve their carts. But store owners aren't lawyers and typically don't spend their time sifting through the legal minutia of each new ordinance. It's not surprising that one of them apparently thought they would be held responsible for every stray cart found by police.

Story assured us that he will have discussions with each business owner as part of the implementation plan for the new ordinance.

A fundraising effort was started to purchase carts for people who need them to gather and transport their belongings. Which is the most logical solution. Shopping carts are expensive, and those out in the community were stolen at some point along the line, even if not by the current owner.

This is just one example of the additional burden that has been placed on the Community of Hope to deal with the unintended adverse consequences of this new ordinance. The city is relying heavily on programs and services that are not yet fully in place. Even if everyone involved with the enforcement of this new ordinance has the best of intentions, it is still likely to cause harm. It has already caused harm.

All so that our delicate sensibilities won't be offended by the sight of a homeless person carrying everything they own in a shopping cart.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Concerned about duck races

Dear editor,

I look forward to reading the Las Cruces Bulletin every week, but was disappointed to see The Great American Duck Race highlighted on the front page of the Arts and Entertainment section (Aug. 16).

Does anyone ever stop to consider the plight of the ducks? How are they bred, raised, trained and transported, and how do they die? They love water. Do they ever get a chance to swim, other than in the racing lanes? Do they have the opportunity to socialize freely with other ducks (in nature they live in groups), or are they confined to small spaces? Are they allowed to exhibit any natural behaviors at all, or do these gentle and intelligent birds live a lifetime of misery?

This foolish spectacle brings to mind the words of Albert Schweitzer, "Think occasionally of the suffering of which you spare yourself the sight."

It's been seven years since Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus bowed to public pressure and stopped (ab)using animals. Many U.S. cities, counties and states as well as entire countries worldwide have banned various forms of animal "entertainment." Greyhound racing is now illegal in all but a few states, and I look forward to the day that all animal racing has been relegated to the history books.

We can find better ways to amuse ourselves.

change around poverty and justice, issued a news release stating “the public is not being properly represented according to the (committee’s) bylaws, there are no voting members from Otero County” and accusing the body of “communicating misinformation.”

“We must also note that most residents in Chaparral had no idea that Dr. Jon Hill had passed away or that the party had decided the process to select these eight delegates to represent them in voting for a new candidate,” the release added.

The Bulletin confirmed that all of the voting members were from somewhere other than Otero County, although two Otero residents were allowed to participate as advisory members. The Bulletin received conflicting information that couldn’t be verified about why, and the state party declined to provide an official reason. Daniel Garcia, a spokesperson for the state Democratic Party, declined to answer a set of questions the Bulletin asked, instead providing a statement from the party announcing the results, pushing back on CAFé Acción’s position and calling for unity.

“We appreciate both Kasey Peña and Willie Madrid for their participation in this election. We are always grateful to Willie Madrid for his years of service in the state legislature, and we wish both candidates success in their future endeavors,” Garcia, who is not related to the author of this article, said. “Now we call on every Democrat to throw their support behind Sarah to win in November and keep this seat blue.”

The 2024 election was set to be a big one for District 53 before the scramble.

After state officials adopted new districts in 2022 following the decennial census, District 53 took on a new look. A judge ruled in 2023 that the Democrat-drawn maps were gerrymandered, but not significantly enough to violate state law.

In the last decade, District 53 included a large swath of Otero County and just a sliver of Las Cruces. Now, it includes a much larger share of Las Cruces and a much smaller share of Otero. Before the district map was redrawn, Silva did not live in District 53.

The House seat flipped back and forth from Democrat to Republican representation until Madrid ousted Republican incumbent Ricky Little in 2018. Madrid managed to hold on to the seat despite razor-thin margins in 2020 and 2022.

This year, Madrid was one of several Democrats ousted in primary challenges after he and some Democratic colleagues declined to support progressive efforts to expand paid family medical leave during the 2024 legislative session.

Silva thanked the other candidates in a news release announcing her victory.

“We must move forward together if Democrats are going to hold this seat,” she said. “There are 72 days between now and Election Day. Early voting starts in 44 days. We need to raise money and begin making contact with voters immediately.”

Silva also took shots at her opponent, Republican Elizabeth Winterrowd, in the news release.

“Winterrowd’s extreme stances on abortion, transgender issues, immigration, and law enforcement are not what residents of House District 53 and New Mexico need, and Silva is committed to defeating her,” the news release said.

In a statement to the Bulletin, Winterrowd offered her condolences to Hill’s family.

“As for my campaign, my goal is to represent all of the people in HD53, no matter where they live or what their status is. It is disappointing that so many Democrat voices were unheard during this nomination process, but I look forward to proving to them and all voters in the district that I share their values and listen to them while my opponent seems to already march to the beat of whatever agenda Santa Fe politicians have for the state—an agenda that has never quite worked out in our district’s best interest,” she said.

LAS CRUCES SPACE FESTIVAL Making Space for Everyone

DAVID SALCIDO
Las Cruces Bulletin

Having an interest in what lies beyond our home world isn't just the realm of nerds and fantasists anymore. So much of our everyday lives depends on what lies beyond our atmosphere. In fact, despite decades of research, we're only beginning to scratch the surface of what's possible. These are just a few of the reasons the Las Cruces Space Festival is returning for its sixth year on Sept. 6-14.

"Many people don't realize how much they use space every day," says Alice Carruth, the director of the festival. "It could be farmers using Earth observation satellites to monitor the soil or crop, or to generate data on the best time to harvest. Or it's your delivery driver using global positioning satellites to bring your packages or groceries to your front door. We use weather data from satellites every time we check the forecast, and most financial transactions use satellite connections. So, next time you're filling up at the gas pump, just remember that your card transaction has traveled through space."

To celebrate the history and achievements of space-related enterprises, the festival provides activities for all ages, including an astrophotography display at the Museum of Nature and Science kicking off the festi-ties at 5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 6; visits by former NASA astronaut Nicole Stott, in conjunction with the Space for Art Foundation, throughout the day on Saturday, Sept. 7; and an open house at Spaceport America from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 8. The fun includes art projects in the downtown area, space trivia and space talks taking place throughout the week.

"We want to build bridges with the community to inspire the next generation of the space workforce and to encourage people of all ages to learn more about the opportunities that space provides to us all," Carruth said.

The volunteer-led festival team works with many partner organizations across the community – ranging from the public schools, local universities and colleges, space industry, arts, cultural groups and many others – to provide an event for people of all ages and interests. The events aim to raise awareness and celebrate space-related activity and achievements in the region, past, present and future.

"New Mexico is the birthplace of the U.S. Space and Missile program," Carruth points out. "We've been launching rockets in this region since the 1930s and continue to play a pivotal role in the space program. Every image or video from the International Space Station, Hubble or James Webb Space Telescopes comes through the Las Cruces ground station before they're shared across the globe. Most recently the ground testing of the Boeing Starliner (to figure out the thruster issues with the capsule) was conducted at the NASA White Sands Test Facility."

The fact that many people don't know any of this is yet another reason for this festival. The organizers want people to learn that you don't have to be a scientist or engineer to enjoy space and to work in it. The career opportunities are endless and

Up, up and away at the Elephant Butte Balloon Regatta

DAVID SALCIDO
Las Cruces Bulletin

One of the most unique ballooning experiences in the country takes place right here in southern New Mexico, when the Elephant Butte Balloon Regatta celebrates its 43rd year at Elephant Butte Lake State Park, Friday through Sunday, Sept. 6-8.

Twenty or more balloons ascend from Lion's Beach starting at 7:15 a.m. each day, weather permitting, and create a spectacle like no other, until around 9 a.m.

Watching the balloons ascend into the wide, clear New Mexico skies is one of those moments that never grows old for most people, and accounts for the draw, but it isn't the only part of the experience that makes this festival worth attending. That came about quite by accident.

The history of the Elephant Butte Balloon Regatta began in the late 1970s, when balloonists regularly made the trip to take advantage of the spring weather in the area. However, in 1989 concern over the safety of the balloonists prompted the Coast Guard to require chase boats for each balloon, similar to the chase vehicles used on land.

That decision led to a unique air to water ballet that takes place as the balloons descend onto the lake, where boats recover them and tow them back to shore. It takes a lot of coordination, according to Event Director Jimmy McCarthy.

"It's kind of a once-in-a-blue-moon thing to see the balloons flying over water, being recovered by boat and towed back to the shore," McCarthy said. "It makes it a unique experience, as balloon festivals go. Usually, when you have balloons fly over a lake, they land on the other side, miles away. That's not really an option for us, due to the spaceport and (ranch owner) Ted Turner's land. By the time they reach the middle

Chase boats follow and meet each balloon at the Elephant Butte Balloon Regatta at Elephant Butte Lake State Park.

And though vendors are not allowed to set up shop at the park, McCarthy points out that there are a lot of different draws in the area to fill up the rest of your day.

"We have a lot of nice little breakfast joints in Elephant Butte, Truth or Consequences and Williamsburg," he said. "Come out, enjoy the sunrise and the unique experience of balloons over the lake," he said. "Then go and explore the area. There's a lot to see and do that makes this part of New Mexico really magical."

The festival itself is free to attend, but a state park fee is generally in effect at $5 per car and $15 per bus. More information about the Elephant Butte Balloon Regatta is available at the event's Facebook page.

of the lake, they need to be coordinating with their boat skipper to come back down and get towed into the right side of the shore."

The result is a camera-worthy pageant that defies expectation, making the event a true family-friendly experience.

Carol Burnett

OF THE CAROL BURNETT SHOW
 ON CATCHY COMEDY, METV

Emmy Awards. It was shown in that form during a recent weekend "Binge" marathon on Catchy Comedy, but soon after the original run ended, the episodes from five of its seasons were edited into a 30-minute format — largely focused on the comedy content, though musical sequences sometimes were kept in, too — and the show was renamed "Carol Burnett and Friends."

Those edited programs have long been a weekday attraction on MeTV, but the issue has been confused a bit more by the fact that the program also is known there presently as "The Carol Burnett Show" in its half-hour form. Arguably the best way to tell the lengths apart before a viewing is simply to look at a programming guide and see how long the show is slated for, 30 minutes or 60 minutes.

Burnett, who has made Primetime Emmy history this year as the oldest female comedy nominee ever with her current supporting-actress bid for Apple TV+'s "Palm Royale," has very actively helped to promote direct-marketing sales of "The Carol Burnett Show" DVDs by participating in commercials for them. (She even has autographed some of the sets.) However, different collections culled from the series also are available from various merchants, either in physical stores or via online sellers.

Q: Why are some repeats of "The Carol Burnett Show" an hour long, while others are only a half-hour long?

A: Originally, the classic comedy-variety series ran for an hour weekly during its 1967-78 tenure on CBS, when it earned a total of 25 Primetime

“English Teacher” - Season 1 (Sept. 3, Series Premiere)

Created by Brian Jordan Alvarez, this new FX comedy series stars Alvarez as Evan Marquez, a high school teacher in Austin, Texas, who often finds himself at the intersection of the personal, professional and political aspects of working at a high school. By his side is his friend group of other teachers, including Gwen Sanders (Stephanie Koenig) and Markie Hillridge (Sean Patton). The eight-episode season follows Evan as he navigates his relationships, his students and his fellow faculty and tries to answer the question: can you really be your full self at your job?

“Tell Me Lies” - Season 2 (Sept. 4)

In this adaptation of Carola Lovering's novel of the same name, the tumultuous, eight-year relationship between Lucy Albright (Grace Van Patten) and Stephen DeMarco (Stephen DeMarco) becomes more toxic over the years, permanently altering not only their own lives, but also the lives of everyone around them.

“The Secret Lives of Mormon Wives” - Season 1 (Sept. 6)

Gaining popularity on the social media platform TikTok, a group of Mormon mom influencers implode when they get caught in the midst of a swinging sex scandal that makes international headlines. Now, their sisterhood is shook to its core. This unscripted series follows Taylor Frankie Paul, Demi Engemann, Jennifer Affleck, Jessi Ngatikaura, Layla Wessel, Mikayla Mathews, Mayci Neeley and Whitney Leavitt as they try to recoup from their fall from grace.

“Something in the Water” (Available Now)

Reunited for a destination wedding, five girlfriends decide to rent a boat to spend the day along the coast. However, when they get stranded in open water, they find themselves in a fight for their lives against circling sharks and Mother Nature. Ellouise Shakespeare-Hart, Lauren Lyle, Hifut Quasem, Nicole Rieko Setsuko and Natalie Mitson star.

tonight's picks

Natascha McElhone and Lily Frazer in "Hotel Portofino"

In the Arena: Serena Williams
KVIA 12 p.m.

With three decades of professional tennis behind her, Serena Williams looks back on specific moments that shaped her and left the biggest impressions. From memorable Grand Slam appearances to other milestones, she talks life on and off the court.

The Daughter I Gave Away
LIFE 6 p.m.

Fifteen years after a teenage girl places her baby up for adoption, she learns that her daughter has gone missing from the adoptive parent's home. In her search for answers, she uncovers a chilling truth and a sliver of hope that there's still a chance to find the girl before it's too late.

Snowpiercer
AMC 7 p.m.

After last week's daring and deadly episode, the patrons aboard the Snowpiercer must now face the consequences of their actions as Season 4 of this science fiction series continues. Davede Diggs, Mickey Sumner, Clark Gregg and many others star.

Alex vs America
FOOD 7 p.m.

Alex does her best not to crack under the pressure, when Eric Adjepong invites three egg-loving chefs to test their eggcellent skills against one of the very best. In a blind judging, Brooke Williamson and Michael Voltaggio pick who wins.

Hotel Portofino
KRWG 7 p.m.

Something stinks and it's not just Claudine's (Lily Frazer) perfume launch party. During the festivities, Bella (Natascha McElhone) angles to get the business assistance she needs and Lucian (Oliver Dench) and Constance (Louisa Binder) plan to get away.

The Chosen
KVIA2 7 p.m.

Jesus (Jonathan Roumie) needs some rest in this two-hour Season 4 premiere. As Jerusalem gets closer, Jesus becomes more frustrated with the world around him. Whether it be his faith's leaders or even his friends, no one seems attuned to his mission.

The Great North
KFOX 7:30 p.m.

When a mysterious cloaked person buys up all of Judy's art, she tries to find out who it is. Then, Beef, Wolf, Ham and Moon put their green thumbs to the test and grow a huge cabbage. And, it's a foam finger challenge for Honeybee and Jerry.

tonight's picks

Matt Iseman co-hosts "American Ninja Warrior"

The Chicano Squad
A&E 7 p.m.

In the first installment of this two-night event, hear how six officers were selected to form an all-Latino homicide unit in Houston during the late 70s. With a rising murder rate in the Latin community, the men were given 90 days to solve open crimes.

Below Deck Mediterranean
BRAVO 7 p.m.

When a newly-hired steward arrives, it causes a flurry of mixed reactions from the staff. Then, Aesha's stress spikes when she finds the laundry room is a disaster zone. And, bad news from home shocks a deckhand, leaving their position in doubt.

Name That Tune
KFOX 7 p.m.

Be it swan songs, solos or summertime hits, how well do you know your music? In this game show, host Jane Krakowski welcomes players to face off against each other, testing their encyclopedic knowledge of music as they fight for a spot in the bonus round.

American Ninja Warrior
KTSM 7 p.m.

As the national finals continue in Las Vegas, the remaining ninjas prepare to compete in Stages 2 and 3 of this super-sized competition. Each competitor is eager to show their strengths for a chance to win a $1 million prize and the "ANW" title.

61st Street
KVIA2 8 p.m.

As Season 2 continues, Franklin (Courtney B. Vance) finds himself armed with a secret piece of evidence that makes it easy to put Officer Logan's (Mark O'Brien) comrades on the stand. Meanwhile, Norma (Andrene Ward-Hammond) has an important visitor.

Transformers PARSHO 9 p.m.

The fate of humanity is at stake when two races of robots, the good Autobots and the villainous Decepticons, bring their war to Earth. The robots have the ability to change into different mechanical objects as they seek the key to ultimate power. Only a human youth, Sam Witwicky (Shia LaBeouf) can save the world from total destruction.

Jenn Tran in "The Bachelorette"

100 Day Hotel Challenge
HGTV 6 p.m.

Brian and Mika are working hard on their respective hotels, but both hotels are still lacking key details. Nevertheless, they're taking the competition outdoors, where they'll spend a lot of cash to bring resort-style amenities to the outdoor lounges.

Beat Shazam
KFOX 7 p.m.

Teams of two race against the clock and each other as they try to identify hit songs.

The team with the most money banked at the end of four rounds will go against Shazam, the popular song identification app, for the chance to win up to $1 million.

The Bachelorette
KVIA 7 p.m.

Bachelorette Jenn Tran is about to make the decision of a lifetime in this season finale. From the Big Island of Hawaii, Jenn must see where her heart leads her as she pick between her final two guys. Are either of these guys good enough for Jenn?

“Outlast” - Season 2 (Sept. 4)

In this raw survival competition series, 16 lone wolf experts are dropped in the Alaskan wilderness and must outlast each other in a battle for a million dollar payout. There's only one rule in this cut throat game: they must be a part of one of four teams to win.

“The Perfect Couple” (Sept. 5)

Amelia Sacks (Eve Hewson) is about to marry into one of the wealthiest families on Nantucket Island. Her disapproving future mother-in-law, famous novelist Greer Garrison Winbury (Nicole Kidman), has spared no expense in planning what promises to be the premiere wedding of the season — until a body turns up on the beach. As secrets come to light, the stage is set for a real-life investigation that feels plucked from the pages of one of Greer's novels. Suddenly, everyone is a suspect.

“Rebel Ridge” (Sept. 6)

Ex-Marine Terry Richmond (Aaron Pierre) grapples his way through a web of small-town corruption when an attempt to post bail for his cousin escalates into a violent standoff with the local police chief (Don Johnson). AnnaSophia Robb co-stars.

“Selling Sunset” - Season 6 (Sept. 6)

The realtors of The Oppenheim Group return for an explosive eighth season with over-the-top listings and high stakes drama as they navigate love, betrayal and loyalty both inside and outside the brokerage. Chrishell Stause, Mary Fitzgerald, Emma Hernan, Amanza Smith, Chelsea Lazkani, Bre Tiesi, and Nicole Young are all back and working under the watchful eyes of bosses Jason and Brett Oppenheim. But no one should get too comfortable — some fresh faces, including new agent Alanna Whittaker.

“My Brilliant Friend” - Season 4 (Max — Sept. 9, Season Premiere)

Exploring the tale of Elena Greco (Margherita Mazzucco) and the most important friend in her life. She met Raffaella Cerullo (Gaia Girace), whom she has always called Lila, in the first year of primary school in 1950. Set in a dangerous and fascinating Naples, Italy, their story goes on to cover more than 60 years of their lives and explores the mystery of Lila, Elena's brilliant friend and — in a way — both her best friend and her worst enemy.

“The Old Man” - Season 2 (Hulu — Sept. 13, Season Premiere)

In Season 2, former CIA agent Dan Chase (Jeff Bridges) and former FBI Assistant Director Harold Harper (John Lithgow) set off on their most important mission to date — to recover Emily Chase (Alia Shawkat) after she is kidnapped by Faraz Hamzad (Navid Negahban), a powerful Afghan tribal leader. With all three men claiming her as their daughter, Emily finds herself in an identity crisis that has dire implications.

Tracy Tutor stars in "Million Dollar Listing Los Angeles"

The Challenge MTV 6 p.m.

Things get interesting when new targets fundamentally change the game, leaving competitors to wonder if they'll be safe from elimination or not. Then, a "Challenge" history lesson brings a smile to TJ, while a sudden death round brings questions.

Dateline: Secrets Uncovered
OXYGEN 6 p.m.

Journalist Craig Melvin takes a second look at some of the most mysterious cases in recent history through firsthand accounts of people close to the crime, including investigators who looked into the cases and family members who are still trying to cope.

Million Dollar Listing
Los Angeles
BRAVO 7 p.m.

Realtors Josh Flagg, Josh Altman and Tracy Tutor are back for a new episode of ups and downs in the tumultuous Los Angeles real estate scene. This time, the realtors discover that splurging on a luxury property might not be the best choice.

Guy's Grocery Games FOOD 7 p.m.

The All-Star Relay Rumble begins tonight, as "Tournament of Champions" winners take on some culinary giant slayers in a masterful showdown. During 10-minute tag-team shifts, the teammates must create a sweet and savory duo made with some key ingredients.

Pawn Stars
HISTORY 7 p.m.

Cowabunga! Just what is a 1991 Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles action figure prototype worth? Then, Rick tries to pull the trigger on a 1800s man-stopper pistol at the shooting range. Later on, Rick uses his psychic abilities on a 1966 Kreskin ESP board game.

Bargain Block
HGTV 7 p.m.

Keith and Evan are known for making dreams come true. So, when they're asked to play fairy godmother and recreate a Cinderella story for the ages, they jump in, roll up their sleeves and turn a train wreck of a house into a home worthy of a fairy tale.

Imaginary STARZ 7 p.m.

When Jessica (DeWanda Wise) moves back into her childhood home with her family, her youngest step-daughter, Alice (Pyper Braun), finds Chauncey, Jessica's old stuffed bear that's very upset over being abandoned. Who knew Fuzzy-Wuzzy was a killer?

The Real CSI: Miami
KDBC 8 p.m.

Highlighting victims' families as they search for justice (and the forensic science used to solve cases), this brand-new installment focuses on the 1990 investigation into Florida's "Killer Clown," who shot Marlene Warren to death at her own front door.

Wayne Brady: The Family Remix
FREE 11 p.m.

Wayne Brady is as busy as ever. Thankfully, his support system — namely his blended family — is a close-knit group who keeps the multi-hyphenate grounded. While Brady has taken steps to define his personal truth, the family is always looking out for him.

Tacarra Williams hosts "Totally Funny Kids"

Falling in Love in Niagara
HALL 5 p.m.

Just what is it about Niagara Falls that makes it such a hotspot for honeymoons? When her fiancé (Chris Violette) dumps her before the wedding, Madeline (Jocelyn Hudson) decides to go see the Falls without him. While there, she stumbles upon true love.

Twister
AMC 6 p.m.

Dr. Jo Harding (Helen Hunt) and her team prepare a prototype to launch a data-gathering tool that could help save lives as the most powerful storm in decades approaches. Her estranged husband, Bill (Bill Paxton) rejoins the team for one last mission.

The Real Housewives of Orange County
BRAVO 7 p.m.

Diamonds might be a girl's best friend, but Botox and filler keep them camera ready. As the ladies of Orange County wrap their heads around the revolving door of each other's relationships, they wonder if the constant backstabbing is worth the trouble.

What's Available NOW On

“Cómo cazar a un monstruo” (Sept. 6)
Lluís Gros, sentenced to 23 years in prison for sexual abuse, asks YouTuber and filmmaker Carles Tamayo to make a documentary about his life to clean up his image after his conviction. Carles agrees, thinking that Gros will apologize, but when he realizes that this is not his intention and that he is still free, he tries to find out why he is still unpunished. After months of surveillance and extensive investigation, Carles discovers many other crimes committed by Gros and sets up a trap that leads him to prison.

“The Lego Movie 2: The Second Part” (Available Now)

The citizens of Bricksburg face a dangerous new threat when LEGO DUPLO invaders from outer space start to wreck everything in their path. The battle to defeat the enemy and restore harmony to the LEGO universe takes Emmet (Chris Pratt), Lucy (Elizabeth Banks), Batman (Will Arnett) and the rest of their friends to faraway, unexplored worlds that test their courage and creativity.

“10 Cloverfield Lane” (Available Now)

After getting in a car accident, Michelle (Mary Elizabeth Winstead) awakens to find herself in a mysterious bunker with two men named Howard (John Goodman) and Emmett (John Gallagher Jr.). Howard offers her a pair of crutches to help her remain mobile with her leg injury sustained from the car crash and tells her to “get good on those” before leaving the bunker. Told that there has been an alien attack and the outside world is poisoned, Howard and Emmett’s intentions soon become questionable and Michelle is faced with a question: Is it better in here or out there?

“War of the Worlds” (Available Now)

In this 2005 adaptation of the original H.G. Wells story, Dockworker Ray Ferrier (Tom Cruise) struggles to build a relationship with his two children, Rachel (Dakota Fanning) and Robbie (Justin Chatwin). When his ex-wife, Mary Ann (Miranda Otto), drops them off at Ferrier’s house, it seems as though it will be just another tension-filled weekend. However, when electromagnetic pulses of lightning strike the area, the strange event turns out to be the beginning of an alien invasion, and Ferrier must now protect his children as they seek refuge.

Mad Hatter Gallery opens downtown with a flair for contemporary art

ELVA K. ÖSTERREICH
For the Bulletin

There is something about Wonderland, that strange and scary place found in Lewis Carroll's books, "Through the Looking Glass" and "Alice in Wonderland."

"There is the rabbit hole and we all find ourselves in this rabbit hole," said Penny Peace, art lover and, now, gallery owner. "The power of persistence helps us get out of [the rabbit hole]. And at some point that fantasy I had about opening my own gallery, I knew I was going to name it the Mad Hatter Gallery because the trials and tribulations the characters have to go through represent everything that we do as humans."

So Peace, who came to Las Cruces over three years ago, and her husband, George Ivolin, have created their own little niche in the Doña Ana County art world as they look to open the Mad Hatter Gallery on Friday, Sept. 6. The space at 221 N. Main St., Suite C has been reimagined and is ready to showcase contemporary art.

The space is a simple room to be lined with artwork and has black benches stretch down the center for folks to sit on.

After holding the position of gallery director at the Doña Ana Arts Council for a time, Peace has gained a lot of respect and joy in the local art community which she said has been great to work with.

At the Mad Hatter, she said the focus will be on contemporary art: Art that hasn't been seen in Las Cruces before.

"I grew up in four generations

Artist Salome Ali Jaffe's acid paintings will be the focus of the debut exhibit at Mad Hatter Gallery.

Peace spends a lot of time researching artists and looking at their work, then she gets in touch with them and makes connections. The gallery is opening with the work of Salome Ali Jaffe, a graduate of the Chicago Institute of Art. Jaffe's exhibit, titled "Une Vie," begins with the Sept. 6 opening.

"This will be her first solo exhibit," Peace said. "She does beautiful acid painting, which is a process I am just learning about."

In New York, Peace and Ivolin ran an interior and general contracting company which became her creative outlet.

"It was much more about the flow of the space and how it was used, so I think the artist in me kind of started to bubble to the surface there," she said. "I began to work with a small group of artists, mostly women. I have a place in my heart for woman artists."

Taking an art history class in college for some needed credits, she began looking at art, advertising and graphic design to see how it represents or does not represent people and focuses on issues and problems.

She came to Las Cruces questioning where her life would go and what she was going to do, and then got the gallery manager job.

there are well-paid career opportunities available now. That's one of the main reasons Stott was asked to be part of it.

"We're bringing [her] and her Space For Art Foundation to create art with students at Spaceport America and at the Museum of Nature and Science," Carruth said. "Her art Spacesuit (beyondspacesuit.org) will be on display all week at MoNaS. Nicole is also being joined by the Astronaut Wrangler Christina Korp, who managed Buzz Aldrin for over a decade and has seen the impact that space has on people's everyday lives. Her Space For a Better World Foundation puts on inspiring STEAM events around the world to connect the space-curious with the space-serious."

In addition, there will be Challenger Learning Center missions, moon-gazing, astronomy talks and activities at NMSU. The final day of the festival will be held at the Downtown Plaza de Las Cruces with Space Saturday during the Las Cruces Farmer's and Crafts Market. There will be space-related and STEM-focused organizations on display with plenty of fun for the whole family.

More information on the Las Cruces Space Festival, including a schedule of events, can be found at LCSpaceFestival.com, or on its Facebook and Instagram accounts.

are on another dimension of art," she said. "But if you saw me curate – I don't do the nail in the wall but there is a lot of thought that goes into it for me, making sure everything flows."

Creating her own gallery was more of a fantasy than a dream, Peace said. Now she is beyond pleased with the opportunity.

"We are ready to engage the community in something new" Ivolin said. "We want to introduce people to some art that they should see and bring some artists who haven't been in this area or exhibited in this area. These artists bring in a different cultural attitude and a different dynamic in terms of art."

With Ivolin's love for art beginning in a more classical time, Monet and Manet being his favorite artists and the belief that Paris is the greatest city in the world, he has not always had the same taste for contemporary art as his wife.

"But for me, certainly through Penny, I have expanded my vision," he said. "So we just wanted to build a space that is very clean, very sleek, to really let the contemporary art do its talking because I think people feel a certain way when they walk into a space."

Following the opening, The Mad Hatter Gallery will be open 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays; 11 a.m.-6 p.m. Fridays and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturdays.

'Know your city' seminar aims to boost civic knowledge

BULLETIN REPORT

The city of Las Cruces is inviting residents to learn more about city functions through a free seminar series kicking off on Sept. 4.

The weekly sessions take place from 6-8 p.m. on Wednesdays, at the city council chambers at city hall, 700 N. Main Street downtown. The series runs from Sept. 4 until Nov. 13, with a graduation brunch scheduled on Nov. 18.

One session – the Oct. 23 meeting taking utilities for its topic – will be held at Las Cruces Utility, 680 N. Motel Boulevard, according to a news release.

The city said registration is not required, and residents are free to attend however many sessions they like. Those attending all of the sessions will be recognized by the city council at its Nov. 18 meeting.

More information is available via Catrina Godinez at 575-528-3003 or cgodinez@lascruces.gov.

The topics for each session are scheduled as follows:

Sept. 4: Government: City clerk and legal

Estate planning: Not just for the wealthy

MIKE COOK
For the Bulletin

Estate planning can include wills, trusts, powers of attorney, guardianship for your minor children, personal health decisions, avoiding probate and more. And local attorneys say it is a good idea no matter what your age or assets.

“A lot of people come to me and say, ‘I don’t have much. Why do I need an estate plan?’” attorney Cindy Sikelianos said. Estate planning means “establishing a plan with respect to your assets” in case you die, are disabled or incapacitated, she said. It also lets you choose “who you want to manage your affairs” if you die or become unable to manage them on your own. And it can ensure proper care for your minor children.

An estate plan means knowing, “This is who I want in that situation and this is what my decisions are,” said Sikelianos, an attorney with Pickel Law PC, an estate-planning firm that recently opened in Las Cruces. It also has offices in Albuquerque,

CINDY SIKELIANOS

where Sikelianos is based, and Kalispell, Mont., where attorney Johanna A. Pickel lives. Pickel has a Master’s degree from NMSU and once taught at Organ Mountain High School.

“If you’re over the age of 18, you need an estate plan,” said Las Cruces attorney Jessica Streeter, who specializes in estate planning, along with a few other Las Cruces attorneys, she said. “A good estate plan does more than distribute your assets. Your estate plan should also name others who can make decisions for you on your behalf if something happens and you’re no longer able to make those decisions for yourself,” Streeter said.

“If you die without an estate plan, your belongings will be distributed according to state law. If you become incapacitated without a power of attorney, your loved ones may need to go through a guardianship and conservatorship proceeding in order to manage your health and assets,” said Streeter, who opened Streeter Law Firm in Las Cruces in 2020 and returned to practice after serving as a state district judge and Las Cruces municipal judge.

“A large majority of our clients either come to us because they’ve had to deal with an estate of their parents or someone else and there was no estate plan in place and they saw what a pain in the neck it was,” Sikelianos said. In some cases, clients knew someone with an estate plan and wanted the same.

In addition to providing clients with all the documents necessary to set up an estate plan, “we also give them a guide so they can then be very specific about their funeral services, what scripture they want read, songs, pictures they want,” she said. It can also set up a prepaid funeral plan.

“I know that is not an easy conversation to have with your children,” Sikelianos said, but, “if you have this conversation, then it’s easier for them to say, ‘I know this is what mom wants. She expressed her wishes.’”

Having an estate plan in place can dictate not only what happens with a client’s remains, it can also spell out “what happens with their pets,” Streeter said, if there is to be a service and, if so, who officiates. And it spells out exactly what happens with a person’s belongings, “instead of guessing what you would have wanted.”

Having an estate plan can also make things easier when there are “complicated relationships with family members,” said Jayme De La Vega, client services director for the Pickel firm in Las Cruces.

Sikelianos and De La Vega said their firm, part of the national Special Needs Alliance, can also set up a special needs trust, which can be helpful, for example, if someone is receiving government assistance as a result of a disability and is left money or property that could make them no longer eligible for disability payments.

Like the Pickel firm, Streeter said her law office can create a revocable living trust which, in the event that parents are permanently or temporarily incapacitated and have minor children, names a trustee or guardian for the children to ensure continuity of care, including identifying things like the children’s doctors, dentists and educational needs, she said.

“Guardianships for minor children are one of our primary practices,” Streeter said.

Both law firms provide workshops to help people create their estate plans. Streeter will host a series of hour-long estate planning workshops from Sept. 3-14.

“We are passionate about educating the community on the importance of estate planning,” De La Vega said.

More information about the two firms interviewed for this story are available at PickelLawPC.com and StreeterLawFirmNM.com.

Police auditor dings LCPD on tasers; otherwise high marks

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

Las Cruces Police Department's officers are doing a better job of holding each other accountable, and the department has instituted a robust internal review process, according to the city's hired independent auditor.

Despite an overall positive description of LCPD as an organization willing to listen to feedback and provide documentation, California-based OIR Group dinged LCPD on issues around the use of tasers during a presentation to the Las Cruces City Council on Aug. 26.

OIR said that recent taser incidents highlighted a problem that OIR has pointed out since its second review: the inappropriate use of a taser.

In one such incident from 2021, OIR said an officer used their taser to threaten a man after being called to intervene in a custody dispute. The man was later arrested. But the charges were dropped, and the man sued the city shortly after.

"The officer's actions at the scene were flawed from the outset and were followed by several other actions that were not justified under policy or training, including the use of the taser," the report said.

The same report also lauded the efforts LCPD has made in its more comprehensive response to the use-of-force investigations.

"The Department has also implemented numerous checks and balances to ensure that all force cases, including uses of the Taser, are effectively reviewed," the report said, adding the LCPD should expedite a proposed revision to the department's taser use protocol.

After a council meeting on Aug. 26, community members appeared for OIR's first community meeting. The auditors agreed to host community meetings after the city agreed to increase OIR's annual pay to $125,000 in May, a 66 percent increase from the past year.

Las Cruces has experienced multiple rancorous public meetings in recent months, so the expectations for this meeting were well established. But Monday's meeting was a significant scale down from those. Only about 14 people, not including city staff, showed up to the meeting.

Attendees raised concerns about police shooting investigations that take too long, the need for more transparency and the impact of policing on the community.

"Transparency, so we can understand the facts, has been really a concern in the community," one attendee said, adding that her personal experience with LCPD has been positive.

Family members of Teresa Gomez, a Las Cruces woman killed by LCPD officer Felipe Hernandez in 2023, were also present for the meeting.

"So, my question is, you said cases can take anywhere from a few months to a few years to end, and officers are placed on administrative leave. Is there a limit to how long they can be on leave? Because to me, that sounds like a paid vacation, and that does not sound right," the family member said.

However, most of Monday evening's discussion focused on LCPD and not the auditor's narrow scope, a point that OIR representatives Teresa Magula and Stephen Connelly repeated several times throughout the evening.

"The specifics of what we do are a little different, depending on what the individual needs and priorities of the community are," Connelly said.

OIR's scope of work has increased in the four years since

Three Local Women Named Top Leaders

BULLETIN REPORT

Three Las Cruces women were named this year among the “Top 50 Women Leaders of New Mexico” by a national publication and international professional organization.

Mandy Leatherwood Guss, the city of Las Cruces communications director; Mónica Torres, interim president of New Mexico State University; and Yu-Feng “Winnie” Lee, professor and department head of the economics, applied statistics and international business at NMSU, were included in the ranking, according to the Aug. 19 online issue of Women We Admire.

Guss has been Las Cruces’ communication director since 2020. She’s also previously held positions at Memorial Medical Center as a marketing director and community liaison.

Torres was appointed as NMSU’s interim president in March 2024. Before that, she was named chancellor of NMSU system community colleges and served as Doña Ana Community College’s 10th president.

Lee became director of the Department of Economics, Applied Statistics and International Business in 2019. She holds a doctorate from Southern Illinois University. Her concentration fields

Public input sought for redevelopment zone

BULLETIN REPORT

Residents will have a chance to give input on a redevelopment area plan through a two-day interactive design workshop, the city announced in a news release.

The focus is the El Paseo Road and S. Solano Drive Metropolitan Redevelopment Area Plan, a designated zone “where revitalization efforts are concentrated to address challenges like outdated infrastructure and economic stagnation,” the city stated. “These areas bring together government agencies, private stakeholders and local communities to foster innovation, attract investment and enhance the quality of life.”

The city emphasized the importance of public input in the process in making redevelopment “more responsive, equitable and reflective of the diverse needs of the community.”

The workshop takes place from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, Sept. 9 and 11, at the Real Life Church, 1040 El Paseo Road. More information is available via 575-528-3048 or jcotoia@lascruces.gov.

the firm began auditing the police. Currently, OIR reviews internal investigations and determines whether the officer involved followed best practices and whether the department adequately handled the investigation. OIR then makes recommendations to the department about policy changes.

That did not initially include all use-of-force incidents, but now does, following an internal change by LCPD. So now, OIR reviews all use-of-force incidents regardless of whether a complaint was lodged. It's unclear when that change occurred, but OIR attributed it to Jeremy Story's ascension to chief of police in 2023.

OIR also lauded a slew of other LCPD changes over the years. They credited the department for working toward a highly coveted national certification, implementing a system of punishment and training for substantiated misconduct, prioritizing a fully staffed internal affairs division and taking more consistent corrective actions.

Connelly provided an example of this occurring in real-time for LCPD during a recent traffic collision.

"(Two officers) were inclined towards wanting to just find a shortcut, basically, to resolve the situation," Connelly said. "Another officer and a supervisor came along and made sure that there was a much more thorough and appropriate investigation into what happened."

OIR also reiterated a long-standing compliment to LCPD: that the department is responsive, provides documents, and, according to Connelly and Magula, sees OIR as a partner in improving policing.

"(Story) will oftentimes call us after reviewing the original draft. He'll have questions, he'll have clarification, occasionally a little scratchy pushback, which we think is great," Connelly said. "He has illustrated things for us or explained things to us about the department, and his vision of things that have changed our minds about specific aspects of specific reports."

For the Bulletin

Tony Sanchez is fast. He talks fast, he thinks fast and the former New Mexico State wide receiver still moves fast.

As the first-year head coach maneuvers NMSU football through fast-changing times, the urgency and decisiveness with which he naturally operates could be beneficial. The Aggie program is coming off back-to-back bowl seasons, followed by what Sanchez called a “tumultuous” off-season that saw massive changes in the coaching staff and roster.

NMSU opens the season at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 31 against Southeast Missouri State at Aggie Memorial Stadium.

“I’m excited,” Sanchez said earlier this week. “This is 26 years for me. That Game One. It keeps you young. It keeps you vibrant.”

For all of his success in the past two years at NMSU, one thing former head coach Jerry Kill could not accomplish was win the season-opener. It’s been nine years since the Aggies came out on top in their first game, and a fast start is the focus for Sanchez and his rebuilt program. Earlier this week, the coaching staff named Parker Awad as the starting quarterback. The 6-0, 190-pound sophomore transfer edged out another transfer, senior Deuce Hogan, for the job, although Sanchez said Hogan would also likely play in the opener.

“Coming out of the gate, when we looked at the big picture as an offensive staff, we talked about who we were going to be and how we were going to run this offense, we felt like Parker gave us a little bit of an advantage in some of things we would like to do,” Sanchez said. “Parker has done a good job making decisions and he kind of has that dual-threat element that we’ve had the last couple of years.”

Awad, a Huntington Beach, Calif., native who played for Golden West College last year, will operate behind an experienced offensive line, some new, and at least one familiar face at receiver, senior Kordell David.

“Kordell has been around for a long time,” Sanchez said. “I don’t think we gave him enough opportunities last year, so I’m excited for him to be a focal point for this offense. I’m excited for this veteran offensive line which has been around and has so many career starts behind them. I’m excited for this new defense ... to see Coach (Joe) Morris and guys like Dylan Early and some of these new guys. That whole defensive line, with the exception of Buddha (Peleti), is pretty much new.”

Southeast Missouri State outscored North Alabama 24-0 in the second half last Saturday to win their season-opener, 37-15. The Redhawks forced four turnovers to spark the second-half run, so ball-security is an emphasis for the Aggie offense.

“Turnovers were the difference,” said Sanchez, the former UNLV head coach who spent the last two seasons on Kill’s staff as receivers coach. “I think it’s really important for us to establish the run and to stop the run and make them one-dimensional. Coming out of the gates, we want to create a physical presence out there.”

Early, the senior safety, said tackling well against the run game and covering screens will be critical on Saturday. He said the defense has had to come together quickly.

“With all the transfers, it was good to get them in the spring along with Coach Morris so we can build chemistry and play fast,” Early said. “Defense is all about playing fast and thinking less. In college football nowadays, guys come in and out every year so you have to be able to build chemistry and a bond with your teammates quickly and the coaches are the same way.”

While some might see Southeast Missouri State as having an advantage for having already seen game action, Sanchez looks at it a different way.

“Right now, where we’re at, I kind of like it,” said Sanchez. “We might be a little more of a mystery for them because our personnel is so new. I’m excited about some of these guys nobody has seen yet.”

Golf industry data strong, hopefully sustainable

The Economic Impact Study commissioned by the American Golf Industry Coalition and conducted by the National Golf Foundation in 2023 reveals that the direct impact of golf in the U.S. in 2022 was $102 billion, while the indirect and induced (secondary) impact was $125 billion, bringing the total impact to a whopping $227 billion.

Within the context of these figures, core industries make up $56 billion, including golf facility revenue, golf retail, supplies and manufacturers, golf tournaments and money for charities. Another $46 billion comes from golf-related tourism and golf real estate. The portion of the total included in the indirect impact of $125 billion comes from golf-related labor, building and other factors. For instance, when a Topgolf goes up in a city, there is often an adjacent hotel and the ripple effect nearby is palpable.

The game of golf enables over 1.65 million jobs, including more than one million directly tied to the industry. All of these figures spell over a 20 percent increase from 2016. The NGF has also conducted economic research studies for many of the individual states in the U.S.. These studies are essential for emphasizing and communicating golf's profound and wide-ranging effects.

Approximately one in seven Americans actively participate in golf in some form, while the game's overall reach (including watching, streaming and/or reading about it) extends to about one-third of the population.

Alternative forms of golf, such as Topgolf, practice ranges, simulators and other golf entertainment venues, have helped push the game's overall participation base past 41 million – up 30 percent from 32 million in 2016, per NGF data.

With the Great Recession beginning in 2008 and lasting until 2016, golf was in a spiral of decline. Hundreds of golf courses closed and millions quit golf. When the Covid-19 pandemic hit in early 2020, the resurgence started in golf with the likes not seen since the Tiger Woods-induced golf boom starting in 1997.

With the popularity of golf surging, there are serious challenges to be faced if the growth is to be sustained. One is water, a precious, ever scarcer resource, particularly in the west. Agriculture is the top priority. Another is ongoing controversy over land use. There are anti-golf lobbyists who consider golf courses a very inefficient use of land assets because they allow only a limited number of participants at any one time on a large piece of well-watered ground. The city of San Francisco shut down the public Presidio Golf Course in early 2020 and made it a park for “residents looking for fresh air.” The treasured Melreese Golf Course in south Florida closed in 2023 to be developed into a soccer park and stadium. In some parts of the country, golf has a battle on its hands.

Golf courses require a lot of maintenance to keep them playable, and that means a lot of labor and machinery. Higher inflation is a big concern not only for the profitability of golf facilities, but to attracting and keeping club membership and the well-being of daily fee and destination courses.

The surge in golf following Covid, in many ways, was an aberrant phenomenon, not to be welcomed in the future. As my friend, Larry Hirsh, of Golf Property Analysts, has stated: “The game and industry of golf in particular have survived lots of ‘ups and downs.’ Golf will survive any potential decline as well. The key is to anticipate and avoid or minimize that decline by broadening appeal.”

Lastly, a difficulty that golf will have to face sooner rather than later is the fact that so many wannabe golfers are put off by the excessive time it takes to play 18 holes. Amen.
