Retired state senator mourned statewide

ALGERNON D'AMMASSA Las Cruces Bulletin

John Arthur Smith, a longtime New Mexico Senator who secured his reputation for fiscal conservatism as chair of the powerful Senate Finance Committee, died at his home in Deming early on Monday. Lt. Governor Howie Morales confirmed rumors of Smith's passing at an annual meeting of the New Mexico Oil and Gas Association and penned a tribute calling the retired lawmaker a "mentor, confidant and friend."

Smith was 82. A cause of death was not immediately announced, but the Albuquerque Journal reported that he had been diagnosed with stomach cancer earlier in the year.

"John Arthur's frugal care of the state's finances reflected the rural, ranch and small business values of the area he was raised in and represented for 32 years, Senate District 35, covering all of Luna and Hidalgo counties down to the border of Mexico, including part of Doña Ana County," Morales wrote on his Facebook page. "He was the consummate gentleman, honest and compassionate, and cared deeply for the people of New Mexico. As a legislator, he sponsored full-day kindergarten and consistently supported annual increases in funding for preschool, extended school year programs, and home visitations for pregnant mothers and new parents."

Smith, a real estate appraiser who regularly mixed with constituents in the lobby of Deming's post office or at La Fonda Restaurant, where he had a dedicated table, served in the state senate from 1989 until 2020, when he stepped down a month before his final term expired.

He defined himself politically as a "Truman Democrat" and guardian of "the public dollar." The latter also earned him the nickname of "Dr. No" from former Gov. Bill Richardson, a fellow Democrat, for turning away spending proposals even when they were favored by Richardson and other Democrats.

"I've had to say no, not because I was against the policy, but just because I didn't know how to pay for things," Smith told the Las Cruces Sun-News in 2020, following his surprise defeat in that year's Democratic primary.

Smith was succeeded by Elephant Butte Republican Crystal Diamond Brantley, who made her first run for statewide office on a promise to emulate Smith's frugality. On Monday, Brantley wrote on Facebook, "Though we came from opposite ends of the political spectrum, we shared a positive vision for the future of New Mexico through fiscal prudence and economic opportunity. Our rural roots made us more alike than different."

"Senator Smith was committed to fiscal responsibility while consistently aiming to improve quality of life for all New Mexicans," Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham

When Foreigner played the song at the Pan American Center in Las Cruces on Oct. 9, after this issue of the Bulletin went to press, the band's current lead singer, Kelly Hansen, was set to be joined onstage by 25 children from the Zia Middle School Choir.

Council sends money to homeless outreach

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Las Cruces City Council voted unanimously to give Mesilla Valley Community of Hope $164,000 to expand an outreach program to unhoused Las Crucens.

The Homeless Outreach Program allows COH staff to reach unhoused residents and connect them to services that might not be able to get to COH's campus.

According to a presentation to the council, those services include transportation, day shelters, assistance and referrals to other services, employment-related activities and questioning of person identification.

Despite the council's unanimous vote on Oct. 7, Councilor Bill Mattiace used the opportunity to press COH Director Nicole Martinez about other operations – in particular, Camp Hope, a transitional housing project that serves about 50 residents by providing them with space to camp and obtain services as they seek permanent housing.

Mattiace suggested that the city rely more on "private enterprise," as he put it, to build temporary housing. Martinez disagreed with the suggestion.

During the exchange, Mattiace interrupted Martinez multiple times, prompting her to push back on the councilor with, "I'd sure love to finish my sentences."

Martinez also interrupted Mattiace a few times, most notably when Mattiace said a private developer built dozens of housing units in a neighboring community for around a million dollars.

"That's not correct," Martinez said.

After the exchange, Councilor Johana Bencomo seemingly took a shot at Mattiace, saying, "It's important to get news from lots of places, not just Facebook Community Watch," referring to a local social media group before reading a recent Santa Fe New Mexican article on Camp Hope.

Bencomo also thanked Martinez and the outreach team for their work.

Martinez said the outreach team consists of four people and that the program's roots lie in calls from the community or councilors.

"We'd often get people calling and saying 'Hey, there's someone off of Telshor. Can you please go up and outreach to them? Do they know about COH? Do they know how to get food?" Martinez said. "And we said, 'the people who work at COH aren't just expendable like that."

According to the presentation, the program has assisted 128 people since July and is on track to reach more people than last year.

City allocates $278K for roof repairs at Jardin de los Niños

JUSTIN GARCIA
Las Cruces Bulletin

The Las Cruces City Council voted 7-0 on Oct. 7 to send $278,500 to Jardin de los Niños for building repair efforts, seeking to replace the roof of the city-owned building where the nonprofit resides.

Jardin de Los Niños, which operates a daycare for homeless and nearhomeless children, uses a city-owned building on the Mesilla Valley Community of Hope campus with a roof that requires repair.

According to city housing program specialist Raymond Burchfield, the money allocated from the federal grant covers less than half of the project's estimated cost of $650,000.

"That's a rough estimation at this point," Burchfield said, adding that Jardin de los Niños has also secured about $250,000 in state funds for a total of $528,500.

Councilor Johana Bencomo asked Burchfield how Jardin de los Niños would cover the remaining gap.

"Further state funding," Burchfield said. "So far, the city has not thrown in any more money, but that is always at your discretion."

Natalie Green, the city's housing and neighborhood services administrator, said the project is currently in the design phase, even as efforts are underway to find the rest of the money. Green also noted that a lease agreement between Jardin de Los Niños and the city requires the city to address issues with the building's roof.

"We'll continue to work with them, either to design to the existing budget or find additional resources," Green said.

The project's two funding sources so far are the Community Development Block Grant, a federal housing and urban development infrastructure funding source, and capital outlay, money assigned by state legislators for brick-and-mortar projects.

According to documents submitted with the proposal, the roof needs a complete replacement.

During the discussion, several councilors said the organization provides vital services for children in the community. "I think Jardin de Los Niños is something that we really have to protect and make sure that it continues with its services," said Councilor Yvonne Flores. "I'd hate to see it close down because there is a flaw in the building."

Councilor Bill Mattiace asked if the city was "behind on maintenance" on the building. Burchfield said he wasn't aware whether the roof replacement had been delayed but noted that the building was over 20 years old.

"As a city, I don't know where we're throwing all the money, but we should maintain what we have (including) this program and this building," Mattiace said.

Police continue probe into fatal shooting

BULLETIN REPORT

Police are continuing to investigate the death of a 33-year-old man who was shot to death last week.

No charges have been filed, but a police and city spokesperson, Dan Trujillo, said, "All involved persons have been identified and interviewed."

Despite this, police have yet to release the man's name or provide additional details about his death after announcing it on Oct. 3.

The 33-year-old man was shot in a home on the 800 block of Holly Street, at around 9:50 p.m. on Oct. 2, according to a news release. The man was transported to a local hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

"Investigators with the Criminal Investigation Section believe the deceased and the resident of the home had previously been in a relationship. The nature of their relationship, as well as the motive for the shooting, remains under investigation," police said.

When asked if the death was being investigated as a murder, Trujillo said, "The case is being investigated as a homicide. The investigation will determine whether or not it's justified."

Early voting opens in Doña Ana County

BULLETIN REPORT

If you're planning to vote in this election, chances are you've made up your mind. According to a SurveyUSA/KOB-TV poll from late September, just 3 percent of New Mexicans likely to vote are undecided in the presidential race.

When you know, you know. So why not get it out of the way early?

Early voting begins on Oct. 8, expands to more locations across the county on Oct. 19 and ends Nov. 2.

Until Oct. 19, residents looking to cast their ballot early must use the Doña Ana County Government Center polling center. The building is open Monday to Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Starting on Oct. 19, voters can choose from polling places across the county from 11 a.m to 7 p.m. Those locations are:

City of Las Cruces employees accept special achievement award

CITY OF LAS CRUCES

This past summer, three City of Las Cruces employees, led by Utilities Management Information System (MIS) Manager Courtney Granite, were in San Diego, California to accept a prestigious international award.

Granite, along with GIS Analysts Heather Glaze (Public Works) and Alex Samaniego (Community Development), accepted the 2024 SAG (Special Achievement in GIS) award for the City. The award was presented to Las Cruces and other organizations at the Esri User Conference in July. Ersi is an international leader in GIS software and mapping and has a Small Government Enterprise Agreement with the City.

Receiving the award was "very exciting," said Granite, who has been with the City for 12 years, and became Utilities MIS Manager in February. The award recognizes the success of the City's Connect Las Cruces program, which began in 2022 to expand and modernize the enterprise Geographic Information System (GIS) to all City departments, including all lines of business within the Utilities Department.

Using the theme of "The power of visualizing your data," Granite met with managers and staff across departments to grow Connect Las Cruces and she made tremendous strides in incorporating geospatial data to everything that they do. "What we're doing really matters," Granite said. "I am passionate about it."

The number of users has more than tripled over the last two years. Expanding the program by increasing the number of users across all departments means employees at all levels have another tool in their toolbox to manage data and collaborate to improve the lives of residents.

They have adopted a new approach to how they work together, not only citywide, but throughout the region, as the City creates GIS partnerships with Doña Ana County, El Paso Electric and other governmental entities, businesses and organizations.

In presentations about the Connect Las Cruces Playbook (the city's GIS action plan) to the Las Cruces City Council, the New Mexico Geographic Information Council and a recent New Mexico State University colloquium, Granite has shown how a more modern and integrated GIS system can help Las Cruces Utilities, and all departments, increase transparency and data standardization, improve reporting and boost data-driven decision making.

For example, Granite said Utilities has developed "geographically based data solutions" using U.S. Census data to guide rate-making decisions, especially as they impact low- and moderate-income populations. Housing and Neighborhood Services is using GIS to track how many city-assisted affordable housing units exist in Las Cruces and the number of affordable housing multi-family apartment complexes are to be added going forward. GIS data is helping the Meals on Wheels program make faster deliveries and reduce food waste by improving driver routes. The Las Cruces Police Department has seen reductions in call response times, with more than 175 LCPD officers and department staff now using GIS.

A key part of the self-service technology approach, focuses on the Connect Onsite training program, that includes participants from the Las Cruces Utilities and other departments to continuously develop and host GIS training workshops to communicate the Connect Las Cruces vision and increase buy-in among employees. Participants are asked to bring data from their own departments, so they immediately see how GIS benefits the projects they are working on.

"When someone requests a task, for me it's just a task," Samaniego said in "Las Cruces Uses the Power of Visualizing Its Data," a story on the esri. com website. "But if they know how to use the program and it's their own work, they're going to have a higher investment in the outcome and be more creative. By giving everyone the tools, the products we put out as a city will improve because we're all working on what we care about rather than simply completing tasks."

said in a statement issued Monday afternoon. "His leadership of the Senate Finance Committee helped put the state on sound financial footing and earned respect from colleagues across the political spectrum."

Smith effectively presided over state spending in boom years as well as dry years, cutting budgets when revenues were low and urging caution when they were high. ("When you have money, the tone is better," he quipped in a 2018 interview with the Deming Headlight.) He staunchly resisted proposals to increase expenditures from New Mexico's Land Grant Permanent Fund, which provides over $1 billion annually for educational institutions.

Smith's primary defeat by first-time candidate Noemi Martinez-Parra of Lordsburg signaled a shift in Democratic politics in New Mexico, as a number of Democratic incumbents faced challenges from within the party over a 2019 effort to repeal a 1969 law criminalizing abortion care in the state. The law was unenforceable at the time, but proponents anticipated it could go back into effect if the U.S. Supreme Court struck down its 1971 Roe v. Wade ruling that treated abortion as a constitutional right. Smith was among several Democrats who joined Republicans in voting the bill down. Martinez-Parra cited that vote as an inspiration for her 2020 run. which ended in her loss to Brantley. (New Mexico's repeal of the older law passed in 2021, protecting abortion rights before

After leaving the senate, Smith was frequently seen around Deming, chatting with residents at La Fonda and other public places, offering advice to local organizations and even attending a board meeting of the local chamber of commerce during a difficult transition in its leadership.

the Supreme Court overturned Roe in 2022.)

He lived long enough to receive thanks and accolades for his accomplishments in office.

A bench engraved with his name was installed in front of the historic Luna County Courthouse in 2022. His name also appears on new educational and medical facilities because, while he might have been called "Dr. No," he also said yes to some high-dollar initiatives and helped win state funding for them.

In March of this year, Sierra Vista Hospital in Truth or Consequences named its rural health clinic after Smith, thanking him for securing $35 million in total for the new building and then helping the hospital's parent corporation redesign the project to reduce its cost. Western New Mexico University announced plans in May to name its new educational center in Deming after Smith and his wife, Janette Smith, who survives him.

And on Sept. 14 – three weeks before his passing – former colleagues, state officials and friends took part in a "John Arthur Smith fiesta" celebrating Smith's life at the famed "Pink Store" across the border in Puerto Palomas.

Lumberyard fire labeled 'undetermined'

BULLETIN REPORT

A fire that consumed part of a lumber warehouse late last month caused about $750,000 worth of damage and its cause was officially labeled as 'undetermined,' according to a Las Cruces Fire Department report.

Despite the label, the records also indicated that the fire that torched L&P Building Supply on Sept. 28 likely started when stored foam panels caught fire. Specifically, the report noted that polyurethane foam panels used for waterproofing along with thermal and acoustic insulation in new buildings were likely the first to catch fire. The fire also consumed some stored lumber.

It's unclear from the report what may have ignited the panels, although the report pointed to several electrical devices nearby that may have been the cause.

According to a news release from LCFD, the blaze required some 20 firefighters and was put out in about 20 minutes. The report also noted that firefighters from Fire Station 3, located a few miles away, were some of the first people to see the fire as it bloomed.

SAMMY M. LOPEZ 1955-2024

Sammy Lopez, a longtime New Mexican media leader, passed away surrounded by his family on Sunday, Oct. 6.

He is survived by his beloved wife of 51 years, Kathy Lou Lopez: his cherished daughter, Melinda Lopez; his devoted brother, Victor Lopez; his caring sister, Bertha Benavidez; and his loving grandchildren, Javaris Smith, Jazmine Lopez, and Jeremiah Lopez.

Sammy is preceded in death by his parents, Victor D. and Antonia Gurule Lopez; his son, Anthony Lopez; and his brother, Chris Lopez.

A native of Jarales and a 1973 Belen High School graduate, Sammy spent his lifetime in journalism and newspapers, making significant contributions to the media landscape in

New Mexico. He served as a publisher for newspapers across the state, including in Las Cruces, Farmington, Carlsbad, Ruidoso, Deming, Fort Sumner and the Valencia County News-Bulletin.

Throughout his career, Sammy was recognized for his leadership and passion for journalism. Under his guidance, the newspapers he led were awarded four first-place wins for New Mexico Press Association General Excellence. The Daily Times in Farmington earned recognition from Columbia University in 2008 for its outstanding diversity coverage and editorials. In to the industry extended beyond the newsroom. He was inducted into the NMPA Hall of Fame in 2010 and served on the Board for the Foundation for Open Government. His commitment to journalistic integrity earned him the Dixon First Amendment Freedom Award in 2008.

He served as executive director of the New Mexico Press Association since June 2019.

Sammy enjoyed trying new food, traveling, spending time with his family, golfing and cooking. He was raised on a small family farm in Jarales, and although he lived in New Mexico, Texas, Ohio and Illinois during his lifetime, he returned to his roots on the family farm before his passing. He also received his pilot's license and learned to scuba dive, always seeking new adventures and experiences.

His wife, Kathy, reflects, "We were a great team, and we worked well together through life's challenges. I will miss him dearly, and I will miss his love more than words can say."

His daughter, Melinda, shares, "His love and guidance shaped me into > who I am today, and I will forever cherish every moment we shared. The lessons he taught me are invaluable, and the confidence he instilled in me to face life without fear is a gift I will carry forever. He never accepted mediocrity from me and raised me with the same work ethic he developed. I'm forever grateful that he shaped me into the independent. capable woman I am todav."

His lifetime friend, Rick Jaramillo, adds, "Sammy and I knew each other our entire lives, and he was my best friend. I will miss him for the rest of my life. He was a good man."

From his friend and colleague, Michael Bush: "Sammy loved life so much I kind of thought he would live forever. He put 100 percent of himself into every minute of it, enriching all he loved and everyone who loved him - of which there were many. He loved his family, his heritage, the newspaper industry and the communities he served as a publisher and leader. He was a very good man who always looked for the good in others; he was a very good friend. Although he was not untouched by pain, he tended to keep it private; he once told me that laughter was the greatest thing to share. Today, I laugh when I think of his undving spirit, though that sound is mixed with my tears. Thank you, Sammy, for your many contributions to me both professionally and personally. We shared so many times, both good and challenging. Wherever you went, you were always by my side and the side of all that is noble and kind in this all-tooimperfect world."

His long-time friend, Victor Titus, reflects, "He was a well-respected newspaper publisher and worked in the golden age of newspapers before they were decimated by internet news. The stories he could tell about working for Jack Kent Cooke when Cooke owned the Lakers were fascinating. More recently, he directed the NM Press Association, representing all the print journalists and awarding those who continued in the field all over New Mexico. He was also very involved with the Foundation for Open Government and was dedicated to the public's right to know and speaking truth to power. Though small in stature, he was a giant in his field."

Bryan Bahena, recognized as a son who spent time living with Sammy and his family during his teenage years, shares, "I appreciate everything he's done for me, and those moments mean the world to me. I don't know where I would be today, but I feel that I'm better today because of him."

As the Scripture says, "The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord," and Sammy's journey was blessed with many gifts that have now led him into the arms of the Lord.

Services will be held on Friday, Oct. 18, at Our Lady of Belen Catholic Church in Belen, A visitation will begin at 9 a.m., followed by the Rosary at 10 a.m. and Mass at 10:30 a.m.. Reception details will follow.

Pallbearers will include Rick Jaramillo, Victor Lopez, Barney Lopez, Miguel Lopez, Bryan Bahena and Jarvis Smith.

Sammy Lopez will be remembered for his unwavering dedication to his craft, his community and his family. He leaves behind a legacy of journalistic excellence and advocacy that will not be forgotten.

Experts 'cautiously optimistic' about child poverty rate

LEAH ROMERO

Source New Mexico

Programs such as refundable tax credits play a major role in lifting New Mexican children out of poverty, according to the U.S. Census Bureau's annual supplemental poverty measure released in September.

The supplemental poverty measure is released every September at the state and national levels. It considers anti-poverty programs when determining the rate of poverty, as opposed to the official poverty measure, which only considers wage-based income.

"When you look at the supplemental poverty measure, it's actually measuring the impact of a lot of really strong anti-poverty programs like our tax credits and SNAP programs, and even school lunches are included in that measure. And so it kind of gives us a better sense of basically what a household has in resources," said Emily Wildau, senior research and policy analyst/KIDS COUNT coordinator for New Mexico Voices for Children.

Wildau said the supplemental measure considers the local cost of living along with Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Programs and both state and national tax credits. She said refundable tax credits are shown to have the biggest impact on "lifting kids out of poverty."

This year, the bureau also released a state-level supplemental child poverty measure, an average of the data collected between 2021 and 2023.

Experts are "cautiously optimistic" about New Mexico's child poverty rate continuing to decrease based on supplemental poverty measure data released by the U.S. Census Bureau in September.

three-year period is 27.4 percent under the official poverty measure, placing the state last in the U.S. Under the supplemental poverty measure, the rate drops to 8.9 percent and brings New Mexico up to 17th in the country. The national supplemental measure average is 10.4 percent.

"This information is crucial for lawmakers as it shows how antipoverty policies improve children's daily lives by providing essential resources that enhance well-being and lead to better long-term outcomes for families," said Gabrielle Uballez, executive director of NM Voices for Children. "It's equally exciting to note that this data doesn't even count one of the state's newest anti-poverty policies – the Child Tax Credit."

Wildau said the state's Child Tax Credit was only recently enacted for the 2023 tax year and will show up in the data starting next September. This year's data set also still includes years when federal COVID-19 pandemic policies were still in place.

She said this new data can shape the policies presented during the upcoming New Mexico legislative session in early 2025.

"Our state Child Tax Credit is still relatively new, but we could also do more with it. We could increase it specifically for families with young children under 6," Wildau said. "Just really funding and supporting improvements for implementation of programs and really removing barriers that exist for folks to enroll can also be really helpful."

Barriers include limited transportation or physical access to offices where program applications can be submitted. Expanded internet connections can solve some of these problems for people in rural communities, Wildau said. Staffing the agencies that provide these programs is also important to consider.

She added that the big change that would lower poverty in the state is raising the minimum wage. Other long-term solutions Wildau listed were to "robustly support" early childhood education through higher education to improve outcomes for the next generations.

"We know that poverty is a policy choice," Uballez said. "We build upon our success by continuing to enact policies that work for our kids and families to improve access to benefits while also exploring new opportunities to build wealth, raise wages, and break generational cycles of poverty."

Wildau said that while the data shows improvement for New Mexicans, she is remaining "cautiously optimistic" going forward as programs drop off and others take their place.

City condemns parking lot for new monitoring well

BULLETIN REPORT

The Las Cruces City Council voted unanimously to use 'eminent domain' on a small portion of a shopping center parking lot to establish a groundwater monitoring well to monitor a chemical plume.

The vote condemned a portion of the parking lot near Best Buy on East Lohman but is not expected to affect parking access to businesses in the area. The city was forced to use eminent domain, a legal right of governments to force the sale of private property for public use, after they said the parking lot's owners refused to sell.

"Eminent domain is not something that we're using liberally in any context on the city council," said Councilor Becky Corran.

The chemical plume stems from industrial uses in the Griggs and Walnut area. The city has known about a plume of cancer-causing perchloroethylene (PCE) in the area for decades and has taken steps to remediate the plume.

Adrienne Widmer, the city utilities director, said the action was necessary to comply with federal regulators' deadlines after the city capped a well near Solano and Hadley to build a swimming pool.

National Newspaper Week about community

News organizations across the nation are observing National Newspaper Week, which is one reason vou will find quotations about newspapers sprinkled throughout this edition of the Bulletin.

As it happens, early voting opened Tuesday at the Doña Ana County government building in Las Cruces. At noon, I counted 150 waiting in a line extending all the way to the north entrance. A couple that had made it about half the distance, in front of the commissioners'

chambers, said they had been in line a little more than half an hour. (On Oct. 19. more early voting locations open and waits should ease.)

Fditorial Sadly, you will also find an extended obituary for Sammy Lopez, a man with ink in his veins and a passion for newspapers.

He had been a publisher of newspapers all over the state and beyond, including the Las Cruces Sun-News and Deming Headlight, and was serving as executive director of the New Mexico Press Association when he passed away on Oct. 6.

Watching people line up to participate in an election was a fitting scene for National Newspaper Week. Local news matters in ways large and small indeed, "the small stuff," the local sports scores and celebrations, community information, local advertisers, and workings of local businesses and public agencies, are not "small" matters to the community.

A statement attributed to Walter Cronkite holds. "Freedom of the press is not just important to democracy, it is democracy." If that is true, the newspaper is not only an instrument of democracy but also of community.

National Newspaper Week is a celebration not of paper products alone as so many readers now consume their news online - but of news: Local news, local reporting that does not mess around with its readers, highquality reviews and analysis, varied opinions based on facts and argument: a venue for a community's conversation.

NM elections No. 1 in MIT ranking

Of all the reforms passed during the administration of former Gov. Bill Richardson, and it was a busy eight years, perhaps none has had the same lasting positive impact as the election reform bill of 2005.

Before then, the state had no uniform system from county to county, and relied heavily on electronic voting machines with no paper trail. We were consistently ranked at the bottom of national reports on election security and convenience.

The 2005 law required all counties to use paper ballots that are scanned by a counting machine, and then saved for review later if needed. And it brought uniformity to the system.

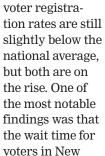

With that and other changes, our elections are now the best administered in the nation, according to a recent report by MIT. The Election Performance Index looked at the 2022 election through 18 different metrics measuring access and security that are then averaged to give each state an EPI score. The lowest score was Mississippi, at 56 percent. Nothing new there. What is new is that New Mexico is not scraping with them to avoid the worst-place ranking.

Instead, we ranked first in the nation at 88 percent. That is up from just 62 percent in 2014, when we ranked 38th in the nation.

Our voter turnout and Mexico is, on average, less than four minutes.

We also scored well for access to voter information, resolving problems with absentee ballots and a rejection rate for registrations of less than 1 percent. The national average is more than 6 percent.

Only 0.1 percent of our mail-in ballots were rejected, and none of those were military or overseas ballots. And we had a much smaller percentage of provisional ballots cast and rejected than other states. Those are ballots cast by voters when there is a dispute about their eligibility at the polling place.

I suppose critics can look at the small number of ballots rejected and argue that indicates a lack of security. But there is nothing in the rankings to back up that claim.

In 2023, the New Mexico Legislature passed a bill that automatically registers voters at the MVD; restores the voting rights of former convicts; creates a voluntary permanent absentee voter list; requires both same-day registration at polling places and at least two secured ballot drop boxes per county; and enacts the nation's first Native American Voting Rights Act.

All of these changes will undoubtedly increase the number of eligible voters who participate in the election.

Voting has never been easier. Early voting started Tuesday at the County Government Building. If 2022 is any indication, there may be lines for the first few days, but they move quickly. Expanded early voting begins at sites throughout the county on Oct. 19.

I will have already voted by the time this is published, and will spend the rest of the election

WALT RUBEL The View From Here

Time for accountability over indigent care

YOLANDA R. DIAZ Guest columnist

Every resident has a need to access health care, regardless of income, regardless of color, being brown, black, white, regardless of insurance, etc.

I am reflecting on the past few years of advocating for Doña Ana County residents that have needed to access health care at Memorial Medical Center, especially cancer treatment.

These issues are multidimensional, complex and convoluted. It will take a multipronged approach to address and take corrective action. I am grateful that an op-ed I wrote for the Albuquerque Journal got the attention of NBC reporter Gretchen Morgenson. I am grateful for Gretchen's reporting, which caused the movement we needed. There has been much media attention since, both national and local, exposing issues I've been calling out since 2021.

Recently I attempted to find out if Memorial Medical Center provided a response by its Sept. 30 deadline to the city's notice of breach, pertaining to terms of the hospital's lease of public land. Among the city's demands was for Memorial to "provide all reports setting forth the costs of expanded care services provided between 2018 and 2024."

I submitted record requests to both the city and Doña Ana County requesting Memorial's expanded care services reports – required under the lease – in June 2022 and September 2024. Both agencies said there were no responsive documents. So I questioned: Did Memorial Medical Center already violate the lease?

Fast forward to the June 11, 2024 Doña Ana County Board of County Commissioners' meeting when Laura Thomas, CFO of Memorial Medical Center, told commissioners, "My understanding is that in 2016 – I wasn't here – there was a decision made to remove the cancer indigent care out of the lease agreement. And so that was removed out."

Prior to that meeting,
I had made public record requests from Doña Ana County. These included the 2015 and 2016 Memorial Medical Center
County Healthcare Assistance Program policies, which included Memorial's policy name change from Expanded Care Services/Community Benefit Program Policy to CHAP.
Outpatient oncology and chemo services and outpatient dialysis were excluded under CHAP.

This showed me why I witnessed residents having issues accessing cancer treatment. Memorial Medical Center removed cancer from their policy. I question whether this was legal to do in the first place. Did it violate the lease, since cancer was specifically included in the lease's 2004 policy?

The Indigent Hospital and County Health Care Act states: "A qualifying hospital shall accept every indigent patient who seeks health care services from the qualifying hospital." It also says, "a qualifying hospital shall annually report to the county within which it is located the total costs of health care services provided in the previous calendar year." I requested these reports from our county, but Doña Ana County didn't have reports related to this statute since 2013.

Who knew about these changes in 2015 of 2016, was it disclosed in public meetings with public input, and was there oversight as to whether the policy change violated the lease?

It is past time to shine a light on these decisions, at Memorial Medical Center, the county and city.

Why won't Gabe debate?

Democratic Rep. Gabe Vasquez has declined to debate his Republican challenger, Yvette Herrell, on October 16 on KOB-TV.
In stark contrast, Yvette
Herrell has made it clear that she values this opportunity to engage with voters and present her policies so New Mexicans can make an informed decision ahead of the upcoming election.

Is he afraid his stance against closing the border and voting against the proposed Laken Riley Act to protect the victims of illegal immigrant criminals will be exposed?

New Mexicans need to hear from Gabe Vasquez. Why won't Gabe Vasquez debate his challenger?

season as an interested spectator.

It is a fallacy to suggest we have to choose between security and convenience. With an adherence to uniform policies and procedures, we can and do have both. This national ranking is an affirmation of both our election laws and the men and women who faithfully execute them. It should give voters increased confidence when they go to the polls in the coming days.

SHOES IN THE NEWS

When early voting opened Tuesday at the Doña Ana County government building, state Sen. Carrie Hamblen, D-Las Cruces, arrived to cast her ballot in colorful running shoes she decorated herself. Hamblen said the Converse sneakers were originally inspired by Vice President Kamala Harris (who often wears Chuck Taylors), while the rainbow colors were Hamblen's own addition, using fabric markers: "There were all-white Converse, and I gayed them up." She said she wore the shoes during last weekend's Pride celebrations; and with high turnout and long lines to vote Tuesday, comfortable footwear was a prudent choice, however stylish.

Young actor captivates as Anne Frank at LCCT

MEGAN MCQUEENFor the Bulletin

People sometimes attend performances of "The Diary of Anne Frank" and do not realize that it is a true story. The Las Cruces Community Theatre's current production, directed by Norman Lewis, makes certain that audiences know that Anne Frank's tale is distressing nonfiction.

Her story is detailed in the diary she had just started when she went into hiding in an attic in Nazi-occupied Amsterdam in 1942. Her two vears of writings were not merely adolescent musings; she consciously crafted a draft of this diary documenting the experience of eight Jews in hiding during the Holocaust with the intention of it being read widely. Though her world did so much to negate the value of her voice, she remarkably felt that her viewpoint was important, and she intended to oversee the publishing of her writing. At the time of her death in the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp, she had no way of knowing that her father would live and oversee the publishing of her work.

Far from merely being published, the work has been translated into at least 70 languages and sold over 30 million copies. Significantly, though her father had used his own discretion in its initial editing, future revisions of the work have usually focused on honoring the diarist's intended content.

While its Broadway debut might have been most recognized for its 16-year-old star Natalie Portman, many of the female playwright's revisions resonate with modern youth.

At last weekend's matinee, it was heartwarming to see so many parents bringing their children to witness this powerful story. During a remarkable passage taken straight from the first diary, Anne describes the experience of her first menstrual cycles as "a sweet secret." Considering the unnecessary shame carried by so many generations of young women whose bodies prepare to possibly bear children, it was fun to watch the siblings seated in front of me acknowledge Frank's radical

Play 'Good People' examines success and poverty

BULLETIN REPORT

David Lindsay-Abaire's Tony-nominated drama, "Good People," opens next weekend at No Strings Theatre Company in downtown Las Cruces.

Through an ensemble of characters, the 2011 play probes poverty, working class and middle class life and social tropes about economic status and personal virtue. In a news release, the theatre wrote: "Does a successful life require hard work? Good luck? Both? And how do we define those we refer to as 'good people?' With unusual skill and sensitivity David Lindsay-Abaire explores the worlds of both 'selfmade' success and lingering poverty."

The script was nominated for several "out-

The No Strings production of "Good People," directed by Nikka Ziemer, runs Oct. 18 thru Nov. 3 at the Black Box Theatre, 430 N. Main Street. The production features set design by Joshua Taulbee, light design by assistant director Bekah Taulbee REVIEW and costume design by Autumn Gieb. Darlene De Mondo is the stage manager and prop designer.

Performances are 8 p.m. on Fridays, Oct. 18, 25 and Nov. 1; and Saturdays, Oct. 19, 26 and Nov. 2. There are Sunday matinées on Oct. 27 and Nov. 3 at 2:30 p.m. as well as a Thursday performance on Oct. 31 at 7 p.m.. Tickets are $18 regular admission, $15 for students and seniors over, and all seats on Thursday are $12.

speech, emphasizing focus on the introductory slides of text detailing the context of the narrative. Many around me affirmed my feeling that the textheavy projections moved too quickly for most readers, but the essence was clear: The story is true.

A marker of a Lewisdirected cast is that every actor, no matter how small the role, is certain of their individual purpose in the larger point of the play. From the impeccable leading lady Mia Berkson as Anne to the versatile Brad Cristian Martinez as one of three intruding Nazis, the performances are calibrated to convey the story effectively.

Berkson, who has performed seven roles for LCCT, is free of the roboticism that inflicts many child actors. Her Anne is inquisitive, genuine, optimistic, infuriated and playful. She takes the turns of a complex. hormonal teen with ease and her lengthy speeches are captivating. The audience could benefit from her raising her focal point so that we can witness the expression in her eves more consistently during monologues in which she is not writing.

As Anne's mother, Nora Brown honors the complications of the loving but tense relationship many parents experience with their precocious, somewhat rebellious teens. Lauren Roman and Logan Ivy bring a poetic sensibility to the roles of Anne's introverted sister Margot and reserved love interest Peter respectively. Dustin Wright and Eric DuMond inhabit the roles of lovable, multi-faceted fathers thoughtfully. There is a fun heightened quality to Shari DuMond's dramatic Mrs. van Daan and Hannah Dalager's good-doing Miep Gies.

Designers James Billings (scenic), Dan Robillard (lighting), Jamie Sharp (costumes), Jonathan Danielson (hair) and Lennie Brown (properties) supported the story well, doing little to pull us from the 1940s world in which we were to be enrapt. LCCT has long benefited from the expertise and tireless effort of Doug Roby, who served as technical director.

Performances of this worthwhile collaboration continue through October 20. Details can be found at LCCTNM.org.

TRIPPING FOR SCIENCE

Southern New Mexico Psychedelic Medicine Film Festival

DAVID SALCIDO

Las Cruces Bulletin

As the mental health crisis continues to surge in the United States, the question of how best to address it has become a hot button topic. With the release in July of Mental Health America's annual "State of Mental Health in America Report" showing that nearly 60 million adults have experienced mental illness in the past year, and a staggering 13 million have reported serious thoughts of suicide, the need for solutions has never been so dire.

But what if there were a possible solution, albeit one that has been demonized for half a century? Would it be worth our time to study it? The people behind Sol Tryp – a nonprofit organization located in Las Cruces whose mission has been for equitable mental health care using psychedelic medicines – would like to weigh in on the argument.

To do so, they have put together a three-day event at the Fountain Theatre they're calling the Southern New Mexico Psychedelic Medicine Film Festival. Consisting of three independently produced documentaries that demonstrate how plant medicines are changing lives – "Dosed: The Movie," "Dosed: The Trip of a Lifetime," and "Fantastic Fungi" – the festival is a mind-opening journey through the world of psychedelics.

Mat Martins, a volunteer at Sol Tryp and a former scientist working for Pfizer, believes these are films that should be seen by anybody with an interest in mental health: specifically, how the topic can be addressed in today's tumultuous political sphere.

"Each of these films has its own narrative about why these medicines are important, what kind of patient populations they serve, why they have been scheduled the way they have in the United States and internationally, where they come from and the science behind them," he said. "They're all pretty fascinating and valuable films. They're interesting even if you're not willing to try psychedelics, because it's a topic that hasn't been very public for quite a long while."

The reason for that is simple, albeit controversial. In the 1970s the federal government classified psychedelics as Schedule 1 substances, making them illegal to possess even for research. But with evolving norms concerning nontraditional healing practices, including the use of marijuana for medicinal purposes, the way has been opened for reconsideration of psychedelics.

"We've sort of reached a tipping point with our mental health crisis," Martins said. "A lot of people are in need and suddenly we're being perceived in a positive light. People are calling it a kind of renaissance. It's interesting to see how many people have been waiting on the sidelines for things to change, and now that the rules that punish people who step outside the boundaries are relaxing a little, it's like they're coming out of the closet, so to speak. These films will, we hope, foster that change."

In keeping with the scientific approach to the subject, each of the film screenings will be followed by a discussion moderated by Sol Tryp.

"We're hoping to get a feel for how people react to the information that has been given, but also whether or not they feel this is something that should be made accessible to New Mexicans," he said. "These discussions are really meant to set the stage, because we're working with legislators to write bills and we want to understand where people stand on the topic, and who are willing to speak up and share their own stories.

"I will say, however, that this isn't for everybody," he cautions. "If you're not willing to see the hard truth about what people are going through in terms of mental health, don't see these movies. 'Fantastic Fungii' is an awesome movie to just chill out and enjoy, but the other two are really difficult. The subject matter affects all of us. Watching them, you'll realize just how much our government has been suppressing possible solutions. It's very eye-opening."

"Dosed: The Movie" will screen at 2 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 12. "Dosed: The Trip of a Lifetime" will screen at 2 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 13. "Fantastic Fungi" will screen at 2 p.m., Monday, Oct. 14. All three will be followed by an open discussion until 5 p.m. The Fountain Theatre is located at 2469 Calle de Guadalupe, in Mesilla.

SPOTFRAUD. STOPFRAUD.

Prevent fraud by knowing exactly how to spot it before it happens! If an offer looks too good to be true — quick, easy money offers, unsolicited job offers on social media, impersonators requesting a money transfer, or voice calls and text messages asking for login credentials — it's probably a scam. Follow these simple steps to stay safe from fraud.

HOW TO PREVENT FRAUD

1. Stop and analyze the situation

Is the seller, company, charity, organization or person credible? Contact the local or state consumer agencies to verify the legitimacy of the company. Verify the phone number on the company's website or the person's identity before giving out any of your personal information or clicking any links.

2. Never give out your personal information

Scammers can email or call asking you to verify your personal information. Do NOT give them any information, including one-time passcodes. Most reputable companies will not initiate contact to ask for your information.

3. Contact your financial institution immediately

If you've given out your personal information or a one-time passcode, time is of the essence. The sooner you contact your financial institution, the better.

Pioneering Spirits

El Camino Real and the origin of Las Cruces

From the National Park Service Besides its original adobe homes, the Mesquite district is known for colorful. Territorial-style storefronts and commercial buildings decked with art, like this building on Mesquite Street, seen on Oct. 8, 2024. (Las Cruces Bulletin photos by Algernon D'Ammassa)

The Mesquite District is a centuries-old neighborhood at the cultural core of one of southern New Mexico's oldest communities. As a drive or walk through the district reveals, the area's eclectic collection of homes and small businesses reflect the pioneering spirits of those who set down roots along the southerly path of El Camino Real de Tierra Adentro, then known as the Chihuahua Trail, after the Mexican-American War.

The original town site for modern-day Las Cruces, and a oncebustling section of El Camino Real, the Mesquite Historic District today stretches across Campo, San Pedro, Tornillo and Mesquite streets between Chestnut and Colorado avenues.

The original town site for modern-day Las Cruces, and a once-bustling section of El Camino Real, the Mesquite Historic District today stretches across Campo, San Pedro, Tornillo and Mesquite streets between Chestnut and Colorado avenues. From its block-long cemetery and grassy Klein Park to its whimsical gardens, mom-and-pop cafes and the home of the renowned Border Book Festival, the district is a colorful but unassuming counterpoint to the urban sprawl of greater Las Cruces, New Mexico's second largest city. Its charming, homegrown hodgepodge of adobe architecture and vernacular styles offers a unique drive-by lesson on the social and cultural development of 19th- and 20th-century Las Cruces and southern New Mexico.

Las Cruces was established in the wake of the 1848 Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, when residents from the village of Doña Ana ventured six miles south along El Camino Real to settle a share of arable land in the central Mesilla Valley. As laid out by the U.S. Army in a plat signed by Doña Ana County Sheriff Samuel Bean, brother of the legendary Judge Roy Bean, the new town spanned approximately 76 blocks above the floodplain on the valley's east side. The town was bordered on the west by the Acequia Madre irrigation ditch and on the east by El Camino Real.

The Army's offer of free land drew a mix of Mexican-Americans, Pueblo Indian descendants and Eastern-Americans to the tract overlooking the river valley where, prior to the Spanish incursion in New Mexico, the Manso Indians had lived. Although documents from the 17th and 18th centuries refer to the site as La Ranchería, a Camino Real paraje (rest stop), town leaders called the new community Las Cruces (The Crosses).

One hundred and twelve settlers risked the danger to move to Las Cruces. After picking numbers from a hat to vie for the best home sites, they built a traditional, mostly adobe, community of small, low-slung houses with simple floor plans, and flat or low gable roofs. The earliest homes were in a cluster close together, their facades forming walls of protection along the street edge with courtyards stretching to the rear. The 1851 creation of nearby Fort Fillmore led to less defense-oriented structures that reflected the growing Anglo influences in the region as American settlers and trade items moved in greater numbers along El Camino Real. Taller gables and a wide variety of parapets, as well as Territorial brick coping, pedimented lintels, chamfered columns and spindle friezes brought vitality and variety to the town site's traditional architecture.

Las Cruces developed slowly supported mainly by trading, freighting, farming and some mining in the Organ Mountains. As Chihuahua Trail traders, American freighters and others took up residence, the town site expanded to the east and north. In addition to general stores and rooming houses, bars and brothels be> came part of the mix. Las Cruces became a playground for area cowboys, miners and soldiers from Fort Fillmore and Fort Selden, earning a reputation as a rowdy and dangerous town.

Despite its prime El Camino Real location, Las Cruces gained only modest growth and commercial success compared to neighboring El Paso and La Mesilla. With the arrival of the railroad in the 1880s, city leaders donated land on the town's west end for a train depot and track.

The railway brought new market opportunities to Las Cruces, but it effectively killed El Camino Real. It also fueled a building boom that further developed the town site's architectural flavor, with highly adorned adobe and brick buildings and residences embellishing the turn-of-the-century streetscape. The growth and modification of established homes had an impact on the area's traditional ambience, but the changes reflected the personality and originality of residents who, rather than moving elsewhere, invested further in their neighborhood.

Today, as home to some 713 historic homes and buildings, the district is only half its original size. In the 1960s, the razing of the entire western part of the district to make room for parking lots and nontraditional architecture was the result of a shortsighted urban renewal project. Other community projects have further altered aspects of the district's original traditional character. Many of the changes contributed to the economic stagnation of the city's old downtown. But recent efforts to boost awareness of El Camino Real and its history in the old neighborhood are heightening local pride in the trail, fueling architectural preservation initiatives and drawing new residents to the area's traditional treasures.

Mour WEEKLY GUIDE TO TV & ENTERTAINMENT

celebrityupdate

BY JAY BOBBIN

Q: I see that the series "Sisters" is streaming now. I know George Clooney was in it, but which character did he play?

A: We can confirm that it wasn't one of the sisters ... though with his famous sense of humor, George Clooney might have given that a try if that opportunity had been presented to him. The drama series, which ran on NBC from 1991 to 1996, is now available to stream via the service Plex. Clooney appeared during the fourth and fifth rounds of the show's six-season run, playing James Falconer, a police detective who became involved with the program's central family when he investigated an assault on one of its members.

George Clooney

Teddy (portrayed by Sela Ward) eventually was Falconer's love interest, with their connection advanced and strengthened by the fact that they both were recovering alcoholics. He had a tragic personal past, for sure, and that background gave Clooney plenty of opportunity to show how he handled dramatic material. That was notable since much of his television work preceding that was in the comedy realm ("The Facts of Life," "Roseanne," etc.).

We won't say much more about Falconer's story here, for the benefit of those who aren't familiar with "Sisters" and may want to check it out. Clooney stayed with NBC and production company Warner Bros. Television by segueing into the medical drama "ER," which cemented his stardom with his portrayal of Dr. Doug Ross. His career after that is the stuff of show-business history, encompassing two Oscar wins (for his acting in 2005's "Syriana" and his producing of 2012's "Argo") but no Primetime Emmy Awards as of yet.

CARRIERS WANTED

Desert Exposure is seeking a part-time delivery person to work one day per month distributing newspapers. Contact Distribution Manager Becky Jimenez at circulation@lascrucesbulletin.com or 575-496-2596.

James Austin Johnson in "Saturday Night Live"

The Kitchen FOOD 9 a.m.

Enjoy the finest dishes of the season as co-hosts Jeff Mauro, Katie Lee Biegel, Sunny Anderson and Geoffrey Zakarian make cozy fall meals, such as beet crostata with agrodolce, acorn squash soup and pork tenderloin with caramelized fennel and apple.

Barrett-Jackson Live Auction HISTORY 2 p.m.

Few things will create this level of car envy when some of the most amazing cars from all categories go on the live auction block looking for new homes. Collector cars, exotic sports cars, classics, hotrods and more rev up buyers in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Haunted Wedding HALL 6 p.m.

Until death do you part — or not. When ghost hunters Jane (Janel Parrish) and Brian (Dominic Sherwood) decide to get married at a haunted inn, resident ghost Angelique (Cassandra Potenza) mistakes him for her own deceased fiancé, making things awkward.

Nobody Dumps My Daughter LIFE 6 p.m.

As Neil Sedaka is fond of saying, "Breaking up is hard to do." Especially if you are dating Theresa (Jasmine Vega), whose mother, Mary (Ana Ortiz), will stop at nothing to keep her daughter in a relationship, including bribery and hiring a hitman.

Love & Marriage: Detroit OWN 6 p.m.

The Motor City keeps thriving, but with Brandon gone, Kristina feels the lack of support as she tries to get her music career moving in the right direction. Then, Anthony gets into some drama when he attends a Man's Movement event.

Vanderpump Rules BRAVO 9 p.m.

It's a gathering of unseen clips as restaurateur Lisa Vanderpump and the cast come together while Ariana is in New York, to look at what cameras have captured — from funny to heart-wrenching — during the season. Expect a heaping helping of drama.

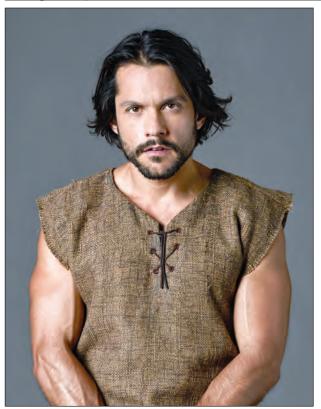

Austin City Limits KRWG 9 p.m.

Grammy-nominated indie pop star Maggie Rogers takes the ACL stage to perform some popular dance floor songs from her album "Don't Forget Me." Plus, musical artist Gracie Abrams sings standout selections from "The Secret of Us," her latest offering.

Saturday Night Live KTSM 9:30 p.m.

Live from New York, it's Saturday Night! This award-winning ensemble sketch comedy series has been entertaining audiences since 1976. Current cast members include Michael Che and Colin Jost. Ariana Grande hosts this episode. Stevie Nicks performs.

Shahar Isaac stars in "The Chosen"

America's Funniest Home Videos KVIA 6 p.m.

When he's not holding down the fort on "Dancing With the Stars," host Alfonso Ribeiro sits back with a studio audience to enjoy the funniest home videos from across the U.S. After viewing all the country has to offer for the week, they vote on the best.

TV on the Edge: Moments That Shaped Our Culture CNN 7 p.m.

If there's one thing you can count on from Kanye West, it's that he is always unpredictable. And in 2005, when Kanye uttered "George Bush doesn't care about Black people" on live television, he laid the groundwork for the Black Lives Matter movement.

Halloween Wars FOOD 7 p.m.

What's a bite between friends? Host Jonathan Bennett asks the competitors to imagine a sweet treat of a vampire on a terrible date. But as they work their cake magic, it will only take one bite from Shinmin Li and Aarti Sequeira to know who moves on.

Stephanie Koenig in "English Teacher"

Celebrity Wheel of Fortune KVIA 7 p.m.

Pat Sajak and Vanna White return for this Season 5 premiere as celebrity players Andrew Rannells, Josh Gad and Katharine McPhee all try to solve word puzzles for a chance to win up to $1 million. All of the winnings go to a charity of their choice.

NCIS: Origins KDBC 8 p.m.

This new series follows the career of a young Leroy Jethro Gibbs (Austin Stowell) in 1991, who shows flashes of brilliance as the newest special agent at the fledgling NCIS Camp Pendleton office, led by NCIS legend Mike Franks (Kyle Schmid).

The Wranglers KVIA2 8 p.m.

The premiere of this eight-part series follows the young staff of the Circle Bar Dude Ranch in Montana as they help guests escape from their stressful lives by sampling life in the American West during the day, but tend to let their hair down after hours.

Brilliant Minds KTSM 9 p.m.

Eccentric neurologist Oliver Wolf (Zachary Quinto) and his team of young interns tackle an all-new psychological case in the latest episode of NBC's newest medical drama. This time, they deal with a killer bride. Alex MacNicoll and Teddy Sears also star.

My Brilliant Friend HBO 10 p.m.

The final season of this coming-of-age drama continues with a brand-new episode, which sees best friends Elena (Alba Rohrwacher) and Lila (Irene Maiorino) navigate the struggles of life in 1980s Italy. Daria Deflorian and Fatima Credendino also star.

English Teacher FX 11 p.m.

Age is just a number. But when Malcolm (Jordan Firstman) decides to throw Evan (Brian Jordan Alvarez) a surprise birthday party at a gay bar, complications arise from Evan's realization that he isn't getting any younger in this season finale.

New Mexico General Election ★ Tuesday, November 5, 2024

The Voters Guide, prepared by the League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico, is located on the LWVSNM website www. lwvsnm.org

ABOUT THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The League of Women Voters of Southern New Mexico (LWVSNM) is a nonprofit organization that provides information about political issues and candidates for public office to promote greater citizen responsibility and participation in government. The League has over 100 members – women and men – from five counties represented by the League: Doña Ana, Otero, Sierra, Grant, and Luna. Because the League is nonpartisan, it does not support or oppose any political party or candidate. It does publish and distribute reliable information for citizens to use when preparing to vote. The candidate information in this Voter Guide was obtained from the answers provided by candidates to Vote411. org. The answers were printed by the League exactly as the candidates answered them. Because of space restrictions in printed guides, candidates' answers may have been limited in length.

YOU CAN VOTE IN THIS ELECTION IF:

- you are a citizen of the United States,
- you are 18 years of age or older on Election Day,
- you are resident of Doña Ana County,
- you are registered to vote in Doña Ana County.

If you have a question concerning the election, please contact the Doña Ana County Clerk's office at (575) 647-7428 or online www.donaanacountyelections.com.

US SENATOR

QUESTIONS TO CANDIDATES - US SENATOR

- 1. Why do you want to run for this seat?
- 2. What are the most important issues facing Congress in the next two years?
- 3. How would you address them?
- 4. What actions, if any, should Congress take regarding immigration?
- 5. What, if anything, would you do to improve the functioning of Congress?

Martin Heinrich (D) Candidate for U.S. Senator

1. As your Senator, we've passed legislation to deliver unprecedented investments for our children, our working families, and our seniors in New Mexico. Because of these investments, we've begun to see costs for things like groceries and prescription drugs go down and our economy grow, I'm running for reelection to the Senate because we still have more work to do, from tackling climate change to expanding access to health care to ensure that every New Mexican has the opportunity to thrive.

2. If reelected, my priorities will be to grow rural economies, reduce costs for New Mexico families, raise workers' wages, expand access to health care, protect the rights of workers, and tackle climate change while creating high-quality jobs.

3. We should build on the Inflation Reduction Act. Infrastructure Law. and CHIPS and Science Act that we've passed into law and New Mexico is starting to feel the impacts of. The Inflation Reduction Act is bringing jobs to rural New Mexico, especially in clean energy manufacturing. The Inflation Reduction Act also lowered costs for prescriptions for seniors on Medicare and is making health insurance more affordable. The Infrastructure Law is bringing billions of dollars to New Mexico to rebuild roads, bridges, and energy infrastructure, and the CHIPS Act is bringing thousands of good paying jobs to expand manufacturing and strengthen our national security. Now it's time to ensure every New Mexican can access the benefits of these historic laws.

4. We need solutions, not political stunts. We need to tackle the huge backlog of lawful immigration, so it doesn't take years for a person's paperwork to be processed. And we need to invest in smart border security technology that detects and stops drugs like fentanyl before they get into our communities. We need to staff and support the law enforcement agencies at our border that are helping to maintain our national security and efficiently process cross-border trade with our largest trade partner, Mexico. We need more pathways for skilled immigrants eager to fill labor shortages in industries with severe workforce shortages, like agriculture and health care. And we need to finally ensure DREAMers have a swift path to full citizenship.

5. Congress should pass legislation to get dark money out of our elections and give the American people transparency into who is attempting to influence their votes. Additionally, the Senate should end the filibuster to prevent a single Senator from disrupting the Democratic process and ensure working people in America have a real seat at the table in Washington.

Nella Louise Domenici (R) Candidate for U.S. Senator

1. I grew up in a family dedicated to public service to New Mexico. The Congressional delegation, Governor and Albuquerque Mayor are radical Progressives whose policies are not working for you. New Mexico needs a hard-working, bipartisan, hands on, independent thinker—Nella--who will usher in a new day for New Mexico. The state is at a tipping point with problems like education, crime and cost of living getting worse because of Martin Heinrich's policies. This is a beautiful state with some magnificent gems—its people, culture, natural beauty, national laboratories and abundant energy. You need a senator who genuinely cares about you. That is Nella! And not Martin Henrich who is a radical progressive, extreme leftist.

2. Reversing Martin Heinrich's damaging policies. Lower the cost of living; Support sound fiscal and tax policies to help you manage high cost of groceries and gasoline; Secure the border. Coordinating with federal, state and local law enforcement to take back our streets from the gangs and cartels who are flooding our communities with fentanyl. Unleash all sources of energy including oil and gas; Achieve energy independence; Sensibly manage energy transition to ensure abundant affordable, reliable energy; Reverse radical policies threatening ranching and farming; Address shortage of health care professionals and affordable health care. Prepare US military for the most serious foreign threats since the cold war. To do this--Fire Heinich trillion spending spree. He flooded our economy with borrowed money, caused inflation and high interest rates. Martin Heinrich's misnamed Inflation Reduction Act and war on oil and gas makes almost everything cost more. Wages are lower here, so increased costs hurt us more. I will prioritize sensible, economic policies and jobs and unleash all of New Mexico's energy sources. It's crazy to vote for the same person and expect a different result. Fixing these problems requires replacing Martin Heinrich who has had 12 years and failed.

3. Elect a new Senator--Nella. Replace Martin Heinrich. To address high cost of living: Stop out of control spending; Dramatic increase in the cost of living is tied directly to the Biden/Heinrich $3.8

4. Martin Heinrich enabled the biggest immigration crisis. Only way to correct this problem is to replace Martin Heinrich, Addressing immigration, securing the border and crime are related. Border is not secure because of Heinrich's open border policy. During his 20 years in Congress he has voted more than 20 times against bills and amendments that would reform our immigration law, secure the border, and provide more resources at the border. I would finish barriers; Install screening technology for all vehicles; Reinstate "Stay in Mexico" End catch and release asylum: Tighten asylum process; Bolster funding for Border Patrol; Pass comprehensive, bipartisan immigration reform; Deport criminals and terrorists; Enact temporary worker program

5. We need more collaboration and genuine bipartisanship and less party loyalty. This would give laws durability and legitimacy. It would be an environment where solutions would be developed and your concerns would be addressed. Instead, Martin Heinrich votes almost 100% with his party bosses and puts them, not you first.

US REPRESENATIVE, DISTRICT 2

QUESTIONS TO CANDIDATES - US REPRESENTATIVE DIST. 2

- 1. Why do you want to run for this seat?
- 2. What are the most important issues facing Congress in the next two years?
- 3. How would you address them
- 4. What actions, if any, should Congress take regarding immigration?
- 5. What, if anything, would you do to improve the functioning of Congress?

Gabriel Vasquez (D) Candidate for U.S. Representative, Dist. 2

1. Extreme

Republicans prioritize petty politics over common-sense solutions. Actual governance is the biggest issue facing Congress, impacting women's reproductive rights, inflation, affordable housing, immigration and border security, which are top issues for Congress to solve. My constituents are concerned about the economy, access to clean water, affordable broadband and quality healthcare, including women's reproductive healthcare. Unlike my opponent, who sponsored legislation to restrict abortion access, I firmly believe in a woman's right to choose. I am tired of this district being left behind because Republican Leadership continues to put politics over people. We must keep this district blue and take back control of the House in 2024.

2. Congress has not delivered meaningful immigration reform in over 40 years. Republicans prefer to use immigration as a political tool. I'm in Congress to provide solutions, not play partisan games. That is why I started the Bipartisan Southwest Caucus and have introduced bipartisan legislation that addresses our broken immigration system and the challenges we face at our border to: stop cartels and coyotes' ability to harm local communities; implement better technology and more staff to stop the flow of fentanyl; create pathways to visa reform for farm workers and enable immigrants working in critical sectors to remain and work legally here; hold detention centers accountable and prevent them from cultivating inhumane conditions.

3. We address them by working across the aisle, delivering common sense policies and always sticking to our values. Since my first day serving in Congress, I have prioritized putting forth bipartisan, common-sense solutions that would have strong support if Republican Leadership brought it to the floor. However, because extremist Republicans are prioritizing messaging bills for the 2024 election over solutions, progress will always stagnate. By prioritizing the wellbeing of our constituents over partisan politics, we can overcome the challenges ahead and ensure a brighter future for all residents of our district.

4. Congress has not delivered meaningful immigration reform in over 40 years. Republicans prefer to use immigration as a political tool. I'm in Congress to provide solutions, not play partisan games. That is why I started the Bipartisan Southwest Caucus and have introduced bipartisan legislation that addresses our broken immigration system and the challenges we face at our border to: stop cartels and coyotes' ability to harm local communities; implement better technology and more staff to stop the flow of fentanyl; create pathways to visa reform for farm workers and enable immigrants working in critical sectors to remain and work legally here; hold detention centers accountable and prevent them from cultivating inhumane conditions.

5. Republican House Leadership has created the most dysfunctional Congress. The resulting chaos and disarray, including the unprecedented removal of a Speaker, have hindered progress and left many Americans underserved. New Mexico deserves better. I focus on serving the people by addressing the everyday challenges working families face. From the affordability of groceries to the availability of housing, my commitment is to deliver tangible improvements that positively impact our constituents. To restore functionality to Congress, we must reclaim the majority and elect leaders who prioritize results over chaos. It's time to shift from policies that divide and inflame toward those that create a brighter, more equitable future for all Americans.

Yvette Herrell (R) Candidate for U.S. Representative, Dist. 2

1. I am running because I feel a responsibility to serve the citizens of New Mexico's Second Congressional District. As I visit with voters across the district, too many do not feel represented in Washington, DC. I represent a return to the commonsense conservative values that made our country strong: fiscal sanity, personal responsibility, free markets, secure borders, and safe communities. If elected, I will always put the citizens of New Mexico first and do everything in my power to help make our state a better place to live, work, and raise a family.

2. Lowering the cost of living and securing the border.

3. Inflation was created by out of control federal deficit spending. I support a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution to ensure that the federal government lives within its means just like New Mexico families must. Our national debt is $35 trillion and growing - this is totally unsustainable and must be addressed for the sake of future generations who will face the consequences of our nation's addiction to debt. Millions of illegal immigrants have entered our country under the Biden Administration, significantly more than the entire population of New Mexico. We must crack down on asylum fraud, end the practice of catch and release, reinstitute in Mexico, and complete the border wall.

4. Again, we need to reimplement the Remain in Mexico policy, end catch and release, and complete the border wall. We need to reform our broken asylum system to ensure prompt deportation of the vast majority of illegal immigrants who do not qualify for asylum. We also need to see that those selling, transporting, and poisoning the American people with fentanyl and other dangerous drugs are held accountable and face serious consequences for their acts. Once we get the border secure and under control, Congress should turn its focus to reforming our broken legal immigration system to make it simpler for qualified immigrants to enter legally and have the opportunity to live the American Dream and make our country stronger.

5. Congress should decentralize decision making and return to regular order. This starts by passing - and sticking to - a federal budget, then completing the appropriations process. Too often this process fails, leading to shutdown threats and last minute massive funding bills written in secrecy by a select few.

ON THE BALLOT - Statewide

JUSTICE OF THE NM SUPREME COURT – Judicial Retention

QUESTIONS TO NM JUDICIAL RETENTION JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT

- 1. What qualifies you for this position?
- 2. What changes, if any, would you recommend to the NM Supreme Court practices and why?
- 3. What improvements, if any, are needed in the Supreme Court?

Briana H. Zamora (Nonpartisan) Candidate for Justice of the N.M. Supreme Court

1. As a judge, I have served at all levels of the judiciary from the Metropolitan Court to the Supreme Court. I have presided in thousands of cases and well over a hundred jury trials. New Mexicans deserve experienced judges who are independent and have integrity. I have a wealth of judicial experience and a reputation of integrity and fairness. I hope to continue my service to New Mexico as a Supreme Court Justice.

2. The Supreme Court oversees every court and judicial program in New Mexico. Overall, the judiciary in New Mexico is first rate. However, there are two areas I hope to improve. First, improving the efficacy and efficiency in how the judiciary implements its behavioral health programs would benefit the entire state. Second, working to ensure there is access to legal representation for all New Mexicans, particularly individuals in our rural communities.

3. The Supreme Court and its employees work tirelessly to issue opinions that are accurate, fair and timely. Lack of resources is our greatest challenge. The Court needs additional attorneys and paralegals to assist the Court in more efficiently issuing the Court's opinions, orders and Supreme Court Rules.

JUDGE OF THE NM COURT OF APPEALS – Judicial Retention

QUESTIONS TO NM JUDICIAL RETENTION JUDGE OF THE COURT OF APPEALS

- 1. What qualifies you for this position?
- 2. What changes, if any, would you recommend to the NM Court of Appeals practices and why?
- 3. What improvements, if any, are needed in the Court of Appeals?

Jennifer L. Attrep, Position 1 (Nonpartisan) Candidate for Judge of the N.M. Court of Appeals

1. I have nearly two decades of experience on the bench and in private practice. I have served as a Court of Appeals Judge since 2018 and currently serve as the Chief Judge. As an appellate judge, I have resolved hundreds of appeals in all areas of the law and assisted with Court administration. I previously was a trial judge in Northern New Mexico where I managed a varied docket, presided over thousands of cases, and held over 50 trials. Prior to joining the bench, I served as an appellate attorney and litigator in a variety of civil and criminal cases and clerked for a federal trial judge.

2. The Court of Appeals is responsible for resolving the vast majority of appeals in New Mexico and, as a result, has a busy and heavy docket. The Court has made significant progress in resolving cases more quickly. Through the tireless efforts of staff and judges, the Court has cleared its backlog that had previously been amassed due to judicial turnover. The Court is dedicated to building on this progress and has adopted programs to increase efficiencies. The Court piloted a program that streamlines the appeal process, and recently implemented a program that provides free mediation services to more expeditiously resolve appeals. We are working to expand these programs and continue to explore other ways to better serve New Mexicans.

3. The Court of Appeals is focused on expanding public access and improving Court administration. During the pandemic, the Court began allowing unrepresented parties to electronically file court documents; and we are working to expand electronic access for unrepresented parties. The Court will be publishing self-help materials that explain the appellate process and assist unrepresented parties and attorneys in meeting their obligations on appeal. We will be rolling out live-streaming to increase access to our proceedings. The Court of Appeals also is working to obtain needed funding to build its administrative team, so the Court is more efficiently and effectively run. The current lack of staffing greatly overburdens our staff and judges.

Shammara H. Henderson, Position 2 (Nonpartisan) Candidate for Judge of the N.M. Court of Appeals

1. I have been a judge on the NM Court of Appeals since my appointment by the Governor in 2020. In that time, I have gained valuable experience as an appellate judge. Prior to becoming a judge, I had a diverse career practicing in both criminal and civil law. I practiced in both state and federal court at the trial and appellate level. I have dedicated my career to ensuring diversity and equity in the judicial system.

2. We have worked hard the last several years to reduce the time it takes for us to rule on cases before our court. We currently have two pilot projects that have dramatically decreased the time to file opinions in our cases. One impacts our criminal cases, and we have seen our turnaround time dramatically improve. The other is our mediation program, which while new, has already helped with our civil cases. I am dedicated to continuing our efforts to reduce our caseload and find ways to ensure we are ruling on cases in a timely manner.

3. The main issue that our court has faced is a lack of resources. It has been a priority of mine to ensure that we have more resources. We have used these resources to rebuild our administrative staff and building maintenance. Our priority as judges should be to focus on our cases and to do so, we need the proper resources to ensure our court functions at the level expected by the parties who appear before us. We still have some improvements to make, but we have done a lot to rebuild the past several years.

Megan P. Duffy, Position 3 (Nonpartisan) Candidate for Judge of the N.M. Court of Appeals

1. I have served as a judge on the Court of Appeals for nearly six years now and gained tremendous experience from working on hundreds of cases involving a broad range of legal issues. I take care with every case to show the parties that we have fully and fairly considered the issues, and to impartially explain what the law says about the issue so the parties understand our decision. Before joining the Court, I had 10 years of experience as an attorney. I began my legal career as a law clerk of Justice Richard Bosson at the New Mexico Supreme Court.

2. The Court of Appeals experienced tremendous judicial turnover from 2015-2022, which resulted in a backlog of hundreds of cases. My colleagues and I have worked hard for several years to clear that backlog and I'm happy to report that we have done so. Stability on the Court (no turnover in the last 2 years), was important to accomplishing this goal. In addition, we received some additional resources from the Legislature in the last few years, which allowed the Court to restart a mediation program, fill vacant positions, and work with retired appellate judges on a pro tem basis. That was a wonderful experience, and having a robust pro tem program could benefit courts, especially during periods of turnover.

3. While we are proud of our work in clearing the backlog, the Court still wants to move cases faster through the court. We have set a goal of resolving 95% of all cases within 720 days, or just under two years. We have made tremendous progress in our time-to-disposition, but still have work to do. We have been working to obtain the resources we need (both funding and personnel), and piloting programs that we hope will allow us to resolve cases quicker, including (1) a revamped mediation program, (2) a pilot project for criminal cases that produces briefing earlier in the case, and (3) a speech-to-text program that allows us to review trials and hearings more efficiently.

David H. Tofsted -Dist. 36 (R) Candidate for N.M. State Senator

1. A BS degree in physics, Penn State,

Masters in EE from NMSU, 1992, and a Ph.D. in EE from NMSU, 2013, have prepared me to deal with complex issues of energy, and education. My 36 years' experience as a research physicist at WSMR involved extensive coordination with local and offsite DOD scientists. Following retirement, I tutored math students, taught classes, presented technical briefings, worked as a candidate for HD 36 in 2018, and served as the Dona Ana County Republican party chair in 2019-20, during which I studied various issues impacting our community.

2. Education: Tapping into how Florida & New Jersey run the number 1 & 2 school systems in the Nation. Ending executive Power Grabs in New Mexico that often ignore the restrictions of the US and NM Constitutions.

3. Advocate for use of the scientific method rather than ideologically held positions, especially regarding proposed solutions to climate change, where flexibility & adaptation offer more optimized solutions than mitigation. Reverse the HB41 "Clean Fuel" law to avoid drastic gas price increases. Reverse the current NM policy that links our vehicle fleet to California's impractical transition to 100% EV sales by 2035. N.M. drew $13 billion in revenue in 2023. The tax rates can be moderated for middle- & low-income families. Reduce the Gross-Receipts tax (GRT), a tax-pyramiding system that negatively impacts businesses that buy services from other local businesses. In DAC, the current Spaceport tax set-aside of 0.25% is not being used to construct the Spaceport. Instead it now covers operational costs in Sierra County. This seems to be an unnecessary expense for little payoff.

4. Return to forest management including harvesting of mature trees. Forests represent a sustainable and renewable source of energy and needed products. Fire breaks also support reduction in fire hazards. Harvesting also increases water flow into aquifers, and cooler conditions in winter, plus later melting of snow as fewer trees alter the absorption of solar energy, reducing winter warming due to higher reflection from snow surfaces. Fewer trees also supports wildlife sustainability in forested regions.

5. First, introduce a bill limiting power NMPED has over local school boards. The NMPED should be advisory only. Secondly, research approaches adopted by Florida's DoEd & New Jersey DoEd as to how they educate students. They rank 1st & 2nd in the nation in education. Require full integration of phonics methods in elementary schools & earlier transitions to English for ESL students. Mathematics must emphasize rote memorization of the addition & multiplication tables. Third, introduce a bill requiring schools teach curriculum only. This bill is critical - students must learn the basics to prepare for advanced studies. Morals and ethics are, family responsibilities. The NM Constitution outlaws teaching of sectarian beliefs.

William Peter Soules - Dist. 37 (D) Candidate for N.M. State Senator

1. I have represented Senate District 37 since

2013 and wish to continue to do so. I am a retired educator with a wide range of experiences in education. As a result, I have been the Chairman of the Senate Education Committee for the past 8 years. I am now one of the more senior senators in the NM Legislature, and am able to use that seniority to affect real change and progress for the state.

2. Education is always one of my priorities and will continue to be. Our children don't have lobbyists in Santa Fe and I try to be a voice for their issues and concerns. In addition, I will continue to work to protect the land, air, and water that make New Mexico such a special place. I have been on the Senate Conservation Committee for the past 12 years and have worked on energy, hunting, wildlife, and land use legislation.

3. I am always looking at how progressive our tax structure is. More affluent people should pay a greater share of taxes and costs with more services going to those in the lower income brackets. We have some challenges in structure for severance taxes as the state transitions away from fossil fuels to more renewable and sustainable energy but the taxes are based on older models.

4. New Mexico has incredible resources in our Universities and National Laboratories. We should be leveraging the "brain power" of these institutions to move toward a greater emphasis on knowledge, information, and new technologies instead of just the extractive energy and agriculture which supported the state in the past.

5. While there are a some areas of education that need to be changed, such as ensuring children are taught how to read through research based, science of reading programs, much of the low rankings of education in New Mexico are not due to problems in education but are reflective of the poverty and lack of investments in people, and community. We are a wealthy state that allows too many of our residents, and particularly children, to live in poverty. We increased investments in high quality early childhood education (not just child care), and investments in housing, mental health, career technical education, and social safety net programs to give every child access to a brighter future.

Carrie Hamblen -District 38 (D) Candidate for N.M. State Senator

1. As the incumbent, I bring my experience in the nonprofit world, as a community organizer, as an advocate for small businesses, public lands, and the LGBTQ+community, my involvement in creating a better quality of life for every New Mexican is a priority. I have a Masters in Communication Studies and a Master's in Public Administration. I have been involved in creating change in Las Cruces for over 25 years and my ability to navigate the political landscape to move policies that positively impact people has been demonstrated in my last 4 years in office.

2. With the over 500 anti-trans and queer bills being introduced all over the country, I will continue to advocate for policy that protects the queer and Trans community, a community that considers suicide every 45 seconds. I will also continue to push for jobs in our rural communities, cleaner air, land, and water for communities of color and indigenous peoples, and reducing our dependence on oil and gas while creating more renewable energy jobs for those displaced as we move toward a more sustainable energy source. Additionally, increasing the opportunities for public transportation and access to health care in the rural parts of southern New Mexico is a priority.

3. We have begun to make significant strides in changing the tax structure in the state to be more equitable. We made adjustments to the Personal Income Tax Brackets that will lower taxes for low- and middle-income New Mexicans. while not raising taxes on any income group, replaced the current two-tiered Corporate Income Tax rate structure with a flat rate of 5.9%, added over 5000 healthcare practitioners to be eligible for the rural health care income tax credit of $3000, and much more. Although we are finally making strides for a more equitable tax structure, we still have a way to go. I believe we need to assess how people are positively impacted by the changes in the tax structure and modify them accordingly and in a timely manner.

4. We need to continue to look at industries that create sustainable jobs while supporting those communities who are experiencing poverty. Working with our community colleges and unions to provide more training and certification programs to address our states' needs rather than outsourcing our jobs. We should focus growing our job sector in Outdoor Recreation, more renewable energy, and other industries that we rely on for out of state businesses rather than nurturing our own job growth.

5. I think we are finally moving closer to improving our ranking but we still need to not only support our teachers and students with more resources, but also look at the outlying factors that impact learning like homelessness, poverty, food insecurity, domestic violence, and mental health. If we ignore the external circumstances that also affect learning, then we will just continue to walk through mud to get to our goal and never really see the results we know we can achieve.

Samantha R.
Barncastle Salopek
- Dist. 38 (R)
Candidate for N.M.
State Senator

attorney who was born and raised in southern New Mexico, received my education in New Mexico, who believes

New Mexico has a ton of untapped potential. I spend my "day job" working to build consensus among various sectors on natural resource matters with the goal of improving our community in everything from the natural environment to clean and safe drinking water, preserving access to water for growing crops, and protection of endangered species. In that capacity, I often work on public policy matters with state and local governments, and regularly perform functions such as drafting of legislation, policy statements, and so on. I also have a special needs daughter, and a son, who attend public school, which I am active in.

2. Public safety and supporting our local community to ensure security of person and property amid rising crime rates. Improving access to healthcare and improving healthcare technology, infrastructure, and other related needs in southern New Mexico. Water and natural resources, agriculture, and protection of the southern New Mexico's access to water.

3. Our tax code is incredibly complex. As a practicing lawyer, I have still found it difficult to comprehend, so it must be simplified. We have to find a better way to both fund government and reduce taxes for working families. Surpluses should be used to provide permanent meaningful tax relief to business owners and others who will help grow the economy.

4. New Mexico has many unique growth opportunities due to our vast natural resources. A functioning water banking program is required to allow for the return of water rights to the market to support new development. Any new development will need to offset for its impact on the environment. Any new growth must take into account the continued viability of New Mexico's culture, which is largely agriculturally based throughout the state. New Mexico has many opportunities for growth that are in harmony with promoting protection of cultural values, such as renewable energy, tourism, and investing in our children as our next generation of professionals. Any new development must remain harmonious with agriculture, the staple of our economy.

5. I support a professional licensing system for educators and those who work in the education profession. With this, I also support providing for continuing education and professional development for practicing educators.

NM STATE REPRESENTATIVE

QUESTIONS NEW MEXICO STATE REPRESENTATIVE

- What skills, education and prior experiences qualify you for this office?
- 2. If elected, what are your highest priorities?
- 3. What changes, if any, need to be made in the tax structure of the state?
- 4. What would you propose to diversify New Mexico's economy and promote sustainable economic growth?
- 5. What reforms would you support to improve New Mexico's educational ranking?

Linda S. Alvarez - Dist. 32 (D) Candidate for N.M. State Representative

1. Born and reared on the family farm in the Hatch Valley, I grew up in a large, close-knit Hispanic family that was completely self-sufficient. I attended Salem Elementary until 6th grade and graduated at age 17 from the Hatch Valley Municipal Schools in 1970. I worked for the Social Security Admin and Health Care Financing Admin in Baltimore, MD, for 15-years prior to starting a family. I became a full-time Mother caring for my dau and son for 7-years before going back to work. I attended the UofMD School of Law-City Campus: Paralegal Cert: Bachelor's Degree, College of Santa Fe, Public Administration & will pursue graduate studies at: NMSU/UofAZ or St. John's College-SFe Campus. I am currently an Advocate in the Hatch Valley.

2. My highest priorities are: A. Statewide educational reform; B. rural economic development. C. Specialized training and care for Dementia patients.

3. I would guard against taxing the poor inordinately. Recent alcohol tax legislation that requires alcohol sellers to track the volume and type of alcohol sales is problematic. It would be far more efficient and importantly accurate if the wholesaler tracked taxation amounts.

4. Generally speaking, economic development needs to take into account safety, equality, and honest pay. A. I would encourage the Legislature to rejuvenate its' interest in the Space Industry and to reorganize NM's involvement in the Spaceport with an eye towards creating local job opportunities. C. I would propose that the Department of Economic Development be required to do outreach to rural areas and provide Technical Asssistance in conjunction with the Local Government Division of the DFA. C. NM is not prepared to care for its' citizens suffering with Dementia. I propose the Governor appoint a workgroup to conduct a needs assessment with solutions. Healthcare is a burgeoning industry that will sustain economic growth.

5. For many years the Dept. Of Education has been plagued by a lack of consistent LEADERSHIP. This, in turn, leads to 'mission erosion' and a dysfunctional agency culture. This catastrophe requires strong governance. I suggest the following: A. Request a Federal Investigation and Technical Assistance. B. Require Special Education be given Divisional Status. C. Develop large-scale vocational and technical education opportunities for ALL students.

1. I taught all grades in Mesquite Elementary school. Reading Intervention K-2 for English and Spanish language students. I taught Vocational Agriculture at Jemez Valley High School and Socorro High School. I retired from the Gadsden Independent Schools in 2018. I also taught at Hatch Public Schools teaching 3-4-5 combination grades and New Mexico History and Geography where my students scored higher in the State Mandated Tests than all other departments.

2. Reading for K-2 students in Elementary Schools. Enhance Vocational Agriculture. Development of Police Sub-Stations in Chapparral and a Northern Sub Stations for the Communities of Mesquite, San Miguel and La Mesa. Increase deputies in the Dona Ana County. Protect our Environment in our County especially the Communities of Mesquite and Sunland Park.

3. Enhance our tax code to assist small businesses and Tourism.

4. Drill more oil and gas in our state. Remove restrictions on our oil industry especially permits to drill. Support new businesses. Assist the development of our Santa Teresa infrastructure to our Industrial Park.

5. Train specialists to test all K-2 students in their letters and sounds and writing their letters. Train teachers to use this to enhance their skills to ensure they will learn how to read in a timely manner with oral practices in breaking syllables of words to master reading multi-syllable words.

Angelica Rubio -Dist. 35 (D) Candidate for N.M. State Representative 1. BA, Government,

New Mexico State University MA, Latin American Studies, California State University, Los Angeles

2. Prioritizing climate justice policies that are centered and at the intersection of issues impacting Black, Indigenous, and Communities of Color. Transitioning away from fossil fuels, through the lens of furthering our work towards a restorative economy. Updating our constitution to support modernization efforts, specifically to pay legislative salaries, as a tool to make our legislature more equitable and diverse. We currently are the only unpaid legislature in the country. Uplifting policies that provide equitable access to outdoor recreation for youth representing marginalized communities. Elevating mobility justice issues and prioritizing infrastructure programs that provide better support for all.

3. The NM legislature, in collaboration with advocates from around the state, has made significant progress in making the state tax code less regressive when it comes to tax policy. There are progressive tax measures that have worked to improve the lives of working families and children, making New Mexico now the 9th most progressive tax code in the nation. But more needs to be done to see further improvements. Tax policy takes time to see significant results, and three things should continue to be priorities: ensuring that corporations pay their fair share, limiting, if not ending unfair capital gains deductions, and targeting and increasing personal income tax cuts for families in need -- this last piece being the most transformational.

4. I believe in the principles of restorative economy, where we focus on revitalizing and sustaining its natural resources, communities, and cultural heritage while promoting equitable economic opportunities. Here are some key aspects of what a restorative economy could look like for New Mexico: renewable energy development, water conservation and management, sustainable agriculture, green infrastructure, environmental conservation, equitable economic development, cultural preservation, and education and innovation. By embracing these principles and taking concrete actions to promote sustainability, equity, and resilience, New Mexico can transition towards a restorative economy that benefits both people and the planet.

5. The New Mexico Legislature has made incredible strides by making incredible investments, however, I do not believe that it has gone far enough to address the Yazzie/Martinez lawsuit, for example. Additionally, we had an opportunity to pass, for the first time, the Tribal Trust Fund, which was ultimately killed in the Senate. This trust fund would have provided the start of reparations to native and indigenous communities in this state, which garnered support from all tribes, and then stopped - essentially taking away this opportunity from tribes who have already experienced so much autonomy. When we center native students, we make education better for all. We need to do better in this aspect.

Kimberly A. Skaggs - Dist. 36 (R) Candidate for N.M. State Representative

Nathan P. Small - Dist. 36 (D)
Candidate for N.M. State
Representative
1. I am a lifelong outdoorsman, and now proudly the Chair of the House Budget Committee. In that role I've: Put $100 million in the state budget to hire more police officers, sheriff's deputies, and other local law enforcement; Stood strong to safeguard reproductive rights by voting to repeal New Mexico's outdated abortion ban; Led the fight to cut the personal income and gross receipts tax and eliminate the tax on Social Security; Led bipartisan legislation to save billions of gallons of freshwater annually; Expanded budget transparency and made sure public input is taken at all meetings.

2. My priorities are to: Reduce healthcare premiums & prescription drug prices; protect individuals with pre-existing conditions; & recruit new doctors, nurses, dentists and other healthcare professionals to Southern New Mexico. Fight price-gouging to protect consumers and continue growing and diversifying Southern

New Mexico's economy to bring long-term, better-paying jobs to our region. Hire more police officers and sheriff's deputies; speed up trials; and expand drug treatment & mental health programs to tackle the root causes of crime and homelessness. Increase drought measures that conserve water for farms and families while tapping new water sources through treatment and innovation. Safeguard reproductive rights for women.

3. I helped to lead the fight to cut the personal income and gross receipts tax and eliminate the tax on Social Security. These measures put real dollars into the pockets of working families and retirees. We can do more. We can still make our income tax structure more fair to working families and ensure out-of-state corporations pay their fair share.

4. Continuing to expand our clean energy and advanced energy economy is vital, including supporting nontraditional water source development so we can save freshwater for families, farms, and the environment. Supporting our higher education institutions, leveraging our permanent funds, and deploying the new $250+ million dollars in economic development infrastructure will ensure that we create well paying, sustainable jobs. Other key areas include value added agriculture, tourism, film and healthcare with a focus on behavioral healthcare.

5. Since 2019, we have raised teacher pay to a minimum of $50,000 per year and made college and vocational school free for all New Mexicans who work hard. We've invested in Career Technical Education, which is improving student attendance and outcomes. Expanding experiential learning opportunities and connecting young people and their communities with opportunities for work and service are vital. We must continue hiring new teachers, including through the very successful educator fellows program, while also ensuring our students have high quality materials and top notch facilities.

Joanne Ferrary -Dist. 37 (D) Candidate for N.M. State Representative

1. My educational background is in Social Marketing with an MBA from NMSU. My work experiences as a Planner Director for traffic safety issues and as a community organizer have helped me to understand how to develop relationships with leaders and communities to drive policy on issues to improve health, education and living conditions for all New Mexicans.

2. To reduce alcohol and nicotine use with increased taxes and to provide funding for underage use prevention, treatment, media awareness and enforcement. I support the Environmental Rights, Act to be adopted into our State Constitution aka, The Green Amendment, so that everyone's right to clean air, water and soil will be considered at every level of government in their decision making process. I also support changes needed for guardianship protections such as Supported Decision Making as a tool to support people with disabilities without their having to give up their right for self determination.

3. We need to continue and increase the child tax credit so that families can have more disposable income. We also need to increase the alcohol and nicotine excise taxes so we can reduce their use as well as direct funds for prevention and treatment. We need to increase the Oil and Gas severance tax to equalize with Texas and increase funds.

4. Our investment in solar, wind and geothermal will help to grow clean energy jobs as well as diversify our energy production and improve our environment. Continued investment in education, apprenticeships and internships will help grow our workforce that is so desperately needed and that will help attract businesses to locate to NM.

5. Continued salary and benefit increases for teachers and staff will attract more people to those positions and help to reduce class sizes. All schools should be Community Schools providing wrap around services for students and families and help to reduce Adverse Childhood Experiences that interfere with learning.

Tara Jaramillo Dist. 38 (D)
Candidate
for N.M. State
Representative
1. In my time as the state representative for House District 38, I've fought for the needs of people I represent - from sponsoring bipartisan legislation to protect vulnerable children in state custody to pushing for more infrastructure money for our communities. In my professional life, I've been an impactful business owner for decades, supporting children and families through the work we do, and I am also a member of the Socorro School Board. In short, I am a community servant through and through, and I remain committed to using my voice to lift up my neighbors.

2. Number one, the people of our district are struggling with rising costs. We have got to reduce the tax burden of hard-working families - groceries and gas should not cost an arm and a leg, and the gross receipts tax should be cut to help families and small businesses. I also believe we need a strong border, and I support the bipartisan border bill in Congress that would've protected our communities from illegal drugs and traffickers while supporting pathways for legal immigration. Finally, the quality of our public schools requires more sustained investment, particularly in teachers and their salaries, as well as better after-school programming. Infrastructure and protecting a woman's reproductive freedom are also key priorities for me.

3. Families should not be subsidizing tax breaks for the wealthy. A tax structure that benefits the working families and ensures large corporations pay their fair share is what we need in New Mexico. I support reducing the tax burden on Social Security recipients and seniors; I also support closing GRT loopholes. I would also support exempting military pensions from state taxes.

4. The industries of the future require a workforce with the skills to match. I support college scholarships that are targeted at students who commit to work in New Mexico in high-demand fields, and I also support tax credits to attract more businesses to anchor here in New Mexico. We should promote and expand renewable energy projects, tourism and outdoor recreation, technology startups and broadband initiatives.

5. We must pay our teachers a better salary, and we must invest in better training and retention programs to keep high-quality educators from moving to other states. I support legislation that would reduce class size and update our curriculum to include a focus on STEM and vocational skills. The Public Education Department must have strong and stable leadership, and rural school districts must continue to fight for enhanced access to technology and broadband. Furthermore I will support legislation that moves more control over education from the state bureaucracy out into the local school districts; local control will help more students in more districts get the individualized support they need.

Rebecca Dow -Dist. 38 (R) Candidate for N.M. State Representative

1. My extensive experience as a business owner, founder of multiple non-profit organizations focused on education and child development, and leadership roles in the House of Representatives demonstrate my strong qualifications for public office. Through my work and community service efforts, I have a strong understanding of New Mexico's statutory and regulatory environment. My education in early childhood and business management further enhances my ability to address the needs of our community by advocating for policies that support development of healthy families and promoting greater economic opportunities. I also utilize critical thinking, problem solving skills, and resourcefulness to achieve results.

2. Dismal child welfare outcomes and generational poverty were what drove me to run for public office in 2016. I envision a New Mexico where children are born healthy, are safe and secure in their surroundings, enter kindergarten ready to succeed, progress from grade to grade achieving their highest individual potential, and graduating with a post high school goal in mind. I worked hard during my six years in the NM House of Representatives to build bipartisan support for key reforms that research shows are effective in building healthy families. While I believe we need to make key changes to break generational poverty, I have seen first-hand how many current representatives lack the energy and desire needed to realize this is so important.

3. Thanks to a booming oil & gas industry, NM has experienced record breaking general fund budget surplus. The Legislature should be working to use these surplus dollars to create prosperity in our State. The best way to realize this goal is through fundamental tax reform. Reforming GRT would give small businesses a significant tax reduction so they can expand jobs, provide higher wages for their employees & become more competitive with businesses located in neighboring states. I would also eliminate or phased-in significant reductions in other taxes including personal income taxes & the taxes levied on Social Security & military pensions. NM's tax code must also be competitive with our neighbors regarding capital gains & corporate taxes.

4. Tax reforms listed above would help NMs economy grow, yet we need reliable & affordable electricity; Without it business simply won't come here. The Energy Transition Act of 2019 set New Mexico on a "crash course" towards a "zero carbon" future. Such a future is simply not realistic or affordable & NM will pay a hefty price. Instead, NM needs to work to bring nuclear power to our state as a long-term zero-carbon solutions. We need to embrace home grown natural gas as a lower carbon "bridge" to our energy future. We need to be tougher on crime, so people & businesses feel comfortable & safe, while also ensuring their property rights are secure. We must reform the medical malpractice to safe our private health care industry & small hospitals.

5. We need to make bold changes to our education system. Families want their children to be prepared for the workplace and businesses need an educated workforce to provide future jobs and more economic opportunities. Yet, recent efforts to pour billions of dollars more into a broken system has not worked and our students continue to fall further behind. That's why I support local control and innovation. Parents are their child's primary educator and decisions are most effective when the people who know & understand the student best are involved. I believe in school choice. Choice allows funds to follow students to the school or services that best fit their needs --- whether that's a public, private, home school, or other.

Doreen Yvonne Gallegos - Dist. 52 (D) Candidate for N.M. State Representative

1. I have served House District 52 for over ten years, bringing the concerns of Doña Ana County to the Roundhouse and championing legislation that directly benefits southern New Mexico. I have worked for over 20 years supporting families throughout the district and surrounding areas, having served as Executive Director of Mesilla Valley CASA for over 15 years. I graduated from New Mexico State University with an undergraduate and master's degree in Social Work. I serve as Chair of the House Commerce and Economic Development Committee and have worked hard to bring economic opportunity to House District 52. Among many other bills, I sponsored the legislation establishing an Early Childhood Trust Fund.

2. First, we must ensure that every child in New Mexico has access to the best education possible, from early childhood through college or trade school. That means fully funding the schools and recruiting and retaining the best and brightest educators--and supporting them in the classroom. Next, we must create economic opportunity across New Mexico, incentivizing new industries to invest in New Mexico's economy and creating new jobs. Further, we must create safe neighborhoods by treating the root causes of crime, like mental illness and substance abuse. Creating more opportunities for treatment - and stiff penalties for violent criminals or criminal misuse of firearms - will help ensure public safety.

3. We need to update our tax structure to benefit working families, ensure the structure is equitable for all New Mexicans, and still generates the revenue needed to keep providing the services that the residents of our communities deserve. We should be focused on other sources of tax revenue besides the gross receipts tax, which is ultimately a regressive tax.

4. We need to incentivize new industries to invest in New Mexico's economy. That might mean incentivizing renewable energy and creating the infrastructure we need to not only create our own energy, but also sell that energy to surrounding states, generating dollars and well paying jobs. We can also incentivize tech companies and angel investors to help grow New Mexico's economy. Further, we need to dedicate funding to job training and the trades to help prepare workers for jobs that pay a living wage and then some.

5. To improve New Mexico's educational outcomes, we have to recruit and retain the best and brightest educators in the country. That means not only compensating them competitively, but supporting them in the classroom, as well. As the responsibilities of educators grow, we need to also grow the support staff and ancillary staff needed to carry out those responsibilities. We also should work on reducing class sizes and the paperwork burden of educators. We can invest resources into community schools, which provide wraparound services to students in need, and provide for the social emotional wellness of students, which increases their academic performance.

Sarah Angelina Silva – Dist. 53 (D) Candidate for N.M. State Representative of experience working to protect and expand the freedoms that enable people to live full lives. I've dedicated my life to organizing communities to speak on their own behalf to successfully raise the minimum wage, save their homes from foreclosure, advocate for immigration reforms that make our nation stronger by respecting people's rights and honoring our values, and protect our Organ Mountains-Desert Peaks as a national monument. I've supported thousands of people to engage in effective and direct ways that protect our freedoms and choices as New Mexicans.

1. I have 20 years

2. This election is about protecting our freedoms: the freedom to decide whether and when to grow our family, the freedoms to care for a sick family member without losing a job and to get dinner on the table and be home in time to eat it, the freedom to let our kids be kids and come back safely from school each day. As voters, we have the ability to protect and expand those freedoms by electing the right people to office. As your state representative, I will be dedicated to ensuring those freedoms are protected regardless of background, color, gender, zip code, political affiliation, and marital status – and regardless of whether you live in a city or colonia. No exceptions.

3. As a business owner I feel the impact of an imperfect tax structure and can see how it can be modernized to meet the needs of residents regardless of income or work. I have heard the concerns about our state's gross receipts tax structure as opposed to the sales tax structure used by most states. I'm open to considering changes, but the details will matter. As our state legislators discuss this issue I can tell you that I will advocate for wealthy corporations to pay New Mexico what they owe so we can fund our families and communities and reduce our dependence on the oil and gas industry. The decisions we make about how to fund our state are critical to the health and well-being of our land, families and neighbors now and in the future.

4. I would support the incorporation of Chaparral, which is located in House District 53. Chaparral's proximity to El Paso creates immense potential to improve the economic situation of the 16,000 people living there and the state as a whole. Every city was once a small town with people who had dreams of starting their own business or building a home. We need infrastructure to make those dreams come true. Without it people can't build a future or prosper. When we leave communities without the infrastructure they need, we fail the economies that matter most: our family economies and budgets. Chaparral is the largest unincorporated colonia in the state of New Mexico. We must fund their ability to achieve their hopes and dreams.

5. My daughter attends a public school. I believe every child, no matter what they look like or where they are from, deserves a safe and welcoming school where they can thrive. I support investments the Legislature has made in early childhood education. I am committed to ensuring every child receives a quality education. What we are doing today isn't working for every child. We all deserve fully funded schools filled with caring adults that include counselors and nurses, libraries filled with books, safe places to play and learn, clean indoor air and water, nutritious food and the guarantee that our kids come home each day. Our children's freedom from school shootings and their ability to thrive depend on our commitment to this vision.

Elizabeth Lee Winterrowd - Dist. 53 (R) Candidate for N.M. State Representative

1. As the mother of four grown children including, one adopted through the New Mexico foster system, and in my role as a special education teacher and teacher of gifted students for 17 years, I have personally experienced the struggle of educating students as well as the failure of CYFD to protect New Mexican children. I believe a good education and better schools are the foundation of building healthy communities with less crime, more quality jobs, and a better way of life for all of us. Since I've retired as a schoolteacher, I am ready to advocate for students, give parents back their rights, and give teachers the support they deserve. I have the credentials and the experience to represent the people of District 53.

2. The pervasive crime in our community, made even worse by the illegal drugs and human trafficking at our borders, is top of mind for me. I will join the governor and other leaders in the legislature who have already been working towards solutions to reduce crime, and I'll fix the loopholes that allow dangerous reoffenders back onto our streets. Additionally, I care deeply about families and providing opportunities for our children. With a background in education. I want to make sure that parents remain involved, that politics stays out of the classroom, and that teachers are well taken care of.

3. Our current tax system is complicated and penalizes businesses who are then forced to pass down costs to the consumer. I am not a tax or accounting expert, but I know there are many experts who can steer us in the right direction. I intend to be a loud voice to protect the taxpayers in my district.

4. We have a strong agriculture industry and we are blessed with resources that other states don't have. The problem is we're not taking full advantage of them. New Mexico's regulations are too overbearing for businesses and workers in our state. Many farmers, ranchers, miners, oil and gas producers and regular New Mexicans feel stunted by the mandates put into place. It's not as much about asking what else can we do to bring in revenue, but rather, how can we make it easier on our hard working New Mexicans?

education system from years ago to now, and I know that we are not investing in teachers and programs for students like we should. Instead of providing opportunities, we've seen extreme politicians lean toward more political and social lessons than actual curriculum. We've seen parents be shut out of their child's education instead of welcomed to engage. We need to refocus and make sure opportunities for learning come first and resources are available to make that happen.

DISTRICT COURT JUDGE - Judicial Retention

QUESTIONS NEW MEXICO DISTRICT COURT JUDGE – JUDICIAL RETENTION THIRD JUDICIAL DISTRICT

- 1. What have you accomplished during your time in office that should be considered when voting in this retention race?
- 2. If retained, how do you intend to ensure court cases are addressed in a fair and timely manner?
- 3. What changes, if any, do you believe should be made within the district court system?

Conrad F. Perea -Div. 3 Candidate for District Court Judge

1. I have lived the majority of my life in Dona Ana County NM. This is my community. I understand it's strengths and issues. The voters should consider the thousands of cases, particularly criminal cases, that I have handled and adjudicated which go to making our community a safer place to live. I am currently assigned as the Chief Judge which addresses the administrative aspects of managing our courts. From budgets to case assignments to trials and sentencing. Experience in communicating and working with our community partners enables me to address issues that arise and are ultimately addressed appropriately. My dedication to the position is continuous and is key. These accomplishments help me understand our people and their problems.

2. Our citizens come to court for solutions and actions and should not wait long for justice. I will use our Case Management Order (CMO) and Performance Measures for Judges to their fullest. I know how to keep track of my cases and do so weekly. These orders and measures have definite timelines and requirements. I do and will continue to hold all parties and the Court itself to those strict requirements. Further, I will hold my colleagues to these timelines and requirements so that this entire court will court will ensure that all cases are addressed in a fair and timely manner. Furthermore, if an accused in in custody, those cases will be addressed as quickly as possible so that victims and the defendant themselves receive justice.

3. I believe that there are many changes that need to be made. During my years as a Judge in Dona Ana County NM, I have seen many individuals that need and are seeking assistance for issues that they may be experiencing in their lives. Issues of substance abuse, competency and sometimes developmental or intellectual disability require great care. Alternatives would be to find resources such as mental health treatment or Competency Diversion Programs and Treatment Court programs so people can succeed. The Assisted Outpatient Treatment (AOT) program should be enhanced so that more individuals will be addressed in the civil court-ordered treatment program for individuals with Serious Mental Illnesses.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY

QUESTIONS DISTRICT ATTORNEY, THIRD JUDICIAL DISTRICT

- What skills, education and prior experiences qualify you for this office?
- 2. If elected, what are your highest priorities?
- 3. What criminal justice reforms do you support, if any?
- 4. Explain what factors you would consider when declining to prosecute a case?

Fernando R.
Macias (D)
Candidate for District Attorney,
Third Judicial Dist.

1. I am a graduate of Georgetown University Law Center in Washington DC. I have an extensive legal background as a former district court judge (three years as Chief Judge), district public defender, executive director of New Mexico Legal Aid, assistant district attorney, and attorney in private practice. I served nine years as County Manager, managing budgets in the hundreds of millions of dollars and overseeing hundreds of employees. As a State Senator I served as Chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee. As General Manager of the Border Environment Cooperation Commission I managed the development of hundreds of environmental infrastructure projects in communities along the US/Mexico border. Former Chair of the Doña Ana County Commission.

2. Build a formidable legal team that will prosecute cases to reduce crime and build a safer community. Reduce the rate of dismissal of criminal cases. Increase safety in public schools by implementing programs to reduce gun violence. Prosecute adults and juveniles involved in crimes of violence including domestic violence, sexual assault, and hate crimes. Keep repeat offenders and dangerous individuals incarcerated pending trial. Fast-track cases so victims and defendants do not wait an excessive amount of time for justice and accountability. Promote early intervention programs for juveniles. Address issues of mentally ill offenders, drug abuse, damage to property, shoplifting and animal cruelty. Operate the office with full transparency.

3. Fast track the prosecution of crimes of violence by both adults and juveniles. Reduce the time necessary to prosecute criminal cases with an emphasis on defendants remaining in custody, so that both victims and defendants are not waiting an excessive amount of time for justice and accountability. I will promote early intervention programs for juveniles by building partnerships with the schools, law enforcement agencies, and youth organizations to divert children from the criminal justice system as well as promoting aggressive anti-truancy programs. I will develop domestic and child abuse prevention programs.

4. Insufficient evidence to support the successful prosecution of the case.

Michael E. Cain (R) Candidate for District Attorney, Third Judicial Dist.

1. I have over 25 years experience as a trial attorney. I have tried somewhere between 150-200 full jury trials to verdict. I have run a successful law firm in Las Cruces for the past 17+ years. I worked as an Assistant District Attorney from 2001-2004. I was a Senior Children's Court Attorney for 2 years after my employment as an Assistant District Attorney. Either as a prosecutor or as a defense attorney, I have tried a wide variety of cases, ranging from misdemeanors to murder trials. I was also a member of the US Army for 12 years. I originally enlisted and was later chosen to attend Officer Candidate School. I completed by service at the rank of Captain. My opponent has not entered a courtroom as an attorney in over 25 vears.

2. The first priority is to get federal grant money back. The current administration has lost all of that money. It accounts for up to 35% of the office's total budget. This money also flows to the courts and other agencies to allow them to fund diversion programs, treatment programs, victim's advocates, etc. The second priority is to bring the office staffing back to a full compliment of 30-35 attorneys. Currently, there are between 10 and 14 attorneys. We will work to correctly charge cases and to not over charge nor under charge cases. We will work with law enforcement to provide training at their academies and ongoing training. We will have an attorney on call to go to all major crime scenes to help preserve the case for trial.

3. At the statewide level, we need to address the problems with the current bail bond system. The other statewide priority is reform of the criminal competency laws. Both are in need of immediate reform. Locally, the District Attorney's office needs to once again seek federal grants to fund matters such as diversion programs, victims assistants and substance abuse and mental health counseling. At least 30% of the DA's office budget should be coming from federal grants. The State does not fund that office at appropriate levels. The current administration has allowed all of it's federal grants to lapse, causing them a severe budget shortfall, resulting in their inability to hire a full staff of Assistant District Attornevs.

4. We will stop using the grand jury system to charge felony cases. We will go back to the preliminary hearing system. Grand Juries result in improper charging of cases, and the office not knowing their cases well enough that they run into huge problems prior to trial. A preliminary hearing is like a mini-trial. The State has to call all of the witnesses and the evidence to get the indictment. This means that we will know up front the strengths and weaknesses of every case. The current Supreme Court rule in Dona Ana County which greatly accelerates trial schedules is based on the DA using preliminary hearings instead of grand iuries.

COUNTY MAGISTRATE JUDGE, Division 1

QUESTIONS DOÑA ANA COUNTY MAGISTRATE JUDGE

- What skills, education and prior experiences qualify you for this office?
- 2. If elected, what are your highest priorities?
- 3. Would the county be better served with a metropolitan court system? Please explain.
- 4. What changes are needed, if any, to improve the magistrate court system?

Nathan William Graff (D) Candidate for County Magistrate Judge, Div. 1 exclusively criminal law while in private practice in Albuquerque, moving on to practicing only criminal law as Public Defender in both Albuquerque and Las Cruces, and I have over a year of experience as the Division I Judge for Dona Ana County Magistrate Court

2. Uphold the Constitutions of New Mexico and the United States of America from the Bench in Dona Ana County Magistrate Court

3. Yes. I have practiced in both the Metropolitan and Magistrate systems and Las Cruces would be greatly served by a metropolitan court due to 1) access to resources 2) more access to resources related to specialty courts and competency adjudication 3) appeals would go to the Court of Appeals for appellate review rather than de novo review at the district court, therefore increasing judicial efficiency and 4) greater transparency within the community

4. More transparency to the public, however, with recent initiatives, that is being provided with recent implemented changes to court websites. Additionally more access to alternative dispositions (as would be provided through a metropolitan court) would benefit the diverse needs of Dona Ana County.

Rosenda Maria Chavez Lara (D) Candidate for County Magistrate Judge, Div. 3

1. Since 2015, I have used my legal skills and courtroom experience to serve our community. I represented clients in the Magistrate and District Court in criminal, civil, and probate matters. My practice focused on Domestic Relations matters and representing and protecting children in Abuse & Neglect cases. Currently, as a staff attorney for the New Mexico Office of Guardianship, I work to protect the rights of individuals involved in adult quardianship cases. Additionally, I am a Commissioner for the State Bar of New Mexico and serve on the Kevin S. settlement project to help reform CYFD. I have used my legal education and experience to benefit the people of Doña Ana County by coordinating pro bono legal fairs countywide since 2021.

2. In Doña Ana County, it is estimated that 80% of cases that come before the courts involve self-represented individuals. One of my priorities is to create a Self-Help Center for the Magistrate Court, which will help self-represented individuals needing guidance. Further, not every legal problem requires a person to be incarcerated. I will advocate for expanding existing treatment courts and establishing juvenile treatment courts, domestic violence treatment, and veterans' treatment courts. The Magistrate Court meets primarily in Las Cruces, with hearings held a few times a week in Anthony and virtual hearings from Hatch. As your next judge, I will hold court throughout Doña Ana County to ensure everyone has access to justice.

3. Doña Ana County is the second largest county in our state, and its needs continue to outpace the ability of the local judiciary to serve the public. I would encourage the Legislature to examine the needs of Doña Ana County.

4. Virtual hearings do not address the needs of individuals who do not have access to video technology or reliable internet or who are not technologically literate. Further, our neighbors in Sunland

Park, Chaparral, and Hatch may be unable lobby the state legislature for funds for to travel to Las Cruces for hearings. We need to redeploy our judicial resources so that everyone may meaningfully access the court by expanding the in-person service area for the court and assisting our community with expanded language and technology access. Further, reestablishing the safe surrender program to address outstanding warrants and the domestic violence offender treatment court would benefit our community by addressing case backlogs and providing treatment to domestic violence offenders.

DOÑA ANA COUNTY COMMISSION

OUESTIONS DOÑA ANA COUNTY COMMISSION

- 1. What skills, education and prior experiences qualify you for this
- 2. If elected, what are your highest priorities?
- 3. What specific actions, if any. should the Commission take to improve economic development in the county?
- 4. How would you increase access to quality health care including behavioral health services?

Lorraine Limon McCullough (R), Candidate for Doña Ana County Commission, Dist. 2

1. I am a life-long citizen of Dona Ana County, living in the home my grandparents built in the early 1900's. I am dedicated to working with school boards and NOT acquiesce to being like the rest of the state, 50th in education. I am able to work with local, state and federal agencies to ensure dams in the area will not result in breakage such as La Union, Chamberino, Santa Teresa and Sunland Park as in past years. I have worked with local, state and federal agencies in the past as well as helped scholarships at NMSU.

2. Veteran and citizen homelessness. Finding well-paying jobs for legal citizens. Clean water and safe dams. Assistance for stray animals.

3. Work with school districts to prioritize Civics, US Government and US History beginning with 1st grade. Work to educate voter population on the US Constitution and how our government came to be.

4. I highly support paper ballots and valid ID for ALL persons voting and hand counting of ballots. Larger states and counties are doing it, so can Dona Ana!

Gloria Gameros (D), Candidate for Doña Ana County Commission, Dist. 2

1. I am a former

Trustee and Mayor Pro Tem for 6 years as an elected official with the City of Anthony, NM from 2016 to 2021. During my tenure I wrote many policies, resolutions, and ordinances for the financial security and internal procedural practices of the City of Anthony, NM. I attended training sessions in government law and finances every year while I was in office.

2. My priority will be to have open communication to learn and educate myself on the issues and needs of every community in my district by presenting myself frequently to the public at community sites to listen to their concerns. I hope to work in collaboration with other branches of government from municipalities, county, and state for safer communities.

3. While going door to door during campaigning, educating voters about the importance of their voice being heard with their vote. Having information of voting site locations, days, and times of voting.

4. Having large visible signage at voting sites showing where voting is held at. Having an officer at each voting site for security.

Irma Susana Chaparro (D), Candidate for Doña Ana County Commission, Dist. 2

No response received

Stacie M. Durham (R), Candidate for Doña Ana County Commission, Dist. 4

1. I am an NMSU graduate and possess a Bachelor of Individualized studies, primarily concentrating in business and arts & sciences. My degree in the arts & sciences allowed me to obtain a limited liability certificate for my business The Organ Mountain Historical Society.

2. Health & Public Safety. Economics. Housing. Education. Public Transportation.

3. I encourage everyone to keep an open mind about their choices when it comes time to vote. I also recommend that the voters do some research on a candidate they may be interested in before they conclude that decision. It is important for anyone who votes to be able to be proud of the changes that they help make.

4. I have no objections about voting access. It is the security that I find extremely important. I will want to implement several changes through the county clerk's office to assure the voters that their vote is being counted without complications, in the facilities and through the mail. There are rules and regulations that should be effective, but at this time I am afraid we the people have made it clear that there should be more regulations to secure our voting system. I believe that we can come up with a solution.

Manuel A. Sanchez (D). Candidate for Doña Ana County Commission, Dist. 5

1. I have represented

District 5 as Commissioner since 2019 and have had the opportunity to learn how County and State government operates and how to drive changes. I received a BS in Mechanical Engineering from MIT and have worked for General Electric for the past 23 years in many roles of increased responsibility that have given me the opportunity through training(s) and experience to learn about direct and indirect leadership, how to effectively listen, and take feedback to drive improvement.

2. My highest priorities will be the continued implementation of our 5 year strategic plan and improving county infrastructure. The 5-year was approved in Nov. 2023 creating metrics for each County department based on the 7 vital conditions that directly impact residents' quality of life. The plan will help provide focus that will drive decisions by the County and provides the public with feedback on performance to the plan. Over the past 5 years, there has been momentum building on infrastructure across the County. I will continue to focus on completion of these projects that will expand broadband access & construction of improved flood protection. Improved infrastructure helps our residents and will attract more companies to the area.

3. Education on the voting process is key to helping residents understand the process and encouraging participation. From the ability to register when applying for a drivers license to the many voter convenience centers across the County, there have been steps put into place to make voting accessible to all of our residents. Sometimes voters can become disillusioned by the current state of national politics. It is important voters understand the impact local and state elections have on their day to day lives and how their voices can be heard on these races by participating in our elections.

4. New Mexico was recently ranked #1 in the MIT Election Lab Election Performance Index. I believe utilizing my seat as commissioner to share news like this, combat misinformation, and ensure voters in Doña Ana County and southern New Mexico understand how secure our elections are and how they may participate. I have had the opportunity to speak to high school students about county government and the election process. Another opportunity is to ensure the County Commission works with the County Clerk's office to ensure funds are available to hire the necessary officials to staff all polling locations.

Marcy Renee Teague -District 5 (R) [Write-In Candidate]

1. 23+ years in service to customers and our Doña Ana community through multiple businesses uniquely qualifies me to be able to understand and appreciate the needs of our residents, my neighbors. Raised with a solid-work ethic and moral fortitude by my adopted parents, I strive to ensure our community has the resources available to thrive and bring in and cultivate necessary elements to help improve our day-to-day lives.

2. Transparency in office and more concise and targeted communication to residents -- one of the main issues I hear as I am campaigning is that people don't even know who their representative is, I want to change that! I would love to speak to each and EVERY one of the residents of District 5 to determine their concerns for our community and find ways specific to them in order to improve our daily lives. I am aware of water issues that need to be addressed, medical and emergency availability and response, and a wastewater management plan to meet current and future human needs as well as protecting our natural environment. We can not attract desirable resources to areas that do not have the necessary infrastructure to support them.

3. Implement strategies to help foster a more engaged and informed voter, ultimately leading to higher turnout and participation. Voter Mobilization Campaigns: Host events, rallies, and workshops that encourage people to register and vote. Online Registration: Encourage online voter registration to make it easier for people to sign up to vote.

4. Enhancing voter interest is essential for a healthy democracy. Education and Awareness Campaigns - Civic Education: Implement programs in schools and communities that educate citizens about the importance of voting, how elections work, and the impact of their vote. Information Dissemination: Use social media, traditional media, and community events to spread accurate information about voting processes, candidates, and issues on the ballot. As a WRITE IN candidate, this campaign is a challenge all its own -- I am working feverishly to get my name at the forefront of my entire district.

COUNTY CLERK

QUESTIONS DOÑA ANA COUNTY CLERK

- What skills, education and prior experiences qualify you for this office?
- 2. If elected, what are your highest priorities?
- 3. What steps would you take to enhance voter interest and participation in the voting process?
- 4. What measures would you employ to improve voting access and election security?

Cheryl De Young (R) Candidate for County Clerk

1. I have worked the elections for decades;

registered voters; proven experience in proper document storage, filing and retrieval; develop and administer budgets; hire, train and supervise staff; public speaking; computer skills; writing skills; community outreach;

2. Transparency is a must by having an open door policy. Trust is engendered through transparency. Integrity must be maintained. Accountability is the final piece.

3. I would be out in the community at events where I can engage the citizens. Listen to those who bring their concerns and work to solve problems. Be where the people are so that I am accessible to the citizens of Dona Ana County

4. I would make sure that training a priority. I would engage the poll workers during training and make sure that they are confident in their job as poll workers. Transparency would be a priority. I would make sure that each polling convenience center was safe, accessible and that each voters felt that their vote mattered and was secure.

Amanda Lopez Askin (D) Candidate for County Clerk

1. My background includes a diverse background in corporate and governmental organizations. I am a 3x NMSU Aggie, with a PhD in a leadership focused program. While obtaining my Ph.D. I was appointed to serve on the Board of Regents at New Mexico State University where I supported the management of a 600 million dollar organization, one of our community's most important resources. Prior to serving as clerk, my professional experience encompassed working for a for-profit hospital, where I then chose to work for state government in school behavioral health advocacy, training, and promotion of best practices in behavioral health. I have served as Clerk for more than 5 years and am proud of our numerous accomplishments that benefit our community.

2. Utilizing the 3 million dollars I lobbied for to complete a brand new election warehouse, continue to implement best practices of election administration, support the growth and satisfaction of the exceptional staff that in our office, continue to offer excellent customer service, use contructive feedback to improve our procedures and processes, offer opportunities for community education and training on elections, support our real estate and business community in the services we provide them, maintain our robust staffing levels, continue to work with other organizations to promote voter education and participation, and advocate for Doña Ana County's perspective to be heard in Santa Fe, with stakeholders, and decisionmakers.

3. Advocacy on a state and federal level for specific funding to offer our communities voter education is something I believe would be helpful in voter interest and participation. Funding would assist in voter education/ engagement, but also should happen year-round. Voter engagement requires a multi-pronged approach that requires not only the County Clerk's Office, but also community, indigenous, regional, state, and federal stakeholders. Educate and engage students at younger ages would be helpful in institutionalizing participation and civic engagement. Communicating to parents, grandparents, and trusted adults that are in young people's' lives about voting and and the importance of participation. Combat misinformation at any opportunity.

4. NM already implements best practices in voting access and election security, as evidenced by our recent ranking as #1 in MIT's Election Performance Index. Best practices include: paper ballots, paper ballots enable us to recount a single race or an entire election if necessary. Community education about comprehensive security measures we have implemented. For example, our tabulators are prevented by law from being joined to a computer network or the Internet. There are those that promote the opposite so correcting mis or malinformation is vital. Advocacy for additional funding and promotion that we can have both, great access for voters and also a secure system that every New Mexicans can believe in.

COUNTY TREASURER

QUESTIONS DOÑA ANA COUNTY TREASURER

- What skills, education and prior experiences qualify you for this office?
- 2. If elected, what are your highest priorities?
- 3. As County Treasurer what investment strategies would you follow?

Marisol Richardson (D) Candidate for County Treasurer

1. I have worked in government, specifically at Doña Ana County for 16 years. I have held several financial positions; Accountant, Budget Officer, Accounts Payable and Payroll Manager, and am currently the Chief Deputy Treasurer. I obtained my Bachelor's and Master's of Accountancy from NMSU. I have lived most of my life in Doña Ana County. I bring a strong financial knowledge base to the office and a passion and commitment to public service.

2. My highest priorities are increasing community outreach, financial process improvements, and to protect, manage, and invest taxpayer dollars.

3. The main objective is the safety of public funds while maximizing return. I would focus on understanding and following the investment limitations required of local governments. Additionally, focus on portfolio diversification based on economic trends and County operational needs.

tonight's picks

A female cheetah as seen in "Big Cats 24/7"

The Challenge MTV 6 p.m.

No one saw this coming. One contestant has witnessed their entire "era" team disappear through elimination. Now, the lone member standing must represent and stay in the game. Meanwhile, stresses to alliances form when multi-era pollination occurs.

Tyler Perry's Sistas BET 7 p.m.

Romance may not be dead but the ladies are struggling to find a pulse in this Season 8 premiere. With Gary (Chido Nwokocha) dead, everyone is pointing fingers and suspecting everyone else. Can the ladies stick together when the heat is on?

The Masked Singer KFOX 7 p.m.

The popular musical guessing game is in full swing as costumed celebrities take to the stage to dazzle audience members and judges Robin Thicke, Ken Jeong, Jenny McCarthy and Rita Ora. Just who'll make the cut and who will be unmasked? Nick Cannon hosts.

Big Cats 24/7 KRWG 7 p.m.

In this series finale, the laws of nature are put to the test as competition over food becomes even more challenging. In an act of desperation, a lioness must risk her life in order to feed her five cubs. Then, newborn leopard cubs are immediately in danger.

Joan KVIA2 8 p.m.

Joan (Sophie Turner) has very particular set of skills — and she knows how to use them. In order to provide for her six-year-old daughter (Mia Millichamp-Long) after escaping her abusive marriage, Joan uses her skills to become a notorious jewel thief.

Fugitives: Caught on Tape A&E 8 p.m.

This series premiere follows the police officers from across the country in hot pursuit of fleeing criminals. In Los Angeles, ground units and helicopters work to catch a multiple hit-andrun suspect. In Florida, cops look for a suspected murderer.

What's Available NOW On

"Beyond Black Beauty" - Season 1 (Oct. 15)

Young equestrian Jolie Dumont (Kaya Coleman) finds her Olympic dreams dashed when her mother (Sagine Sémajuste) moves them from Belgium to her family's urban ranch in Baltimore. Wishing for nothing else but to have her old life back until she bonds with a spirited horse named Black Beauty, Jolie learns to embrace her heritage while continuing toward her Olympic-hopeful future.

"Brothers" (Oct. 17)

Brothers tells the story of a reformed criminal (Josh Brolin) whose attempt at going straight is derailed when he reunites with his sanity-testing twin brother (Peter Dinklage) on a cross-country road trip for the score of a lifetime. Dodging bullets, the law, and an overbearing mother along the way, they must heal their severed family bond before they end up killing each other.

"The Pradeeps of Pittsburgh" - Season 1 (Oct. 17)

This sitcom follows the Pradeep family and the events of their life in America after moving from India. As told through hilarious (and often conflicting) flashbacks from an interrogation room, the Pradeeps quickly find themselves embroiled—romantically, personally, and professionally—with a polar-opposite neighborhood family, leading to a predicament with many surprising twists.

"The Devil's Hour" - Season 2 (Oct. 18)

Continuing the story of Lucy Chambers (Jessica Raine), a woman caught up in the hunt for serial killer Gideon (Peter Capaldi) in ways she never could imagine, this new season sees Gideon's true intentions finally revealed. As he attempts to involve Lucy in his mission to stop an elusive force of evil, Isaac (Benjamin Chivers), meanwhile, is discovering new emotions every day and struggling to keep his balance in a reality that rejects his existence. Fresh mysteries unfold as our stories converge on one explosive moment that will change everyone's fate.

Mesquite Historic District

Las Esperanzas marks 25 years

ALGERNON D'AMMASSA

as Esperanzas, Inc., a local nonprofit promoting the historical inheritance of Las Cruces' original town site and Mesquite Historic District, will celebrate its 25th anniversary later this month.

Founded in 1999 by Consuelo Lerma to address deteriorating conditions in Las Cruces' eldest neighborhood, the organization and its volunteer staff advocate for preserving the district's historical structures, including hundreds of 19th-century adobe homes, and promote awareness and pride of the district's history.

"When we talk about the neighborhood, I think we also talk about Las Cruces as a whole, because this is where the city started," Las Esperanzas' president, Martha Rodriguez, said in an interview. "If you drive through the neighborhood, you'll see the effects of what Las Esperanzas has done."

Their work includes collaborating with the city, state lawmakers and other agencies to develop and fund parks commemorating the neighborhood's history; build distinctive gateways adorned with tile panels and trim; establish the community garden, Jardín de Esperanza; erect lamp posts and markers for the historic Camino Real de Tierra Adentro; and advocate for the South Mesquite Overlay Zone which, since 2005, has permitted small businesses in certain residential areas.

Las Esperanzas' resident historian, and a business owner in the district, Corrina Miramontes, said the zone preserves some of the flavor she remembers from childhood.

"Growing up in the neighborhood, you could knock on someone's door. There was the tiendita, and you could ask for a soda and a candy, and they would go grab it for you, and you would pay them at the door," she said.

The association is also gathering oral histories of the neighborhood in partnership with New Mexico State University with funding support from El Paso Electric.

ahead as it works on a proposal to redesign Lohman and Amador avenues – major thoroughfares that carve straight through the neighborhood with fast-moving crosstown traffic and frequent accidents.

Las Esperanzas draws on the expertise of former state Rep. Antonio Luján, who served in the New Mexico Legislature for 10 years representing House District 35 and served on the House Appropriations Committee. He also draws on experience in community organizing from his time directing social ministry at the Catholic Diocese of Las Cruces.

"I also ran a business from here, lived here in the neighborhood," Luján said, recounting how Las Esperanzas approached him for his professional services (he served them pro bono) and recruited him as a member.

The celebration takes place 1-5 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 26, at Klein Park, 155 N. Mesquite Street, with mariachi and ballet folklorico performances planned and free food for children. More information about the organization is available at Las-Esperanzas.com.

Making community better Sylvia Ulloa joins NM CAFé

ylvia Ulloa has deep roots in New Mexico. As a former journalist in Las Cruces, she first encountered the work of NM Comunidades en Acción y de Fe (CAFé) in 2013 when she was the editor of the Las Cruces Sun-News. At the time, the organization came to their office to state their case and gain their endorsement on increasing minimum wage in Las Cruces. Throughout her career, Ulloa and NM CAFé continued to cross paths.

"I became a reporter for New Mexico In Depth. I had my background in journalism and I was covering the work that NM CAFé were doing for the immigrant community," Ulloa began. "Just recently, I was a field representative for Sen. Martin Heinrich's office here in Las Cruces and I was working with them on immigration issues. I've had a lot of interactions and I really admire the work of CAFé over the years."

In September, Ulloa became the new Executive Director of NM CAFé. The opening seemed fated to Ulloa.

NM CAFé is the only community-organizing group in southern New Mexico. Primarily, the organization assists Doña Ana County, but they are branching out to Otero and Luna counties, too. The organization helps the community in leadership development, youth initiative, immigration, economic development, justice for working families and more.

Sylvia Ulloa

"We're not doing the work for them. We're giving them the tools so they can advocate to make their own lives and their communities better. What we do is give them the tools to go, 'what is our plan and what do we want to ask of our elected officials?'," Ulloa explained.

Ulloa gave the example that many colonias lack paved roads or do not have streetlights. Without them. the roads become unsafe for older residents and children going to school in the morning.

Another issue NM CAFé is working on is school safety in Chaparral, an unincorporated colonia near El Paso. Ulloa said parents are getting guidance on what is the best strategy to talk to the school superintendent.

NM CAFé employs organizers who connect with community members for the betterment of all.

"They're full of great ideas and it's like harnessing those ideas and helping really build on this legacy that NM CAFé has had. I have this really young and energetic staff. I feel like we are all learning together," she said.

Ulloa's family has been a part of southern New Mexico for generations. When she moved here in 2011, she noted it felt like home right away, but she also knew Las Cruces could be better.

"I feel like everybody has a role to play in making our community better," she reflected, "I've done work in a lot of different arenas. My family has been here for generations and we have seen in many ways, generation after generation, sort of stuck in place. I think the answer all along has been the people who are here, who know and understand this place. Having somebody who's from here, who understands New Mexico in all its beauty and all its faults or imperfections, that to me gives you insight into how we can make things better."

More information on NM CAFé is available online at organizenm. org or by following them on social media.

"My range of management, legal and administrative experience are unmatched. The need for change has never been more urgent."

MAKING AN IMPRESSION

The Southwest Print Fiesta Celebrates the Art of Printmaking

DAVID SALCIDO

Las Cruces Bulletin

If you've been thinking about sprucing up your walls with fresh art, or iust want to add to vour collection of woodcuts, etchings, engravings or lithographs, the opportunity to get the freshest art available is here. The Southwest Print Fiesta. now celebrating its ninth year in Silver City, brings together printmakers, artists and enthusiasts from all over the southwest to celebrate the rich tradition and diverse techniques of printmaking.

Launched in 2016 by the Mimbres Regional Arts Council, the Fiesta has grown over the years, in part due to the influence of organizers Jamie Karolich and Kyle Durrie, who took over operation of the event in 2020. Using their connections within the community of working printmakers, as well as the experience of participating in similar festivals and markets themselves, the organizers bring an artist's perspective to the proceedings they say has expanded the reach to attract a broader range of participants.

"It's always been a really great festival, since day one, but as working printmakers ourselves we had ideas about how we could change little things, while still keeping the spirit of what made it a great festival to begin with," said Durrie, owner of Power and Light Press. "It's been really fun to have a little bit more involvement with it."

In keeping with that spirit, this year's event has been expanded to include more programming. Whereas in the past the event was a simple weekend affair, this year it encompasses four days. In addition to workshops. the Southwest Print Fiesta will feature engaging artist talks where participants can gain insights into the creative process and artistic inspirations directly from visiting artists. Exhibitions showcasing a diverse range of prints will also be on view, offering attendees the chance to explore and appreciate the wide breadth of printmaking techniques and applica-

"We're trying a few new things, like single-day workshops, in addition to two-day workshops, just to accommodate different budgets and taking into consideration that not everybody has two full days to commit to workshops," Durrie said. "We just like giving people smaller options that they can choose from."

One of the highlights of the weekend is the Printers' Market, where attendees can browse and purchase printed goods from local and regional vendors. Over 40 printmakers from all across the southwest, including Arizona, Texas, California and Colorado will be set up in an outdoor market to offer a broad range of printmaking, techniques and price points.

"The market is a really fun place to shop," said Durrie. "The feedback we get from a lot of people is that they stock up. They can get a lot of really affordable art. It's just a really accessible way to engage with art through print. That's something that we all really love about this event."

Of course, the weekend would not be complete without the Steamroller printing event, in which four artists are given 4'x4' linoleum blocks to carve, which are then used to make prints using a steamroller generously provided by the Fowler Brothers Construction Company.

"In the past, it was any image of their choosing, but this year we're doing a wilderness theme, because it coincides with the hundredth anniversary of the Gila Wilderness," said Durrie. "Beyond that, the artists are completely on their own to design whatever they want."

The spectacle of the event is watching as a team of volunteers help the artist ink their block and get it ready for printing. The steamroller then rolls over it, acting as a press.

"It's a really fun event to watch, because afterwards there's this big reveal as we peel the paper up and watch the image come to life," Durrie said.

With programming running over four days, Durrie suggests that attendees check out the schedule on their website, to decide what might interest them and on what day.

"There's just really a lot to do," she said. "I think that people tend to think of it as just a market and a steamroller event, because that really is the public-facing part of it, but there are a lot of things that we have tucked in there, this year, that we hope people can join us for."

The Southwest Print Fiesta runs Oct. 11-14, with exhibitions and artist talks at Power & Light Press, 601 N. Bullard St., Unit F, and Light Art Space Gallery, 209 W. Broadway St., as well as a Printer's Market on the downtown Main Street Plaza, 704 N. Bullard St. For more information, visit SouthwestPrintFiesta.org

Abel Garcia joins 'Bras for a Cause'

MIKE COOK For the Bulletin

Talk about a big draw! Renowned artist, Las Cruces native and NMSU graduate Abel Garcia will return to his home town Oct. 17 to paint a special picture for Bras for a Cause, one of the signature events of Cancer Warriors Week.

Garcia will be live on stage at the New Mexico Farm and Ranch Museum. creating a painting "that references Cancer Warriors," event coordinator and Cancer Warriors founder Marci Dickerson said. The finished painting will be sold to the highest bidder in a live auction during the evening, along with eight custom-made and framed bras, "to show support for Cancer Warriors," Dickerson said.

The second annual Bras for a Cause and nearly a dozen other events during Cancer Warriors Week, Oct. 12-19, were created by Dickerson to increase awareness and raise money for the fight against women's cancers, including breast, ovarian and uterine cancer.

"It's always heartwarming to come back to my hometown of Las Cruces, New Mexico," said Garcia. whose talents include timed live paintings. "Myself and my clan are from Tortugas, New Mexico. I believe truly in my heart that giving to the city and

- Danielle Ortiz, chef and owner, D's Bakery, preparing a variety of millionaire's shortbread confectionary. Ortiz, also known as "Chef D," said her passion for food has always been strong. "Until a few years ago, I envisioned myself as a kitchen manager or executive chef at an upscale restaurant," she said. "However, everything changed when I enrolled in the culinary program at DACC. My first baking class ignited a newfound love for baking and pastry. I have a special interest in accommodating dietary restrictions, including gluten-free and dairy-free options, and continue to expand my education and training in the culinary field."
- Ayana Jordan, chef at A to Zia Culinary Solutions, preparing bourbon ham with boozy maraschino cherries and pineapple. Jordan recently opened A to Zia Culinary Solutions, where she is both owner and operator. Jordan is a Las Cruces native and graduate of the DACC culinary program. Jordan said A to Zia "is a culinary service encompassing all things industry related."

Empty Bowls benefits El Caldito

BULLETIN REPORT

Unique, food-grade pottery will be ready for the taking at the 32nd annual Empty Bowls fundraiser benefiting El Caldito Soup Kitchen next Friday, Oct. 18, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, 223 W. Griggs Avenue.

For a $25 ticket, visitors may select a handmade bowl to take home from hundreds that will be on display. The handcrafted bowls are meant to remind the public about food insecurity in the community. While there, attendees may enjoy soup and fresh bread, provided by local restaurants and bakeries. Other ceramic pieces donated for sale by potters will be on hand as well.

This year, visitors may also purchase a "mystery bag" containing a bottle of wine and gift certificates to restaurants, revealed only upon opening the bag.

Organizers said this year's event will feature approximately 1,500 handcrafted bowls.

The event will run from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. More information is available at Potters-GuildLC.org.

Hamblen's reelection bid faces stiff challenge

JUSTIN GARCIA Las Cruces Bulletin

State Sen. Carrie Hamblen, a Las Cruces Democrat, faces Republican challenger Samantha Barncastle Salopek as she seeks her second term in the senate.

The candidates answered eight questions generated by a survey of Bulletin readers. Here are their answers.

Please provide any relevant experiences or background information about vourself that you believe readers should know.

Hamblen: I grew up in El Paso, earned my Bachelors of broadcast iournalism from UTEP.

Earned a master's in communication studies ('95) and a master's in public administration ('14) from NMSU. For 20 years, I was the "Morning Edition" anchor (on KRWG) and host of the public affairs program, "Images," which was on the air for 15 years. In 2012, I was selected to lead the Las Cruces Green New Mexico School of Chamber of Commerce. In 2014, I was honored to speak at the Department of Interior ceremony when President Obama designated the Organ Mountains-Desert Peaks National Monument.

Barncastle Salopek: I graduated from New Mexico State University before getting my law degree from the University of

HAMBLEN

Law. After clerking for the New Mexico Court of Appeals, I went to work at a law firm that focused on water issues in Las Cruces. In 2014. I started my own practice and now focus on helping farmers, ranchers, and local businesses fight for their water and property rights. My experience with water resources, agriculture law and economic development issues have given me a unique experience in helping the southern New Mexico community.

Do you support the governor's public safety agenda as proposed in the 2024 special legislative session? Please explain your position.

Barncastle Salopek: I support the governor's attempt to get tough on crime and address the needs of New Mexico, but a special session is not usually the place to handle such robust public policy issues. Some of the legislation proposed in the special session was previously proposed in regular sessions and never received committee assignments or hearings. Bipartisan collaboration is necessary to properly address the public safety issues our state is grappling with, and I support and applaud the governor's attempt to get that done. I am hopeful she will stay the course and work collaboratively to accomplish a slate of solutions in the regular session.

Hamblen: I and every member of the Democratic Senate Caucus opposed the governor's public safety agenda, along with the House Democratic Caucus. The legislation the governor proposed was not vetted, did not include input from over 40 groups and organizations all over the state and did not clearly address the issues of crime and public safety. Instead, it targeted the most vulnerable in our communities rather than address the root causes of job loss, poverty, drug addiction. food insecurity, domestic violence, mental health issues and the many other factors that contribute to someone becoming unhoused.

What short-term and long-term solutions would you propose/ support as a legislator to address concerns around crime in southern New Mexico?

Hamblen: As legislators, we need to make sure we have laws that effectively prosecute those criminals. We have long needed to increase the support and resources for our courts and judges and we are making inroads but still need to do more. We also need to increase funding and support for those areas that are often the root causes of crime: sexual assault, domestic violence, drug and alcohol addiction, mental illness, poverty, and more. If we ignore the actual causes of crime and just treat the criminal, we are failing our communities and residents.

Barncastle Salopek: Soft-on-crime laws strip away protections and resources from our law enforcement officers and allow criminals to walk our streets free. We need to fully support our law enforcement officers and first responders by putting policies in place to ensure that after a crime is committed, criminals aren't allowed to walk freely back into our communities and commit more crime. I will work in a bipartisan fashion to ensure disadvantaged individuals who end up in tough situations but are willing to work hard to become contributing members of society, are fully supported. However, I will hold accountability and responsibility paramount.

What solutions would you propose/support to improve the finances of New Mexico residents who experience higher prices of essential goods and stagnated wages?

Barncastle Salopek: Politicians in Santa Fe continue to increase taxes, draining New Mexicans of their hard-earned money and causing local businesses to struggle. Tax reform is necessary, and more planning for our future state budget is also necessary. At the rate we are going, we will drain our state budget and working families' wallets, and still not achieve anything we set out to do. I will fight back against tax increases and business regulations to ensure working families hard-earned money is protected, and our small businesses thrive.

Hamblen: Those higher Our healthcare system priced essential goods, gas and services are the direct result of large corporations wanting to maintain their large profits rather than raise prices when wages increase. In order for people to feed their families, heat or cool their homes, and get to and from work and school, they are finding their own paychecks are barely covering, if that, their monthly costs. We need to hold those corporations accountable and pass legislation that adjusts prices to the cost of living for all New Mexicans.

What solutions would you propose/support to create more access to mental health resources, particularly for people accused of crimes, in southern New Mexico?

Hamblen: We need to increase funding to treatment facilities that operate under capacity because they are understaffed. We need to incentivize behavioral health therapists to address the shortage of practitioners, social workers, and culturally competent therapists in New Mexico. We can do this by creating our own educational pipeline for behavioral health therapists to come from New Mexico communities. We need to increase Medicaid reimbursement rates so that a behavioral health therapist can make a living and increase the number of facilities and programs to address those with serious mental illnesses.

Barncastle Salopek: in New Mexico needs a major shift entirely. We need to make healthcare more accessible for all New Mexicans, not just a specific sector. Addressing mental health issues is key to resolving other social issues such as homelessness, increased crime and education issues. I will prioritize recruiting and retention in the health care, law enforcement, and first responder sectors, while also focusing on increasing opportunities for infrastructure to ensure those sectors have what they need to properly perform their jobs. Finally, properly funding the various programs housed within the judicial system is essential to ensuring those accused of crimes receive appropriate social assistance to match their needs.

What solutions would you propose/support to access/restrict access to reproductive health, such as abortion?

Barncastle Salopek: Again, our health care system needs to shift entirely, and I will focus my efforts on recruitment and retention in the health care field. I believe in fair access to health care throughout our state. I am the mother of a special needs child, and to get her health care, I must take her out of state. It should not be easier to get an abortion than it is to get my daughter health care in New Mexico. I believe that the decision to get an abortion needs to remain between the patient and their doctor - not the government.

Hamblen: Given the state of the country and individual states regulating an issue that is really between a woman and her doctor, we already have protections in place to safeguard women and practitioners. We also protect those coming from other states to acquire safe and private health care that is a right for every person. We need to continue to ensure reproductive health care is accessible and protected for those who wish to use it.

New Mexico has consistently ranked lower in education standings than the other 49 states.

Why is this the case, and what steps would you take to improve education outcomes in New Mexico?

Hamblen: We have taken steps to increase the wages of teachers to a competitive level but that can't be the only solution. Teachers are trying very hard to provide a good education to our students but they can't do it alone. Community Schools, which I have supported from the beginning in Las Cruces, can provide spaces for families to get more involved in their children's' education. There needs to be a shift in the culture of expecting teachers to be the sole provider of education and support and encourage

Allen Theatres sued for alleged age discrimination

ALGERNON D'AMMASSA Las Cruces Bulletin

Las Cruces-based Allen Theatres, which owns and operates 17 cinemas in New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado, is facing a lawsuit from the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission on behalf of a former theatre manager at its North Plains 7 movie theatre in Clovis.

In a federal complaint, the agency alleges that Abby Parrish, a 30-year employee, was "mandatorily retired" because of his age in 2021; and that the company has a policy of terminating health insurance coverage for employees at age 65.

The EEOC said the company's actions violate federal laws protecting workers from discrimination on the basis of age. Further, it alleges that efforts to negotiate a settlement with Allen Theatres president Russell Allen prior to litigation were unsuccessful.

During the first year of the COVID-19 pandemic in 2020, all of Allen Theatres' locations in New Mexico were shut down under emergency public health orders. According to the EEOC complaint, in September of that year most employees were laid off, but that Parrish was treated differently, informed that he would be retired because he was 72 years old. The complaint states that when theatres reopened in 2021, the company proceeded to recall the theatre managers who had been laid off, with the exception of Parrish.

The complaint states that Russell Allen admitted during interviews with the EEOC that Parrish, who had worked at the Clovis location since 1991, was qualified for the job and the decision to end his employment "was based on Allen's belief that a man Parrish's age would not like working at night" and "was not based on anything Parrish had said about his desired work hours." It also states that Allen believed the decision was lawful. Parrish was replaced by a 30-yearold with considerably less experience, according to the complaint.

The agency further alleges a company policy of terminating employees' insurance when they reach age 65, as the complaint states happened to Parrish in 2012. Parrish told investigators he enrolled in Medicare, which offered less coverage, after Allen Theatres disenrolled him from its insurance plan. He stated that his request for a pay increase to help cover out-of-pocket medical costs and insurance premiums was denied. Since health coverage is part of employees' compensation, the EEOC says denying it to employees on the basis of age is unlawful discrimination under which older employees are paid less than younger coworkers.

"A company cannot implement a policy completely stopping medical benefits for its employees when they turn 65," EEOC attorney Mary Jo O'Neill argued in a written statement. "This policy results in employees 65 and over being paid less in employee benefits than younger employees. Further, a company cannot force a well-qualified employee who was satisfactorily performing his job as a theater manager to involuntarily retire simply because of a paternalistic view that people should not be working at age 72."

Russell Allen did not respond to queries for this story.

The complaint also alleges the company failed to maintain required documentation related to Parrish's termination and his EEOC complaint.

The lawsuit seeks back pay, lost benefits and front pay with interest and liquidated damages for Parrish, and an injunction ordering Allen Theatres to halt age-based discrimination in hiring, firing and compensating employees.

Pending home sales flat in September

STEVE MONTANEZ

For the Bulletin

Nationwide, home sales for the first time since January did not decline, showing consistency in the housing sector of our economy. In Las Cruces, we felt a bit of a slowdown that has been consistent with the start of the fall buyer season. One of the biggest factors is sellers holding on to their list prices and not dropping already declined about as low as as expected, with inventory up over 40 percent from last year. Currently, we have a little over five months of inventory which, if increased, can officially put Las Cruces in a buvers' market by definition. As more homes hit the market you can expect to see small reductions in prices in the coming months.

Interest rates dropped to a 6.1 percent average, its lowest in two years. Additionally, the fed's mid-September interest-rate cut caused many Americans to realize that mortgage rates have they are going to for the rest of the year.

Although the fed's rate cut may not have brought a surge in buyer activity, the good news is mortgage applications did increase. More homes are available, especially in the first-time buyer price point. While historically buyer activity heads toward a slowdown going into the holiday months, this is an opportunity to find some new incentives, better prices and possibly a small adjustment in interest rates. This is also a great time to keep an eve out for some great homebuying opportunities, especially from new home builds. It's still a great time to be a Las Cruces homebuyer.

families to become more engaged in the education process so our students can thrive.

Barncastle Salopek: This issue is near and dear to me, as I have two children in public school. Improving our education system starts with improving the support we give to families and our children. New Mexico can do better to support parents and families. Parents deserve a seat at the table when it comes to the decisions that will determine their child's education and future. We must also support our educators. Teachers deserve to get a paycheck that doesn't leave them having to work a second job or provide their own materials for their classrooms. Supporting children, parents, and teachers in setting appropriate goals and then providing adequate funding to achieve those goals is the only way to turn our public education system around.

What is the legislature's responsibility in addressing humancaused climate change in New Mexico - especially considering the state's reliance on oil and gas to generate revenue for state government and employment opportunities?

Barncastle Salopek: Southern New Mexico is home to the largest production agriculture industry in the state. I will protect that industry to ensure that jobs are protected, and our economy remains strong. The Oil and Gas sector generates a massive amount of money in our state budget, and without it. we would not be able to afford many of the most basic programs in our state, such as funding for education. As I do in my daily work as a water and natural resources attorney, I will look for common sense solutions that require bipartisan and multisector collaboration, but I will not support radical solutions that are short-sighted.

Hamblen: Our reliance on oil and gas dates back to the early 1900s and incorporating it in our budget made sense at the time. But as we have learned more about finite resources, climate change and the damage fracking does to our land (especially that land where communities of color reside), we have no choice but to diversify our revenue streams. We must provide job training for those in the oil and gas industry to make either equal or more than they do now so they can support their families. We also must identify the needs we have in the state, create those industries so we don't have workers or monies leaving our state.

New Mexico Interstate Stream Commission to conduct aerial survey to map subsurface aguifers aquifers Between October 8th and 14th, the New Mexico Interstate Stream Commission will conduct an aerial geographical survey using a low-flying helicopter near La Union, Santa Teresa, and Sunland Park as part of its effort to map subsurface aquifers in the area to improve understanding of available groundwater resources. During the geographical survey, instruments suspended below a helicopter, approximately 100 feet above the ground, will collect subsurface measurements along pre-planned flight lines. Measurements are made by creating an electromagnetic signal that interacts with the geologic materials beneath the land surface, stimulating a response from those materials and generating a signal that is picked up by receivers. When combined with well data and knowledge of the geology, this geophysical data can produce a three-dimensional picture of the geographic extent of sands, gravels, and clays that make up the aquifers of the regional groundwater system. The survey will take place west of

Santa Teresa and

east of the Organ

Mountains-Desert Peak National Monument-Potrillo Mountains. The helicopter will fly over a flight path designed to get the best available data from the subsurface. The helicopter will not fly over businesses, homes, other inhabitable structures, or confined animal feeding operations. The NMISC is working with a pro-fessional surveying company and a helicopter company to conduct the geophysical survey. Experienced pilots specially trained for low-level flying required for geophysical surveys will operate the helicopter and follow the established Federal Aviation Administration rules and regulations in accordance with U.S. law. Miners sweep volleyball rivalry match

NMSU ATHLETICS

After an electric showing last Saturday, the Aggie offense stalled in Memorial Gym on Tuesday. University of Texas, El Paso held NM State to just 28 kills and a .112 hitting percentage. The 0-3 loss snapped a threematch winning streak for the Crimson and White. who now stand at 9-8 overall and 3-2 in Conference USA play. The two sides were set to return to action for the finale Wednesday, after this edition went to press.

The 2024 edition of the Battle of I-10 began as a back-and-forth affair, including seven ties in the first 20 points. Shortly after, a Miner service error tied the match at 16 all. Back-to-back Aggie kills from Mari Sharp and Ashley Herman put the visitors ahead 18-16, forcing a timeout from UTEP Head Coach Ben Wallis. After the stoppage, the home side took control and claimed 9 of 13 points. UTEP took the opening frame by a score

A kill and two blocks on three consecutive points gave UTEP a 7-3 lead early in the second set. Later, back-to-back Torrance Lovesee aces capped off a 5-0 home run as UTEP pulled ahead 14-7. Outside of those two stretches, the Aggies held their own, but failed to overcome a deficit that grew as large as eight. A block from Starr Williams and Nicole Briggs cut the deficit to three (22-19), but the Miners responded with a 3-0 burst

For the first time in the match, the Crimson and White got out to a hot start in the third frame. The visitors pulled ahead 12-9 on a kill from former Miner Yasso Amin.

forcing a timeout from the home team. UTEP found its stride, however, swapping 11 ties and five lead changes throughout the stanza. The match ended with a 6-2 run for the Miners, who took the set and match by a final score of 25-21.

The Aggies were scheduled for the second and final installment of the Battle of I-10 series Wednesday at 6 p.m. at Memorial Gym.

Cancer Warriors tailgate for Aggies Tuesday

BULLETIN REPORT

On Tuesday, Oct. 15, the Aggies will take on the Lousiana Tech Bulldogs at Aggie Memorial Stadium, and the Cancer Warriors will celebrate with a tailgate party raising pom poms - and awareness of breast. ovarian and uterine cancer.

The Warriors Week Tailgate begins at 5 p.m. and is open to everyone, per Cancer Warriors founder Marci Dickerson. It will be held between Pan American Center and Aggie Memorial Stadium. You can pick up tickets to the game at the tailgate tent located between the Pan American Center and the football stadium or at The Game Sports Bar and Grill, 2605 S. Espina St. Wear pink and get free tickets. Pom poms and other free pink items will be given away at the gate, and there will be a special presentation of the Cancer Warriors board of directors and event sponsors during the game, Dickerson said.

The golf doctor answers your questions

QUESTION: Please explain to me what a "press" is in a game of golf. I play with a few guys for a little bit of cash, but it always ends up to be for more than we started out agreeing upon. Last time when I asked how that was so, one of them replied. "that's because of the presses."

-Robert T., Las Cruces DR. GOLF: Before I get into presses I should emphasize that it isn't all that wise to be betting in a game where you don't know the stakes or the rules. A "press" is simply a way to up the ante of the original bet by tacking on a new, separate bet. Let's say your opponent goes two-down on the original match play wager. Then he chirps "press." That means the original bet continues, but a new bet starts on the ensuing hole for the same amount and continues over the remaining holes. Usually a press begins when someone is two down.

But "automatic" presses are popular when agreed upon, in which a twodown score means a press bet automatically kicks in. Occasionally a golfer who is losing will throw in an "aloha press" on the 18th hole, which essentially means "double or nothing" on the whole day. Personally, I'm not a bets: You may not have as many people to play with in the future. But I just hate working all afternoon to win a match only to lose everything on some guy's lucky shot or lucky putt on the last hole.

great fan of presses, as my friends well know. But I will go along to get along when it matters. One fellow who I have known for years

flatly refuses to play presses. Of course, there's a downside to refusing to accept press

QUESTION: How do you recover from a horrible start? This happens to me, oh, about once every couple of months. I start out making a snowman and a quad and then start three-putting and I want to quit. The awful play seems to go away by the back nine holes, but the damage is already done. My other question is: How can a person have fun when that happens?

-Linda B., Las Cruces

DR. GOLF: First, you know you can't undo your miserable play for the first half of your round. What you can do is start over again. Not in terms of score, per se, but in terms of how you are able to approach your normal ability to play. You may find that you are able to hit extraordinary shots and make a lot of putts once you settle down and get the demons out of your head and swing. Even the best players in the world have off days, and wonder how they played so badly to miss the cut in an important tournament. As for awful play, try to forget the bad shots but remember the lessons learned from them.

QUESTION: Half the time I hit shots that turn out exactly the way I didn't want them to. I tell myself "don't hit it in the water;" and sure enough I hit it right into the pond. How can this be?

-Jose, Doña Ana DR. GOLF: You have to understand how the human brain works. When you're poised over the golf ball the brain doesn't know (or care) the difference between "Do" or "Don't." Your cerebral cortex mainly processes visual images, and you are creating a self-fulfilling shot pattern by the autothought of "don't hit it in the water." Get used to using a pre-planned mental shot image and rehearsal to match that image.

The Importance of Choosing the Right Mattress: Investing in Your Sleep Quality

by Jesus Duran, GM

n today's fast-paced world, where we often prioritize work and social commitments over self-care, the choice of a mattress can easily be overlooked. However, when it comes to your health, performance, and mood, selecting the right mattress should be at the forefront of your mind. At Ashley Furniture, we understand this critical decision and are proud to offer three distinct line-ups tailored to meet diverse needs: Essentials, Gruve, and Align.

Our Essentials line-up provides an affordable vet comfortable option for those on a budget—proving that quality sleep doesn't have to break the bank. Next, our Gruve line represents an upgrade in materials and craftsmanship, ideal for consumers seeking enhanced comfort. Finally, the Align line offers "luxury without the luxury price tag," featuring premium options that cater to those who desire the finest sleep experience.

Each of our line-ups includes innerspring, hybrid, and memory foam mattresses, along with firm, plush, and ultra-plush options to cater to various sleep styles. This ensures that everyone can find their perfect match—because your sleep preferences are unique, and they deserve careful consideration.

Moreover, investing in quality sleep pays dividends far beyond the bedroom. Improved sleep quality can enhance your daily performance and mood, reducing the need for caffeinated products that can leave you feeling jittery and unwell. To further ease your investment, Ashley Furniture is proud to offer zero-interest financing, enabling you to acquire the comfort you need without the burden of upfront costs.

So, the next time you think about upgrading your mattress, remember: it's not just about the price tag-it's about the lasting impact on your well-being. Prioritize your sleep, and you'll wake up to a world of potential each day.
