Rockin Hep Cats Take Center Stage

By Kenya Narveson

Rockin Hep Cats is a band making waves with 1950's and 1960's rockabilly music in Dodge Center. Sounds of music from Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, Jerry Lewis, and the Johnny Burnette Trio. The band was founded by 21 yr old Coltan Smisek of Dodge Center. He became interested in music at the age of 10. He plays an acoustic guitar and is a vocalist. "My mother and father introduced me to the music of Johnny Cash through the form of two videos, 'Ring of Fire' and 'Jackson,' after that I was hooked," he says. A little later, Smisek says he discovered Elvis Presley. "That was when everything changed," he says. "I knew I wanted to pursue music for my career."

Mobile Pet Grooming Comes to Area

Angel's Pet Grooming is now offering mobile pet grooming, which will come to your door and groom your pet. This provides a more stress free experience for pets which suffer from anxiety.

Angela Pike is a South Dakota native who moved to the Rochester area twenty-five years ago. She originally went to school at RCTC to be a vet tech, but after working at PetCo for a while realized she would rather work with dogs making them look pretty instead of seeing them when they are sick. She attended a PetCo academy twenty years ago in the twin cities for her schooling in pet grooming.

Are You Obsessive Productive?

By Pastor Roger Langworthy
Praise Fellowship Church

I'm sure that you have heard of being OCD (Obsessive Compulsive Disorder), but have you ever heard of OPD (Obsessive Productive Disorder)? I haven't either, and I did do a Google search before I started to make my comments to find out if I was just ignorant. No doubt, I still have some level of ignorance as to the psychological profile of the type of person I am describing, but overall it is the type of individual that sees no value in rest or recreation, because they see it as unproductive. Okay, maybe more common terms rather than OPD, would be Type A Personality, or Workaholic.

I don't often wax eloquent or profound when I speak, but not long ago when a gentleman apologetically told me that he hadn't been doing much, just resting. I responded that sometimes resting is the most productive thing you can do. Then I had to stop and think about what I said and whether I really believed it or not. I have to settle on the fact that with the agreement of the scriptures it really is true. I am usually persuaded more by the title of the book authored by Tim Hansel, "When I Relax I Feel Guilty."

Look at some of the Biblical heavy hitters that were all in favor of rest. How about God himself? After having created the heavens and the earth and all contained in them, he rested. How about Jesus? Not only for himself, but he encourage his disciples to draw away to a lonely place for rest even when the crowds were pressing them for more miracles. Listen to the words of Jesus in Mark 6:31 - 32, "And He said* to them, 'Come away by yourselves to a secluded place and rest a while.' (For there were many people coming and going, and they did not even have time to eat.) They went away in the boat to a secluded place by themselves."

The need among the people was great, but Jesus knew when it was time to rest. Rest is so valuable that God even established it in the Ten Commandments. Work six days and rest the seventh (see Exodus 20:9-10).

So if any of you reading this suffer from OPD - and I'm not talking about the Office of Public Defense - that is another whole syndrome - know that God has established times when the most productive thing you can do is rest. So work, and then rest and restore. Create, and then recreate. And don't feel guilty when you rest. Sometimes it is the most productive thing you can do.

He predestined us for adoption to sonship through Jesus Christ, in accordance with his pleasure and will. — Ephesians 1:5

My daughter and son-in-law are in the process of choosing a therapy dog for one of our grandsons. They have been discussing and studying about which breed is best and which size is right. During this time, their other son has been helping to walk the neighbor's dog to get a sense of how this addition to the family will work. The family is invested together to make a good choice.

Even more important is understanding that God has decided that he wants us to join his family. Does it inspire you that God has been pleased to create us for fellowship with him? God knew that through the sacrifice of Jesus we would become sons and daughters of God. His plan for our lives is to include us in his story. It wasn't enough that God created us and made us his imagebearers; he also loves us and wants to live in relationship with us.

When our lives reflect the realization of all this, we display God's glory and his love, and something changes in us. We carry ourselves with the knowledge that we belong and are part of God's family.

What does it mean to be part of this family? It means we are responsible for one another. Because of the love God has given us, we have the ability to live in unity together, sharing in the story that God has indeed chosen us.

Thank you, Father, that you have created us and have chosen us. Help us to see what it means to be in your family and to treat others with the same love you have shown us. Amen.

A few years ago, when Smisek was a senior in high school, he met a slap bass player, Todd Owen. While Smisek was playing guitar and singing at the Annadine, here in Dodge Center, Owen suggested the two could have a jam session together sometime. Shortly thereafter, Owen's son Ben Owen, a guitarist, asked if he could join in. One of the trio's first official gigs was for the Eagles Cancer Telethon. Since the pandemic ended the Hep Cats have played at several venues.

For Smisek, having the father and son team join him to create a band has been a wonderful experience. "I enjoy working with two of the greatest musicians in this part of the country," he says. "When I first started, I was on my own. Getting to play with Todd and Ben has been one of the biggest thrills of my life." They are looking to add a fourth person to the band as a drummer.

For a band that focuses on music from an earlier generation, it seems to make sense to include two members from different generations of the same family. Todd Owen, who plays bass with the Rockin' Hep Cats, is 49, and his son Ben Owen, the guitarist, is 16. Todd says he really enjoys playing with his son in the group since it gives him the opportunity to watch Ben improve his playing ability.

Coltan mentioned it was difficult to find a name that had not already been used for a rockabilly band. He didn't want the band name to lead with Coltan and fill in the blank. He didn't want to take the limelight away from his fellow bandmates. He used inspiration from a 1950's magazine for hipsters that had a dictionary with slang from that time. Hep refers to hip or cool and cats refers to a cool guy!

We all have been touched by someone who has or has had cancer, and it is easy to say it's not an easy challenge to navigate. By attending Shooting for a Cure, you will be able to help those who need support, not only financially but also emotionally, as those involved see the changes that can be affected as we come together to help each other in times of crisis.

There will be 4 girls basketball games, 7th, 8th, JV and Varsity, and a 50/50 raffle at half time of each game.

"Our goal is to raise $5K to help support organizations in our area, such as Brighter Tomorrows, a group of volunteers who help families to adjust to the circumstances they experience when their child is diagnosed with cancer, The Cure Starts Now, Mayo Pediatric Cancer Research, and Sandra J. Schultze Hope Lodge." explains Keri Ginder, one of the sponsors of the event. "This is in line with what we have raised in previous years because of our giving community and their generous donations, both monetary and with gift baskets for the raffle." There will also be a silent auction, which will close at 3:30pm.

If anyone would like to contribute by donating a basket or item for the raffle they can contact Keri at kerijo77@gmail.com or Amy at afreiderich@yahoo.com Or if you would like to make cash donations checks can be made payable to

The holidays may have passed, but the spirit of giving to those less fortunate remains, and this is a fun way to get the family out and teach our children that it takes a village to accomplish unselfish deeds and to help others get through one of the toughest things they will ever face.

Please join us in this special evening and ask questions, volunteer, donate, or just watch the fun! Let's get out there and show them what the Cobras and their neighbors can accomplish! Hope to see you there!

Mobile Pet Grooming Comes to Area

She managed a pet salon at Pet Smart where she trained groomers, and two years ago decided to start her own mobile grooming business.

She purchased a mobile salon in a 7' x 18' trailer from a manufacturer in Texas. It has self-container water, diesel heater, gas generator and every amenity a standard grooming shop offers. She pulls the trailer with her pickup and with travel time can groom about six dogs each day. A small dog costs $75 and a large dog costs about $150 each. Her services include teeth brushing, nail clipping, bathing, trimming and grooming. Angela uses top of the line shampoo and conditioners, has studied holistic grooming and is a certified fear free groomer. She offers a stress free environment and safety is her number one priority. She grooms mostly dogs but does a few cats.

She has clients from Wanamingo, Zumbrota, Rochester, Byron and Kasson. For anyone interested in her services contact Angel at 507-251-4123

A New Year Brings Change

By Harvey Mackay

A new year often brings new beginnings. I was intrigued to discover how one company used a novel way to motivate employees to think about new ways of doing things.

Here is the approach practiced by Chiyoji Misawa, who founded the largest home builder in Japan, Misawa Homes, more than 50 years ago. He “died” at least once every decade to arrest the momentum of out-of-date assumptions and policies. He sent a memo to his company that formally announced “the death of your president.”

According to Robert H. Waterman, Jr. in his book, “The Renewal Factor,” this was Misawa’s way of forcing the whole company to rethink everything. When employees resist change because they are used to the old way of doing things, Misawa declared: “That was the way things were done under Mr. Misawa. He is now dead. Now, how shall we proceed?”

I was particularly interested in this novel idea because so often the resistance to major changes starts at the top. As the saying goes, “If it ain’t broke, don’t fix it.”

But that thinking doesn’t apply to improvements. Simply because things are sailing along, assuming that the winds won’t change is dangerous business. When I went into the envelope manufacturing business decades ago, the notion of email and the internet were science fiction. Yet it became one of the biggest challenges that an envelope manufacturer could face.

Being a great leader is not always about becoming an expert at everything – it’s really about knowing where to find knowledge and expertise when you need it. That’s where Misawa’s genius was most evident: knowing how to solicit input and gain perspective from his own connections.

In turn, he encouraged his work force to learn how others approach new markets, re-vamp processes and resolve problems. Giving his employees the opportunity to offer their suggestions served several purposes: acknowledging their value to the company, encouraging them to think ahead, and teaching them not to be afraid of change.

Change is inevitable, and those who embrace it are more likely to have staying power as each new year rings in.

New Year’s resolutions tend to focus on areas that we know need a change. Make those resolutions too general or too sweeping, and chances are they will be your resolutions year after year. Alan C. Freitas, president of Priority Management, recommends that you write resolutions/goals that are SMART:

Specific – Precisely what you want to achieve, and by when.

Measurable – What a successful outcome looks like.

Attainable – Challenging, but achievable.

Relevant – Address areas of your work and life that are really important to you.

Trackable – How you’re going to gauge your progress.

Getting into the right mindset to make changes, large or small, takes some motivation.

Figure out why you want to achieve the goal. Make a list of all the ways you will benefit from achieving it. Whether it’s a personal goal, like finishing a degree, or a professional change, such as breaking into a new market, you need to understand why it will be worth it to make a change.

Then analyze exactly where you are now in reaching that goal: the strengths that will help you, the weaknesses that could hurt you, and the opportunities you can use to attain what you want.

Next, you must determine what you’ll need to invest to achieve your goal. Whether it’s time, money, or something else, know what reaching this goal could “cost” you. Is it worth it? If it’s important enough to you, sacrifices will pay off in the end. Just make sure that you have an end in sight!

Do your research. You may need to master new abilities to fulfill your resolution. Will you need to take classes to learn a new skill?

What kind of information do you need access to? Are you willing to carve out the time it will require? You don’t want to start something that you are not committed to finishing.

Look for support from family, friends, co-workers, managers or organizations that can help you. The more people who you share your resolutions or goals with, the more likely you will be to follow through.

You will have more success if you set deadlines for achieving your goals and resolutions. List specific dates on which you want to complete the various steps of the plan.

Finally, resolve to make it a happy new year!

Mackay’s Moral: You don’t have to “die” like Misawa to bring your dreams to life.

Do You Need to Contact Social Security When a Spouse Dies?

It’s an important task to put on your list.

The death of a spouse can be a traumatic event at any age or stage of life. If you lost a spouse, you may have a lot on your plate, like making funeral arrangements and contacting family members and friends to let them know.

But what if your spouse was collecting Social Security? Do you need to contact the Social Security Administration (SSA) right away? And does the death of your spouse mean their benefits are done with for good?

An important call to make

It’s best to inform the SSA as soon as reasonably possible following the death of a spouse. Sometimes, if you provide your funeral home with your spouse’s Social Security number, they can take care of that for you. But it’s generally a good idea to make that call yourself so you know it’s taken care of.

What about your deceased spouse’s benefits?

Once a person is no longer living, they can no longer collect Social Security. So it’s important to contact the SSA so it knows to stop payments.

If the SSA sends out a payment following a spouse’s death, you’re required to return that money. So if, for example, your spouse passes away in January but the SSA still sends their monthly benefit in February, that February payment isn’t yours to keep.

That doesn’t mean the SSA isn’t required to pay you benefits, though. If you’re married to someone who was collecting Social Security, once they pass away, you’re generally entitled to survivor’s benefits. And in that case, your monthly benefit will equal the amount your spouse was receiving on a monthly basis.

If you’re already receiving spousal benefits from Social Security at the time of your spouse’s death, those spousal benefits will automatically convert to survivor’s benefits. And that will generally mean a bump up in pay.

Spousal benefits are equal to a maximum of 50% of what your spouse got to collect each month. Survivors benefits equal 100% of your spouse’s former benefit.

Now, let’s say you’re entitled to a Social Security benefit of your own based on your personal wage history. If you’re already getting those benefits but you stand to collect more money via survivor’s benefits, you can apply for the latter and boost your monthly Social Security paycheck. But if your personal benefit is higher than what you’d get in survivor’s benefits, you might as well stick with your own benefit.

And to be clear, you cannot collect both your own benefit and a survivor’s benefit: It has to be one or the other.

Losing a spouse is never easy. If your spouse passes away, contacting the SSA as soon as possible could spare you a hassle with regard to having to repay benefits. At the same time, you should be aware of your rights as a survivor and go after the benefits you’re entitled to. Collecting a survivor’s benefit could at least help ensure that you don’t end up struggling financially while you mourn the loss of a very important person in your life.

How to Stop Your Dog From Jumping Up on People

Jumping up on people is a natural canine behavior. Dogs get to say hello face to face when they jump and even better, it's guaranteed to get attention. However, from a human point of view, jumping to greet is annoying and dangerous. Dressy clothes can get soiled by muddy paws and people can be knocked over, especially seniors and children. It's more polite and far safer to teach your dog to greet people appropriately.

Why Dogs Greet by Jumping

Dogs repeat behaviors that earn them rewards. And few things are more rewarding to your pet than your attention. Similarly, other family members, visitors, and strangers can all reinforce the behavior too. Even negative reactions like yelling at your dog or grabbing their paws are still attention and can reinforce the behavior. For many dogs, pushing them away is simply part of a wrestling game.

To eliminate jumping from your dog's greeting repertoire, you need to eliminate the associated rewards. That means managing your dog so they don't get the chance to practice jumping while you teach them an alternative and more appropriate way to greet people.

How to Train an Alternative Greeting Behavior

If you ignore your dog when they jump, theoretically their jumping behavior should eventually stop. After all, it's no longer being rewarded. However, every person you encounter in your home or on the street isn't going to know those rules. And even worse, that's incredibly frustrating for your dog. They need to be taught what to do instead.

How you want your dog to greet people is up to you. You might simply want all four paws on the floor, or you might want your dog to sit or lie down. But remember, you need to tell them what TO do, not just what NOT to do. For example, sit for greetings is an easier rule than don't jump.

How to Train Four on the Floor

You can teach your dog to keep all four paws on the floor when they greet people by placing treats on the floor during greetings. The idea is to prevent your dog from jumping by rewarding them before they can even think about leaving the ground. The following steps will teach four on the floor:

With your dog on leash, have somebody approach your dog.

Before the person gets to your dog, toss several treats on the floor.

While your dog is eating off the floor, have the person pet and greet them.

Before your dog is finished eating, have the person back away again.

After several repetitions, repeat the steps above but this time extend the greeting, continuing to toss treats on the floor the entire time.

Once your dog can keep all four feet on the ground, let them greet the person before you place the first treat on the ground.

As your dog begins to understand the rules, you can feed fewer and fewer treats until the greeting is the only reward.

The trick to this technique is being fast with the treats. You need to anticipate your dog's jumping behavior and provide the goodies before it can occur. If you're too late and the dog jumps, have the person turn and walk away as you stop feeding the dog. In time, your dog will come to realize that four on the floor brings attention and treats while jumping brings nothing.

How to Train Sit for Greetings

Another appropriate greeting behavior is sitting for pets and hellos. Like the training method above, your dog will learn that when their bum is on the floor, attention comes their way, but when they get up, it all stops. The following steps will teach sit for greetings:

Tether your dog to a doorknob or piece of furniture.

From several feet away, ask your dog to sit. When they do, calmly approach. If they stand up, turn and walk back to your starting point and ask for the sit again. If they stay sitting, go up to them and quietly praise and pet them. If they stand up, keep greeting. As soon as they stand up, turn and walk away.

As your dog begins to understand they need to sit to get your greeting, you can make your approaches more and more exciting.

Once your dog has mastered sit for greetings with you, go back to step one using friends and family members.

Remember, the more your dog practices sit, the easier this exercise will be for them. There's no point in teaching sit for greetings if your dog is still struggling to sit without distractions. Sit should be your dog's way of saying please. Having them sit before going outside, getting their dinner, and so on makes sit for greetings easier to train.

How to Prevent Jumping While You Train

While you're teaching your dog an appropriate greeting behavior, you need to manage their behavior so they don't get the chance to practice jumping. For example, if your dog has a strong "Go to Your Place" cue, you can send your dog to their mat or crate anytime the doorbell rings. Alternatively, you can place a baby gate at your entranceway so your dog can't get to visitors. Putting your dog on leash whenever guests arrive can also help you prevent jumping.

Another management trick is keeping toys and treats at the front door. You can throw the reward away from the doorway to occupy your dog's time while your visitor enters. Or your guest can use the treat or toy to reward your dog for greeting appropriately.

It can be particularly hard to prevent jumping when you're walking your dog. You can't expect strangers to know or abide by your rules. Until your dog understands appropriate greetings with friends and family, avoid greeting strangers. Instead, get your dog's attention with a "Watch Me" cue or by squeaking a toy and let the stranger walk past. When your dog is ready to try greeting people on the street, be sure to tell people the procedure. Ask them to ignore your dog if your dog doesn't follow the rules. In no time, your dog will understand how to say hello politely whether at your front door or out on the sidewalk.

Triton BPA Students Take Care of Business

Dodge Center, MN – Triton’s Business Professionals of America (BPA) chapter took care of business at the Regional Competition on Thursday, January 5 when 30 members won State Trips. Roughly 275 students from ten area schools competed at Regionals, which was held at Rochester Community and Technical College.

“Triton BPA has a great tradition of success, but I believe this is the most students we’ve ever had win a trip to State,” said Advisor Rebecca Goossens. “They continually push themselves, gain new skills, and put in the work, and this is no small matter.”

Students competed individually and in teams in a variety of categories including accounting, video editing, web design, graphic design, podcast creation, computer programming, health administration, information technology, legal procedures, and small business management. The competitions required students to learn and develop numerous soft and hard skills and abilities and then demonstrate their knowledge by taking a test, creating a project, or presenting to a judge. Local industry and community leaders with real-life experience judged the contest events, and the top seven from each event earned trips to the State BPA Conference and Competition to be held March 9-11 against roughly 1,500 other students from schools across the state.

The New Year always seems to bring about a change in focus. We go from the beginning of the school year and all of the excitement that it brings to the shortening of the days and the realization of winter. It always seems like fall comes and goes so quickly. Before you know it, we have our Christmas Season, and the opportunity to reflect and give thanks. With the beginning of the calendar year, it brings with it the realization that we are about halfway through the school year. It also provides an opportunity to start fresh with any goals we may want to establish, or to realign our priorities. It also brings a renewed excitement that longer days and warmer weather will be upon us in couple of months. Even though the snowiest months are ahead of us, the hopes of spring and warmer weather will soon be a reality for us in Minnesota.

As a school leader, it is always a blessing to see the way students can find the positives in every day life at school. The cycle of the school year always brings about opportunities for students to look forward to. It can be a winter storm or a day off of school that gets our students excited, or it could be that their favorite dish is being served at lunch. Students find the positives every day. Even though they may say otherwise, it is evident to me that one of the greatest things about students is their ability to find the positives and excitement in the routines of school. Walking the halls or hanging out during lunch, you can see genuine expressions of happiness. I realize that there are those that may be dealing with difficult situations, but coming to school is opportunity for students to engage in a structured environment that provides structure and predictability. It is in a sense, an opportunity to escape from some of the pressures of the outside world that can be so unpredictable. Whatever the reason, it is great to see students experiencing joy and happiness in school.

With the change in the calendar year, it is an opportunity to look for things that we can be excited about, and look forward to. Our students provide us with a great example of how to find joy in the simple things, or to be grateful for the things we have. It is an opportunity to look for what is going well, and be grateful. As adults, we have the responsibility to create our own routines and structure. We have the opportunity to find the positives and joy that life offers us. It does require effort, because the reality is that life also brings with it plenty of opportunities to worry and get frustrated with things that don't go the way we planned. We can certainly get caught up in a negative thought tornado if all we do is worry and look for the next thing that creates a barrier in our pathway. We indeed must look for the positives and celebrate the structure and routine that provide an opportunity to smile at what we have and to look forward to the longer days and sunshine ahead. The new year is an opportunity to adjust our focus to the things that are going well, and the things we can be grateful for. I know that I am extremely grateful to have our students in school and to have all of the issues with COVID in the rearview mirror.

Please reach out to me with any questions that you may have regarding our school district. You can email me at schlich@triton.k12.mn.us or you can call me at 507-418-7530 to reach me at the district office. I would be happy to set up a time to meet with you or your organization. I believe that communication is an important aspect of my job responsibility, and I welcome the opportunity to learn from your perspective. GO COBRAS!

Triton to Perform Guys and Dolls

Auditions for the Triton Theater Department's production of Guys and Dolls will be held after school in Room 119 on January 30th, and January 31st! See Ms. Schreiber or Mr. Wotherspoon for more details!

Set in Depression-era Times Square, Guys and Dolls is about a couple of big city gamblers and the women who love them. It tells the overlapping stories of high-roller Sky Masterson, who falls in love with mission worker Sarah Brown, and lovable rascalion Nathan Detroit, engaged for 14 years to Miss Adelaide, a headliner at the Hot Box Club. Nathan runs a famous floating crap game, and an ongoing plot line involves his quest for a safe place for the game as Adelaide continues her quest to convince him to marry her. Meanwhile, Sarah, mistakenly believing that Sky set up an illegal game at the mission, tries to fight her affection for the charismatic craps shooter.

The production of Guys and Dolls will run March 30th through April 1st, with all performances beginning at 7pm in the Triton High School PAC. Don't miss the performance as the Triton Theater Department has not performed Guys and Dolls in 21 years!

Triton Counselor's Corner

In the last several years, Triton Public Schools and our community members have come up with qualities that we want every Triton student to embody in their everyday lives and especially upon graduation. We call this the Triton Profile of a Graduate or the Cobra Compass. There are 8 traits on this compass: self-awareness, integrity, critical thinking, dependability, problem solving, resilience, work ethic and communication. As a school counseling and social work team, we'd like to explain a little more about these traits and how they can relate to mental health and/or social emotional learning. Our students are learning about these characteristics each month as well.

January's Profile of a Graduate focus is problem solving. After our monthly lessons, we hope that students will be able to recognize how valuable the skill of problem solving is. Problem solving is a big part of our everyday lives. All day long we are solving problems. Some are as simple as "what will I wear today?" but other problems we encounter do not always have a quick and easy solution. These tougher problems require critical thinking, time, and patience.

Here are some steps we can take when approaching any problem that we need to solve: First, identify the problem. Next, brainstorm possible solutions and consider what the alternative solutions may be. Once you have your possible solutions, decide which solution is best. Finally, implement that solution and evaluate the outcome. Evaluating the outcome of the solution can help determine how to solve any similar problems that may arise in the future. As adults and parents, we can help our students build their problem-solving skills by encouraging independence. Rather than solving all of their problems for them, we can model our own problem-solving process. Ask direct questions and provide helpful suggestions as needed but encourage students to work through their problems on their own. Practicing problem solving for difficult situations is hard even for adults, and it can be helpful to remind students of this. It is okay not to have an instant solution and working your way through the problem-solving process is often more important than finding an immediate answer.

Triton Activities Works to Reflect Profile of a Graduate

By Corey Black

The mission of the Triton High School Activities Department is to provide students and staff opportunities to develop the core values identified in the Profile of a Graduate for Triton Public Schools.

The Triton Profile of a Graduate is our locally developed approach to defining what it means to be a graduate of Triton High School. There are eight principles and competencies that have been identified that will help all students develop the skills necessary for success in a career, college, but most importantly in life.

A clear visualization of priority goals for teaching and learning is communicated to students, parents, and staff to align collective efforts to develop the characteristics outlined in the Profile of a Graduate. The Triton Activities Department has set out to incorporate the Profile of a Graduate into the fabric of our extracurricular programs. Each coach and advisor has been tasked with identifying three of the Profile of a Graduate characteristics that their program will intentionally develop in the students that participate in their program.

Coaches and advisors will intentionally develop these characteristics through a three step process: instruction, identification, and experiences. In their individual way, coaches and advisors will provide instruction to students on what it means to exemplify the Profile of a Graduate characteristics that the program has chosen to develop. This will provide students information on what each of our Profile of a Graduate characteristics means, so there is a common understanding for everyone involved.

The second step for coaches and advisors is to identify when students within our programs demonstrate the selected Profile of a Graduate characteristics for our individual programs. During this process we want to recognize students for showing integrity, being a good communicator, showing their work ethic, having resilience, being a problem solver, being dependable, and demonstrating critical thinking skills.

Lastly, we want to create experiences for students where they can show off the characteristics that they have developed outside the arena of competition. Our coaches and advisors have been asked to create ways to connect the Profile of a Graduate characteristics to experiences that our students have throughout their time at Triton in order to create opportunities for our students, and our community, to remember when they reflect on the activities provided by Triton High School.

Through this process the Triton Activities Department will continue to pursue its mission, and develop community members that exhibit the values of Claremont, Dodge Center, and West Concord.

Kindergarten Service Project

Triton Kindergarten students participated in a service project and put their artistic abilities to work. Huckleberry Floral Design & Gift organizes an Adopt-A-Resident program that delivers beautiful arrangements to residents in local nursing homes over the holiday season. The students designed approximately 180 holiday cards that were shared with residents as they received their floral arrangements. These students were very excited to spread some holiday cheer!

Red Cross Blood Drive

The Minnesota Honor Society is comprised of four pillars – character, leadership, scholarship, and service. Most recently, members of the chapter had an opportunity to further their development of these pillars through sponsoring the Red Cross blood drive on December 14th in the high school gym.

This annual tradition provides students, staff, and community members with a chance to help others in need, especially as the holiday season is quickly approaching.

As teacher and coach, Zak Hanegraaf, a regular donor, mentioned, “I donate because I can. There always seems to be a blood shortage and this is a simple thing I can do to help others.”

For many students, this is their first opportunity to donate blood. Although it can bring about a great deal of anxiousness and uncertainty, many first-time donors have an enjoyable experience and are left with a sense of pride in their opportunity to give back. As Joiser Cruz Ortiz, a first-time donor stated, “I had a great experience. It felt really good that I could help save someone else’s life. The snacks afterwards were great too!”

Overall, the event was very well attended. In total, there were 52 people registered to give blood at the drive, 17 of which were first-time donors. MHS is looking forward to hosting an additional blood drive in the spring on April 26th. Please mark your calendars as we would love to surpass our prior attendance. By working together, we can inspire others through helping those in need.

Triton FCCLA Has Been Very Busy

January STEM with 2nd and 3rd Grade

This month our 2nd and 3rd grade students learned about the Engineering Design Process.

- Ask (What is the problem you are trying to solve).
- Imagine (What are the possible solutions).
- Plan (What is your plan to solve the problem).
- Create (Build a prototype).
- Experiment (Test your prototype).
- Improve (What can you change about your prototype to make it better).

We practiced this process by building a penguin raft. Students were provided 12 straws, scissors and 2 feet of tape. They worked as a team to build a raft and keep a paper penguin dry.

Great work 2nd and 3rd graders!

ECFE (Early Childhood Family Education)

What is ECFE (Early Childhood Family Education)

A program for families with children ages birth to kindergarten that offers classes and special events for children and their parents. Each class has a Parent/Child Time. Here, parents and children spend time together playing, learning more about each other, doing art projects, enjoying music and special activities together.

Some ECFE classes also offer a “separation time”. During the “Guided Playing and Learning” portion, a licensed Early Childhood Teacher works with the children providing experiences and activities to encourage skills in socializing, sharing, and developing independence. Meanwhile, the parents learn, share, grow and support each other in a most enjoyable and comfortable setting. This is known as “Parent Time”. For Who? ...for parents and their children between the ages of newborn and just before kindergarten.

...if a parent is unable to attend classes with their child, any adult who plays an important role in their may attend.

When? ECFE classes are held on various days and times, to make it possible for family who wants to attend.

Where? Dodge Center: Triton Elementary School – ECFE Room 206

Changes in Latitudes, Changes in Attitudes 2022 Was the Year for New Appliances

By Terry Campbell

This column is written by Messenger editor and Minnesota native Terry Campbell. Terry now splits his time between Minnesota when it's warm here and Tennessee when it's cold here.

It started out with the big stainless steel refrigerator in the farm house in Minnesota this summer. It was huge and over ten years old. I remember I had to remove the doors to get it in the house. Not just the handles, but both doors. The front door of the house came off the hinges and the refrigerator and freezer doors came off to make it in the house. The refrigerator had started making a clicking sound. More like a whap. Every ten seconds. "Whap". I knew what it was. There is a gear that opens the little door which brings cold air from the freezer to the refrigerator. It would open the door and then it would snap back shut. I explained it to my wife in technical terms. That didn't help. I related what a massive job it had been to get it in the house. It would be the same amount of work to take it out. That didn't help either. So, we compromised and I agreed on a smaller unit. I promised we would get a new one soon.

Then one morning the washer didn't spin the water out of the clothes on the last cycle. It had been acting up as well. My wife would say there was a helicopter going over the house quite low. I again had the technical answer ready. "No dear, it is the washer in the basement doing the spin cycle dance." So, a trip to the appliance store one Sunday afternoon took a $2,500 hole out of the checkbook and we had a new fridge and washer. But I forgot one thing. Washers and dryers mate for life. One week later the dryer quite drying. So, a matching Amana dryer came back home from the appliance store as well.

In late September I headed back down to Tennessee. I had to finish the lake house by fall so we could move in when we returned for the winter. I was prepared. We made a trip to Lowes in Owatonna and I had my wife pick out the kitchen appliances. Brand, size style, color, every option was decided on. I had the model number for each written down and I would go to the local Lowes in Tennessee and order the whole kitchen in one visit. No confusion or decision on my part. The matching fridge, range, dishwasher and rangehood microwave would be ordered and delivered right to our kitchen when ready.

The people who bought our old house in Tennessee didn't want our washer and dryer set. The appliances were only a few years old, and I would rather not move them. We had already moved four bedrooms of furniture into a storage unit since the new house was not finished. I was done with moving furniture. I had a house to finish. But since the plumbing and the ceramic tile floor in the new laundry room was already finished, I loaded them up and hauled them too. Well at least I wouldn't have to buy a washer and dryer, I told myself.

So, a week before I had the kitchen complete, I went to Lowes and presented the list to the young man there. Four appliances in one sale. No shopping, no discussion, just write it up, take my money and deliver them on time. The big Lowes truck would bring them to the front door and the strong young men would carry them into the house and life was good.

I had been working on the new house for a couple weeks and had laundry to do. So, I fired up the washer and threw in my work clothes. When I returned to put them in the dryer I discovered a load of wet, soggy heavy laundry. I ran them through again only to get the same result. The final spin cycle was not working. Irritated I chucked them in the dryer. When I opened the dryer to check on them, the machine kept on running. The switch on the door was broke. I was mad. Why did I move a washer/dryer set only to have both malfunction. I did the only logical thing left. I took the hand cart, wheeled the offending pair out the door and onto the trailer for their last trip to the scrap yard. Then I went back to Lowes and ordered a new Amana washer and dryer set. It arrived with the rest of the kitchen appliances.

A Minnesotan: New Years

By RosaLin Alcoser

When my sister and I were young children our parents use to do that thing parents do where they tell the kids it's New Years and put you to bed before midnight, but it's really just New Year's in New York not where you are.

We would stay up late and watch the ball drop at midnight in Times Square on the TV. Yell 'YAY! It's New Year's!' then promptly be taken off to bed; which we were already ready for.

In reality we only stayed up till about 11 PM. Don't get me wrong, 11 PM is still pretty late when you're a little kid or if you're like me and choose to get up at 5 AM on a daily basis.

This worked for them until my sister was 9 years old and I was 4 years old.

The reason it worked for my parents that long is because my sister never bothered to look at the clock in the house to see that it was not midnight where we were. She was too caught up in the excitement of what was happening on the TV.

However, that year I had learned about how time works and went to check the clock; using the analog clock because it was 2001. I then proceeded to ruin everything for our parents by pointing out that it was not midnight where we were and that we were being tricked into thinking it was the next year when it wasn't. It was the next year somewhere else.

After that we got to stay up till midnight CST instead of being tricked into going to bed an hour before the new year.

Now that I'm an adult I understand why my parents did this. After all 2022 I stayed up till midnight then immediately went to bed at 12:01 AM. While I am writing this at the end of 2022 I feel this is also how I will see 2023 as well.
