Housing projects, hotel expansion proposed

Public hearing set

By Terri House Staff Writer

Two new housing projects and a hotel expansion project are being considered for Pagosa Springs.

The monthly Planning Department report for the Pagosa Springs Planning Commission lists two different development applications received by staff to be considered by the commission on Jan. 25.

The first project is expansion of The Springs Resort to include a new hotel and a series of new hot springs pools.

The second project is for the construction of a mixed-use development consisting of 54 condominiums and eight apartments (62 dwelling units total) and 8,000 square feet of office/retail, located at 400 Hot Springs Blvd.

a restaurant and a series of new hot springs pools, located at 323 Hot Springs Blvd."

The application states that the project will tentatively break ground in the summer of 2022 with the project estimated to take 18 to 20 months to complete.

The project will also include "a ~13,000 Spa with 12 treatment rooms, and a 2,450 SF restaurant to be due west of the existing Lodge building. Development will also include an extension of pools and outdoor space adjacent to the San Juan River north and west of the existing Lodge building. There will be a private music venue that is created by the new building to the west, the mother spring to the east."

COVID-19 spread hits record levels

By Randi Pierce Staff Writer

Archuleta County, like much of the state and country, is experiencing "unprecedented" COVID transmis-

On Tuesday, San Juan Basin Public Health (SJBPH) announced in a press release it is currently reporting more positive cases and transmission of COVID-19 than at any time during the nearly two-year pandemic, with more than 580 positive test results received in a 72-hour period between La Plata and Archuleta

"Our region is currently experiencing an unprecedented surge due to the highly transmissible Omicron variant and we understand this is causing challenges for community members, employers, and schools across the region," Liane Jollon, SJBPH executive director, said via the press release. "It's very important right now that you stay home if you are sick and follow isolation and quarantine guidance for positive cases and exposures. If you are positive or exposed and don't know what to do, please call SJBPH or visit our website for more info. We are fortunate to have vaccines and boosters widely available during this spike in cases which will help prevent hospitalizations and limit the severity of illness if you are to be infected. Please get your booster dose right away."

County tables Humane Society funding decision

By Clayton Chaney

Staff Writer

During a regular meeting held by the Archuleta County Board of County Commissioners (BoCC) on Tuesday, Jan. 4, the board reconsidered an agreement with the Humane Society of Pagosa Springs for animal shelter management and services and tabled its decision once again.

The BoCC first considered the animal shelter and services agreement during a regular board meeting held on Nov. 16, 2021.

That proposed agreement inciuded an increase in fees paid to the society from $50,000 to $62,500 per year, plus an increase in the impound fee from $35 to $40 and an increase in the housing fee from $15 to $20 per day.

During that meeting, the board decided to table its decision.

On Dec. 7, 2021, during the next regular board meeting, the BoCC decided to approve only the increase in the impound and daily housing fees.

During a work session held by the BoCC on Jan. 4, County Manager Derek Woodman indicated that two versions of the agreement would be presented at the regular meeting later in the day.

County Manager Derek Woodman described it as a "pretty significant winter storm event."

50 years of wrestling

SUN photos/Randi Pierce

The 2021-2022 season marks 50 years of wrestling at Pagosa Springs High School, with the program working to honor and celebrate past accomplishments of the program this season. During the finals of Saturday's Rocky Mountain Invitational, the school honored the program's past state champions, first team to bring home a state medal (the 1977 team finished second, with some members of the team represented by family members Saturday), and former coach Don Heizer.

Our View

It's time to step up

Town of Pagosa Springs and Archuleta

There are numerous county offices up for election, and the town will welcome a new mayor in April and there are three open seats for council members.

If you have been a resident of the town for at least 12 consecutive months prior to the election; haven't been convicted of a felony; and you are interested in making our community a better place to live, work and play, you need to pick up a candidate petition packet at Town

Don't procrastinate; the deadline to file your petition is Jan. 24.

Several offices are up for election in the county this year, with candidates filing affidavits showing their intent to run for office on the state's TRACER website.

Kristy Archuleta is running again for clerk and recorder. Brandon Bishop has filed for county coroner. Elsa White is running for treasurer. Johanna Tully-Elliott filed her affidavit to run for county assessor, she has been the assessor since NatalieWoodruff resigned due to leaving Pagosa earlier this year. So far, none of these positions are contested.

So far, there are two people are vying for commissioner for District 3: Veronica Medina and incumbent Alvin Schaaf.

There are three names listed on TRACER for the sheriff's race: William 2022 is an election year for both the Bryant, Michael Le Roux and Boyd and show up to the meeting with knowl-Neagle.

The candidates listed above are running as Republicans with the exception of Bryant, who is listed as unaffiliated.

There is typically no lack of active and engaged residents who have experience in community service and who are passionate about Pagosa Country. We hope some of those people will consider running for office.

It is nice to have some competition and challenge for positions and there is still time to get your name on the ballot and get involved. If you feel that you can bring improvement to the leadership and decision-making process in our community, this is your time to commit to make a difference.

Voters appreciate having a real choice in who represents them.

When candidates have competition, they have to create a platform and campaign. It gives us, as citizens, the opportunity to understand what they will do for our community and why we should or should not vote for them.

Once in office, you will be held accountable. You must declare any conflicts of interest. You have to actually show up to work and take responsibility.

Holding office is real work. Elected officials should be prepared to plow through sometimes hundreds of pages of agenda briefs before each meeting edge about which item they are actually making a motion to adopt. They should be able to follow agendas and have an understanding of public meetings.

There are serious issues facing our community right now.

Back in 2015, the town and county were holding collaborative meetings and established three joint strategic priorities and interests: workforce housing, broadband and early childhood development. These are still pertinent issues, with some being considered a crisis in this community years after the priorities were first identified.

Do you have the individual conviction to stand alone and vote your conscious without bowing to the pressure of outside influences? Are you able to deal with the wrath of an angry electorate?

We need strong and effective leaders who are not afraid to make tough decisions, who don't go with the status quo and can take criticism from all directions.

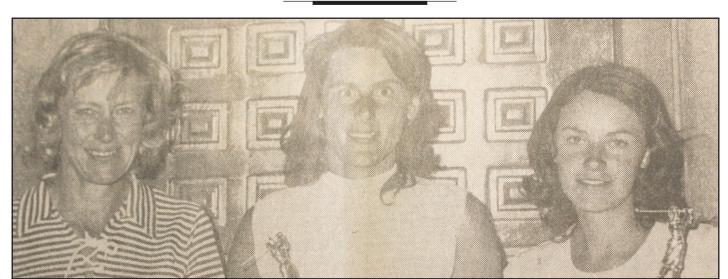

We need leaders who are willing to tackle learning about challenging subjects, such as audits, which are required by state law for local governments.

We need a balance. We need diversity. That can only happen when people come forward to serve.

It's time to step up.

The directors of the Citizens bank met on Dec. 31st and declared a five percent dividend. At the meeting of the stockholders Wednesday practically the same directors and officers were voted to be retained for the ensuing year.

Approval by the Rural Electrification Administration of half a million dollars in funds for buying the New Light and Power Co. here and for extending rural lines in this part of the state has been secured, it was announced this week by Harold Wemmer, head of the La Plata REA unit. Negotiations for buying the plant and property here from A.W. Olson have been under way for many months and only recently an agreement for the purchase was completed. According to present plans, an estimated 200 miles of rural lines in this part of the county are planned. The REA will operate the Pagosa Springs plant some time after Feb. 1, the date set tentatively for taking over the utility here.

Mr. Olson will continue business in electrical appliances and equipment in his present location. The REA had not secured offices here early this week, but it was expected that a downtown location would be secured.

More than 100 snowmobilers are expected here for scheduled snowmobile races Saturday and Sunday. The races will be held at the Jim Cloman ranch on the Upper Piedra road. The events are RMSA sanctioned and official starters and judges from that organization will be here for the races.

Joe Hersch, Mrs. Marguerite Wiley, Ben K. Lynch, and Paul Decker were re-elected as directors of the Citizens bank at the annual stockholders meeting Tuesday of this week. Mr. Hersch was again named as president of the bank.

Archuleta County Commissioners conducted a hearing Monday of this week on proposed subdivision regulations. Land developers and subdividers were present to present statements, or objections to the proposal. Harold Schutz, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners indicated that quick action is anticipated on revision and adoption of the regulations.

January 16, 1997 Pagosa old-timers like to regale newcomers with stories of "real Pagosa winters." No need for stories these days. Just look outside. Last Saturday, fans at the Rocky Mountain Invitational wrestling tournament took a midday break for lunch and walked to restaurants and stores in town. The sun was shining and the temperatures were relatively mild.

By sunset, heavy snow was falling and beginning to stick to streets and highways.

Sunday the snow continued to fall. By Monday, it was a "real Pagosa winter" — local schools canceled classes, roads and highways were snowpacked and difficult to negotiate and some non-arterial roads in the county were impassable. Wolf Creek Pass was closed.

Tuesday brought more of the same with schools still closed and road crews laboring to keep thoroughfares open and relatively safe.

Wednesday, sunshine and blue skies greeted area residents, plow crews started to get the upper hand.

The U.S. Weather Service monitoring station on Mesa Heights registered 1.6 inches of snow on Jan. 11. Sunday, 9.4 inches of snow fell at the station. Monday, Jan. 13 produced 23.1 inches of the white stuff. Another 12.2 inches fell on Tuesday, bringing the official snowfall in Pagosa Springs to 46 inches for the four-day period.

Wolf Creek Ski Area reported 85 inches of new snow as of Wednesday morning.

'Corruption wins'

Dear Editor:

As we observe governments in other nations it is astounding how many of them are utterly corrupt. Corruption destroys the faith of the people in their government, and destroys any confidence in the fairness of government. Corruption by governmental leaders never serves the interest of the citizens but always serves the interests of those in power. Corruption in government only serves to let the people know that they really don't count. They really don't have a voice and they are there only to serve the wants and desires of their own corrupt leaders.

In American representative democracy everything depends on the confidence of the people in the electoral process of selecting their representatives, senators, and presidents to govern on their behalf and for their benefit. Americans want to have confidence in their elected leaders to play by the rules, that is by the limitations placed upon them in the language of our Constitution. If the Constitution is viewed by some government officials as an obstruction to their agenda, then ways are sought to circumvent their "contract" with the people in order to advance an extra-Constitutional agenda. When that occurs, then the contract is broken between the people and their leaders and corruption is established. Both major parties are guilty of seeking to do end-runs around the Constitution.

American government is brilliantly simple. There are three branches of government: Executive, Judicial, and Legislative. These three branches exist to keep each branch is exclusively in charge of making laws. It is the responsibility of the Executive branch to enforce those laws, and it is the job of the Judicial branch to ensure that the laws passed by the Legislative branch are in harmony with the language of our Constitution.

Executive orders issued by Democrat and Republican presidents alike seek to breach our Constitutional contract by usurping the job of the Legislative branch and make laws without them. The Executive branch fails in its Constitutional responsibilities when they fail to enforce the laws that the Legislature makes. The Judicial branch fails in its responsibility when they ignore the specific language of our Constitution and seek to legislate from the bench. Whenever any of these things happen, our government becomes corrupted, and the faith of the people in their leaders is shaken.

To make matters worse, many citizens of America no longer know the Constitution, misunderstand the design of our government to function for the people, and some even believe that our Constitution needs to be replaced with something else. Thus, when presidents fail to enforce our laws and make their own laws, or when the Supreme Court passes judgment based on their own ideas rather than the language of the Constitution, or when the Legislative branch fashions laws outside of the language of the Constitution, then corruption wins and the faith of the people is eroded.

Need a pool for swim team

Dear Editor:

Ever wonder what it's like to drive a moving van back and forth between Pagosa and Durango.... at night....in the winter....with 12 teenage girls on board? I never did until I was scanning the road for deer right outside of Chimney Rock at 9 o'clock at night. To be fair, we drive a mini bus, upon which both myself and the head coach have been thoroughly trained, thanks to Lori Manzanares and the Archuleta School District Transportation Department. This was just one of many adjustments we had to make as a swim team this year.

Although the pandemic caused us to adjust many things last season, the obstacles we've had to overcome this season are far from "adjustments." The one nearly insurmountable obstacle this year has been finding a time and a place for our girls to swim. Our regular pool at the PLPOA Rec Center is undergoing major repairs, so we have had to find another place to swim. Since the inception of the high school girls' swim team, the PLPOA Rec Center has been an accommodating partner to the team, allowing us eight hours of swimming a week throughout our entire season. Their help has been critical in creating a consistent swim program for these young women.

Being the home of the deepest hot springs, the town of Pagosa Springs has not shortage of swimming pools. What it does have a shortage of is a willingness to help. As an educator, the broken record of a phrase I heard last year was that the pandemic was "taking away opportunities" from our children, and it certainly did. When the opportunity of a swim season was going to be "taken away" from our students this year, however, there was no one willing to step up and other in check. The Legislative Girls' Swim Team find themselves on a bus twice a week, driving to Durango to swim for an hour. It's not much, but we definitely appreciate the Durango Rec Center's help in allowing us to hold on to our season. We just wish it had been a local pool in Pagosa that felt the urgency to help the young women on our swim team.

'What a difference'

Dear Editor:

Just read some of the letters in the Jan 6 issue. One letter is titled "Differences", and the following letter titled "Electric Vehicles". And wow. What a difference. First one is a guy ranting and raving (as is his usual custom) against people with opinions that are different from his own. This is directly followed by a letter from a guy who is taking a realistic look at what could happen, will happen, and is already happening as we are forced by government requirements to move in the direction of all electric vehicles and other forms of alternative energy production. I'm not going to get into that argument any further... Mr. Heid has succinctly made several valid points already. I just had to chuckle at seeing the "Differences" between the two letters. 'Being naive'

Dear Editor:

I hope you are well and staying safe amid this pandemic.

Gardner, Kan.

I read with great interest Ms. Lisa Jensen's letter in your 8 January edition regarding the Health District Investigative Committee. Her contention that the committee "is not going to find anything that the (Archuleta County) commissioners don't want to hear" evoked my brief service on the jail committee a few years ago. So, no surprises there.

Ms. Jensen concludes with: "Let the (Archuleta County) commissioner who serves on the (San Juan Basin) health district board participate more actively, ask questions, and relay information to his fellow commissioners and the residents of Archuleta County."

Ms. Jensen, I think you are being naive. What you propose makes perfect sense. Why on Earth would we do such a thing?

Best regards, Vic Lucariello

'Love your neighbors'

Dear Editor:

We are into a New Year, a year of hope. Yes it has brought us more snow than we wanted all at once, but we survived and the rest of the year will be very blessed as a result. In the beginning of this community which was only a mere Village until recent decades, the overall standard was "Mi casa es Su Casa". Many of the early leaders were of Spanish descent and the Village was built on that saying, which is interpreted as "My House is Your House". Yes, folks who built this beautiful place shared with their neighbors, were "there" for them in time of need.

When we arrived some forty years ago this kind of snow storm was the "normal". I remember how "awe-struck" we were. Then, it was so refreshing to experience the love that was all around. Yes, residents are strong and independent-minded, but that attitude of community has spilled over into all aspects of our lives. Even folks visiting and staying in a vacation rental came running with shovels in hand to help out in my neighborhood. We are very fortunate. Yes, "Mi casa es su casa." Our community is like a huge mansion and the greatest commandment of "love your neighbors as yourselves" is alive and well in Pagosa Springs.

Know you are loved, Patty Tillerson

Harris' ignorance

Dear Editor:

Our Vice-President Kamala Harris said something in her "January 6 Anniversary Speech" that needs to be unequivocally refuted. She said the riot at the capital last year on January 6, is to be remembered on an equal footing with December 7, 1941, Pearl Harbor. I consider those comments an insult to the service my uncle offered up on the USS Pennsylvania that day, and the many other servicemen who lost their lives in that horrific attack.

He attended Sea School in San Diego, and on completion was assigned sea duty on the USS Los Angeles CA135, which was a heavy cruiser stationed in Long Beach, Calif. While on the ship, he attained the rank of CPL-E4 and made several deployments to the western Pacific.

After his discharge in 1960, he returned to Hammond and worked at various jobs, mostly in the construction field. In 1964, he went on the road, ending up in Tucson, Ariz., where he was accepted on the Tucson Fire Department. He often told

In 1968, he married Sharon Aldridge and had two sons, Robert J. Jr. and James Michael.

Bob grew up being an avid hunter and fisherman. He had a love of the outdoors which led to his first elkhunting trip to Pagosa Springs in 1970. He fell in love with southern Colorado and began bringing his family from Tucson each year for camping and fishing trips. He decided that he would retire to Pagosa

In 1983, while on a fishing trip with his two sons, he bought property up Cemetery Road and began building his hunting-fishing cabin. He is survived by his wife, Susan; son Robert J. Jr. (Suzanne); son James (Trisha); stepson Sean Grace (Mariel); and numerous grandchildren.

Harbor survivor. Serving on board the USS Pennsylvania, which was in dry dock that morning, as the bombs were raining down and Japanese Fighters were strafing the ship, he told me how afraid they all were that they would soon be blown to bits as they tried to move barrels of fuel on board the ship to a safer location. He said the terror of that day was unfathomable.

Some years ago, he invited me to join him at one of the annual Pearl Harbor Survivor reunions. This one being held in Tucson. I was honored that he asked me to join him. That night as he and his buddies were enjoying a few drinks in the hotel lounge, I began talking with a number of other survivors. They began sharing with me their experiences that dreadful morning. What I heard would turn your blood cold. I won't share everything with you but I will tell you about one individual who told me that after the bombing had ended, he and some others were ordered to go below deck and begin cleaning things up. But this didn't involve swabbing the decks. It involved scraping the burned remains of flesh and blood off the walls below deck where bombs had fallen and blasted their buddies' remains to those walls. The human remains had to be scraped off the walls and set aside for proper burial. This is just a sample of what happened at Pearl Harbor that day.

For this sitting Vice President to compare the events of last year's riot at the capital to Pearl Harbor is absolutely outrageous, an insult to my uncle, to all the servicemen who survived that day, and all the brave soldiers who lost their lives that day. They were an insult to all 9-11 victims and their families, and really to all Americans. Shamefully revealing her total ignorance on the subject, her comparisons disgraced the office she holds.

I am the son of a WWII veteran, the grandson of aWWI veteran who was awarded two purple hearts, and the proud nephew of a Pearl Harbor survivor. Our servicemen and women deserve more honor and respect than our ignorant Vice President gave them last Thursday, January 6. For me, I will always, with deepest sacred reverence, give thanks to God for them, and for their service rendered so bravely to preserve our liberty and freedoms.

Public trust

Dear Editor:

I watched some cable news the other day. Though events are always interesting, something else stuck out to me. All the talking heads were outraged. Their tone of voice, facial expressions, and innuendo of their descriptions all displayed outrage. They were outraged that there was a traffic jam in an ice storm on I-95. They were outraged that something political happened in New York City. Outraged that police in some other state had not solved an abduction

I also noticed that this commentary was filled with contempt. They had contempt for political opponents. Contempt for public officials. Contempt for civil servants. Contempt for everyone outside their bubble. As I watched, I found myself being drawn, almost biochemically, into feeling outrage and contempt. This reporting was designed to make me angry at conditions in my own country, and to feel contempt for my fellow Media's catering to our outrage and contempt means bad things for our society. As long as cable news, Facebook, and other digital media aim to amp up our meaner natures, the first best action we can take is to turn off that media.

Our democratic society stands on the assumption that, no matter how different our opinions or positions, every citizen's voice is allowed in the public sphere. No matter how wrong I believe others' political convictions to be, I also believe that their votes are as important as mine. I accept, for the peace of our community life, that many public and civil decisions will be made with which I disagree. So I will vote again the next time around.

Our society also stands on the assumption that the overwhelming majority of public servants and elected officials—from the ballot counters in my county to the state senate to the president of the country-are making decisions in good conscience. No matter how much I disagree with those decisions, I will honor and respect the fact that our democratic system is working.

Shifting from political disagreement to outrage and contempt turns my fellow citizens into enemies. When I make public servants Dwight Vilhauer and elected officials into objects of outrage and contempt, then I can justify any action against them, or against "the government." Violence becomes possible—not just the violence of individual mistakes, but planned, incited violence. And violence in response to political disagreement is tyranny.

As we approach the election season of 2022—and even more so 2024—we must remember that the democratic system we hold dear depends on a charitable view of all our fellow citizens. We are able to disagree and be at peace. We are able to hold our political positions while offering the opposition respect and grace. We are able to work alongside those who disagree with us, trusting that we are equally invested in the good of our communities.

I want to be a part of a community that rejects outrage and contempt and is governed by respect and grace. Let's keep it that way

Land exchange

Dear Editor:

After a long and arduous process, including Freedom of Information Act requests and legal complaints, the Forest Service (USFS) has finally released documents which detail appraised values of the public and private lands proposed for trade in the controversial Valle Seco land exchange near Pagosa Springs. This includes 175 acres of protected Colorado Roadless Areas, part 380 total acres of public lands up for trade in the San Juan National Forest.

In order to achieve release of the documents, Colorado Wild Public Lands (COWPL), a nonprofit focused on keeping Colorado public lands open and accessible, argued that the appraisals are paramount to providing fact-based comments and determination of public interest. COWPL asserts that according to federal land exchange laws and the National Environmental Policy Act, USFS must be able to demonstrate equal value between the lands being exchanged. Without access to the appraisals, the public has not been able to meaningfully comment on the assessment of equal value, and consequently, public interest –or lack thereof.

Until now the appraisals have been consistently withheld from the public but shared with the private entities behind the exchange. The appraisals were released on December 22, 2021, barely a month before the Forest Service's January 21st date to issue the Objection Resolution and Final Decision on the exchange. COWPL will be formally requesting that the Forest Service provide an extension period to these actions to allow for public review and comment on the appraisals. COWPL maintains that it is the public's right to know the value of lands we all collectively own; especially when they are at risk of being traded away.

Full appraisal documents, including historical revisions, can be found at https://usfs-public.app. box.com/v/2021-FS-WO-00112-A. COWPL has sifted through these documents and posted the most recent appraisals on their website.

Briggs MacRae Dorian-Lawrence died Wednesday, Jan. 5. He was 19 years old. He came into this world at 11 pounds, 8 ounces and left this world standing at 6'5".

Briggs left home at 7 a.m. Wednesday morning en route to Center for Change, where he was excited to participate in outpatient treatment for his eating disorder. At 7:40 a.m. in Spanish Fork Canyon (Utah), he drifted over the center line into oncoming traffic, colliding head-on with a truck (auto truck trailer). He died instantly.

(his father arrived soon after), where he attended Raintree Montessori School for seven-plus years. In 2015, he and his mother moved to Mount Pleasant, Utah, where Briggs attended eighth grade at Wasatch Academy Middle School (WAMS). They moved to Atlanta in July of 2016. Briggs attended his freshman year at Riverwood International Charter School; he spent his sophomore and junior years at the Lovett School. After the death of his Aunt Pam (Dorian) Campbell, Briggs and his mother returned to Mount Pleasant, where Briggs spent his senior year. Briggs graduated with the Wasatch Academy class of 2020. In August of the same year, Briggs began his journey at Rochester Institute of Technology with what he called "his people" in Rochester, N.Y.

He was a second year student at RIT

at the time of his death.

Like his parents, Briggs had an interest in, and talent for, music. He began playing the viola in fourth grade, where he performed with the Spring Hill (Kan.) Orchestras. Music was always a large part of his life. He had enjoyed many accomplishments on the viola. Some highlights of his musical career include mentoring and coaching for the String Orchestra of Decatur and Atlanta (SODA), six years of wonderful experiences at the High Plains Music Camp at Fort Hays State University in Hays, Kan., playing the Messiah in December 2021 at Snow College (Utah), and his final performance, with the Dorian String Quartet this past Christmas Eve with Claudia, Graham and his mother, Sarah. In addition to the viola, Briggs was an avid composer of string music and creating and performing digital music.

Briggs' profound passion for computer science, programming and gaming was beyond a deep passion, it inspired his days. Briggs was a virtuosic digital native. He had an astonishing comprehension of all things computers and was fluent in numerous programming languages. These passions culminated in the creation of his own (computer) server, in his attendance at RIT, and his prized and cherished 2021 summer IT internship at Boulevard Brewing Company (Kansas City, Mo.).

Much like his granddad, Jim, Briggs had the ability to see the world in multiple dimensions and with a surprising level of detail. He made friends and connections with both the young and the old due to his engaging personality, his deep curiosity and his passion for life. Briggs was well traveled, he made his home in many different communities and the outpouring of love that we are now receiving is a testament to the impact he had on us all.

His funeral service was held Jan. 10 in the Music Conservatory at Wasatch Academy. His celebration of life will be held on his birthday, at 2 p.m., Saturday, April 30, at St Patrick's Episcopal Church in Pagosa Springs, Colo., where his ashes will be laid.

In lieu of flowers, the family would appreciate a donation in Briggs' name to causes dear to Briggs' heart, including any free and open source software organization, JDRF, the Humane Society (examples of links include: opencollective.com, JDRF.org, Human-Society.org).

Briggs is survived by his mother, Sarah Dorian (of Mount Pleasant, Utah); his father, Blue Lawrence (of Shawnee, Kan.); and his brother, Austen Julka-Lawrence (30, of Renton, Wash.), his beloved Bengal cats, Hugo and Rosie. His Aunt Marjorie (Dorian) Adair (Kansas City, Mo.); her husband, Jeff, and their children, Tess (20) and James (15). His Uncle Graham Dorian (Atlanta, Ga.); his wife, Jennifer and their daughters, Claudia (20) and Rebecca (18). His Uncle Ted Campbell (North Kansas City, Mo.), and their children, George, Sam and Caroline. His Aunt Deb Lawrence (Indianapolis, Ind.). His grandparents, James and Rebecca Dorian (Pagosa Springs, Colo.); and JD and Lois Lawrence (Indianapolis, Ind.). Briggs was preceded in death by his cousin, Alyssa Joy Campbell, and his Aunt Pamela (Dorian) Campbell.

Goals & Accomplishments Town of Pagosa Springs

SUN staff asked representatives of publicly funded agencies in Archuleta County to individually answer a trio of questions relating to the goals and accomplishments of themselves and their agencies at the turn of the year. Their answers will be printed in The SUN over the coming weeks. Answers are printed as received and are not edited.

Don Volger, Pagosa Springs Mayor

Thanks again for asking me to share. The town had another busy, productive year and the staff, volunteers, and elected officials were a joy to work with. They do more and do it better every year.

What were your three biggest accomplishments of 2021?

My primary mayoral responsibility has been to moderate meetings in a respectful way, giving our citizens, staff, and council members reasonable opportunities to express their thoughts, concerns, and ideas. We've worked through routine business and challenging issues. We made difficult, but important, decisions concerning the workforce housing shortage, changes to short-term rental regulations, property purchases, future distribution of lodger's tax revenue, and plans for future projects related to roads and recreational amenities. With input from the public and our in-depth discussions, we moved forward knowing that some individuals would be disappointed, but believing that we, together, acted in the best interest of our beloved community.

In our 2021 annual, day-long work session, we reviewed and revised Town goals in preparation for a future we hope will be prosperous. When I use the word "prosperous" I'm referring to something more than money. It was most gratifying to spend important time this past year with people I respect and trust. I believe we made a significant and positive

What are your three top goals for 2022?

As you already know, I'll step down from my role as Mayor the first Tuesday in April when my term limit takes effect. Honestly, my only goal is to finish well by spending time with the current council members, and encouraging them to continue the habit of "entering meetings as friends and leaving as friends", regardless of actions taken during our time together.

What is your action plan to meet your goals?

I plan to stay active until my career as an official Town representative ends. I've been overwhelmingly blessed to serve a community that has been my home and family, not just another small mountain town. Pagosa Springs, thank you so much for giving me much more than I could have imagined.

Andrea Phillips, Pagosa Springs Town Manager

What were your three biggest accomplishments of 2021?

Our team accomplished a lot this year despite supply chain issues, staffing shortages, and busy contractors. We finished the multipurpose trail and turnaround at Cotton Hole Park, with the assistance of a grant through Colorado Parks and Wildlife. The hard surface trail extends east along the south side of Hermosa Street from Town Park through Cotton Hole Park and up to the 1st Street Bridge. We also made a lot of headway as a community on addressing affordable and workforce housing needs. Through efforts of the private sector, including local employers and developers, as well as local nonprofit agencies like Archuleta County Housing Authority, Habitat for Humanity, and many others, 70 units of workforce housing have been added in our community, with many more planned for 2022 and beyond. Finally, town staff did a tremendous job of improving public information this year. We saw increased community input and involvement on several projects such as the master plan for Yamaguchi South, Pagosa Springs Cemetery Archaeological Assessment, the East End Multi-Modal Plan, the update to the town's land use and development code, adoption of a public arts plan, and much more. As we did throughout this year, in the future we will continue to inform the public through our monthly e-newsletter, the "Pagosa Springs View", our social media accounts, public forums, project walking tours, and the project portal, MyPagosa.org. Please sign up if you haven't yet-this is a great way to stay informed!

What are your three top goals for 2022?

The Town's goals are laid out in the Town Council Goals and Objectives (2021-22), which are revisited and set annually. Topmost on the list is continuing to make headway on developing more workforce housing units to serve our residents. The Town is beginning negotiations with a public-private partnership developer to construct 60 units on three town owned lots. Construction could begin as soon mid-2022. In addition to this project, we want to continue to work with the private sector and our community partners to build and convert additional units. We can do this by providing flexibility within the land use and development code and offering incentives such as fee waivers. Second, we will have a municipal election on April 5, 2022. We will have the mayor's seat and three councilmember seats up for election. My goal is to help transition new members into this role on Town Council and keep the great momentum we have moving forward. There will be big shoes to fill with Mayor Don Volger cycling off due to term limits. Finally, we have several projects that are due for completion in 2022 and I want to see them finalized. This includes adoption of the revised land use and development code, installation of additional public art pieces, making headway on the Main Street Colorado program, installation of dedicated pickleball courts, continued work on the town's road maintenance program and much more. There is never a dull moment in this position, and I feel honored to be a part of making improvements in our beautiful

What is your action plan to meet your goals?

We work as a team to accomplish community goals, as directed by the Town Council and advisory boards. We have fantastic volunteers, staff and officials who care about the community and work hard to serve the public. Thankfully, sales tax proceeds have been strong the past few years, which is the primary funding source for programs and capital projects for the Town of Pagosa Springs. We try to leverage these funds as much as possible by applying for grants and partnering with other agencies to combine funds. Our annual work plan is derived from the Council's Goals and Objectives (which are revisited and set annually), and we use this to guide our work. Although we have a plan and tasks to work towards, we remain flexible to meet changing community needs as necessary.

Andrea Ohly-McGinn

Andrea Ohly-McGinn left this world for greater adventures on Oct. 29, 2021. She will forever be remembered for her ability to inspire others and live each moment fully. An old friend said, "If you didn't learn something important about life from Andrea, you weren't paying attention." If you knew Andrea, you were better for it.

Andrea was humble, full of life and passionately active. Few people know that she was featured on the cover of Dive Magazine. She cross-country team, inspiring qualified for and ran in the Pan American Games and she was the recipient of the Sportswoman of the Year award in Colorado. She was also interviewed by Sports Illustrated, where she attributed her decades of survival, with a terminal heart diagnosis, to exercise. After being given less than one year to live, Andrea began a quest to mock the odds. She competitively completed hundreds of athletic events over the next 20-some years. These events included bike races, every type of running event, adventure races and more. In love with the wonder of Disney, Andrea ran in the Disney World Marathon for both the fifth and 25th-anniversary races, along with most of the others in between. In the fall, Andrea could be found coaching the Pagosa Springs Middle School young athletes for generations.

Andrea accepted no excuses for not pushing herself further. She wanted to experience everything. If she thought of it or dreamed it, she did it! No challenge or destination was off limits — she wouldn't miss any opportunity to live big. With this as her life expectation, any excursion with Andrea was sure to be cosmic. Her hikes were always steeper than expected, her runs were much farther than anticipated and her travels held many more surprises than predicted. She believed that the Eiffel Tower could only be ascended by way of the stairs, that Disney parks are best visited after a 26.2-mile run, that you should never pass up the opportunity to get a new passport stamp, and she lived by her words, "There is no time to waste." Andrea is currently on some wild expedition with her parents, Frank and Sally Ohly. Left back home are her husband. Ted, two children, Elle and Aidan, brother Frank, sister Carrie and countless friends.

In lieu of a service, the first annual Andrea McGinn Memorial Snowshoe Walk will be held in her honor on Jan. 22. The walk will begin at 10 a.m. in the parking lot at the end of Four Mile Road. It is recommended that you carpool because parking is limited. Bring your snowshoes, gloves, sense of adventure and be ready for some fun!

WinterFest events planned for Jan. 22-23

By Mary Jo Coulehan Pagosa Springs Area Chamber of Commerce

We take this early part of the year to keep sending the business community reminders on a number of Chamber of Commerce "housekeeping" notes. The Chamber is hosting multiple activities and events in the next couple of weeks that are important to our business community.

The first deadline is to complete a nomination form for Citizen, Volunteer, Small Business and Non-Profit of the Year. There are a lot of people and organizations that deserve recognition in our community. However, if you aren't nominated, you aren't recognized this time around.

These community awards reflect the time, effort, commitment and generosity of people, businesses and organizations as they contribute to the overall success and collaboration in our com-

Forms for the nominations can be obtained from the Chamber website, www.pagosachamber. com, under the Community and Chamber news on the homepage. Don't feel restricted to use just that nomination form. Use an additional page to write a compelling nomination. Businesses and nonprofit agencies should also consider self-nominating. No one knows the work you do and contributions you make to the community better than you do. So, tout yourselves and enter your business to be recognized. Nomination forms need to be in by 5 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 17.

Award recipients and nominees will be recognized at the Chamber's annual meeting and Community Award Reception on Feb. 9 from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Pagosa Lakes Property Owners Association (PLPOA) Clubhouse. Tickets for this event are also available on the Chamber's website under the Community and Chamber news. Tickets for members are only $25 and nonmembers $35. The public is invited; this event is not just for Chamber members.

The first part of the event will be dedicated to a community conversation about housing and workforce development through breakout sessions. Each session will have a panel of community and regional participants in each field of discussion. The sessions will be followed by a guest speaker and then a reception with delicious hors d'oeuvres, beverages and the awards. Bring several of your business associates, supporters of the nominees and come enjoy a celebration of good work in our community.

One other timely reminder is for our Chamber Business Community to cast their ballot for three of six Chamber board nominees. Every year, three board members vacate their three-year position and three new members come onto the board for a three-year commitment. The voting form and bios of all the candidates can be found on the Chamber's homepage, www.pago-sachamber.com, under Community and Chamber News. Voting for the candidates closes Wednesday, Jan. 19, at 5 p.m. These nominees represent businesses and organizations in your community. Please take just a minute to cast your ballot. Only Chamber member businesses will be allowed to vote. If you vote for more than three nominees, your vote will be disqualified. Multiple ballots from the same business, after the first ballot cast, will also be disqualified. You may also come by the Chamber in person to cast your ballot for the nominees. Should you have any questions about voting, please contact the Chamber at (970) 264-2360.

We also welcome our nonprofit agencies as they have volunteers that will "plunge" into the frigid San Juan River. This is an opportunity for our organizations to raise a little money for their work. Come view the antics from the Riverwalk as participants brave 30-degree (more or less) waters.

Bring your pet to the Barkus Parade along the Riverwalk also on Saturday, beginning at 11 a.m.

The activities continue on Saturday with the ever-entertaining Sledz on Rez Downhill Sled Race. Application forms for these events or more information can be found on the Chamber's website under the WinterFest snow globe graphic on the homepage. Come out and spectate or participate in one of the many activities planned for the WinterFest weekend. You still have time to raise money, build a sled, get a costume together for your pet and just get some of these activities on your activity calendar. It's a wild and crazy weekend in Pagosa Jan. 22 and 23. Don't miss the fun.

SJBPH, the press release explains, attributes the local surge in cases to the Omicron variant, which it notes is highly transmissible.

The variant was recently confirmed with a positive sample from Archuleta County that was taken Dec. 26, 2021.

According to the SJBPH, Archuleta County's seven-day cumulative incidence rate was 1,264 cases per 100,000 people Wednesday — up from 463.8 cases a week prior.

La Plata County's rate was 2,090 cases as of Wednesday. Colorado's rate was 1,493.6 as of Wednesday, and the nation's was 1,583.5.

As of Wednesday, SJBPH listed 2,297 total cases of confirmed CO-VID-19 among permanent Archuleta County residents since late March 2020, up from 2,119 a week prior.

The agency showed Archuleta County was at 29 percent positivity Wednesday, up from 25 percent a week prior.

Archuleta County has had nine deaths among COVID cases.

Variants confirmed in the area are included on SJBPH's COVID-19 data dashboard.

Cases in the community also led to staffing shortages at two local schools, pushing them into remote learning temporarily: Pagosa Springs Elementary School and Pagosa Peak Open School (PPOS).

PPOS returned to in-person learning Wednesday, while the elementary school is anticipated to return to in-person learning on Tuesday, Jan. 18.

"Questions remain about Omicron's severity, and the impact on local COVID-19 hospitalizations will become clearer in the coming days and weeks," the Tuesday press release states. "To preserve already strained health care capacity and resources, the public is strongly urged to seek vaccination and a booster dose as soon as eligible, mask in businesses and public indoor spaces, isolate when ill, and quarantine when exposed."

If you're symptomatic, stay home," SJBPH Executive Director Liane Jollon stressed Wednesday.

The press release further notes that the Colorado School of Public Health recently estimated that between 1 in 5 and 1 in 10 individuals statewide (and in our area) are currently infectious with COVID-19.

SJBPH's public health advisory related to COVID-19 - which includes recommended precautions -can be found at: https://sjbpublichealth.org/advisories-and-orders/.

Prioritization plan for contact tracing

Due to the high volume of cases, SJBPH contact tracers no longer have capacity to reach every positive case via phone call, the press release states.

It explains that SJBPH has implemented a prioritization plan that allows contact tracers to call highpriority cases.

"SJBPH continues to send text messages each day to all reported positive cases with guidance on how to isolate. Text messages are also sent each day to close contacts of positive cases with quarantine guidance, although SJBPH is unable to identify every exposure during the unprecedented surge currently occurring in the community," the press release explains. "Information about isolation and quarantine is available on the SJBPH website. Community members are also encouraged to call SJBPH with any questions regarding quarantine and isolation (970-247-

I tested positive at home. What do I do now?

Those who receive a positive result on an at-home test who are not in need of immediate medical care can report their test result, ask questions and receive isolation and quarantine guidance by calling (970) 247-5702 or either of SJBPH's offices in Pagosa Springs and Durango, Griffin explained.

Test sites remain open

Community testing sites remain open and are free to the general public, though the SJBPH press release notes the testing sites are experiencing high volume at this time, and the community is strongly urged to make an appointment and show up on time.

For more information about testing locally, visit: https://sjbpublichealth.org/testing/.

Vaccines, boosters available, antibody treatment limited

The COVID-19 vaccine is currently available to all community members ages 5 and up. Residents under the age of 18 are only eligible for the Pfizer vaccine at this time.

Last week, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and U.S. Food and Drug Administration released multiple updates regarding booster eligibility.

All community members ages 12 and up may receive a booster five months after completing an initial series of either the Pfizer or Moderna vaccines. For adults who received the Johnson and Johnson single dose vaccine, the timeline for booster eligibility is two months. Minors are only eligible for the Pfizer booster.

According to the press release, 'Receiving a booster is shown to drastically increase protection from severe illness, and clinics with ample supply of all three vaccine types are widely available in both La Plata and Archuleta counties. All SJBPH and Jogan Health clinics can offer first, second, and booster doses for those who are eligible. The full schedule of vaccine clinics and providers is available online with convenient dates and times across both counties."

For more information about the COVID-19 vaccines, current eligibility, details on vaccine clinics and providers, or to make an appointment, visit: https://sjbpublichealth. org/covid-19-vaccine/.

Jollon also noted Wednesday that the supply of monoclonal antibody treatment is "extremely limited" because there is only one authorized product the federal government believes has good efficacy with the omicron variant.

She noted the situation is changing rapidly and is expected to continue to do so.

Should I just catch COVID and be done with it?

Jollon and Griffin cautioned against individuals relaxing precautions to become sick in order to get it over with.

"There are still tremendous unknowns about the long-term ramifications of this COVID pandemic," Jollon said.

While there is evidence Omicron produces a less-severe outcome for many and a shorter course of illness, she said, there is no guarantee that every individual exposed will be one of the patients who will experience it mildly.

Some, she noted, have comorbidities and vulnerabilities that they don't know about until there's a new infection, calling it "taking a tremendous gamble with your health."

Griffin echoed that sentiment, noting the longer-term health impacts of COVID remain unknown.

The pair also pointed to hospital capacity and limited health care resources as reasons to not try to get it over with.

Jollon referred back to a phrase bandied about early in the pandemic: Flatten the curve.

If COVID "rips through" everyone and a small percentage of people need intervention, that will still stress resources and can guarantee those who need intervention won't have the best possible outcome.

Griffin further noted it is important to limit and prevent infection in your household in order to allow kids to attend school, essential workers to go to work, and for essential businesses, as well as other businesses, to continue to function.

They continued to stress a layered approach of measures, including masking, staying home when symptomatic, limiting exposures, being vaccinated and boosted, and testing when appropriate.

Local outbreaks

As of noon Wednesday, four outbreaks had been confirmed in Archuleta County, according to SJBPH's data dashboard, though Jollon cautioned that with the current levels of infection in the area, "it's really impossible to ascertain what's a cluster, what's an outbreak of cases."

She noted that with such a high probability of an individual running into infection, attempting to identify sources of spread is not as effective of a way to contain spread.

Griffin reported that, as of Sunday, the outbreak at the Archuleta County jail continued to include five cases—two staff members and three inmates. The first case was identified on Dec. 4.

As of Sunday, Pagosa Springs Middle School's outbreak remained at 13 cases — 12 students and one staff member. The first case was confirmed on Nov. 2.

As of Sunday, the outbreak at Pagosa Springs High School was up to 10 cases — three staff members and seven students. The first case was confirmed on Oct. 29

An outbreak is identified as five cases associated with a single facility in a 14-day period, or two cases in a 14-day period in congregate settings, such as long-term care facilities.

Torres noted that during that time the airport was receiving anywhere from 6 to 8 inches of snow every morning and that crews were working up to 14 hours a day for seven days straight to clear the snow.

He mentioned that crews are still cleaning up and scraping ice around the facility this week.

"I think they're coming along just fine," Commissioner Ronnie Maez said of the new snow crews.

Torres also mentioned that Flight for Life was "a little upset" from the closures as they were not able to fly out a patient who was in critical

However, he noted that Flight for Life's plane was down anyway.

Maez commented that there was "no real reason to complain."

Commissioner Warren Brown commented on the incident, explaining that time was lost with a "critical patient" as emergency services had no other option but to drive the patient over to Durango.

Semiannual update

During the work session, Torres also provided a few updates on the airport's operations over the year and future plans.

He explained that all surfaces will be treated with fresh paint and that a crack-seal project will take place.

He indicated that it is costing roughly $700,000, and 90 percent of that is being funded by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), 5 percent is being funded by the Colorado Department of Transportation and the remaining 5 percent is being funded by the county.

Torres noted that there are currently 65 hangars at the airport, all of which are private hangars, and that the county has received $77,000 in revenue from leasing the hangars.

Torres also noted that it has been a "great year" in terms of revenues received from Avjet, the company that provides fueling and hangar services at the airport, along with arrival and departure information.

He indicated that, not including the December 2021 numbers, the county had received approximately $42,000, which is up from the entirety of 2020's numbers, which were reported at approximately $29,000 for the whole year.

Torres also mentioned that the only area with room for adding hangars is along the Bravo taxiway, which will need to be paved in order for the FAA to allow it to be used.

"We're getting up there with hangars," he said.

He indicated that the FAA will not pave the taxiway, as it will need to be funded by whoever builds a hangar.

"We have a lot of interest, but no one's pulled the trigger yet and part of the reason was pavement," he said.

Torres mentioned that the airports surfaces currently allow for a maximum weight capacity of 70,000 pounds and that he is looking into what it would take to increase that capacity to 100,000 pounds in order to allow for larger aircraft to use the facility.

He indicated that it would likely be in 2026 or 2027 when the capacity will be raised.

"That kind of hurts us in a way," Torres said of the current weight

He noted that the facility has seen a decrease in the number of smaller planes coming in and out, but that there has been a major increase in larger jets.

"We're getting big players in," he

Other news

During the same work session, Woodman explained that the school district is "experiencing a shortage of teachers" and that he sent out an admin email to all county employees in regard to serving as a substitute teacher wherever possible in the district.

He indicated that about 10 employees have expressed interest so far, and that the employees would have the ability to take a vacation day and be compensated through the district to serve as a substitute.

Woodman also gave a brief update on the new Harman Park Justice Facility, noting that it is coming along "rather well" and that a final cleaning is taking place this week.

He explained that the main issue is that the building will be completed, but the court furniture will not be delivered until the "very early part of February."

Maez also mentioned that the Pagosa Springs History Museum's board of directors has reached out about the possibility of receiving funding to maintain staff and op-

He also indicated that the county needs to prepare to negotiate its memorandum of understanding with the area tourism board, as the town might be making a decision that will affect how funds are used.

Additionally Maez spoke about a recent San Juan Basin Public Health (SJBPH) meeting in which the possibility of a mask mandate was discussed. He indicated that SJBPH decided not to move forward with the mandate and is encouraging folks to get "I would not put a mandate of any type, forcing someone to do something they do not want to do," he added. The board also discussed the status of the county's Human Resource Department and the need to find a permanent solution for the chain of command. Currently, Tina Woodman serves as the interim human resources director.

'There is a conflict there," Maez

He indicated that the county could either have County Attorney Todd Weaver oversee the department, or it could open up the position for applications and look to hire a permanent human resources

"If there's a huge conflict right now, I don't see it," Commissioner Alvin Schaaf commented.

He added that the county just needs to follow the "proper procedure" for filling the position.

Brown noted that if the county is going to open up the position for applications, then it should do the same with the rest of the interim positions within the county.

Scholl explained that the county would be looking at a net profit of $200,000 to $350,000 after it pays off the rest of what is currently owed on the property.

"We can be really flexible with this," he said, acknowledging that the county would need to invest in another property to house the departments currently operating out of the old courthouse.

Scholl explained that he obtained documents through a Colorado Open Records Act request and shared that the county will need to make a payment on the property on Feb. 1. He added that depending on when the two parties could close on a deal would affect how much net profit the county would get. "We know you guys need some

SYEAR IN REVIEW

2021 was an unusual and interesting year in Pagosa Country. There was no want for good news, bad news, controversial issues, and no lack of interesting news to keep SUN readers focused on local events, situations and personalities.

The SUN is taking a look back at some of those events, selected by SUN staff writers. This week, we look back at July, August and September.

- In early July, it was announced that April sales tax revenues in Archuleta County were 40.99 percent higher, or $61,473.13 more, in 2021 than the same month for 2020, according to an Archuleta County report.
- Also in early July, it was announced that the most recent NWEA assessment data for the 2020-2021 school year showed a mixed bag of results for Archuleta School District (ASD) students, with students exceeding the expected growth in some areas while falling short in others.
- By early July, Pagosa Springs Medical Center (PSMC) had raised more than enough to purchase upgraded mammography equipment, moving the project ahead of schedule by about a year.

According to PSMC, the annual fundraising gala raised more than $400,000 toward the 3-D mammography equipment. That, paired with other available funding (previous donations), gives the medical center a little over $600,000 for the equipment, which was estimated to cost about $450,000.

- Pagosa County celebrated the Fourth of July with the return of several events that were canceled
- Over the Fourth of July weekend, Mike Ray received the 2021 Red Ryder Award.
- The Pagosa Springs Police Department responded to what turned into a death that occurred downtown on July 8.

At approximately 10:54 a.m., Pagosa Springs police officers were dispatched to a fight in progress between two males in Town Park, located at 24 Hermosa St., according to a press release. Upon arrival, no disturbance was located, but within minutes officers were notified of an unresponsive male with CPR in progress in Mary Fisher Park, across the bridge from Town Park. Officers and emergency medical personnel attempted life-saving efforts, but · During its monthly board meeting on July 8, the Pagosa Lakes Property Owners Association (PLPOA) Board of Directors voted in favor of a pair of resolutions relating to shortterm, or vacation, rentals within the association's boundaries.

The decisions — that, among other things, increase the assessment on properties used as shortterm rentals to three times the regular rate and update PLPOA's enforcement policy — were the culmination of a series of meetings held by the association board to determine what action should be taken to help manage short-term rentals within its boundaries.

- At its meeting on July 13, the Pagosa Springs Area Tourism Board showed its support for the Pagosa Springs History Museum with a $10,000 grant.
- In mid-July, utility companies reported record high title changes in Pagosa Springs amidst a turbulent housing market and increasing inter-
- On July 15, the Colorado Transportation Commission approved a $13.5 million project for U.S. 160 through Pagosa Springs.

According to a press release from the Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) regarding the projects, work on U.S. 160 will include adding traffic-calming and multimodal options in downtown Pagosa Springs in a manner that will create a "Complete Street."

The press release also noted that the project will include reconstruction of a portion of the highway, with CDOT Region 5 indicating the project will include concrete recon-

On Tuesday, Jan. 4, the Archuleta County Board of County Commissioners (BoCC) approved an intergovernmental agreement (IGA) between Archuleta, La Plata, Dolores, Montezuma and San Juan counties which establishes the Southwest Opioid Response District (SWORD), which will be responsible the state's opioid settlement across Region 17 of the state.

According to a press release from Colorado Attorney General Phil Weiser's office, "the Department of Law has led critical opioid litigation matters, including a nationwide action against McKinsey & Company for their role in turbocharging the opioid epidemic, a better settlement with the Sackler family and Purdue Pharma, and a multibillion-dollar settlement with Johnson & Johnson and the nation's three largest drug distribution companies that fueled the crisis."

The settlement is resulting in more than $400 million to be distributed statewide.

Earlier on the same day, during a work session held by the BoCC, Commissioner Ronnie Maez indicated that he would like to serve on the regional SWORD council.

According to the IGA that was approved, "there shall be a 60% direct allocation of Opioid Funds to Regions through a Regional Share and each Region shall be eligible to receive a Regional Share."

The IGA also notes that the SWORD council will consist of representative from each county being appointed. Other members can include representatives from behavioral health providers and

Archuleta County Democratic Party

At its central committee meeting on Monday, the Archuleta County Democratic Party elected a new county chair, Carl Young. Young has resided in Pagosa Springs for two years and is a consultant in the IT industry. Earlier, he had a career in the newspaper business. He brings to the party years of senior program management experience and a robust commitment to Democratic Party ideals.

The party also honored outgoing chair Becky Herman by electing her chair emeritus and a member of the county executive committee.

Herman has served faithfully and enthusiastically as county chair for over 11 years, which is the longest anyone has served in this position. Under her leadership, the party has improved its voter registration in the county to well over 2,200, acquired a record campaign "war chest" and conducted a more aggressive and effective outreach to voters in the 2018 and 2020 elections. Although no longer chair, she will remain deeply involved in party affairs.

more than 82 participants contrib-

(CBC), the 122nd CBC on record for winter census in the cold, many can attest to the fun of the challenge:

scouring our eight respective zones is like a treasure hunt, complete with short daylight hours, numb fingers and a willingness to look for even those more hermitic of species.

Where would one look (or listen) for a Lewis's woodpecker or a belted kingfisher? It requires strategy and, yes, sometimes happenstance. The point is that folks are out on the landscape detecting and observing avian life within a consistent range of time each year. That way, over were tallied across our 15-mile diameter count circle on Dec. 18.

When compared to last year's effort,

we viewed over 200 more overall birds in the circle, but one fewer species was detected. Interestingly, our findings over the last several years have been very consistent on number of species present at this time of year. What seems to fluctuate more profoundly are the overall numbers of birds. This factor, from what we can tell, has a lot to do with weather leading up to the count. Are

A big thank you is in order for all that contributed to the effort, including multiyear youth participants Sage Merrill-Exton, Peyton Jackson and Jackson Couch. Great to see all ages involved in caring for birds.

Pirates snag third at Rocky Mountain Invitational

By Clayton Chaney Staff Writer

The Pagosa Springs High School Pirate wrestling team returned to action last week after the holiday break, hosting the Rocky Mountain Duals and its annual home tournament, the Rocky Mountain Invitational, on Jan. 7 and 8.

The team placed third out of 17 competing teams, with a total of 145.5 team points, at the tourna-

Wil Aucoin claimed his third tournament championship of the year in the 195-pound weight class and is currently the top-ranked wrestler in the state's 3A division for that weight class, according to the Colorado High School Activities Association.

Coach Dan Janowsky shared a few comments in an email to The SUN, praising the team's performance over the weekend, noting that they picked up right where they left off before the break.

"I love the way our kids compete," he wrote.

Janowsky explained that the majority of the team's athletes are getting their first year of varsity experience this season and "they have accepted the challenge and they put their heart into their training and into the competition."

He mentioned that the inexperience has cost them at times, but he noted that laziness and fear are never an issue in training or in com-

"If our opponent has some obvious edge on us, our kids will step up and give it a real fight, but sometimes we're not quite good enough yet to get those wins," Janowsky added.

The Pirates took third, behind first-place Centauri High School with 186 points. Bloomfield High School finished in second place with 183 points.

"A third place finish at this tournament is something the people who pay attention to this sort of thing regularly wouldn't have expected from us at the outset, looking at our roster transition from last year. As you can tell, and I speak for our entire staff, we are very proud to be part of this group," Janowsky wrote.

Along with Aucoin, Janowsky noted a few other Pirates who had stand-out performances — Luke Tressler, Griffin Bower and Heath Fulbright — who each lost only one match "in a tough field of competi-

Lady Pirates to open league play against Alamosa at home

By Randi Pierce Staff Writer

When the Pagosa Springs High School Lady Pirate basketball team takes the floor Friday evening against Alamosa, it will have been 29 days since the Pirates last faced another team.

The team was scheduled to play the 2A Sanford Indians on Jan. 7, but late in the day on Jan. 5 it was announced that the game was postponed due to COVID.

That game has been rescheduled for Feb. 15.

The Lady Pirate team returned to practice Monday following quarantine, with coach Charles Rand saying Tuesday, "We jumped back in it last night—two feet back into it."

The team, he explained, is working on fundamentals, conditioning and refining its play before delving into league play this week.

"Everything else will take care of itself," he said.

The Lady Pirates will return to action at 5:30 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 14, when the team welcomes the Alamosa Mean Moose.

Pagosa owns a 6-1 record entering the game and is the No. 10 team in the most recent 3A coaches' poll and the No. 8 team in the Ratings Percentage Index (RPI).

Alamosa is 4-5 on the season and is the No. 35 team in the RPI standings.

"Our league has always been tough," Rand said. "You can't take anything for granted."

He added that because the Lady Pirates are so young, they'll have to have the mentality of putting their best foot forward every game to leave the floor with a win.

"I know Alamosa's well-coached," he said, adding the coach has won state champion-ships, is well-respected, knows what he's doing and is coaching a team that works hard. "We've gotta be ready to play."

On Saturday, the team will host the Bayfield Wolverines for another league affair.

The Wolverines are 0-6 on the season and the No. 56 team in the RPI standings.

"We're not peaking right now and we're young, and we just need to improve day by day, practice by practice and game by game," Rand said.

Comments from the coach: "Ju-

She is willing to try any technique that we ask her to do. Even if it is difficult, Juline gives it her all and shows a strong desire to always improve herself. In that vein, she has the most intensely explosive dive off the block in her events -- a testament to her as she never quits. Last Wednesday, the swim team participated in our first skate ski class with Coaches Kurz, Christiansen, and Kurt-Mason. Juline probably fell the most during this initial foray into a new sport, but she never complained and she kept on smiling! She told us that she thinks we should 'quit doing yoga on Mondays' because she 'needs to master skate skiing and wants more time to practice' this newly acquired skill. Her dedication to mastering a skill and her positive attitude even in adversity are just a few of the reasons why Juline Pierredon deserves the Triple Impact Athlete Award.'

Pirates open 2022 with win in Sanford

By Randi Pierce

Staff Writer

The Pagosa Springs High School boys' basketball team opened the 2022 portion of its schedule with a 47-31 win on Jan. 7 in Sanford, giving them a 6-3 record on the

"I thought we played pretty well," coach Wes Lewis said, "certainly never perfect, always room for improvement, but I thought we did some things pretty well.'

Sanford, he noted, is always a tough place to play, with the Indians always having a good crowd.

"I thought our kids stepped up to the challenge and played pretty good, and just kind of slowly pulled away from 'em and continued to expand the lead over four quarters, and came out with a pretty nice win," he said.

Pagosa led 16-11 at the end of the first quarter and 29-20 at half-

"We had a lot of foul trouble throughout the night," Lewis said. "Our bigs, Blake and Breck, got in foul trouble, so we were trying to manage that, and did a pretty good job of it."

The team made it to halftime with a lead, he noted, and were able to come out in the second half and change up offenses and get some different looks.

The Pirates slightly increased that lead by outscoring Sanford 7-6 in the third quarter, and outscored their hosts 11-5 in the fourth quarter to log the 47-31 win.

"I thought our press was really, really good," Lewis said, indicating Blake Laner led the press. "He kind of makes that thing go when we're in the extended full-court press, and he does a good job with that.'

Lewis noted that a lot of what Laner does "doesn't necessarily Laner "causes a lot of stuff."

He noted Laner was able to push some steals off the press that led to easy baskets.

Gunner Dozier led the team in points on the night with 15, nine of which came from 3-pointers. Dozier also had five rebounds, three assists and three steals.

Colt Lewis and Breck Wilson had 11 points each, with Colt Lewis landing one 3-pointer. He also had one rebound, five assists and three steals. Wilson also had six rebounds and four blocks.

Kayson Shahan put up six points in the game and had two rebounds and three steals.

"I thought our press was really, really good," coach Wes Lewis said, indicating Blake Laner led the press. "He kind of makes that thing go when we're in the extended full-court press, and he does a good job with that."

Laner and Logan Harper each added two points. They each also

Chase Harper contributed an assist, Joseph Lord logged three rebounds, and Aaron Aucoin had Overall, the team shot 53 percent from the free-throw line.

"I thought we shot free throws well ... in the closing minutes," light up on the stat sheet" but that the coach said, explaining that the team didn't shoot free throws particularly well on the night, but when the team gets into its delay game, it tries to put the ball into the hands of the team's best free-throw

He noted that after the team went into its delay game, they made five of six shots from the free-throw

"I thought that was big," he said.

The team made nine of 17 freethrow attempts overall.

The Pirates turned the ball over

This week, the Pirates will open Intermountain League play by hosting the Alamosa Mean Moose and Bayfield Wolverines.

On Friday evening, Pagosa will host Alamosa, who owns a 7-2 record and is the No. 16 team in the Ratings Percentage Index (RPI) standings.

Pagosa is the No. 18 team in the standings.

"Alamosa's gonna to be a tough game, no doubt," the coach said. "I think they're well-coached, I think they've got some really good athletes ... I mean it's gonna be a fun game. It's gonna be an exciting league matchup.'

Alamosa, much like Sanford, seems to be all man-to-man defense, he added, and the team continues to prepare for that.

"It continues to be about us getting better in basically all aspects of the game right now," he said.

Then, on Saturday, the Pirates will host the Wolverines, who are 2-6 on the season and the No. 54 team in the RPI standings.

Both games are slated to begin at 7 p.m. at the high school, with Wes Lewis commenting that both Pirate basketball programs are playing exciting basketball and would love to see fans and alumni in the stands.

Talk to center on substance use, abuse

By Jane Parker

Archuleta School District

Lynn Reimer, a nationally known speaker on the health effects of drug use, will be the presenter at a free event Monday evening, Jan. 24.

This event is sponsored by Archuleta School District and the Archuleta County Collaborative Management Program (CMP). The Substance Abuse Awareness event will be held in the Pagosa Springs High School auditorium from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Door prizes will be Reimer, president of Act on Drugs, has a regional and national reputation as a speaker, trainer and advocate on the issues related to substance abuse. As an experienced chemist and prior member of the North Metro Drug Task Force in Colorado, her experience and engaging style brings a real, personal and vivid face to the issues presented by illicit drug use. Reimer speaks regularly with students, community child advocacy groups, industrial and professional groups, and employees of local and state governmental agencies about drug awareness, recognition and prevention.

Reimer's presentations cover abused substances, including legal and illegal drugs, plant material and synthetic "designer drugs." Reimer also targets methamphetamine, including information on recognizing in-home clandestine "meth labs" and discusses the dangers these laboratories present to children living in the homes and the devastating and dangerous effects these "meth labs" have on the home and the community. Her perspective is insightful and engaging and we hope parents and community members will come out for this event. 'The first time I heard Lynn Reimer present this information, I felt pushed back in my seat. I had no idea what was out there and available to my children. I came home and immediately had a conversation with my three teenagers. Ms. Reimer presents information we all need to know as parents and community members, to help the youth in our county make positive life choices," said local parent and CMP coordinator Sara Blakemore.

Please come to this free event that is planned to help parents, teachers and neighbors understand the scope of the drug problem and how to communicate with our youth around this topic. Armed with common knowledge, we can help support the health and wellbeing of our children together.

Over the past year, we have continued to collaborate with the six Archuleta food pantries that function independently to offer nutritious food options for our neighbors continuing to face challenges in these unprecedented times. Through this collaboration, and in partnership with community organizations, together we piloted a mobile food pantry to reach even more of our neighbors, especially those living outside of town. Additionally, in partnership with the Pagosa Springs Middle School and Care and Share, we are helping to offer fresh fruit to students as a snack between meal times.

The FSFE — Food Coalition works to advance local food production and over the past year, we have partnered with the community to learn more about growing in our climate, facilitated the donation of local foods from backyard growers to food pantries, and developed a family garden education and heritage cooking program. We highlighted local ingredients and heritage recipes through our seasonal food demonstrations hosted at the food pantries.

As we look into 2022, we are excited to connect with the community to facilitate solutions from ideas to implementation, like the Vista Lake Park, and to learn together about the needs and ideas of the community through the

WeRise for 25 almost doubles its goal

Ashley Wilson

Rise Above Violence

This community never ceases to amaze me. All of us at Rise Above Violence thank you for supporting the WeRise for 25 campaign with such enthusiasm.

Our original goal was to raise $25,000 to support a fund that offered flexible assistance to survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault. Historically, grant funds are very restrictive and often for good reasons, but when it comes to those fleeing violent situations in their homes, the need for flexible support is immense.

When a victim is choosing to leave a violent relationship, starting out and getting safe require quick action that impacts their housing, their child care, their work and numerous other things. One seemingly insignificant crisis can quickly snowball into a catastrophe, resulting in homelessness and poverty.

You heard the call. This community responded with resounding support. Our original goal of $25,000 has been blown out of the water. As of Monday, Jan. 10, we have almost doubled that amount: $47,242 dollars have been raised by individuals in this community. The funds have already been used to help several victims and we are not even two weeks into the year.

The expectations of this flexible fund will allow the Rise team to support victims where they need it most in order to stabilize and not tumble into a financial crisis. Very often, a onetime small amount can ensure that victims are able to stabilize and not need longer-term

We are excited to share with you the impact of this fund as the year progresses; we know it will make such a difference for victims in our community. Again, thank you to everyone who donated and helped us almost double our goal.

If you or someone you know is experiencing violence and needs help, call our 24/7 hotline at (970) 264-9075; an advocate is here to help.

Rise Above Violence is a 501(c) (3) nonprofit that provides 24-hour support and advocacy services for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault or other forms of violence, serving more than 350 victims each year. Rise also works to eliminate violence through education for youth and our community. All programs and services are free and confidential, including emergency prevention education and empowerment programs. Visit www.riseaboveviolence.org for more information or call (970) 264-9075 to talk to an advocate today.

found levels of love, connectivity and joy when they have a new baby, another emotion that accompanies parenting often appears to go unmentioned: loneliness. Especially during the winter months, many young moms and dads feel isolated

While it is true that many mothers and fathers experience pro-

in Pagosa Springs. To combat that, Aspire is kicking off two free programs in January 2022: Our Coffee and Kiddos Playgroup, and Positive Parenting Class.

By Marcy Mitchell

Aspire

The Coffee and Kiddos Playgroup started on Jan. 10 at 10 a.m. at Aspire, 602 S. 8th St. Connect with other parents of babies and toddlers, learn a few tips, enjoy fun activities, and let your babies and toddlers explore and socialize with others. Light snacks will be served. Call Nicole at (970) 264-5963 for details.

Our first Positive Parenting Class of 2022 will start on Jan. 18 at 6 p.m. Aspire's Positive Parenting Program helps parents of babies and toddlers become more sensitive to children's individual needs and addresses the typical challenges that arise in early childhood with empathy and respect. The class is free and also provides child care and snacks during the evening class. In addition, participants receive a $20 gift card to City Market during each class.

In 2021, 38 parents participated in our class and raved about its impact on their parenting, knowledge and confidence as parents. Many also loved connecting with other parents of babies and toddlers.

Taught by Aspire Education Coordinator Toni Haines, the Positive Parenting program covers topics such as understanding your child's temperament, social/emotional development, emotional regulation skills, ways to engage your child through play and handling challenging behaviors.

Haines expressed, "Since taking the class, our parents are calmer, more confident and empowered in their crucial roles of childrearing. They have gained an invaluable understanding of how their individual child's developmental age/stage, temperament and experiences in the world affect their everyday behaviors and how they, as parents, can respond effectively."

In fact, Psychology Today (https://www.psychologytoday.com/us/blog/finding-newhome/201807/what-factors-are-associated-positive-parenting) links positive parenting to "higher school grades, fewer behavior problems, less substance use, better mental health, greater social competence and more positive self-concepts."

Class size is limited to 12, so call (970) 264-5963 if you are interested in attending.

Aspire also offers digital prenatal and parenting education to parents of babies and toddlers that can be sent via text or email as well as taken one on one with a mentor. Clients taking classes earn boutique bucks that can be used to shop and purchase diapers, wipes, baby supplies, maternity clothes and baby equipment.

Why does God seek praise?

PREVIEW Columnist

Why does God seek praise from His people? He is perfect. Does He need our praise? I confess, I thought it a bit self-serving. God, forgive me.

He doesn't need our praise, He wants it. Why? Here is what I believe. Praise is pleasing to God.

God created people for fellowship with Him. We are His children. Just as we crave close relationships with our offspring, He desires closeness

What does fellowship have to do with praise? When we worship God we remind ourselves who He is and why we can trust Him. This draws us closer to Him. You are holy. You are righteous. You are merciful, mighty, powerful and glorious. You are love. Our relationship strengthens.

King David loved being in close relationship with his creator. He sought after it. David said in Psalm 34:1, "I will bless the Lord at all times; His praise shall continually be in my mouth."

Praising God benefits us, too.

Proclaiming His attributes builds faith. Who is God that I would believe A Matter of Faith in Him? Why should I trust Him? Because He is merciful, loving, forgiving and my heavenly father.

Praise leads to thanksgiving. Great and mighty, loving Lord, thank you for forgiving me, saving me, and for my family and friends. I thank Him for smaller blessings like hot water in the shower, finding a lost item and for a sweet hug from my youngest granddaughter. I want praise and thanksgiving to be continually in my mouth.

"Through Jesus, therefore, let us continually offer to God a sacrifice of praise — the fruit of lips that openly profess His name. And do not forget to do good and to share with others, for with such sacrifices God is pleased." — Hebrews 13:15-16.

Sometimes praise feels like a sacrifice. A worship song we sing in church might be one I don't connect with or don't know. Or maybe I'm not feeling great and everything seems an effort. It feels like a sacrifice right then. In a group of people who don't know Him, I might not feel comfortable openly professing His name. Help me, Jesus, to offer praise in all circumstances

When asked how to pray, Jesus taught his disciples the Lord's Prayer. He began with acknowledging who God is — "Our Father. Hallowed be Thy name." Holy, sacred, revered. That's who He is.

He is the Master of the universe, not us. He hears our prayers. He knows what we need and what we want. I certainly remind Him often. That's when I need to relinquish my "control" and start praising. God, you are all-knowing and wise, you are moving in my life, and in the lives of the people and situations I pray for. I trust you.

His time, not mine. His will, not mine. "Praise Him from whom all blessings flow.'

Fear has a new name

Have you noticed? People have renamed fear and called it wisdom. Fear-based decisions have a different outcome than God-based decisions. A good example is a movie my Sweet Al and I watched while snowed in over the holidays. This film is called "The Zookeeper's Wife."

It is a true story set in 1939 during World War II when Germany invaded Poland. The Zabinskis survived the bombardment of the city of Warsaw. Many of the Jewish people ran from the bombings and oppression.

Jan and Antonina Zabinski owned the Warsaw Zoo. In order to protect his wife and son, Jan told them they should flee with the Jewish people. He would stay behind with the animals. Antonina begged him to let her stay and he finally agreed.

Al said, "She should have left with the others. That would have been wise." I said that would have been a decision made from fear, and fear tends to have a different outcome. He said, "The wise thing to do was to leave. Staying could have been fatal."

Antonina based her decision on an event that happened to her when she was young. Her family was killed and she ran because of fear. She said to her husband if she ran away, she would always be running. She couldn't do it anymore.

Most of the animals were killed or moved to another city. But God had a bigger purpose for the Zabinskis. In the six years during the war, they rescued 300 Polish Jews from the Germans. They hid them in the empty animal cages and they used a secret tunnel under their house to keep them safe.

In the book of James, he writes, "Those who are wise among you, show by good conduct that their works are done in the meekness of wisdom" (James 3:13).

James names two kinds of wisdom — from the earth and the other from heaven. Wisdom from the earth is sensual and demonic, and causes bitter envy, self-seeking, confusion and every evil thing in our hearts. This wisdom is acted out in fear and self-preservation.

The wisdom from above is first pure, peaceable, gentle, willing to yield, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality and without hypocrisy. That wisdom is acted out in trust and truth.

There is much confusion these days. Well-meaning people will tell us what we should do. It is the natural desire of our families and friends to protect us, but not necessarily using wisdom from above.

David prays, "Lord, don't you hear what my well-meaning friends keep saying to me: Run away while you can! Fly away like a bird to hide in the mountains for safety. For your enemies have prepared a trap for you. They plan to destroy you with their slander and deceitful lies. Can't you see them hiding in their place of darkness and shadows? They're set against you and all those who live upright lives." But don't they know Lord that I have made you my only hiding place? Don't they know that I always trust in you? (Psalm 11:1-3, TPT).

Wise people ask: Does the path I'm walking lead to a place I want to go? Am I making a decision out of a place of fear or a place from trust and truth?

Final bushstroke: God's answer: Do not fear. I have provided a hiding place for you. There is a secret place in the Most High where you shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. You will be delivered from the snare of the fowler and the perilous pestilence (a fatal epidemic disease.) No evil will befall you and no plague will come near your dwelling. Don't run, but stand on God's word.

By Carole Howard

PREVIEW Columnist, and the library staff

If you made a New Year's resolution that you are having trouble keeping, you might want to consider all the resources — print, DVDs, CDs and online — that are available at your library to support you.

Our many electronic databases are just one example. If you want to learn a new language, you could use Transparent Language. If you'd like to take a class on a huge variety of topics as diverse as nutrition, computer software and cake decorating, take a look at Universal Class.

In addition, of course, we have physical items with useful information about nutritional diets, exercise programs, wellness, languages, computers, business, home and auto repair, parenting and so much more.

Here's to a safe, healthy and happy new year for you and your loved ones.

At the free in-person adult DIY next Tuesday, Jan. 18, from 1 to 2 p.m., we will supply the materials and show you how to create beautiful winter-themed decorations like snowflake string art. Using the skills you learn, this craft can be adapted easily for other holidays and special occasions.

Baby brain gym

Next Wednesday, Jan. 19, from 2:30 to 3 p.m., families with babies to toddlers aged 3 and under are invited to bring them to the library for hands-on sensory activities designed just for them to help their brains grow. Tax preparation assistance available in Durango

Desk volunteers needed

The Community Café in the Pagosa Senior Center is requesting volunteers to help with the lunch desk. Please call (970) 264-2167 to volunteer or for more information.

Meals on Wheels volunteers needed

The Senior Center Meals on Wheels program delivers approximately 3,000 fresh and frozen meals a year. We deliver fresh Meals on Wheels five days a week (and provide frozen Meals on Wheels for weekends) to homebound Archuleta County residents to help them stay healthy and independent in their own homes.

This program is vitally important because many seniors have little to no access to nutritious meals. They are often too frail or have health complications that prevent them from preparing meals for themselves or from using the Senior Center's Community Café drive-thru meals pick-up site Monday though Friday.

The Senior Center needs volunteer Meals on Wheels Drivers for one day a week (or become part of our substitute driver team). Please join us as part of our driver team and build wonderful relationships with the seniors in our community. Call (970) 264-2167.

Take-out meals continue at Senior Center

In order to continue providing meals, the Senior Center is offering take-out hot meals and a salad with a drive-up option under the portico at the Ross Aragon Community Center.

These meals will be available Monday through Friday between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. There is a $4 suggested donation for lunch for those age 60 and better. If you need to have your meal delivered, please call (970) 264-2167 to see if this option is available in your area.

The cost per meal for the public age 59 and under is $8.50. The meals include a salad, hot meal, drink and dessert or bread.

Please call (970) 264-2167 to make a reservation for pickup. We are also continuing our Meals on Wheels program.

There will be no games, classes or presentations during this time. The staff will be available by phone. If you need to speak to a staff member, please call (970) 264-2167.

Winter water for livestock and horses

By Robin Young

PREVIEW Columnists

Water is an essential nutrient livestock require. The importance of animals having access to clean water year-round cannot be over emphasized.

In the winter, giving livestock access to a reliable water source can be a real problem because of the snow, ice and freezing temperatures. Fifty to 80 percent of the animal's live weight comes from water. Animals can lose almost all of their body fat and 50 percent of body protein and survive, but the loss of only 10 percent of water can be fatal.

Livestock require a good supply of water in order to maximize performance (feed intake and production). A "good" water supply would be one that has enough water to meet the animal's needs and one that is of high-enough quality (i.e. clean). Livestock water consumption is based on a variety of factors, which include:

• Size and kind of animal.

Extension Viewpoints

- Physiological state of the animals (i.e. a lactating, pregnant or growing animal will require more water intake than one that is not).
- Level of activity Animals such as horses that are being worked or livestock that are being transported need more water.
- Type of diet Animals grazing dry pastures will require more water.
- Water quality (i.e. salt content and purity).
 - Water temperature.
 - Air temperature.

Do not mistakenly believe that animals can meet water requirements by eating snow or licking ice. With daily water requirements varying from 3 gallons (sheep) to

A new predator stalks the West

By Pepper Trail

PREVIEW Columnist

The grizzly bear. The wolf. The cougar. These magnificent creatures, apex predators, how can we not admire them? People cross the world for the opportunity to see one in the wilds of Yellowstone or Alaska.

There, we view them from a distance, free to indulge our awe in safety. It has been a long time since Americans lived in fear of wild beasts.

But now that fear has returned. Fear felt not just in the woods, but also in cities and towns: Paradise, Calif.; Talent, Ore.; and now in suburban Superior and Louisville in Colorado's Boulder County.

The dangerous predator we're facing these days is wildfire, charging even out of grasslands to destroy our very homes. And no one is safe.

As an ecologist, I know that predators are essential to the health of wildlife communities, keeping prey populations in check. They're also a driving force in evolution, favoring the faster or stronger or smarter animals able to escape their attacks. Of course, civilization long ago freed us from the evolutionary pressure exerted by predators. But that freedom has come at a cost.

When populations and ecosystems grow badly out of balance, there must come a correction. Humans and the environments we have created are not immune to this rule and we must recognize that we have unleashed the firepredator through our own choices.

What choices? On the global scale, we have released vast amounts of carbon dioxide and other greenhouse gases into the atmosphere. This was done at first in ignorance, but for at least the past 30 years, it truly was a choice made in the face of increasingly desperate warnings.

The resulting greenhouse effect has raised temperatures and decreased rain and snowpack throughout the West, contributing to "fire weather" like the hurricaneforce winds that shockingly bore down on the suburbs of Denver in the dead of winter.

We also made land-management choices that strengthened the threat of fire. First, we behaved as if we could banish fire from the landscape, suppressing all wildland fires everywhere and ending the use of prescribed fire in forests as a management tool. This led to a huge build-up of flammable fuels.

Second, industrial-scale logging eliminated more than 90 percent of fire-resistant old-growth forests and replaced them with highly flammable tree plantations. Finally, we vastly expanded our human footprint, building houses right where the fire-predator likes to roam, at the brink of forests and grasslands.

Reconciling ourselves to the depredations of wildfire requires that we take the long view — the really long view. The fuel-choked forests resulting from our (mis) management need to burn, and they will burn. The best we can do is to preserve the old forests that remain and manage younger forests to increase their resilience to moderate-intensity fire. It could be a century or more before a new forestland equilibrium is reached, one with lower fuel loads, better adapted to the high fire-frequency climate we have created.

Meanwhile, what about us? Colorado's Marshall Fire proved that wildfire is the one predator we can't eliminate. Far from any forest, this was pushed through tinderdry grasslands by howling winter winds and burned more than 1,000 suburban homes in a matter of hours. So, like any prey species, we must adapt as best we can. As individuals, we can create defensible space around our homes. We can get skilled at escaping wildfire by having evacuation plans ready.

As a society, we can adopt sensible policies to limit sprawling 14 gallons (cattle), one can see that livestock would need to spend every waking hour eating snow to meet their requirements. Ice and snow consumption lowers body temperature and will increase maintenance energy needs, so it should be discouraged.

Research has shown that water sources that are warmed to 37 degrees Fahrenheit will encourage animals to drink and help ensure they get adequate water intake. Water tank heaters may be needed to ensure that water sources do not freeze. Always follow manufacturers' recommendations to prevent fires and electric shocks or electrocution of livestock when using water tank heaters.

If you do not have access to tank heaters, fresh water needs to be provided several times a day. Breaking ice in water tanks or ponds just once or twice a day may not be enough for an animal to meet its requirements. Ensuring adequate water intake will encourage optimal health and performance of livestock and help prevent serious conditions such as colic and impaction.

Bird of the Week

This week's Bird of the Week, compliments of the Weminuche Audubon Society and Audubon Rockies, is the yellow-bellied sapsucker.

This member of the woodpecker family is reported here only in winter and then just rarely. The bird in this photo was spotted recently in town.

These woodpeckers are completely migratory, breeding in forests from eastern Alaska through the boreal forests of Canada and in the northern parts of states from North Dakota to the east. They winter in the eastern and southern states, through Mexico and into Central America.

Ideal habitat for these birds is mixed deciduous/conifer forests with lots of young trees like those areas regenerating after logging has occurred. They drill sapwells year-round to suck the high-sugar-content sap and eat the insects it captures. In spring, they drill circular holes deep into the tree xylem to obtain the sap flowing up into the branches. After the tree leafs out, they drill shallow rectangular holes in the phloem to capture the sap flowing down from the leaves.

These holes must be maintained regularly to keep the sap flowing and this bird spends most of its time near its sapwells. Other birds, particularly hummingbirds, and bats and porcupines may sneak in to take advantage of the sapsucker's hard work.

This fairly small woodpecker has a mottled back and whitish to pale yellow undersides. Males have a red crown and throat and females a red crown and white throat. Vertical white patches along the side of the folded wing and a black and white-striped face are identification marks.

Migratory behavior in birds is an inherent, instinctive behavior. Some fly incredible distances each spring and fall, some move only a short distance, and others stay put. Vagrant birds that stray off course of the usual migratory path present a mystery and are exciting to spot to the birdwatchers among us.

development in fire-prone areas. Recent events prove that these include not just remote forestlands, but even grasslands near suburbs. Faced with predators, animals try to get into the center of the herd. We need to do the same, avoiding exposure to the fire-predator at the vulnerable edge.

Finally, we can — we must embark on an urgent global effort to end the burning of fossil fuels within the next few decades. If we do not, the West will face yearround fire weather and a future at the mercy of fire.

Yet there is reason for hope: the uniquely human capacity for rapid social and cultural evolution. Let's harness that strength and work toward the day when fire is a predator no more, but our powerful partner in the stewardship of the land.

Corgi capital of the world

By Daris Howard

Special to The PREVIEW

Jed and Nicole were annoyed with each other. They had had their marital disagreements in the past, but this one seemed to be growing way out of proportion. It had started when Jed said he didn't believe something Nicole read to him from the Internet

"Look," Jed said, "you can't trust everything you read on the Internet, even on Wikipedia. The good people there attempt to have policies and procedures to make articles as true as possible. I appreciate them and have donated to them. But people still make mistakes. And besides, there are few bad actors who post false things on purpose."

"I think you are just too skeptical," Nicole replied. "I feel if something is posted on a site like Wikipedia, it can even be quoted as fact for research."

Jed knew that arguing with his wife further on the subject was futile. When her mind was made up, the only way to change it was with irrefutable proof. That thought gave Jed an idea. He would create the evidence needed to convince Jed sat down with his computer and created a Wikipedia account. He used a nickname that people had used for him when he was young because he didn't want everyone knowing his identity. Now he had to come up with an article. He wanted it to be benign enough that no one would pay attention to it. But it had to be believable so his wife would think it was true.

He thought for a long time, but nothing seemed quite right. Then their little corgi dog named Bess came and laid her head on his leg, wanting some attention. As he reached down to pet her, he suddenly had an idea. He typed and typed, adding in false facts, some free pictures from the Internet, and a picture of his own.

When he finished, he edited and re-edited the article until he thought it was perfect, then submitted it. He would have to wait until it was up on the site. Then he would give it a whole week so he could tell Nicole it had been there for a while. That's when he would show her.

It didn't take long before Jed could verify that the article was live. He felt pretty smug seeing it there. It was going to be a long week before he could prove his point to his wife. He decided the following Sunday evening would be the perfect time to casually tell her. Meanwhile, he was sure it wouldn't be a problem having posted it because no one would even

The following Sunday, when he arrived at church, he was walking down the hall outside the chapel when he heard a group of older people talking.

"Did you see the article in the paper this morning about the fame that has come to our little town?" one old gentleman asked.

'You mean how Greenville is the corgi capital of the world?" a woman

The man nodded. "More corgis per capita than any other town in the world."

Jed spun around. "Did you say there was an article about Greenville corgis in the paper?"

"Yes," the woman said. "We even have a small park donated by a dedicated corgi owner that is just for corgis, and no other breeds of dogs are allowed. I'm not sure where it is, but the paper talked about it."

"That's the dumbest thing I ever heard," another man said. "In my day, we had sensible sheep-herding dogs."

"But do you really believe the article?" Jed said, hoping to throw some brakes on this disaster.

"Well, of course," the second man said. "The newspaper said it was in Wikipedia."

Jed hurried home after church and read the paper. Sure enough, there was the headline, "Greenville, Corgi Capital of the World." Maybe if he hurried, he could get it off before Nicole saw it. But when she walked in carrying the newspaper and shouting, "Have you seen the news?!" he knew he was too late.

It took him a while to confess what he had done and even longer to convince her. He had to show her it was his nickname on the article, and one picture was of a neighbor's corgi and Bess.

'So, you're one of those deceptive people you were talking about?" she said in disgust.

"I'm just trying to prove a point," he replied.

"What are you going to do now that everyone thinks it's real?" Nicole asked.

Jed thought a minute, and then even though Nicole advised against it, he decided he might add to the article and see if the town's people caught on.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles?
Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Wind-driven fire ran until the gusts died

By Dave Marston PREVIEW Columnist

The Marshall Fire that demolished more than 1,000 homes along the front range of Colorado two weeks ago was not unique. This particular kind of fire happened before, on April 17, 2018 — 115 miles due south of the Marshall

The wildfire was simply called the MM 117 fire for mile marker 117 on Interstate 25 south of Colorado Springs, in El Paso County. Despite earning a federal disaster declaration and scorching more than 43,000 acres, it never rated a real name.

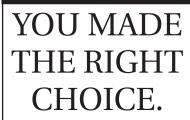

Like the Marshall Fire, this grass fire came on fast and stopped almost as soon as the winds died. At the time, it was the fifth largest in state history, but 100 percent contained in 72 hours.

It began when a motorist, their car dragging its muffler, sent sparks into the air when there was just 4 percent humidity and winds blowing up to 80 miles per hour. Sparks ignited the grass. Fire investigators on the scene said any motorist with an overheating engine could have sparked a blaze. The entire day, it seemed all of Colorado was hammered by winds that grounded planes at Denver International. then grounded firefighting planes as well

Unable to reach homeowners by car, with the fire racing away, frantic officials resorted to pleas over Facebook message boards: "A deputy sheriff said he was driving at 35 mph near the fire Tuesday, April 17th, 2018, and it was moving faster than he was," reported Wildfire Today.

The final tally was horrifying for a fire that lasted barely the length of a holiday weekend — 24 structures destroyed, over 43,000 acres scorched and "untold number of livestock," mostly beef cattle, killed, according to the Colorado Springs Gazette.

Speed was a big part of the story. The fire raced due east and covered 20 miles in just a few hours. Along the way, It leaped over roads, torched houses and seemed impossible to stop. Yet, when winds

There is a stunning lesson to be learned from this grassland fire: We have little control over windwhipped grasslands fires once they get going. All we can do is run.
