County logs seven new COVID-19 cases in five days, sits at Level 2

By Randi Pierce Staff Writer

Seven new resident cases of COVID-19 were reported to San Juan Basin Public Health (SJBPH) between Sept. 17 and Sept. 21, putting Archuleta County's cumulative case count at 55.

Of those 55, 34 have recovered, leaving 21 cases that are considered active.

To date, there have been 47 nonresident cases for Archuleta County reported to SJBPH. That figure does not include La Plata County residents who may have tested positive at an Archuleta County facility.

Archuleta County remains at Level 2: Concern on the framework dial, which tracks a county's progress toward the Protect Our Neighbors phase of reopening and includes five levels.

A county's status on the dial is dependent upon eight criteria.

Archuleta County is currently meeting the metrics for four cri-

"We can't find him," said Jim Van Ry, office administrator for the Mineral County Sheriff's Department, adding, "No one knows where he's at. We have done extensive searches through the FBI and all that and nothing. This fella has dropped off the face of the Earth."

Council approves first reading of ordinance to grant waivers to Land Use and Development Code

By Chris Mannara Staff Writer

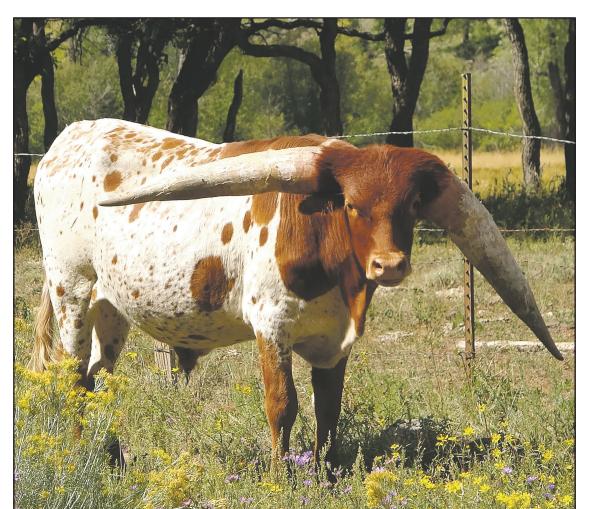

At a regular meeting of the Pagosa Springs Town Council on Sept. 17, an ordinance was approved on first reading that would amend the town's Land Use and Development Code (LUDC) and give town council the authority to grant waivers.

Planning Director James Dickhoff explained that Ordinance 942 was in response to some challenges that town staff has faced with "some of the interpretations" of specific language within the LUDC.

In conjunction with Town Attorney Clayton Buchner, it was discovered that there were a number of codes that have a similar language to what is being proposed with Ordinance 942. "Truly, since town council has adopted the land use development code, it gives specific authority to town council to grant waivers to that land use development code," Dickhoff said. "The intent isn't to $give \, waivers \, of \, large \, provisions \, of \, the \,$

Fires, demand, pandemic spark price increase for building materials

By John Finefrock

Staff Writer

Due to a combination of a global pandemic; fires in Colorado, Oregon and California; and high demand, prices for building materials have doubled around Pagosa Springs and nationwide.

"Pretty well across the board everything has at least doubled, if not double and some change," said Dale August, lumber associate at Terry's Ace Hardware in an interview Tuesday. "Getting treated lumber has been just terrible ... We've never seen this before as far as this particular problem goes. We're basically — we're on standby just to get stuff in."

The SUN spoke to three different building supply companies in town, which each generally gave the same reasons for the uptick in

The amount of new home construction locally and nationwide has increased demand for building materials.

• Fires in California, Oregon and Colorado are occurring where many sawmills operate, or in forests where lumber is harvested, stifling the supply chain.

"One of our main distributors is out of Grand Junction," August said. "Well, they run rail cars from Denver to Grand Junction and you know, with I-70 and whatnot being closed, that was really a sticking point for us ... They're running cars now, but for about three weeks we were out of luck."

Of the fires happening in Colorado, Oregon and California, August said, "We're losing out on product that's actually burning

Sales, lodgers' tax revenues see more than 10 percent increases

By Chris Mannara Staff Writer

Both lodgers' and sales tax saw increases within the past couple months, according to reports given at the most recent Pagosa Springs Town Council meeting on Sept. 17.

Lodgers' tax

For June, lodgers' tax was up "significantly," according to Tourism Director Jennie Green, specifically up by 24.4 percent. In July, lodgers' tax saw a 30.99 percent increase over July of 2019, according to Green.

"This was the first month that we ever exceeded $100,000 in collections. It was $116,202. Rather surprising. All indications that I have received from area lodgers, August, September, and quite possibly October, are remaining rather strong," Green said.

According to agenda documentation, however, the town's lodging tax collections are down 2.98 percent through July, compared to 2019, or $11,614.

Sales tax

Town sales tax for July, which was collected in September, showed in an increase of 11.1 in total sales tax compared to July of 2019, according to Town Manager Andrea Phillips.

After the airport fund contribution, total town sales tax revenue is $737,839.09. Additionally, $368,920 of that total is going to the town's general fund and capital improvement fund.

In July of 2019, the town received a total of $663,743 in sales tax revenue, according to agenda documentation.

Sales tax collections for last July are 20 percent higher than those in July of 2018 and 40.7 percent higher than those in July of 2017, ac-

EDITORIAL

Letters to the Editor

However, we were disappointed to receive a Letter to the Editor this week that contained numerous falsehoods pertaining to a local candidate running for county commissioner.

While we can't fact check every letter that we get, this one had so many inaccuracies we felt that it was worth investigating a little further.

We are disappointed when someone casts aside integrity to spread blatant untruths about candidates. Candidates running for office should be able to stand on their own merits without someone having to write a script in an effort to discredit their competition.

Last week, there was a letter aimed at bringing up old claims about the sheriff's office in order to discredit a candidate who is running for office. Those claims were found to be unfounded by the district attorney and should have been laid to rest last year.

While we don't always agree with letter writers' opinions, we print their letters in order to encourage open discourse.

Newspapers provide an avenue and self-expression through Letters to the Editor. We recognize the importance of publishing a diversity of viewpoints. A mixture of expertise, facts and opinions is healthy.

Letters to the Editor are the best place to voice philosophies, thoughts, opinions, possible solutions and more. It's a place where an individual can get the word out to residents, elected officials and the movers and shakers of our community. We believe that Letters to the Editor make for a more interesting newspaper.

The SUN welcomes letters from The following are some guidelines.

First, your letter should be 500 words or less. This week, a 600-word letter was submitted with an apology that the writer couldn't make it shorter and get his point across. We believe you can.

The SUN reserves the right to edit letters. Letters printed will be at our discretion, and there is no guarantee letters will be published.

Letters should be received at The SUN by noon on Tuesday (the deadline may move up due to a holiday).

While we won't print letters from candidates running for office, we will print letters in favor of or against candidates. Due to limited space, we may have to limit printing only one letter regarding a political candidate in each edition.

You can email your letters to editor@ pagosasun.com. Please type your letter into the body of an email or send in a Word document file. Do not send PDF

When emailing a letter, please include your address and phone number. While we won't print your address or phone number, we may contact you to verify your letter.

And, if you bring in a letter to the office or mail it to us, remember to sign it and include your address and phone number, again, not for publication. Mailed letters should be sent to P.O. Box 9, Pagosa Springs, CO 81147.

We won't print form letters. Don't sign your name to a letter someone has written and encouraged you to send to us. We don't want those letters.

We do want to print your individual opinion in your own letter.

We will print letters signed by a couple or individual, but not by more than two people.

Letters complaining about local businesses should be routed straight to the business being complained about. Letters promoting businesses are considered advertisements and must be paid for. The advertising deadline is noon on Monday. When we receive a letter complaining about a business, we deliver it to the management of that business.

We could tell you so many stories about the letters we receive.

We once received a letter that wasn't signed and, upon further research, we discovered that the "author" had been deceased for about eight years. The writer of the letter was a coward and used a deceased person's name to hide behind. The writer even went as far as using that person's former address.

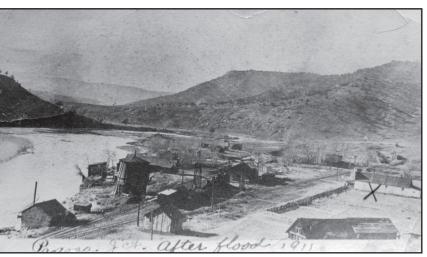

Another time, we received a letter talking about a business owner who paid their rent to the owner of a building and, according to the letter writer, for some reason the money never went to the bank and the bank foreclosed on the business. The letter contained names, locations, rumor and innuendo. The letter was libelous. Libelous letters, whether about a business or an individual, cannot be printed.

As hard as we try, there are letters that still manage to slip through our system.

Another thing we take very seriously at The SUN is plagiarism. We received another Letter to the Editor this week that was completely plagiarized. You plagiarize when you take someone else's work or ideas and pass them off as your own. If you come across something you want to share in a letter, attribute it to the original source. Then expound on that viewpoint with your own words, thoughts and ideas.

Do you have an opinion? Share it. Write a Letter to the Editor.

Two Rio Grande Motorway trucks have been wrecked near Wolf Pass this past week. The first, with 24,000 lbs. of wheat on board, driven by Cecil Noble, Durango, jack-knifed off the road between Horseshoe Curve and Tunnel Fill Thursday of last week, about 11 a.m. The side and top of the trailer were crushed.

A second Motorway truck went off the road 4 miles out of Pagosa Tuesday and the driver, Bob Cuttender, was not seriously hurt but badly shaken up. The tractor was smashed up, and the trailer over on its side.

25 years ago Taken from SUN files of

September 28, 1995 Additional funding for the county jail operation was authorized Tuesday, after Dennis Hunt assured the county commissioners that revenues derived $from \, housing \, prisoners \, for \, the \, Southern \,$ Ute Indian Tribe would sufficiently offset the expenditure. Whereas the county's 1995 budget designates $75,000 for the jail's meal operation, Hunt said $59,240 had been spent on meals as of Sept. 10. Hunt said based on this year's first nine months of operation, the $75,000 mark would be reached before the end of the year due to the Southern Ute prisoners. Because the tribe pays the county $40 a day for each Southern Ute prisoner, the county manager said the extra expenditure for meals would not cause a deficit in the general fund.

During a work session with architect Wayne Huff and County Road and Bridge Department personnel Tuesday afternoon, the commissioners considered deletions and revisions on plans for the new county maintenance yard. By eliminating an entrance foyer, a 20-foot wide concrete apron around three sides of the outside of the building, a meeting room and other "hoped for" features originally designed for the building, the commissioners hope to obtain an affordable bid on the structure.

Reactions to pain

Dear Editor:

I'm wondering if we could talk? You, the reader of this letter, me, the writer of this letter. But we would have to first put our weapons down, Dear Reader. By weapons I mean our slogans: the short phrases we sling at each other that are so charged with unconscious emotion. By unconscious I mean the feelings we have attached to those slogans, even without knowing what those feelings are, and yet we will fight to the death for them.

Those slogans are like the cat my mother used to draw for me when I was 5: just a figure 8 with 2 triangular ears, dots for eyes & nose, dashes for whiskers. That cat meant so many things to me, but mainly it meant that my mother had put aside all the other things she had to do & had instead sat down next to me & was slowly making a cat appear on paper. But even then I knew that that cat bore little resemblance to an actual living cat, no anatomical accuracy. Still it was charged with love. I would have fought for that cat.

That cat is a little like the slogans we use against each other. Short & pithy. They sum up no truth, nothing anatomically correct, but are imbued with emotion we feel deeply. We long for. Something we would fight for. That is why they are used in political campaigns. But it's important to understand that, like the cat, they are not real.

"Make America Great Again" is an emotion, say for some time like post World War II. That time no longer exists and what was cannot return, for it is not the time we live in now. But emotionally it feels real, doesn't it? It feels like we could wish it into returning. Maybe we could look at what kind of greatness we are longing for?

"Silence is Violence" is a call to activism. It has urgency to it. If we don't participate we are creating an act of violence. That's pretty scary isn't it? Hard to ignore. On one end, those that stayed silent in Germany during WWII made it possible for 6 million people to be murdered for no crime whatsoever. So it's understandable. But is it the same as actually killing someone?

So maybe we can start by separating the emotions we feel from the slogans we use? Maybe we could ask: what is it that we feel so strongly about? It's like we are in a very large, dysfunctional family. One side is saying: a terrible crime has happened here and we need to bring it out into the open. The other side is saying: There is no crime. The crime is what you are bringing up. Do your homework. Follow rules. Obey. Then everything will be alright.

How then Dear Reader do we reconcile these fundamentally different reactions to pain?

Rise and vote

Dear Editor:

President Trump, you have had almost four years to lead the United States and have failed us by your own choosing. Whether it be in foreign policy and domestic policy you have not protected the United States as Commander-in Chief.

Now comes the latest news about your complete disrespect for our military and total disregard for the Covid 19 virus. We the American people have finally borne witness to what happens when they place an incompetent business leader into the Oval Office. Quality of life is not a business decision sir but rather it is a humane choice to be empathetic to those who cannot help themselves.

Joe Biden has that empathy and will return the United States to the era when we were respected internationally because of how we treat our citizens domestically.

This election is a clear choice between those who have never had it so good and those of us who know we can do better. Joe Biden will lead us there.

Fellow citizens, exercise your right to vote to preserve your sacred heritage, promote your children's future and obtain the blessings of liberty we all cherish.

To restore a sense of decency to the United States rise and vote.

Conservatives

Dear Editor:

Conservatives are coming together to support "the Right", in the most important election in the history of America. The recent local "Trump Parade" was fantastic. We Republicans speak out loudly against all the liberal lies. Of course, with Biden's 47 political years and no real accomplishments, worsening dementia, coupled with the Haris baggage; who, funds bails releasing severe criminals, defunding the police, just part of going totally against our Justice System and the Constitution, can only rely on accusing Pres. Trump of what they are guilty of, lies. This has been a continuous very evil, liberal lefty pattern.

We all know that our Pres. Trump has done so many good things for our America and the world, even, with the faces of evil fighting him all the way, the real things are there. Our true God shows us in the Word that these are prophetic times. What Pres. Trump has done with Israel, moving the capital and our embassy to Jerusalem, and the latest, the Abraham Accord Peace Agreement; plus ridding the world of the leading terrorist leaders, fact actions of why we vote "the Right"; In God We Trust.

So knowing, Pres Trump has said and done: We support, support Pro-Life; we support " the First Amendment and the Second Amendment"; we reverence and follow the Constitution ... "America will never be a Socialist country." This all is totally opposite of what is professed to be the present far Left Democrat liberal party agenda. True Americans, who stand on the Judeo-Christian principle that our Constitution and country was built upon, we know, we vote and reelect our Pres, Trump and all the" Right" candidates in the Senate and the House and the local races. We repeat ..."America will never be a Socialist country", no never a Venezuela. Praise Jesus.

Protections for preexisting conditions

Dear Editor:

There are over 300,000 Coloradans with preexisting conditions whose ability to buy insurance without the federal protections established by the ACA would be endangered. Yet, Cory Gardner has voted repeatedly to repeal, block or defund the law, without any viable replacement, and he supports Trump's lawsuit to invalidate the ACA in the middle of a pandemic. Instead, Gardner is trying to obscure his record by releasing new ads claiming to support preexisting condition protections with a bill he wrote - a bill that was introduced in August and has never received a single hearing or vote. This bill has a giant loophole. While it claims to prevent insurers from raising premiums for people with preexisting conditions, it does nothing to prevent insurers from simply denying coverage altogether, as they routinely did before the ACA. The ACA requires "guaranteed issue," meaning that insurers must sell policies to people regardless of their health status. Now that these protections have become popular with the American people, Gardner wants us to simply forget his recent votes and policy positions. John Hickenlooper believes highquality, affordable healthcare is a right, not a privilege. As Governor, he expanded Medicaid to an additional 400,000 Coloradans and cut the uninsured rate by almost two-thirds. Unlike Gardner, he has a plan for a healthier future for all Americans. 'A matter of life and death'

Carol Cure

Dear Editor: This year's election has become a matter of life and death. We have now lost more than 200,000 Americans to COVID-19 — a death rate nearly five times that of the rest of the world. The United States accounts for around 4 percent of the world's population, but 21 percent of the world's COVID deaths. If Americans deaths from COVID-19 were at the worldwide rate, we would have had about 40,000 deaths. Instead, we have had 160,000 more than that. These are Americans that would not have died if we had only done as well as the world as a whole in responding to COVID. But with a president and many enablers in his party who lied about COVID, minimized it, and failed to take decisive action, the cost was 160,000 preventable American deaths. We now know that Trump knew how serious COVID was back in February, but by his own admission he deceived us, saying that it was like the flu and that it would go away. This failure led to the deadliest disaster of our lifetimes. Equivalent to 67 September 11 attacks, 100 Hurricane Katrinas, and far beyond the death tolls of the Vietnam and Korean Wars combined.

But that, unfortunately, is not the end of it. Now Trump is doing everything he can to take health insurance from 20 million Americans in the midst of this horrible pandemic. He is even willing to pack the Supreme Court in a desperate effort to take away our health insurpre-existing conditions from 100 million Americans. Republicans said it was too close to the election to fill a Supreme Court vacancy ten months before the election when the president was a Democrat, but now they say six weeks is not too close when the president is a Republican. You cannot have a democracy when there is one rule for one party and a different rule for the other party. And you cannot fight a pandemic by taking health insurance away from 20 million Americans. We know that the death rate is far higher for those without insurance than for those who have it. Taking it away from 20 million Americans will cause tens of thousands more preventable deaths every year, and even more during a pandemic. Please, vote as if you life depends on it because it literally could. Please vote for Joe Biden, Kamala Harris, John Hickenlooper, and Diane Mitsch Bush. They will do everything they can to stop COVID rather than denying it, and everything they can to keep Americans insured through this crisis, rather than making them uninsured. Like I said, this is a matter of life and death.

'We need new and better ideas'

Dear Editor:

The General Election is upon us and I still support Warren Brown in his run for Archuleta County Commissioner, District 1 - we need new and better ideas.

I believe even more strongly now than in May that Warren is the best candidate for County Commissioner for several reasons, not the least of which is the position advocated in a recent letter to the Editor. The 'Balance of Power' letter in last week's paper questioned the wisdom of electing more than one person at a time to the Board of Commissioners who had previously served in the Sheriff's Office for fear that their loyalty might be to the Sheriff's Office, not the residents of Archuleta County you know, the people that they had previously been willing to put their lives on the line for, if necessary. The letter went on to include a gratuitous comment about "Then we have the missing assets, unaccounted for in the Sheriff Department which leads to the commissioners saying the Sheriff doesn't work for us. Another story." which the Editor promptly 'fact checked' at the end of the letter pointing out that "... Sheriff Richard Valdez and his staff have been completely cleared of any wrongdoing and the allegation has been deemed to be entirely unfounded." Maybe instead we should look at where the 'unfounded allegations' about the Sheriff's Office originated and who pushed them up to the state level for investigation rather than just asking Sheriff Valdez to explain where the property in question came from and what had happened. As the author said - "Another story."

Warren has spent almost 27 years in law enforcement, literally putting his life on the line to protect citizens like you and me. Over half ance, and to take protections for a lifetime serving his community, first in Montrose for 20 years and now here for the last five years – he knows what it means 'to serve' and he wants to continue doing it here in another capacity.

> Warren sees that Archuleta County has a systemic problem, the lack of a well written and communicated plan. As a result, inadequate infrastructure maintenance (roadways and community buildings) and a single-sourced tax revenue stream (tourism) plague our county. He knows there are limited tax dollars and understands that a good plan makes it possible to earmark specific resources to address maintaining and developing our existing infrastructure and development.

Last, Warren believes in service to others above self and has a long history of ethical and timely decision making. He has an ability to work with others and understands the value of compromise as well as the value of holding his ground and is willing to do whichever is best for the greater good of the community. He brings with him the broad perspective gained from living in both larger and smaller communities and has seen what works and what does not.

So, I urge you to vote with me for Warren Brown for Archuleta County Commissioner, District 1.

Gardner: Trump's corner

Dear Editor:

Cory Gardner may attempt to campaign as a moderate independent Republican. However his voting record in lock-step confirmation of Trump's cabinet members and judges places him clearly in Trump's corner.

Gardner voted for:

Interior Secretary Zinke: Shrunk Bear Ears National Monument by 85%, will Rocky Mountain National Park be next? Resigned under pressure amidst six federal investigations, expensive travel and policy

EPA Secretary Pruitt: prior to nomination sued the EPA 14 times. Rejects climate change. Resigned under pressure with 15 federal investigations of his conduct from criminal record destruction to corrupt allocation of funds.

Homeland Security Secretary Nielson: implemented policy of separating over 2654 children from their parents at the US-Mexico border. Resigned under pressure.

Commerce Secretary Ross: banker workth 2.5 billion, failed to disclose financial interest in a Russian company. Violated Administrative Procedures Act by attempting to add a citizenship question to the census, which would cost Colorado millions in federal funding.

Treasury Secretary Mnuchin: banker worth 385 million, requested military aircraft for several personal trips costing taxpayers $811,000. Designed Tax bill giving huge cuts to the wealthiest and corporations.

Secretary of State Pompeo: Trump fired the Inspector General who was investigating Pompeo's role in the administration bypassing a congressional freeze on arms sales to Saudi Arabia, releasing $8 billion in arms which are used in the war in Yemen.

HHS Secretary Price: worth $10 million, reported spending over one million of taxpayer funds for private charter jets and military aircraft.

EPA Secretary Wheeler: former coal industry lobbyist. worked to undermine regulations which protect clean air and water.

Gardner voted to confirm the entire wealthy corrupt cabinet, proving himself to be a devoted foot soldier for the Trump agenda. Like Trump said in Colorado Springs: "He's been with us 100%."

Supreme Court vacancy

Dear Editor:

before the presidential election, Cory Gardner had this to say when President Obama nominated Merrick Garland to a Supreme Court vacancy: "[T]he next president of the United States should have the opportunity to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court. ... [T]he Senate should not hold confirmation hearings for a Supreme Court nominee until after that year's presidential election. Our next election is too soon and the stakes are too high; the American people deserve a role in this process."

42 days before the election, Gardner said that he plans to vote to confirm a "qualified nominee" to a vacancy on the Supreme Court created by the death of Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg. His flip-flop is a shameful and disgusting act of hypocrisy, but it is what we have come to expect from the Republicancontrolled Senate and party, who are no more than spineless shills for a corrupt president Trump, intent on no more than whatever it takes to keep themselves in power. Republican Senators Collins (ME) and Murkowski (AK) have already stated that the vacancy should not be filled before the election; Collins saying it should be filled by the winner of the election. At least they are showing more guts and morals than Gardner. Let's turn the

National Day of Prayer

Dear Editor:

I am hopeful and looking forward to the change taking place in our small community. There is no doubt we find ourselves uneased with the happenings in our nation and around the world. It seems so divided at times and outwardly we see it manifested as lives are taken with disease, virus, self defense, murder and suicide. How do we find peace? Where do we go to escape? Let me tell you, we're living in the safe place and many are coming here because they believe it true.

We've stayed safe because we've hunkered down. We've followed guidlines, we've worn our masks, we've been respectul of peoples space. We've grown as a community in giving and continueing to support business. We've had our season of rest with some worry and now we have to dig deep and manifest the faith that "Every little thing is gonna to be alright." I am overwhemed with the mercy of God. This Saturday September 26th is the Natioanal Day of Prayer in Washington DC and I am encouraging everyone to take the time to pray. It is a very important act of having unity even in our division.

and give forgiveness. Yom Kippur is upon us. The ten days we purpose in our heart to repent of our wrong doings, knowing full well, God is faithful to forgive. We begin the New Year with hope for our nation. A nation built on the laws of God, obviosly not always well practiced, but it is the foundation we now know is under attack. Let's take back what the enemy has stolen, let's lay down our burdens, let's surrender and know God.

Candidate forum

Dear Editor:

Please participate in a Zoom forum on October 8th featuring candidates running for the U.S. House Representatives for the 3rd District, hosted by the League of Women Voters (LWV) of La Plata County. The LWV is non-partisan; they do not support a particular candidate or party. They are dedicated to educating the public so that they can be informed voters.

The LWV invited both candidates to participate in the forum. Only Diane Mitsch Bush accepted the invitation; Lauren Boebert declined.

Having reviewed both candidates' websites to get a better understating of their positions, I was hoping that the forum would provide more details about their specific plans to address the following issues:

The pandemic has been more devastating and fatal to us because our government has gutted our social safety nets. We lack accurate tests that give us results in a timely manner; we have lost over 1,000 healthcare workers, primarily from a lack of PPEs. If elected, how would you begin to rectify those problems?

How would you balance environmental protections and minimize our recurring wildfire crisis?

The pandemic is worsening our housing situation, which is on the verge of a crisis. How would you

Bennet invites residents to schedule fall telephone listening sessions

Sen. Michael Bennet's office

Colorado U.S. Sen. Michael Bennet's Durango staff will be holding weekly telephone office hours this Bennet and his team are committed to answering Coloradans' questions, listening to their concerns, and helping them navigate federal agencies — including the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Internal Revenue Service, the Social Security Administration and more.

"There's no greater responsibility as Colorado's senator than being responsive to the needs of Coloradans across our state. I'm pleased to announce that — even in these challenging and virtual times — our office is holding telephone listening sessions this fall in every region of Colorado," said Bennet. "If you're having issues navigating a federal agency or receiving benefits, or have any questions, comments, or concerns, I encourage you to schedule time to talk with our team."

Through Nov. 5, Janet Wolf, Bennet's constituent advocate in Durango, will hold telephone office hours for Coloradans on Thursday mornings. Coloradans who live in Gunnison, Hinsdale, Archuleta, San Juan, Ouray, San Miguel, Montezuma, Dolores and La Plata counties are encouraged to schedule an appointment with Wolf by emailing: janet_wolf@ bennet.senate.gov or calling 259-1710. Constituents are welcome to call any of the Bennet offices at any time for assistance and do not need to wait for office hours to ask for help or share opinions.

Traditionally, Bennet's staff has held in-person listening sessions. Due to safety concerns amid the coronavirus disease 2019 (COV-ID-19) pandemic, the office will be holding 2020 office hours via phone.

For more information about navigating federal agencies, please visit the "How Can We Help" page on Bennet's website: www.bennet.senate.gov. For more information about Bennet's 2020 telephone listening sessions, visit www.bennet.senate. gov/listening-sessions.

'Vote Or Miss Out'

Dear Editor:

VOMO. Vote Or Miss Out. There is a local election for Board of County Commissioners (BoCC). Two of the three seats on the BoCC are up for election. District 1: Vacated by Wadley. Clifford Lucero, former 8 year Commissioner, versus Warren Brown versus Matt Witt. District 2: Ronnie Maez, incumbent running for second term as Commissioner, versus Natalie Carpenter.

Several tout experience. Others speak to new ideas, transparency and accountability. Look beyond party affiliation. Make an informed decision by looking at candidate websites and watch for the candidate interviews in The SUN. Ask yourself - who has an open mind, relevant skills and the ability to create solutions? Also, who's willing to put in the work by having office hours, engaging with community members and spending time at the job, not just at BoCC and other required meetings.

Those under 50 years old — today's decisions will affect your future in this county. Each voter can vote for one candidate in each district, regardless of the district you live in. Please research your candidates and vote.

Beliefs

Dear Editor:

Secularists insist that Christians keep their beliefs to themselves. This is arrogant, ignorant, and counterproductive. For our national ethos and our highest ideals are balanced upon these few words in our Declaration of Independence, "We are endowed by our Creator with certain inalienable rights..." In its historical context, "our Creator" is the God of the Bible; not any other philosophy or holy book. So, allowing Jesus back into the public arena to share his wisdom, is merely to acknowledge the underpinnings of who we are as a blessed, free people.

President Eisenhower said, "Without God, there could be no American form of Government. Or any American way of life. Recognition of the Supreme Being is the first, most basic, expression of Americanism. Thus, the Founding Fathers saw it, and thus, with God's help, it will continue to be."

As well, President John Adams warned, "Our Constitution was made for a moral [self control] and religious [respect for God] people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other."

Tellingly, after seventy-years of keeping God out of our schools and our national conversation, we find ourselves far along on the road to disunion.

Jesus told his enemies, "You are of your father the devil, and the evil desires of your father you do." The clear differences between the two major political factions tells the tale. Per America's history of the peaceful transfer of political power, if it's a fair fight without blatant corruption [the norm], a Biden win will result in the Right peacefully returning to their lives and families. But if Trump is re-elected the Left will attempt to burn America to the ground. [For proof, listen and read their own words in "Millie Weaver — Love Trump Hate Us" on U-Tube, and American Thinker, 9-20-20: "The Left Threatens Death, Destruction and Fire..."]

Which outcome is consistent with our founding principles, and which one displays the insanity of evil? Merely to look is to see, though many refuse to. Sadly, even some of my Christian friends.

Listen as Jesus speaks allegorically of good and evil. "A corrupt tree brings forth evil fruit...nor can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit ... and by their fruits you shall know them." Historically and currently the Left opposes God, they always have. Moving our nation's foundation from the blessings of liberty to the clinched Marxist fist, from 'We the People' to 'Power to the People,' will be our undoing as a free and prosperous nation.

AmeriCorps members to serve in local organizations

Serve Colorado

Serve Colorado, which administers Colorado's AmeriCorps State program, announced recently that the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS) awarded $6,671,711 in federal grants to place AmeriCorps members in Colorado.

In addition, Serve Colorado has released its request for proposals for organizations interested in applying for funding to host a 2021-2022 AmeriCorps program. The deadline for concept papers for new proposals is Oct. 1, 11:59 p.m. Organizations can apply at www.colorado.gov/ servecolorado.

"This year, Colorado will have a record number of AmeriCorps members. Now, more than ever, our families and communities need the support of AmeriCorps to provide critical tutoring support, food security, preschool readiness and so much more to Coloradans," said Lt. Gov. Dianne Primavera. "I am looking forward to learning about the impactful ways potential, new AmeriCorps programs propose serving Coloradans during the upcoming grant competition."

Over the next 15 months, Ameri-Corps members will serve with the following organizations:

• Colorado Youth Corps Association: Youth Corps for Colorado will place 451 members who will conduct disaster mitigation and relief; conserve and steward public lands; and conduct energy and water weatherization and retrofitting in low-income households across 48 counties in Colorado.

• La Puente Home Inc.: The Rural Alliance for Dignity program will place 39 members focused on meeting critical needs such as providing housing, emergency food assistance, nutrition education, and social, emotional, and academic support services. This program serves Alamosa, Archuleta, Chaffee, Conejos, Costilla, Dolores, Fremont, La Plata, Las Animas, Mineral, Montezuma, Park, Rio Grande, Saguache and San

• United Way of Southwest Colorado: Team Up AmeriCorps will place 15 members focused on the well-being of children from "cradle to career." Members will provide school readiness, social-emotional learning, youth and family engagement and housing services. This program serves Archuleta, Dolores, La Plata and Montezuma counties.

Organizations, local governments, and state entities interested in hosting an AmeriCorps program can access application instructions and additional resources at colorado. gov/servecolorado. Concept papers for new AmeriCorps programs are due to Serve Colorado on Oct. 1, AmeriCorps members under these grants who successfully complete their term of service receive a Segal Education Award. The education award can be used to pay education costs at qualified institutions of higher education, for educational training or to repay qualified student loans. While in service, members receive a modest living allowance, student loan deferment and professional development. Full-time members are also eligible for health insurance and child care.

This funding is provided by CNCS, the federal agency for volunteering, civic engagement and national service programs like AmeriCorps. For more than 25 years, over 1 million dedicated Americans have joined AmeriCorps and pledged to "get things done." This year, the 75,000 AmeriCorps members serving in schools, nonprofits, community and faith-based organizations will do the same as they rebuild communities, support veterans, fight the opioid epidemic, prepare students for success, foster economic opportunity and more. Those interested in serving can learn more at Ameri-Corps.gov/join.

Obituaries

Coit D. Valentine

Nov. 23, 1950-Sept. 17 Born in Chillicothe, Ohio, Coit was the fifth of eight children. Under the guidance of his father and grandfather, he learned to work with draft horses on 40 acres of logging land. Upon graduation from high school, he chose to proudly join the U.S. Navy upon the advice of his older brothers who had been drafted. Coit discharged from the Navy after the Vietnam War and settled in San Diego, where he served the United States Postal Service for

In the late 1990s, Coit brought horses back into his life by purchasing an Arabian mare with funds returned by the government for overpayment of child support. In 1998 after two random meetings and an exchange of phone numbers, Coit and Mary Jo found they shared a love of horses that eventually led to their marriage in 2001. On their second date, which was the Fourth of July, a pinto Arabian colt named Firecracker entered their life and they became a threesome. As their horse family grew with three horses (... a cow named Daisy ... and chickens), they found a need for land, so upon retirement they came to Pagosa Springs in 2005.

After Firecracker suffered a broken leg, Coit returned to San Diego and brought back Firecracker's pinto Arabian daughter, A-Patchy. Coit enjoyed training A-Patchy to be a mountain trail horse alongside his Arabian mare, Elegant.

Coit was seen by many riding Elegant, most notably carrying the U.S. flag during Fourth of July parades for the San Juan Back Country Horsemen, of which he was a founding member. His passions including anything to do with horses - riding trails, team roping and training. Coit loved all animals and dogs took a close second to his love of horses.

As a veteran, Coit was assisted by the Veterans for Veterans group and special friends like Rodney Pepper. Services provided by Visiting Angels and by Davita Dialysis in Durango, made his life more manageable in his later years during his lengthy fight with complications from diabetes. He is survived by his wife, Mary Jo, and their animal children.

A celebration of life will follow on Oct. 3 at 3 p.m. at the John Paul II Catholic Church, Knights of Columbus Outdoor Pavilion. Hood Mortuary is handling his final services. In lieu of flowers, donations in Coit's honor can be made to the Pagosa Springs Veterans for Veterans or the United Kidney Foundation.

Keely Lindsey Whittington

Keely was born in Florida and moved west after college in Georgia and Kentucky to begin a career with family in real estate and hospitality. Fluent in Spanish, she ran janitorial, maintenance and security teams at her properties in New Mexico before moving her focus to leasing of commercial and retail properties, including the revitalization of the Santa Fe Outlet Mall in 2007. She eventually moved to Pagosa Springs for several years to spearhead the design and construction of the first Gold LEEDcertified hotel building in Colorado at The Springs Resort and Spa. She retired from her companies and served a short stint with the Town of Pagosa Springs before she began a new career in marketing with Adworks followed by Splash Marketing. She brought creativity and customer service to all of her professional endeavors and made all she worked with feel special. A naturally generous person, she encouraged everyone to treat each other with kindness, bestowing small gifts to everyone in her life whenever she could. She freely gave of her time to many organizations including the Albuquerque Del Norte Rotary club and the Little Miracle International Adoption, while also volunteering at her children's schools. She loved her children and their menagerie of animals, from cats and dogs to lizards and guinea pigs. Dedicated to her children, she coached sports, enjoyed the sidelines and researched craft projects to continually pique their interests in life.

She is survived by her children: Cristobal Reyes, Jay Reyes and PalomaWhittington; her parents, Patricia Whittington, Bill and her stepmother TriciaWhittington; her brother, Scott and his wife, Jennifer, their children William, Reilly and Hudson; as well as her sister, Nerissa and her husband, James, their son, Bolden, but preceded in death by their son, John.

In lieu of flowers, the family is requesting donations in memoriam for one of the many charities she supported, including the Amniotic Fluid Embolism Foundation (afesupport.org)

Unemployment numbers down across the state

By Clayton Chaney Staff Writer

After a dramatic spike in unemployment cases being filed earlier this year as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, Colorado has seen a gradual decline in cases over recent months.

Although unemployment rates are declining as we move into the last quarter of the year, a press release from the state suggests numbers are still not exactly back to normal.

The press release states, "while Colorado's employment-to-population ratio continues to improve since April, when it was 58.3 percent, it is still well below the February level of 67.7 percent."

Unemployment rates for Archuleta County are following similar trends compared to the rest of the state.

The unemployment rate for Archuleta County decreased from 7.4 in July of this year to 6.5 percent in August, according to the press release from the Colorado Department of Labor and Employment (CDLE) on Sept.18.

The press release gives an update on the Colorado unemployment situation as of August based on county statistics, household surveys and business surveys.

From July of this year to August Colorado employees increased of this year, Archuleta County had a decrease in labor force from 7,147 to 7,009. Of the 7,009 reported for August of this year, 6,554 were reported as employed, meaning 455 people were reported as claiming unemployment.

For July of this year, 527 people were reported as unemployed in Archuleta County.

Last year, 209 people were listed as unemployed in Archuleta County for the month of August.

Gilpin County was reported to have the highest unemployment rate for August at 10.7 percent, down from 12 percent reported for July of this year. Huerfano County was reported to have a 9.4 percent unemployment rate for August.

Baca County was reported to have the lowest unemployment rate percentage for August of this year at 2 percent, which is up slightly from the August 2019 report of 1.7

Looking at the state as a whole, Colorado's unemployment percentage dropped from 7.4 percent in July of this year to 6.6 for August.

The state's labor force dropped from 3,105,010 to 3,100,236 from July to August of this year. However, the state's labor force participation rate was unchanged from July at 66.7 percent.

The average work week for all from 33.6 to 34.2 hours. Average hourly earnings also increased from $30.12 to $30.79, which is over a dollar more than the national average hourly earnings of $29.47.

A total of 10,400 government jobs were added in August, with some positions being attributed to the 2020 census.

As stated in the press release, "Since May, Colorado has gained back 178,500 of the 342,300 nonfarm payroll jobs lost between February and April," which translates to a job recovery rate of 52.1 percent, exceeding the U.S. rate of 47.9 percent.

The largest private-sector job losses were in leisure and hospitality, according to the press release.

Household survey data is used to estimate the total number of people unemployed.

Nonfarm payroll job estimates are based on a survey of business establishments and government agencies, with the intent to measure the number of jobs, not the number of people employed.

County-level unemployment rates are not seasonally adjusted, making them directly comparable to Colorado's August unadjusted unemployment rate of 6.6 percent.

For July of this year, 230,335 people in Colorado were claiming unemployment benefits. For August of this year, only 205,082 people were reported to be claiming unemployment.

According to another press release on Sept. 18 from the CDLE, the state has begun paying Lost Wage Assistance (LWA) benefits.

As stated in the press release, "Colorado has been awarded a total of $553 million in LWA funds covering the six-week period beginning July 26 and ending September 5."

The LWA program is a federally funded unemployment benefit program. As stated in the press release, the program will provide "Coloradans with an additional $300/week for up to six weeks."

According to the press release, "claimants will receive $300 per week for each of the six weeks they are eligible, for a maximum total additional benefit of $1,800."

Payments for the first three weeks will begin on Sept. 18 and the payments of the final three weeks of LWA will begin on Sept. 25, according to the press release.

Coloradans who were receiving regular unemployment benefits or other federal benefits, along with pandemic unemployment assistance are eligible for the LWA program, according to the press release.

As stated in the press release, "Since March 29, nearly $5 billion in state and federal unemployment benefits has been paid to approximately 714,000 Coloradans."

Last week to complete the 2020 census

By Mary Jo Coulehan Pagosa Springs Area Chamber of Commerce

It would have been a scary thought if the 2020 census ended at its regularly scheduled date of July 31. Due to activities surrounding the pandemic, the 2020 census count was extended until Sept. 30. This is the last week for you to get counted in Archuleta County and to help our community. As of the writing of this article, the Archuleta County self-response rate was 42.3 percent. This figure is still under the 2010 response rate of 42.7 percent and well under the current state response rate of 69.3 percent.

The census is safe, secure and is critically important to funding that comes to our community. For example, the CARES funding that has come to our community is based on population. If we underreport, then less money is extended to our community which in turn helps our businesses and nonprofit organizations. Less money for school lunch programs, less money for nonprofit assistance for mental health and seniors, less money for benefit programs such as Medicaid, SNAP and CHIP. Don't forget our roads — less money for highway planning and repairs. These are programs that affect all of us. Wouldn't you want to help bring money into our community to assist with the projects that keeps us healthy and functioning? I hear people say the census isn't safe and data could be compromised. The data is kept within the Census Bureau and used only to produce statistics. All federal, state and local governmental agencies cannot access individual responses. The information cannot be used by the government in any legal proceedings or released through a court order. The citizenship question is not on the survey. The census will take about 10 minutes to complete. It will ask how many in your household. This number should include people (children, too) who usually live in your household. If you are a renter that rents out a room in a house, the owner should be established as "Person 1" and everyone else living there would be considered part of the household. Don't forget the children and seniors that live with you — count them.

If you need assistance filling out the census, contact the Chamber of Commerce and we will work with the regional census organization to have an enumerator come to your house to assist you. You can also go to the library to access a computer. While the staff there cannot assist you in completing the census, they can get you to the website where ■ See Census A10

- Stable or declining COVID-19 hospitalizations
 - Fewer new cases

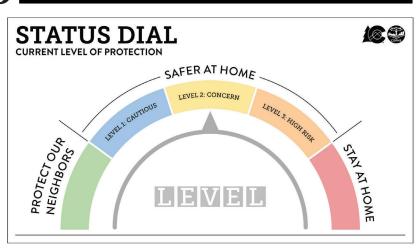

The remaining four criteria are marked as "Warning / Metric in Progress" for Archuleta County:

- Sufficient testing capacity • Ability to implement case in-
- vestigation and contact tracing protocol • Documented surge-capacity
- plan for case investigation and contact tracing • Documented strategies to offer
- testing to close contacts

The status dial for Archuleta County is available on SJBPH's dashboard at https://sjbpublichealth.org/Protect-Our-Neigh-

"Getting to the Protect Our Neighbors phase is truly a community-wide effort and relies on everyone - our hospitals, healthcare partners, businesses, and local community members to ensure that we are taking the right steps and controlling the spread of CO-VID-19, so that we can safely move towards fewer restrictions," said Liane Jollon, SJBPH executive director, in a press release announcing SJBPH's dial dashboard. "Our goal has always been to emphasize that economic recovery requires control of the public health crisis. We are well on our way to achieving that goal, but we must remain vigilant in maintaining good public health practices to ensure that we continue to keep public health metrics favorable as we proceed with further reopening."

Cases increase

across state

During his Tuesday press conference, Gov. Jared Polis acknowledged that cases are trending upward across the state, primarily among those 18-25 years of age.

"Our health officials are concerned about the recent increase in virus transmission across our state. The increase is most pronounced in 18-25 year olds, who have a much lower hospitalization rate, but sadly the rate is also increasing in Coloradans of all ages and we need to turn that around," he said. "As a state, our success is measured by our collective efforts to support and protect each other. We all must do a better job of wearing face masks, avoiding large crowds, and physically distancing ourselves."

Regional case counts

As of noon Wednesday, La Plata County was listed as having 266 total cases with 152 recovered. As of 4 p.m. Tuesday, Conejos County is listed as having 31, Rio Grande is listed at 95, Mineral had 20 total and Hinsdale County still rests at three.

Neighboring and near Archuleta County to the south, Rio Arriba County lists 386 total cases and San Juan County, N.M., has had 3,276 total cases.

The Jicarilla Apache Nation, which largely falls within Rio Arriba County, had 257 total cases as of the morning of Sept. 22, with 243 recovered.

Safer at Home, other orders extended

Polis also recently amended and extended the Safer at Home executive order, which includes the last call order for bars and restaurants to stop serving alcohol at a certain time.

Under the order, the last call time is dependent upon what level a county is in, according to the dial. Last call is midnight in Level 1, 11 p.m. in Level 2 and 10 p.m. in Counties in Protect Our Neighbors may opt out and establish a local last call time as long as it does not exceed 2 a.m.

Polis also extended an executive order allowing voluntary or elective surgeries and procedures to proceed under certain conditions. randi@pagosasun.com able to supply and one of the big reasons is the pandemic," said Jim Eckhardt, general manager at Ponderosa Lumber. "A lot of people were home looking for something to do and that has caused a pretty big increase in demand, and when that happens, the mills are pretty much in charge. They have order files that are up to a couple months ahead, and when you combine that with some fires in Oregon, California ... It's kind of a perfect storm in the lumber industry where all this is happening and they can't supply it quick enough."

Eckhardt said that these combined factors are "very much something that will kill the golden goose."

"This area and the whole country has been doing pretty well in the building industry, but this definitely effects people that are thinking about building," he said.

Rocky Day, manager at Day Lumber, explained in an interview Monday that some sizes of 2 inch by 6 inch lumber have seen price increases of about 150 percent, and commented on why he thought people were moving to the Pagosa Springs area and building new houses.

"I think there's a lot of people moving out of the cities, moving into our area and they're trying to get out of the big cities with all the population," Day said. "So, they're trying to move to places where the population is a lot less."

August relayed a story that he'd heard from at least one local contractor, where they had a contract for a job, then the building prices increased, and the contractor actually lost money on the project due to the high cost of building materials that wasn't anticipated in the already-signed contract.

He explained that he read a couple of weeks ago that just for the building materials, new home construction costs have increased about $30,000 since the pandemic began.

August said that "the weirdest things" haven't been readily available in the last few months, including interior plywood and an 8-foot closet rod, and that prices for oriental strand board, or OSB, have especially gone up.

Mystery.

On Aug. 13, an abandoned vehicle with New Mexico license plates was found buried in logs and debris near the West Fork Trail on the west side of Wolf Creek Pass.

The Mineral County Sheriff's Department suspects the logs were stacked on the car with a piece of heavy equipment, which Mineral County Sheriff Fred Hosselkus explained in an interview Tuesday.

"There was a lot of big stuff that you know, if someone did with a shovel, it took 'em a long time ... We didn't find any tracks or anything, but it was just so well done with stacking the logs around it and filling it up."

Law enforcement determined Baldonado, of Albuquerque, N.M., who hasn't been seen by his family in about two years.

"Early on in the pandemic, we had presumed a much more dire situation for our sales tax receipts and that has not borne out, thankfully," Phillips said.

In adjusting projections for the town's sales tax revenue scenarios that were originally presented to town council by town staff in March and April of this year, Phillips explained that the new projection outlines a 10 percent reduction for the remaining months of the year in sales tax revenue.

According to Phillips this scenario, entitled Scenario H, projects that the town's total sales tax revenue for the year would be $3,043,560 in each fund, which would be 4.6 percent above the sales tax revenue budget for the

"We do feel that based on numerous factors within the community, we feel that we're actually going to end the year stronger than that," Phillips said. "We are going to project in our annual budget for a year-end of $3,250,500. We will continue to monitor that over the coming months, but we are pleased to see that our sales tax, thankfully, has been much stronger than we anticipated."

In an email sent to The SUN on Monday, Phillips explained that, based on actual sales tax figures for March through July that were above budget, the town is 16.9 percent above its adopted revenue budget. "If we look at actuals through July and then assume that each month hereafter will be at least what we budgeted, it would be $3,174,421 in each fund," Phillips wrote, noting that based on actuals for lodging tax and visitation numbers, that is where the belief is that sales tax revenues will be higher than Scenario H projects. According to Phillips, the projected number of $3,250,500 could change again by the time council adopts its final budget for next year.

Medical Center asks county for funds for rapid COVID-19 tests

By John Finefrock Staff Writer

At the county commissioners' work session on Tuesday, Pagosa Springs Medical Center CEO Dr. Rhonda Webb discussed a possible funding partnership that would secure rapid COVID-19 tests for Archuleta County.

"It is our understanding that for Archuleta County to apply and move forward to Protect Your Neighbor, the County must be able to provide at least 17 tests per day / 7 days a week. Adding 17 tests/day for 365 days is an additional 6,188 tests," an email from PSMC staff to the county commissioners reads, which was handed out at the meeting.

Protect Our Neighbors is the less restrictive phase of the state health department's five levels surrounding COVID-19 restrictions for local municipalities.

The email notes that an additional 6,188 tests would cost about $253,000.

"PSMC already has Abbott machines capable of providing rapid PCR [polymerase chain reaction] testing for COVID. Test kits for these machines are $41.00 each. 6,188 additional test kits at $41.00 each would total $253,708..."

In a phone call Wednesday, Webb outlined how PSMC does not currently have any rapid COVID tests.

"We don't have any rapid tests right now," she said. "The rapid test is the one we're trying to get that gets results in about 15 minutes."

The county commissioners are expected to consider funding for PSMC for rapid COVID testing in the upcoming weeks.

County COVID money

In recent months, Archuleta County was awarded about $1.2 million dollars to combat the CO-VID-19 pandemic, which it split with the Town of Pagosa Springs.

So far, the county commissioners have allocated money for local projects, which include giving money to the school district for remote learning equipment and improved wireless Internet access at local schools.

One request for COVID funds that has not yet been decided on by the county commissioners is a request from San Juan Basin Public Health (SJBPH) for about $150,000 to help that organization fight the pandemic.

Commissioner Ron Maez told The SUN over the last few weeks that the county is waiting for other proposals to come through, and was questioned about why they hadn't paid SJBPH at their meeting on Sept. 15 by local resident Lisa Jensen.

"I'm really concerned that you're not meeting your obligation," Jensen said during public comment at the meeting. "La Plata County, as you know, already ponied up the money. They did that right away without question."

SJBPH is the health department for both La Plata and Archuleta

counties

Jensen told the commissioners she was watching the public meeting via Zoom between the La Plata and Archuleta County commissioners, and SJBPH where SJBPH asked Archuleta County for the money.

"At that time you said you needed more information from the health department, and they provided that information and you said you had to do more research to make sure you could use the money for that," she said. "I believe that you can. I think you should know that — you should've been able to figure that out by now ... I don't understand why — what's the holdup here with not giving the funding that they've asked for?"

"I can understand one thing Lisa—is that you don't know what you don't know," Maez said. "But we have it in mind, and we have that money set aside... We want to make sure all our local entities have the first bite at that, before we disperse it all out. The other part is we've jointly kinda asked the town to help us with that too, on their half of the COVID money, but I know you don't know this because this isn't public yet, but it's in the works."

"I don't know it, because we only know what you tell us and what the media reports and what you tell them," Jensen said. "And we don't see anything about this intention."

On Sept. 15, Town Manager Andrea Phillips answered an email from The SUN inquiring if the costs would be split between the town and county.

"I would need to bring this to Council for approval as it was not in the list of possible expenditures when I presented to them in August," she wrote, adding, "I feel that assisting SJBPH in contact tracing, data collection and disease monitoring related to COVID is important and a good way of using the CVRF [Coronavirus Relief Fund funds if the county doesn't have enough to cover their request. But I don't make those decisions-I would need to have Council weigh in. I have not shared this idea with SJBPH, only talked with one of the commissioners about this briefly."

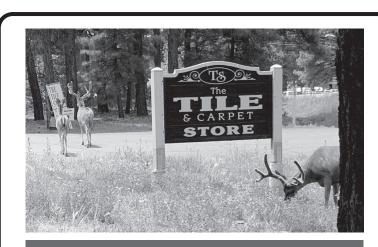

Jensen continued to press the commissioners at the Sept. 15

"In the midst of a pandemic, this is not a time to be playing a silly game and not funding what is just our fair share," she said, adding, "I really don't understand what the holdup is. You have the information, you have the money, you have the obligation. What you don't have is, you don't have the right to jeopardize the health of Archuleta County residents because you're playing some game."

Maez said the county was "in the process of allocating the funds."

"That may be set up for the next meeting, depends if everybody's got all their requests in before that," Maez said.

Council approves first reading of ordinance regarding marijuana businesses

By Chris Mannara

Staff Writer

On Sept. 17, the Pagosa Springs Town Council approved an ordinance on first reading pertaining to changes in the town's municipal code regarding marijuana business establishments.

According to agenda documentation, the change to the code includes state changes as well as the inclusion of a retail marijuana products manufacturer license type.

"The most recent laws have repealed the Colorado medical marijuana code and the Colorado retail marijuana code and recodified them as just the Colorado marijuana code and put them into a completely different Colorado Revised Statue section altogether combining both the medical and retail code language into a single code," Town Attorney Clay Buchner said. "Instead of trying to put red lines through 80 to 90 percent of another code, I decided it would be more efficient to rewrite it. The jury is still out, but we do have a new marijuana code."

This rewrite was done from direction from town staff and included another request to include marijuana infused products as a possible license within the town, Buchner noted.

"Keep in mind, marijuana infused products, since the town council made that decision to go forward with that option, is no longer a thing. There's no such thing anymore, according to the code, as a marijuanainfused product," Buchner added. "The marijuana infused products turn into marijuana products manufacturer licenses, so we have a medical and a retail involved there."

Council member Shari Pierce raised a question on license transfers and whether or not they are allowed within the proposed amendment.

"I want to make sure that if a person who has a marijuana business and has a license for it and they decide to sell that business that they are able to transfer that license to the new owner," she said. "We only allow a certain number of licenses within the town and having that license is part of the value of having their business."

Buchner noted that licenses are nontransferable except for when it is in accordance with the regulations.

"The reason that they say that is because the license's specific to, and this is by statute, the license's specific to the owner, the location and the type of license that it is. You can transfer a license, but you have to do it within the ordinance," he said.

When the town decided to allow six marijuana businesses, it decided to allow three on the west side of town and three on the east side of town, but Mayor Don Volger noted that he did not consider the possibility that there would be three in close proximity on the east end of town.

This has caused concern because of a variety of things, including traffic concerns, from other businesses in the same locations, Volger added.

"I know that other municipalities will have a distancing requirement and I would think that we couldn't go ahead and put these other businesses that are already operating out of business because they are too close to another marijuana business, but it's something I would like to see discussed and considered," he said. "It was an unintended consequence when we divided it up."

Council member Mat deGraaf added that he would use caution when "attempting to interfere with the free market."

Ordinance 943 that pertains to code revisions to marijuana business establishments was approved unanimously on first reading by town council.

Outdoor business ordinance addressed by town council

By Chris Mannara

Staff Writer

An ordinance that proposes to amend the Town of Pagosa Springs' Land Use and Development Code (LUDC) regarding outdoor commercial establishments (OCEs) was approved on first reading by the Pagosa Springs Town Council at a regular meeting on Sept. 17.

This item was previously introduced and discussed by the Pagosa Springs Planning Commission at a regular meeting on Aug. 25.

During that meeting, Planning Director James Dickhoff noted that the current temporary use permit regulations allow a temporary business, defined as someone who is operating out of a nonpermanent structure, six calendar months per

During that meeting, various scenarios were presented to the planning commission about changes to the LUDC regarding OCEs.

The first scenario presented by Dickhoff were seasonal OCEs, which would allow these types of businesses to operate for up to nine months per calendar year at locations that are identified in an approved OCE permit.

Another scenario, entitled the event OCE, outlines that businesses with event OCE licenses will be able to operate within the boundaries of a permitted special event during the duration of the event with the permission from the event coordinator.

According to Dickhoff, those businesses would not need an OCE permit because they are permitted through the special event permit and are under the purview event coordinator for that event.

The final scenario was yearround OCEs, which would allow vendors with this type of license to operate year-round at approved locations that accommodate yearround operation, according to agenda documentation.

In regard to a fee structure, Dickhoff proposed a one-time $35 application fee for seasonal and yearround OCEs, adding that if an OCE wanted to operate at another location, it would need to pay another application fee.

"We started this process back in 2019, actually, looking at amending our current code provisions for temporary use permits," Dickhoff said during the town council meeting on Sept. 17.

According to Dickhoff, the proposed LUDC amendment is "fairly extensive."

Later in the meeting, council member Matt DeGuise raised a question on whether or not there would be a situation where a town business license would not be required for these OCEs.

"Typically not. If you're conducting business in any manner within the town boundaries, you are required to get a town business license," Dickhoff responded.

Ordinance 941 amending Chapter 21 of the Pagosa Springs Municipal Code regarding outdoor commercial establishments was approved unanimously on first reading by town council.

Leaf peeping on three southern Colorado byways

Colorado Department of Transportation

Three scenic byways in southern Colorado have joined forces to feature a road trip that offers an infusion of fall colors, wide open spaces and some very quirky stops along the way.

In this region of Colorado, the traffic is light, homemade pies are plentiful and local establishments are mostly one of a kind. The spectacular geological backdrop is shaped by the Spanish Peaks, the Sangre de Cristo and San Juan Antiguos Scenic and Historic By-Mountain ranges.

Trinidad and Walsenburg are gateways to the 82-mile Scenic Highway of Legends that boasts world-class geological features including a system of radial dikes unique in North America, the K-Pg Boundary (that marks the extinction of the dinosaurs) and the Dakota Sandstone Wall.

Fort Garland, Antonito, San Luis, Mosca and Alamosa are gateways to the 129-mile Los Caminos way that reaches from Alamosa to the Great Sand Dunes National Park through the culturally rich San Luis Valley. Here, travelers can tour Spanish mission churches or ride the historic Cumbres and Toltec Scenic Railroad.

Lake City and South Fork are gateways to the 117-mile Silver Thread Scenic and Historic Byway. Windy Point, located just east of Lake City, boasts superb views of five 14ers framed by unending miles of goldenrod aspens. The North Clear Creek Falls is photographed more than any other waterfall in Colorado. This high-elevation byway has self-guided walking tours in Lake City and Creede, both historic silver mining towns. The Bachelor Loop Tour outside Creede connects visitors with ghost towns and an underground mining museum.

National Public Lands Day forest-wide cleanup Saturday

By Lorena Williams

San Juan National Forest

The San Juan National Forest is coordinating a forest-wide cleanup for National Public Lands Day on Saturday, Sept. 26.

2020 has been a banner year for our public lands, with increased interest in the outdoors bringing higher visitation and an unfortunate side effect: trash.

San Juan National Forest partner organizations will be hosting cleanup efforts across the forest to remove trash left behind at trailheads, along streams and on high-use trails.

Participating partners and their cleanup efforts can be found on the National Environmental Education Foundation (NEEF) Event Search page at https://www.neefusa.org/ npld-event-search.

The San Juan National Forest encourages the public to get involved with their public lands by connecting with our partners. Individuals who would like to perform a dispersed cleanup effort (on their own or with family or friends) are encouraged to do so. Please register your "virtual" effort on the Individuals in Action event on the NEEF website.

The San Juan National Forest would like to recognize our local communities who have responded to the influx of visitors with fresh enthusiasm for Leave No Trace ethics and a willingness to pitch in and help clean up for those who haven't yet learned Leave No Trace principles.

For information on how to get involved with National Public Lands Day, contact Partnership Coordinator Lorena Williams at 422-2939 or by email at lorena.williams@usda.gov.

Levels continue to drop in most lakes

By Clayton Chaney Staff Writer

According to a press release from the Pagosa Area Water and Sanitation District released on Sept. 21 by District Manager Justin Ramsey, all five local lakes are still down in terms of water levels.

Forest Lake was the only one to see a rise in water level, going from 93.94 percent full last week to 95.45 percent full this week, or 6 inches from full.

Lake Hatcher experienced the biggest drop. The water level dropped another 3 inches from last week, bringing water levels down to 46 inches from full, or 85.5 percent full.

Stevens Lake dropped another inch from last week, bringing the water level down to 44 inches from full, or 86.9 percent full.

Lake Pagosa is down another inch from last week, bringing the water level down to 6 inches from full, or 97.83 percent full.

Village Lake dropped 2 inches from last week's report, bringing the water level down to 16 inches from full, or 92.59 percent full.

Water production for Sept. 11-Sept. 17 is down from last week's report for Sept. 4 through Sept. 10. Total water production was listed at 13.75 million gallons for Sept. 11 through Sept. 17. Last year, the reported total water production for those dates was at 15.09 million gallons.

Diversion flows remained at a total of 4.3 cubic feet per second (cfs), with the West Fork diversion contributing 3 cfs and the San Juan diversion contributing 1.3 cfs.

River report

According to the U.S. Geological Survey, on the morning of Sept. 23, the San Juan River was flowing at 38.8 cfs, not even half of the average rate of 175 cfs for this date.

Based on 84 years of water records, the lowest recorded water flow for this date was 11 cfs in 1953. The highest recorded water flow was 1,480 cfs in 2013.

Taylor Cotts earns state spot, Pirates take fifth at regionals where the team finished second.

By Randi Pierce Staff Writer

Pagosa Springs High School senior Taylor Cotts shot eagle on his final hole at Tuesday's regional tournament at Hollydot Golf Course, finishing off the best round of golf in his high school career and earning himself a spot at the state tournament in October.

Cotts finished the tournament with a 73, two over par.

"It's the first time he's ever broken 80, and to 73 and end up ... third ... it was really good to see," said coach Mark Faber. "It was something I expected would happen a little sooner, but, hey, perfect timing. He played really well."

Cotts was one of four Pirates competing at the regional tournament at Hollydot Golf Course Tuesday, with the Pirates coming in fifth overall out of 16 teams.

The regional tournament the team's second go-round at Hollydot over the week, with the team tional at the same site on Sept. 17.

At that tournament, the Pirates ended up second out of about 20 teams, Faber noted, calling it an "awesome day."

At the Rye Invitational, Cotts finished eighth overall with an 80, while Dylan Manzanares tied for 10th with an 83, Braylon Cotts tied for 14th with an 86 and Ethan Robel tied for 16th with an 88.

"Taylor tied his tournament best ever, and all three of the other ones had their very best tournament rounds," Faber said, adding, "They played as well as they could play, felt like they were really peaking at the right time, and everybody just played really, really well."

Faber indicated it was tough to see the team turnaround and not fare as well on the same course

Faber pointed out that each had couple of rough holes, pointing out that happens sometimes. Robel took 25th at the regional taking second at the Rye Invita- tournament with a 90, Manzanares finished tied for 32nd with a 94, and Braylon Cotts followed with a 95 to tie for 34th.

> "I'm proud of all of them. ... They all stayed after it, they all played hard. They weren't any of them very far off, just a few shots here and there," Faber said.

> Taylor Cotts will now set his sight on the state tournament, which will be held Oct. 5 and 6 at Dos Rios in Gunnison.

> Whether or not the season is over for the team remains to be seen, Faber indicated, with talks ongoing concerning an Intermountain League tournament.

> "The one thing we do know is that Taylor had a great day, he gets to go to state. The other kids were, a lot of them came a long way this year just to get to where they got to, and I wished they'd have had a little better day. They didn't, but they need to hold their heads up they had a great year," Faber said. randi@pagosasun.com

Fall football returning to PSHS

By Randi Pierce

Staff Writer

Pagosa Springs High School (PSHS) will have fall football and sideline cheer this year, with practices allowed to begin today, Sept.

The local decision followed a string of guidance and decisions throughout the state.

On Sept. 16, the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment (CDPHE) released guidance for organized sports ranging from youth leagues to adult amateur leagues. The guidance includes information for each phase of the state's new dial framework that was released the previous day and addresses key topics like facility considerations, spectators, as well as tournaments, transportation, and travel.

Then, after previously voting to not amend its schedule that had football being played only in the spring, during Season C, the Colorado High School Activities Association (CHSAA) Board of Directors voted 12-3 the evening of Sept. 16 to allow for additional outdoor sports in the fall: field hockey, football and sideline spirit.

The state approved playing the sports in season A with increased roster sizes for any county that is in

Protect Our Neighbors, Level 1 and Level 2, which a press release notes currently includes every county in the state, pending they follow all of the required guidelines.

Archuleta County is in Level 2. Per the same press release from the state, the state is also requiring that:

- "All participants, including athletes, coaches, match officials, staff, and others, must wear masks while not actively playing or per-
- All participants, including those listed above, must be 6 feet apart from non-household members on the sidelines or while not in active play. • All participants must stay in
- their designated areas off the field of play, and may not go into specta-• All participants must wear
- masks and observe social distancing during transportation. Roster limitations established
- by CHSAA must not be exceeded. "Cheer/Dance participants must follow the requirements laid out in other guidelines for performers and be at least 25 feet away from spectators and players
- at all times.' • "Athletic teams will be required to report and respond to cases and outbreaks under the same guidelines as schools.'

CHSAA explained in a press release that schools will continue to have the option to play these sports in Season C, as previously upheld by its board of directors, if they elect not to play during Season A. The seasons will be treated equitably. Schools may not play in both seasons.

"A major factor in the Board's decision was the approval of the variances, and the COVID Response Team's approval that these sports could move forward in a safe manner, with all the recommended guidelines," the press release notes.

Specifically, CHSAA's press release states, these variances allow for 50 players, per sideline, to be on the field during a football game. Spirit roster size is based upon CHSAA classification maximums.

"Requested variances for the remaining fall sports — gymnastics, boys soccer, spirit, girls volleyball, and unified bowling — remain under consideration by the COVID Response Team," the release states.

CHSAA reported Tuesday that 78.99 percent of schools are opting to play in Season A, including 68.42 (26 teams) percent of 2A teams like PSHS. The remaining 12 2A teams will play in Season C.

The Pagosa Springs High School (PSHS) Pirate cross-country teams previewed the regional course at last week's 4-Corners Cross Country Classic in Durango on Sept.18, and learned some valuable information to keep in mind.

"It looks like it's a really fast course," coach Rachael Christiansen said, noting that the teams found the course was spongier and not as quick as they had estimated.

Despite the slower speeds, the Lady Pirates finished fourth out of the six teams at the meet, which featured teams from multiple classifications. The Pirates finished third out of nine teams.

The Lady Pirates finished behind 4A Durango, Alamosa and Centauri.

Michelle Sauceda was the first Lady Pirate across the line, with Sauceda finishing ninth with a time of 22 minutes, 47 seconds.

"Michelle came back ... as our leading runner and I think she had a strong race," Christiansen said.

Sierra Liverett followed with a time of 23:39 to finish 12th of the 43 runners, and Megan Greenly followed with a time of 23:34 to finish

"Sierra finishing second on our team was huge," Christian said, adding the team "definitely" needs her in that front group to move on after regionals.

Ivory Carpenter finished 23rd in 25:14, and was followed closely by Nell Taylor, who finished 24th in Christian noted that Taylor dealt with bus sickness during the meet, but that she ran the best race she could and was able to bring Carpenter along with her, which was "ideal" for Carpenter.

RuthAnn Morehouse finished 32nd in 26:46 — about 30 seconds off her personal record (PR), the coach noted.

The boys' squad finished third, behind Durango and Alamosa.

I think the boys, I think they raced really well. We decided to take ... a couple of risks," Christiansen explained, noting the team met its goal of placing third.

The Pirates were led on the day by Gabe Heraty, who finished sixth with a time of 17:24.

Christiansen explained that Heraty's goal is to break 17 minutes and, after talking with the coach, opted to go for that goal at the Durango meet.

He was in fourth for about the first two miles, the coach explained, but dropped off in the last mile.

She added she was impressed with how long he ran with the race's lead runners.

"Overall, I'm really happy with what he did," she said.

Andrew Bowles also set out with a goal — to finish in less than 20 minutes - and ended 19th with a time of 20:18.

Christiansen highlighted Bowles' significant improvement from the prior week and noted that the race was the first time he's finished second on the team.

David Morehouse followed in 22nd with a time of 20:48, Levi Hinger finished 23rd in 20:57 and Sawyer Blakemore finished 24th in 21 minutes flat.

"They kind of ran in a pack together. They actually all finished really close to each other," the coach said, noting that it was Blakemore's first varsity race and he set a PR.

This week, the Pirates will host their final regular-season meet, set to take place atop Reservoir Hill Friday and include 10 teams.

Athletic Director Marcie Ham explained that, due to COVID restrictions on the size of gatherings, PSHS is highly encouraging that there be only two spectators per athlete.

All spectators, she added, must wear masks and social distance between households.

Christiansen added that spectators are discouraged from gathering around the finish line, mingling with the athletes, and should not enter the athlete area.

The Pirates' home course, Christiansen explained, is rugged, and both teams hope to have a strong showing at a competitive meet.

In a change, the meet will also serve as the Intermountain League meet, which will determine league standings and all-conference hon-

Fall football at PSHS

Archuleta School District Superintendent Dr. Kym LeBlanc-Esparza announced in a Sept. 18 letter that PSHS would take part in Season A football and sideline cheer.

The letter begins by explaining CHSAA's process of working with the state and considering the matter before stating, "While as a district we are disappointed that they would only select a few of our fall sports if they were going to grant an exception, we respect the authority of CHSAA to make this decision.'

The superintendent's letter then explains, "Once we received the definitive word from CHSAA with all the required conditions, we began consulting with our local health authority, San Juan Basin Public Health. Their team has provided guidance for districts in their region, taking into consideration our local data and metrics. We also have met as a leadership team to consider our current conditions and what would have to be done in order to allow students to play, while ensuring student athlete safety as well as ensuring overall school safety.

"In the end, given the collective decision making around our league and considering our community's COVID numbers, we feel that it is in our high school student athletes' best interest to provide them the opportunity to play football this fall season. If we choose to wait until the spring semester, it would likely result in playing many teams outside of our geographical area with extensive travel demands."

The letter later notes, "we have also reached a unanimous decision among middle schools in our area that it is best to wait until the defined spring season for middle schools to engage in football. We simply believe that the priority is returning to in-person instruction full time first."

between seasons, CHSAA also realigned leagues for the 2020 fall season. The Pirates, per CHSAA's website, will be in the Southwest League along with Alamosa, Bayfield, La Junta, Lamar and Manitou CHSAA released the fall football schedules Tuesday.

With the new alignment and the six-game regular season, Pagosa Springs will face one nonleague opponent before taking on a series of league games.

In week one, which is slated to be Oct. 8-10, Pagosa will be on the road to face Middle Park.

In week two, Pagosa will host

In week three, Pagosa will travel to play Bayfield.

In week four, Pagosa will host Lamar. In week five, the Pirates will host

La Junta. In week six, Pagosa will travel to play Manitou Springs. PSHS Athletic Director Marcie

Due to the splitting of football Ham explained Tuesday that, to stay within state guidelines and after working with San Juan Basin Public Health to determine how the limit on people allowed under Level 2 would be calculated, PSHS will allow two spectator ticket opportunities for each player, cheerleader and coach.

The remaining available spaces (the state's Safer at Home order allows for up to 175 people), she explained, will be used for visiting school administration, Archuleta School District administration, media and other such uses.

No visiting team spectators are allowed at this time, she explained. All spectators and personnel must wear masks at all times, she added.

Ham noted that PSHS installed NFHS Network cameras on the field and the games will be broadcast through the NFHS Network, with PSHS expecting to release information on how to purchase a PSHS package in the upcoming weeks.

Youth basketball and pee-wee soccer registration underway

By Darren Lewis SUN Columnist

The Recreation Department is currently accepting registrations through Oct. 9 for youth basketball ages 7-8.

The cost is $25 per player. There will only be 32 spots available. This season will start in November.

COVID-19 restrictions will only allow one spectator per player at the game. Masks are required for each spectator.

There will be a live Facebook feed for each game via the Pagosa Springs Parks and Recreation Facebook page for fans to watch the game.

Please call the Recreation Department with any questions, 264-4151, ext. 232 or 233.

Pee-wee soccer registration ages 3-4

The Recreation Department is excited to offer Pee Wee Soccer for ages 3-4.

Registration is currently being accepted at the recreation office through Sept. 30. Spots are limited. The season will be held in the month of October on Tuesday and Thursday evenings starting Oct. 13. The cost is $25 per participant, which will include a uniform jersey.

Please feel free to contact the recreation office with any questions, 264-4151, ext. 232.

Local law enforcement is searching for Thornton, Colo., resident Robert W. Woodward, whose phone last pinged near the River Center in Pagosa Springs on Friday. According to Pagosa Springs Police Detective Boyd Neagle, Woodward was driving a forest green 1999 Mustang soft-top convertible. Woodward's family describes him as 66 years old, 5 foot 7 inches tall and approximately 130 pounds. They explained he had gone fishing in the South Fork and Pagosa Springs area. If you have information regarding Woodward, please contact Neagle at 264-4151, ext.

In place of races, the league came up with a series of challenges for teams to participate in throughout the season for a little bit of fun competition.

The first challenge took place on Aug. 31 and the results were released last weekend. Each team had to create a .25-mile short course that included a climb, a descent, a slalom, a tight turn and a straightaway. Each student had to make four laps to complete a mile and then their time was submitted to the league.

In the JV boys category, Sawyer Blakemore completed the short course in 4 minutes, 51 seconds and placed 25th in the Crystal Division of the South Conference. Davis Parker completed the course in 4:49, placing him in 24th.

In the sophomore boys category, Carter Kasson completed the course in 4:29 and finished in 13th place. Kasson is motivated this season, despite not having official races, and is already preparing himself for the race season next year. Ethan Bergdolt completed the course in 4:42 and placed 17th. Bergdolt and Kasson will definitely be pushing each other next year at the races. Tucker Mashue completed the course in 5:21 and finished

Coach Janine Emmets commented, "These boys have the potential to get on the podium next year and it's inspiring to see them stay motivated this year, despite not having races to compete in."

In the freshman girls category, Hadley Phillips completed the course in 6:08 and placed 10th. Natalie Mashue completed the course in 7:03 and placed 16th.

Emmets said, "It's great to see Natalie inspired to participate in the challenges this year. She sustained a pretty serious injury from a mountain bike crash last year, and she is showing grit and courage by getting back on her bike and riding again. We're glad to have her on the team this year."

In the freshman boys category, Bradley Lamoreaux completed the course in 4:55 and placed 22nd. Jack Hittle completed the course in 5:59 and placed 39th.

Pagosa Springs as a team placed fourth in Division 3 with 1,998 points.

Emmets said, "It's exciting to see how well we are doing as a team, even though the results are all just for fun this year. Our team has grown significantly this year and we can't wait to see our new freshman race next year."

LIBRARY NEWS

Last chance to participate in census and Archuleta County needs your help

By Carole Howard

SUN Columnist, and the library staff

Have you completed your census questionnaire? The deadline has been moved forward to Sept. 30, so you don't have much time.

There's a lot at stake for our community if we do not participate as much as we should. Our response rate directly affects the number of representatives we have in Congress. It determines if we get our fair share of the $675 billion in federal funding for the next 10 years — and our share of state funds — for local and regional agencies and projects like health clinics, fire departments, schools, Medicaid, assistance for American Indians, ESL and adult education programs, housing assistance, even roads and highways.

The current self-response rate of Archuleta County households is only 42.3 percent, compared to 69.3 percent for the state of Colorado and the national rate of 66 percent. This self-response rate is a reflection of households that completed the census online, by phone or by mail.

Before Sept. 30, Census Bureau enumerators will try to visit households of nonrespondents to ensure everyone is counted. The efforts of census enumerators combined with an area's self-responses give us the total number of households counted so far for that area. A lot of work remains for census enumerators in our community. The best way to help them is to answer the door if you hear them knocking and respond right now to the census if you have not already done so.

Our county needs your participation to get our fair share of these government dollars. If you have not already completed this important questionnaire, please do so now. You don't have much time with the Sept. 30 deadline looming.

It takes less than 10 minutes to respond to the census and your answers are kept anonymous. The law ensures that your private information is never published and that your answers cannot be used or shared by any government agency or court.

Please contact Brad or Josie at the library if you have any censusrelated questions or visit 2020census.gov for more information. Library computers, phone and staff are available to help you access the census questionnaire.

Next Thursday, Oct. 1, from 5 to 6 p.m., the Archuleta County Treasurer's Office will explain what a tax lien is and give you information on how to get started on investing in them if you want to do so. Zoom meeting ID: 856 6443 1537; password: 269665.

Summary of our partial reopening

• We're now open on Thursdays from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. with 1 to 2 p.m. reserved for seniors and higher-risk populations.

• Other hours: Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays: 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. with 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. for seniors and higher-risk populations. Saturdays: 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sundays: closed.

•We are accepting meeting room reservations for small groups, with library programs having first dibs on the rooms for our programs. In addition, you can schedule only so far out, usually two weeks to a month, depending on where we are in the month.

• Up to 30 patrons at a time can come into the building.

• Hand sanitizers are available and there will be frequent cleanings inside the building throughout the day. Please practice social distancing and wear facial coverings while you are in the building. If you don't have a mask, we are happy to give one to you.

• Nine computers are available. In most cases computer usage will be allowed for three hours per day. Staff will clean and disinfect the computers between uses.

• One early literacy computer is available for youngsters Monday through Saturday.

• For those not comfortable coming into the building or unable to wear a mask, curbside service continues Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. except for Thursdays, when it's available from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Phone 264-2209 when you are in the parking lot so staff can bring the items out for you. If you put a hold on something, please wait for your usual alert (email, phone call or text) before coming to pick it up.

 You now can drop your returns of books, CDs and DVDs in the drop box at City Market, as well as in the drop box at the library. No donations in the City Market box, please.

· Notary service is available during open hours on Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday. The cost is $5 per notary.

• You can place holds on items from other libraries. They are in different stages of reopening, so items may take longer than usual.

• We're happy to provide tech help in person or over the phone for our online resources.

Adult DIY on Facebook

Live tomorrow A free fall-themed DIY event will happen on Facebook Live tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 25, from 2 to 3 p.m. Join Brad to get some crafty ideas of how to create several fallthemed decorations. You also can watch the show later. If you have a Facebook account, log in to Facebook and search for the Ruby Sisson Memorial Library. If you don't have a Facebook account, access the page by visiting our website and clicking the Facebook icon (a lowercase f) in the upper left-hand corner of the screen. Or, contact us and we can

New Storywalk for kids

Every other Thursday, Josie posts signs outside the library that follow the sidewalk up toward the elementary school detailing a new free Storywalk for kids. The Sept. 24-Oct. 3 theme is fall transitions. Get outdoors and follow the pages of a book telling a beautiful autumn story as you stroll along. After you finish, pick up materials for a craft or activity at the library. By popular demand, Storywalks will continue until the snow makes it too difficult to proceed.

ESL

Free in-person classes take place Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 to 7 p.m. by appointment. Please register so we can keep it to a small group in our limited open spaces. No walk-ins.

Adult learning

GED classes plus HiSet, CDL and other free in-person tutoring from Mark is available on Tuesdays from 2 to 7 p.m. by appointment for both new and returning students.

Dungeons and Dragons moves to Google Meet

Join us on Wednesdays from 4 to 6 p.m. for Dungeons and Dragons free for teens and young adults. Note that this fun fantasy roleplaying game has moved from Zoom to Google Meet. Contact claire@pagosalibrary.org for details on how to join.

Children's programs on Facebook

Every Wednesday at 10 a.m. and Saturday at 2:30 p.m., join us on the library's Facebook page for free children's programs. Wednesday storytimes are on Facebook Live, so if you go to Facebook at 10 a.m., you can interact with Josie. Saturday's Discovery Times — with games, art ideas, science experiments, history and more — are prerecorded.

If you have a Facebook account, log in to Facebook and search for the Ruby Sisson Memorial Library. Quotable quote

"It's hard to overstate the importance of the census to everyday life in the United States. The vast amount of demographic information it gathers determines who gets how much political power in Congress and the states; it steers more than a trillion dollars in federal funding for health care and other critical services; it guides long-term economic decisions by governments, corporations and mom-andpop stores; it helps determine the location of highways and schools, hospitals and housing, police and fire stations ...

"Of the more than $1.5 trillion in federal funding allocated to the states based on census data, 75 percent goes to Medicare and Medicaid ... Census data will be especially important over the next decade as the country confronts the long-term public health impact of the coronavirus pandemic. This will include, among other things, tracking the incidence of the virus, conducting epidemiological research and providing funds for medical equipment.

"Such data are also essential to the functioning of the national economy. They provide large and small businesses with information about work forces and markets. They drive federal regulation of small-business loans, home mortgages and equal-employment practices." — Excerpted from an editorial in The New York Times, Sept. 13, 2020.

Council establishes school zones

By Chris Mannara Staff Writer

An ordinance setting school zone areas within the corporate limits of Pagosa Springs was approved on second reading at the regular meeting of the Pagosa Springs Town Council on Sept. 17.

Town council had previously approved the first reading of the ordinance, Ordinance 939, at its regular meeting on Sept. 1.

According to agenda documentation, town staff had previously discovered that there was no townwide plan for school zones.

Furthermore, agenda documentation outlines that there are no legal school zones in Pagosa Springs despite there being several school crossings and some signage.

"The school zone is the roadway immediately adjacent to the school, usually extending one to two blocks in every direction, speed limits are often reduced, fines increased, and special signing is used - crossing signs, speed signs, school zone pavement markings - so that motorists know to treat the area with special care and attention - and it may have 'fines doubled' signage," agenda documentation reads.

Town staff held a stakeholder meeting to identify needs and wants pertaining to school zones, and from that meeting it was determined that doubling the fines would be the best approach to increased penalties, according to agenda documentation.

Additionally, 25 mph was determined to be slow enough for the school zones and the town would work with the Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) to get signing on U.S. 160 once the ordinance was passed, agenda documentation notes.

Archuleta School District provided a letter of support for the school zones that were presented, according to agenda documenta-

Town Public Works Director Martin Schmidt noted during the meeting that, due to Pagosa Springs Police Department Chief William Rockensock's preference, time limits for school zones are going to be 7:15-8:45 a.m. and 2:15-4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Get ready for a night of fun with Dancing with the Pagosa Stars

Seeds of Learning

The lights are set, the cameras are in place and the Dancing with the Pagosa Stars crew is ready for action on the dance floor this Saturday evening. After a summer of practicing, planning and pining for the Mirror Ball Trophy, our stars, coaches, emcees, volunteers and producers are ready to put on Pagosa's virtual dance show of the year, Dancing with the Pagosa Stars. This show will not only provide for an exciting Saturday night, but will also raise money for Seeds of Learning, a local early childhood education center.

Our six super stars, Quinlan Quiros, Theresa Snyder, Gabriel Heraty, Jonathan Dobson, Blue Haas and Bob Bonham, have been working hard to perfect their dance moves and rack up the votes for themselves and, most importantly, the children at Seeds of Learning.

Each $1 vote goes directly to the school to help pay for critical costs like the teachers' salaries and providing a hot meal to each child. The star with the most votes at the end of the night will win the coveted Mirror Ball Trophy. It is still an extremely close race, so vote for your favorite star to help them win.

We have three easy ways to vote for your favorite star right now: 1) Visit dwtps.org; 2) Text dwtps to 31996; or 3) If you don't know who to vote for, visit http:// growingseeds.org/dwtps-stars/ to read their bios and vote for your favorite.

While your votes will help one lucky star win the Mirror Ball Trophy, a judging panel will determine the winners of the other five awards. The other awards include Best Showmanship, Best Male Dancer, Best Female Dancer, Best Costume and Best Video. Our judging panel will consist of volunteers from the Pagosa community that are passionate about Seeds of Learning. Make sure you tune in on Sept. 26 at 7 p.m. to watch the performances and see which award your favorite star will receive. Don't have a ticket yet? Go to http:// growingseeds.org/go/dance2020/ to buy your virtual ticket.

In addition to those you will see on camera on Saturday, a slew of volunteers have worked behind the scenes to ensure for an entertaining evening. Professionals like Leslie Carlson, Perry and Amy Harper, Dwight Peters and Jason Cox have been lending their skills to put together a polished show and tackle any challenges presented by utilizing a virtual platform. Committee members Lisa Peters, Terry McGaughy, Renee Smith, Connie Knief and Deb Jennings have been burning the midnight oil to coordinate every detail of this virtual party. And last, but certainly not least, we must mention our talented emcees Lisa Peters, Martin Rose and Corey Grindal. We are extremely grateful to all of our volunteers, including the stars and coaches. Without them, none of this would have been possible.

After a summer of hard work, we can't wait to virtually host the Pagosa community for a night of fun, dancing and fundraising. During Domestic Violence Awareness Month, #1Thing can make all the difference

329 victims of domestic violence

By Ashley Wilson Rise Above Violence

Domestic violence impacts millions of people each year, but it can be prevented. It requires the collective voice and power of individuals, families, institutions and systems — each whose "one thing" adds a valuable and powerful component to transforming our communities.

That is why this October, during Domestic Violence Awareness Month, Rise Above Violence is asking "What is the #1Thing you can do to end domestic violence?"

Many people care and understand that domestic violence is a serious public health problem. They want to do something but believe their actions can't make a difference. It feels overwhelming. But change can start with only #1Thing. Imagine if all individuals in Pagosa Springs and Archuleta County each commit to doing just #1Thing to stop domestic violence. Well, we could really see some serious change.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, one in four women and one in nine men have experienced contact sexual violence, physical violence and/or stalking by an intimate partner in their lifetime.

and sexual assault so far, this year alone. That is why we need everyone — advocates, medical professionals, educators, survivors, researchers, policy makers, law enforcement officers, business owners, students and more, to do #1Thing to stop domestic violence here in Pagosa Springs.

#1Thing you could do to support victims and survivors:

- Be a caring and consistent adult in the life of a child.
- Talk to loved ones about violence and oppression.
- Create a culture of consent in your home.
- Use social media to raise awareness among your peers.
- Reach out to Rise Above Violence to learn how you can help. • Listen to and validate a survi-

the date to all passers-by. Many thanks to the libraries and local governments for acknowledging the U.S. Constitution and the importance it plays in our daily lives.

Additionally, the daughters have also been busy making masks for the library and the hospital. This past weekend, daughters from Pagosa Springs, Durango and Cortez attended a veteran stand down event in Cortez. The stand down ensured veterans were being served meals and received various services. A stand down is an annual event held in many communities to support its veterans.

The daughters are overcoming not being able to meet in person with using a Zoom platform for meetings, leadership training and organizing events. Soon, we will be honoring our first responders and health care professionals.

Officers of the local Pi Beta Phi alumnae club presented a check for $200 to Josie Snow, Ruby M. Sisson Memorial Library's early literacy librarian, standing left back, to be used for the library's programs for children. The contribution was made to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the alumnae club's founding in support of the sorority's literacy objectives. Left to right, in front, are Lisa Scott, the club's founder; Marilyn Chipps, treasurer; and Carole Howard, president. Said Snow: "It means so much to me, and to the library, that Pagosa Pi Phis thought of donating to us." The local club also made an identical contribution to the national Pi Beta Phi Foundation to support their literacy programs. Pi Beta Phi's 285 alumnae clubs worldwide and 135 collegiate chapters across the U.S. and Canada participate year-round in a wide variety of literacy initiatives in their communities.

Awareness

- continued from previous page vor of trauma.
- End the silence of domestic violence.

Ways you can get involved

1) Attend an event that supports Rise Above Violence, your local domestic violence agency. Upcoming events include Art, Sips and Treats — Tomorrow night and evening with wine, chocolate and cheese in the Art Above Violence gallery. Buy a ticket or bid on the art for the Art Above Violence show that will be held virtually on Oct. 10. More information on both events at www.riseaboveviolence.org.

2) Follow Rise Above Violence on Facebook and Instagram, and share the community messages, events and statistics to bring awareness. 3) Join our Snowball Club — a monthly giving club where every dollar contributes to a big change. Just $10 supports one crisis call every month and ensures that every call is answered.

4) Volunteer your time. We need hotline volunteers and event volunteers; there is something for everyone.

This October, join Rise Above Violence as we connect with one another with a true sense of unity to end domestic violence.

Rise Above Violence is a 501(c) (3) nonprofit that provides 24-hour support and advocacy services for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault or other forms of violence, serving over 300 victims each year. Rise also works to eliminate violence through education for youth and our community. All programs and services are free and confidential, including emergency prevention education and empowerment programs. Visit www. riseaboveviolence.org for more information or call 264-9075 to talk to an advocate today.

The importance of before and after

Some words are worth repeating, like the words on a restaurant wall that read, "Feed me tacos and tell me I'm pretty."

I doubt that tacos would make me feel any prettier. After all, my ears were holding up a mask, hearing aids and the temples of my eyeglasses that fogged over after every breath.

I told my family that the thing I missed most during COVID is eating out in restaurants. The thing I will never miss: using the word COVID in every sentence.

Frankly, I'm tired of talking about it. I'm tired of hearing about it, but it's the only way to explain why we are doing what we are doing.

My family tells me that I am the only one talking about it. They have just gone on with their lives as if the pandemic never happened.

My Sweet Al told me, "You're always stirring the pot. As soon as the stink settles, you stir it up again."

I'm not sure what he thinks I'm stirring up. I bring up COVID because it is a point of reference that will undoubtedly mark this time in our lives for years to come.

At the first of the year, my Sweet Al and I planned several trips. We planned to fly here and there, and get in a road trip or two. Needless to say, none of it happened. Why? Because of COVID.

A friend called and encouraged us to reschedule a long overdue vacation. She had been cleaning out a closet and came across a box filled with letters that I wrote in the

She said, "I'm not sure why I still have all of these, but they are filled with golden nuggets of truth. Why don't you come visit me for a working vacation. We can go through these gems and see what we can do with them.'

Artist's Lane

Betty Slade

I told my family that the thing I missed most during COVID is eating out in restaurants. The thing I will never miss: using the word COVID in every sentence.

I told her, "Hang on to my words until I get there. I'm glad someone is enjoying them."

My family thinks that all I do is stir the pot. They quit listening to me if I dare say anything more than once.

The good thing about a great friend is that they value what we have to say. Yes, we still talk about COVID. Or, more specifically, how much it has altered our daily lives. But, more than anything, we value each other's knowledge of God's word. Even when we repeat ourselves, we stretch each other with our dialogue, like iron sharpens

My friend and I have launched several big projects throughout the years. We even taught art and Bible classes on television. Whether discussing an idea over coffee or being in the thick of our next big thing, ours has always been a working friendship. It has taken us to heights we likely wouldn't have reached without each other.

Long before COVID, my friend and I had full schedules that were laced with conversations full of purpose. I have quoted her more times than I could count and she,

Post-COVID, and after our recent chat, it looks like we may have a new project on the board. We want to co-write a book filled with 30 years of words between friends that have stirred us inside, words that are worth repeating.

There is a scripture in Proverbs that says it all. "The truthful lip shall be established forever."

COVID isn't just an event on the calendar. It has become a baseline by which we can test for what is true. In the case of my friend and I, it marks when we will dip back in to a cardboard box to see if thousands of words between us have stood the test of time.

Final brushstroke: Regardless of our talent, nothing is more validating than to look back on our handiwork to see a reflection of ourselves. Between friends, nothing is more validating than seeing what that same handiwork means to each other, even after so many years.

Living a life worthy of their calling

By Richard Gammill

PREVIEW Columnist

The scandal that hit Liberty Christian University last month disappointed me and broke my heart. I want to stand up and point to the hundreds of Christian colleges and universities led by men and women of unimpeachable character and high integrity. They may be little known beyond their constituencies, while one of their number is held up to the scrutiny of the entire nation.

One president and his wife not only betrayed their sacred trust, but impugned the reputations of their peers. Deeply flawed, they fell. We must be careful not to allow a single transgression to diminish our high regard for all the leaders who serve their students with distinction. I pray for this couple to come to God's forgiving grace.

Looming large in my experience as a student at a Christian college in Idaho were the president and his wife. He was my spiritual hero, someone I wanted to emulate. He was dignified yet warm and approachable. His Friday chapel messages held to a high intellectual standard while they spoke to my heart. His wife, always gracious and caring, modeled Christian womanliness for the coed students, including the one who would become my wife. Together, they exemplified what a Christian couple could be.

Ten years later, my denomination appointed me to a position that took me to all the affiliated colleges once or twice a year. This opportunity acquainted me with all the presidents and, in most cases, with their wives. These couples often invited me to their home. These leaders worked hard and devoted themselves to the academic success and spiritual welfare of their students. Their wives, also, many known as women of prayer, set a standard for the female students. The Christian example of these presidential couples uplifted the campus.

Later, my oldest son, Jeff, enrolled in one of these colleges in San Diego. He told us about the girls he was dating. One outstanding classmate caught and held his attention — the president's daughter. They became engaged during their junior year and married in the spring of their senior year — the social event of the season.

I share four precious granddaughters with that college president and wife. The girls lost their daddy to cancer just before the oldest one graduated from high school. Three of them have since graduated from one of those affiliated colleges in Oklahoma City, and the fourth is now in her junior year. Each is a lovely example of Christian womanhood. I am grateful for their beautiful mother, whose parents bestowed on her a legacy of faith and character, which she has passed down to a new generation.

Christian college presidents – and their wives — challenge thousands of young students and graduates, by word and example, to live a life worthy of their high calling. I honor them all.

Clothing giveaway at St. Patrick's Episcopal Church set for Saturday

By Lynne McCrudden

St. Patrick's Episcopal Church

This Saturday, Sept. 26, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., lots of winter clothes will be free to anyone who stops by to shop at St. Patrick's Episcopal Church, 225 S. Pagosa Blvd., next to Pagosa Springs Medical Center (PSMC).

This event has been a yearly event for over 20 years in our community. Although things will be slightly different this year, there are still plenty of clothes to choose from and lots of smiling faces (behind masks) to help you shop.

Because of the COVID-19 virus, we are required by the Episcopal Diocese to ask everyone to wear a mask; we will be asking the all-too-familiar screening questions and getting contact information.

The event will take place in our parking lot, rather than inside the Parish Hall. Our hope is to keep you safe by social distancing and limiting the number of people who can shop at one time. Please do your part and keep a safe distance between you and other shoppers.

Parking is available in the PSMC parking lot and we suggest you park on the south side of the hospital and then use the stairway which is towards the southwest side of the parking lot to gain access to our parking lot. There will be handicap parking available.

St. Patrick's parishioners will be wearing green and white aprons to help with parking and answer questions. We thank everyone who took time this week to donate clothes. This sharing of warm winter clothes would not be possible without the community's support. If you have any questions, please give the church office a call, weekdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.: 731-5801. In case of rain, the giveaway will be held Saturday, Oct. 3.

Community in Conversation: New book discussion group launching

By Sarah Riehm

St. Patrick's Episcopal Church

Announcing a new opportunity for the people of Pagosa Springs: Community in Conversation will offer free weekly Zoom community discussions beginning Tuesday, Oct. 6, from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

"Our purpose is two-fold," said organizer Sarah Riehm. "First, we hope to equip people with the tools they need to have meaningful conversations on difficult yet important issues. Second, we hope to discover together some common ground, to find out what unites us rather than divides us."

The first book will be "Twelve Steps to a Compassionate Life," by author Karen Armstrong, which will run every Tuesday evening from Oct. 6 through Nov. 24. The facilitator will be the Rev. Lyn Burns, new interim rector for St. Patrick's Episcopal Church.

"This book and discussion are not limited to the faith community," said Burns, "We hope to include anyone in Pagosa Springs who wants to have a deeper conversation about the challenges we all face in these turbulent times."

Burns was born and raised in South Africa. Growing up witnessing the evils of the apartheid system there, she developed a deep commitment to community building, unity and healing efforts since she immigrated to the U.S. in 1984.

Armstrong's book is not only about learning to develop empathy, listening and communication skills, but also how to practice self-compassion.

From the Amazon website: "Karen Armstrong believes that while compassion is intrinsic in all human beings, each of us needs to work diligently to cultivate and expand our capacity for compassion. Here, in this straightforward, thoughtful, and thought-provoking book, she sets out a program that can lead us toward a more compassionate life. She suggests concrete ways of enhancing our compassion and putting it into action in our everyday lives."

The Community in Conversation series will take a break during the holidays, resume after Jan. 1, 2021, and continue through early Revnosa is one of those rough border towns where even the waitress in Pancho's Diner warns you about the pickpockets scouring the streets in search of hapless gringos. David quickly switched his wallet from his back pocket to the front.

'Thanks for the tip. Could you also tell us how to get to the 'chicken' train? We've heard there's a station on this side of the border."

David and I had talked about an unplanned foray down south, hoping to connect with a ministry working among the poor in education or literacy. This was our initial

The wrong side of the tracks was a euphemism for the condition of this train. Not only were animals herded on to it in record numbers, but also no provision was made for their defecating necessities. The poor beasts had to stand and sway in their own slop.

"I suppose some sort of cleaning goes on at stops along the line," I surmised.

"I've learned never to take the obvious for granted," David said as we mounted the section of the train reserved for human passengers. Cross ventilation was provided here simply and directly — broken windows. As the train rumbled through every pueblito along the track, little urchins poured out of their shacks to practice their marksmanship on a moving target.

"Duck; move to the center!"

shouted a man a couple seats down as we rounded a sharp turn and came upon a small village. Thankfully, the stones and glass fell directly to the floor. We managed all the way from Reynosa to Torreon with only minor bruises.

"There's another 'avian express' we catch in Torreon," David said. "It'll take us to Zacatecas, from there to Irapuato, where we change again to a first-class train for Guadalajara."

'Why don't we spend the night on that train?" I asked. "We can sleep on the train and we won't have to pay for a motel. I'd rather spend the money at a good restaurant or the market."

The cross ventilation on this train paled in comparison with the first, but made up for it with other exciting accommodations. Somewhere between Torreon and Zacatecas, a vendor shuffled down the cars with a freshly dressed goat, holding it by the hind legs, blood still dripping from the head.

"I guess if you want some fresh goat, they just hack it off right here, drop it in a plastic sack, and voila, dinner in the bag," David observed.

nal snake oil merchants - sellers of potions to cure everything from ingrown toenails to severe arthritis in a matter of days. The Wild West had nothin' over these guys — they were collecting pesos right and left as they worked their way down the aisle. Then came the niños, usually no older than 10 or 11, who boarded at almost every stop.

'Tamales, burritos, fruta, gelatina (Jello), refrescos (soda)! Señora, your children are thirsty. We have Coca with ice." Aggressive little fellows, they had learned just the right amount of pressure, with the accompanying smile and tilt of the brow, to ply pesos from passengers. The confectioners of these goodies — their mothers — watched from the sidelines.

We arrived in Irapuato late at night and settled into our cushioned, reclinable seats for the last leg of the journey. Despite the raucous snoring of the man directly behind, we snuggled into sleep. Hours later, we approached Guadalajara glimmering in the black wee hours like a jewel on a dark genie's hand. We strapped on our packs and disembarked.

Stopping at the Great Pagosa Hot Springs

In last week's column, we described the 1859 visit of Capt. John N. Macomb to the Pagosa hot springs. Macomb left us the first written description of the Springs.

During the year following Macomb's visit, Charles Baker led a party of prospectors into the San Juan Mountains and discovered gold at what became known as Baker's Park near today's Silverton. Baker retired that winter to Abiquiu, N.M. The following summer, he laid out a toll road from Abiquiu past Pagosa Springs and on to the Animas Valley diggings. Baker's road was chartered in New Mexico under the name Abiquiu,

Because of the scarcity of fighting men in the region, the Native Americans in the west grew bold. They increased raiding and plundering. Travel in the territories of Colorado and New Mexico became very risky. Baker's gold was largely forgotten and travel along his toll road past the Pagosa hot springs must have been slight.

When the Civil War ended, men again returned to the west and some of them sought gold in the San Juan Mountains. The Great Pagosa Hot Springs was once again a stopping point on the road between New Mexico and the upper Animas River Valley. Friction grew between Native American and miner. The Army began to think of building a fort in the San Juans to hold down hostilities. Bt. Lt. Colonel E. H. Bergman passed through Pagosa Country in 1867 making a reconnaissance tour of the mining country. He advised against a fort at Pagosa Springs because his troops suffered from the deep snow and cold weather.

Starting in the early 1870s, health seekers, true to Macomb's prophecy, were bathing in the waters of the Great Pagosa Hot Springs. Many of them were travelers along the now well-used road. Others were miners, down from the mountains for a rest. The new camp of Summitville, a few rugged miles northeast of Pagosa Springs, was in full swing. From that direction came the Brown family.

Next week we'll repeat the written account of that venture.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles?
Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Beginner

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Bird of the Week

This week's Bird of the Week, compliments of the Weminuche Audubon Society and Audubon Rockies, is the plumbeous vireo.

A seasonal inhabitant of our local ponderosa pine, Gambel oak and juniper forests, the plumbeous vireo is perhaps most detectable by sound when they arrive in the spring. Males typically arrive on breeding grounds here first, and seek to establish territories, singing their textured (often described as "burry") song of ascending and descending notes. At it's simplest, "Cheechurri?, Cheechuroo." It can almost come across as a very melodic question and answer series. As the breeding season wanes, both sexes issue their harsher and more regular che-cheche calls, locating and scolding as they move through the forest.

In Latin, the word plumbum, and resulting chemical symbol Pb, refer to lead; thus, the name. Adult males and females both have a leaden gray upper portion (head/shoulders/rump) with white undersides and flanks that oftentimes have a light yellow or green wash. Their wings have two distinct white wing bars and most recognizable is a pair of white spectacles that wrap 3/4 around their eyes, bridging over their thick bills.

These birds will often move quite fastidiously through the tree canopy (difficult to locate for the photographer), efficiently gleaning insects, and occasionally stopping and tipping their heads curiously to locate prey. They seek out caterpillars, beetles, wasps, bees, spiders and occasionally fruit when available.

In addition to the slightly drabber warbling vireo, the plumbeous have a regional cousin known as the Cassin's vireo. This species looks very similar, donning the same white spectacles, but have a greener back and a decidedly more olive casting on their breasts and flanks.

These small insectivores breed as far north as southeastern Montana and fly south to winter in Mexico, often in mixed flocks. As with other long-distance migrants, these birds navigate a landscape that has seen habitat fragmentation, degradation and loss, so the more that we can provide native forage and shelter for them in our backyards, the better they stand to fare in future years.

For information on future events, visit www.weminucheaudubon.org and www.facebook.com/weminucheaudubon/.

Country makes milestone commitment to prioritize suicide prevention for veterans and all Americans

The president's Roadmap to Empower Veterans and End a National Tragedy of Suicide (PRE-VENTS) Office and the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) announced recently 42 states and one U.S. territory signed the PRE-VENTS state proclamation pledging their prioritization of suicide prevention for veterans and all citizens in their jurisdictions.

Each state pledging promises to promote and amplify the REACH public health campaign that encourages everyone to reach out to those who are vulnerable and to reach out when they themselves are in need of help.

As part of the implementation of the president's roadmap, the PRE-VENTS Office is meeting with state and community leaders in all 50 states and territories to ensure best practices for suicide prevention are identified and applied, efforts are coordinated within the state and federal government, and the public health messages are promoted before the initiative concludes in March 2022

"With the commitment of our nation's governors, this undertaking has moved beyond an idea to reality — as it is only viable when governors enlist the full authority and backing of their state to combat this crisis," said VA Secretary Robert Wilkie.

September is National Suicide Prevention Month and through the outpouring of support echoed by governors issuing state proclamations, their efforts assist with meeting the requirements of the president's White House Task Force for PREVENTS, which provides the nation with an essential, collaborative forum to address this national crisis through local and state-focused solutions to help us end veteran suicide.

To engage all 50 states and five U.S. territories, the PREVENTS office developed a state proclamation for governors codifying their full commitment to preventing suicide in their states, with a special focus on veterans and other highrisk populations, such as Native Americans, first responders, individuals age 10-34 for whom suicide is the second leading cause of death, people living in rural communities and LGBTQ individuals.

Additionally, the office is working with key community leaders — including veterans service organizations, military service organizations, business leaders, academic institutions and faithbased communities. To date, PRE-VENTS has held in-person visits in Arizona, California, Florida, Tennessee and Texas, and virtual visits in Indiana and Oklahoma.

'Collaborating with state and community leaders to advance the mission of suicide prevention for Veterans and all Americans is imperative," said PREVENTS Executive Director Barbara Van Dahlen, Ph.D. "As we move forward to change the culture around mental health in general and suicide in particular, we will continue to elevate and amplify the great work our states are already doing as we leverage lessons learned and best practices to accelerate our efforts to heal families and save lives."

PREVENTS was established by Executive Order 13861, March 5, 2019. The Roadmap, released by President Donald Trump June 17 emphasizes the critical role of states and local communities in suicide prevention.

PREVENTS is charged with creating an all-of-government and all-of-nation approach to preventing suicide among the nation's veterans and all Americans through a national public health campaign, enhanced community integration, prioritized research activities and implementation strategies that emphasize improved overall health and well-being.

Education could promote better attitudes toward aging

By Kay Kaylor PREVIEW Columnist

I advocate for residents in extended care and assisted living residences as the region's lead long-term care ombudsman. I also am a Senior Medicare Patrol and State Health Insurance Assistance Program counselor, all as an employee of San Juan Basin Area Agency on Aging (SJBAAA). The many aging and care concerns will be addressed here.

Journalists cited in Generations SmartBrief, a collection of articles the American Society on Aging sends in emails, lately have stated it is time to end the use of "elderly." In one case, "elders" is suggested as a more respectful alternative. Other articles address ageism, stereotyping and discriminating against people due to their age, in the workplace and in North American cultural attitudes.

'Changing Attitudes Key to Addressing Ageism," an article Smart-Brief took from the Independent Record of Helena, Mont., is part of the Graving Pains series, a project of Montana Fourth Estate. The author, Kathi Beeks of the Valley Journal (Aug. 14, Ronan, Mont.), writes, "Lengthening lifespans require a more informed and positive approach to aging, both for individuals and society."

Depictions of elders in the media, in the English language, and in marketing reinforce negative stereotypes about the aging process and cultural fears of aging and do not represent the actual experience, Beeks notes. For example, 95 percent of people over age 65 do not live in nursing homes and instead live in the community, although millions are "struggling to meet their monthly expenses," according to the National Institute on Aging. Beeks cites several sources in the article, including a study that found children begin to learn age bias at age 2, and this affects their attitudes about themselves as they age.

Instead, educating young students about the positive aspects of aging can create a more balanced understanding of life and influence how well people age. The trend of promoting intergenerational activities, such as tutoring or in housing, allow children to experience positive interactions with older adults.

Think of older politicians, Supreme Court justices, athletes and CEOs of corporations, as well as other ways people actively age — the examples can be found everywhere.

SJBAAA offers resources for people age 60 and older or on Medicare. For further information, please call or text 403-2165 or send an email to leadombudsman@ sjbaaa.org.

The undesirable assignment: part two

By Daris Howard

Special to The PREVIEW

Ed worked for a national park in the summers. One summer, he was given the assignment of working with the park superintendent's son, David. Ed was only 21, and David was a rebellious 17. David had refused to pack the food Ed told him to take, taking only snacks instead. So, by the time they reached their assigned work area after four days of hiking, David was already out of food. Ed ended up needing to share his food, which meant they were both hungry.

Besides the bucksaw and ax they each carried, Ed had a small chain saw. The fifth day out in the woods, they started to clean the trail. That is, Ed cleaned. David just moped and complained about the work and being hungry.

"Well, you know," Ed said, "if you would get in and work, we could get this job done sooner and get back to park headquarters."

"How long will it take us?" David

"Probably three days if we work long hours, and if we both work," Ed said. "Five days if I have to do it alone. Then we'll have the four-day hike back."

David gasped. "I'm supposed to go hungry for seven days and do this stupid work, too?"

"Well, I'm going hungry, too, because you didn't pack what I told you to pack," Ed said.

David angrily jumped up. "I've had enough of this garbage. I'm heading back."

"And just how do you plan to do that?" Ed asked. "You have a four-day hike with no food, and you don't know the woods. You might get lost and not make it back."

"You should give me some food, and I will leave my pack so I can hike faster," David replied. "And I will just follow the trail."

Ed mulled that over a minute. If he gave David some food, would he just be enabling him? But if he didn't give him food, he could be blamed for David starving.

"All right," Ed said. "Since you will be hiking faster, I will give you what I would share with you for two days. That's all I can spare and be able to finish the job and hike out myself."

Ed gave David the food, and David complained it wasn't very much.

"I don't have very much because you didn't bring what you were supposed to," Ed replied.

Grumbling, David dumped everything else out of his pack. He then put back in the water and the food. He didn't even plan to carry his bedroll.

As David headed out, Ed yelled after him, "Don't forget your bear training in case you meet one."

Ed went back to work. He was hungry and wanted to get this job done so he could head back as well. He had just started cutting some small saplings with the bucksaw when he heard a scream. He turned to see David running across the meadow with a bear on his tail. David scurried up a tree, and Ed grabbed the chain saw as he headed in their direction. He jerked the pull cord as he ran, and the saw roared to life. The bear stopped at the base of the tree and turned toward Ed. Ed slowed to a walk as he continued toward the bear. Ed kept pulling the throttle as he approached the bear. The roaring of the engine did the trick, and the bear ran off.

David was shaking when he climbed down from the tree. Ed shut off the chain saw and turned to David.

"Did you even read the beartraining guide for this job?" Ed asked. "That was a black bear, and black bears can climb trees. You would have been his lunch. Climbing trees will only help you when an adult grizzly is chasing you. They're too heavy to climb."

David's voice quivered as he spoke. "I thought that material was a waste of time."

"Well, you know," Ed replied, "you may consider there are reasons why people tell you something. They have been there before and are trying to help you avoid the same mistakes they made. Only a fool doesn't learn from others and must make all the mistakes on his own. And nature isn't forgiving. If you make just one mistake, it could be your last."

David said nothing for a moment, and when he did, he spoke quietly. "Maybe it would be better if I stayed and helped. Then we could hike out together."

Ed smiled. He knew David had learned another valuable lesson, and there was no use saying more.

Informative.

A clear warning about the Colorado River

By Dave Marston

PREVIEW Columnist

For the West this summer, the news about water was grim. In some parts of California, it didn't rain for over 100 days. In western Colorado. the ground was so dry that runoff at first evaporated into the air. And in New Mexico and Nevada, the rains never came.

Bill Hasencamp is the manager of California's Metropolitan Water District, which provides treated water to 19 million people. What was most unfortunate, he said, was that "the upper Colorado Basin had a 100 percent snowpack, yet runoff was only 54 percent of normal."

In 2018, a variation happened light snow and little runoff, which doesn't bode well for the future.

What everyone wants to know, though, is who loses most if severe drought becomes the norm.

Gary Wockner, who heads the nonprofit Save the Colorado, predicts that western Colorado ranchers and farmers will be among the biggest losers: "In any crisis situation, Colorado laws gives municipal water priority over farm water."

He added that "If push comes to shove, farmers on the Western Slope might get a very hard ask to stop diverting. That hard ask will involve a vast amount of money."

Which might explain why so many deep-pocketed speculators are buying up Colorado ranches and farms, especially near Grand Junction, Colo. Speculators include a New York hedge fund, Water Asset Management, along with Michael Burry, a Wall Street trader made famous in the movie "The Big Short."

Wockner thinks selling water rights to the highest bidder is a dangerous idea. "Any time you try to monetize a natural resource, the resource will get further exploited."

What makes the Western Slope of Colorado most vulnerable to drought is a pact among seven states signed in 1922. It bound the states to give priority in a water crisis to the Lower Basin states of California, Arizona and Nevada, potentially leaving the Upper Basin states of Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming high and dry.

A crisis could be approaching. The two giant reservoirs on the Colorado River are both below 50 percent of capacity. If drought causes even more drastic drops, the Bureau of Reclamation could step in to prioritize the making of electricity by the hydro plants at lakes Mead and Powell. No one knows what BuRec would do, but it would call the shots and end current arrangements.

Before that happened, California could "call" for the water it is owed - 4.4 million acre-feet annually. In that case, Wockner said, ranches and farms would be forced to go dry before city residents suffered.

For now, California has avoided flexing its muscle to get its fair share of the Colorado River. To stop the

Writers on the Range

Colorado River's reservoirs from dropping to "dead pool" where power generation fails, California acts as if serious drought never ended. Since 2000, when the punishing drought began, California has cut annual water consumption by 30 percent, using both carrot and stick.

California charges the highest water rates in the west and also pays for efficiency. Under a program called Cash for Grass, "A good size lawn removal can net a homeowner $30,000," said Rebecca Kimitch, who works for the Metropolitan Water District.

The state also invests in smarter irrigation, piping leaky ditches in the Imperial Valley, the Colorado River's biggest irrigator. And it invests in desalinization plants and reuses some of its water via a program that was first derided as "toilet-to-tap." More recently, statewide laws restrict personal daily consumption to a measly 55 gallons, declining to 50 gallons by 2030.

As for the Upper Basin, states continue to push not for water conservation, but for more dams and reservoirs that would drain water from the basin, such as the proposed St. George, Utah, Diversion from Lake Powell.

John Fleck, director of the water resources program at the University of New Mexico, said, "It's not a binary question of: Is there enough water? The way we need to think is that the system is at risk and every time you take more water, you create risks for Meanwhile, California is king of the Colorado River and wants you to know it.

"We'll never give up that right our first priority among all Colorado River water users — and never say we'll give up that right," Hassencamp told me. "That's our fallback position, though we'll set it aside for now and try to work out a solution."

For Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico, this is a clear warning. As Hassencamp put it: "We recognize the pie is shrinking for good."

Join Us for a Special Hearing Healthcare Event

Join us for our two-day event Mon.-Tues., Oct. 5-6

Hearing is essential!

If these past months have taught us anything, it's the importance of staying connected, informed and safe — and hearing is key to all three!

- 1 Hearing makes it easier to stay in touch with friends and family.
- Hearing helps ensure you stay up to date on ever-changing news and information.
- 3 Hearing helps you feel safe, healthy and in control of your life.
