After completing the monumental Apollo 11 moon landing, Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin and Michael Collins safely splashed back into the Pacific Ocean on July 24, 1969, four days after the Eagle made its historic moon landing on July 20, 1969, on the moon's Tranquility Bay. Hanchett is in the foreground with white shirt, tie, sideburns and dark-rimed glasses. Below: A current picture of Hanchett holding a spacecraft model used on Apollo 8, 9, 10 and 11. 50-year anniversary of Apollo 11 moon landing carries local significance

By Chris Mannara Staff Writer

July 20, 1969, marked a momentous occasion in human history as it became known as the first time that humans landed on the moon via spaceflight.

The spaceflight, more commonly known as Apollo 11, represented a landmark moment not only for Cmdr. Neil Armstrong, Lunar Module Pilot Buzz Aldrin and Command Module Pilot Michael Collins, but for the nation, the world and for those in the command center guiding these men through it all.

Local resident Thomas Hanchett was able to experience Apollo 11 in its full glory, working behind the scenes as a instrumentation and communications officer in the mission control center.

Specifically, Hanchett and the rest of the communications team monitored the communications system for Apollo 11.

"The thing that we monitored for was the correct antenna selection by the crew," he said. "We had to maintain the correct antenna depending on how far they were from the earth."

The importance of this is to maintain a communication link, he described. Another duty that Hanchett was tasked with was making sure the crew rotated the spacecraft as it traveled between the earth and the moon so that

Telecommunications issues plague Pagosa

By John Finefrock Staff Writer

Telecommunications problems have plagued the Pagosa Springs area in recent weeks, with a Verizon network issue causing many local residents to have spotty cellphone service or lose service completely, and many CenturyLink customers lost phone and Internet service after the company reported a fiber cut on July 15.

A statement sent to The SUN by Verizon Public Relations Manager Heidi Flato stated, "We experienced an intermittent network issue in the Pagosa Springs area from July 9-13. Our engineers have resolved the issue and will continue to closely monitor the situation.

"We encourage customers to contact Verizon customer care with their concerns."

Verizon's date range of July 9-13 contradicts reports from citizens of Archuleta County, who have reported service issues dating back to June and as recently as Tuesday night.

the moon and talk to him. These days, our cellphones, landlines and Internet won't even work.

"Hello? Hello?"

"Can you hear me?"

"Are you there?"

We hear those questions over and over and over again.

There was no way to call 911 in an emergency. Calls were dropped. There was an inability to communicate. Text messages went undelivered. People couldn't call. People couldn't use their Internet. Phones fluctuated between full bars to none.

Depending on who you talk to, there have been reports of spotty and poor cellular service for about a month.

It is more than just an inconvenience. Real estate agents couldn't access home lockboxes. Entire companies suffered. It was a train wreck. Time is money, and this past week has cost local businesses tremendously.

At The SUN, we depend on Internet service. Everything we took home to accomplish over the weekend required access to the Internet. Bookkeeping is done online. Payroll is done online. Banking is done online. Filing worker's comp audits is done online. Software programs are online.

Everything was online except for us. CenturyLink wasn't able to provide our landline phone or Internet service from sometime last Friday through Tuesday night. There were a total of five days this past month when they were completely out.

On Friday, we were promised a text message from a CenturyLink representative to inform when we would have service again. That text never came.

Lightning sparked a fire and we still had no landline Monday morning to call and report the fire. Thankfully, there was one

Fifty years ago, we could put a man on bar on the cellphone and we got through complaint as quickly and thoroughly as to dispatch.

> People who could find some sort of service took to contacting The SUN to "investigate the situation."

> Well, it was a simple investigation. There was pretty much no cell service for Verizon customers and that seemed to affect customers of other providers. CenturyLink customers were without landlines and Internet. That all translated to major outages. Investigation complete.

> The bigger our cellular and Internet companies have gotten, the less accountable they have been to their most important assets: their customers. They don't answer your emails. They ignore your questions.

> Individuals who could contact their providers, found themselves ignored, put on hold, cut off and were left with unanswered questions and a plethora of excuses from these major corporations regarding their failure to perform.

> There are over 225 comments on The SUN's Facebook page regarding the matter. Is it going to take a major incident to > get these companies to take us seriously? A SUN reporter posed multiple questions to Verizon representatives and got a canned response. They ignored our questions.

> On Monday, we contacted every CenturyLink person who has attempted in the past to get publicity through the editor's email address at the newspaper office.

> We finally got a response: "This email is to advise you that CenturyLink has received your complaint regarding the ongoing service issues and that I will be responsible for its investigation and resolution. As a member of the Customer Advocacy Group, I will be your advocate in championing your needs as a customer. I will do my absolute best to resolve your possible."

That song "We are the Champions" came to mind.

The email continued, "I apologize for the difficulty you have experienced with our service and for the amount of time spent trying to resolve it. I will be working with our Repair Escalations Team to address this further and assist with a resolution. I will also reach out to you if I have any questions or need any additional information.'

They apparently needed no more information. Our champions from the CenturyLink Customer Advocacy Group seemed to go into hiding. We haven't heard a word from them since that initial email.

We attempted to contact them through the company's Facebook page and were told we had to private message them. When we did that, there was no response.

It's not OK to have no phone service and no Internet. It's unacceptable to have companies who ignore their customers. As long as we continue to tolerate this horrible service, these providers have no reason to make improvements or keep their marketing promises. That's not OK, either.

No business is perfect. We all have unavoidable problems. The difference is reliability, accountability and customer service. Why give our hard-earned money to a company that simply doesn't care?

What our community has experienced with connectivity issues and appalling customer service has been completely ridiculous.

It's time for us to demand changes. Call or email and remind these companies every day that we deserve better service. That is, if you can get a cellphone signal or get your landline or Internet to work in order to contact them.

Construction work started this week on both phases of the new water supply system for the town of Pagosa Springs. The two contractors — Burks & Co., of Englewood, and Varulco of Grand Junction — now have crews and materials on the job. Burks & Co. is constructing the pipeline and intake structures and Varulco is building the filtration plant and reservoir. Totaling more than $700,000, the two projects will bring adequate and pure water to the town distribution system. The filtration plant, with rapid back flush filter beds, will have a capacity of about two million gallons of water every 24 hours. The town is presently using about one million gallons per day during the peak use period.

Future of power

Dear Editor:

On June 10th I attended a community meeting at LPEA about the future of our power supply. It was well attended and led by staff Ron Meier. It covered the topics of possible Tri-State buy-out, future supply options, and the goal of reducing LPEA's carbon footprint. I was impressed by the forthright, diligent, and forward thinking investigation by the staff and directors, knowing that being environmentally and financially responsible is a priority. I was also impressed by the well informed engagement of our community in asking multitudes of good questions throughout the evening.

I was disappointed to read that Tri-State just voted to pursue federal regulation, despite requests for delay. Forging ahead with a possible LPEA buyout of our Tri-State contract may be hindered by this new move, which may be part of Tri-State's strategy. In April it was reported that Tri-State participated and funded of a lobby firm aimed to fight clean air rules and environmental protections, an action inconsistent with LPEA's mission to be environmentally responsible. I walked away with an appreciation of the direction LPEA is pursuing. Susan Atkinson

Climate change

Dear Editor:

I read with great approval Richard Bolland's letter destroying the climate change myth. It's about time someone stood up locally to challenge all these so-called scientists to a debate. Most everyone knows that all these wacko one-worlders pushing their global warming agenda are simply doing it to gain control over our exceptionist and God-fearing country. Not to be forgotten is the fact that these thousands of "independent" scientists are actually colluding with foreign governments to cost us all trillions of dollars — with which they will line their pockets.

President Trump wisely deflated that money-wasting, governmentfunded National Climate Assessment claptrap with a firm and eloquent "I don't believe it". Sad, even given his ringing testimonial, that a huge majority of the liberal elite in this great country have been duped into supporting a thinlyveiled socialist plot to rob us of our precious national sovereignty via liberty-stealing global treaties and useless but expensive so-called "shared climate solutions".

You can easily learn all about this bogus climate change scamin-progress by staying tuned-in to Fox News. Or you can be tricked by the fake news media which is supported by thousands of deceitful scientists, foreign politicians and whining eco-kids striving to steal our hard-earned freedom from globalism while fleecing us of untold amounts of money. Just remember, your unbiased belief is

Global warming

Dear Editor:

A recent letter-writer claims that there's no reason to be alarmed about global warming.

However, in its report "Catastrophe Modelling and Climate Change," Lloyd's of London states that the 8 inches of sea-level rise off the tip of Manhattan increased Superstorm Sandy's surge losses by 30 percent, and that "Further increases in sea level in this region may non-linearly increase the loss potential from similar storms."

This document also asserts that there is conclusive evidence that climate change is human-caused.

Moreover, in its 2014 Quadrennial Defense Review, the U.S. Department of Defense warns: "As greenhouse gas emissions increase, sea levels are rising, average global temperatures are increasing, and severe weather patterns are accelerating. These changes, coupled with other global dynamics, ... will devastate homes, land and infrastructure.'

The U.S. military has expressed concern about climate change since the George W. Bush Administration, and dozens of Defense Department documents on this issue can be accessed at climateandsecurity.org.

It's important to look to independent organizations like the insurance industry and the military when evaluating the threat posed by climate change. Because they depend on scientific evidence to assess risk, they are less amenable to politicized science.

Climate change should be a bridge, rather than a wedge issue. I'm encouraged that the bipartisan Energy Innovation and Carbon Dividend Act has been introduced in the House of Representatives. Let's reach across divides and find common ground on climate action. Terry Hansen

County road and bridge

Dear Editor:

A special thanks to Greg and the Archuleta Road & Bridge Department for prompt and outstanding service.

Construction traffic, washouts due to excessive snow melt, and heavy use made our gravel road a safety concern. Driving our road was like an obstacle course due to potholes, washboards, and washout areas. I left several messages with the Archuleta County Road & Bridge Department requesting plans and schedules for road repair. Greg called me back and estimated it would be about 2 weeks before our road would be graded.

Two days later Greg called bright and early to inform me the road would be graded that day. Greg and crew were there when they said they would be and removed all the challenges on our gravel road. I feel safer driving home because Archuleta County Road & Bridge Departrment cared and took action to alleviate my concerns.

'Changes are taking place'

Dear Editor:

I keep seeing letters in our paper referring to the fact that changes in the weather are part of the natural cycles of our planet. Just go with the flow. I personally, as a science educator, believe that these cycles are being pushed to extremes by world wide changes in the temperature of the earth and I am concerned for the future of younger family members. You will get the weather you are used to wherever you live but it will move toward the extremes. Look for more heat, more drought, more moisture and bigger storms based on your location. Call it what you will but the changes are taking place and that fact is supported by much data available in some cases on a daily basis. We live in a fossil fueled culture so no-one can get away from not using fossil fuels. However, surely our addiction to fossil fuel based machines and our increases in population can not be helping. It will be interesting to see what changes are in store for us in the coming few decades. Enjoy life day to day. Be kind to others. Know that the possibilities for living on this planet comfortably may be dwindling. We will see what happens. Thanks for reading.

Bob Lecour

Take action

Dear Editor:

Americans must be a truly superstitious lot. We have the greatest blessings any country ever had. We go on with life as if it is magic that keeps freedom going for everyone. A vast majority couldn't describe how America came to be this great. Many have forgotten the core values that set Americans apart from the rest of the world, and for which every nation on Earth sought after, and still do. The answer is rather simple. It was a core belief system for most, a dedication to the rule of law, and a constitution that wanted to make all equal under that law, human imperfection not withstanding. Now, today, we have a serious situation at hand. When people forget their own history and roots, we have the perfect scenario for a repeat of the subjugation, the slavery, the tyranny that crops up when people fall asleep and are no longer vigilant of the governments they create. There's a quote ... "The condition upon which God has given liberty to man is eternal vigilance; which condition if he break, servitude is at once the consequence of his crime and the punishment of his guilt." This was a quote from the time of the sacrifices made by our founding generation ... and their warning. Today, we have a sleeping, nonvigilant population, and a deliberate dumbing down of our education system. We face an evil agenda by what is being exposed as the "deep state" swamp, and that swamp is alive and well, not just in our federal government, but also our states and local county governments, including Archuleta County. When people go about their daily lives thinking everything is mostly "ok" and are believing they are not experiencing personal damage, it is then that the most dangerous threat exists for their future. Archuleta County is one example of the swamp deep state activities. When a county government and the collusive court system ignore the constitution and rule of law, you then have the fodder for revolution. Remember these words? "That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government ... But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, ... reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security." If the people of Archuleta County want freedom, and peace, we all must unite and stand against this tyranny, and stop giving our consent to all governments run amok. Anyone remember our 11 ballot initiatives over 600 of us signed, but have been denied us by county government criminals? Many are fed up and we plan to drain this swamp and expose the corruption. It is vital that we all wake up, unite, and take action.

Phone service is horrible

Dear Editor:

I'm sure it's not news to anyone in Pagosa area that phone service is horrible. Broken conversation, failed and dropped calls, or no service at all. I was told by several locals that every time new cell towers are proposed, the same people fight it and vote it down. Huge inconvenience and aggravation aside, it is also detrimental regarding health and safety by preventing calls to doctor, police, maybe even 911.

If what I heard is true, how about next time it comes up help correct this situation by allowing more towers. They can make them resemble trees somewhat with trees for those concerned about the view. If cancer from EMFs is a concern, think about lessening your cell phone use, exposure to computers, tv and any other wireless devices you use on a daily basis instead of voting against decent phone service. Thanks.

Political correctness and forced diversity

Dear Editor:

I thought with the election of Donald Trump in 2016, political correctness and forced diversity would be a thing of the past. Not so.

I recently bought a 1907 set of Harper's Encyclopedia of American History. I noticed that in Vol.4, "G' through "H", that almost all pictures were of white men. One Native American man, Geronimo, and only two women. One had the honor of being the first white girl born in the future state of Ohio. The other was the woman who had written the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Moving ahead in the history of diversity, the 1963-64 freshman class at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School had 94 white males, one Hispanic male, and only five females. Now, incoming classes at medical schools are about 50% male and 50% female.

The highly prestigious Harvard Medical School has a strong diversity code that excludes scores of highly qualified Asian applicants.

Imagine the outcry if the NFL had a diversity code that would limit African American players to 15%. That nonsense will never happen.

Limits for county roads

Dear Editor:

I watched the County's road crew work and improve CR700 (Cat Creek Rd.) and they did a very good job. They do all the time. Unfortunately, the road surface will once again be covered in washboard and chuckholes. I've watched what happens. 18 wheel and large dump trucks full of gravel and vehicles with heavy equipment as well I believe are the culprits. They drive too fast and when they climb the hills their tires loose traction and bounce creating the washboard surface. Is there any way a weight limit can be put on the road, or is the county just going to continue to pay for grading the road sooner than expected.

Scouting experience

Dear Editor:

On July 22, over 35,000 Boy Scouts from 161 different countries will arrive at the Bechtel Reserve in West Virginia to enjoy and celebrate at the World Jamboree. For those who do not know, Scouting is a world-wide organization, first organized in this country in 1910 and granted a federal charter by Congress in 1916. Since that time, boys John Penter across America have been doing good deeds, learning survival skills and developing moral foundations through the Boy Scouts of America.

The Bechtel Reserve is the newest National B.S.A. Campground. Scouting teaches and encourages honest leadership through the activities and opportunities for personal growth that help all become well-rounded, successful individuals. Many of our Presidents grew up as Scouts. John F. Kennedy was one. I recall that, as President, he "coined" the phrase: "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country". Hmmmm — the Scout Oath was alive and well in his conscience: 'On my honor, I will do my best, to do my duty to God and my Country ." Once a Scout, always a Scout.

Scouting is non-denominational and units often are sponsored by civic clubs and churches. Here in Pagosa, our Cub Pack and Scout Troop are sponsored by the Methodist Church and scouting for older Scouts, known as "Venture Crews" is sponsored by the Episcopal Church. All youth in the community are welcome to join these Scout units.

We are thankful to those churches for making scouting available and to their volunteer leaders who are committed to providing a full Scouting experience for all. They deserve our praise and gratitude. Living the life of a "Scout" is most fitting for our young folks here in Pagosa.

Wildfire risk: 'It can happen here'

Thank you for publishing Mr. Bill Trimarco's editorial regarding wildfire risks. As a former firefighter with the US Forest Service and now a resident in Pagosa Springs, public awareness regarding wildfires is extremely important and timely.

I was living and working in the San Francisco bay area at the time of the Camp Fire in Butte County, in and around Paradise, California. One of my co-workers and her family barely got out alive, and their home was completely destroyed. Thus, Mr. Trimarco's editorial really hits home for me. Needless to say, creating defensible space around our home here in Pagosa is a major and on-going objective, and I encourage others to do the same.

I'd also like to point out a typo that over 18,000 structures were destroyed, not 1,800 as the editorial mentions. That's probably as many or more structures than in all of Archuleta County. One of those homes or businesses could be yours. It Can Happen Here. Think about it, and act accordingly to protect your family and your home. Paul White

Editor's note: Bill Trimarco wrote in an email to The SUN: "I checked back on my notes. 18,800 structures were destroyed in the Paradise area. The 1800 number was a typo. Sorry for the confusion."

The Town of Pagosa Springs Planning Department will host a neighborhood meeting on July 30 for the Hermosa Street area to discuss the Pagosa Springs Historic Resources Survey Plan process.

The meeting is set for 5:15 p.m. by the gazebo in Town Park.

While the meeting is primarily for the Hermosa Street area, Town Planner Cindy Schultz noted that it is open to the public.

"During the Survey Plan process, some Hermosa residents were concerned about the changes in the area and wanted protections in place, to which historic designation is one tool, but may or may not be the most appropriate," Schultz wrote in an email to The SUN.

The meeting is anticipated to cover the Survey Plan implications, local preservation efforts, asking the residents what they would like to see and more.

Dickhoff said, adding, "We want for their neighborhood or not."

The survey plan, which was considered for acceptance by the town's Historic Preservation Board (HPB) Wednesday evening, identifies the Hermosa Street residential area as a top priority for a survey to be conducted.

"The goal of the 'Historic Resources Survey Plan' is to define and prioritize future historic resource survey projects in Pagosa Springs for the next ten to fifteen years. This includes recommendations for which level of survey is appropriate for various areas of the town, cost estimates for different survey phases, and prioritizing survey phases according to factors affecting historic resources in Pagosa Springs," the plan explains.

Of the Hermosa Street area, the plan states in part: "Although twelve of the buildings in this historically working-class neighborhood were inventoried in 2001-2002, there are no locally designated landmarks on this street or historic district designation; therefore, these modest homes have no protection. The area is known for its charm and character of small homes on comparatively larger lots, which is further enhanced by its location to the river. There are also mature street trees that locals believe were planted by school children in the 1920s. As a result, the neighborhood's desirability has grown, as evidenced by the recent construction of two larger dwellings. Working-class residents may be shortly priced out of ownership, and the potential for gentrification, demolition, and significant alterations is high. In addition to these threats, the neighborhood may have associations for ethnic heritage which have not yet been explored. A windshield evaluation of the district, combined with construction dates, indicates that it has the strongest potential for local historic district designation when compared with the other historic residential neighborhoods in town. Finally, there was a high degree of interest in local district designation expressed at the public meeting held in conjunction with this project. A local district would ideally be designated after a survey is conducted. If residents desire a district designation prior to the completion of a survey, the information provided by a survey project would still be needed for the HPB to make defensible decisions on any proposed alterations. Based on these factors, a survey of this district has the greatest need and benefit to the residents of Pagosa Springs as well as the HPB, and thus is ranked 'Priority One."

Lake Forest Circle expected to reopen this week

By Chris Mannara Staff Writer

It is anticipated that repairs taking place on Lake Forest Circle will be completed sometime this week, according to Pagosa Area Water and Sanitation District (PAWSD) Manager Justin Ramsey.

The cause for the construction was due to a water leak in a pipe 15 feet deep, Ramsey explained.

"Since it's part of the dam, we had to get plans done and approved by dam safety, so that took a little while," he said.

Dam safety protocols are very stringent, which has caused the project to take longer to finish, he noted.

The project has caused a portion of Lake Forest Circle to be blocked off, leaving residents of the area to enter and exit the area via the north entrance of Lake Forest Circle.

"We're going to try real hard to get it done this week so that we

Classic Air Medical announces new air ambulance based in Pagosa Springs

By Chad Bowdre

Special to The SUN

Distance, weather and geography in Colorado can sometimes mean the difference between life and death when it comes to health care emergencies.

To help overcome these barriers, Classic Air Medical, a premier air ambulance transport service, is proud to announce it is basing a fixed-wing air ambulance transport service at the Pagosa Springs airport.

Wade Patten, chief administrative officer at Classic Air Medical, said, "We are excited for the opportunity to serve the Pagosa area and be part of the entire community. When the golden hour to reach a trauma or cardiac center is critical, we will be there to assist and transport quickly.'

With their newest airplane stationed in Pagosa, Classic is growing to 14 bases in the Rocky Mountain West and Desert Southwest including three other bases in Colorado - Steamboat Springs, Craig and Glenwood Springs - as well as ad-

Classic Air Medical ensures a highly trained medical crew will be available to the entire region.

With the addition of this new base, Classic Air Medical nearly completes blanket emergency air transport coverage from southern New Mexico across Colorado, Utah, Arizona, Wyoming and Idaho.

To celebrate this announcement, Classic Air Medical will be hosting an open house on Aug. 20 from 4 to 6 p.m. — event details will be announced later this month. Community members will be invited to an open house with tours of Classic's newest airplane and many crew and staff will be on hand to meet and answer questions.

Background

Classic Air Medical has been in service as a medical air ambulance for 31 years, with headquarters in Woods Cross, Utah. Originally a tour company in the 1980s known as Classic Tour Helicopters, Classic Air Medical was established in 1988 in response to the need for air medical evacuation services in the Lake Powell area after the National Park Service saw an increasing need for assistance from the original tour company.

RoomConnect public presentation tonight

By Bill Hudson Special to The SUN

Pagosa Housing Partners, also known as PHP, is pleased to anto be held tonight, Thursday, July 18, at 5 p.m. at Higher Grounds Coffee, 189 Talisman Drive. This will be the second Room-Connect presentation hosted by PHP, the local nonprofit housing organization selected by the Town of Pagosa Springs to facilitate a range of new programs aimed at addressing the community's ongoing housing issues. According to RoomConnect coordinator Joanne Whitney, tonight's informational meeting will explain how the new program can help connect homeowners, who may have empty bedrooms in their home, with local employees and others who cannot find affordable housing in Archuleta County, and who might be looking for a roommate situation, either short-term or long-term.

The obvious benefit to the employees is finding a safe, secure living situation. The benefits to the homeowner include added income, help with chores and household maintenance, and companionship with a person who might have similar hobbies and interests. Comparable homesharnounce a free public presentation ing programs are cropping up all of the new RoomConnect program, across the U.S. as communities try to deal with a nationwide lack of affordable housing options.

> "We know there is a demand for housing in Archuleta County, so we're reaching out to the community to find homeowners who might like additional income, but who also want to help us solve a community-wide housing issue," explained Whitney. "We realize there may be people in the community who have an extra room in their home, but who don't necessarily need any extra income. But they might feel like 'paying it forward,' so to speak. Maybe there was someone who helped you out at one point in your life, way back when, and now you'd like to repay the favor by helping out a member of your community.

> "Or it might be the case where you've just bought a new home and you didn't realize all the costs involved in maintaining and financing that home. And all the work involved. Or maybe you want to remodel, or you're having trouble saving up enough money for an addition. Taking a roommate in, even for a few months, might help you to stabilize."

Whitney mentioned some of the employee types who might be looking for a temporary living situation, perhaps for only a few months: doctors and nurses who live out of town and who work at the hospital only a few days of the week, for example; seasonal workers at the ski area or working with rafting outfitters; or school teachers who are new to town and haven't yet found a home to purchase.

She mentioned the new county detention center currently under construction.

"We're going to see a lot of construction workers coming to Pagosa, for maybe a year, to help build the jail. Where are they going to live?" she asked.

What does RoomConnect offer, beyond what any homeowner or renter could do, on their own, to find a roommate?

"No. 1: You will complete a profile, indicating the type of person you would want in your home or the type of home you would prefer to live in. It's far more detailed than what you might get from someone who's just looking for a room on their own.

"And doing a matching process can sometimes be intimidating to do alone. So we're there, helping to find the best possible homesharing match. The process gives the homeowner and the renter a lot of information about the person they'll be living with. For example, let's say somebody is allergic to cats and the homeowner has cats. We wouldn't waste time introducing the renter for a house-sharing meeting. We're trying to make it as simple as possible.

"We've also created a checklist for the homeowner and renter to use when discussing their mutual expectations before any final decision is made. Things to think about that are worthy of a conversation. In fact, some feedback that we had from one of the folks who attended our most recent presentation was: 'I wish I'd had this document the last time we had roommates.' It's aimed at helping you set expectations prior to anyone moving in.

"Our ultimate goal is for you to have a successful living arrangement, where everyone ends up ■ See RoomConnect A7

Dispatch board approves funds for independent legal counsel

By John Finefrock Staff Writer

The Archuleta County Combined Dispatch Executive Board voted Monday to approve a resolution that authorizes the board chair to "engage independent legal counsel" after a subcommittee of that board violated Colorado Open Meetings Law on July 1.

"I called this meeting because as board members we have a responsibility to this board and this entity, and we need to be making sure that we're doing this correctly and legally," Cook began the meeting, adding, "We've talked about the need for clarifying who the legal representation is for the board and we haven't really come to any clear decisions about that."

The dispatch board comprises representatives of each of the four agencies who utilize and fund the dispatch center: Archuleta County; the Town of Pagosa Springs; Pagosa Fire Protection District; and the Upper San Juan Health Service District, which operates Pagosa Springs Medical Center and EMS.

In recent months, the dispatch board created a subcommittee comprised of members of each of the four participating entities to tackle some of the issues that face the dispatch center, such as finding a new facility, upgrading aging equipment and how to finance those goals.

On July 1, a SUN reporter was told a meeting of that subcommittee was not public, and the reporter was not permitted to attend the meeting.

"There was an article in the paper this week that highlighted a violation of the open meetings law that's something I would like to see when we had our first subcommittee meeting of the exploratory committee. We had four board members present and inadvertently [a SUN reporter] was asked to leave by Greg [Schulte] and after the meeting we realized that, yes, we made a mistake and that should have been an open meeting," Cook said.

She added, "That just opened up the need and the realization that we really need outside legal counsel for the dispatch board.

The dispatch board has discussed for months that the intergovernmental agreement (IGA) between the four entities is unclear about who legally represents the dispatch board.

Pagosa Springs Police Department Chief Bill Rockensock said he thought the idea to hire outside counsel was "a good thing," adding, "if nothing else, for the peace of mind to make sure that we have solid legal advice going forward."

Archuleta County Sheriff Rich Valdez explained that there could be a conflict if there were a legal issue between the four separate entities on the dispatch board.

Valdez used the example that if the dispatch board theoretically used Archuleta County Attorney Todd Weaver to represent the dispatch board, Weaver's allegiance to the county could possibly create a bias in the dispatch board's legal counsel.

"What type of conflict are we creating if we use that county entity and then for whatever reason, there is litigation that happens amongst the agencies within this room?" Valdez asked.

"That's a huge question and this person address that's coming in from the outside that has no obligation to any one of our agencies," Cook replied. Scott Wall explained that, in his role on the dispatch board, he always puts the interests of Archuleta County first.

"For me, the county's always going to be my priority over everything. If this group decided to do something that I didn't think was the best interest of the county I would never do it, I would vote against it. And that's just, I think that's just, my loyalty is to them," Wall said.

'Yes, our primary jobs and hats are towards those agencies, but as board members, we do come to this table with certain responsibilities and duties that are to this board and to this entity that we've created through the IGA," Cook said, adding, "We need the dispatch center in order to do our jobs and provide for our community."

Ultimately, the board voted 6-1 in favor of adopting the resolution, which gives the dispatch board chair a budget of $5,000 to obtain outside legal counsel.

Wall was the lone opposition

Wall reported the dispatch board's decision to the county commissioners at their work session on Tuesday and after Wall noted the dispatch board voted to approve the resolution, Commissioner Steve Wadley replied, "That's too bad."

Asked on Tuesday if they had instructed Wall to vote no at the dispatch board, both Wadley and Commissioner Ron Maez said that they did not.

In an email to The SUN sent Tuesday, Andrea Phillips, Pagosa Springs town manager and dispatch board member, offered more insight into the open meetings violation.

Phillips' statement reads, "First, I am confident that there was no intent by the members of the Exploratory Committee nor the Dispatch Board to violate any Sunshine laws. As this was the first meeting of the Exploratory Committee, there appears to have been some confusion as to the membership and whether they are subject to the Colorado Open Meetings Laws."

Phillips' email continues: "It sounded like they had more than three of the members of the Dispatch Board present at the exploratory committee meeting, which could have constituted an unintentional meeting of the Dispatch Board without noticing it as such.

"Again, I am sure there wasn't any ill intent, simply a matter of determining how this new subcommittee will proceed within the proper guidelines. Which, as you heard at the Dispatch Board meeting yesterday, an attorney will be hired to help the Board define those procedures, including how they extend to the subcommittee."

The next meeting of the Dispatch Exploratory Subcommittee is at 3 p.m. on July 29 at Town Hall, 551 Hot Springs Blvd. This meeting will be open to the public.

The next regular meeting of the Archuleta County Combined Dispatch Executive Board is 9:30 a.m. on Aug. 5 at Pagosa Springs Medical Center.

At that time in American history, everyone was excited about space travel and the challenge that it presented, he added later.

"You're always looking for something to fuel that adrenaline or internal energy, otherwise life tends to get boring," he explained.

As Armstrong famously described his first step on the moon's surface as, "One small step for man, one giant leap for mankind," that sentiment was not lost on Hanchett. In the moment, however, it took some time for his role in history to process.

"Yes we were excited, but we really didn't understand the scope of what we were doing until I started sitting down 50 years later," he

Despite the Soviet's multiple spaceflight accomplishments, Apollo 11 has been called the peak of the Space Race between the two nations in that it simply outmatched anything done by the USSR at the time.

"There was a lot going on in the world," Hanchett explained. "We were so focused on the accomplishment of landing the men on the moon that, even though all that was going on, it was kind of maybe in the background."

The external factors going on in the world at the time did not slow down the Apollo 11 crew as a whole, Hanchett noted.

agreement was not without hurdles, with Municipal Court Judge Justin Fay questioning the town's authority in entering into an agreement stating that the court would take specific actions.

The settlement release states that, upon execution of the release, the town "will dismiss" and "will expunge" enforcement actions dating back to the fall of 2018.

In hearing motions to dismiss, vacate and expunge enforcement actions in a pair of cases on July 9, Fay expressed two areas of concern: why the motions in the case were appropriate, and to what extent the municipal court was bound by the settlement release.

"How is it that the town can ... usurp the discretion of this court?" he asked.

After hearing arguments from Town Prosecutor Gayle Dixon and Blas' attorney, Reid Kelley, on the motions, Fay touched upon the separation of powers between the legislative and judicial branches of government, as well as stating the stipulations made "go beyond the discretion of the town attorney or town council with respect to separation of power and their ability to tie the hands of this court."

In the end, however, Fay granted all the motions, bringing an end to the two municipal court cases.

the town's Municipal Code relating to noise, with those citations moving forward to Municipal Court.

Also last fall, the claimants requested a permanent variance from the code's provisions so the venue could continue to offer live music.

Phillips explained that there is a provision for applying to the chief of police for a permit relieving an event from the noise regulations, with that permit for things like one-day events or weekend festivals.

"And so, the chief denied it because he felt like, you know, it was not within the spirit of what that was intended for within our code. And, so, per our code, they could appeal to the town manager, and so they did," Phillips explained.

Phillips indicated an administrative hearing was held in February.

"My decision was to uphold the chief's denial because I also felt it was not within the spirit of the municipal code provision to have, you know, a permanent, I guess, relief from the code," she said.

Then, on April 12, Blas and Gone Country Ventures filed a 13-page lawsuit against the town which alleges, among other things, that the town's noise ordinance in place at the time was vague, subjective and unconstitutional, and that Phillips' decision was an "abuse of discretion.'

The lawsuit sought a jury trial, losses and damages, among other forms of relief.

The Pagosa Springs Town Council has had multiple executive sessions for the purpose of receiving legal advice since the filing of the lawsuit, with the June 20 executive session being followed by a motion from council member Mat deGraaf to "accept the release as written between the Town of Pagosa Springs and Chris Blas dba Gone Country Ventures."

That release is the settlement agreement between the parties.

The settlement release also includes a confidentiality provision.

"As part of the consideration to the Releasees, Claimants and their attorney agree that the terms and conditions of this Release and the negotiations relating thereto shall be kept confidential by the Claimants and their attorney. Neither Claimants nor their attorney shall release any information regarding or concerning the terms and conditions of the settlement reflected by this Release or the terms of this Release or the actual document, nor shall they discuss that information with any third party or comment on any media inquiries," the document states.

New noise regulations

The situation with the venue also prompted the town to recently adopt an emergency ordinance changing its noise code to include specific decibel limits.

Per that ordinance, for residential zoning districts, from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., the maximum permissible level is 55 decibels. From 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., that level drops to 50 decibels.

For mixed-use and nonresidential zoning districts, the maximum permissible level between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. is 70 decibels, with that level dropping to 65 decibels between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m.

"It's been over two weeks without cell service for us! We are lucky to be able to get a text through. It's actually very scary to think that we to. This whole ordeal has prompted us to get a land line for that reason. Absolutely NOT ok!" wrote Shannon Smith Bassett on July 15 in response to a SUN request for its Facebook followers to tell The SUN about their Verizon service.

Lisa Tedder wrote, "At the Verizon store, I was told that the increased number of cell phone users at this time of year simply overwhelms the bandwidth."

The members of the Archuleta County Board of County Commissioners (BoCC) were fielding calls from concerned citizens all day Monday, some of whom blamed the BoCC for the cell issues, alleging that the BoCC has voted down cell towers in the past.

"We've approved every tower," said Commissioner Steve Wadley in a phone interview Monday, adding, "No matter what, we've always said yes.'

According to Archuleta County Planning Manager John Shepard, the recent history of cell towers within the unincorporated county is the following:

• 2011: The Fidelity Towers Dyke Ranch Tower was approved and constructed in Aspen Springs. This tower hosts AT&T and Verizon. • 2015: The Pagosa Lakes telecommunication tower was proposed to be built on Pagosa Lakes Property Owners Association (PLPOA) open space at Lake Forest.

Some PLPOA residents came out in vocal opposition to the project at the time, with one resident writing a letter which stated the tower was "not in a satisfactory location" and was not an appropriate use of the property that the tower was proposed to be built on.

The owners cited aesthetics though Verizon planned to disguise the tower to look like a ponderosa pine — and health concerns as reasons for their opposition to the

At the Feb. 24, 2016, planning commission meeting, the commission voted to recommend denial of rezoning the proposed tower can't get a hold of 911 if we needed location to the BoCC, citing that alternate locations had not been with protecting the public's health researched thoroughly enough.

The application was withdrawn prior to going to the BoCC for vote. • 2016-17: Archuleta County approved a Verizon application for a new tower on County Road 600 near Hatcher. Ultimately, the tower was not built and the permit

Pagosa Springs Planning Director James Dickhoff wrote in a statement to The SUN Tuesday that he wasn't "exactly sure" when the first cell tower was put up within the town limits, but that he found ground leases for the current towers dating back to as early as 2003.

... (M)icro tower installs are going to be the norm in the near future as providers are wanting to unleash the 5G network," wrote Dickhoff, adding that 5G will bring "a whole new dimension" to cell phone coverage in the area.

Dropped cellphone coverage is nothing new to the county commissioners, as in 2017 the BoCC, at the time chaired by Commissioner Steve Wadley, sent a letter to the Colorado Public Utilities Commission.

Discussing the Pagosa Lakes telecommunication tower noted above, Wadley wrote, "The proposed location prompted a large number of citizens to actively and aggressively speak out against the proposed tower. Prior to the hearing before our Board of County Commissioners, Verizon withdrew their application and announced they would pursue a different lo-

The letter continues, "What has transpired and what not coincidently began almost immediately with the announcing of their withdrawal of the land use application was a sudden and marked reduction in service in Archuleta County

... In addition, it is not limited to times of peak demand. Rather, even in non-high usage times the coverage seems to have been 'turned

"As the elected officials charged safety and welfare, we are acutely aware of the dangers this sudden, inexplicable reduction in coverage represents in our rural community ... many of our citizens rely on cell service for emergency calls and now cannot rely on coverage where they previously could.'

Commissioner Ron Maez cited the 2017 letter and the new broadband tower being built at the Archuleta-Hinsdale county line that also has the capacity to accommodate cell carriers as ways the commissioners are working toward more cell coverage in the area, but also suggested that local residents have a responsibility to ensure their own communication

"If we want to look at a safety deal, and you're in an area where you can get a hard-line phone, OK, but you choose to only get a cellphone instead of paying a hardline phone, and then an emergency issue comes up and your cellphone doesn't work, you made that choice for yourself. Why is it your government's responsibility for a bad choice on your side?" Maez said in a Monday phone interview.

CenturyLink issues

On Monday, CenturyLink released a statement reading, "We are aware of reports of a fiber cut affecting some customers in many areas of western Colorado. Our technical team is investigating."

Nikki Wheeler, senior director of media relations for CenturyLink, told The SUN Tuesday that "Technicians were dispatched and all services have been restored.'

During the service outage, one local resident wrote to The SUN that he "actually had to watch live television, but at least the Rockies were on," the citizen concludes.

and things like that that is beyond the expertise of our staff. So, since Brad Ash is the primary engineering architect for the county, we discussed hiring a firm called SafeBuilt," Phillips explained, adding that there will still be staff involvement.

Those fees, she estimated, are about $25,000 or $26,000, with the agenda brief stating those fees would still be charged to the county.

After clarification on the fact that the county will still pay for SafeBuilt's costs, Schanzenbaker stated he was in favor, but pointed out that staff still put in time on the project.

Nicole DeMarco then motioned to approve the resolution waiving the fees, and the motion carried with a 5-0 vote. Council members Matt De-Guise and Mat deGraaf were absent from the meeting.

"And we do support you guys and wish you the best. I know that the dirt's flying, so that's a good thing," Mayor Don Volger told the county officials.

"It's all the same taxpayers' dollars, town and county," Maez stated. "You got it, so we gotta work together," Volger responded. The county held a groundbreaking ceremony at the site on June 26. At the same meeting, the council approved the first reading of Ordinance 910 regarding the financing of the town maintenance facility.

The second reading of the ordinance will take place at this evening's council meeting, which begins at 5 p.m. at Town Hall

The ordinance, Phillips indicated, incorporates the lease-purchase financing agreement, indenture of trust agreement and site lease. "At its June 4th meeting, Council directed staff to work with Stifel (through Vectra Bank) to finance the project. The interest rate is 2.87% (fixed) at a 15 year term," the agenda brief on the topic summarizes. "The total principal to be issued includes the $45,000 in estimated costs of issuance. Some additional costs of issuance will include a title report and legal fees with Collins Cockrel and Cole. The total annual payment is roughly $248k. Two payments will be made each year-one with principal and interest and one with interest only. Total debt service is $3,719,006.35. If paid off early, there is no prepayment penalty. A closing date of August 2nd is assumed." Mario Trumble with Kutak Rock, the town's bond council, explained that the facility and land will be leased back to the town for the duration of the financing, and that the town could get out of the agreement with 30-day notice.

"As part of the lease-back arrangement, the Town will be entering into a lease agreement for the site with Zions Bancorporation," the agenda brief explains.

Phillips also publicly disclosed that the town would be working with High Country Title on the title insurance, which is owned by council member Tracy Bunning. Later in the meeting, Bunning asked town attorney Bob Cole if it would be proper for him to recuse himself, with Cole stating that he did not need to because the financing is not affected by the work with the title company.

In addition to the financing, the town also received a $1 million grant from the Colorado Department of Local Affairs for the first phase of the new facility, which will be located at the site of the existing town shop.

DoRA grant submitted, update provided on process

By Chris Mannara Staff Writer

At a Pagosa Springs Community Development Corporation (CDC) meeting on July 10, broadband services co-manager Eric Hittle gave an update and clarification on some broadband related projects that are ongoing within the com-

Specifically, Hittle gave an update on projects that could be potentially funded with a Department of Regulatory Agencies (DoRA)

"The Broadband Deployment Board provides grants through the Broadband Fund to deploy broadband service in unserved areas of the state," the DoRA website explains.

The deadline for the grant application was July 15, with the grant application being submitted by a private Internet service provider, which in this case is Visionary Communications.

The total ask from the DoRA Broadband Fund is approximately $700,000 of the $2.5 million available, Hittle explained.

A response on whether the grant funds have been awarded or not might not come until September, Hittle noted.

In order to help these underserved and unserved communities, towers are projected to be placed in various areas around the county, Hittle explained.

"This is really kind of what those broadband funds are for," he said. "It's to hit those outlying areas."

The broadband funds would be focused on areas such as Arboles and Chromo, Hittle explained.

Other areas for towers include Radio Hill, Hinsdale County and Reservoir Hill, Hittle added later.

In efforts to check if all these areas for prospective towers could be areas considered underserved and unserved, Hittle explained that he had to reference the Colorado broadband map for each address.

Of the 620 addresses being submitted as a part of the DoRA grant application, 150 addresses have been submitted as being unserved, Hittle explained.

Of the six potential towers, over 600 addresses have been submitted that could be served through each tower, totaling 100 addresses per tower potentially, he noted.

"Of the 600, I would say it would be easy if you could go out individually and test what these individuals have," Hittle said, estimating that 90 percent of these addresses would receive under 10 megabits

Additionally, given that only underserved and unserved addresses can only be included in the grant application, Hittle hypothesized that at least four times the amount of addresses will benefit from the six towers.

In a follow-up interview, CDC Administrator Mary Jo Coulehan explained that these projects won't all necessarily require towers; some of them would just require equip-

The six locations for the prospective equipment/towers would be: Jack's Pasture, which Coulehan explained would be more of a pod; Arboles; Chromo; on the Hinsdale County maintenance shop, which is on Archuleta County property; Archuleta County Road and Bridge; and Radio Hill, which would be a tower, Coulehan described.

"That's why this grant is so difficult. It's easy, but it's difficult for the, I guess, provider because they will only take those below the standard requirement," Coulehan explained regarding the DoRA grant at the meeting.

If just one "incumbent" address that is already served is included in the grant application, that incumbent could get the entire grant proposal kicked out as being invalid, Hittle explained.

"So, you have to be very conservative," Hittle said. "But you've got to play the game and you've got to get a proposal that's going to meet all the requirements.

At the time of the July 10 meeting, Hittle explained that he felt like Visionary has a good proposal put together.

"It's not a guarantee, but it's as much a guarantee as you're going to find from all the funding sources," he said. "We think we really have a good, strong proposal."

In addition to having to wait until at least September to hear anything, there is also a 60-day period of an incumbent protest, Hittle explained.

"You just have to expect it," Hittle said of the incumbent protest. 'You might even have to go to Denver in front of the broadband board to defend it."

The main goal of receiving the DoRA grant funds is to first meet the needs of the underserved and unserved areas, but the reality is that once those upgrades are made, everyone's service is going to improve, Coulehan explained in the follow-up interview.

"I think the way that they issue the money is that's what has to happen first is the unserved or underserved people," she said. "It will all improve.

Archuleta County Treasurer presents semiannual report

By John Finefrock Staff Writer

Archuleta County Treasurer Elsa White presented the semiannual treasurer's report to the county commissioners at their regular meeting on July 16, noting some delinquent tax accounts have been paid and that she is "excited" about selling approximately 25 countyheld liens.

White reported that there are about 2,000 delinquent tax accounts in the county, amounting to approximately $970,000 in unpaid $11,578,765.76, received tax collec-

White said that one of her goals when she began her post in January was to sell more county-held liens, and this year, the treasurer's office has sold about 25 of them.

White noted she is "excited about that revenue" stemming from the lien sales.

White's report, which examines county finances between Jan. 1 and June 30, notes:

• The county's General Fund had a beginning balance on Jan. 1 of

The full report will be published in a future edition of The SUN.

At the meeting, Commissioner Steve Wadley asked White, "What do you think the interest rates are going to be doing in the near term for the bonds that we're holding?'

White responded that interest rates are "tight for the term," but generally "rates are dropping."

"I think the rates are going to go down," White said.

BoCC approves contract for DHS legal services, adopts economic incentives plan

By John Finefrock Staff Writer

At the regular meeting of the Archuleta County Board of County Commissioners (BoCC) on July 16, the BoCC approved a contract for legal counsel for the Department of Human Services (DHS) and adopted a new economic development initiatives policy statement, among other things.

DHS Director Matt Dodson came to the BoCC to ask for approval of a

Changes to Colorado Clean Indoor Air Act bans vaping indoors

By Claire Ninde Special to The SUN

Effective July 1, vaping is prohibited indoors in most public places in Colorado. The changes to the law align smoking and vaping by adding vaping to the Colorado Clean Indoor Air Act, which already prohibited smoking indoors in most public places.

Studies show that smoke-free environments help encourage tobacco users to smoke less and quit. Vape-free environments encourage similar behavior change for e-cigarette users.

The new law also increases the distance from public entrances where people can smoke or vape from 15 to 25 feet. Studies show that to completely avoid exposing others to secondhand smoke in an outdoor area, a person who is smoking may have to move as far away as 25 feet. Inhaling secondhand aerosol, which comes from vaping, may expose bystanders to harmful chemicals. These may include nicotine, fine and ultrafine particles, and other toxins that are known to cause cancer.

"We believe in protecting community health by improving indoor and outdoor air quality, and support measures making the healthiest choice the easiest choice when it comes to e-cigarette use," said Liane Jollon, executive director of San Juan Basin Public Health.

contract, not to exceed $65,000, with attorney Rachel Brock to provide legal services for DHS.

Brock has been DHS's attorney as an Archuleta County employee, and approval of the contract would allow her to continue in her role, though she will no longer be a county employee.

The new contract will be contracted through The Law Firm of Lisa Ward, out of Durango, and Dodson noted that because Archuleta County's court proceedings are taking place in La Plata County, there is a cost savings on travel time.

Dodson reported the new contract will provide a cost savings to the county of about $25,000.

Prior to the vote, Commissioner Steve Wadley said that normally a contract like this would go out to bid, but because Brock is familiar with the current DHS court cases, it makes sense to keep her as the legal counsel for DHS.

'This is not a plug-and-play position," Wadley said. "It's not somebody doing contracts, it's somebody that's overseeing guardianship of children, children that are at risk. And even if it there was a fiscal impact, it's important to all of us that continuity of

The board unanimously approved the contract.

Economic development incentives policy statement

The BoCC also approved the "Archuleta County and Pagosa Springs, Colorado Economic Development Incentives Policy State-

The statement is intended to "provide incentives for the expansion of existing businesses within Archuleta County and/or the Town of Pagosa Springs and to encourage the location of new businesses within the County and Town."

Businesses must create a minimum of 10 full-time equivalent (FTE) jobs or have an increase of 10 percent, but not less than five new FTEs over the base of the FTEs currently employed at the location, among other requirements, to be eligible to receive the incentives.

Some of the incentives include:

• A portion of the amount of sales tax owed to the town and county may be reimbursed for qualifying businesses.

• Reduction or elimination of any county and town fees associated with the development of the project.

• A fast-track service involving all inspections, permitting and planning activities may be provided.

• Additional incentives for job

Charter school hears update on building purchase, grade-level size caps

By Chris Mannara Staff Writer

As plans move forward for Pagosa Peak Open School (PPOS) to eventually buy the Parelli building in which it is leasing space, an update was given on the process of the school's building corporation.

Building corporation member Ashley Wilson, who also serves on the school's board of directors, explained that the building corporation has been "dissecting" its budget over the last two months.

The reason behind it is so that the building corporation has an understanding of what the full cost would be for running and maintaining the Parelli building in order to be fiscally responsible, she described.

In addition to analyzing its budget, the building corporation has been brainstorming ideas of other organizations that could potentially rent some space within the building to help with the payments, Wilson explained.

"That's what most of our time has been spent on, is really looking at those costs, making sure that we are not going into this unaware of something that might sneak up on us and cause the cost to be higher than anticipated," she said.

Wilson discussed PPOS, along with the Town of Pagosa Springs, of Local Affairs (DoLA) Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) in the amount of $600,000 last

In order to be officially awarded those funds, both the town and PPOS have specific conditions that must be met before Dec. 31,

One of those things involves conducting an environmental review of the Parelli building; Wilson explained that she was not sure what pieces the building corporation actually has to do because the organization is looking to purchase an existing structure and not trying to construct a new building.

"The goal of the building corporation is to ensure at this point that we know how long the environmental review is going to take and all the things we might need for that," she said.

The building corporation is currently looking into options as to who exactly would conduct the environmental review, she added

Some of the bigger things that will have to be completed for the CDBG grant will include a new noise study and projections around congestion and traffic to the area, Wilson explained.

With the approval of the DoLA grant, the building corporation is now looking at what an offer on the receiving a Colorado Department building may look like, she added.

"So, hopefully, that will be forthcoming as well," she said.

PPOS approved a resolution to form the building corporation at a special meeting on Sept. 24, 2018.

The building corporation was tasked with handling things relating to the property as well as, but not limited to, contract negotiations, purchase, sale, lease and maintenance, according to the resolution.

Enrollment and growth

Also during the meeting, a brief conversation was held regarding PPOS and its enrollment and grade-level size caps.

School Director Angela Crossland explained as part of her school director's report that, as of June 29, PPOS had an enrollment of 101 students.

Kindergarten is currently full at 19 students and has a wait list of six prospective students, Crossland noted.

First grade is also full at 19 students, second grade has 16 students, third grade has nine students, fourth grade currently has 12 students, fifth grade has 10 students and sixth grade has 16, she described.

Later in the meeting, PPOS board member Mark Weiler explained that these caps were "selfimposed" by PPOS when the contract between PPOS and Archuleta

School District was created.

"But it is still in the charter, and so that's the contract we would have to ask them for any exemptions from that contract," Cross-

Locally, an adoption of an alternative education system has been taking place, Weiler noted.

"Frankly, I would prefer that we don't disappoint six families currently. That's my thought," he said, referencing the enrollment cap and waiting list. "I would like us to have a serious review of that. We actually had it with your predecessor. The discussion started, but I think the discussion stopped when he was certain he wasn't going to return."

In response to Weiler's comments, PPOS board member Bill Hudson explained that not everyone feels the way that Weiler does on the waiting list.

"There's some of us who feel it is a real problem to create a bubble with enrollment in a school that was created to be intentionally small," Hudson said.

Some board members struggle with the idea of staying small while others do not, Hudson added.

Enrollment and class sizes will be a topic of discussion for the PPOS board at a work session at 5 p.m. before the board's regular meeting on Sept. 8.

Pagosa group will travel to refugee camp

By Paula Miller Special to The SUN

On Monday, July 22, a team of Pagosa women will travel to a refugee camp near Athens, Greece. Located in Thermopylae, this camp houses 800 refugees from Syria,

Iraq, Iran and Afghanistan.

A typical day

Our group of five will be working with 200 children at Happy Caravan, a school created by a Syrian refugee, inside the Thermopylae Camp. Our volunteer schedule will be Monday through Friday, approximately 10 hours per day.

9 a.m.: Our Pagosa team will meet to share thoughts, experiences and concerns. Secondary trauma (similar to post-traumatic stress disorder) is a very real part of serving in this capacity. Our team is committed to watching out for each other so we can detect signs of trauma and step in with assistance.

10 a.m.: Morning planning session with all volunteers. Create lesson plans, be transported to the camp and school. Prepare the classroom for the day.

1 to 8 p.m.: Teach math, English and a variety of art, dance, yoga and self-care to three groups of kids ranging from 3 to 14 years old. Class sizes will be 10-25 children.

8 p.m.: Clean the classroom and school, and prepare for following day. Be transported back to the volunteer house.

In addition to daily teaching responsibilities, our team recently has been asked to serve as the interim program manager, running the daily educational program and managing all volunteers while they search for a permanent program manager.

Our team

Our team includes Casey Crow, Paula Jo Miller, Leslie Santee, Addie Thompson and Kelly Ziemer. Mary Jen Meerdink, a clinical psychologist, will support us, long distance, with periodic self-care check-ins. Two of us will be at the camp for six weeks. Three will be there between 10 and 21 days.

Plans in Pagosa

Our team has been planning this trip since October, having spent numerous hours on cultural research, logistics, fundraising, global calls and lesson planning.

In addition to planning this trip, we're also planning how we will bring back what we learn. We will host a Kid's Art Camp during spring break, teaching many of the lessons we'll teach in the camp (and lessons we'll learn there, too). We hope to host a public art project where our local kids can work together to create a piece that represents how they identify themselves as kids in our community, and in the world. And, we will continue to grow the BWI Ambassador Program for local kids who wish to learn more about kids their age across the globe.

Fundraising goal

From the beginning, each of us committed to personally pay for our own travel, accommodations and meals, as well as share the cost to purchase art supplies for the school. We have since formed Beyond Words International (BWI) and, through this nonprofit, we've raised funds by teaching art classes,

Gratitude

After nine months of planning, it's hard to believe that we leave in just a few days. I'm humbled to work with such an amazing group of focused and determined women, some of whom I didn't know nine months ago. We are wholly committed to doing whatever we can to help the kids in the camp begin to heal. Personally, my hope is to be of service, teach, learn and maybe heal in my own way.

San Juan River flows drop below 1,000 cfs

By Chris Mannara Staff Writer

San Juan River flows have seen a decline since last week, with reported flows for July 17 being recorded at 660 cubic feet per second (cfs).

Despite this being a drop of 276 cfs in a week, this week's river flows are still well above the mean for July 17, which is 291, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

The highest flow total for July 17 was recorded in 1995 when the river had a reported flow of 1,430 cfs; the lowest came in 2002 when the San Juan had a flow of just 12.1 cfs.

For those curious as to how river flows could have dropped from over 4,000 cfs to under 1,000 cfs in a little over a month, Na-

Service District Conservationist Jerry Archuleta attributed that to all the snow in the high country having melted off.

"We're actually right now still above our median," he said. "The flows are actually higher right now than they would be on average. They have dropped because of the snow and that's a normal process."

The river conditions for the general public are going to be nice for a while, allowing for everyone to enjoy the river, he added.

"We're still sitting in pretty good shape in terms of river flows and use of the river in terms of irrigation and stuff," he explained.

Three-vehicle accident takes out signal pole

By Chris Mannara Staff Writer

A three-vehicle accident that ended with a signal pole being taken out at U.S. 160 and Piedra Road was deemed to have been caused by a medical episode.

According to Pagosa Springs Police Department Detective Boyd Neagle, it appeared as though the driver of the van was having medical issues, leading to the vehicle striking the pole.

"I think the witnesses said it looked like he was having a seizure when he got there," Neagle said.

When the vehicle struck the pole, the van came across the opposite lane, barely missing another vehicle, Neagle described.

"He came all the way across the road and came on the south side of the vehicle stopped, kind of sideswiped it, and when he did that, it had that vehicle roll back into the vehicle behind it," he said.

The van was heading westbound on U.S. 160 coming through town, Neagle added.

No charges were made in relation to the accident because of it being deemed a medical-related accident, but there was a summons issued for the driver not having insurance, Neagle noted.

The driver of the van was "a little banged up," according to Neagle, but no other injuries were reported.

As of July 16, the signal pole had already been replaced, Neagle

Mountain bikers encouraged to participate in trail building/restoration project

By Annie Sewell

Special to The SUN

Whether you hike, bike or ride a horse, please join DUST2 for a four-day trail building/restoration partnership project led by Tvler Albers, Trails and Wilderness, San Juan National Forest, Pagosa Ranger District set for Aug. 26 through

The trail crew will open the upper nonmotorized section of Treasure Trail. This is a 0.75-milelong section of trail connecting the Continental Divide Trail (CDT) to FS 725 and onto Treasure Trail.

The DUST2 Wheel Club has accepted the challenge of providing 10 volunteers a day to join Albers and his trail crew for this four-day project. While it is our goal to have 10 people camp for all four days, we realize that this may not be realistic, so we have broken the four work days into 40 volunteer slots to fulfill the same goal.

The Treasure Trail is the crown jewel of our area mountain bike trails, with seemingly endless miles of sweeping single-track descending 2,000 vertical feet from Wolf Creek Pass down to the East Fork

The purpose of this project is to construct a trail connecting to the CDT, thereby allowing for better and more aesthetic access to the Treasure Mountain Trail.

Not only will this project increase access to an iconic trail, but it will be a first and important step toward solidifying a much-needed trail-planning partnership with our local U.S. Forest Service district.

It is critical that the members of the Pagosa mountain bike community step up and show support for trail construction and expansion. Please join us and help spread the word.

By Ann Sarnecki Special to The SUN

The Rio Grande National Forest is inviting input on five proposed timber salvage projects on the Conejos Peak Ranger District. All five of the projects implement the previously approved CP District-Wide Salvage Project.

The implementation projects include:

- Klondike 226 acres, located northwest of Platoro reservoir.
- Greyback Up to 806 acres, located northwest of Summitville.
- Grouse Up to 716 acres, located between Jarosa peak and Colo. 17.
- Elwood Up to 815 acres, located on Prospect Mountain.
- Hunt Camp Up to 157 acres, located in the Spruce Hole area along NFSR 107.

These individual salvage projects tiered to the overarching Conejos Peak District-Wide Salvage Project go through another round of review by resource specialists. The public is invited to provide input at an upcoming meeting. The public meeting to discuss these projects is on Tuesday, July 23, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Conejos Peak Ranger District office, 15571 County Road T5, La Jara, Colo.

Conejos Peak District Ranger

Andrea Jones approved the Conejos Peak District-wide Salvage Project in August of 2018. More than 330,000 acres were included in the analysis area on the west side of the district. The decision allows up to 14,000 acres of dead and dying spruce trees to be salvaged over a 10-year period for commercial use, as well as thinning trees near private land to protect structures from wildland fire while protecting important wildlife habitat.

Surveys will be conducted the first and third year after areas are harvested to determine stocking levels of the remaining trees. Tree seedlings grown from locally collected seed sources will be planted in those areas determined to not be adequately stocked.

Maps and specialists reports for each proposed salvage project will be available on the project website under the post-decision tab at www.fs.usda.gov/ project/?project=48818.

For more information, contact Vincent DuPont at the Conejos Peak Ranger District Office at (719) 274-8971.

Illegal hunting charges rack up over $2,000 in fines for Louisiana hunter

Staff Writer

A Louisiana hunter recently pleaded guilty on July 3 to four charges and accumulated more than $2,000 in fines related to illegal hunting practices done northeast of Pagosa Springs near Jackson

Stetson Stech, 29, pleaded guilty to charges of hunting without permission, illegal possession of wildlife, failure to dress and driving an off-road vehicle on U.S. Forest Service land, according to a sentence order from Archuleta County Court.

These infractions took place during the second rifle season in 2018, which was from Oct. 20-28, Wildlife (CPW) spokesperson Joe Lewandowski.

During that second rifle season, a rancher found a partially cut-up elk on his property and contacted CPW and an investigation began, Lewandowski explained in an email to The SUN.

According to Lewandowski, most of the elk was left to rot and the only things taken from the animal were the six-point antlers, one hindquarter and the backstraps.

Eventually, CPW officers were able to identify Stech as the suspect, but no arrests were made at the time, Lewandowski wrote.

Later in the year, CPW officers were able to contact officers with Department for assistance, eventually contacting Stech, who ultimately pleaded guilty to charges, Lewandowski explained.

Hunting without permission is a trespass charge, Lewandowski explained, adding that Stech did not have permission to hunt on private property.

In regard to the illegal possession charge, Lewandowski clarified that this was due to Stech having possession of parts of the animal that was killed illegally.

Stech was charged with failure to dress because, according to Lewandowski, Colorado law requires that all edible parts of an animal be prepared for consumption, some-

In addition to those charges, Stech also drove an off-road vehicle on Forest Service land which is also illegal.

"It is likely that Stech's hunting and fishing privileges will be suspended in Colorado, and possibly 47 other states that are part of the national wildlife compact," Lewandowski wrote. "CPW officers often need the help of the public, hunters and landowners to solve crimes against wildlife. This was one of those cases."

If the public suspects any crimes against wildlife, Lewandowski suggested they report those suspected crimes to the Operation Game Thief at (877) 265-6648.

Elwood Pass road now open

By Brandon Caley Special to The SUN

As of July 12, all the roads within the Pagosa Ranger District, including East Fork Road No. 667, are now open. The road crew was able to complete the East Fork Road repairs late July 11 and open the road to Elwood Pass

To protect road surfaces and for public safety, Forest Service roads are seasonally closed to wheeled motorized vehicles, except snowmobiles operating on snow. They are open to nonmotorized uses, including bicycling, hiking and horseback riding. Roads remain closed until most of the road surface can withstand traffic without damage.

An open gate does not give permission to damage roads. Damage is defined as: ruts 1 inch deep or deeper on gravel roads, or 4 inches deep or deeper on native surface roads. Do not go off roads, except to park adjacent to the road on dry ground.

Teaming up for annual fire hose testing

Members of Pagosa Fire Protection District, with partners from the Archuleta County Office of Emergency Management, work to complete annual fire hose testing requirements. Every year, each section of fire hose must be tested according to National Fire Protection Association regulations to ensure durability and safety. Hose is tested at varying pounds per square inch depending on the size of the hose; each test lasts for five minutes. Hose must withstand pressure test, show no signs of undue stress, fraying or coupling wear in order to complete testing successfully. Once the hoses have passed, they will be available for use and put into rotation on each fire apparatus. Hose testing is a time-consuming process as each hose must be laid out, prepped, tested and put back into service. Crew members and volunteers are working daily on the project, with plans to have this year's hose testing completed by early August.

PFPD safety tips for grills and waterways

By Pagosa Fire Protection District Special to The SUN

July is the season for cooking outside. It is also the month with the most grill fires. Nationally, fire departments average over 10,000 home fires involving grills, hibachis or barbecues per year.

According to the National Fire Protection Agency, these fires cause an annual average of 10 to keep kids and pets safe. Do not left us with much-needed moisture deaths, 160 injuries and $123 million in direct property damage. Adhering to the proper grill safety rules will provide a safe, enjoyable experience.

Grill safety tips

Only use your grill outside positioned on a solid, debris-free surface. Keep it at least 3 feet from siding, deck rails and eaves. Keep a 3-foot safe zone around your grill leave a lit grill unattended.

Grill care

Always clean your grill after each use to remove grease that could cause an unintended fire. Wait until grill is cool to remove coals; place cool coals in a metal container

Water safety

A large snowpack last winter has this summer, which caused waterways to flow swiftly.

Keep children and pets a safe distance from water's edge to prevent accidentally falling in.

Always wear U.S. Coast Guardapproved life vests.

Remain alert and aware when supervising swimmers; do not get distracted by phones, tablets or conversations.

Sixth annual Pirate Plunge 5k Mud Run set for Saturday

By Amy Wilson

Special to The PREVIEW

This year marks the sixth annual Pirate Plunge 5k Mud Run. It is set to take place Saturday, July 20; race start time is at 10 a.m. at Yamaguchi Park.

As always, this mud run does not disappoint. This course is designed to challenge all athletic abilities; with 20 obstacles in this 5k, you can push yourself to your limit or take it slow. The Pirate Plunge is not a timed race, so many of our runners like to team up and help each other through the course.

All ages are welcome to participate, but any runners under the age of 13 years must be accompanied by an adult. Costumes are encouraged. Prizes will be handed out after the race for Best Costumes and Muddiest Runner.

The Pirate Plunge Mud Run is sponsored by the Pagosa Springs High School Athletic Booster Club. All proceeds from this event benefit all high school athletic sports.

To preregister, go to www.pirateplunge.com, or you can register the day of starting at 8 a.m. at Yamaguchi Park. So, it's not too late to get your team together or run it alone; either way, I promise you will have a blast. See you at the Plunge.

Four performances of 'Aladdin KIDS' set for this weekend

By Bill Hudson

Special to The PREVIEW

Sixty-six budding young theater stars, ages 6-12, have been working (and playing) hard at the Pagosa Springs Center for the Arts for the past three weeks — under the guidance of Thingamajig Theatre Company's professional staff and interns — preparing for performances of Disney's "Aladdin KIDS" this weekend, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 19-21. The children have been split into two complementary casts of 33 students each, and each cast will present two performances this weekend: on Friday at 2 p.m., on Saturday at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., and on Sunday at 6 p.m.

Aladdin and his friends are down on their luck until Aladdin discovers a magic lamp and releases a genie who has the power to grant wishes. Hoping to earn the respect (and love) of the beautiful Princess Jasmine, Aladdin embarks on an adventure that tests his will, and his moral character. Based on the award-winning 1992 Disney film, this family-friendly version features expanded characters and new songs guaranteed to open up "a whole new world" for young audiences.

The cast includes second- and third-grade students from Pagosa Peak Open School who are participating by special arrangement with Thingamajig Theatre. Pagosa Peak Open School is a publicly See 'Aladdin' on page 6

Buses ready to roll for Vacation Bible School

By Dorman Diller

Special to The PREVIEW

The buses are ready to roll to pick up children for Vacation Bible School (VBS) next Monday.

VBS at the Pagosa Springs Church of Christ will begin next Monday, July 22, and run through Friday, July 26. Classes will meet daily from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. All children 2 years old through eighth grade are invited to attend the free VBS.

The theme of this year's VBS will be "Safari for the Savior." Each day's lesson is about a story from the life of Paul as he travels and spreads the good news about Jesus Christ. A different character trait from his life is also studied each day. Each student is actively involved as the Bible stories come to life with acting, puppet shows, games, quizzes, songs and crafts.

On Wednesday evening, the children put on a program demonstrating what they have learned in VBS. VBS concludes on Friday with a hot dog picnic in the park. Parents, family and friends are invited to those activities as well as being encouraged to visit the daily classes at any time.

Transportation with the buses will be provided in the downtown area, through Pagosa Lakes and out to Aspen Springs. For the stop nearest you and time of pick up in your area, or for more information, call the church office at 264-2552 or Dorman Diller at 264-4454.

We would be delighted for your children to attend VBS and still have plenty of room. Enrollment forms may be found in the paper. Call the office now and sign up your children so they can attend this exciting time of learning and growing.

funded, year-round, tuition-free charter school open to all Archuleta County families.

Also appearing in the musical production are children of numerous local and visiting families including two talented brothers who will each be handling the role of Aladdin in one of the two groups. Christian Gonzales, one of the two Aladdins, is currently appearing in the Thingamajig 2019 summer season production of "The Who's Tommy" as the 10-year-old version of that play's lead character. He and his brother Daniel — who will appear as Aladdin in the opposite cast — are visiting from Branson, Mo., this summer with their parents, Perry Davis Harper and Amelia Harper, both of whom have lead acting and singing roles in Thingamajig's current Broadway in the Mountains musical theater season. Amelia Harper is playing Donna in "Mamma Mia!" and Harper Davis is playing Dr. Jekyll/Mr. Hyde in "Jekyll and Hyde, the Musical."

Although the kids' camp is focused mainly on the "Aladdin" performances, the children have been exposed to all aspects of theater production, as well as a range of acting techniques, taught by Thingamajig's crew of professional actors and technicians.

"The counselors take turns leading the children through various activities, and we help them review all the material that they've learned," explained Danielle Poznanovic during a break in the camp's busy schedule last week.

In addition to helping to lead the camp, Poznanovic sings lead roles in the main stage productions of "The Who's Tommy" and "Alice in Wonderland."

"We were doing improv games with the kids today, and [actor] Caleb Michael came out and did a playwriting exercise where they had to collaborate on writing a short play. Then they got into groups of three where one of them was the director and the other two acted out the play," Poznanovic continued. "So, they're not just learning 'Aladdin.' They get to experience all kinds of creative aspects.

"Some of the kids might be more into set design, for example, and we did a costume design activity the other day with [company costumer designer] Nanette Cheffers, and we did lighting design with [company lighting designer] Laine Wong

"So, they get exposure to all different aspects of theater."

A separate group of local teens is appearing this summer, alongside a number of the company's professional actors, in Disney's "Alice in Wonderland," with performances every Saturday at 11 a.m. through Aug. 31. Many of those teen actors are past graduates of Thingamajig's kids' camp.

Thingamajig Theatre has been conducting annual summer theater camps for kids since 2012, and recent musical productions have included "Annie," "Willie Wonka" and "Seussical the Musical."

"Aladdin KIDS" will be performed in the Pagosa Springs Center for the Arts' Black Box Theatre.

Tickets for this weekend's "Aladdin KIDS" are $5 for adults and

July and August set to be busy for San Juan Stargazers

By Joan Mieritz Special to The PREVIEW

Every year the Stargazers take part in the free-to-the-public Chimney Rock activity called Life at Chimney Rock, which is Saturday, July 20, and Sunday, July 21, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Stargazers have a booth about astronomy among the many other activities such as yucca pounding, atlatl throwing, pottery making and more that the ancient people did. We will talk about the coming lunar standstill in 2022 and we have more than a dozen astronomy activities for all ages from coloring for the youngest to an adult word search and lots of educational and fun things in between.

Some of the pottery that is for sale, made by Native Americans with ancestors at Chimney Rock, is related to astronomy. It is very cleverly created and the prices are reasonable. The Indian tacos and fry bread are "out of this world." It is an enjoyable experience that you and your children or grandchildren will not want to miss. There also are extra tours to the ruins (regular price).

On Thursday, July 25, we will not have a usual meeting. At 6 p.m., we will have a Telescope Clinic to help people figure out their telescopes. Call 335-8286 to reserve a telescope expert to help you. At 7 p.m., instead of a program, there will be handson lessons on constellations and Messier objects. We will use our new

The goal is that you will know and be able to identify more constellations and Messier objects, including galaxies, star clusters, open and globular and nebula of various types. It will be a valuable learning session developed by Joan Mieritz, who is a master teacher of easy and fun learning. You will feel really smart after this session.

We have star parties on Friday, July 26 (Stars and Galaxies), and Friday, Aug. 9, (Our Solar System).

We need more telescopes at Chimney Rock. If you own a telescope and bring it to share, you and a guest do not need to pay to get into the Star Party and we will provide training and help.

On Thursday, Aug. 8, we will have a special joint meeting with the Chimney Rock Interpretive Association (CRIA). We will meet at The Springs Resort at 6 p.m. for delicious hors d'oeuvres. Then, at 7 p.m., a very special guest, Dr. Erica Ellingson, professor of astrophysical and planetary science at the University of Colorado, Boulder, will speak. Her research interests include galaxies, dark matter and observational cosmology, and she is fascinated with all aspects of how humans connect with the sky and understand the cosmos. Her recent projects include developing public programs on the astronomy of the Ancestral Puebloans in collaboration with Chaco Cultural National Park and Chimney Rock National Monument. She has been at Chimney Rock numerous times doing research and will share some of her findings.

Her talk should interest the general Pagosa community, Chimney Rock volunteers and astronomy people. I want to encourage everyone to attend. CRIA members make treats to share at a 6 p.m. snack potluck, but the San Juan Stargazers club will buy special food so our members do not need to prepare something. Just show up. It should be very valuable and it is special fun when we have joint meetings with CRIA and see how many people are involved with Chimney Rock National Monument.

We invite people who want to learn more about our amazing universe to all our events

Calling all veterans and family members: Operation Veteran Re-Connect set for July 26

By Charlotte Ann Jones Special to The PREVIEW

Veterans for Veterans of Archuleta County is very busy preparing for an event called Operation Veteran Re-Connect. It is a public information forum to inform, empower and reconnect veterans and family members to their highest potential by education, presentations of wellness programs, referrals to service agencies and assisting in claiming their earned benefits.

The event will be on Friday, July 26, at Pagosa Springs High School from 2 to 6 p.m. The event will include 24 agencies or organizations that are offering services to veterans and their families.

The program will include a brief introduction to the event and then participants can visit the tables of the organizations. Each organization will have someone present to provide information on the services offered. Everything the public would like to know about veterans and veteran services will be available. Various organizations will offer employment or opportunities for volunteer services. Refreshments will be served.

There are over 1,200 veterans who live in Archuleta County and some have never taken advantage of the benefits that are available. Operation Veteran Re-Connect would like to facilitate veterans as much as possible. The goal is to provide a networking environment that is geared to veterans.

By having an open mind, with good information and a support system in place, veterans will be able to reconnect with work, family, body, mind and spirit and be able to be an asset to the community.

For more information, call Vets 4 Vets at 799-8387 or attend meetings at 10 a.m. Tuesdays at St. Patrick's Episcopal Church, 225 S. Pagosa Blvd. The first Tuesday of each month is breakfast at 9 a.m. and meeting at 10 a.m. All are welcome.

Panel discussion on death set for July 22

Special to The PREVIEW

There will be a panel discussion held on Monday, July 22, at 1 p.m. in the Ruby M. Sisson Memorial Library large meeting room. The members of our panel will contribute information for a valuable discussion. The ultimate goal of this meeting is that each person later have a more valuable discussion with their family so that better decisions can be made openly knowing thoughts and wishes. We will have advanced direc-

The panel, barring an emergency, should include the Archuleta County coroner, a sheriff's deputy, a doctor, a grief counselor, Hospice of Mercy and a representative from a local mortuary. We are also hoping that valuable experiences and insights.

We will briefly discuss Proposition 106, called End of Life Options Act, passed by Colorado voters in 2016. In 2017, 69 Colorado residents and in 2018, 125 Colorado residents made use of the options provided by this act. We will not be discussing values and ethics because Colorado voters have already decided that our residents should have certain choices. We will discuss what this might mean to each of us.

A follow-up discussion will be held on Aug. 6 at 1 p.m. at the library for issues and questions that need more time.

The Pagosa Earth Community is doing this two-part program to honor the memory of Dr. Karen Goodwin, who was a founding member of the Pagosa Earth Community. People were asked to do something in her memory. We hope this will be a fitting tribute to a wonderful, talented and conscientious friend who is greatly missed.

This may seem like a morbid and unpleasant topic, but it is most often empowering to face reality. Death can have a positive impact on life. Besides, it is inevitable, so we might as well make it positive and have some control.

We also ask you to mark your calendar for a stimulating and inspiring talk by Fran Korten. She will be speaking at the library on Sept. 10 or 11. Her husband, David Korten, who wrote "When Corporations Rule the World," is the reason we have a Pagosa Earth Community. They both started YES Magazine, which is available at the library. We hope you will decide to come.

Thingamajig summer actors to be auctioned off at Broadway Gala fundraiser

By Carole Howard

Special to The PREVIEW

You may already have seen this summer's brilliant actors, singers and dancers perform in one or more of Thingamajig Theatre Company's extraordinary summer musicals: "Ring of Fire," "Mamma Mia," "The Who's Tommy," "Jekyll and Hyde" and "Alice in Wonderland IR.

Now you can mingle with them and watch them perform in a different setting — this year's muchanticipated Broadway Gala concert and fundraising event on Tuesday, July 30, at 5 p.m. at the Pagosa Springs Center for the Arts.

It's a special evening to raise funds for Pagosa's only nonprofit professional theater that will include a cabaret-style show starring the actors and directed by Boni McIntyre, a live and silent auction for unique interactions with the actors, live music by the actors, and backstage tours conducted by cast members.

Delicious hors d'oeuvres will be catered. There will be a cash bar with tips going to the cast and crew.

Only about half of the costs of Thingamajig productions are covered by ticket sales. The remainder of the theater's funding comes from private donors, business sponsors, program advertising, grants and proceeds from this annual Broadway Gala fundraiser — the most important event of the year to keep the theater up and running.

Tickets are $100 for this dressy evening and are on sale now at www.pagosacenter.org or by calling 731-7469. That's also where you can purchase tickets for the summer musicals.

Unique auction items

The actors are working on their acts for the cabaret concert and their contributions to the auction — and keeping them a secret surprise for now.

A look at a few of last year's oneof-a-kind auction offerings gives you a good idea of what very special fun will be available this year. They included an actor's serenade at a private party, a brunch with several of the actors, a sunrise hike led by two actors, and a personalized cocktail party featuring a drink created just for you.

Also, some of the perennial favorites will be offered again this year. One is a progressive dinner for 10 people when actors chauffeur you and your friends to four incredible locations where you'll enjoy wine pairings, serenades and delicious food prepared by the cast. Another is a photo shoot for four when the actors will do your hair and makeup as you enjoy champagne and chocolate, then provide costumes before you pose with the cast for a very special picture that could be your best Christmas card ever. A third is an evening campfire sing-along with the actors.

"We know from previous galas that our guests have been surprised and delighted by the evening's festivities — and especially the clever and creative auction opportunities," said Laura Moore, executive director and co-founder of Thingamajig Theatre with her husband, Tim. "We are deeply grateful for everyone's support because the five musicals that folks are seeing on stage this summer would not be possible without the funding raised at the gala."

The five summer shows

This summer's talented actors are performing in a blockbuster summer season aptly titled "Broadway in the Mountains."

Five outstanding Broadway musical hits are playing in rotation at the Pagosa Springs Center for the Arts. "Ring of Fire" is a jukebox musical based on the songs of Johnny Cash. "Mamma Mia!" is a romantic musical comedy featuring the songs of pop group ABBA. "The Who's Tommy" is a rock musical with songs by Peter Townshend. "Jekyll and Hyde" is a dark horror thriller musical loosely based on the Robert Louis Stevenson novella.

These musicals will be performed in rotation with seven to eight shows a week until Sept. 1. "Ring of Fire" continues until Sept. 15.

"Alice in Wonderland JR" is a special musical for families, with nine performances running on weekends until Aug. 24. The show features both professional actors and local teens, fulfilling a longtime dream of Laura Moore to provide on-stage acting opportunities for youngsters ages 13-17 who have graduated from Thingamajig's Children's Theatre Summer Camps.

Save the date for Auction for the Animals

By Mike Stoll

Special to The PREVIEW

On Aug. 23, the Humane Society of Pagosa Springs will host the Auction for the Animals at the Ross Aragon Community Center.

The annual August auction is the Humane Society's largest and most important fundraising event of the year, so please mark your calendar now to attend a worthwhile and highly entertaining event.

2019 marks 25 consecutive years for the Auction for the Animals, and our Silver Anniversary gala celebration will truly be a fun and festive evening in support of the area's only animal shelter. Auction attendees will be treated to a sumptuous dinner and dessert, complemented by a cash bar with a variety of fine beverages. The Tim Sullivan Band will provide musical entertainment, so bring your dancing shoes if you're inclined.

The silent and live auctions will feature fabulous merchandise donated by local businesses and individuals as well as gala trip packages, gift baskets and an array of awesome items from around the globe. This year's auction will be conducted by a company and will feature streamlined check-in and check-out along with an online site to preview auction items the week of the event. For additional auction information, visit our website at www.humanesociety.

Event tickets are $50 and will go on sale Friday, July 26. Tickets may be purchased at the Humane Society thrift store and animal shelter, Two Old Crows Gallery or by calling 264-5549. Tickets will not be available at the door. This is a very popular event that has sold out the past several years, so don't delay and remember to buy your tickets in advance.

Whether you can attend the auction or not, don't forget to purchase tickets for the third annual Raining Cats and Dogs Raffle. Raffle tickets are only $25 (or five tickets for $100) and one lucky winner will receive one-third of the ticket sale proceeds -last year's winner took home over $1,600. The shelter animals get the lion's share of the proceeds to help pay for food and veterinary care.

The winning raffle ticket will be drawn during the Auction for the Animals and the lucky ticket holder does not need to be present to win. Raffle tickets are available at the Humane Society animal shelter, thrift store and administration office. Buy some raffle tickets between now and Aug. 23 and lend your support to the shelter animals.

The Humane Society of Pagosa Springs is a local private nonprofit organization that operates the only animal shelter in Archuleta County. Your local humane society does not receive funding from the Humane Society of the United States, American Humane, ASPCA or any other national animal welfare organizations. Private donations, grants and thrift store revenues cover only a portion of animal shelter operating expenses. The remainder of shelter costs must be met through fundraising events like the Auction for the Animals.

Funds raised through the auction go directly to benefit the homeless dogs and cats in our community.

Board members and volunteers donate their time and talents to handle fundraising efforts by the organization and new volunteers are always welcome. Auction donations are tax-deductible, and auction items and financial sponsorships are currently being accepted.

For more information about donating or the benefits of sponsoring this year's Auction for the Animals, please contact the Humane Society of Pagosa Springs administration office at 264-5549. The Humane Society of Pagosa Springs is a 501(c) (3) charitable organization.

dobro player Ickes (who also plays superlative lap steel guitar in the duo on occasion) and acoustic/electric guitarist Hensley continues to delight and astound audiences of traditional American music around the globe. Since the duo decided to join forces and make their collaboration the focus of their touring and recording careers in 2015, after cutting their first album, "Before The Sun Goes Down" (nominated for a Grammy), they have continued to bring their music to venues near and far.

They've performed in places as close to home as Nashville's world famous Station Inn — a frequent and favorite showcase — and as far away as Denmark's Tonder Festival, as well as an impressive number of the most prestigious U.S. music festivals, including Rockygrass, ROMP, Wintergrass, Bluegrass Underground, Pagosa Folk 'N Bluegrass and the Freshgrass Festival, just to name a few. They have toured the European continent four times, as well as England, Ireland and Australia.

Their second album, "Country Blues" — released in 2016 — testified to the growing diversity and expansion of their collaborative talents and repertoire. The duo were key players on "Original," the recent, highly lauded album by bluegrass giant Bobby Osborne; their participation garnered a Recorded Event Of The Year Award for Bobby's version of "Got To Get A Message To You" on that album at this year's International Bluegrass Music Association (IBMA) Awards; they also were on the 2016 Recorded Event winner, "Fireball," featuring Special Consensus, in 2016. Ickes and Hensley have shared a number of concert bills with the great and influential mandolin master David Grisman and Australia's fleet finger picking guitarist Tommy Emmanuel, both enthusiastic admirers of the duo.

Ickes and Hensley continue to leave their singular and evergrowing footprint on the world of traditional music of America — be it bluegrass, traditional country, blues or jazz. Of their collaboration, Ickes has said this: "It works in so many different ways ... Trey and I have always clicked and when he and I know what's going on, everyone else just grabs on - and that's kind of the fun of the gig; it's constantly changing.'

Whether they're appearing as a duo, with a bass or with bass, drums and fiddle, they never fail to kick up some musical dust. The excitement at their gigs is palpable, it is contagious and it is constant. Their sets tend to be a heady mix of the familiar and beloved and the new and unexpected. Hensley's list of powerful original songs has grown quickly since the two started working together and Ickes invariably plays several sparkling instrumentals, both on dobro and lap steel, new and old. He is also on record as saying that one of his great satisfactions as a dobro player is accompanying a great vocalist, something the partnership allows him every night.

Ickes, who grew up in California's Bay Area, cut his teeth on traditional bluegrass, since several family members played. He fell in love with the dobro, or more precisely the resophonic guitar, almost immediately, after his brother Pat played a tape of the legendary Mike Auldridge for him. After moving to Nashville in the early '90s, he quickly became one of the instrument's acknowledged masters. He soon began touring with several top bluegrass acts and also became a familiar face at recording studios in town. His fluid, lyrical, vet stinging style has graced the recordings and concerts of bluegrass artists as diverse as Earl Scruggs, Alison Krauss, The Cox Family, Tony Rice and more, plus such mainstream artists as Vince Gill, Alan Jackson, Toby Keith, Reba McEntire and even erstwhile rocker David Lee Roth on his "bluegrass" album. Additionally, Ickes has won the Dobro Player of the Year Award from the IBMA an unprecedented 15 times. He was also a founding member of the critically acclaimed bluegrass supergroup Blue Highway for 21 years. Fulfilling a lifelong dream of not only meeting but playing with his personal number one hero, Ickes was a key member of the band who backed fellow Californian Merle Haggard on Haggard's 2007 album "The Bluegrass Sessions."

Hensley shares Ickes' admiration for the legendary Hag and fea-

In fact, his rich, resonant baritone voice can sound at times uncannily like The Okie From Muskogee — but he is capable of far more than that. Hensley's rendition of The Grateful Dead's "Friend Of The Devil" needs to be heard live to be fully appreciated. Hensley also shares Haggard's well-known love of western swing, and he sings it and plays it with authority; Ickes loves playing it, too, often on lap steel guitar. Hensley is also a talented writer; the band's repertoire is dotted with his original compositions. Both he and Ickes have what is called in the trade "big ears," and this musical curiosity has enhanced their music immeasurably.

Even more precocious than his musical partner, Hensley grew up in eastern Tennessee, one of the cradles of traditional music. He doesn't seem to have ever doubted what he was meant to do, and in fact, when he was 11 years old, he was brought onstage by Marty Stuart to play with Stuart and Earl Scruggs — at the Grand Ole Opry.

He was making music — and albums — with famous players before his voice changed. He has played onstage or opened for artists as diverse as Johnny Cash, Charlie Daniels, Steve Wariner and Peter Frampton. It was his singing on what was meant to be a scratch vocal on a Blue Highway album that first brought him to the attention of Ickes. Ultimately, the vocal stayed on the album, Hensley moved to Nashville, and in partnership with Ickes, they began to make all manner of exciting music. Shortly after Hensley appeared on the scene in Music City, bluegrass Hall of Famer Roland White was heard to remark in wonderment that he had a new favorite guitar player in Nashville, and White knows a few things about guitar players. Needless to say, White is not the only fan Hensley has made in Nashville.

In many ways, this musical partnership is the ideal vehicle for both partners. Their excitement at playing together continues unabated as their enthusiasm charges the Ickes and Hensley will bring their awesome musicianship and diverse musical style to the 2019 main festival stage on Sept. 1 with a 2:30 p.m. set.

The Arcadian Wild

The Arcadian Wild began in the fall of 2013 when a few choir students from Lipscomb University in Nashville met up after class to jam for the afternoon. Five years later, the band now consists of guitarist Isaac Horn, mandolinist Lincoln Mick and fiddler Paige Park. Currently, the folk group is touring off the successful release of their sophomore record, "Finch in the Pantry" (May 2019), which debuted at No. 9 on the Billboard bluegrass charts.

With roots running deep in formal vocal music, and influenced by progressive bluegrass and folk artists, The Arcadian Wild explores a unique acoustic sound that is simultaneously unified and diverse, offering up songs of invitation and calls to come and see, to find refuge and rest, or to journey and wonder.

You can catch The Arcadian Wild on the festival main stage on Aug. 31 at 11 a.m.

More information

Tickets and additional information about the festival, including the main stage schedule and information on all of the artists, can be found online at www.folkwest. com. The discussion was with our son over our outside furniture. Each vear we move furniture from storage out into the yard in preparation for another summer season. Al's old blue tractor, a '50 Jubilee, has flowers planted in its front loader. Swings and gliders are taken down to the river where we sit and dream. For us, it's the best of country living, being surrounded by nature with things that hold fond memo-

We continued our conversation. "Most of these things belonged to your dad's family. Your dad loves these things and so do I. We're not ready to give them up.'

We came to an impasse on almost every item as we discussed what to keep and what to let go. I was not ready to let go of anything — he was not going to leave things alone. In total exhaustion, he asked, "What's more important to you, the memory of the person who owned it or the thing that has turned to rust?"

He is of a different generation, a progressive modern minimalist with zero emotional attachment to things. My generation will conjure memories of those who passed before us by acknowledging or using those things that passed through their hands. For me and my Sweet Al, it doesn't matter if a chair has a broken leg. With a little duct tape or a spot of super glue, we have an immediate reminder of a person or event that touched our hearts. My son says, "I can get a new chair and still remember you."

It's likely the way things have always been. Each next generation looks at things a little differently from the prior. We see things as farmhouse, rustic or shabby chic. Our son sees things as outhouse, rusty or shabby — well, you get the picture. What we see as memories, he sees as time to let go.

I like to dust off and prop up the old, even if it requires my Sweet Al a few extra hours with wrench in hand. Our son sees it as me putting too much work on his dad. I know it's a great deal of work, but there are a lot of stories layered between the chipped coats of paint – Mama, Uncle Leo, Aunt Daisy and Grandma Blanche.

I gave in to our son on several items. I wasn't happy to know that a swing that once sat on Al's mother's porch was on his toss list. I was, however, happy to see the swing still standing in storage after his dump run. I had told him to toss out the plastic stacking chairs. He said, "Let's keep them. They are lightweight and easier to move to and from the river." Although we agree on little, we do eventually find some measure of compromise.

UUs to investigate spiritual consumerism

Bv Bob LeCour

Special to The PREVIEW

Unitarian Universalism (UU) can be described as a "living" faith tradition. UU wisdom and spirituality is sustained by many sources. Our primary source for spirituality is the "direct experience of that transcending mystery" that each of us can and do experience. Like many other faiths, UUs treasure their spirituality and the many diverse experiences and the forms in which it expresses itself.

But times are indeed "a changing." Unique to American capitalism is the exploitation of spirituality as a consumer product. We live in a culture of consumer spiritualism where spirituality has become a commodity to be packaged, marketed and sold for profit.

This Sunday, we will investigate how this commodification of spirituality affects us. What changes within our deepest self when we are "sold" spirituality on a daily basis? How are we to avoid a "buyer beware" attitude toward the consumption of spiritual wisdom? How does it make us feel when we are force-fed the belief that spirituality is to be consumed rather than produced?

Join us on this Sunday, July 21, at 10:30 a.m., when we will discover the peace that comes from generating spirituality rather than consuming it. This service will be produced and marketed by Pastor Dean Cerny.

Check out our calendar of events at pagosauu.org. All of these events take place at Unit B-15 of the Greenbriar Plaza. From North Pagosa Boulevard, turn onto Park Avenue, then turn into the Greenbriar Plaza, drive to the east side of the parking lot and look for the Unitarian Universalist sign, facing north

If you would like to schedule a private meeting with Cerny, or for further information, call 731-7900.

Sandy Artzberger, Becky Dorian, Mary Stokes and Jackie Cox laugh and learn together as they read Liz Curtis Higgs' "Slightly Bad Girls of the Bible." Higgs will present a two-day retreat on the topic "God is with you" in September, hosted by the Spirited Women's Bible Study group from St. Patrick's Episcopal Church.

Liz Curtis Higgs to present retreat at St. Patrick's Church

By Lynne McCrudden

Special to The PREVIEW

The Spirited Women's Bible Study group from St. Patrick's Episcopal Church is excited to bring to Pagosa Springs internationally known Christian author and speaker Liz Curtis Higgs.

Higgs will be presenting a twoday retreat on the topic "God is with you" on Sept. 18 and 19. On Sept. 18, the session will start at 6:45 p.m. and, on Sept. 19, it will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude by 1 p.m. Higgs' remarks will be based on her popular first book, "Slightly Bad Girls of the Bible," which looks at the lives of women from the book of Genesis and the choices they made.

Higgs helps today's women see that our sisters from the past faced the same issues and problems we do today. We have free will and make choices, not always the ones God would like us to make. But God does not turn away from us when we make the wrong choice; he is there with us as we learn, struggle and find peace in our relationship with God. Higgs will make you laugh, see yourself as one of God's chosen and rejoice in being a woman of God.

Tickets are $45 and are available at St. Patrick's Episcopal Church, 225 S. Pagosa Blvd., Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. There are a limited number of seats, so please stop by the church or give a call at 731-5801 to arrange for purchase or if you have questions.

To be fair, our son does a lot of work for us around our property. Maybe he should have a louder voice. That said, and even though we would do anything for our children, my Sweet Al and I have become very accustomed to our little patch of green grass. Our son can be exasperating at times and Al gets sad about losing things of importance. Fortunately, he respects when I hold the line for his dad, even if it takes a bit of convincing.

Having multiple children means you always have at least one person who can mediate in times of need. For me, that translates to trying to find at least one of them who will take my side. Alas, some battles are better not fought. I called one of our daughters on the day of my son's dump run. She asked me what the problem was. "The air is pretty thick around here. Your brother wants to throw away all of our stuff."

She said, "He wants nice things for you. That's all. He wants you both to have an easier life, more freedom. Sometimes you have to put the old race horse out to pasture."

"Race horse? I have no desire to get dressed up for a big race and don a floppy hat, let alone do I care about some old horse. I just want a nice place to sit and drink ice tea and reminisce."

My green antique porcelain table from Al's grandmother is back on the patio. Now I have a place to put my plants. The old tractor seats for around the fire pit are out and ready to attach to cut logs.

The irony of winning that argument came a few days later when a swollen Lower Blanco carried off those that were left by the river last year. Unfortunately, my Sweet Al backed out of the garage and hit the 1940 glider that belonged to Aunt Daisy. I really hated to see that go, although my son relished in the moment.

Is it contentment that we have entered into? Do we need to step out of the picture for a few moments to see how things really look? Have we lived with some things too long that we have made them permanent?

Final brushstroke: So, what is more important, the person we remember or the rust we are holding on to? After all, not even a new coat of paint can bring some things back to life. I guess we have to ask ourselves a different question. Are we keeping the old horse in the pasture so we can see what we want to remember? Perhaps we need to set it free so its memories take on a different form in our hearts and minds. I'm not sure there is just one answer, but we always seem to find it at the right time.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

HANSWER:

A tribute to love and friendship

By Richard Gammill Special to The PREVIEW

On Thursday morning, the telephone rang. My wife, Jan, looked at the caller's name on the screen and handed the phone to me. We both knew what to expect. "Rich, this is LaRue. Berry's gone; he passed away on Tuesday. His service is on Saturday. I wanted to make sure you knew."

The service would be in Aurora, Texas, 650 miles from home, with visitation on Friday evening. When I hung up the phone, Jan said, "You have to be there." A couple of hours later, I pulled out of the driveway and began my journey.

During two days of driving, I thought about life and death and friendships. Berry and I first met when we were both visiting South Fork in May 2013, where each of us had lived previously. We found that we lived just 50 miles apart in North Texas and were both writers. We quickly became friends, visited each other's homes and joined each other's writers' groups. Until Jan and I moved back to Colorado in September 2014, Berry and I were together at least twice monthly. Even after our move, we continued to critique each other's writings and encourage each other's story telling efforts.

Then came Berry's cancer diagnosis in 2016, followed by months of painful treatments. Despite the ravages of the disease and the debilitating effects of the treatments, Berry refused to give in to complaints or self-pity. He completed a novel and had it self-published. He continued working on a second novel even as he weakened. He and LaRue finally decided to discontinue an experimental round of treatments that cost him his vocal chords and promised only more discomfort.

On Aug. 11, 2018, LaRue wrote an email quoting 2 Timothy 4:7: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith"

The letter went on: "Berry is sure and certain that Jesus Christ is all He claims to be, that Heaven exists, that if we are believers, we are forgiven our sins in spite of their magnitude and our being so laggardly in reaching out to take God's hand... At this point, he's pretty excited at the prospect of checking out the place Jesus has prepared for

A Matter of Faith

As I drove those miles into Texas, I thought about the power of a friendship, even one as short as this one, to make a deep imprint upon life.

him behind the Golden Door ..."

As I drove those miles into Texas, I thought about the power of a friendship, even one as short as this one, to make a deep imprint upon life. Berry showed me how a friendship is supposed to work.

The service, in a large rural Baptist church, was subdued but joyous, ending with a rousing rendition of "Swing Down Chariot."

Following the service, I drove an hour north to the cemetery in Beatrice to attend the burial service. As I drove, I listened live to the vote being taken to affirm the appointment of Brett Kavanaugh to the Supreme Court. Vice President Mike Pence announced the results just as I approached the cemetery. The Senate room was forced to be silent, but chaos erupted in the street outside.

At the graveside, several mourners voiced their appreciation for our departed friend. Quiet love and affection set the tone.

In a polarized political world, angry voices loudly proclaim division and disharmony. In that world, there are friends and there are enemies and they merit different kinds of treatment.

In the Kingdom of Heaven, we seek to obey these words of Jesus: "But to you who are listening I say: Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who mistreat you" — Luke 7:27-28 (NIV).

Whether it is toward friends or enemies, it's the same: love and do good.

My friend, Berry Hawkins, showed me and many others what that means.

Hot water and high hopes

When mining activities increased in the upper Animas River mining camps during the early 1870s, supporting communities sprouted in the lower Animas River Valley. Because the growing season was longer at the lower elevations, they were able to grow vegetables and fruit for the Silverton Market.

They also got first crack at new miners coming into the San Juans and first crack at the successful miners who'd been working the mines long enough to have a jingle in their jeans. Winters in the high San Juans were bitterly cold and the snow unbearably deep. Summers were short, making gardening almost impossible.

Consequently, a goodly number of the miners spent winters in the lower-elevation communities where they abandoned their donkeys and drank until their emptypocket "just one more?" plea to bartenders who'd heard everything fell on deaf ears. The braying beasts of burden hee-hawed and gee-hawed themselves into bands of troublemakers that forced the locals to spend a lot of time and money trying, at no avail, to get rid of them.

More people than ever were seeing the Great Pagosa Hot Springs. The Silverton Miner newspaper reported, "Quite a large number of San Juaners are enroute for Silverton via Pagosa Springs and the Animas Canyon Toll Road."

The same paper noted that a mail route had been established from Garland City to Silverton via Pagosa Springs and Animas City. After July 1, Pagosa Springs was to have daily mail service from

Just so you know, in those days, Garland City was a town on the west side of the San Luis Valley near Fort Garland. Alamosa and Animas City were new cities established by the recently installed narrow gauge railroad. Animas City was replaced by Durango shortly after the railroad arrived. Toll roads sprang up through almost every viable pass in the San Juans. The toll roads didn't last long.

Public accommodations in Pagosa Springs were nonexistent because the springs were still owned by the federal government. No action had yet been taken by the government on the many ownership claims filed on the hot springs. Visitors and health seekers desiring to use the waters were left to their own devices. Either they obtained permission to use one of the private bathhouses or they

Senior Center to offer AARP Smart Driver course

By Cheryl Wilkinson

PREVIEW Columnist

The AARP Smart Driver course, offered by AARP Driver Safety, is the nation's first and largest refresher course designed specifically for drivers age 50 and older. For more than 35 years, the course has taught 16 million drivers proven safety strategies so they can continue driving safely for as long as possible.

Why take the course?

Over nine in 10 course participants report changing at least one key driving behavior for the better as a result what they learned in the course and over eight in 10 participants felt that information they learned in the course has prevented them from being in a crash. Plus, you may be eligible to receive an insurance discount upon completing the course, so consult your insurance agent for details.

AARP membership is not required to take the course.

The classroom course costs only $15 for AARP members and $20 for nonmembers.

To register, please call (970) 462-9613.

Due to popular demand, the Pagosa Springs Senior Center is hosting a fifth class on Oct. 4 from 1 to 5 p.m.

Zentangle

Zentangle is a form of relaxation using easy-to-learn patterns, drawn by focusing on single lines one at a time. The method focuses on simple elemental strokes that anyone can draw, regardless of creative ability, and allows the mind and body to release stress while creating beautiful images.

The class instructor will be Roberta Strickland, CZT. She can be reached at 946-4582 or 264-2167.

The next class will be Aug. 7 at 1 p.m.

History (Book) Club

Are you interested in reading and talking about history with others? If so, please join us the History (Book) Club and bring your ideas and experiences as we continue a history discussion group at the Senior Center.

The discussions will cover many historical subjects based on the preferences of the group. Please come and bring your friends who might also be interested.

Facilitated by Jim Van Liere, the group meets the third Wednesday of every month.

The next meeting will be Aug. 21 at 1 p.m. in the Community Café dining room at the Senior Center.

Caregiver support group

The next caregiver support group is scheduled for Aug. 20 from 1:15 to 2:45 p.m. and will be facilitated by Elaine Stumpo.

If you are a caregiver of a friend or a family member, please join us for this support and respite group. Adults age 18 and older are eligible to participate. A support group can have significant positive effects on caregivers' overall well-being. It is a chance to speak with other caregivers who have common experiences with caregiving, learn about resources available in the community and nationally, learn how to keep yourself healthy so you can better deliver the care, and is a chance for respite.

Learn practical self-care information, talk through challenges and ways of coping and learn about community resources and support.

For more information, please call 264-2167.

Health and wellness

The Senior Center is continuing the pilot program which expands health and wellness services to Archuleta County seniors. The program includes wellness and blood pressure monitoring or allows individual area seniors to discuss two subjects of their choice.

There is no charge for Medicare enrollees. Participant IDs will include Medicare card, photo ID and, if necessary, any supplemental insurances. No Medicaid is accepted at this time. Participants are encouraged to bring a list of their current medications.

The goal of the outreach clinic is to provide care to those who are not able to travel.

The next health and wellness date will be Wednesday, Aug. 21, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Colorado Forest Legacy Program applications due July 31

By Robin Young
PREVIEW Columnist

The Colorado State Forest Service (CSFS) is accepting Forest Legacy Program proposals from Colorado landowners. The program authorizes the CSFS or U.S. Forest Service to purchase permanent conservation easements on private forest lands to prevent those lands from being converted to nonforest uses.

The application deadline is July 31 for federal fiscal year 2021 funding and proposals must be submitted by standard mail.

The purpose of the Colorado Forest Legacy Program is to protect environmentally important private forest areas that are threatened by conversion to nonforest uses. The Extension Viewpoints program provides an opportunity for private landowners to retain ownership and management of their land while receiving compensation for unrealized development rights.

Forest lands that contain important scenic, cultural, recreation and water resources, including fish and wildlife habitat and other ecological values, and that support traditional forest uses, will receive priority. Landowners who elect to participate in the program are required to follow a land management plan approved by the CSFS. Activities consistent with the management plan are permitted, including timber harvesting, grazing and recreation activities.

The Colorado State Forest Stewardship Coordinating Committee will evaluate proposals and recommend to the state forester those proposals that have sufficient merit to forward to the U.S. Forest Service. Forwarded proposals will then compete at a regional and national level for funding.

For additional information or to obtain an application packet, contact Carolyn Aspelin at (970) 491-1869 or carolyn.aspelin@colostate.edu.

Applications also are available online at http://csfs.colostate.edu/funding-assistance.

Bird of the Week

This week's Bird of the Week, compliments of the Weminuche Audubon Society and Audubon Rockies, is the yellow-headed blackbird.

OK, so we are used to the cacophonous interludes and red flashes of the red-winged blackbirds when they return to our regional wetlands in springtime. This week's highlighted bird is yet another loud and beautiful blackbird species. The yellow-headed blackbird spends its breeding season in freshwater marshes roosting and feeding in cattails, bulrushes and other emergent vegetation. Males seek out nesting locations, typically right above water where food is readily abundant for feeding nestlings. Mature males will often mate with a number of females in one site, outcompeting younger males, red-winged blackbirds and even marsh wrens for choice locations. The females construct woven nests deep in the vegetation of their chosen male's territories, where a single clutch can yield two to five eggs.

Many observers have likened the song of this bird to that of the grating, rusty hinge on a swinging gate. Others claim it sounds almost computer-generated. Regardless, this bird is a unique songster and a visit to a wetland setting when they are active in breeding behavior is unforgettable, as they fly back and forth busily across the water, defending nests, catching insects and feeding their nestlings.

Males are showy with bright yellow heads and dark black eye rings, lores, and bodies. Females and juveniles have less discernible yellow on their heads and throats and body plumage is browner. Their long, conical bills are built primarily for seed and grain eating, as they spend the remainder of the year in larger groups feeding in the varied chaparral, grass, and croplands of the southwestern United States and interior Mexico.

To observe these birds, pay a visit to one of our many marshes or cattail-lined areas of local lakes and keep your eyes peeled and ears tuned for this large and gregarious blackbird.

For information on local bird-watching events, visit www.weminucheaudubon.org and www.facebook.com/weminucheaudubon/.
