Propane leak suspected in fatal explosion and fire

By Randi Pierce
Staff Writer

An explosion and subsequent structure fire in the Timber Ridge Ranch subdivision claimed the life of a woman and left a man in critical condition on Oct. 11.

At approximately 7:12 p.m. on Oct. 11, Archuleta County sheriff's deputies overheard a loud explosion in the vicinity of the Aspen Village subdivision, behind Walmart, a press release from Archuleta County Undersheriff Derek Woodman indicates.

Simultaneously, Woodman's release explains, Archuleta County Combined Dispatch began receiving numerous 911 calls indicating that there had been an explosion and fire at 994 Cool Pines Drive in the Timber Ridge Ranch subdivision in unincorporated Archuleta County.

One of the 911 calls, Woodman's release explains, was made from inside the residence by one of the occupants indicating the existence of the explosion and subsequent fire.

The caller indicated there were two occupants in the structure at the time of the explosion, the release explains.

At the time of the explosion, Woodman told The SUN, one of Tuesday accident claims life of Pagosa man

By Chris Mannara
Staff Writer

An accident involving a bicycle and a truck that occurred Tuesday afternoon on U.S. 160 has claimed the life of a Pagosa Springs resident.

According to Colorado State Patrol Capt. Adrian Driscoll, the cyclist, Marcel Barel, 88, of Pagosa Springs, was in the paved center median and attempted to cross eastbound traffic when a Ford F-150, driven by Richard Clark, 24, of Durango, struck Barel on the side.

Both Barel and Clark were eastbound on U.S. 160, Driscoll described.

Driscoll noted that Clark had a passenger, an unidentified male, 59, out of Colorado Springs; both parties were wearing seat belts.

Barel was wearing a helmet at the time of the accident. He was transported to UCHealth in Colorado Springs and was pronounced deceased at 7:22 p.m.

No citations were issued to the driver of the F-150, Driscoll

County: No moratorium on short-term rental permit applications

By John Finefrock
Staff Writer

Archuleta County will continue to accept new applications for short-term rentals (STRs), despite consideration of a moratorium on new permits at Tuesday's Archuleta County Board of County Commissioners' meeting.

A motion to put a moratorium in place died without being seconded, meaning the county will continue to accept new STR applications per the regulations adopted late last year.

Prior to the moratorium's consideration on Tuesday, Brad Callender, head of the Archuleta County Development Services Department (formerly the planning department), explained he thought the moratorium would give the county commissioners and county staff time to tweak the STR regulations to make them more effective for everyone.

"I think the moratorium gives the commissioners and staff some ability to look at some other jurisdictions and how they're handling [STRs]. Either a streamlining [of] it, making it easier for staff, making it easier for the applicant, [or] both," explained Callender, adding his department has researched STR policies in other mountain communities in Colorado and some of them have "better processes" than Archuleta County currently does.

County Administrator Scott Wall said, "To me, it seems like the moratorium doesn't mitigate the problems in the current [STR]

Ballots mailed to county voters

By John Finefrock
Staff Writer

2019 ballot packets have been mailed to all active registered voters in Archuleta County, according to Archuleta County Clerk and Recorder Kristy Archuleta.

If you did not receive your ballot packet, or your address is incorrect, Archuleta suggested that you can update your address at GoVoteColorado.com or at the county clerk's office at 449 San Juan St.

The 2019 ballot only asks a few questions of voters, with two state initiatives that relate to legalizing sports gambling and allowing the state to retain revenue it is currently required to refund back to taxpayers.

For the 415 Archuleta County residents who live within the Ignacio School District, there is an election for one vacant seat on the school board, and for the 24 Archuleta County residents who live in the Bayfield School District, two school board director seats are open.

For Archuleta County residents who live outside of the Bayfield and Ignacio school districts, there are only two questions to consider: Proposition CC and Proposition DD.

Proposition CC would allow the state of Colorado to retain state

Heroes, tragedies and losses

Within seconds, Electra Churchill dialed 911 for help. She was trapped in the structure that exploded and burst into flames in the Timber Ridge Ranch subdivision on Friday. She heroically called dispatchers to send help to rescue her and the love of her life, Fred Phillips, who had also been in the structure before the blast.

Pagosa Country was shaken both literally and figuratively; for miles, people heard the explosion and felt their homes rock.

There are times when a dispatcher takes a 911 call that they have the solemn honor and great burden of listening to the last words of the dying as a part of their job description. And so it was on Friday night.

That dispatcher also has the tremendous responsibility of directing the other first responders. Pages went out quickly for emergency personnel and there were a lot of heroes who came to the rescue.

Bystanders near the explosion rushed to the scene and pulled Fred from the fire. Although he suffered great trauma and severe burns, he informed them that Electra was still in the structure.

Pagosa Fire Protection District firefighters, Upper Pine River Fire District firefighters, Pagosa Springs Medical Center EMS personnel, Archuleta County sheriff's deputies and Pagosa Springs Police Department officers began arriving and rescue efforts were underway within minutes of Electra's and others' 911 calls.

Heroic efforts were made to fight the flames and to find Electra in the collapsed structure and debris. However, as the tragedy unfolded, it became clear that the call Electra made for help was most likely some of her final words.

Heroic words.

Fred was transported to Pagosa Springs Medical Center, where emergency room doctors and staff continued lifesaving efforts.

He was later transferred into the hands of the Classic Air Medical team and was flown to Swedish Medical Center in critical condition.

The explosion and fire claimed Electra's life and critically injured the love of her life, Fred. Our community mourns for the tragic loss of this beautiful, caring and giving lady.

Electra and Fred blessed numerous charities and worthwhile causes in the communities they selflessly supported.

On Tuesday, Fred's daughter Alexa wrote: "Electra was such a kind spirit that loved life to the fullest. She was an avid athlete; she and Fred loved biking ... they'd ride 16 miles a day. Electra loved animals and never turned away a stray. She was with Fred for 25 years. He was the love of her life. She was loved dearly by her family and friends and will be missed sorely."

The loss of Electra has been excruciatingly devastating to our first responders and our community.

For our emergency personnel, there is sometimes little or no break between calls. Early afternoon on Tuesday, another page went out for a man who was hit by a vehicle while riding his bicycle.

Once again, most of the above-mentioned agencies rushed to his side. Marcel Barel, 88, of Pagosa Springs, was transported to Colorado Springs Memorial Central Hospital, where he succumbed to his injuries that night.

Marcel was featured in an article in the Las Vegas Review-Journal in 2014 before moving to Pagosa Springs.

The article describes Marcel's love of the mountains as well as skiing and hiking at high altitude.

"But as a boy in Switzerland, he was sickly and suffered from asthma. The Alps near St. Moritz not only framed the setting of his youth, but hiking and back-country skiing there strengthened his lungs and started his lifelong love affair with the mountains. That alpine admiration led him to the United States, the Sierra Nevada's Yosemite Valley, a working friendship with renowned photographer Ansel Adams, and finally to a fledgling ski resort in Southern Nevada called Lee Canyon," the article reads.

As a young man, Marcel was Adams' assistant and he had the honor of lugging tripods in the Sierras and helping the photographer out with his work.

After moving to Nevada, he spent 45 years on the slopes and in the hills. As a ski school instructor, he taught thousands of youngsters and grown-ups to ski.

For decades, he assisted his neighbors with cutting firewood and plowing their driveways.

According to the article, he retired to Pagosa Springs with his wife in 2014.

"As a skier Marcel Barel knows every season must come to an end. But what a run it's been for this mountain man," the article concludes.

When dispatchers, firefighters, law enforcement and other emergency personnel are on the job, their workday hinges on matters of life and death. These heroic men and women put their own safety at risk to protect ours. They leave the house every day not knowing if they will return.

Working in emergency services can be a heavy burden to bear; outcomes, such as the loss of Electra and Marcel, have a huge emotional impact on those who worked the incidents from the initial 911 calls to Archuleta County Combined Dispatch to Coroner Brandon Bishop making the call to the family of Electra to inform them of her unfathomable passing and to our coroner advocates who assisted in the aftermath.

There is no doubt that our first responders care deeply about this community, take their duties very seriously and are extremely proud of their contribution to public safety.

In the aftermath of this past week's tragedies, the heroes from these agencies, who came together with exemplary teamwork, are processing the tragedy and coming to terms with the unfortunate outcome. Thankfully, there are resources in the form of peer support counselors to help those in command staff and those on the front lines.

Our thoughts and prayers are with Electra and Fred, Renee and Marcel, their loved ones and our many heroes and their support teams.

Dr. A. J. Nossaman and son Richard left Sunday for Denver to be absent a week on business.

We have not learned of a single deer being killed in Archuleta county or adjacent territory during the four-day season which closed Tuesday.

Mrs. George Alley of this city was among those attending the air meet, at Durango, where on Saturday her cousin, Miss Mary Ann Jones, became the bride of W.E. Wieland Jr. The ceremony was performed in a tri-motored Ford airplane while in flight over the city.

As now planned, the new Piggly-Wigly store in the Montroy building will be opened to the public on Saturday, Oct. 26th.

The City Garage reports the following recent Chevrolet sales: Vic Rodriguez, 1-1/2 ton truck; Charles Zufelt, sedan; Joe Macht, light delivery.

Curtis Clark and Dorothy Hayden entered the Fourth grade this week, making the enrollment thirty-seven. They have been attending the Four Mile school.

This town has developed a system for controlling old time Hallowe'en stunts. It is made possible by a group of Junior Police. This is a group of boys of the high school age who volunteered to do this work. These Junior Police boys hold as much power and authority as any other deputy officer after taking the same official oath. These boys patrolled the town constantly watching for any Hallowe'en damaging tricks, thereby protecting all property. The result is there was very little Hallowe'en damage done around Pagosa Springs. These Junior Police boys deserve thanks and appreciation from every local resident.

As usual Archuleta county —our county—has done its duty. All the workers throughout the County have been determined to hit their target square in the eye as soon as possible. They have succeeded to collect $1,624.00 or 108% of their assigned quota in the War Chest Campaign.

Big game season will open with a bang —or several of them—early Saturday morning of this week. Big game hunters have been arriving almost continuously all week long.

Game and Fish officials expect that the usual deluge of out-of-state hunters may be somewhat slowed down by weather in eastern Colorado. The news of the storm may have altered hunting plans for some but officials say that most of the hunters plan on this trip far in advance.

Archuleta County and surrounding area, is considered one of the top elk hunting regions in the nation. An unusually large number of cow permits have been sold for this area and this will undoubtedly up the hunter population for a few days.

The long-awaited restoration of the San Juan River in Pagosa Springs will soon get underway now that the Colorado Division of Wildlife has authorized the Town of Pagosa Springs to proceed with the project. Town administrator Jay Harrington said the notification was dated Oct. 14, and that work on the restoration could begin Oct. 22. "We're hoping to begin the work on Saturday," said Harrington.

The town has worked with a number of local organizations and agencies to make the restoration project a reality. The process has been in the works for five years.

Money to complete the work was obtained through a "Fishing is Fun" grant — a federally-funded program administered by the Division of Wildlife.

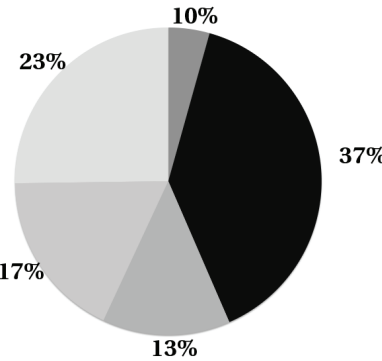

Harrington said the restoration "is an intense aquatic project devoted to creating dramatic and immediate improvements to the San Juan River fishery through the 1-1/2 mile course of the river through downtown Pagosa Springs."

'I feel shame'

Dear Editor:
 "It's a dagger to the heart to walk away from people who shed blood for us," one former top CIA official who attended the black-tie dinner told me later. A retired four-star general who was there said the same thing: Trump's retreat was an "unsound, morally indefensible act" and a "disgrace" to America and the soldiers who serve this country," D. Ignatius, Washington Post.

4 Nat'l security advisors reported Trump for abusing phone calls w/ nat'l leaders for self benefit prior to the "whistle blower." Guilian ran secret gov't negotiations for Donald's benefit (more dirt & future towers?), imagined conversations to now cover/twist his own released transcript...and (wait for it) Donald lovers want more destruction of the nation..yup, just can't get enough garbage, lies and demeanment of the office of the President.

"I feel shame" the words of an SOC officer in Syria.

Headed to failure?

Dear Editor:
 History continues to try teaching us the rights and wrongs the successes and failures. But it is imperative that we listen to what is to be learned.

Power and control have been fought over for millennia, one empire after another rise to glory and fall to disaster, success and failure. This pattern continues as if we are invulnerable to it, and even more so today.

Along with power, profit and the need for such, has grown out of control and there is no boundary, that won't be crossed it seems, to achieve such goals. Corruption seems to be at the forefront especially starting in 18th century and the industrial revolution. This growth is not the cancer; it has ushered in a multitude of great and wonderful inventions and advancements. The problem isn't the growth it is mankind losing sight of moral virtue. Profit and the bottom line are more important than what is right and wrong and our government wants it that way. We are governed to be controlled by the elite. The goal seems to be, for the people to rely on the government to provide for us like domestic animals, to maintain an attitude that we can't get ahead. Let's examine a few examples; Taxation is nothing new in the course of history but it has increased so dramatically that to work hard to get ahead is not enough, so many must rely on some sort of subsidies. For example our own county officials have and continue to operate under that same ideology, we must rely on the State and Federal governments for Grants and subsidies to provide the infrastructure which is so desperately need in Archuleta county. Not that I disagree but the attitude needs to change. Growth needs to happen to support our needs. Growth needs to be supported, to be encouraged in the private sector. Another example of this type of attitude is the development plan proposed recently by the developer of the Springs Hotel, at first glance, this proposal has an awesome conceptual plan for a town plaza project. Whether the financial plan, (URA) is the correct approach or the ethical approach the right approach, I'm not sure. I'm not sure how vacant land between a beautiful hotel and the town hall could be considered urban let alone a renewal property. If it rightfully does then we should explore the use, but if it is just a masterful way of manipulating the system, I think applying for moral virtue is the right way to go. If we continue to ignore our moral compass I feel certain we will prove history correct one more time.

We need think on our feet, stop believing the crud we're being fed is all good for us. The corporate world and the government will sacrifice us for power and profit. Beware. We the People are the only ones that can change the inevitable. We must for the sake of the generations to come.

Rob Keating

Limit short-term rentals

Dear Editor:
 Dear Commissioners Maez, Schaaf and Wadley,

I write to urge you to adopt the prospective moratorium on short-term rental [STR] applications in our county.

I think we were too quick to adopt county-wide STR permitting [Which, as you know, I oppose.], and we should have conducted further study and elicited more public input. A moratorium will allow the entire subject of STRs to be readdressed. Better late than never.

Assuming we decide to maintain county-wide STR permitting, I think that consideration should be given to limiting the number of STR permits in a given neighborhood or area. As I have previously suggested, the permanent residents of a neighborhood or area should have a say as to the number of STR permits issued in their vicinity.

Respectfully,
 Vic Lucariello

National Improved Medicare for All

Dear Editor:

Joe Biden and others argue that National Improved Medicare for All (NIMA) would hurt unions. They say workers don't want to lose their private, employer-sponsored insurance. Well, General Motors (GM) just proved why we need NIMA.

Fifty-thousand striking members of the United Auto Workers walked off their jobs at GM last month in a fight largely over healthcare benefits.

GM is holding workers superior healthcare benefits hostage, using health-care as a lure to get workers to cross the picket line. NIMA puts power back in workers' hands. They wouldn't need to negotiate for healthcare benefits, it would be guaranteed regardless of where they work.

Often unions will sacrifice wage and pension increases and safer working conditions for the generous healthcare benefits during negotiations. That's why some of the nation's largest unions support NIMA and others are moving in that direction.

Maintaining employer-based health care means handing bosses another weapon to use against workers. If we are truly going to stand with union workers and put power in their hands, we must remove their reliance on the goodwill of their employer. Healthcare must be considered a human right not a pawn.

Under NIMA, whether you're working or not, or switching jobs, your healthcare will be right there with you. Employer-based healthcare lacks stability. Every industrialized country in the world provide universal health care for their citizens. It's far from a radical solution.

Urban renewal efforts

Dear Editor:
The Springs Partners (“the Partners”) have approached the Town with “Plan B”; Plan A being the bridge to their properties. Both plans were to mitigate risk and reduce infrastructure costs that a developer would otherwise be responsible to build. In both cases, the Town puts everything up front while the Partners are left a great deal of discretion as to what, when and how it holds up its end.

While tax increment financing (“TIF”) districts are a relatively new tool, urban renewal efforts have been around since the 1960’s for better or worse. Over the years, revitalization of downtowns has become exceptionally refined and much more holistic in order to maximize the opportunities for success. A TIF is one of the great tools now incorporated into these efforts. To my thinking, the north side of the river downtown is much more deserving for the proposed program than the southside.

TIF districts require blight and distressed economic conditions in a given area for a good reason — the tax takes the increment between what the rate is at the time the district is formed and what that rate will be upon build-out. Therefore, it is best to maximize the spread between the low of today and the high once the properties result in income producing build out. The district is able to bond on that spread and use the funds for improvements that foster revitalization and re-development. Other taxing entities do not get to benefit from taxes on the value added because those funds are used to pay the bonds. Once the bonds are paid off, then other taxing entities start receiving the value added tax revenue. It’s a good tool and has been used many times and many ways.

While I have attended any number of seminars and conferences on TIF districts, I have only walked through the process in only a handful of instances. One success of note was the City of Billings. The downtown was being overwhelmed by big box development on the west end of the City resulting in a noticeable decline downtown. It was the very definition of blight and distress.

Billings created a TIF district to bring it’s downtown back, and it did so with resounding success. The district upgraded street lighting, sidewalks, parking and other improvements. It hired a first rate administrator, who brokered agreements between the city and the property owners. One of the keys to the success of the project was re-thinking downtown; the street level space converted to restaurants and entertainment, the second floors converted to office space and the upper floors converted to residential space. With good leadership, the TIF District easily transitioned to a Downtown Development Authority (“DDA”) to carry on the work.

This TIF worked because it was driven by community values, the goals were reached by consensus, and the stakeholders were open to change. It literally turned it’s least attractive aspects into it’s most redeeming value.

Don’t get hoodwinked

Dear Editor:
By now most of us have received some sort of correspondence asking us to vote yes on CC to “start fixing things”, please read it very carefully, some of the statements being made by the CC proponents are very misleading and some are outright lies.

In large print my flyer said prop CC “forces the state to spend revenue on voter approved priorities”, read the ballot question, it says to “better fund”, nowhere does it restrict the money usage which says to me, general fund and politician discretion.

If the politicians in Denver want to keep and spend our over collected tax monies, let them ask us to vote on spending for a specific project with a sunset, not ask us to forever give away our Taxpayer Bill of Rights (aka TABOR). Holding on to our Taxpayer Bill of Rights is the true way to force the state to spend on voter approved priorities.

Proponents say “Colorado is growing fast” and it is, but the state budget grows with it and our Taxpayer Bill of Rights is what keeps Colorado fiscally responsible. My tax refund may not amount to much but it’s mine and I’d rather be the one to decide what it’s spent on, once it goes into the state’s general fund I’ve lost all control of my money.

Please read the ballot question carefully, there is nothing there but fluff as to how our refund would be spent and the “annual audit” they’re promising does nothing but tell you where they spent it, too late, they’ve already take away our say so.

I will be voting No on Proposition CC, I ask everyone to read the question carefully, read Taxpayer Bill of Rights if necessary and vote no on Proposition CC ... and please mail your ballot back.

Marriage was taken seriously

Dear Editor:
Back in 1947, I was a newly-wed. At ages 19 and 20, we “vowed” to love one another forever, regardless of circumstances. We had a church wedding. Mother made my wedding dress, it was beautiful. The Rehearsal party (not dinner) was at the Groom’s home — punch and cookies. Following the wedding ceremony, there was a reception in the church dining area with cake and punch for all.

The highlight of our Honeymoon was spending time at the ‘Spring Lake Amusement Park’ in Oklahoma City. Yes, we were still kids but we thought we were pretty “grown-up” and decided to go to a Hotel in the city that had a Ball Room. We were a little out of place, as I recall, most couples on the dance floor were old men dancing with young women. He ordered a beer and I ordered a Dr. Pepper. When he ordered a second beer, I became alarmed that he wouldn’t be “fit” to drive us back to our Motel. A year later, when we purchased our first car, a 1939 Chevy Coupe, he taught me to drive. Ahhhh, that was life back then. I live today with pride of the life we shared in marriage with sweet memories of the 3 years we were only “Sweethearts”.

Marriage was taken seriously “back then”. We took time to truly know one another and built our marriage around shared values, recognizing that we were “in it” for life. We felt blessed to rent our first home, a converted single-car garage with a view of the prairie ($8/week, including utilities). Over time, we built a good life for ourselves and our children, living our shared values. Our culture needs to return to the standards of those days. It was the best of times, we worked hard, earned our own way, practiced patience with life, and yes, there were no “credit cards”. I wish all could be so blessed.

Sweet memories sustain me today.

Dispatch board mulls funding options, votes to tweak budget and pursue move to Harman Park

By John Finerock
Staff Writer

On Oct. 7, the Archuleta County Combined Dispatch Executive Management Board voted to add additional items to its budget, voted to investigate moving dispatch to Harman Park and discussed its quest to find additional funding for a dispatch center.

"I think everyone knows that the [funding] model is not sustainable long-term," said board member and Pagosa Springs Medical Center (PSMC) CEO Dr. Rhonda Webb. "I mean that's just the way it is if we don't have additional revenue sources."

In the summer, the board created a subcommittee, deemed the Dispatch Exploratory Subcommittee, to investigate options for increasing revenue for dispatch.

Subcommittee chair Greg Schulte reported some of the findings of that committee at the Oct. 1 board meeting.

Schulte explained that subcommittee members from the Pagosa Springs Town Council voiced opposition to a sales tax, citing that the town's budget relies heavily on sales tax and they wouldn't support one specifically for dispatch.

Schulte stated that there wasn't "a whole lot of appetite for a mill levy" increase by members of the subcommittee and he has suggested in past meetings of the subcommittee that he thinks it's "tough" to get the public to support a tax increase in Archuleta County. Schulte suggested the E-911 surcharge, a monthly fee on phone bills that goes to emergency services, was the "most palatable" to the subcommittee to increase revenue for dispatch.

According to board chair and PSMC EMS Assistant Chief of Finance Connie Cook, E-911 fees are dispersed to local governments where the billing address is located for phone lines.

Currently, the E-911 fee in Archuleta County is $1.25 per month.

The Dispatch Executive Management Board is expected to vote on an E-911 fee increase at its meeting next month.

The Colorado Public Utilities Commission (PUC) would have to approve the increase.

Cook explained she had recently looked at her Verizon bill for her cellphone, and it said that the E-911 revenue was being dispersed to California, though she's had a 970 phone number billed to Pagosa Springs for the past 20 years.

Schulte noted he thought Cook's example was "symptomatic of the complexity of the billing for 911 and surcharges in general" and added that the E-911 disbursements are complicated.

"Quite frankly, it's probably pretty jacked up statewide," said Schulte. "And I think everyone sorta even knows that and it's so complex no one knows what to do about it."

He added that cell carriers have "zero incentive" to get the disbursements right.

Emergency Communications Manager Kati Harr noted that the dispatch board could hire a firm to conduct an audit of E-911 fees to ensure the cell carriers are dispersing the funds correctly.

In a follow-up email, Harr wrote that she'd be in favor of an E-911 audit "if there was a high probability that the potential monies recouped would justify the cost of the audit."

The dispatch board also discussed and voted on the county's recent offer to have the dispatch center move into the newly acquired former home of Norma and Fred Harman III.

The county has offered for dispatch to share the 4,195-square-foot home with the sheriff's office.

Undersheriff Derek Woodman confirmed at the meeting that the sheriff's office will definitely relocate to the Harman House sometime next year.

Pagosa Springs Police Department (PSPD) Lt. Brooks Brown, attending the meeting as a proxy for board member PSPD Chief Bill Rockensock, explained that he felt the Harman House was a "temporary fix" and voiced opposition to moving the dispatch center there.

"I think the Harman house is another temporary fix dependent on it's a 50-year-old residential home that I would assume they'd stay for a few years and then they would want to build the other half of their sheriff's office. Then where does that leave dispatch?"

"You're right," replied Woodman. "It's not a forever home [for dispatch]."

The board then voted 5-1 to approve the additional budget expenditure for dispatch to move its facility, without committing to moving to the Harman house, at a cost of $26,875.

Webb, Cook, Pagosa Springs

Town Manager Andrea Phillips, Woodman and Pagosa Fire Protection District Chief Randy Larson voted in favor.

Brown was the lone no vote.

Harr is a nonvoting member of the board.

The board then voted to continue to pursue the option of relocating dispatch to the Harman House, pending a successful outcome of an architectural assessment, feedback from Harr and an intergovernmental agreement to be executed between the participating agencies of the dispatch board.

The board also approved additional funding for:

- Emergency Medical Dispatch training for dispatchers.
- Radio box upgrades with an annual payment starting in 2021.
- Three additional lead dispatchers that will be promoted internally without adding additional employees to the center.
- Raising the overtime budget from $1,500 to $25,000.

In email Tuesday, Harr wrote, "Regarding lead dispatchers: A robust leadership team is a necessity for maintaining effective emergency communications operations for a 24/7 center. Our staff deserves dedicated on-shift supervision, consistent quality assurance and improvement, and dynamic skill development – these are just a few of the functions the leadership team will assist in fulfilling."

The next meeting of the dispatch board is on Nov. 4 at 9:30 a.m. in the board room at PSMC.

Town to consider planning commission appointments

By Randi Pierce
Staff Writer

This evening, Oct. 17, the Pagosa Springs Town Council will consider a recommendation from the Pagosa Springs Planning Commission that would fill four vacancies on the commission — two regular members and two alternate members.

The town has been seeking to fill multiple vacancies on the board since June, when members of the board fulfilled their terms.

The planning commission consists of five regular members and two alternates.

At its Oct. 8 meeting, the three existing members of the planning commission — Peter Adams, Peter Hurley and Chris Pitcher — considered letters of interest from four interested citizens: Jeff Posey, Anne-Marie Sukcik, Bill Hudson and Mark Weiler.

After asking questions of Hudson and Posey, who attended the meeting, the planning commission voted to recommend that the town council appoint Posey and Sukcik to fill the two regular board vacancies and appoint Hudson and Weiler as alternates.

Terms on the board are for four years.

According to a press release posted to the town's website, "In general, the Planning Commission is responsible for the following typical activities and general tasks: review development applications for conformance with the Land Use and Development Code (or LUDD), act as the Design Review Board to hear commercial proposals and Board of Adjustment to consider variance requests, also to make recommendations on policies, procedures and plans affecting growth, development and redevelopment of the Town. The Planning Commission also participates in research and study of policies, procedures and practices to address local growth, development and redevelopment."

The town council meeting is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. this evening in Town Hall.

Water conservancy district debates funding cloud seeding

By Chris Mannara
Staff Writer

Following a presentation earlier in the day, the San Juan Water Conservancy District (SJWCD) Board of Directors opted to see if efforts from cloud seeding could produce any results that could be seen locally before providing funding to cloud seeding efforts.

The cloud seeding presentation was given to the board during a work session on Tuesday by Eric and Mike Hjermsstad from Western Weather Consultants LLC, and following the work session, the board had a possible action item on whether or not to fund cloud seeding efforts for the southwest basin.

In the draft budget, the SJWCD has $1,000 set aside for potential cloud seeding funding.

SJWCD board member Bill Hudson explained that, following his own research, that he felt like there is still work being done to answer the question on whether cloud seeding was effective or not.

Cloud seeding is the process that aims to change the type or amount of precipitation that falls from clouds by dispersing substances into the air, such as silver iodide, that could serve as cloud condensation and alter the processes within the cloud.

"The folks that are involved in cloud seeding are going to present the best data that they can to support their efforts, and what I'm interested in is the reports from the people who are not involved in cloud seeding but are looking at it from an independent point of view," Hudson said.

There is not strong proof that cloud seeding works, Hudson explained, later adding that the district would be "rolling dice" with taxpayer money by donating to the cloud seeding efforts.

"We don't really have good, independent research that shows that a ground-based silver iodide generator is actually doing anything significant," he said. "I think the science is really inconclusive of whether this process is of benefit to the amount that is being funded."

Despite cloud seeding being a controversial topic, SJWCD board member Candice Kelly raised the question of why organizations such as the Colorado Water Conservation Board and other lower basin states contribute funds to the effort.

"They have the resources to do more research than we can and they seem to think that it's worthwhile," she said.

The effectiveness and amount of extra moisture that is produced by cloud seeding efforts has been debated for years, SJWCD board member Al Pfister noted.

"Essentially, you're making a subjective value determination as to whether you're getting enough water for the money you're spending," Pfister said. "The science goes essentially all over the board."

If SJWCD were to donate $1,000 to the cloud seeding efforts of Western Weather, it ultimately would not benefit the people of Archuleta County, Hudson added later.

"Because we have plenty of water rights for serving the population that we have right now, it's not going to effect PAWSD [Pagosa Area Water and Sanitation District], their rates. It's not going to effect our needs for future reservoirs. It's not going to effect anything in Archuleta County," Hudson said.

Following more discussion among the board, Hudson explained he would be in favor of donating $1,000 to research rather than to a "process that's not been researched."

"That's kind of where I'm going with this. Rather than supporting something that's uncertain, supporting research. If it's possible to support it," Hudson said.

Hudson later made a motion that suggested the SJWCD look into whether or not it could help finance the research of cloud seeding operations in the district's watershed and would task SJWCD consultant Renee Lewis to conduct this project. The motion passed unanimously.

Water production down nearly 2 million gallons

By Chris Mannara
Staff Writer

From Oct. 4 through Oct. 10, water production for the Pagosa Area Water and Sanitation District (PAWSD) totaled 11.95 million gallons, down almost 2 million gallons from Sept. 27 through Oct. 3.

According to a press release from PAWSD Manager Justin Ramsey, from Sept. 27 through Oct. 3, water production was listed at 13.45 million gallons.

Contributing to the total for Oct. 4 through Oct. 10, the Snowball plant produced 4.36 million gallons, the Hatcher water treatment produced 7.20 million gallons and the San Juan water treatment plant produced 0.39 million gallons.

Hatcher Lake has fallen 1 inch since last week, going from 26 inches from full to 27 inches from full.

Stevens Lake is 31 inches from full, or 90.77 percent full, this week; last week it was 28 inches from full.

Lake Pagosa and Village Lake remain full from last week.

Lake Forest is now 9 inches from full; last week it was 7 inches from full.

Total diversion flows remain at 5.5 cubic feet per second (cfs). The West Fork diversion is still adding 3 cfs, while the Four Mile and San Juan diversions are both still adding 1 cfs and 1.5 cfs, respectively.

River report

As of Oct. 16, the San Juan River had a reported flow of 50.4 cfs, the same as last week's reported flow.

This week's flow is lower than the average for Oct. 16, which is 166, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

The highest reported flow total for Oct. 16 came in 1942 when the San Juan had a measured flow of 1,320 cfs; the lowest came in 1957 when the San Juan had a reported flow total of 18 cfs.

Heating safety and efficiency tips

By Carly West
Special to The SUN

Across Colorado, families are waking up to a nip in the air and snow in the forecast. Fall is officially here and cooler temperatures are upon us. As we pull jackets from the closet and visit the coffee shop for a favorite seasonal hot beverage, it is also time to think about how to get your home ready for the season.

"Taking a few steps today before winter arrives will save your family money and provide peace of mind when temperatures dip," said Black Hills Energy Colorado Vice President Susan Bailey.

The following safety and efficiency tips are recommended.

Ways to stay safe

- Natural gas smells like rotten eggs for a reason. If your nose picks up this scent, immediately leave the area and call 911 once you're away from the site.
- Wait for emergency personnel to arrive before re-entering the building. Emergency personnel will let you know when it's safe to return.

- Never use a mobile phone, touch a light switch or start an engine while near a suspected gas leak.
- Ensure your home is equipped with carbon monoxide detectors, and never use gas ranges, ovens or clothes dryers to heat your home.

Ways to reduce energy costs

- Prevent heat loss. Cut heat loss by caulking and weather-stripping doors and windows.
- You can save as much as 10 percent a year on your heating bill by simply turning your thermostat back 10 to 15 percent for eight hours.
- Clean your furnace filter monthly and follow any other routine maintenance procedures described in the owner's manual. Dirty filters make your furnace run much harder and circulate dirty air through your house.
- It's recommended to have your furnace inspected by a professional once a year.

To access Colorado's utility assistance program, call United Way's 2-1-1 or visit www.211.org to be connected to a specialist for assistance.

Rotarians will be ringing the bell to eradicate polio

By Shellie Peterson
Special to The SUN

Rotary members in Pagosa Springs are taking action on World Polio Day to raise awareness, funds and support to end polio, a vaccine-preventable disease that still threatens children in parts of the world today.

We will be ringing the bell for donations to eradicate polio from the face of the earth.

The Rotary Club of Pagosa Springs will be at the City Market shopping center on Oct. 23 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

When Rotary and its partners launched the Global Polio Eradication Initiative more than three decades ago, polio paralyzed 1,000 children every day. We've made great progress against the disease since then. Polio cases have dropped by 99.9 percent, from 350,000 cases in 1988 in 125 countries to 33 cases of wild poliovirus in 2018 in just two countries: Afghanistan and Pakistan. And, we remain committed to the end.

With polio nearly eradicated, Rotary and its partners must sustain this progress and continue to reach every child with the polio vaccine. Without full funding and political commitment, this paralyzing disease could return to polio-free countries, putting children everywhere at risk. Rotary has committed to raising $50 million each year to support global polio eradication efforts. The Bill

The Rotary Club of Pagosa Springs will mark historic progress toward a polio-free world while urging the community to help end the paralyzing disease. Volunteers will be at the City Market shopping center on Oct. 23 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. ringing the bell for donations to eradicate polio.

and Melinda Gates Foundation has pledged to match that two-to-one, for a total yearly contribution of $150 million.

Last year, this community donated approximately $2,100 toward this worthy cause, which, when matched by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, means that $6,300 was raised for this important work.

Rotary has contributed more than $1.9 billion to ending polio since 1985.

Storyteller event to feature local entrepreneur

By Margaret Hedderman
Special to The SUN

Startup Colorado is hosting a Storytellers event in Pagosa Springs. Our Storytellers series features entrepreneurs and small businesses owners in an interview-style event.

On Oct. 28, we'll be featuring Tabitha Zappone, owner of Alpine Medical.

Zappone spent much of her early career working in rural Alaska, where she learned firsthand about the challenges and limitations often faced in rural health care. Additionally, she learned to incorporate her patients' Alaskan Native traditions. She moved to Pagosa Springs several years ago to work for a primary care clinic. When it closed, she decided to open her own — Alpine Medical and Specialty Practices.

The Storytellers event will reveal the experience of starting your own medical practice in a rural Colorado community, as well as celebrate Zappone's story. It will be moderated by Anthony Poponi, a professional keynote speaker and humorist, and hosted at the Pagosa Lodge.

You can view the event specifics at: <https://www.facebook.com/events/819506881777940/>.

PSMC recognized for technology implementation

By Angela Wirth
Special to The SUN

Pagosa Springs Medical Center (PSMC) recently made the list as one of CHIME's (College of Healthcare Information Management Executives) Most Wired Hospitals. This designation recognizes PSMC as one of the leaders in health care for adopting technology into our day-to-day workflows and our patient-care strategies.

A total of 16,138 organizations were represented in this year's Most Wired program, which included three separate surveys: domestic, ambulatory and international. The surveys examined the adoption, integration and impact of technologies in health care organizations at all stages.

Based on their survey responses, each participating organization received an overall score plus scores for individual levels in information technology capabilities including infrastructure, disaster recovery, security and interoperability.

At a level 7, CHIME recognizes

PSMC for deploying technologies and strategies to help analyze data and achieving meaningful clinical and efficiency outcomes. They also recognize that PSMC has advanced technologies such as telemedicine that expand health care. CHIME acknowledges this high level of technological leadership at PSMC and has rewarded the facility for producing meaningful outcomes, including improved quality of care, improved patient experience, reduced costs and broader patient access to health care services.

County

■ Continued from front neighborhoods,” explaining that aggressive enforcement and a refined complaint system “would be a great help to mitigate the problems that we have.”

Wall also noted that the county's upcoming adoption of the Model Traffic Code will allow the county to enforce one complaint the county often receives about STR tenants — that they park on county roads.

Currently, there is no regulation prohibiting parking on county roads, but there will be once the county adopts the Model Traffic Code, expected to take effect at the beginning of the year.

After some discussion, Commissioner Ron Maez made a motion.

“I move to adopt resolution 2019-108 for establishing a possible six-month or 90-day moratorium on accepting new permit applications for short-term rentals in the unincorporated area of Archuleta County,” Maez said.

With a motion on the table, the commissioners then heard from the public, which lasted close to an hour.

The majority of the people who spoke were against the moratorium, with many being realtors who argued that STRs support the tourist economy and businesses like property management and cleaning companies, which rely on STRs for their livelihood.

One local realtor noted that the county's current STR permitting process is “cumbersome.”

One resident in favor of the moratorium explained that she had built her dream home in the county about 15 years ago and was dismayed that three out of six houses on her cul-de-sac were operating as STRs, which she noted negatively impacted the culture of her neighborhood.

After public comment, commissioners Steve Wadley and Maez offered their closing comments.

Wadley stated he understood both sides of the issue and that he believes in private property rights, but also the right to “enjoy your property in a peaceful manner.”

He also noted the county could do a better job of processing applications in a timely manner, as the Development Services Department has about a six-month backlog of STR applications to review and process.

“We need to do a little bit better in figuring out how we can run this through our system faster and also we need to start fining people and holding their feet to the fire. Because nothin' means anything until you see the red lights go on,” Wadley said.

Wadley also explained there are rumors that a state bill could be proposed next year in which Colorado homes which operate as STRs for a certain number of days per year could be taxed at the 29 percent commercial rate instead of the 7.5 percent residential rate they are currently taxed at.

Maez directed staff to investigate a “software solution,” and clarified in a phone call Wednesday that meant to pursue hiring a company that could manage the county's entire permitting process and take the burden off of the Development Services Department.

Maez also asked County Attorney Todd Weaver to investigate how to issue “the highest possible fines that we can impose on violators that are operating illegally.”

Weaver explained that under Colorado state statute, the maximum fine for violating a county ordinance is $1,000, and in the case of STRs, that fine could be imposed each night a homeowner rents their home without an STR permit.

In a phone call Wednesday, county staff noted that the process for collecting those violations is not currently known and the county is looking into developing a process to do that.

Once public comment had wrapped up, Maez revisited his original motion.

“There's a motion on the floor. I'll entertain a second,” Maez said. Neither Wadley nor Commissioner Alvin Schaaf made a second.

“Motion dies for lack of a second,” Maez said.

In a follow-up phone call Wednesday, Schaaf cited two reasons that he did not second Maez's motion.

Schaaf explained that he was uncomfortable with language in the moratorium, which reads that the county “intends to limit the number of short-term rental units in unincorporated Archuleta County.”

Schaaf also stated he was recently in a meeting with the county administrator in which an STR management company presented how they could manage the county's entire STR program, which would lessen the burden for county staff and speed up the permitting process.

“I think that's just a better route,” Schaaf said, contrasting hiring a company to manage the county's STR program versus enacting an STR permit moratorium.

In a phone call Wednesday, Maez noted that the permitting process will continue “as normal” for the time being.

He explained the county attorney is investigating how to impose strict penalties for STR homeowners who rent without a county permit and county staff is researching hiring an outside company to manage the county's STR program.

“That software [company], it takes and processes it all online. It's easier, it's a lot less hassle than to go through the current process that we have right now. It'll benefit both sides, it'll benefit the county and the individual processing their short term rental application,” Maez said.

More information about the county's STR rules and permitting process can be found at www.archuletacounty.org/588/Vacation-Rentals.

Accident

Additionally, alcohol, drugs or excessive speed are not suspected to have played a role in the accident.

“We have to share the road and that goes both ways,” Driscoll said. “We just have to watch out for each other.”

In an interview, Gabrielle Barel explained that her dad was doing what he loved to do, riding his bike with “enthusiasm and vigor.”

“As hard as it is for us to realize he's gone from our lives on this plateau, that he really was doing what he loved to do and we're grateful for that and that he didn't suffer,” she said.

the deputies was at South Pagosa Boulevard and U.S. 160. When that deputy called dispatch via radio, the deputy was informed of the location and he was on scene four minutes later.

As the deputy arrived, he identified one male party, later identified as Fred Phillips, 72, of Shreveport, La., suffering from severe burns and other related trauma, the release explains.

Phillips was conscious and indicated that a female was still in the structure, the release states.

Phillips was rescued from the perimeter of the structure by civilian bystanders who witnessed the explosion from across the street, Woodman explained.

“They actually removed him from the burning structure,” Woodman said.

Phillips was removed from the structure before the first deputy arrived on scene, Woodman explained.

Phillips was transported to Pagosa Springs Medical Center via ambulance and later transported to a Denver-area hospital, where he remained in critical condition earlier this week.

The Pagosa Fire Protection District (PFPD) also responded to the incident and, as a PFPD press release explains, “Upon arrival, the first due engine completed a scene size up noting a single residential structure with active fire, smoke and substantial structural damage. Due to the fire activity and conditions, rapid search and an exterior fire attack was initiated. Protection measures were also implemented on additional residential structures neighboring the active fire.”

Fire personnel continued to battle hot spots throughout the night and search efforts for the second occupant of the structure continued into Saturday, according to the undersheriff's and PFPD's press releases.

The second occupant, a female, was located at 9:39 a.m. Saturday morning with the assistance of a cadaver dog from the Upper Pine River Fire Protection District, Woodman reported. Her body was recovered at 10:25 a.m. and turned over to the Archuleta County Coroner's Office.

The woman was later identified as Electra Churchill, 45, of Shreveport, La.

“It was a terrible tragedy,” said Archuleta County Coroner Brandon Bishop when making the announcement Sunday evening.

An autopsy is scheduled for Friday, he indicated.

Investigation at the site continued until Tuesday afternoon, when Woodman explained the site was turned over to the insurance company.

Investigators from the Colorado Division of Fire Prevention and Control as well as members of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives assisted with the investigation due to its complexity, the PFPD and Woodman explained.

A propane leak is believed to be the cause of the explosion, which occurred in a two-story structure adjacent to the main home, Woodman explained, adding that the ignition source and where the leak was are still undetermined.

“And some of it we may never know,” Woodman said.

“Fire investigations involve hundreds of hours of research, thousands of photos and weeks of recreation to piece in missing information to determine origin and potential cause,” a PFPD update released Tuesday reads.

That update continues, “Fire origin and cause determination will be released to the public after a thorough investigation has been completed. Results could take several months to be compiled and released.”

On Tuesday, Phillips' daughter, Alexa Phillips, wrote: “Electra was such a kind spirit that loved life to the fullest. She was an avid athlete; she and Fred loved biking... they'd ride 16 miles a day. Electra loved animals and never turned away a stray. She was with Fred for 25 years. He was the love of her life. She was loved dearly by her family and friends and will be missed sorely.”

Woodman explained Wednesday that about 30 first responders who were involved with the incident took part in a first responder critical incident debrief Monday evening, with those first responders including firefighters, deputies, EMS personnel and dispatchers.

“The dispatcher that was on the line did a fantastic job,” Woodman commended.

The debrief, Woodman explained, was set up by PFPD Chief Randy Larson and included peer support and critical support.

Most plaintiffs in lawsuit against county officials sign settlement agreement

By John Finefrock
Staff Writer

All but five active plaintiffs in a 2016 lawsuit against former and current county officials have signed a “Mutual Release and Settlement Agreement” with Archuleta County.

The agreement “set forth terms to settle and resolve all the issues from the case,” according to a description of the document in the commissioners' Oct. 1 agenda.

At their regular meeting on Oct. 1, the county commissioners approved the signed settlement agreements from plaintiffs Greg Giehl, David Brackhahn, Wayne Bryant, Stephen Keno, and Sue and Bill Gottschalk.

The commissioners approved an additional settlement agreement from Cole Graham at their meeting on Oct. 15.

The plaintiffs who signed the agreement also paid, or will pay, $1,326.11, their share of the attorney fees that were awarded to the county as a result of the lawsuit.

The initial lawsuit alleged that former and current county officials broke the law by not allowing about a dozen initiatives onto the county's 2014 ballot.

The case was dismissed in 2016 and the county officials were awarded about $18,000 in attorney fees to be paid by the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs then appealed the entire case, but because they did not file the appeal on time, the Court of Appeals only considered the plaintiffs' appeal regarding the award of attorney's fees.

The appeal was denied, and the county was awarded additional attorney fees for the cost of the appeal.

That amount will be determined at a hearing on Dec. 4 and only those plaintiffs who have not signed the settlement agreement will be liable for that additional amount.

The defendants in the lawsuit are former county commissioners Clifford Lucero and Michael Whiting, current commissioner Steve Wadley, and former Archuleta County Attorney Todd Starr.

The plaintiffs are listed as Pat Alley, Brackhahn, Bryant, Giehl, Graham, Vernon Greenamy, Bill Gottschalk, Sue Gottschalk, Keno, Tom Kramer, Jeff Maehr, Sharon Parker, Tracy Salazar, Dennis Spencer and Dave West.

According to County Attorney Todd Weaver, Alley was not liable for the attorney fees because he did not sign the “Motion to Show Cause” that started the whole case.

The five active plaintiffs who have not yet signed the settlement agreement are Greenamy, Kramer, Salazar, West and Maehr, according to Archuleta County staff.

County staff also reported that Maehr and Kramer have submitted their judgment interrogatories, which asks for financial information that the county can use to collect the judgment.

Greenamy, Salazar and West have not submitted judgment interrogatories, according to county staff.

Weaver explained at the commissioners' meeting on Oct. 1 that Greenamy was reportedly out of the country “on a research vessel in Norway” and could not be contacted and he would probably be more lenient with him.

In an email to The SUN, Maehr wrote that he has “no plans” to sign the settlement agreement with the county.

Weaver noted in a phone call on Oct. 8 that he would “most likely” file contempt of court charges against the plaintiffs who have not signed the release and also failed to complete their judgment interrogatories. He did not specify a time frame.

Weaver stated on Oct. 1 that the deadline for the remaining plaintiffs to turn in their settlement agreements was by the end of the day.

revenue it is currently required to refund under the Taxpayer Bill of Rights (TABOR). The retained funds would be used for education and transportation purposes.

The Colorado Legislative Council staff estimated that the state will retain about $310 million above the TABOR limit in 2020-2021 if Proposition CC is approved by voters.

If Proposition CC is rejected and the money is returned to taxpayers, it will equate to a refund of about $26-$90 per taxpayer per year, according to ballotpedia.com.

Proposition DD

Proposition DD would authorize the Colorado Legislature to allow sports betting and create a 10 percent tax on sports betting proceeds. Revenues from the new tax, estimated to be about $10 million for fiscal year 2020-2021, would be used to create and fund the Water Plan Implementation Cash Fund, which would fund water projects and water-related obligations.

A “no” vote on Proposition DD means that sports betting will remain illegal in the state and sports betting activities will not be regulated or taxed, according to The Colorado Blue Book, a voting guide prepared by the Colorado Legislative Council staff.

Enrollment

With the inclusion of Pagosa Family School — with Reed noting the district gets half funding for those students — ASD's total enrollment sits at 1,751 students. Last year, ASD's total enrollment was 1,708 students.

Reed explained that this total enrollment does not include numbers from the Colorado Preschool Program, which Reed noted will be released with the “late count” in November so as to give time for all students to enroll in preschool.

According to ASD Executive Assistant Robyn Bennett, preliminary numbers suggest that the district has 164 students from Dulce, N.M., and eight students from Chama, N.M.

Search and rescue crews make two rescues

By Chris Mannara
Staff Writer

A 7-mile hike led to an 11-hour mission in which search and rescue crews rescued an injured man who was hunting locally.

The Archuleta County Office of Emergency Management (OEM) received the call at 5:08 p.m. on Oct. 10 of a 72-year-old man located between Fourmile Lake and Turkey Lake with a possible broken arm from falling off of a mule, according to an email from Deputy Director of Emergency Operations Christina Kraetsch.

Upon meeting with the reporting party, Kraetsch described the rescuing team as being "pumped" to go up the trail and start the search despite the length of the hike to the man's location.

What followed was Kraetsch sending a "hasty" team of four to make patient contact and to also make note of any safe landing spaces if a helicopter was needed. Following that initial team was "Ground team one," Kraetsch explained, which hiked in the larger equipment needed for the rescue.

"The trail the patient was located on is steep and in very [rough] terrain not to mention the temperatures dropped into the teens that night," she wrote.

Around 11 p.m., the "hasty" team of four made contact with the male and stabilized his arm; around this same time a helicopter was given the coordinates for a landing zone, she explained.

"Fortunately, the pilot with the Flight crew was skilled enough to fly at night above 11,000 ft! This allowed our patient to receive the help he needed a lot sooner than if he had to be wheeled out in a litter by our rescue crews," she added.

Eventually, around 1:30 a.m., the patient was on his way to the hospital. By the time everyone on the rescue was off the trail and back in town, it was around 3:30 a.m., according to Kraetsch.

"It was a long hard day but Emergency Management and Upper San Juan Search & Rescue did it with a smile," she wrote. "We love what we do and love making someone's bad day better."

Other rescue

Keeping busy, another call was received by OEM on Oct. 12 around 2:45 p.m. of a injured 60-year-old man with a possible broken ankle, Kraetsch explained in a separate email.

The man was hunting with friends and family near the Middle Fork trailhead, she described.

Kraetsch explained that the man broke his ankle by twisting it as they were moving on foot.

"Emergency Management and Upper San Juan met up with the Reporting Party to be lead to the patients location," she wrote. "The patient was about a mile in and was in good [spirits] despite his pain. After the injured party was assessed and packaged the teams hiked back to the vehicles where the patient was taken to the hospital to treat his [injuries]."

'In the hunt': Pirate harriers look to qualify for state meet

By Randi Pierce
Staff Writer

The postseason has arrived for the Pagosa Springs High School cross-country teams, with the Pirate harriers headed to regional competition this weekend.

"We're looking forward to the opportunity to go test ourselves," coach Scott Anderson said.

The Pirates closed out the regular season Friday at the Eric Wolff Invitational Cross Country Meet in Monte Vista.

The Pirates took third out of the five full teams present, while the Lady Pirates took second out of four full teams.

The Pirates placed third behind Gunnison and Bayfield.

Gabe Heraty finished sixth out of the 75 runners on the line, finishing with a time of 18 minutes, 18.00 seconds — nearly a minute faster than the previous week.

"Gabe is just, as he typically does, as the end of the year comes around, he starts really starting to roll, and, you know, he took essentially a minute off from the week before," Anderson said, adding, "From where he's running, ... that's impressive."

Jack Foster followed in 18th with a time of 19:57.40.

Mason Blakemore crossed the line 24th in 20:16.70 and Cooper Evans finished two places later in 20:35.70, serving as the team's final scoring runner.

David Morehouse finished in 27th with a time of 20:38.00.

Cam Hinger finished 30th with a time of 20:46.90 and Noah Weiszbrod finished 32nd with a time of 20:54.70.

Rounding out the Pirate runners at the race, Andrew Bowles finished 51st in 22:25.40, Tomas McNeill took 59th with a time of 22:59.10 and Cole Reis finished next with a time of 23:02.90.

Seventeen Lady Pirates raced at the meet, with four of them landing in the top 10, helping the team to a second-place finish.

Anderson noted that only four runners scored at the meet, allowing Gunnison to take first. Had five runners contributed to the scoring, which is normal for races the Pirates participate in, Pagosa would have placed first since seven Lady Pirates crossed the line before Gunnison's fifth runner.

The race was also the first of the year for a pair of Lady Pirate runners who returned from injury: Annabelle Bowles and Darien Domingez.

Nell Taylor led the Lady Pirate effort by placing second out of 59 runners with a time of 21:27.00.

Megan Greenly followed in sixth in 22:29.10 and Sierra Liverett ran the course in 22:54.00 to finish ninth.

Michella Saucedo finished next, running the course in 23:25.30, and served as the team's final scoring runner.

Ivory Carpenter finished 12th with a time of 23:34.80.

"Ivory had arguably one of her better races," Anderson said.

Celia Taylor was the next Lady Pirate to cross the finish line, finishing 14th in 23:43.90, and Bowles followed in 17th with a time of 24:00.90.

"She's a leader on the team," Anderson said of Bowles, noting that he thought her presence helped everybody.

Dominguez finished 35th in 26:40.10, Hailey Griego finished 36th in 26:42.90, Sophia Raymond took 44th in 28:56.70 and Megan Foster took 48th in 30:23.40.

Rounding out the Lady Pirates, Katriel Lee finished 50th in 30:58.80, Caroline Smith finished 52nd in 31:23.90, Carolyn Foster finished 53rd in 31:28.20, Peyton Khung finished 55th in 34:36.60, Kylie Keuning finished 56th in 34:36.80 and Savannah Atole finished 57th in 38:27.50.

Now, the Pirates will face off against the other 11 teams in the league Friday, with four teams on each side advancing to the state meet on Oct. 26 in Colorado Springs.

"It's going to be tight, but we're definitely in the hunt," Anderson said.

Individuals not on a qualifying team can qualify for the state meet by placing in the top 15.

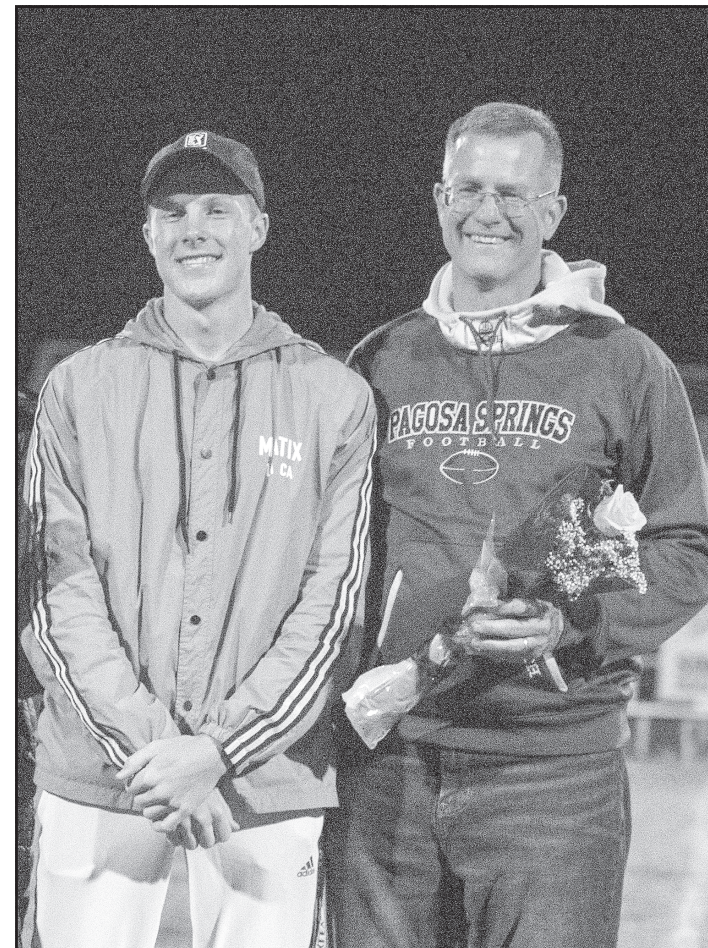

The guys, Anderson noted, are "going to be looking at Rifle as our ticket in."

Pagosa's runners match up well with Rifle's, Anderson explained.

He notes that the Pirates will set out to run their race, but half-way through will be looking to see where they are in relation Rifle's

Pirates prep for rematch with Panthers

By John Finefrock
Staff Writer

The Pagosa Springs High School Pirate boys' soccer team is gearing up for its second match of the season with the Montezuma-Cortez Panthers Saturday morning.

The Pirates are currently 3-8-1 and the Panthers are 2-10.

The first match this season between the Pirates and the Panthers was close, with the Pirates edging out a 5-4 victory off a goal late in the second half on Sept. 21.

The game was tied 4-4 in the 62nd minute of the game, when EJ Monteroso passed to team captain Will Villalobos, who scored the game-winning goal.

The Pirates look to repeat that success at their home match on Oct. 19 against the Panthers, which begins a three-game stretch of home games for the Pirates. On the season, the Pirates are 1-3 at home at Golden Peaks Stadium and 2-5-1 on the road.

In an email Wednesday, coach Lindsey Kurt-Mason wrote that he's been reiterating to the team, "It's not how you start but how you finish," and that he hopes the team remembers that "in the games to come and challenges [they] may face down the road."

In the 3A Rating Percentage Index, which helps determine postseason seeding, the Pirates sit at 45th and the Panthers sit 54th.

In Intermountain League Play, the Pirates are 3-2, just behind Alamosa, who is 4-0. The Panthers are 2-2 and sit ahead of Bayfield, who is 0-5.

The Pirates face the Montezuma-Cortez Panthers on Oct. 19 at 11 a.m. at Golden Peaks Stadium.

Pirate Tay Barker remains in hot pursuit of Salida Spartan quarterback Zayne Walker during the Oct. 11 matchup between the two Intermountain League opponents. Barker finished with four tackles on the night and Pagosa dominated Salida during the Spartan's homecoming festivities, winning 40-7. Pagosa will look to add a third straight win against the Bayfield Wolverines on the road on Oct. 25 at 7 p.m.

Pirates conquer Spartans 40-7

By Chris Mannara
Staff Writer

The No. 23 Pagosa Springs High School Pirate football team was able to play spoiler to the No. 38 Salida Spartans on their homecoming night, showing a balanced attack on both sides of the ball and earning another league win, 40-7.

This win marks two straight wins for Pagosa, pushing the team's overall record to 3-4 overall, which includes a perfect 2-0 record against Intermountain League (IML) foes.

Paden Bailey kicked things off for the Pirates with a 9-yard touchdown early in the first quarter, giving Pagosa a 7-0 lead. Bailey then got it done on the defensive end on Salida's ensuing possession, picking off Spartan quarterback Zayne Walker's pass.

Bailey again found the end zone following his interception, scoring from 13 yards out to make it 14-0 Pagosa heading into the second quarter.

With five minutes left in the first half, Pirate quarterback Grant Aucoin called his own number en route to another Pirate score, with Aucoin making it 20-0 off of a 2-yard quarterback sneak touchdown.

Despite a missed extra point, Pagosa maintained a shutout heading into halftime, 20-0.

With 3:30 left in the third quarter, Bailey added a third score to his resume, this one a 13-yard rushing touchdown that came off of a pitch play and ended with Bailey spinning past a Spartan defender and past the goal line, pushing Pagosa's lead to 26-0 heading into the fourth quarter.

Early in the final quarter, the Spartans scored their first points with Walker floating a 38-yard touchdown pass to Ben Fuller, cutting into the deficit and making it 26-7 in favor of Pagosa.

The Pirates did not slow down after that Spartan score; with 4:45 left in the final quarter, Wil Aucoin rushed for a 26-yard touchdown. A Bailey two-point conversion extended Pagosa's lead to 34-7.

Pagosa added one final score with less than a minute remaining in the game, with Grant Aucoin finding pay dirt with a 25-yard rushing touchdown to secure the 40-7 league victory over Salida.

Grant Aucoin finished the night completing two of seven passing attempts for 40 yards.

Mitch Lewis had one catch for 29 yards and Bailey added a catch for 11 yards.

In the rushing department, Aucoin led the team in carries and yards, with 24 rushing attempts for 122 yards.

VOLLEYBALL

Lady Pirates lose close one to Alamosa, take season series from Monte Vista, host two more league opponents

By Chris Mannara
Staff Writer

Over the weekend, the No. 44 Pagosa Springs High School Lady Pirate volleyball team split games with a pair of league opponents at a tri tournament hosted by the Monte Vista Pirates.

Following the tournament, Pagosa's overall record is now 5-11, with a 2-6 record against Intermountain League (IML) opponents.

Clash with the moose

Kicking off play in the Monte Vista tri tournament on Oct. 12, the Lady Pirates were looking for redemption against the IML-leading No. 2 Alamosa Mean Moose (20-2 overall, 9-0 in league play).

Pagosa had previously lost at home to Alamosa in three sets on Oct. 1.

This match against the Mean Moose went differently, going five sets, but Pagosa was not able to pick up the win this time, either.

Alamosa took the opening set from Pagosa 25-14, but the Lady Pirates rallied in the second, winning 25-18 to tie the game up at one set apiece.

The Mean Moose responded in the third set winning 25-12, but Pagosa was able to respond in the fourth set 26-24, forcing a game-deciding fifth set.

In that fifth set, Alamosa was able to take care of Pagosa, 15-5.

Pagosa finished with 38 total kills against Alamosa. Patty Black and Kori Lucero both led the team with nine each.

Brigid Parken finished with six kills and Elsa Lindner added another five.

River Pitcher led the team in serving aces with two while Teagan Stretton added one.

Lindner led the Lady Pirates' defensive charge with five blocks against Alamosa.

Five Lady Pirates posted double digit digs against Alamosa; Pagosa finished with 94 total digs.

Mackenzie Wedemeyer led the team with 19, both Stretton and Lucero had 17 each, Chloe Bridges finished with 14, and Pitcher contributed 13.

Stretton led the team with 23 assists, out of a total 34, while Bridges had eight and Lindner added three more.

Against Alamosa, the Lady Pirates played with a "do or die mind set," coach Caitlin Forrest explained in an email.

Forrest noted that she was coaching the C-team at the time and did not have an opportunity to meet with the Lady Pirates before their match against Alamosa, describing, "they truly led themselves going into that match."

In the sets that Pagosa won, the Lady Pirates were focused, had few errors and played great defense, she explained.

"It helps that we only missed one serve the entire match and passed incredibly well. Alamosa hit hard, but our girls were mindful that a hard kill is worth the exact same amount as a tip, or a mistake. They valued every opportunity to play the ball and it showed," she wrote.

Sweep Monte Vista

Pagosa was able to rebound later in the tri tournament against the host Monte Vista Pirates, sweeping them in three straight sets and taking the season series.

Pagosa dominated the first set, winning by a score of 25-9, and went on to win the second and third sets by margins of 25-11 and 25-17.

Of the 29 total kills posted against Monte Vista, Black led the team with nine; Parken followed with seven.

Three Lady Pirates posted three kills each: Wedemeyer, Adelyn Dozier and Lindner.

Lucero led the Lady Pirates in serving aces with five.

Both Taylor Lewis and Wedemeyer notched three blocks each against the Monte Vista offense.

Pitcher led the team with 17 digs, Wedemeyer added another eight and Lucero had seven.

Stretton led the team with 12 assists while Bridges followed with seven.

Upcoming league games

Pagosa will look to gain two more wins in a pair of home games against league opponents starting tonight at 6 against the No. 14 Centauri Falcons (9-6 overall, 6-2 in league play).

Centauri previously defeated Pagosa in five sets on Sept. 28.

On Oct. 22, for senior night, Pagosa will play host to the No. 31 Montezuma-Cortez Panthers (6-6 overall, 1-6 in league play).

The Panthers bested the Lady Pirates on Oct. 5 in three sets.

Bailey also eclipsed the century mark in the rushing department with 15 carries for 117 yards.

Wil Aucoin added seven carries for 60 yards, Lewis had four for 19 yards and Dustin Clark added one carry for 1 yard.

Grant Aucoin led the team in tackles with seven, while Bailey added six, Skyler Hill contributed another five and Tay Barker had four.

Wil Aucoin recorded the lone quarterback sack for the Pirate defense.

"It was good to get another win and that's an important one," coach Myron Stretton said in an interview. "It's really looking like to make the playoffs we're going to have to win the league. So, that was the next step in doing that."

The win against the Spartans was a good "building block," he added.

"We did what we needed to do to put ourselves in a position to play another game and give ourselves an opportunity to make the playoffs," he said.

Stretton added that he thought the win against Salida showcased the Pirates' best defensive showing so far this season.

"I was pleased with our pursuit," Stretton said of Pagosa containing Walker. "He is difficult to keep in check."

In preparing for Salida, Stretton explained that the Spartan offense was not much different than other offenses that Pagosa has seen so far this year.

"We just knew that he was going to scramble. That's, unfortunately for them, the biggest part of their offense, and so, we just knew we had to have good pursuit and get a bunch of guys to the ball," Stretton said of Walker.

Running the ball on offense, both Grant Aucoin and Bailey totaled 239 rushing yards, which Stretton noted is important for the offense.

"If you're going to run triple option, your quarterback has to be a threat or it's not really triple option," he said.

Salida did a good job of limiting what Pagosa could do in terms of running the ball up the middle, he added.

"We're just going to continue to try to keep that going," he said of the triple option.

The offensive and defensive lines played well, Stretton noted.

"The line never gets enough credit. They take a lot of the blame when things don't go well and they get very little of the credit when things do go well," he said. "I think we're continuing to improve there."

Despite the win, Pagosa dropped in the Ratings Percentage Index (RPI) standings, sliding from No. 18 to No. 23 this week.

The RPI standings help determine postseason seeding, and according to the Colorado High School Activities Association, the top 16 teams qualify for postseason play, with league winners automatically earning a postseason bid.

Pagosa remains in second place in the IML standings, sitting behind Bayfield.

Rematch against Bayfield

The next step in Pagosa's search for a playoff birth will come on the road against an IML rival, the No. 26 Bayfield Wolverines (2-4 overall, 1-0 in league play), on Oct. 25 at 7 p.m.

The Wolverines have a game scheduled against the Montezuma-Cortez Panthers this Friday at 7 p.m.

Last season, Pagosa lost to Bayfield in an overtime thriller 14-13.

Despite some of the previous scores against opponents and losing some important pieces from last year, Bayfield is a better team than its record indicates, Stretton noted.

"They still play hard. They still execute well," he explained. "Without a doubt, it'll be a tough game."

harriers.

But, who will be on the line for the Pirates tomorrow morning was undecided as of Tuesday.

"It's going to come down to the last moment," Anderson said, noting Cooper Evans and Elan Ramirez are facing injury and illness, respectively.

The Lady Pirates, Anderson noted, will look to continue to have their fifth, sixth and seventh runners as close together and as close to the front as possible — something the team was successful with in Monte Vista.

The Lady Pirates' roster is more set, with this week's top eight set to travel to regionals.

Basalt is hosting the regional tournament, which will be held at Crown Mountain Park in El Jebel.

"Come sunshine, clouds, snow, rain ... we'll be ready to run our race," Anderson said.

Flu season is here: Get your flu vaccine soon

By Claire Ninde
Special to The SUN

Flu season officially started on Sept. 29 this year and San Juan Basin Public Health (SJBPH) and the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment (CDPHE) urge everyone ages 6 months and older to get vaccinated, ideally before the end of October.

"We don't know how serious flu season will be," said Dr. Rachel Herlihy, state communicable disease epidemiologist. "We do know that getting the flu can keep you out of work or school or put you in the hospital. Getting a flu shot every year can prevent that or lessen the severity if you do become ill."

Flu cases start to increase in October and typically peak in late December or early January before dropping off in the spring. Since it takes two weeks for the vaccine to take effect, October is the ideal time to get your flu shot.

"Every year, flu vaccines are updated to best match circulating flu viruses," said Lynn Trefren, Immunization Branch manager at the state health department. "We recommend any licensed, age-appropriate flu vaccine, including the nasal spray vaccine, which is back this year."

"While healthy people normally recover from the flu, getting a shot keeps you from spreading the virus to people 65 and older, children under 5, pregnant women and people with certain chronic medical conditions," Herlihy said. "And since babies under 6 months can't get the vaccine, it's up to us all to protect them."

SJBPH encourages people to see their doctor for their flu shots. To find flu vaccines at retail outlets, visit vaccinefinder.org. SJBPH offers a range of flu vaccines, including:

- High-dose quadrivalent flu shot — Recommended for adults 65 years old and older, and other at-risk adults.
- Quadrivalent flu shot — Recommended for all children and adults.
- Egg-free flu shot — Recommended for those with a severe egg allergy.

SJBPH offers vaccines for uninsured children and adults at a reduced price; patients with Medicaid; Medicare and other private insurance, including Anthem Blue Cross Blue Shield, United and Rocky Mountain Healthcare.

The state health department recommends:

- In addition to getting a flu vaccine every year, adults 65 and older should check whether they have had a pneumococcal vaccine. There are two flu vaccines specifically for persons 65 and older; people can talk to their doctors about which vaccine is best for them.
- Children who are younger than 9 years who are getting the flu vaccine for the first time, and those under 9 who have only previously gotten one dose of the vaccine, should get two doses of the vaccine. The first dose should be given as soon as vaccine becomes available. The second dose should be given at least 28 days after the first dose.
- Pregnant women have more serious complications if they get the flu and should be vaccinated before the end of October.

To stay informed, visit CDPHE's flu web page. For questions regarding flu vaccine options and vaccine appointments at SJBPH, contact the agency at 247-5702.

American Legion disposes of unserviceable flags

Special to The SUN

In accordance with the U.S. Flag Code and following an official ceremony prescribed by American Legion national headquarters, members of Pagosa Springs Mullins-Nickerson Post 108 retired and disposed of over 100 flags Wednesday, Oct. 9, behind the Legion building on Hermosa Street.

While the dignified disposal is required for the U.S. colors, the post also accepts and properly disposes of state flags and this year even one military branch flag (U.S. Navy).

Unserviceable flags are turned in annually during the summer around Flag Day, June 14, when the American Legion encourages businesses and homeowners to inspect their flags for needed replacement for proper disposal as one of a number of community services provided by the post.

Legionnaires present for the flag detail were Don Brenno, Ernie Garcia, Warren Grams, Harry Harris, Hal Lowe, Ed Robinson, Ken Rogers, Don Strait, Raymond Taylor, Roy Vega and Tom Zilhaver.

I have had the joy over the last few weeks to witness the work of two groups in Pagosa that are providing great blessings to the children of our community. The first is the Audubon of the Rockies, which continues its partnership with the school district to get kids out to Fourmile Ranch on field trips. Audubon provides a carefully tended set of nature trails, excellent teaching guides, and a beautiful opportunity for students to connect the importance of science with the real environment in which we live. Many thanks to Keith Bruno and the whole team at Audubon of the Rockies for their hard work and service to the next generation of citizen-scientists.

Second, I am thankful for the teachers and administrators in our public schools. They show persistent love, enthusiasm and endurance in an underpaid profession that has one of the greatest society-wide effects on the next generation. They navigate all the rules and regs of state-supervised institutions while putting their creativity to work for the sake of those who will not, for years at least, understand the blessings they receive. So, to all of the faculty and staff of our local schools: I thank God for you.

District selects superintendent search firm

By Chris Mannara
Staff Writer

Following a board decision at its regular meeting on Oct. 8, McPherson and Jacobson LLC will be the firm to help lead Archuleta School District (ASD) in its search for a new superintendent at the end of the school year.

The ASD Board of Education (BOE) previously heard presentations from Superintendent Search Consultant Henry Roman from the Colorado Association of School Boards (CASB) on Sept. 9 as well as McPherson and Jacobson's Colorado consultant, Dr. Norman Ridder, on Oct. 1.

Current ASD Superintendent Linda Reed announced her retirement in a letter to parents on June 2, outlining that the 2019-2020 school year will be her last with the district.

BOE member Bruce Dryburgh made the initial motion to hire McPherson and Jacobson to help the district with the superintendent search, while fellow board member Bob Lynch seconded, opening up the topic for some brief discussion amongst the board.

"My view is that it would be fine if we hired either one of them. I was impressed with both of them. I'm just slightly more for McPherson than CASB," Dryburgh said.

After acknowledging both firms would do a great job, BOE member Dawn Kolpin explained she liked the methodology of McPherson and Jacobson and noted that she felt like it would work with the structure of ASD.

"I feel McPherson is going to bring us a little better selection," BOE member Brooks Lindner, participating in the meeting via phone, said.

The motion to hire McPherson and Jacobson as the superintendent search firm for the district carried unanimously.

Other business

Also at the Oct. 8 meeting, the board approved a resolution that announced an upcoming vacancy on the board.

ASD received no petitions for the seat of director for District 4, which is currently held by Kolpin, and that seat is up for election during the Nov. 5 biennial election; this will cause a vacancy upon the seating of the new board on Nov. 12 when Kolpin completes her current term, Schick explained.

"The board is aware of this impending vacancy and would like to begin advertising now in order to give ample time to potential board members to be considered to fill this vacancy," Schick read from meeting documents.

The actual vacancy will be declared and the time line will be set at the board's Nov. 12 meeting once the new board is seated, Schick noted.

Another reason behind getting this done ahead of time is to allow for whomever the new board member is to attend a new board member training at an upcoming CASB meeting, Schick added.

The resolution that announces a vacancy on the ASD board was approved unanimously by the board.

Charter school receives 2019 review

By Chris Mannara
Staff Writer

Pagosa Peak Open School (PPOS) received its annual review from Archuleta School District (ASD) during a regular board meeting on Oct. 9, with the annual review noting positives and growth within the charter school as well as outlining necessary improvements.

ASD Superintendent Linda Reed explained that an interview was conducted with current PPOS School Director Angela Crossland, outgoing school director James Lewicki, ASD Assistant Superintendent Laura Mijares and ASD Finance Director Michael Hodgson.

"I would like to preface this by saying how pleased I am with the approach that Angela is taking and her sincere and very great knowledge about what needs to happen," Reed said. "It's a pleasure working with her."

Enrollment and demographics

The review notes that PPOS had about 52 percent of students within the free or reduced lunch (FRL) population, while Pagosa Springs Elementary School (PSES) had 56 percent of its student population being within the FRL category.

However, only 1 percent of the student population at PPOS was classified as English Language Learners (ELL), while at PSES the ELL student population was at 9 percent.

"They pretty much matched the economic demographics. There was a little less success in matching the race and ethnic demographics between PPOS and PSES," Reed explained.

ASD's recommendation for PPOS in regard to enrollment and demographics is for Crossland to address the racial demographics and reflect the district's racial demographic, as well as evaluate the process in which PPOS collects the home language survey.

Academic performance

Reed explained that through the Colorado Department of Education (CDE) school performance frameworks released in September of 2018, PPOS received a rating of priority improvement.

Within the 2019 preliminary school frameworks released in September, PPOS again received a rating of priority improvement due to decreased participation, Reed explained, noting that PPOS had accurate participation, but this rating was caused due to an internal error at ASD.

"However, I will say that their overall performance increased by 10 percent, from 37.5 to 47.5, which would have put them into the improvement category, not priority improvement, so that's a pretty significant step up," Reed said.

On the Colorado Measures of Academic Success (CMAS) English language arts test, Reed explained that 24 percent of PPOS third-, fourth- and fifth-graders met or exceeded expectations on that portion of the test. This is an increase from last year's totals for third- and fourth-graders of 14 percent.

However, zero percent of third-, fourth- and fifth-grade students met or exceeded expectations on the CMAS math test. Last year 7 percent of students in third and fourth grade met or exceeded expectations, Reed described.

The grade levels were combined within the review because PPOS's class sizes are too small to report to the public, Reed added later.

Additionally, PPOS saw that on the Northwest Evaluation Association (NWEA) reading test that 41 percent of its first-grade students were at or above the national average, 33 percent of its second-grade students met or exceeded the national average, 36 percent of its third-grade students met or exceeded the national average, and 17 percent of its fifth-grade students met or exceeded the national average.

No PPOS fourth-grade students met or exceeded the national average on the NWEA reading test, the review notes.

On the NWEA math test, 41 percent of PPOS first-grade students met or exceeded the national average, 14 percent of the school's second-grade students met or exceeded the national mean, and 20 percent of third-grade students met or exceeded the national mean.

No fourth- or fifth-grade students at PPOS met or exceeded expectations on the NWEA math test, the review outlines.

Under academic performance, action items moving forward for PPOS involve things such as: Crossland becoming the school assessment coordinator, creating an action plan to address its match scores on CMAS and NWEA, creating a multitiered system of support for students scoring below the national mean, and sharing best practice outlines with families and students, Reed explained.

PPOS will also be using a formative loop process to provide intensive support for students in English language arts and math, as well as

School board discusses offering PSAT to eighth-graders, changes at high school demand students learn content

By Chris Mannara
Staff Writer

Eighth-grade students at Pagosa Springs Middle School (PSMS) could be required to take the PSAT test in order to bridge the gap between eighth-graders and freshmen in high school.

The idea was discussed at a summit held by the Archuleta School District (ASD) Board of Education on Oct. 7, with ASD Superintendent Linda Reed explaining that there have been initial conversations held on the topic.

Reed explained that she and Pagosa Springs High School (PSHS) Principal Sean O'Donnell have spoken to other principals about this idea.

"The eighth grade is probably the most heavily tested grade level in our district," Reed said, noting that eighth-graders take the math, science and English language arts portions of the Colorado Measures of Academic Success tests.

In addition to those tests, Reed noted that eighth-grade students at PSMS take the National Assessment of Educational Progress test, as well as the Northwest Evaluation Association (NWEA) test.

"Because that is a measure that's tied to our evaluation of teachers," Reed explained, adding that the district is not tied to that test being its tool to evaluate teachers.

One question for the district to consider is if giving eighth-grade students the NWEA test at the beginning of the year and the PSAT at the end of the year would really be helping ASD students.

"At this point I think we were talking about PSAT in, like, late winter," Reed suggested.

ASD Assistant Superintendent Laura Mijares added that the window for administering the PSAT test is "pretty broad" and can be done prior to CMAS testing, or it could be done in May.

However, giving a test to eighth-grade students in May might prove to be difficult as students are anxious to be out of school for the summer, Mijares noted.

In conversations with other superintendents in the region who have administered the test to eighth-graders, Reed explained that they have told her the data from the PSAT is very valuable.

The schools within the region that give the test to eighth-grade students are in Ignacio and Bayfield, Reed explained.

"If they're already tested that much, don't the teachers in high school already have a feel for what these kids are doing?" ASD Board President Greg Schick asked.

Reed responded that because the district's accountability measure at PSHS is the SAT test, NWEA "doesn't really mean anything."

"That data isn't all that helpful, and with ninth grade, we can key these kids into, early on, into support programs," Reed said. "The teachers know that, but we don't have any data to support it."

If the PSAT were to be added to the list of tests for PSMS eighth-graders, one idea is potentially take away an existing test such as NWEA, Reed indicated.

"PSAT-8 is a three-hour test that they can give in one morning. It requires some schedule changes, but they could in fact do it," Reed added later.

In a follow-up interview on Oct. 8, Reed clarified that the likelihood that PSMS eighth-graders would take the PSAT test is "to be determined."

"I think we're still discussing the logistics of it and whether or not we can," she said.

The rationale behind wanting to give this test to those students is to give more "timely" data to PSHS, she noted.

However, the district does recognize there is a "huge testing burden" on the eighth grade, she noted.

High school grading change

Also during the summit, Reed noted that PSHS has made some changes in the way it grades summative assessments.

"Getting kids to get their work done on time, which is a skill we want to develop in our students, they've switched from you can turn it in at any time to you only get 90 percent," Reed said, clarifying that 90 percent is the highest grade a student can get on a late assignment.

In a follow-up interview, O'Donnell further explained the changes PSHS has made to its grading policy.

Formative assignments are worth 20 percent of a student's class grade at PSHS. These kinds of things include homework, O'Donnell explained, and teachers have flexibility in how to use formative assignments.

For summative assessments, all students have to pass them to get a credit, O'Donnell described.

"You obviously have to be able to retake summatives and then you get a full credit on your retake," he said. "So, once you've learned it, you get the credit for it."

The changes made mean the highest grade you could earn on a retake is a 90 percent, he described further.

"You can still get an A, but it kind of gives you incentive to really try hard the first time because you can get higher than a 90," he said.

Another change made is if a student turns in an assignment late, the highest grade a student can get is a 90 percent.

"We're also trying to not put a time limit on how long it takes a kid to learn something," he added later. "If you're a kid that failed a test and you just don't know it, it's going to take you a little bit longer to learn it, but we give you full credit once you learn it."

O'Donnell noted that there has been mixed feedback so far, with some suggesting that kids only get one chance, while others suggest that this puts more pressure on students learning content.

"It's kind of mixed, but I'll also say that I don't know if we'll ever come up with a system that's perfect," O'Donnell said, noting that it is hard to set a numeric value to what a student knows.

In previous years at PSHS, students would get a zero on assignments that were late or not turned in, which can cause problems when it comes to student learning, O'Donnell added later.

"Well now you've basically said that assignment doesn't matter, you don't have to do it," he said. "If we're going to grade it and put value to it and say this is important content that we're going to actually grade, then I feel like it's something you should have to do."

other intervention processes, Reed noted.

Accountability

In order to meet state standards of accountability, Reed described later in the meeting that PPOS and Crossland will be using funds from an Empowering Action for School Improvement (EASI) grant to conduct a holistic review of the school and its current practices.

Additionally, Crossland will be scheduling literacy trainings for certain teachers and will create a unified improvement plan.

Teacher evaluations will also be tied to PPOS's work plan, Reed noted in regard to accountability.

During the meeting, Reed indicated that in regard to non-discrimination, PPOS was out of compliance with special education services, students with 504 and READ plans as well as being out of compliance with gifted education.

"They were able to make improvements during 18-19 by hiring a Colorado-certified special education teacher who understood the requirements," Reed said. "That took care of one of the action items that we had set in last year's review. Unfortunately, that person resigned."

However, Reed later noted that PPOS was able to hire a new special education educator who would have her Colorado license by the end of the month.

Crossland will serve as the 504 coordinator for PPOS and will also work to provide training for herself and the new special education teacher for READ plans, Reed added later.

Finances

Because ASD is the approved Local Education Agency (LEA) and fiscal agent for PPOS, the district withholds 5 percent of the state's per pupil revenue, Reed explained.

"Understanding that PPOS has had a transition year, it is imperative that PPOS meet generally accepted standards of fiscal management, such as not requesting reimbursement for federal funds spent until the items have been received and paid for," Reed said.

Outlined in the annual review, PPOS must submit timely financial quarterly reports, follow state requirements for the Financial Transparency Act, have 3 percent of its Taxpayer Bill of Rights reserves set aside and meet state guidelines for its budgets.

Other items

Later in the meeting, Reed touched on a few more action items for PPOS involving quality assurance and oversight; these action items included:

- PPOS providing a copy of its employee handbook to Reed.
- PPOS will use Infinite Campus for attendance and Alpine Achievement for student plans.

Future

In its third year of operation, PPOS has found itself with a new school director and multiple new staff members, Reed explained.

Reed added that Crossland has implemented professional development for teachers and assistants, and has outlined expectations in regard to standards and curriculum implementation for the school's project-based learning environment.

"We believe these steps will help support the success of students and staff," Reed said.

Crossland has also been attending meetings with other district administrators and working closely with CDE school improvement staff on a variety of issues, Reed explained.

"We believe that the partnership that exists between PPOS and the district is positive and will benefit the students and families at PPOS and lead to improvements in student learning and performance in the coming year," Reed said.

Later, Reed added that the district hopes PPOS earns a performance rating on the School Performance Framework and exits the improvement process.

"I want to reiterate what we have said for the last two years from the board standpoint is that we fully support your school," Board of Education member Bruce Dryburgh said.

The Colorado Health Foundation awards PPOS $59,000 After-School Grant

By Alison Beach
Special to The SUN

Pagosa Peak Open School (PPOS) is pleased to announce that the school has been awarded a two-year grant from the Colorado Health Foundation in the amount of $59,000.

The funds from this grant will be used toward the purchase of the proven SPARK PE curriculum specifically designed for children ages 5-14, SPARK PE training for staff, as well as support for an after-school physical activity advisor.

In order to address all aspects of children's health, Pagosa Peak

Open School will add an after-school physical activity course, funded by the foundation, to our anticipated AmeriCorps partnered after-school food security course starting in the 2019-2020 school year. These courses will be the key components to PPOS's new after-school wellness club.

This dual approach to health and wellness will bring nutritional education and physical activity to Archuleta County children and enable our youth to choose healthy habits throughout life. The PPOS after-school wellness club is projected to start in early November 2019.

Testing of dial pressure canner gauges

The CSU Extension — Archuleta County Office is now offering to test dial pressure canner gauges for $5 for Archuleta County residents. For more information, contact Terry Schaaf at 264-5931.

Dial gauges should be checked for accuracy before use each year. Gauges that read high cause under-processing and may result in unsafe food. Low readings cause over-processing. Pressure adjustments can be made if the gauge reads up to 2 pounds high or low. Gauges that differ by more than 2 pounds should be replaced.

Replacement gauges and other parts (e.g. gasket, safety plugs) for canners are often found at stores that sell food preservation equipment or from canner manufacturers. When ordering parts, be sure to provide your canner model number and describe the parts you need.

Weighted gauges will either keep rocking gently or make a frequent jiggling noise to indicate that the correct pressure is being maintained. Read the manufacturer's instructions to know how a particular weighted gauge should rock or jiggle. Weighted gauges do not require testing.

Shred Day

On Oct. 23 from 4 to 6 p.m., you can bring a maximum of three boxes to the old Hometown Market parking lot and support your local 4-H program. The cost is $5 per box. Protect your identity.

Healthy Lands Workshop

VA recognizes World Mental Health Day

By Raymond Taylor
SUN Columnist

The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) joined organizations, communities, leaders and mental health professionals to observe World Mental Health Day Oct. 10.

This year's theme was "mental health promotion and suicide prevention," and the VA urged all veterans, service members, family and friends to learn about the resources and support available for those experiencing signs or symptoms of a mental health condition and to help prevent suicide among veterans.

"Suicide prevention is VA's top clinical priority," said VA Secretary Robert Wilkie. "As I've noted previously, this requires an all-hands-on-deck comprehensive approach. Encouraging communities to engage and participate in awareness activities is a critical element in our public health strategy to reducing veteran deaths by suicide."

Every 40 seconds, someone dies by suicide somewhere around the world. The VA and the World Federation of Health Mental Health (WFMH) want everyone to know that mental health treatment is effective, recovery is possible and suicide is preventable.

Join the VA and the WFMH in taking 40 seconds for action. Your actions may provide the encouragement a loved one needs to seek help or even help prevent a suicide attempt. Here are a few ways to participate:

- Explore the Veterans Crisis Line and suicide prevention links to learn about the many ways you can be there for a veteran in need and more information.
- Visit MakeTheConnection.net to watch videos of over 500 veterans — from every service era and branch — share their stories of coping with major life events, overcoming mental health challenges and finding a new sense of purpose. Then, share one of these inspiring stories with a veteran loved one.
- Check out MentalHealth.va.gov for information and resources on a variety of mental health topics and conditions, including suicide risk, anxiety, depression and more.
- Connect with Coaching Into Care, a free telephone service for family members, friends and loved ones of veterans who may need mental health support. The hours of operation are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Call (888) 823-7458 to get started.

If you are a veteran in crisis or are concerned about one, the Veterans Crisis Line is here to help. Call (800) 273-8255 and press 1, send a text message to 838255 or chat online.

Free shopping at St. Patrick's Saturday for Clothing Giveaway

By Lynne McCrudden
Special to The PREVIEW

The annual Clothing Giveaway will be this Saturday, Oct. 19, at St. Patrick's Episcopal Church, 225 S. Pagosa Blvd., right next to the hospital. This is the one fall event you don't want to miss.

Everyone is welcome and you will be given a good-sized bag to fill up with men's, women's and children's clothing, plus household linens, towels and sheets, and shoes and boots for the whole family to keep those tootsies warm this winter. The doors will open at 8 a.m. and close at noon, when we hope there won't be a stitch of clothing left.

As Fr. Doug Neel has said every year, this is his favorite event. Not only because St. Patrick's loves to help our community, but for the way this brings our parishioners together, working hard and enjoying the fellowship with each other. He also appreciates the wonderful participation of members of the community who just come to help because they love this event, too.

The Clothing Giveaway event is spearheaded by Nicki Rippee and Becky Enders and they personally want to thank the community who gave us an overwhelming number of donations for this event. Your generosity is graciously appreciated.

We have lots of clothes to choose from and plenty of help on Saturday to help you find just what you are looking for to complete that fall outfit. See you Saturday at 8 a.m.

Arctic Adventure Book Fair underway

By Lisa Scott
Special to The PREVIEW

The Scholastic Book Fair is presented at Pagosa Springs Elementary School Oct. 14-25 during school hours in the school library. Families, teachers and the community are invited to attend the fair, which will feature a special theme: Arctic Adventure Book Fair — Snow much to Read!

Reading is an essential activity to keep learning skills sharp and to engage the imagination. This is an exciting time for students at the school, and it is a fun and gratifying way to increase interest in reading for pleasure. Students love showing their families the decorations and the books they have their eye on. Students visit the book fair with their class to preview the books for sale, especially the new releases. There are a wide variety of books and price ranges available, and there is always a huge supply of bargain items as low as $1.99.

Family Night will be held Thursday, Oct. 24, from 5 to 7 p.m. The Partners In Education Committee has organized an evening of fun and will provide a delicious, nutritious homemade dinner. Baked potatoes with chili and toppings will be served with salad and dessert. Families can participate in the arctic/frozen performance, story time by the Sisson Library librarian, various guessing games and crafts, and the book fair will be open.

Individuals attending the book fair can also help build individual classroom libraries by purchasing a book for a teacher through the Classroom Wish List Program that is highlighted within the book fair.

The hallway and entrance to the library have been decorated with the arctic theme, including arctic animals, glaciers and icicles. Students also view the author DVD, supplied by Scholastic, which features authors discussing the books they wrote with kids in mind.

The elementary school hosts one book fair per semester and has since 1982. Proceeds from the event are taken in the form of books for the school library and Scholastic dollars. Scholastic dollars are used to order a vast array of educational supplies at a considerable discount. Proceeds continue to be used to “makeover” classrooms to offer flexible seating and work spaces that are comfortable for students of all heights, sizes and learning styles. Today, classrooms are communities that focus on learning and inspire creativity and collaboration.

There are products for all age ranges and many excellent gift ideas. Inventory includes newly released titles, award-winning titles, annual favorites, children’s classics, beautiful hardback books, and books and products from more than 150 publishers.

Families, educators and the community are invited to attend the book fair as a shopper or volunteer during book fair hours as the event is hosted in the school library and staffed by volunteers. For more information or to volunteer, contact Aubrie Limebrook at (808) 721-6876.

Lifelong Learning Lecture Series continues

By Brad Glover
Special to The PREVIEW

The informative presentations of the Lifelong Learning Lecture Series at your library will continue at 5 p.m. on Thursdays from through Nov. 21.

We are located at 811 San Juan St. on the corner of 8th Street and U.S. 160.

Mark Mueller from the Colorado Avalanche Information Center kicked off the series on Oct. 10 with a captivating overview of the historic avalanche season seen across Colorado during our most recent winter of 2018-19.

Today, Oct. 17, Cheryl Bowdridge from San Juan Basin Public Health will give a timely and important presentation about the risks of vaping. We will learn how we can become more educated and share our knowledge with youth about the dangers of electronic nicotine devices. Snacks and door prizes will be provided to attendees.

On Oct. 24, several local authors from the Wolf Creek Christian Writers Network will be at the library for a panel discussion about the joys, challenges and triumphs related to writing and publishing. Whether you are writing your personal family history or hope to someday get a novel published or just like to write poetry in your spare time, the local authors at this panel discussion hope to encourage everyone to find the best ways to write and publish. This presentation is ideal for anyone who loves to read or has an interest in writing in any genre or format.

There will be no lecture on Oct. 31, but the library will have a pumpkin decorating contest, so stop by or call us for more details.

Resuming on Nov. 7, Mike Le Roux will be on hand to discuss the role of Upper San Juan Search and Rescue. He will provide an introduction to the agency and discuss preparedness for safe travel in the backcountry. Some of the actual search and rescue missions that have been carried out locally will also be discussed. Le Roux is the emergency manager for Archuleta County and has been actively involved with Upper San Juan Search and Rescue since 2014.

Mueller will return to the library on Nov. 14 for an important presentation about avalanche awareness. During this presentation, you will see the destructive power of avalanches, understand when and why they happen, and how you can still have fun in the mountains and avoid avalanches when recreating or traveling in Colorado.

Dr. Jean Strahlendorf, professor emeritus at Texas Tech University School of Medicine, will be our concluding speaker on Nov. 21. Her presentation is titled: "Is There a Glimmer of Hope for the Treatment and Reversal of Dementia?" She will explore some of the multiple and far-reaching factors contributing to dementia. Alzheimer's will also be discussed as will a discussion about new clinical research that strives to reveal ways to potentially stave off the onset and progression of cognitive decline.

Attend as many lectures as you would like to continue your lifelong learning journey. We hope to see you at your Ruby Sisson Library.

Look for the Golden Tickets: 'Willy Wonka' cast holding chocolate fundraiser

By Dale Johnson
Special to The PREVIEW

"Willy Wonka the Musical," Curtains Up Pagosa's (CUP) winter production, has a local connection.

CUP is partnering with Michele White, the owner of PS Chocolates, to create a special line of chocolates for the show. Wonka's Oompa-Loompas and other cast members will be selling our own Wonka chocolates as a fundraiser for CUP.

The specialty chocolate bars are handmade from high-quality Belgium chocolate, Calibaut dark chocolate and Ghiradelli white chocolate. White will create small batches of quality globally sourced artisan chocolate bars in her own "chocolate factory" right here in Pagosa.

The bars will be $3 each and will be available in the next couple of weeks.

And, there's more. Just like in the "Willy Wonka" musical, amongst the candy bars sold, there will be five Golden Tickets hidden. The Golden Ticket allows the bearer one free ticket to "Willy Wonka."

See any cast members to purchase.

Sweet Al's secret fan club

My Sweet Al has a secret fan club. Who would have thunk it? Over the years, I have heard from a number of men who have expressed how much they appreciated my column. I always figured they were speaking on behalf of their wives. Until recently, I didn't know that there are those who secretly hail Al as a hero. Maybe it's because their own wives are giving them a hard time, too.

I received the following email from Jim. He wrote: "Regarding one of your articles on Al's junk car, I am now speaking up for Sweet Al. I think he needs to keep it. You should turn Al loose on it so he can do his old car up right. He would look great driving it in the 4th of July parade. This is not a paid for commentary on Al's part. I said all of this of my own free will and I know that I am right. Al, Keep it all. KEEP the car."

Seriously? There are men who rally together in support of another man's junk? Clearly and officially, I have heard it all.

My Sweet Al and I were invited for an evening out at a friend's house. We were told that it would be a small gathering of some fans. Fans? That's enough to make a girl go out and buy a new girdle and shave her legs. Shortly after my Sweet Al and I cleared the front door, the conversation landed on Al's junk and his prize mutt, Whiskey.

I knew my star had faded when Ken looked at Al and said, "When I come from Albuquerque, the first thing I do is run and buy a paper and read your article."

I gave Al the side eye and mouthed the words, "Your article?"

Then there was Tony. All he wanted to do was to talk to my Sweet Al about his junk because, of all things, he loves his junk, too. At one point during the evening, he said, "I love to hear about other people's lives. I can hardly wait until paper day to read about Sweet Al. By the way, how

Artist's Lane

Betty Slade

is Whiskey?"

Whiskey? This is what my life has been reduced to? I now handle public relations for a dog that eats and sleeps better than me?

Bob said, "The funniest article you ever wrote was about the time when you went to the hospital for your sleep study, and Al drove around and around that circle because he couldn't make a right turn."

I just smiled, it wasn't a day I wanted to relive.

My Sweet Al perked up and added to the conversation, "When I go to the lumber company, Mark yells across the store, 'Tell Betty to keep writing.'" I, of course, had to finish Al's sentence. "When I go to the lumber company, Mark yells, 'Poor Al, are you still making him work around the house?' Of course, and that is why I am buying more paint."

All things considered, we really did have an enjoyable evening. There was a lot of laughter and I let my Sweet Al take his rightful place under his own spotlight. But as all things come to an end, the spotlighting of the night would fade the moment we walked in our front door. My son was standing in the kitchen. Without looking up from whatever he was doing, he yawned and said, "Well, how was your fan club?"

"My fan club is just fine. Jim, Bob, Mark, Ken and Tony love me. In fact, I was even on Tony's bucket list as someone he wanted to meet in person."

With words dripping in sarcasm, my son looked up and said, "So sweet."

I didn't dare mention who the real star of the evening was. I couldn't handle being heckled by my own son.

My family finds great sport in my attempt to be a writer. I don't think they even try to understand me. But when it comes to their dad, they scrutinize every word and every story, and are more protective than his own mother was.

Not a week goes by when I don't hear one of my children say, "Would you just leave him alone," or "Would you just let him do what he wants." If only they knew they were egging me on to pick at him more and then write more.

And what about my Sweet Al's secret fan club? Evidently, they are cheering him on, waiting to hear if he has discovered anything new around the house. After all, one man's junk is another man's treasure.

Final brushstroke: As an artist turned writer, there is a special bond that forms with others when you hear how your work impacts their lives. It was a surprise to me to know just how much that bond was being created with my Sweet Al rather than myself. So, to the brotherhood of merry junk admirers, I promise to keep you up to date should Al discover anything new. Even with and, begrudgingly, if only about Whiskey.

Comment from my Sweet Al: "I have five Ghias, two VWs, two work trucks and one dune buggy. The fact that they don't run does not make them junk. Most of them even have all four wheels."

Jewels and Jeans Barn Dance Saturday

By JoAnn Laird
Special to The PREVIEW

Last call for those wanting to spend an autumn evening in the throes of live country music.

Precious few tickets remain for Pagosa Springs Rotary's fifth annual Jewels and Jeans Barn Dance. Held on Oct. 19 from 6 to 10 p.m.

at the Archuleta County Extension building, this event promises to be a boot scooting good time.

Pagosa's own Country Thunder will provide the music for dancing, there will be food truck fare and libations available for purchase, and lots of coveted items available to bid on at a silent auction. Doors open at 5:30 p.m., with the band starting at 7 p.m. Better get there early if you want that front-row seat by the dance floor. Eat a little, drink sensibly and two-step the night away. How fun is that.

All proceeds benefit the Pagosa Springs Rotary Club's Scholarship Fund. Gifting over $25,000 a year to higher education for our graduating students means that not only will you have an enjoyable autumn evening out, but you could very well be part of changing a young life for the better. Simply buying a ticket to socialize and have fun with friends and neighbors might direct a life down the road to success — a journey that without your help may be impossible.

Tickets may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce, the Choke Cherry Tree or from Rotarians. Tickets are $20. If there are any available at the door, it will cost you $25. Presales end Friday at noon. Last call. Y'all better hurry now.

Stargazers detail upcoming party and fundraiser

By Joan Mieritz
Special to The PREVIEW

The San Juan Stargazers monthly meeting for October will not be our regular Thursday night at the Chamber, but will be on Friday, Oct. 25, and is called our "End-of-the-Year Celebration" for having completed nine star parties at Chimney Rock and is also our seventh anniversary dinner. It will be at a private home and "part-time museum" you will want to see and is for members and guests.

We have invited Chimney Rock Interpretive Association (CRIA) members who helped us at the star parties since their support is essential. It takes a lot more than a row of telescopes and two speakers to have a successful experience for dozens of visitors each night. Safety is critical, so we all work together in many ways to ensure that everyone has a wonderfully memorable time, including the volunteers. Our volunteers get the best benefits of being in a remarkable setting on the high Chimney Rock quista (not the top of the pinnacles) and viewing the glorious night sky, including the ever-brighter Milky Way, each time they come.

You must make a reservation for dinner this year and can then get the directions. Please call (303) 995-2888 or our club number, 335-8286, by Thursday, Oct. 24. The time is 6 p.m. and the cost is $5 for a delicious Italian dinner with pasta and salad. The fabulous dessert will be provided by CRIA to thank us for our hard work

(and we thought we were having fun). Hope to see all you stargazers and CRIA Night Sky support people. It will be a party that is "out of this world," like only stargazers can do.

2020 Deep Sky Calendar

The year passes so quickly and it is time to get your 2020 Deep Sky Calendar. It is even more beautiful than last year.

If you study all the information on the calendar, it is comparable to an astronomy class without exams. Each day has a listing of objects visible in the night sky. The fantastic monthly images are described in great detail so that after 12 lessons you have a sampling of all categories in the field of astronomy.

I give one to each of my grandchildren so we can talk about it and have fun learning together. It is an easy Christmas gift to mail that is a reminder every day all year that you care enough to share the universe.

It is a fundraiser for our Scholarship Fund. Each calendar is $13, but there is an increasing discount for people getting multiple calendars. You can call the RSVP numbers to get calendars.

The San Juan Stargazers are part of the Astronomical League, which includes clubs from all over the U.S. We have a wonderful new website, www.sanjuanstargazers.org, as well as an email address, sjstargazers@gmail.com, and a phone, 335-8286.

We encourage everyone to develop an interest in learning about our amazing universe. It is fun to live amazed.

Thingamajig's Playwrights Festival to feature new works from award-winning playwrights

By Bill Hudson
Special to The PREVIEW

Thingamajig Theatre Company's 2019 Playwrights Festival this year will feature new works — still in development — by two award-winning playwrights, Heidi Kraay and Jay Koepke.

Under the guidance of internationally known director Melissa Firlit, the nearly three-week-long festival will also present short plays by Pagosa teens in a special reading on Oct. 26, as well as three weekends of Jaclyn Backhaus' 2015 play "Men on Boats." A crew of professional actors from around the U.S. will be assisting the playwrights in their script development.

"Men on Boats" opened last weekend, while the exploration of two original plays by Kraay ("See in the Dark") and Koepke ("After Owen") began on Tuesday, Oct. 15, at the Pagosa Springs Center for the Arts with an initial public reading of the fledgling works.

Tickets for the 2019 festival include the opportunity to watch the development of these two new plays; visit pagosacenter.org for tickets or call 731-SHOW (7469). Tickets can also be purchased as part of winter 2019-2020 season tickets.

Kraay was a top finalist at the Women Playwrights' Initiative with her play "Cloudmelt"; a finalist at Creede Repertory Theatre's Headwaters Festival with "How to Hide Your Monster"; and has had her work supported by grants from the Idaho Commission on the Arts, the Alexa Rose Foundation, and the Boise City Department of Arts and History. She teaches at Boise State University.

Her new play, "See in the Dark," portrays a time in the indefinite future, with the arrival of a young girl in Juneau, Alaska — now a struggling and desolate village — where the surviving community embraces her as their new hope until a boy shows up with brutal accusations. Set in Alaska after all the glaciers have melted and the ice fields have vanished, "See in the Dark" presents a mythic look at the value of compassion over suspicion.

Koepke has seen his past work staged in New York, Chicago, New Jersey and Pittsburgh, and has been a finalist in the O'Neill National Playwrights Contest and the New Jersey Playwrights Contest, and has twice been a semifinalist for the Bay Area Playwrights Festival. He also works as a photographer and talent agent in Chicago.

"After Owen" tells the story of David, who finds himself suddenly widowed and alone before the age of 30, after the death of his celebrity chef husband, Owen. But Owen's spirit won't let David rest until he has finished repairing Owen's relationships with his ex-wife and child. By asking us to suspend our disbelief, "After Owen" leads us to deeper truths about growing up, fortitude and forgiveness as David takes ownership of his new life.

Heidi Kraay

The festival will also present readings of past award-winning plays by the two playwrights, including Koepke's "Adrift" and "The Oak Tree," and Kraay's "How to Hide Your Monster." You can learn more about these additional plays at pagosa-center.com.

Firlit writes: "If you participated in the festival last year, we're glad to have you back. If you are new to these events, we are so pleased you are joining us. Developing and workshopping new plays is a process, and a very sacred journey ... During this year's festival, we will be working to hone and strengthen the pieces that are in residency. We look forward to you, the audience, watching the progress each play makes ..."

"Journey is an appropriate word for the festival, the act of traveling from one place to another. In this collaborative journey with the playwrights, we hope that where we end up is different than where we start ... It takes a village to get a play where it's going.

"We are embarking on the journey together."

Mother Daughter Fashion Show set for Oct. 19

By Casey Crow
Special to The PREVIEW

For the first time in Pagosa Springs, the women of our community are taking the stage in a Mother Daughter Fashion Show to benefit Beyond Words International (BWI).

The fashion show welcomes women and girls of all shapes, sizes and backgrounds to celebrate who they are and encourage self love. The purpose of the show is to cultivate confidence and body positivity in our community, while empowering our young women and girls to do the same. Pagosa moms are standing in the spotlight in an effort to lead by example and show their daughters that all women are worth celebrating.

Join us for an exciting evening complete with a red carpet runway, live music and dance performances, a photobooth, appetizers, a silent auction and dance party. Moms and daughters from our local dance academy are excited to model in the show and conquer the runway. They are hard at work putting together ensembles for every season and occasion to inspire your wardrobe. Many will be sporting items and styles from local businesses that you can later purchase in the silent auction. We invite you to dress to the nines, bring your friends and family, and come celebrate our brave and beautiful mother-daughter duos.

All proceeds from the fashion show will benefit BWI. BWI is a nonpolitical, nonreligious 501(c) (3) organization that aims to bring healing to survivors of trauma through the arts. All funds raised from the fashion show will support upcoming projects, including bringing emergency aid and children's arts programming to asylum seekers at the U.S.-Mexico border, collaborating with Rise Above Violence to support local survivors of interpersonal violence through healing art, and providing art therapy to refugees in Greece.

The Mother Daughter Fashion Show will take place Saturday, Oct. 19, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the PLPOA Clubhouse, located at 230 Port Ave. Formal attire is welcomed. Tickets are currently presale only and seating is limited. Tickets are $15 for adults and $10 for students. Tickets can be purchased at: <http://www.dancestudio-pro.com/tickets/psda>.

Bits and pieces: Who knew?

By Lynn Moffett
Special to The PREVIEW

Have you ever done something you were relatively sure God told you to do? Me, too.

Bits and pieces. My life is made up of bits and pieces of “to do” things from the Lord.

Sometimes, doing these things feels idiotic, sometimes it is so scary I want to pretend I didn't hear and sometimes the doing fits me perfectly.

About a year ago, I thought I heard the Lord say, “Come walk with me.”

Since my hiking years were long gone due to knee problems, I often joked that when I went for a ride — meaning getting in my car to cruise down Trujillo Road or south to Chama, over Plumtaw or up to Williams, to view the river, meadows or majestic mountains — I was taking my walk or going for a hike. So, when I heard “Come walk with me,” I knew He meant get in my car and go for a drive.

I also felt a prod to take this trip on a weekly basis and make my “walk” a special time of worship. One more thing I added to the mix: I decided to drive only paved roads since I didn't want my car to get too dirty too soon.

Let me be clear. Worship in song is part of my everyday routine. I mute everything at home because I live in an apartment and don't want to bother my neighbors.

You might doubt God speaks. That's OK. You can attribute my little jaunts to my imagination, or my desire to earn something for the kingdom. The point is, one year ago, I started to cruise and sing praise and worship songs at the top of my lungs. I did break in the winter months when driving became hazardous.

Last week, I joined an online prayer group. One of the scriptures was the timely II Chronicles 7:11-19. That's the “if my people” scripture if you're wondering.

While at prayer, one of the members said, “Lord, sweep through this town. Blow through with the wind of your spirit.”

Chills ran up my arms and I envisioned her prayer and how it would change this small town that had lost the sense of His presence in the last 10 years. I couldn't speak.

That's not a condition that lasts long with me.

Others in the group were silent as well. I think all of us saw an awakening in this place that was more than revival, but restoration in the churches as well as in those who had turned from the Lord.

It also included everybody else who was thirsting for, seeking after, the Living God, believer or not, whether they knew His name or not. Even those I'd turned my back on because they didn't believe the way I did, and those who scoff at Christians.

When we finished our prayer time, I turned on a program I sometimes catch in the afternoon. They talked about end-times prophecy, an unusual topic for this group. The thing that stood out to me was when one of the men said, “There can be no revival without repentance.”

Now I backtracked to the scripture. “If My people, who are called by My name, shall humble themselves, pray, seek, crave, and require of necessity My face and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven, forgive their sin, and heal their land.” — AMP.

Heal their land. Heal our land. Those words always meant our country or our world to me. No more.

Humble themselves.

Turn from their wicked ways.

I realized then not doing those things hindered God's plan.

Of course, I went to work on that immediately. I did. I repented for ignoring people who chose different paths, and I made a point of forgiving those who did scoff in my face when they learned I was a Christian.

Then I asked for guidance about how to pray for our lovely town and surroundings.

What do you think I heard? Yes. “Come walk with me.”

Bits and pieces fell into place. Who knew? Without an awareness of the purpose, for one year I went for a “walk” with the Lord and sang His praise, oblivious to the fact I was following scripture.

“After talking it over with the people, Jehoshaphat appointed a choir for GOD; dressed in holy robes, they were to march ahead of the troops, singing, Give thanks to GOD, His love never quits.” — II Chronicles 20:21 (MSG).

I had been preparing the way, like those who went out before the army. Today, the Lord and I went for our “walk” and joined the battle, this time with me fully aware of what we were doing. Or at least seeing a glimmer.

Jesus amazes me. Every day.

P.S. By the time I got home, I realized my paved route this last year covered the lakes area. Someone else must have the downtown, Aspen Springs, up to the pass, and down 84 assignments, and don't forget Trujillo Road.

WHAT IS A CODICIL?

A Codicil is a supplement or addition to an existing Will. It may explain, modify, add to, subtract from, qualify, alter, or revoke existing provisions in a Will or Trust created by a Will. It is not for making major changes. Maybe you want to change the administrator of your Estate or add or delete an heir. Or specify just who gets what from your Estate. A Codicil may be the answer.

ESTATE PLANNING - FIXED FEES

[For Colorado and Texas documents]

Because most people are concerned about the cost of attorneys' services, a lot of attorneys are quoting fixed fees. For estate planning, mine are:

WILL FOR A SINGLE PERSON	$500
WILL FOR A COUPLE	$750
CODICIL (MINOR CHANGES TO EXISTING WILL)	$250
BENEFICIARY DEED	$200

This is not an online offer. We will meet personally to discuss your personal needs and desires. The estate planning includes Medical and Financial Powers of Attorney and a Beneficiary Deed, if you choose.

Ribbon-cutting ceremony at New Thought Center's new location this evening

By Lisa Burnson
Special to The PREVIEW

All are welcome to join New Thought Center (NTC) for an open house and ribbon cutting at its new location on Thursday, Oct. 17, at 5:30 p.m.

Our community of affirmative-minded individuals share joy, laughter and awareness of connection to spirit, and to our ability to co-create a life of infinite possibilities.

On Sunday, Oct. 20, at 10 a.m., the topic of our service will be "Conscious Living with Thought, Mind, and Action in Spiritual Expression." Our speakers will be Bruce Wayen, musician and metaphysician, and Shayla White Eagle McClure, holistic educator.

When we live consciously, we bring awareness to each area of life, including, but not limited to, health, relationships, finances and spirituality. The more conscious we are regarding the aspects of life, the greater our power to influence our outcomes and our quality of life.

We welcome people of all religions, genders, cultures and races to our services, where we celebrate the science of mind and positive thinking.

"To experience and accept abundance, we must be convinced that, as we believe, the Universe provides." — Dr. Ernest Holmes.

We will have spirited live music.

Meditation circle

We invite the public to enjoy our weekly meditation circle each Wednesday at 6:15 p.m.

Upcoming events

Sunday, Oct. 27, 10 to 11 a.m. "The Cauldron of Life" presented by Karen Aspin. This free, interactive experiential introduction to a fun and easy process that helps you connect with inner aspects of yourself through soul messages. Everyone will have an opportunity to get a personal message.

For those who wish to further explore the process until 5 p.m., we can make a day of it as we go into guided journey, card making and in-depth 19-card self-interpreted reading for setting intentions for the next year. For details and registration, contact Aspin at 507-0435.

Wolf Creek Christian Writers Network authors to present Lifelong Learning lecture

By April Holthaus
Special to The PREVIEW

Every book in the Ruby Sisson Library has the voice of a courageous author. Five years ago, the Wolf Creek Christian Writers Network (WCCWN) began by courageous writers who wanted to learn how to better share the stories in their hearts.

They have studied writing techniques and grammar, invited designers and publishers to speak, and learned to kindly critique one another's creations. Their journey has taken them into deep editing and rewriting valleys, and up to high joyous publishing peaks.

The Ruby Sisson Library will host a Life Learning evening on Thursday, Oct. 24, from 5 to 6:45 p.m. A panel of authors will discuss the journey they have taken to write and publish their first book, "Looking At Life."

The authors of WCCWN will cover processes of editing and self-publishing and the beginning steps of marketing. There will be questions and answers covering four different genres: fiction, nonfiction and creative nonfiction, poetry and fantasy. Please join them for light refreshments at 5 p.m. and bring your questions for the panel.

The Wolf Creek Christian Writers Network is a nondenominational writer's group dedicated to improving our craft and sharing God's love with the world. We invite you to join the weekly meetings on Mondays from 9 to 11:15 a.m. at CrossRoad Christian Fellowship at 1044 Park Ave. Call Richard Gammill at 731-2040 for more details. Also, check out the WCCWN website at <http://www.wolfcreekwriters.com/> or on Facebook.

UUs to discover their subversive nature

By Dean Cerny
Special to The PREVIEW

On Sunday, Oct. 20, at 10:30 a.m., the Pagosa Unitarian Universalist Fellowship will look at a politically subversive source within one of their living traditions. This source of alternative wisdom was revealed by a very seditious person. The rebellious teachings of this political and religious zealot cost him his very life.

At a social justice level, these teachings address the marginalized in our society, those who have no power, no voice. This includes immigrants, the disabled, the mentally ill and other minorities. Our subversive sage actually singles these people out, the outcasts, those living in poverty, as the fortunate. Fortunate?

Such reasoning turns our cultural thinking upside down. It is not the one-percenters, the beautiful and wealthy, the powerful, the corporations to whom this sage is speaking in these teachings.

These teachings are an approach to social justice advocating, not only equity for all, but favoring the oppressed, the poor, those who are unable to “pull themselves up by their own bootstraps.” This dissident speaks to the poor, the grieving, the meek and unempowered of society. On a personal level, these teachings can grow our understanding of self, the world and our place in it.

This service will be led by Pastor Dean Cerny, one who falls far short of living out this subversive wisdom, but who nonetheless strives to do so. Be certain to stick around after the service for food, drinks and, perhaps, revolutionary conversation.

Check out our calendar of events at pagosauu.org. All of these events take place at Unit B-15 of the Greenbriar Plaza. From North Pagosa Boulevard, turn onto Park Avenue, then turn into the Greenbriar Plaza, drive to the east side of the parking lot and look for the Unitarian Universalist sign, facing north.

If you would like to schedule a private meeting with Cerny, or for further information, call 731-7900.

Social Security announcements and Nursing Home Compare change

By Kay Kaylor
PREVIEW Columnist

For San Juan Basin Area Agency on Aging (SJBAAA), I am not only a part-time long-term care ombudsman, which is an advocate for residents at Pine Ridge, a 24-hour extended care home, and BeeHive, an assisted living residence. I also am an aging and disability resource specialist and trained Senior Medicare Patrol and State Health Insurance Assistance Program (SHIP) counselor. Information on the many aging and care concerns will be included here.

The Social Security Administration just announced the 2020 Cost of Living Adjustment as an increase of 1.6 percent of benefits for 69 million Americans. The Supplemental Security Income (SSI) federal standard will be $783 for an individual, and the disability maximum for several categories will increase moderately. The 2020 Social Security benefits for those with Medicare won't be computed and sent to beneficiaries until December, after the Medicare premiums are announced.

The earnings limit for people receiving Social Security and under full retirement age (66) will be $18,240 and for the year of retirement, $48,600.

Nursing Home Compare change

Effective Oct. 23, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) will include a button icon for Nursing Home Compare, found at Medicare.gov, that is meant to make it easier for consumers to identify nursing homes that have been cited by the health department (state survey agencies) for abuse and neglect. It is part of a five-step plan to ensure safety and quality in nursing homes.

Briefly, the steps noted in an April 15 CMS blog are to “strengthen oversight,” “enhance enforcement,” “increase transparency,” “improve quality” and “put patients [residents] over paperwork.”

SJBAAA offers resources for people age 60 and older or on Medicare. For further information, please call me at 264-0501, ext. 1 or send an email to adrc@sjbaaa.org.

#1 Thing: Volunteer advocate training starting this week for Rise Above Violence

By Jacey Christensen
Special to The PREVIEW

It's 11 p.m. on a Tuesday night. Law enforcement responds to a domestic dispute in which a man has physically assaulted his female partner. Law enforcement reaches out to Rise Above Violence for an advocate to respond on scene to support the victim. A Rise advocate jumps in their car and quickly makes it to the home of the victim. She is visibly upset and has evidence of physical violence as well.

As law enforcement finishes their paperwork, the advocate is left with the victim, who is feeling devastated and traumatized. After a long, compassionate conversation with the victim, she decides she would like to seek medical attention for her injuries. The advocate drives the victim to the hospital and stays by her side while she relives her traumatic story yet again to medical professionals. The advocate is there to sit with her through her medical exams and then to drive her back home afterwards, as she is extremely exhausted.

Although responding on scene is a rare occurrence for our volunteer advocates, it is one of the actions our organization takes that often leaves the most impact on our victims. After the dust has settled and first responders have left the scene of the domestic violence incident, a victim often feels helpless, with no one to process the events. Imagine that this is your daughter, niece, aunt, best friend or anyone else whom you love who is a victim of domestic violence. Would you hope that she has a kind and knowledgeable advocate there to guide her and support her through this time? Many people who live in Pagosa Springs don't have family near, and in tragic times they only have our wonderful volunteers to lean on.

Rise Above Violence has a 24-hour hotline that covers seven days a week. The days are broken down into two 12-hour shifts. The first shift is from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and the second shift from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. Each volunteer selects their shift, including which nights or days they want to cover. Depending upon their personal schedule, our volunteers decide how many shifts they want to take each year. When on call, we ask that you be available to respond to any calls. We do not expect you to put your life on hold and stop your daily activities, just that you remain accessible to respond to a crisis call if and when you are needed.

October is Domestic Violence Awareness month — one in four women will experience a similar scenario in their lifetime. One out of four, that means that if you are sitting with four friends, one of you is likely to have to go through this trauma. One in nine men (ncadv.org) will also experience domestic violence. It is time for our communities to come together, end the silence and take action to end interpersonal violence. #1Thing is our 2019 campaign. What is one thing you can do? Consider being a volunteer advocate. That one thing could change someone's life.

If any of this has sparked your interest, please feel free to reach out to Rise at 264-1129 for more information. We will be offering a two-part training, the first being on Oct. 16 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and the second being on Oct. 30 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. To get the location, RSVP or to get any questions answered, please email volunteer coordinator Jacey Christensen jacey@riseaboveviolence.org. If you are interested but missed the training this week, we can catch you up. Please call.

Rise is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit that provides 24-hour support and advocacy services for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault or other forms of violence, serving over 300 victims each year. Rise also works to eliminate violence through education for youth and our community. All programs and services are free and confidential, including emergency prevention education and empowerment programs. Visit www.riseaboveviolence.org for more information or call 264-9075 to talk to an advocate today.

New early literacy computers, Lifelong Learning lectures and ESL expanding to evening sessions

By Carole Howard
PREVIEW Columnist, and the library staff

We are excited to tell you that we have just installed two new early literacy computer stations that were mostly funded by a $5,000 grant from the AJL Charitable Foundation. These new computers are touch-screen, unlike the older ones, and are bilingual, where the older ones only had a few learning games in Spanish.

They are designed for our youngest patrons and include a variety of learning games. They are standalone computers and, thus, do not have access to the Internet — only to a multitude of learning games. You'll find them in the children's area.

For their generosity, we are grateful to the Denver-based AJL Charitable Foundation and its mission to invest in people, programs and movements that benefit Colorado's youth and families.

Lifelong Learning lecture today

The second talk in the new free fall Lifelong Learning lecture series takes place today, Oct. 17, at 5 p.m. when Cheryl Bowdridge of San Juan Basin Public Health will offer tips to adults to help you talk about vaping with young people.

Oct. 24 will feature the local authors of the Wolf Creek Christian Writers Network. Nov. 7 will feature Upper San Juan Search and Rescue — who they are and what they do to save lives. On Nov. 21, neuroscientist Jean Strahlendorf will discuss dementia and new clinical research that strives to reveal ways to potentially stave of its onset and progression.

Pick up a brochure at your library with more information on each of these interesting and illuminating talks. We hope to see you there.

English as a Second Language classes expand to evening sessions in November

Free English as a Second Language (ESL) classes have been so appreciated at your library that we will — by popular demand — switch one of the weekly sessions to the evening starting in November to make it easier for more people to participate. We will drop Wednesday and add Tuesday evening. The new schedule will be Tuesdays from 5 to 7 p.m. and Fridays from noon to 2 p.m. The classes are led by two highly experienced teachers — Joyce Holdread for the intermediate/advanced group and Ellynn Ragone for beginners. No registration is required.

ESL ocurrirán con sesiones de la noche en noviembre

Las clases gratuitas de ESL han sido tan apreciadas en su biblioteca que nosotros — por demanda popular — cambiaremos una de las sesiones de la semana para llevarse a cabo por la noche para facilitar más participación de los estudiantes. Empezando en noviembre, el horario nuevo será los martes de 5 a 7 p.m. y los viernes de 12 a 2 p.m. Las clases son dirigidas por dos instructoras con mucha experiencia. Joyce Holdread enseña el grupo intermedio o avanzado y Ellynn

Hot water, hot springs and high hopes

We continue the history of the Great Pagosa Hot Springs intent on describing the competition among white settlers for ownership of the Springs. First, I'd like our readers to see the Springs through the eyes of one of the first white families to see the Springs.

In 1861, a party led by Thomas Pollock trotted out of Denver on their way to test their luck for gold in the recently discovered lodes in the south San Juan Mountains. They formed the wagon train in Denver, then trudged mile by dusty mile down the east side of the Front Range, struggled across La Veta Pass, turned southward down the east side of the San Luis Valley past Fort Garland into New Mexico and the Chama River Valley, which they followed northward, then crossed over to the San Juan River Valley at Pagosa Springs, where they rested for awhile before going on to the gold fields. Here is the story of that adventure as told by Nellie Pollock Snyder:

"They left Denver with a large wagon-train and of that train, there was nothing left except two yoke of oxen when they returned about two years later. I do not know how many graves were left in those lonely hills of men killed in their beds under the wagon in which she was sleeping. The tribes of Indians were at that time all hostile and they never knew when the war whoop would sound. I have heard her tell many things of that trip, of the dreadful winter and the terrible storms, she was at one time nearly frozen to death, and they cut to pieces the wagon boxes to make wood for fire to keep her warm. She told me that she saw my father drive his own

Pagosa's Past

John M. Motter

men around the wagons and whip them with a black snake whip to keep them moving so they would not freeze to death. Several times on that trip, they were compelled to take the wagons to pieces and lower them over bluffs and cliffs. She told me of her first impression upon seeing what is now Pagosa Springs, and when I later stood and looked at that little town and the big, boiling spring, I tried to picture for myself how that camp of white men and one woman must have looked in that lonely and dangerous country where they never knew from one moment to the next when they must fight for their lives. It is a lovely place now, even after so called civilization has robbed it of much of its original beauty. What must it have been in all its wild glory?"

Ma and Pa Cade played a prominent role in Pagosa Country history. Their Lynch descendants survive yet today and a short drive north of town will take you to Cade Flats, named for the Cades.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Flu and pneumonia shot clinic scheduled for Senior Center

By Cheryl Wilkinson
PREVIEW Columnist

A flu and pneumonia shot clinic will be held at the Pagosa Springs Senior Center on Monday, Oct. 21, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Bring your Medicare Care cards. Flu shots and both pneumonia vaccines (Prevnar and Pneumovax) will be available.

Emergency preparedness kit and disaster skills workshop

There will be a free presentation by San Juan Basin Public Health on Tuesday, Oct. 22, from noon to 1 p.m. in the Senior Center Community Café, 451 Hot Springs Blvd.

If you would like to have lunch during the presentation: adults 60-plus, $4 suggested donation; adults 59 and under, $10; salad bar only, $8.50. Reservations for lunch are required: 264-2167.

Accommodations for Spanish and sign language interpreters are available upon request.

If you have questions or accommodation requests, contact Lorena at 335-2068 or Lauren at 335-2069.

Zentangle

Zentangle is a form of relaxation using easy-to-learn patterns, drawn by focusing on single lines one at a time. The method focuses on simple, elemental strokes that anyone can draw, regardless of creative ability, and allows the mind and body to release stress while creating beautiful images.

The class instructor will be Roberta Strickland, CZT. She can be reached at 946-4582 or 264-2167.

The next class will be held Oct.

History (Book) Club

Are you interested in reading and talking about history with others? If so, please join us the History (Book) Club and bring your ideas and experiences as we continue a history discussion group at the Senior Center.

The discussions cover many historical subjects based on the preferences of the group. Please come and bring your friends who might also be interested.

Facilitated by Jim Van Liere, the group meets the third Wednesday of every month.

The next meeting will be Nov. 20 at 1 p.m. in the Community Café dining room in the Senior Center.

Health and wellness

The Senior Center is continuing the pilot program which expands health and wellness services to Archuleta County seniors. The program includes wellness and blood pressure monitoring or allows individual area seniors to discuss two subjects of their choice.

There is no charge for Medicare enrollees. Participant IDs will include Medicare card, photo ID and, if necessary, any supplemental insurances. No Medicaid is accepted at this time. Participants are encouraged to bring a list of their current medications.

The goal of the outreach clinic is to provide care to those who are not able to travel.

The next health and wellness date will be Wednesday, Nov. 20, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Medical alert monitors

Medical alert monitoring systems are available for seniors. We can help you get set up with a system and assist with the monthly service charges to your service provider or if you already have a system in place, we can help supplement the monthly service fees to your provider.

Please call 264-2167 for more information or to sign up.

Memberships

2019 Senior Discount Club Memberships are now offered Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Menu

Everyone is welcome to join us for lunch. If you are a senior (60 years and older), for only a $4 suggested donation, you are eligible for a hot meal, drink and a salad prepared by our kitchen staff.

The guest fee for those 59 and under is $10 and children 10 years and under can eat for $8.50 each. Access to the salad bar is only $6 for those under 60.

Bird of the Week

This week's Bird of the Week, compliments of the Weminuche Audubon Society and Audubon Rockies, is the ruby-crowned kinglet.

This "little king" is named for the patch of red feathers, usually concealed, on the top of the male's head. Only if he is excited by the song of a rival or showing off for a prospective mate does he display his ruby crown. These kinglets are tiny, olive-green birds with large heads, no visible neck, thin wings and small, thin, straight bills. Two white wingbars, a large, white, broken eye ring and a habit of constant wing flicking set them apart from similar small birds.

Its frantic foraging style while hidden deep in a tree can make this bird difficult to observe. By the time you locate it, it has moved on. These birds prey on spiders and a wide variety of insects, hovering above branches and pecking at leaves to uncover food. In fall and winter, they add a small amount of seed and berries to the menu.

Despite his small size, the male ruby-crowned kinglet has a loud song, frequently heard in our summer forests. Beginning with two to three very high pitched notes, the song cascades down into a jumbled warble and is repeated often.

Our forests of spruce, fir and pine provide the perfect breeding habitat for this bird. Its clutch size of up to 12 eggs is the largest of any passerine in North America. After breeding, the ruby-crowned kinglet occupies a wide variety of shrubby habitats. This adaptability contributes to the success of this tiny bird.
