Chemo Noir holds annual 1-mile race and wine tasting in Jacksonville Beach

By Daniela Toporek

More than 600 runners stood up against cancer and attended nonprofit organization, Chemo Noir's annual 1-mile race and tasting event on June 15 in Jacksonville Beach.

Chemo Noir hosts wine-themed fundraisers to help raise money for financially struggling cancer patients. This year's race, held at the Jacksonville Beach Pier and Casa Marina Hotel and Restaurant, raised more than $30,000 — the highest raised yet for the organization.

"It was by far, the best event we had," said Katrin Casey, founder of Chemo Noir. "We had great music, all the sponsors and all the wine tables were great. We raised the most money than any other event so far. All around, just really successful."

Runners met at the Jacksonville Beach Pier at 11 a.m. for the race. Famous local team mascots, Fang from the Jacksonville Icemen and Jaxson de Ville from the Jacksonville Jaguars, also attended the race, competing for the title of fastest mascot in the city. Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp mascot, Shrimp Scampi, was also said to attend the race, but was MIA until the wine tasting, placing him in automatic third place.

As runners took their places at the starting line, Casey played "Fight Song" by Rachel Platten in the background to prepare for the emotional run.

"It was one of my mantras," Casey said.

Casey is a cancer survivor and is going into remission this summer. She created Chemo Noir after being inspired by her off-nights during treatment where she'd relax by having a glass of wine with family or friends. The 1-mile race and tasting event was created in honor of Casey's stepfather, Mark T. Collins, who helped found Chemo Noir and died from cancer just last year. His initials are marked in every race hat and bib.

Christine Rodenbaugh joins the Recorder staff

The Recorder

The Ponte Vedra Recorder recently welcomed Christine Rodenbaugh as its editor.

Rodenbaugh, a St. Augustine resident and a native Floridian, began her new role June 17 after former editor, Jon Blauvelt, took a position at a nonprofit.

Previously, Rodenbaugh was community editor at The St. Augustine Record, editing two monthly publications, an annual magazine and compiling Saturday's real estate section.

Before working at a newspaper, she was magazine director for the Southern Kingfish Association, producing 145 issues of Angler magazine. She also held a post as the communications director of the American Culinary Federation.

"I'm thrilled to have Chris on board. In addition to wearing the editor's hat, she will photograph and write content for our many products," said Susan Griffin, publisher. "I know she's looking forward to getting to know the community."

Originally from DeLand, Florida, she married St. Augustine native, Steve Rodenbaugh, in 1988. Steve is facilities manager at a church, and the couple have a son, Michael, who graduated from UNF with a degree in computer engineering.

"I am excited to join the talented and dedicated staff of the Ponte Vedra Recorder. The newspaper celebrates 50 years of producing local journalism in November," Rodenbaugh said. "It's an honor to be a part of a publication that has served the area for so long."

To contact Rodenbaugh, call (904) 686-3939 or email chris@opcfla.com.

Surf's up for participants of HEAL Foundation's 14th annual camp for children, adults with autism

By Amber Lake

If there's one thing surfers know, it's that the ocean doesn't discriminate. Out there, the color of your skin, your religion or, even where you happen to lie on the autism spectrum — doesn't matter. The waves and the wind don't care. The sea won't judge. Out there, the only thing you are is a surfer.

HEAL (Helping Enrich Autistic Lives) Foundation's annual surf camp uses the impartiality of the ocean, among other aspects, to provide a positive experience for the participants who show up to ride. Now in its 14th year, the camp has grown tremendously, hosting more than 30 children and young adults. More than 100 volunteers from the community contribute time and talent to present a safe and welcoming event.

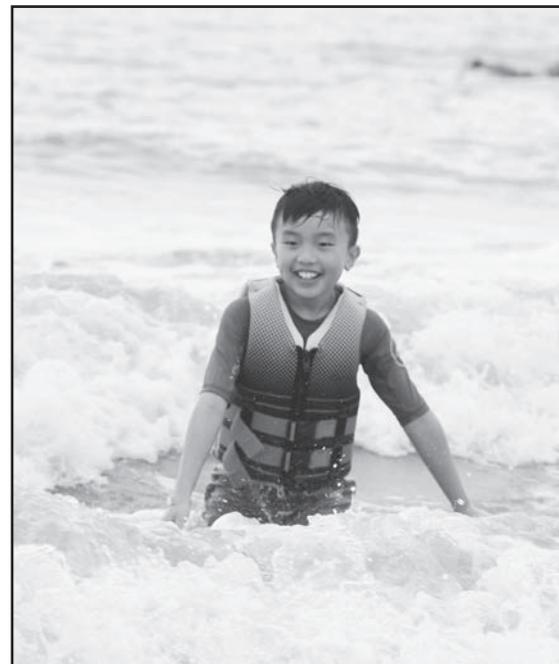

This year's event was held June 18 and 19 in Neptune Beach, and provided participants the choice to kayak, paddleboard, boogieboard or surf with the help of instructors, most of whom are active surfers. Leslie Weed, HEAL founder, said that an important aspect of the camp was the bond between the camper and surfer.

"It's so calming," Weed said. "These kids are so keyed up and full of anxiety and you're paired with a surfer that is so laid back. They're not pushy and they're not going to say, 'Get on this board.' They say, 'Isn't it cool to be out here? Feel the waves.'"

Weed's own daughter, Lanier, is nonverbal and has attended the camp every year. Lanier has a blast both in and out of the water, coming out every so often to high-five everyone in attendance. In fact, Weed said that half of the volunteers supporting the event aren't giving surfing instructions but positive encouragement, including more than a few high-fives of their own from the shoreline.

"You have the ingredients for just a perfect formula," said Weed.

In addition to the annual HEAL Surf Camp, the foundation hosts a Golf Camp at TPC Sawgrass, a HEAL Autism Walk at the Zoo and iHEAL, a program to provide iPads to assist nonverbal autistic students, among other programs. Since its inception in 2007, the HEAL Foundation has granted more than $2 million to the local autism community for programs, camps and educational enhancements. For more information about the foundation or to donate, visit HealAutismNow.org.

Ally Burkett

What can you share about your background?

I was born and raised in Rhode Island, but moved around a bunch after college for my career. Most of my family still lives up there and I try to visit as much as I can. I went to Flagler College and graduated with a Business Administration degree. As a senior, E&J Gallo recruited me for their management program and the rest is history. Aside from multiple distributors I have worked for Hess Winery out of Napa, Foley Family Wines out of Sonoma and Oyster Bay out of New Zealand, before landing here at Fess Parker, out of Santa Barbara.

How did you choose Flagler College?

My mother is a nurse, and a coworker's daughter was one of the first graduating classes at Flagler once they turned co-ed. I visited once and fell in love with St. Augustine, the college itself, and the fact that it was a smaller school. Oh, and the fact that it's so close to the beach helped, too!

What led to your interest in wine?

Coming from a large Italian family from New England, I think it's kind of in my genetics. I have always appreciated how each bottle of wine tells a story. It's still one of the reasons why I love this industry — I'm a natural story-teller, so delving into the inspiration for a wine, or why a certain wine tastes the way it does, or why a winemaker chose to do a particular offering or blend is fascinating to me. There's always so much to learn and every vintage is a totally new story.

What was it like to be a wine steward on a private yacht?

Very eye-opening! It was hard work and a lot of fun. In 2011 and 2012, we traveled all over the Caribbean in the winter and in the summer we spent mostly in Newport, Rhode Island and Chicago. We weren't a charter yacht so it was just our owners visiting here and there, and they loved wine. It gave me a chance to get creative with their wine cellar, gain exposure to wines I never would have gotten to experience, and also satisfied my need to travel. My favorite stop was St. Barthélemy and St. Maarten.

What led you to relocate in Ponte Vedra?

The Navy brought us here. I am proud to say my husband is a commander currently serving aboard the USS The Sullivans as executive officer, based out of Mayport. We moved here from Newport, Rhode Island.

Tell us about your current role with Fess Parker.

I am southeast regional manager, so my job is to act as a liaison between our distributors and the winery itself. The region includes Alabama, Georgia and Florida. I take Fess Parker's goals and strategies and implement them through our distributor partners by managing pricing, inventory and incentive programming for their sales representatives. I make sure each representative is equipped with the knowledge and tools to present Fess Parker products to their accounts. I love spending the day with representatives and getting to know them and their customers. Here in Florida we are with BreakThru Beverage and they do a phenomenal job representing our brand.

Do you prefer red or white?

That's a tough one! I'm a lover of all wines; I go through phases. My husband and I drink a lot of Napa Cabernet Sauvignon's (we love 2012 and 2014 vintage) but if it's just me, I love popping open an interesting white or rose from France. I love that crisp minerality you get from French Burgundies (Chardonnay) and Chablis (Sauvignon Blanc).

For someone new to wine, what's a good way to get started?

Taste, taste, taste! If you can go to a tasting event, that's a great way to find out what you like and most importantly, what you don't like. That way, you can build what I call "wine bridges." For instance, if you liked the sweetness in a Moscato, then you may like a Riesling from a warm climate. If you liked the crispness in that Riesling, then you like wines with a higher acidity, so maybe you can try a Sauvignon Blanc. You build the bridge that leads you to wines suited to your taste. And everyone is different, so there is no wrong answer. I always say wines are like people; you're not going to like every person you meet, but there is a "wine" soulmate for everyone out there.

What do you enjoy most about living in Ponte Vedra?

The people! In my line of work I have the opportunity to be out and about a lot, and I meet tons of people. Everyone here has been so open, welcoming and friendly and I think it's safe to say they're wine lovers, as well.

What do you like to do in your free time?

I have my hands full as a mom of a 1- and 3-year-old, a Navy spouse and a full-time working woman. In my industry it's easy between the travel and events to burn the candle at both ends, so I make sure I take care of myself. I try to "put on your oxygen mask first before helping others," so in my free time I make sure to slow down and recharge. My husband and I really enjoy opening up a bottle of wine and cooking every night we can, and we have become really good home chefs.

Would you like to tell us about your family?

David and I have been married more than four years, and we have a son Ben who's 3, and a daughter Brooke who's 1.

Coastal Wine Market celebrates 3rd anniversary with complimentary wine tasting, festivities

By Daniela Toporek

On June 15, Nocatee's Coastal Wine Market celebrated its third anniversary by holding a complimentary wine tasting for the community.

Festivities included raffles, giveaway prizes, tapas and, of course, wine, with glasses overflowing as quickly as the establishment overflowed with guests.

“It was a great turnout,” Coastal Wine Market co-owner Steve Lourie said. “There were lots of hugging and congratulations. We love our guests and it's just great to see them come in and be happy for us and that we've given everyone just a happy place to hang out.”

So many guests joined in the celebration that chef of Coastal Wine Market, Jody Petronella, doubled as the doorman of the building, chatting up and entertaining guests as they waited for the green light to enter the tasting.

“That's the funny thing, everyone was really happy,” Petronella said of the waiting guests. “We got a little outdoor patio, so people were happy to stay and wait their turn just to come in and say hello to me, Steve and Shaun, the owners, and the other folks that work there. It was really heartwarming, the way they all just wanted to come and say, ‘We're glad you're

Our firm isn't for everyone. For those people who want to “time” the market, are looking for the next “hot stock”, disregard expert advice in favor of “a feeling,” or are primarily focused on the short term, we invite you to continue your search, as there are many brokers ready to sell you something and help you try to outguess the market.

However, if you have investable assets of over $500,000 and are looking for an adviser who has a fiduciary duty to always act in their best interest, we may be what you are searching for. We choose to work with clients where we see opportunities to help them reach their goals as a long-term partner.

If this sounds like you, call us as we take on only a limited number of new clients each year. If not, we wish you the best of success in your search.

Chemo Noir

“To see hundreds of people out there with his initials on was so special to me and my family. A lot of his family came out, too, and it was just a really nice tribute to one of our most impactful founders. It’s nice that we can carry on a little legacy.”

At the half-mile mark where runners raced back towards the finish line was Tara’s Turn, dedicated to Casey’s good friend Tara Richardson who passed away from brain cancer in January 2016. During their time off treatment, Kat and Tara hosted their own Chemo Noir nights, sipping a little wine and enjoying some rest and relaxation.

Unknown to Casey during the race, a group of Richardson’s friends awaited at her turn and took photos for Tara’s family. Richardson’s soccer team also participated in the race in her honor.

“I just thought that was unbelievable,” Casey said. “Everyone’s out there running because typically, they’re affected by cancer in some way. So to me, that’s one of the most moving things ever.”

After the race, participants headed to Casa Marina for the post-race celebration and wine tasting. Live music, Chemo Noir merchandise, a cash bar and raffles were featured at the event, along with a special live auction where prizes ranged from Jacksonville Jaguar game tickets to Rolling Stones concert tickets.

Looking back at her biggest event yet, Casey said that it was an emotional experience to see everyone who attended and took a spot at the starting line.

“I have so many people to thank,” she said. “We have such an incredible community around us. I think that’s one of the biggest things, seeing all the people out there, and knowing that they’re out there to help other people. It’s unreal.”

Chemo Noir will be the recipient of a Big Fish Yoga event at TopGolf on Aug. 2, as well as the nonprofit of the night at the Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp game on Aug 8. For more information, visit www.ChemoNoir.com.

here and we support you and what you're doing.”

Before Petronella manned the door, he and his culinary team prepared some tapas and desserts to pair with the selected wines. Savory cheese platters and pâtés were served, along with cheesecake and Petronella’s famous cannolis to satisfy any sweet tooth.

“Chef Jody’s been an amazing addition to the team and his food is becoming part of what we are,” Lourie said. “The people come for his food, as well as the wine.

He’s doing events and partnering with other restaurants and wine bars. It’s good to get his talent out there so people know just how good the food is here. It just becomes a neat experience and makes it (CWM) that much cooler.”

When asked what his favorite part was about co-owning Coastal Wine Market is, Lourie didn’t hesitate to say it’s all about the guests and relationships made.

“It’s tough to not view our guests as friends,” he said. “I’m not trying to be cheesy, but it’s these faces; they become part of the whole vision and concept, part of the reason why we’re where we are.”

Lourie has no plans on stopping where they’re at. He hopes the market will continue to flourish with its “Meet the Winemaker” series, where winemakers stop by for a meet-and-greet to discuss their experiences in the wine business and suggest possible food and wine pairings.

He also mentioned the growth of the CWM Wine Club, where members get a first look at the newest available wines, the most recent specials and upcoming events.

Overall, CWM’s third year in business was just as successful, if not more than, the last.

“Our annual anniversary has kind of turned into a signature event and we just love seeing the new faces every year,” Lourie said. “We’re just looking forward to number four.”

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT/CEO

Thank you.

These two words are written and spoken often, but they are heartfelt and meant to convey my gratitude for a group of Ponte Vedra Chamber members recognized at the Annual Ponte Vedra Membership Appreciation Event in May. The Chamber was happy to recognize outstanding members going above and beyond to make our community a great place to live, work and play! Special congratulations to the Pat Morgan Outstanding Member Award: Sawgrass Country Club. Janet Collins accepted the award on behalf of this amazing Chamber supporter and host and venue of this annual event. I know Toni Boudreaux-Godwin, director, Ponte Vedra Beach Division, has a full list of the other recipients in her column. Congratulations to all!

State Senator Travis Hutson, State Representative Paul Renner and St. Johns County Commission Chairman Paul Waldron headlined the annual Chamber Legislative Update Breakfast Friday, June 21, at Shell Hall in the World Golf Hall of Fame Museum in World Golf Village.

The legislators spoke about impacts on St. Johns County from the recently concluded 2019 Florida legislative session and upcoming priority issues facing St. Johns County.

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Toni Boudreaux-Godwin
 Director PVB Division,
 St. Johns County
 Chamber of Commerce

Summer is officially here! This is the time of year families hit the road for vacations and there is not a better place to visit than Ponte Vedra Beach. Summer brings lots of new faces around our favorite restaurants and retail spots reinforcing the simple fact that our county continues to be ranked No. 1 when considering vacation and leisure activities. In order to maintain the quality of life that we all continue to enjoy in our little piece of paradise, we must recognize our local businesses and individuals that go the extra mile to strengthen and advocate for the Chamber. We do our part to spotlight these Chamber businesses with one of our signature events, our Annual Membership Appreciation Awards. The event is when we can take the time to award outstanding members for their commitment to the Chamber. The awards ceremony this year was “safari” themed at the beautiful Sawgrass Beach Club, where guests enjoyed delicious food and cool refreshing beverages oceanfront.

I would like to take this opportunity to recognize our recipients:
The Crushing It Award: This Ambassador played Santa all during the holidays and has the highest number of Ambassador points this quarter. He has become a great asset to the Division.

David Godwin of Transamerica “crushed it.”
The Going the Distance Award: Given to the member who travels far and wide to attend numerous events in both the St. Augustine and Ponte Vedra areas. The award goes to Ellen Taylor, Servpro of St. Augustine.

Key Contributor Award: Given to the member that never says no and can be consistently depended on for all things happening at the Division. Ricki Taylor, Synovus Mortgage Corp., received the award.

Rookie of the Year Award: Given to the member that has shown great initiative in networking and promoting their company to our community —

Optimal You Brain Centers.
Dedicated Service Award: This snazzy dresser has been such a support system to the Division for many years. Lori Adams, Cabi, Independent Fashion Stylist, is the true definition of dedicated.

Spotlight Award: Given to a member who goes the extra mile throughout the year. The owner gives her time on the Board and their staff also helps the Division with special projects — The Morgan Company Promotional Advertising.

Our Board Member of Year went to the board member that is dedicated to supporting chamber-wide initiatives and is committed to helping the Division as a great community partner.

Jen Hendrich, PGA Tour, is board member of the year.

Jeff Jenkins Community Service Award: Given to a member who goes above and beyond in service to our community. Inspiring, educating and funding services for those affected by autism in our community. This award went to the HEAL Foundation.

Pat Morgan Outstanding Member Award: Given to the member who goes above and beyond in their commitment to expanding and improving the Division — Sawgrass County Club.

Congratulations and thank you to the winners for your continued commitment to the Chamber and our mission.
 Don’t forget to vote for your choice of candidates for the Chamber’s Council Boards and the Ponte Vedra Beach Division Board members by June 30 at 5 p.m. In accordance with our bylaws, service on these boards is open exclusively to members in good standing with the St. Johns County Chamber of Commerce. Lastly, mark your calendar for the 17th annual Ponte Vedra Auto Show presented by Fields Auto Group at the Nocatee Event Field, from 9 a.m to 3 p.m Sunday, Sept. 15. ## A house is not a home

Villages of Vilano property boasts fascinating history

By Amber Lake

In arguably the most famous movie of all time, the most famous line (of said famous movie) encapsulates just how endeared we are to our immediate environments. "There's no place like home."

There is just no place like it.

A place where we belong, outside of everywhere else. A place for memories. A place full of family and laughter as well as sadness and pain, all wrapped together in boxed nostalgia. Home is a place to hide under the covers watching TV instead of going to a party or to sing off-key in the shower with enthusiasm. It's a place to go when you're ready.

The funny thing about homes are that they never stop being them. You can move around the world, build a family, build a life. But if you ever drive down your old street, inevitably you'll slow down, look for your old address and say, "That's it!" like it's still yours, regardless of its new paint job or the strangers inside.

That's because you can sell a house, but you can never sell a home.

Everywhere we go we leave packages of memories filed in the interiors of the places we've been. The longer we stay in them, the heavier these containers are. Hotels, office buildings, neighborhoods, houses and streets linger with frozen stills of the past. Every once in a while, however, walls can become so saturated with memories they leak through.

Leigh Carter lives in the small-scale community of Villages of Vilano, a quaint neighborhood adjacent to the ocean off A1A. Before she lived there her mother, Jean Leaver Carter, called the 1,949-square-foot home hers. From 2001 until 2013, she lived her life there to such a degree that in many ways the walls became a part of her.

The house part of the home has vaulted ceilings and lots of light. The white walls and tile make the interior bright without being overly sterilized. It sits on a cul-de-sac next to a pond, which can be seen from the sunroom. Currently, the house is decorated tactfully with interesting pieces of furniture assembled from around the world. It's clean and welcoming and begs for a cup of fresh-brewed tea.

ABOVE: Leigh Carter stands in front of her house, located in the Villages of Vilano. The home, currently for sale, has quite a history, including housing Jacksonville-born rock band Lynyrd Skynyrd, whose founder, Gary Rossington, bought the house in the late 1980s.

The home part of the house is a lot bigger. Its story starts with Gary Rossington, founder of American rock band Lynyrd Skynyrd, who lived there after the house was built in 1987. According to Leigh Carter, the home became a place for Rossington to practice with bandmates. The acoustics provided by the vaulted ceilings were intentional, allowing the guitarist to create his signature sound. There is an astonishing number of electrical outlets intended for plugging in amps. In the late 80s, Skynyrd was a household name and according to the neighbors, Rossington was notorious on the block — although not always for being a rock star.

"You know, it's not super conservative but there are some older people here," Carter said. "I guess Gary Rossington was a little rowdy."

In fact, according to neighborhood lore, the band would have friends over and play and have parties in the backyard — occasionally having enough fun to fall into the pond behind the house.

"That was a little wild for this community," Carter said.

Berkshire Hathaway HSFNR hosts Family of Services Fun Day

Berkshire Hathaway HomeServices Florida Network Realty hosted its first Family of Services Fun Day. The company's realtors, employees, Family of Services partners and their family members gathered at Fort Family Region Park to enjoy good food, games and camaraderie with one another.

The festivities provided an opportunity for the company to make a splash on its fundraising efforts for the Dreams Come True 5K scheduled for Sept. 28 at the Baseball Ground of Jacksonville. Florida Network Realty associates raised approximately $6,500 prior to the event. The Mandarin, Avondale and San Marco offices led the fundraising efforts, earning the chance to dunk Managing Broker Josh Cohen and President and CEO Christy Budnick in the dunk tank.

The Fun Day also included a cornhole tournament, a basketball free throw shooting contest and a dessert bake-off. Bono's Bar-B-Q catered the event.

Berkshire Hathaway HomeServices Florida Network Realty's family of services team includes Gibraltar Title Services, Prosperity Home Mortgage LLC, Florida Network Property Management, 2-10 Home Buyers Warranty and Dergalis and Associates.

House

The home's wild years certainly coincided with its youth. In 1998, after Rossington moved to Atlanta, the home still had a lot of life to give so it passed into the hands of top airshow pilot Patty Wagstaff, three-time U.S. National Aerobatic Champion and inductee into the National Aviation Hall of Fame. For Wagstaff, her other home was the sky.

The home's quiet location and reserved neighbors contrasted with the roar of an engine and thrill of maneuvering loops, rolls and spinning corkscrews in the clouds. On land, when the wind is just right and the street asleep, you can hear the soft churning of the ocean lapping at the shore.

Although Wagstaff still lives in St. Augustine, she remembers the home well, particularly the tiny mockingbird she rescued there.

"I sometimes wish I had not sold that house and had stayed there," Wagstaff said. "(I) raised (the bird) there, until it was ready to find a flock and fly on his own. It was a successful release and one of my fondest memories."

When Jean Leaver Carter moved into the home in 2001, one of the first things she did was buy a Lynyrd Skynyrd cd, having never heard of the band before. She also bought a Smithsonian Institute book about flight and earmarked Patty Wagstaff's page. She wore her home proud.

"She never wanted to be seen as a senior," Leigh Carter said.

Before Jean Carter came to the states, she was an aircraft spotter during WWII and worked for a Belgian company, Tipsy Aviation. Jean Carter was 12 when the war started and 15 when she was sent off to work. She eventually saw the experience as a way to escape from her abusive homelife, so she worked hard and eventually got promoted.

Jean contributed to the war effort and learned skills she later applied throughout her life. When she became much older, she bought a power drill and engineered wheels on all of her furniture, so she never had to lift anything. Shortly before she passed away in her late 80s, she could be seen on a ladder, cleaning her gutters.

"If I don't do it, who will?" she told.

She pushed her daughters to achieve and have an education, something she never had. In fact, her deep embarrassment of her perceived lack of education plagued her much of her life.

"It was only at the very end that she told me the story about being sent to the aircraft factory," Leigh Carter said. "She was so ashamed that she didn't finish high school, she never told us. Even when she (did) she said, 'please don't tell your husband.' I said, 'why, I'm so proud of you.' She said, 'I don't want him to think I'm stupid.'"

She saw herself in Patty Wagstaff, who represented the other side of the glass wall she had built. Rather than forgoing high school to work on airplanes, Wagstaff sat in the cockpit and flew. But Jean ate breakfast in the same kitchen she ate in. Lynyrd Skynyrd practiced "Freebird" in her living room.

"(It) gave her a bit more self esteem, I would say," said Leigh Carter.

Six years ago, Jean passed away, living in her home until the very end. Leigh has resided in the house since, recently putting it on the market.

"It's going to feel weird to leave," she said. "I've never lived anywhere this long. When I think of all the Christmases we spent here as a family — we're a small, small family. And visitors coming through? It still feels strange when I see the For-Sale sign. It's like, am I selling my house?"

Leigh Carter's new home might not have the music of southern rock in its walls. Perhaps a baby bird wasn't taught how to fly by an aerobatic pilot in the backyard. Mostly, it doesn't have an old woman engineering away infirmity, unaware how amazing she actually is.

But as strange as packing up and leaving feels, one can never really sell their home. Homes can be bought but can't be sold. Not really.

That's because homes are more than dwellings, they are places in which we dwell, both in the past and tentatively, with hope, in the future.

Love Your Smile

Why dental hygiene is essential for overall health

The health of teeth and gums can impact other parts of the body.

The importance of maintaining clean teeth and healthy gums goes beyond having fresh breath and a white smile. Many people are surprised to discover that oral hygiene plays an integral role in overall health.

Research indicates that oral health mirrors the condition of the body as a whole. Also, regular dental visits can alert dentists about overall health and pinpoint if a person is at a risk for chronic disease.

An oral health check-up also may be the first indication of a potential health issue not yet evident to a general medical doctor.

HEART DISEASE

According to the Academy of General Dentistry, there is a distinct relationship between periodontal disease and conditions such as heart disease and stroke. Joint teams at the University of Bristol in the United Kingdom and the Royal College of Surgeons in Dublin, Ireland, found that people with bleeding gums from poor dental hygiene could have an increased risk of heart disease. Bacteria from the mouth is able to enter the bloodstream when bleeding gums are present. That bacteria can stick to platelets and subsequently form blood clots. This interrupts the flow of blood to the heart and may trigger a heart attack. Brushing and flossing twice daily and rinsing with mouthwash can remove bacteria and keep gums healthy.

FACIAL PAIN

The Office of the Surgeon General says infections of the gums that support the teeth can lead to facial and oral pain. Gingivitis, or gum disease, affects more than 75 percent of the American population.

Dental decay can lead to its own share of pain. Maintaining a healthy mouth can fend off decay and infections, thereby preventing pain.

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE

Various health ailments, including poor oral health, have been linked to a greater risk of developing Alzheimer's disease. In 2010, after reviewing 20 years' worth of data, researchers from New York University concluded that there is a link between gum inflammation and Alzheimer's disease. Follow-up studies from researchers at the University of Central Lancashire in the United Kingdom compared brain samples from 10 living patients with Alzheimer's to samples from 10 people who did not have the disease. Data indicated that a bacterium — Porphyromonas gingivalis — was present in the Alzheimer's brain samples but not in the samples from the brains of people who did not have Alzheimer's. P. gingivalis is usually associated with chronic gum disease. As a result of the study, experts think that the bacteria can move via nerves in the roots of teeth that connect directly with the brain or through bleeding gums.

These health conditions are just a sampling of the relationship between oral health and overall health.

Cultural Center offering 'Dinner with an Artist' with Anna Miller

The Cultural Center at Ponte Vedra Beach will host its quarterly "Dinner with an Artist," program July 12, featuring local artist Anna Miller.

"Dinner with an Artist" is held at the Cultural Center and features a guest artist talk, a featured exhibit, and, of course, dinner. July's spotlight is on Miller and her exhibition "Light Reflections," which will be on display at the Cultural Center from June 28 through Aug. 3. Guests will be able to eat dinner with the artist among her creations.

Miller earned her Masters in Painting degree from the National Academy of Fine Art and Architecture of Ukraine. She worked as a college faculty member for 12 years before pursuing a Masters in Fine Arts at the Academy of Art University in San Francisco. Miller is an instructor at the Cultural Center at Ponte Vedra Beach.

"My vision began to worsen early on in life," Miller said. "However, I often would not wear my glasses and would start seeing the world differently. ... It was a world without details, but with interesting designs, fragments, light and shadows."

During the event, there will also be "A Day with Anna Miller" available for auction. The day will include spending time painting in Miller's studio and gardens and a lunch.

"Dinner with an Artist" will be held from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Friday, July 12 and is open to the public. The
