Season 5 lets Maggie Siff cash in

"Billions" begins its fifth season Sunday on Showtime.

"Billions" is about to give Maggie Siff a considerable payoff.

The Showtime drama about money and power has challenged the actress' character – psychiatrist and performance coach Wendy Rhoades – in recent years, almost sending her to prison over an investment gone way wrong, then exposing her spicy after-hours life to her great mortification. However, Wendy reclaims her personal power as "Billions" starts its fifth season Sunday, May 3.

Not only does she have to unite the warring camps of reunited hedge-fund rivals Bobby "Axe" Axelrod and Taylor Mason (Damian Lewis, Asia Kate Dillon), she makes a decision about her ruptured marriage to New York Attorney General Chuck Rhoades Jr. (Paul Giamatti). Around that, risky alliances and potential betrayals are off the chart, even by "Billions" standards.

"I think this is the season where she puts herself back together again in a way that feels good to her, morally, emotionally and maybe even spiritually," Siff says of Wendy. "She's determined that she really needs to make a life without Chuck at the center of it, and also that her (business) life at AxeCap is determined by her deeper motivations. We see her on a good path."

With Julianna Margulies ("The Good Wife"), Corey Stoll ("House of Cards") and Roma Maffia ("Disclosure") as Season 5 additions, Siff embraces "Billions" newcomers: "Because we shoot in New York, we have amazing access to all of these incredible actors. It's always like a breath of fresh air, and it inspires us to show up each day with everything we have."

"Sons of Anarchy" alum Siff meets often with "Billions" creators and executive producers Brian Koppelman and David Levien to get, and sometimes give, a sense of where Wendy is going: "As the actress, you start thinking, 'Am I supposed to be real here, or am I supposed to be double- or triple-crossing somebody? What do I need to know in order to play this right?'"

"Billions" will take a break after seven episodes, since as with many series, the coronavirus pandemic shut down production. The plan is to finish and televise the rest of Season 5 later this year, though Siff admits picking up right where the filming left off might feel unusual.

"I think the show has always reflected the times interestingly," she reasons. "After (the 2016 election), I felt like there was a bit of a question about how people would feel about watching a show about billionaires, now that there was a billionaire in the White House. In subtle ways, Brian and Dave have been very smart about how the themes (of 'Billions') have adapted to the times, and I'm sure they will continue to be incredibly sensitive to that."

“Solar Opposites”

A family of aliens moves to the Midwest, where they bicker and debate whether life is better there or on their home planet, in this animated comedy from co-creators Justin Roiland and Mike McMahan (“Rick and Morty”). Sean Giambrone, Mary Mack, Roiland, Thomas Barbusca, Amanda Leighton and Andrew Matarazzo head the voice cast. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Victoria Gotti: My Father's Daughter”

Victoria Gotti is the executive producer, co-writer and narrator of this 2019 docudrama, which purports to give viewers a sense of what it was like to have grown up as the daughter of mob boss John Gotti. Actress Chelsea Frei stars as Victoria, portrayed as a sensitive young woman who grew up constantly worrying about the safety of her father (Maurice Benard).

“Movie: Who Let the Dogs Out”

From director Brent Hodge (“I Am Chris Farley,” the forthcoming “Pharma Bro”) comes this 2019 documentary that tells story behind the 1998 song “Who Let the Dogs Out,” which became a hit and won a Grammy Award for the Bahamian group Baha Men.

“Movie: Bridget Jones's Baby”

The third and most recent installment of the adventures of author Helen Fielding's title British singleton finds Bridget (Renee Zellweger) approaching her mid-40s and now pregnant ... either by her ex Mark Darcy (Colin Firth) or a one-night stand (Patrick Dempsey). Sally Phillips, Shirley Henderson, Jim Broadbent and Gemma Jones are also cast returnees in director Sharon Maguire's 2016 comedy.

In Focus

“Dead Still: Season 1” (Acorn TV — series premiere, May 18)

From Ireland comes this darkly comic murder mystery set in the 1880s, where a photographer who specializes in taking pictures of the dead becomes targeted as a possible suspect in a series of murders and eventually gets drawn into the pursuit for the real killer.

The cast includes Michael Smiley (“Luther”), Aidan O’Hare (“Jackie”), Kerr Logan (“Game of Thrones”) and Eileen O’Higgins (“Mary Queen of Scots”).

“The Genetic Detective” (ABC — series premiere, May 19)

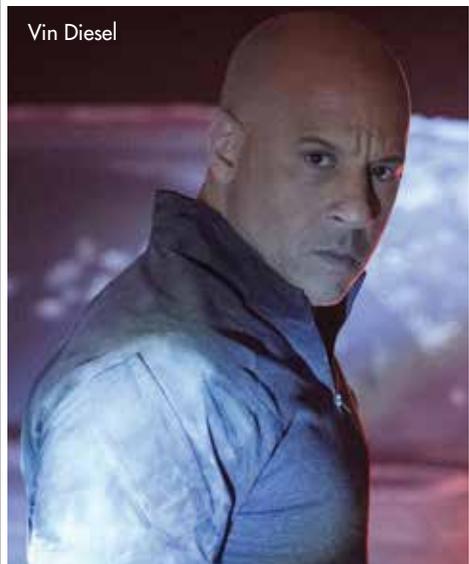

Investigative genetic genealogist CeCe Moore uses her research skills to transform the face of crime solving. Working with crime scene DNA, Moore traces the path of a violent criminal’s family tree to reveal their identity and bring them to justice.

“BLOODSHOT”

The Marvel and DC comic-book brands have had enormous success in spawning “Cinematic Universes” featuring live-action adventures of their characters, and another – Valiant Comics – is aiming to get on that bandwagon, starting with this Vin Diesel-starring saga of a Marine killed in revenge by mercenaries whose hostage plot he foiled. He’s then scientifically revived and deploys his new powers against the foes who apparently also took the life of his wife. Guy Pearce plays the leader of the operation that turns the slain military man into Bloodshot, with Eiza Gonzales, Sam Heughan (“Outlander”) and Lamorne Morris (“New Girl”) as the reconstructed hero’s would-be allies. Toby Kebbell also appears as Bloodshot’s main nemesis. ★★★ (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD and On Demand)

“DOCTOR WHO: THE COMPLETE TWELFTH SERIES”

The Doctor is still a woman in this season of the globally popular fantasy-adventure, with Jodie Whittaker continuing the part of the time traveler. The opener is a two-part story that pokes some cheeky fun at the James Bond franchise with the title “Spyfall,” putting the Doctor and her team on the trail of a media mogul who appears to be connected to a series of strange deaths. That’s the linear plot, but as so often happens on this show, there are lots of subplots that shoot off of that and play liberally with time and place; in other words, don’t be surprised to see the Doctor experience the Australian outback and World War II in the course of that first tale (written by executive producer Chris Chibnall, whose acclaimed series “Broadchurch” also featured Whittaker). Bradley Walsh, Tosin Cole and Mandip Gill also are back as the Doctor’s colleagues, and there’s a very notable return of an actor and his character along the way. The special episode “Resolution,” which was shown last New Year’s Day, is included. ★★★ (Not rated: V), (Also on Blu-ray)

“ORDINARY LOVE”

Liam Neeson, stepping away from his action-hero mode, and Lesley Manville (“Phantom Thread”) make a fine team in this intensely personal drama about a couple trying to cope with the wife’s breast-cancer diagnosis. Having spent virtually their entire lives together, the couple ruminates about what the future may hold for them under the vastly changed circumstances. Irish playwright Owen McCafferty based his script on some of his own experiences, and though the film largely and rightfully focuses on the two stars, Amit Shah and David Wilmot also are in the cast. Producer David Holmes also was one of the composers of the music score. ★★★ (R: AS, N, P) (Also on On Demand)

“GRETEL & HANSEL”

Still quite a grim fairy tale (see what we did there?), the legendary story of the siblings whose trek into the woods turns memorable for all the wrong reasons gets a highly atmospheric, filmed-in-Ireland revision that certainly isn’t for young children ... though older ones may have a certain appreciation of it. Sophia Lillis (“It Chapter Two”) and Samuel Leakey assume the title roles of the sister and brother whose trek takes a terrifying turn when they encounter a witch (Alice Krige) who has very bad intentions for the two of them. DVD extra: “Storybook” featurette. ★★★ (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

“RAY DONOVAN: SEASON SEVEN”

Showtime canceled this commendably moody drama series after this round was televised, catching a number of people – including title star Liev Schreiber, who has vowed that somehow, there will be more of it – by surprise. In what became its last season at least for now, “fixer” Ray tries to disassociate his family from a murder, with his father Mickey (Jon Voight) making things particularly complicated ... as usual. Kerry Condon plays a potential love interest for Ray, with Alan Alda continuing his role as Ray’s psychiatrist, who has a particularly tough time getting his patient to open up. Schreiber also co-wrote what could remain the series finale, and Kyra Sedgwick directed one of the season’s episodes. Eddie Marsan, Dash Mihok, Pooch Hall and Katherine Moening are among other casting members who stayed until the presumed end. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, N, P, V)

“The Eddy”

This eight-episode drama series stars Andre Holland (“Castle Rock”) as the owner of a struggling Paris nightclub whose life is further complicated by his business partner’s dubious dealings and the arrival of his troubled teenage daughter. Amandla Stenberg (“The Hate U Give”), Tahar Rahim (“The Looming Tower”), Joanna Kulig (“Love Is Everything”), Melissa George (“The Slap”) and Tcheke Karyo (“The Missing”) also star. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: The Wrong Missy”

A man meets the woman of his dreams and invites her to his company’s corporate retreat — only to discover the text went to the wrong woman — in this comedy movie from director Tyler Spindel (“Father of the Year”). David Spade, Sarah Chalke, Lauren Lapkus, Nick Swardson and Molly Sims head the solid cast. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: A Secret Love”

First-time filmmaker Chris Bolan helmed this documentary that tells the story of the 65-year journey of two women, Pat Henschel and professional baseball player Terry Donahue, who were confronted with considerable prejudice after falling in love in 1947. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Dangerous Lies”

A caregiver finds herself caught in a web of deception and murder when the elderly man she was caring for bequeaths her his substantial estate in this thriller movie from director Michael Scott (“My Mom’s Letter From Heaven”). Jamie Chung, Cam Gigandet, Sasha Alexander, Elliott Gould and Jessie T. Usher head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

Jason Day seeks to put his back woes behind him

Jason Day would be the first to admit he wasn't at his best in the final round of the 2018 Wells Fargo Championship.

That round – the replay of which airs Sunday, May 3, on CBS and Golf Channel – saw Day missing more than half of the fairways and squandering a three-stroke lead on the back nine at Quail Hollow Country Club in Charlotte, N.C. But his fortunes turned when his tee shot on a difficult 230-yard par-3 17th hole hit the pin and settled three feet away, giving him an easy birdie and a two-shot lead that he would not relinquish.

For the tournament, he finished at 12-under 272, two strokes better than Aaron Wise and Nick Watney, for his second and last victory of the season.

His 2019 would not be so kind. Chronic back pain that he'd been coping with since 2014 hampered his play and held him winless until his victory over Tiger Woods, Rory McIlroy and Hideki Matsuyama at The Challenge: Japan Skins in October. It also caused him to pull out of the Presidents Cup as well.

Since then, the 32-year-old Australian's play has been lackluster. He missed cuts at the Genesis Invitational and the Mayakoba Golf Classic, though he did finish fourth at the Pebble Beach Pro-Am in February. But back pain once again reared its head and forced him to withdraw from his most recent tournament, the Arnold Palmer Invitational in March.

With the PGA on hiatus, Day has been tinkering with his swing to give his back more protection. He's hoping rest and a new approach can return him to the form that made him the Tour's top-ranked golfer in 2015 and 2016.

How to make delicious meals from the basics on 'Quarantine Cooking Show'

At a time when supplies of some foods are limited and supermarket shelves are bare, being resourceful with what's in the pantry becomes paramount. And with that, Mary Beth Albright can help.

In her "Quarantine Cooking Show," which streams in The Washington Post website's food section, the Post's food editor and one-time "Food Network Star" contestant offers tips and recipes using common nonperishable items that many people already have in-house. In quick three- to five-minute videos, she shows how to make such comestibles as roasted canned tomatoes, coconut rice, salami chips and salmon cakes.

In all cases, these are simple, inexpensive meals that anyone can make, and Albright argues it's not unlike how people ate when eating food made outside the home was a rarity.

"I think honestly that ... this is the way that humanity has cooked for most of our existence," she says. "It's like, what do we have around, and how are we going to make something that's going to be nourishing and delicious out of it? I think in a way it's like, 'Oh, OK, here's the next wave of cooking' things that are going to happen. In a way, it's going back to the way things have always been. (It's) efficient and scrappy."

Albright is somewhat of an authority in the areas of quarantining and food, given her background in emergency preparedness, law, public health and the Surgeon General's Office (she worked for the legendary Dr. C. Everett Koop), and her passion for food issues and cooking. In this challenging time, she wanted to produce something that would enhance people's well-being, show them how to mitigate risk and give them information on how to take care of themselves through food.

Which is why one of her early "Quarantine" episodes walks through the 10 foods to stock up on in case you're locked down.

"It's really stuff that one might have on hand or might be able to find," she says. "Like, I'm not going to do anything with like ... a steak because I don't know if people can find that right now.

"I don't start off with something that I necessarily have in the house – and I have a lot of stuff in the house when (I) make food videos. That just happens," she says with a laugh. "But I do try to go for the things that I think will be on shelves. You can buy 10 cans of canned salmon right now and just keep them around and make these salmon cakes."

And if you need something with which to wash that down, Albright might suggest her quarantini, which she explains in her video is equal parts gin, applejack and lillet blanc wine – which, she explains, "is a fortified wine, so it's actually got a higher alcohol content ... and it's delicious. You could absolutely just use regular wine instead of it, but I just like the sort of floralness it gives to the drink. It's more aromatic."

What's Available NOW On

“America in Color”

From the creative forces behind “See No Evil” and “Britain in Color” comes this 12-episode documentary series that showcases key moments in U.S. history from the 1920s to the 1960s using high definition-enhanced footage. Eric Meyers, Liev Schriber and Stephen Mangan serve as narrators.

“Mr Selfridge”

Jeremy Piven (“Entourage”) has the title role in Season 1 of this British drama that tells the real-life story of Harry Selfridge, the American founder of the iconic London department store Selfridge’s in the early 1900s. The impressive cast also includes Amanda Abbington, Ron Cook, Tom Goodman-Hill, Katherine Kelly and Amy Beth Hayes.

“The Mind of a Chef”

Anthony Bourdain narrated and executive produced this 2012-17 PBS series that follows chefs in their daily lives and examines their beliefs and philosophies on cooking and the culinary arts. Season 1, which streams here, features New York-based chef David Chang (“Ugly Delicious”).

“Movie: Paranormal Activity 3”

Reaffirming the suspense franchise as more than a one-trick pony, this third round delves even farther into the past than the preceding prequel, with the younger incarnations of the sisters (played as adults by returnees Katie Featherston and Sprague Grayden) experiencing their initial hauntings while a video camera records clues. The style will seem familiar to those who saw “Catfish”: This was handled by the same filmmakers, Henry Joost and Ariel Schulman.
