Class warfare engulfs post-apocalyptic survivors aboard 'Snowpiercer' in TNT sci-fi drama

An attempt to stem climate change backfires, plunging Earth into a new ice age and some of its inhabitants into a struggle to survive aboard an enormous train circling the frozen globe in a sci-fi series debuting on TNT.

In "Snowpiercer," premiering Sunday, May 17, those survivors wind up on an ark-like supertrain of the same name, created by a rich visionary named Mr. Wilford, who foresaw the impending apocalypse and wanted to ensure humanity's survival. It is here on this 1,001-car juggernaut where the haves, the have-nots and the unlawful are segregated into separate sections.

While the commoners in the back of the train cope with overcrowding and dwindling food rations, the biggest problem the rich face in the elegant front is body-shaming in the sauna. But when a murder occurs that could upend life on board, former homicide detective Layton (Daveed Diggs, "black-ish") is plucked from the back or "the tail" to investigate.

Among those aboard are the head of hospitality Melanie (Jennifer Connelly, "A Beautiful Mind") and her right hand, Ruth (Alison Wright, "The Americans"); Bess (Mickey Sumner, "Frances Ha"), a member of the train's police force; Jinju (Susan Park, "Ghostbusters"), the train's head agricultural officer; Bennett (Iddo Goldberg, "Peaky Blinders"), an engineer who knows the train end to end; and LJ (Annalise Basso, "Oculus"), the nihilistic teen daughter of a powerful family.

The story, which is based on the graphic novel series and the 2013 film from director Bong Joon Ho (who is also an executive producer here), is heavy on class warfare and social injustice as the politics of survival play out and everyone tries to keep their secrets under wraps.

That is especially true of Connelly's character Melanie, as the actress told a recent gathering of journalists in Pasadena, Calif.

"I felt like the person that you first meet in Episode 1 is very different from the person you come to know by the end of the first season," she says. "And it's a kind of gradual unfolding as you come to understand what she's been hiding, what she's been carrying, things that she's been compartmentalizing. I think a lot of that is ... brought about by her relationship with Layton. She's forced to confront choices that she's made and who she is, and who she's become.

"And that's sort of a gradual process and also is not entirely linear," she continues. "And I found that a very rewarding process going through that and watching that character unfold ..."

Similarly, Diggs' character of Layton also has some skeletons in his closet.

"I think you spend a lot of time as an actor thinking about your secrets, like what your character's secrets are," Diggs says. "And particularly I spent so much time in the tail, which is very, very confined because of the amount of people in there. You realize that like having a secret is kind of impossible in that situation. So that was an interesting. I think it informed a lot of my choices, this idea that like privacy didn't exist."

Ben Affleck

"THE WAY BACK"

It might be argued that in this drama, Ben Affleck isn't giving a performance so much as tapping heavily into his own life experience. The Oscar-winning actor-writer-director has been candid about struggles he has faced, one of them being drinking – and that's the albatross of his character here, a construction worker who's on a direct path to rock bottom. His possible salvation comes with an offer for him to become the coach of the basketball team at his former high school, where he was a star athlete himself. If this sounds predictable ... well, it largely is, but that doesn't mean it can't also be affecting. Affleck is very much that here, and it also also helps that he reunites with a director he's worked with successfully before: Gavin O'Connor, who steered him through the underrated thriller "The Accountant." The cast also features younger performers who supply a good deal of appeal as the ballplayers, most of whom really need their new coach's guidance, but there's no question that the film is primarily a solid vehicle for Affleck. Michaela Watkins, Janina Gavankar and veteran actor Glynn Turman also appear. DVD extra: "making-of" documentary. ★★★ (R: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray)

In Focus

"Double Shot at Love with DJ Pauly D & Vinny" (MTV — season premiere, June 11)

The duo of Paul "DJ Pauly D" Delvecchio and Vinny Guadagnino reunite for the second round of this reality series. Exes Britanni "B-lashes" Schwartz, Derynn Paige, Maria Elizondo, Marissa Lucchese, Nikki Hall and Susan "Suz" Baidya are invited to live and work with them in Las Vegas. The guys think this is going to be easy but the drama is sure to put a damper on that party.

"Yellowstone" (Paramount Network — season premiere, June 21)

Just in time for Father's Day, Kevin Costner returns to his drama for a third round as John Dutton, a rancher who has constant conflict with those just over its borders. This season, Josh Holloway joins the series as Roarke Morris, a hedge fund manager with ambitious plans in Montana that concern the Dutton family.

"SONIC THE HEDGEHOG"

Jim Carrey's naturally animated persona lends itself to live-action versions of projects that originated in cartoonish form, and it proves valuable again in this entertaining take on a long-popular video-game series. Wanted in another world for his amazing powers, Sonic (still animated here, and voiced by Ben Schwartz) comes to Earth to hide out from pursuers, then jeopardizes his secluded and peaceful life in Montana by unwittingly setting off a power outage that alerts the sinister Dr. Robotnik (Carrey) to his presence. Sonic then finds allies in a small-town sheriff and the lawman's wife (James Marsden, Tika Sumpter) as he flees toward San Francisco. Adam Pally ("Indebted") and Neal McDonough also are featured. ★★★ (PG: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD and On Demand)

"ONWARD"

With its run cut short by the coronavirus pandemic, this Disney-Pixar teaming made its way to streaming platforms only two weeks after its release, and it now adds other home-video platforms. The computer-animated tale puts two elf siblings (who have the voices of Tom Holland and Chris Pratt) on a mission to bring their deceased father back, using a magical staff that he left behind – but the instrument is only partially successful, restoring just half of the deceased party's body. In trying to complete their quest, the brothers embark on a quest to find something that can finish the spell, but colorful characters and dangerous creatures threaten to stand in their way. Still, as might be expected, they learn many valuable lessons about themselves and each other. The voice cast also includes Julia Louis-Dreyfus, Octavia Spencer, Mel Rodriguez, Kyle Bornheimer, Lena Waithe, Tracey Ullman and Wilmer Valderrama. ★★★ (PG: AS) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD and On Demand)

"DOWNHILL"

If you had to name the genre that is the specialty of Will Ferrell and Julia Louis-Dreyfus, it would be comedy. Often, though, they try to infuse something more into their humor – and it's there in longtime creative partners Jim Rash and Nat Faxon's remake of the Swedish film "Force Majeure," with Mother Nature taking its toll on a couple's relationship. They're vacationing in the Alps with their sons when an avalanche strikes ... and rather than stay behind to protect his family, Ferrell's character turns tail and runs. His wife (Louis-Dreyfus) is not very happy with him in the aftermath, especially the more he tries to deny that he fled to save his own hide, and the discord between them plays out in a number of ways. "Saturday Night Live" alums both, the two stars certainly are agreeable performers, and their teaming is something of an event ... but this is not a comfortable movie, and that may be its point. The duo surely is skilled enough to pull it off, but you're not likely to say you had a particularly good time with them here; Miranda Otto co-stars, and "Succession's" Jesse Armstrong co-wrote the script with directors Rash and Faxon. ★★★ (R: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

Wells finds perfection in the Bronx in 1998

David Wells was always one of the game's better left-handers during his 21-year major league career. But it was in New York where he became something of a legend.

Signing with the Yankees to a free agent contract prior to the 1997 season, the man known as "Boomer" went on to have two very good years in the Bronx, the second as a vital cog in the Bombers' championship run and record-setting 114-win regular season. It was also in 1998 that he carved his name in Yankee lore.

Pitching at Yankee Stadium against the Minnesota Twins on May 17 with what he later described as a "raging, skull-rattling hangover," the colorful Wells faced the minimum 27 batters, striking out 11, in throwing only the second perfect game in Yankee history. The first was thrown during the 1956 World Series by Don Larsen, who coincidentally attended the same high school as Wells, Point Loma High School in San Diego.

Wells would be traded to the Toronto Blue Jays for Roger Clemens the following spring and it was here where he enjoyed his only 20-win season in 2000. Stops with the Chicago White Sox, Boston Red Sox, Yankees, San Diego Padres and Los Angeles Dodgers would follow before he retired after the 2007 season. But the Bronx faithful will always remember Wells – the 1998 ALCS MVP and ardent Babe Ruth fan who once wore one of the Bambino's vintage caps in a game – as a "true Yankee."

Viewers can check out Wells' mastery over the Twins that May afternoon when ESPN Classic airs a replay of his perfect game on Friday, May 15.

TIPS FOR SELLERS IN THE COVID-19 REAL ESTATE MARKET

BE REALISTIC WHEN SETTING THE LIST PRICE FOR YOUR HOME. NOW IS NOT THE TIME FOR ASPIRATIONAL PRICES. AS OF 4/25, THE GROWTH IN PRICING HAD SLOWED, BUT NOT DROPPED. WE DON'T KNOW IF HOME VALUES IN PONTE VEDRA BEACH WILL CONTINUE TO HOLD FIRM AS LAYOFFS AND FORECLOSURES BEGIN TO HIT OUR MARKET.

MAKE SURE YOUR HOME IS IN TIP-TOP SHAPE BEFORE TAKING PHOTOS. YOU SHOULD INSIST THAT YOUR AGENT USE A PROFESSIONAL PHOTOGRAPHER AND USE VERY HIGH-QUALITY PHOTOS IN THE MLS, SINCE THIS IS WHERE BUYERS WILL FIRST SEE YOUR HOME.

CONSIDER VIRTUAL SHOWINGS AND VIRTUAL OPEN HOUSES. YOUR AGENT CAN CREATE A 3D VIRTUAL TOUR TO HELP BUYERS UNDERSTAND THE LAYOUT OF YOUR HOME BEFORE THEY EVEN COME IN.

REQUEST ALL BUYERS ARE PREQUALIFIED BEFORE SCHEDULING SHOWINGS. NOW IS NOT THE TIME FOR "TIRE KICKERS."

BE PREPARED FOR FEWER OFFERS ON YOUR HOME BECAUSE THE MARKET IS UNCERTAIN.

BE FLEXIBLE AS THERE HAVE BEEN MANY CHANGES TO THE WAY APPRAISERS, INSPECTORS, AND CLOSING COMPANIES ARE WORKING IN ORDER TO PROTECT ALL PARTIES.
