Al Roker, Savannah Guthrie (center) and Hoda Kotb host NBC's coverage of The 95th Annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade on Thursday.

The Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade returns to normal – somewhat

For this year's Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, the bands are back together.

Last time, the event altered some traditions to meet coronavirus-pandemic protocols, one being the postponement of appearances by marching bands from schools across the country. Since the parade won't be for television only for 2021, spectators will be back as will the bands as NBC broadcasts the 95th annual edition of the New York holiday procession Thursday, Nov. 25. "Today's" Savannah Guthrie, Hoda Kotb and Al Roker will have their usual roles as the three-hour special's hosts.

"We were so happy to get to do a parade, in whatever form it came," Guthrie recalls of last year's procession ... with Kotb adding, "Every time the Macy's Parade comes around, it reminds you that life is getting a little bit back to normal. The fact that we're going to have some of the crowd back just gives me that feeling of, 'We're on a roll. Let's keep it going.' And I think this is emblematic of the route on which we're hopefully heading."

The number of people permitted to line the parade route will be reduced from the norm by 10 to 20 percent. New character balloons include Grogu (or "Baby Yoda") from "The Mandalorian" and the title figure from "Ada Twist, Scientist." Among the scheduled performers are Carrie Underwood, Kristin Chenoweth (whose former show "WICKED" will be among Broadway hits represented by musical numbers), Darren Criss, Kelly Rowland, Jimmie Allen, the Muppets and the Rockettes.

For typical parade-route-walker Roker, doing the 2020 version was memorable for a number of reasons, including the fact that he'd had prostate-cancer surgery just a couple of weeks earlier.

"Once you're in the teeth of (the parade), you're not really thinking about anything else," the genial meteorologist maintains. "In planning my surgery, my goal was to have recuperated to be ready for the parade. It's a touchstone for me, so it provided a certain sense of normalcy, even though it wasn't a normal parade. It was one I really needed, and I think a lot of people needed it."

The ongoing existence of the Macy's Parade comforts Guthrie, who says it would be that way whether she was a part of it or not: "To have that continuity is really important and really meaningful. It'll mean a lot for people to be back out there participating."

Kotb believes that might pertain especially to the band members, since she reasons, "It's their moment in the spotlight. I always picture their parents with their noses glued to the TV, being like, 'That's my kid!' The fact that that's back brings an element that's beyond balloons. It's maybe the most real part of the parade."

Relax. We've got this.

DISCOVER FLORIDA'S FIRST LIGHTHOUSE

all began...

To understand the significance of Menorcan's at the St. Augustine Lighthouse, we must recognize their role in its history. Many lightkeepers were of Menorcan descent, including Juan Andreu, the first lighthouse keeper in the newly lit St. Augustine Lighthouse, Juan Carrera, Joseph Andreu, Maria Andreu, and Siladomlo Pellicer. These individuals, whose ancestors traveled to New Smyrna to work as indentured servants, were instrumental in the rise of Menorcan culture in St. Augustine.

Perhaps the most notable of Menorcan Lighthouse Keepers was Maria de los Dolores Menstre Andreu, a woman of many firsts. After her husband Juan's tragic passing, Maria became the first female lighthouse keeper and Hispanic-American woman to serve in the United States Coast Guard and command a federal shore installation, setting a precedent for Hispanic American women serving in the military. For over 150 years, Maria Andreu's trailblazing experience has inspired generations of women to serve their country.

Kamara shoulders the offensive load in New Orleans

Alvin Kamara has always been one of the better runners in the NFL and now he has a major milestone to prove it.

With his 51 yards rushing and 128 yards receiving in his New Orleans Saints' 13-10 victory over the Seattle Seahawks in Week 7, the fifth year man out of Tennessee became the fastest to 3,000 yards rushing and 3,000 yards receiving over his career, making it in his 66th game, four faster than the previous record holder, Roger Craig. That his efforts were the lone highlight in an otherwise lethargic offensive performance by the Saints that day only underscored his value to the team.

Over his career, he's been the picture of consistency, never running up 1,000-yard rushing seasons (although he's on pace to record his first this year) or gaudy receiving numbers but always being identified by opponents as the guy to stop, double-teaming if necessary.

His teammates also think highly of him, especially quarterback Jameis Winston, who in Kamara has found his favorite target in his first year with the Saints.

"(Kamara) is one of the most dominant players in this league," he said in a press conference after Kamara's record-setting performance against Seattle, "so it's always exciting when you put the ball in his hands and watch the things that he does."

Kamara and the Saints can be seen in action at home against the Buffalo Bills Thursday, Nov. 25, in prime time on NBC, in the late game of the NFL's traditional Thanksgiving Day tripleheader.

FULL NAME: Alvin Mentian Kamara
BIRTH DATE: July 25, 1995

HEIGHT/WEIGHT: 5 feet, 10 inches/215 pounds
TEAMS: New Orleans Saints (2017-present)

Bowl selection (2017-20); two-time Second-Team All-Pro (2017, 2020); NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year (2017); PFWA All-Rookie Team (2017); most touchdowns in a single game (six, tying Ernie Never's mark, in 2020)

'The Katie Button Project' explores food and how it gets to market

Katie Button has a deep and abiding appreciation for where food comes from and how it is produced, which is what drove her to make a food/adventure series upcoming on discovery+.

In the currently streaming "The Katie Button Project," the award-winning chef and restaurateur traces how popular ingredients such as fish, beef, cheese and apples make it to market, from the moment they're harvested through the production process. She also shares her knowledge of cooking techniques like searing or seasoning in the hopes of inspiring others to be more adventurous, curious and creative in the kitchen.

"My favorite thing about cooking," the Asheville, N.C.-based Button explains, "is cooking something that I don't usually cook, cooking something new because it's an experience. ... You know, if it's cooking rice a different way or trying a different variety or cooking with apples instead of just thinking of them for dessert or as a snack, or playing around with honey and different varieties, I just want to inspire people not only to learn about the passion behind the people producing food in this country – because that is an extremely interesting and important part – but the takeaway is jump in your kitchen and try it out."

And try it out she does. In the show's trailer, she's seen on a commercial fishing vessel off the coast of South Carolina fishing for snowy grouper and golden tilefish. This was no charter boat with many of the comforts of home but a trip in Spartan conditions to the continental shelf 10 hours out in the Atlantic.

After hauling in her catch by rod and reel – "they do a catch-and-reel system because it's super sustainable," Button notes – she then prepared a traditional Spanish fisherman's stew on board.

"My husband's from Spain and I lived and worked in restaurants in Spain and also worked for (chef) José Andrés here in the U.S. – that's where I met my husband," she says. "And so I made this ... stew made with fresh fish that you catch and some fish stock. And then I added to it – like traditionally you add to it fish liver, which is not something which you can usually get your hands on but since we were on this boat gutting the fish ... I was actually able to do that. It was so neat. (It was) something I never had the opportunity to do to make it in that authentic method using those ingredients. It only happens on a fishing boat."
