Mikaela Shiffrin is among the athletes expected to compete in the 2022 Winter Olympics Monday on NBC and NBCUniversal networks.

Shiffrin, Yuzuru, Kim favorites for gold at 2022 Winter Olympics

The 2022 Winter Olympics moves into its first full week of competition in Beijing and with it comes a number of high-profile sports and athletes. All events air on NBC, Peacock, USA Network, CNBC, NBCOlympics.com and NBC Sports app.

Probably the biggest gets underway early Monday, Feb. 7, when Mikaela Shiffrin begins a slate of potentially five events when she takes to the slopes of the National Alpine Ski Center in Yanqing to compete in the final of the women's giant slalom, the event she won gold in at PyeongChang in 2018.

The 26-year-old native of Vail, Colo., comes in looking to add to her three career Olympic medals, two of which are gold. She's considered the favorite in the GS but she'll face stiff competition from Tessa Worley of France, Petra Vlhova of Slovakia and Italian skiers Federica Brignone and Marta Bassino. Shiffrin will also face off with Vlhova in the slalom on Wednesday, Feb. 9, and with Ester Ledecka of the Czech Republic in the super-G on Thursday, Feb. 10.

Also on Monday, men's figure skating kicks into gear at Capital Indoor Stadium with the short program. Hanyu Yuzuru, the 27-year-old Japanese skater, comes in as the two-time defending Olympic gold medalist and has to be considered the favorite here. His chief competition will likely come from 22-year-old American Nathan Chen, the three-time World Champion who has yet to top a podium in Olympic competition but could break through here.

Wednesday, Feb. 9, women's snowboarding takes flight at Genting Snow Park with the final in the halfpipe, in which Chloe Kim of the United States is the heavy favorite to win a second straight gold medal. In 2018 at PyeongChang, Kim scored a near-perfect 98.25 out of 100 and at 17 became the youngest snowboarder to win a gold medal at the Olympics. She's also the reigning World, Olympic and X Games champion in the halfpipe. One who could challenge her is 17-year-old prodigy ONO Mitsuki of Japan.

The final in the men's halfpipe on Thursday features a loaded field including Australia's Scotty James and the Japan contingent of Yuto Totsuka, Ayumu Hirano and Ruka Hirano vying for gold in an event that historically has been dominated by American Shaun White, who at the advanced snowboarding age of 35 will be vying to become the first snowboarder to win four Olympic gold medals.

Sunday, Feb. 6, is the men's slopestyle final, where Red Gerard and Dusty Henricksen will look to keep the United States' winning streak alive. The Americans took gold in the two previous Games (including Gerard's in 2018) but that won't stop a field that includes Canada's Mark McMorris and Norway's Marcus Kleveland from challenging them for the top spot on the podium.

Other finals to watch for this week include the women's slopestyle and men's singles luge (Sunday), the women's freeski big air (Monday), mixed doubles curling (Tuesday) and the 10km event in women's cross-country skiing (Thursday).

Relax. We've got this.

"Snowfall" (FX — season premiere, Feb. 23)

Season 5 of this historical drama opens in 1986, with Franklin Saint (Damson Idris) and his whole family rich beyond their wildest dreams. The ground begins to fall out from under their feet, however, just as they seem on the verge of getting everything they've ever wanted. The sudden death of basketball star Len Bias from an overdose thrusts the rock cocaine epidemic into the nation's headlines, giving both Democratic and Republican lawmakers a convenient target. Carter Hudson and Angela Lewis also return.

“Movie: Small Engine Repair”

The seemingly casual reunion of three friends at a remote repair shop masks a hidden agenda fueled by the arrival of a privileged yuppie in this 2021 comedy from writer/director John Pollono (“Fight Your Way Out,” “Stronger”). Jon Bernthal, Shea Whigham, Ciara Bravo, Jordana Spiro and Pollono head the cast.

“Movie: Stop and Go”

“Freelancers” mentors Whitney Call and Mallory Everton co-wrote and star in this 2021 comedy about two sisters who embark on a cross-country road trip to rescue their grandmother and her beloved dog from a COVID outbreak at her nursing home. Stephen Meek (who co-directed the film with Everton), Julia Jolley and Anne Hansen are also in the cast.

“Movie: Dirty Grandpa”

Robert De Niro took a break from serious roles for this 2016 comedy from director Dan Mazer (“The Exchange”), in which he plays a lecherous former Army general who tricks his uptight grandson (Zac Efron) into getting away from his controlling bride-to-be to join him on a spring break road trip to Daytona Beach, Fla. Aubrey Plaza and Zoey Deutch also star.

“Dollface”

The sophomore round of this comedy series catches up with Jules (Kat Dennings) and pals Madison, Stella and Izzy (Brenda Song, Shay Mitchell, Esther Povitsky) post-pandemic, post-heartbreak and heading toward 30 as Jules tries to keep the gang together while they navigate work, love and a deeper relationship with each of themselves. DISCOVER FLORIDA'S FIRST LIGHTHOUSE

In 1875, Major William A. Harn became Head Keeper of the St. Augustine Lighthouse. Keeper Harn and his wife Kate, along with their daughters, became the first residents of the Keepers' House. Life at a light station was busy, and everyone would help tend to the light and grounds. One aspect of this was to greet and entertain visitors. The Harn children loved hearing stories from the outside world as Kate served lemonade on the porch of the Keepers' House.

The Harn family lived and worked at the light station from 1876 until 1889. After William's passing, Kate served as the Second Assistant before moving the family into town and later returning home to Maine. The photograph above was taken at the Harn family home in Maine during the 1920s. Among those pictured are Kate and five of her six daughters.

Roy Choi spotlights what needs fixing in Season 2 of 'Broken Bread'

The title may be “Broken Bread” but it’s about so much more than food.

In each episode of the series, which currently streams its second season Tuesdays on Tastemade, Los Angeles-based host, chef and restaurateur Roy Choi examines social justice issues such as gentrification, cultural erasure and the corporate takeover of food and farming through the lens of food, celebrating the people who are making big changes to the food landscape, what is eaten and where communities gather, all in an effort to raise awareness.

“Our whole focus at ‘Broken Bread’ is finding good people doing great things against all odds,” Choi explains, “and we really try to look at and empathize and be connected to the food system and what’s not working within it. ... So we like to show just the strength of the human character and the people that are doing something, even without the camera or with no benefit to themselves. They’re doing it because they know it’s the right thing.”

That’s evident in the Tuesday, Feb. 8, episode “Food as Resistance,” which looks at the long-buried history of the Chavez Ravine neighborhoods where Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles now stands. Choi meets some of the people actively working to preserve Latinx cuisine and seeks out some of the city’s top taco makers.

Standing among food kiosks on a hilltop overlooking the stadium, he also discusses the cultural erasure that took place when three neighborhoods of Latinos were displaced by the venue’s construction and the paradox of those who root for the Dodgers today.

“How are we the biggest fans of this sport but at the same time this sport and this team were directly responsible for erasing three of the most vibrant communities of our history? ...” Choi says. “The head of the snake was Dodger Stadium because it’s such an iconic place in Los Angeles. It really makes like the growth of the city and that mid-century modern architecture in the 1950s (possible).”

“But also, we looked at it (through) a prism of how people are treated today,” he continues. “It’s kind of like when somebody wants something, it’s as if no one was there before. You know, the Columbus-ing of things like, ‘These people don’t matter. There’s no value. That land is valuable.’ It doesn’t matter whether or not there are communities there that have built traditions and culture and lived for generations. So we wanted to really look at that and get people to understand that this championship team comes at a cost.”

Other topics this season include gentrification in Los Angeles’ Chinatown; the vibrant food, nightlife and cultural scenes of the oft-misunderstood Tijuana, Mexico; and the unsustainable financial model of the restaurant industry.
