Quinn-Shalz Family Funeral Home assists families in memorializing their loved ones

When a loved one passes, families find great comfort in a funeral home staffed with caring, compassionate and knowledgeable people. That's why many local residents contact Quinn-Shalz Family Funeral Home when faced with one of the most difficult times they will ever experience.

The atmosphere at Quinn-Shalz is friendly and family-oriented, and the staff inspires confidence in grieving survivors.

The funeral home was started in 2000 by Michael Shalz, General Jack Quinn and two of his sons. Prior to this, Michael Shalz had worked for a large corporate funeral home, but he knew that one day he would have his own company.

In 2006, Michael Shalz became the sole owner of the business. Unfortunately, he passed away that same year.

With his passing, Mary Quinn Shalz became the owner of the funeral home, and she continues in that role today. Also, since Michael Shalz's passing, the company has been managed by Darlene Smith.

Quinn-Shalz Family Funeral Home provides all the services pertaining to the final disposition of a loved one. The services include, but are not limited to, burial service, cremation services, shipping loved ones internationally and green burials.

The company's pre-need department enables people to pre-plan and pre-pay for funeral services. This can be a great help to survivors. In addition, if someone pre-plans and pre-pays for their services, the price is frozen.

The funeral home's mission is to assist families with the most dignified and compassionate way to memorialize their loved ones. The staff will guide them in planning either a traditional funeral service or one that will allow families to develop a more personalized and unique service.

The business brings a wealth of experience in funeral matters, business management, leadership, compassion and civic involvement. With more than 60 years of active military service in the Quinn-Shalz family history, they are experts in military funerals and benefits.

The funeral home can assist families in any situation, whether local or long distance.

Asked what sets Quinn-Shalz Family Funeral Home apart from its competitors, Smith explained, "Our willingness to try things we haven't done before. The closeness of our staff. Unlike corporate funeral homes, there is no quota to meet each month. There is no pressure put on our families to purchase anything except what they desire."

Smith went on to address the business's goal for the families who seek out its services.

"We want our families to feel like the hardest thing they had to do was walk through the front door to start the funeral arrangement process," she said. "After the arrangement conference is over, our goal is for them to feel relieved knowing that everything will be handled according to their wishes. We want them to feel supported, understood and personally cared for."

She said what families are seeking when they visit Quinn-Shalz Family Funeral Home is kindness, compassion, an understanding of the funeral service process and quality service.

Quinn-Shalz Family Funeral home is the only funeral home in Jacksonville Beach — and one of only a few in Jacksonville — that has an onsite crematory. In addition, it has the Beaches' largest chapel.

The business has an 11-person staff. In addition to Owner Mary Quinn Shalz and Managing Director Darlene Smith, there are four funeral directors: Terry Tilley, Cory Browne, Damien Russo and Ilex Climenhaga; office staff, Debbie Wilson and Amy Ray; staff associates Rick Powell and Mike Thompson; and pre-need counselor JoAnn Pike.

Quinn-Shalz Family Funeral Home is located at 3600 3rd St. South, Jacksonville Beach. The phone number is 904-249-1100 and the email address is office@quinn-shalz.com.

'Easy-Bake Battle' champions quick and easy cuisine – without the light bulbs

Let's just get this out of the way up front.

There were no light bulbs used to cook the comestibles on Netflix's "Easy-Bake Battle" nor does the venerable Hasbro toy appliance make an appearance – at least not in the form that we know it.

No, the title of the culinary competition series that begins streaming its eight half hour episodes on Wednesday, Oct. 12, refers to, as the show's release explains, cuisine "inspired by Hasbro's iconic Easy-Bake Oven." Translation: simple, easy, delicious meals one can make in little time and with a little outside-the-box thinking.

So expect to pick up plenty of clever kitchen hacks or shortcuts from accomplished home cooks as they vie in two rounds of competition for the chance to win $25,000 in each episode and the $100,000 grand prize at the end of the season.

The series comes from eOne, the production company owned by Hasbro, and features a whole lot of baking – and not the type of baking one might think.

"I don't mean like cake baking," explains executive producer Daniel Calin. "This show does both savory and sweet cooking, which I think differentiates it from a lot of the other shows you'll see on platform and elsewhere. But in the second round, the oven that they use to bake very cleverly in, it aesthetically represents the classic Easy-Bake Oven; it'll be reminiscent of it."

So there is a wall oven in the shape of the Easy-Bake Oven here. It has no special capabilities and again, no light bulbs, just an average oven in which contestants will cook their pasta, steak, seafood and dessert dishes, which are then judged by host Antoni Porowski and rotating guest judges including Kristen Kish and Jacques Torres.

And that's where the hacks come in. If nothing else, viewers will come away with a few shortcuts and tricks that surely will make their time in the kitchen easier and more productive, just as it did for the home cooks here.

"There's a whole world of people on YouTube and TikTok and Instagram who had started championing like an easy way of cooking that is like hack-driven and still gets you to really delicious meals," Calin says.

"These folks are like really busy people like you and I who have complicated lives and kids and a lot of demands coming their way. So in the kitchen they've had to figure out how to cook more efficiently without compromising the quality of their food, so they come to the competition with their shortcuts."
