She has been developing relationships within the community since 2003

Robin Rawald started her real estate career at Coldwell Banker in Orlando, Florida, in 2003. After working for Lockheed Martin and in the health care world after college, she decided it was time for a change and began a career in real estate. Years later, it turns out that real estate was just what she was looking for, and she now calls St. Augustine home for her business and personal life.

Her mission has remained the same since she first started in real estate, by keeping customers' interests at heart and being proactive every step of the way. Rawald takes pride in her customer service and values the relationships she has developed with customers throughout the years. From those looking to purchase a home to those selling one, Rawald hopes to make a lasting impact on everyone involved in the real estate process. The many referrals she has received over the years speaks for the quality of service she provides and leads to customers coming back when they are looking for a new home or have a property to sell. Many of the relationships she has with customers have developed into true friendships over the years.

One of the ways that Rawald separates herself from other agents is the fact that she never forgets that real estate is much more than just the transaction of the property. At the end of the day, people are the ones making the final decisions, which makes the business very personal, and she believes the approach should cater to the varying personalities involved. The real estate market is ever-changing, but one thing that remains constant with her is the professionalism used during the buying-and-selling process, which includes remembering to treat people's homes as if they were her own.

The personal touches she implements are also evident in her marketing strategies. She uses only the best photography as well as print and social media marketing available and her go-getter attitude to make sure her buyers and their families are getting the home that best suits them and their needs. All of this makes Rawald a leading agent with Coldwell Banker Premier Properties and as a Global Luxury Certified Agent, where she has been a top producer for several years now and has been honored with the Coldwell Banker Diamond Award. She has also been named Woman of the Year by the National Association of Professional Women and has a certification from the Institute for Luxury Home Marketing. These designations speak to her passion for her trade and her eagerness to help others.

She is also very active in the community and gives back to organizations like The Ronald McDonald Charities, Children with Disabilities (Pine Castle), K9s United and Mental Health and Suicide Prevention. Please contact Robin at 904-325-3720 or email her at robinrawald@gmail.com if you or someone you know is ready to make a move.

Take a Journey to the culinary wild side on travel/foodie streaming service

For those on the lookout for new sources of culinary knowledge, we present for your consideration Journey.

Indeed, on the ad-supported travel, art and culture streaming service (Journey.tv) and app can be found a wealth of foodie documentaries that take viewers around the country and world to show different regions' cuisines and food traditions. So whether you want to find out how bread is baked in Minnesota or what exotic dishes are on the menu on the Amalfi Coast, there is no doubt you will find something to suit your taste. The following are a few highlights.

“David Rocco’s Dolce Vita”: Though not a professional chef, David Rocco is Italian and he has an appreciation for everything from the Old Country, particularly its food. In this series – which is shot in Florence, Sicily and the Amalfi Coast – he acts as a guide to everything Italian and cooks classic recipes inspired by peasant cuisine, featuring fresh seasonal ingredients, that any home cook can make.

“Breaking Bread With Brooke Burke”: Here, the actress welcomes in a celebrity guest to explore meaningful meals and memories through their palates, family traditions and favorite recipes. So in the six episodes, she’ll join Jane Seymour in her Malibu kitchen to make her salmon and mushroom risotto; Carrie Wilson to mix up a pot of her grandmother’s chicken matzah ball soup; and close friend Ali Landry to prepare some traditional Mexican fare.

“Refugee Chef”: Behind every dish is a story of survival and the chefs spotlighted in this series all have one thing in common – they survived war in their homeland and sought freedom elsewhere. So viewers will meet and learn the stories of chefs such as Anita Saborn, who serves up authentic spicy Indonesian food in Paris; Javad Ghaderi, who for decades kept his Afghan nationality a secret and now runs a Persian restaurant in Australia; and Yia Vang, who embodies the Hmong people through food in Minneapolis.

“In Search of Food”: Author and chef Barton Seaver is your host for this foodie/travel series that takes him to places such as New York City to check out an Upper East Side locavore restaurant and search for fresh pasta at an Italian market; San Francisco, to look for fresh produce and oysters; the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia to learn about sustainable farming; and San Diego, to drop in on rock star Jason Mraz at his avocado farm.

“Lee Chan’s World Food Tour”: This half hour series follows Australian-born Chinese presenter Chan as she travels on her stomach to places around the world, meets local chefs and cooks up and tries the cuisine, be they local favorites, modern delicacies or sumptuous desserts.
