LODGING ON THE GO

The Olympic National Park is a nature lover's paradise. With its vast forests, rugged coastline, and snow-capped peaks, the park offers a diverse range of ecosystems and outdoor activities. For those looking to spend a few nights under the stars, here are five great campsites in and near the Olympic Forest and Olympic National Park.

HOH RAIN FOREST CAMPGROUND

For those looking to explore one of the most unique and awe-inspiring ecosystems in the world, the Hoh Rain Forest Campground is the perfect place to stay. The Hoh Rain Forest is known for its dense canopy of moss-covered trees, ferns, and other plants, as well as its abundant wildlife. The campground is located near several trailheads that offer access to some of the best hiking in the park, including the Hall of Mosses Trail and the Hoh River Trail. nps.gov/olym/planyourvisit/visiting-the-hoh.htm

SOL DUC HOT SPRINGS CAMPGROUND

Located in the heart of the Olympic Forest, the Sol Duc Hot Springs Campground offers a unique camping experience. In addition to traditional campsites, the campground also features several natural hot springs pools that are open to campers. After a long day of hiking or exploring the surrounding forest, there's nothing quite like soaking in a hot spring surrounded by towering trees and fresh mountain air. nps.gov/olym/planyourvisit/camping.htm.

KALALOCH CAMPGROUND

If you're looking for a campsite with a view, the Kalaloch Campground is hard to beat. Located on a bluff overlooking the Pacific Ocean, this campground offers stunning views of the coastline and easy access to several beaches. In addition to camping, the Kalaloch area is also popular for beachcombing, whale watching, and storm watching during the winter months. nps. gov/olym/planyourvisit/kalaloch-area-brochure.htm

DEER PARK CAMPGROUND

For those looking to get away from the crowds and enjoy some solitude in the mountains, the Deer Park Campground is a great option. Located high in the Olympic Mountains, this campground offers stunning views of the surrounding peaks and valleys. The campground is only accessible via a narrow, winding road, so be sure to bring a vehicle that can handle steep grades and tight turns. nps.gov/olym/planyourvisit/deer-park-area-brochure.htm

LAKE LELAND CAMPGROUND

Close to the Port Townsend with year-round fishing opportunities, Lake Leland is a locals' favorite. Be sure to bring a swimsuit and hiking boots. Lake Leland is also perfect for paddle sports. jeffersoncountywa.myrec.com/documents/final_map_of_leland_campground_layout.pdf

Overall, the Olympic Forest and Olympic National Park offer a wealth of camping opportunities for those looking to escape the hustle and bustle of city life and reconnect with nature.

Whether you're looking for a rustic campsite deep in the woods or a campground with all the amenities, the park has something for everyone. So pack your tent and sleeping bag, hit the road, and prepare to experience the beauty and tranquility of the Olympic Peninsula.

CITIES & TOWNS

THE COMMUNITIES OF JEFFERSON COUNTY

BRIDGEHAVEN

The Bridgehaven community is located a few miles south of the west end of the Hood Canal Bridge and is operated by the Bridgehaven Community Club Association. The community has about 200 lots, most with homes on them.

Bridgehaven operates with an elected board of directors, a water board and an architectural committee. Bridgehaven has a water manager to maintain its Class A water system, which supplies Bridgehaven and communities just north and south of it.

Bridgehaven contains about 300 feet of waterfront property, with a large picnic pavilion, a boat launch and parking, as well as a 20-slip floating marina dock and a fish-cleaning station.

Bridgehaven is located about 25 miles south of Port Townsend and 9 miles south of Port Ludlow.

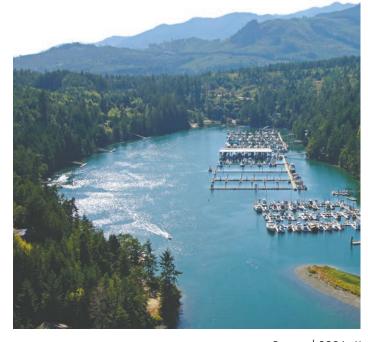

bridgehaven.net

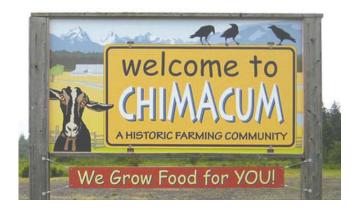

BRINNON

A census-designated place in South Jefferson County, Brinnon is home to about 800 residents as of the latest census. Known for being the oldest Boy Scout Camp west of the Mississippi, founded in 1919, Brinnon was named in 1860 after Elwell Brinnon, who took a donation land claim at the river's mouth.

Brinnon is located about 61 miles north of Olympia on the Olympic Peninsula's east side, along Hood Canal on the eastern edge of the Olympic National Forest.

Brinnon is about 38 miles south of Port Townsend and about 13 miles south of Quilcene. For a spectacular "aerial" view of the region, head a few miles north of Brinnon to the Mount Walker lookouts.

CHIMACUM

The Chimacum Valley is named for the Chemakum tribe that once lived on the land. The unincorporated community on the Eastern Olympic Peninsula is known for its agriculture.

Chimacum is 10 miles south of Port Townsend and 8 miles northwest of Port Ludlow. Places to explore are Anderson Lake State Park, HJ Carroll Park, Tamanowas Rock Sanctuary, Gibbs Lake and Chimacum Woods. For more information, visit jeffersoncountywa.com.

CLEARWATER

Clearwater, located about 8 miles north of Queets, is named for the nearby Clearwater River and consists mostly of timberlands with limited private ownership.

The unincorporated community is on the west coast of Jefferson County, just outside the boundaries of the Quinault Indian Reservation. The influence of the Pacific Ocean gives Clearwater heavy year-round precipitation and an oceanic climate. Guests can use a Discover Pass to visit nearby Cleawater State Park. More at stateparks.com.

COYLE

Named after George Coyle, an early settler, Coyle is located about 16 miles south of Bridgehaven on the Toandos Peninsula in an unincorporated area.

The Toandos Peninsula is frequently called the Coyle Peninsula after the community of Coyle, located at its point. It is also known as the Dabob Peninsula, as it separates Dabob Bay from the rest of the Hood Canal.

Since 2009, the community has hosted Concerts in the Woods, a free-admission musical showcase. (See coyleconcerts.com for latst updates).

Coyle is also known for its clam and oyster harvest. The beach is mostly rocky, and digging is difficult but productive for native littleneck and butter clams in the mid-low tidal zone. There are also some horse clams and cockles. Geoducks can be found in the sand at extreme low tides (-2.0 or lower) below the rocky zone.

The waters off Toandos Peninsula State Park stay colder in the summer than most of Hood Canal, perfect for shellfish.

DABOB

Dabob Bay is one of the largest and most pristine salt marsh bay estuaries in Puget Sound. It is located on the east side of the Bolton Peninsula, which separates Quilcene and Dabob Bay.

On the north end of Hood Canal, Dabob Bay is home to numerous shellfish companies, and is known worldwide for the quality of its water, shellfish and diverse wildlife.

Dabob is located about 13 miles south of Discovery Bay, and about 23 miles south of Port Townsend.

Dabob is home to Dabob Bay Natural Area, established in 1984 to protect rare intact salt marsh and sand spit plant communities within one of Washington's highestfunctioning coastal spit and tidal wetland systems. Initially created as a natural area preserve, the site was enlarged in 2009 to include additional land designated as Natural Area Preserves, along with lands designated as natural resources conservation areas. This provides additional opportunities for low-impact public use.

DISCOVERY BAY

Located about 13 miles southwest of Port Townsend, Discovery Bay, aka "The Lavender Capital of North America," is a small bay that has clean water along forested slopes. Discovery Bay enters the Strait of Juan de Fuca between the Miller and Quimper peninsulas. Its mouth is just south of Protection Island and is between 6 to 7 miles in length. It is fed by Snow Creek, among other small watercourses. It is also the site of many habitat conservation projects that endeavor to restore native salmon and Olympia oyster species. Make a stop at Discovery Bay to walk along the Olympic Discovery Trail and take in the sparkling water views!

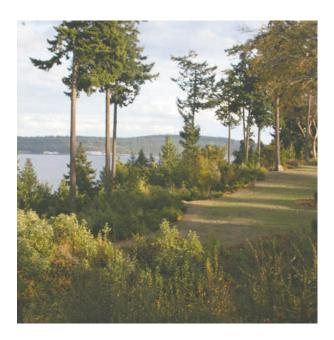

GARDINER

Gardiner is an unincorporated community, partially in neighboring Clallam County, and is about 6.5 miles north of Discovery Bay on the Miller Peninsula.

Farming, lumber and fishing still figure into Gardiner's economy, but the area is following the Jefferson County trend away from agriculture, as old homesteads and family farms are subdivided into residences.

During the last census, roughly 300 people lived in the area. Although Gardiner is considered within Jefferson County, the area is served by Clallam County Fire District 3.

INDIAN ISLAND

Indian Island is an unincorporated community located between Port Townsend and Kilisut Harbor.

Until the construction of the Port Townsend Ship Canal, Indian Island was connected to the mainland by a broad sand flat and back-shore marsh.

It is occupied by the Indian Island Naval Reserve, and although the last census showed about 200 residents, there are no civilian residences on the island. The Naval Reserve is home to Naval Magazine Indian Island.

Indian Island also has a large trail system along the coast. The Indian Island trail is divided into three segments; Portage, Lagoon and Isthmus, with miles of shoreline that can be hiked on the beach, bluffs or a combination of the two. Leisurely beach ramblers and trail runners and have access to nature and the breathtaking scenery of Oak Bay.

LELAND

Named after early settler Laura Andrews, Leland is an unincorporated community within Jefferson County. The area is known for Leland Lake, with a shallow and largely underdeveloped shoreline.

The lake is stocked in April and May with catchable-size rainbow trout. Good numbers of coastal cutthroat trout broodstock, weighing about 1 pound each, are stocked in March, as well as larger rainbows in the fall, providing good fishing even in winter months. There is good fishing for stocked rainbows during fall, winter and spring, with largemouth bass, bluegill sunfish and yellow perch from spring through the summer. Black crappie fishing can be productive during the cooler months of fall.

MARROWSTONE ISLAND

Discovered by George Vancouver in 1792, and settled in the 1800s by Norwegian immigrants, Marrowstone Island is still home to descendants of the original settlers.

As of the last census, Marrowstone Island, located east of Indian Island, was home to about 950 people.

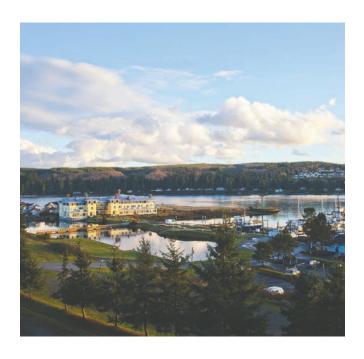

At the north end of the island is Fort Flagler State Park, a military base built in 1907 to protect the entrance to Puget Sound. Fort Flagler existed as a military base until the early 1950s, when it was decommissioned and turned into a state park. The Fort Flagler barracks and bunkers are preserved today and open to the public. There are hiking trails with views of Mount Rainier, Mount Baker and the San Juan Islands.

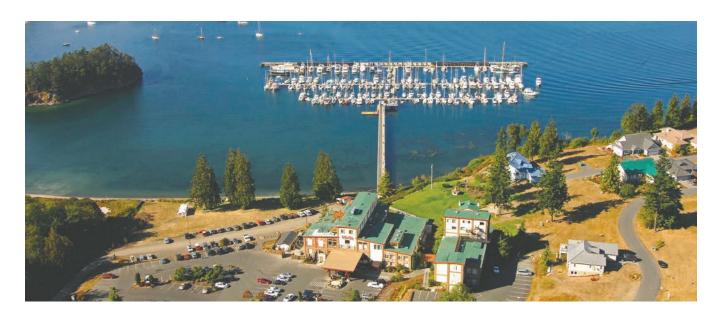

PORT LUDLOW

In 1842, the town and bay were named in honor of Lieutenant Augustus C. Ludlow, by the Commander of the U.S. Exploring Expedition, Lt. Charles Wilkes.

The first shipments of timber from Puget Sound to San Francisco in 1851 stimulated interest in the business potential of sawmills on the sound. John R. Thorndike and W. P. Sayward sailed to Puget Sound in 1852 and found the environs of Port Ludlow promising. Thorndike filed a timber claim of 318 acres, and began building a mill there.

Following the completion of the nearby Hood Canal Bridge in 1960, Port Ludlow became the site of resorts and planned communities, attracting retirees, vacation home buyers or those needing a more convenient commute to the business centers on the west side of Puget Sound.

PORT HADLOCK

Samuel Hadlock landed in Washington in what is now known as Port Hadlock in 1870.

He contracted with the Washington Mill Company to build a sawmill on the spit of a low bank of land off the bay with deep enough water for tall ships to moor. It was there that Hadlock established a large mill, shipping lumber to San Francisco and as far away as Australia and Hawai'i.

Construction started on the alcohol plant in 1909. It was completed in 1910 and began manufacturing wood alcohol from sawdust. The residential section was in upper Hadlock. After the lumber mill burned, businesses began to move uptown. William Sehrs, of Sehrs Shipyard, built the Masonic Temple in 1911 and the Nordland ferry and bridges across the Chimacum Creek.

The Tri-Area, which includes Port Hadlock, Irondale and Chimacum, was a growing, viable township.

IRONDALE

The first iron-producing blast furnace in Washington was completed in Irondale in 1881. About 1,200 tons of pig iron was produced during its first year of operation with ore obtained from Chimacum Valley. The plant closed in 1889.

The initial hope was for Irondale to become a major iron and steel producer for the western United States. At first, it looked as though this dream might come true. After only two years of production, Irondale had several bars, boarding facilities for both men and horses, and homes and accommodations for more than 200 workers. Before the local economy and the plant failed in 1889, there were more than 400 men employed at the foundry. The town expanded and grew on the sandy bluffs that overlooked the waterside plant.

As of the most recent census, the population for Irondale and Port Hadlock combined is around 3,500.

PORT TOWNSEND

Port Townsend is the only city in Jefferson County, with about 10,600 residents, it is also the county seat.

In addition to its natural scenery at the northeast tip of the Olympic Peninsula, the city is also known for the many Victorian buildings remaining from its late 19th century heyday, numerous annual cultural events and as a maritime center for independent boat-builders and related industries and crafts. The Port Townsend Historic District is a U.S. National Historic Landmark District.

Port Townsend is also called "The City of Dreams" because of the early speculation the city would be the largest harbor on the West Coast of the United States.

Fort Worden and Point Wilson Lighthouse should be on your list to visit. More at enjoypt.com.

QUEETS

Queets is an unincorporated community that lies in both Grays Harbor and Jefferson counties. In the 2020 census, the population of Queets was 183. The primary residents are Native Americans of the Quinault Indian Nation.

Drive through Queets on U.S. Highway 101 to find Pacific beach hiking trails, access to Olympic National Park and the Olympic National Forest. The town consists of several homes, a store and a gas station, but also provides access to hiking trails such as the Queets River trail.

The 50-mile long Queets River runs almost its entire course through Olympic National Park. The last few miles run through Quinault Nation land until it reaches the Pacific Ocean. In the winter months, fly anglers from across the state head to Queets for its numerous and large native steelhead.

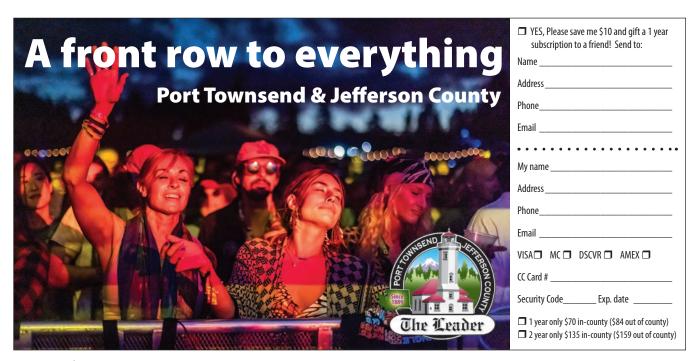

QUILCENE

Quilcene is an unincorporated community and census-designated place in Jefferson County, whose population was 664 as of the 2020 census.

The community is located on the Olympic Peninsula at the head of Quilcene Bay, an arm of the seawater-filled glacial valley of the Hood Canal.

Early inhabitants of the area were the Twana people, inhabiting the length of the Hood Canal. The Quilcene ("salt-water people") were a distinct band.

The Wilkes Expedition charted the place as "Kwil-sid" in 1841. Hampden Cottle, a logger from Maine, and several other families settled there in 1860 and eventually established a town. The town was originally situated on the banks of the Quilcene River before being moved to higher ground. The economy in Quilcene was based primarily on farming and logging, and by 1880 the town had a population of 53.

▲ Abundant wildflowers such as lupine can be seen along the Klahhane Ridge Trail during the summertime. There's something about the sprawling mountains, riveting rainforest, and rugged coastline on the Olympic Peninsula that yearns for exploring.

While spots like Hurricane Ridge and the Hoh Rainforest get all the love from visitors, the Peninsula contains a wide array of unique and lesser-known places to peruse. Considering the hundreds of trails across Olympic National Park and around the Peninsula, here's five regional locales to add to the hiking list this summer.

1. SOL DUC HOT SPRINGS

Located 12 miles into the northern end of Olympic National Park, the Sol Duc Hot Springs are the perfect visit for those in need of a natural detox. Located at 12076 Sol Duc Hot Springs Road and available by drive, the hot springs also include a resort for guests looking for a longer stay, but people not staying at the resort can still use the springs by paying an entrance fee. Better yet, the hot springs are in close proximity to a collection of trails and sites, with the 2.5-mile Mink Lake Trail and Lovers Lane Trail (5.8 miles) both starting right at the resort. To learn more about the Sol Duc Hot Springs, visit nps.gov/olym/hot-springs.htm.

2. UPPER LAKE LENA

The Upper Lake Lena Trail is an amazing hiking destination for the more experienced of explorers. With a 12-mile hike to get to the trailhead, Upper Lake Lena the isn't for the faint of heart, but it boasts mesmerizing views of the lake and surrounding mountain ridges along the eastern side of Olympic National Park. The Lower Lena Lake Trail may be one of the more popular destinations for Peninsula travelers, but those who venture to the upper part can leave the crowds behind for a tranquil trail experience. For more information about the Upper Lake Lena Trail, go to wta.org/go-hiking/hikes/upper-lena-lake.

3. KLAHHANE RIDGE

Exquisite views of nature's bounty will encompass the views along the Klahhane Ridge Trail. The 5-mile trail can be moderately difficult to trek with 1,700 feet of elevation gain, but it's well worth the effort to see meadows of wildflowers, jaw-dropping views, and local fauna. To access the trailhead, hikers can connect from multiple points, with the Switchback Trailhead at Hurricane Ridge being the easiest access point. It's best to tour the Klahhane Ridge Trail during the summer to view Indian paintbrush, lupine, glacier lilies, and other beautiful meadow flowers along the way. Not to mention, one might come across mountain goats, marmots, and black bears along the way. Go to wta. org/go-hiking/hikes/klahhane-ridge to learn more about the underrated trail.

▲ A bicyclist rides through the Elwha Bridge west of Port Angeles along the Olympic Discovery Trail.

▲ The Sol Duc Hot Springs Resort is an ideal way to enjoy Sol Duc's serenity and relaxation while soaking in the beneficial minerals.

4. OLYMPIC DISCOVERY TRAIL

For those looking for a longer expedition on a more accessible path, the Olympic Discovery Trail is the perfect compromise. Currently 80 miles in total and set to expand to 130 miles once finished, the trail spans from Port Townsend to La Push. Much of the path goes along an old railroad, with existing roads and trails connecting the Olympic Discovery Trail between La Push and Port Townsend. The trail can be biked or walked and allows for visitors to take on sections of the pathway or go all in for a multi-day experience. For more information about the Olympic Discovery Trail, go to olympicpeninsula. org/stories/olympic-discovery-trail.

5. STAIRCASE RAPIDS LOOP

Located at the Staircase entrance at the southeast end of Olympic National Park is the Staircase Rapids Loop. While the path is a relatively popular spot for visitors to the Peninsula, it marks an easy starter trail for folks just getting into hiking or travelers who want to see the aquatic beauty of the national park without spending their entire day hiking. The trail offers exquisite, upclose views of the Skokomish River and Lake Cushman — all within a 49-minute trek. The path is also well maintained with only 213 feet of elevation gain, making for a solid beginner trail to explore. ART GALLERIES

By Alli Patton

With western shores kissed by the Pacific, eastern beaches caressed by the Sound, and the miles inbetween untouched by civilization, Jefferson County — and the Olympic Peninsula as a whole — has a lot to offer in the way of natural beauty. There is no doubt this place has inspired and influenced a lot of the artwork found around the community.

Maps of the county are dotted with multiple art galleries where visitors can find just as much visual stimulation indoors as they can outside.

The Port Townsend School of the Arts and the Northwind Arts Center recently married as one organization, formally becoming Northwind Art. An institution of education, exhibition, and advancement, Northwind Art operates both the Grover Gallery and the Best Gallery in downtown Port Townsend. Located at 236 Taylor St., Grover Gallery features a wide array of rotating exhibits. The Best Gallery is positioned at 701 Water St. and is equipped with two different exhibit spaces. Visit northwindart.org to see all there is to explore at their galleries.

Representing artwork from the Coast Salish, Haida, Nuuchah-nulth, Tlingit, and Cowichan tribes, the Pacific Traditions Gallery offers visitors a look at original art from The First People of the North American Coastal Tribes. This gallery can be found at 637 Water St. in Port Townsend. Learn more at pacifictraditions.com.

Also located on Port Townsend's Water Street is the fine art cooperative, Port Townsend Gallery. It features the work of local artists in its indoor and outdoor exhibit spaces. Find more information at porttownsendgallery.com.

Port Townsend's Gallery 9 is another Water Street art hub. With revolving art, ceramic, and jewelry exhibits, you can always spot something new here. Visit gallery-9.com for more.

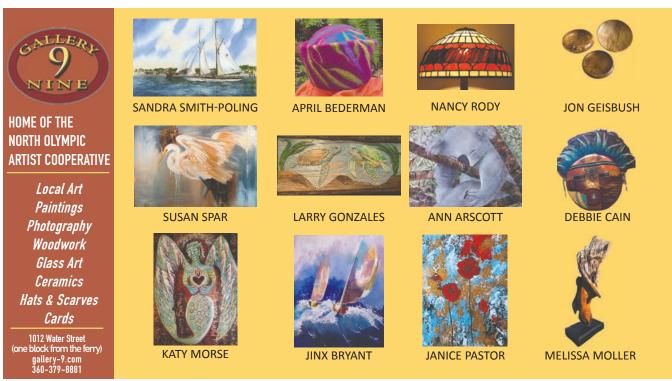

Port Ludlow Art League is another cooperative gallery in the county. Located on Oak Bay Road in Port Ludlow, this gallery celebrates a community of artists. See the original art, photography, fiber and wood art, and more that grace the gallery walls. Information at portludlowart.org.

THE WOODEN BOATS OF PORT TOWNSEND

THE CITY'S MARITIME HISTORY LIVES ON IN MODERN TRADES

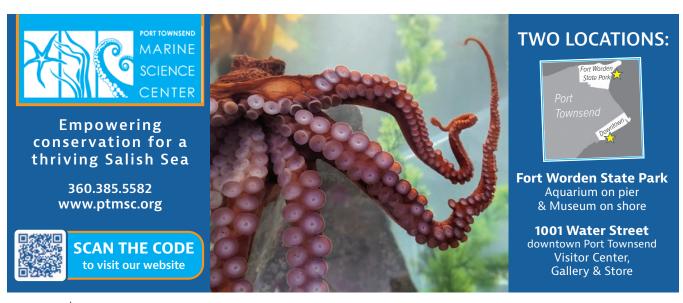

For those looking to immerse themselves in the maritime culture of Port Townsend, check out the Northwest Maritime Center & Wooden Boat Foundation. Its anchor remains the internationally renowned Wooden Boat Festival but there's a lot more to unpack with its educational offerings, including boatbuilding workshops.

The Wooden Boat Foundation operates as part of the Northwest Maritime Center, whose mission is to engage and educate people of all generations in traditional and modern boat craftsmanship.

During the spring, summer and fall, the Wooden Boat Foundation supports youth and adult programs at the Northwest Maritime Center. These programs offer experiences, information and on-the-water opportunities that seemingly grow every year. The foundation also offers an eclectic and well stocked Maritime Library, a high quality Wooden Boat Chandlery and an active boatshop - all of which are open to the public year-round in the historic Point Hudson district of downtown Port Townsend.

This year the 47th annual Wooden Boat Festival runs from September 6-8, 2024. Many consider the Wooden Boat Festival to be the most education-packed and inspiring wooden boat event in the world. Held each September, the festival attracts thousands of visitors from around the world to Port Townsend's historic waterfront. Featuring more than 300 wooden vessels, dozens of indoor and outdoor presentations and demonstrations, it includes a Who's Who of wooden boat experts and thousands of wooden boat enthusiasts. There's something to do, someone to meet, or a boat to board at every turn.

'Expanded a little each year, the Festival honors its traditions while inviting energetic debate and demonstration about the latest innovations in boatbuilding, equipment, skills, and adventure. The festival features a wide range of activities, including live music, food and drink vendors, and of course, plenty of opportunities to go sailing. Whether you're a seasoned sailor or a landlubber looking to try something new, the Wooden Boat Festival is surely not to be missed. Northwest Maritime Center, founded in 2005, is dedicated to promoting and preserving the maritime traditions of the Pacific Northwest. In addition to offering sailing lessons and boat rentals, the center also hosts a variety of events and programs that celebrate the region's maritime heritage. nwmaritime.org

MARINE TRADES

Port Townsend has a thriving marine trades community with a wide range of comprehensive services that includes boatbuilding, marine electronics. restoration, repair, rigging, and sail making. It springs from its rich history of the maritime community.

Located on the furthermost point of the Quimper Peninsula, Port Townsend became a favored spot for maritime trade for thousands of years. Native American tribes traditionally used the mouth of Puget Sound as a stopover point before heading on into the Pacific Ocean until European settlers arrived in the late 15th century.

The town would be named "Port Townshend" by Capt. George Vancouver in 1792 for his friend, the Marquis of Townshend. Port Townsend was incorporated as an American city in 1851. During the late 19th century, Port Townsend became an active and well-known seaport, leading to the building of a number of ornate Victorian mansions on its hillsides. It grew big enough for a police department to be established in 1888, and by 1894, it had become the official U.S. Customs stop in the Northwest, where all foreign vessels were required to drop anchor before continuing their journeys elsewhere.

The future was bright! The confident expectation was that the town's growth would continue as Port Townsend would become a larger shipping port accessible by rail. The railroad boom of the late 18th Century was anticipated to reach the town, cementing its place the major port of the northwest. Many of Port Townsend's buildings were established in the era, as businesses and chandleries emerged. There was a lot of work to be done and more people flocked to town for work, including sailors and crew members of the vessels coming and going.

But the rail lines didn't happen. Economic challenges and the demands of construction on the difficult terrain sidelined the rail. That meant suppliers, who were already isolated, now faced increased difficulty of bringing goods into town, and it took a toll. Port Townsend was dealt further blows by the introduction of steam-powered ships which could navigate rough seas far better than wooden boats. Then came the economic downturn of 1893 and the town was stripped of its customs duties, relocating to Seattle in 1913. Hard times had hit the gorgeous coastal community, but the hardship would not last forever.

PORT OF PORT TOWNSEND

Port Townsend was designated a seaport district in 1924, an act that officially created the Port of Port Townsend. Its first capital project was the Port Townsend Boat Haven Marina, completed in the early 1930s. The marina, along with the Port Townsend Boatyard, are staples that continue to contribute to the port's annual revenue today. The Port manages the Point Hudson Marina in Port Townsend and the Herb Beck Marina in Quilcene. Additionally, the Port manages the marine trades industrial area at the Boat Haven's boat yard, an RV park at Point Hudson, the Union Wharf and City Dock in downtown Port Townsend, and boat launches at several sites around eastern Jefferson County.

And it doesn't end there. The Port also manages the Jefferson County International Airport and even Short's Family Farm in Chimacum.

TRIANGLE OF FIRE

The U.S. military took an active early interest in this area as well. Admiralty Inlet was deemed important enough to the defense of Puget Sound that in the 1890s three forts — Fort Worden, Fort Flagler and Fort Casey - were built at its entrance to deter invasions by sea with a "Triangle of Fire."

Fort Worden, on the Quimper Peninsula, at the extreme northeastern tip of the Olympic Peninsula, sits on a bluff near Port Townsend. Anchoring the northwest side of the triangle, Fort Worden remained an active United States Army base from 1902 to 1953, before being passed on to the Port of Port Townsend in 1956, and the state of Washington in 1957, eventually being transferred to the Washington State Parks and Recreation Commission in 1971 before it was reopened as Fort Worden State Park in 1973.

Naval Magazine Indian Island, the U.S. Navy's only deep-water ammunition port on the West Coast was established in 1941 and was constructed with a pier that can support the largest Navy and commercial vessels afloat

The region experienced a renaissance of renewed interest in wooden boats during the late 1970s and early '80s, with the launch of the Wooden Boat Festival in 1978 and the establishment of the Northwest School of Wooden Boatbuilding in 1981. Fostering a communitywide interest in boating and the maritime trades was a catalyst, eventually becoming the starting line to the Race to Alaska in 2015, an annual 750-mile adventure race from Port Townsend, up the Inside Passage, and finally to the shores of Ketchikan, Alaska.

HOOD CANAL BRIDGE

The Hood Canal Bridge connects the Olympic Peninsula with Seattle, Tacoma and beyond. The 6,521foot bridge closes to vehicles when it opens for sailboats and (without warning) for Navy vessels from the nuclear submarine base on Hood Canal. If you are crossing the bridge on a strict timeline, say, to catch a flight, keep in mind that you may be delayed at the bridge for up to 30 minutes. Dial 511 for a menu of state ferries, bridges and highway travel info.

Here's a look at some of the marine trades in and around Port Townsend:

Boat Building and Repair: Several boatyards specialize in constructing and restoring wooden boats, including classic yachts, sailboats, and traditional wooden vessels. Skilled craftsmen and artisans work with both traditional and modern techniques to create and maintain these vessels. Others focus on more general repairs and operation.

Marine Engineering: Locally based engineering firms provide a range of services, including naval architecture, marine design, and engineering solutions for various vessels. These firms often collaborate with boat builders and owners to design and implement custom modifications and upgrades.

Sailmaking: Skilled sailmakers custom design high-quality sails for sailboats of all sizes. Their expertise in selecting appropriate materials, designing efficient sail shapes, and providing repair and maintenance services to ensure optimal performance on the water.

Marine Electronics and Electrical Services: This includes installation, repair, and maintenance services. They specialize in outfitting vessels with navigation systems, communication equipment, entertainment systems and electrical tailored to the specific needs of boat owners.

Rigging Services: Rigging shops provide services for sailboats, including standing rigging, such as mast, stays and shrouds, along with running rigging, which are lines and hardware. They also offer inspections, replacements, as well as custom rigging solutions to ensure the safety and functionality of sailing vessels.

Marine Supplies and Chandlery: Chandlery stores supply a wide range of marine hardware, equipment, and supplies to support the needs of boaters and marine trades professionals. Think ropes and anchor chain, grommets and cleats, safety gear and maintenance products

Marine Carpentry and Woodworking: Skilled carpenters and woodworkers specialize in crafting custom woodwork for boats, including cabinetry, trim, decking, and interior furnishings. This combines traditional craftsmanship with modern techniques to create beautiful and functional marine woodwork.

FORT WORDEN:

MUCH MORE THAN A BEAUTIFUL OCEAN-SIDE PARK

There aren't many parks that feature beautiful scenery along with a museum, a marine science center, a woodworking school, and abandoned artillery batteries to explore — to name just a few things.

Welcome to the 433-acre Fort Worden Historical State Park, with its 2.1 miles of beaches and bluffs. The property was acquired by the Washington State Parks and Recreation Commission in 1971, and opened in 1973.

The abandoned artillery batteries are available for exploration until dusk, while the Puget Sound Coast Artillery Museum features a hangar used for observation balloons, three 3-inch anti-aircraft gun emplacements.

The Commanding Officer's Quarters on Officers' Row has been restored to the early 20th century Victorian period, and is open in the summer for tours in addition to being available to rent.

Fort Worden is also a center for education and culture, with Goddard College maintaining one of its three campuses there, just as Peninsula College maintains one of its four campuses there, and Copper Canyon Press, an independent publisher of poetry, establishing its home location there in 1974. It serves as the home of the Port Townsend Marine Science Center (ptmsc. org) whose museum and aquarium are located on the beach and pier of the park, a leisurely stroll down the coastline from the Point Wilson Lighthouse. Centrum (centrum.org) operates from Fort Worden, where it offers a variety of musical workshops and musician performances, art exhibitions and artist residencies, a writers' conference, youth programs and online courses. Clustered close together in Fort Worden's creative commons are the Port Townsend School of Woodworking (ptwoodschool.org), the Northwind Art School (school.northwindart.org), and the public radio station KPTZ 91.9 FM (kptz.org.)

Fort Worden's dining options include the Reveille Cafe and the Guardhouse Pub, and a listing of its events, activities and booking availability options can be found at Fort Worden Hospitality (fortworden.org). Fort Worden has even appeared onscreen, in both 1982's "An Officer and a Gentleman" and 2002's "The Ring."

RICH HISTORY

In spite of its name, many of the features that define Fort Worden both predate and post-date its time as a military installation, starting with its oldest building, Alexander's Castle, a brick residence built in 1883 by Rev. John Barrow Alexander. A British citizen, Alexander served as rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Port Townsend from 1882 to 1886, as well as Queen Victoria's British Vice Consul in Port Townsend and Tacoma from 1884 to 1897. Construction on Fort Worden began in 1897, and continued until the base was closed in 1953.

Fort Worden was activated in 1902, and the 126th Coast Artillery Company, consisting of 87 soldiers, was the first detachment assigned there, quartering in tents until the completion of their barracks. The headquarters of the Harbor Defense Command of Puget Sound was transferred from Fort Flagler to Fort Worden in 1904, along with the 6th Artillery Band.

By the fall of 1905, Fort Worden was fully staffed, with four Coast Artillery companies, and the initial armaments consisted of six gun emplacements, to which six additional gun emplacements were added between 1905 and 1910.

During World War I, soldiers arrived at Fort Worden for training, prior to being sent to European battlefields, and the construction of new barracks and buildings continued throughout the war. The fort saw 36 of its 41 artillery pieces dismantled and shipped to arsenals for use on European battlefields, a number of which were never replaced.

After World War I, Fort Worden's staffing was reduced to 50 officers and 884 enlisted men. During the 1920s, an observation balloon hangar was built at Fort Worden.

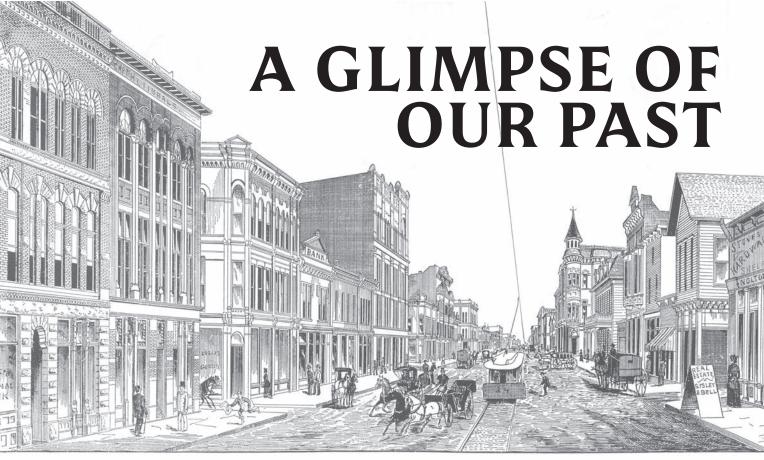

WORLD WAR II

During World War II, Fort Worden remained the headquarters of the Harbor Defense Command, jointly operated by the Army and Navy, and served as home to the 14th Coast Artillery Regiment of the U.S. Army, the 248th Coast Artillery Regiment of the Washington National Guard, and the 2nd Amphibious Engineers.

The Army operated radar sites, while the Navy monitored new underwater sonar and sensing devices, while fixed anti-aircraft positions were installed. After World War II, the Coast Artillery units at Fort Worden were disbanded, and the remaining guns were removed or scrapped, but Fort Worden remained active as an administrative unit until 1953, when the Harbor Defense Command was deactivated and the fort was officially closed. In 1957, the state of Washington purchased Fort Worden for use as a diagnostic and treatment center for troubled youths.

GATEWAY TO THE OLYMPICS

A WALK THROUGH PORT ANGELES' UNIQUE OFFERINGS

By Kirk Boxleitner

With its beautiful natural landscape and eclectic local culture, Port Angeles can serve as a gateway to the Olympic Peninsula for visitors, whether you're looking to tackle the outdoors, partake of fine art or fine dining, or simply bask in the atmosphere.

Olympic National Park spans nearly a million acres of wilderness that's fostered multiple unique ecosystems even in the face of thousands of years of human exploration of the terrain, from glacier-capped mountains and old-growth temperate rainforests to more than 70 miles of coastline.

Both the Olympic National Park and the Olympic Peninsula's lakes and rivers are populated by trout, salmon and steelhead, and popular spots for both flyfishing and angling include the Sol Duc, Hoh, Queets and Lake Crescent.

Port Angeles also features 45 city parks, from playgrounds and ball fields to nature reserves and waterfronts, while the Peninsula Golf Club, in spite of being a semi-private course, is still open for public play all year long.

You can rent a bicycle, or bring your own, to traverse the 130-mile Olympic Discovery Trail, which includes an "Adventure Trail" route offshoot, with 25 miles of single-and double-track trails, while the Dry Hill Trail offers more than 24 mountain biking trails.

The Port Angeles Pumptrack is a playground for everything with wheels, open daily and free to use — located next to the skatepark and near the Dream Playground in Erickson Playfield, across from Civic Field — designed and built by American Ramp Co. and Velosolutions, making it the largest asphalt Velosolutions pumptrack on the West Coast.

Backpacking opportunities include the 3.2 miles of Hurricane Hill, the 12-mile loop of Mount Muller and the 3.8-mile round-trip of Mount Storm King, but bear cans are mandatory when hiking within Olympic National Park, so pick up yours at the Hurricane Ridge ranger station.

If you're feeling hungry after your excursions, Traylor's Restaurant is an old-school diner and bar that's been family-owned and operated since 1955, and specializes in steak, seafood and pasta, while Sapor offers either a casual, French-inspired bistro experience off the alley, or a descent into the Port Angeles Underground.

Weekend tours of the Port Angeles Underground shed light on the city's history above and below ground, through explorations of its rediscovered basements, long-forgotten tunnels and its original movie theater, while pedestrians and bicyclists can follow a self-guided trail of art murals, that have been hand-painted outdoors to tell the story of the community's maritime heritage.

Continuing one's outdoor art trek can lead to Webster's Woods Sculpture Park at the Port Angeles Fine Arts Center, while the Elwha Klallam Carnegie Museum and the House of Learning Longhouse at Peninsula Community College, the latter of which was constructed through collaboration with six local tribes, each affords glimpses of their own into the lives and culture of the original native Klallam people.

Anytime of the year, you can catch a play at the historic Port Angeles Community Playhouse, or a classical music performance by the Port Angeles Symphony, while the Port Angeles Fine Arts Center features a well-stocked calendar of arts-oriented exhibits and events.

Other exhibition spaces include the Harbor Art and Heatherton galleries, multimedia artist and sculptor Bob Stokes' "Studio Bob" and the Todd Fischer Surf Art Gallery provide idiosyncratic showcases for visiting and themed artists.

For those looking for more lightweight recreation, the Port Angeles Antique Mall promises a "treasure trove" of more than 15,000 square feet dedicated to collectibles of the past, including dishware, art, toys and jewelry, as well as an entire basement of furnishings, while the Trading Post Antique store in downtown Port Angeles divides its eclectic collections into neatly organized sections, among them pottery, china, clothing and a sizable vinyl record selection, along with an assortment of 1990s neon malt beverage signs.

The Port Angeles Farmers Market is one of only two year-round markets in Washington state, open each Saturday with fresh seasonal vegetables, fruit, meat and eggs, along with local and regional handmade goods, while the Port Angeles Wharf, located on the downtown waterfront, backs an array of restaurants and retailers into a single seaside building.

The Odyssey Bookshop and Port Book and News are Port Angeles' two independent bookstores in Port Angeles, with Port Book and News stocking more than 75,000 books, plus the largest magazine collection in the western United States, while the Odyssey stocks not only new and used books, including hard-to-find editions, but also gifts and toys, with a play area to keep your kids occupied.

COUNTY PARKS

COUNTY PARKS OFFER MILES OF TRAILS,
RESERVATION-FREE CAMPING AND SCENIC PICNICKING

Jefferson County has 20 parks and four campgrounds, with miles of trails for walking, hiking and mountain bike riding, as well as camping, picnicking and relaxing on the beach.

As the weather warms up, these parks offer an alternative to state parks, which often fill up fast and require a Discovery Pass. A highlight of the county's parks system is that there are no passes required.

Not only that, but Jefferson County's campgrounds do not require a reservation. "You can usually find a spot at one of the four of them," said Matt Tyler, manager of the Jefferson County Parks and Recreation programs. "If you have not planned ahead and you need a place to stay, try our campgrounds. They are well-maintained and supervised."

INSIDER'S TIP:

A Discover Pass is required to get into some areas of the parks listed below. Also, permits for fishing and shellfish harvesting could be required. For more information on how to obtain a Discover Pass, regulations, fishing seasons and more, visit parks.state.wa.us, nps. gov or fws.gov.

ANDERSON LAKE STATE PARK

Anderson Lake State Park is located in Chimacum, about 10 miles south of Port Townsend, and includes 476 acres of wooded and wetland areas for visitors to enjoy biking, hiking and wildlife.

Located at 1061 Anderson Lake Road, the state park is centered around Anderson Lake, which has 8,250 feet of freshwater shoreline and covers 70 acres.

"Anderson Lake is one of the few parks in the area to offer equestrian and bike trails, which slope down to a lake teeming with birds and wildlife," the Washington State Parks website states.

The park includes boating, 8 miles of hiking trails, 7 miles of bike trails, and 5 miles of equestrian trails.

DABOB BAY NATURAL AREA

Dabob Bay Natural Area is located about 8 miles northeast of Quilcene and about 23 miles south of Port Townsend. The area was established in 1984 to protect intact salt marsh and sand spit plant communities, according to the Washington Department of Natural Resources.

Dabob Bay's shoreline boasts good fishing for salmon and spawning sea-run trout, and there are places where you can pick up and eat oysters while you fish. In 2009, the state's Natural Area was enlarged as a natural reserve to permit low-impact public use.

The reserve has 2,771 acres of shoreline, marsh and forest. The bay is large, making it an excellent place to explore by boat.

"The natural area includes mature coastal forests, coastal streams, feeder bluffs, forage fish spawning areas, eelgrass beds, native Olympia oyster beds, nearshore tidelands and mudflats utilized by juvenile salmon and shorebirds, and open marine waters used by salmon, marine birds, harbor seals and orcas," according to Washington DNR.

DOSEWALLIPS STATE PARK

Dosewallips State Park is located in Brinnon, about 44 miles south of Port Townsend, near where the Olympic National Park-born Dosewallips River drains into Hood Canal.

"This freshwater/saltwater park makes a perfect day or weekend trip," according to the Washington State Parks website.

Dosewallips Park has 1,039 acres and 5 miles of shoreline on the Hood Canal and Dosewallips River, known locally as "The Dosie."

Not only does the state park have forests, mountains, rivers and beaches, the area is a delight for clam-diggers, anglers, boaters and beach explorers, the state parks website states.

"Evening may find you grilling up a shellfish dinner and retiring to your cabin or tent, where you'll fall asleep to the sound of the river, enchanted by this lush, green corner of the country," according to DNR.

FORT FLAGLER HISTORICAL STATE PARK

Located on Marrowstone Island, Fort Flagler Historical State Park was built in the 1890s and active during World War I, WWII and the Korean War. Currently, it houses a military museum and gift shop, which offers tours of gun emplacements and the 1905 military hospital that can be guided or explored freely.

A person visiting the historical area can plan a trip around hiking, boating, kite-flying, beach exploration, saltwater fishing, clam digging and crabbing, according to Washington State Parks.

"Beachfront tent and RV sites boast some of the best views in the region," according to Washington State Parks. "So gaze out on the Strait of Juan de Fuca to the north, the Olympic Peninsula to the west and Whidbey Island to the east, and breathe deep of the ocean air."

Fort Flagler Historical State Park comprises 784 acres of marine camping surrounded by about 3 miles of shoreline.

FORT TOWNSEND HISTORICAL STATE PARK

Fort Townsend Historical State Park was built in 1856 to operate an Army base over the years. But a fire in the barracks in 1895 closed down the fort.

The park, located about 6 miles south of Port Townsend, has a 414-acre camping park with 3,960 feet of shoreline on the Port Townsend Bay.

"Fort Townsend provides a quieter alternative to its bigger, busier northern neighbor, Fort Worden," the Washington State Parks says. "Explore a historic torpedo tower that held state-of-the-art technology during World War II."

Visitors to Fort Townsend Historical State Park can enjoy selfguided and guided tours of the area, ballfields for children and hiking paths that also allow bikes.

FORT WORDEN HISTORICAL STATE PARK

Covering 433 acres as a multi-use park, Fort Worden Historical State Park has facilities, a conference center, 2 miles of shoreline and more, all co-managed by the Fort Worden Public Development Authority.

In the last century, times changed for the fort, which at one time housed 1,000 troops and officers in training to defend Puget Sound from enemy forces.

"Enjoy a meal in the Guard House Pub, and peruse the photogenic 1914 Point Wilson lighthouse," Washington State Parks advises adds. "Explore defunct coastal defense batteries, and imagine the compound teeming with enlisted men, officers and staff during World War I and WWII."

For those looking for indoor accommodations, Fort Worden Historical State park also offers lodging. In addition to historical displays, Fort Worden hosts music festivals, conferences and is the headquarters for artist-inresidence programs. Check out the Fort Worden and Centrum organizations' websites to see what's going on.

OLYMPIC NATIONAL PARK

Olympic National Park is found mostly in Jefferson County, but sprawls north and south into Clallam and Grays Harbor counties, defining the Olympic Peninsula's skyline and attracting more than 3 million visitors per year.

Comprising almost 1 million acres, the park embraces vast wilderness, human history, a startling range of ecotones from arid peaks to rain forest, plus more than 70 miles of coastline.

A dozen rivers spring to life in the high country of the park and fall steeply downhill to the Pacific Ocean, Hood Canal and the Strait of Juan de Fuca, providing crucial spawning and rearing for salmon, steelhead and trout, among other species.

President Grover Cleveland created the Olympic Forest Reserve in 1897 to protect the forests of the Olympic Peninsula from poor logging practices. In 1909, President Theodore Roosevelt proclaimed part of the reserve as a national monument. Finally, in 1938, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a bill establishing Olympic National Park.

There are only a few roads leading into the park, which makes it a favorite for those who hike, ride horses or float rivers.

"Plan your park activities with time and distance in mind. Olympic is very large and there are no roads that cross the park," the National Park Service notes. "The summer months of June through September are the busiest time of year."

Because of its diverse ecosystems, Olympic National Park serves as a laboratory for scientists and students, some informally, some in graduate school programs and some at the on-site NatureBridge campus.

Reservations can be made for local campgrounds, but all other sites are on a first come, first served basis.

QUILLAYUTE NEEDLES NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE

Tucked away on the far West Coast of Jefferson County, Quillayute Needles National Wildlife Refuge is a magnet for birders. Set aside by Teddy Roosevelt in 1907 to protect and enhance habitat for the seabird population, the refuge comprises 800 offshore rocks, reefs and islands stretching from Cape Flattery to Copalis Head, except for those that are part of designated Native American reservations.

"Because of the fragile and remote nature of the refuge, all the islands are closed to human disturbance," the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service notes. "A 200-yard buffer surrounds each island to protect the wildlife. However the refuges and their inhabitants may be viewed with binoculars or spotting scopes from several beaches along the coast, including Shi Shi, Cape Alava, Rialto, Second, Ruby and Kalaloch."

JUNE I, 8, 22, 29, JULY 6, I3, 20, 27, AUG 3, I0, I7, 24, 3I AND SEPT. 7 AND I4: SUMMER PUFFIN CRUISE

Port Townsend Marine Science Center. Saturday. Protection Island comes alive as thousands of seabirds arrive to breed and including raise their young, auklets, glaucousrhinoceros winged gulls, pigeon guillemots, black oystercatchers, two kinds of cormorants, and of course the tufted puffin (one of the last two nesting colonies of tufted puffins in the Puget Sound area.). Harbor seals depend upon the island for a pupping and rest area, and elephant seals often haul out to molt there during the summer. Although we can't guarantee a sighting on every outing, the chance of spotting a puffin on our evening Puffin Cruises is very good. For registration and more visit ptmsc.org.
