City to remove signal lights from square

Within a couple of months, there will be no traffic lights, such as these, on the historic public square.

By DAWN HANKINS
dhankins@t-g.com

Shelbyville City Manager Josh Ray announced recently that construction crews will be removing signal lights from the public square within the next couple of months.

Two weeks prior to removal, the signal lights will operate under “flash mode” so everyone can get accustomed to the change, Ray said. After that 2-week period, crews will remove the signal lights.

“This traffic pattern will function as a square-a-bout, similar to a round-a-bout.”

Ray said more information will be forthcoming from City Hall, so that everyone is aware of the process. He hopes this transition will be a smooth one.

City Council is set to approve Thursday night an appropriation of $295,091 for upgrades to the center light poles and to improve the median of the center public square during its current sidewalk project. There is an anticipated reimbursement from Bedford County in the amount of $100,000.

Shelbyville City Council will meet in regular session 6 p.m. Thursday at Shelbyville Recreation Center, meeting room B.

On the agenda:

Approval of the appropriation of the estimated cost of $220, 023 for the Madison Street Crossing project—an increase of $66,023 from the amount approved at the Feb. 11, 2021 meeting.

Approval of the Parks and Recreation’s City-Wide Master Plan, which includes more parking for ball field areas.

Approval of a resolution for the settlement in the National Opioid Litigation against distributors and Johnson & Johnson. The County has hired a law firm to handle its involvement.

Senior Deputy at Deeds office enters retirement

By ZOË HAGGARD
zhaggard@t-g.com

Every workplace Darlene Littrell goes seems to turn into family. And with her retirement on the last day of 2021, Littrell will be missed by her co-workers at the Register of Deeds office after 20 years of work.

A Shelbyville-native, Littrell graduated from Shelbyville Central High School in 1972 where she worked at what used to be Pencil Printing (later U.S. Pencil and National Pencil) for 17 years. “I always knew I wanted to do office work,” she said.

She then moved on to Mid-State Oils where, “They really were family there because everyone was related, and they took me in like family, too,” Darlene laughed.

After over a decade with Mid-State Oil, Littrell was hired at the Register of Deeds office in 2001. Starting out, Littrell admits she didn’t know anything about deeds.

“I didn’t even realize what a deed was. I knew you had to have something when you owned property, but I didn’t realize the difference between a deed and a deed of trust.”

It was thanks to good mentors that Littrell learned fast. Always one to “greet with a smile,” Littrell admits she’s not much of a talker. Yet, one of her favorite responsibilities while Senior Deputy at the register of deeds office was helping people.

Through the years she stayed on the team, forming long relationships with her co-workers, even through the moves and changes.

With a career that’s spanned 50 years, learning to adapt to technology change has been a challenge. When Littrell started out, information was stored through tome-sized leather-bound books in vaults.

Sifting through them was interesting most of the time, especially if she found a name she recognized.

“I enjoy all the back-indexing because I get to see a lot of names that I knew from way back,” she said. “It just brings back memories.”

And, plus, since it took more time, Littrell said she could build relationships with people through that face-to-face interaction.

“A lot of this,” Littrell said, motioning to the walls lined with the heavy, thick books, “is on our computer now. Used to, we would have to come and pull these big books and write on the margins the releases. Now, we just look it up on the computer.”

“We would have dozens of people doing their research—title research, mortgages—and our vault would be full,” she recalled. “But it was nice. We would get to see people. And now, we don’t get to see many people anymore.”

Littrell said she has seen a lot of growth in home ownership over the years as Bedford County grows. “What worries me is when everything comes apart,” such as the housing crash in 2009, when people were buying property when the interest rates were low, but you never know what’s going to happen tomorrow.

“We did a lot of trustee deeds when people lost their homes,” Littrell recalled.

But, Littrell said she is excited for many things in Bedford. She completely

Watch out for those potholes!

By ZOË HAGGARD
zhaggard@t-g.com

Freezing winter weather has left many potholes bigger and deeper across Shelbyville City and Bedford County roads.

“Whenever you get the freeze/thaw to any part of the road that’s weak or has a patch, there’s a tendency for the patch to come out,” said Shelbyville Public Works Director Buck Vallad. “The conditions of the hole, whatever you’re patching, you don’t want any water, you don’t want any ice because the patch won’t hold.”

Freezing water changes the volume between the ground and the patch. So, if the patch gets hit, it’s loosened.

“For the most part, the roads are doing pretty good this time of year,” Vallad said. “However, there are several roads giving drivers a bit of a bumpy ride.”

For example, Vallad said spots on West Lane, Cannon Boulevard, and Morton Street are giving public works the most work. Vallad said by the end of this week, they will have these potholes filled.

West Lane is on Public Works’ list for repaving in the upcoming year. “Our plan is to let things warm up here. This week looks pretty good, so we’ll be able to get them all filled

Doak-Howell Funeral Home is handling arrangements.

Retirement

mented County Mayor Chad Graham, saying, "I think he's done a great job. I really think he'll do a lot of improving."

For the young adults looking to move to Bedford, Littrell advises them to use their foresight—even though it may seem a long way off—and plan for retirement by looking for a job with good benefits.

"All of us, we're just like family. It's like leaving family. And Johnny (Reed), I could ask for a better boss. He just treats us like family," she said.

For now, Littrell says her plans for retirement will be spending time with her own family, especially her grandbaby.

POTHOLE PROBLEMS

T-G Photos by Zoe Haggard

West Lane has been one of the streets to cause the most trouble for public works. It is on the list to be repaved in the next year or two, according to Public Works Director Buck Vallad.

These major potholes on U.S. 231 North are TDOT's responsibility, according to Shelbyville Public Works Director Buck Vallad. The T-G will continue to watch pothole and road conditions with the upcoming wet and freezing weather this winter.

Potholes

back in. It'll be a constant battle," he said.

The material costs around $20,000, according to Vallad. This plus labor leads pothole repairs to be around $40,000 annually.

Multiple potholes on U.S. 231 North, especially between the 437 Bypass and the Shelbyville Municipal Airport, have emerged. However, that section of highway is under the Tennessee Department of Transportation's responsibility, according to Vallad.

While running through their garbage route throughout Shelbyville, Vallad's crew keeps an eye out for where the potholes are.

But, "If people want to call in a pothole, that would be fantastic, too. It's hard to be everywhere at once," Vallad said. The public works office can be reached at 931-684-2644.

As long as they have sun, public works can usually fill in a pothole with no problem.

However, occasionally, "If it's something that's bad enough, we'll go fill it in, knowing that we're going to have to go back there and do it again, just so it doesn't cause any damage to vehicles," Vallad said.

When driving over a pothole

Several auto insurance companies suggest slowing down and releasing your brakes before hitting a pothole.

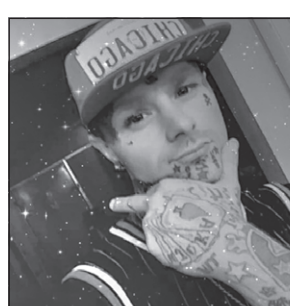

Coasting over a pothole allows your car's suspension to absorb the hit. It is also recommended to hit the pothole squarely.

Hitting at an angle could cause more damage to your car.

Lastly, hold the steering wheel firmly so you don't lose control of your vehicle.

Murder victim's family sues Rutherford County

By TERENCE CORRIGAN
Special to the T-G

Steven Lokey

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. — The family of Bedford County murder victim Adrienne Cox is suing Rutherford County, claiming that county bears responsibility for her death.

The family is asking for up to $44 million in damages from Rutherford County and Steven Lokey, 31, who is accused of committing the crime.

The family claims that the county's actions in releasing Lokey a convicted felon prior to his court appearance, resulted in the wrongful death of 30-year-old Cox.

Lokey is charged with 1st degree murder in the slaying of Cox in her Neeley Avenue apartment in Shelbyville on June 19, 2020, two days after Rutherford County released him from jail where he was being held awaiting a hearing on a charge of probation violation.

Cox died as a result of strangulation and stab wounds, according to the autopsy report. Cox's roommate, 24-year-old Brianna Stipe, witnessed the attack which occurred on the bed where they both were seated as Lokey threatened to kill them. According to Stipe, Cox was strangled with an electrical cord and stabbed twice with a kitchen knife. Stipe testified that Lokey killed Cox because he was afraid she would call police and his probation would be revoked and he would be jailed.

Cox's family is alleging in their lawsuit that Rutherford County was negligent in releasing Lokey on June 17 with no bond, on only his promise to appear in court.

When he was released, Lokey was being held in jail on a charge of violation of probation. He was on probation for a conviction on a charge of aggravated burglary in Rutherford County and had failed to report to any of his appointments with his probation officer since his release in February 2020.

On April 18, 2020, the arrest warrant was issued for Lokey on the charge of probation violation. On the arrest warrant, it was stated that he was to be held without the possibility of release. But on the warrant, "Hold w/out bond" was crossed out and "ROR (per Court order)" was inked in above it. (ROR is Released on Recognizance no bond needed.)

Lokey has an extensive criminal history involving theft, drugs and violence going back to 2009. He has many times over the years failed to show up for court or to report to probation, court documents reveal.

Lokey's criminal history, prior to his release in Rutherford County, according to the TBI, includes:

- Domestic Assault, May of 2009
- Probation Violation, January of 2010
- Probation Violation, May 2010
- Probation Violation, January 2011
- Contributing to the Delinquency of a Minor, July 2011
- Felony Theft, Failure to Appear in Court, December 2011
- Aggravated Burglary, January 2012
- Domestic Assault, April 2012
- Aggravated Burglary, Theft August 2012
- August 2012, Probation Violation
- January 2013, Felony Probation Revoked
- January 2014, Aggravated Burglary, Theft
- February 2014, Probation Violation
- March 2015, Theft, Failure to Appear in Court
- January 2019, Burglary, drug charges (sales and possession) involving methamphetamine
- April 2019, Assault
- August 2019, Probation Violation
- March 2020, Burglary and Theft from motor vehicles

According to the court filing from the attorney representing the Cox family, Lokey was able to secure his release with the help of a Rutherford County Sheriff's Department Detective. According to the court filing, Lokey was working as a confidential informant for the detective.

Lokey "...called Rutherford County Detective Ty Downing on Downing's personal cell phone from the phone kiosk inside the Rutherford County Jail, and during their recorded conversation ... Detective Downing assured Lokey that it would only take a few phone calls for the County to take care of [sic] in order to facilitate Lokey's release," wrote attorney Crystal Etue with Galaher Law, of Franklin.

The Galaher law firm is representing Cox's family members: her father, Charles Garber and Cox's four sons (Skyler, Dalton, Eric and Jared.) Charles Garber and his wife, Elaine are caring for Cox's four minor sons.

Rutherford County responds

The county responded to the lawsuit by denying nearly all the claims brought against it in the suit. The county admits only that it is a government entity and that Adrienne Cox died on or about June 19, 2020.

Crash impact knocks out street lights

T-G STAFF REPORT

An single-vehicle wreck early Sunday night on North Cannon Boulevard knocked street lights out over part of Shelbyville early Sunday night.

Domingo Jose Tapia, 22, of Bridlewood Drive had no driver's license or identification and was uncertain if this vehicle had insurance, Shelbyville police said. The police report said Tapia struck one of the metal light poles in the median at the North Cannon Boulevard-Lane Parkway intersection.

Damage caused street lights on Lane Parkway and nearby areas to go out until repairs could be made.

Tapia was charged with driving without a license or insurance and posted $1,500 bond.

Van stolen

A 1999 Toyota van was stolen from a farm in the 100 block of Whitaker Road last week, a Bedford County deputy was told Saturday.

Correction

Shelbyville Animal Control Officer Jon Evans was involved with the arrest of a man charged with aggravated animal abuse last week. A story incorrectly identified Evans as city police officer Brad Evans.

Jail intake

The following were charged since Thursday by the Shelbyville Police Department, Bedford County Sheriff's Office, Tennessee Highway Patrol or 17th Judicial District Drug Task Force. They are only charged; guilt or innocence will be determined by the courts.

Q: What is a consolidation loan?

A: When you combine more than one of your debts, this can be considered a consolidation loan. It may be that you have multiple credit card balances that are accruing high interest each month. Or perhaps you have several payments that you want to simplify into one payment. In either case, we highly recommend that you consider a consolidation loan. Often by combining loan balances into one loan that is paid by installments at a fixed rate, qualified borrowers may reduce their interest rate and/or reduce the amount they pay monthly. We currently have a consolidation loan special available to our members for just this purpose! Visit any of our offices to learn more. Remember, we help when others won't! # Credit card security

Dear Heloise: I just read your column on credit card security. Another step can be taken that is great. Go to your bank's app on your phone. Then look for "alerts." Set up an alert for anytime your card is used (a good amount to specify is .01 cents). Once it's set up, you'll get a text within 60 to 90 seconds that your card has been used.

If you have not used it, you can contact your bank immediately to prevent further compromised usage. -- Kay in Michigan

Hints from Heloise

here's what to do. First, unplug the phone if it's charging and turn it off. Use a soft, lightly dampened, lint-free cloth to clean the surface. (Never use any cleaning products that contain bleach or hydrogen peroxide.) You can use a disinfectant wipe to gently clean the exterior of the phone. Avoid getting moisture in openings. Never submerge your iPhone in any cleaning agents. -- Heloise

CREDIT CARD CHARGES

Dear Heloise: You say to check your credit card statement for any inappropriate charges. Better yet, check your credit card charges online every few days before you even get your statement. Report any fraudulent transactions. I read your column in the Houston Chronicle. -- Patricia Roberts, Bellaire, Texas

Kay and Patricia, thanks for the excellent suggestions on credit card security and credit card charges. -- Heloise

BLACK COFFEE SPILLED ON WHITE CARPET

Dear Heloise: My husband spilled quite a bit of black coffee on our almost white carpet. I blotted it right away and then again with water. Next, I used a commercial foolproof product, but nothing worked. We were left with a dark brown stain for a couple of days. Then I remembered vinegar. I poured it on the stain, stepped on a towel, and it took almost all the remaining stain out. Good old vinegar! -- Dorothy Lambert, Fullerton, California

Dorothy, vinegar is good for so many household tasks, including cleaning, deodorizing and cooking. To learn more, check out my six-page pamphlet full of vinegar uses. Get a copy by visiting www.Heloise.com or by sending $5 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Heloise/Vinegar, P.O. Box 795001, San Antonio, TX 78279-5001. FYI: After mopping a no-wax floor, add several capfuls of vinegar to the water and mop the floor once more to help remove any soap film and leave the floor clean and shiny. -- Heloise

CLEANING YOUR NEW IPHONE

Dear Readers: If you received an iPhone as a gift over the holidays, it's important to know how to take care of it, including how to safely clean your new phone. According to Apple,

COLD FEET

Dear Heloise: I have cold feet, so when I am going out, I heat my shoes with my hair dryer. It only takes a few seconds to heat up. -- Bonnie Waterhouse, Burbank, California

Bonnie, that's a good, toasty start indeed. When you go out, make sure you are wearing warm socks or have insulated shoes or boots to prevent your feet from getting cold.--Heloise

CHOCOLATE PIE

Dear Heloise: If there is one thing my husband loves, it's my chocolate pie. I buy a chocolate crushed cookie crust. Then I use a commercial boxed pie filling, but if it calls for milk, I first measure out 3 tablespoons of heavy whipping cream and half a jigger (the kind used to make cocktails) of coffee-flavored liqueur. I put it in the measuring cup and fill the rest with the required amount of milk.

When I make a vanilla pie, I use a butterscotch liqueur instead of a coffee-flavored one, but otherwise it's the same, including the chocolate pie crust.

With a little imagination, a plain dessert can be turned into a special treat. -- Veronica G., Durango, Colorado

TERIYAKI SAUCE

Dear Heloise: It's been a while, but you used to have a teriyaki sauce recipe that was delicious on shrimp or chicken.

We just got back from Hawaii (our honeymoon!), and I'd like to make some teriyaki chicken for my husband because we're missing the islands. Sadly, I've lost the recipe. Would you reprint this for me and others who loved the music, surf and palms of Hawaii? -- Taylor Q., St. Paul, Minnesota

Taylor, when I lived in Hawaii, I loved the beauty of the islands, the "Aloha Spirit" of the people there and the food! This teriyaki recipe was originally my mother's and tastes as yummy now as it did in the '50s when it was first

We know that as we age, calcium and protein are important components for health.

Here's a quick dish which also makes a great weekday leftover.

Turkey Tetrazzini a la Parmesan

This pasta dish can be taken to a new level of flavor by using your own favorite types of cheeses such as Romano or Feta.

- 2 Tbsp. butter
- 1/4 cup flour
- 3 C. milk
- 1 C. fat-free chicken broth
- 1/2 C. dry white wine (or additional chicken broth)
- 1/2 tsp. pepper, optional

- 2 C. sliced white button mushrooms
- 4 C. whole wheat ziti or penne pasta, cooked
- 2 C. diced cooked turkey breast, half-inch dice
- 1/3 C. frozen peas (oh, so good for you.)
- 1/3 C. grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 C. shredded Cheddar cheese

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Coat a shallow 2-3-quart baking dish with cooking spray; set aside. Melt butter in a large saucepan over medium heat, stir in flour and cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Whisk in milk, chicken broth, wine and pepper (optional); bring mixture to a boil. Stir in mushrooms, reduce heat and cook, stirring frequently about 10 minutes or until mixture thickens and mushrooms are softened.

Add pasta, turkey, peas and Parmesan cheese into milk mixture; spoon into prepared dish. Top with Cheddar cheese and cover loosely with foil. Bake 45 minutes or until bubbling at edges and heated through.

Unique locations to host a wedding

When tying the knot, couples continue to do so in familiar venues. Houses of worship, hotels and country clubs remain wildly popular wedding venues. Couples who want to stray from that norm often look for unique locations to say "I do," and there's no shortage of special spots to do just that.

Rooftop venues

Few backdrops inspire the awe of city skylines, especially when couples wait to get hitched until night has fallen and buildings have lit up. Rooftop restaurants and bars have undergone a resurgence in recent years, and these facilities are tailor-made for city-dwelling couples who want an enviable backdrop for their nuptials. Many such establishments are even affiliated with hotels, which can simplify wedding planning.

Museums

Couples who want their guests to take a stroll through history before they watch the happy couple stroll down the aisle can consider tying the knot at a local museum. Many museums offer a variety of ceremony and reception options. The vaulted ceilings and airy quality of many art museums make them an ideal place to host large gatherings. The unique decor of such facilities guarantees couples will get some awe-inspiring photos on their big day.

Vineyard/winery

Oenophiles will no doubt love the idea of getting hitched at a vineyard or winery, but even people without a taste for wine can appreciate such locales. Sprawling fields and expansive skies make vineyards and wineries an ideal place to tie the knot, and guests will no doubt enjoy the unique surroundings.

Stadiums

Couples who first bonded over their love of a particular sport and/or favorite team can incorporate that into their nuptials by getting married at a stadium. Professional and collegiate teams typically offer wedding and reception packages, and guests may appreciate the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to hang out on the field where their favorite athletes play.

Historic homes

Another go-to option for history buffs, historic homes and mansions can make for memorable places to get married. Such homes tend to have a classic appeal, making them ideal for couples who want traditional weddings that call to mind the grandiose ceremonies of bygone eras.

Couples have an endless array of options when looking for wedding venues. Some outside-the-box options can impress guests and make for memorable ceremonies and receptions.

Farming in the snow.

AG NOTES

By John Teague
UT/TSU Extension

FERTILIZER

Farmers depend on it for crop yields. Livestock growers depend on it for forage production to feed their animals. Homeowners depend on it for nice lawns and ornamentals. Nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium are the major ingredients in fertilizers, and these are responsible for healthy root systems that take up nutrients, healthy foliage that feeds the plants with photosynthesis, and the reproduction process of blooms that form seeds to perpetuate the plant species.

These ingredients have seen unusual increases in price. Along with some grain prices that are reasonably good, and livestock prices that are not as good, farmers are in a dilemma on costs. These fertilizer prices are nearly three times the cost in 2021. This is going to adversely affect profits.

There will be a zoom meeting on January 25 featuring four specialists with the University of Tennessee. Each has a specialty that can shed light on how to deal with these high prices.

Dr. Shawn Hawkins is an animal waste management expert and deals with land application of waste. Dr. Lori Duncan specializes in sustainable production and precision fertilizer applications. Dr. Aaron Smith is one of the best crop economists in the country and he will shed market outlooks and cost analysis. Dr. Neal Eash is a soil health expert and will discuss soil management.

There is no charge but registration is required. Go to tiny.utk.edu/fertilizer or <https://us06web.zoom.us/j/81234567890>

I can provide a link by email for those who would like it. This session should be helpful with information that may help in managing these unusually high costs.

WHAT'S THE MARKET?

Drs. Andrew Griffith and Aaron Smith, UT Extension livestock and grain market economists, shared these comments on the cattle and grain markets. This is as of Friday, January 7.

Fed cattle traded $1 lower compared to last week on a live basis. Prices on a live basis primarily ranged from $138 to $139 while dressed prices were mainly $219 to $220. The 5-area weighted average prices thru Thursday were $138.58 live, down $1.14 compared to last week and $219.99 dressed, down $0.90 from a week ago. A year ago, prices were $111.48 live and $176.02 dressed.

Week to week trends were not able to be established this week due to most markets being closed the past two weeks in observance of the Christmas and New Year holidays. Additionally, feeder cattle and harvest cattle marketings were relatively light this week in Tennessee due to multiple snow events that moved across the region from Sunday through Thursday. These snow events prevented producers from being able to get trucks and trailers in pastures as well as making it difficult to travel many of the roadways, which means livestock auction markets will likely be busy for the second week of January.

Despite these challenges, a few cattle were traded through the weekly auction markets. Given the light test, 525 pound steer prices appear to be heading toward the $165 per hundredweight mark while 575 pound steer prices are not far behind and near $160 per hundredweight. These prices are certainly higher than the last week of trade in December, which bodes well for higher prices moving through the next 90 to 120 days.

Corn, soybeans, and cotton were up; wheat was down for the week. 2022 brings drastically different prices than one year ago for many row crops. At the start of January, December corn closed at $5.47 1/2, up 26% compared to last year; November soybeans closed at $12.83 3/4, up 14.5% compared to last year; December cotton closed at 92.95, up 23.3% compared to last year; and July wheat closed at $7.55, up 20% compared to last year.

High commodity prices are positive for farmers; however, input prices and availability continue to challenge producers planning the 2022 crop. Fertilizer prices are double or triple last year's prices and availability of crop protection products are providing planning issues and creating headaches for producers and ag retailers alike. Even if high prices hold, producer profitability is projected to be lower than 2021.

March 2022 corn futures closed at $6.06, up 13 cents since last Friday. For the week, March 2022 corn futures traded between $5.84 and $6.11. May 2022 corn futures closed at $6.07, up 12 cents since last Friday.

March 2022 soybean futures closed at $14.10, up 71 cents since last Friday. For the week, March 2022 soybean futures traded between $13.42 and $14.15. May 2022 soybean futures closed at $14.18, up 69 cents since last Friday.

March 2022 wheat futures closed at $7.58, down 12 cents since last Friday. March 2022 wheat futures traded between $7.35 and $7.82 this week. May 2022 wheat futures closed at $7.60, down 14 cents since last Friday.

One major theme in both Griffith's and Smith's comments is that risk management is important in making management decisions in both the livestock and crop operations. With these unusual high costs if inputs, and uncertainty in the market at harvest or sale times, it is more important than ever!

After playing in just eight games and not since October, Derrick Henry will be back in the rotation for the Titans in the divisional round of the AFC playoffs.

Titans lock up No. 1 AFC seed

By CHRIS SIERS
sports@t-g.com

It took a 28-25 Week 17 win, but in the end the Tennessee Titans were able to lock up the overall No. 1 seed in the AFC, which guarantees home field advantage throughout the playoffs.

Credit the Titans' front office, led by general manager Jon Robinson, and head coach Mike Vrabel—with the amount of injuries this club had this season, there's no way the Titans should have been in contention for the No. 1 AFC seed, or even winning the AFC South.

It was just the sixth time in franchise history the Titans won 12 games and Vrabel was able to navigate a season in which the Titans hit a league record number of players due to injuries.

Whether it was the offensive line and Taylor Lewan, or rising star linebacker David Long Jr., or the NFL's reigning rushing champion Derrick Henry, the 2021-2022 season will be remembered as a masterful patchwork of a roster.

The Titans dressed a total of 91 different players this season, and yet still managed to be crowned the No. 1 AFC seed.

Getting the win on Sunday proved vastly important as the Titans not only clinched home field advantage throughout the playoffs, but they also get a key bye week—which gives Henry another week to get back into the system.

Henry was activated from the injury list this past week after he suffered a Jones fracture, which required surgery to repair.

Even having only played in eight games this season, Henry posted totals better than the majority of running backs in the league.

He finished ninth in total yards with 937 and tied for sixth with Ezekiel Elliott with 10 rushing touchdowns—and he hasn't played since October.

With Henry getting healthy, and the bye week to rest the starters, the Titans sit poised with perhaps the best odds to make it to Sofi Stadium in Inglewood, California for Super Bowl LVI.

It wasn't just Henry that the Titans relied on this season.

In his absence, D'Onta Foreman became the reliable guy out of the backfield and finished the 2021-2022 regular season with 566 yard and three rushing touchdowns.

The front office also took the chance on getting Julio Jones, but like much of the Titans' roster, Jones struggled with consistency this season and only logged 434 receiving yards and one touchdown in 10 games.

The same could be said for

A.J. Brown, who finished the year with 869 receiving yard and just five touchdowns.

But one guy who stayed healthy and proved his value to the team was Ryan Tannehill.

While he struggled with turnovers at times, he completed over 67 percent of his passes and threw over 3,700 yards, but had 14 interceptions against 21 touchdowns.

The Titans will face the winner of Kansas City and Pittsburgh in the divisional round in two weeks.

For now, the road to Super Bowl LVI goes through Music City.

Raiders' wild win gives NFL playoffs strong start

By ROB MAADDI
AP Pro Football Writer

Derek Carr and the Las Vegas Raiders played to win, knocking the Los Angeles Chargers out of the playoffs and sending the Pittsburgh Steelers to the tournament.

The NFL's playoff field was set when the Raiders locked up the final wild-card spot by beating the Chargers in overtime in a wild, winner-take-all game Sunday night.

The Raiders could've punched their ticket to the postseason — and given the Chargers a spot — by taking a knee on the final play. Instead, Daniel Carlson kicked a 47-yard field goal as time expired in overtime for a 35-32 win.

The Steelers extended Ben Roethlisberger's career with an overtime win for their own and had to wait to make sure the Chargers-Raiders didn't finish in a tie.

The 49ers also needed overtime to advance to the playoffs.

Tom Brady and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers didn't let up against Carolina, and the reigning Super Bowl champions earned the No. 2 seed when Jimmy Garoppolo rallied San Francisco past the Rams.

An NFC championship rematch against Aaron Rodgers in Green Bay is in line if the Buccaneers and Packers keep winning.

First, Brady and the Bucs face rested Philadelphia, while Green Bay has a week off.

"This is our toughest opponent all year," said Brady, who lost to Nick Foles and the Eagles in the Super Bowl four years ago with New England. "We're playing a team that's very talented and made it to this point for a reason. We have to do everything we have to do to get the win. This is a football team that has been playing really well, good on offense, they have a very good defense, good front, very healthy. It's going to be a very tough game."

Tennessee fought off Houston to secure the AFC's bye, pushing the two-time defending conference champion Chiefs down to the second seed.

Lowly Jacksonville upset Indianapolis, paving the way for Roethlisberger and the Steelers to get in with a victory at Baltimore.

Here are the matchups and how things may go next weekend:

Saturday

Las Vegas (10-7) at Cincinnati (10-7)

Joe Burrow led the Bengals from worst to first in the AFC North and got a chance to skip the last game while Carr and the Raiders survived a late comeback to win their fourth straight to advance.

Burrow, dynamic rookie receiver Ja'Marr Chase and Pro Bowl running back Joe Mixon present a tough challenge for the Raiders, who were gassed by the end of their 70-minute marathon against Los Angeles. Cincy hasn't won a playoff game in 31 years. The Raiders last won a playoff game in 2003. Both teams are due. Burrow and the Bengals get the edge because they're rested.

New England (10-7) at Buffalo (11-6)

The AFC East rivals split two games last month, each winning on the road. The Patriots beat the Bills 14-10 while relying solely on their running game when rookie QB Mac Jones threw just three passes. Buffalo responded with a 33-21 win at New England three weeks later.

Josh Allen led the Bills to the AFC title game last year and they're back in the hunt for the third straight year with something to prove. Bill Belichick is seeking his first playoff win without Brady in New England. He should still be looking for it after this one.

Sunday

Philadelphia (9-8) at Tampa Bay (13-4)

The Eagles have come a long way since a 28-22 home loss to the Buccaneers in Week 6. Rookie coach Nick Sirianni and second-year QB Jalen Hurts led Philly back from a 2-5 start to an unlikely playoff berth. They did it by relying on the run. But Tampa has one of the league's stingiest run defenses, led by nose tackle Vita Vea.

The banged-up Bucs lost key players down the stretch to injuries and Antonio Brown to drama. They still have Brady and he's enough. He led the NFL in yards passing, TDs, completions and attempts at age 44.

San Francisco (10-7) at Dallas (12-5)

Facing elimination, Garoppolo and the 49ers overcame a 17-0 deficit to beat the NFC West champion Rams 27-24 in overtime. San Francisco has a strong rushing attack, George Kittle and Deebo Samuel, but Dallas made big strides on defense under first-year coordinator Dan Quinn and sensational seasons from rookie linebacker Micah Parsons and cornerback Trevon Diggs.

Jackson heads to Olympics

By BETH HARRIS
AP Sports Writer

Brittany Bowe didn't want to go to her third and likely final Olympics without Erin Jackson.

So after Jackson slipped and didn't qualify in the 500 meters at the U.S. speedskating trials in Milwaukee — a stunning result for the world's top-ranked skater in the event — Bowe knew what she wanted to do.

As the winner of the 500 at the U.S. trials, Bowe and second-place finisher Kimi Goetz claimed the two spots for Beijing. Jackson was third and the only way she would make the team in her specialty was if Bowe or Goetz gave up their spot.

US Speedskating rules didn't allow for Jackson to have a re-skate — only a mechanical failure or a fall are reason for a do-over.

Before leaving the Pettit National Ice Center on Friday, Bowe walked up to Jackson, hugged her and assured her good friend that if she had anything to do with it, Jackson would be keep up with Dak Prescott, Ezekiel Elliott, CeeDee Lamb, Amari Cooper and the Cowboys' star-studded offense.

Pittsburgh (9-7-1) at Kansas City (12-5)

Roethlisberger got a chance to play one more game, but his last one should come in Kansas City. Patrick Mahomes and the Chiefs went on a roll after a rough start. Mahomes has Travis Kelce, Tyreek Hill, Mecole Hardman and too many options for the Steelers to contain.

Monday

Arizona (11-6) at Los Angeles Rams (12-5)

The first Monday night playoff game features another matchup of division rivals. Like the Patriots and Bills, the Cardinals and Rams split in the regular season with each team winning on the road.

Arizona missed an opportunity to win the division by losing at home to Seattle. The Cardinals went 4-6 after a 7-0 start. It's a new season now. Kyler Murray led Arizona to an impressive road win at Dallas in Week 17, and the Cardinals need James Conner to play after leaving with injured ribs against the Seahawks.

Matthew Stafford joined the Rams looking for playoff success. He seeks his first career postseason win with a superstar cast surrounding him led by Cooper Kupp and Odell Beckham Jr. on offense and Aaron Donald and Jalen Ramsey on defense. Even though Los Angeles has played better on the road, Stafford should finally get that win and keep alive the possibility the Rams can become the second team to play a Super Bowl in their home stadium.

Jackson

joining her in Beijing.

Bowe received a text message from US Speedskating officials telling her to be at the oval Sunday for the official team selection and Champagne celebration.

"I didn't want to have this moment without Erin out there. I called her late this morning and said that I wanted to officially give her her spot," Bowe said. "In my heart, there was never a question."

Jackson was moved, saying, "I'm just incredibly grateful. Really humbled."

In November in Poland, Jackson became the first Black woman to win a World Cup event. She won four of eight 500 races on the World Cup circuit, along with a second and third.

"She has earned her spot," Bowe said. "Erin is absolutely on top of her game now."

Bowe's gesture capped what Jackson called a "crazy few days." She didn't sleep that night after her slip.

"I couldn't turn my brain off," Jackson said. "It's been really stressful, being in limbo for so long and just disappointed because I was really excited to show a good race."

Bowe and Jackson are from the same hometown of Ocala, Florida, where they each started out inline skating along with three-time Olympian Joey Mantia. At 33, Bowe is four years older than Jackson.

"We have a photo of Erin standing between myself and Joey," Bowe said, "and she comes up to maybe our chest. We go back very far."

Bowe downplayed her generosity, saying, "This is bigger than just me. This is the Olympic Games and it's about Team USA and giving everybody the opportunity to showcase what they got."

Olympian Mia Manganello Kilburg called it "definitely an honorable move."

There's still a chance Bowe could compete in the 500 in Beijing. Final quota allocations for the Olympics will be determined later this month and it's possible the U.S. could pick up a third spot in the sprint.

Jackson will be making her second Olympic appearance, having finished 24th in the 500 in 2018, not long after she switched from inline skating to the ice.

Three-time Olympian Bowe will compete in the 1,000 and 1,500 in Beijing. Goetz will compete in the 500 and 1,000.

In the 16-lap mass start Sunday, Ian Quinn won the men's race and Giorgia Birkeland took the women's event.

Quinn earned the guaranteed Olympic spot.

Manganello Kilburg, who finished second, earned the women's guaranteed spot because she leads the overall point total.

White pulled out due to lingering COVID symptoms

By EDDIE PELLIS

AP National Writer

Shaun White's withdrawal from a key Olympic qualifying event came after he experienced lingering COVID-19 symptoms, including fatigue and shortness of breath. The Associated Press has learned.

A person familiar with White's decision told The AP that White's withdrawal from Saturday night's U.S. Grand Prix at Mammoth Mountain does not impact his plans to compete in Beijing next month. The person requested anonymity because White has not publicly disclosed the reason for his withdrawal.

Last week, White revealed he had tested positive for COVID-19 in December but had been cleared to ride in Mammoth Mountain and was on the mend. White, who had asthma as a child, said the virus was like "a lingering cold."

White joined champion skier Mikaela Shiffrin and skater Alysa Liu on the list of high-profile Olympic hopefuls to contract COVID-19 in the lead-up to the games.

The U.S. team has until Jan. 21 to name the full snowboarding team. Only one man, Taylor Gold, has secured a spot, but coaches can award up to three discretionary spots on the halfpipe team and White, a three-time Olympic gold medalist who is ranked 14th in the world, meets all the conditions to receive one.

Aric Almirola has announced the 2022 season will be his final run with NASCAR and he will retire at the end of the year.

NASCAR veteran Aric Almirola to retire at end of 2022 season

By JENNA FRYER

AP Auto Racing Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — NASCAR veteran Aric Almirola will retire from competition at the end of the 2022 season to spend more time with his young family.

Almirola revealed his plans Monday to the employees at Stewart-Haas Racing at the same time Smithfield Foods announced its 11th season sponsoring the driver.

"To be the best in this business you've got to be selfish and for the last 37 years my life has always revolved around me and what I needed to do," Almirola said. "I want to be present. I want to be the best husband and father, and that to me means more than being a racecar driver."

"So it's one more year where I'm all in on racing, where we'll do whatever it takes to compete at the highest level. But when the season is over, I'll be ready to wave goodbye. I've loved every minute of it, but it's time for the next chapter of my life."

Almirola, a Tampa native of Cuban descent, made his NASCAR national series debut in 2005 in the Truck Series. His first victory was recorded two years later in the Xfinity Series at Milwaukee, but it was a controversial race: Denny Hamlin, his teammate then at Joe Gibbs Racing, was supposed to race the car with Almirola just a fill-in until Hamlin arrived from Cup Series practice held in Sonoma, California.

Almirola qualified the car, led 43 laps and was in third when Hamlin arrived and replaced Almirola in the seat. Hamlin crossed the finish line in first but an angry Almirola was scored the winner because he was the driver who started the race.

Almirola made his Cup debut with Joe Gibbs Racing in 2007 but moved to Dale Earnhardt Inc. later that season. He became a full-time Cup driver with Richard Petty Motorsports in 2012 — the same year he partnered with Smithfield — and scored his first Cup victory two seasons later in the rain-shortened July race at Daytona.

Almirola and Smithfield moved to SHR in 2018, and Almirola has made the playoffs in all four seasons driving the No. 10. He has three career Cup wins and finished a career-best fifth in the 2018 standings.

"In addition to being an incredibly talented racer and devoted family man, Aric embodies Smithfield's values and has embraced our commitment to do good for our customers, employees and communities," said Shane Smith, president and CEO of Smithfield Foods.

The pandemic has cut NASCAR's schedule to mostly one-day events the past two years — down from full three-day weekends for decades — and allowed drivers to live a more traditional life and attend extracurricular events with their families. Almirola, who turns 38 in March, has a son and daughter.

Almirola said he made the decision to retire with his wife, pondering if he could afford to retire young and that he'd regret not stepping away to spend time with his children before they are grown.

"The answer I kept coming up with is that I can't afford not to," he said. "We're going to have a 10-year-old in Alex and a 9-year-old in Abby, and I'm going to have a short window with them while they still think Dad is cool. I want to be there for them and to be a part of the things they're interested in."

"Before we know it, they're going to have car keys and they're going to be running off with their friends, doing the same things I did when I was 16 or 17."

Chen wins 6th straight US title

By DAVE SKRETTA

AP Sports Writer

NASHVILLE — Nathan Chen had landed some of the most difficult jumps in figure skating, soaring through the air with a dizzying array of quads and flawlessly stringing together incredible combinations to leave the crowd wanting more.

Figures that he would faceplant on a simple step sequence.

It didn't matter, though. Nor did a mistake on one of his four quadruple jumps. Chen was that much better than everyone else at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships on Sunday, winning the free skate with 212.63 points and scoring 328.01 in all — good for his sixth consecutive title by nearly 26 points over 17-year-old wunderkind Ilia Malinin.

"Silly things happen all the time. Am I to expect that? Probably not," Chen said with a smile and shrug. "It was a dumb little moment. I just got wrapped up in that moment and lost my footing. It is what it is. Make sure I don't do that again."

Chen's six titles are the most by a men's skater since Todd Eldredge won his sixth in 2002, and he is the first to win six in a row since two-time Olympic champion Dick Button won seven straight in the 1940s and '50s.

Vincent Zhou followed an exceptional short program with a calamitous free skate Sunday, barely edging Jason Brown for third place. But both wound up making the Olympic team ahead of Malinin when the selection committee chose the experience of Zhou and Brown over the youngster's soaring ability and bright future.

"That's definitely my dream, to go to the Olympics," Malinin said, "and definitely I think I deserve to go, especially with everything I've gone through. This has really changed my life."

It has been a remark-

Wearing a costume adorned with a supernova, Chen blasted off into another level to music from "Rocketman" with a score that beat his own Grand Prix best this season of 307.18 points. And he topped the 322.36 points his biggest rival in Beijing, two-time Olympic champ Yuzuru Hanyu, scored in winning the Japanese national title last month.

the guy left off the team. "I've been in every situation," Brown said, "and I so feel for him. It's really difficult. There's no easy way no matter how you look at the field."

Known far more for his artistry than his jumping ability, Brown fell on an opening quad salchow during his program set to haunting music from the film "Schindler's List." But he rallied to land the rest of his jumps, including two triple axels, to finish with 289.78 points — less a point behind Zhou's quad-heavy program.

"It's been a really tough go to get here, and I don't mean that in just the last 72 hours," Brown said. "The last two years especially, it was really trying times. And just trying my best to stay grounded, focus on what I can control, and I finally had that moment of release when the program was over."

Zhou, who was sixth at the 2018 Games, also showcased during nationals the soaring quads it will take to challenge Hanyu and the rest of the high-flying Japanese team for the top podium step in Beijing. He just didn't land enough of them.

Zhou stepped out on his opening quad, hit his next three quads, then fell apart with a fall on his second quad lutz — a jump he kept falling on during warmups. He also fell during his triple axel-double toe loop combo later in the program.

"The simplest, most honest answer is that I was so nervous my body just froze up on me," Zhou said.

ARIES – Mar 21/Apr 20
Aries, you are self-confident and know who you are, which helps you take charge of situations. Many people rely on you, and you feed off that accountability.

TAURUS – Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, you may feel like you have to be a mediator between two sides, and that only adds to tension you have been feeling recently. Take a deep breath and a step back.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21
Gemini, perceptions can be misleading. Look at a confounding situation from another angle. A new perspective may be all you need to see things more clearly.

CANCER – Jun 22/July 22
Cancer, a get-together with loved ones could do everybody some good. You may need to find the secret that can pull them's everyone together, even if it's only for a day.

LEO – July 23/Aug 23
Leo, a friend of yours may be feeling like a third wheel on group outings. Consider playing matchmaker, or make plans for a get-together with just this individual.

VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, someone may try to burst your bubble in the next few days, but you won't let it get in the way of your lively, imaginative nature. As time goes by, others will come around.

LIBRA – Sept 23/Oct 23
Libra, the last thing you want to do lately is slow down, but you may have to do just that or special moments may pass you by. Carve out time to spend with loved ones.

SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, someone is trying to stay on task this week but you are all about a less serious approach. Let others focus on the tasks at hand, even if you can't.

SAGITTARIUS – Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, technology is designed to make processes easier, but you may find you get fouled up by devices this week. Try doing things the old-fashioned way for a bit.

CAPRICORN – Dec 22/Jan 20
Capricorn, others may not share your sense of humor. Play to your audience and don't get too down if some jokes don't go over well. Consider toning it down for a bit.

AQUARIUS – Jan 21/Feb 18
Aquarius, what you see in the mirror just isn't matching up to what you're thinking in your head. Look to wise friends for answers as to why this is.

PISCES – Feb 19/Mar 20
Pisces, if you are finding difficulty finding satisfaction at work, it may be time to start looking for something new to do. Put out some feelers.

Farms recognized by their beauty

Novelist and farmer, Wendell Berry, once said, "A good farm is recognized as good partly by its beauty." While many people either stayed at home and made snowmen, farmers trudged out in the snow and cold last week to make sure all animals were safe and fed. Local photographer Zoey Grissom of ZGLensation captured these shots of the first snow of 2022 on her farm.

Nineteen killed, others gravely injured in NYC blaze

NEW YORK (AP) — Doctors worked Monday to save the lives of several people gravely injured when smoke from a fire knocked them out or trapped them in their apartments in a New York City high-rise building. Nineteen people, including nine children, died in the blaze.

Dozens of people were hospitalized, and as many as 13 were in critical condition after Sunday's fire in the Bronx, already the city's deadliest in three decades.

Investigators determined that a malfunctioning electric space heater, plugged in to give extra heat on a cold morning, started the fire in the 19-story building.

The flames damaged only a small part of the building, but smoke escaped through the apartment's open door and turned stairwells — the only method of flight in a building too tall for fire escapes — into dark, ash-choked horrors.

Some people could not escape because of the volume of smoke, said Fire Commissioner Daniel Nigro. Others became incapacitated as they tried to get out. Firefighters found victims on every floor, many in cardiac and respiratory arrest, said Nigro.

Limp children were seen being given oxygen after they were carried out. Some who fled had faces covered in soot.

Firefighters continued making rescues even after their air supplies ran out, Mayor Eric Adams said.

"Their oxygen tanks were empty and they still pushed through the smoke," Adams said.

Fire Commissioner Daniel Nigro said an investigation was underway to determine how the fire spread and whether anything could have been done to prevent or contain the blaze.

Adams said it appears the smoke spread due to a door that was supposed to automatically close being open.

"There may have been a maintenance issue with this door. And that is going to be part of the ongoing investigation," Adams said on Good Morning America.

The building is equipped with smoke alarms, but several residents said they initially ignored them because alarms were so common in the 120-unit building.
