John Allan Callaway rides Justified Honors to the 2022 Tennessee Walking Horse World Grand Championship on Saturday night.

Callaway earns another WGC

T-G STAFF REPORT

Justified Honors won the 2022 Tennessee Walking Horse World Grand Championship for a second year in a row during the Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration in Shelbyville on Saturday night.

Despite some rain delays, due to area storms, Justified Honors was able to finish the last class and make the official spotlight walk with John Allan Callaway up.

This is trainer and rider Callaway's third World Grand Championship win after Justified Honors in 2021 and Master's Razzle and Jazz in 2020.

Callaway is the eighth trainer to win back-to-back world titles and the third to do it on two different horses in the Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration's history. Callaway is from Allan Callaway Stables at Twin Oaks Farm off Highway 41A North in Shelbyville.

Justified Honors was born in April of 2017 and sired by Honors, the 2016 World Grand Champion, and Maypine's Doll Baby. He was bred, foaled and raised by Brian Anderton of Alabama then eventually moved to Layne Leverette's stables in Shelbyville, where his training was continued under owner Jeff Faulkner.

Callaway then discovered the young horse at Leverette's stables. Since May, 2020, the 5-year-old stallion has been owned by Lisa Baum of Shelbyville.

But the wins don't come easy. Callaway told the Times-Gazette last week that he showed against some "really

Northside drainage concerns City Council

By DAVID MELSON
dmelson@t-g.com

The need for work on northern Shelbyville's water infrastructure was the most-discussed topic at Shelbyville City Council's study session Tuesday night.

Jason Reese, general manager of Shelbyville Power, Water and Sewerage Systems, said he feels $2.9 million in state sewer rehabilitation funds, available through the American Rescue Plan, is needed to upgrade sewer and water lines in the North Hurricane Watershed, near Hurricane Creek.

Much of that area's water flows toward northern Shelbyville. That area suffers drainage problems during heavy rains.

"With all this expansion going on in the industrial park, we have a real need to upgrade and rehab our existing lines in what we call Little Hurricane Creek Sewershed," Reese said. "Large masses of land on the northern end of town ...basically, we have a pumping station at Shaw Road, which is right along Little Hurricane Creek, that's the far west side of this sewershed."

All sewage from existing industrial developments in northern Shelbyville flows into that pumping station, Reese said. So will sewage from new developments in the new 231 Industrial Park area.

"It also catches a lot of gravity sewer along the McDale Lane area and as far east as Brown Lane, the new developments (on Fairfield Pike) to around Legends Restaurant," Reese said.

"Problems include inflow and infiltration (of lines), old clay lines, cracked sewer lines, tree roots, anything where we take on a lot of storm water and ground water." "Over 50 percent of our lines are over 50 years old, so we would have to develop a Local Asset Management Plan."

Those conditions reduce the capacity of the sewer lines and causes the city water treatment plant to "have to work overtime," increasing expense.

This is not to be confused with an available $6.5 million federal grant the city is considering applying for, Acting City Manager Kay Parker said.

"We have had two overflows in the last three to four months in that area. We're only allowed by the state to have five," Reese said.

Beyond that, a state-ordered moratorium would go into effect.

"If we have three more overflows within a 6 to 8-month period the state's going to come in and put a stop to any new sewer taps in that area...until the problem is 100 percent corrected. That would also affect any new houses in that area of the city," Reese said.

Council members will vote on applying for the grant at next Thursday's monthly meeting.

"I'm going to be voting no on it as it's presently presented because for the past year we've been working with this money for expanding sewer service up toward Uncle Nearest and Tennessee Downs," City Councilman Henry Feldhaus said. He feels up to half of the grant should go toward adding new infrastructure, as opposed to what he saw as Reese's request for all to go for repairing or replacing existing lines. Feldhaus asked where the money would come from to help new customers just north of Shelbyville requesting city sewer service.

"My feeling is that things inside the city limits need to come first," Mayor Wallace Cartwright said.

Feldhaus asked how much money the sewer budget currently has for repair of existing sewer lines.

"The answer is zero,"

The new Shelbyville provider has built its reputation on an integrated model—one which "elevates care" through the formation of teams of caregivers, care consultants, care managers, and care specialists—all who work together to craft and implement tailored care plans for clients and their families.

Many of these teams have served the local communities for years (if not decades) and offer invaluable knowledge to clients and families throughout life's aging journey, the company states.

Arosa's operations began more than 20 years ago with the founding of California's LivHOME and North Carolina's Nurse Care. In 2018, these merged together forming to increase the services for senior care and officially creating Arosa.

as there are not many challenges working with him. Overall, Callaway said he "feels good" in his horse.

Justified Honors' wins also include: 2021 World Champion 4-Year-Old Stallion, 2020 World Grand Champion, 3-Year-Old Reserve and 2020 World Champion 3-Year-Old Stallion.

Feldhaus said. "What we're doing is taking every bit of our CDBG (Community Development Block Grant) money and rehabbing sewer lines. Now, we're going to be taking $3 million of generational-changing money, which is supposed to help the city grow, and do things in the future, that we would not be having otherwise, and we're going to rehab sewer lines. When are we going to do some generational changing things to help fund some of these economic development things?"

Feldhaus asked what the plans are for rehabbing 50-year-old lines downtown "that haven't been touched in forever" and decried what he considers lack of maintenance of the city's sewer system.

Reese said he agrees plans are needed.

"The new management policy is to become more proactive instead of reactive," Reese said.

He feels areas needing the most repair should be targeted for rehab to avoid high rate increases. He said the sewer system would be glad to help find funding to extend to the Uncle Nearest area — but the distillery will have to help out as well.

"We can't just let the sewer system go in the hole for one customer," Reese said. Feldhaus also said the county needs to contribute money for growth-related issues.

Fairfield Pike expansion

The council took a look at proposals for widening Fairfield Pike, including curbs and gutters in areas where none currently exist. Attention was particularly focused on the area around the intersection of Fairfield Pike, Hickory Drive and Tulip Tree Road near the duck pond.

Public Works Director Buck Vallad expects the cost to be around $3-$4 million.

"I challenge Mr. Collins (newly-hired City Manager Scott Collins, who was in attendance and will begin his new position shortly) to find us some more money," Feldhaus said.

Only 50 copies of paperback book remain available

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Spend a day behind the walls of Graceland as Elvis hosts friends for an unforgettable experience that ends spreading through the streets of Memphis; Hear the encouragement offered by the Man in Black, Johnny Cash, and experience the heartbreak surrounding the death of his beloved wife, June; Sit at the control board and experience the recording process of a great song and watch as it becomes a worldwide hit; and hear the never-before-told details of the last time Richard and Elvis were together. All of these great stories plus so much more are part of the 'From Elvis To Elvira' paperback book that Country Music Hall of Fame member, as part of The Oak Ridge Boys, Richard Sterban released.

"I have been blessed! I have lived a life that very few get to experience. A boy from New Jersey singing with Elvis, singing on the stage of the Grand Ole Opry, singing around the world, and still enjoying every moment I walk on the stage," says Richard Sterban. "I have been thinking about updating the Elvis to Elvira book with Steven Robinson and now with all this newly generated excitement about Elvis and his new movie, I think it's time to start that process. We have about 50 copies of the old book left, but we will be going back and adding new material to it and making it available to the fans."

Excerpt from Elvis to Elvira: The First Time I Met Elvis

The only member I hadn't yet met was Elvis himself. As I've said, I was certainly familiar with his music—and liked much of it—but I wasn't what would be considered a huge fan. When I met him, though, I immediately understood the attraction that fans had to him. I thought, "Wow, there's a reason this guy is the biggest star in the world." It sounds like a fantasy or a cliché, but I swear you could almost sense him before he walked into a room.

On this occasion, he was "fashionably late." Everyone was ready, even anxious to begin but, as we would learn, rehearsals—like recording sessions and sometimes concerts—would begin only when Elvis was ready for them to begin. Eventually, we heard footsteps coming down the hall and then, suddenly, the door to the ballroom opened and in walked "the guys." It seemed as if there were six or more guys who came in and then parted, like the Red Sea, to reveal Elvis strolling in behind them, looking every bit like the King of Rock. He was dressed exactly like one might expect to see him: a dark two-piece suit with his signature high, Napoleonic collar, a patterned high-collared shirt, and carrying a black cane with a gold ornament on top. He immediately came over to J.D. and grabbed him in a bear hug.

While it's been told many times, J.D. had been somewhat of a hero to Elvis when he was growing up. As the bass singer for The Blackwood Brothers, he had allowed Elvis to come in the back door of various Memphis all-night gospel sings—long before Elvis could afford to buy a ticket, let alone become famous himself. Also, when Elvis's mother died, J.D. and the rest of the Blackwoods sang at her funeral. Elvis never forgot J.D.'s kindness, and as he did with so many others, he seemed to make it part of his life's work to repay such kindnesses many times over.

Standing in that hotel ballroom, Elvis and J.D. quickly caught up, and soon J.D. began introducing each one of us to him. Elvis interrupted him to say he didn't need the introductions because he felt as if he already knew us. He hugged me and then we shook hands. I still remember looking into his eyes that first time. The magnetism was indescribable. I couldn't believe that he knew my name and knew that I was the bass singer. I don't know how we gathered ourselves well enough to sing at that rehearsal, but apparently, we did. I just kept thinking over and over that there was Elvis Presley, and here we were singing with him. It was a feeling that would continue every night; it never got old to me.

Stilton cheese

Dear Heloise: I'm going to have some friends over to celebrate the new home I just purchased, and I plan on serving some "munchies" and wine. Everyone I know loves cheese, so I asked a friend what he liked best, and he said Stilton cheese. I hate to sound like a country bumpkin, but what is Stilton cheese, and what is it served with on a cheese tray? -- Noah T., Wichita, Kansas

Noah, Stilton is a strong-flavored, blue-veined English cheese. It pairs well with apples, tangerines, walnuts and wheat crackers. It's often served with port wine as a dessert in Europe. You also might want to serve some squares of Swiss cheese, which has a very nutty flavor, and is often served on water crackers or with various cold cuts. Edam is a Dutch cheese that is mild in flavor and usually comes with a heavy, waxy rind. With edam cheese, cut through its rind in a pie shape, but do not remove the entire rind. By the way, best wishes to you in your new home. -- Heloise

California sizzles; blackouts possible

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California is facing its highest chance of blackouts this year as a brutal heat wave continues to blanket the state with triple-digit temperatures. State energy officials said the electrical load Tuesday afternoon could top 51,000 megawatts, the highest demand the state has ever seen.

As people crank up their air conditioners, the state forecasted record levels of energy use, said Elliot Mainzer, president of California Independent System Operators, which runs the state's electrical grid. The state has additional energy capacity at the moment "but blackouts, rolling, rotating outages are a possibility," Mainzer said, calling additional conservation "absolutely essential."

The CAISO site Tuesday morning showed California could fall more than 5,000 megawatts short of its power supply at peak demand, forecasted for 5:30 pm.

The danger of wildfires was extreme as scorching heat and low humidity turned brush to tinder. Four deaths were reported over the Labor Day weekend as some 4,400 firefighters battled 14 large fires around the state, with 45 new blazes on Sunday alone, said Anale Burlew, a deputy chief with the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection.

In Southern California, two people were killed and one injured by the Fairview Fire, which started Monday near the city of Hemet, the Riverside County Fire Department said. Roughly 50 miles southeast of Los Angeles, the fire had quickly spread to at least 2,400 acres, prompting evacuations, and was only 5% contained. Multiple residential structures burned.

The dead people were not immediately identified. Authorities said both were found in the same area but it was not known if they were from the same household. They were apparently trying to flee when they were overcome.

California's energy grid runs on a mix of mostly solar and natural gas during the day, along with some imports of power from other states. But solar power begins to fall off during the late afternoon and into the evening, which is the hottest time of day in some parts of the state. And some of the aging natural gas plants California relies on for backup power aren't as reliable in hot weather.

At CAISO's request on Monday, four temporary emergency power generators deployed by the Department of Water Resources in Roseville and Yuba City were activated for the first time since they were installed last year, providing up to 120 megawatts, enough electricity for 120,000 homes.

There is something serene about deer watching. Some like to hunt them and others observe with a camera. This deer captured recently was looking for a little one running through the meadow.

FARMERS MARKET

The market continues, but we have had some vendors to run out of produce due to the continued weather damage to production. We'll continue to monitor available products and we'll let you know about the market.

Remember, it's on Thursday afternoons at 2:30 p.m. at the big blue water tower at the Celebration Grounds.

GRAZING PLANS

I've had more interest in alternative grazing due to the shortage of hay this summer. While some folks are recovering with a better late summer/fall hay harvest, there are still some concerns out there. We do have some options that are old-time for some and new for others.

Small grain crops are widely used in Tennessee for pasture, silage and hay. These crops produce high-quality forage during the fall, winter, and spring. Including ryegrass will result in growth longer into the spring, while adding crimson or arrowleaf clover will decrease the amount of nitrogen that needs to be applied.

All these crops are cool season annual plants, meaning they germinate in the fall, grow during the fall, winter and spring and then die in the late spring or early summer. Even though these crops live for only one year, they have potential for use in several ways.

We've got a really good publication that discusses all of these options. It's titled Small Grains, Ryegrass and Clovers for Forage, and it includes a lot of information. The planting dates that are recommended are right here on us. I'll be happy to send you the link. Just email me and I'll reply it. Or give me a call and I'll get it for you. Take a look if you think this will fit into your operation.

BEEF MEETING

The Middle Tennessee Beef Producer Association will meet on Thursday, September 8, at 6:30 p.m. at the Bedford County Ag Center. The sponsor is Trans Ova, one of the businesses that specialize in bovine reproduction. There will be a meal, so we ask that you call in to the office here at 684-5971 to let us know you are coming. This should be a good program.

SOIL TESTING

Now is an excellent time to soil test and add the needed lime to pastures, gardens, lawns, or any soil. With the increased cost of fertilizer, lime becomes a great investment. Lime increases the efficiency of

N, P and K.

For example, the efficiency of applied phosphate may be more than doubled when soil pH is increased from 5.0 to 6.1 because of less fixation or tie-up in the soil. Lime enhances micro-organism activity.

Acid soils slow the growth and multiplication of certain microorganisms, which in turn reduces soil processes such as the release of nutrients from organic matter decomposition (mineralization) and nitrogen fixation in legumes. Low pH levels also impede root development that effects uptake of plant nutrients.

Lime is one of the less expensive soil treatments available. And with the costs of actual plant nutrients, we need to do everything we can to improve nutrient efficiency. We also cannot afford to just guess with fertilizer prices being what they are.

The UT soil center recommendations are made on a least-cost basis, and results are based on literally years of test data and correlated performance data.

Now is a good time to get this done, instead of waiting 'til the last minute.

WISDOM

The August issue of the Progressive Farmer's Cornerstone section had quotes on rainfall. This has been a big topic with the cold wet spring, the hot dry summer, and the big wash-out at the Celebration this past Saturday night. (I was there and got soaked, but I enjoyed every minute...just about.)

Here are some good thoughts on rain. Dolly Parton said "The way I see it, if you want the rainbow, you gotta put up with the rain." Roger Miller said "Some people walk in the rain, others just get wet." Fran Lebowitz said "Do not, on a rainy day, ask your child what he feels like doing, because I assure you that what he feels like doing, you won't feel like watching."

Maya Angelou said "Every storm runs out of rain." Mark Twain said "It is best to read the weather forecast before praying for rain." John Steinbeck said "One can find so many pains when the rain is falling." Benjamin Franklin said "The person who deserves most pity is a lone-some one on a rainy day who doesn't know how to read."

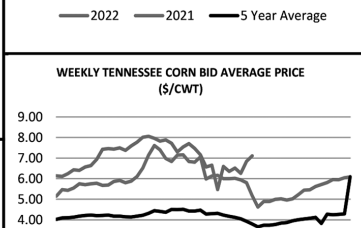

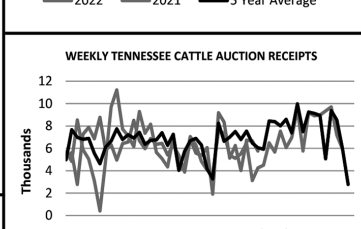

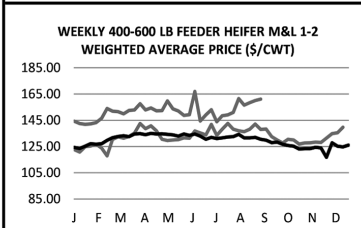

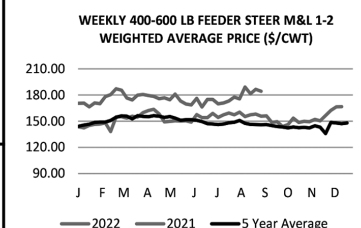

Clint Eastwood said "If you think it's going to rain, it will." And Aesop said "After the rain cometh the fair weather." These last two make me think of a saying that I've heard about Tennessee weather over and over. "If you don't like the weather, just stay still. It's going to change."

Titans already hit by injuries

By TERESA M. WALKER
AP Pro Football Writer
NASHVILLE — The Tennessee Titans are days away from kicking off their new season and already have placed two players on injured reserve.

Losing Pro Bowl linebacker Harold Landry III hurts the most.

One advantage the Titans have as they prepare to host the New York Giants on Sunday is this isn't the first time they've leaned heavily on that next man up mentality. They earned the No. 1 seed in the AFC last season using an NFL-record 91 different players, most in a non-strike season, with 26 on injured reserve.

"Just because Harold went out does not mean that we're going to be looking at ourselves like, 'Hey, we're not going to be able to be the type of team or type of defense that we were capable of,'" safety Kevin Byard said Monday. "We're going to expect, and we've always expected, for backups to play like starters."

The Titans had five starters go on and off injured reserve last season, not counting first-round draft pick Caleb Farley. The cornerback tore an ACL in his lone start.

Yet Tennessee still finished sixth in the NFL in scoring defense, second in run defense and was the only team in the league with three different players to have at least eight sacks apiece. Landry, who started every game the past three seasons, earned his first Pro Bowl nod with a career-high 12 sacks last season.

That earned him a five-year contract this offseason after Landry ranked 10th in the NFL with his 12 sacks. He has a team-high 31 sacks over the past four seasons. Landry's total is the second most for this franchise over his first four seasons since 1982 when individual sacks became an official NFL statistic.

Eagles fall in region opener

MANCHESTER — Shelbyville Central suffered a tough 39-13 Region 3-AAAAAA loss on the road Friday night.

The Red Raiders (2-1) took control early and used a balanced offense, and backed that effort on defense by shutting down the Golden Eagle run game. "A lot of credit to Coffee County. They are a good football team. We saw that on film when they played Franklin County and Tullahoma. We knew we would have to play clean across the board and we didn't," Shelbyville Central coach Jud Dryden said.

Coffee County racked up 323 yards of total offense, compared to the Eagles' 176, while only allowing 49 yards rushing. Konor Helton scored on runs of one and 36 yards, sophomore quarterback Cole Pippenger threw a pair of touchdown passes to Travis Martin and one to Jahlin Osborne while Jackson Shemwell added a late pick-six for the winners.

Micah Threatt returned an interception 53 yards for a touchdown and caught a 52-yard pass from senior quarterback Jake Preston to account for both Golden Eagle TDs.

A key turning point came late in the first half when Shelbyville Central recovered a kick in Coffee County territory but failed to score, then the Red Raiders scored in the closing seconds.

Tale of two halves for Champs

BELL BUCKLE — In their first Region 5-AA matchup of the season, the Cascade Champions shutout the Mt. Pleasant Tigers heading into halftime, but failed to carry that momentum into the second half as the Tigers snuck away with a 20-13 victory.

"We were able to limit their big plays in the first half," Champions head coach Jake Tyre said.

"They came out in the second half with a couple big plays and it sort of spiraled from there. We just have to figure out how to finish games. If you're up 13-0 at halftime, you gotta find a way to make something happen."

Restricting the Tigers' (3-0, 1-0) chunk plays played a large role in the Champions' (1-2, 0-1) success in the first half.

A couple forced punts and an interception from senior safety Taylor Dowell kept Mt. Pleasant's attack

8-of-23 passes for 127 yards with Threatt hauling in four catches totaling 60 yards.

“We didn’t capitalize

when we had to, then gave up that play late in the half that really hurt,” Dryden said.

“There were a lot of mistakes we made but we will keep at it and continue working on being better at our craft and we will get there. Our guys are playing with a high motor and a mindset that wants to get better.”

bay and allowed the Champions’ offense to score points.

With three just over three minutes left in the first half, Xamarion Dixon connected with Chance Brown from 14 yards away for their first touchdown pairing of the night and a 7-0 lead after the extra point.

The Champions’ defense stepped up again on the ensuing Tigers’ drive to hand the ball back to their offense one more time before the half.

After a 47-yard pass down the sideline from Dixon to Hayden Dowell, Cascade was in striking distance again, and Brown grabbed his second touchdown of the game on a 13-yard pass from Dixon with 33 seconds remaining on the clock.

But a missed extra point made it a 13-0 ballgame heading to the locker room.

Brown totaled 27 yards on his two touchdown receptions and added 22 yards on the ground for the Champions.

Mt. Pleasant flipped the script in the second half and kept the Champions out of scoring position and off the scoreboard.

With 5:28 seconds left in the third quarter, Tiger quarterback Nick Brown rushed into the end zone from six yards away to cut Cascade’s lead to 13-7 after the made extra point.

Less than two minutes later, Mt. Pleasant found the end zone again on a 64-yard bomb down the field from Brown to wide receiver Darien Meza, and the Tigers tied the game at 13-13 after a missed extra point.

Brown and Meza connected again on a 57-yard touchdown pass with 59 seconds remaining in the third quarter to take a 20-13 lead.

Neither team threatened to score in the fourth quarter, and Mt. Pleasant finished in victory formation.

“We held them on defense in the second half other than those few big plays,” Tyre said.

“Our offense just couldn’t move the ball. We gotta figure out a way to put good drives together moving forward.”

Despite the loss, Tyre was proud of his team for battling against one of the better teams in their region.

“We battled for 48 minutes against a great football team.”

“I can take a bunch of fighters that play hard for 48 minutes rather than a team that gives up. We didn’t give up tonight.”

The Champions’ offense totaled 172 yards on the night with 104 of those coming on the ground.

Cascade will head to Huntland Friday night for a non-region matchup at 7 p.m.

Ewers debut includes TDs, towed car

By JIM VERTUNO
AP Sports Writer

AUSTIN, Texas — Quinn Ewers had quite the debut as Texas quarterback, even if it was a little rough around the edges.

The freshman threw his first interception before his first completion. He recovered nicely to throw for 225 yards and two touchdowns in a 52-10 victory over Louisiana-Monroe. But there were a handful of missed deep balls and at some point, campus parking services towed away his car, which he discovered after leaving the stadium that night.

Next up: No. 1 Alabama, and a Crimson Tide defense that will be even tougher than the parking enforcers.

“They’re fast,” Ewers said Monday in a nonchalant sizing up of all-everything linebacker Will Anderson and the Tide (1-0), which routed Utah State 55-0. “They do everything the right way.”

Overall, Ewers got good postgame reviews from his coaches and teammates after his much-anticipated first start in burnt orange.

Ewers was one of the top recruits in the country out of high school in 2020. But amid the COVID-19 pandemic, he skipped his senior season and signed with Ohio State. The kid with the throwback mullet hairstyle was off to Columbus and signed million-dollar name, image and likeness deals, only to get stuck deep on the depth chart. He took two snaps last season.

After the Longhorns went 5-7, the door was open for the raw talent with a slingshot right arm to head back to his home state. Last season’s starter, Casey Thompson, transferred to Nebraska and Ewers beat out Hudson Card in training camp to earn the No. 1 spot.

Once on the field, Ewers released a deep throw a split second too late and his first pass was broken up. His second pass was a short throw in coverage, and the interception silenced the home crowd. Then came eight consecutive completions in three drives that finished with two touchdowns, a field goal and a 24-3 lead.

By then, Texas was in total control. Ewers called his first game a “a great learning experience.”

“I’m glad I faced some adversity,” he said. “I could get over that first little edge.”

Texas coach Steve Sarkisian said following the game that he didn’t dial back the offense after the turnover.

“You can’t expect him to ride this bike and do it with training wheels on. I’ve got to let him go,” Sarkisian said.

The blemish in the bounce back was the inability to hit several deep throws to speedy wide receiver Xavier Worthy, who was open several times. Texas depends on the deep strike threat.

“I think I threw the ball where it needed to be, but I wish I had some throws back,” Ewers said. “We’ll fix it.”

Alabama coach Nick Saban called Ewers “a tremendous talent” and expects him to make a big jump in his second game. But the Tide will be looking to exploit that limited game experience.

“This guy’s a really, really good player and we’re going to have to do a great job of sort of hopefully disguising what we do a little bit so he has to figure it out after he gets the ball in his hand,” Saban said. “But he’s got the talent to make the plays when he knows where to go with it, that’s for sure.”

NASCAR still wild as playoffs start

By PETE IACOBELLI
AP Sports Writer

DARLINGTON, S.C. — Buckle up your five-point harness. Looks like NASCAR’s playoffs will be just as wild and unpredictable as its regular season.

That came into sharp focus at Darlington Raceway where Erik Jones outlasted all three of his old Joe Gibbs Racing teammates — Martin Truex Jr., Kyle Busch and Denny Hamlin. Truex lost a late lead with power steering problems, Busch’s engine blew up with Jones in second. Hamlin reached Jones’ back bumper on the last lap but couldn’t pass him.

Titans

Brian Daboll sent his sympathies to Landry, someone he called a fantastic and dynamic player.

“We don’t exactly know what’s going to happen, whether (Denico) Autry is going to move over there, whatever it may be,” Daboll said. “You know, the first game, you have to rely on your rules and things that you did for training camp. And that’s where our focus will be.”

Landry would have faced Giants rookie right tackle Evan Neal, the seventh overall pick out of Alabama, before tearing an ACL in practice Aug. 31. The Titans now could start second-year linebacker Rashad Weaver in Landry’s spot. Weaver team finally broke through at one of the most difficult tracks in NASCAR. “But I think the first thing Erik said to me is, ‘Don’t you wish we won Daytona?’” in the regular-season finale, Elenz said.

At the end, Jones outlasted all three of his old Joe Gibbs Racing teammates — Martin Truex Jr., Kyle Busch and Denny Hamlin. Truex lost a late lead with power steering problems, Busch’s engine blew up with Jones in second. Hamlin reached Jones’ back bumper on the last lap but couldn’t pass him.

broke a leg in his third game in ending his rookie season.

“That doesn’t change anything,” said Neal, who said he’s been watching film on all the Titans. “They’re going to have a guy that’s in his place that I am going to have to block. So, I mean, that doesn’t change anything for me at all.”

One advantage for the Titans is Bud Dupree, their big free agent signee of 2021, finally feels like himself after spending last season recovering from the ACL he tore in December 2020 playing with Pittsburgh. Dupree started six of 11 games, letting his pride push him harder than he was ready. He finished with three sacks.

Dupree said he didn’t feel like himself until this summer. The Titans signed linebacker Derrek Tuszkowski to the roster.

PUZZLE SOLUTION

ASTROGRAPH

ARIES – Mar 21/Apr 20
 This week you may need to carve out some alone time to get yourself centered again, Aries. Too many things have been pulling you in different directions lately.

TAURUS – Apr 21/May 21
 Don't feel the need to conform to what others expect from you, Taurus. You don't have to fit into a mold. Figure out what works for you and go with it.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21
 Gemini, some heavy issues may be coming your way and you'll need to work through them. This may be something that requires collaboration with others.

CANCER – June 22/July 22
 Don't try to force your way into a situation, Cancer. If things don't happen organically, you'll have to try another way or accept things aren't meant to be.

LEO – July 23/Aug 23
 Leo, the novel approach you'll want to take regarding a situation this week may be met with some opposition. Don't let that deter you from trying something innovative.

VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22
 Virgo, even though there have been some big changes in your life of late, there is room for more modification. You simply have to go with the flow for the time being.

LIBRA – Sept 23/Oct 23
 It's easy to get thrown for a loop when so many things are changing rapidly, Libra. Keep your eye on the prize and you will likely come through on the other side just fine.

SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22
 Scorpio, the way others see you isn't who you really are. Keep doing what you are doing if you are pleased, as you don't have to change your colors to appeal to others.

SAGITTARIUS – Nov 23/Dec 21
 Reevaluate your priorities this week, Sagittarius. You don't need the best or the biggest to be happy. Focus on your health and the little things instead.

CAPRICORN – Dec 22/Jan 20
 This is the week to focus on nourishing your spiritual self, Capricorn. If you are religious, attend a service or volunteer for your house of worship; otherwise, meditate at home.

AQUARIUS – Jan 21/Feb 18
 Aquarius, a sense of nervousness may have you acting without thinking things through. Team up with someone you trust to thoroughly vet ideas before diving in.

PISCES – Feb 19/Mar 20
