Council faces growth issues

By DAVID MELSON

Growth and planning issues took up most of Shelbyville City Council's time in last Tuesday night's monthly meeting.

A plan known as Design Option #2 for widening of Fairfield Pike was approved on a 6-0 vote.

The $4 million project will include construction of curbs, gutters and sidewalks on the heavily-traveled street. Traffic will be dramatically increasing in the next few years due to housing developments and the new Cartwright Elementary School.

Drainage work

Approval of submission of an application to the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation for $3 million in American Rescue Program funds was deferred until a discussion can be held with Shelbyville Power Board. The meeting is scheduled for 12 noon Friday at Shelbyville Recreation Center. A special City Council meeting will follow at 12:30 to vote on the grant. The submission must be made by month's

At issue is whether the funds will be primarily used to repair sewer and water lines and drainage pipes in northern Shelbyville or to construct new lines in growth areas such as the city-county industrial park. Some of those proposed new areas are outside the city limits. Council member Henry Feldhaus is strongly backing new lines, while Mayor Wallace Cartwright prefers the funds be used to repair existing lines within the

Tawanda Murray shares mission

By DAWN HANKINS dhankins@t-g.com

Tawanda Murray is a hometown girl who is on a constant mission to encourage this community to be more supportive of those suffering from the dysfunction of substance abuse. This Bedford County native understands, because she, too, is in long-term recovery.

She's walked the walk, literally straight into Bedford County jail, several times. Her first incarceration was back in 1994.

She realizes now how the pains of mental and or physical addiction can come from many sources. Having a greater understanding of that, these days, this mom grandmother recently that she's come to have a deeper relationship with God.

While she believed in God, she refused to see the path He was guiding her to take in life. Sadly, she crossed to the "wrong side of the street" many times, she said.

Cocaine use. admitted, took its toll on her personal life.

But through a myriad of life experiences, Tawanda is now the founder and chief executive officer of "I AM Recovery." She lives in Nashville now, but is often found in Bedford County, where her family still resides.

From golf tournaments different mission in life. She and the Prevention Coalition of Bedford County will present a NARCAN training session Edgemont Baptist Church, located at 150 Fairfield Pike, in Shelbyville 6 p.m. Thursday.

Everyone who attends Thursday's training session will leave with a NARCAN overdose kit. In her publicity of this training, Tawanda notes that the number one cause of preventable death in this country for ages 18-45 is Fentanyl. The NARCAN works for this and other opioids.

Prevention coalitions

Tawanda explains that across Tennessee, prevention coalitions are working to reduce dependence on harmful and potentially lethal substances

'Whatever affects one directly, affects all indirectly.'

- Martin Luther King,

such as prescription drugs, alcohol and tobacco. "These coalitions are made up of people who care a lot for their communities and want to make them safer and free of drugs," she said.

Members include teachers, police officers, doctors, nurses, politicians and students. "They are people who come from all walks of life . . . see what's going on in their area and then take action, informing citizens about potential threats and to help substance abuse."

Tawanda is a member of the Bedford Coalition. "Today, I live in Nashville, Tenn., due to not having a recover space when I needed treatment in Bedford County. As well, I have been in the justice system. It was there I found the will to make changes to my life. No, it was not done overnight, but it was where I could distance myself from all the movement and turmoil of the fast-paced happenstances I faced from outside." There were people, she said, who cared enough to talking to local inmates, to visit her when she was she's now a woman on a incarcerated and give her some hope. "The first I saw was [late] Ms. Ann Hayes; she came weekly to Bedford County Jail and encouraged the ladies. Back then, it was only a few, due to the arrival of the newly incorporated Drug Task Force in 1994."

She explained how Ann had a "vision" to build a house for women to grow beyond their trajectories. Tawanda now has the same vision for the future.

Tawanda's goal today is to follow in her mentor's footsteps as a good example. "I will never forget what it meant and still means to have embraced her kindness and care." She added there were more, "Then we had Mrs. Mary Ellen Koonce who is today still a major part of my life. I was graced to have Mrs. Geneva Smith as part of my change team."

Baking soda shaker

ear Heloise: I purchased a glass shaker at my local store. These are the shakers you see on your table in Italian restaurants for shaking out Parmesan cheese or crushed red pepper. The holes on top are ideal for distributing just enough baking soda to freshen litter after scooping. I have found this method much easier than shaking baking soda from the open end of the box. It also avoids large lumps in the box that block the exit. I also repurpose the bowls of baking soda that I use to freshen my microwave and dishwasher each month by pouring them into the shaker.

At the same store, I purchased a long-handled plastic spoon, with holes in the bowl, to use as a litter scoop. They are much more sturdy than the style sold in the pet supply area in the supermarket that easily snap, and they only cost a buck. This spoon has lasted for years without breaking. I read your helpful hint column daily in the Lima News. --Jack Bevilockway, Lima,

Dear Heloise: I've just made a slaw using grated zucchini and a dressing of oil and vinegar. I didn't make a large amount, just a pile of the grated veggie on my plate. I like it. It's another way to get rid of that prolific veggie. --C.M., via email

FEEDING YOUR DOGS

Dear Heloise: Here's a tip to help finicky dogs eat. Add 2 to 3 tablespoons of unsalted cooking broth to their kibble. Beef, chicken, pork or bone broth will do. They'll love it! Also, add cold water from the fridge to their drinking bowls. This helps keep

CLEANING THE FOOD PROCESSOR

Dear Heloise: I hate washing the lid of my food processor after I use it. So, my hint is:

I cover the bowl with a piece of waxed paper and put the lid on before I turn on the processor. That way, the food inside does not get on the lid, it gets on the paper instead. I enjoy reading your column in the State Journal-Register. -- C. Adams, Springfield, Illinois

SMOKE DETECTOR UPDATE

Dear Heloise: A typical smoke detector has a life span of 10 years. I agree that you need to change the battery once a year. The manufacture date of the detector is on the back of the unit.

Also, if your detector goes off, and there is no reason for it to do so because the battery is still within the one-year period, you may have a dust buildup, causing the detector to give false responses. You can use a can of pressurized air to gently blow out any dust that may be on the sensor. -- Doyle Hansel, via

FARMERS MARKET

The late season crops are coming in and it looks better than the early crop. Tomatoes, green beans, okra, and melons are looking really good. The baked goods look really good, and the fried pies are delicious. The canned stuff looks good as well.

The market is on Thursday afternoons at 2:30 p.m. at the pavilion next to the big blue water tower at the Celebration Grounds.

HORNETS

I had to spray some wasps nests last week. Always a dangerous thing to do. But it worked. Then I had two requests to identify two very large insects, and they were both European hornets. Glad I didn't have to deal with these. These things are stingers, especially if they are provoked. There is another one, a cicada killer, that is very large as well, and they look very similar to the European hornet. They both are in our area.

There is another large hornet that is found in Washington State. Referred to as the murder hornet by the media, it is the northern giant hornet. It resembles the two above in size, but its markings are different.

Penn State University put out a good article last year on the differences, and I'll share this. It is important to know about these insects since a sting is painful and can cause a medical emergency for some folks. This article and photos can be found at extension.psu. edu/european-hornet

European hornets are native to Europe and Asia. They were introduced from central Europe into North America and first detected in the 1840s. European hornets have since become widespread and well established in the eastern United States. They have continued to spread westward and were first reported from Arkansas in 1999.

ALWAYS BUSY

European hornet workers can be up to an inch long while queens are slightly larger and can reach 1.3 inches. They are amongst the largest wasps in the areas they occur. The head is red and yellow, the thorax is red and brown, while the abdomen is brown anteriorly and mostly yellow posteriorly with brown tear-drops. They live in paper nests built in trees and other structures.

European hornets are the species most commonly mistaken for the Asian or northern giant hornet found in northwestern North America. Northern giant hornets are, as the name suggests, native to temperate and tropical eastern Asia.

In September 2019, a nest of northern giant hornets was discovered and destroyed on Vancouver Island, British Columbia and in December Washington State Department of Agriculture confirmed a dead specimen had been found in Washington. That was the first record of this species in the United States. At this time, northern giant hornets are not known to occur outside of Washington state and Vancouver Island. The two species can also be distinguished by a number of features including the color and position of the eyes.

Northern giant hornet queens are among the largest wasps in the world and can grow in excess of 2 inches with a wingspan of 3 inches. However, they are only seen outside the nest when they are hibernating or in the spring before workers have emerged. Also called Northern giant hornet, workers can grow to 1.5 inches in length and are similar in size to other large wasps. Asian giant hornets are strikingly colored, with yellow heads, a black thorax, and yellow and black or brown striped abdomens.

Northern giant hornets typically build their nests underground, usually in abandoned rodent burrows in forests, often in association with pine roots (Figures 3-5). Nests are sometimes constructed in dead, hollow trunks or roots of trees, but these are never more than 3 to 6 feet above the ground. Aerial nests are rare. Because of their subterranean nesting habit, locating the nests of northern giant hornets can be very difficult. As stated above, this hornet is only found in Washington State and British Columbia in Canada.

Eastern cicada killers can be distinguished from European hornets based on coloration and behavior. The abdomens of cicada are mostly black with yellow markings while European hornet abdomens are mostly yellow with brown markings. European hornets construct paper nests in aerial locations, while cicada killers nest in the ground. Cicada killers are solitary, so only each female digs her own nest, but may nest communally, with many nests in a small area that has the right soil substrate. Disposing of European hornets nests may be necessary and treated just like our common wasps nests. It's best to wait until dark, when all of the workers are back to the nest. Use the aerosols for wasps and hornets that are available. Any of these do a good job. They spray a long distance that helps to protect you and they tend to be foam products that cover the nest quickly. I recommend wearing a long-sleeve shirt with collar and cuffs fastened, as well as long pants and shoes. A headcover of some sort will also reduce the possibility of stings.

Too much clothing? Better than getting stung!

Eliza Butterworth travled from Shelbyville with her family to ride in the eent.

Shelbyville resident enters Fentress County Fair 10th Quarter Horse and Roping Show

BY LAURA KING

The Quarter Horse and Roping show attracted riders and spectators from Shelbyville to Jamestown. The sheer volume of volunteers and the selfless giving these people demonstrated from preparing the arena to the class registration process and subsequent entrant tracking let alone the YAI Dragonettes food preparation services, astounded anyone paying attention. All this activity paid handsomely for those contestants of the show's nineteen classes as ribbons, trophies, and cash was awarded to the top three winners of each category. The intricacy and volume of work the show's coordinator, Derek Choate and his wife Cara put into play proved successful as they contracted livestock for the sheep/calf scrambles, breakaway roping, and team roping events as well as coordinated show day activities. So much heartfelt work happens before contestants step foot into the arena.

"It's just a show" or is it? So much more happens in each class than just the exercises horse and rider must complete for awards. During each contestant's ride, their achievement or struggle overshadowed the performance. So many times, this writer got swept into the hope of each moment, she forgot to take photos! The first ten classes primarily featured the younger generation of horse lovers from as early as 6 months old.

The lead line class immediately started after the flag ceremony. Solid ponies and horses shouldered their responsibilities as they carried their young riders around the arena. Judge Terry Allen found it difficult to issue places in this event and decided everyone won. One entrant, in particular, Eliza Butterworth, traveled from Shelbyville with her parents to ride in this event. Both sets of her grandparents beamed with pride as she rode her pony in this first class. Her grandfather, James Young, the livestock contractor, savored this family moment.

Another up-and-coming contestant, in particular,

Eliza Butterworth and family stands out among the rest, Madeline Jennings. She entered a few of the categories offered in the show. She alone participated in the Stick Horse category. She bravely walked "Bubba" into the middle of the arena to present to the judge and subsequently won the blue ribbon! Her next event proved challenging. Competing with adults on her family horse, she held her own listening to Pastor Steve Higgs, the show's emcee, and attempting to follow his directions. She quietly squeezed her horse and kissed the air to cue him into the walk. trot, and reverse. Her mount quietly listened but was slow to respond to the "reverse" command as she tried to complete a slow inside roll. Madeline quietly called, "Mama". Her mom responded, "Keep going," in an equally quiet voice. As the other riders approached, Madeline finally got her horse to turn and trot. Way to go! The tense moment of quiet persistence paid handsomely and she completed her class. She won so much more than a ribbon by persevering through this difficulty.

The balance of the show belonged to older children and adults. They rode and roped their way into ribbons and cash with calf roping, team roping, break away and goat tying. The older kids scrambled after fattened calves in hopes of getting $3.

This show surprised me with speed events as well. Open poles and barrels drew a good group of contestants. Among them, are local business owners of the Jordan Motel, the Paul family. So concluded a wonderful, exciting, and safe show.

Capturing those fall colors

By DAWN HANKINS

dhankins@t-g.com

For those ready for leaf viewing, then the State of Tennessee parks division has several places to cop a squat this fall.

While there are several on the tnstateparks.com website, we chose to feature one kind of close to home and another on the western end of the state in this article.

Tims Ford State Park

The suggested time to visit Tims Ford Park to see the autumn leaves and enjoy all there is to offer is mid to late October.

Tims Ford Park is located an hour and a half southeast of Nashville in the Lynchburg and Winchester areas. The park offers paddling, boating, fishing, hiking, golfing, mountain biking, and hunting on nearby hunting lands.

Cabins overlooking the lake are available along with RV and tent campsites.

Let's travel to West Tennessee for our next adventure.

Chickasaw State Park

Chickasaw State Park is located 30 minutes south of Jackson in Henderson County. The park offers paddling, hiking, fishing, horseback riding and rentals, and birding.

Surrounding the park is over 14,000 acres of state forestry land that offers hunting, ATV riding, horse trails, and additional hiking. The park cabins received a renovation in 2021 and offer easy access to Lake Placid. The park also offers tent, RV, and wrangler campgrounds. The wrangler campground is designed for campers with horses.

Suggested time to visit Chickasaw State Park is late October and early November.

Day trips are good too

If just taking a day trip to see the leaves, here's a great soup recipe to serve at home after your outdoor fun.

Cooler weather arrives just as prime entertaining season heats up. Those who will be hosting gatherings soon can expand their recipe repertoire to feed guests and keep them satisfied.

Borrowing some flavors from the season can make entertaining festive and even more flavorful.

Pumpkins and winter squashes are popular in fall, and their versatility undoubtedly contributes to that popularity.

However, when chilly days require something to warm you up from the inside out, nothing can beat a soothing soup. And soup recipes can be altered to easily feed a crowd.

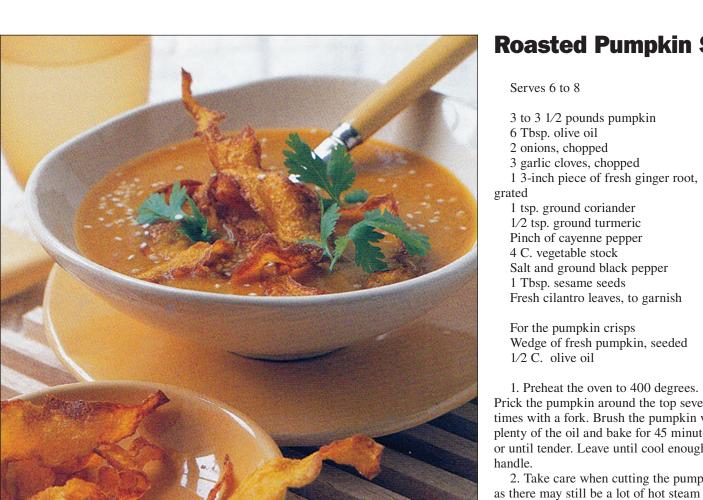

Cooks can step out of their chicken soup comfort zones and try this recipe for "Roasted Pumpkin Soup With Pumpkin Crisps" from "The Complete Mexican, South American & Caribbean Cookbook" (Metro Books) by Jane Milton, Jenni Fleetwood and Marina Filippeli.

3. Heat about 4 tablespoons of the remaining oil (you may not have to use all of it) in a large pan and add the onions, garlic and ginger, then cook gently for 4 to 5 minutes. Add the coriander, turmeric, and cayenne, and cook for 2 minutes. Stir in the pumpkin flesh and stock. Bring to a boil, reduce the heat, and simmer for about 20 minutes until tender.

Champs dominate Hornets behind strong 2nd quarter

Sports Writer

HUNTLAND — Forced turnovers and a substantial second quarter performance boosted the Cascade Champions (2-2) to a dominant 31-0 victory over the Huntland Hornets (0-3) on the road Friday night.

"The game plan was the same as it is every week, we just played well tonight," Champions head coach Jake Tyre said.

"We won the turnover battle. Our special teams played well with the blocked punt for a touchdown and we pinned them back deep a few times. Our guys executed the game plan we set out and it was a good game."

With nine minutes and 17 seconds left in the second quarter, quarterback Xamarion Dixon crossed the goal line from three yards away for Cascade's first score of the game, but a missed extra point left the Champions with a 6-0 lead.

Dixon totaled 81 yards for the game.

the Hornets' punt, and the Champions recovered the ball in the end zone for their first special teams touchdown of the season to increase their lead to 12-0.

Dowell came up with another significant defensive play on the following drive when he recovered a fumble to give the ball back to Cascade's offense.

One play later, running back Joel Anthony took a handoff moving across the Champions formation, and hoisted the football down field to a wide open Hayden Dowell for a 64-yard touchdown connection.

Cascade missed another extra point which left them with an 18-0 advantage.

The Champions forced their second fumble of the game 12 seconds later but couldn't find the end zone for a final time before the end of the half.

Much like in the first half, the Champions controlled the football for the majority of the third quarter as they forced two more fumbles and scored their final two touchdowns of the game.

Running back Connor Huie put points on the board first for Cascade in the second half when he rushed in from six yards away to make it a 24-0 ballgame with just under nine minutes remaining in Huie also recovered a fumble on the next Huntland possession.

After a steady drive down the field, Cascade and Anthony struck once more with a 10-yard rushing touchdown to bring the game to its final score of 31-0 after a successful extra

Anthony carried the ball five times on the night for the Champions for a total of 54 yards to go along with his 64 yards through the air on his lone passing attempt.

"I've been on him (Anthony) a lot, but he came out tonight and played how he should play," Tyre said. "He's a good athlete and ballplayer. He just has to put it all together."

The Champions totaled 319 yards of offense against the Hornets with 195 of those yards being on the

MANCHESTER Shelbyville Central suffered a tough 39-13 Region 3-AAAAA matchup on the road Friday

The Red Raiders (2-1) took control early and used a balanced offense, and backed that effort on defense by shutting down the Golden Eagle run game. "A lot of credit to Coffee County.

They are a good football team. We saw that on film when they played Franklin County and Tullahoma. We knew we would have to play clean across the board and we didn't," Shelbyville Central coach Jud Dryden said.

Coffee County racked up 323 yards of total offense, compared to the Eagles' 176, while only allowing 49 yards rush-

Theo Washington returned an interception 53 yards for a touchdown and Micah Threatt caught a 52-yard pass from senior quarterback Jake Preston to account for two Golden Eagle TDs. A key turning point came late in the first half when Shelbyville Central recovered a kick in Coffee County territory but failed to score, then the Red Raiders scored in the closing seconds.

Preston connected on 8-of-23 passes for 127 yards with Threatt hauling in four catches totaling 60 yards.

"We didn't capitalize when we had to, then gave up that play late in the half that really hurt," Dryden said.

"There were a lot of mistakes we made but we will keep at it and continue working on being better at our craft and we will get there. Our guys are playing with a high motor and a mindset that wants to get better."

Viqueens cruise over Cannon Co.

UNIONVILLE — It took only 50 minutes for the Community Viqueens to claim a 3-0 straight set victory over the Cannon County Lionettes in a District 9-AA volleyball match Thursday night.

Community (5-3, 4-2) was operating on all cylinders as an impressive combination of kills, aces, and assists paved the way for the win.

The Viqueens were never threatened in the opening set as Community used a 7-0 run to increase its lead to 18-4 en route to a 25-10 victory.

The serving of libero Abi Brown and the net play of M.J. Simmons propelled the Viqueens in the second and third sets.

Brown was the server as Community completed an 11-0 run to take a 15-2 lead in the second set. With Simmons dominating play at the net, the Lionettes had no answer as the Viqueens completed the set with a 25-6 win.

After Community struggled with some setting early in the third set, the Viqueens made it lights out with the serving of Brown.

The hard serves of Brown were too much for the Lionettes as the Viqueens scored 18 consecutive points, including several aces on Brown's serve to take a 21-5 lead.

Meanwhile, Simmons finished things up at the net when there were rallies with her kills as Community closed out the match with a 25-7 win. Brown finished with 11 aces while Simmons had 13 kills for the Viqueens.

For good measure, Breanna Grooms had 12 assists in the Community district win.

Cascade scores easy win

By WILL CARTER Sports Writer

WOODBURY — The Cascade Lady Champions blanked the Cannon County Lions for the second time this season as they coasted to a 4-0 victory on the road.

On the back of senior Emma Ward's two first half goals, the Lady Champions jumped out to an early 3-0 lead in the first half.

Ward scored the first two goals of the match in the 13th and 26th minute.

Fellow senior Abby Harris added the third goal of the first half in the 27th minute.

While the Lady Champions' scoring slowed down in the second half, their control of the ball never wavered.

Cascade was able to put 27 shots on goal while holding Cannon County to only four shots on goal for the duration of the match.

The lone second half goal came from Cascade's Eve Speirs in the 64th minute.

The Lady Champions will be back on the road on Tuesday at 6 p.m. against the Forrest Lady Rockets for a district matchup.

Dallas Grooms (3) of the Vikings runs out of bounds following a 14-yard run. Grooms followed with a 14-yard scamper for a touchdown in the Community victory.

It was deja vu as Fleming muffed the bouncing ball on the kickoff but recovered to race 89 yards for the touchdown. This time, there were no flags as the score stood. The run failed, leaving the Vikings with a 22-14 lead.

"He's a magic eraser. He can make a lot of mistakes look like they weren't mistakes," Coach Luke Bowling of the Vikings said. "He's a special guy."

The Viking defense

came up big again as another fumble recovery gave Community good field position. The Vikings took advantage on fourth down as Fleming twisted to avoid several Perry County tacklers and darted 36 yards to pay dirt. The try was no good as Community led 28-14 with 2:22 remaining.

Fleming was not through as the Vikings took possession with 40 seconds left in the half. On the second play from scrimmage, Fleming took the ball 59 yards to the house to extend the Community lead. The run by Grooms for two ended the first half scoring and gave the Vikings a 36-14 lead heading into the intermission.

"We talked all week about executing the little things, doing the fundamentals right, knowing who we were suppose to block, knowing where we were supposed to be, knowing what our assignment was," Bowling said. "When we do that, we're a great football team."

"When we execute fundamentally sound football plays, that's the kind of stuff we know we're capable of and we've been hoping to see all season that we finally got to see tonight," Bowling added.

"We wanted to let some of these younger guys get a chance to get some game experience," Bowling said. "Next year, maybe when they're the guy, they're not out here shell-shocked." Community will host Giles

We speculate. Predict. Make an educated guess.

Then in Week 2 we realize just how much we didn't know — and that's when the fun starts.

No. 1 (though maybe not for much longer) Alabama needed every little bit of misfortune that conspired against Texas, plus a Heisman-worthy performance by its Heisman Trophy winner, to avoid its first regular-season nonconference loss since 2007 in Austin.

out in a way that nobody would have imagined.

Texas played with a grit and toughness it has rarely displayed during the program's decade in the wilderness since losing the 2009 BCS title game to the Crimson Tide.

"I think we're moving in the right direction with the roster, the style of play and the mentality of the type of opponents week in and week out," Sarkisian told reporters. The Longhorns missed a lot of opportunities, and just like that championship game in the Rose Bowl, they left a loss to Alabama with a what-if feeling. What if Quinn Ewers wasn't injured in the first half? The former five-star recruit with all the hype looked every bit like a rising star until he was knocked out with a sprained clavicle. The second-year quarterback might have avoided the worst-case scenario with the injury. Without him, and with backup Hudson Card also hobbled, Texas didn't have enough to withstand the heroics of Bryce Young. The Tide doesn't have the stocked stable of star receivers that it has had in recent years, and it couldn't get the run game going against a Texas defense that hasn't looked that feisty in a big game in a while.

Alabama started the prised if defending champion Georgia reclaims the top spot.

The rest of the Top 25 is in for a big shake-up, too. Voters excused Notre Dame's lack of offense last week at Ohio State, but Freeman might have some real problems on his hand.

There was a lot of "Don't let the door hit you on the way out" from Irish fans when Brian Kelly bolted for LSU. They might be missing him now.

The early part of Kelly's tenure featured some of these types of losses against Tulsa and Navy. But Kelly cleaned that up and Notre Dame won 42 straight victories against unranked teams — before Saturday.

Notre Dame's streak of five straight double-digit victory seasons is in grave danger and it's still summer. If Notre Dame fans are having some buyer's remorse with Freeman, what exactly is going on in College Station? Aggies coach Jimbo

Fisher won the offseason with a monster recruiting class and by lobbing barbs at Saban. Fisher's chesty defense of the program, and the victory against the Tide last season, has bought him a lot of credibility despite overall meh results for the coach who started the 10-year contract craze. A&M looks as if it's building toward something big, but if you are what your record says you are, Fisher's tenure has left a lot to be desired. He is 35-15 after 50 games with an offense that looks fossilized. His predecessor, Kevin Sumlin, was 36-14 after 50 games.

Fresh faces shine on bleak day already an ugly Sunday weather wise, the Tennessee Titans didn't do much collectively to make it better as they suffered a tragic 21-20 loss in the season opener against the New York Giants, but a few rookies offered some light on the gloomy day.

Let's go back to a couple weeks ago when the Titans released longtime punter Brett Kern, and shocked the fanbase.

Yes, the Titans signed undrafted rookie Ryan Stonehouse from Colorado State back in May, but there wasn't any inclination of him getting the nod over Kern – a consistent punter for over a decade.

But that was exactly the case, and Stonehouse proved himself on many occasions against the

It's not the best thing for your punter to be on the field, but every team needs a consistent punter to help their defense on the backend.

Stonehouse saw the field six times Sunday with those punts flying for a total of 342 yards which is a 57.0 average per punt. Three of his punts went for 60 plus yards and three were downed inside the 20 yard line.

While it's just one game in a season of 17 or more, the future looks to be bright for the rookie punter.

Another topic of discussion for the Titans coming into this season was their rookie receivers, Kyle Phillips from UCLA and Treylon Burks from Both players saw their fair share of action against the Giants and made the most of it.

Arkansas.

Phillips couldn't reel in one of his three argets in the first half, but he connected with quarterback Ryan Tannehill six times for 66 vards in the second half, three of which were on the final drive to set up the final field goal.

Tannehill spoke positively of Phillips after the game.

"Kyle has made a bunch of plays for me since training camp. We built up that relationship, and he's shown that he can win consistently in practice and that translates to the game," Tannehill

"There were some more opportunities where I thought we had a shot down the field, but we weren't able to connect. I'm looking forward to continuing to take advantage of those situations."

Burks had the longest reception of the two rookie receivers when Tannehill found him crossing the middle for a 27 yard pickup.

For the game, he caught three passes for a total of 55 yards.

The duo were the top two targeted receivers for the Titans and accounted for 45% of their passing yards. There are a few things that are true from the Titans' performance Sunday. Did the Titans allow the Giants to mount a second half comeback? Yes.

Was that probably the Titans easiest game on their schedule for the foreseeable future?

Yes.

Should they have run at least one more play before setting up for the field

Probably, but that's hindsight.

But that doesn't mean it's panic time in Nashville.

More truth out of the Titans' is that they alway bounce back from a loss like that because of head coach Mike Vrabel's "blue collar" mentality.

There is also a lot of potential in the new additions to the team, so dwell on the loss for the time being but don't count the Titans out yet.

Preserving the historic Bell Buckle School

By ZOË HAGGARD zhaggard@t-g.com

any in the Town of Bell Buckle are hoping to renovate the historic Bell Buckle School into a community center all while preserving the school's long history.

On Wednesday, Friends of the Historic Bell Buckle school invited Van West, director of the Center for Historic Preservation at Middle Tennessee State University, to examine the building's potential.

"This is something with potential," said West. "What you all are talking about is what the state government likes to hear. It's not just a museum; it's something for the community that would have multiple uses, and it contributes to heritage and

The school then and now

Walking into the oldest section of the school, built in 1926, you'll find mint green walls with peeling paint, concrete floors. original light fixtures and door frames, and even a few blackboards remaining on the wall.

As they walk around, a few alumni reminisce about where their typing classroom or home-economic classes used to be back in the 1960s and 70s.

Long-time Bell Buckle resident Nita Carroll even remembers where her desk was in one of the back class-

"I don't know why I sat on the front row," Carroll said with a laugh. "I remember I was sitting there when we received the news JFK was shot."

The school, which is now owned by the town, used to extend all the way out to the north lawn of Bell Buckle Park in a section of building that was built in the early

To see this school preserved and used as a community center would mean a lot...especially since most of the school building was destroyed on April 17, 1972, in a fire.

Carroll said that although the reason for the fire is unknown, she recalls that there was a meeting at the school that night. Kids played in the gym. "It could've been kids down there smoking, could've been an electrical fire. I don't know that they ever determined what it was.'

She was a sophomore at the time of the fire. She said she was able to get to her locker after the fire where she salvaged a few report cards and books, but that's

After the school burned, the students from Bell Buckle then had to finish the school year in the Wartrace

High School building. Soon students from Bell Buckle, Deason, Normandy, and Wartrace were all attending one school.

"We started splitting their building," Carroll recalled. "They met in the morning, and we met in the afternoon. Then, the next year, the first class of Cascade all went there, while the little ones came here," Carroll said.

Not much history remains on the school in the Bedford County Archives.

A snapshot from an Agricultural-Industry Survey from the Tennessee Valley Authority in 1934, briefly offers a little picture of the school in its early

"Bell Buckle High School. Enrolled 281 pupils, 200 elementary and 81 high school; 25% travel 2 miles or more, 33%, 1 mile or less than 2 miles. There are 8 teachers, 4 high school and 4 elementary. Has 14 class rooms and auditorium, brick building. Good repair and up-keep. Seats are good. Electric lights. Hot-air furnace. Water pumped to pressure tank by automatic pump, drink from fountain. Sanitary toilets, septic tanks. Water tested for bacteria, 1930, O.K."

One Bedford County Quarterly magazine writes, 'The first six grades are still held in the renovated building at Bell Buckle, although a final solution to the whole school problems has not yet been settled."

After some "controversy," a new $25 million building was built between Wartrace and Bell Buckle in 1974, with students moving in in September of 1976. It was named Cascade High School after Cascade Springs.

The 1920s two-story part is the only part that remains of the old school.

"The wood in the ceiling looks good," Carroll remarks as she peers up with a flashlight in the room that used to be her firstgrade classroom.

Carroll said she would love to see the building become a community center and a place for people to put their school memorabilia. "It goes way back. It's more than just wanting to fix it up," said Carroll, who had siblings and aunts and uncles who attended the school. "I dream about this place."

The building stopped being used as a school in 1976, according to bell Buckle Mayor and Bell Buckle School alumni Ronnie Lokey. For about 20 years it was used as a maintenance garage for the town.

Funding the project

Today, the large windows are blocked up while several walls are knocked down. Because the building was altered so much, this could prove to be a hindrance in getting on the National Historic Register, according to West.

But listing it in the national register isn't the end-all-be-all for getting grants from the state. "Really the pertinent agency for you all would the Tennessee Department of Economic and Community Development and then Tennessee Department of Tourist Development," said

There are a lot of positives going for the building, according to West. They have a 501c3, a group of support from their Facebooks group, location in a public park, and accessible parking. Mark King, who's helping to lead Friends of the Historic Bell Buckle, added that the building has already been asbestos-abated.

West said they could pursue a heritage development plan, versus a historic preservation plan, since they are restoring it as a community space instead of a museum. This is called adaptive reuse—which is when an old building in the community that has meaning gets a new purpose, according to West.

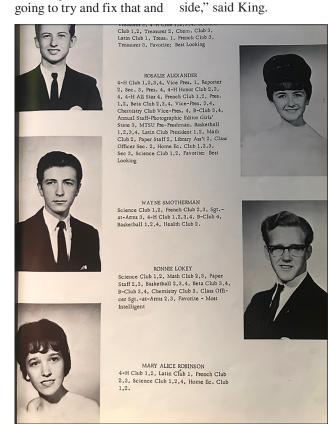

For now, while the group develops a plan moving forward, alumni are recalling bits and pieces of the building's history.

Mayor Lokey graduated in 1967 after going to the school all 12 years. He recalled how his first-grade teacher, Miss Vance, played the piano beautifully. "And she did that at the end of the day most of the time. I guess it sent us home in a good mood every day.

Beautiful lady." Dwight Woodlee, who graduated in 1969, agreed it was strange to see his old high school crumbling and dilapidated. "But we're make sure that it gets some recognition," he said.

And even though the high school side is completely gone, the older side still has meaning. "For those like Dwight and Ronnie, they went the whole 12 years. This area means as much to them as the high school

Many in the Friends of the Bell Buckle School are sharing old photos and memories of their days at the old school. Bell Buckle Mayor Ronnie Lokey's yearbook photo is the Many in the Bell Buckle community hope to turn the old school into a community center.

In 2022, she still stands tall as she serves on the

Nashville Community Advisory Board and the Blue Care Behavioral Health Advisory Regional Board across the state. Tawanda also has written a curriculum of recovery titled, "I am Recovery," which passed scrutiny, she said, in a drug court in 2015. It's also been reviewed, she explained, by the juvenile justice department, Centerstone and is now registered with the Secretary of State.

She's busy sponsoring recovery for women's prisons. As well, Tawanda has acquired 38 hours of study in criminal justice.

She's also involved in local and state-wide housing issues and is a speaker at numerous conferences throughout the year. The Bedford County native, who grew up right here on Elm Street, revealed how she's also pursuing a bachelor of arts degree in behavioral studies and has been certified as a life coach. With her phone in her hand, she moved on to another meeting in Bedford County.

But before heading out to that appointment, she made time to express her faith. Tawanda said she believes if she had not obeyed God's call upon her life, she'd still be an empty shell. Tawanda also serves as a member of the Tennessee Association of Recovery Court Professionals and the Tennessee Association Alcohol, Drug and Addiction Services. In 2019, she was selected as "Volunteer of the Year."
